THE NEW Church Hymnal for sale at the Greetings Office in several Qualities and Styles.

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

GIVEN AWAY.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

and have arranged with bands of smugglers to bring into Portugal all their armaments and supplies in store them in caves in the mountains. The Royalists plan to pass the frontier at night, singly or in groups, thus concealing their numbers and they will reassemble on a date fixed by Capt. Coecire, the Royalist leader. The government hopes to prevent the reassembling of the Monarchists within the republic by dispatching the Republican troops now concentrated at strategic points on the frontiers flying columns to disperse the revolutionists before they are able to unite at one point. The latter count upon the inhabitants of the north to side and defend them.

Paris Says Death to "Boughten Locks"

From Paris comes a cry, "Death to the corset! Destruction to the boughten locks!" or words that effect. And it is not to be doubted that there is distinctly to be seen a growing tendency to smaller heads, while tiny waists—thanks be to—are already half forgotten.

It behooves the woman who has relied upon acquired tresses to make a becoming framework for her face, to secure the same result cannot be achieved at less cost. One way to do it is this: After a shampoo and when the hair is in a pleasant, fluffy state, arrange mirrors—triple mirrors—triple mirrors ought to be on every woman's dressing table—and a low seat, with no back, so that you can easily see your own head from every point of view.

Catch up the hair in one hand, pull it this way and that, pile it high upon the top of the head and draw it down to the nape of the neck.

Try it every way you can think of, and you will notice that one particularly arrangement, hastily sketched as it must be, will bring out your best lines and subdue those that are more worthy of oblivion. Then carefully "do" your hair in that one best way.

Of course, if you belong to that favored minority to whom the Madonna parting is becoming, you need waste no time on the above experiments. Be thankful and part your hair! If in addition to being able to support such a coiffure, you have a natural wave in your tresses, you may be more than thankful—you may permit yourself a mild hilarity.

Sackville, N. B., Sept. 25.—The position of Professor of Physics in Mr. Allison University made vacant by Dr. McKay, has been filled by Guy G. Becknell, Ph. D., of Goshen, Ind. Dr. Becknell graduated from the North Western Military Academy in 1897. He took the degree of B. S., in 1904 from the North Western University, and in 1905 the degree of M. S. He won a scholarship from the same University in 1902 and a Fellowship in 1905. He was Honorary Fellow of Clark University in 1909 and Research Assistant of Prof. A. G. Webster. He was Senior Fellow of Clark University in 1908 and 1911, taking the degree of Ph. D., this year. He has taught in the Goshen, Ind., and in the Elkhart Normal School of Elkhart, Ind., was assistant instructor in 1906 in Purdue University and instructor in Physics in 1907 and 1908. Dr. Becknell is spoken of as being an absolutely straight forward and clear-headed fellow, a man who will prove a real acquisition to any institution that is fortunate enough to secure his services. He has a fine English style both in written and spoken discourse. This combined with the high grade of his scholarship in both Mathematics and Physics has made him a very successful teacher. When he held the Fellowship in Physics at North Western University he made a very beautiful investigation of the Ionization of the Electric Arc, which was published in the Physical Review. He is said to be clear, courteous and interesting; always dignified, and will command the respect of every student in his classes, from start to finish. Prof. Webster, of Clark University, speaks in the highest terms of Dr. Becknell, who will undoubtedly prove a splendid acquisition to the University Faculty.

Mr. Allison University opened on Thursday and classes began on Monday. The residence is full to overflowing and new students are still arriving. The Freshman Class will probably number between fifty and sixty.

The Inevitable Trouble.

I cannot run the old cars
I ran long years ago,
For they are so old fashioned now,
They're so awful slow,
I can't keep up to this year's pace,
They wouldn't stand the strain:
I cannot run the old cars,
Or take 'em out again.
I cannot run the old cars,
They aren't built just right:
The aspiration pipes get loose,
The carburetor tight,
The steering-gear declines to work,
The jump-spark will not play;
I cannot run the old cars,
They will not do today.
I cannot run the old cars,
They haven't any speed;
And all the fun is nowadays,
The limit to exceed.
And so I have to stay at home—
It makes me awful blue;
I cannot run the old cars,
And can't afford the new.

FATHER MORRISCY'S WAY

OF CURING CATARRH IS SIMPLE AND EFFECTIVE.

In treating catarrh, some doctors recommend internal remedies, while others pin their faith to external applications. Internal medicines do not produce immediate relief, while external ones do not reach the seat of the trouble.

Father Morriscy's method was to supplement one treatment with the other. His famous prescription, "No. 26," consists of tablets and salve, each skillfully compounded of Nature's own remedial agents. The learned priest did not believe in using dangerous and powerful drugs, when simpler and better remedies were available.

The tablets, to be taken three times a day, invigorate the system, purify the blood, and restore the health and vitality. The antiseptic salve, applied inside the nostrils, soothes and heals the passages and destroys the germs therein.

Attacking the disease from within and without, and working together, the two treatments known as No. 26 quickly cure catarrh and prevent future trouble.

For this tried and true combined remedy, see at your dealer's or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., Montreal, Q. C.

Flesh-Reducing Drug A Curse at Newport.

Newport, Sept. 17.—Every now and then it is reported that a New York or Philadelphia or Boston or Western woman who has been a shining light in society here is in bad health and it is the proper thing to say she has broken down under the strain of her social duties.

But it became known to-day that the poor health of some women who have broken down here has been caused by the use of this dangerous drug, with which fashionable women in Europe first experimented.

Women in Newport have been using this drug ever since fashion decreed that a truly fair one must be slender, fat like. The drug, which is immensely costly, has reduced the flesh and consequently the weight of its devotees, but it has left them weak and flabby, so that they have no truss themselves with the most approved harness of the toilette. So threatening have been the consequences of using it that these women have abandoned the drug; physicians are treating them to restore the normal tone of their systems and they gladly submit to medical treatment even at the risk of regaining their embonpoint.

But the use of this drug has one good result. Knowing that it is dangerous, more and more women are reducing their weight and keeping themselves in good condition by proper exercise. They arise early, walk, ride, take the reins over a good horse, golf, play tennis or swim. Riding before breakfast is all the rage here at the moment.

Plan to Raise Million Fund.

The raising of a fund of a million dollars for next year was discussed recently at the meeting of the Montreal Presbytery, when Rev. Dr. Mackay, moderator of the General Assembly, and Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant, general superintendent of Home Missions, launched a scheme for merging all the separate funds of the church. Hitherto the funds of the church have been departmental for educational, missionary and benevolent purposes, but by the new scheme these will be merged and it is estimated that the amount named will cover for at least the coming year. This amount would be by the spools to the various presbyteries, which in their turn would apportion it out to congregations within their bounds, and in each congregation a standing committee will be appointed to see that the required proportion is raised within the year.

Both Dr. Mackay and Dr. Grant explained the needs of the work in view of the increasing population, and after some expressions of opinion had been heard, a motion was made by Rev. Dr. Scott that the Montreal Presbytery approve the scheme. This was agreed to, and the matter was referred to the committee on systematic giving, with a few new names to be added for this purpose.

Dr. Mackay reported that the presbyteries of Toronto and Quebec had already signified their approval.—Ex.

A Safety Throttle for Locomotives

Prompted by the too frequent instances of the disablement of locomotive engineers, either by accident, sickness or sudden death, a correspondent suggests that all locomotives should be equipped with some form of automatic "safety throttle" similar in its action to the controls levers on the motors of the New York and Boston subways, which automatically cut off the power the instant that the pressure of the driver's hand is removed.

Some years ago, the editor rode in the cab of one of the then newly-installed 18-hour trains to Chicago, when he covered some 1,500 miles of the round trip in the locomotive cab. He noticed that generally, and particularly at night, the engineer would keep one hand upon the throttle, the other upon the brake lever. An emergency stop was made by the instant operation of these two levers. It would, of course, be possible by means of some source of power, such as a pneumatically-controlled piston, to shut off the steam and apply the brakes at the instant that the engineer's hand dropped from the throttle, either through accident or death.

The objection to such an arrangement would be that there are times when he must remove his hand from the throttle, as for instance when it is necessary to sand the rails or open the cylinder drain cocks. On the other hand, the safety stop might be so arranged that it could be temporarily locked in position at the will of the engineer. In these days of huge boilers and large fire boxes, it becomes increasingly difficult for the fireman to supplement the watchfulness of the engineer. Locomotive engineers as a body would welcome, we believe, any practicable safeguard of this character, and it would materially add to the safety of railroad travel.—St. Am.

Woman Mayor Plans to Oust Every Man in Office

Hannewell, Kan., Sept. 16.—Falling in their effort to drive Mrs. Ella Wilson from her office as Mayor, the man officers of Hannewell probably will lose their jobs, and if they do Mrs. Wilson, having the appointing power, will appoint women to every one of them.

Having enlisted Governor Etzbas on her side, Mrs. Wilson returned home early this week full of fight. C. W. Trickett, Assistant Attorney-General, followed her a few days later and is now preparing suits to oust every one of the delinquent men officers, including the Councilmen, who have been Mrs. Wilson's greatest source of trouble.

"The refusal of the Councilmen to levy taxes leaves us without any revenue to run the town next year," Mrs. Wilson said.

"There isn't any truth in any rumor that I'm going to resign from my office," she said. "On the contrary, if I can bring it about, and I think I can, I am going to have a city administration composed of women from mayor to dog-catcher."

Caribou Business Men Stung By Forgeries

Caribou, Me., Sept. 20.—Charged with passing forged checks amounting to more than $500 upon merchants of Caribou Tuesday, Cleveland Harvey was captured at Fort Fairfield early Wednesday. A man by the name of Gallagher, who is alleged to have been working with Harvey, was still at large up to noon Wednesday. Harvey, under the name of Frank Smith and Gallagher, who is alleged by the authorities to have forged the names of Jos. Prescott, Talford Libby and David McIlwain to the checks. Harvey is about 21 years old and worked for Talford Libby on his farm for three months. His parents live in Rockland, Gallagher is about 20 years of age.

New Life Preserver

Recent consular reports describe a new form of life preserver, which it is proposed to introduce into the German Navy. It consists of two swimming cushions bound together by straps and arranged to lie upon the breast and back. The novel feature of the apparatus is an electric lamp, which is worn on the forehead. The lamp burns 3 or 4 hours, and is provided with a reflector, which throws its light for a distance of several hundred yards at night. The life preserver can be buckled on in 5 seconds.

The man whose daughter had just been united to the husband of her choice looked a little sad.

"I tell you, squire," he said to one of the wedding guests, a man of his own age, and himself the father of a number of unmarried girls, "I tell you it is a solemn thing for us when our daughters marry and go away."

The squire assented not altogether heartily.

"I suppose it is," he conceded; "but I tell you, it is more solemn when they don't."—Youth's Companion.

Monarchists in Portugal Busy

The recent Portuguese monarchist conspiracy unearthed at Vienna do Castello appears to have been serious than at first thought. A great part of the troops and many civilians were implicated. The conspiracy reached as far as Braga and Oporto. It was planned to start a rising of the people of Vienna do Castello, Braga and Oporto and massacre the garrisons in those cities the moment the Royalists crossed the frontier. The leaders of the movement were confident that such action within the country would demoralize the Republican troops on the frontier, and thus make easy the conquest of north by the Royalist.

The government was advised of the plot and is making efforts to arrest all those implicated.

Late advices from the frontier say that in view of the instructions issued by the Spanish government the Monarchist plotters have abandoned Galicia and are proceeding across the border without arms.

Big Town Planning

Australia has the biggest town planning scheme in the world on hand, for she is going to create out in the bush, in the district of Yass-Camberra, in New South Wales, a brand new capital. The conditions and details of the great world wide competition for town planners have just been sent broadcast through the expert quarters of the globe. By the end of January plans are to be submitted to a board consisting of an engineer, an architect and a surveyor, and they will pick out the three best schemes and award them $8,750, $3,750 and $2,500 in order of merit.

It is a promising site of 900 sq. miles, with a fertile plain dotted with low hills and watered by the Mononglo River. To begin with there is to be an estimated population of 25,000, who will start with the finest conditions that garden city science can produce. Society and official life is to centre there. It is to be the hub of the whole common-wealth. All the government and national buildings will be grouped around the Houses of Parliament, from which the broad boulevards will radiate. It is in a warm locality, but the authorities plan to utilize that by making full use of trees to beautify their city all the year round.

It may be asked why Yass-Camberra has been chosen for a site instead of the big cities already established? Because all the big cities wanted to be "it." Jealousy started up that threatened the harmony of the unit of commonwealth, so it was agreed to go into the bush and begin at the first sod with the new capital.

New Hipless Girl Scorns All Curves.

Chicago, Sept. 19 The corsetless, hipless, skirtless girl with the balloon sleeve and ratless coiffure, has arrived. What's more, she's here to stay, authorities declare. She made her appearance at the Chicago Dressmakers' Club matinee today at the Illinois Theatre.

The woman of curves has had frequent warning. If she hasn't cut down her diet to a lettuce leaf and a glass of buttermilk every six hours and has failed to take rolling exercise and massage, why, it isn't the fashion designer's fault. They have left the stout woman entirely out of their calculations.

The slim girl with lines knows how to stand and sit correctly. She can walk gracefully without getting her heels and long draped gown in a tangle, and she has learned how to manage the balloon shaped, whiteboned sleeve.

If the new sleeve is examined carefully one may discover a well defined circle just above the hand, to be formed of very stiff whalebones. It looks as if it might be in the way, but it is new, and that's all fashion designers ask.

The corsetless gown is a whaleboned girdle, clinging underlining and dress combined. Its not only graceful and pretty, but it's easy to put on, the designers declare. What's more, it gives great scope for trimming and materials. It can be developed in crepes and chiffon velvets and fringes and lace and cameo buckles, and it has been already hailed as a joy forever.

Use of Gold Beads.

If you are the possessor of some of the old style gold beads learn from the oracle that only the tiniest are of correct proportions. They must not be much larger than the size of a pinhead. Be it distinctly understood that those that are the size of a marble are taboo.

They should be in strands, numbering from four to nine—according to the length of the neck. The lissome girl with the throat that is swanlike can wear the full number of strands in her string of beads.

It is far better taste to wear the beads with a high neck collar than with a décolleté gown; in fact, the dictum is, do not wear them next to the skin, but rather as an ornament on the dress about the neck.

It is also to be noted that if worn in the evening they have a sort of cooling effect on the onlooker, while if indulged in during the day when the glare of the hot sun falls on them they seem to be heat absorbing and length diffusing.

On the background of a dark gown they look inexpressibly beautiful.

Danced to Death

After Whirling For Seven Hours, Scott, Exhausted, Dies.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 16.—After dancing eleven hours A. E. Scott, a barber, took his partner to a refreshment stand at Dreamland in this city and toppled over dead as about to take a glass of soda water. Miss Mamie Webb, Scott's partner, stood by his side as he toppled to the floor.

It was in a spirit of fun that they had proposed to try out other's endurance. They started dancing as soon as the pavilion opened, at 6 o'clock, and kept at it constantly, save for the thirty seconds' wait of the orchestra, until 1 o'clock a. m., when Scott, exhausted, decided to give up the struggle.

The pair walked over to the refreshment stand, ordered sodas, and as Scott was about to raise the glass to his lips he fell in a swoon. He was dead when bystanders started to assist him.

How the Paper Makers Are Destroying the Forests of the United States.

The forests of the United States now cover 550,000,000 acres, or about one-fourth of the area of the country. Forests publicly owned contain one-fifth of all timber standing. The timber privately owned is not only four times that publicly owned but it is generally more valuable.

Forestry is not practised on 70 per cent of the forests publicly owned and on less than 1 per cent of the forests privately owned, or on only 18 per cent of the total area of the forests.

The original forests of the United States contained timber in quantity and variety far beyond that upon any other area of similar size in the world. They covered 550,000,000 acres with a stand of not less than 5,200,000,000 board feet of merchantable timber, according to present standards of use. There were five great forest regions—the northern, the southern, the central, the Rocky Mountain and the Pacific.

The present rate of cutting is three times the annual growth of the forests of the United States. The great phereries of the Lake States are nearing exhaustion and great tracts have been made upon the supply of valuable timber throughout all parts of the country.

The heavy demands for timber have been rapidly pushing the great centres of lumber industry towards the South and West. In consequence, the State of Washington has led for several years in lumber production, followed in order by Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Wisconsin and Arkansas. In 1908 the production of yellow pine lumber amounted to eleven and one-quarter billion feet; the Douglas fir of the Northwest held second place, with three and two-thirds billion feet; while white pine came third, with three and one-third billion feet.

The annual cut from the forests, including waste in logging and in manufacture, is 20,000,000,000 cubic feet of wood. There is used in a normal year 90,000,000 cords of fire wood, 40,000,000,000 board feet of lumber, 118,000,000,000 feet of shingles, 1,500,000,000 staves, over 123,000,000 sets of heading, nearly 500,000,000 barrel hoops, 3,000,000 cords of native pulp wood, 18,000,000 cubic feet of round mine timbers and 125,000 cords of wood for distillation.

In 1869 4,000,000 cords of wood were used in the manufacture of paper, of which 750,000 cords were imported from Canada. The demand for pulp wood is making a severe drain on the spruce forests, which furnish the principle supply. The Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture is conducting investigations to determine what other woods, such as scrub pine, white fir, tupelo and the like, can be successfully used.

A larger drain upon forest resources is made by the demand for railroad ties, of which 123,754,000, equivalent to three and three-quarters billion board feet, were used in 1908. White oak, hitherto the chief source of supply, is not plentiful enough to meet this demand immediately, and in many parts of the country the supply of chestnut, cedar and cypress is dwindling; however, seasoning and treating methods are being found, largely through the work of the Forest Service, by which cheaper and more plentiful woods, such as lodgepole pine in the Northwest and loblolly pine in the South, are made fit for use as ties. Timber to the amount of two and one-half billions feet was used in 1907 for mine timbers. A great saving has been effected in the naval stores industry, also largely through the work of the Forest Service, by the introduction of the so-called "cap" system of turpentine in place of the old destructive system of "boiling." The new systems insure a larger product of better quality and prolong the life of the longest pine forests upon which the industry depends.

Another Concern Is Indicted as Combins

Boston, Sept. 19.—An indictment was returned against the officers of the United Shoe Machinery Company, and a second indictment was found against the company itself, by the United States grand jury to-day. The defendants are charged with conducting business in restraint of trade. The individuals indicted are President Sidney W. Winslow, Edward H. Hurd, George W. Brown, James J. Storrow, William Barber and Elmer H. Rowe directors. Both indictments charge the defendants with working through the instrumentality of the United Shoe Machinery Company in a way to make them as individuals criminally liable under the Sherman act.

The United Shoe Machinery Company has auxiliary companies in Canada, Great Britain, France and Germany. It now employs 40,000 hands who turn out 20,000 shoe machines yearly. The royalty system by which the corporation disposes of its machines, paying rentals in royalties on every shoe made. A manufacturer may buy machinery if he gets it from the United Shoe Machinery Company, providing he buys his "findings" such as wire nails and eyelets from the company. It is claimed that the royalty paid the United Company is about 2 2/3 cents per pair of shoes.

Royal Treasures Well Guarded

Windsor Castle and Buckingham Palace Carefully Watched to Prevent Loss of the King's Property.

Windsor Castle and Buckingham Palace, while being two of the best furnished residences in the world, are perfect museums of treasure, new and old, and the royal property is so well guarded that it is practically impossible for a thief to lay his hand on a single article.

During the reign of Queen Victoria, several plots were hatched to burglarize both Windsor Castle and Buckingham Palace, says The Bits, but not one of them was carried out successfully. Some years ago a gang of swill West End thieves made up their minds to attempt to pilfer some of the treasures within Buckingham Palace, and one of their number managed to enter by the private entrance unseen. He was discovered in one of the corridors, however, and, being unable to give a satisfactory reason for his presence in the palace, he was promptly handed over to the police.

The royal residences are strongly guarded by military and police, and private detectives are engaged to keep guard over the treasures.

The strong rooms at Windsor are elaborate apartments, and the doors are burglar-proof and powder-proof. They have violence locks about eighteen inches long all of which are covered by unbreakable steel plates, which render it impossible for any one to pass even a fine needle into any one of the shelves.

Millions Worth of Plate

In the strong rooms there is plate valued at more than £2,500,000. There is a gold dinner service sufficient for 140 persons, with other articles of gold and silver numbering in all 1,100 and weighing thirty tons. A candelabrum of gold, representing St. George and the Dragon, used for lighting the royal table, is so heavy that two men are required to lift it. It weighs 2,700 ounces and is valued at between £12,000 and £13,000. A more modern piece of plate an epergne, designed by the late Prince Consort, is worth £11,000. It was to commemorate Queen Victoria's first visit to Scotland, and represents her late Majesty's deerhounds standing over a lead stag.

One salver is five feet in diameter and was made from the gold snuff boxes of George IV., which were presented to him by various cities and towns. The lids and inscriptions of the boxes have been curiously preserved on the surface of the silver in a kind of mosaic gold. This beautiful piece of plate is worth £10,000.

Among other curious articles to be found in the strong rooms are a huge cuspidor of solid gold, weighing ten tons, which was presented to Queen Victoria by the King of Siam, and a dinner service of silver presented to William IV. when he was Duke of Clarence, the donors being the merchants of Liverpool, in reward for royal service rendered to them by his advocacy of the slave trade. When the Duke came to the throne he signed the act of Parliament which abolished slavery in the British Dominions on and from August 1, 1834.

New High Record for the Price of Coffee.

New York, Sept. 21 New high records were again established in the coffee market today with active trading and for the first time in 16 years the entire list sold above the 22c. mark. The advance was accompanied by active buying and was based on the strength of Europe and Brazil, as well as the fact that stocks here are small and controlled by a few interests. Quotations from Brazilian spot coffee for future shipments showed prices to be far above a parity with the local market.

Pound for pound, coffee is now selling considerably above cotton and, owing to the recent sensational advance in sugar; the rise in this other staple has attracted considerable attention. The advance, which represents a gain of over 2 3/4c. from the low of the season, made last February, has been based on unusually small stocks in the visible supply as well as recent reports indicating a smaller crop than expected and the claim that unfavorable climatic conditions have interfered with the flowering for the next crop.

Fresh Air for Firemen in Midst of Smoke.

New York, Sept. 19. An apparatus, invented by a local fireman, designed to make "smoke eaters" out of even the greenest firemen, was successfully tried out here today in a stifling cellar fire in the dry goods district.

A fire captain and two of his men, provided with the apparatus, went into the thick smudge and worked for half an hour fighting the flames. When they came out they said they had all the fresh air they wanted.

The stream of water in the big hose the firemen use is depended upon to supply the fresh air in the new apparatus. To a brass collar, which slips over the nozzle, is attached a metal piece which determines in an ordinary garden hose that extends out to the street. Branching off from the metal pipe are three rubber tubes which end in the nose pieces much like the nose guards football players use. The water shooting of the nozzle creates a suction in the brass collar, air is drawn in from the streets through the garden hose and the firemen get it through the rubber tubes and nose pieces.

Mixed Metaphors.

The latest mixed metaphor comes from France and is worthy of being placed on record. The occasion of it was a dock strike at Rochefort, the dockers being filled with indignation because the authorities refused them a fortnight's holiday on full pay, and this is how their spokesman rendered the ancient sentiment that worms will turn. "Even the feeble sheep" he exclaimed, "when the fierce blasts of indignation make its fleece brittle up on end, feels that it must thrust out its talons and scratch."

CAMEO KIRBY

By Booth Tarkington AND Harry Leon Wilson Adapted From the Play of the Same Name by W. B. M. Ferguson

Copyright, 1909 by the Alliance Magazine Company

CHAPTER XIV.

It was a disheartened attitude that disheartened attitude. Kirby, who had been sitting at the table, suddenly found himself looking at the fat veteran and witnessed Adele's silent contempt, and he now laid a sympathetic hand upon his partner's shoulder.

"You see how you stand with her, don't you?" he said quietly. "I won't say she isn't a fine enough woman to make any man act the fool about her. But, Gene, you've got to hold up your head and get over it. It's too late for you to start your life again, and you can't drag her into it. Take one good look at yourself, Gene Kirby, then take another at her. But, say, she wouldn't take you if you were an angel stepped right out of the first front door of heaven. What could you ever be to her? Not a thing but a—d—d gambler. I see the way she treated you."

"That's because she doesn't know what I'm going to do," replied Kirby, striving to convince himself. "Look at that paper."

Bunce examined the deed, then turned indignantly upon the signer thereof. "I've seen you give some poor young fellow his money back after you'd won it, but I never knowed you to do it if the feller slapped you in the face first," he said wilyly. "The girl won't stay long enough in the same room to wipe her shoes on you. Don't stand, wait to credit such an enemy with one worthy motive."

"You bet your bottom dollar it don't, agreed Bunce. "That will do, Larkin," said Kirby sharply. "There's nothing more to be said. We're through here."

Despite Adele's earnest request to remain and the plea that she had the right to know the meaning of this strange contradiction of evidence, he resolutely turned to leave the room, his partner obediently following.

But once again M. Veaudry, sinking his own interests in those of justice stepped forward and detained his sometime rival. "Make him speak, Tom!" he cried, turning to young Randall. "This miniature of your mother we found in Colonel Moreau's portmanteau. And he handed the other red Morocco box."

"But—but my father lost it to you?" exclaimed the bewildered boy, turning to Kirby. "No, not to me, Mr. Randall." Again that same patient, emotionless tone, totally devoid of resentment or even interest.

"If—if we've been in the wrong," tremulously whispered Adele, raising her head proudly, but pleading supplication speaking strongly from her eyes, "you will set us straight, you will be fair?"

For a long moment Kirby hesitated, but finally turned to the now eagerly waiting boy. "Mr. Randall," he said, with elaborate irony, "the question involved in my conduct is so purely professional that it may be almost impossible to clear it up to the satisfaction of a layman. Mr. Bunce, being one of the brethren, would comprehend me perfectly, but I shall have to point out that in my profession there are separate cases, both high and low, each controlled by its own standards."

"You accuse Colonel Moreau of being a gambler?" said young Randall as the other paused. "I regretfully admit that he had some claim to the title," replied Kirby, with intentional elegance of manner. "For the group to which the 'coloured' belonged countenances certain practices, such as the intoxication of opponents and the elimination of chance in the fall of the cards, and this, we feel, shows a lack of foresight tending to bring discredit on the entire profession, which might in time drive its followers from their legitimate field of industry. For that reason, when I discovered the late Colonel Moreau in a private sitting room of the Shotwell dispossessing a gentleman who was—who was not himself, I took charge of the disposition of what remained, intending to make restitution in the morning, when the victim should be in better that, in the dockmakers' strike, full grown, able bodied men were in some cases, fighting for the right to receive $4.40 a week. And that week consisted of seventy hours. Think of it. Ten hrs a day, seven days in a week, $4.40

And that, mind you, is not what the strikers received. It is what they were fighting to get.

In order that there may be no mistake about it, let me quote the actual terms upon which the dockworkers in London were formerly employed, and the terms which they demanded.

The formal terms of the trackdrivers were $3.60 to $6.15 a week with no limit to number of hours; they demanded $6.15 to $7.50 a week of 72 hours.

Freight handlers' former terms were $5 a week for 60 hours, overtime for Sunday at 7 cents an hour they demanded maximum wages of $6.15 a week, with Sundays overtime to be at 12 cents an hour.

Wages for yard truck drivers was $3.75 a week, with no limit as to hours; and they demanded $4.40 for a 70 hour week.

For all grades of workers no annual vacation was allowed till after ten years of service, then from 3 to 5 days; the demand was for one week's vacation with pay every year after one year's service.

That these wages are not exceptional may be seen from a glance at the salaries paid to the "booking clerks" as the ticket sellers in the underground railroads are called. These men have formed a union and stood with the other workers in the various transportation systems.

A booking clerk's wages start at 32 cts a day. After years of service, he finally may, if he is faithful and intelligent and does not get sick too much, receive a maximum of $7.35 a week.

If he is exceptional, he may become a "clerk in charge," in which case he will receive $8.00 a week, which is gradually increased at a rate of a shilling a year until in his old age he may receive $9.76 a week.

As to the cost of living let me assure you that in the United States you may have by no means a monopoly in this particular trouble. Here are some percentages recently published by the London Board of Trade, showing the increase of wages and prices in London in the last ten years:

Year	Wages	Wholesale Prices	Retail Prices
1900	100.0	100.0	100.0
1902	97.8	96.5	101.0
1904	96.7	98.3	104.3
1906	98.4	100.5	103.2
1908	101.2	102.8	108.4
1910	102.2	108.8	106.0

As the London Board of Trade is composed mostly of employers of labor, it is not to be supposed the statistics upon which this table was based err in the direction of showing that employers have got more than their share of the proceeds. Yet, it does actually show that, while prices have increased about 10 per cent, in the last ten years, wages have remained practically stationary.

There is a nutshell, is the reason why there has been enacted in England in the last few days scenes which a month ago any loyal Englishman would have declared to be impossible.

The opening of the canal will be only the beginning of the real history of Panama, as asserted by Charles Noble in the current issue of Harper's Weekly. The jungle that covers the land contains vast wealth in wood and the most varieties of wood in the world. Camphor and cocoa grow here as well as anywhere; there is wild rubber in quantity; the country is lined with watercourses. "All Central America cannot help but feel the influence of the coming influx of the world's trade. Here on the isthmus will spring up a great cosmopolitan city comparable only to Alexandria, of ancient times. We have the best right to profit by the new canal. But our chances are slowly melting away and we yet a little holding of the hands in sleep they will be irrevocably gone."

A Scotch Marriage.

(From a letter in the Spectator.)
By the act of 1836 the parties sign in the presence of two witnesses a declaration that they take each other as husband and wife. They then present a petition to the sheriff asking him to certify that they have been married and one of both of them had their usual residence in Scotland before the marriage or had resided there for 21 days preceding it. This petition may be presented within three months of the declaration constituting the marriage but is usually presented within three hours. The parties and witnesses confirm on oath the statement of fact. The sheriff thereupon grants a warrant to the registrar to register the marriage. The registration can then be completed at once. The whole procedure only takes an hour or two and the cost is only a few shillings. On the eve of the new year and summer holidays there is a constant procession of newly married couples and their witnesses before the sheriff of Glasgow. The suitors are principally drawn from the artisan classes and the classes below them, but there is usually a sprinkling of a better class.

Black specks floating before your eyes—dizziness and sick spells, prove that your liver is out of order, your digestion bad and your internal machinery generally out of order. To remedy this state of affairs you must go to the seat of the matter and tone up the stomach.

Mi-o-na Tablets are a perfect stomach tonic and will relieve indigestion in 23 hours. They do more than this for they also cure biliousness, vomiting of pregnancy, sea or car sickness and stomach disorders caused by excessive indulgence.

Mi-o-na cures by strengthening and invigorating the stomach. It is guaranteed by druggist J. Sutton Clark who will refund your money if it fails. A large box costs you 50c. from your druggist or postpaid from the R. T. Booth Co., Limited, Fort Erie, Ont.

How it Feels to Fly.

The sensations from the earth are told graphically by W. A. Blomck, an aviator of note, in "Being an Aviator" which appears in Canada Monthly (formerly Canadian West) for September. Mr. Blomck says: "I did not know that I was in motion. The sensation was one of being stationary while the earth dropped away below me. As the balloon travelled steadily with the breeze and looked over the edge of the basket, it seemed as though an immense and variegated carpet was being dragged over the surface of a vast concavity. When a twist of air caused us to veer or turn around a few times, the concavity with its wonderful pattern of fields and towns, roads, trees and houses, were seeming to be revolved—not us. And we went higher, the concavity appeared to descend until men were like mice, and the towns and houses, trees and hills, dwarfed into a toy like expanse of beautiful scenery. No sound came to us then."

The city and the great crowd that had gathered in it, had motion, but no voice. And always the horizon, the rim of the concavity, remained level with my eyes. The hollow seemed depressible, but its edge rose to us. Not that we had any sense of rising. We were alone and alive over a concave and elastic world, hanging from a round fixed rim.

"It was in Frankfort-on-Main, and I was nineteen years old, I had but then entered on my engineering course in my college, and was having my initial view of the great globe I had been taught so much about, and many of whom secrets I knew. The balloon was a captive, with a limit of fifteen hundred skyward feet. The trip did not last long, but when the horizon had lowered to its accustomed level and the surface once more become flat, I seeped out of the car with a new idea. That idea I have followed ever since—the idea of aerial navigation. It was a most awakening experience, which has shaped my course in life."

British Strike due to Starvation Pay.

No Limit to Hours and Seven Days a Week Helped to bring Brigg Big Revolt.

London, Sept. 12. Now that the smoke of the strike battle has cleared a way people are asking: "What is the matter with the blooming country? What was all the bally trouble-rioting, troops charging, food supplies cut off and families threatened—what was it all about, anyway?"

The newspapers have done but little to answer these questions; in fact they seem to fight shy of finding out the fundamental cause of the recent labor agitation in the more serious England has confronted for many years.

An outsider, however, need have no hesitation in formulating that cause: Increased prices of necessities which have not been accompanied by a corresponding increase in wages, and the starvation level of wages paid for unskilled labor.

Roman Galley Found in Mud of Thames.

Dreadnought of the Days of the Caesars Which Weighs Thirty Tons.

London, Sept. 17. A Roman vessel which has been lying under the mud at the bottom of the Thames for 1,700 years was safely deposited at Kensington Palace. It was the Roman barge, which was recently found on the site of the county hall at Lambeth, and it was taken to "dry docks" at the newly-found London museum.

The work of transferring this splendid example of a Roman dreadnought was begun at 3 o'clock yesterday morning and it was 15 hours before Guy Laking, the keeper of the museum, saw the precious relic safe in a shed which was built for it.

The boat weighs close upon thirty tons of oak, and the protective shell, that has been built around its brittle timber weighs another eight tons. It was a task to get it undamaged to its new home and it required two coupled lorries drawn by a team of 12 magnificent cart horses, as Mr. Laking refused to submit the relic of imperial Rome to the indignity of being dragged through the London streets by a traction engine. Mr. Laking rode at the head of the procession which was followed by a motor car conveying museum officials.

There is no other specimen in the world of a Roman ship with which to compare it. The boat was built, keel, ribs and planks of Gallic oak. When its skeleton was unearthed last year, its time and waterlogged blackened timbers were so soft that they could be cut with a spade. Since then the action of the air has helped to harden the timber, which has, however, become very brittle and shrunk to a considerable extent.

As the boat passed on its journey to Kensington, by the camp of the first infantry brigade from Aldershot, now on strike service in the gardens, a man of the Camerons saluted the relic of Rome as the vessel passed him. The boat will be open for inspection almost immediately.

More Roberies from the Louvre at Paris.

Paris, Sept. 21. Following upon other disappearances of works of art which have been made public since the theft of the "Mona Lisa" a sensational revelation is made by the newspaper Paris-Journal which announces that no fewer than 32 pictures of great value which should be in the Louvre and which formed the greater part of a single collection are no longer to be found.

The missing paintings include a celebrated Fragonard entitled "The two Children" a portrait of Queen Elizabeth by the Dutch painter Mierevelt, a portrait of Queen Henrietta Maria by Lely, and an interior by the English painter Roberts.

They were part of a collection of 42 pictures which belonged to M. Sauvageot, a wealthy amateur, who lived in the first half of the last century, and who presented it to the French nation in 1856. M. Sauvageot's collection during his lifetime was also celebrated for remarkable sculpture, arms and musical instruments. According to the Paris Journal, only 10 paintings now remain in the Louvre out of the Sauvageot collection of 42.

Rest First.

Another cherished British belief—that there is nothing like a holiday at the seaside for the weary, run-down worker is assailed, and by no less authority than the London Lancet.

"It is a mischievous idea in the layman's mind that the remedy for the sea, states of health is necessarily the sea air," says the medical journal, and it adds that in many cases a man needs rest at home or in the country to prepare him for his holiday, at the seaside.

For such a holiday may be exhausting. The individual seeking strength may not be able to respond "to the powerful and exciting stimulus of the bracing sea air."

For, the Lancet goes on, when sea-air disturbances arise, and "headaches, giddiness and a train of symptoms commonly summed up as biliousness, make an appearance.

"There can be no more satisfactory formula for the restoration of the hard worked person than first a soothing, restful environment, and then a tonic.

"To plunge straight into the tonic, invigorating air of the seaside is an irrational procedure for many run-down cases."

American Turfman Loses $250,000

London, Sept. 18.—English turfmen compute that Harry Payne Whitney will lose $250,000 this racing season alone when the expenses of his racing stud are reckoned up at the end of the year. Whitney's luck since March has been so bad that it has become a byword on race tracks.

He has over forty horses in training, but the total of races he has won is only thirteen, mostly small events, worth stakes of $1,500. This is all he has to show against an enormous expenditure, and the greater part of this was contributed by 4-year-old Whisk Broom.

The 3-year-old Borrow, in the front rank as a 2-year-old, has done nothing this season, and neither has All Gold or Iron Mask, of which high hopes were entertained.

The large stud of yearlings Whitney brought from the States last fall has been beaten out of sight this year in the 2-year old sprints.

Few English turfmen, even Leonold Rothschild, Sir Ernest Cassel and Joel Brothers, have maintained racing studs on such a scale of magnificence as has Whitney, and Joyner, his trainer, said last week that it cost him $50,000 this year in forfeits alone, that is, in sums paid to release horses from running in events where they were entered on this side. Entries for the leading 2 and 3-year-old races and weight for age events are made a year or 18 months ahead, and when Whitney has a yearling he thinks is promising he enters him in 30 or 40 races. In one Newmarket race to be run next year Whitney entered 30 horses last week. He will have to pay a forfeit of $100 each for the 29 that don't run. When it is remembered that it costs anything from $100 to $250 to make entry and scale on which Whitney does things the amount he stands to lose can readily be seen.

In striking contrast to Whitney's bad fortune has been the phenomenal luck of John Barnata Joel, Rand millionaire, who has seen so many financial vicissitudes. Joel won three out of six races on the opening day of the Doncaster meeting, bringing the total of his winnings in stakes for the season up to $150,000.

This is exclusive of amounts won in bets, for Joel is a tremendous gambler. His great 3-year-old Sun Star won the 2,000 guineas Newmarket stakes and the Derby, and the 2-year-old White Star annexed the best 2-year-old races. He will be the first favorite in next year's Derby. In handicap his horses have swept the boards.

A pitman at H—was very prone to exhibit the "wonderful scholarship" of his little boy to visitors.

"Just later," said he one day to a friend, "listen to our Billy what a wonderful skoller he is." Then he called out, "Billy, whit gender am I?"

"Maskeline," said Billy.

"Here, that, noo!" said the father, "And noo," continued he, taking up a Britannia metal teapot, "whit gender is this teapot, Billy?"

"Newtor, cried the lad.

"Why," said the father, "turning apologetically to his friend, 'that's the first time I ever kent our Billy mak' a mistake, but he's no' fair wrang efter all, he's only said newtor for 'newtor.'"

FRIDAY, SEPT. 29 1911

The election has come and gone giving the whole Dominion both Liberals and Conservatives an unexpected surprise, to course the Conservative papers propounded such was going to take place to that was of the nature of what they said, and it is doubtful if there was one man in the whole Dominion who thought there would be a change of government let alone such a sweep as took place in a large Liberal majority to a Conservative majority of 45 to 50 with a probability of more after the house meets.

In most of the provinces the change were comparatively slight but Ontario went with such a sweep as to swamp the rest.

Latest returns are as follows: Conservatives 114, Liberals 96, Nationalists 17 with 4 postponed elections viz. Gasp and Senecay in Que., Thunder Bay in Ont. and the Yukon. Ont. gave the Cons. 72, Lib. 13; Que. returned 36 Lib. 17 Natlts., and 10 Cons.; N. S. broke even 9, N. B. 8 Libs., 5 Cons.; P. E. I. also even 2, 2; Man. 7 Cons. 3 Lib. Sask. 9 Libs., 1 Cons.; Alta. 6 Lib. 1 Cons. B. C. gave a plumper of 7 Cons.

Much speculation is now in evidence as to the new Cabinet. In St. John it is reported that Dr. Daniel will be appointed Lieut.-Gov. and J. B. Baxter will contest the County as Conservative, and Powell will be given a Supreme Court judgeship.

Much speculation was at first ripe as to Sir Wilfred's course, many thinking that at his age he would retire from leadership of the opposition but it now gives out that he has decided to fight his party in opposition and lead them. The government are now working at clearing up their business and will leave very few positions for their incoming Government to fill and will likely resign in a few days.

It is stated that the Gov.-Gen. will delay his departure and remain to swear the new gov. and have it started into business before the Duke of Cornwall will come to take charge whose arrival will also be delayed.

Canada has refused the partial reciprocity measure but it is thought that the U. S. will let the measure remain on their books for a time at least, so that Canada will have the privilege of the U. S. market in certain lines.

Many of the office holders under the Government are wondering if their heads are to come off, but as the Liberals set the example of not displacing officials it is thought the new government will follow in the same lines, especially as fully one half or more of the government officials throughout the Country are Conservatives.

One thing is certain that no government ever took up the reins of government, with so much in their favor as the one now coming into power in the Dominion, with the country on the boom and many good measures under way ready to their hands, they would be very dauntless if they cannot make good and successful history in our fair Dominion for coming years.

Boys Suits from 8 to 12 yrs. $2.45 at Bensen's.

Craft in Cuba may end Independence.

(From the Philadelphia Ledger.)
Reports of Cuban conditions are naturally contradictory, but the persistence and the definiteness of the charges of graft and corruption pervading every branch of the Cuban administration cannot be ignored.

The Spanish tradition has not yet been obliterated by and means, and the allegations concerning the fraudulent issue of enormous privileges and revenues to the corporation which is undertaken the improvement of the ports of the island, and the organized blackmail extorted by executive, legislative and judicial officials are repeated with a circumstantiality of detail that carries the conviction that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire.

If half the stories that are brought from Cuba are true the moral state of the government does not differ greatly from that of our own country a few generations ago, when legislative and executive corruption flourished with a far more frequent disregard for decency and right than anything of which we present has cognizance.

The Cubans are now in an elemental stage of self government. It is, perhaps too much to expect of them that they should attain at the beginning of their experiment to a stage of efficiency and honesty to which many older self governing communities with more than a century of experience and training have not reached.

But they have the example of other communities before them, and unless they heed the warnings of their experience and take note of the peculiar delicacy of their position they may find their experiment cut short at no distant date.

Trentini Engaged to Marry Caruso

New York, Sept. 21.—Mme. Trentini occupied a box at the Victoria theatre with Arthur Hammerstein. And when Mr. Hammerstein had excused himself for a moment the prima donna admitted to a reporter that it was true she was engaged to marry Enrico Caruso, the tenor.

"I have been engaged to him for a year and a half," she said. She arrived on the Hamburg from Genoa.

"But how about your contract with Mr. Hammerstein not to marry for a period of two years during your engagement in 'Naughty Marietta' and other shows?" she was asked.

"Oh, what do I care about the contract she said with an air resigned to love. 'I shall break the contract. I am here to be happy. Of course, you know Caruso has been engaged so many times, and Trentini has not. And I do not think he will be so naughty when he has a wife."

Progress in Palestine.

(From the Maccabean.)
No new colonies were founded in Palestine this year with the exception of Kluereith, a large farm founded by the Palestine Land Development Company with the assistance of the National Fund, which employs many Jewish laborers. It is hoped that these laborers will become independent colonists by and by.

Work has also begun preparing the land for the co-operative colony of Dr. Oppenheimer, which was named Merhabiah. A large number of new olive trees were planted this year in the Herzl Forest. The Agriath Netaim obtained its charter from the Turkish government and is continuing to cover new lands with all kinds of plants. Thus more and more of the arid Palestinian soil is being reclaimed to new life.

Jewish immigration into the cities of Palestine is much more evident. Wealthy Jews from Russia are visiting Palestine in large numbers. It is true that not all of them find the possibilities in Palestine which they anticipated, but many of them, who are more enthusiastic and whose desire to settle there is strong, succeed in finding various activities and they settle there.

These Jews who have been used to a life of comfort in Europe, have joined some of the old settlers and have founded a new suburb, a new town really, near Jaffa, which they named Tel-Abih. This town built on the American style, inasmuch as it sprang out as if by magic within one year of the sea shore, is very beautiful. It is well planned, has wide paved streets lined with trees, every house is fitted up with water pipes and bathrooms, and they are built in a special Oriental style surrounded by a garden.

It is in all something of which the Jews in Palestine are justly proud. The Arabs and the European Christians were astonished at the remarkable achievement of the Jews, and their envy is genuine. All the residents of Jaffa, Christians as well as Mohammedans, take their holiday walks in Tel-Abih.

The gates of this suburb are closed on Saturdays to prevent the entrance of vehicles, although the majority of its inhabitants are not religious, but the Jewish Sabbath is accepted by all as a holy day of rest. The atmosphere in Tel-Abih is naturally entirely Jewish, and the Hebrew language in its beautiful Oriental accent is heard on every side.

On the main street, the Herzl street that leads to the sea, was built the Gymnasium Ibrith (the Hebrew high school) of Jaffa, a fine building in Oriental style. A cornerstone was recently laid in the same suburb for a large synagogue, which will be owned by the Jewish community of Jaffa. Tel-Abih was built through the assistance of our National Fund, which granted a loan for this purpose of about a quarter of a million francs to be repaid with interest in instalments.

A similar suburb is now being built in with the help of the National Fund, in close proximity to Tel-Abih, Jerusalem. It has a few new Jewish suburbs around the old town built mainly by Jewish teachers for their personal use with the help of the "Hilfsverein" - Germany. Haifa also lots are being acquired by Jews for building purposes around the site of the Jewish Technical Institute and the suburb on the plan of Tel-Abih is projected there.

Example of the Effect of Competition with Australia.

On March 18th last, 750 carcasses of frozen lamb from Australia were landed at St. John, N. B. 250 carcasses were sent to the William Davies Co., Limited, Toronto. The greater part of the remainder were shipped to Montreal. This lamb was purchased at nine cents per pound delivered in bond at Toronto.

Under existing conditions the duty was three cents per pound. This made the lamb cost twelve cents per pound laid down in Toronto.

Fresh dressed lambs were selling in Toronto at that time at 12 1/2c. to 13c. per pound.

Hence, after paying this duty there was not much difference between the prices of the Australian and Canadian lamb.

The duty protected the Canadian farmer against the Australian product.

But under reciprocity the duty on this frozen lamb will be only 1 1/4c. per pound, so that similar shipments could be laid down in Toronto at 10 1/2c. The Australian lambs were sold at 9 1/2c. delivered ex cars Montreal duty paid, the owners apparently being contented to undersell the Canadian market by one cent per pound.

Now, if you wish to see the effect upon the live stock market of the receipt of this Australian lamb in Montreal, turn up the Montreal papers of March 29th, in one of which, for example, the headline was "Sheep Sold Lower in Local Markets."

It, with the three cent duty on every pound, frozen lamb can be profitably imported from Australia. It seems almost conclusive that reducing the duty will also reduce the price of Canadian lamb accordingly.

And not only does Australia export frozen meat, but it exports butter as well. It exports annually between fifty and seventy-five million pounds of butter.

Australian butter can be laid down now in bond at Montreal at 24c. per pound. A duty of four cents per pound keeps it out of competition with the Eastern townships butter now selling at 26c. per pound.

The availability of yeast as a food is a problem upon which the Berlin Institute for Fermentation Industries is now working. More than 70,000 tons of yeast annually are produced by the German breweries, and as most of this is wasted, its use as food is economically desirable. A number of yeast preparations now on the market would seem to be well adapted for food. The dried yeast keeps indefinitely, the large proportion of protein makes it one of the cheapest foods and the bitter taste can be removed by sodium carbonate. Two chemists of the Institute have found that the dry yeast contains about two and a half times as much protein as beef, with a full value (2,000 calories per pound) more than three times that of beef. Dogs fed with large quantities of yeast seemed to thrive while more than 87 per cent of the nitrogen was assimilated; and some employees of the Institute substituted two-thirds of an ounce of dry yeast powder for their usual meat each morning for several weeks with unfavorable results.

Pull together, said Abraham Lincoln, or Upset the Boat.

A recent biographer of Abraham Lincoln, has some interesting things to say of "Honest Old Abe's" views on the dependence of the different classes on society on one another. "The farmer and the manufacturer" the president once said, with his characteristic shrewdness, "are both in the same boat and I reckon they've got to learn to navigate the craft together or they'll upset." He compared the case of a Pennsylvania farmer, continues the historian in question, "and a Pennsylvania iron implement maker whose properties adjoined. Under a protective policy the farmer supplied the ironmaker with bread, meat, vegetables, fruit, fodder for horses, etc., and the ironmaker supplied the farmer with all the iron, iron implements, etc., which he needed. Assuming that a change is made and the protective policy abandoned, the farmer then discovers that he can buy his iron implements cheaper from Europe than from his neighbor, assuming that he sells a sufficient quantity of flour in Europe to enable him to effect the purchase of the iron. He ultimately discovers that the cost of carriage to the coast, transportation by sea to England, insurance and carriage on arrival, does not enable him to receive such a good reward for his labor as he formerly did when selling his flour to his neighbor, the ironmaker. He, therefore, determines to sell his flour as before to his neighbor. But meantime the farmer discovers that while he has been purchasing his iron implements from Europe his neighbor, the ironmaker, has been compelled to stop his works and discharges his employees, not having sufficient work for them. The farmer, however, now finds that he has more wheat than he knows what to do with, that he is no longer able to sell his fruit, vegetables, fodder, meat, horses, etc., to his neighbor, the ironmaker, as he has gone out of business.

Whole Wheat Bread.
London doctors interested in the nutritive value of foodstuffs have issued a document in which they recommend the use of whole meal in making bread instead of fine white flour. It is maintained that there are in the whole meal two and one-half times the amount of mineral substances that nourish the body.

Yes, it is well! The evening shadows lengthen

Homes golden gates shine on our ravish sight;

And though the tender ties strove to strengthen

Break one by one at evening time; 'tis light,

'Tis well! The evening was often dull and dreary;

The spirit faintest oft beneath its load;

No sunshine came from skies all gray and dreary,

And yet our feet were bound to tread that road.

'Tis well! The earth with all her myriad voices

Has lost its power our senses to enthrall

We hear, above the tumult of the noise,

Soft tones of music, like an angel's call.

ANCEBORN'S "E" ESQUIRE

For Cae Water Was Cured in Germany

The recovery of a letter which had been sent to a little town in Germany, a letter delivered to the person addressed, cured the water of the bottom of sailing "Esquiro" to a state of sea sickness of small after. The letter in question would probably have been "E" Esquire's, Mr. John Brown. But the sender had addressed it "John Brown, Esquire" and the communication went comfortably in the "E" compartment of the post restante department, waiting to be called for by "Mr. Brown." One of the popular guide books warns against the use of "Esq." saying that it might be mistaken for a name.

ON A GRAIN OF WHEAT.

A Prayer Containing 382 Letters Inscribed and Four Figures

Prayers have been written and engraved on many very small objects, but only one person ever has been patient and painstaking enough to inscribe a complete prayer on a grain of wheat. One day Sir Moses Montefiore, the great Jewish financier of England, received a small tin box in the mail. On the cover of the box was written, "A prayer for Moses Montefiore, by Hauch Mordecai, son of Zeh Hirsch Scheinmann, of Jerusalem." The box contained a single grain of wheat, on which was inscribed, in characters so small that they could only be read with the aid of a powerful microscope, the 382 Hebrew letters of the prayer, and the date of the year (Hebrew reckoning), 5648. Sir Moses kept the prayer in his desk until he died, and it is now preserved with religious care by one of his friends.

One per cent. of the water of the oceans would cover all the land to a depth of 290 feet.

If the four mills of Canada were operated to their capacity, they could produce flour enough for 30,000,000 people.

A well known judge has ruled that wives have a perfect right to read their husband's private letters. We found that out long before the judge.

Men think that we are smarter than they are, otherwise they would not expect so much more of us than they can possibly do themselves.

Gold at Fiskahegan.

Rich Find of Precious Metal Made.

Mr. Joseph Johnson claims to have made a rich gold discovery at Fiskahegan, about 30 miles from St. Andrews.

About three weeks ago he was out on a shooting expedition when, in searching for a bird he had shot, he came across a protruding piece of what looked like solid quartz.

He broke off a piece which showed almost clear gold.

He took the quartz to Fredericton and had it assayed. He says it will go $500 to the ton.

Mr. Johnson has secured the necessary license to protect his valuable find.

This is not the first time that gold has been found at Fiskahegan. Some years ago, traces of the precious metal were found on a piece of property owned by the late Dr. Gove. There was such a small quantity of the metal, however that it was not worth working.

If Mr. Johnson has discovered the mother lode he has made a rich find. —Leacon.

Italy and Turkey on Verge of War.

London, Sept. 27.—A news despatch from Paris today says that Italy has sent an ultimatum to Turkey saying that the latter must agree to an Italian occupation of Tripoli and that unless a reply is received by tomorrow, Italy will immediately proceed with her threatened occupation.

Paris, Sept. 21.—The Italian embassy here today authorized the declaration that Italy seeks satisfaction from Turkey for a series of recent incidents. Among these incidents are the "arbitrary arrest of Italian subjects at Constantinople and their imprisonment despite all the Italian government's remonstrations, the seizure of an Italian vessel on the Red Sea by Turkish gunboats, the abduction of a young Italian girl from her parents by an Ottoman, and the refusal to comply her release and finally the insecurity of Italians in Tripoli.

The attainable size of hailstones has been brought to notice by a terrific storm witnessed on Aug. 6 by some campers at a height of 4,400 feet in the Pyrenees. In the second of two storms about noon, the land was suddenly amburled with hailstones as large as lawn tennis balls, the roar was deafening; sheep and cattle were killed, and the ground was deeply pitted and then covered with a winter sheet of white. Some stones weighed as much as seven ounces. Stones of a storm in the Orkneys were estimated to weigh eight ounces, in October 1899; and there is a tradition of a fall in the Pyrenees in 1788 of stones weighing nine ounces.

Murder at Campbellton

D. G. Bruce, merchant tailor, of Campbellton, and at one time in the tailoring business in St. John with the late James Kelly, died from a wound inflicted in the eye by Dr. Doherty, on Friday last. The men had an argument following the election, and Doherty jabbed him in the face with the point of his umbrella. The eye was pierced and the brain injured, resulting in Bruce's death shortly afterwards.

Bruce was a highly respected citizen. He leaves a widow and two children.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR THROAT.

Necessity of Rigid Precaution Emphasized.

Necessity of rigid precaution and the skilled care of a specialist in all cases of serious illness and especially in the case of communicable diseases is emphasized in the following clipping from the publication of the Board of Health, the "Sanitary Bulletin," for May:

"Every member of a certain family had a sore throat four weeks ago, which was diagnosed as follicular tonsillitis or quincy. Two of the girls served as maids in other families, in each of which one of the children took diphtheria and died. Cultures were then taken of members of the first family with sore throats and each showed diphtheria. As they were able to be around, and apparently getting better of their local trouble, constitutional treatment was neglected. They persisted in refusing to believe that they had diphtheria, until baby could no longer stand the strain—and died! Three deaths from 'quincy sore throats,' and all this happened in Buffalo."

J. Sutton Clark is offering two prizes, one of $50. and one of $20. for competition by the school children of the county to be contested for during the coming season. The conditions of the contest are as follows: For an Essay on Letang harbor as a National Port, open to all school children of Charlotte County. Essays are to be in the hands of the teachers by May 1st 1912 who will examine them and select the two best which will be forwarded to a committee composed of Senator Gilmor, R. E. Armstrong and Hon. Geo. J. Clark who will decide which will take the prizes.

Dr. Taylor is also offering a prize of $20. on the same conditions for the best essay on Tuberculosis.

While Mr. Clark's subject is one which is of great interest to the county and one that should be of great pleasure for all to write on, and one on which the students should be able to obtain a large amount of information of local interest, the subject chosen by the Dr. we should think of entirely too heavy a theme for young people, and it also one on which no one outside the medical profession can write of to any extent in an original manner, and all who contend will have to merely buy or borrow medical books and pamphlets and copy wholesale from them, which will be of very little benefit to the purpose desired.

After the service refreshments were served, and each guest partook of an excellent Bride's Cake. Her wedding dress was a very becoming pale blue silk and she carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents among which were several cheques. Her travelling costume was of a navy blue tailored suit with white hat. The bridal party left by the 10.40 train for a tour in the province and showers of friends.

Obituary

Eldorado Gilmor, one of the best known residents of the county died on Sunday night last, the funeral took place from his residence at Second Falls on Tuesday.

Deceased has throughout his life been active in business conducting large lumber operations and within the last two years had erected a large mill but which had not got fully in operation. He had always been of a smart active disposition, and within a very few weeks of his death was in town apparently in good health although for some years trouble with a lame leg which suddenly got worse and gangrene setting in a rapid pace. His family have the sympathy of the community in their loss.

Geo. Mahlar a well known young man of the town died at his home on the lake road on Tuesday about 5 p.m. He had been troubled with Bright's disease for some time and took a sudden bad turn on Sunday. The funeral takes place today, (Thursday) conducted by the Rev. E. A. MacPhee and will be under the auspices of the I. O. and Canadian Foresters, of which orders he was a member.

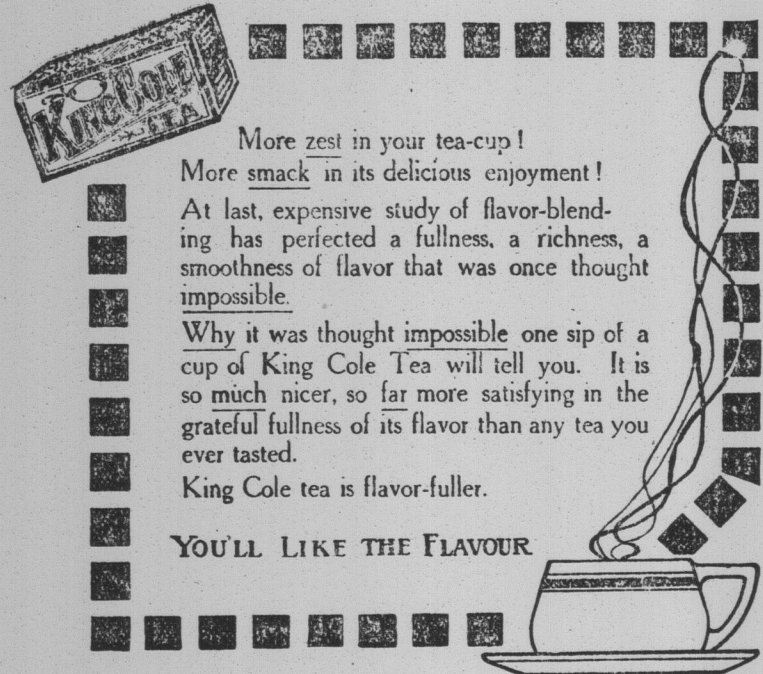

Mrs. Lavinia Cawley, likely the oldest resident of the town died at her residence here Tuesday night. She had reached the advanced age of 91 years, and in her younger days was an active and well known resident of the place, but owing to her advanced age of late years has been somewhat lost sight of by the younger portion of the community. She leaves one son E. M. Cawley and four daughters Mrs. Cartley McGee, Mrs. Hugh McLeod, Mrs. Anna and Miss Hattie, another son Hill predeceased her by a few months.

More zest in your tea-cup!
More smack in its delicious enjoyment!
At last, expensive study of flavor-blending has perfected a fullness, a richness, a smoothness of flavor that was once thought impossible.
Why it was thought impossible one sip of a cup of King Cole Tea will tell you. It is so much nicer, so far more satisfying in the grateful fullness of its flavor than any tea you ever tasted.
King Cole tea is flavor-fuller.

Whiskey as Flour.
Captured Together With Man on Cart Wednesday Afternoon. (Portland Argus.)

Evidently one method of ransacking the blockade relative to the bringing of wet goods into this city was discovered Wednesday afternoon by Sergt. Haskell and Special Officers Herbert and Blanchard of the police department when they captured W. J. Sullivan driving into the city by way of Takay's bridge with two barrels of whiskey disguised as flour. The barrels containing about 30 gallons each, were nicely concealed in flour barrels, making a fine fit and calculated to deceive the ordinary person into the belief that the contents were anything other than in dicted by outside appearance.

Sullivan was taken into custody and later released on bail for his appearance in court Thursday morning to answer to a charge of illegal possession.

It was the impression that the goods has been shipped to some point outside the city and were being carted in to be dispensed in accordance with prohibition methods.

The Welsh Riots.
(English Paper.)

The strikes in South Wales have been followed by an outbreak of disorder which has had two unexpected features. First was wholesale looting, in which "hitherto respectable people" took part. It is a well known fact that in an excited crowd the sense of the personal responsibility of the individual tends to diminish, and peaceable folk find themselves joining in acts of combined violence that singly they would shrink from. But there is a long way from this to the systematic carrying off of whole cartloads of other people's property and to efforts to conceal stolen goods after the day of riot. Still more unexpected has been the anti-Jewish outbreak. When such things happened in Russia, the English press pointed to the Jew baiting as a sign of "retrograde barbarism in the Russian people and thanked heaven that the people of Great Britain were not like those of such a benighted land. No doubt the Russian press will make some pointed comments on the news from Wales. The most serious lesson from these events is the warning that in all countries the breakdown of the daily habit of civic order may result even from legitimate agitation, and the leaders of the people have to make the most strenuous efforts in times of excitement to prevent this degeneration taking effect. There is evidence of such a breakdown in other places. It is almost incredible, but is true for all that, that at Lincoln last week a mob sioned the firemen who were dealing with a factory fire. The fireman's righty one of our popular heroes, and such an attack seems like a piece of criminal madness. It is well to bear the Lincoln outrage in mind when for party purposes it is suggested that the wild work in Wales was characteristic of the "Celtic fringe." There is none of that fringe in the eastern countries of England.

Cost of Governing N.w York City.
New York, Sept. 19.—It will cost $17,000,000 to run the city of New York this year. To show how this immense sum is spent and also how much the departments want to spend next year, and invite intelligent criticism of these estimates, the city will lay out $350,000 next month on an exhibit that will reveal the details of city administration in such simple form that they may be understood by the humblest citizen. Figures prepared by the various departments show that the city employs 107,000 persons, 85,000 of them all the time, and 22,000 temporarily. The largest group of employees is the school teachers, who number 17,200. The police come next with 10,418. The firemen number 4,346. Care of the streets, parks, sewers, docks and bridges requires 13,209. In winter 7,000 snow shovellers and drivers of snow removal carts are employed. The total pay roll of the city is $88,660,021. The largest single item of expenses next to salaries and wages, is "debt service," for municipal improvements. This amounted to $47,000,000 in 1910, and has nearly quadrupled since the greater city was established in 1898.
