EL GALO WINS 2.15 AFTER LOSING HEAT TO MISS LETHA

Both Horses Travel Mile in Fast Time--Haydon Makes a Protest--Prince Louis Captures 2.24 Race in Straight Heats

SUSSEX, N. B., July 30.--Today's racing, although not coming up to that yesterday in closeness of competition, and lacking the tragic feature furnished on Thursday by the death of the Fredericton mare Mona Baron, Prince Louis of St. Stephen captured the 224 in straight heats. The 215 went to El Galo, helping to swell the winnings of the Pine Tree Stables of Lewiston on New Brunswick tracks this season. The Maine horse ran second to Miss Letha in the first heat, the fastest race. Then won three straight. The same grey mare from Fredericton got second money and was again outdistanced many by getting nothing better than third. In both of the afternoon's races there were four starters.

HE REFUSED $300 FOR MONA BARON

The Fredericton Baron in referring to the death of Mona Baron at Sussex Thursday observes: Mr. Sullivan's loss is a heavy one, and his many friends deeply regret his misfortune. He had refused offers within the past few weeks of $80 and $90 for the name, which had sold at $800 two years ago. Had she landed second in that first mile at Sussex yesterday it is $250 to say that she could not have been bought for $1500 at least, so highly did Mr. Sullivan hold her.

NEARLY DROWNS

A happy swimming party, in which a group of lively boys and young men indulged between seven and eight o'clock last evening at Marble Cove, was very nearly marred by a fatality. Unable to lift his weight out of the water, two companions of William Bailey, aged 18, of Kennedy street, clung to the rungs of a ladder and held his head above water until his strength returned so that he could assist himself in some degree.

THE AMERICAN YOUTH

If the truth were told most young American men are not especially interesting. They do not keep up their reading. They have a national obtuseness when it comes to music, to art, to literature, nor do many of them take any of these things at all seriously. The young among them are not good conversationalists. Our cleverest men are monologists pure and simple. They lecture admirably. They are born orators along modified lines. They are inevitable story tellers. None of this is conversation, and women like conversation, like its corollaries, which at least pretend a little interest when their turn comes in the game, knowledge of their own and affairs outside their own country pricks more than one bubble about our young men--Anna A. Rogers, in Atlanta

McAVITY LOSES IN CLOSE MATCH MONTREAL, July 30.--One of the closest matches of the series in the tennis tournament was the struggle today in the open singles, between Vosey of Montreal and McAvity of St. John, N. B. Both players were worked to the limit. Right up to the finish the game might have gone in favor of either. But the last point proved that Vosey was a trifle the sturdier in the last set, giving him the opportunity to meet Foulkes for the title either today or Monday. The score was 6-2, 3-4, 6-6.

THE CHANNEL PASSAGE.

The striking feature of M. Blier's light across the English Channel is not the fact that he remained in the air for a certain length of time, or that he travelled so many miles, or that he succeeded in passing through the territory of one power to that of another over the intervening water. Blier has received a great ovation, but rather than in a rate of speed, but rather than in an airship he succeeded in passing through the territory of one power to that of another over the intervening water. Just now the aeroplane seems to be attracting a larger share of attention than its second cousin the dirigible balloon. It is well to keep in mind that the conquest of the air is being fought along two entirely distinct lines and that the engine of locomotion, which are employed will vary, from the present outlook, operate in the same fields of usefulness. The aeroplane which is heavier than air is based on the principle involved in the gliding of a bird with wings out, rest the balloon of course is supported by gas, hence Count Zeppelin's light of thirty hours is less remarkable than that of Wilbur Wright of an hour and a quarter. It is admitted by experts that the aeroplane will not become serviceable for the carriage of passengers nor freight. It will be useful for purposes of war rather than of commerce, while the dirigible balloon on the other hand is owing to its great bulk, wholly unsuited to military operations, but will be serviceable in transporting men or baggage.

Along with this recent advance in aeronautics, comes the report from the Vickers Maxims Company of the solution of problems in the making of guns for defense against airship attack. The Krupp firm declares that it has overcome the difficulty and proposes three types of guns to be mounted on field carriages. All of these patterns are easily handled and capable of engaging airships at 10,000 yards range. It is believed that the weapons already manufactured will prove as effective for land operations as they are for airship attack. WOMAN HOLDS UP AND ROBS MAN IN CHICAGO
Episode Occurs in Broad Daylight on Important Residential Street
CHICAGO, July 30.—Held up and robbed at the point of a revolver by a girl whom he describes as young and pretty was the experience of Zigmund Klobber, 35 years old, of 591 La Salle avenue, according to the story he related to the police at the Hudson avenue station this morning. A strange feature of the robbery is that it happened in broad daylight at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The woman was about 15 years old, Klobber said, and had light hair. She wore a light coat and an auto veil and carried out her work like a professional highwayman. When Klobber met her near the corner of Tel court and North Park avenue she suddenly pointed a pistol at his head and ordered him to give up his money. He declared that he had no money, and she commanded him to deliver up a $50 diamond stud he wore in his shirt front. Having secured this, she walked away, warning him that she would shoot him if he attempted to follow.

SAURDAY SERMOETTE

WHAT RUINED THE COUNTRY.
I sat down beside a "bearded lady" in the old graveyard the other day to learn something of the past. I had come to keep the wolf out of the pantry. After a few minutes spent in talking each other's measure we casually told each other that it was a "fine day." After we had digested that information, he said it was "good hay weather." As neither of us owned any hay fields and had not done any haying for many moons, we had likely come to the sage conclusion from the experience of other years that in July when the sun shone for two or three consecutive days that it was good hay weather.

Another five minutes and then my friend remarked in a seemingly irrelevant way that "machinery had ruined the country." At this I did not see the Sun or Telegraph for several mornings I had not heard that the country was "ruined."

I wondered for a few minutes how my companion had found out the country was ruined, and what had done it. I imagine that he was explaining to me and himself the reason for his ruin. His chief reason was that he was ruined by prosperous men, and yet the statement showed still a remnant of the old. He did not say that machinery had ruined the country, but that the old derrickist is not the only failure who thinks the world has failed.

No thoroughly good man thinks the world has failed, only the thoroughly bad. The reasonably successful think the world is fairly successful. "But that," the battered old man who had lived for seventy-five years and knew these things who was employed in the basement of the building, and who had ridiculed the idea of ghosts decided to be revenged upon the watchmen and policemen who remained in the building through the night. He prepared a large English valising and securely tied the half shaft on the four feet of the post and the other end of the shaft was fastened to the floor.

PALE; LANGUID GIRLS
Weak Blood During Development May Easily Cause a Life of Suffering
A Toxic Such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Needed to Build Up the Blood and Give New Strength
At no time in her life does a girl stand in greater need of pure red blood and the strength which it alone can give her than when she is developing into womanhood. It is then that an inherited tendency to anemia or constitutional weakness may be the cause of encouragement to rapidly develop. This danger is especially threatening to girls who are confined long hours in schools, in stores, offices and factories; girls who are depressed by worry and cares, and whose nervous systems are overworked by the blood and are among the most common causes of sickness among young women and growing girls. They build up the blood, make it rich, red and pure, tone the nerves and give new health and strength to every part of the body. They have cured so many cases of this kind that they may truly be called a specific for the common diseases of girlhood. Miss Minnie Smith, Creighton street, Halifax, says: "I have proved that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are all that is claimed for them in cases similar to mine. About three years ago I suddenly became ill and ran down. I grew so weak that I could hardly attend to my school studies. I suffered from headaches, my heart would palpitate violently at the least exertion, and my appetite was very feeble. I tried doctors' medicine and emulsions, but the treatment did not help me. Then I started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking seven or eight boxes I was stronger than ever before. I feel that I owe my present good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I gratefully recommend them to other suffering girls." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The train was creeping slowly through the suburbs of the city, approaching the passenger station. An impatient youngster turning to its mother inquired: "Why does the train go along this way, mamma?" "To give the porter time to brush the seats out of the pockets of the passengers, my child."

GHOSTS SUPPOSED TO ROAM ABOUT CAPITOL

Employees in Old Government Building Tell About Apparitions Seen There
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30. The big Capitol building on the hill has its ghosts, it is alleged, and they are said to be the restless spirits of those who were employed in the building, and who have since died. Some of the tales told by the old employees are as follows: One of these ghosts is a picture, others are laughing, others carry with them the spirit of tragedy that makes them the more interesting.

Naturally there are quite a number of thoroughly identified ghosts registered in different parts of the edifice. The existence of the restless phantoms and another land is vouched for by several of the employees of the building, and who were employed in the building, and who have since died. Some of the tales told by the old employees are as follows: One of these ghosts is a picture, others are laughing, others carry with them the spirit of tragedy that makes them the more interesting.

When the body of President Garfield lay in state at the Capitol an old employee who was employed in the basement of the building, and who had ridiculed the idea of ghosts decided to be revenged upon the watchmen and policemen who remained in the building through the night. He prepared a large English valising and securely tied the half shaft on the four feet of the post and the other end of the shaft was fastened to the floor.

LOGAN'S SPIRIT SEEN.
There is also a story of General Logan, who returns, it is said, to observe the doings of the committee on military affairs, of which he was so long the chairman. Those who claim to have encountered the General say he always wears a black frock coat and remains either in the committee room or in the corridor adjoining.

WOMEN RIDE ASTRIDE? NOT FOR OLD GEORGIA
Graceler Legislator Proposes Law Against the New-Fangled Notion.
ATLANTA, Ga., July 29.—Any woman in the State of Georgia who rides astride will be guilty of misdemeanor, if the bill introduced in the House today by Representative Wright of Stewart county, passes. Wright never saw a woman ride astride until he came to Atlanta. He was shocked by the sight of a pretty girl in divided skirts on the back of a horse. The bill provides it shall be unlawful for any female over 12 years of age to ride astride on horse, mule, ass or other animal of either sex upon any public street, road, highway, or other public place within the state of Georgia; provided, nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit the riding astride by female circus performers of horses or other animals within a show-ground inclosure or under a circus tent. Violation of this act is to be punished by fine and imprisonment. Wright is a physician and he says the bill has the support of the doctors of the state, who says that it is injurious for women to ride astride.

MRS. TOWER HAS CHARMS ALL HER OWN
Reason Why Ferguson Tried to Suicide
WOMAN BACK OF IT
Thick With Mrs. Tower—Judge Acquires Ferguson
ST. ANDREWS, July 30.—There were some sensational features about the case of George Ferguson of St. Stephen, who was tried under the Speedy Trial Act before Judge Carleton on an indictment charging him with attempted suicide and with threatening to shoot Sagedeaf Towers of parish of St. David on July 19 last. It came out in evidence that Ferguson had been permitted by Towers' wife to show 125 attentions both during the absence of her husband in the West and after he returned. They drove to St. Stephen together, feasted in the same restaurant and went to country dances together. There was also another young man named Edward Murphy, who was likewise smitten with the charms of the young wife, who by the way is the mother of six children on the day of incident. Ferguson, Murphy and Tower after having a drink together at the barn went into the house. Ferguson, who was under the influence of liquor, sought out Towers' wife and disclosed a revolver to her, and threatened to shoot Towers if he interfered with him. He finally turned the revolver on himself and ploughed a ridge over the top of his forehead. Dr. Deinstadt, who was summoned to attend Ferguson, found him in a state bordering on insanity. Ferguson insisted upon being allowed to finish his job, but they would not give him a gun. After the physician had gone away Murphy assaulted the wounded man, Judge Carleton took charge of the case. Ferguson was temporarily insane when he committed the crime and discharged him from custody. He severely reprimanded the members of Towers' family for the part they had played.

BOTTLING SODA A HAZARDOUS WORK
Hardly More Dangerous is Task of the Diver, the Miner or the Sleepwalker.
NEW YORK, July 30.—Hazardous, although seldom mentioned, is the occupation of the bottler in a soda water plant. It is a task which is hardly more dangerous to him, if not to life, in that of the diver, the miner, or the sleepwalker, specially is this true of the bottler who works in a plant which takes "chances" and gets along without an inspector, or because of the moderate size of its business, with only such inspection as an employe can carry in connection with other duties. The accident insurance companies have a long list of operators of the bottling or charging machine, says a Cleveland leader. "I don't carry any accident insurance," said a veteran bottler. "The most they offered me was $1 a week, and I didn't consider it worth the premium." An expert bottler can handle a large number of bottles in a day. Much of the time he works at top speed, but if he is handling bottles that have had only a cursory examination his risk or being maimed is great. Work on the brushes which clean the bottles of any sediment which may have collected in them or on the rinses carries with it fewer mishaps. But the pressure on the bottle when it is being filled with pop or other carbonated liquid is such that when he handles one with a flaw in the glass the bottler might as well be juggling dynamite. When it bursts it invariably means a knuckle or two sliced off, a finger nearly severed at one of the joints, or a gasb on the face or head. A veteran bottler took a hasty inventory the other day of the scars he had accumulated in a dozen or more years of service. On the third finger of his left hand they numbered eight; on his face, he remembered, were seven of cuts that went to the bone. Every other finger, with the possible exception of the little finger or his left hand bore the signs of cuts and gashes. Some of the fingers were left crooked. One of the fingers was a veteran's knuckle showed evidences of having been shaved by flying glass. His forearms were dotted with little scars. There was a deep cut over his left eye, a dent in his chin, and lesser scars on his face where the splinters of an exploding bottle had caught him, but he is likewise a good asset of the surgeon.

WAYS OF CARD SHARPS ABROAD
How American Gang in France Held on to Steamship Victims.
PARIS, July 30.—The four American card sharps who were arrested at Dinard for swindling American tourists arrived at Vichy on June 15, having come from New York on the Lucania. On the voyage they made the acquaintance of a rich New Yorker, formerly of Philadelphia. His name is given as Stohn. Possibly it is Stone. Stohn, a game of cards which followed at Dinard lost $700. The sharps did not try to play again during the voyage. At Vichy the gang again met Stohn to whom they introduced another rich American, named Garnett, whom they had met at their hotel, and who had been wintering in Italy. One of the quartet pretended to be too ill to leave the hotel, so Stohn and Garnett agreed to play bridge with the invalid, with the result that they lost $400. The losers moved to Aix-les-Bains and the quartet followed. Here they won $10,000, part from another New Yorker named Bescher, who was taking the cure there. USE OF FRENCH IN ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Foreign Terms the Result of Warlike Associations

If Plain English Were Used in Training Recruits, British Officer Asserts, Men Would Learn Quicker.

As one who had some experience of training volunteer recruits in the elements of field work, such as outpost duties and the attack and defense, I desire to call attention to an initial difficulty that exists owing to the vocabulary employed by the textbooks.

The presence of these foreign terms in our military manuals dates partly from our warlike associations with France throughout the centuries, but more especially from the science of field engineering invented by the great Vauban, the 17th century genius who, during his active but modest career conducted 30 successful sieges and designed or improved the works of more than 100 fortresses.

A NEW LANGUAGE. Now, when a youngster takes up soldiering he enters a new world and has to acquire a new language. Things that he has been accustomed to call by one set of names are known by another, and he must lose no time in learning to talk as his comrades do.

But today things are very different, and the object of every company commander is to develop to the utmost of his ability the individual intelligence and initiative of his men.

DESPERATE MNEMONICS. Some officers recommend that familiar object, a motor car, should be thought of when a man wants to describe this particular form of activity, because a motor car is fed by petrol and petrol sounds something like patrol. It is a roundabout way of doing things, but indicates the shifts to which we are put by the employment of French. After all, the duty of a reconnoitering patrol is to search ground in front of the enemy.

Put it is when he gets to the pick and shovel that the recruit realizes the full beauty of our polyglot textbooks. Then, indeed, his instructor begins to talk to him in strange tongues. The mighty shade of Vauban hovers over the scene, writing in language it may be hoped, in English, the British lip distort and torture the language of Racine and Moliere.

THE TERRITORIAL RECRUIT. The territorial recruit is not a soldier in the ordinary sense of the word. He is a man who does his soldiering intermittently and in his spare time. However military his aspirations, and even his instincts, may be, his habits are civilian, and he is required to adopt the strange phraseology at a moment's notice. It is surprising that he does so well in the common terms of the drill hall and the barracks room. It is not surprising that he is frequently at sea in the more technical and unaccustomed terminology of the field.

Let me illustrate my meaning. The territorial recruit is asked to receive his first practical lesson in outpost duties. He has already attended one or two lectures on the subject at his headquarters and has started with round-eyed interest at the blackboard on which his instructor has chalked the approximately relative position of the main body, the reserves, the supports, the pickets, and the line of sentry. He is told that the class will arrive at some general comprehension of the theory and intention of the practice, either a "double" sentry with a comrade, or a "single" sentry with a comrade, or a "double" sentry with a comrade, or a "single" sentry with a comrade.

SAY PRES. REYES TOOK AT LEAST $20,000,000

Also a Few Millions in Jewels When He Left

His Resignation as President of Colombia Accepted and Fine Scrap On for the Succession.

LONDON, July 30.—Rafael Reyes, who sent a cable dispatch from Manizaba to Bogotá on Monday announcing curtly his "irrevocable" resignation of the presidency of Colombia, received today a reply from Bogotá that the Congress of Colombia had unanimously accepted the resignation of the president.

Reyes' successor, who will be appointed on August 3, may be Gen. Ramón González Valencia, who was vice-president of Colombia when Reyes left for Europe. Reyes left Gen. Holguín in power as acting president. A revolution in Valencia's favor was begun in Barranquilla, but in this month did not receive his countenance and collapsed.

NEW ORLEANS, July 28.—The steamer Antilles, from Cartagena, brings further particulars of the Colombian revolution. The entire republic according to the accounts of those on board, is in a state of excitement and revolutionary turmoil.

The popular story is that President Reyes escaped in an American vessel with $20,000,000 in gold and a bag containing millions of dollars worth of jewels. Reyes is said to have taken a week before he could get vessels. No newspapers were admitted to board at any port.

In Cartagena martial law has been declared and the port is closed to all vessels. No newspapers were admitted to the country. No meeting of more than three persons is allowed and no one is allowed out of the house after 9 p. m. Travel was forbidden between the provinces except by passport. The chief officers of the town were joined with the army and forced to perform military service.

While the Antilles was in Cartagena the steamer Hercules was twice captured, first by the revolutionists and afterward by the Government forces, with a large list of killed and wounded in each capture. The boats at Cartagena were filled with refugees from Barranquilla and Savanilla which were in the hands of revolutionists and where fighting was general.

When the Antilles was leaving Cartagena a Government gunboat which is said to have formerly been a yacht belonging to James Gordon Bennett was being equipped for a trip up the Sinu River to crush the rebels. Gen. Valencia had lost control of the situation, it was declared, and Gen. Holguín was sending more than 4,000 men to the coast from Bogotá.

MOBILE, July 28.—Passengers arriving here from Cartagena, Republic of Colombia, report that the entire country is in a ferment and the Government is afraid to send troops to the soldiers because they would probably mutiny and join the insurgents. Nearly 100 soldiers are reported on the road from Bogotá to suppress the revolution. There has been great excitement at Cartagena among the troops. Revolutionists who have escaped from the Government troops have been sentenced to 30 lashes at different intervals. Savanilla was in the hands of the rebels and a number of interior towns were in revolt.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—A telegram to the State Department from Bogotá says that the resignation of President Reyes, now in Europe, has been accepted by the Colombian Government.

INDEGENY UNDERLIES MOST PARIS PLAYS

Even the Proud and Famous Comedie Francaise is No Exception

Josephine Sabel Does Some Actings at a "Review" at the Marigny.

PARIS, July 15.—The Comedie Francaise is believed by all Frenchmen and some Americans to be the world's source of best dramatic art. Other Paris theatres of a legitimate grade may be better in summer, but the House of Moliere must exact prescribed number of classics and new pieces every month or lose its government subsidy. It won't ask you to read again about the preservation of traditions in the Comedie. More to my purpose, which is your pleasure, will be to tell you what the brand of the authoritative Comedie stands for when affixed to a modern play. Presence at two original performances of the works by French literary celebrities enables me to do that.

The first thing to note is that at the Comedie Francaise is more than at the ignoble theatres there are other than the most stagey fiction that is disloyal in wedlock. And in both plays the heroine is the wife of a French statesman of the present time. The husband in "The Renouveau," by Pierre Barton, is a prime minister of France. He is a commissioner by origin and his wife an aristocrat. She has married him for the social vogue that his office and wealth gain for her, and she solaces herself with a lover. Her friend, a pure and noble young woman, has a red-propped passion for the husband, but doesn't let it tempt her astray. Please comprehend the complication. The statesman's wife despises him and has a liaison. The widow loves him, but won't misbehave. Now for the review. The crooked wife, although she has been spared a disgraceful exposure of her criminal love by the straight widow, requires the service by securing her good friend. Shall the widow retaliate by disclosing the wife's guilt? No, she is too high minded to do that. Instead, and although she is utterly fanatical, she falsely accuses herself of being the husband's lover and throws herself into the arms of the straight widow. That is the crux of "The Renouveau"—its strongest dramatic scene—not logical, nor reasonable, but actable. The audience is delighted with the ruse by which the good widow at once spurns the bad wife and gets the desirable husband.

THE OTHER PLAY. The wicked wife in "The Foyer," by Octave Mirbeau, has a statesman for a husband, the leader of his party in the senate of France. How do these French authors escape trouble in so explicitly assigning their characters to real positions in politics and giving misbehaving wives to them? This question's specialty is philanthropy. He organizes and directs many charities. The popularity thus gained costs more so he lets his pretty wife get the charity money by being the plaything of a rich banker. After awhile, though, she takes on a young lover whom she loves, and throws off the unloved old one. That raises hob with the senator's honorableness. He must regain a revenue for them, somehow or other. The wife only can save him by parting from her present lover and reuniting with the banker. It is a painful struggle, almost breaking her heart, but she makes the sacrifice for the sake of her husband's career as a statesman.

Such is the dramatic literature put forth by the Comedie Francaise. The writing of both is correct. The delineation of nowadays characters in French society and politics is clear and keen. In construction they are clever examples of the Sardou method. In acting they are facilities. In morals—well, what do you think? At the start of a new "review" at the Marigny, six New York first nighters were in the same front row seats they occupy at home, and well along in the show, without having been on the stage but Josephine Sabel, the soon abouter of our vaudeville. Like most of Paris burlesques "reviewers," the poets and other public affairs of the year, this one took a whack at American and English tourists. A party from across the Atlantic was in caricature very remote from characterization. Next a handsome actress costumed our Gibson type of belle in a ditty and a stroll which asserted, but did not depict, "a millionaire for millinery." She was in a Paris store where she and six companions, put on enormous hats for the evening. I wished that the cheap-witted and cheap-gowned display might be followed by one of American show from any of this summer's Broadway extravaganzas.

TIPPING BARBERS AND ITS GROWTH

Some Man With an Eye to Figures Has Worked Out the Reason of System.

Within the past few years, says the Los Angeles Times, an inviolable and unexplainable custom has grown up, that of tipping barbers. The nature of this particular phase of valet duty, shaving, as such that however, it would mean temporary inconvenience to the shaver and probable loss of blood to reform these "tonorial artists." For these gentlemen of the razor and strip are in a position to force tips on the tip (in addition to the fee) by faithful satisfactory the second shave also is good. But omit the tip on shave number one, and shave number two is a gentler and permanent reminder that the wielder of the latter brush needs the money and is willing to accept tips. The reminder works, inasmuch as self preservation is one of nature's first laws.

So much a part of the shaving business has the tipping become, and so universally is the extortion money expected by barbers, that when one proffers a tip like the burnt offerings of the tipplers or porters is not wrong, the writer would say with emphasis that necessity for tipping barbers is an outrage. Waiters and porters are employed at meagre salaries, so that the tips are often necessary for their livelihood. They are unable to regulate their wages or the prices of the foods on the menus, hence something is to be said in their favor. The fault here is at least blamable on the employer.

But barbers are their own bosses. They do not work on salaries. They are in business for themselves. They regulate their own price on their commodity. Then, when they have received a gratuity, by contumacious graft they force arbitrary perquisites from their patrons.

TROLLEY CARS WRECKED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION

Eight Injured, Four of Them Seriously—Cars Were Running Off Time.

MILLBURY, Mass., July 30.—Two trolley cars were wrecked in a head-on collision on the Worcester and Blackstone Valley Street Ry. late this afternoon and eight people were injured, four of them severely. The accident occurred at a curve two miles from Millbury centre and was due, it is said, to the fact that the cars were running "off time." The most severely injured, who were taken to the Worcester City Hospital, were: Percy H. Legrie, motorman, aged 21, right leg crushed, knee and hand badly scalped, injured leg will probably require amputation.

Max Allen, Worcester, caught between car seats, bruised and cut badly. William G. Kester, Worcester, had scalp wound and nervous shock. Four others less severely injured went to their homes.

WEDDED TWELVE YEARS AGO, NOW MARRIAGE IS ANNULLED

Collateral Affinity Separates Montreal Couple by Judgment of Church and Civil Courts.

MONTREAL, July 30.—A peculiar judgment was rendered today by Judge Dunlop in the case of Jules Archambault v. Georgina Bonin, annulling their marriage, contracted in Quebec, twelve years ago, on the ground that the unknown attorney between the parties had come to light in a recent semi-judicial and semi-religious encuesta.

The plaintiff had presented a petition to Mgr. Bruchet, Archbishop of Montreal, to have the religious authority annul his marriage, because he was a relative to his wife to a degree which renders a license necessary for a union in the Catholic Church.

In the investigation held before the religious tribunal of the diocese it was established that Georgina Bonin was a collateral affinity of Jules Archambault, her husband, since 1887. Mr. Bruchet rendered his decision in January last, and declared that according to the Catholic canon the parties had no right to be married without a special license, and that the marriage was annulled. The same case was then carried before the civil courts of this province and the same ground, and as both the Catholic canon and the civil code agree on the point, as decided this morning on the line as Mr. Bruchet had done previous to him so the civil courts have annulled a married life together for more than ten years, see no longer husband and wife, and can get married again to others.

HEAVY FINES FOR LIQUOR SELLING

STREEDIRECTION, N. B., July 30.—Hon. L. P. Farris, police commissioner of the Transcontinental, is in the city this evening on his way home from Perth where he disposed of a number of cases against parties charged with selling liquor in the prohibited district.

Henry Darbins was convicted of first and second offences and was fined one hundred and fifty dollars and costs. Fletcher Baskin, of Plaster Rock, was fined fifty dollars and costs for first offence. William Day, Arthur Day, and Thomas Wright, charged with selling liquor, were acquitted.

On Thursday Constable Pearson seized quantity of liquor from one Mill Ridderly who was heading for the construction camp, and the commissioner ordered it to be destroyed.

PRESENTATION TO MR. JAMES GEARY

By Fellow Employees on Eve of His Departure for Dalhousie.

James Geary was the principal figure in a gathering which kept the workers at Cushing's No. 1 mill upon the scene of their duties for an extra hour yesterday afternoon.

The occasion was the departure of Mr. Geary this morning for Dalhousie, where he is to assume charge of the Dalhousie Lumber Company's mill.

Mr. Geary's departure is an event owing to the fact that he has been in the employ of the Cushing concern since his early boyhood. He is now the hand sawyer at the big mill.

As a tangible token of their regard his fellow employees presented Mr. Geary with a handsome leather travelling case and address which contained many words of appreciation and regret.

LOSS AT CAMPBELLTON WILL BE $100,000

A telephone message to the Star from Campbellton this morning stated that the fire had been gotten under control about 11 o'clock last evening. Enormous damage had been wrought by the flames and the loss will fully reach $100,000. The property is covered by insurance.

The work of fighting the flames was vigorously executed by the firemen and a number of volunteers. Supplemented by engines from Campbellton, the Mission Point fire forces attacked the flames from every possible side.

But their task was a hard one as the flames had gained a good headway. Endangered by the flames were several hundred piles of lumber, but for the greater part the loss did not effect the standing timber.

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN BUSINESS HOUSE

Waterbury & Rising Have Dissolved Partnership

Mr. Waterbury is Retiring—Mr. Rising Assumes Sole Control—in Business Thirty One Years.

The Star learns that within the past few days an important change has been arranged in the proprietorship of one of St. John's leading business houses, that of Waterbury and Rising. Although neither of the members of the firm has given any statement, it is understood that the transfer has been completed whereby Mr. George H. Waterbury retires, Mr. E. L. Rising having purchased the interests of his partner, now assumes full control. The transfer, the Star learns, was made on Thursday of this week.

The business will be conducted as in the past, the firm name being retained. Waterbury and Rising rank among the most successful and progressive of St. John's business men, and while still classed among the younger merchants, their enterprise is almost a generation old. They first started thirty-one years ago in that store on Union street, still occupied as a branch and three years later moved to King street to the stand still occupied by them. Since that time their business has grown rapidly and steadily. It includes several retail branches throughout the city, and in the wholesale line has the reputation of being among the largest—perhaps the largest—of its kind in the Maritime Provinces. A noteworthy feature of the life of this business is the personal interest taken in it by every employe, though this may be accounted for by the fact that the owners have displayed an equal personal interest in each individual employe.

THREATENED HIS BROTHER WITH A CARVING KNIFE

Leo Walsh Remanded Till Monday After Offering to Take the Pledge.

Only one prisoner faced the magistrate in the police court this morning. Leo Walsh, who was given in charge by his brother Edward, for assault and threatening his life, was remanded after the evidence of his brother was taken.

Edward Walsh, sworn, stated that the day at noon the prisoner used abusive language to his sister and to witness, and while witness was dressing, prisoner entered the room and threatened his life with a carving knife. He also offered to fight. Witness jumped at him and knocked prisoner down, then left the room to notify the police.

Witness further stated the prisoner had made threats on previous occasions and came home drunk quite frequently although he did very little work.

The prisoner, who was remanded until Monday, promised to take the pledge if the magistrate would allow him to go.

E. A. Hamilton, who had been reported for encouraging Forest street fight last evening, on the 28th inst., was fined $2 or 4 days jail. The fine was allowed to stand against him.
