Detro't, April 21.—The trial of Spiritnalist Lang, or Ascher, will conclude in all probability here to-day. Counsel are now addressing the lury. The sensation of yesterday was the defendant's own evidence.

Ascher took the stand with a smile hat he had before been tried for murder in Louisville, Ky. He smiled all the time. His sweetheart, sitting on the front row of seats, listened to every word of testimony as if her own life, were involved. An occasional glance of recognition from her lover on the stand would being a blush to her face. Mrs. Ascher, nother of the defendant, sat

"In Denyer. But I would make them seances, they were really private readings."
"What is that graft?"
"Oh, you just answer the questions they ask."
"The questions just come in sealed envelopes, do they not?"
"Yes. I had to tear the envelope open and read the questions, and I would then slip the questions into another envelope and the skiter would not know that the envelope had been opened."
"You must have been all right to do all of that while the sitter was looking at you." all of that while the sitter was looking at you."

"On, that was easy. I would do it behind the slates that I held up."

would being a blush to ber face. Mrs. Ascher, inother of the defendant, sat by Mr. Robinson and most of the time her face was bathed in tears.

TELLS OF NICHOLS.

Ascher told of his first acquaintance with Nichols the murdered man. He said that he first met him in March of last year. At the time, he was advertising, or spiritualistic business underplained the taking of the alias of "Robert Lang" as follows: When I first started out, several years ago, I had to choose a name quick and the first name that came into my head was Robert Lang, the name of an old friend of mine in Detroit. I stuck to that name. I didn't mean anything wrong when I took the hame, but took it because it was the first one that came to my mind."

Ascher went on to state that he first began to correspond with Nichols some time in March of last year, and that he afterward gave Nicho's sittings at $1 each. He wrote letters to Nichols telling him what time to come into town to see him.

"How much money did you get out o' Nichols!" asked Mr. Navin.

"About $60 or $70."

"Did he always come to Detroit to have his sittings!"

"No, he would sit at home (Pittsfield) and i would sit in Destroit."

"Atout what time did you look for the spirits each evening!"

"It would generally be about eight o'clock."

"Yes."

HIS START AS A FAKIR.

Witness then went on to state that he started in the "faking" business as advance agent for Dr. A. H. Waite & Son, who operated a "fake" cabinet show. He declared that he did tot steal a piano in St. Louis, as has been s'ated, but merely rented it and left it for the people in the house to return. He said that he bought slates for ten cents a pair and sold them for $3.

"Did you defraud Nichols?" "Yes."

"You knew that you were defrauding him and lying to him and then took his mocey?".

DAILY AND WEEKLY Chatham, Ont.

AN OVERSIGHT.

Of course it was quite accidental, but our esteemed local contemporary, the Banner, seems to have altegether over looked the sacred concert in the First Presbyterian church on Tuesday nigh last. We can assure the Banner it was one of the finest musical events Chat-ham has ever seen. The city's best local talent took part, one of Detroit's most famous vocalists was precent, and the audience was large, cultured and highly capable of judging good music. The only thing lacking therefore, to make the whole affair a pronounced success. Iwas a write-up in the Banner. We know that both performers and audience will keenly feel this oversight and we hasten to mention the matter ere it is too late for that leading molder of public opinion to remedy the mis-take and to pour the balm of its condescending approval, as it were, on this really high class affair.

We fear if the Banner really imagine it is too late to remedy the oversight the First Presbyterians and their friends may imagine they have nothing left to live for as a congregation.

Later—Reliable reports from good sources go to indicate that in spite of this terrible blow, services will again be held in the First Presbyterian church on Sunday. The choir, it is also rumored, will have the audacity to sing. But we do not suppose Mr. Warington will ever have the temerity to return t Chatham again.

THE RUIN OF THE TEACHING PRO-

The other day the Leamington put lic school board advertised for a teacher holding a second-class certificate, and received over thirty applications in short order. The salaries ranged from $200 up to $500. Quite a number of the applications were made at the $200 figure. In the case of these it certainly may be said that salary was no object. In the light of this the earlier the teachers of Ontario form a un'on with a scale of prices the better. If a second-class teacher is not worth more than $200 he or she ought to be in some other business than rearing the tender thought and teaching the young idea how to shoot.—Learnington

When G. W. Ross' new teaching facwhen U. W. Ross new teaching actory in London gets going $200 will be the maximum instead of the minimum salary. The Hardy Government's policy has killed the teaching profession. There is not a teacher in Kent sion. There is not a teacher in Acate county what is not earning at least twice what he or she is being paid.
But after all we haven't much sympathy with the teachers. Nine-teacht of them are hide bound Liberals and of them are hide-bound Liberais and have supported a Government through their and thin whose policy has been robbing them of their just earnings. If they are satisfied to be thus robbed we do not know that the rest of the community is particularly interested in making a kick on their behalf. The school teachers of Contario are an intelligent and educated class of people ight to know their own business If they are satisfied to see their profession, as a profession, ruined, they are the ones who will suffer. But $500 competitive standpoint; is a high figue, even for a male teacher, w. Nothing is more to the credit of the school boards of the province than the fact that they are not taking ad-vantage of the glut of school teachers to cut salaries. We venture the opinion that there is not a common school teacher's or principal's position in the province that could not be satisfactorily province that could not be satisfactorily it in the satisfactorily it in the satisfactorily it is filled to morrow for $400 a year, and engine driver, a fish inspector out perhaps less. As for the high schools a plowman, a stamp licker out of erhaps less. As far the high schools f salaries were made the test, about 8700 would be the outside limit, and the men drawing that would be looke upon with envious eyes by the rest of Yet teaching is as important a pro-

KITCHENER'S EXPLANATION.

It is coubtful if any amount of explanat on can be made to justify an in mman act However Lord Kitchen has explained his rosition with regard to the killing of the wounded Dervishes as well as he can. He says that the unpleasant task was only under-taken in the case of those who feigned death in order to obtain opportunities of murdering those of our officers and men, or friendly natives, who might come within their reach, and, what-ever was fone, was done with all possible considerations of humanity. With pegard to the Mthdi's tomb, Lord K'tchener vindicates the steps taken in this connection, which were rendered necessary by the fanatical character of the populace. Had the Mahdi's tomb been left intact it would have become the objective of familie pilgrimages, which would have cause endless mischief to the good government of the Soudan. Lord Cromes supports the action taken by the Sir dar in all respects

THE LOVE OF GOD.

Written by Bornard Rascas, a Pro pencal root in the 14th century, and ranslated into English by William Cul-

All things that are on earth shall wholly pass away.
Except the love of God, which shall live and last for aye.
The forms of men shall be as they had had never been;
The blasted groves shall lose their fresh and tender green;
The birds of the thicket shall end their releasant come.

and tender green;
The birds of the thicket shall end their;
pictuant rong,
And the nightingale shall cease to chant the evening song.
The kine of the pasture shall feel the dart that kills.
And all the fair white flocks shall perish from the hills.
The gort and anthered stag; the wolf and the fox.
The wild tour of the wood, and the chamo's of the rocks,
And the strong and fearless bear, in the troiden dust shall lie;
And the colphin of the sea, and the mighty whale shall sie.
And the realms shall be dissolved, and sempires be no more.
And they shall low to death, who ruled from shore to shore;
And the great globe itself, so the Holy Writings tell.
With the rolling firmament, where the starry armies dwell, Shall melt with fervent heat — they shall all pass away, Except the love of God, which shall live and last for aye!

In the Tap Root of an Oak. I remember a carious incident connected with the tap root of an oak.
This oak, a good tree, of perhaps 200 years growth, was being felled at Bradenham wood when the woodmen called attention to something peculiar on the tap root. On clearing this of soil we found that the object was a horseshoe of ancient make. Obviously in the beginning an acorn must have fallen into the hollow of this cast shoe, and as it grew through the slow generations the root filled up the circle, carrying it down into the earth in the process of its increase till at length we found wood and iron thus strangely wedded. That tap root with the shoe about it is now or used to be a paperweight in the yestibule of Bradenham

Official Lampposts.

The placing of lampposts in front of the houses of the chief magistrates of towns is an ancient custom. We find in Heywood's 'English Traveler' that posts were so placed in front of sheriffs houses. Reginald says.

What brave carved posts! Who knows but here in time, sir, you may keepyour shrievalite. And I be one of the strants!

From sheriffs, the practice extended to the houses of mayors and provosts. It has been suggested, with some probability; that the posts were at first intended for the affixing of proclamations which it was the duty of the sheriffs to publish.

Dr. J. T. A. Gauthier, of Valleyfield, Que., writes: "I, the undersigned, certify that the contents of this letter, in regard to the cure of Mr. Isadore Major, by the use of Dr. Chae's Kidney-Liver Pills, is correct."

Here is Mr. Major's letter: "After, 20 years of suffering from backache and kidney disease. I owe my life to Dr. A. W. Chase. I had tried an endless variety of remedies to no avail, and on the recommendation of a friend began the use of Dr. Chae's Kidney-Liver Pills. Two pills that night and two next morning gave great relief, and I continued their use until now I am completely cured. My friends are surprised and pleased to see me well again, for I spent hundreds of dollars in vain trying to get cured. Before using Dr. Chae's Kidney-Liver Pills my back ached so I could not put on my shoes and couldn't lift so lbs. My shoulders were sore, I had headaches and a bad taste in the mouth. These troubles are now entirely gone and what I say I am ready to prove. I have told my friends of fny wonderful cure, and many have been greatly benefited by using these pills."

in the days of their great intimacy a certain grotesqueness of taste in Summer made him the object of some good natured banter on the part of the other "Mutuals," says Mrs. Julia Ward Howe in The Atlantic. It was related that on a certain Fourth of July he had given his office boy, Ben, a small gratuity and had advised him to pass the day at Mount Auburn, where he would be able to enjoy quiet and profitable meditation.

he would be able to enjoy quiet and profitable meditation. Felton was especially merry over this incident, but he in turn furnished occasion for laughter when on a visit to New York in company with the same friends. A manservant whom they had brought with them was ordered to carry Felton's valise to the Astor House. This was before the days of the baggage express. The man arrived late in the day, breathless with fatigue, and when questioned replied, "Faith, I went to all the oyster houses in Breadway before I could find you."

A Turk Who Wanted to Know.

He was a very wealthy landlord and a descendant of the old sultans of Marash, and Albistan. He would ask us every question under the sun-from the history of the royal family to the views of the English on matrimony; whether England was smaller than London, and which belonged to France; how much bigger the Turkish fleet was than the combined armaments of England, France and Russia, and what was the fashionable costume at home. We drew elaborate maps of the world for his benefit on paper 6 inches by 8 inches and the most artistic and faithful portraits of trains, steamers and hanson cabs. And I think I may say with perfect confidence that, after gravely discussing our statements with his servants and neighbors, he disbelieved them all with perfect impartiality.—"Notes From with perfect impartiality.—"Notes From a Diary In Asiatic Turkey."

Her Awful Sin.

Mr. Tollemache tells in The Spectator the following story of a little girl, which he had, he says, at only one remove, from her own father: The child once went in great distress to her mother, saying that she had committed a sin which could never be forgiven and which was too bad to be repeated. By dint of a little coaxing she was induced to make a full confession, which was in this wise:

ENSILAGE CORN.

through the use of the silo, togethe the relative value of crops used for these purposes. Their real value must be solved by the individual. Conditions and kinds of soil, the domestic animals kept. together with conveniences and facilities for handling the crop, go a good way toward solving the problem.

Recognizing these facts, the New Hampshire station has been testing various forage plants for the last three years, and its experience with ensilage corn is reported as follows by Professor F. William Rane.

Many varieties of ensilage corn have Many varieties of ensilage corn have been grown at the station for the past few years, but the question resolves itself down to two varieties, which, we believe, are the ones best adapted to our conditions—namely, the Leaming and the Sanford. The former is preferable, we believe, for the southern part of the state, and the latter perhaps for the northern. Both mature sufficiently for ensilage here at the station.

The Sanford is toe well known to farmers generally to need any recommendation. Ever since 1888 this variety son fully three-fourths of the ensilage crop was of the Learning. Unlike the Sanford, which is a white fint, the Learning is a yellow dent corn, and is one of the earliest grown. The ears are large and handsome, with deep grain and a small cob. The stalks to a medium size, from one to grow to a medium size, from one to two feet taller than the Sanford. It is very leafy and usually produces two good ears to the stalk. It adapts itself to various kinds of soils equally as well as the Sanford.

The comparative yields of the two varieties during the past seasons have been from two to four tons per acre in favor of the Leaming. Not only has the yield been much better, but Pro-fessor Morse, who has had charge of the feeding experiments, tells me that the ensilage is equally as good as that of the Sanford, and changing from the one to the other makes no perceptible one to the other makes no perceptible difference in the milk flow or its composition.

It is hoped that all who are interested in ensilage will give the Learning corn a small trial at least. The cut is a photograph of four varieties Beginning at the left hand side, they are Moeby's Prolific, Learning. Pisers and Sanford

The general results of analyses of sugar beets for 1898 in Ohio show that the beets were less rich in sugar and showed lower purity than in 1897.

Many fine plots of beets were grown in the state, however, notwithstanding these less favorable results. Taking the experience of the two seasons, it is eviexperience of the two seasons, it is evident that the problem of profitable beet sugar production is not yet solved. for the northern third of the state at least. The state station desires that tests should be repeated by those who have the state station desires that tests should be repeated by those who have had experience in growing beets in 1897 and 1898, and to this end it will furnish tested seed in quantities sufficient to plant one-fourth to one-half acre of beets to such as will undertake to carry out the test and report the results as in 1898. The station also offers to send out sorghum seed raised under the auspices of the national department of agriculture at Medicine Lc fige, Kan. It desires to send this sorghum seed especially into the southern countries. It desires to send this sorghum seed es-pecially into the southern counties, where experience has shown the condi-tions to be unsuited to the culture of the signs best. Farmers willing to co-ope ate should send their addresses at once to the experiment station. Woos-ter, O., stating the area of land which they are willing to cultivate.

Spray Early Is Spring.

"The first spraying should be done early in the spring, before the buds open, and it must be done thoroughly The second should be done after the trees are through blossoning, while the third may come 18 to 20 days later. The fourth spraying is due about three weeks later. A tree is sufficiently sprayed when the drops of the mixture are seen hanging from the branches and leaves. Many orchard trees besides spraying need a thorough scraping, as it the case of the elm trees. Then the brush and other waste matter, including all dead leaves and rubbish, must be removed from the grounds and burned. Do not leave it near the trees or in the readway, for the eggs deposited therein will hatch in the spring. If there are dead trees or badly diseased ones here and there in the orchard, cut them down and burn them." says an Orange Judd Farmes correspondent.

A HOSS ON LOOMIS

Joke on Him-A Conspiracy of Sil Into a Panic

ence I hat 'hrew the I eacher into a Panic.

Ine late Professor Ellas Loomis for many years occupied the chair of astronomy fit Yale and was the author of the well known series of mathematical textbooks. The truth of the following story on the professor can be vouched for by a number of Yale men:

Professor Loomis repeated each year to the junior class a course of lectures on physics. The lectures were illustrated by experiments, and, in one on compressed air he explained the principle of the well-known airgun.

The students of each succeeding class as they entered the room for this particular lecture found on the side of the room remote from the platform a small target. After explaining the operation of the gun. Professor Loomis was in the habit of landing three of its projectiles with mathematical accuracy in the center of the bullseys.

The professor was always applauded for this feat, but his grim face, covered by a tightly drawn skin of parchment hue, never showed the slightest sign of gratification or recognition of any kind. To him it was apparently only a scientific experiment to be exactly demonstrated.

One class of juniors, however, who had learned of the immemorial incident from the then seniors, attempted a little experiment of their own, the subject beling mathematical and scientific human nature.

Three puffs from the airgun, and al-mathematical and scientific human na-ture.

Three puffs from the airgun, and al-though the students saw that the bullseye was perforated as usual there was hot a sound of applause. Professor Loomis looked a moment at the class in a startled way, then at the target, and then, with a degree of emotion he had never before shown, exclaimed:

Didn't it hit?' Didn't it hit? Didn't it hit?'

th his?"

A roar of laughter, followed by ever more than the usual applause, showed the professor that he had not lost his mathematical accuracy.

HE HAS RESIGNED.

Engineer Topp Decides to go Out / To British Columbia.

Has Been Offered And Has Accepted The Position of City Engineer Of Victoria.

The Position of City Engineer Of Victoria.

A special meeting of the city council will be held on Monday evening to consider the resignation of C. H. Topp. City Engineer!
Yesterday Mr. Topp received a telegram from the Mayor of Victoria, B. B., offering him the position of city engineer of that city at a salary of $2.500 per annum. Mr. Topp interviewed the members of the council, explaining that his duty to himself demanded an acceptance of the offer. He wired an acceptance of the offer. He wired an acceptance last evening.

M. Topp commenced his duties here on April 13th, of last year, and has done considerable valuable work for the corporation. His resignation will be a sourse of surprise and regret.

Victoria has had a good deal of trouble with its engineer. The council scaiped one. Then they engaged another in Toronto, when he got out there the Mayor declared he was not an engineer at all and retued to install him in office. Another Toronto engineer when approached refused to go unless they gave him a three year contract. He intimated that we knew the kind of taskmasters the Victoria council was. In Mr. Topp, however, they have secured a good, capable official, who does his work thoroughly though quietly, and whose services the Victorians will no doubt soon learn to Eppreciate.

The crop is not a staple one, like some which are considered necessaries of life, and you must find people who want them and are able to buy them. In most large villages there is a sufficient number of people who want them to make a market for a few thousand heads. In some seasons, and at some times in the year, there is a good profit in growing them so ship to dealers in the cities, but the most money is made by retailing them in villages where no one is growing them and there is no competition. It is not best to economize too much in purchasing seeds. The higher priced strains of white cauliflowers, where the type has become established by careful selection for several years, are more reliable in heading, and the whiter the heads the better they will sell in the market. The large pure white heads with the leaves trimmed nicely around them attract the eye, and people buy them because they "look nice." He left the mirror and sat down dejectedly "I am grown ugly," he said, "and poor, and therefore they shun me." He thought of his life; offered to his country and to glory, of his hard campaigns in America and the Indies, of the famous battles in which he had done his part, under Montcalm and Vaudreuil. "But all this," he told himself "has been in vain. The king, my love, my friends, they are none of them left to me. A note from the bursan of war awaited him, informing him that his request for a regiment had been granted, that it was to be known as the Grenadiers Pays and that be must join it near Friend.

There's nothing like hope to keep people happy. Hope buoys up the spirits and helps to clear away the elouds. There are thousands of people in Canada to-day hoping that their health will soon return—hoping for a cure of Constipation which has troubled tiem so long—hoping for headaches to vanish, for stomach to cease giving distress.

Miss S. Lawson, of Moneton, N. B., was sick and aliling and had her hopes of health realized through the use of Laxa-Liver Pills. This is what she says:

"I gladly testify to the virtues of Laxa-Liver Pills. I used to be troubled with severe headaches and constipation for a long time, and took these pills hoping for a cure, and my hopes were rapidly fulfilled. I have found them a never failing remedy, and heartily recommend them."

Soldiers Often Sing It on the PILES. . . Battle Field.

Regulars and Volunteers Differ.

What does a soldier sing? The ar be a regular or a volunteer. It hebe a regular, in the majority of instances he will have on his tongue's end the latest ballad of the variete' stage. The more satiracle the ballad in its revelation of human weaknesses or pathetic in its unfolding of simple affections the better pleased the regular will be. He must have the sarcasm of the street or the pathos of the estrage to be thoroughly taken with his song.

The volunteer soldier is not so far removed from home influences that he can forget the songs that touched his heart in the fwilight of the day. Certain songs, certain hymas, are common to all parts of the nation, but every man's mother has had some one melody he preferred to all others, and sooner or later when at the front,
this finds his way to his lips.

So it is told of Gen. Chaffee that in the charge at El Caney he came upon a private deadly white but making his way upward through the thicket under tire, and shouting at the top of his voice:

How firm a foundation.

That is a very orthodox Presby-terian hymn. Struck by the pallor of the man, the general asked him why he sung. The answer came quick:

The volunteer is fond of "Ben Bolt," so maker how ancient some foolish seeple think it has become. When he transport Seneca came northward from the fever beds of Santiago the colunteers, as she swung out of the Atlantic and into American waters, sung the old time with great unction, not omitting to stamp hard upon the decks when they repeated the line—

At Montank the different detachments of the 14 000 troops brought there were much scattered. One and two miles often divided commands. The different camps were set on the crests or slopes of sand hills. In the cool of some evenings, just after the sunset gun; the silence which would fall upon that spit of land jutting into the cean was appressive.

On one such night last August, after a day of nerve-wearing heat, when the evening star could be seen fainfully twinkling in the west, a lawest breeze swept over the water, up the baked sand cliffs and into the camp of the Tenth

Even the sick men in the cabins added their feeble pipe while memory brought back visions of the old mill and the more covered wheel where waters were noisy no more.

The American line was wavering at El Caney. Unsupported by artillery, it seemed impossible for the men to longer fact the terrific fire poured down upon them by the enemy. On his extreme left there was much confusion. Officers had but track of their commands, companies were charging bindly with at leaders, and a slaughter or a rou was imminent.

Crewe. Among those present in the Abbey were six hundred invited guests, all wearing wedding favors of marguerites and prinfroses, representing the bride's name. The Earl of Rose-bery gave his danghter away, and the best man was the Earl of Chesterfield. Dr. Littler and the bean of Westmin-minister had charge of the ceremony. The honeymoon will be spent at Welbeck Abbey, the seat of the Duke of Portland, which has been tendered to the bride and bridegrosm for the occasion. Miss Muriel White, daughter of Henry White, Secretary of the United States Embassy, was one of the bridesmaids. The others were Lady Sybil Primrose, Annabel Crewe-Milnes, Celia Crewe-Milnes, Cynthia Crewe-Milnes, Celia Crewe-Milnes, Cynthia Crewe-Milnes, Celia Crewe-Milnes, Cynthia Crewe-Milnes, Chia Lady Juliet Lowtler. The bridesmaids earried bouquets of Rottachild roses. The dresses were of white mouseline de svis, embroidered with satin spots. The skiturs had shaned flounces, with cream lace insertion, edging trimmed with lace insertion, edging trimmed with lace insertion, and several ruckes. The bodiecs were tried over the top of the sleeve and tied in a large bow at fine side. The Lats were of primrose chiffon, with pink flowers.

In the vicinity of Learnington, Ruthwen, Harrow and Kingsville almost one-half of the farms are set in peach orchards, and prices have ranged as high as $300 an acre. Now there is likely to be a great slump in values. It has that been discovered that the severe frosts of iast winter have killed fully 30 per cent. of the trees. It is highly probable that peach trees in Kent. Elgia and the Niagara district are in a worse condition, as the frost was more severe in those sections.
