Lord Roberts himself is at Elandsfontein junction. His forces will be placed to the south, west and north of Johannesburg subsequent to the surrender of the city. These units will probably be reconcentrated while Gen. French advances from the advantageous position he already occupies. The main army is converging towards the railroad, following closely on his

First Reports.

DISPATCH FROM EARL OF ROSS-

London, Thursday, May 31-2 a.m.-The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch from the Earl of Rosslyn, who was a prisoner at Pretoria, and who, as a civilian, appears to have been released:

"Pretoria, Wednesday, May 30-11:40 a.m.-Pretoria will be occupied in about two hours, without resistance. The president has gone to Watervallboven. Bourgomaster De Souza is authorized to receive the British. He, with an influential committee of citizens, including Chief Justice Gregorowski, has been appointed to pre-

Their action cannot be too highly praised. I was permitted to accompany the officers. Everything was quiet." SURRENDER OF JOHANNESBURG.

London, May 31.—A dispatch from Lorenzo Marquez, dated Wednesday, "Commandant Kraus has surrendered Johannesburg to Lord Roberts."

Pretoria, Wednesday, May 30.-British officers are now at Johannesburg that the municipality is ready to sur- dictating terms of surrender. The advance guard is half-way between Johannesburg and Pretoria. It is reported that there is a force also at Hatherly. All the forces have been dismissed from the forts around Pretoria. President Kruger is now at Watervallboven.

BOER FORCES ABANDONED PRETORIA.

London, Thursday, May 31-3 a.m.-Yesterday at noon the British were only about two hours' march from Pretoria, and the Boer military forces will not occupy it without fighting, if had abandoned the city. This intelligence comes from the Reuter agent at Transvalal capital, and from the Earl of Rosslyn in a press dispatch. The two messages left about the same time. At 2 o'clock this morning the war office had received no news from Lord Roberts which the officials would make public; but it is assumed that the press advices are correct.

Most of the London morning papers. through the courtesy of the Daily Mail, prints Lord Rosslyn's dispatch, and comment upon it, treating the war as ended. Some of the more cautions critics think that guerilla warfare is likely to be carried on for some time in various parts of the conquered territory. Although the Boer forces are dissolving, Lord Roberts apparently has not yet taken any considerable quantities of artillery, arms or stores. Large bodies of Boers must still be somewhere in the field.

KRUGER'S REFUGE. Watervalboven or Waterfallboven is 130 miles due east of Pretoria, on the Delagoa Bay Railway. It should not be confuesed with Waterval, ten miles north of Pretoria, where the British prisoners are. Watervalboven is a small place, in a mountainous couning evidence that the annexation of try. The seat of the Boer Government the Free State by no means implies —what there is left of it—will probably what there is left of it-will probably be Lydenburg, to the north.

PRACTICALLY OVER. The Times says this morning: "The war is practically over. By this time the British flag is flying in Pretoria. Mr. Kruger has fled, and is ere this way to Delagoa Bay. Mr. Hay, son of the United States secretary of state, who holds the office of American consul at Pretoria, and who, in that capacity, took charge of our in-terests, thoughtfully insisted on a special step for safeguarding the large number of British prisoners."

EXODUS FROM PRETORIA. A dispatch from Lorenzo Marquez, dated Wednesday, says: "By tonight's train from Pretoria, arrived a few Greeks, who say they were told to leave Pretoria Tuesday. They affirm that the train in which they left was shelled by the British, and that half of the train was cut off, the remain-der steaming away. This incident probably occurred at Elandsfontein Junction. Passengers from Pretoria assert that the town is utterly demoralized. There is a mad rush for the coast. Five trainloads of fugitives are expected here tonight." Two Australians, who escaped from Pretoria on April 28 have arrived at Mafeking, having spent a month on the veldt with but little food and no blankets. They slept by day and marched at night. They complain biterly of the treatment at Pretoria. It is reported that a special train from Pretoria, on April 28, with fu-gitives, was derailed on the Transvaal side of the Komatipoort, a number of passengers being killed or injured.

Events elsewhere in the field of war seem to dwindle in comparison. Gen. Hunter re-entered the Transvaal at

PORTUGAL'S ACTION.

Lorenzo, Marquez, Wednesday after-noon, May 30.—Goods traffic between here and the Transvaal was officially closed today, the reason apparently being the military movements in progress. A Boer commando has arrived at Komatipoort. All the Portuguese troops have been ordered to be in readiness to proceed to the frontier, and the Portuguese fleet along the coast has received orders to concentrate here. The Lorenzo Marquez correspondents think the border trouble be-tween the Transvaal and Portuguese may come to a head at any moment. Komati bridge is strongly defended. Yesterday the Portuguese authorities were preparing to resist a possible engagement. A mule battery was sent to the frontier. The Lorenzo Marques. correspondent of the Times says: "16 would not be surprising if a large proportion of the rebel Dutch sought temporary refuge on Portuguese terri-tory. Although the authorities here tory. are reticent, they are not blind to such a possibility."

THE YEOMANRY. The war office has communicated to the organizers of the Impermit Yeomanry the government's gratitude for the service of "this force of well-equipped fighting men, to whose admirable service in the field Lord Roberts has borne such high testi-mony." The war office adds that the time has arrived when the committee of the Imperial Yeomanry can satery be released from its "arduous duties so patriotically assumed at a time national emergency," and Lord Larsdown expresses, on behalf of the government, its sense of the great debt that the state owes to the Yeomanry. By the release of the British prisoners at Waterval a full brigade will be added to the army of Lord Roberts, as there were 177 officers and 4,182 privates among them.

MADE A LIEUTENANT. London, May 30.—In the Gazette to-day her Majesty the Queen officially approves of Lord Roberts' recom-mendation of the promotion of Pte. Murray Hendrie, of Hamilton, Ont., and now serving with the Royal Can-adian Regiment of Infantry in South Africa, to the position of second lieutenant in the Second Dragoon Guards by augmentation. LORD ROBERTS' DISPATCHES. London, May 31 .- The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts, under date of Germiston, May 30: "In answer to a flag of truce I sent to Johannesburg this morning, the commandant came to see me. He begged me to defer entering the town for 24 hours, as there were many armed burghers still inside. I agreed to this, as I am most anxious to avert the possibility of anything like disturbance inside the town, and as bodies of the enemy are still holding the hills in the immediate neigh-

HAMILTON'S MEN BORE THE BRUNT.

London, May 31—11:02 a.m.—The war office has received from Lord Roberts a dispatch, dated Germiston, May 30, p.m., saying: "The brunt of the fighting yesterday fell upon Ian Hamilton's column. I have sent him, as already mentioned, to work around to the west of Johannesburg, in support of French's cavalry, which was directed to go north near the road leading to Pretoria. I have not heard from French yet, but Hamilton, in a report which has just reached me, states that about 1 o'clock in the afternoon he found his way blocked by the enemy, strongly posted on some kopies and ridges three miles south of the Rand. They had two heavy guns and several field guns and pom-poms. Hamilton forthwith attacked.

THE GORDONS' GOOD WORK. "The right was led by the Gordons who, after capturing one extremity of the ridge, wheeled around and worked along it until after dark, clearing it of the enemy, who fought most obsti-nately. OLD LONDON KEPT COOL. London, May 31-1 a.m.—[Toronto Globe's Special.]—A striking contrast was offered between the scenes in Pall Mall and other thoroughfares last night and those of Mafeking day. The fate of Johannesburg and the richest gold district in the world was hanging in the balance, but there were no throngs of anxious spectators in front of the war office, and there was no unwonted stir excitement in Piccadilly or on the Strand. The outlanders, whose grievances and rights were the direct cause of England's most arduous and costly war since Napoleon's time, were apoutside the range of popular sympathies, whereas a fortnight ago London was shouting itself hoarse over the deliverance of a few hundred colonial troops from starvation at Mafe-king. Hour after hour passed, and there was no word respecting the triumphal march of Lord Roberts into Johannesburg, which had been timed for noonday, nor any message in regard to Gen. French's expected swoop in the direction of Pretoria.

STRICKEN INDIA. London, May 31.-The Daily Express has the following from Bombay, dated yesterday: An unprecedentedly severe epidemic of cholera has broken out in the northern districts of Bombay Presidency, especially in the famine camps. The deaths have increased 40 per cent in three days. In the Kaira district there have been 1,330 deaths in seven days. The government has made a special grant of £1,000 to cremate the dead immediately.

In Palahur State, on the first day, there was one death; on the second there were 24, and on the third there were upwards of 400. The swiftness of the infection was due to the fact that the first death was near the only available water supply. The germs were thus carried all over the camp. In the city of Bombay there have been 67 deaths in the last seven days.

The conference, which lasted four weeks, is considered to have been one slavery question. Among the principal actions of the confer-ence were the abolition of the time limit on pastorates; the ratification of the equal representation amendment as proposed by the Rock River conference, together with the seating of the provisional lay delegates; the adop-

Rainy River District Being Devastated The Situation Very Serious.

Toronto, May 31.—Reports from the Rainy River district are to the effect that the whole country is on fire. The season's cut of lumber is being burned up, as well as the standing timber, millions of dollars going up in smoke. It is undoubtedly the worst fire that has ever devastated the Al-gomas. The crown lands department are in receipt of a letter from W. Margach, one of the agents in the district, stating that the situation is very grave. TWO FROM THE HAMS. Port Huron, Mich., May 30.—Port Hu-ron defeated Hamilton two games by ouperior playing, winning the first game by the magnificent effort of Pitcher Barry, and the second as a result of putting up a faultless fielding game. The first game was a phenomenal one, only 28 Hamilton men facing the pitcher in the nine innings, Barry estab-lishing a record in the league by allowing his opponents but one hit, and not issuing a single pass to first. Also, out of four times at bat, he made one double and three singles. In the second game Port Huron's stick work was light, but was aided by costly errors by the visitors. Breck Connors, a Port aron boy on first base for the locals, had 29 put outs, 1 assist, and no errors to his credit. Right Fielder McKevitt, of the Hamiltons, was responsible for an unpleasant feature. For kicking on a decision Umpire Smith fined him $5. He

POLITICAL NOTES

Young Liberal Club Organized at Simcos-West Huron Appeal.

A largely attended meeting of Simcoe young Liberals was held Monday evening in the parlors of the Norfolk House for the purpose of organizing a Young Liberal club for the town, to Association. The following officers were appointed: Honorary president, Mr. J. Charlton, M.P.; honorary president, E. C. Carpenter, M.P.P.; president, G. O. Werrett; first vice, J. Porter; second vice, W. B. Tomlinson; third vice, Dr. McIntosh; secretary-treasurer, H. D. Petrie; executive committee, Jas. Stewart Geo. Williamson, Jas. Cutting W. art, Geo. Williamson, Jas. Cutting, W. E. Kelly, H. Wood, J. D. Murdock, C. Eaid, E. J. Austin, H. Burrows, S. G. Starting, H. Fairchild, D. Rattenbury,

Hon. J. T. Garrow has filed reasons for his appeal against the decision of Mr. Justice Osler and Mr. Justice Rose unseating him in West Huron. The principal claim is that Vanstone, one of the persons found guilty of corrupt practices, was not an agent, and that the illegal acts of Mr. Alex. Smith, the organizer, and Mr. Hugh Guthrie, were of a trifling nature and did not warrant the action taken. Mr. Garrow, in the general election, was elected by the vote of the returning officer. He resigned, and secured 45 majority in the bye-election, and it is this election that is being contested.

At the annual meeting of the North Middlesex Conservative Association, held in Ailsa Craig on Wednesday, officers were elected as follows: Honorary president, John Fox, Lucan; president, Reeve C. Walker, Ailsa Craig; vice-president, J. H. Roberts, Parkhill; secretary, Charles Stanley, Lucan; trea-surer, D. F. Stuart, Ailsa Craig.

Politics and the War in England.

The recent bye-elections in England have their lessons. Sometimes it is difficult to draw any valid conclusion from particular cases. But in the present excitement some of these elections have been fought out on a clear, definite issue. Even in this case it is well to draw our inferences carefully. We may safely say that these elections indicate that the great mafority of the English people see that the war must be vigorously pressed to a speedy conclusion, and that the two states which have caused such trouble must not be allowed to have in future any powers which would be dangercus to the peace of Africa. People mey be prepared to vote this much who wish that the war had been avoided, and who even think that it might have been avoided had the Government laid hold of the problem vigorously at an earlier date.

It does not-follow that intelligent people who vote with the Government, approve all the details of its policy, or are prepared to condone all the blunders which marked the conduct of the war in its earlier stages. The English people are good politicians, because they confine themselves to the question Immediately before them; and so. from the moment President Kruger's forces marched into British territory, the majority of all classes and parties saw that the nation must strain every nerve to vindicate its honor and protect its people.

Another lesson from these elections is the division of the Liberal party on matters of imperial policy. We find Liberals rejoicing in the defeat of their own candidate because of his views on the war, and because they felt that if the Liberal party was to be committed to "Little Englandism," defeat was better than victory. So one thing is clear, that there is an awakening in the Liberal party to the danger of allowing persons of an extreme type to lead the party into an untenable anti-imperial position. The present condition of the Liberal party in Britain is such as to make its friends despondent, but $5 megeneration and revival may come sooner than we ex-

It is likely that if the present Government takes advantage of a great military victory to bring on the elections it may sweep the country. But a political victory thus bought may not be the best for the country or for the party gaining it. Many things will need attention which cannot be settled in a bitter partizan spirit. The settlement of Africa and the reform of the army, must be carried through in a way that will win the approval of the best minds of all parties. We are interested, if distant, onlookers of the fray, and we can look upon these things from a broad imperial standpoint without making them a question of party.

Social Reform in Britain.

Noel Buxton, in the Contemporary Review for April, writing of "Public Houses," says that the prospects of temperance reform are brightening at last. He bases this conclusion upon such facts as the following: The licensing commission, far from reducing disagreement to chaos, has produced an amazing unanimity. For once the trade, through its representatives, concurs in a drastic scheme. The teetotalers also are showing what is called a more reaconable temper. They are beginning to recognize that temperance must be merged in the general programme of social reformers. "The teetotaler is too fond of regarding ignorance as bliss; it behooves us rather to approach this question, not blowing trumpets for the fall of the alcoholic Jericho, but, in the spirit of far-eastern Buddhism, of politeness towards possibilities." There are two alternatives to the present system-to have no licenses at all, or to have them under public management; and this gentleman thinks we have heard too much about the first system, and too little about the

In the way of reformation there are ten methods mentioned which are said to have produced improvement in Continental Europe, and the question is, how far do they apply to the life of England: 1. Decreased number of public houses. 2. Short hours. 3. Pure liquor. 4. High price of spirits. 5. Limitation of quantity sold to each consumer. 6. Supply of oheap food. 7. Supply of teetotal drinks. 8. Refusal of credit. 9. Non-interest of manager in profits. 10. Control over the manager. These are reviewed briefly, and as we read this review we find that this problem of controlling and improving the trade in liquor is exceedingly complex and difficult. Each of these different lines may be worked in different places, and all of them in some places. But when we are reminded that it would take 50 millions sterling to buy out all the publicans in London, it will easily be seen that it would not be easy to try the experiment there. But if the local authorities were given the power to take over the trade, a trial of the system which has been credited with good influence at Gothenburg might be made in some smaller place. Teetotalers as a rule are averse to the idea of the community dealing in strong drink in any form; but in 1877 Sir Wilfred Lawson voted for Mr. Chamberlain's resolution, which aimed at making the experiment. It is evident that while total prohibition is altogether out of the question for England, social reformers feel that something must be done to lead the nation

many places where public management would be worse than the present system, and would open the way for new abuses. In some of the well-administered towns of England it might be Any such experiment tried. would be watched with keen interest. After all, we shall have to depend more upon real religious forces and social influences than upon most of the external restraints mentioned here. There must be a co-operation of legal force and moral suasion.

"Imperial and Imperious."

An English journal, speaking of Mr. Chamberlain's recent Birmingham speech, said that he is imperial, but he is also imperious. This, we think, is true, and also unfortunate. It is not well that these two ideas should be associated together. We read not long ago of a gentleman in England who, being a teetotaler, did not like the word imperial, because it remembered him of the "imperial pint." That is not the common objection. There are many loval subjects of the Queen who are not averse to the pint, imperial or otherwise. The feeling against imperialism, so far as it exists in Liberal circles, arises from the fact that many associate with it the old ideas of empire, aggressiveness in foreign relations, and autocracy at home. It seems strange that Mr. Chamberlain, who began his political life as a Republican Home Ruler, and everything else that is ultra-democratic. should provoke such suggestions. But strange things happen in the political

It is difficult to say just now what Mr. Chamberlain's formal political creed is, but his style and spirit seems to many people to savor more of a despotic ruler than a representative of the people. In politics a man's tone and temper tell just as much as his professed beliefs. We can understand a man of Mr. Chamberlain's vigor resenting sharp criticism, which to him seems to be unjust. The fact that he is made the target for the flercest criticism tends to create a certain amount of sympathy for him in the public mind. But of late he has shown an amount of irritation at criticism of any kind which is not healthy in a public man, who must try, in a conciliatory spirit, to reconcile conflicting interests. He speaks of a Conservative victory as a victory for the imperial forces, and tries to identify the success of Lord Roberts' immense army with the success of his individual policy and personal methods. This, to say the least of it, is not wise. It is not wise in England or Canada to make "imperialism" a thing of one party, or the section of a party.

Mr. Chamberlain was most bitter against those who believe that the war ought to have been avoided; but who, now that we are in it, say that it must be pushed to a successful conclusion-that is, those who condemn Mr. Chamberlain's diplomacy as well as Mr. Kruger's stupicity. We do not think that this position is so inconsistent as it seems to be, but in any case it is the position of thousands of intelligent Britons in all parts of the Empire. We cannot discuss this in detail now, but one thing is certain, that so long as Mr. Chamberlain holds a public position he must meet fair criticism in a fair spirit, unless the strife is to be made unnecessarily bitter; and another thing is equally certain, that people will refuse to admit that the fate of the Empire is bound up with the fortunes of any particular politician. A proud impeniousness will not help forward a true imperialism.

WITH ECZEMA

Baby's Skin Red and Raw. Doctor's Medicine was Painful and Useless. A Stranger Advised CUTICURA. Cured in a Month, with Skin Smooth and Fair.

My little daughter, when six months old, broke out with Eczema. I took her to a doctor and he pronounced it "Moist Eczema," and prescribed for her. She screamed when I put the medicine on her, and I stopped using it. It was indeed very painful. Her skin was all red and raw, and moisture coming from it all the time. A perfect stranger to me advised me to use CUTICURA remedies. I got CUTI-CURA SOAP and CUTICURA (ointment), and they entirely cured her within a month. She is twenty-three months old to-day, and her skin is like a piece of silk, and fair as a lily. MRS. E. J. KANE, 815 Ohio Ave., Oct. 7, 1898. Kansas City, Kan.

PIMPLES CUTICURA SOAP I commenced to get pimples and black-heads when I was fifteen years old. My face was covered. I spent about ten dollars for soaps, medicine, etc., but they never did me any good. I used CUTICURA SOAP for two weeks, the pimples and blackheads began to disappear, and it only took three cakes of Cu-TICURA SOAP to cure my face of those homely pimples. JOSEPH B. CLAMER, Sept. 21, '98. 327 Court St., Elizabeth, N. J.

My face was covered with a pimply, rup-tured, and itching skin. After using Corr-CURA SCAP for six weeks, all the pimples went away, my skin getting as soft as velvet. CROME, 223 Melrose St., Chicago, Ill. Eept. 21, 1898.

in statistics and adjectives. It has lowered imperial and domes postal charges, and yet has reduced the deficit in the Postoffice Department from $780,000 to $389,000. It has ordered the railways to abandon discriminating rates in favor of a corporation which for years con-trolled the railways of the United States. It has seen the trade of Canada grow from $224,000,000 in 1897, to $321,-000,000 in 1899, and has promoted all legitimate trade interests by timely and sympathetic legislation. It has seen general trade conditions improve, many old factories enlarged, many new factories opened, employ-

It has, by the plan adopted for the construction of the Crow's Nest Rail-way, secured a reduction in grain rates for the western farmer, and other freight concessions from the Canadian Pacific Railway, equal in all to from $700,000 to $800,000 a year; held control of the Crow's Nest Pass; reserved for competing roads the right of use of the Crow's Nest rails through the mountains; provided for cheap coal for British Columbia smelters, to the great advantage of the mining industry; taken over 50,000 acres of coal lands as a guarantee against monopoly in coal products; taken power to regulate freight rates on all traffic originating on the Crow's Nest road, or destined for points on the Crow's Nest system, and made it impossible for the Canadian Pacific Railway to increase the rates on many staple articles beyond the prices fixed by the Crow's Nest bargain.

London, Thursday, May 31. An overcast sky and intermittent rain had their usual effect upon the size of the market this morning, al-though a number of farmers and market gardeners proved themselves of a pirit that brooks no interference from the elements by putting in an appearance on the square with their usual supply of May staples, yet it might generally be said that they went begging for customers. City folk, as a rule, have an aversion to searching for supplies through rain and mud, and today was no exception to the rule. The butchers who were present, and they were not many. spirit that brooks no interference from present, and they were not many, were wise enough to leave their large supplies at home, and hence they were enabled to go back with empty wag-ons. The gardeners, however, were not so fortunate, and when they returned to their homes their horses pulled loads that were not much lighter than those they had taken to the city in the early hours of the day. The same indisposition to purchase was noticeable in other departments, and poultry and vegetables and dairy produce dealers left the square with much disgust and little money. depression even effected the wool and hide trade, in which the monthly changes are generally as regular as the seasons, and today the dealers did not feel justified in quoting new

Dear Sir,—Have been using the Melotte No.

2 since July last, and have been more than pleased with it. Turns so easy. I examined all the separators at the Western Fair, 1899, and by the number of sticks thrown at and around the Melotte I was satisfied I had found the "sweet apple tree." W. P. CHARLTON. Call and see, or write for circular.

GLAD TO GET OUT

Ben Bowen's Balloon Experience at Coney Island.

New York, May 31.-Benjamin Bowen, of this city, had a most exciting tended view of the surrounding country. After rising 100 feet in the air it was drawn to the earth by means of a windlass. Bowen was the only of a windlass. passenger in the balloon on one of its trips last evening. He made the ascension safely, and was looking contentedly out to the sea, when the rope that held the balloon parted. Slowly the balloon began to rise. A fresh southern breeze carried it inland with some rapidity. A big crowd of pleasure-seekers witnessed the accident, and followed the course of the run-away, frantically shouting to Bowen to slip the anchor ropes. Heeding their advice he lowered the grapling irons as far as the ropes would permit, and, fortunately, as the balloon passed over a giant elm tree, the anchor caught well down in the branches. Bowen then found the way to open the jet which allowed the gas to escape. Gradually the balloon sank until the carriage touched the topmost branches. Bowen clambered out, and reached the ground in safety.

His mother, carrying her baby and a lamp, fell on a stairway, the lamp setting fire to the house. The carpets, saturated with oil from the lamp, burned fiercely, and the boy, realizing that the house was doomed, dragged out a brotner and sister, who were intent on rushing through the fire to their mother. Then he returned for his mother, whose arms clasped the baby, but her weight was too great for his little arms, and as the flames were closing in on him, he gave a last despairing look at the doomed woman and fled, heartbroken, to a place of safety.

CHAPTER XIV.

Vixen crouched like one stunned upon the nard moor, taint with pain and crushed by the awful suddenness of buss Josepha's death. Tracy Tempest went over ner anxiously.

My poor child, what shall I do with you now?" he muttered, half to himsen, half to her, in tones that were traught with indignation and distress. Vixen roused herself from her forlorn attitude, struggling to her feet

"I will go to Mrs. Brown's. It is only a square from here. She will let me stay all night, I think," she said, and, clinging to his arm, she went out in the darkness from the little cottage that had been her home for fitteen years, from the vines and the flowers she had planted and tended with loving hands, yet forgetful of her own misery in her bitter woe over Josepha's fate.

"They might have let me kiss her face just once," she sobbed miserably, and he answered soothingly.

Tomorrow your father will relent and take you home. He cannot continue to believe such unjust things against you.'

She paused at Mrs. Brown's door. "Leave me now," she said bitterly."If they found you here with me they would not let me enter perhaps, but I shall never forget your kindness, Mr.

He left her and retreated to the corner, where he waited until he saw the door open to admit her and close again. Then he walked away in the direction of Cedarhurst, greatly perturbed in mind over the strange occurrences of the night, and filled with wonder at the spite and malice displayed by the old gardener's blooming daughter, Let-

"I will see him again tomorrow and try to bring him to reason. It is horriole, the idea of thrusting that fair, innocent girl out upon the world, with a brand upon her name, to gratify the inexplicable malice of an unnatural sister," he mused indignantly.

Vixen was promptly admitted by the Browns, who knew nothing of what had happened, except that Josepha Jarvis was dead of heart disease and that a messenger had been sent to inquire if Vixen was there. When she almost fell into their door, raving wildly of her misery, they thought that her trouble over her sister's death had half-crazed her, and that she had sought out Dolly to seek her sympathy. So they were very kind that night to the afflicted girl, putting her to bed and soothing her incoherent ravings by administering a simple narcotic that sent her into a restless but saving

"I was an eye-witness of all," she said, "and heaven only knows where Tracy Tempest took the wicked creature after her father shut the door in their brazen faces."

Mrs. Brown's face reddened angrily. She is upstairs this moment, the hussy," she burst out wrathfully. "The impudence of the likes of her to come here to shelter herself under the same roof as my honest daughter. I always said her pretty face would be her ruin. Dolly was not pretty enough to be the May Queen, but she's a decent girl. and she shall not associate with Vixen

She bounded upstairs, two at a time, in her righteous wrath, and the tattler waited in the kitchen for the denouement, like an evil bird of prey.

Little Vixen had risen and dressed long ago. She was stiff and sore from bruises she had received last night, and walked lamely with her sprained ankle. She was kneeling down by the bed, sobbling in an abandonment grief, when Mrs. Brown bounced angrily into the room, and opened the vials her wrath upon her shrinking head. Such harsh vituperation—such bound-less abuse! Little Vixen flung out her white, helpless hands to ward off the cruel epithets that fell upon her like blows from red-hot iron.

"And you dared come here, when your father's door, and every decent house in town was shut against you, to disgrace my daughter! But out you go this minute, do you hear?" she end-

The poor child was already fastening her simple hat with nervous fingers. Her passionate temper was on fire. She paused in the doorway and looked at the angry woman with crimson cheeks and blazing eyes. "Mrs. Brown, you are a mean, heartless woman-not fit for me to wipe my innocent feet upon!" she exclaimed bitterly. "I hate you for your false, cruel charges against me; and heaven will send the day when you shall repent of your wickedness and sue for my par-she had taken no food since yesterday, at noon, she opened the front door and passed into the street.

She walked slowly along in the direction of the old gardener's cottage, and when she came to the gate, paused and leaned heavily upon it, looking up with swimming eyes at the black crape that waved from the door-handle. The gay flowers that bordered the path nodded their sweet heads in the morning's breeze as if in friendly greeting, but Vixen's eyes were too dim to notice their beauty. Suddenly the door openwide, and Lettie appeared on the threshold with a pale face and tearful eyes. Behind her, in the little room,

Vixen saw a coffin on trestles—the coffin that held Josepha's shrouded form. "You here!" Lettie exclaimed roughly, furiously, and Vixen said plaintive-down the street.

She could not realize that she was banned, proscribed, and every door shut against her because of Lettie's malevolent slanders. But the cruel lie had flown from mouth to mouth as fast as the tidings of Josepha's sudden death, and when she ventured to knock at the doors of a few who had been intimate friends, the door was shut in her face with frowns and scornful words.

No house would receive her within doors. She was outcast, homeless; and her sore and stiffened frame, combined with her weakness from lack of food, to depress her naturally brave

Then I should be with my poor Josepha again," she said, drearily, to herself, and, limping painfully, she reached the goal of her desires, and dropped heavily down beneath a shady tree, closing her tired young eyes with a silent prayer for

But she had not noticed the little negro cabin by the roadside, where old Phebe, a former slave of Mr. Tempest, lived alone, and cultivated her little truck patch, and took in washing to eke out her scanty livelihood. Old Phebe had just come in from town after carrying home some clean clothes to a patron. She had not escaped hearing the scandal with which all Sunnyside rang, and now, when from her open door she saw the miserable outcast totter and fall beneath the tree outside her fence, she comprehended the whole, and her good soul was stirred with pity. She went out at the gate, and turned to her cabin carrying, in her strong black arms, the now unconscious form of little Vixen.

CHAPTER XV. Another day dawned upon Sunnyside, and the townsfolk assembled in the little church for Miss Josepha's funeral, but long before the bell rang to summon them, a drooping little figure had limped weakly down the aisle, and slipped into a seat in the "amen corner."

People who called themselves Christians, followers of the meek and lowly Jesus, had only frowns and averted looks for her, the fair young creature who had grown up like a flower, as good, as pure, as in-nocent, among them. SECRET SOCIETIES.

Some Methodist Ministers Declare Them Detrimental to "Spiritual Lite" - Others Consider the Criticism Unfair.

Toronto, May 30.—The sessions of the Coronto Central Methodist District Toronto meeting were continued yesterday morning, President Rev. Alfred Brown in the chair. During the afternoon session a discussion arose upon the subject of the increase in church membership, which during the past year proved to be phenomenally small. Mr. Robert Jones, of Eglinton, in the course of his address, attacked the se-cret societies and declared that to them could be laid a great deal of the re-sponsibility for the lack of attendance at church. He averred that the order which included those who called themselves Masons was a sinful organization, and deplored the fact that ministers of the Methodist Church belonged to the Masonic Order.

Rev. W. R. Rosch, of Eglinton, who followed, said that in his opinion the existence of secret societies had been hurtful to spiritual life. Nearly one hundred years ago the Methodist con-ference had passed a resolution forbidding Methodist ministers to belong to the Masonic Order, but this resolution had been disregarded.

Mr. Frederick Dane, of Toronto, held that the references made by Mr. Jones were out of order. Mr. Jones, he said, had admitted that he knew nothing of secret societies, and therefore could not speak regarding their influence on Leeds Richardson, of Maple Hill, said that an unfair attack had been made up the reputable secret societies when there was no representative of them present to defend them. He thought that it was unfair to hide behind the secret societies in laying the responsibility for the lack of attendwithout any action being taken.

To Destroy the Codling Moth.

At the last session of the Ontario Legislature, the act for the prevention and destruction of certain noxious insects, was adopted, providing that upon recommendation of the minister of agriculture, the lieutenant-governor-incouncil may make such regulations for the purpose as may be deemed advisable, which are to have the force of law in all municipalities adopting the act by bylaw. An order-in-counoll has just been issued making regulations for the prevention and destruc-tion of the codling moth. It is ordered that every occupier of a lot, or receiving notice, place bands upon orchard trees, as follows:

"Upon all bearing apple and pear trees, and upon all orchard trees of bearing age, within 40 feet of such bearing trees. The bands are to be of 'burlap' or 'sacking' or similar suitable material, not less than four A gossiping neighbor came to Mrs. So she sat there pale and sad, not less than four inches in width, and of three thicknesses, and shall be securely fastened looking much like the radiant May Queen of a few days ago, and as the church began to fill up her presence became known to them. Became known to them. nesses, and shall be securely fastened suffered with these complaints for removed or inspected, all larvae de-scroyed and bands replaced at intervals of not more than two weeks duringing June, July and August."

The act requires the appointment of inspectors by municipalities adopting its provisions whose duty it is to inspect all orchards and enforce the regulations. In case of non-compliance the inspector may cause the work to be done and report the cost to the council, who are empowered to enter the sum on the collector's roll against the owner, and collect the same in the same manner as other taxes. The occupant or owner of every lot affected is to be furnished by the municipality with a printed copy of the act, and the regulations made under it, and also with a copy of the bylaw and the name and address of the inspector. In view of the extent of the ravages committed by the codling moth and other injurious insects, at is hoped that rural municipalities, more especially the fruit-producing districts, will see the desirability of adopting the act and taking prompt measures for the enforcement of its provisions.

A Quaker's Defense Of His Loyalty.

A young Quaker, pressed into the army in the civil war, being tried for refusing to serve, declared to the judge that he was a Quaker and could not fight. The judge indignantly exclaimed: "I despise a religion that is con-trary to the laws of my country!" The young Friend promptly replied: spise the laws of my country that are contrary to my religion!" The young man must have been well established in the genius of Quakerism to be able to place himself, on the spur of the moment, in that line of duty that must inevitably result from a careful and consistent application of our peculiar and fundamental belief in the doctrine of "inner light." Quakerism, from the very first, demanded for the inner light superiority over all customs and all human law. It believed with the Apostle Paul that it ought to obey God rather than man. The Quaker has lived for this principle, and has died for it in prison and at the stake. He went to the dungeon sooner than take the oath when the oath was enjoined by law. His unflinching tenacity to principle won the point, and a simple affirmation is all the courts now ask of him. He allowed his property to be selzed and himself incarcerated rather than take up arms against his fellowmen, and today he is exempt from conscription. When slavery was upheld by the laws of the United States he formed what is known as "the under-ground railroad," in violation of those laws, and now enlightened humanity considers slavery a crime. Wherever he has found the human law, written in statutes, at variance with the divine law, written in the heart, he does not doubt which he should follow. Is he disloyal?

Today he earnestly protests against the present wars agitating the world. He declares the Cuban and the Philip-pine and the 2 1th African wars all to be unholy and unjustifiable, on the ground that all war is unholy and un-justifiable. On account of this opposition he is called "disloyal," "unpatri-

Is he? If loyalty and patriotism mean to serve one's country in a cause of shame and in deeds of crime, as well as to serve it in true honor and slory, then we must admit he is. But does loyalty and patriotism mean that? I answer, No! not in the sight of the Eternal. To love one's own country supremely does not necessitate a hatred for other nations. One may be a true citizen of his country, and yet be true citizen of the whole world. The war spirit is in direct opposition to the commandment the Lord handed down through Moses to the children of men, viz., "Thou shalt not kill"; neither can it be at all reconciled to the life-example and teachings of the Prince of Peace, who commanded his followers to love, even their enemies. No Christion who fully understands the meaning of that term can fight.

ing of that term can fight.

He is the loyal citizen who, with clearer vision than his fellows, strives to lift his country above blind laws made by blind men. He is the true patriot who reveres the ideal country visioned in his soul, and is leval to all the laws in that divine republic. In this higher kingdom we find no bloodred stain of war, no flendish din of hate, ambition finds no votaries, gold has no power to bribe, and virtue never fails her sweet reward. There is here no idolatry paid to a flag. The Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes alike bleach into whiteness, the emblem of peace and universal love. To his critics the Quaker gives this answer: "He believes he can show his loyalty to his country by being loyal to the voice of God within him, and in no other way." EDGAR M. ZAVITZ. Coldstream, Ont.

The Stomach That Fails

May Not Be to Blame-What Is the Condition of the Liver and Kidneys ?-You May Need Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills.

When digestion is imperfect and proper nourishment is not derived from the food, it seems natural to blame the stomach!

But is it just? Several cases are on record where people lived and digested food without stomachs. As a matter of fact the most difficult and by far the greater part of digestion takes place in the

Nothing so quickly interferes with digestion as a sluggish, torpid action of the liver, kidneys and bowels. Be reasonable and put the blame where it is deserved. Acquit the much abused stomach and get away down to the foundation of the trouble, by set-ting the kidneys, liver and bowels

Sometimes people wonder why Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are so remarkably efficient as a cure for dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles. They forget that these ailments are caused by derangements of the filtering and excretory organs. Except in cases of mere temporary indigestion, stomach medicines tablets are no benefit. Chronic indi-gestion and dyspepsia of long standing are positively and permanently cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. To illustrate we refer to the case of Mr. Henry Moore, of Pickering, Ont., who writes as follows:

"In the fall of 1895 I used three or four boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for Constipation and stomach troubles, and never found any thing to compare with them. I had many years, and taken many kinds of medicine, but it remained for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to cure me. Am now well and strong, but continue to take one or two pills a week counteract the uric acid condition in the blood and to keep the bowels perfectly regular."

By acting directly on the kidneys, liver and bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills promptly make these organs regular and active and perman-ently cure constipation, dyspepsia, indigestion and all stomach One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co.,

Too Many Policemen.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: have appeared in the columns of the newspapers of London this year, on municipal subjects, it is evident that the extraordinary tax rate of 1900 has directed attention to civic administration in a way that nothing else could so forcibly do, and each taxpayer appears to have constituted himself committee of one to find out where the trouble is. Now, I think that in nearly every civic department the pruning knife could be applied with financial benefit, and without much detriment to the service. Take, for instance, our police force which has grown out of all proportion to needs of a quiet inland city like ours. The existence of a force of between 40 and 60 policemen in London implies one of two things, either the citizens are unruly or immoral to a greater extent than other cities or the taxpayers are simply fools for burdening themselves with the maintenance of a small army which may be ornamental, but is certainly neither useful nor necessary. Even coast cities, such as Vancouver and Victoria to the west, and St. John, N. B., to the east, which have more or less of a floating population, where the foreigner is largely in evidence and where the dangerous element is supposed to exist, have not the same number of police in proportion to population as we have, nor is the cost for police protection in those places anything like so much is true of Winnipeg and other citi-s. Surely it is time we changed the un-businesslike course that we have been following for so many years. If we do not we certainly deserve to have non-payment of dues; died. 12; no do not we certainly deserve to have property reported by this grand lodge to face a constantly increasing tax his year.

LAST SAD RITES

Funeral Service of the Late Rev. Joseph Edge, at Wellington Street Methodist Church Yesterday.

Wellington Street Methodist Church was completely filled yesterday afternoon, on the occasion of the funeral services held over the remains of the late Rev. Joseph Edge, president of London Conference and pastor of Wellington Street Methodist Church. The size of the gathering was an eloquent tribute to the widespread esteem in which the departed had been held, while the signs of unrestrained sorrow and emotion beheld on every side showed that not esteem alone, but genuine affection and deep love had been his portion. All the Methodist pastors of the city were present, with a liberal representation of the clergy of other denominations. There were also present a large number of the Methodist ministers from other portions of the conference, among them being Rev. Walter Rigsby, ex-president London Conference, Kincardine; Rev. R. J.
