Half-Century Curse of a Woman Hangs Over Head of Emperor Francis Joseph

Countess of Karolyi's Terrible Wish Against Ruler Who Caused Her Son To Be Slain Seems Fulfilled.

THE CURSE, THE EMPEROR AND SKETCHES

Karolyi to Emperor Francis Joseph.

OF TRAGEDIES IN HIS UNHAPPY LIFE

"May your life be stripped of happiness and may you be crushed to earth in utter despair" - Countess

[Special to The Advertiser.

Vienna, July 4.-For over half a century a woman's malediction hung hatefully upon the House of Hapsburg.

With tragedy, heartbreak and death, the vindictive curse has pitilessly pursued the Emperor Francis Joseph, and the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife is the mysterious seventh in that fateful series of sorrows.

The curse of the Countess of Karolyi is fulfilled.

"May your life be stripped bare of all happiness, to the last shred; may suffering and misery untold strike upon those nearest and dearest to you; at the end, may you be crushed to earth in utter

The Countess of Karolyi stood upon the very steps of the Emperor's throne when she uttered this malediction upon him. Behind it was all the tense hatred of a mother whose son had been put to death for taking part in the Hungarian revolt of that year, 1848.

Today, broken in health, bowed in sorrow by his beloved nephew's murder, the aged Emperor recalls that bitter curse of sixty-six years ago, and murmurs, "It is terrible! I am spared nothing!"

BUILDERS AGAIN REFUSE TO ARBITRATE STRIKE

Meet Dominion Fair Wage Officer at Conference Friday Night.

E. N. Crompton, Dominion fair wage officer, met several local contractors and builders in the board of control room at the city hall last night to talk over matters relating to the local carpenters' strike. The meeting was not fruitful of any results. The only thing that anyone would say after the meeting was that Mr. Crompton had it impressed upon his mind that the contractors had nothing to arbitrate, that all their positions were filled and they were not affected one way or the other by the carpenters' recent action, It was Mr. Crompton's idea to bring all parties together for a settlement and for this reason he pursued his inquiries. It is said he left for Hamilton after the meeting, somewhat appointed at the outcome.

CALL OUT NAMES OF "WOULD-BE WEDS"

Secretary Joseph Sanders of the Children's Aid Society, is a great believer in calling out the names in church of people who are to be married. He believes that it would be good practice to call out the names for several Sundays preceding the marriage day.

His belief in the good results of this custom was strengthened recently when he was called on a case in which the parents of family could not produce a mar-riage certificate. Investigation proved that they had adopted the primitive way of living together. After Mr. Sanders pointed out the seriousness of their mistake as it would affect their children they became properly married.

Mr. Sanders thinks the calling of names in the church of person about to be married emphasizes the duties and responsibilities of married life.

BODY OF MRS. NUTT FOUND BY BROTHER IN A TANK

CANTALOUPE SUNDAE,

3 to 5:30-15c

In Restaurant.

[Special to The Advertiser.] CESIDE, July 3.—Mrs. William Nutt was found dead in a tank at her home north of Lakeside, last night, about ten o'clock, by her brother. She had evidently been in the tank since early in the evening as she had been dead for some little time.

Mrs. Nutt was about 35 years of age, and left her home early last evening. When she did not return a few hours later a searching party went out. Among the party was her brother, who discovered her in the tank which is well back on the farm, and is used as a supply receptacle for the hydraulic pump. Here he found his sister's dead body barely submerged in a little over two feet of Dr. Murray, of Lakeside, was called and

Dr. McKay, of Woodstock, came out this Dr. Murray decided that an inquest was not necessary as the cause of her leath was apparent suicide. Deceased

The wear and tear of a passionate public experience marked him for breakdown as far back 1901, when at the Queen Victoria Memorial service, W. T. Stead looked upon the great Radical, and remarked, "He's done!" He had lived in a fierce gale of politics, a gale almost of his own blowing, and his career was undermined when he was within reaching distance of cominancy. His break from Gladstone, over Home Rule, his formation of the present Unionist party, his stirring advocacy of tariff reform, his astuteness as a help to both buyer and seller. a politician, and his oratory won for him the name of being one of the strongest men of British political history. A professing Radical to the end, he never fully won his Tory allies to complete sympathy. They found it hard to forget his vitriolic denunciation of the House of Lords. He had the distrust of the Conservatives, and the hatred of the Liberals. He himself believed in Chamberlain,-and Birmingham shared his faith. His friendly critics always believed that his heart was with the people, rather than with himself as a manufacturer, when he sought to build a British tariff wall. At any rate, in his declining years, he has had a full measure of sympathy, if his following has dwindled. There was only one Chamberlain. He could not have succeeded without having failed so gloriously.

THE very latest and most startling development of the situation in Mexico is the possibility of General Huerta taking to the mountains with a number of regiments. The report has me through Sir Reginald Carden, the him is from a reliable source. It will be recalled that some time ago Huerta declared that rather than surrender he would desert the capital and take to guerilla warfare. At the time the statement was considered in the nature of a boast or bluff, but the bulldog tenacity with which he has hung on to the presidency under the severest pressure, shows him quite capable of almost any conceivable "forlorn hope." Should he carry out his threat it would greatly complicate a situation that is already an exasperating and dangerous tangle. At the bandit game Huerta is a past master He knows every foot of the mountain fastnesses. He would attract a large following of fighters, as those with him could expect no mercy from Villa, and under his banner would gather the discontented in the camps of Carranza and Villa. According to United States army reports he has plenty of ammunition. and could carry on bandit warfare for many months. And should Zapata join hands with him, Villa, when he reigns at Mexico City may have the same task that has proved too much for Huerta. The prospects for an early ending to the strife in Mexico seem very dark. The United States Government may have to take a still greater step towards the pacification of the land.

THE MIDDLEMAN AND THE EX-

PRESSMAN. NE of the principal objects in view in starting a parcel post system was to facilitate exchange between producer and consumer-thus reducing the cost of living. So far it does not seem to have had much effect in the United States, where it has been in operation for some time: and still less in Canada, The difficulty has been that neither of that he has to wake up and eat, an' the the two parties interested in this ex- other is that he has to give up eatin' change could be assured of the responsibility of the other. The city consumer could not be sure of the quality of the goods sent him by the farmer; and the latter was not sure of the prompt remittance of the money due him.

Now, it seems, a rather novel idea is to be carried out by the Adams Express Company across the lines. According to a report in a New York paper, the company proposes to become:

"A clearing-house for excess production, disposing of fruits, berries, butter, Athrill with satisfying joys. food articles at a minimum of expense to seller and buyer. The company is Quoth I to one who bent her knee modities to the buyer's door and the money to the seller, without any intervening agency. The rate on the And turned to me a wistful faceclass of merchandise for which the bureau is designed is 25 per cent below the commercial rate fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission and is no higher than parcel post charges. the cost of carrying must be added the money-order charge, ranging from cents for $2.50 to 15 cents for $40."

By this method there will be a prompt delivery of perishable goods anywhere within a radius of two hundred miles, on the same day they are shipped; and the cash will be remitted by the next delivery. Nor will the exchange be con-fined to farm produce, the company will manent naval policy, over his promise to ness for itself.

buy and transmit for customers nanner of merchandise. One will watch with some degree of interest the progress of this experiment. There is no doubt that the company will do its share, and push the business with characteristic energy. The express has always been in competition with the postoffice, and has done very much to get the latter out of the rut of officialism, and to loosen some of the red tape by which government operations are always hampered. There was a time when the ssuance of a postal money order was a matter of most tedious routine; the express companies changed that, and set an example of simplicity and promptness which the postoffice had to follow. Then the government always refuses to acknowledge any responsibility for safe delivery, even for registered mail, The express company did not hesitate to assume all risks as a public carrier and found that it paid well. So the postoffice had to follow suit to a limited extent, on the payment by the remitter of an ncreased fee. By the parcel post system it made an original step in advance by reducing rates for packages in many cases below the express charges; though for long distances there is no improvement. Now the express counters with proposition to act as agent for its patrons. If the farmers will be satisfied to accept through the medium of the express company prices not much in advance of what the commission dealer offers, there is little doubt that the experiment will be a success. And if it succeeds in the United States it will be tried in Canada. We are not sure that the company would have the necessary power, without additional legislation. But it is hardly likely that any government would refuse its help in carrying out what promises to be

The C. P. R. "better farming" special trains, operated in connection with the Manitoba Government, went on duty this onth in the interest of intelligent and scientific farming in the West. trains will contain specimens of noxious weeds, most troublesome in the provnce, and lectures will be given to teach the effectual methods of eradication. There will be models of weed seeds, so that identification will be easy; Manitoba birds, with instructions as to their habits, whether destructive or beneficial; injurious insects will be illustrated on the moving films; a car with cattle, sheep and hogs in connection with which lectures will be given to young men, especially a car devoted to home economics for women, where lady demonstrators will teach nursing, sewing and so forth. To show how thorough and real and close this instruction is meant to be by the Canadian Pacific and the Government, it may be stated that field rops and miniature lay-outs of farm buildings will be shown in two cars for the purpose-while instruction will be given as to the protection of such buildngs. Saskatchewan is in need of mixed farming, and there will be special features on two large cars, which will be devoted to stock. German v. Dane. "Germany has addressed a grave warning to Denmark regarding the Danish agitation in the province of Schleswig, which was annexed from Denmark 50 years ago. "The German Imperial Chancellor has declared that the continuation of the nation." agitation 'would lead to disturbed relations between the two countries.' "The Chancellor concluded with the mphatic warning to all who might still promise and swear that we will never dream of a reunion of Southern Jutland to Denmark that that was a dream which would never be realized.' "During the last month 20 Danes were expelled from Schleswig," says the Chronicle. "A society was recently formality in South Jutland. A Dutch committee has also been formed in Holland to assist the Danish elements against 'Prussianizing' methods. Fourteen Dutch professors a few days ago expressed approval of the movement.

"In 1912 the Danish Foreign Minister, referring to Schleswig, declared:—'The preservation of the Danish language and culture touches the sentiment of the whole Danish nation profoundly."

Repressing the Poles. A remarkable scene in a Berlin church has recently called attention to the struggle of the Poles for their own nationality.

"The efforts of Prussia to crush the national spirit of Poland have proved no more effectual than those of England against Ireland. Although private schools and literature and of Polish history are outlawed, the Poles discover means to teach these forbidden subjects at home to their sons and daughters. Despite all the difficulties put in their way by the Government, the Poles of Prussian Poland are growing in power economical ly, and politically also they are becoming little by little a factor to be reckoned with.

"That the treatment of her Polish subjects by Prussia is beginning to disgust the Germans themselves, is apparent from an increasing number of voices raised in Germany in protest. The most recent and most remarkable enunciation of this kind," says the American Review, "is a brochure under the title Die Misserfolge in der Polenpolitik Failures in the Polish Policy), by Baron Charles Puttkamer, former landrath of Mogilno. That one who has been a high Prussian official should, in bold language and with the force of conviction, rise against the policy applied by the Prussian Government to the Polish community is an unusual thing in Prussia. 'In this brochure Baron Puttkamer sees no other way of settling the Polish question than-"By the abolition of the Government's Colonization Commission and all the anti-Polish statutes; the removal of all oppression; and the restoration of all the rights that belong to the Polish nationality on the basis of the constitution.' Prussian v. Pole.

"Bismarks' law of colonization, which was adopted in 1886 and which provided for the buying up of Polish estates and the settling on them of German colonists Puttkamer calls the greatest affront that could meet the Poles on the side of the Government, as it robbed the Pole, who paid the taxes, who in all the wa Prussia and Germany had offered up his blood in sacrifice, and who was obedient to the direction of the law, of the ability to become a settler on his native soil and constrained him to leave his fatherland. 'Hate was sown and today the Govern ment is reaping the hate'
"Of this German enunciation permit our children to receive Holy Communion unless the service is conducted in our mother tongue.'

No Finns To Be Athletes. A particularly peevish attempt to crush Finnish nationality has just been made. Kolehmainen, the well-known Finnish runner, has just returned to his native country after a visit of two years' duration to the United States. Kolhemainen the only man who won three gold medals at the Olympic games at Stockholm, broke about forty American records, his last triumph being a race through New York City, which he won, a couple of He was accorded a great welcome at Abo and Helsingfors, where tens of thousands lined the quays.

On the day after Kolehmainen's arrival the Russian Government notified from St. Petersburg that Finland would not be allowed to participate under her own name in the Olympic Games in Berlin in 1916, and the Finnish Olympic committee forbidden because it was to be delivered will probably very soon be dissolved by command of General Seyn.

It is noteworthy that the Russian Government has already approached the International Olympic Committee, and its president, Baron Pierre de Coubertin, in this matter; but that body refused t exclude the Finns or the member for wise to place the l'innish athletes under Russian control. After this failure M. Isvolsky, the Russian Ambassador in Paris, reported St. Petersburg the unyielding position maintained by the International Central Committee, and intimated that measures nust be taken in Finland to prevent athletes from being sent to Berlin under Finnish leadership, If the Berlin committee directing the games takes up an attitude similar to that of the Central committee in Paris towards what is here called Russian jealousy, it is difficult to see how the Finnish men can be prevented from going to Berlin except by imprisoning them in a fortress and confiscating the money of the Finnish Olympic Committee.

women are far behind their western sisters in intelligent and independent think-

This, however, is not the case, for during the last few years, the Turk's womenfolk have made great progress in learning. In fact, the educated Turkish woman, the writer of the article continues, is in many ways far ahead of her western sisters, for she is generally al inguist, and while we allow our daughters to spend most of their time in sport, the Turkish girl is kept as a rule more strictly to her studies, and as a result she can discuss politics and most other subjects of general interest with an ease that would astonish the Senators Took First Game From London by Score of 2 to 1 Kubat Held Locals to Four Hits-Bullock Scores Winning Run After Having His Finger Dislocated by One of Bobby Heck's Fast Ones.

[Special to The Advertiser.] OTTAWA, July 3.-After ten innings of the flercest battling ever witnessed at Lansdowne Park, Ottawa beat London 2-1 in the first game of the big series here this afternoon, tying the Cockneys for first place in the league race. The struggle was featured by elegant pitching, sharp fielding, and lots of inside baseball. Bobbie Heck, London's best bet, was on the rubber for the Cockneys, and pitched good enough to win eight out of ten times. Frank Kubat, another Southpaw, opposed him and never showed to better advantage. Kubat has been London's jinx for a couple of years, and with a wonderful breaking curve ball, had the visitors well in hand most of the way. He did not permit a man to reach first till the fifth innings. Four bingles in all were collected from his offerings. The Senators hit Heck sharply from the outset, but he was backed by good fielding and very tight with men on. The Champions got six swats off him.

A FEW "BOUQUETS" FROM ONE OF OUR ST. THOMAS "ADMIRERS"

Clarence, the chesty sport writer on the St. Thomas Journal, is a fine admirer of the London team. After spending the holiday, watching the Saints perform at Tecumseh Park, he goes back to he burg and writes thusly. Some day there is going to be a loud splash and the Cockneys will slip so fast they will find themselves in fourth or fifth place before they stop.

The secret is out. When the London scribes are blowing about Thirdbaseman Mullin making so few errors, do they take into account the fact that he doesn't cover more than an acre of ground? He is apparently taking care of his fielding average regardless of the team.

Manager Reisling is a pretty wise guy at that. When the team is winning in the home lot he is the busiest man about the park, giving advice and standing out for the applause of the fans, but when the team is losing, his

Got Fifteen Safeties, But None of Them Went for Extra Bases-Craven Again Ejected.

TORONTO, July 3. - It is not an unommon thing for a team to get sixteen hits in one game, but for a team to secure fifteen safeties for the same number of bases, is somewhat an unusual occurrence. This happened today at the Motordrome in the opening game of the series between St. Thomas and the Beatheir bingles to better advantage than the locals. Wilkinson went the entire route for the winners, but Manager Lee was forced to winners, but Manager Lee was lorced to use three twirlers, namely, Roberts. Graham and Schaeffer. The latter was the only one of the trio who could do anything with the Saints, and retired hem in order in the eighth and ninth. The second, sixth and seventh innings were marked by the heavy hitting of the winners. They collected fifteen of their sixteen runs in these innings. In the eighth the locals got to Wilkinson for five runs on the same number of hits. Manager Craven, of the visitors, was ejected from the game in the second inning for disputing a decision. Umpire Miller handled the game alone. The box

London Has Fine Chance to Cop Championship of Group by Winning Today.

That London has one of the best lacrosse teams this season that ever re-presented this city has been amply proven by the showing of the locals in their past contest with the Brantford club, which is bringing a strong team.

The London club is at present leading the district, and a win from Brantford here today will go a long way toward winning the group honors. This afternoon's game in Queen's Park should provide one of the best exhibitions of Canada's national game ever seen in this city. Although London managed to beat the Brants in the Telephone City, the Brantford team went to St. Mary's and beat the club there by 15 to 10, while London was beaten badly in that town. [Special to The Advertiser.] HAMILTON, July 3 .- With "Bob" Yates deposed as manager, and Jack White at the helm, the Athletics won another ball game when they today defeated Brantford, 3 to 2. Yates left Hamilton last night after sending in his resignation, in so doing beating out the directors who, at a meeting just previously, had decided to ask the Hamilton pilot to quit. The fans are right with White and believe that the team will be up in the first division inside of a month. White was given a rousing remonth. White was given a rousing reception when he appeared on the field. Hamilton scored first today, when Barrett, a new man, connected for three bags. Cunningham singled and the run was across. The visitors tied it up in the sixth, Burns being passed, as was Deneau, and Roth's single scored Burns. In the seventh, the Telephone City aggregation got out in front, Lamond, batting for Forgue, getting a single. He was sacrificed to second and scored on Lecroix's bingle. Hamilton tied it up Lecroix's bingle. Hamilton tied it in their half of this session, when, with two out, Haeffner was safe on an error to Deneau; was advanced to second when Denohue was passed, and scored on Dudley's single. #### PETES BAT FITZPATRICK OUT OF BOX AND BEAT YANKEES

ERIE, Pa., July 3 .- Louie Schettler was on the hill for Peterboro this afternoon, and he took ample revenge on his former team. The visitors won the afternoon's match by a score of 10 to 4, and the way they hit the pill behind Schettler was ghastly.

Six big, juicy errors were chalked up against the Yanks, and with sixteen safe ones made by Peterboro, Gygli's men were never in the race. In the early part of the game, the locals gave Fitzpatrick good support, as the first men up landed against the horse-hide for doubles, and then came a single, but none of these got over the pan. But the visitors had their hitting clothes on, and they were not to be denied their pound of flesh. In the seventh, Fitz did the Lincoln Beachey stunt, and Manager Gygli unblanketed Close, who finished the Lattle. The

HOW TO STUDY—Examine the rebus picture and see how it will apply to a name. For example, the picture of a man lying on a couch can be interpreted as Couchman, while a stone-worker on a building could be evolved as Mason.

SUMMER PASTIME HANDBOOK—This is a wonderful aid toward solving the rebus pictures. It contains a list of 2,500 names, including those used in this Pastime; therefore, by study, success may be made certain. The book also carries 75 free additional Answer Forms. Price 25 cents at our office; or will be sent postpaid on receipt START NOW-You may begin with today's rebus picture, and if you have missed those already published, you may get all the preceding set free by obtaining the Summer Pastime Handbook. With the aid of this book it is possible for you to gain as many as four prizes.

SPECIAL OFFER-Any regular subscriber who induces another person to subscribe for this newspaper three months on trial, will receive a copy of the Summer Pastime Handbook free. The subscription is to be paid at this office and the handbook is to be requested at the same time.

Federal League "directors" can't keep their hands off their teams, either. They give Brown a mess of tripe, and kick because he can't make fruit salad out of it.

We are confident that we will get a vacation this summer, but remembering now confident Johnny Coulon was and now confident Johnny Coulon was and what happened, we haven't reserved any

Hundred and Fifty American Ex-Fighters in London.
LONDON, July 3. — The American esidents of London are entertaining the civil war veterans who live in this country, with an outing tomorrow. It is not likely that all of the 150 old sailors and soldiers who draw their pensions through the American consulate-general in London will be able to attend, for many of them are feeble, but already over a score have accepted the invitation, some with the rather pathetic appeal that "there will have to be tickets for two, as I must have somebody to look after me."
One of the first to accept was George Monroe, a naval veteran, who is 105 years old, but is still as active at many of the youngsters of 70 or more, and takes part

FATHER AND SON GET INTO COURT TOGETHER

The Magistrate Severely Reprimands Parent Who Was Drunk With His Boy.

James Daniels and Walter Daniels father and son, appeared in police court this morning charged with being drunk The son was out on suspended sentence and this was his first appearance since he was last arraigned before the magis-

"You're a nice kind of a father, aren't you," said Magistrate J. C. Judd to the elder man. "Why did you go out with your son and get drunk?"

Young Daniels was told that he was in imminent danger of going to the Central on the charge that was still hanging fire. He was only let go on the promise of future good conduct, the court told him. Both were allowed to go with a warning

George Dawson was on his way Woodstock. While en route he found It necessary to get drunk in London. He told to hasten on his way towards the Industrial City.

Joseph Liggotte, charged with a breach of the liquor license act was fined $10 and costs or 21 days.

William Proctor, who has been a member of the "go without" brigade, but who had been taken off the list, was charged with being drunk. He was advised not to resume his old methods. If he does there is 21 days awaiting him on his next appearance.

Thomas Murray, when he answered to his name, admitted that he had been drinking. He voluably explained that he had fallen by the wayside after keeping the narrow path for some time. He was

THE CORNELL FAMILY

New Egerton St. Baptist Interesting History Recalled by Family Reunion Near Burgessville-U. S. Loyalists.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Burgessville, July 3.—The fourth Cor-nell reunion was held on Dominion Day at the home of Daniel Hutchinson, near Old Ones Scarce and New Ones Burgessville. At noon 112 relatives sat 11 a.m., reception service; pastor's subject, 'Divine Requirements.' 7 p.m., Sunday School rally; address by Rev. Aquita Lucas. Special music by choir and or substitution of the sum of th with S. C. Cornell, of Norwich, in the chair. Mrs. John Cornell, secretary, read the minutes of the last gathering Music and readings interspersed the ad-John Cornell, of Somerville; Rouen Cornell, of Tillsonburg, and Mrs. Denys Thompson, of Aylmer. The latter was the oldest person present and she spoke of the delight it gave her to meet again so many relatives.

After singing The Maple Leaf Forever, tea was served and the friends separated, hoping to meet next year at Otter Park, Otterville. The Cornell family is of English origin.

coming to England in the Norman period from Brittany in France. Two brothers and a cousin emigrated o New England in 1635. One of the prothers, Thomas Cornell, was the ancestor of Ezra, who became the most famous of the Cornell family. Ezra was born in 1807, of the numerous seventh generation. His education was only in a public school, but his patience and talent made him one of the greatest o'clock in the morning. Prices, with the ket advanced 1/2c to 1/2c with the openand constructed a tunnel at Fall Creek, N. Y., for utilizing waterpower, the first of its kind in the United States. He ated with Morse and soon amassed a great fortune. His monument is Cornell University, founded in 1868. It enrolls 3,000 students, has a library of 250,000 volumes and an endowment of $800,000 While the Cornell family has thrived more in New York State, yet it has prospered in Canada. The first branch of the New York family to come to Canada settled in Flamboro in 1776, and, it is claimed, built the first grist-mill in Western Canada. The second contingent came in 1800, settling in Waterloo. The members were U. E. Loyalists. One of them, the Rev. John Cornell, was the founder of past five years by arrivals from the British Isles, of whom there are approximately two thousand. The majority are skilled mechanics, machinists, bricklayers, carpenters, stonemasons, tailors and possessors of other trades, which are thoroughly learned in the old land and fit the mmigrant at once for a good position at highest pay. Not one of these newcomers but has made good in Galt, and their success is even a surprise to themselves. The Advertiser talked to three of these men today, who may be taken as types of a pretty large class.

One man, in five years, has acquired ownership, in full, of a property assessed at $2,500. Another in his off days has built a fine brick house, worth $3,000. The third has gone into market gardening at leisure hours, and now owns a two-acre lot, the vegetables and fruit from which nearly pay household expenses.

Chances Are Better. "The chances in this country for an industrious man, with a trade and some ambition," said the last, "are so far ahead of those, that offer at home that they are not to be mentioned in Stanley, according to the last reports take a trip with my wife and family to heard from him by his colleagues on the England this summer, but as to going board of health. It is reported us old country people that once we that he will stay in the country with that we wouldn't leave Canada for our homeland or for any other land in the world."

Pleaded Not Guilty. A peculiar case was heard before the police magistrate today. Janney, one of the best known and most popular of young men of Galt, was charged with the theft of an automobile. He was arrested by Chief Gorman, at the instance of the division court bailiff, who claims that the car was under seizure, and that the accused took possession of it and refused to give it up. M. A. Secord, K.C., appeared for the crown; J. M. Jamieson for the defence.

The plea was "not guilty," and the election for trial before the county judge. The magistrate committed the accused for trial, but accepted bail, his mother. Mrs. Janney, and W. A. Hunter going his securities. The trial will take place on Thursday, July 9. The case is one involving some nice points of law, and will possess concerning the rights of a car buyer at 13%c. in respect of full ownership of his Trespassers Fined. To see a ball game from a forbidden vantage point was essayed by two men, J. Thompson and Edward Pessenger, on Dominion Day, when the sport was on in Dickson Park. The offence charged against these two at the police court today was that of trespassing on the Grand Trunk property, which adjoins the park. Constable Bryan laid the information, having arrested the two while on the outside looking in. In one instance a fine of $4.50 was imposed. In the other the defendant established that he was not on the railway property. Mr. Langdon Wilkes has sailed on the Aquitania for the continent.

Will Go to Toronto.
A. F. Smith, B.A., late of the Galt Collegiate Institute, has been made on the eve of the departure, the Mexi- master of English and history at Harbord Collegiate Institute, Toronto. The death took place last night at the family residence of Mrs. Thomas Vair, wife of ex-Mayar Vair, aged 63. Deceased was well-known and universally respected. The funeral will be held on Saturday morning.

June building permits show a decrease as compared with the same month last year of about thirteen thousand dollars. The custom returns are less by about ten thousand than June. 1913. David McLeod, for many years a prominent North Dumfries farmer, is dead, aged 76 years. He has lately been a resident of Galt.

POISON-PEN PROVES PERIL OF CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE

Favorite Method of Police De alt Blow in London Case When Alienist Declares Demente d Girl Wrote Accusing Letters to Herself; Trial Shows Man Has No Chance Against Woman in Court.

Kathleen O'Brien

Miss Kathleen O'Brien, the girl who wrote poison-pen letters to herself and didn't know it.

BY MARY BOYLE O'REILLY.

LONDON, Eng., July 4.—A poison-pen case has just startled England into less than the average made preparation of the untrustworthiness of circumstantial evidence and of hand-paration. There's nothing in the world so effective for removing or preventing writing evidence. From April 28 to May 9 anonymous and malicious letters fairly rained into a house at Brunswick Place, Hove. The occupants were Col. Gardiner, an elderly army man living alone, and his tenant, Mrs. Woodward, who occupied the ground floor.

Col. Charles Henry Gardiner, retired, a well-preserved man of 70, has lived in Hove for several years. He is highly respected and the author of several books. Mrs. Woodward is living apart from her husband with her little daughter. The only other person in the house, except the servants, was Miss Kathleen O'Brien, the child's governess.

Miss O'Brien is a pretty girl of 22 with blue eyes and yellow hair. The daughter of a naval officer who died eighteen years ago, she lived until recently with her widowed mother at Plymouth. There Mrs. Woodward met and engaged the gently-mannered girl. Some weeks later Miss O'Brien became —Advt. Il and went home to recuperate, returning in March. Two weeks later the anonymous letters began to arrive. Their character prevents publication. Libellous and salacious, they grew threatening. The first, addressed to the unhappy girl, read: Miss O'Brien had better be advised to leave Brighton. Notice of her character, thieving, drunkenness and other vilenesses has been sent to her friends in Brighton and Hove.

Other letters followed, all vile in character, many of them pushed beneath e door of the flat or left on the hall floor. That fact focussed the suspicions of the police on Col. Gardiner. Investigation indicated that several circumstances pointed to his guilt. The colonel exhibited a fixed antipathy toward Miss O'Brien. On the advise of postoffice exhibited a fixed antipathy toward Miss O'Brien. On the advise of postoffice inspectors, Miss O'Brien wrote the suspected man a trap letter:

Col. Gardiner. Sir: Surely Miss O'Brien is not living in your house.

Should not Mrs. Woodward be informed she is a demi-mondamaine?

That letter, posted in the presence of a detective inspector, was answered within six hours by a communication which referred to Miss O'Brien as a demi-mondaine.

On a warrant sworn by the government of Gol Gardiner was demi-mondaine. On a warrant sworn by the governess, Col. Gardiner was taken into custody charged with maliciously publishing a defamatory libel.

The colonel vehemontly protested the proceedings as a nefarious plot.

Circums antial evidence and handwriting evidence were against him. The Hove police court sat for three sessions taking testimony. Miss O'Brien in the witness box was self-possessed and lucid, obviously unwilling to prosecute, only anxious to defend her character. Mrs. Woodward was frank and convincing. No doubt remained of the prisoner's guilt.

Col. Gardiner came into court for sentence. Instead he heard such a Jekyll and Hyde story as modern science cannot explain. The prosecutor rose to express regret that he should have been instrumental in persecuting an honorable man. "I hold in my hand," acknowledged the solicitor, "a letter similar in character to the poison-pen letters in this case. Yet the letter I hold was written at Brussells in June, 1909, written, gentlemen, by Miss Kathleen O'Brien to herself. I call upon Dr. Nethersole Fletcher to testify." "This unfortunate girl was my patient for some months," declared the "While in my care she wrote defamatory letters about herself. Her state of mind is such that she would not be conscious of doing wrong in writing such letters. It is a case of dual personality, of hysteria and self-persecution, of cunning only described as demoniacal. The victim is an invalid, not a

How to Make a Real Wrinkle Remover

In these days of cleverly advertised "beautifiers" of 57 varieties and more, it is hard for a woman to believe she can make a simple home remedy for those hateful marks of age, worry and illness, wrinkles, crowsfeet and creases as a solution made by dissolving an ounce of pure powdered saxolite in a half pint hazel. Every druggist has the ingredients. Use this harmless mixture daily as a refreshing lotion, bathing the face in it two or three minutes at a time. The quick and satisfactory results will surprise you. Even the first application produces wonderful improvement. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face

A Real Flesh Builder For Thin People

A New Discovery.

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction. your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world ever. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh oream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of these a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol charges your week, staynant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the earrying power to deliver every ounce of sat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a sedentific combination of six of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and all druggists in London and vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.—Advt.

REMARKABLE CURE GAMEY MUST EXPLAIN BOTH PARTIES MOURN HIS GOLD MINE LETTER DEATH OF CHAMBERLAIN

Shares May Cause Big Disturbance.

[Special to The Advertiser.] TORONTO, July 3.—It is ten years since Robert Rosweil Gamey, M.P.P., of the Earl of Beaconsfield, in 1881, has sent the Liberal Government to obivion in the loss of an English statesman called Roswell is bound out by the same route. Today Sir James Whitney is in a diemna, following the production of a letter alleged to have been written by Mr. Gamey, in which he practically ordered a number of fishermen holding licenses in his constituency to buy so many shares who rendered invaluable services to the of the gold mining stock which Robert country and the empire, and was as true-Roswell was selling.

Sir James Whitney was informed of Mr. Gamey's action some time ago, but he has not yet taken any decisive action. ing newspapers devote almost the whole In ministerial circles it is felt that Gamey of their issue to biographical sketches, chief Conservative organs, has stated by leading men of the day. The concensus that Mr. Gamey must explain or get out. of opinion is that his greatest service was Sensation Promised.

The Gamey letter promises to be the sensation of the coming session for Robert Roswell has his friends (it might COL. DENISON almost be said that he has "got" friends) and before he is put away there PAYS TRIBUTE.

Just now Sir James has something on his mind that does not please him any more than the Proudfoot charges, which have never gone off his mind. As well, Sir James has Sir Adam Beck and Mr. Hanna on his mind.

What The News Says. The Toronto News puts it up to the Government and to Mr. Gamey in the following terms: The following letter from Mr. R.

Samey, member of the Legislature for Manitoulin, dated at Toronto in May, 1913, and said to have been addressed to fishermen in the constituency holding licenses from the Provincial Government. has been published.

I am selling some stocks of Elizabeth Gold Mines, Limited, at sixty cents per share. I am president of the company, and we have done a great deal of development work and great deal of development work and have an extensive plant in operation. I have a payment to make now and wish to sell you five hundred shares for which I will draw on you three drafts for $100 in thirty, sixty and ninety days each. Some time early in June I will be happy to explain fully the property and discuss matters with you. The drafts will go through with you. The drafts will go through the Merchants Bank and they will notify you, and be good enough to accept them to assist me.

Yours truly (Signed), R. R. GAMEY, As yet we have had no explanation from Mr. Gamey. Were there personal relations between Mr. Gamey and those to whom the letter was addressed that would justify his action? Was the letter a general communication to those with whom Mr. Gamey is in the habit of doing business? Any suspicion that Mr. Gamey, as controlling Provincial patronage in Manitoulin, would practically levy an disproved. On its face the letter is disturbing. Mr. Gamey ought to meet the charges that have been made with a frank and full explanation,

ELEVEN PROVINCES ARE FREE OF OPIUM

In China

[Canadian Press.] MUKDEN, Manchuria, July 8 .-Eleven of the provinces forming China proper are declared to be free of opium, and the British Government has agreed that, according to a previous arrangement, no Indian opium hereafter shall be permitted to enter these provinces. The Chinese Government has sent instructions to the gov-ernors of the remaining provinces in the republic to put down the use of opium and prohibit the cultivation of the poppy before the end of the year. The success of the anti-opium campaign in China is conspicuous, considering the Government's inability or lack of serious effort to terminate brigandage and other evils.

Mrs. Brock, its mother, is at present working in Detroit. It is though here that Brock has taken the baby to St. Thomas.

A Splendld Season.

The tourist season here has been a splendid one so far. Scores of people from Toronto, Brantford, London, Woodstock and other points are spending their vacations here.

A narrow escape from a serious accident happened on Wednesday afternoon, when the horse of J. A. McBride, became frightened, and his son Arnold who had the bit out of the horse's mouth to allow it to eat grass, was unable to get it stoped. He held on and after going around 2 or 3 blocks, the horse finally came to a stop against a tree, smashing the buggy and throwing the boy violently to the ground. He had his leg badly cut and

DEAN OF ST. PAUL'S STARTLES OLD LAND WITH STATEMENTS Part of God's Creation.

THE FOE OF DEMOCRACY

Distrusts the Masses and Foretells Day When State Will Destroy the Inefficient.

The appearance of the Dean of St. Paul's as the Essex Hall lecturer to the Unitarians this week is an unprecedented event. But no less unprecedented is the dean himself. He is the strangest portent of the church today, the symbol of that universal unress which is disturbing society, but which rarely finds any reflection in the discreet utterances of the hierarchy. The Archbishop of Canterbury may be taken as typical of the attitude of the dig. nitaries of the establishment to the disquietudes that envelop us. You may search all his deliverances without discovering that anything particular is happening in these thrilling days wher every doctrine is challenged, when ness ideas are sweeping over men like . tide, and when the social roder is shifting violently to new foundations. He preserves through all the accents of calm world and a long peace.

But Dean Inge has brought church into relation-even if a distorted relation-with facts. He is vital and sensational as the time on which he passes his startling criticisms. And whatever we may think of his views, we must be grateful for the courage and independence of his thought. He is like a man who is thinking furiously aloud and is unconscious of all considerations of clerical propriety and siderations of cierical propriety and conventional restraints. You may disagree with him, but one thing you know—he is telling you what he profoundly believes and he is telling is without any thought of preferment. or popularity or personal consequences. "Any dead dog can float with the stream," he says scornfully; but be goes his own way in face of any current. He has probably said more indiscreet things than any man who ever went into a pulpit and his gift of phrase-making renders his indiscretion all the more dazzling and memor-

The Recluse Temperament. serious defect. He is essentially a recluse, both by temperament and training. His life has been almost exclusively spent at Eton, first as a pupil, then as a master, and at Oxford, first as an undergraduate, then as a tutor. Now Eton and Oxford are useful rungs in the ladder, but the view of the world which is gained from either of them is limited. Dean Inge has never qualified that view by any contact with the life of that surprisingly large number of people who have been neither to Eton nor to Oxford. Nor is the limited range of his experience counteracted by his habit of mind. He always carries the true He always carries the impress of the isolated soul. If see him in committee you cannot fail to notice the curious spiritual aloofness that invests him. He seems to sit remote, abstracted, with a gentle melancholy playing across his ascetic features. If you meet him in the street he is always alone, his eyes cast down, his mind apparently sunk in an abyss of thought. To some extent no doubt this isolation is due to his deafness, but it is primarily the result of a temperament which does not so much see the world as brood over its conception of the world.

And the brooding, introspective habit does not tend to a cheerful view of men who dwell closest to the poor and the most of that fierce battle which they wage against poverty and squalor are the least gloomy in their thoughts about them. The long life that Canon Barnett spent in the midst of East London never depressed his serene and beautiful temper. Above all, it or pass harsh verdicts upon them, shone in him like a pillar of fire and it never shone brighter than at the end. And the same is true of men like the Bishop of Lon In and the late Peter Jackson. Their life in the slums did not teach them to despair; on The Foe of Democracy.

It is Dean Inge's misfortune that, though, as he once said, he has lived most of his life in two rooms, they were rooms in a college, and not in a cottage. he had a course of Toynbee Hall or Can ning Town his hatred of the democratic philosophy-"the silliest of all fetishes ver worshipped among us," as he has aid-might not have been less; but his inderstanding of the working classes would have saved him from some of the grosser attacks that he has made upon them, not the least astonishing of which was the Easter sermon he preached in the midst of the great coal strike. "The men's claims for justice," he said then, "are an earnest of revolutionary war waged for the sake of spoil. Men in masses are nearly always guided by selfish interests. Moral considerations do

The good old rule Sufficeth them, the simple plan,
That they should take who have the And they should keep who can "

His distrust of the masses, indeed, is almost an obsession. He adopts Tenny-son's satire as his own gopels. "'Winning masses," he says, "is a phrase for politicians, not for evangelists. If ally ourselves with mankind in the loomp' we ally ourselves with mankind at its worst." A strange gospel to trace its source to Nazareth. But he has a message for the masses all the same. They are to be painlessly removed from a world in which they are only a nuisance "The state of the future." he says, "will take life mercifully, but more freely than than provide a comfortable lethal chamber for our superfluous population. The policy of the Women's Social and Political Union, the militant organization, is the attack on property, and on property alone. This policy has undergone no change.

The policy of attacking human life is left to the militant opponents of home rule in Ireland. The militant women continue to respect life.

But their warfare on property has been intensified by the Government's recent measures of coercion.

I am thankful as an industrial worker that the working women of the country are prepared to fight EVERY INCH OF THE WAY, if need be, to win for themselves the liberty which MEN have found so necessary in order to win reform and bring about better conditions for THEIR sex

Can any workingman who rightly insists that his point of view shall be heard in the House of Commons think that we working women should be entirely unrepresented? Laws are being made regulating the labor of women in various ways; it is utterly wrong if those laws are passed by men not responsible in any way to the women for whom they legislate.

The workingmen found many years ago that they needed the vote to protect their labor and later to protect their union. The member who is sent to parliament by the trade unions has to obey the men who sent him. But the women, who in some trades far outnumber the men, have no representative, though they work the same long hours in the same hot, stifling factories, often doing the same work for less pay! #### HERE'S LIFE STORY OF ANNIE KENNY By Mary Boyle O'Reilly.

London, July 2 .- Annie Kenny, the principal organizer and chief lieutenant of the militant suffragettes, is a daughter of the people. At ten years of age, little Annie was a half-timer in an Oldham mill. At 12 she was earning fair wages, but much less than boys who did precisely the same work. And she wondered why.

At 15, when mill girls were agitating for better wages, Annie got them their rights. Immediately they chose her to represent them upon the district committee trade union. For this she received 15 cents a week.

The feat of Lieut. John C. Porte, who expects soon to be skimming across the Atlantic at 60 miles an hour in the marvelous flying boat, America, will differ in many ways from that which was performed over four hundred years ago by the great discoverer of the new world.

Porte intends to be the first to reach the OLD world by the air route! If he succeeds, he will win a $50,000 prize. The ultimate reward of Christopher Columbus was prison and chains! It took Columbus close to three months for his epoch-making voyage. Porte will cross the same Atlantic in less than two days. Columbus voyaged in an ordinary sailing ship of the time. Porte's oversea aero is one of the most extraordinary flying ships ever built.

When a man has lived in the saddle for the better part of thirty years and has come to understand the desert. this form of exquisite torture robs the nether regions of all terror. That Bill had com mitted no crime added piquancy to his position. Somebody had been guilty of hair-branding a hundred strays that rightfully belonged in the herd of a powerful cattle man; and somebody had to suffer. Bill had never spoken to the mob in the patio, although in the first month he had longed for the appearance of a white man's face among them.

But when there were but two remaining days of his sentence, trivial incidents became momentous experiences. All morning he watched everything with the eager anticipation of a child. The men fell on the Yuma, trampling him and his treasure under foot. They fought whatever their hands touched, enemy or friend, as if every man concealed under his shirt the treasure they sought. ### DOOM OF THE DREADNOUGHT AND APOTHEOSIS OF THE SUBMARINE

Admiral Sir Percy Scott has created a sensation, and given rise to the publication of endless columns in the newspapers, by the publication of a letter in which he declares that "just as the motor vehicle has driven the will not be safe for a fleet to put to the naval estimates. Some authorities as the motor vehicle has driven the horse from the road, so has the submarine driven the battleship from the sea." Instead of battleships, he would have the money voted for their construction spent on building more submarines and seaplanes.

The Prophets of the Admiralty. Only a few years have elapsed since he first Dreadnought was launched. At that time we were told, says the Daily Chronicle, that the Dreadnought was to be the battleship of the future, and many a paean of rejoicing went up because the British Navy had led the way with the all-big ship. Now we are told that the Dreadnought era is past and gone. And the Daily Mail reminds us that in 1886 it was suggested that the torpedo-boat had rendered the battleship worthless. Mr. Hibbert, who then represented the Ramon stopped before an adobe house on Admiralty in the House of Commons, leeclared that H. M. S. Why Dreadnoughts Are Doomed. The following are the main points in Sir Percy's letter, which was published

"The introduction of the vessels that swim under water has, in my opinion, entirely done away with the utility of the ships that swim on the top of the water.' Pointing out that submarines are difficult to destroy, Sir Percy Scott says a Power that sends out ships to look for and destroy submarines will be courting disaster, for the submarines when in the water must be kept away from, not looked for. He adds: "What we require is an enormous fleet of submarines, airships, and aeroplanes, and a few fast criusers, provided we can find a place to keep them in safety during war time."

Will Naval War Be Abolished? "If we go to war with a country with n striking distance of submarines, Sir Percy thinks: "The country will at once lock up their Dreadnoughts in some safe harbor; we shall do the same; their aeroplanes and airships will fly over our country; they will know exactly where our laid down in any country. out that "the assumptions that battleships can be attacked in harbor by submarines, or if not so attacked, would be unable to survive the assaults of submarines and seaplanes at sea, are yet unproved hypotheses. All sudden revoluions in naval policy are to be suspected. The business of the British Admiralty is to keep ahead of its neighbors in all branches of the service, to watch all scientific developments with a keen eye, to let no prejudice in favor of an existing type prevent it from evolving new ones, but at each step to remember that most developments are speculative, and that none can be absolutely relied upon as the sole specific for naval warfare."

The Golden Age of Stupidity. The "period of the Dreadnought," says the Daily News, "will be known in naval history as the golden age of stupidity. It is to be hoped, whether Sir Percy Scott's views are accepted or not, that at least they will break this ice of imbecility and set the stream of thought moving again. The plain and brutal truth is that in the last ten years the whole naval problem, both political and instrumental, has become utterly different from what it was before, and must be thought out afresh.'

"In the light of Sir Percy's able and suggestive letter." says the Chronicle, "it is plainly the duty of our Admiralty to go slow with its battleship construction. 'They are old before they are born,' such is the rapidity with which naval construction changes. And now we have the dictum of a high authority that they belong to a bygone age as much as the mastodon does. It may be that Sir Percy Scott is too sweeping in his deductions; it is quite likely that he is in advance of his time. But that there is a sound core in his reasoning we defy his critics to

Nationalist Volunteers threaten to take the field. From a military point of view, their resistance might not prove very formidable. They lack the leadership, the discipline, the organization, and the equipment, and, above all, the determined spirit of the Ulstermen. But they could vent their wrath on the scattered minority in the Southern and Western Provinces, and anyone who remembers the horrible outrages that marked the Land War in the eighties will not expect Nationalists, raging at the failure of their hopes and maddened by racial and religious fanaticism to show much mercy to their helpless foes. And, if vengeance is wreaked on Loyalists in Nationalist Ireland, there is certain to be a savage war of reprisals in the North,

I said last week at Dungannon, at a meeting called to enroll the Irish Volunteers, that if the editors of most lic and Protestant are about equally divided. KING GEORGE'S GIFT TO FRENCH

The gift of the Dujardin bas-reiefs by King George to the French Government is greatly appreciated by the French people, but there is another of his majesty's possessions which will always remain the most desired by the French Royalists at all events.

This is the bronze equestrian figure of Louis XV, which stands in the bay window of the green drawingroom at Windsor Castle. It is a finished model of the colossal figure by Girardon which once stood in the Place Vendome in Paris, and the model is the only one in existence. The next most valuable of the treasures at Windsor associated with French history are the three cabinets by Gouthiere made for the Comte d'Artois, which were purchased by George IV for $500. Today if they came into the open market, these cabinets would probably fetch $50,000

They are organized, financed and generally ready to buy whatever is for sale in their home parliaments or in foreign governments. Last year was launched "The Peacemaker," the official organ of the ssociated councils of churches in the British and German empires for fostering riendly relations between the two peoples. Especially among the middle classes the educative value of this Christian propaganda will be very great. Another new influence comes from the schools. In the midst of the militarist reaction which has lately swept over France, over 100,000 public school teachers, and-more astounding still-350 professors of the Borbonne, have dared to take a stand collectively against "interested nationalism" and Jingoistic excitement.

Meanwhile, Edward VII. and his ministers were planning with France to encircle Germany.

In view of these facts is it any wonder that many Germans believe in the English peril? As early as 1898 the Kaiser had sounded the alarm in his famous phrase, "Our future is upon the sea." From that day to this these two great peoples have vied with each other in the mpoverishment of themselves, and some men want Canada to emulate their example. No, gentlemen, it is not our duty to squander our fair heritage in aggravating old world ills. If we attend to own affairs, no one will want to attack us. The German Bogey. But, you say, though we nip our own militarism in the bud, may we not make a harmless contribution of $35,000,000 to the navy of the motherland? Well, certainly that is the lesser of the two evils, and if our gift would really help England or help the world, we ought to give it. But you know for a certainty that our contribution would stimulate German effort directly and to a corresponding degree, and not only German effort, but the efforts of the Triple Alliance, and ultimately, of the other nation. The final result of our sacrifice would be to leave the powers in the same relative position as they now stand, all of them in appearance a little stronger and in reality a little nearer exhaustion. Each phase of social evolution is a separate chapter in mankind's history. Statesmen never learn by experience, and the populace does not read history. Reform Beginnings.

The complete study of a typical reform is essential in order to understand the principles that underlie human zig-zag progress. In "The Passing of the Great Reform Bill," by J. R. M. Butler (Longmans, 12s 6d net), we have an invaluable social study. The idea of parliamentary birth of modern radicalism. It represented the reaction of the men of substance and its growth was hampered by the French wars. The great nobles led the movement, which (until the franchise came) was not and could not be controlled by the popular will. It was not until After Waterloo that social economics, or what Carlyle called "The Condition of England," became part and parcel of the

The question of parliamentary reform is not so uniformly supported, nor has It at present the public opinion so strongly in its favor, as that it should be made & sine quo non in forming an administration. There was a time when the expression of my opinion of parliamentary re-form exposed me to obloquy. But I still adhere to the opinion I have always entertained on this subject. I have always tained that reform ought to keep with the march of human intellect -that its progression should be gradual.' This attitude is the invariable one at that stage, a condition inevitable when one thinks of "the human intellect." In the Wilderness. Why were the reformers sixty years in the wilderness? Half a dozen reasons exist. And the serious reader should read them at length in the book. Then he will be surprised, not that reform took long, but that it was won at all. Even the reform party was out of touch with the uneducated masses who did not even want votes, and had not the vigor to fight dates the practical political stage.

Grim Humor.

There is a deal of grim humor in asking men who have been fettered by ignorance and then buffeted by Fate what absurdity is. Had they the wit to see life more clearly they might long ago have come to the conclusion that absurdity was simply the name for life itself. One of the most interesting tes.s was that of the vocabulary. The men were asked to say words, any words, continuously for three minutes, the idoa being to discover the things that occupled their minds and also their educitional condition. When one considers that the total vocabulary of most of these men does not run above two hundred words, it can readily be seen how illuminating this test may be. In every case the examiner discovered far more of the man's life and condition than could have possibly been learned through direct questions. We read on:

One man-he was asthmatic-complained that he was very nervous, and had to be coaved every twenty seconds. "Shillings, pence, half, price, sale. shop. ." He repeated the word "shillings"

The principle of the test is very simple and consists merely in asking the subject to do certain things which are graded by years. Thus, for instance, Binet experimented with large number of children ten years old and found out what a child of that age could normally be expected to be able to do irrespective of training or education. A series of questions and problems was formulated for year up to twelve. There are tests for fifteen-vear-old children and for adults, but these are unreliable, as training must necessarily affect the result. If a man can pass the twelve and eleven-year tests he is considered an adult: if not, he is considered de-

And not only were some of the victims but many of them besides had served their turn at snow-shoveling during the day and were too weary to think, even in the terms of twelve year-olds. One of these expressed his sentiments vividly.

"Wotcher think this is, a kinder-garten? Wotcher think I came here for? I ain't no kid. I'm a grown-up. -why, I have kids who could do these here things. The majority of the men were normal in this, and they found the test embarrassing, annoying, or too much beneath them.

In the second test the men had the opportunity for laying bare their very souls. It seemed strange, even at the time, that so very few were filled with bitterness, or perhaps it was because they could not express it. Whoever made up the original question could never have foreseen the slashing irony of its application.

Taken as a whole, his poetical work in common with the rest of his work has an own. In the poetry it is more an originality of expression, while in his work the originality lies rather in the thought and treatment of his subjects Swinburne once said that he could tell ar isolated line of Shelly's verse owing to the musical quality in it. The same might be said as regards recognizing Watts-Dunton's verse from an originality of tone and expression which is very character

In his prose work his chief legacy is two novels and a mass of literary criticism not as yet collected or published in bulk, and articles written in the Encyclopaedia Britannica. His critical studies appeared and strike no more for mainly in the Examiner and the

These criticisms were well known for their sanity and discrimination, and brought him a reputaclipsed that of Swinburne, and was undoubtedly very well deserved. Swinburne, with a critical instinct second to none was led away by his enthusiasms and his exuberance and ornateness of diction to such an extent that his critical studies are practically worthless except for pleasant reading. Watts-Dunton added to a sound instinct a restraint and sanity originality that marks it as peculiarly his of judgment which rightly gave him one of the highest places among contemporary critics.

His two chief novels are "Carniola" and "Aylwin." The former is a tale of openair life, partly in England, Hungary and Venice. It is not very well known, and though it affords very pleasurable reading, it lacks the originality and strength of thought characteristic of the other novel, which it very closely resembles in style and setting. The novel "Aylwin," or "The Renascence of Wonder," is the one permanent piece of literature— "deathless masterpiece" you can imagine Swinburne saying-left by Theodore Watts-Dunton as a heritage to posterity. Farm.1

For several years the air has been full of electricity talk, and there are tohay thousands of farmers throughout the Province of Ontario and in some of the other provinces as well who are anxious to know whether or not electricity will render them on their own farms a service equal to that enjoyed by the men of commerce and industry in the towns and cities. It is true that electricity may be used for a variety of purposes about a farm. It will help a farmer law his wood, pump his water, milk his cows, groom his horses, pull the roots for the cattle and sheep, and do many things about the farm house that saves labor of the household as, for example. bread for breakfast, help clean the floors heat and light the rooms, and provide comfort for the aged; but the business of the farm is more varied even than the use of electricity, while the power, uppliances, etc., cost money. Can the larmer afford to use electricity? This is the question that remains to be answered. To satisfy the demand for information the writer recently drove to Ingersoll to investigate the conditions that prevailed on the farms where hydro-electric power has been in use for a year or more.

The story of the book is too long to be entered into here, but the problem presented is the triumph of love over death. A great many side issues are introduced, such as the power of curses, the influence of the guilt of sacrilege on a man's mind and certain other psychological problems fumph of love over the limits set by death. The question is, Can a man if his love and his faith be strong enough to ommune spiritually and live in as close piritual relationship as in life with the pirit of a loved one gone before? Henry Aylwin's father who wrote the "Velled Queen," the book that started the movement in this direction answered this in the firmative. Unionists May Continue to Press for Exclusion of the Six Ulster Counties.

[From Manchester Guardian.] Not merely the cabinet, but all the British and Irish parties, have arrived at the sharp turning to which it was inevitable that the attempt to settle the question of Irish government would lead them. We hear a good deal of the peculiar responsibility of the ministry. anybody who tries to do anything with Ireland must shoulder his bit of responsibility. But Liberals have long ago made up their minds that it is better not to be responsible any longer for forcing a bad kind of rule on four-fifths of the Irish people. And if the Tory party were to win in their great Ulster-cum-anarchy campaign, they would soon be as anxious as we are to shuffle that particular load off their backs. Do these people think that they have done themselves or the country, or Ireland, any good by stirring up the Toryism of British officers and the fanaticism of Irish Orangemen, with a view to smashing up a very moderate tentative, half-way-house scheme for reconciling the Celtic Irish to our governing system? Probably they don't. They, like many other people, are driven along an unknown road by forces they have not the will or the moral courage to resist. But at least it is an act of Christian charity to suggest to them the company they are likely to meet on that rather foroidding path.

The Question of Exclusion. Let us assume, then, for a moment, that the Tories win. The "victory" would me about somewhat in this fashion. The attempt to settle breaks down. This is likely to happen, if it happens, for two reasons. The first is that the Opposition will insist on nothing short of six Ulster counties standing out of the home rule bill. They will press for this in disregard of the fact that it destroys their general case. They cannot at once be majority and minority men. They cannot rest their claim for exemption both on the rights of the majority in Antrim and Derry, and of the minority in Tyrone and Fermanagh. But as logic and politics rarely walk arm in arm, one need only say that this plea is a bar to peace because it enhances the growing Liberal suspicion that nise is desired, and that the real aim is the extinction of the home

The second difficulty is the demand for absolute, unqualified exclusion. There, again, the doubt as to intention comes in. How can Ulster be amputated from Ireland? What right have we to suppose that she wants to be.
