O'Connor, M.P., spoke in opposition to the proposal and protested against Britain Likely to Act on Her Own the Healyites being regarded as a separate party. Every Healyite, he said, had signed a pledge to abide by the decision of the Irish National Parliamentary party or fetire there-from. To treat with the Healyites es a separate party, he declared, would be to tear down the foundation of national unity. The convention, he continued, had met under the unanimous vote of the real Irish party. Why, he asked, was not every member present? If any one had charges of dishonesty or trickery to make why did he not make them in the light of day? Rev. E. Murnane, of Bermondsey, interrupted the speaker, saying that he considered Mr. O'Connor's speech ill-calculated to promote harmony. The chair ruled that Mr. Murnane was not in order, and Mr. O'Connor resumed his remarks, saying, among other things, that the convention must not be a failure, as in such an event it might

Hon, Edward Blake, M.P. for South Longford, followed with a long speech in favor of a reunion of factional elements of party. He contended that their aims were alike, and that there ought not to be, if personal feuds were put aside, any difficulty in the way of their uniting. The convention then adjourned. The foreign delegates to the convention appointed a committee to prepare an address to the Irish race. The Cork Herald, an organ of the Healyite faction of the Irish National Party, publishes a long article commenting upon the proceedings of the Irish convention. The convention, the Herald declares, proves to be not a meeting of the world's representatives of the Irish race, but a mere sectional gathering, the real purpose of which is to replenish the finances of a discredited section of the Irish party, headed by a discredited leader. The convention may dupe the delegates from abroad, the Herald adds, but it cannot effect any possible good to Ireland.

Dublin, Sept. 3.-With the Most Rev. Patrick O'Donnell in the chair, the third day's session of the Irish National Convention opened at 11 o'clock this morning. It cannot be said that the convention, up to the present, has been a success. The end which it was hoped to attain was the uniting of all the warring factions in ing of the convention was first decided upon.

Abdul Hamid tory of the world. The success of his stupendous plan was almost assured. He aspired to make Russia the dominant power of Europe and Asia, supplanting Great Britain in her almost world-wide prestige. Fate and his own genius and indomitable energy enabled him to accomplish wonders during the eighteen months he was virtually in control of the Russian Government. It was not until about a month ago that the young Czar attempted to check his Foreign Minister, who had exercised unlimited authority. He might have put a stop to the Armenian massacres by a word at any moment, but it did not suit his purpose. The authentic story of the horrors suffered by the Christian subjects of the Sultan was brought to with the young sovereign to prevent by. a literal execution of his instructions and a sudden and drastic solution of the Turkish problem. He succeeded. however, in persuading the Czar to be content with a slight modification of the policy toward Turkey No man stands ready to take his place. His genius, his force of character are not possessed by any Rusisan whom the world knows today. It will not be surprising if news should come of decisive British action in Constantinople as one of the first effects of the passing away of a man whom Lord Salisbury feared more than any other

RAILWAY MATTERS.

One of the two engines kept by the G. T. R. at Wiarton has been removed, and in future there will only be stationed at that town. It is understood that the Pullman sleeping cars are to be discontinued by the new management of the Northern Pacific Railway within a few weeks. The change is an important one, and if made, means that the road intends to either build its own sleeping cars or run Wagner coaches. The contract between the Pullman Company and the Northern Pacific, made ten years ago, expires in October.

The Weather Treated Them Shamefully, But Took a More Favorable Turn During the Atternoon-

Of all days in the year, for it to rain today! How mean, how ungallant of the weather! It was a downright shame! So thought scores of London's fair daughters when slumber's spell was broken this morning, and they heard the merciless patter of soft water on was kept on the rush assigning the the shingles. And the bright faces at once reflected the gloomy sky, and they arose with only half the alacrity which sunshine would have inspired. The horrid rain would be sure to put a damper on the day's business, and besides, just think of the havoc it would play with frizzed hair and curled bangs! And the decorations! Hadn't some of them remained up until 2 o'clock this morning festooning the street cars with flowers and foliage and streamers until they were things of beauty on wheels? And now this labor of love would be thrown away.

EARLY AT WORK. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, every member of the first relay reported sharply at Somerset Hall at 7:30 a.m., and marched to the corner Dundas and Richmond streets, where each car was boarded at 8 by two of them. The idea of assigning a chaperone to every conductor was abandoned because of the difficulty of arranging it, but every conductor was free to choose a friend to accompany her. It gave her added confidence to have a supporter, and it was such a relief to have some one to talk to when not collecting fares.

THE MORNING TRAFFIC. The rain rather helped traffic in the morning. Wheelmen had to take the Rosa Friend and Lilla Haskett. street cars or walk, and suburbans generally boarded them to get out of the wet. Many rode out of sheer curiosity to see how the ladies managed affairs. Every fair conductress was the cynosure of all eyes, and any afflicted with extreme bashfulness must have had a trying time of it. However, the gentlemanly men conductors helped their substitutes out in emeruniting of all the warring factions in gencies. They drew the line at calling out the street names, though the passengers would have much pre-ferred their melodious soprano to masculine gutterals.

THE DECORATIONS.

A corps of the ladies worked all Wednesday evening and until past midnight decorating the cars, but the exterior embellishments were sadly disfigured by today's moisture. disheartened, another staff set to work at 10 a.m. at the street car stables to beautify the exteriors, an abundance of flowers and foliage having been conthe whole European situation. The decorating committee was comprised of Mrs. Sayer, Miss Stevely, Miss Nelles, Miss Janie Hobbs, Miss B. Gibson,

Miss Maggie Burns and others. THE AFTERNOON PROSPECTS. If the weather turns out fine this afternoon, all will be well. If it does not, the ladies feel they will lose an immense excursion patronage on the Springbank and belt lines. They expected a big crowd to witness the baseball hyppodrome between the aldermen and school trustees, but may have to be called off. There is one satisfactory feature: a goodly number of tickets were sold in advance, yielding a tidy sum to start with. One lady actually collected over $100. She got ahead of the rain all right. SHE SPOILED THE JOKE. The lady conductors reported that many of the passengers were generous, and declined to take back change. One smart young man got on a South London car. When the lady con, presented the box he was seen to suddenly change his mind, and, instead of putting in the ready fare, he made a quick move to the inside vest pocket to get a roll of bills. Taking one of the "V" ination, he tendered it to the fair conductor. She hesitated at first about changing it, and asked him if was the smallest change he had. GUELPH DEFEATS HAMILTON. About 1,500 people witnessed the ball game between the Maple Leafs, of Guelph, and the Hamilton team at Dundurn yesterday. Gallagher, the Guelph pitcher, was a Chinese puzzle to the Hamiltons, and contributed not a little to his team's

THE ORIENTS AT ST. THOMAS. St. Thomas Times: "The most wearisome game of ball which has been played in this city for many a day was that at Atlantic Park Tuesday afternoon between the Y. M. C. A.'s and Orients, of London, when the former won by a score of 19 to 12. It was the rockiest kind of ballplaying, the game abounding in muff-ing, fumbling, and wild throwing. Indeed, it looked at times as if some of the players were not trying to play the game. The ball was hit freely, and there was lots of leather-chasing and run-getting, but an almost total absence of clean ball-playing. Many got tired and went home long before the finish, and when the last man was out, and the game was ended, all were heartily glad.

London at present contains as large number of cyclists in proportion to its population as any city in Canada, and nowhere are the people more enthusiastic in and interested in this invigorating and healthful exercise than here. The excellent taste displayed in the neat and jaunty costumes worn by our girls is worthy of special note, and cannot fail being duly admired.

Persons visiting this beautiful city at so favorable and pleasant a time of the year, and walking through Victoria Park, or down any of the principal streets, cannot fail to notice the beauty and variety of the bicycle costumes worn by London's fairest belles. Some of the most noticeable ones are made of blue, green, gray or fawn, with short skirt and tight-fitting Norfolk jacket, made with four box plaits, and having gaiters to match, also a Tam-O'Shanter trimmed with a couple of quills at the side and made of the same material as the

Another of the latest styles is the short skirt, worn with various kinds of plaid waists and trimmed with velvet to match the predominating color in the plaid, and small or large pearl buttons. Most of these waists are made blouse front, with velvet straps over the shoulders, on which the buttons are put, some in rows of threes on the bias and some on the straight. The sleeves are generally cut after the pattern styled "Bishop's sleeves," and are gathered at the wrist with a light cuff. With this suit, as with many of the others, the English walking hats are very often worn, sometimes felt and sometimes straw, and look very becoming and stylish with a white flowered veil. Still another very pretty effect is found in the old-time Eaton jacket, which instead of being made long this year as usual, is cut short and belted in at the waist with a narrow belt slipped through at the two side seams and brought over the front. Very of-ten on the skirts of these suits are three large pearl buttons down each front seam.

One of the newest styles of caps bought from friends across the line is a Tam O'Shanter made of dark red fine plaid, bound with black and having two black quills and a bow at

There are several varieties of bicycle costumes worn during the intense heat of July and August. Sewerage Proposition Indorsed by 653 Majority.

The Vote 1.3:6 to 658-South London Almost Unanimous for It.

Not one-half of the 4,300 property and leaseholders of the city (300 of them non-resident) took the trouble to exercise their franchise yesterday on a question directly affecting their pockets to the extent of $150,000. The bylaw to raise this sum, of which Mayor Little and Dr. Cl. T. Campbell were the champions, was carried by a vote of two to one. There was no organized opposition to it, nor did its advocates use any influence except persuasive eloquence on the hustings. As expected, South London, where the need of better sewerage and drainage is the most felt, went almost unani-mously "yea." In the fourth and fifth wards, where the most opposition was encountered, substantial though not overwhelming majorities were given. Only two subdivisions voted "nay." The vote was:

ABUSE OF POWER. A most flagrant abuse of power on the part of the late Government was disclosed to the House by Mr. Domville, the gentleman who compelled Mr. Foster to retire from Kings and seek election in York. BANQUET TO LORD RUSSELL. It was a notable gathering which assembled in Rideau Club last night to do honor to England's Lord Chief Justice. The dinner was given by the Premier and the members of the Government. About 90 were present, embracing privy councilors, judges and members of both Houses and of the legal profession. The Premier presided. On his right was Lord Russell, the guest of the evening, and to his left Sir Frank Lockwood. Others seated at the table of honor were Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Oliver Mowat, Mr. Fox, Mr. Crackenthorpe, Speaker Pelletler of the Senate, Chief Justice Sir Henry Strong, Hon. L. H. But her many friends here, as elsewhere, who have long been aware of the precarious health and long-suffering of Mrs. J. Fergusson will be pleased to learn that her painful sufferings have ended at last, and that instead of being unable, as she says, "to turn herself in bed." she is herself once more as the result of using a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. She further says that from the third day after commencing to use these pills, she was free from all pain; and, that now she feels as well as ever before in her life.

Principal Grant, of Queen's University, holds that the Governor-General took an unassailable position in his action regarding the late Government at Ottawa. Dr. Grant is a careful observer. His views on this subject will be accepted by all moderate men.

Hamilton will try to start a new musical society, to take the place of London Determined to Progress the late Philharmonic. There is plenty of musical talent in Hamilton to sustain a prosperous organization of this kind. What is needed there, as in almost every city, is the hearty cooperation of all musicians.

He has spoken here, but not to the general public, and he has many friends in this neighborhood. Mr. Tarte, too, would get a warm welcome in London. He is a soll last fall.

If the Paris exposition of 1900 is not a success it will not be for the lack of novelties. Plans for a revolving skyscraper 400 feet high and built of steel commission. The 24 stories are to be let for restaurants, concert halls, will turn slowly on its axis like a tors to survey the whole country around Paris while they eat their dinners. It is not said that the promoter is a Yankee, but it looks very like a scheme that would be devised to gratify the restless, sight-seeing, ever-onthe-move American.

Prompt Appointments That stalwart Conservative journal, the Montreal Gazette, thus applies a

"In reference to the long-standing vacancies the filling of which the Gov-ernor-General declined to sanction dur-ing the closing days of the late Mining the closing days of the late Min-istry, it cannot be said that any loss of party advantage that may result is andeserved by the Conservatives. When a vacancy occurs in the public service it should be filled at once. It is neither good business nor good poli-ics to keep it open for months or ics to keep it open for months or years, and there is no sympathy for the party that loses by pursuing such cactics."

These are more sensible conclusions than those which have been ordinarily arrived at by the newspapers supporting the late Tupper Administration. Governments do themselves harm and cause no end of local demoralization among their party friends by keeping offices unfilled for any length of time. The best man available should be selected and the vacant office filled with the utmost promptitude. Better displease one or two applicants for office at the start than keep a position vacant for months and years, and needlessly raising up a host of office-seekers who never can have their desires

Very Hoggish for a Defeated Man.

The Brantford Courier speaks of the late Tupper Government as a responsible Ministry. To whom was it responsible? Certainly not to the people of Canada, for it was formed after the last Parliament had ceased to exist. Even before the friction between the Governor-General and Sir Charles Tupper occurred, the Conservative leader had acknowledged to his Excellency that he knew his stop-gan Government no longer represented the people, and that he was preparing to resign in favor of those who were proved, by the election returns, to have public confidence. A Government so incapable of transacting any business not urgently required for the wellbeing of Canada. The Governor-General confirmed 436 appointments. laid before him by the defeated Premier after this position of affairs was made clearly evident, because they could be regarded as fairly urgent, and rejected 17, for disposing of which there was certainly no hurry. The new Government should bring down these hundreds of orders-in-council, as well as the 17 now before Parliament, so that the Canadian public may have an idea how very hoggish the defeated and discredited Premier was determined to be.

The Governor-General, if he had chosen, would not have gone beyond his constitutional powers if, under the circumstances, he had refused to sign any of these death-bed appointments of a moribund Administration.

Canadians Warned.

The announcement made by Sir Donald Smith, High Commissioner for Canada in Britain, that the Italian Government has prohibited the immigration of its subjects to Brazil, is interesting to us in the Dominion. Not that there has been a demand for the immigration of Italians to this country, but because recently agents of the Brazilian Government have been trying to coax Canadians to emigrate to that Republic. We believe that Canadians who wish new homes can do better by going on our own Western lands than by emigrating to a foreign country like Brazil, where, if they were unsuccessful, they would be liable to suffer great hardships. The enterprising and industrious Canadian, under the new order of things, will not have to look to a foreign land for a home. But it may be necessary for many men and women to adapt themselves to circumstances rather than to ask that circumstances shall conform to their desires. The conditions of employment in these days of invention and discovery, are constantly changing, and business, as well professional men, artisans and workers generally, have to conform to whatsoever changes may be brought about, or lag in the race.

A Suspicious Demand.

Sir Charles Tupper, before he resigned, attempted to secure the destruction of the papers chronicling the transactions between himself and the Governor-General. Lord Aberdeen steadfastly refused to sanction that unusual course.

On his return to the Waldorf the injured finwhich had swollen to nearly twice its normal size, was dressed by his physician, by whose express or-ders he agreed to forego the affair in his honor at Delmonico's. All the guests felt greatly disappointed. The Viceroy was asked: "Was the route through Canada decided upon because of the antagonism that might assert itself among the people of the Pacific Coast States?" At this point the Viceroy called for his official interpreter, Li Fong Lu, to whom he made the following reply: "The choice of the Canadian route was determined for two reasons. First, while I was High Commissioner of the northern portion of China, I received many complaints from our Chinese subjects in this country that they were not in pos-session of the rights to which they were entitled here, and invoked my assistance to secure for them their full rights. Regarding the Geary Act, Li Hung Chang said: "The Chinese exclusion act is most unfair. Competition is good for any country. Competition keeps the markets in a healthy condition, whether this competition is in the price of labor or commodity. The Geary Act was brought about by the Democratic party, and the Irish people, because the Chinese are the rivals of the Irish laborers. Put aside the fact that I am a high official and speaking as a cosmopolitan, let me ask if such a law is in the interests of the American people? Is it good policy to exclude cheap labor? Would you exclude cheap commodities? You are proud of your ingenuity; you boast of your liberty and freedom, but there is no freedom of labor. I cannot see the fruits and the effects of the liberty. You are not only a people of great inventions, but you are a country of large agricultural resources and a country of commerce and industry. They Ransack the Bedrooms in Mr. Cushing's House.

Entered the House by the Front Door While the Family Were at Dinner-Carry Off $100 Worth.

A daring piece of burglars' work was performed on Friday afternoon at the residence of Messrs. William and Edward Cushing, Wharncliffe road, London West. The robbery occurred at 12:30, and while the family of seven persons enjoyed the mid-day meal in the dining-room, one solitary man was going through the bureau drawers upstairs helping himself to the valuables as he came across them. The man entered by the front door while his confederate kept watch. Re Points Out Objectionable Features in He took from a bureau drawer in the bedroom a lady's gold watch, lady's locket, a silver chain and fob. The locket was set with a ruby, sapphire, and diamond. When the articles were missed it dawned upon Mr. Cushing that the man whom he had seen coming out of the house on Friday must have been the thief. Mr. Cushing says his loss is $100. He noticed that the men were both young and clean shaven and about 5 feet 8 inches in height. One of them wore a soft felt hat and the other a stiff one.

Miss Cushing reported the case to Detective Ward in London West, and to Detective Nickle in the city. The burglars evaded the eagle eye of the county "detectives," and came over into the city to operate, and were all but successful at the residence of Mr. Hiscott. Had Mr. Cushing's robbery been given to the newspapers, Mr. Hiscott and everybody else would have been on the lookout for them. Headmaster Kirk Makes an Explicit Statement, Which Shows He Was Blameless.

The complaint made by a few parents of pupils residing in the Aberdeen school district (No. 3 ward) sent into the trustees at the last meeting of the Board of Education has caused considerable interest in the city. The charge was made that the children had not passed the recent entrance examination through the fault of the teacher, Mr. Kirk, whose reputation as an educationalist is high.

School Failed to Pass.

Mr. Kirk's side of the matter will no doubt be given at the next meeting of the committee, but, in justice to all parties, The Advertiser places it before the public at once. An Advertiser reporter called upon Head Master Kirk this morning, and re-suested him to supply the facts regarding the matter.

Mr. Kirk said: "During the two years, ending June 1896, sixty pupils were admitted to my room, from room 7. Of these, three passed the examination to enter grade 8 (the entrance chass). All the others did seventh grade work, until provision-ally admitted to grade 8; so that some of them might have the privilege of writing for entrance to the Collegiate Institute. No pupil of Aberdeen school, having passed the regular promotion examination to grade 8, exer failed to pass the next ensuing entrance examination. None of the children of the petitioners ever succeeded in passing the promotion examination to grade 8, nor has any one of them been longer than two years in my room, either in grade 7 or grade 8, or in both combined. Sept. 1, 1896, was the first time in the history of the school when all the pupils admitted to grade 8 were by examination, and after having regularly passed the same. Head Master Kirk also supplied the

A Petition in Circulation to Compel the Unhitching of Horses.

There was a large quantity of tomatoes on the London market this morning of a good quality. They sold from 15 cents per basket to 50 cents per bushel. Butter was also cheap. Rolls could be bought for 15 to 16 cents, while the same price was asked for crock. Hay is bought up as quickly as it appears, at $8 to $8 50 per ton.

Much has been said and written about the shiftless horses on the market on a crowded day; but the parties concerned took active steps this morning to present to the City Council the need of a bylaw compelling those who come on the market to stand for any length of time to remove their horses, which are often dangerous, and cause no end of inconvenience. The following petition was put in circulation this morning, and in one hour over one hundred names were attached to it:

"We, the undersigned farmers and market gardeners, who come to your market to sell our produce, humbly pray that your honorable body will, at your earliest convenience, pass a bylaw compelling all parties offering produce for sale, with the exception of grain, hay, straw and dressed hogs, to take their horses, or other animals, out of the vehicles, and have the same stabled and properly cared for and looked after. By doing this, room will be made upon the market, and much inconvenience and loss to us, in the shape of broken shafts, etc., will be saved. The humanitarian part of this is well worth consideration by your honorable body for passing a bylaw."

Accidental Shooting

It Is Thought to Have Caused Alex, McIntyre's Death.

The Unfortunate Boy Will Be Buried Today in Alvinston, Ont.

A Cleveland dispatch says: "Alexander McIntyre, formerly of London, Ont., committed suicide here last (Tuesday) night. The remains were shipped to London, Ont. Deceased was a son of D. C. McIntyre, of Detroit, general manager of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Company, and was 20 years of age." The Cleveland Press of Tuesday evening says: "The young man occupled a room over the office in the building of the company at the foot of Superior street. At 9.45 a.m., Tuesday, the janitress of the building was startled by the sound of a gunshot in McIntyre's room. She opened the door and saw the young man lying across the bed, attired in a suit of underwear and with blood streaming from the wound in his breast. Physicians were summoned promptly, but McIntyre was dead when they arrived. J. P. Williams, cashier of the pany. He could give no motive for act. Mr. McIntyre (the father) thinks that there was no suicide, but that death was due to an accident. Young McIntyre shot himself with a Winchester repeating shotgun.'

PROBABLY ACCIDENTAL. The Detroit Free Press says: "It is now generally thought that the fatal shooting of young Alex. McIntyre, of this city, at Cleveland, Tuesday morning, was accidental. It seems that he and his father slept in different beds in the same room over the ticket of-fice of the Detroit and Cleveland line, on the Superior street hill, and that every night one of them took the gun. a Winchester repeater, out of its case and laid it on the floor between the two beds, or took it right into the bed with him. Three times attempts had been made by thieves to break into the building, and this was their method of protecting themselves and the property in their care. "On the night before the shooting. the young man had retired late, and, taking the gun out of its case, stood it at the head of his bed. his father not being with him that night. It is thought that the shooting the next morning was caused by his grasping the gun by the barrel to place it in the case, when it accidentally kicked the trigger, causing it to go off; or that in cleaning it-his father saying that it had needed cleaning for some time-it was handled in such a careless way as to cause the explosion. The latter is his father's theory. Young self, and the gun, which lay on the with him, pointed toward his dead body, one shell only On a table near by lay a box of shells, and the cloth cover of the gun lay on the floor. 'The remains were brought to this city by his parents yesterday, and funeral services were held at the use, in the presence of an audience of friends that crowded the building, the Rev. Mr. Malcolmson, of the Dis-ciples of Christ Church, at Fourth and Plum streets, officiating. The young man, during his idle winter days, had taken a deep interest in this small church, and had in many ways aided it, and it was his intention to lay out a programme of church work for the

"Late in the afternoon the remains were taken, in the company of the family, on the Grand Trunk road for Alvinston, Cnt., his native place, and the old home of the McIntyre family, where the body will be interred."

Crowell Swatz's Barn, at Wosonville, Broken into and His Horse Taken.

A thief and Mr. Crowell Swartz's horse are traveling together somewhere, but where is not known at this writing. Tuesday night someone entered the stable of Mr. Crowell Swartz, hotelkeeper, at Masonville, and stole his steed. The animal is a small one, of a cream color. # Fetching Jackets

Transatlantic steamers have for some weeks been bringing over the purchases made by our European traveler, and each day something new is being opened up. It is too early to announce our fall opening just yet, but we are having an informal opening every day. Parties desirous of securing and seeing the new fall styles are not losing any time or waiting until everything is ready and the stock complete. They are just coming in and taking away every day the articles they want. Perhaps it's a Jacket they want. If so, they can pick a most fetching one from a most pleasing stock, which, though not yet complete, is truly large and well assorted. The most popular materials are Beavers, Curled Serges, Boucle Tweeds and Friezes. Short Coats with 1 pple and pleated backs are in great demand.

Taking Dress Goods

Some are taking Dress Goods—the new arrivals. We have already to hand a most taking stock, which only needs to be seen to please the most fashionable taste. This year we have made heavier importations than usual, and the variety of French, German and British stuffs is very large. We will have enough when everything is in to provide a dress for every lady in London. But a point not to be lost sight of is that every piece will not suit every lady. Those who want suitable costumes are selecting now.

Lovely Millinery

Walking Hats are the popular thing just now. We have to hand a big importation, together with most exquisite trimmings and feathers. Even this early our new Millinery is walking out of the store. Purchasers never seemed more eager to buy. We have aimed at a greatly increased custom this fall, and if a very fetching stock such as ours is will bring new patrons we will hit the mark.

THE WATER CART COMMITTEE. The water cart committee, consisting of Ald. Pritchard (chairman), McCallum, Douglass and Carrothers, sat last night to gather evidence concerning the disappearance of two watering carts. Ald. Pritchard questioned Caretaker Burdick, of Queen's Park, about the matter. He knew little about them, beyond the fact that he remembered some of these carts being stored in the cattle sheds on the exhibition grounds four or five years ago. One of the carts had been taken away by a teamster on an order given by the chairman. Burdick said he always reported the number of carts put in, and Ald. Pritchard said if he remembered rightly, one of the carts had been taen to the gravel pit and used as a drinking fountain for the stone-breakers there, and had been left there all winter. Mr. Burdick said there was one left on the Fair grounds for drinking purposes, and this was likely the one that had been Hiscott's residence, corner of Central avenue and William street, was the mark made for by two welldressed crooks yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. They walked east on Central avenue, and while one stood on the southwest corner at William street, with a valise in his hand, the other walked over to Mr. Hiscott's residence and rang the front door bell. Mrs. Hiscott was preparing to go down town and did not answer the door bell immediately. A minute later there was a crash of broken glass in the front of the house, and Mrs. Hiscott found an unknown man turning the key on the inside of the door. He had deliberately shoved his hand through the glass in the door in the endeavor to gain an entrance. glass had been broken with a stone. As his game was up, he started to run, and turned up Wililam street to R. track, and then went west to Maitland street, where he was joined by his confederate, and both

All the Ontario harvest hands who went to Manitoba found employment. A man named Chatsworth, of Perth, Ont., was killed on Monday night by a C. P. R. train near Arden, Ont. The Toronto city council presented Hon. Mr. Hardy with an address on Tuesday congratulating him on his accession to the Premiership. Hon, Frank Leland, who was United States consul at Hamilton for a period of seven years, beginning with 1877, died suddenly at his residence in Chicago on Tuesday, aged about 65 years. Archbishop Fabre, of Montreal, leaves for a visit to his Holiness the Pope today. It is supposed that he will discuss the probable succession of Cardinal Taschereau, who is slowly dying. A farmer from west of Bradford, Ont., named Wm. Sutherland, walked across the tracks at Lundy's Crossing, about two miles north of Newmarket, and was struck by the train and instantly killed. While walking on the track of the Niagara Central Railway Wednesday morning John Lafferty, of St. Caso seriously injured that he died half an hour afterwards.

Among other things, Mr. Chamberlain said to his interviewer in New York was this: "The Venezuelan matter is not in my department, though, of course, I am interested in British Guiana as a British colony. Salisbury is in charge. It rests entirely with him, not me.'

'I'm no sure o' that, colonel. When it comes to the army, it's a mere question of wha can strike the hardest blows-and as to kirk matters, I'm thinking men had better meddle with the things of God, which they canna change, than wi' those o' the King, wi' which they can wark a deal of

While he was speaking Neil left the room. The little argument struck him as a pretext and a cover, and he was glad to escape from a position which he felt to be both painful and humiliating. He was in a measure Captain Hyde's host, and subject to traditions regarding the duties of that character; any display of anger would be derogatory to him, and yet how diffioult was restraint! So his father's interference was a welcome one, and he was reconciled to his own disappointment, when, looking back, he saw the old gentleman slowly taking the road to Van Heemskirk's, with the pretty girls in their quilted red noods, one on each side of him.

The Elder was very polite to his charges; he never one regretted to them the loss of his pipe and chat with General Gordon. But he noticed that Katherine was silent and disappointed, and that she lingered in her room after her arrival at home. Her subsequent pretty cheerfulness, her delight in her lilies, her confiding claims upon her father's love-no thing in these things deceived him. He saw beneath all the fluttering young heart trembling, and yet hapby in the new sweet feeling, never felt before, which had come to it that

But he thought most girls had to have this initiative; it prepared the way for a soberer and more lasting affection. In the end, Katherine would perceive how imprudent, how impossible, a marriage with Captain Hyde must be, and her heart would turn back to Neil, who had been her love from boyhood. Yet, he reflected, it would be well to have the matter understood, and to give it that "possibility" which is best attained on a money basis.

while he and the Van Heems kirks discussed the matter-a little reluctantly, he thought, on their part -Katherine talked with Joanna of the Gordons. Her heart was so full of her lover that it was a relief to discuss the people and things nearest to him. And her very repression excited her. She toyed with her cam-bric kerchief before the small looking-glass and imitated the fashion able English lady with a piquant cleverness that provoked low peals of laughter, and a retrospective discussion of the evening, which was merry enough without being in the least ill-

But, oh, in what strange solitudes every separate soul dwells! When Ka-therine kissed her sister and said, simperingly, with the highest English accent, "La, child, I protest it has been the most agreeable evening." Joanna had not a suspicion of the joy and danger that had come to the dear little one at her side. She was laughing softly with her, even while the fearful father stood at the closed door and lifted up his tender soul in that pathetic petition: "Ach myn kind! myn kind! Myn liefste kind! Al-God, preserve thee from all sin and sorrow!"

This was Joris Van Heemskirk's

night, after Elder Semple's cautious disclosure and proposition. In his calm, methodical, domestic life it had words often and unreflectively, seldom

Wife Believes Mim a Victim of Railroad Wreck and Remarries,

He Greets His Long Lost Children, but may Not Meet Their Mother-Their Neighbor for Years.

Chicago, Sept. 3.-Sixteen years ago Mrs. Charles Carroll, of Hamilton, Ont., buried, as she supposed, her husband, and then with her three little relief to their nephew's embarrass-ments that it seemed almost as much Hyde's property as if he had been anston now furnishes the sequel to the story, in which it appears the husborn to inherit it. At first, Katherine, band was not the dead man, and Cared very heartlessly-she could be left roll has been rewarded for his years in New York when his regiment re- of search by being again brought into ceived marching orders, if it were the presence of the children, all of thought desirable; or she could be whom have now reached their majortaken to England and settled as mis- ity. Carroll found, however, that his tress of Hyde Manor House, a lonely mansion on the Norfolk fens, which was so rarely tenanted by the family that Hyde had never been there second marriage.

When Carroll became separated from his family he left three children—May, aged 5 years, Teresa, aged 3, and Baby Tom, aged 1. May is now the wife of our condition; but she adores you, of Edward Mersch, of 1,005 Sherman avenue, who is an engineer in the Dick, and she will be passably happy with a house to manage and a visit Evanston fire department; Teresa from you when you can spare the the wife of John Morrell, superintend am a very indifferent judge, for, indeed, she has much spirit below her gentle manner; and the spirit below her family refuses to state except that gentle manner; and, upon my word, she also lives at Evanston.

Carroll has spent much of his time and all the money he could get in looking for his lost family. THEY WERE NEIGHBORS. The strangest part of the story is that for three years he lived in Evanston, earning money with which to continue the search, seeing his children many times and never suspecting who they were.

ton and went to Toronto in search of work, his wife and children remaining at home. 'A few days after he left there was a railroad wreck, and a man answering Carroll's description was killed. Mrs. Carroll was ill and unable to go, so her aunt, a Mrs. Trenworth, went, and supposed she identified the remains. They were taken back to Hamilton and interred, anterior to her own, and very dif-ferent from it. And causes nearly as and two weeks later Mrs. Carroll took her children and started for Denver,

> About the time his family left Carroll wrote home, and after waiting in vain for two weeks for a reply returned to Hamilton, where he was re-ceived by his neighbors and friends as one returned from the dead. He learned of his wife's departure, and immediately started to Denver in search of her. Mrs. Carroll, however, on reaching Chicago, had decided to go no further, and so her husband, when he reached Denver, could find no trace of her.

WIFE MOVES TO EVANSTON. For two years she lived in this city and then married again, her daughters say, and moved to Evanston, where she has since resided. Carroll traveled through the west, going as far as California and Arizona on clues that turned out to be false. He would be regarded at that day; his returned to Canada, where he went first thoughts had been precisely such to work again, only to give up all a econd time in

Can Heemskirk living two hundred years before. And thus, though we In 1890 he came to Chicago, and for three years was employed in the office of C. T. Bartlett, an Evanston contractor. The office was on Church street, Evanston, near the Haven school, which his own children were attending at that time, and without doubt they passed back and forth in front of the office many times without knowing that their father, whom they less inclined to it from a personal supposed long dead, was within a few standpoint. For he was a man of few, but positive ideas, yet these ideas, having once commended them-feet of them. While Carroll was in Evanston his wife learned from Canada that he was not dead. She finally decided, so Mrs. Mersch, her daughter, said yesterday, the best way to settle the difficulty was to apply for a divorce. This was done and the decree was entered. But she never made men-tion of it to her children, it is said, until recently. After the close of the World's Fair Mr. Carroll took another trip through the west in search of his family. He then went back to Hamilton and engaged in the mercantile business and rospered. Last fall he was traveling in Minnesota on a business trip, and a wreck occurred, in which the real Charles Carroll was the victim, and for months he lay in a hospital. While he lay there he received word from a friend in Canada that his children were in Chicago, and the news that his wife had remarried. After his recovery he went back home, found what further news he could of his family's whereabouts, and then set out on what proved the final and successful search.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER MEET. Last Saturday Mrs. Mersch answered a ring at the front door of her house and met a man who looked at her in a strange manner and then inquired if her husband was at home. Mrs. Mersch says she was afraid of the ing over the half-door, shading her eyes with both her hands, the better stranger, and replying that he was not in quickly closed the door. When Lysbet was already in her place; him of the incident, and, looking out so was Joanna, and also Bram; and a of the window, she exclaimed, sud-handing around friences of children was ner husband returned later she told

"She's my daughter," was the reply. Carroll was then taken into the house trembling with emotion and excitement, and at last greeted his long lost daughter. He will remain at Evanston for some time and then re-turn to Canada. Mr. Carroll has not yet seen the woman who was formerly his wife, and it is probable he will not. His daughters say they are go-ing to Hamilton this fall to visit their newly-found father.

WELCOME NEWS.

Safety of a Son Who Was Mourned Dead-Strange Story of Adventure.

than fiction received another evidence last week in the experience of N.

Simpson, of North Dresden, who received in his mail a letter from a son whom he had mourned as dead for years. The young man, Orrin Simpson, went off to seek his fortune some five years ago, and was last heard of in 1892, when he wrote home that he had shipped on board a whaling ship bound for the Arctic seas. Nothing more was heard from him, but from another source came news that the whaling vessel had been wrecked; that only one boat load of the crew had been saved, and that young Simpson was not among the survivors. By the letter now received, it appears that the whaling ship was wrecked as stated, in the Arctic Ocean, near the mouth of the Mackenzie River. other whaling ship of the fleet sent a boat to the wreck, and took some of the crew off, but as the rescuing vessel was short of provisions, she could not take all the shipwrecked crew, and young Simpson and five others were left on the ship. They stayed on the wreck till their provisions were exhausted, and as no other vessel appeared to succor them they were at endeavor to reach the land. Three of them starved to death on the journey. but Simpson and two others survived and manged to reach the shore. From the mouth of the Mackenzie River, where they landed, the three survivors set out to traverse the eighteen hundred miles of wilderness which lay between them and the nearest settlement in British Columthe ia. This tremendous journey took them up the Mackenzie river to the Peace, up the Peace River, through the Peace River Pass of the Rock Mountains, and across the wilds of Northern British Columbia to the coast; but they succeeded in accomplishing the distance in safety. At the coast young Simpson found employment in a salmon canning establishment; and by the first mail from the nearest postoffice he sent to his family in Dresden the letter which gave them the welcome news of his safety. There is material for a whole series of Jules Verne novels in that brief story of hardship and adventure.—Sarnia Canadian.

Suicide of a 13-Year-Old Boy at Saginaw, Michigan.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 3 .- Edward Lea, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lea, deliberately hanged himself in an outhouse yesterday afternoon. He said good-bye to other children and went away whistling. Twenty minutes later he was dead. The boy's father and mother have not lived together for some time, Mrs. Lea supporting the children by taking in washing. Edward was a cigarette smoker and subject to fits, which the doctor said were brought on by the habit, and would kill him some time. The supposition is that he felt one coming on and sooner than suffer sought

THE RAILWAYS.

The Parry Sound and Ottawa Rail-vay, which shortens the route between the Sault and seaboard by about 300 miles, will be completed by the end of next month.

Fourteen miles of the Lake Dauphin Railroad has been completed, and tracklayers are pushing the work with great rapidity. The first shipment of wheat over the new line has been made.

Sir William Van Horne, of the C. P. R., writes that the story which is going the rounds of the press that the road from Woodstock to Brantford would soon be built is not at all well founded.

A test was made a few days ago on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, near New York, of an interesting rallway signal. The principal feature of the signal is a revolving semaphore arm. On a bracket attached to the signal-post is a box containing an electric motor, which revolves the semaphore. When the block ahead is clear the semaphore revolves, indicating to the engineer of the train by its motion that he also may continue in motion. When the track is not clear the semaphore remains stationary in a horizontal position, the same as the ordinary block signal when in "danger" position. The inventor of this signal claims many advantages for this rotary signal, the most important of which is that the engineer cannot fail to interpret its language. At night a signal lamp revolves on a vertical spindle, flashing alternately red and white lights. When the signal is at 'danger' only the red light shows. The apparatus is quite simple, and has many commendable features.

THE TOBACCO HABIT CURED.

In the interest of the masses, for whom these reports are compiled, the United States Health Reports have examined and investigated many preparations having for their object the cure of the tobacco habit, but among them all we have no hesitancy in giving the editorial and official endorsement of these reports to the remedy known as "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure," manufactured by the Keystone Remedy Company, at 218 La Salle street, Chicago. They are distributing literature this week all through the city, and in the light of our examinations and tests of "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure," we are but performing a duty we owe the public when we indorse the same, and stamp it as the crowning achievement of the nineteenth century, in the way of destroying a habit as disgusting as it is common (For Only $1) hence we earnestly advise you to read full particulars, and if you have not seen circulars to call at W. # JAM JAR FAMINE.

Fruit Jars Pratically Out of the Market and Prices Up. The jam jar famine has become pronounced in this city. During the last few days the demand for these vessels has been unprecedentedly large, and the supply is nowhere sufficient to meet the demand. There are only two wholesale houses in the city who have any jars left of the large orders filled early in the spring. Most houses made a special run on these to close them out, and now a scarcity prevails.

The enormous crop has made all kinds of fruit so cheap that people are putting down large quantities of preserves. Early in the spring jars at wholesale cost $7 50, $8 50 and $9 50 per gross; now they cost $10 50, $12 50 and $15. One wholesale house could dispose of 400 gross more than they have on hand, but are unable to get them. Retail quart and half-gallon jars are selling at $1 25 and $1 50 per In the spring these could be bought for 65c and 85c. Many retailers in the city have been out of jars for some time and cannot obtain any

New Fire Alarm Boxes Not Yet

Decided Upon, Asks for 137 New Chief Roe

Hydrants, The Fire Brigade Will Take Part in Labor Day Demonstration.

The contract for the ten new noninterfering fire alarm boxes was not awarded at the meeting of No. 3 committee last night. Tenders were received from the United States Fire and Police Patrol; Telegraph Alarm Company, Boston; the Gamewell Company, New York; the New Gaynor Company, Louisville, Ky., and Alexander Anderson, Toronto. The aldermen, however, decided to get the advice of an expert electrician before accepting any of them.

Chief Roe was asked his opinion, and said the first mentioned was the best he had ever seen. Last year Mr. Wm. Gibson, chief of the department of Toronto and an expert electrician, was paid $50 for his inspection of the boxes here, and at that time recommended the Gamewell machine. It is the intention of the committee to get the best that can be secured. The fire brigade will be allowed to take part in the Labor Day demonstration as in previous years. A report from Chief Roe stated that 137 new hydrants should be placed throughout the city as soon as the circumstances permit, and urged that the start be made immediately. report goes on to say that new hy-drants for the Fair Grounds are much needed in consequence of the change in the location of the buildings. In the neighborhood of large factories, business blocks and the more thickly populated portions of the city hydrants should not be more than 300 feet apart, and at present they are from 600 to 800 feet apart. It would mean a great saving in the lines of hose and give increased pressure at the nozzles. One hydrant does not cost as much as 50 feet of hose and
