MANY FRIENDS ARE LOST BY SUFFRAGETTES

Disgraceful Work in London Has Hurt Votes for Women Cause Greatly

GOVERNMENT BACKED UP

Public Opinion is That Strong Hand Should be Used in Ending Excesses—M. P.'s Who Would Have Voted for Woman Franchise Have Turned (Canadian Press) London, March 7.—Public opinion, as expressed by editorials in the newspapers and interviews with various persons, strongly endorses the decision of the government to put down the suffragette excesses with a strong hand. Inquiry among members of the House of Commons makes it plain that many of them who proposed to vote for a woman suffrage bill or for an amendment to the adult suffrage bill which would give women the franchise, will abstain themselves from the house or will oppose such a measure when it comes up. The members who were lukewarm or on the fence, have been driven into the anti-suffragette camp by the latest tactics of the militants. The majority of the Irish Nationalist members, who usually vote for woman suffrage, are disgusted with the latest antics of the militant women. One of the whips of this party declared today that he could name twenty members who favored the suffragette before this week, who would now vote against any bill giving women the franchise. Many prominent men are out against woman suffrage. Lord Roberts says it would be a disastrous mistake. Mr. Birrell, the chief secretary for Ireland, who was in favor of female suffrage, is now reported to have become opposed to it on account of the window smashing episodes. Mr. Haverhill, who was defeated in the poll at South Manchester, attributes his defeat to a repetition of the disgraceful conduct of the women in London in regard to the window breaking. His opponent made a vigorous attack on woman suffrage throughout his campaign.

More Smashing London, March 7.—The suffragettes resumed their window smashing early today. A number of them assembled in the neighborhood of the large dry goods establishments in the west end, soon after dawn, and as soon as the shutters were taken down, they attacked the plate glass with hammers. They selected the largest windows in all London for their demonstration. Assemblies detained them until the police arrived on the scene. Six were arrested.

Rev. R. W. Colston OF WELSFORD DEAD TODAY IN FREDERICTON

Body Will Be Taken to Quebec—News of the Capital

Fredericton, N. B., March 7.—(Special)—Rev. R. W. Colston, rector of Welford, died in the Victoria Hospital this morning after a brief illness of pneumonia. He was a native of Quebec and was fifty-two years of age. He was rector of Maryville before removing to Welford ten years ago. The body will be sent to Quebec this evening for burial.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S YACHT IS TO BE BROKEN UP

London, March 7.—Orders have been received at Portsmouth for the crew of the Alberta, Queen Victoria's favorite yacht, to be paid off at that port on March 30. The yacht will be broken up in the dock yard. It was on the Alberta that Queen Victoria's body was conveyed across the Solent to Gosport, whence it was taken to Windsor.

BRITISH EXPLORER AT THE SOUTH POLE

Success Has Crowned the Gallant Efforts of Captain Scott

News of His Attainment Brought to Civilization By His Friend and Rival, Captain Amundsen, Who Was Beaten By Him in the Race

(Canadian Press) Wellington, N. Z., March 7.—Captain R. D. Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, says that Captain Scott, the British explorer, reached the South Pole. Captain Amundsen and Captain Scott are close personal friends. They met just before they started the race for the pole and when they parted, each to pursue his own plan, they wished each other success. Captain Amundsen, whose expedition was a smaller one than that of Captain Scott, had a slight advantage over Captain Scott owing to his base of operations being eighty miles nearer to the goal than that of his opponent. Their equipment varied in many respects. Captain Amundsen was on dog transport and his men being equipped with skis on which they expected to make great speed over the glacier ice while Captain Scott took with him dogs, ponies and motor sledges. Both explorers had great experience of polar exploration. Captain Amundsen being the discoverer of the Northwest Passage and Captain Scott participating in a former expedition towards the South Pole.

AGAIN URGE THAT I.C.R. BE IN JURISDICTION OF THE COMMISSION

Montreal Board of Trade Send a Memorial to Canadian Senate

Montreal, March 7.—The board of trade has renewed its movement toward having the I. C. R. placed under the jurisdiction of the Canadian Railway Commission on the Canadian railway owned Canadian railways, and this time it has sent a memorial to the senate asking that they support this idea.

BURGLARS DESECRATE CATHEDRAL AT PISA

Shocking Acts of Robbers Who Broke in at Night—Must Be Consecrated Again

Pisa, via London, March 7.—Burglars succeeded in unlocking the doors of the cathedral at night and stole many valuables, including three ancient lamps and a crucifix of solid silver. They stripped the corpse of the Bishop of Ramiera of a very valuable gold robe, mitre, ring and a cross and chain. They also damaged paintings and altar pieces in an attempt to detach them from their frames and scattered the consecrated wafers on the floor.

THE MAGEE PROPERTY ON OPTION

James Stratton Gets it For Lauriston Co.—Suggested Change in Registry Plan

James Stratton of the Lauriston Co., Ltd., has secured an option on the Magee property in Water Street. The property includes the large brick building facing Water Street adjoining the ferry boats and also the property in the rear which includes the wharf running alongside the docks, the slip and the wharf on the southern side on which a brick building now occupied by J. McDevity & Sons, Ltd., is situated. This property was offered to the city several months ago at a price in the vicinity of $30,000, and it is understood that the price has gone up since then.

BEATING HIS WAY TO ST. JOHN, TAKEN BY MONSTROUS POLICE

Grimmer, Peavy, Clad, Hungry, and Shivering With Cold After Blind Baggage Ride

Moncton, N. B., March 7.—(Special)—A man poorly clad, hungry and shivering with cold was the pitiful sight witnessed at the St. John R. R. depot last evening when he was found on the blind baggage of the Maritime Express and proceeded to the dining room to get warm. Policemen Dunphy and Dryden placed him under arrest and he was taken to the police station. He said his name was Grimmer and he got on the train at Truro and intended to "beat his way" on the early morning express to St. John where he expected to get work. He lives in the states.

WANTS CANADIAN AGRICULTURE MAN STATIONED IN ROME

Ottawa, March 7.—In the senate yesterday Senator Boyer asked if the government would consider sending a delegate to Rome to represent Canada at the International Institute of Agriculture. There were 72 nations adhering to it and they sent to the Institute all their statistics on agriculture, trade and commerce. It is important that Canada should be permanently represented at Rome by a thorough scholar who had an interest in agricultural questions.

COURTENAY BAY WORK NEXT MONTH

P. R. Warren, chief engineer of Norton Griffiths & Co., who has been in the city in connection with the Courtenay Bay contract will return to Montreal this evening but expects to come here again in a week or so if the docking work to be beginning the work of the contract in April.

CALGARY HAS GOLD FEVER

Calgary, March 7.—Calgary has gone gold mad over a reported discovery of gold bearing quartz on the shores of Ghost river, about sixty miles northwest of the Alberta capital. Although, according to the best authority, there is nothing more than a bare possibility that there is gold in paying quantities in the district, the people have the "fever" in earnest. The only find reported to date was made by an old timer, Terrance Brady, who says he has found a ledge which is many miles in extent, and that the surface ore is the richest he has ever seen.

CANADA AT OLYMPIC GAMES

Toronto, Ont., March 7.—Secretary Crow of the A. U. of Canada, has been advised by Secretary Kristian Holstrom of the Olympic games that a hotel close to the stadium in Stockholm has been secured for the Canadian team, and twenty-five rooms have been set aside for them. The team will use the hotel when the track and field athletics are through, as the Olympic events will commence at the finish of the games.

CALL ON THE KING TO END THE STRIKE

London Paper Says His Majesty Seems To Be Only Hope Now

First Sign of Break, Meanwhile, is Seen in North Wales, Where Miners of Small Companies Want to Resume Negotiations—Upheaval in Industrial Life Continues

(Canadian Press) London, March 7.—The morning papers print an appeal to King George to bring the coal strike to an end. The London Express says: "Only one man, it is now evident, can bring immediate peace to the coal war and restore the state from its troubles, and that man is the king. Ministers have failed. Parliament is impotent, and the customary channels of industrial arbitration are blocked. But the king can save the situation."

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

WE were talking the other day about a young mother who takes life unusually hard, and someone harped another woman who certainly takes life easy, if anyone ever did.

"What we need in these strenuous days," said this man, "is more easy going people like Mrs. O., who'll take things as they come and not be all the time planning and fretting and worrying."

Strangely enough, Mrs. R., whom he applauded as a woman who knows how to take things easily, has a husband of the opposite temperament.

It is just one of those doctors who like to exaggerate things so that they can have more credit for curing them, she explained.

REVOLT AGAINST FREAK DANCES

England Frowns on the Turkey Trot and Other Forms of "Ballroom Hooliganism" (London, Eng., Daily Express)

The advent of the "Turkey Trot" dance has sounded the death-knell of ball-room hooliganism, for hostesses are declaring war on freak dances.

The "Turkey Trot" which was first introduced by Oscar and Sunita at the Hippodrome, seems to have few friends, for Oscar had nothing to say in its favor when interviewed by an Express representative.

Hostesses Standpoint (By Pearl Humphry) The new dances are an orgy of vulgarity and will kill dancing in England if allowed to go unchecked.

KEEP TO THE FACTS

The Montreal Gazette, as a result of reading the St. John Globe and Standard, has accumulated a copious supply of misinformation concerning civic affairs in this city. The Gazette says: "St. John, N. B., papers are criticizing a citizens' committee which was entrusted with the duty of preparing a new charter for the city, but the result of whose work the members refuse to submit to the citizens."

No one hereabouts has proposed either to destroy democracy or deprive the people of their power. They will elect the commissioners and have the power to recall any or all of them at will. It is merely proposed to reduce the city council from seventeen to five, and extend the term. The people have decided to do this, and the people are the rulers. They can change the system when they choose.

A Sign of the Times

PEOPLE are becoming very careful about what they eat and drink. The preference for goods in sealed packages—especially in food stuffs—is now quite definite and becoming more so every day. We must frankly admit that there are sound reasons for this preference. Food stuffs cannot be exposed to varying atmospheric conditions without losing both strength and flavor.

THE HOUR OF NEED. A policeman in the north-east section of Washington heard loud cries of "Police! Murder!" coming from a house on his beat and broke in. He found a man beating his wife, and he stopped the fight. The woman was the one who had been doing the screaming. "How long has this been going on?" the policeman asked them. "About half an hour," sobbed the woman, glaring at her husband. "Well, why didn't you yell before? If I had heard nothing until a minute ago."

"Oh," replied the woman, "I was getting the best of it until I began to scream." Bright emerald green velvet as soft and pliable as satin is the covering of one of the new spring parasols. The Death of Lady Goschen Has Caused General Regret

A PRETTY DEBUTANTE

Eleanor Butler's Father Will One Day be Holder of One of Oldest Peerages - News of Canadians in Europe

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, Feb. 24.—The death of Lady Goschen, the wife of Sir Edward Goschen, British ambassador at the Court of Berlin, where he succeeded Sir Francis Curzon, has made us all very sad. She was so sweet, gentle, charming and kind that to know her was to love her. She helped her husband when he was at the legations in Rio de Janeiro, Constantinople (Belin, Lisbon, Copenhagen, Antwerp, Brussels, Bern, Vienna, and everywhere made friends in the innermost circle by reason of her unostentatious kindness. She had not been strong for a long time past, and her family name of Legge was the name of the family which she had inherited from her father, but last week she succumbed at Auro, to the great regret of all her friends. Very few people seem to know that the noble English family has the right to fly the Stars and Stripes—and moreover does so on all festive occasions. The family is that of the Earl of Dartmouth, and the privilege comes about through a connection with the Washingtons; in fact there is a matrimonial relationship between an ancestor of the present Lord Dartmouth and George Washington. At the family seat, a wonderfully picturesque mansion called "Patsall," near Wolverhampton, the Stars and Stripes is often to be seen flying on the tower, and visitors frequently ask "what distinguished American have you staying here?" Lord Dartmouth is very particular, too, that the flag shall have the correct number of stars, and, as now and then occurs, a new state is added, he hastens to get the latest edition of the flag. He is, by the way, indirectly, of Italian blood, for his family name of Legge was once De Lega, that of a noble family of old Venice, famous in days gone by for their deeds of daring. In fact, many of their exploits are chronicled in the history of the Venetian Republic. Lady Dartmouth was persons graft with Queen Victoria, not an easy position to win, as you know. Her devotion to her family of five claimed the title queen-to-desist her as "an ideal mother," the greatest compliment, Her Majesty considered, that she could pay to any one.

A Pretty Debutante. One of the prettiest of this year's debutantes will be Eleanor Butler, the second daughter of Lord and Lady Arthur Butler. Her mother is a beautiful and youthful looking woman; one day will be the Marchioness of Ormonde, Lord Arthur being her younger brother. When that day arrives, Lady Arthur Butler will step into one of the oldest peerages in the United Kingdom, dating as far back as 1177, when Theobald Fitzwater accompanied Henry II into Ireland, and as a reward was made chief butler of Ireland. Every Marquis of Ormonde has been chief butler since that time, and among the treasures at Kilkenny, the chief seat in Ireland, are a wonderful collection of antique gold cups that have figured in past coronations. When the future Marchioness of Ormonde entertains royally at the castle, a curious scene will be enacted just outside her dining-room door. There is a famous service of plate always used on such occasions, made of almost unalloyed gold, and consequently so soft that to heat them in the ordinary way would be to dissolve them altogether. They are, therefore, plunged into a huge cauldron of boiling water a few minutes before they are required and fished out by tongs, the ends of which are protected by chance leather. Besides this unique possession, there are others, which Lady Arthur may make use of some day. These are some coronation robes, which have a freely done stay at three coronations, and in addition, are the only pearls robes that are embroidered. They are made of silver thread in gold and silver thread in an elaborate pattern, though the silver thread is now rather faded. Canadians in London. A prominent Canadian visitor staying in London for some time is J. Colin Forbes, an Ottawa artist, who is engaged on some ambitious enterprises in his studio in Queen's Gate Gardens. Mr. Forbes' reputation as a portrait painter is well established here and he enjoys the friendship of the foremost British academicians. In the opinion of competent critics his portrait of Gladstone—which was commissioned by the Canadian Liberals and now hangs on the walls of the National Liberal Club—reaches the zenith of faithful portraiture and it is sometimes said that he disputes with Sargeant the mantle bestowed by Whistler. This Canadian painter was frequently honored with private sittings by the late King Edward, who expressed pleasure at the execution of his work. Queen Alexandra also favored him with sittings and his canvases adorned the walls of the royal residences. Dutton Station was the scene of a pleasant gathering last Friday when Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Macdonell of Collingwood and Miss MacMaster left for Toronto, the former to take up the position of director of the Canadian Club for Ontario government. During their two years residence in London Mr. and Mrs. Macdonell have been immensely popular in Anglo-Canadian circles and at their flat in Tavistock Square frequently gave parties to their Canadian friends. J. Obed Smith, assistant superintendent of immigration, N. B. Colcock, agent general for Ontario, Edward Harris, a veteran Canadian author, and many other friends were on the platform to wish them goodbye, and their carriage was crowded with farewell gifts of flowers from appreciative friends. Mrs. Alden, wife of Professor Alden, of Upper Canada College, with her daughter, is on a visit to relations in Shropshire. Several farewell functions will be given to Lord and Lady Hyde before their departure for Canada next month. It will be two years before they return to England, which time will be spent on the island of Hydra, which has acquired in the vicinity of Toronto. They are very popular in English society, and I hear that several of their friends, Edward Harris, a veteran Canadian author, and many other friends were on the platform to wish them goodbye, and their carriage was crowded with farewell gifts of flowers from appreciative friends.

THE ROBBERY at the Tower

An Adventure of Peter Crewe—"The Man with the Camera Eye."

By Harold Carter.

(Copyright, 1911, by W. G. Chapman in the United States and Great Britain.)

After the adventure of the Box of Boron, which I have already described, and which Peter Crewe was enabled to solve by his peculiar optical powers, we struck up a warm friendship. It was arranged that we should work together in the future for the solution of any similar difficulties which might come to me in the course of my professional career. We had arranged to catch the next steamship for America, but on the day before she sailed there occurred in London a robbery of such a mysterious character that neither of us could resist the temptation to remain and lend our aid to the discovery of the criminal.

Everybody remembers how the famous Gwyn Jewels were stolen from the Tower of London. These emeralds, which had a value rather than any special intrinsic value, had been presented by Charles II. to his famous favorite, and were preserved in a small chamber in the Tower, where were stored miscellaneous treasures of secondary importance not usually placed on public exhibition. They were kept in an isolated building, a round turret which ran straight up to a height of seventy feet, and was absolutely inaccessible from the outside, the brick walls affording not the slightest foothold. In fact there was no direct access to this tower at all since it was connected with the main building by a series of passageways, intricate, and entirely unapproachable except from the central building, 200 yards away, which was guarded by a file of soldiers. This turret had a small barred window overlooking the road, 90 feet up. It was too high for any thief to throw up a grappling hook; in short nothing but a fireman's ladder could have gained access to it from the outside. Yet in spite of this the emerald was entered from the outside, a bar was removed from the mortar setting, and the thief gained entrance, and calmly descended, unobserved. The robbery was not discovered until the following day, by which time the perpetrator of the crime had got safely away.

The daring nature of the crime excited all London. It was certain that no ladder had been used to gain admittance. While the tower was unguarded, persons were continually passing and repassing the emerald, and any such device would have been speedily detected, the more so inasmuch as any ladder placed against the wall would have been set at such an angle that it would have blocked the sidewalk underneath.

On the third day after the robbery the emeralds were discovered in the pawnshop of a notorious "fence" in Whitechapel region. They had been left there by an Italian, the man confessed, when threatened with prosecution. Neighbors of the pawnbroker confirmed this statement. An itinerant organ grinder, accompanied by a monkey, had been seen to enter the pawnshop on the day after the robbery. His monkey seemed to be sick, and the fencer used to wrap it in blankets and lay it listlessly on the top of the organ. It was an extremely large animal and those who saw it had received the impression that it could be seen, since it was swathed from head to foot.

Other witnesses confirmed this statement. It was, furthermore, known that an Italian organ-grinder had been seen in the vicinity of the tower for several days before the robbery. Although he had chosen the worst place for the plying of his trade, and had taken in practically nothing, he had cheerfully ground out his tunes day after day at the base of the turret. His monkey, however, lay on the top of the organ, just as the other witnesses had described, and never stirred a muscle. Some children, who had tried to pet it, were angrily "shooed" away by the organ-grinder, who asserted that the animal was sick.

That was all that could be learned. All the itinerant organ-grinders in London were promptly investigated by the police, but no man with such an animal was found. Although the jewels had been recovered, fear of other daring robberies of a similar kind impelled the authorities to prosecute their search in the most vigorous manner.

The first thing to do," said Crewe to me, when we had agreed to do our best to unravel the mystery, "is to look at the turret."

We went thither accordingly and found a curious crowd standing in a solid phalanx at the base of the tower, gazing up at the brick wall while a couple of policemen stolidly moved them on whenever their numbers became too great for street traffic to pass. It seemed impossible that anyone could have scaled those walls without a ladder.

"Do you suppose the man sent his monkey up?" I inquired.

Crewe smiled and shook his head. "A monkey might possibly be able to find a foothold in the brick wall," he said. "But how could it have seen out the iron bar? Apart from this, no monkey could be trained to bring down any article its trainer wished. No, Langton, ingenious as your theory is, we must dismiss it from the realms of possibility."

The sun was shining—a rare thing in London—and Crewe, having carefully inspected the base of the walls, now fell back to some distance and proceeded to take them in as a whole. He fixed both eyes unflinchingly upon the tower, so that every detail should impress itself upon either retina.

"And now," said Crewe, "we will take our photograph from the other side." And we moved round, and once again he focused his eyes upon the brick work.

"That's all," he said, as the sun went behind a cloud. "I think the discovery will not prove so difficult as it appears."

"Indeed!" said one of the policemen on duty, who overheard this remark. "May I ask, sir, if you can furnish any clue?"

"Well, the governor of the tower," said Crewe, smiling, "that the robbery was not committed by an Italian at all, but by a South American, whom you people would doubtless confuse with Italians, seeing that there are not more than half a dozen in England."

"A South American!" repeated the other policeman stolidly. "And doubtless, sir, his monkey was also a South American," he continued, with clumsy sarcasm.

"You are quite right," said Crewe calmly. "His monkey was not a monkey, but it certainly was a South American."

"And you get all this from his speering the brick walls, sir?" the policeman asked.

"Every bit," said Crewe.

"You don't happen to know more about this affair than you have told us, sir?" said the policeman.

I pulled Crewe away. "If you awaken suspicion in the minds of these officials, they will arrest you on suspicion," I whispered.

We moved off, the policeman following us with suspicious glances. It was not until we were upon the outskirts of the crowd that I breathed freely. "Crewe," I said, "it does not do to prod the British policeman. Now tell me, were you serious in what you said about the South American and his monkey?"

"A few moments," said Crewe, "I was never more serious." "But I said that it was not a monkey. Tell me, Langton, what you saw on the tower?"

"I saw a series of well-fitted bricks," I answered, "offering good foothold for a fly and possibly for a small monkey, but certainly not for a man."

"But what did you see on the bricks in the shape of markings?"

"A few mosses, which some scientist might label and classify."

"Tush!" said Crewe petulantly. "This is what I saw." He stopped, produced a pencil and a piece of paper from his pocket, and began to trace a series of three-pointed marks like hen's tracks.

"There was a well-ordered series of these," said Crewe, "commencing upon the nineteenth layer of bricks from the bottom, and thence running, with a slightly oblique movement, clear up to the window." He closed his eyes. "I am looking at them now," he continued. "At intervals corresponding, roughly, to every four of these tracks, there are slight but well-defined depressions in the surface having the rough outline of a shoe. Fragments of brick have crumbled here and there under the pressure of hoists. In other words, Langton, our South American friend did ascend that turret, walking up its surface as a fly might walk. What is the inference?"

"That he threw a rope up over the bars and climbed, pulling himself up hand over hand. Therefore he is a sailor," I said with a sudden light.

Crewe looked at me in great amusement.

"My dear Sherlock Holmes, you are quite wrong," he answered. "I am ingenious, but speculative. We are dealing in exactitudes and there is no possible evidence to show that the man threw up a rope or is a sailor."

At the juncture a newspaper came past yelling a special edition of an evening newspaper. "Murder at Notting Hill! Murder at Notting Hill! Full description of scenes of horror," the vendor called. Crewe stopped to purchase a copy, unfolded the damp sheet and read from under a staring headline:

"A dastardly murder was committed in the early hours of this morning at Notting Hill. The residence of Mr. Walter Deans, a retired tradesman, was entered, and valuables to the amount of more than a thousand pounds were taken, and the owner was shot down while endeavoring, as is supposed, to defend his home. The body of Mr. Deans was discovered by his servants about eleven o'clock lying across the fireplace in his bedroom, which was in confusion, as though it had been minutely ransacked. No clue has yet been discovered as to the identity of the murderer, although a foreign-looking man was seen lurking in the vicinity recently. Mr. Deans' house stands alone in extensive grounds; it is a perfectly plain brick structure, the walls being of a reddish color. The entrance through the window of the third story, in which is Mr. Deans' bedroom, though how he contrived to effect an entrance without foothold remains for the present a mystery."

"I suspected as much," said Crewe. "The fellow is no emerald-broker, but a robber, and he is caught a series of crimes will follow. We must get him this afternoon."

"You think it was the same man?"

"Undoubtedly," said Crewe. "But to make sure, let us take the train for Notting Hill immediately."

"And you get all this from his speering the brick walls, sir?" a half later. The grounds were packed with an immense throng, whom the police were ineffectually endeavoring to disperse. Crewe stopped and focused his eyes upon the building.

"What's your business here?" demanded a policeman roughly. "Move on, there!"

Crewe turned abruptly and left the grounds. "The same tracks?" he muttered. "Now, Langton, we must catch this fellow tonight."

"Will you not tell me the significance of the markings?" I asked.

"No, no, Langton. I want to bend every effort to apprehending the murderer. Luckily this will not be difficult. Since the police imagine him to be an Italian, he will have no incentive to disguise his true nationality. You know the Spanish quarter?"

"Bloomsbury," I said.

"We shall find him there. These people would rather die than live outside their own neighborhoods. Watch for a man with a sack."

"A sack?" I queried.

"Yes," said Crewe impatiently. "He will not dare to maintain the organ-grinder's trade; nor will he venture to leave the creature in his room. We must search the streets until we find him."

At Tottenham Court Road we took an omnibus and, seated upon the roof, observed the streets narrowly. Nothing escaped Crewe's observant eyes. When he had passed through the Bloomsbury district, he descended, Crewe halted a hansom, and for an hour or more we drove slowly up and down the squalid thoroughfares, Crewe's eyes registering every human being among the moving mass of pedestrians. Suddenly he signaled to the driver and leaped out.

"Follow that man!" he exclaimed. In front of us, some two hundred yards' distance, a swarthy fellow of Spanish or Italian origin was strolling leisurely through the streets. He was attired in the corduroys and overalls of a working man and had a small sack slung over one shoulder.

"We must not let him escape," Crewe muttered. It was growing dark and we hastened our footsteps until we were almost abreast of him. Then we followed him, now on this side of the road, now upon that, while he pursued his course through Bloomsbury, into Seven Dials, thence through Covent Garden and along the waste of half-erected buildings on Kingsway, the new County Council thoroughfare. At a signal from Crewe we fell back a little.

"How do you know that is the man?" I questioned hurriedly.

"He bears the mark of the beast," Crewe returned.

"The beast?"

"Look at his collar."

I crept up more closely and suddenly perceived, upon the cheap corduroy collar that the man wore, the identical hen-track—three finger marks, clearly outlined—that Crewe had drawn upon the paper. A sudden sense of horror almost overcame me. I fell back again and waited for Crewe to join me.

"What are you going to do?" I whispered.

"Seize him—an opportune moment."

It was night now, and the thoroughfares which were not yet installed with street lamps, so dark that we could discern our man only as a shadow moving among shadows. He stopped before the flank of a new building from little cells in whose walls lights gleamed fitfully. I knew it to be one of the County Council structures for the housing of poor persons, but could not imagine for what purpose the robber intended breaking in.

He hesitated a moment, then moved round toward the end of the block. And suddenly, I was enlightened. As though emerging out of a dark tunnel, I saw before me the splendid new Wesleyan hotel, fronting upon the Strand. Now the robber's purpose was made clear. If he could reach that blank wall of lodging house for fifty feet, and more—like a fly, he could climb that apparently impassable structure, he could gain the main back court of the hotel and have each tier of rooms at his mercy, while the occupants were dining or enjoying themselves at some place of entertainment. It was a daring conception, for the enclosed courtyard, dominated by a very brick wall, was entered by a single door, and the door was hung limp and loose and lifeless, its one free arm dangling, the other pinned by the rope to the neck, the forearm waving weakly around the head. Nothing that we could have done could have saved him. Twenty feet at least above our heads that dreadful drama was enacted in the air.

"He has but anticipated his fate," said Crewe. "Poor devil! His ingenuity undid him. Let us go, Langton; there is no purpose to be served by our remaining here."

On the following morning all London was agape over the latest mystery. A policeman, according to the account, had found the body of a man suspended from an upper window of a tenement house by a rope of prodigious length. He had cut him down, but the suicide had evidently been dead for several hours. The rope was ingeniously knotted around the window bars; yet it had not been fastened from within, the window being bolted and the room having been unoccupied for more than a week previously.

Another item in the same newspaper passed without notice; yet the two were indubitably connected. "Early this morning," it ran, "while going to work, John Jarvis, a plumber, noticed a strange beast in the Strand. It was suspended from a window sill, and at first seemed to be dead, but was subsequently found to be sleeping. The beast was noosed and taken to the police station, where it was discovered, after some investigation, to be a harmless sloth of the armadillo type. Its final destination will probably be the Zoological Gardens."

Crewe looked up at me.

"The greatest mystery," he said, "is how the creature contrived to knot

He was hauling himself up the wall.

the rope round the window bars so that it held up the body of the burglar after it had departed upon its nocturnal prowling in search of food."

"Crewe," I said, "you have not explained anything of the mystery to me as yet. Do not know how the burglar entered the tower, nor how you knew him to be a South American, nor the meaning of the hen-tracks?"

Crewe started. "My dear Langton, forgive me," he pleaded. "I will do so at once. Do you know anything about the habits of the sloth?"

"I never heard of such an animal before today," I answered.

"Just so," Crewe answered, smiling. "Now if you, an educated American, know nothing of this animal, it is safe to say that nobody else does, except here and there, some naturalist. It is not reasonable, therefore, to assume that the man who owned it was intimately acquainted with it—in other words that he was a denizen of South America, the continent in which the sloth has its habitat. And if that deduction were not logical enough, we have the testimony of the pawnbroker and his neighbors to the effect that the man was an Italian—the generic term in England for all southerners of swarthy complexion."

"Yes," I said, "granted the sloth, will admit that its owner was probably a South American. But what gave you the idea of its being a sloth, and how does it come into the story?"

"Why," said Crewe, "I saw its marks upon the brick work of the tower, and also at Notting Hill. The sloth has only three toes, and its marks are as much like hen-tracks as anything in the world. You have undoubtedly seen a sloth's feet at the Zoological Gardens when you were a boy."

"Undoubtedly," but they have entirely escaped my recollection.

"That is the difference between us," said Crewe, smiling. "But to continue, the sloth has acquired the remarkable habit of hanging by its toes from the branches of trees. With its head down, its heavy body suspended by its slender paws, it sleeps happily all through the day, awakening only at night, when it pursues its insect prey. When suspended in this manner nothing can dislodge it; in fact, the animal is able to defy the laws of gravitation. A weight of a ton, affixed to its body, would not pull it downward or disturb it in its scintillating slumber. On the other hand, by unclipping the paws and pulling upward, the sloth can be easily and effortlessly removed from its resting place. And so our organ-grinder had a sloth in place of a monkey. The plan of displaying it in the streets 'fencey' under the guise of a sick monkey, was a brilliant conception, and shows us that our criminal was a man of a high degree of mentality."

"The rest of the picture, Langton, you can fill in for yourself. Having discovered the most convenient hour for his enterprise, the burglar attached a long rope around the creature, coiling the other end around his body and places it upon the wall. Our sloth, feeling the smooth surface beneath him, and being unable to sleep perceptibly, conceives the idea that he is upon the stem of a peculiarly high and smooth palm tree, at whose summit he may hope to find a comfortable branch from which it is his delight to feed. He ascends as long as the rope holds out. When he reaches the level of the window, his master maneuvers him against the bars, feeling which, and imagining them to be branches, the sloth promptly fastens himself by the feet, lets his head fall, and passes into a delicious slumber."

"We now have our sloth firmly affixed to the bars. No weight, pulling from below, can dislodge him. In other words, the burglar has anchored his rope outside the window of the room to which he desires to gain admittance. Now, aided by darkness of one of these perpetual London fogs, he ascends the rope, bracing himself against the brick walls, reaches his destination, effects his haul, and then descends in the same way, afterward pulling down the animal, probably through some slip-knot arrangement. It was a most ingenious contrivance, Langton, and if our robber had not wrongly adjusted his rope, so that it slipped round his throat and strangled him, he might have scrambled up out of reach and managed to elude us."

"YES, I'M A GREAT AUTHOR"

Reads, Bazaar and Sues Puffed Their Own Works as Being Fine Literature.

Authors in the "good old days" were not above writing their own puff, a writer in the Bohemian says, Charles Reade wrote a long article on himself for Once a Week, in which he said: "It is impossible to speak too highly of 'The Cloister and the Hearth.' It is one of the most scholarly and learned as well as one of the most artistic and beautiful works of fiction in any language. Read him. Rest your eyes on the magic spell of his genius. 'The effect of 'Foul Play' is perfectly marvelous. It leaves the stories of every other sensational writer far behind."

Nor was Balzac in France above prating his own works. "If you have not been born a story teller," he wrote in a review, "you will never obtain the popularity of M. de Balzac. And what a story teller! What nerve and wit! How the world is disabed by this man! What passion and coolness!"

But the height of literary advertisement in the first half of the last century was reached in the case of Eugene Sue's famous novel, "The Wandering Jew." Every little while the daily installment in the newspaper in which it was appearing would be missing, and in its place would be an announcement that M. Sue was suffering from a slight indisposition and readers would be obliged to wait 48 hours for new developments of the narrative. "And all the while Sue himself was industriously abetting the publishers by posing overdressed and

POPE WILL NOT LEAVE ROME

Paris Paper Says it is Fully to Believe His Holiness Will Move to Lourdes.

Appropos of the celebrations attending the fiftieth anniversary of Italian independence there is again, it is said, some talk that Pope Pius X. may leave Rome and install himself at Lourdes, the most pronounced Catholic community, perhaps, in France.

Commenting on this, Le Cri de Paris says that it is fully to believe that his holiness has ever seriously entertained the project of quitting the Eternal City, and still less of that establishing himself upon the territory of the French republic. "The only time," says Le Cri, "that the papacy thought to come to French soil as in the days of the popes at Avignon was immediately following the occupation of Rome by the Italians. After the election of October 2, 1870, which assured the union of Rome with united Italy, Pius IX. thought he could no longer remain in his ancient capital. Vincent, then the physician of the papal hospital, suggested to the pope that he install himself in Corsica, a country of the Italian tongue, and well placed to permit his holiness to observe the Catholic agitation in the peninsula. This project pleased the pope greatly and he entered into negotiations with the French government. Monsieur Thiers declared himself favorable to the project, but Cardinal Antonelli opposed it and had sufficient influence with Pius IX. to have him resolve to remain a prisoner of the Vatican. After this Bismarck offered Pius IX. an asylum at Cologne, and still later the pope's household formed the project of installing him in the Azores."

Masons of Chicago started a Bible on a long journey in the fall of 1909. It is to be kept for a time in the possession of at least one lodge in every principal city of the country and ultimately returned to its starting point, to be placed among the precious archives of the Chicago Masons. It is expected that twenty-five years will be required for the Bible to complete its passage from lodge to lodge until all the blank pages provided for the record of its custodians shall have been filled. The traveling Bible which had the Bible recently sent a special train to Springfield in that state to convey the traveling Bible to a lodge there, where it was received with impressive ceremonies.

ONE DEAD AND ONE DYING

Montreal, March 6.—One man is dead and a second lies at the General Hospital fatally injured as the result of an explosion of dynamite on the Cote St. Michel road near Rosemount. The two men were laying drains in a ditch beside the road and had prepared a number of holes to receive the blasts. All the holes were charged with one, and the men were tramping down the last blast when it suddenly exploded. Both men were leaning over the ditch when the disaster occurred. Joseph Yaino, the foreman, son of the junior member of the firm of Pissard & Valin, for which the men were working, was practically torn to pieces and expired on his way to the hospital. Adrien Molleur, his companion, was so terribly mangled that he cannot recover.

WILL VOTE ON TREATIES TODAY

Washington, March 6.—The senate will begin voting on the arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France at 4.30 p. m. tomorrow, under an agreement reached late today.

The first vote will be on foreign relations committee's amendment to strike out of the treaties clause 3 of article 3, on which the opposition has been centered, on the ground that it delegates the treaty-making power to the proposed joint high commission of inquiry, and that the commission's acts would be binding on the senate.

GOVERNMENT BENCHES GET GREAT RAKING

Tory Game of Double Dealing Further Exposed in House

A STIRRING SPEECH

Hon. Mr. Lemieux Makes Things Uncomfortable for Postmaster-General—Fair Play Asked For Maritime Provinces—Conference on Representation

Ottawa, March 6.—Parliamentary corridors are buzzing tonight with speculation. It is taken for granted that material concessions have been made to the Nationalist leader, not alone in the matter of the navy, but also in relation to the Manitoba school question.

It is now evident that in the latter matter satisfaction is to be accorded the minority through representations to Premier Roblin. It is not, of course, the process promised by Quebec, which was the election by Hon. Messrs. Pelletier and Monk, nor is it the method stipulated by Mr. Bourassa, but it is hoped it will enable the government to escape responsibility.

It is significant that Premier Borden closed the debate by calling attention to the numerical strength of the Roman Catholics in Manitoba and practically inviting them to see Mr. Roblin, and to the consequence the Nationalist vote, with the exception of five members, joined the government in voting through the second reading of the boundary bill. It passed the house by a vote of 114 to 76, a government majority of 38. Messrs. Manly and O'Brien, who were opposed to the bill, were defeated by a vote of 114 to 76. Mr. Lemieux said, "one can hear the crumbling of the pillars of the coalition."

The Liberals have had nothing to explain and nothing to apologize for. Mr. Lemieux has stood squarely on his record, and the tactics employed at the last election to defeat him on racial and religious grounds have been made out by his enemies.

Buy PURITY—the high-class flour and do your duty to your cooking-ability

WITHOUT a high-class flour like PURITY you cannot do your duty to your cooking-ability.

A cheaper, weaker, ordinary flour cramps and puts a limit on your efficiency.

On the other hand, PURITY FLOUR broadens your scope; provides you with unlimited opportunities to do ample justice to the cooking-ability of which you are so rightly proud.

PURITY FLOUR responds nobly to the skill of the cook. It yields the daintiest and most delicate cakes. And pies, so creamy, so delicious, your friends will vote you a wonder.

And the reason is not hard to discover. PURITY FLOUR consists exclusively of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat berries.

Unlike ordinary flour, PURITY FLOUR contains no low-grade portions, nor is it weakened by mixing soft wheat flour with it.

PURITY FLOUR will cost you slightly more, because it costs us more to make. But it's worth the difference.

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Maids: Your thin, straggly hair can be made to come in thick and fluffy, if you avoid alkali shampoos. The most beneficial thing for cleansing scalp and hair is plain castile soap, a teaspoonful of which dissolved in a cup of hot water is enough for a delightful shampoo. You will find castile soap removes every atom of dust and dandruff, and after rinsing the hair will dry quickly and is easily managed. Use castile soap occasionally and your hair will retain its original tint and loveliness.

Puritan: You are right. Kardon is a remedy of grandmother's days, and is considered the best thing known as a blood-cleanser and body-builder. This old-fashioned tonic is made by dissolving a half-cupful sugar in one-half pint alcohol, to which is added one ounce 'hardens and enough hot water to make a full quart. The dose is a tablespoonful before meals. A treatment with this tonic will quickly rid the system of impurities, restore your health and appetite and build you up.

Dot: You cannot change the color of your eyes, but you can make them bright and sparkling by using a simple eye-tonic, made by dissolving an ounce of crystals in a pint of cold water. Two or three drops of this should be put in each eye daily. The crystals eye-tonic is splendid for sore, aching or tired eyes and granulated lids, and its use frequently does away with the necessity of wearing glasses.

Mrs. Ben: (1) It is gratifying to know that the kurdonic tonic has done so much for you. (2) Stop using powder and try this simple lotion for the skin and I am sure you will be delighted. In a half-pint hot water dissolve four ounces spermax, then add two teaspoonfuls glycerine. When this is cool apply sparingly to the face, neck and arms, rubbing lightly until dry. This spermax lotion is splendid for freckles and rough, oily skins, and using it removes all impurities. You will find the spermax lotion lends a charm and softness to the complexion and is superior to powder, while it is invisible when on.

Lenore: Don't worry. You can quickly regain your normal weight and symmetry.

My: Your mother is right. Powders and cosmetics very often cause blackheads and other skin eruptions and cause the skin to grow coarse and flabby. A thoroughly dependable cream-jelly for correcting complexion faults can be made at little cost by stirring two teaspoonfuls glycerine into a half-pint cold water, then adding one ounce aloejuice. Let remain until thoroughly dissolved, then apply freely to the face, neck and arms after removing the dust and grime. Massage this in well, and the skin will be soft and velvety. The daily use of this aloejuice cream-jelly frees the skin of all impurities and lends a charming tint and youthfulness to the complexion.

Grace: You need have no fear about hairs returning after using the delatone paste. Any drugstore can supply powdered delatone, and to remove hairs from face or neck, make a paste with a little delatone and water. Apply this to offending hairs and in two or three minutes scrape off and wash the skin. This removes every trace of hair and leaves the skin white and firm. You will have to pay a dollar an ounce for the delatone, and it is worth it.

Rebellious Son of Millionaire Demands Right to Share of Fortune

Berlin, March 7.—Herr August Thyssen, a multi-millionaire steel and iron magnate, known as "King" Thyssen because of his enormous industrial and financial power, is engaged in an amusing controversy with his eldest son over the settlement of the latter's debts, aggregating $3,000,000.

The son, who is now serving a sentence in the fortress of Magdeburg for duelling, was declared a bankrupt a year ago, his liabilities consisting principally of loans incurred in the course of his life in Berlin. Herr Thyssen notified his son's creditors that he would pay all legitimate claims if his son would renounce his right to any further inheritance and declare himself satisfied with an annual allowance of $50,000.

The young man has scornfully rejected the proposal. In a letter published he says:

"What should I do with an income of $50,000? For personal requirements I do not need more than $5,000. But that I should renounce my rights as heir to my father and my mother—that is something you cannot expect of me. The size of my share has been very variously estimated, but no expert denies that it is less than $18,750,000.

"Please pay all my creditors, not only those you consider legitimate, but all those which the courts found correct. Then I will give up my rights under the arrangement you have already made, but you must in return guarantee me my legal share of my fortune. Every shilling you pay my creditors shall be deducted from my inheritance."

The refusal of young Thyssen to negotiate with his father, whose fortune is somewhere between $45,000,000 and $50,000,000, is due to the fact that his credit is still unimpaired. A number of people have offered to lend him anything he wants up to a million or two.

CHAMPAGNE TROUBLE THREATENING AGAIN

Paris, March 7.—Reports from the Champagne district show that the agitation which last year culminated in serious rioting is reappearing under a different form. Last year the laborers and peasant proprietors were united in the defence of the only wine that has a right to the name of champagne. Now, however, the proprietors are satisfied. Thanks to the delimitation law and the regulations to prevent fraud they have been able to sell their vintage at a profitable price, but now the laborer, who in the past suffered like the proprietors from bad years and unfair competition, demands that he shall share in this profit.

Workers' syndicates have been formed throughout the Marne Valley with a view to obtaining higher wages, and the masters have replied by forming local defence associations. Willful damage has already been done to the vines of some members of the defence associations, and an agrarian strike seems to be impending. At Hautvillers and Cumières the proprietors have consented to raise the laborer's daily wage from ninety cents, but it is doubtful whether, in other communes where the vines are less valuable, the proprietors will be ready to give way.

Hon. Josiah Wood Reads First as Governor of Province—Valley and Minto Railways—
The Matter of Immigration

Fredericton, N. B., March 7.—The speech from the throne, read by His Honor Lieutenant Governor Wood at the opening of the New Brunswick legislature this afternoon was as follows:—

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

Having entered upon the trust reposed in me as the representative of His Most Gracious Majesty in this province, it affords me great pleasure to welcome you upon your again convening for the discharge of your legislative duties. I assure you it will be my earnest endeavor to discharge my duties, while I have the honor of holding this high office, faithfully and impartially and animated solely by a desire to promote the best interests of my native province.

In June last the coronation of Their Gracious Majesties, King George and Queen Mary, took place in Westminster Abbey. It was a most imposing occasion, solemn and impressive, and witnessed by representatives from nearly all foreign countries, as well as representatives from the different portions of Their Majesties' world-wide empire. The carrying out of the entire programme in connection with the coronation was such as to excite on the part of representatives and visitors from foreign lands respect and admiration, and brought forth the strongest demonstration of love and affection from the multitude gathered from every part of Their Majesties' dominions. New Brunswick was fittingly represented.

In common with all portions of the empire we rejoice upon the safe return of Their Majesties from India and in the successful consummation of the important events carried out during the visit of the king and queen among their Indian subjects. The manifestations of loyalty and attachment so constantly in evidence, was most reassuring.

Throughout the province there is a feeling of keen satisfaction that His Majesty has been pleased to designate a member of the royal family in the person of His Royal Highness, The Duke of Cornwall, to preside over the destinies of Canada as governor-general.

During the past year the people of the province have enjoyed prosperous business conditions. Providence blessed the efforts of our agriculturists and a bountiful harvest resulted. Satisfactory and remunerative prices have prevailed for farm products, the conditions of the contract for wheat in agricultural pursuits continue to increase. New agricultural societies are being formed, and the province is becoming more and more self-sufficient. Agricultural exhibitions, pony shows, etc., are increasing in number, and extending their sphere of usefulness. The work of the poultry expert appointed by my government has been attended with satisfactory results.

In November last the Fruit Growers' Association of the province, in conjunction with the department of agriculture, held their second annual fruit exhibition at St. John. The exhibition was large, the number of exhibitors being satisfactory, while the exhibits for excellence could hardly be excelled. Through the efforts of the agricultural department, the Fruit Growers' Association, and successful orchardists, it has been demonstrated that we have a large area of lands suitable for the production of the finest quality of apples, and within a few years New Brunswick should become a large exporter of fruit, particularly of apples. Last year the department of agriculture, through the horticulturist, cared for old orchards in three different sections of the province, demonstrating the good results which follow proper pruning, spraying and caring for the old orchard and also showing the advantage of proper packing. The result of these demonstrations will appear in the report of the horticulturist for the year.

During the past year my government has had correspondence with the premiers of several of the provinces with a view of having an early conference of agrarian premiers to endeavor, if possible, to reach an agreement in regard to the representation of the maritime provinces in the federal parliament. As a result of the conference taken last year, when redistribution of seats placed the three maritime provinces will again have their representation cut down. My government will earnestly strive to secure an arrangement whereby this diminution may be avoided and the maritime provinces saved the loss of representation and influence by decrease of representation.

I am pleased to inform you that during the past year my government carried on negotiations with a view of entering into a contract for the construction of a railway line of railway to the extent of a million dollars in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 6 of the Acts of the Legislature of the year 1910. The contract for construction was executed between my government and the Saint John and Fredericton Railway Company on December 12th last. Survey work has been carried on by the company since that time and construction will begin at once in the spring as conditions will admit. The contract calls for the completion of the portion of the line from Gagetown to Cap-town prior to November 1913, and for the completion of the entire line before November 1915.

An agreement to lease and operate the railway when constructed has been entered into between the federal government, my government and the constructing company. The terms of the agreement will be found in accordance with the provisions of the act authorizing the same.

The agreement to lease also contains an obligation on the part of the federal government to guarantee bonds for the construction of three large bridges upon the line of railway to the extent of a million dollars and contains a further provision that the whole of the forty per cent. of the cost of the railway, the federal government thus contributing the interest upon the bonds during that period of fifteen years.

A bill to amend Chapter 6 of the acts of the legislature, 1910, and ratifying the contract will be submitted for your consideration. While the construction of the railway will give a great impetus to the development of a large portion of the province, the conditions of the contract will impose an onerous burden upon the people.

The work of immigration has been successfully prosecuted during the past year, the number of people who have settled in the province being larger than the previous year. Attention in Great Britain is being directed to eastern Canada to a great extent by the former and my government is hopeful that within a short time arrangements will be completed with the federal government which will insure a still greater prominence of the maritime province in immigration work carried on by the federal government throughout the Great Britain. The attention of people in other provinces of Canada and elsewhere is being directed to New Brunswick where there seems the promise of great development in the immediate future. My government is prepared to do everything possible to satisfactorily and successfully locate settlers within the province. Nothing will be of such lasting benefit as to get more people upon the land, thus increasing the wealth and productiveness of our province.

In order to promote the re-creation and settlement of abandoned and non-producing lands will be presented for your consideration.

Arrangements have been completed which will insure the early construction of a railway from the coal fields at Minto to Gibson. The draft agreements for the construction of the railway between the government of the province and the Fredericton and Grand Lake Railway Company, and the agreement to lease and to operate the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and the agreement for the operation of the New Brunswick Coal & Railway by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, have been prepared, and the terms agreed to, and the documents will be executed soon.

A bill amending the act providing aid for the construction of this railway will be presented to you for consideration. Many sections of the province will be benefited by the construction of this railway, as it will insure a supply of good coal at

Woman Came Upon Him And he Killed Her, Then Dropped and Shopkeeper—Traced Through Newspaper Advertisement

Berlin, March 7.—The perpetrator of the murder of a jeweler named Schultz and his wife and daughter, a crime that horrified all Germany, has at last been discovered and he has owned his guilt. The crime was committed on January 16.

The way in which the murderer was finally detected, after eluding the police so long, is as curious as a Sherlock Holmes story. A Dresden pawnbroker saw an advertisement in a newspaper published at Zittau, a small town in Saxony, offering old jewelry for sale. He wrote in the ordinary way of business, but his suspicions were aroused by the extreme caution displayed in the reply he received, and he communicated with the police, who traced the advertiser.

The man proved to be one Oswald Tremler, a young locksmith. The police arrested him, but he persisted in a denial of the crime. The Berlin commissioner of police, however, was too clever for him, for, while examining him he suddenly asked:—

"What did you do with the bank book?"

Caught unawares in the trap, Tremler replied: "I burned it." He immediately realized that he had ruined his case, and he made a full confession. He is a consumptive. He left his home near Zittau, to go to Goritz to have his lungs examined. While in the train a man advised him to go to the Charité, a great hospital in Berlin, and Tremler, knowing he had not enough money decided to steal.

When previously in Berlin he had bought a watch and chain from Schultz's shop and decided to steal a few articles when it was empty and began to take a from there. He walked into the shop

REPORT ON SCHOOLS OF ONTARIO SUBMITTED

Toronto, Ont., March 7.—(Canadian Press)—The long awaited report of Dr. F. W. Merchant on the English-French schools of Ontario was tabled in the legislature yesterday by the Hon. Dr. Payne master of education. The report covers the bilingual schools in Essex, Kent, Russell, Prescott, Stormont, and Glengarry, the unorganized districts of Northern Ontario and the city of Ottawa.

In all, 209 schools, with a total of 638 teachers, were visited by Doctor Merchant. These schools had a total enrollment of 20,042 pupils, 1833 being French. Only seventy-six schools were left unvisited, three-quarters of them being in the unorganized districts and difficult of access. Dr. Merchant's reports show that in the junior grades, the instruction in a large majority of the schools is given either entirely in French or both French and English. It shows that English more than holds its own as the language of instruction in the senior grades.

The tabulated statements make it clear that the efficiency of the bilingual schools is considerably below that of the average for the province.

Mr. Robert McLarnon, Shawville, Que., writes:—"I am writing to tell you an experience I had with a bad cold and a bottle of your valuable medicine. I was up in the lumber camps teaming horses, and I caught a very bad cold. I thought it was going to turn into consumption, for my left lung got very sore and my heart did not feel any too good. I came home and tried some different remedies but they did me no good. A friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I tried it, and when I had taken two bottles my cold was gone. I think it is a great remedy, and will advise any one with a cold to use it. I can't praise it enough."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, which combined with Wild Cherry bark and other powerful remedies, makes it one of the greatest known preparations for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents. Manufactured only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE FAIRIES

Do you wonder where the fairies are; that folk declare have vanished? They're very near, yet very far, but neither dead nor banished. They live in the same green world today, as in bygone ages olden. And you enter by the ancient way thro' the Ivory Gate and Golden.

'Tis the land of dream! Oh, fair and bright that land of many a rover, But the heart must be pure and the conscience light, that would cross its threshold o'er.

The worldly man for his joys may yearn, when pride and passion smitten, But never for him do the hinges turn of the Ivory Gate and Golden.

While the innocent child with eyes undimmed, as the sky in its blueness o'er him, Had only to touch the portal's rim, and it opens wide before him, Some night when the sun in darkness dips, we'll seek the Dreamland older, And you shall touch with your finger tips, the Ivory Gate and Golden. And you shall touch with your finger tips the Ivory Gate and Golden.

SPORT NEWS OF A DAY; HOME AND ABROAD

The Turf On Moosepath. Some excellent racing was witnessed by those who attended the races of the St. John Matinees Driving Club at Moosepath yesterday afternoon. Three races were held—Class A, Class B, trotting and a free-for-all. The first race was won by Clayton Jr., driven by Thomas Hayes, the second by Larry, owned by Mr. Wood, and the third by Lina B., owned by Mr. Broad. The last race was particularly all-contested as it took four heats to decide it. Ray Wilkes was a favorite but threw a shoe in the last heat and finished second. The attendance was good. The summary:

- Class A—Pacing. Buster H. Geo. Stephenson 3 3 3, Forrest W. W. A. Coleman 1 2 2, Clayton Jr. Thos. Hayes 2 1 1. Class B—Trot. Shipper, H. Short 4 4 4, Nellie B. H. Bond 3 4 4, Masal M. J. McCarty 2 2 2, Larry, Wm. Wood 1 1 1. Free-For-All. Pearl Barrymore, Wm. Mc-Donald 1 2 3, Lina B. W. Broad 1 3 2 1, Ray Wilkes, Wm. Brickley 3 2 1 2. Time—1:10, 1:16, 1:14, 1:18.

Saturday's Races. The St. John Matinees Driving Club announce that they have four entries of horses from Fredericton, one for each of the classes starting on Saturday. The horses will arrive on Friday evening and will take part in the races on Saturday, and it is expected that this will be the climax of the winter racing. The club also announce that suitable prizes will be given for each class. They also wish to extend a vote of thanks to H. Horton & Sons for a donation of the suit for the horse winning "The Free for All."

Bowling A High Score. In the Commercial Bowling League game on Black's alleys last night the Brock & Peterson team took four points from the M. R. A. Ltd team 173 to 126. Maloney 1-3 for the winners with an average of 23 and Morrissey for the losers with 17.3. The monthly tournament of the St. John Bowling Club will be held tonight.

Hockey Wanderers Victors. The Wanderers defeated the Ottawas team five to two in their game in Montreal last night. Quebec team are now champions of the National Hockey League and will play off for the Stanley Cup.

Baseball Anson Offered a Place. Chicago, March 7.—President John T. Powers of the Columbian Baseball League announces that Adria G. Anson former leader of the Chicago Nationals has been offered the leadership of the Pittsburgh team in the Columbian league.

The Ring One For Sailor Burke. Brooklyn, March 6.—The main event of 10 rounds last night at the Royale A. C. between Sailor Burke and Larry English after starting off as though it was going to be only a friendly sparring exhibition resulted in a hard slam bang affair. Burke charged the victor by the largest kind of a margin aside from a knockout, and at all times proved the master of his opponent. The men weighed in: Burke 167 pounds and English 163.

McFARLAND TOO MANY FOR "ONE ROUND"

New York, March 6.—Packer McFarland of Chicago toyed with One Round Hogan, the California lightweight, for nine rounds at the Fairmount A. C. last night and Hogan showed the spirit of "One Round" is not a misnomer by taking the honors in the tenth. Aside from the one round, Hogan did not appear better than a novice against the clever Chicagoan and it was not until the ninth round that he managed to get over a real stinging punch to McFarland.

Although McFarland romped away with the honors in a manner that left no doubt as to his superiority over the Californian, his work was hardly up to the standard expected. He landed on Hogan as often as he pleased and kept Hogan from doing any real damage to him, but he was also felled to any great degree to the Californian. McFarland did not hit as cleanly as in his other bouts here, neither did he show the punching power or the desire to get in and mix matters. He had things all his own way from start to finish, but showed no desire to put on the speed lever until the eighth round, when Hogan hit him on the nose and drove the blood. Then he became heated and mixed with Hogan.

Hogan was the biggest bit of a disappointment all the way. The fight and that did so much damage against knock Out Brown might as well have been tied to his side up to the tenth and the clever attack which was supposed to have developed since his defeat by Ad. Wolgast was an absent quantity. Hogan appeared to be in the early part of the battle and his work was mainly on the defensive all the way. He had the utmost respect for Packer's cleverness and he showed it in his every move during the bout. A right swing to the head in the sixth and a low hard right, uppercut and straight rights to Packer's face in the tenth tell the whole story of Hogan's attack. In the other rounds he was the pupil and Packer was the demonstrator.

Moving Pictures of THE BORDEN CABINET

Connaught Skating Party, Sir Wilfrid, Senate Speaker, Dr. Sproule Also Taken. Future generations will witness the Borden cabinet at work in the privy council chamber. It will be a real cinematograph picture showing the leaders of the nation taking counsel together.

On Saturday for half an hour the cinematograph men were busy in the privy council chamber before a full cabinet with their machines, and they came away pleased at the good impression, which will be shown to seventy millions of people daily throughout the world when they are ready.

The pictures are part of a scheme to write a cinematograph picture history of Canada from the days of Jacques Cartier up to the present premier. The picture men by royal permission attended the skating party at government house and caught the duke moving about, the duchess receiving her guests and the premier in his sumptuous private office was caught in the act of writing letters and dictating to his private secretary. All for future Canadians to gaze over in wondering interest.

Speaker Landry in the senate posed risk in his criminal robe, while speaker Sproule preceded by the sergeant-at-arms, represented the walk from his private apartments to the green chamber. And the premier was not forgotten. He smiled over again his famous smile and walked down Parliament Hill, all for the benefit of the statesmen, who will want to know how it was done in the year of grace 1912. The press gallery "boys" are also included and room eight, with its dozens of typewriters, roll-topped desks, voluminous files and diligent inhabitants, performs especially under the inquisitive eye of the clicking machine.

When the history is complete a special set will be sent to His Majesty King George, who will have Canada as she is, placed before him.

HER SKIN SEEMED ON FIRE

Every Other Treatment Failed But "Fruit-a-tives" Cures. Grande Ligne, Que., Jan. 2nd, 1910. "My wife was greatly distressed for three years with chronic Eczema on the hands, and the disease was so severe that it almost prevented her from using her hands. The doctor gave her several ointments to use, but none of them did any good. He also advised her to wear rubber gloves and she wore out three pairs without getting any benefit. At a last resort, I persuaded her to try "Fruit-a-tives" and the effect was marvelous. Not only did "Fruit-a-tives" entirely cure the Eczema, but the Asthma, which she suffered from, was also completely cured. We both attribute our present good health to "Fruit-a-tives" N. JOUBERT.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Eczema or Salt Rheum because "Fruit-a-tives" purifies the blood, corrects the Indigestion and Constipation and tones up the Nervous System. "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit juices and valuable herbs, and is the greatest of all blood-purifying remedies. Dose: a box—$ for $2.00 or trial size, 25c. AMUSEMENTS IN ST. JOHN; WHAT THE PLAYHOUSES OFFER

FINE PLAY, OPERA HOUSE. The Great John Ganton, a play of unusual strength of plot and one that appeals to the business man and business woman as well as the average play-goer, was presented at the present premier. It is a play that throbs with human interest and tells a story of the great pork packing industry of the west. The scenes are laid in Chicago.

The story of the play in brief is as follows: "John Ganton" has been successful in life, rising from the ranks to the head of a great pork packing plant; his position is one of influence and power. Not only in the business world, but in the social world, the name of Ganton stands for high repute. Like most of the men of his calibre he is a stern master and his son's failure to devote himself to business greatly irritates him. He is especially displeased at his son's attentions to the daughter of his former business partner, who after breaking him in a crooked deal, committed suicide. Added to his troubles is a strike and the refusal of Dorland Bros., another packing firm, to contribute to a settlement. One of the Dorlands, too, is in love with his daughter to make matters worse. However, the story ends satisfactorily to the audience. Each member of the cast has a role that permits him or her to display their talent, and Miss Myrtle and Mr. Burton are well placed. Mr. Osborne in the role of John Ganton, displayed unusual ability and was the recipient of much applause for his excellent work.

"THE DANITES" A FEATURE SUCCESS. The programme at the Gem Theatre yesterday afforded a rare treat to the patrons of this house of amusement. The chief source of attraction was in the two-act Selig production "The Danites," a story of the western prairie in the early years of settlement when outlaws and raving by plundering bands was prevalent. The picture proved that the predictions of the house in regard to it, were correct, as it fully fulfilled the qualifications which had been previously mentioned of it. Its thread as regards the narrative was the means of portraying a story of tenderness and heart interest as well as providing some rare excitement in the base phase of the "Danites." This play is one which has made a success in many cities on the legitimate stage and in pictures it has been greatly improved because of its having been taken outdoors. In addition to this there was a fine Lubin comedy "The Lady Police," which was a clever satire on the suffrage movement and provoked hearty laughter. Ed. Loudon sang pleasingly and the orchestra played a choice programme.

THE MONCTON TEAM OFF TO QUEBEC

Moncton, N. B., March 7.—(Special)—The Moncton Victorias, winners of the maritime professional hockey league, accompanied by members of the managing committee and a few supporters will leave this evening for Quebec, where, on Saturday night, they will play their first game for the Stanley cup. The dates given, the Victorias Saturday of this week and Monday and Wednesday of next week, if the league race was settled last night. As the Wanderers defeated Ottawa, Quebec now has the championship and is called upon to defend the Stanley cup.

It is believed that the Moncton team will make a good showing against Quebec and have a good chance to win the trophy which stands for the championship. It is considered that Moncton has a better chance to win in Quebec than in Ottawa, because the rink in the ancient capital is about the same size as the Moncton rink.

Color had changed. (Kansas City Star.) A stranger in Boston was once interested to discover, when dining with friends, that the dessert he would have chosen as cream layer cake at home was known in Boston as Washington pie. The next time he lunched at a restaurant he ordered the same thing, but the waiter put before him a rather heavy looking square of cake covered with chocolate. A puzzled expression came over his face as he said reprovingly: "I ordered Washington pie, waiter."

"That is Washington pie, sir." "Well," expostulated the disappointed man, "I did not mean Booker T, I mean George."

Mrs. Jane Christopher Passes Away in Carleton Today

The death of Mrs. Jane Christopher, widow of Deacon John Christopher, of the Ludlow street Baptist church, occurred at her home in Carleton this morning after an illness of only a week. She was in her ninetieth year, and was one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of the West Side. She is survived by three brothers—L. S. Sharpe, jeweller, of King street; W. T. Sharpe, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; and Caswell A. C. Wilson, who is connected with the West Side fire department; and Albert, also of the West Side, and two daughters—Mrs. Jacob Patton, of Somerville, Mass., and Mrs. Samuel McLoon, of Chatham, N. B.

HERE TO BUY WAR SUPPLIES FOR ITALIANS

Government Agent Seeking Beef and Fodder to be Sent to Fighting Forces in Tripoli

From the scene of trouble in far off Tripoli to Canada's winterport is rather a far call, but according to information received today by the Times from a reliable source, there is in the city at present an agent of the Italian government who is contracting for the supply of cattle, hay, and other commodities for the Italian army and navy in the war. It was said that he has been in the city for some days, and had interviewed merchants as to contracts and that he was also seeing about the chartering of steamers for the cargo. If successful arrangements are made it is thought that there will be three or four sailings from St. John before the winter port season closes.

CALL IT GREENORE

Suggestion of Name For Section of Courtenay Bay District

There is a section of territory now embraced in what is known as "east St. John" stretching between Croucheville and Red Head which is at present without an appropriate name, a correspondent has written to the Times, and he suggests that the name "Greenore" be given to it. This is the name of a charming countryside on the right hand bank of the harbor of Dundalk, in Ireland, and in physical characteristics the local district referred to is much like the original "Greenore". As a matter of sentiment, he also urges that this name be applied, in tribute to the local numbers who came from about Dundalk in years gone by and settled in the south end of the city, and who have helped for years in the development of St. John until they are now enabled to witness the present period of expansion. For these reasons and as the name in itself is pleasing to the ear the suggestion of Greenore as the name for the tract referred to is suggested.

PRODUCE PRICES

Flour, Beans and Cornmeal Higher—Irish Potatoes Have Helped Send Down Price

Local dealers have advanced the price of Manitoba flour ten cents a barrel. The advance is said to be due to a rise of three cents a bushel in the price of wheat. Because of the keen competition existing among the milling companies there has been no change in the price of flour for some time.

There has been a decrease of ten cents a bushel in whole beans owing to scarcity and to the fact that farmers' stocks are reported small. Cornmeal is also ten cents a bushel higher at present. Potatoes are easier than for some time and were offered to day at $2.25 which is quite low considering the recent advance to $2.75 and $3.

There have been large importations of Irish potatoes even among local grocers and this has relieved the market considerably, while several farmers, who were holding some fair quantities in fair quantities to the city. Good sledding on the roads was responsible for many coming to the city. It is thought that there will be no further increase in potatoes for a little while. Some dealers are of the opinion, however, that there will not be many more potatoes brought in from the country districts until after seeding time, which would cause the price to advance again.

DEAD IN STATES

Captain J. D. Ferris Well Known in St. John River Service

Word received in the city this morning told of the death of Captain J. D. Ferris at his home in Somerville, Mass., on Tuesday last. He was a former resident of this city but moved to the States four or five years ago with his family. He was well known in the tug-boat service on the St. John river and had many friends here who learn, with regret, of his death. He was for several years in the employ of Tapley Bros., of Indianapolis.

A UNION STREET FIND

Some people unknown to the occupants of the house visited the lower hallway of a home in Union street last evening and one of them was a woman who on leaving, departed without her hat and stole, as well as a mesh bag containing $7 in cash. Some one also left a bottle of liquor. The girl found the articles referred to. She brought them upstairs and the master of the house called in Policeman McCollon who took them to central station. As he was passing along Charlotte street there came to him a woman with a shawl thrown over her head, and as she passed him she informed him that the articles which he was carrying belonged to her. He replied that she would have to go to central station to identify them, and it did not take her long to do so. She went to the station, claimed the goods as hers, and presented some sort of explanation which permitted her to have them returned. The bottle of liquor was not given.

THE STEAMERS

The S. S. Manchester Inventor sailed from here a little after midnight. The S. S. Anapa left Halifax late last night for the port and is due here tonight. The steamer is owned by Furness, Withy & Co., and has never as yet been in this port. She is coming from London with a large general cargo, and will take on a cargo of apples, lumber, grain etc.
