PARIS, July 25.—France, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium and Greece have agreed to exclude the 2½ franc silver piece from the international circulation of the Latin union.

A Dynamite Factory Blown Up.

PARIS, July 25.—Four explosions shattered the Ablon dynamite factory in Honfleur near Havre this afternoon. The ruins caught fire, and it was feared the flame would spread to a warehouse filled with dynamite cartridges. Nine men are known to have been killed, twenty more were severely wounded and others are hurt seriously.

London's Favorite Dramatic Stars.

LONDON, July 25.—Irving and Miss Terry have just made their last appearance for many months before a London audience. London's worship of these two stars does not diminish, and a distinguished audience gave them a splendid farewell ovation. They will take their departure a week hence to begin a long American tour, appearing first in San Francisco.

Slavery Shielded by the French Flag.

LONDON, July 25.—A letter from the Bishop of Zanzibar gives the details of an active crusade of the British cruiser Philomel against the slave trade in that region. The capture of slave dhows is of frequent occurrence. The traffic is largely carried on under the French flag. He mentions three recent cases. A boat crew from a man-of-war boarded a large dhow flying the French flag. They demanded the papers, which proved correct, and the right of search was denied.

One of the sailors kicked off the hatch; then a number of little arms were stretched up from below. Seventy-three slaves were crowded between the two decks, without light or air. The captain exclaimed in disgust:

"What is the use in my paying 50 reis for a French interpreter if this is all I get by it."

Many pathetic stories are told, such as finding 65 slaves on a small barren island, where they were landed from a dhow, to give a slight respite from the horrors of confinement on board, where they had been dying.

The Long-Distance Ocean Race.

QUEENSTOWN, July 25.—The long-distance ocean race from San Francisco to Queenstown has been practically finished. The five vessels that took part were all British. They were the bark Pinmore and the ships City of Athens, Bowdon, Lochee, and Lord Templemore. The Pinmore arrived here on July 17, and the City of Athens and the Lochee arrived here to-day. The Bowdon was wrecked on April 27 on Ono Island, one of the Friendly group. All the vessels with the exception of the City of Athens sailed from San Francisco March 22. The City of Athens sailed on the following day. Each captain put $250 on his ship, the winner of the race to take $1,000, and the second to have his stake. The Pinmore won the $1,000, and the City of Athens, which was the first to arrive to-day, saved her captain's $250. The Lord Templemore has not been heard of since she left San Francisco.

Tips to the Lords.

LONDON, July 24.—Lord Salisbury has sent out the following circular to his supporters: "As far as it is possible to forecast the probable course of Parliamentary business, it appears likely that the second reading of the Home Rule Bill will be proposed in the House of Lords at the end of August or beginning of September. It is very desirable that every peer who is opposed to the bill should record his vote on this occasion. I venture, therefore, to hope that you will arrange your engagements so that it may be possible for you to be in London when the second reading is proposed. It is uncertain how long the debate will last. The general opinion is that the bill will be discussed daily until midnight for one week. The Lords are expected to reject the bill by a vote of 10 to 1."

The Unionists in the Commons are arranging for pairs during the period between now and Aug. 8. After that date they will begin to take vacation in batches of 60. Gibson Bowles, the champion Tory amender, has increased the list of his motions on the votes of estimates to an even hundred. Seventy or 80 other Unionists have declared their intention to assist him in this plan of obstruction. Mr. Bowles' most enthusiastic supporter, Robt. Hanbury, is trying to equal his friend's record in giving notices of amendment. The Radicals and younger Liberals are seeking to persuade the Ministers to prorogue Parliament after supply until December.

The Siam Embroglio.

LONDON, July 25.—A Bankok telegram, published in London, declares that the Siamese Government offers to pay an increased indemnity in lieu of the cession of the Province of Luang Prabang to France. Either the correspondent has been misinformed or the French Government has misrepresented the text of Siam's reply imparted to the Paris press. It appears quite certain that we have not yet seen a verbatim report of the ultimatum. Suspicion exists in many quarters that France has intentionally withheld a part both of the ultimatum and of the reply, and as the cession of the Chamber is closed the public has little chance of learning the real position. M. Pavie's official dispatches containing the text of the reply arrived in some confusion, and being in cipher an omission, such as has been referred to, could be easily explained. Accompanying the telegram to the Siamese legation in Paris containing Siam's reply was another dispatch with confidential instruction which had not been published, but which was retransmitted to Lord Rosebery. This may possibly have contained the offer of an increased indemnity. The situation is extremely critical. The conciliatory reply was entirely due to the direct influence of the King of Siam, but in the present temper of the Siamese, he may be unable to prevent some untoward incident, such as firing on the gunboat Forfait, as she retires down the river with M. Pavie on board. If this should occur, the French would instantly bombard Bangkok. The Paris Figaro ascribes Siam's request for an extension of time, and the desire to prolong negotiations, to an intention to render the French gunboats impotent by exhausting the coal supplies before they are able to leave the river. The Siamese warships are anchored a mile higher up than the French, and round a bend of the river, which shelters them from a sudden French attack. The current of the Meinam is very swift, and would give them a distinct advantage in descending upon the French vessels, which would be compelled to slip their anchors and maneuver at a disadvantage.

The Paris Soir utters a threat that France and Russia will combine to put the screw on England, and says: "The coincidence between the Russian movement in the Pamirs and that of France in Siam has not been sufficiently remarked. It may be mentioned in passing that Russia hides the nature of her advance in the Pamirs by calling it a scientific expedition."

LONDON, July 25.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. John Long (Advanced Liberal) asked if the Government was aware that British subjects possessed rights over 40 square miles of land in the Siamese Provinces of Chantaborn, Krat and Battambang, for working ruby and sapphire mines, and whether, in the event of France annexing those provinces, care would be taken to guard British interests.

Sir Edward Grey (Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office) replied that the Government was aware of the mining rights held in Siam by British subjects, but he pointed out that the provinces in which these rights are held lie to the west of the Mekong River, and therefore were not included in the territorial demands made by France.

Hon. George N. Curzon (Conservative) asked whether France had notified Great Britain that she had established a blockade of the Siamese coast; whether the establishment of such a blockade would be regarded as an act of belligerency between France and Siam; whether the blockade had been or would be recognized by Great Britain, and what measures the Government proposed to take in regard to the matter.

Sir Edward Grey replied that Great Britain had received from France verbal notice of the intention of the French Government to blockade the Siamese coast. The blockade would certainly be an act of belligerency. The British Government, Sir Edward added, proposed to continue its present protection of the lives of British subjects in Bangkok and of the property of British subjects. The Government thought that the value that attaches to a declaration of blockade must vary with the circumstances of each particular case.

Mr. Curzon then asked: "Suppose any British vessel, even a ship carrying sails, should ascend the Menam River after Thursday, will it risk being captured or fired upon by the French? If so, what steps will the Government take to mitigate such a state of affairs? And further, when may we expect notification of the proceedings of our ambassador in Paris?

Sir Edward stated that any further communications he might make to the House must depend upon the communications now passing between Great Britain and France. As to the details of the blockade he must state that the Government had only just received notice of the fact of the intended blockade. He added that he must ask that due notice be given of other questions that the members desired to ask.

Notwithstanding this request the Right Hon. Sir Charles Dilke (advanced Radical) asked: "Will there be a declaration of war or merely an implied belligerency? Will not the blockade be established under the pretense of what is called a 'pacific' blockade?"

Sir Edward replied: "I cannot add anything to what I have said. I hope to be able to give you further information on Thursday. It would not be advisable nor to the public interest to make any further statement to-day."

Sir Richard Temple (Conservative) asked if the Government was taking steps to secure some equality in the British and French naval forces in Siamese water.

This question brought forth cries of "Don't answer," but Sir Edward answered this question, saying: "I assured the House on a previous occasion, and the assurance still holds, that Great Britain has a sufficient force off Bangkok to protect British life and property.

PARIS, June 25.—The reports current yesterday that the French Government had notified the various powers of its intention to blockade the coast of Siam were premature. No such notification has been officially addressed to the powers. Lord Dufferin, the British ambassador, and M. Develle, Minister of Foreign Affairs, will hold another conference to-morrow.

PARIS, July 25.—A Cabinet council was held to-day at Marly-le-Roi, where President Carnot is temporarily sojourning. M. Carnot presided over the deliberations, which were entirely devoted to the Siamese question. After the council rose a semi-official statement of the proceedings was issued to the effect that the Government had taken such measures to safeguard the interests and dignity of France as were considered from Siam's reply to the French ultimatum to have been rendered necessary.

LONDON, July 25.—A dispatch from Bangkok says it appears certain now that M. Pavie, the French Minister, will hasten his departure. It is said he will go down the river this evening on a gunboat.

LONDON, July 26.—The Paris correspondent of the Morning Post believe that M. Develle is personally in favor of a more conciliatory attitude towards Siam.

A late dispatch to the Times from a semi-official source says that at 11 o'clock the French vessels had passed the mouth of the Menam River and had exchanged salutes with the Siamese forts.

The Paris correspondent of the Times comments upon the vagueness of the official reports of the Cabinet council at Carnot's house in Marly-le-Roi.

The Paris Debats complains that the French fleet has been condemned to the inactivity of a blockade, anchored at a distance from land and exposed to the storms and maladies peculiar to the climate, instead of storming the forts. Such extreme generosity, says the Debats, can only serve to prolong the war and realize the Siamese purpose—to gain time.

The Moniteur protest the Government's attempt to filch the Shan States. "Colonial Enpire has a very fine sound," it says, "but the English and German merchants will pocket all the profits."

TIEN-TSIN, July 25.—The Chinese Government has received the news of France's territorial demands upon Siam with amazement and indignation. That France should lay claim to country up to the 23rd parallel is regarded as an intrusion upon the rights of China, for at Pekin the contention is that both banks of the Mekong, to a point well south of the 23rd parallel are Chinese possessions. The Mandarin party, which is bitterly anti-French, is trying to force the Government to interfere.

BANGKOK, July 25.—M. Pavie, French Minister resident, started down the river this afternoon on the warship Inconstante, accompanied by the warships Lutin and Comete. All is quiet in this city.

SAIGON, July 25.—The division of the French fleet, which is commanded by Admiral Humann, sailed to-day for the Gulf of Siam. The merchant vessels lying off Bangkok will probably receive time before the blockade to leave the Menam River and put out to sea.

Tryon's Fatal Signal.

LONDON, July 25.—The proceedings of the Victoria court martial, although no new facts of prime importance have come out, are followed with intense public interest. No light has been thrown on the real mystery of the disaster, which was concealed in Admiral Tryon's brain. It is becoming evident, however, that the sole responsibility will not be placed upon the dead commander. The questions put by the court indicate that Capt. Bourke especially, and Admiral Markham in a lesser degree, will be held to have fallen short of their full duty in the emergency.

The danger, however, that the duty of disobedience, which most people consider the disaster teaches, may become a greater peril than that which Tryon's subordinates failed to meet is a point that was tested on Thursday by Admiral Seymour, commanding the squadron engaged in the maneuvers of the Channel fleet.

The fleet was proceeding in double columns in the same order as before the disaster off Tripoli. The flagship suddenly hoisted Admiral Tryon's fatal signal, "Columns turn sixteen points inward." No response was made for some moments.

Then, almost at the same instant, every ship in the fleet responded "Don't understand signal," meaning, of course, we understand perfectly, but we refuse to obey. The signal on the flagship was immediately changed.

Every English newspaper, referring to the incident, stupidly assumes that the signal was given by mistake, and solemn comments are made upon the escape from the danger involved. When it is considered that a signal does not become an order until every ship has repeated it and it has been hauled down on the flagship, the object of Admiral Seymour's test becomes apparent. Trying the discretion of commanders by impossible orders is not likely to be extensively practiced in the navy.

At to-day's session of the court martial Capt. Gerard H. U. Noel, of the battleship Nile, testified that he understood the signal displayed by the Victoria to mean solely that the two columns were to turn inward. He thought there was something wrong with the order, and therefore had the signal repeated. In his opinion the evolution as ordered was certainly impossible. Capt. Noel thought that had both the Victoria and Camperdown tried their hardest a collision might have been avoided. The witness declared later that Rear Admiral Markham would have been justified in regarding the evolution as dangerous. Capt. Noel was then questioned as to the signalling on different occasions by the flagship. He said that when the vessels were entering a harbor he had always found in his experience that Vice-Admiral Tryon's signals were clear and easily understood. When sea evolutions were being performed, however, the signals displayed on the Victoria were frequently obscure in respect of their meaning. Signals for risky evolutions at sea were never given.

Capt. Arthurn K. Wilson, of the battleship Sans Pareil, testified that he supposed the maneuver had previously been arranged by the leaders of the columns. The signal displayed by the flagship ording the maneuver that resulted in disaster, astonished him. He could not see how a collision was to be avoided, but he shared the general confidence in Vice-Admiral Tryon's ability. The signal was made separately by each column. The order could only have been effected safely by the Victoria going around the Camperdown on the outside. The signal, however, could not properly have been so construed. To have disobeyed the order would have involved the most serious responsibility.

Home Rule.

LONDON, July 25.—The House of Commons, sitting as committee of the whole, continued this evening the discussion of the financial proposals in the Home Rule Bill. John Redmond, leader of the Parnellites, moved an amendment to the effect that the Irish Legislature should receive immediate control of Irish taxes as was proposed originally by Mr. Gladstone, instead of being forced to leave the taxes in British hands for six years, as was stipulated in the new financial scheme.

Mr. Gladstone said that the Government could not accept the amendment. Such a change would not accord with the revised and simplified plan.

Mr. Balfour opposed the amendment.

John Clancy (Parnellite) said that unforseen difficulties would multiply both inside and outside of the Irish Legislature in case the power of collecting taxes in Ireland were reserved by the Imperial Government.

Sexton (anti-Parnellite) argued that the transitional provisions of the financial scheme probably would be advantageous to Ireland. The burden of tax gathering, he said, was one which the Irish Legislature might well be spared in the first years of its existence. Mr. Sexton appealed to John Redmond not to push the amendment. The amendment, he said, must be brought to a division. It would be degrading to Ireland and its representatives in Parliament if a scheme inspired by the distrust of the Irish people were accepted in silence.

Eventually the Parnelliites had their way and the division was taken. The amendment was lost by 249 to 53. The anti-Parnellites voted against it. Many Unionists abstained from voting.

Joseph Chamberlain moved to make permanent the provisional arrangement that Irish taxes should be collected for six years by the Imperial Government. He charged the Government with truckling to the Nationalists. These gentlemen, he said, would be masters of the situation after six years, and would be able to do pretty much as they pleased. The Irish Government would then conduct Irish finances so as to give a good pretext for wringing still more favorable terms from the Imperial Government. The financial plan as presented now by the Government put a premium on extravagant administration under the Irish Legislature.

The House filled rapidly during Mr. Chamberlain's speech, as it was known that Mr. Gladstone would reply at length.

When the Premier rose few seats were vacant. Mr. Gladstone began by comparing Mr. Chamberlain's attitude towards the bill with the proverbial attitude of the devil's advocate, whose function it was, he said, to seize eagerly on every human failing and to misconstrue everything capable of misconstruction. This fling at Mr. Chamberlain pleased the Irish members immensely and they greeted it with loud cheering.

After repelling the charge that the Irish might eventually do as they pleased under the provisions of the bill and that it in reality settled nothing, the Premier turned toward Mr. Chamberlain, and in a voice of anger and indignation said: "The right honorable gentleman has brought into public life one of the mischievous practices, the practice of continually and deliberately, with the utmost confidence in his own infallibility, ascribing to men who have the right to stand on the same level with him, who were at one time his colleagues and were supposed to be his friends, motives for their acts which they indignantly disclaim. (Prolonged cheering.) By what gift of infallibility is the right honorable gentleman enabled to pronounce on the state of things in Ireland six years hence? The Irish members in the House now number 103, yet nobody will contend that they are omnipotent. (A loud "Oh" from Lord Randolph Churchill.) They will return in diminished numbers after the passing of the bill, yet we hear the argument that they will prevail against 570 English and Scotch members." (Cheers.)

After describing Mr. Chamberlain's exaggeration of facts as "gross and habitual," Mr. Gladstone closed his speech with the declaration that the Government felt satisfied their proposals would meet the approval of the taxpayers of the country.

As soon as the cheering and counter-cheering subsided, Mr. Balfour rose to the defense of Mr. Chamberlain and his speech. Not another man in the House, he said, would have been permitted to diverge from the subject as the Prime Minister had done. (Cries of "Oh," and "Chairman.") The term "settled," in reference to the provisions of the bill was hardly appropriate. The normal course in the House was to debate and divide on a measure. The Prime Minister had seen fit, however, to omit the first of these processes. (Derisive Irish cheers.) The office of the Devil's Advocate, to which the Prime Minister referred was preferred only in relation to the defunct. Did the Prime Minister wish the House to understand that the Home Rule Bill was defunct? (Cheers and laughter.) If so, Mr. Balfour said in conclusion, he, himself, was quite ready to take any part its authors desired in its canonization. (Laughter.)

The committee rose shortly after Mr. Balfour's speech.

TORONTO, July 25.—Miss Letitia Lambe, sister of Mrs. E. R. C. Clarkson and of Mrs. G. H. Clarkson, of this city, and of Mr. Harold Lambe, Hamilton, was drowned this morning while bathing at the Island, where she had been living with her sister, Mrs. G. H. Clarkson.

The young lady was bathing in the old reservoir near the lighthouse, when, with a startled exclamation that she was sinking, she disappeared. Her body was not recovered for half an hour. The medical staff at the Hospital for Sick Children for two hours endeavored to restore life, but in vain.

Fun at the Fair.

Experience of a Phonograph Man on the Plaisance.

A Babel of Tongues Gathered for Future Reproduction.

Some of the Songs of the Savages Salted Down.

Fair Officials Charged With Contempt of Court in Closing the Show on Sunday.

CHICAGO, July 15.—The Chicago Herald describes the introduction of a phonograph in the Plaisance: Some of the denizens thought it was loaded, others were indifferent and did not know what to think, while others still had no thought at all. The latter were in the majority. There is a studied effort on the part of many people, not only in Midway but out of it, never to be surprised. So when a phonograph was made to talk before the African sphinx in the Midway and to the Egyptian obelisk, neither of these worthies winked an eye. The Herald artist had better luck, however, further down the grand promenade. The phonograph was loaded into a little red push cart, and the artist, wearing a fez cap to give him an oriental appearance, started out in pursuit of such lingual bon mots as the natives of several foreign climes could be induced to drop into the little funnel.

It did not take long to work up an interest in so novel an enterprise. Many gems of thought in as many different languages were whispered into the little machine by those who were more or less familiar with its mysteries, but it was not of the enlightened ones that the artist looked for his reward; he was after dialects that do not as yet prevail at ward primaries or city council meetings.

DAHOMEYANS SPEAK INTO IT.

The first success that attended his efforts was at the Dahomey village where, after considerable diplomatic labor with the manager, and any amount of barbaric red tape, the procession was allowed to enter the sacred precincts and two amazonian warriors were prevailed upon to breathe a few soft nothings upon the sensitive waxen cylinders of the phonograph. Preliminary to this, however, the ladies were introduced as Miss Ma-hoo-la, but the other lady's name was a confusion of sounds that the untrained ear of the artist failed to grasp. There was a charming naturalness about these African belles. The interpreter addressed a few remarks to them that sounded something like the emptying of a pop bottle. The ladies had their war clubs with them, and with great presence of mind grasped the war implements firmly and approached the phonograph very cautiously. Both seemed suspicious and uncertain as to the ultimate outcome of the experiment, but this was only for a moment. Conscious of superior strength and prowess they gained confidence at every step. They examined the instrument critically, said something about it in the classic Dahomey tongue and stared wonderingly. They thought the phonograph was a new styled Gatling gun, so the interpreter stated, and was brought there to exterminate them. There was an evident desire on their part to kill the artist and execute a war dance over his lifeless remains, and also to turn the phonograph into a heap of twisted rubbish. The ladies were reassured and were partially made to understand what was required of them. With a nervous twitching of her abundant lips Miss Mahoo-la again approached the phonograph and, placing her mouth close to the funnel, began singing her defiance to the enemy. From the movement of her jaws the artist expected every moment that she would bite a piece out of the funnel. When she had finished her war song she looked as if she were somewhat disappointed because the machine did not talk back. The instrument was then adjusted so as to reproduce the song and the girls were invited to listen. As the first strains of the song reached them their expression would be very difficult to describe. First they seemed incredulous, then frightened, then enraged, and again was there an evident desire to exterminate the artist and reduce the machine to a shapeless mass of phonographic material. So terrible was this latest fury of the amazonian warriors that precipitate retreat was decided on at once, and it was executed none too soon. Not until the push cart bearing the offending phonograph had reached the cool shades of the Chinese theater did it seem safe to breathe.

Here the artist rested and mopped his perspiring brow and allowed his perturbed spirits to be calmed by the soothing music of the Chinese orchestra overhead.

"This is a great world," said he to himself, "and most of the curiosities can be seen right here at the World's Fair."

CHICAGO, July 25.—Judge Stein the State Circuit Court to-day issued a rule against the officials and directors of the fair to show cause why they should not be attached for contempt in disobeying his in injunction to keep the exposition open Sunday. The hearing was open for Thursday.

Col. J. W. St. Clair, commissioner to the World's Fair from West Virginia, and a member of the council of administration, had a free fight this afternoon with a gatekeeper and three Columbian guards. It is a matter of doubt who came out best in the row, as both St. Clair and his antagonists were badly battered and bruised and covered with blood when they were separated. It is also a matter of doubt as to who was at fault.

DESTRUCTION AS A FINE ART.

An Explosive More Efficient Than the French Melenite.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 25.—The ordnance officers of the army are making tests of high explosives at Sandy Hook. Last week shells filled with gun cotton and with Emmensite were fired from the twelve-inch mortars to demonstrate that this could be done without danger of explosion to the gun. The test was satisfactory. The Emmensite shell carried a bursting charge of 87 pounds, and if the further trials that will be made to find a proper fuse are successful the army and navy will have secured an explosive even more efficient than the famed melinite of the French artillery.

We do not advertise only a few of our properties. Our card here is simply an index to where buyers are likely to find something suitable in building lots, cottages, residences, business properties, market gardens, farms, etc.

THE NECESSARY REPAIRS.

Work to be Done at City Schools During the Holidays.

Repairs and Improvements to be Made at Every School—Contract for Coal and Wood Let.

The Board of Education held a special meeting yesterday afternoon to consider a report from No. 2 committee on the repairs and alterations which must be made to the different schools during the holidays. Trustees Dewar (chairman), Craig, Jeffery, Martyn, Anderson, Stephenson, Griffin, R. J. Blackwell, McRobert and D. W. Blackwell and Secretary McElheran were present. The report was as follows:

Simcoe street school—That a new brick floor be laid in the boys' department in the basement, at a cost of $75, and that the tender of Messrs. S. Flory & Co. for the work be accepted; any additional floor which is required to be laid at the same rate; that eight wire window screens be placed on the windows requiring them; that the circle in the kindergarten room be repainted.

Colborne street school—That the inside woodwork be repainted and the walls and ceilings kalsomined.

Hamilton road school—That the old portion be kalsomined and kindergarten circle repainted.

Park street school—That two rooms be kalsomined, new stove front purchased, blackboard reslated.

Rectory street school—That the interior woodwork be repainted, three slate blackboards 3½ feet wide, sash, locks and windows tightened, downstairs hallway kalsomined.

Lorne avenue school—Blinds are required in two rooms, wire screens for windows, areas raised, 100 feet of hose.

Princess avenue school—Blackboards in three rooms—Miss Spittal's, Miss Tyler's and Miss Buckle's—five rooms kalsomined, teachers' platforms extended, new blinds in Misses Buckle's and Smith's rooms, area raised and grounds outside leveled, gas pipes connected with building.

St. George's school—That Misses Ferguson's, McEwan's and Drury's rooms be kalsomined, boards relaited in Misses Evans' and McEwan's rooms.

Queen's avenue kindergarten—Repaint circle, repair stove, raise floor—it is sinking.

Talbot street school—One new blackboard, water taps and basins in three junior rooms, small square kalsomined in Mr. Stewart's room and same in Miss Millar's room, where window was closed up, 100 feet of hose, oil floor and repaint circle in kindergarten, lawn hydrant, new sidewalk on south side of building.

King street school—Slate blackboard in Miss Knott's room, kalsomine Miss Fleming's room and Miss Colquhoun's room, teacher's desk and four chairs; put hydrant and extra blackboard in Miss Colquhoun's room.

Askin street school—Repair hole in hall plaster, repair plaster in hall upstairs, kalsomine kindergarten room, kalsomine teachers' room, repair leak in roof, kalsomine small square in Miss Robertson's room, same in Miss Wildren's room and six small chairs and one arm chair.

Maple avenue school—Extend teachers' platform, two arm chairs and two small chairs.

St. George's kindergarten—Circle to be repainted.

Your committee called for tenders for the painting and kalsomining as far as possible, and would recommend that the tender of Mr. Geo. Burdick, at $300 and $15 for kindergarten circles, be accepted.

That the tender of the Walters' Liquid Slating Company be accepted for the composition blackboard required at the Collegiate Institute, at 35 cents per square yard. The boards are guaranteed for five years.

That the tender of Mr. Thos. S. Walls, for coal and wood, be accepted at the following figures, the same being the lowest: Soft coal, $4 20 per ton; hard coal, $6 15 per ton; wood, $5 per cord.

That the contractor shall deliver the coal and wood when desired to do so by a written order from the secretary only; that all the wood be delivered at the various schools before Sept. 1, and that a certificate of delivery be furnished by each janitor and a certificate of quantity and quality be given by the engineer before payment of the account is made or any portion thereof.

The sewer pipes from the closets at the Collegiate Institute have become clogged up with roots, so that the water has no way of escape, and your committee has instructed Mr. Perry to have it taken up and the trouble remedied without delay. Mr. John Walters being the lowest tenderer, has received the contract.

The matter of a new floor in the basement of Simcoe street school was referred back. A concrete floor may be put in. The remainder of the report was adopted, and the board adjourned.

BRANT.

There is no truth in the item from Brantford saying that a call has been extended from the Windsor congregation to Rev. J. C. Tolmie, of Brantford. It will be four or five weeks before any meeting will be held for that purpose.

John Sears was buried in a sixteen-foot well at Eagle Place Monday owing to a cave-in. Men worked three hours before he could be extricated. He was in a bad plight, but will recover.

A daring burglary occurred in Brantford Monday night, when a thief entered the residence of Henry Foulds and carried the latter's trousers off the foot of his bed without disturbing the owner. A purse containing $2 was taken from the pants, but nothing else stolen.

ELGIN.

Bruce Davis, of St. Thomas, has this season shipped 80 carloads of potatoes. The total outlay has been $19,577, as follows: The potatoes cost $16,298; freight, $2,710; telegraphing, $210; railroad travel of 7,000 miles, $200; other traveling expenses, $159; total, $19,577. The lowest price paid during the season was 47½ cents per bag of 90 pounds, and the highest 95 cents per bag. The season for handling has been a remarkably good one until the last month.

The 12-year-old son of Hardy Shore, Bostwick line, Westminster, was driving a horse rake Tuesday when the horse ran away, throwing the boy off. His arm was caught by the teeth of the rake and badly lacerated.

ESSEX.

Donald Coutts, one of the most prominent citizens of Essex county, died at his home in Patillo Saturday afternoon. He was 48 years of age, and dealt extensively in lumber. In politics Mr. Coutts was a staunch Reformer, being one of the leading men of the party in the North Riding of Essex.

John Reno was given six months in the Central Prison for theft by Judge Horne at Sandwich Saturday. He was the first prisoner tried in Essex since the amendment of the criminal code, which went into effect on July 1, and allows a prisoner to give evidence in his own behalf.

There are already over 125 applications for the vacancies on the staff of teachers in Windsor.

W. J. Sparks has resigned as chief of the Sandwich fire brigade.

Pequenot & Co., of Sandwich, whose place was raided by the police Friday, were fined $50 and costs for selling liquor unlawfully.

A very important change is being made on the Grand Trunk Railway by placing the Gould coupler on the cars in place of the Miller coupler. The reason for the change is that the cars from the United States had the Gould coupler, and a link had to be used to connect them with the cars in Canada, which would leave a space between of two feet, over which a board had to be placed for a footing.

HURON.

C. W. Chiswright, of Toronto University, and formerly science master at Caledonia High School, has been appointed science master of the Seaforth Collegiate Institute.

KENT.

Chatham civic holiday has been fixed for Aug. 15.

On Saturday night lightning struck the barn of Mr. O. Noack, con. 8, Raleigh, setting it on fire and burning it to the ground, together with most of the contents consisting of this season's crop of wheat and hay. The lightning came through the barn in close contact to Mr. Noack's sister, who was working near by, burning her hands slightly. Mr. Noack, who was successful in saving a binder, horses, buggy and harness, sustained some injuries from the fire. No insurance.

Sergt. Skirving, of Chatham, has had a letter from the Deputy Attorney-General stating that his claim to a portion of the reward offered for the capture of the murderer Wilson has been investigated, but cannot be entertained favorably. The reward, it is pointed out, was offered for the arrest and detention of the murderer, whereas the Chatham officer only located his whereabouts, but did not follow it up by arresting the fugitive.

The suit for damages brought by D. W. Karn & Co. against the C. P. R. has been amicably settled. Plaintiffs sued to recover $2,500, the value of a consignment of organs shipped to Liverpool. A commission was issued last February to take evidence in Boston and another commission was about to be issued to take evidence in England when the defendants decided to settle the case, giving Mr. Karn $2,850.

Final Draft of the Agreement Between the City and the Company.

A meeting of No. 1 committee was to have been held last evening. Only two members, however—Ald. Welford and Ald. Parnell — attended. Solicitor Hellmuth and Manager Break were present. The following document—a final draft of the proposed agreement between the street railway company and the city in reference to the electrifying of the road—will be considered at a future meeting:

LONDON, July 22, 1892.

To the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of London:

Gentlemen,—In accordance with the request of your No. 1 committee of 15th inst., we beg to submit the following consolidation of our propositions of June 16, 1893, and July 10, 1893, as a basis on which the London Street Railway Company is prepared to enter into an agreement with the city to extend and electrify the street railway system in the city:

1. The company to extend their lines as follows:

Dundas street—East to the city limits.
Dundas street—West to the city limits.
Ridout street—South to York street.
York street—West to Stanley street.
Stanley street—West to the Wharncliffe.
Wharncliffe road—South to Askin street.
Askin street—East to the Wortley road.
Wortley road—South to Bruce street.
Wortley road—From Bruce street south to Briscoe street.
Wellington street—South from Horton street to Bridge street, thence along Hamilton street to the foot of McClary Hill.
Hamilton road—East to Egerton street; along Egerton to Trafalgar street; thence East on Trafalgar street to city limits.
Oxford street—From westerly city limits to Adelaide.
Richmond street—North to city limits.
Horton street—Between Clarence and Richmond streets.
Central avenue—From Richmond street to Adelaide street.
Adelaide street—From Central avenue to Dundas street.

2. Cash fares, 5 cents each,
Six tickets for 25 cents.
Twenty-five tickets for $1.
Children's cash fares, 3 cents each or ten tickets for 25 cents.
Workmen's tickets eight for 25 cents, good from 6:30 to 8 a.m. and from 5 to 6:30 p.m.
Transfers to any part of the city at above rates except during the days of the Western Fair, when the company agree to run all cars from the several terminal points to the fair grounds, the number of cars running from the several terminals during the year preceding the fair in any year not to be decreased during the period of the Western Fair. The company to have the right to run any extra cars they may see fit on the Dundas street line to the fair grounds.

3. All streets on which extensions are made or on which the tracks are at any time taken up and relaid to be left in as good order by the company as when opened by them.

4. All future repairs for the whole system to be made by the company and the material to be furnished by the company, provided that at the termination of the franchise, whenever the same may occur, the company shall be entitled to be paid for the value of the roadway where the materials have been supplied by the company, such value to be based on the then "life" of the roadway and to be determined by arbitration in the same way as the other assets of the company; whenever any street is paved, the company to pave their portion.

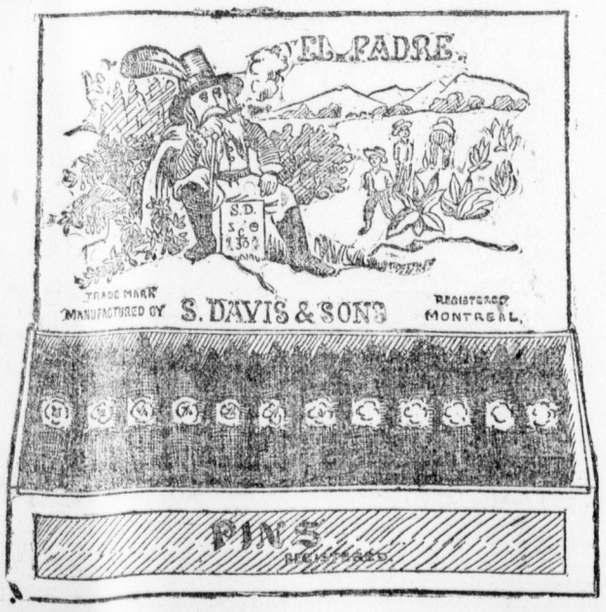

5. Ten hours to constitute a working day, the company to pay extra for overtime.

6. The company to have the option to abandon (1) Pall Mall street or what portion thereof they may deem expedient if the line is constructed on Oxford street; (2) the proposed extension on Wortley road from Bruce street south to Briscoe street.

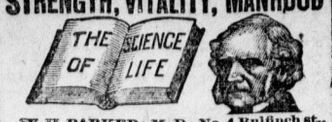

7. The existing lines to be electrified within one year from the passing of the bylaw, and the extensions to be completed and cars running thereon within two years from the said date. (Signed)

BRITISH COLUMBIA, with all its attractions, has no song birds. Would it not be possible to acclimatize the lark in the Pacific Province?

SIR CHARLES TUPPER is alleged to be coming to Canada on private business. That may be so, but he will upset all his precedents if he comes at his private expense. The Canadian taxpayer is even called upon to pay his income tax and his bill for pleasure garden amusements.

MR. COLLINGWOOD SCHREIBER, Government engineer, months ago told Mr. Haggart, Minister of Railways and Canals, that the engineer in charge of the Curran Bridge at Montreal attributed the extraordinary cost to "political interference." It will be interesting to know who the meddler was, and how much toll he collected.

AT CHAUTAUQUA, Senator Edwards has been telling the multitude that the time will come when Niagara Falls will entirely disappear and the cataract will be transformed into rapids. Ultimately they will reach the lake, which will be partially drained, and the Falls will then be located between Lake Erie and Lake Huron. The time, indeed, may come when our line of magnificent lakes will have almost disappeared. No doubt, but as the wearing away process will take at least thousands of years, it is not likely that the hackmen will soon be induced by these declarations to come up to the Lime Kilns and await developments.

THE United States silver question is a simple business matter. The output of silver has more than doubled, and the price has naturally fallen nearly one-half. In the absence of increased demand to hold up the price in face of an immense increase in production, how was it possible to keep up the price of silver? As well expect the Government to keep up the price of wheat, or of corn, or of beef, in face of a surplus of those products. Nor is it possible for a Government to say that one man shall take 60 cents worth of silver in exchange for $1 worth of work without robbing the man who is compelled to take the debased currency as payment for his labor. Thus workingmen have a decided interest in th silver question.

RESIDENTS of Brooklyn are up in arms against an unnecessary duplication of electric lines. They protest in the strongest possible terms against putting trolley lines on neighboring streets, thus menacing the lives of residents, and especially of children. What would the Brooklynites say if they lived in London and had it seriously proposed to put a line of trolley cars on a street so near the present ample service on Dundas street as is Queen's avenue? Once for all, the aldermen would facilitate the transaction of public business if they were to tell Col. Clark that neither he nor anyone else can get a franchise to lay tracks on any street lying side by side with streets already occupied by street railway tracks. Any new line of street railway opened up, whether by the old company or a new company, should be placed so as to add to the convenience of that portion of the public not already served. Queen's avenue and streets closely intersecting Dundas street are already well served.

CENSUS COMMISSIONER JOHNSON announces that there are 10,480 churches in Canada. Nearly 32 per cent. of these belong to the Methodists, 17 per cent. to the Presbyterians, 17 per cent. to the Roman Catholics, 16 per cent. to the Church of England, 12 per cent. to the Baptists and 6 per cent. to all other denominations. During ten years the Baptists have increased the number of their churches by 324, the Catholics by 299, the Church of England by 415, the Methodists by 322 and the Presbyterians by 411. During the past ten years the Church of England appears to have been the most active in providing places of worship for the people. The Presbyterians come next, the Baptists third, the Methodists fourth and the Catholics last. These official figures should be compared with the return of the religions of the people, as shown in the first volume of the census. There it is shown that the proportion of the leading denomination in 1881 and 1891 was as follows:

Roman Catholics	41.43	41.21
Methodists	17.17	17.54
Presbyterians	15.63	15.62
Church of England	13.29	13.37
Baptists	6.85	6.25

No monetary inducement was held out to the enumerators to discover churches, as was the case with "industrial establishments," and it is therefore contended that the figures given regarding the number of places of worship are more likelyto be correct.

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE OLD WORLD CRISIS.

The trouble between France and Siam, in which Great Britain is vitally interested, has now reached an acute stage. Siam is not a strong kingdom, though its population is nearly double that of Canada, and though under recent sovereigns it has made considerable progress. Lying east of it and across the Mekong River is the Empire of Anam. Thirty years ago, a number of French missionaries were murdered by the Anamese, and the French Government promptly made their slaughter a pretext for declaring war against the Asiatic Kingdom. For four years the conflict was kept up and resulted in France acquiring considerable territory lying near the mouth and bordering the east shore of the Mekong River.

From this Anamese territory, some French soldiery recently trespassed on Siamese lands. There was a conflict, and several persons were killed on each side. Once more the opportunity of the French had come. They demanded a large sum of money as indemnity for the killing of French subjects, and they further gave the Siamese 48 hours in which to assign to France 95,000 square miles of their territory for the future use of the republic. The Siamese King appealed to China and to Great Britain, neighbors and friends. The Chinese move slowly, and though it is naturally suggested that they favor Siam, it is not known whether they are prepared to actively aid that kingdom as against France. The Siamese have offered the French to compromise the claims. It is a liberal offer, being the payment of the large indemnity demanded and the giving up of one-half the territory asked for by France. This offer the French authorities refuse, and they are now preparing, by warlike methods, to enforce their full demands. If the Siamese are left to fight their own battles, no one seems to doubt the outcome of the struggle: the weaker power must go to the wall.

But it is said that the Brit ish Government have strong objections to the French acquiring additional territory in the Asiatic peninsula. The British have two reasons for so objecting: On the one hand, British ships and British merchants now hold the overwhelming proportion of the trade of Siam, and the absorption of the territory by France would certainly result in the diversion of a large proportion of that commerce to the republic. On the other hand, the British are opposed to French territorial aggrandizement because the absorption will bring the republic into the sphere of action of the British, who have vast territorial interests, some of them, as in Burmah, but recently acquired.

No sensible man will deny that the big European nations, without exception, are disposed to acquire and control just as much territory as they can lay their hands on. They all have their pretexts for their action, but it comes down to the simple fact that each and every one of them are looking after new openings for buying and selling, for operating agricultural lands, mines and fisheries. This being conceded, it must be difficult for any one nation to formulate opposition against the gobbling propensities of its neighbor. When Russia was driving back the robber tribes of Central Asia, and was setting up at least an improved system of government, there was a clamor in Great Britain against the Liberal Government of the day because it would not declare war against the Czar. And so it has been whensoever another nation has gone into the land-acquiring business. But as Great Britain every now and again absorbs a foreign country, it is hard for a British statesman to keep a straight face when he resolves to protest against his neighbors following suit. If civilized government and freedom to trade could be guaranteed in every one of these acquired countries the question of who rules them would be of far less importance. But after all is said and done, there still remains the morality of the procedure which results in a professedly civilized nation taking forcible possession of a country not so far advanced. Missionaries have been sent to Siam to teach the natives the Christian religion. What are they to say to these people when they ask for an explanation of the Eighth Commandment and of the Golden Rule?

NO SECRET SESSIONS.

Though Ald. Coo has not taken exception to the report of the main facts regarding the recent secret meeting of the London City Council, he asserts that the tenor of his remarks were misconstrued by the informants of the ADVERTISER reporter.

It necessarily follows that a reporter cannot do his work as satisfactorily as could be desired when the representatives of the people resolve to conduct public business in Star Chamber.

The one excuse which the aldermen have for drumming out the reporters from so many of their meetings is that something may be said or done in the council chamber that would be against the public interest.

Let us take the secret session of last Saturday evening as an example. The reporters were put out when the question of whether or not the street railway company should be supplied with blocks to pave the line on Dundas street, in accordance with the by-law, came up. Was there any necessity for depriving the newspaper representatives of the opportunity to represent to the public the real condition of affairs with regard to the squabble? Either the street railway company is or is not entitled to the materials. The mayor had already told the company that it could not have the blocks unconditionally. Why should there be any secrecy about the letters that passed between the civic authorities and the company, or about the opinions of the people's representatives thereanent?

But even if things were said and done that, in the public interest, should for the time not be chronicled in the press, it is not in the public interest that the aldermen should have the right to dictate to experienced newspaper men what should or should not be published. Those who manage the newspapers are just as ready to look after the welfare of the public as the advocates of the "keep dark" system of conducting public business, and truth to tell are more likely to suffer loss by any injudicious exposure of the "city's hand" than are the advocates of the Star Chamber.

It has been abundantly made evident that the main facts of what occurs at these secret gatherings find their way to the newspapers in any case. And as the system of conducting public affairs in private is absolutely indefensible, it is to be hoped that the aldermen will at once reach a resolution to do their business in the open, and rely on the press giving fair play to all parties concerned.

Among the most noteworthy Magazine articles of the year will be three papers written and illustrated by Edwin Lord Weeks, and describing the journey from the Black Sea to the Persian Gulf, on which Theodore Child lost his life. The first will appear in the October Harper's Magazine, and will be called "From Trebizond to Tabreez by Caravan." The text is made up from Mr. Weeks's dairy, and the illustrations, painted from sketches made along the way, are unusually strong and suggestive.

Among notable decorations in London on the day of the royal wedding were those of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. The handsome offices of the company facing the approach to London Bridge bore appropriate devices with these mottoes:—"The Empire's Greatest Railway greets the Empire's Sailor Prince," and Canada's Imperial Highway Greets the Duke and his Bride." The offices of the company formed a meeting-place for a number of Canadians who assembled to witness the procession, and in the evening were the center of brilliant illuminations which attracted much attention.

In some villages in Japan robbers are tried and convicted by ballot. Whenever a robbery is committed, the ruler of the hamlet summonses the entire male population and requests them to write on a slip of paper the name of the person they suspect as having committed the crime. The one receiving the largest number of ballots is declared duly "elected," and is accordingly hung. This system, like all others, has its peculiar advantages. It insures the punishment of somebody for every robbery committed. Of course, they may not "elect" the guilty person, but dispose of some other character equally as bad.

In the last issue of the Canadian Methodist Quarterly an editorial declaration on economic topics deals with the tariff in the following vigorous way: "If there is one thing that the State should under no consideration interfere with, unless under the most extraordinary exigencies, it is the exercise of the individual of his common sense. When a man seeks oil, coal, food, clothing, surely he shall have a right to say where he shall obtain these as his best judgment dictates; and laws imposed to drive people from fertility, that make it a crime to resort to abundance, should never find a place on the statute book of a nation. And this condition the Mosaic economy strictly observed. No line of pickets surrounded Palestine to prevent the Jew going to Egypt for corn, or to Phœnicia for cedar."

The contents of late numbers of the Living Age exhibit the usual wide range of subjects and nice discrimination in their selection, characteristic of this leading eclectic magazine. Foremost in value and interest is an article entitled "Literary Discoveries in Egypt." The land of Egypt is ever of deepest interest: around its name cluster memories of by-gone ages, and from its bosom are drawn from time to time, literary treasures of untold value. The article to which we have called attention gives a full account of numerous clay tablets, some of them made of Nile mud, covered with cuneiform inscriptions, unearthed within a few years at Tell el-Amarna, and which prove to be a correspondence between certain kings of Egypt who lived in the fifteenth century B. C., and their contemporaries and dependents. From these letters the reader will gain a fair insight into the social life of that time in Syria, Babylon and Palestine. Prominent articles of the issues of the present month are "The Chatham Islands and Their Story," by Henry O. Forbes; "Aspects of Tennyson. Tennyson as a Nature-Poet," by Theodore Watts; "Our First Ambassadors to Russia," by Julian Corbett; "Fontainebleau" and "St. William of Norwich," by Augustus Jessopp. Scarcely second to these in interest are many others notably "The Journal to Stella," by Austin Dobson; "The Influence of Climate on Race," by J. W. Fortescue; "Is the Universe Infinite," by Sir Robert Ball; "Addiscombe: The East India Company's Military College," by W. Broadfoot; "Some Thoughts on Pascal," "A Walk in Alexandria," by Alfred E. P. Ramund Dowling; and "Romance of the National Gallery," by Emily Constance Cook. These numbers contain also some good short stories and poetry. The subscription price of The Living Age is $8 a year, postpaid. A specimen copy may be had by sending 15 cents to Littell & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

A Runaway Engine.

HOUSTON, Tex., July 25.—An engine escaped from the yards of the Southern Pacific Railway here last night without engineer or fireman, and went east at a terrific rate. It crashed into the rear end of a freight train going in the same direction and smashed three cars. Conductor Harrison and Brakeman Warren were killed.

Extensive frauds are charged in the administrating of the Chinese Exclusion Act, and hundreds of Chinamen are alleged to have been smuggled in on fraudulent certificates or on fraudulent certificates of genuine certificates.

THE OPEN FORUM.

Hospital Trust Affairs.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Allow me a small space in your paper to lay before the public a matter which, though at first sight may appear to be somewhat of a personal nature, yet I think it contains that share of public concern which entitles it to receive an explanation from those interested, that will either clear their skirts from responsibility for their existence, or leave them and their actions to be publicly criticised by an ever-watchful electorate. I refer to the Hospital Trust and the work that has already been done, or has yet to be done on that institution, in the way of cleaning up. A year ago, public tenders were advertised for certain work necessary to be done (viz., painting and kalsomining) in the City Hospital; on opening the tenders the contract was awarded to Mr. Geo. Howe, his being the lowest tender. With this I find no fault, as it is the proper course to pursue, providing always the parties to whom the contract is awarded are responsible, which was the case in this instance. Some things have been whispered around in reference to certain proceedings in connection with this contract, which involves the name of one of the people's representatives on the Trust, in the way of supplying material for the job; but, I suppose, it is taken for granted that a contractor has the right to buy or order where he pleases. Providing that all went right last year, how do we find the work being done at this time? First, no tenders were invited for the work, the matter being of so much importance, in a financial way, to the chairman, that he has the contractor of the previous year installed in the same position again without that, which is always conceded to be a right of a ratepayer, the opportunity of tendering for public work. You may say, Mr. Editor, what has this to do with the public? I will tell you. When a citizen has been elected to a public position his first duty should be to have all his acts conform to the trust that has been placed in him, so that they will be above suspicion; is this the case with the chairman of the Hospital Trust? I will leave the public to judge. When they know in the first place that the person to whom he has given the work deals extensively with him for the material required for such work, and second, that the greater portion of the material used on the work was and is supplied by him, the chairman, and, last, but not least, when a job is let for which the public treasury is called to pay, and the price realized for the same is out of all proportions to any contract price, it goes to show one of two things, that the party who is responsible either is satisfied because he is reaping when he has not sown, or otherwise he is not a proper person to be placed in a position of the kind, as the public interests are not taken into consideration at all. Once more, Mr. Editor: In to-day's issue of your paper we see a report of more nice work on the same lines as I have just described in the way of a so-called estimate, not a tender of a public nature, O no. There are none other to be invited to the feast, or rather the game of grab on the public purse, but just the favored one (and the other one of course), so an estimate is put in for to paint certain work outside the hospital building, the price being $225. This was considered a fair price, so it was said, by whom I do not know, except the only real authority on such matters; and as he is an interested party, certainly anything in the way of a price would be considered (as the report says) a fair estimate. But aside from the contention of this or that being fair, I say it without regard to the consequences, that it is a shame and disgrace that these servants of the people are not oftener shown up in their true colors, instead of being allowed to abuse the privileges which can only be through the people, and using them in sustaining a selfish, greedy system to their own benefit, and, as I am interested insofar that I have my living to get in pursuance of my occupation in this, my native city, I for one am not going to quietly look on and have my rights trampled upon without at least saying a word in their defense. I could have gone into this matter more fully, but think I have trespassed enough on your columns, and will conclude by saying there are one or two other affairs of a public nature similar to this that it may fall to my lot to say a few words about, but for the present I thank you, Mr. Editor, for this space, and sign myself, yours respectfully, JAMES LUCAS, painter, etc., 554 Princess avenue.

Or swellings in the neck since I was 10 years old; am now 52. I used Hood's Sarsaparilla recently and the swelling has entirely disappeared It has been very troublesome. When I began I was feeling so discouraged with the goitre and rheumatism I felt that I would as soon be dead as alive. Whenever I caught cold I could not walk two blocks without fainting. Now I am free from it all and I can truly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla. I received a letter from Mrs. Jennie Bigelow, now of Fremont, Mich., asking if my testimonial in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla was true; I replied it was, and sent particulars. AT GOODWOOD.

LONDON, July 25.—At Goodwood to-day the race for the Steward's cup was won by Milner's Medora; Blanc's Marly second; Hobson's Quebec third.

ATHLETICS.

CONEY ISLAND OR CHICAGO?

CHICAGO, Ill., July 25.—In an interview here last night in regard to the coming Mitchell-Corbett fight, Manager Brady said the Columbia Athletic Club had secured Mitchell's signature, which meant the fight. Corbett will give the Coney Island Club further time to secure Mitchell's signature, but the fight is as good as settled for Roby.

NOTES.

Eugene Kneebone, the great professional athlete of Australia, is coming to this country.

The four-mile championship of Ireland, which was decided at Belfast recently, was won by J. M. Small. He covered the distance in 22:27 3-5.

The one-mile amateur swimming championship of England was decided at Walsall recently. The course was eight lengths of 220 yards each. J. H. Teers was the victor. He won by 60 yards. His time was 27:21 3-5, breaking the previous record by 55 1-5 seconds.

TENNIS.

A CHILD WONDER.

The latest child wonder is a tennis expert. His name is Clinton Childs, his habitat Pittsburg. He is not yet out of knickerbockers, but he has played tennis ever since he could raise a racquet. In the recent tournament of the Pittsburg Tennis Club his playing in the preliminaries and consolation matches was brilliant, and his future is of the peachblow rose order, according to local scribes.

AQUATIC.

THE RACE FOR THE CAPE MAY CUP.

LONDON, July 25.—Aug. 5 is the date fixed for the race for the Cape May cup, in which Lord Dunraven's cutter Valkyrie and Royal Phelps Carrol's Navahoe will take part. It is probable, however, that the contest will have to be postponed, owing to the fact that the Valkyrie is entered for other races that will prevent her from sailing for the Cape May cup on the date specified. The Cape May cup was won in 1885 by the cutter Genesta, owned by Sir Richard Sutton. The course to be sailed this year is from the Needles, off the west coast of the Isle of Wight, to and around the breakwater at Cherbourg, France, and return.

CRICKET.

REMARKABLE PLAY IN ENGLAND.

English cricketers have had a very lively time recently, and the latest returns are brimful of incidents. The weather is reported to have been almost entirely in favor of run-making, and batting averages have assumed startling proportions.

The Yorkshire and Somerset match ended at Sheffield July 7 in a remarkable win for the Yorkshire eleven. The Somerset men went in twice to make 287, while their rivals scored 300 runs in one inning. Of this total A. Sellars contributed 103, thus making his second century for the season.

H. Trott, the great Australian, was the hero of the match between his team and Leicestershire at Ayelstone, July 7. He scored 100 runs in one inning with the bat and bowled so effectively that in the Englishmen's two innings he took 11 wickets for 87 runs. The bowling of his side partner, G. Giffen, was also remarkable. He took 8 wickets at a cost of 82 runs. The Australian won by 51 runs, with an inning to spare.

One of the most brilliant exhibitions of batting ever seen this season was given by the Australians at Derby on July 4, against the Derbyshire eleven. The local cracks were disposed of for 199, while the foreigners reached the great total of 494 for 9 wickets. Of this H. Graham made 219, the highest score of the tour. A. C. Bannerman was also conspicuous, with the fine contribution of 105 runs.

The great feature of the match at Lord's on July 7, in which Sussex beat Middlesex by 346 to 243 on the first inning, was the batting of G. Brann for the winners. He scored 159 runs.

The great annual struggle between the representatives of Oxford and Cambridge, at Lord's, ended disastrously for the dark blues. The Oxford men went to pieces in the second inning, while the light blues improved. The scores were: Cambridge, 183 and 254; Oxford, 106 and 64. Several spectators narrowly escaped lockjaw trying to pronounce the name of one of the Cambridge men, K. S. Ranjitsinhji.

The unconscious cause of the trouble is an Indian prince and a great favorite among his intimates. Several of his anecdotes are described as racy to a degree. When playing at Bridlington one of the opposite side inquired if he could speak English. Seeing a prospect of some fun, his comrades replied that he was able to speak just a few words, such as "Yes" and "No" and How's that?" Ranjitsinji made one of his biggest scores, and every now and then somebody said "Here, it's time this beggar was out." When he was hit on the face with the ball the fielders hoped that "he would have some of the steam knocked out of him now." When the Indian was heard speaking English to his friends at the subsequent luncheon, the Bridlington players were not a little astonished.

Oxford cricketers were amazed at the manner in which C. W. Wright, of Cambridge, hammered J. B. Woods' usually dangerous "lobs." Wright scored five fours off one over and 28 runs off eight consecutive balls.

The "Confidence" Game Well Paid.

TILSONBURG, July 25.—A Mrs. King recently moved here from Culloden and made it known that a fortune had been left her in New York, which was to be paid over in the course of a month or two. On the strength of this expected windfall and a New York lawyer's letter, giving particulars of the legacy. Mrs. King and her son-in-law and daughter began to deal extensively with local merchants. They managed to secure nearly $2,000 worth of drygoods, groceries, stoves, furniture, etc., and lived high for a short time. A horse and buggy were also purchased in the same manner. On Saturday morning the trio drove to Ingersoll, where an attempt was made to sell the outfit, but as they did not succeed in this the horse and rig were left in charge of a liveryman, and they boarded a west-bound train and are now across the border. The rig left in Ingersoll was brought home last evening. One of the victimized merchants put the bailiff in possession of the house and the effects will be sold.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are specially subject.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, July 25.—There were about 350 head of butchers' cattle, 100 calves, and 300 sheep and lambs offered at the East End abattoir to-day. The butchers were present in large numbers, and there was a brisk demand for nearly all kinds of meat critters, and prices had an upward tendency all round. Especially was this the case with good lambs, which brought nearly 50c per head more than similar lambs were sold for last week. There were no really choice beeves on the market to-day, and the best offered brought 4½c to 4½c per lb, while pretty good stock sold at from 4c to 4⅞c do; half-fatted steers, fair conditioned young stock and common dry cows sold at from 3c to 3⅞c per lb, and the leaner beasts at from 2½c to 3c per lb. There were no superior veals offered to-day, and prices of common to good calves ranged from $3 to $8 each. Sheep sold at about 3½c per lb and lambs at from $2 75 to $4 25 each. Fat hogs are slightly higher in price, or from 4½c to 6⅞c per lb.

British Grain Trade.

LONDON, July 25.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: The prices of English red wheat are stationary at from 25s to 30s, and white at from 28s to 32s. Devon, Somerset and Cornwall are the cheapest markets, the old crop there clearing from 23s to 27s. These prices are telling very prejudicially on the general average. There has been little change in foreign wheats. The markets are resting upon the harvest reports. These are conflicting. Beerbohm's and Dornbush's circulars differ in regard to the French crop. The former says the yield will be 34,000,000 quarters, while the latter states that it will be 36,000,000. The yield at either figure will be better than was expected. The yield of Russian wheat cannot yet be estimated. Rye and barley will yield heavily. Corn promises a good yield. The wheat yield in Austria-Hungary is estimated at 20,800,000 quarters, against 23,614,000 quarters last year. The Mark Lane express thinks that this estimate is too low and expects that the yield will reach 22,000,000 quarters. The yield in Italy will be 1,350,000 quarters above 1892. The estimates hitherto made in regard to the crops in Germany, Belgium and Holland are valueless.

The Late Archibald Loughrey.

The funeral took place yesterday to Mount Pleasant Cemetery of one of London's pioneers. Nearly 50 years ago Mr. Archibald Loughrey emigrated to Canada from North Ireland. He settled here and engaged in the business of harness-making, which he continued successfully until three years ago. Since then he has lived a retired life at his residence, 74 Carling street. Deceased was 83 years of age, and was a highly respected citizen. He never took any active interest in municipal affairs, but was a quiet, unassuming man. He leaves a family of six children, William, Samuel, traveler for Morgan Bros., of Hamilton, and Archibald, of the C. P. R., all reside here. The daughters are Mrs. Wm. Tackaberry, city; Miss Ellen, who is visiting in Ireland, and Miss Libbie, who lives at home.

A Sickening Sight.

Mr. James Crawford, Inspector of the Humane Society, has unearthed, so he alleges, one of the most flagrant cases of cruel neglect that has ever come under his notice. Word came to Mr. Crawford that a man named Daniel Rice, living in a house on Gray street, suffering from an acute form of paralysis, unable to aid himself, was being completely neglected by his wife.

In company with Dr. Hutchinson, the inspector visited the place mentioned. On entering a small compartment, squalor and filth being the chief characteristics, a repulsive sight, asserted the latter to an ADVERTISER reporter, met their gaze. There upon a dilapidated couch lay Rice. Every indication was that he had lain in the same posture for a month. In another part of the room his wife was said to be sleeping off a drunken debauch. When the inspector commenced to remove the man's clothing maggots fell to the floor in hundreds. They had been germinated upon the unfortunate's flesh. The stench in the room was something unbearable.

Sunday afternoon, after some resistance on the part of his wife, Rice was removed to the hospital. Here it was found that he was suffering, not only from paralysis, but from herpeszoster, an aggravated skin disease. He has also a chronic nervous affection. He will never recover, although, say, the hospital authorities, he may live for some time.

Dr. Hutchinson said, on being interviewed, that this was a most outrageous instance of negligence. Inspector Crawford appealed to the county crown attorney. Some difficulty was experienced in securing an act to cover the case, but such at last was procured. Mr. Magee told Mr. Crawford to have a warrant sworn out for the arrest of Mrs. Rice. In the Police Court yesterday, Magistrate Parke refused to sanction such a proceeding. He said that he knew a man could be apprehended for neglecting his wife, but he had never heard of any action such as the one in question. He would speak to the county crown attorney himself.

Chief Williams said that, apart from the legality of the case, a summons would be sufficient. In accordance with this view Magistrate Parke subsequently ordered that a summons be issued to Mrs. Price.

Those Secret Session Speeches.

Ald. Coo denies that he used such an expression as "Sock it to them!" at the meeting of the City Council Saturday evening, or that he ever used such language, and states what did occur was that Ald. Parnell moved to supply the street railway with the blocks, and he (Ald. Coo) moved in amendment that the blocks be supplied without prejudice to the suit now pending between the company and council, the solicitor having stated that if the blocks were supplied otherwise it would preclude the city from raising the objection to the street railway using Dundas street. A number of the aldermen took the same ground as Ald. Coo, and his amendment was voted for by every member except three. Ald. Coo strongly objects to secret sessions of the council. The reporters manage to get them anyhow and through the second-hand process the proceedings cannot be well reported.

What Is It Good For?

"This man said that he would swear off last time he was here," remarked Chief Williams in the Police Court yesterday as Isaac Thompson was arraigned on a charge of drunkenness.

"Did you?" asked the magistrate, pointedly.

"No, your honor, I never did," came the firm respone.

"Well, you should have," was the pertinent observation from the bench. "What did you drink this time?"

"Whisky."

"Why did you indulge?"

"Because I was sick."

"Whisky is no good for sickness; it is not good for anything," interjected the magistrate.

"Oh, yes it is," explained the prisoner. "It is good for the cramps."

"I presume it is," observed the magistrate. "You may go."

Four boys, ranging in ages from 16 to 20 —William Ferris, Ernest Wilson, Thos. Williams and Wm. O'Rourke—were charged with vagrancy. They are all from Detroit. The police were ordered to escort them out of town.

LOST HER YELLOW DOG.

Karlotta's Parachute Failed to Work and She Was Nearly Drowned.

BUFFALO, July 25.—A bright-eyed, black-haired aeronaut made an ascension from Crystal Beach. A wet, weary woman was picked up by a tug from the middle of Lake Erie a half hour later. It was plucky little Karlotta, who, with her yellow dog, has been doing parachute jumps for several days at the beach. The crowd that visited the beach Sunday thought the parachute jump would be postponed because of the high wind that raged. But about 5 o'clock the wind abated somewhat and orders were given to fill the airship. Karlotta appeared in black tights and red waist and buckled on a life-preserver. There was no preserver to fit the dog, so he was harnessed in the usual manner. As the balloon rose above the trees, dog and woman pendant beneath, a smart breeze sprang up, drifting the balloon toward the lake.

The manager fired his pistol as a signal to let go the dog's parachute. But it didn't drop. A second shot was the signal for Karlotta to drop. But when she did not respond to this everybody knew that something was wrong. "Let go," shouted the manager, now thoroughly alarmed. "I can't," came back an affrighted scream from aloft. The crowd stood aghast. It was evident that Karlotta was trying to cut loose her parachute, but without success. Finally she succeeded in detaching the dog's parachute and he dropped with a splash into the water. That was the last ever seen of them. Karlotta's balloon soon began to descend, as the wind cooled the hot air. It struck in rough water about three miles from shore. The tug Wm. Wilson was got under way and went out to the spot. The rescuers were none too soon, for the balloon had nearly filled with water when they reached it, and in five minutes more would have sunk, dragging the woman down with it. Karlotta appears undisturbed, except for the loss of her yellow dog.

For a Little While!

The L. and P. S. R. Difficulty Is Tided Over.

The M. C. R. Will Operate the Road Temporarily.

And Halve Up Net Receipts—The City to Pay $1,250 for Repairs—The G. T. R.'s Offer Favored by Some.

As stated in Monday's ADVERTISER somewhat of a crisis (they're quite common now) was precipitated in London and Port Stanley Railway affairs by the demand made on the city by President Ledyard, of the M. C. R., who bluntly informed the L. and P. S. R. Board that unless certain conditions were granted by the latter, the Michigan Central would drop the road today (Tuesday). These conditions were: 1. That the city should pay for the necessary repairs. 2. That it should give the M. C. R. a bond indemnifying the latter from all liability in case of accident. The amount needed for repairs was fixed by Mr. Ledyard at about $10,000, but, as has been already made public, Mr. Hanson (acting for the city) and an M. C. R. engineer went over the road and figured that $1,152 would do the work.

Accordingly the mayor and Solicitor Edmund Meredith hustled off to Detroit yesterday to try to compromise matters with Mr. L. Late in the afternoon a message was received in the city from the mayor hinting that it was impossible to arrive at a satisfactory understanding. The aspect was considered grave enough to call of the Council and the Railway Board at Meredith, Cameron & Judd's office. There Mr. Ledyard's terms were positively refused, the accident indemnity clause being the stickler. Some of those present were in favor of the city's assuming the operation of the road at once, by renting rolling stock. An adjournment was made until 10 o'clock when it was expected the mayor and solicitor would be back.

In the meantime it is said that more influential representations were brought to bear on Mr. Ledyard by some other person or persons, in the city's interests. As a result of this another special secret Star Chamber hide-it-from-the-public meeting of the council and board was held at 10 p.m., and as the Detroit deputation hadn't returned their services were dispensed with. The meeting was then informed that President Ledyard had

MODIFIED HIS TERMS.

He had agreed to run the road until Sept. 1 on these conditions: That the city pay $1,250 for repairs; that the city give the M. C. R. a bond of indemnity against any loss through litigation with the Cleveland syndicate, the latter having threatened to sue the city and to make the M. C. R. joint defendants in the suit in case the latter ran the road for the city.

The city is to get half the net receipts of the road, and if its share of the earnings do not reach the $1,250 for repairs, then it must make up the balance. In case of losses through accidents on the road, the city is only liable to pay the M. C. R. the amount of its earnings above $1,250, if there be any such surplus.

These terms the joint meeting agreed to, but not until after in which fortunately the participants were content to "chastize with the valor of their tongues" only. The discussion was loud enough to allow anyone in the near vicinity to hear it, particularly a reporter, if he had cared to stay up till 1 o'clock yesterday morning—for it was that time when it ceased. The cause of the difference lay in the fact that some members wished the accepted and held out for it strongly. The G. T. R. offer the city 30 per cent. of the gross earnings of the road, but wish, as the M. C. R. did in the first place, a bond of indemnity from all accident. These conditions apply to a permanent or temporary lease. The majority of the board would not hear of it, and a division of the board was taken as follows:

For the M. C. R.'s offer—Mr. F. E. Leonard, Mr. J. C. Judd, Ald. James Fitzgerald, Ald. Shaw, and Ald. Coo—5.

For the G. T. R.'s offer—Ald. Taylor, Ald. Dreaney, Ald. Carrothers—3.

The council members present then formally ratified the bond of indemnity.

It may be added that the running expenses of the M. C. R. are fixed and that the agreement may be terminated by either party giving ten days' notice any time after Sept. 1.

Brother of the Duke of Veragua Desires Some American Money.

MADRID, July 25.—The representative in this city of the Associated Press to-day had an interview with the Marquis de Barboles, brother of the Duke of Veragua, in regard to the proposition that has been made in the United States to collect a fund for the benefit of the duke, who has lost much, if not all, of his fortune in bad business investments and through going security for friends. The marquis, while expressing himself in favor of the proposal to raise a fund, said he regretted that the subscription was intended only for the benefit of the duke. The marquis declared that he, equally with his brother, was a descendant of Columbus. He had spent a large sum of money during his recent visit in company with his brother to the United States, and as a matter of fact he was poorer than the Duke of Veragua, who is the head of the family. The marquis thought that he should be considered in the matter, and said that he intended to write to friends in the United States, telling them all the facts. He expressed the hope that the organizer of the fund would see to it that he was given a third or a quarter of whatever sum might be collected.

HIS REPENTANCE.

"Sara, let me fully understand. Do you imply that there exists any good and substantial reason still, call it insuperable barrier if you will, why you ought not to become my wife? Wait a moment. Before you give answer, remember that to my heart it is fraught with either life or death."

"I do not imply it; I fully state it. Oh, don't visit it upon me!" she exclaimed, as his face seemed to be assuming its old haughtiness. "It is not my fault. I did not work the disgrace,"

"No," he answered soothingly, "it is not your fault. Forgive me," he softly whispered. "The blow to me is heavy."

"It may pass from you. It will pass. You will form new friendships, new ties, and forget the old. Better that it should be so."

"But never a new love!" he answered. "Never one that will be to me what the other has been."

She rose from her seat. Oswald drew her down on it again.

"As I hinted just now, Sara, the time when we may mix freely as friends has not yet come; it would not do for either of us. But I must make a last appeal to you—suffer me to be your friend in this one strait. Is it not possible that I can act for you?"

"It is not possible. There are certain reasons why neither you or anybody else can do this; and putting these aside, there is the weighty one that it was the charge bequeathed to me by my dying father. Thank you for all," she whispered, as she suddenly rose and held out her hand, her soft, dark eyes speaking their thanks to his.

He rose also, did not release her hand, but placed it within his arm to lead her up the solitary path. If those grave, middle-aged counsel, deep in their briefs behind the grave windows opposite, had glanced out at the interview, it probably reminded them of their own sweet springtime.

Sara withdrew her arm at the garden gate, but he walked by her side through the courts to Essex street. She halted there to say adieu.

"I suppose I must not ask to accompany you?"

She shook her head. "I must be alone."

"Fare you well, then," he said. "May all good angels guard you."

Mr. Alfred King was waiting for her. He was evidently not pleased at £200 of the money being missing; but he turned it off upon the "other parties." They would not accept it, he said, unless paid in full; and he hinted at consequences to Captain Davenal. He would not sign the receipt; told Sara it was useless to unseal it; but he did write a receipt for present money paid. Altogether, it was a less satisfactory interview than even the former one had been; and Sara quitted him with a sinking heart. She had not the remotest idea where to get the money, and a despairing foreboding was upon her that Edward must yet pay the sacrifice of his crime.

"How long will they wait?" she asked herself as she went shivering up Essex street. "Suppose they send me word that they will not wait, that Edward—oh, if I had but the means to——"

"Well? Is the thing happily over? You said this might be the last interview."

It was Oswald Cray. He had waited for her. Her mind was preoccupied with its fears, almost bewildered, and she scarcely knew what she answered.

"No! it is not happily over. It is all unhappy, and I am frightened. The money I took them was—was——" she broke off with a start. Recollection had come to her.

"Was what?" he asked.

"I think I forgot myself," she murmured, as a burning flush dyed her face. "My mind is full of trouble. Pray pardon me, Mr. Oswald Cray."

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

AN IRRUPTION ON MARK CRAY.

If anything could exceed the prosperity of the Great Wheal Bang Mine itself, it was prosperity of those immediately connected with it. There was only one little drawback—ready money ran short. It had been short. It had been short a long while, and the inconvenience was great in consequence; but the prolonged inconvenience was now approaching to such a height that even that sanguine spirit, Barker, even Mark Cray in his confiding carelessness felt that something must be done to remedy.

Of course the cause of this will be ready divined—that the Great Wheal Bang's ore was not yet in the market. The heat of summer had passed, September was in with its soft air and its cool breezes, and still that valuable ore had not begun to "realize,". It was obstinate ore, and it persisted in giving the greatest possible trouble before it would come out of its mother earth, where it had been imbedded for ages and ages. Those who understood the matter best, and the process of working these mines, tedious at all times, did not consider that any time was being lost; and it is more than probable that the impatience of Barker and Mark Cray alone caused the delay to appear unduly long.

The money swallowed up by that mine was enormous, and Mark Cray got half dismayed at odd moments. The shareholders were getting tired of the calls upon their pockets; yet they were on the whole confiding shareholders, believing implicitly in the mine and its final results. As a natural sequence, the mine's wants being so great, its mouth so greedy a one, Mark Cray and his friend could have the less money to play with on their own score; still they managed to secure a little for their personal wants and tradespeople of all denominations were eager to supply anything and everything to the great men of the Great Wheal Bang. How entire was the confidence placed in the mine by these two masters of it, may be seen from the fact of their depriving themselves of money to pour it into the ever-open chasm. They might so easily have diverted a little channel into their own pockets! True, it might not have been quite the honest thing to do, but in these matters few men are scrupulous. Mark had surreptitiously sent a few shares into the market and realized the proceeds; but he had done it with reluctance; he did not care to part with his shares; neither was it well that the Great Wheal Bang's shares should be afloat.

Standing at the window of their drawing-room on this balmy September afternoon were Mark Cray and his wife. The fashionable world were of course not in London, but Mr. and Mrs. Cray formed an exception—there is no rule without one, you know. Mark felt that he could not be absent from those attractive offices in the city, even for a day. It was well that one of them should be there, and Barker was everlastingly running down to Wales. "Never mind, Carine," he said to his wife. "We'll take it out next year; we'll have a three-month's autumn trip in Germany. The money will be rolling in upon us then, and I need not stick here to keep the shareholders in good humor, as I have to do now." Carine obediently acquiesced; and she did it with cheerfulness; she had not been sufficiently long in her new and luxurious home to care about leaving it.

But she solaced herself with all the gayety that was obtainable within reach. Drives out of town by day; and the theater at night, or some other amusement accessible in September. On this day they had been to a wedding at the house of some new friends at Richmond; and they had but now returned. If you look you may see the fine carriage with its four gray horses just turning from the door, for Caroline, capricious Caroline, wayward and whimsical as a child, had stepped out of it undecided whether to go out again and drive in the Park before dinner. So she kept the carriage waiting until she was pleased to decide not to go.

"I am a little tired, Mark, and they'd be ever so long taking out those post-horses and putting in our own, she said to her husband. "We could never go in the park with four horses, and the post-boys wearing white favors. Empty as the drive is, we should have a crowd round us."

"Taking you for the bride; and a very pretty one?" returned Mark, gallantly.

Caroline laughed; a little all-conscious laugh of vanity. She laid her beautiful bonnet of real lace and marabouts—and for which the milliner would assuredly charge ten pounds—on a side table, and threw off her white lace mantle. The folds of her rich silk dress, its color and the delicate bloom of the spring lilac, rustled as she went back to the window.

"Only think, Mark, we have been married nearly a year? It will be a year next month."

Mark stood with his face close to the window. He looking at the trees in the Green Park, their leaves playing in the golden light of the setting sun. Caroline flirted a few drops on her handkerchief from the minature essence bottle dangling from her wrist, and raised it to her carmine cheeks. The day's exitement had brought to them that rich bloom so suspiciously beautiful.

"And to think what a year may bring forth!" exclaimed Mark in a fit of reflection.

"What has this last done for us? You and I are man and wife; Dr. Davenal's dead; the Hallingham homes are broken up; I have quitted forever that wretchedly worrying profession, and we are on the high round of the world's ladder!"

Hezekiah's Surprise.

"Wal, Hiram, if this don't beat all! The old way for doctors was 'kill or cure,' but here I've found a piece in this here newspaper where a doctor offers 'cash or cure.' It's for catarrh! I wish we had it—I'd like to try him! Jest listen, Hiram! 'The proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer a reward of $500 for any case of catarrh which they cannot cure.' That beats all lotteries hollow! The medicine costs 50 cents—your catarrh is cured, or you get $500! Where's my hat? I'm going right over to neighbor Brown's to show him. I never wanted to get within ten foot of him before, but if it is the cure of his catarrh I guess I can stand it one't." Sold by druggists.

When was your late uncle's insanity discovered?" "After the will was read."

At Death's Door.—Dyspepsia Conquered.—A Great Medical Triumph. GENTLEMEN,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live, when I commenced the use of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 pounds. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over 30 dozen VEGETABLE DISCOVERY since it cured me, as I am well-known, and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life, as I never expected to recover when I first commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia. A LESSON FOR PLAIN PEOPLE.

Public Business Carried on More by Confidence Than by Currency.

[New York Times.]

The number of people who make a study of economic questions and acquire an understanding of the principles that underlie the issues of tariff and currency is small. In ordinary times, when industrial and commercial affairs are running along under normal conditions, the bulk of the people give little attention to such questions. It is only when they are thrown into popular agitation as political issues that the people begin to learn about them, and then the process of education is not very rapid.

There is one lesson to be drawn from the disturbances due to the condition of our currency, and chiefly to the continued purchase by the Government of depreciated silver, which ought to be brought home to the "plain people" or the country by the events of the last few weeks. It ought to be impressed upon their minds how largely the business of the country through which the innumerable processes of exchanging the products of labor are effected is carried on by credit and how little by currency, and how much more its stability and prosperity depend upon confidence than upon the volume of money. The contraction that is most perilous to this great and complex fabric of business is the contraction of credit that comes from the shrinking of confidence.

Few people fully apprehend the elementary fact that the purpose of all these processes of traffic is the exchange of commodities for each other and not for money, their distribution from producers to consumers who, in the vast network of industry and trade, are made up of the same people bartering with each other the products of their labor. Money is a means of accomplishing exchanges, but most of them are effected without its direct use. It is estimated that from 90 to 95 per cent. of all our business is transacted on credit through the use of checks, notes and book accounts. The more general and sound the credit and the more nearly absolute the confidence, the less occasion is there for the use of the money, except in the small transactions of daily life. But there is a continual settling of balances with cash, and credit rests upon the assured ability to pay full value whenever and wherever the occasion comes. So the main bulwark of confidence upon which the whole system rests and works is the permanent stability of the currency.

The great lesson of the time is the exceeding peril of a loss of confidence and the consequent contraction of credit. That it is that checks the operation of the forces in the great fabric of trade and threatens it with paralysis. It leads to refusal of advances and forcing of payments. It makes borrowing hard and interest high. It compels selling and restricts buying. It forces banks to suspend and drives prosperous men to bankruptcy. At the same time it reduces the efficiency of currency by making it circulate more slowly, and contracts its volume because timid persons withdraw it from banks and withhold it from investments. These are elementary truths, but they are not generally appreciated. In industry and trade credit is more than currency and confidence is greater than cash, but the bottom of it all is the maintenance of one true measure of value, accepted and relied upon as always safe and sure against sudden change or fear of change.

Infant Mortality in July and August.

More babies die in July and August than at any other time of the year. There is no difficulty in accounting for the terrible rate of infant mortality during these months. The best physicians have often asserted that the large majority of babies die owing to improper dieting. Cow's milk of poor quality—often stale and sour—is fed to the little ones, and the organs of digestion become irritated and inflamed; dysentery, diarrhea and cholera infantum take hold and carry off thousands to the grave. The infants who safely pass through the heated term are those who have been wisely and properly fed on pure Lactated Food. All the infants who receive a daily diet of this life-giving food are made vigorous and strong; loving mothers have no dread or fears, and baby is a joy and treasure to all in the house. It is the mother's duty to provide her child with the best life-sustaining food that can be procured during the hot weather. The king of foods is certainly the "Lactated," which has the approbation of the best medical authorities on infant feeding.

The fat man in the side-show is lying in wait for his victims.

A wonderful new combination is R. Stark's Headache, Neuralgia and Liver Powders, nice to take and perfectly harmless. Mr. Alex. Rumsey, Imperial Bank, Welland, says: "They are excellent; I have no hesitation in recommending them to all who suffer from headaches." Mr. Flock, G. T. R., Hamilton, writes: "For three years I was troubled with most severe headaches. Since I have used Stark's Headache, Neuralgia and Liver Powders I have been entirely free from them." Mr. Lancefield, librarian of the public library, Hamilton, says: "They are most valuable and give almost instantaneous relief; I always keep a box in my house." Mr. Maynard, Woodstock, says: "They are wonderful." Mr. Hall, Brantford, says: "I have tried many remedies, but all without effect, until I took Stark's Headache, Neuralgia and Liver Powders; I can recommend them most highly." Price 25c a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

"The great trouble of the times," said the telegraph editor when a lot of tissue-paper copy blew off his desk, "is that we are being overwhelmed with light literature."

HIS LAST HANDSPRING.

Fatal Accident to a Boy Acrobat—Throws Himself Out of a Four-Story Window.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Because of the Gerry Law, the Frantz family of acrobats, giving nightly performances at the American Theater roof garden, left Lucian Martinez, 7 years old, the son of one of the members and himself an accomplished performer, alone at their apartments, 577 Ninth avenue.

On Saturday night, left alone as usual, the youngster sought to beguile the tedium of a long wait by turning handsprings, and, by some miscalculation, threw himself out an open window and fell four stories to the sidewalk.

An awning broke his fall somewhat, but he is now at the Roosevelt Hospital dying of a fractured skull and two broken arms. The boy has an enviable European reputation. The family came from Spain four weeks ago.

OFF FOR ALGONQUIN!

Starting Out of an Expedition for Ontario's Great Park.

TORONTO, July 25.—An expedition started for the Algonquin National Park this morning, under the guidance of Chief Ranger Peter Thompson, formerly of Brussels, and Mr. James Dickson, one of the park commissioners. These gentlemen will have along with them six others, and they take with them a supply of provisions, carpenters' tools and firearms. They will take train to Huntsville, and afterwards make their way along the Muskoka River, entering the park at the southwest corner. A house for the chief ranger will be erected, as well as smaller log houses for the under rangers. These huts will be built by the side of waterways, and at the customary entrances to the park. The ranger, superintendent, and under rangers will see that the game is protected, and that poachers are excluded. The only officer yet appointed is the ranger. His salary is $600 per annum.

It is intended that the park should remain a preserve for game of various kinds, such as moose and deer, and the fur-bearing animals, such as beaver, otter, etc. Mr. Thompson, who is in charge of the party, is an experienced woodsman and explorer.

It is well known to bakers of bread that flour made from Manitoba hard wheat will make from four to five pounds more bread to the hundred than flour made from Ontario wheat. Hunt Bros. use half of this grade of wheat in all their bakers' flour, and one-third in their celebrated "Diamond Patent," which is sold by all grocers. Users of flour should bear this in mind and ask their grocers for this brand. zxv

Speaking of hollow mockery, doesn't a hungry parrot come pretty near answering that description?

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhœa, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief and never fails to effect a positive cure. They are acknowledged by all experienced fishermen to be the largest catch remembered by the oldest inhabitant. Col. J. M. The Picnic To-Day.

Those who remain in the city to-day will find plenty of entertainment at the grocers' picnic in Queen's Park. The procession starts from the Market Square at 10 a.m. It will be well worth seeing. Then follow a baseball match and lunch on the grounds. The sports start at 1 p.m. sharp. If the weather is favorable the picnic ought to be a unprecedented success.

The Band Concert.

Last night the Seventh Band tried the experiment of voluntary offering as a means of providing funds for a second weekly band concert. Plates were held at the gates where patrons might drop whatever sum they wished. The receipts did not come up to a paying mark, though if one-quarter the people who attended had contributed a nickel each there would have been plenty. The band may try it again, and if not a success the public will have to be content with one concert a week, which is all the council will pay for.

In the evening business was resumed and papers were read by Dr. W. A. Leggo, of Ottawa, and Dr. Kimber, of St. Catharines. The retiring president also read his annual address.

Sunday School Interests.

A regular meeting of the Sunday School Association of Middlesex Deanery was held in St. George's Church, London West, last evening. The president, Rev. Canon Smith, occupied the chair and introduced Rev. W. J. Taylor, of St. Marys, who gave an admirable address on "Successful Teaching." The reverend gentleman, in the course of his remarks, spoke of three essentials to successful teaching: First, aptness to teach: second, Bible knowledge; third, consecration. The address was followed by a discussion on the subject of the opening and closing exercises of the Sunday school, Rev. Canon Richardson, Rev. G. B. Sage, Rev. A. H. Rhodes and Messrs. Armitage and Garside taking part. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Mr. Taylor for his practical address. It was decided to hold the next meeting of the association in Christ Church, this city, in October, and the proceedings concluded with singing and the benediction. After the meeting an adjournment was made to the school room, where refreshments were served and a short time spent in social intercourse.

Splendid Parade of Commercial Travelers at Chicago—Over 15,000 Men in Line.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Despite the excessively warm weather the parade of the commercial travelers to-day was a magnificent success. Over 12,000 men were in line, and no less than 44 states and six foreign countries—England, France, Germany, Austria, Holland, New Zealand, Australia and Canada—were represented. As the parade passed the Travelers' Club at 1,227 Michigan avenue it was reviewed by Mayor Harrison, President Higinbotham, of the World's Fair, and others.

This afternoon the commercial travelers' new club house on Michigan avenue was dedicated, and to-night a special programme in honor of the travelers was given at the Trocadero.

Barbaric Methods of Nicaraguans.

NEW YORK, July 25.—A telegram from Managua, Nicaragua, says: Without giving notice to the inhabitants, or giving the women and children a chance to escape, the revolutionists opened a bombardment of the city yesterday morning. The aim of the Government gunners was inaccurate, and their shot did little damage to the enemy. Only one of the steamers was damaged. Two of her crew were killed. Shells from the rebel fleet did considerable damage to public and private buildings in the city. Two women and three children were killed and many persons were wounded. Thirty shells were thrown into the city. The rebel ships sailed away at 8 o'clock and have not since been seen. One of the shells struck near the United States legation, where Minister Baker and his two daughters reside. Minister Baker has made a formal protest to the revolutionary leaders.
