MR. GLADSTONE NOT SO WELL. London, June 9.—Mr. Gladstone has suffered a slight relapse, due to his going out carriage riding prematurely.

INTERESTING DISCOVERIES.

Athens, June 9.-Dr. Richardson, of the American School of Archaeology, has found at the site of the ancient Greek city of Eretria a sculptored head of Dionysius, the god of wine, several archaic vases bearing inscriptions, a number of sculptured female heads, and a block of stone with an insciption comprising 50 lines. The discovery is thought to be of great historic im-

CANADIAN HORSES IN ENGLAND. The New York World's London cable special says: A heavy consignment of American and Canadian horses was sold here yesterday. They were much admired, and found many buyers. Twenty-six Canadian horses averaged 30 guineas each, and 24 Canadian horses which were landed from the steamer Carlisle City a few days ago were sold at the same average price. Nineteen American horses, of Iowa, brought an average of 28 guineas each.

FOUR WRECKS ON ONE REEF. Belfast, June 9.—The tug Ranger yesterday, in an attempt to float the British steamer Deliverer, before reported ashore on Briggs' Reef on the coast of County Down, Ireland, struck the wreck of the steamer Emily, which was lost on the reef some years ago. The tug was so badly damaged that she sank immediately. The crew were saved. It is now feared that the Deliverer will become a total loss, as the sunken tug and three wrecks block up the only direction she can be hauled off the reef. EUROPEANS MASSACRED IN CHINA.

London, June 9.—The Telegraph will tomorrow publish a Shanghai dispatch saying it is almost certain all persons connected with the British, French and American missions at Cheng Tu have been massacred. The Chinese admit that telegrams have been stopped by Government orders. A French gun-boat has gone to Wu Chang, on the Yang Tse Kiang, to inquire into the matter. Virtually the whole Province of Canton is in a state of anarchy, the rival factions raiding each other. ALBERT EDWARD GETS A SCOL-

DING. London, June 9.—It is stated that the Prince of Wales has got into trouble with his august mother by visiting the Whitsuntide exhibition of pictures at the Guildhall and afterwards dining with a city sheriff. The papers announce that the Prince's action incited the Queen to send him a long telegraphic reproof. It has transpired that her Majesty advised him that he ought to have observed Whitsuntide by receiving the sacraments of the Church, and that as a leading member of the Church he should have avoided all public functions.

RUSSIANS SUSPICIOUS. New York, June 8 -A cable dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Herald says: Public feeling in Russia is indignant at the agitation by the Armenian committees in London and a section of the London newspapers in regard to Armenian affairs. It is generally thought here that an effort is being mad? to force Russia into some rash step that will be prejudicial to her interests, and that may also precipitate a rupture with this country.

Russian diplomatic officials are on their guard to counteract this intrigue, but nevertheless it is the intention of the Government to continue its peaceful efforts to convince the Porte of the recessity of hastening Armenian re-

AGAINST WOMEN. Berlin, June 9 .- Another question af-

has just been decided against them. An antiquated law still exists which prohibits women scholars and apprentices from joining a political society. A few women recently formed in Berlin a woman's agitation committee, having for its object to obtain for women equal political rights with men. The leaders of this movement were arraigned by the public prosecutor, and the magistrate before whom they were brought sentenced them to fines ranging from thirty to fifty marks and ordered the society to be dissolved.

PARNELL'S PAPERS. London, June 9.-The executors of the will of the late Charles Stewart Parnell have decided to destroy his political correspondence. The decision has called forth vehement protests from a number of friends of the deceased statesman against wiping out valuable historical records. The letters cover the time from the rising of Fenianism to the home rule agitation, and include reports of interviews with and communications from Mr. Gladstone, Lord Randolph Churchill, the Earl of Carnarvon and Archbishops Walsh and Croke. The friends maintain that the letters would be certain to reveal many State secrets, which would justify the executors in sealing them up for 59 The Cos ly Canal that Joins the years, but they hold that they have no right to destroy them. Mr. Parnell's estate promises to pay ten shillings in

RIPPLES IN THE POOL.

London, June 9.—English politics are absolutely stagnant during the holiday week. Lord Rosebery has been yachting, Sir Wm. Harcourt is in retirement, Mr. Balfour bicycling in Gloucester-shire, with intervals of golf, and Mr. Chamberlain brooding in silence over the future of a coalition Ministry. Mr. Bryce has been talking in Scotland on the agricultural depression, the follies of protective tariffs, temperance, and the Armenian outrages. Sir Charles Dilke, with more aggressiveness, has taken up the question of the privileged Upper House. Mr. Ritchie has been taunting the Government with imbecility in refusing congratulatory addresses in recognition of his work in behalf of the women's cause. Smail pebbles, these, which have made rippies

AN ALARMIST SEES SOME CLOUDS Harold Frederick cables from London to the New York Times: "Clouds are thickening with ominous swiftness about England. Today's Speaker, which is the intimate organ of the Government, talks about the possible necessity of an English fleet steaming from Beyrout to Constantinople and occupying Mitylene, or Samos, or, easier still, taking proper advantage of the fact that Cyprus is under British control. It says in so many words that if Russia and France withdraw from concerted pressure on the Porte the British Government will have to go on alone. 'Our duty now is to see that our words are backed by deeds.' I quote this brief sentence as, perhaps, the most impertant which has been printed in Europe for a long time. I say perhaps, because they may reflect merely a mischievous intention which the calmer logic of events may frustrate, but that they open very sinister possibilities before the British people is only too

THE TURKISH CABINET. Constantinople, June 9.-The Cabinet is now constituted as follows, there being only two changes in it: Grand Vizier, Said Pasha; Sheik-ul-Islam, Djemelledin Effendi; Minister of the Interior, Rifaat Pasha; Minister of War, General Riaz Pasha; Foreign Minister, Turkhan Pasha; Minister of Finance, Nazif Pasha. The Imperial Irade appointing Said Pasha dwells upon his fidelity to the Sultan, and expresses the belief that he will carry out the Sultan's ardent desire to see all of his subjects enjoy happiness and prosperity. Rustem Pasha, the Turkins ambassador to Great Britain, has telegraphed the Porte that the British Cabinet will meet on Monday and will consider Turkey's answers made to the demands made by Great Britain, France and Russia for a reform in the administration of Ar menia. The French and Russian Cabi nets will also consider the reply, which practically refused to accede to the proposals made by the three powers. THE POSITION OF THE PORTE. The New York Tribune's London special cable says: The chief event of the past week has been the unsatisfactory reply of the Porte to the proposals of the powers regarding reforms in Armenia. The powers recommended a new administrative system in Armenia; the substitution of tax collectors in place of marauding soldiers; the abolition of torture; the organization of proper courts of justice; a new gendarmerie, and the appointment of a commission to supervise the execution of the reform measures, subject to the approval of England, Russia and France. The Sultan declines to consider organic changes or to consent to the appointment of European consular officers empowered to reorganize the courts of justice, but offers to grant a sum for the relief of the Sassaun villagers, and promises to release political prisoners who will take the oath of allegiance and give security for their good behavior. The result of the intervention of the three powers is the refusal of the Sultan to admit that anything wrong has been done in Armenia, coupled with the benevolent proposal that the victims of the outrages shall give bonds to keep the peace. The three ambassadors are now awaiting instructions from their Governments. It is rumored that pressure will be brought to bear upon the Porte by a naval demonstration or otherwise. The Grand Vizier and the military party at Constantinople evidently do not believe coercive measures can be adopted. The Sultan naturally resists European demands which will limit his sovereignty and establish an international protectorate over 2,000,-000 of his subjects. The moral force of European opinion does not impress him. Coercive measures alone would be understood by him, but these are not likely to be adopted

THE FIGHTING IN FORMOSA. London, June 9.-A dispatch to the Central News from Tokio says that Admiral Viscount Kabayama, Governor of Formosa, reports under date of June 5 that the Imperial Guards arranged to attack Keelung on June 3. They met with frequent resistance en route. The weather and roads were abominable. The field pieces had to be carried by the men. The enemy were replsed at Zuchu with the loss of 100 killed. The Japanese loss was 18 killed and wounded. On the 3rd the Japanese advanced on Keelung, where all the forts were occupied by the enemy. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the Japanese strongly attacked the south and west forts, but tecting the political rights of women were met by a concentrated and obstinate resistance. At 5 o'clock, however, the enemy were forced to withdraw, and they slowly retreated on Tai Peh. Great quantities of arms, ammunition and provisions were taken in the town of Keelung. All the forts are now in the possession of the Japanese. Prisoners report that 6,000 troops, under Gen. Chang, who was wounded, have fied to Tai Peh. The Japanese vanguard is advancing.

THE BALTIC CANAL.

A Waterway That Cost $38,500,000—Joining the Baltic to the German Ocean.

Berlin, June 9.-The trial trips through the Baltic and North Sea Canal made last week by the imperial yacht Hohenzollern and the Hamburg-American line steamer Palatia, with the Chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, the Prussian Minister for the Interior, Herr Von Koeller, the Imperial Secretary of State for the Interior, Dr. Von Boet-tischer, and the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Baron Marschall Von Bieberstein, on board, showed that the canal is in condition for the passage of a small fleet on June 19 and 20. The Palatia just touched bottom between Rendsburg and Holtenau, but it was nothing more serious than stirring up the mud. It transpires that when landing from the Palatia at Holtenau, Prince Hohenlohe had a narrow escape, as he slipped and would have fallen overboard but for Von Koeller, who caught him and succeeded in pulling him up on deck. According to the programme the Kaiser Adler, with the Emperor on board, will head a procession of sixteen German and foreign vessels, which will pass through the canal during the evening of July 19. The Marblehead will represent the United States during the passage of the Elbe from Hamburg to Brunsbuttal. and the canal will be closed to traffic until after the ceremonies are over.

The great canal, which joins the Baitic Sea to the German Ocean, cost about $38,500,000, and has been eight years in building. It intersects the Peninsula of Schleswig-Holstein from Brunsbuttel near the mouth of the River Elbe, to Holtenau, on Kiel Bay, and opposite the city of Kiel, a distance of about 59 miles. The entrances to both termini have been provided with dock gates, each of which is 27 1-3 yards wide. The lowest possible depth of water at the Brunsbuttel end is about five fathoms, and at Holtenau the water is a trifle deeper. The dock gates or sluices are operated by hydraulic power and the whole canal is lighted by electricity. Steam tugs will be stationed at each main gate of the canal in order to assist in the passage of vessels. Ae several points the canal is crossed by large bridges, which, when opened, leave a free space of 54 1-4 yards. There are also a number of ferries and two finelyconstructed permanent railway bridges. The military advantages of the canal lie in the fact that henceforth in time of war the German navy cannot be diand the provisi the Baltic or the North Shore cannot be interrupted or rendered impossible.

People in Oklahama in a Starving Condition.

Kansas City, June 9.—Rev. P. Shane and Judge T. P. Nash, of Grant county, Oklahama, are in the city asking aid for the people of Grant county who are actually starving. The two gentlemen ask for bread and clothes.

The section of the territory, this is the cene of such deprivation and want, was opened in September 1893. The settlers came in the rush for claims with little money and less household goods. Today not a penny of their savings is left and every household is a scene of destitution.

Wichita, Kan., June 9.—An appeal for aid has been received here from Medford, Oklahama. The citizens are in a wretched condition so far as food and clothing are concerned and pray for relief immediately.

JOHN A. FOREPAUGH DEAD. Philadelphia, June 9.-John A. Forepaugh, the well-known theatrical man, owner and manager of Forepaugh's Theater, died at his home in this city yesterday afternoon. He was 42 years of age. His death was due to a complication of organic troubles. The deceased was well-known throughout the entire country. He was a prominent Mason and a member of the Actors' Fund, Philadelphia Lodge of Elks, and numerous political and social associations. He leaves a wife.

NEWFOUNDLAND AFFAIRS St. Johns, Nfld., June 9.-One of the Whiteway Government's retrenchment proposals is the abolition of the Allan Line ocean mails between Philadelphia, Halifax, St. Johns and Liverpool, and the substitution thereof of a special service between St. Johns, Halifax and Boston by local steamers. This, it is estimated, will effect a saving of $25,000. and will largely increase the trade be-tween Newfoundland and New England. This new scheme is strongly approved of by business people, because opportunities are offered for the devel-opment of mutual trade, which will probably result eventually in a reciprocity agreement. Colonial Secretary Bond is a warm advocate of race reci-procity, and his hand is traced in this

Emmett Turns Tragedian.

Attempt of the Well-Known Actor to Kill His Wife.

Drink and Domestic Difficulties the Alleged Cause.

An Eight-Year-Old Girl Prevents the Crazed Man from Committing Suicide.

San Francisco, Cal., June 9.—J. K. Emmett, the actor, last night shot and, it is believed, fatally wounded his wife, Emily Lytton. The shooting was the result of a quarrel. Emmett, who was intoxicated. was locked up. San Francisco, June 9.- A later account of Emmett's attempt to kill his wife says: Mrs. Emmett is known on the stage as Emily Lytton. The shooting occurred a short distance from their emporary residence in this city, shortly before 8 o'clock. Emmett had been indulging in strong drink, and after his wife returned home a quarrel ensued. The couple had evidently been practicing upon their mandolin and guitar, for only a few minutes before the first signs of trouble appeared the music of these instruments was heard in Emmett's apartments. Suddenly the front door was thrown open by Mrs. Emmett, who pushed their little 8-year-old girl protege, Synott, out on the front porch ahead of her. "I'll shoot you! I'll kill you!" yelled Emmett, who was in the front room. "No, you won't," answered his wife, as she closed the door, and hastily inserting the key snapped the lock. Pushing Synott aside, Mrs. Emmett ran along the sidewalk. Emmett ran to the front window, which he threw open and started to spring to the ground, a distance of six feet. In doing so his foot caught on the window sill and he fell in the garden, striking his face against the stone coping. His nose bled freely. In the actor's hand was a revolver. Springing to his feet, he cleared the low fence at a bound and started in pursuit of his wife. Half way down the block the woman stopped and looked back. She saw her husband and the revolver, and with a scream resumed her flight. She cried lustily for help as she ran. At this point little Synott, hearing

Mrs. Emmtt's cries for help, joined in Near the corner Emmett caught up with his wife and fired. With a scream Mrs. Emmett fell to the sidewalk. He advanced toward his victim as though to shoot again, but as he leveled his pistol the child seized his hand that held the weapon. The actor paused and looked at the little one in onishment, for he had not seen her before. He pushed her from him, stepped back, and placed the muzzle of his weapon against his temple. Baby Synott again sprang upon the would-be murderer, seeming to climb upon his limbs. In an instant the little hand was gripping the barrel of the pistol, which she pushed away from his temple. She clung to his arm so that he could not use the weapon again. Emmett stood for a moment as if bewildered, and then with his left hand he threw the weapon into a garden. Then the 8-year-old heroine fell to the sidewalk in a faint. Bystanders quickly gathered, and one picked up Parkhill, June 9.—Information reach- the child. No one interfered with Emmett, who walked up the street and sat ed. Mrs. Emmett was assisted to a doorway near by, where she sat moaning hospital.

The police stated that Emmett was undoubtedly under the influence of liquor at the time of his arrest. Mrs. Emmett, on arriving at the hospital, was placed on the operating table. She was in a very hysterical condition, and declared that there was no bullet in her head, although a supposed bullet wound was in her left temple. She protested against the doctors probing, and insisted upon leaving the hospital. Finally she consented to allow them to probe in they would desist when she cried "Stop!" Dr. Redding probed for a bullet, but was unable to find one. It had glanced upward along the bone, and had in all probability lodged under the skin in her scalp.

In answer to questions, she said her husband had struck her inside the house with the butt end of a revolver, and she ran into the street. He followed her and pointed the pistol at her when she struck his hand upward, and the bullet went into the air. She was positive it had not struck her, saying: "He is too great a coward to do that."

When told she would have to remain in the hospital she refused to do so, and her brother-in-law left to get a hack to take her to his rooms. Capt. Lees saw her at the hospital later and agreed to allow her to leave.

Mrs. Emmett is a San Francisco girl, and made her debut in this city several years ago as Mina in "Little Lord Fauntleroy." According to a friend According to a friend, the Emmetts had not lived happily together for some time.

A Hundred Persons in Baltimore Rendered Homeless,

Baltimore, Md., June 8.—A disastrous conflagration occurred on East Monument street today. One hundred persons were rendered homeless and $125,000 went up in smoke. The fire was discovered a little before 11 o'clock in the planing mill of A. Storek & Co. The flames spread to the lumber yard and adjoining buildings and then to several dwellings. Ten houses adjacent on East M nument street and nine residences on North Front street were gutted. There was little insurance on the houses or their contents. CHICAGO TO NEW YORK BY BI-

The whipped cream of society is what a maker of bons mots, who adorns the most exclusive set in New York, names the ultra-fashionable element of American society, because it is forever being called to account. The self-same creme de la creme is to be congratulated upon several scores. For a single instance it extols the virtues of pleasure, the appreciation of which in a warrantable degree presupposes in human beings a refinement of the senses of which mankind at large stands as much in need as it does of sympathetic comprehension of the moral code. Latterly the "swell" and "smart" sets, as vulgar usage dubs the most fashionable centers, have reintroduced to pleasure-seeking society at large several innocent old-fashioned pastimes that supercilious, on-rushing civilization, ever on the lookout for something new, had contemptuously pushed out of sight. What does it matter, indeed, whether ideas are native born or imported? Every person is entitled to his own wherever he finds it, and the Me and Mine attitude of nations is a silly survival of silly people. The men and women who crossed the Atlantic, or traveled by way of this continent, and the Pacific, and the land of the almondeyed, fetching up where coaching is one of the delights of the natives, and knew enough to enjoy themselves coaching and introduce it again to this country - surely they are deserving of the thanks of those of us who stayed at home and contemptuously supposed that coaching was outgrown clong with well-sweeps and personally conducted mail bags. Anybody who wonders why people who can afford to have taken to coaching again for pleasure, may freshen up their sensibilities by reading over the opening to "Felix Holt," and then if it pleases them, better still, spend part of their next holiday standing in crowded railway cars. Silence is golden - especially when

A story is told of a woman who became a widow and who was prostrated with grief for a week. After that she packed up her trunks and went down to an unheard-of place by the sea. She afterwards confided to a very intimate friend that she used to go out on the rocks and scream. "From grief at your loss?" asked her friend. "No," confessed the widow, "I thought I could not live without John, but I found my personal liberty so sweet that I screamed in pure freedom; I owned myself."

True feminine beauty is not compatible with either extreme stoutness or emaciation. If there be a choice between obesity and leanness it is distinctly on the side of the latter condition, and most of us would prefer to be beny to carrying an excess of flesh. It is much easier, also, I have found, to acquire flesh than to get rid of it. The fat woman cannot blame nature for her condition. She herself is respensible, and she alone. When the fat woman was a pudgy little girl she did not take enough exercise. She was lazy and preferred to "play dolls" on the plazza rather than to "play tag" in the street. She ate candy, too, and rather despised the thin litle girl across the way whose parents did not encourage the confectioner at the corner. Moreover, the fat little girl ate what she pleased, and her mother did not know how bad most of the things she ate were for her. But when the fat little girl became a fat young lady she became responsible for herself. She could read instructive articles which would have taught her to grow sylph-like and pleasing, and if she did follow their advice, she made herself strictly responsible for her own state.

in which, as usual, the chief crank, the Hon. Herbert Vivian, took a leading part. He has blossomed into a Parlia-

'in the real royal interest," and he addressed the electors in a speech which is calculated to drive any loyal subject of Queen Victoria into paroxysms of indignation, and which in less tolerant times would cost him his head.

He was there, he said, to advocate the claims of the real sovereign against the spurious half sovereign now unlawfully occupying the throne; to advocate the restoration of decent politics, of good old times and of religious toleration, in the maintenance of which the Stuarts lost their throne. Ten thousand pounds a year had been voted to the Duke of Coburg, Queen Victoria's son, to stay away from England, and on those terms the speaker would not grudge pensions to the whole family,

Then the guests at dinner solemnly drank the health of "the Queen over the water," and sang a famous old Jacobite song. Several newspapers have been calling attention to this tomfoolery and suggesting that it is time something was done to put a stop to it. Home

Secretary Aspuith, when questioned in Parliament last year, said the Jacobite movement was a foolish and ephemeral craze, but as a writer in St. James' Ga-interesting young aristocrat with a courtesy title of the same name barring a vowel, to wit, Viscount Sudley, the only son of the Earl of Arran, one of whose daughters married money in the person of Railway Bookseller Smith's son. The viscount is a lieutenant in the Guards, aged 27, a great patron of the Gaiety Theater and light opera gen-sufficient brains to prevent him making

A REMARKABLE EXPERIMENT.

Philosophers, scientific men and mystics, since the days of Pythagoras, have held that an inanimate conection exists between sound, color and form.

Mr. Rivington, a wealthy amateur artist and philosopher, has been investigating the theory for years past, and showed the result on Thursday night in St. James' Hall to a vast invited audience, which included the greater part of fashionable London society. Mr. Rivington explained his views upon what he calls the new art of color music.

He has constructed, at a cost of nearly $10,000, a "color organ," by means of which he has produced results inexpres-ory of light, the rates of vibration producing different colors vary in much the same ratio as the intervals in vibrations producing musical notes. Mr.

Rivinton in his color organ has provided a practical means of delighting the eye with music played in color. There is a keyboard attached to delicate mechanism, and upon depressing any key the color answering to that note is fiashed upon a screen at the end of the hall. Thus, taking middle C to correspond with the low red of the spectrum, the ultra violet spectral rays are considered as analogous to B, while the hypothetical low red of the spectrum repeated, which is even now within a measurable distance of demonstration, corresponds to C sharp of the new ocludes were played on Thursday last the screen was flooded with successive rhythmical waves of harmonious color

from simple to complex, glowing scarlet, gold deepening to orange, exquisite half tones in mauve, grays, and browns, and turquoise blue. A waltz of Dvorak's showed the higher possibilities of lovely complexity, and the overture to "Rienzi" was strikingly beautiful in half tones of color. Everybody agreed that Mr. Rivington has provided a new joy for cultured humanity, and everybody was equally unanimous that the evening was very fatiguing, for the rapidity with which color ousted color from the retina produced a painful ef-

In the Guildhall the prince ignored the outstretched hand of the lady mayoress, and snubbed wilfully or unintentionally several civic dignitaries, but he made a rather pretty speech, if the interpreter may be trusted, and, it is said, graciously expressed his approval of the city's turtle soup. But on this point there is a remakable conflict of testimony. The reporters were well placed for observation, but their accounts of Nasrulla's proceedings are hopelessly divergent. Several reports say that he drank only water, and very little of that, and that what he ate was prepared by his own Afghan cook and placed before him by the undefiled hands of his own butler-in-chief. Others declare that the youngster, when his native guard was not looking, tossed off a glass of champagne and tasted the soup. One well-known "special correspondent," plunging wildly into details, pledges his Fleet street honor for the absolute truth of this account of Nasrulla's performances:

"What seemed both to astonish and delight his Highness was the turtle soup. Of this he had two plates, and also helpings to salmon, lobster salad, cold tongue and chicken, perigord pie and two lots of iced pudding."

His soldiers are still most carefully watched, and the Grenadier Guards and police are kept within hail. News of some of the Afghans' strange doings has managed to leak out, and the fact has so exasperated the India Office that orders have been issued that reporters shall not be permitted even to approach Nasrulla's lodgings. One old and respected news gatherer, attempting to get into the courtyard Friday night was seized by the police and hustled down Piccadilly, accompanied by a howling crowd of demi-mondaines and revelers. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly, and was bound over by the magistrate to keep the

TO WELCOME THE ST. LOUIS. Everything is ready to receive the new American liner St. Louis, and expectation is on tiptoe about the already famous ocean greyhound built in the United States. The preparations are very extensive, and the town of Southampton bids fair to excel herself in her greeting to the new steamer, and all England is deeply interested to see her. Ambassador Bayard will be on hand to welcome the St. Louis on behalf of the United States, and Mr. Cramp will deliver an address at the ceremonies which will mark her arrival. One of the distinguished honors which will be extended to the St. Louis will be the privilege of opening the new dry dock at Southampton, which will be completed and ready for use about the middle of August. To permit her to do this she will skip a trip and remain here until the dry dock is opened.

Without touching on technicalities, it may be pointed out that, according to the undulatory the-"town" has been comparatively deserted by those who furnish food for the gossip of the millions. But they are now flitting back to London, doubtless refreshed by their trips, and are again plunging into the swirl of metropolitan life. The rumors so persistently circulated recently of the probability of an early dissolution of Parliament are gradually dying out, as the moving spirits of both the Conservative and Liberal parties admit that it is to their interests to avoid a dissolution during the season. Many aristocratic parties have already been made up for the racing at Ascot Heath, which will begin on Tuesday next and last until Friday inclusive. There will be assembled Britain's noblest and richest, and small fortunes will change hands daily in the wholesale betting which will take place almost within sight of Windsor Castle.

A NOTABLE EXCEPTION.

A Strong Feeling in Favor of a Canadian Product in the State of New York.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 10.—In spite of a strong sentiment prevailing throughout this State that nothing good can come out of Canada, a feeling is beginning to grow here that there are certain notable exceptions, and among them is classed the new specific remedy for all diseases of the kidneys and all complaints arising from a derangement of these organs, known as Dodd's Kidney Pills. The medicine has received a thorough test, and is being prescribed not only by druggists but by physicians, whose well-known reluctance to admit any virtue in a proprietary medicine makes their testimony to its merits still more remarkable.

An insurance authority states that prohibitionist policy-holders average from four to five years' longer life than others.

London, Monday, June 10. WORSE THAN WASTED.

While the United States last year only spent $45,174 14 on immigration, the Dominion Government expended $202,235 52.

The Toronto Trades and Labor Council has resolved that this is a waste of money and an injury to the workers of Canada, seeing so many Canadians could not find employment. The protest is a proper one.

The men in power at Ottawa have wasted millions of dollars on immigration, because their policy has not been an intelligent one. Why, for example, have they bonused pauper child immigration, when we have in Ontario alone nearly 2,000 of these children, maintained at the cost of the public?

THE CENSUS FARCE.

Ar excuse for the alleged industrial census has been formulated. The advocate of the inflaters says that the intention was to count every place a factory where anything was manufactured, and to count every one a manufacturer who made anything. And, to make quite sure that everyone should be included who could by any pretext be dragged in, for the first time in the history of the country the cnumerator was paid a money bonus for every "factory" that he discovered.

Now, if everyone who makes anything was ordered to be counted, however feolish the enumeration of "factories" on this basis might be, there was no reason why the enumerators should not Many a mother, with a romping family of boys and girls, "manufactures" clothing for them just as industriously as does the sister, who lives in the family, and who occasionally makes a dress for another in order to earn pock-

Then, if, as was the case in the London census, girls who teach painting and sketching, and study at the same time, are returned as "manufacturers," why should the teachers and pupils in the public schools not be returned as "manufacturers" as well? There are many energetic manufacturers in London now, as there were when the city was twenty years younger. To make a legitimate return of these manufacturers, without padding or nonsense such as we have exposed, would be of some benefit to the city. But when school girls are enumerated as "manufacturers," and alleged men or women, whose names are not even ascertained, are set down in the same class, it is time to protest against such a farcical waste of money. London needs protection from such a travesty of her standing in the future. We are all interested in promoting the welfare of the city's manufactories and in the welfare of our industrial population, but nothing is to be gained by inflation that is calculated to bring the city into contempt.

CHOLERA MUST GO.

"We will rather fight than wash," was the funny ultimatum of the inhabitants of Jeddah. But when they killed a British consul in vindication of their ridiculous views they went a step too far, as the British men-of-war are now doubtless convincing them.

It is apparent that civilized nations are determined to enforce international precautions against the yearly spread of cholera, through the filthy habits of pilgrims and their sympathisers, at no matter what cost. The best thing that the people of Jeddah and other fanatical eastern cities can do is to curb their murderous desires and bend to the inevitable. Pilgrims will be supervised for their own good, as we have already pointed out, while they are on their way to Mecca, and they will be carefully watched over as they return. As cholera was frequently taken back to the south shores of the Mediterranean by pilgrims returning from Mecca, those who intend to go from Algerian ports must now first prove that they can pay the expenses of the journey and have the permission of the authorities. They can go only in French steamers, each one of which must carry a physician officially appointed. The pilgrims must be classed in groups of twenty, and each group must have a conductor. They are to embark under the supervision of sanitary inspectors, acting in accordance with the terms of the Paris international agreement. Each steamer must carry a steam disinfecting apparatus and appliances for distilling water. The pilgrims must undergo quarantine at the end of the return voyage, and seclude themselves for a time after they reach their homes. With | ticularly, London, Ontario?

all the avenues of traffic so carefully watched, and the pilgrims saved from their own uncleanly habits, cholera, which is really a filth plague, would soon be like the black death, a thing of the past.

Whatever excuse there is for barbed wire fencing for rural fields, this wire should be ostracised within the limits of cities. The Hamilton Times suggests that its use should be prohibited by bylaw within the limits of every city. We second the motion. Hung up as the wire often is close to the sidewalk, or in neighborhoods where children play, it is a constant menace to limb and to clothing. Not very long ago a London boy almost lost his eyesight through falling against one of these fences. Keep them outside the city limits.

There is a movement in Great Britain to observe June 2 of each year, that being Whitsunday, or Pentecost Sunday, by Christian ministers devoting at least one sermon to calling attention to the good work of the church other than their own, especially those branches where many excellencies are obscured from the observation of their fellow-Christians by the prejudice and suspicion engendered by centuries of strife. The appeal is indorsed by a special committee of the Anglican Lambeth Conference of Bishops, including the Archbishops of Canterbury, Armagh and Dublin, all the English and Scottish Presbyterian moderators, and in the United States by a society organized for promoting this object. Where is Canada in this movement, and, parGROWING GREATNESS OF THE UNITED STATES. The growing greatness of the United States never appears to such good advantage as when comparison is made with the other great countries of the world or with itself at intervals of years. For this purpose census reports are of the highest value, for excepting in rare cases they measure more accurately than can be done in any other way the magnitude of nations. There are census officers who are incapable, some who are dishonest, and a few who will exaggerate for party ends, or out of a sense of mistaken patriotism; but it may be safely said that they are rare exceptions. We have never had more than one George Johnson in Canada, and the lesson given to and through him makes it pretty certain that we shall not have another for 100 years.

The power and wealth of the United States is treated remarkably well in the current number of the North American Review by a British statistician of some note, Mr. Michael Mulhall. Mr. Mulhall is not at all a brillant man, nor a very clear-headed one; but he can plod, and once in a while he does good and effective work. He has done so this time in the North American, and one might be led to suppose that he is himself an American, so heartily does he join in tributes to the greatness and prosperity of that people—a nation yet in the first quarter of its sec-

Taking the working power of an ablebodied man at 300 foot tons daily, of a horse 3,000, and of steam horse-power 4,000, Mr. Mulhall computes the total working power of the United States per day and the average foot tons per inhabitant as follows, at intervals of twenty years:

1		Per
I summer a medical for the	Total.	capita
1820 4,	293,000,000	446
1840	346,000,000	1,020
186039,	005,000,000	1,240
1880		1,545
An estimate is also	given fo	r 1895;

but that is one of Mulhall's weak points -he is hazarding a guess. Comparing the energy or working power of the United States with that of other nations, the following table shows the total of foot tons and the average per inhabitant, daily:

Total.	capita
United States129,306,000,000	1,940
Great Britain 56,110,000,000	1,470
Germany 45,580,000,000	902
France 34,580,000,000	910
Austria 22,510,000,000	560
Italy 11,390,000,000	380
Spain 10,640,000,000	590

Considering the labor-saving appliances of the several countries on the basis Mulhall computes that an ordinary farm hand in the United States produces as much as 2 in Great Britain, as much as 21-2 in France, as much as 4 in Germany and Italy, and as much as 5 in Austria. And as further illustration of the great boon of labor saving implements to the farmer, the authority of Edward Atkinson, of Boston, is given for the statement that in some of the western states the labor of one man during 300 days in the year is equivalent to the production of 4,500 bushels of wheat, while the cutting, threshing, milling and conveyance to market represents the labor of three other men. Thus four men can produce and deliver to the bakers as much flour as will feed 1,000 persons at 12 ounces of bread daily for a whole year. But improvement has been made in labor-saving implements since Edward Atkinson first employed this illustration, ten years ago.

As regards intelligence, perhaps there is no better measure of it than the amount expended on education. In the United States the average per inhabitant is $2.40, in Great Britain $1.30, in France 80 cents, in Germany 50 cents, in Austria 30 cents, and in Italy 20 cents. As a result of her educational policy, the census of 1890 showed that of the total United States population over 10 years of age 87 per cent could read and write. Still further evidence is furnished by the postoffice returns, which show that in the United States there are 110 letters per inhabitant yearly, in Switzerland 74, in Great Britain 60, in Germany 53, in Belgium 49, in Holland 40, in France 39, in Austria 24, and in Italy

The development of national wealth in the United States in 70 years is shown by the following census figures, giving the totals and the average per nead	4:

1 2		Total.	Per
1820		$ 1.960,000,000	$ 2
1840		3.910.000.000	2

But in average per capita the United States is still behind some European countries, where Great Britain leads with $1,260, or $221 more. France has $1,130, Holland $1,080, Belgium $840, Germany $730, Sweden $630, Italy $480, and Austria $475. The rural wealth of the United States has quadrupled in 40 years, while the urban has multiplied sixteen-fold.

The number of operatives in the towns and cities of the United States has increased from 1,311,000 in 1860 to 4,713,000 in 1890; their earnings from $379,000,000 to $2,283,000,000, and the yearly average of earnings from $289 to $485. The census of 1890 showed that there were in the country 4,565,000 farmers, the aggregate value of whose farms, cattle and implements summed up $15,-982,000,000, or an average of $3,505, and in the 40 years from 1850 the area under cultivation was increased by 245,000,000 acres. Is it any wonder that the price of products fell? "These simple facts," Mr. Mulhall says in the conclusion of his paper, "tell us what a wonderful country has sprung up beyond the Atlantic in a single century, and furnish a scathing commentary on the books written by English travelers only 50 years ago. Englishmen of today have more correct views, and regard with honest pride and kindly good-will the descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers, while the rest of mankind marks with wonder and admiration the onward march of the Great Republic." Britain herself has during the same period exhibited wonderful energy, and in population, industries, commerce and wealth she has made a record never before approached in the history of the human race by a country of the same extent. The elasticity and vigor of youth are as much hers today as it is of her greatest colony; but if, as seems not unlikely, and as Gladstone and other great thinkers have sometimes prophesied, the primacy of the English-speaking peoples is to pass to the United States, it will be at least satisfactory that it is to a nation governed by the same language, laws and ideas as the rest of the English-speaking world.

The boycott of the Governor-General and the Countess of Aberdeen by the Ottawa sassiety has been called off. At a ball given by our distinguished fellowtownsfolk at Rideau Hall last evening the crush was tremendous, Mrs. Deputy Assistant Minister Smith, Mrs. Thirdclass Clerk Jones, Mrs. Assistant Doorkeeper Brown, and Mrs. Sessional Clerk Johnson were all present, adding luster, and eclat, and chic, and things like that to the great occasion.—Hamilton Spec-

Prof. Frank Parsons, lecturer in the Boston University Law School, has made a statistical study of the question of lighting cities by electricity, which is worth a good deal more than the cost of the June Arena, in which it appears. He favors municipal ownership. There are many other striking articles in this number, including an illustrated one describing Editor Flower's trip through Florida.

The American Historical Register, the monthly gazette of the patriotic-hereditary societies, for June, is a beautiful number. The leading article is on the capture of Louisbourg, in 1745, by the New England troops, and biographies of the men who took prominent part in that expedition, with the official list of officers. The call was due to a letter to Mr. Powers from Managr Maddock, of the Torontos, to the effect that Peter Ryan, the owner of the club, had quit baseball and gone to Colorado. This surprising piece if news was not entirely unexpected. A New York dispatch from A. G. Batchelder reports Mr. Powers having said, prior to his de-parture for Buffalo: "The Toronto club will continue in the league under more favorable conditions than have existed in that city since the beginning of the season, and the original schedule will be carried out. Mr. Ryan is somewhat caused him to be guilty of several fatal mistakes. The team has not been strengthened, and no attempt has been made to get it out of the rut into which it has fallen. THE TORONTO-ROCHESTER GAME. Rochester, N. Y., June 9.—The Torontos lost their third consecutive game to Rochester yesterday afternoon through errors made in the ninth inning by Sippi. INFANT MORTALITY CREDITED TO THE HOT WEATHER.

There are more weeping and disconsolate mothers in July and August than in a measure responsible for the untimely end of their darlings.

To young and inexperienced mothers we would say that infant mortality is directly traceable to the hot weather and improper dieting. The heat is enervating to the puny child, and the poor and impure foods used irritate and destroy the little ones' stomachs and digestive organs; no wonder the result is collapse.

Had these heart-broken mothers seen the thousands of letters, sent in by joyful and thankful mothers, whose little ones were saved and made strong and healthy by life-giving Lactated Food, we feel certain they never would have made use of the common advertised foods. Lactated Food has saved the lives of a host of infants at critical periods, and raised the weak ones to health, strength and vigor. Now is the time, dear mother, to build up your child in flesh, bone and muscle, to enable it to battle successfully with the terrible heat of summer.

George Howard and John Millick Get Three Years in Kingston.

Wm. Fitzsimmons to Serve Warden Massie for Six Months-Lucky Albert Milton.

Judge Edward Elliott dispensed justice with a very firm hand at the in-terim sessions room this morning, and in consequence two thieves will do Dominion Government work at the Kingston Penitentiary for three years, and another will be a guest of Warden Massie at the Central, Prison for six months. The prisoners were John Millick, George Howard, Albert Milton and Wm. Fitzsimmons, the first three being the self-confessed robbers of David Girvin's house at Pottersburg, the houses of Wm. Lee, Kilworth, and Jos. Clapperton, Nissouri township. Fitzsimmons was only convicted of receiving stolen goods.

Judge Edward Elliott gave the prisoners an opportunity to speak for themselves before receiving sentence on the Girvin charge, and Millick, Howard and Milton pleaded for leniency, claiming to have hitherto borne good reputations.

"It is a matter of extreme regret to me," said the judge, "to have to pass sentence on three young men who should know a great deal better. You all bear upon your countenances the stamp of intelligence, and I think it is one of the meanest things for men of your age, able to work, to attempt to make a living by breaking into houses and pawning the goods you steal. In the case of Albert Milton, there are circumstances which are entirely different from the others. You are very young, Milton, and I have received some information in reference to your previous character, and I extremely regret that you have in your early life fallen into bad company. I will not inflict punishment upon you, but allow you to go on suspended sen-

Milton thanked the judge. "There is nothing before me," said Judge Elliott in adressing Howard and Millick, "to show what your previous characters have been. You have pleaded guilty to stealing over $200 worth of goods from one house, but not content with that you continued in other houses not far away. You are old enough to know better, and I am going to impose what you may think to be a severe sentence—that you be confined in the Kingston Penitentiary for three

Howard was apparently unconcerned over his sentence, but Millick trembled from head to foot.

Fitzsimmons was the happiest looking man in the crowd. When he met the other three he had a very poor suit of clothes, and these he threw away and put on the suit stolen from Mr. Lee, of Kilworth. The suit has been returned to Lee, and since his incarceration Fitzsimmons has been wearing prison garb. Fitz told Judge Elliott that he was not aware the clothing was stolen, and that he had not assisted in any of the other at any other time of the year. Mothers robberies. the Central Prison. On each of the Lee and Clapperton robberies, Millick and Howard received three years in the penitentiary, to run concurrently with the other sentence "If your conduct is good, however," said Judge Elliott, "you will have two months deducted from each year." In the case of Fitzsimmons, charged with entering Girvin's house, no evidence was offered. Milton was taken back to Chicago by a former employer. Millick and Howard come before P. M. Winnipeg, Man., June 10.-Members of the Legislature are already gather-ing for the meeting of Thursday, when the school question will again come up for consideration. Archbishop Langevin says the Catholics are determined to press for their school rights, and if the Legislature refuses them, he will personally appeal the case to Queen Victoria.

DIGESTION

Will be accomplished by taking Radway's Pills. By their ANTI-BILIOUS properties they stimulate the liver in the secretion of the bile and its discharge through the biliary ducts. These Pills in doses of from two to four will quickly regulate the action of the liver and free the patient from these disorders. One or two of Radway's Pills taken daily by those subject to bilious pains and torpidity of the liver, will keep the system regular and secure healthy digestion.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 7, '95. Dr. Radway & Co., New York:

Dear Sirs—I have been sick nearly two years and have been doctoring with some of the most expert doctors of the United States. I have been bathing and drinking hot water at the Hot Springs, Ark., but it seemed eyerything failed to do me good. After I saw your advertisement I thought I would try your pills, and have nearly used two boxes; been taking two at bedtime and one after breakfast, and they have done me more good than anything else I had used. My trouble has been with the liver. My skin and eyes were all yellow: I had sleepy, drowsy feelings; felt like a drunken man. Pain right above the navel, like as if it was bile on top of the stomach. My bowels were very costive. My mouth and tongue sore most of the time. Appetite fair, but food would not digest, but settle heavy on my stomach and some few mouthfuls of food come up again. I could only eat light food that digests easily. Please send "Book of Advice." Respectfully, Dear Sirs-I have been sick nearly two years

CHICAGO, June 8. The bears in wheat were routed today. Things came their way for a portion of the session, but before the close prices, were moving upward with celerity. Corn was not active, but a fair day's business was transacted. Crop advices were favorable, and the undertone for that reason was not so strong. Oats were briskly traded in the sentiment prices were bound to reach a higher basis.

Estimated receipts for Monday: Wheat, 40 cars; corn, 225 cars; oats, 200 cars; hogs, 29.000 head. Freights—Eastbound rates are being cut 3c

Gives a Few Pointers and Some Good Advice,

Which Many Will Be Glad to Follow.

UFFORD, Oct. 14, 1894. Messrs. Edmanson, Bates & Co., To-

Gentlemen,-I think it is due to you to let you know the benefits I have re-ceived from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I have been suffering off and on for three years from bladder trouble, with a constant desire to urinate, with its accompanying weakness. Medicine furnished by a skillful physician afforded me temporary relief, but the trouble would return, often at very awkward times. I was persuaded to try the pills, and obtained relief from the first. Before I had taken one 25 cent box I felt better than I had for years, and have had not the slightest symptoms of the complaint since. As there are, no doubt, many others who are suffering from like troubles, and to whom a cure would be a similar boon, you are welcome to use this communication as you please. I remain, yours faithfully, HENRY W. GILL, D.F.C.

The musical programme on Saturday evening was very fine, comprising a flute solo by Mr. Farncomb, vocal solos by Miss Kibbe and Miss Hamilton Moore, and instrumentals by Miss Ashley, Miss Teele and Miss McLaren. A large crowd was present.

Much of the success of the decorations was due to the work of Mr. O. Graves. Mrs. Isabella E. Harper, an old and much esteemed resident of London, passed away on Sunday morning, aft. an illness lasting nearly six weeks. Deceased lady was the widow of the late George Harper, and was born in county Down, Ireland, having come to Canada fifteen years ago. She was a consistent adherent of the Presbyterian denomination, being a member of the King Street Church, and by her kindly disposition and her many good qualities held the respect and esteem of a wide circle of acquaintances. Deceased leaves two sons and a daughter, Messrs. John and George Harper and Mrs. Joseph Wright, all residents of London, her husband having died in Quebec several years ago. The funeral takes place tomorrow from the family residence, No. 179 William street.

A Lost Gem

Hannington paused a little, with a troubled, downcast look. "I can't understand it," he said at last. "Kingscott is a scoundrel-I know that; but why should he try to throw suspicion on his niece?" 'To cover his own dishonesty, per-

"If that is the case, I will make him rue it. He has done me harm enough already. I'll have the truth out of him "Don't be too hasty, Jack," said Lady Val, feeling the need for a little caution. I only surmise—"

"Your surmises are very generally near the truth, Val. I am much obliged to you for letting me know," said Hannington. His langour had entirely disappeared; there was new fire in his eye. new vigor in the tones of his voice. I must get to the bottom of this. Even if I had no other reason, this would be a good reason for my going to Torresmuir at once. Whatever I may have been, no man has ever had cause to call me dishonest."

Lady Val was not displeased to see him roused from his apathetic indifference, but even she was surprised at the decision and the energy which he suddenly manifested. She had reached his most vulnerable part; an imputation on his honor was evidently a thing which he could not brook. To her astonishment, he declared himself ready to start for Scotland that night. He would go by the express, he said, and sleep in the train. He maintained that he was perfectly well and strong, and that there was no reason why anybody should feel anxious respecting him. For the time being, excitement had given him back all his accustomed strength. Capt. Rutherford almost gasped with astonishment when Hannington-pale, jaded, but self-possessed and resolved in manner-emerged from the room where he had shut himself up for so many days. Charlie looked at Lady Valencia with admiration verging on reverence. What a wonderful woman she must be, he thought, when she could so completely transform a man's course of action and state of mind! Lady Val did nearly all the necessary explanation. Hannington scarcely said a word. "Come, Charlie, we must be off," she said, briskly. "Mr. Hannington is going out of town, and wants to pack.

Can we do anything more for you, Mr. Hannington? No? Then-good-byeand good luck to you.' She gave him her hand. He pressed It silently, and there was a look in his face which caused Charlie Rutherford to turn away on some pretence of finding a stick or umbrella. His absorption in this task gave Hannington an opportunity of uttering a word or two that otherwise would have been left unsaid.

"If I have any good fortune, it will be all owing to you," he murmured.
And Lady Val, with a momentary serlousness and gravity which made her face very sweet, answered in a still lower tone. "God be with you, Jack!" she said. "It is the old form of 'goodbye,' you know-and it is the best wish

They parted, with the same self-contained gravity. Lady Val was escorted to her own home by Charlie, whom she dismissed at the door with brave, laughing words; and then she went up to her own room to weep her heart out, and to pray upon her knees for the reformation of John Hannington's erring, sin-sick Hannington got away by the express, as he had intended to do, but not with-out a struggle. With the magic of Lady Val's presence removed, his spirits fell once more to zero. In this depression of mind, it was natural to him to think of his usual sustainer and consoler-the stimulants or the opiates on which he had almost lived of late. But his new resolution was sincere, and by a great effort he mastered the craving which seemed at first as if it would utterly subdue him. He locked the bottles in a cupboard, and in a moment of angry desperation threw the key into the fire. It was curious to him to observe the feeling of lightness and relief that this rather unreasonable action gave him. The throwing away of the key was like casting off bonds in which he had been

The journey northward was some what unfortunate. Snow had been falling heavily in some parts of the country, and a great drift impeded traffic in the neighborhood of Carlisle. He was so much hindered that he did not arrive at Dunkeld until the afternoon of the next day; and then it seemed to him that the best thing was to take a room at the hotel, and write a note that night to Molly's father.

The note was a difficult one to write, but, all things considered, he did it very well. There was more sincerity, more humility in his letter, than Alan Moncrieff had expected to find. It set forth simply and unaffectedly that he knew how badly he had behaved to his wife-that he deeply regretted his conduct, and begged for an interview with her. He dared not write to her herself. he said, knowing that she was still weak and ill, and fearing to startle her; but he begged for her father's pardon and her father's help.

It was the first time in his life that Hannington had ever written such a letter, and without Lady Val's influence it would never have been written at all. But he was genuinely ashamed of himself, and anxious to be at peace with his wife, and- it was hardly possible that his motives should be free from alloy—reinstated in the world's good opinion. He had softer thoughts, too, of Molly and his child; and, growing stronger every hour, there was the conviction that his last chance had been given to him, and that he must reform his life or go to ruin once and for all. His last chance! It was an easy thing to say; and yet, what infinite possibilities of good and evil were contained in those three words! In a far deeper sense than he imagined, he was indeed having his last chance. Late in the evening a note was brought to him. Mr. Moncrieff wrote formally and coldly, but he fixed an hour at which he would call upon Hannington at the hotel. They could then talk freely, he said, and would consider the advisibility of the proposed interview with Molly. The young man drew a long breath of relief when he read the words. Yes, he did want to see Molly—he was beginning to wonder how she looked and what she would say to him-and a flood of shame filled his heart at the remembrance of the past. For, as Lady Val had said to Stella, John Hannington had some sort of a heart, some sort of a conscience, after all; and if they were roused, the man might still be saved.

Mr. Moncrieff would come to him at 5 o'clock next day. He wondered why the hour was so late, never suspecting that Kingscott's influence had again been exerted to fix it as late as possible. Ralph Kingscott scented danger in the air, and had resolved to make his escape before Alan met John Hannington. But he had a few last arrangements to make and therefore had taken care to secure some hours before Molly's husband could arrive at Torresmuir.

Hannington grew nervous and uneasy as the day went on, and soon after luncheon he determined to go for a long walk by way of working off his disquietude. He went past Torresmuir, re-solving to turn back in good time, so as to be back at the hotel at 5 o'clock precisely. A fancy took him to look once more at Tomgarrow, where his meetings with Molly used to take place. He reached the narrow lane which led to the little hamlet, and walked slowly up the ascending ground. The day, which had been mild and cloudy, was already closing in. The gathering darkness made him scarcely aware of the approach of another wayfarer from an opposite direction until the two were almost face to face. And then Han-nington roused himself from his reverie, and came to a sudden standstill, barring the other man's advance. "I've a word to say to you, Ralph Kingscott," he said, in harsh, decided

There was a scarcely suppressed impatience in his tone. He glanced up and down the narrow lane as if he wanted to estimate his chances of escape from his interlocutor.

"I want a good many things," replied Hannington, doggedly. "You have several matters to answer for—"

"Not to you, I think," said Kingscott, with a laugh. "You surely have enough to do in settling your own accounts." "I'll take care of my own accounts.

"There was no need to do that. The matter was as clear as daylight. Who would take her mother's jewels but Molly herself? She had a perfect right to them. And as for money-we all know how much you needed it-"

"Stop that!" said Hannington, harsh-"You had better not go on. I have had the whole story from Lady Valencia Gilderoy-I know the proof on which they relied; the finding of the ring which

A HAMILTON CARGO SUNK.

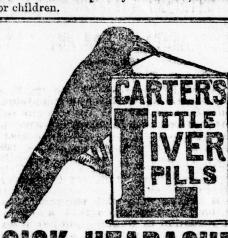

Cleveland, O., June 8.—The large new passenger steamer Macnus sank in the Cuyahoga River off the custom house dock last evening. The Macrus was partly loaded with pig iron and had tied up for coal. When the lines were loosened she listed to starboard, and gradually sank, settling in 30 feet of water, leaving only the tops of her masts above water. The Macnus was about to make her first trip, her destination being Hamilton, Ont. No passengers were on board and the crew easily escaped. The cause of the accident is said to have been overloading, while another view is that the cargo shifted. SUIT AGAINST A CANADIAN BOAT. Alpena, Mich., June 8-The Canadian steamer Jack, which sank the steel steamer Norman on Lake Huron last week got away at noon yesterday, just one hour ahead of the filing of a libel for $100,000 in a suit instituted by the owners of the Norman. It is thought the departure of the steamer was hurried on account of the rumors that the officers were on the way here to tie up the vessel. It is reported that the Jack will keep in Canadian waters on the way down the lake. The Menominee Transportation Company, which owned the Norman, alleges in libel that the accident and loss of three of the crew was due to the faulty navigation on the part of the Canadian boat.

The Trolley Lines and the Public. (From the Philadelphia Times.)

There are two plain duties to be recognized for the common safety of people in streets occupied by trolley cars. The cars are indespensable and the increased speed attained by the trolley is a public necessity. The first duty is that of the trolley managers to equip their cars in the best possible method that can be devised for the protection of life and limb. However costly it may be, it would be practical economy, and in addition it is a duty that the trolley companies owe to the public.

The other duty belongs to the citizens, They must learn that the public highways are not playgrounds for children; that they are for the use of vehicles, and that they are unsafe to be occupied by either men, women, or children.

His neck had been broken by the fall, and death came instantly. ceased was a brother of Mr. Samuel Adams, of the McCormick Manufacturing Company, and also of Mr. Adams, of the Gore of London. HENDERSHOTT AND WELTER. The St. Thomas Journal says: "A gentleman who wrote to the Premier, Sir Mc-Kenzie Bowell, at the request of friends of Hendershott and Welter, pointing out that the prisoners had hitherto borne good characters, has received a reply in which the Premier says that the fact that their having been men of good character previously was so much against them. Had they been criminals before it might be, says he, easier to comprehend their committing such an act as that of which they have been found guilty. If good men previously it would be the harder to understand how they could commit it. Mr. A. McCrimmon, solicitor for David Hendershott, of Walsingham Center, father of the murdered W. H.
