HARDY'S FISHERIES BILL DOWN.

ment's recital on the subject, Mr. Stratton, a newspaper editor himself, accused from what he claimed to be the general support of the independent press of the Province. He first quoted The Toronto Star, a locally rival journal to his own, one which he said had unscrupulously opposed him, and which had stooped almost as low as possible in belittling the approval of Mr. Hardy's course on the constables' vote question. Then came the Hamilton Herald, and quoting from it, Mr. Stratton stammered and hesitated when he came to the statement "Mr. Hardy has opposed sharp practice with sharp practice." The Opposition laughed. The favorable attitude of The London Evening News and The Toronto Telegram met with little comment. But the speaker provoked a little jolly when he mentioned The Toronto Star as an independent paper and its editor as one who had stumped the country against Sir Oliver in 1880 and in 1884.

"Where is he now?" came from Whip Wardell. The laconic answer came from a Conservative member. "In Mexico." At any rate, said Mr. Stratton, he can be fairly classed as independent. In conclusion, he defended the constable legislation because it saved the country from needless by-elections and candidates the cost of endless litigation. Defending the position of the discredited Ministers, he pleaded for a reasonable allowance of time to let them get back into the House, and layman that he was, insisted that too much faith should not be placed in the precedents, but more to present circumstances.

Good Maiden Speech. Next, in the seemingly endless intermission, arose Mr. Hardy, the new Conservative member for North Ontario and the redeemer of that constituency. Mr. Hardy asked the indulgence of the House, but sooth to say he needed it but little. He is prolific in debate, and brings to bear a ready repartee, once or twice locking horns, none to his disadvantage, with the Attorney-General. He opened by a very picturesque compliment to Mr. Speaker. "If," he said, "it were in the palm of my hand to say that the House of Commons had been introduced to the Temple of Virtue, and through it to the inner Temple of Fame," Mr. Hardy does not think that the way they have taken during their active life has come all from the Conservative side, and he reminded the Liberals of the way they had taken during their active life when he had lived and helped sanctify him when dead. The Liberals complained of injuries received at the hands of the alleged mischief maker, but Mr. Hardy said that it was necessary for a man who had lived with his wife for 25 years to get up some fine morning and say, "it is time for a change."

Had the Liberal party, asked Mr. Hardy amid laughter, come to think that they were wedded to the Conservative? He could not but feel that it was this union that had done so near giving them a leading March 1 last. [Laughter.] He referred Mr. Stratton's bill to the Agricultural College with even more force. Why, said he, were they men, women and children enjoying cheap rates on an holiday trip? They had been lunched by the Government, but one stout vigorous farmer had boasted on returning that he could farm better than anything he had seen there. The Government boasted that no graduates were criticized by the college. What about the criticism of the members for Gardwell and East Victoria, he asked.

In a Hopeless Minority. Mr. Hardy did not bother himself much about Mr. Stratton's figures as to the Government majority. He waived it aside with the comment that they were not calculated on a fair basis, in that the votes of Conservatives and all independents were not added together as unitarily cast in condemnation of the Government. He referred to The Globe of 1896 as supporting his contention. "Taking it this way," the Government was found to be in a hopeless minority. He regretted that Mr. Stratton had seen fit to cast reflections on the judgment of the House. He said that there was a trial judge in the Dominion, set alone in the province, who deserved to be dubbed a "narrow-minded partisan."

Mr. Stratton here explained that he had said, "A possibly narrow-minded partisan," and Mr. Whitney accepted this. The speaker, Mr. Hardy, such an insinuation should never have been made, and Mr. Whitney led the Opposition applause. The speaker congratulated, like all others, the Government for the abandonment of the harvest, adding that farmers were well satisfied, excepting for the rise in the price of binder twine. Mr. Hardy promised that his Central Prison plan was retained to keep down the price. Farmers were wondering why the monopoly still kept the price of binder twine so high, he announced as corrupt upon the floor of the House, but he believed they were far superior to some members of the House. He announced as corrupt upon the floor of the House, but he believed they were far superior to some members of the House.

Against Galloping Statutes. Before recess he had also succeeded in making numerous points against the practice of hurried legislation. He quoted the words of a Grit lawyer, reported in The Weekly Star, to the effect that the statutes were so much amended and mixed that they could scarcely be located. Judge Dawson was stated to have said that "the Ontario Legislature was pumping out laws as fast as a steam boiler." He said that the language used was much amended and mixed that they could scarcely be located. Judge Dawson was stated to have said that "the Ontario Legislature was pumping out laws as fast as a steam boiler." He said that the language used was much amended and mixed that they could scarcely be located.

Mr. Hardy, continuing after dinner, quoted the statement of The Farmers' Sun, on the retroactive legislation and panicky attitude of the Government in calling the present session. It was only by sticking to the law, he declared, that it was possible to get the Government to do anything. The action to be taken. [Applause.] In the matter of the constables' vote, it was to the Legislature to decide the province to stay by the decision of the courts. The speaker, coming to the question of the ballot system in Ontario, likened it to a marked card in a game of whist. During the recent campaign he had more than 20 parties who had written to him only that they would mark their ballots for him only that they would be afraid to do so with a numbered ballot. The Franchise Act needed to be entirely renewed, like Paddy's gun, it wanted a new barrel.

The speaker's quotation from The Citizen and Country, that if defeated, a Minister should resign at once and leave his office to be conducted by his deputy, was received with loud applause. He then moved the following amendment: That the following words be added to the amendment: "And to respectfully express the hope and desire that Your Honor will, without delay, take steps to put an end to such an unusual and undesirable state of affairs."

Senior Representative of the Capital. Mr. Lumsden of Ottawa, a tall man with a long, venerable beard and an irresponsible expression, desired to speak for the senior representative of the Capital. He believed that he spoke confidently for the lumbermen in expressing confidence in Hardy's administration. In spite of the narrow Liberal majority, it was the right arm of the province, and did the Conservative side the same position, they would claim to be not only its right arm, but its body and breeches. [Laughter.] J. McLaughlin, Stornoway, asked what the Hardy Government had done in the way of aiding the farmers in the province. Every dollar they had voted had gone to provide jobs for the unemployed. He declared that the students turned out annually from the Guelph Agricultural College were not what the country needed. [Applause.] The farmers were bitterly disappointed in the neglect of the Government to reduce the price of binding twine. The man chiefly responsible for all the agricultural mismanagement of the province was Hon. Mr. Dryden, and a true estimate had been made of him by his constituents. The speaker charged the Liberal party with driving out the Sandfield Macdonald Government by treachery, and holding the position by treachery and bribery ever since. [Applause and laughter.] He raised laughter on the topic of the highest of protests by stating that in his own riding a poverty-stricken grocer, unable to foot the bill, had been pushed forward to the front of the line. Mr. Russell of East Hastings, who had a very weak voice, and declaimed like a parson, spoke in favor of retaining the Minister of Agriculture and done in the Conservative party without a semblance of a policy, and as one who would render inalienable aid to the country at the Quebec conference. At a few minutes past 10 p.m. Thomas Crawford moved and carried an adjournment.

Thornhill. Rev. W. F. Wilson of Hamilton visited a number of friends in the village on Saturday. The first quarterly board meeting under the superintendency of Rev. F. G. Keam was held yesterday. The finances were in a satisfactory condition, and the board felt themselves able to raise the pastor's salary $25. The pretty dwelling belonging to the Park estate has been purchased by Mr. F. G. Gallanough. The annual garden party in aid of the Presbyterians of St. Luke's and St. Mary's R.C. Church was held last evening in the church grounds at Thornhill. The evening was cool and pleasant and a large number gathered and spent an enjoyable time in the garden. The village bands drew the crowd, played a number of choice selections at the grounds and then handed over the management to Jack O'Leary and W. E. Payne, who regaled the dancers with fitting selections, till the most ardent followers of the Torchbearers are acknowledged their inability to wear out the starling powers of the fiddler. Jack McCann was director of ceremonies, and Rev. Father McMahon was ubiquitous in his endeavors to look after the wellbeing of his parishioners. The occasion was graced by the presence of Mrs. M. P. and Mr. J. W. Moyes. The refreshment booth was pleasantly attended by Miss Marshall, Miss Glover, Miss Kelly and Miss Fitzpatrick.

Woodridge. Woodbridge, Aug. 8. (Special.)—James Golden, one of the section men on the C. P. R., is confined to the house with an injured foot, caused by an iron rail falling upon it. Abraham Hilton had several sheep killed by dogs yesterday, and will enter action for damages against the owners of the dogs. Pink eye is very prevalent among the cattle in this neighborhood. Threshing in general and the crops are turning out better than expected. Mr. Rob of the 7th Con., Vaughan, threshed wheat and barley for three days in order to get in the remainder of his crop, averaging about 100 bushels per day. Henry Ketter of Sherwood had 38 bushels of fall wheat to the acre and 20 bushels of barley. His oats are not light, as it was thought they would be. Michael Brown has purchased a trotting

COUNTY AND SUBURBAN Toronto Junction, Aug. 8. (Special.)—City Holiday was quietly observed to-day. The Suburban Electric cars were well patronized with excursionists going to the park and to Weston, and the baseball matches drew large crowds of spectators. An exciting match was played in the Town Park between the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen of the C. P. R. and the Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. There is a strong rivalry between these two societies of the railway men. As in the former game, the Trainmen were again victorious, scoring 38 to 25. Boston and Steele were the battery for the winning team. Dr. Schenker of East Toronto set the fracture, and the little one is doing well.

This season, a bumper crop of water makes a delicious and invigorating drink after a run. Sold by druggists everywhere. Many people are suffering from kidney diseases and disorders—don't know the right remedy—getting away their money and their health on something that does them no good. Listen to the advice of Mrs. Phillips, wife of Rev. C. T. Phillips, Woodstock, N.B., who says: "A member of our family took cold from exposure and over exertion, which brought on severe kidney trouble, and suffered intensely from pains in the back and distress while urinating. We tried Doan's Kidney Pills, and they removed the trouble at once. I do not hesitate to recommend a remedy that does its work so faithfully. I have proved them to be a specific for weakness of the urinary organs, general debility and other distressing troubles. I can therefore recommend them, feeling assured that those giving them a fair trial will find the result most gratifying." Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, or sent by mail on receipt of price $5.00, or sent a box or 3 boxes for $1.25. The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.
