CAMBRAI AND THOUSANDS OF GERMANS CAPTURED BY HAIG

FRENCH TROOPS CAPTURE TOWNS SOUTHEAST OF ST. QUENTIN

TERRIFIC ONSLAUGHTS OF ALLIES HAVE RIPPED TO PIECES THE HINDENBURG LINE ON A WIDE FRONT

Field Marshal Haig Reports Steady Advance On Thirty-Mile Front Following the Capture of Cambrai—Teutons Are Being Driven Toward French Frontier by the British.

New York, Oct. 9.—The Associated Press today issues the following:

Forced from Cambrai, one of the strong pillars of the Hindenburg system, the Germans today are being driven back toward the French frontier under the heavy onslaughts of the Third and Fourth British armies, aided by American troops. Apparently the Germans now have lost the Hindenburg line on the front from Cambrai to St. Quentin. Field Marshal Haig resumed his attack this morning, and reports that rapid progress is being made on a front of more than 30 miles from northeast of Cambrai to east of St. Quentin.

As the German defence system in the centre falls to the British and Americans, the French and Americans on the southern wall from Rheims to east of the Meuse, are smashing their way northward, threatening the important junctions on the railways running eastward from the broken St. Quentin-Cambrai line.

East of the Hindenburg line in the St. Quentin-Cambrai area the Germans are reported to have no prepared defences until a line immediately east of the frontier is reached. East of this line, which would run through Valenciennes, the Germans have the line of the Meuse.

In capturing Cambrai, and breaking through the German defences to the south the British and Americans took more than 8,000 prisoners and a large quantity of guns.

ISSUES WARNING

Paris, Oct. 9.—Gen. J. M. G. Malleterre, the military critic for the Temps, has written a letter from the front saying that the German armies are at the end of their strength and that the German high command is hoping to save them.

"An armistice, even with the obligation to evacuate invaded territory and Alsace-Lorraine," he continues, "would allow the German command to withdraw its armies in security to a distance sufficient to give time to reform the ranks in preparation for the moment when Berlin will denounce the Allies terms as impossible."

SPANISH PREMIER FORMS A CABINET AND AVERTS CRISIS

Antonio Maura Takes Immediate Action Following Resignations.

San Sebastian, Spain, Tuesday, Oct. 8.—Antonio Maura, the resignation of whose cabinet was reported today, has formed a new government, in which he takes the post of minister of public instruction, which was vacated by the Duke of Alba, who is the only minister superseded in the new cabinet. Premier Maura's enthusiastic attitude gives the impression that a crisis has been averted.

ENEMY HANGING OVER PRECIPICE

Rome Paper Advises One More Shove and Over He Goes.

Rome, Oct. 8.—Commenting on the German proposal for an armistice, the Corriere D'Italia, the semi-official Vatican organ, says:

"An unconditional acceptance of the offer made by the central empires is out of the question unless invaded territories are first evacuated as a guarantee of the enemy's good intentions.

The Giornale Popula, the organ of the Socialist faction, which is favorable to the war, says: "The step taken by the central empires must only strengthen the morale of the Italians and increase their fighting qualities. The enemy is asking for peace while hanging over the precipice which is destined to swallow him if we make one last effort."

The Cologne Volks Zeitung says Karl Trimborne, Centrist, has been appointed minister of the interior.

FOUR MEN DIE WHEN OVERCOME BY FUMES IN HUGE WINE VAT

Deaths From Suffocation at Niagara Falls Warehouse.

RESCUER A VICTIM

Firemen Compelled To Cut Bottom From Receptacle To Get Bodies.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Niagara Falls, Oct. 9.—Henry Marsh, 35 years of age, his brother, Joseph, 32 years old, and two Russians were instantly killed today in a wine vat at the Stamford Park Wine Company, owned and conducted by the Marsh brothers. The foreigners were cleaning out the vat, which it is said contained a sediment of wine at the bottom, and they succumbed to the fumes when they were disturbed. Henry Marsh went to their assistance and fell a victim to the fumes, and in a few seconds after his brother, who attempted to rescue him succumbed. A rope was put around F. Liddingham, a workman, who managed to drag Henry Marsh, who was partially conscious, almost to the top of the ladder, but Liddingham was so overcome by suffocation that he had to release his hold and was unable to make the rescue. The firemen were appealed to in order to remove the bodies. The bottom had to be cut out of the vat. The four men were almost unrecognizable. Both of the Marsh men were married and leave families, and were prominently known. An inquest will be held. B. Marsh, another brother, stated today that there was no sediment in the tank, and death was from the fumes in the wood, and that the foreigners went into the vat without instructions.

DR. NORMAN BEAL IS ILL WITH PNEUMONIA

Fell Victim of Influenza at Mayo Hospital.

Dr. Norman Beal is seriously ill at the Mayo Hospital, Rochester, Minn., with pneumonia. It developed from an attack of Spanish influenza.

Dr. Beal's family were recently notified that Dr. Beal had fallen a victim of the epidemic now prevalent throughout the whole of the United States and Canada. This was followed shortly by a telegram announcing that the dangerous complication of pneumonia has followed. Last night Principal H. B. Beal received a telegram announcing that the doctor's condition was serious. Word this morning is to the effect that Dr. Beal had a much better night last night, but is still seriously ill.

Dr. Beal left the city some weeks ago to spend a year assisting the famous Mayo brothers in their work.

Mrs. Beal and T. B. Escott left London at noon for Rochester to attend at the bedside of Dr. Beal.

POLICE BETWEEN TWO FIRES, DECLARES CHIEF

Motorists Say They Are Too Strict With Speed Law.

Chief W. T. Williams, when spoken to in reference to the request made to the city council that speeders should be more carefully watched, says that it is simply impossible to please everybody. "Why the motorists allege that we are altogether too strict, and now the others, who possibly do not own autos, are kicking because there are not more convictions. However any driver who exceeds the limit, and who is seen by any of our men will certainly have to answer for it."

NEW INFLAMMABLE BOMB OF GERMANS

Water Poured On Fire Merely Increases Its Intensity.

Paris, Oct. 9.—The Germans, during the past few days, have been using in their air work a new type of inflammable bomb, combining great effectiveness with light weight. A single airplane, it is said, can carry 200 of these bombs.

The only way of fighting the fire caused by this new form of destructive weapon appears to be the isolation of the blaze set, as pouring water on it is literally adding fuel to the flames on account of chemicals of which the bombs are composed.

TURKISH OFFICIALS RESIGN POSITIONS

Enver and Talaat Pasha Quit Ottoman Government.

London, Oct. 9.—Canadian Press Dispatch from Reuter's.—Enver Pasha and Talaat Pasha have resigned from their positions in the Turkish Government. Tejfik Pasha has been appointed grand vizier.

SOME CONTRAST

Amsterdam, Oct. 9. — The Kruez Zeitung and the Vossische Zeitung, of Berlin, note that Prince Maximilian, who is a cavalry general, addressed the Reichstag Saturday attired in civilian clothes. They contrast this with the attitude of Former Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, a civilian, who spoke in the Reichstag on August 4, 1914, in the uniform of a general.

INFLUENZA IS REPORTED IN ALL PARTS OF THE PROVINCE

Epidemic Claiming Many Victims Among Civilians.

SUBSIDING IN CAMPS

Drastic Measures Are Being Taken To Stamp Out Plague.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—While the military camps in various parts of the province seem to be recovering from the epidemic of Spanish influenza, reports continued to come in from most districts of continued fatalities among the civilian population from this malady. Unfortunately the bright, dry weather, which the physicians say is so necessary to help wipe out this plague, did not materialize in many parts of the province this morning.

Cloudy, wet weather was reported, especially in the northern sections.

In Toronto there are about 800 cases in the hospitals, besides hundreds of cases in the home. Of the hospital cases, 500 or so are among the soldiers. A peculiar feature about the civilians in hospitals with the disease is that of the 200 cases more than 40 are nurses in the various institutions.

200 AT NIAGARA CAMP.

Niagara Camp, Oct. 9.—While the number of Polish soldiers affected with Spanish influenza has been reduced to 28, the total affected in the Canadian camp is over 200, and is still increasing. Only three deaths have occurred in the Canadian camp so far and none since Sunday. A death in the Polish camp last night brought the total Polish fatalities from influenza up to seventeen.

When the Canadian camp breaks up next week the hospital will remain behind until all the "flu" patients have recovered.

The railway troops left camp this afternoon for Hamilton, where they will go into winter quarters. The first battalion, 2nd Central Ontario Regiment, which is also going to Hamilton for the winter, will not move out of the camp till next week.

TO STUDY INFLUENZA.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 9.—Lieut.-Col. L. E. Irving, the acting D. M. S. for this district, has gone to Niagara Camp for the purpose of getting first-hand information of the influenza situation, and upon his report will depend the date of the moving to winter quarters in Toronto.

BRITISH DIPLOMATS REGARD WILSON'S REPLY AS RIGHT

Clever and Logical Is Prevailing Opinion in London.

London, Oct. 9.—In diplomatic circles here President Wilson's reply to the peace proposals of Prince Maximilian, the imperial German chancellor, is regarded as clever and logical.

It is felt in these circles that the president was wise in refraining from a flat rejection. The president, however, it is considered, displays the same attitude of skepticism as do British and continental statesmen concerning the good faith of the German Government, and desires satisfaction on this point before taking further steps. It is believed that a satisfactory answer to President Wilson's questions will severely test Germany's good faith, while an affirmative reply will mean the acknowledgment of a German defeat.

The acumen and logic of the American executive in framing the reply is regarded by the diplomatists as characteristic of him.

BRITISH CAPTURE CAMBRAI; EIGHT THOUSAND HUNS TAKEN BY HAIG

Forenville, South of Cambrai, Falls, While Western Outskirts of Walincourt Are Reached by Third and Fourth Armies of British General---Pershing Bags 3,000 Germans in Advance on Both Sides of the Meuse.

London, Oct. 9.—The city of Cambrai has been captured by the British with 8,000 prisoners here and elsewhere.

Field Marshal Haig announced the capture of this long-resisting German stronghold in his official statement today.

Last night additional progress was made east of Sequehart and toward Marethe.

South of Cambrai, the British captured Forenville and reached the western outskirts of Walincourt. The attack this morning was on the front of the third and fourth armies and began at 5:20 o'clock.

The text of the statement reads:

"Further progress was made yesterday evening east of Sequehart and in the direction of Bohain and Marethe. Our troops reached the western outskirts of Walincourt and gained the lines of the La Targette-Cambrai road, capturing Forenville.

"At 5:20 o'clock this morning the attack was resumed on the whole front of the third and fourth armies. First reports indicate that rapid progress is being made everywhere.

"Shortly after midnight, Canadian troops attacked north of Cambrai. Ramillies has been captured and the crossing of the Canal de L'Escaut secured in the neighborhood of the village. Our troops have entered Cambrai.

"The number of prisoners taken by us yesterday exceeds 8,000, and we have captured many guns."

PERSHING REPORTS THE CAPTURE OF MORE THAN 3,000 GERMANS

Washington, Oct. 9.—American and French troops are steadily driving the enemy from the scene of the desperate struggles for Verdun, General Pershing reported today in his communication. He announces an advance on both sides of the Meuse and the capture of more than 3,000 prisoners during the day. He also reported the capture of Gornay against stubborn fighting in the continued advance in the Argonne Forest.

FRENCH TROOPS TAKE TOWNS SOUTHEAST OF ST. QUENTIN

Paris, Oct. 9.—French troops southeast of St. Quentin last night captured the outskirts of the towns of Harly and Neuville-St. Amand, according to the official statement issued today by the French war office.

DEFEATED FOE IS SMOTHERED UNDER DELUGE OF SHELLS

With the Anglo-American Forces Near St. Quentin, Oct. 9.—Heavy fighting continued throughout the night on the Cambrai-St. Quentin front, and the British and Americans continued their progress of Tuesday under a heavy protective fire from the British artillery. The defeated enemy was almost smothered under the great deluge of steel and explosives.

A large number of guns have been captured by the British and Americans, in addition to the great batches of prisoners which continue to arrive at the cages. The American troops alone captured two complete field batteries and a battery of heavy artillery.

The Americans captured these guns Tuesday afternoon when they suddenly outflanked both ends of the valley south of Premont, capturing all the German guns there. German reinforcements have arrived, but as these troops have been engaged several times recently their presence merely adds to the confusion in the enemy ranks.

10,000 GERMANS ARE REPORTED TAKEN IN YESTERDAY'S BATTLES

Paris, Oct. 9.—Nearly 10,000 Germans were taken prisoner yesterday by the Allied forces in the fighting along the various fronts of the battlefield, says Marcel Hutin in the Echo de Paris today. The Germans, he adds, are hurriedly evacuating the Argonne Forest. The battle is continuing.

BRITISH ADVANCE CONTINUES.

London, Oct. 9.—The British advance along the battlefront between Cambrai and St. Quentin is proceeding very well today all along the line. There is not so much resistance by the Germans as there was yesterday. This is probably due to the Germans having retired during the night.

TILL THEY REACH THEIR OWN FRONTIER

The Huns have changed their chancellor, old von Hertling's out o' mess;
Maximilian tries to guide the ship of state through her distress,
He has struck real heavy weather, for Bill Kaiser now wants peace,
So he sent a note to Yankee Land asking for armistice.

Bob Lansing took the message and he gave it to his chief,
But it was Woodrow's busy day, his leisure time was brief.
So he gave a quick-fire answer which made all the Allies cheer
"Tell those Huns we won't talk turkey till they reach their own frontier."

The route was lined with thousands; the papal colors and Canadian emblems were greatly in evidence; the blessed sacrament was carried by Bishop Fallon.

Altar boys carried lighted candles and hundreds of flower girls, dressed in spotless white, distributed flowers along the line of march. The procession stopped at both St. Joseph's and St. Edmund's schools, where the benediction was pronounced by Monsignor Aylesworth of Sarnia. The congress was opened at 5:30 this morning with low masses followed two hours later by services for the children, and at 9:30 by the pontifical mass celebrated by Bishop Fallon, assisted by Dean McKeon of London. The deacons of honor were Rev. Father John P. Brennan and Rev. Father Pinsonneault.

BOARD OF HEALTH DISCUSSES THE FLU; FINDS IT ABATING

425 Cases Were Reported to Dr. Downham Since Sept. 30.

NURSES TO THE RESCUE

St. John Ambulance Assn., No. 4 Division, Volunteers To Fight Epidemic.

The appointment of Dr. Downham to the position of medical officer of health at the present salary has been approved by the board of health, and will be recommended to the next meeting of the council to pass upon. This was decided at a meeting of the board held on Tuesday afternoon in the board of control room in the city hall.

Dr. Downham, who has been acting medical officer of health since the office was vacated through the resignation of Dr. Hill, referred to the increase of work involved by the reporting of venereal diseases and following up such cases. In consideration of the state of the treasury of the board and war conditions, however, he announced his willingness to accept the position for the present, after asking that a recommendation might be made to the incoming board for an increase the beginning of the year.

Increase for Nurse.

Miss Barons, tuberculosis nurse, was granted an increase of salary of $15 a month, bringing her salary up to $75 a month.

Those who supported the motion for increase offered as convincing arguments Miss Barons' efficiency, experience, faithfulness, her years of service here, and the fact that the buying power of money has greatly decreased since she was appointed a number of years ago at $60 a month.

In connection with the recommendation re the appointment of Dr. Downham, the Institute of Public Health will be approached in regard to the making of arrangements for the continuance of assistance given to the M. O. H. by Miss Fidiar, vital statistician.

The Spanish influenza epidemic loomed large as a topic for discussion. Dr. Downham and Miss Friend, public health nurse, reporting that the severity was apparently abating. Between noon on October 2 and noon yesterday, October 8, 425 cases were reported to the board of health. Of these fifteen developed pneumonia. Seven deaths have occurred since September 30. Eighteen different doctors reported the cases.

Nurses to the Rescue.

There were not so many demands as had been anticipated on Saturday for nurses to help nurse families where the need was urgent. Chairman Russell announced that No. 4 Nursing Division of St. John Ambulance Association had come to the rescue, and volunteer nurses from the division were already looking after a number of cases. Paying a tribute to the skill of these voluntary aid nurses, Miss Friend stated that so far as possible she was assigning them to soldiers' families, as they are desirous of doing this kind of patriotic work. She herself had been asked to stay all night with a patient last night. Owing to the demands of her work in the day time she was unable to do so, and reported the case to the nursing division. The patient was taken to the emergency hospital in the headquarters of the division, and is now receiving excellent care.

Fuel for Sick.

The question of supplying fuel where it is needed in order to prevent loss of life through the development of pneumonia was brought up, the board expressing a willingness to trust to the discretion of the medical officer of health. Chairman Russell stated that one of the leading coal dealers had given him assurance that if he couldn't supply it himself he would see that the order was filled.

So far as the report of communicable diseases was concerned, Dr. Downham stated there are a number of cases of scarlet fever in the city. He had seen three between noon and shortly before 4 o'clock.

"Nasal diphtheria" is also prevalent, bloody discharge from the nose seldom failing to show cultures. The menace in this case is to others who are in danger of positive infection through association with those suffering from the nasal type.

The question of the insanitary condition of the lavatories in connection with the Colborne Street School was brought up, Chairman A. A. Langford of the school board stating that the board fully recognized the grounds of complaint and intended making changes as soon as possible. Inspector Lutman was emphatic in his statement that the matter should have been attended to before. "The reason," said Mr. Langford, "was that the board did not meet during the summer months.

"Notice was sent to the secretary of the board of education before the schools closed and I understood the changes were going to be made in the holidays," said Mr. Lutman. Mr. Langford reiterating that he did not understand the notice had been served before the closing of school.

Byron Dairy.

Commenting upon his own report, Veterinary Inspector Tamlin drew attention to the high percentage of the Byron Sanatorium dairy. "They have a farmerette engaged there," said Dr. Tamlin, "looking after the cleaning of the utensils and so on. It is an object lesson to see how the dairy work is done there and well worth a visit from anyone."

With the approach of fall, an interest has apparently revived in keeping pigs within city limits, judging from the applications being received for license to do so.

Apropos the question of an increase for Miss Barons, the financial position of the board of health at the present time was reported as follows:

Appropriation for 1918	$9,855.00
Expended to date	$5,527.69
Balance	$4,027.31
Salaries, Oct., Nov. and Dec.	$1,695.00
Balance for contingencies arising to the end of the year	$2,332.31

JEWISH PEOPLE TO DEVOTE A DAY TO EXPRESSING THANKS

"Declaration Day" To Be a Tribute to British Justice.

LIBERATION OF PALESTINE

November 2 Will Be Date For World-Wide Zionist Celebration.

The Palestine Zionist Commission has sent out an appeal to Jewish people all over the world to join in celebrating November 2 as "Declaration Day," and to observe the anniversary of this historic date every year. A copy of the cable sent to Clarence I. de Sola, president of the Canadian Zionist Federation, dated Jerusalem, October 2, 1918, has been forwarded to Mr. Fishbein of this city, secretary of the local Zion Lovers, who are being asked to respect the request. Despite the sacrifices made by the Jewish people in the world upheaval, never was their future more full of promise and of hope.

All Allies to Help.

On November 2, 1917, the British Government issued its declaration on Zionism, which officially recognized the inviolable right of the Jewish people to a national home in Palestine, and offered her powerful help toward the realization of this aim. The determination of the British Government to assist the Jewish people in their age-long aspirations was manifested by the appointment of a Zionist commission to proceed to Palestine in order to investigate the ways and means for establishing a national home for the Jewish people in Palestine, with the approval of the British Government. As a step in the direction of the establishment of the nation, the foundation of the Hebrew University was laid in Jerusalem on July 24, 1918. All the allied powers fighting for the freedom of the world have declared their determination to help the Jewish people achieve their purpose.

A Day of Thanksgiving.

The proclamation to celebrate November 2 says: "Declaration Day this year falls at an opportune time. Gen. Allenby and the heroic British army have liberated the Land of Israel, bringing freedom, justice and good government in their train; therefore let the Jewish people once again express their heartfelt gratitude to the British Government. Let them hold meetings and thanksgiving services to give utterance to their joy at the triumph of the British Government, whose efforts we hope to see crowned with final victory."

"FLOO PANIC," THIRD STAGE OF INFECTION, HITS MANY PEOPLE

One Office Staff Gargling in Trios and Quartets.

FEWER CASES REPORTED

But Many Doctors Do Not Notify Authorities When Cases Develop.

Twenty-five cases of Spanish influenza were officially reported this morning as compared with 45 cases at the same hour on Tuesday, thus bearing out the statement of a number of the doctors that the epidemic is beginning to abate here. The list today includes one which has developed pneumonia, and some are quite seriously ill. On the whole, however, it is considered that London is escaping rather well, judging by reports from other places.

"Of course," it was stated at the Institute of Public Health today, "we feel assured that by no means all the cases are being reported. Eighteen doctors have reported the 450 cases since October 2, of which we have a record."

Mild Cases at Camp.

At the camp, it is stated, that a decided abatement of the epidemic is manifested. While there may be 85 or 90 cases, the majority are mild, and fewer are now developing.

Some families, however, have reason to feel they have been hard hit. One family of five—father, mother, and three children—have all been confined to their beds this past week, in the care of a couple of nurses and the maid. One of the nurses has contracted the "floo," and is also added to the home-hospital's list of patients.

V. A. D.'s Do Good Work.

The V. A. D.'s, members of No. 4 Nursing Division, St. John Ambulance Association, have come heroically to the rescue, and are rendering service in helping out the public health nurse. Sixteen cases were attended to on Wednesday, where a couple of calls sufficed to make the patients comfortable and provide for their needs. Two nurses sat up all night with patients, one man telephoning to the superintendent of the nursing division today that the nurse who had been on duty at his house last night was a positive "god send." He got his first sleep in a week, and it was the first time he had been able to undress in a week, owing to the fact that he had been obliged for a whole week to be prepared for any emergency day and night in looking after his sick family.

Patient at Hospital.

Half a dozen V. A. D.'s are out today on cases, and one patient is being cared for in the emergency hospital at the headquarters of the division at 440 Talbot street.

Appreciation of the offer of the lecture-room of the division to be used as an emergency hospital was expressed at the meeting of the board of health on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. J. F. Thomson, the superintendent of the division, points out that it would be much easier to care for a dozen patients in the hospital than half that number of out patients, owing to the fatigue involved for the nurses in going from one part of the city to another. One bed with springs and mattress was sent up yesterday to be used for the purpose.

A "thirdly" infection not referred to up to date by any of the local physicians, but one which is decidedly distressing, has been dubbed, "Spanish Floo Panic."

Milder Forms of It.

It doesn't necessarily follow the secondary infection, pneumonia, and, in the cases which have come under observation, has preceded the first stage. "Taking rational precautions" is the term applied to the milder cases of Spanish floo panic. The symptoms are frequent scrubbing of the hands, staying away from crowded places and using a reliable germicide frequently as a mouth wash and gargle.

In this connection, the public health nurse adds the simplest and most inexpensive disinfectant of all to the list given in The Advertiser the other day, lemons, listerine and peroxide.

"Everybody can get it," she says, "and practically everybody has it in the house. Five cents' worth will do the whole family. It is nothing more nor less than ordinary, common, baking soda. Dissolve it in warm water and gargle and wash the mouth with that."

An Extreme Case.

One of the most serious features about Spanish floo panic is its extreme contagiousness. A member of a large office staff in this city was taken ill some days ago, and the case reported as Spanish influenza. Another member of the staff was home sick with a cold on Tuesday. Learning that the Spanish floo had made a raid on the staff, one member was seized with a violent attack of Spanish floo. He sent out and purchased all the known preventives and cures for the malady. He also ordered enough individual sanitary drinking cups for his comrades in work who might soon be stricken as comrades in floo. When the order was delivered he gloomily gargled with listerine. Next, he tried peroxide as a chaser. After that, he disinfected the jackknife that had been presented to him the previous Christmas and solemnly cut a lemon. After that, he pressed individual drinking cups upon his office mates who, men and women alike, were rapidly becoming infected with the panic cultures.

Gargling in Quartets.

Windows abutting the back yard of that big office building were soon at a premium as pop-eyed people leaned out, everyone as far apart as space permitted, to gargle in solo, duet, trio, quartet and chorus.

After that, the solemn rite was performed of the hand washing. The latest bulletin states that the staff is chewing lemons and gargling religiously with listerine and peroxide. No more members, it is further stated, have shown symptoms of the primary infection, the real Spanish floo.

A telegram was received from Ottawa yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wylie, 729 Waterloo street, stating that their son, Lieut. Jack Wylie, had been wounded. The telegram did not state that he had been admitted to the hospital. Lieut. Wylie received his commission a short time ago. He left with the 142nd Battalion, but has been transferred to other battalions while overseas.

PRISONERS' CAGE EMPTY

Surplus Energy May Be Directed to Other Channels.

Whether "Spanish Flu" has gripped all the habitues of the police court and thus kept them from wandering, or the celebration of Sunday evening gave them a chance to expend their surplus energy without mixing with the custodians of the law, one hesitates to say but in any event there were no cases for Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon this morning.

The work of the court has been light during the last week. Speeders and other citizens who commit breaches against minor bylaws have comprised the greater number of cases.

GRANT TO ITALIAN RED CROSS BY 1917 COUNCIL WAS PAID

Reordered Sent "Forthwith" On Monday Night.

NEGLECT CHARGE MADE

Many Unkind Remarks Over What Was Considered a Slight On Italians.

A great furore was raised at the city council on Monday night because it was said the 1917 council had neglected to pay the $1,000 grant made in November, 1917, to the Italian Red Cross. Some of the aldermen said some plain and cruel things about the matter. A few nights previously the aldermen themselves heard some plain talk from representatives of the local Italians because the grant had not been paid.

The fact of the matter was that everyone believed that the grant had been paid, yet were willing to believe that it had not been. They were satisfied that the Italian grant was just another legacy from the 1917 council. It was ordered paid.

Treasurer Has Receipt.

This morning City Treasurer Bell received a letter from City Clerk Baker notifying him that the council had ordered the $1,000 grant to be paid forthwith. Mr. Bell looked into the matter, and finally dug up this letter addressed to himself. It is dated Montreal, November 27, 1917, and reads:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor of the 23, inclosing check No. 7137 for $1,000, being the grant allowed by the city of London for the funds of the Italian Red Cross Society.

"While returning the inclosed receipt duly signed, I take this occasion to express to you, on behalf of the Italian Government and the Italian Red Cross Society, their sincere thanks and gratitude for your generous sympathy. I beg to inform you that I am remitting this money to Italy today. Signed,

"ROYAL CONSUL-GENERAL FOR ITALY."

When Mr. Bell got the receipt back he presented a voucher to the board of control on December 14, and it also passed the council on the 17, less than a month after the grant was ordered paid.

STRONG MEASURES ADOPTED BY MILITIA TO STOP EPIDEMIC

Theatres and Dance Halls Not Open to Soldiers.

HUNDRED CASES IN CAMP

All Indoor Gatherings of Troops Have Been Declared Off.

Until further notice, all theatres, dance halls, churches and picture shows, etc., are placed out of bounds for all soldiers of Military District No. 1. This action is taken as a measure to aid in fighting the spread of Spanish influenza.

More than 100 cases of Spanish influenza are under observation at Carling Heights at the present time. Every suspicious case is included in this number. Up to the present time no military deaths from the epidemic have been reported. Six men are suffering from severe attacks, but are reported improving. Twenty-five men who are in the military hospitals with Spanish influenza are ready for discharge. Seven officers are included in the number who are ill.

All sing-songs, indoor classes, indoor lectures or other assemblies of troops within inclosed walls will be discontinued. Parades and lecture classes will be carried on in the open air.

The assistant director of medical service for this district states that open-air gatherings of the troops will not be harmful and in this way the epidemic will not be spread among the troops.

A sing-song was to be held in the Y. M. C. A. at the camp this evening, but has been called off.

FIRES REAP HEAVY TOLL THROUGHOUT DOMINION YEARLY

Fire Prevention Day May Help Reduce Total.

DO NOT BURN LEAVES

Fire Captain Urges That They Be Used as Fertilizer.

London's clean-up week starts today. Fire Chief Aitker is pushing the movement. The idea is one of the dominion fire chiefs, and has the backing of the Ontario Government. The real reason for the movement is to make a reduction in the heavy fire losses of the country.

Fire captains and aldermen are slated to speak in the schools of the city this afternoon to ask the aid of the children in making the clean-up a real success. The fire marshal of Ontario says it is a success in 7,000 centres in the U. S. and Western Canada, and asks why not here?

Fire Losses Heavy.

His appeal for assistance along those lines has been sent broadcast. A proclamation issued by the Ontario Government points out fire waste in Ontario was $6 per capita in 1916. It also points out that more than seven million dollars worth of property was burned in 5,396 fires during the first six months of 1918, nearly all of which were due to carelessness, 3,456 occurring in the homes of the people at a loss of more than one million dollars; 330 in farm barns, entailing a loss of over $369,000; 601 in mercantile stores with a loss amounting to over one and three-quarter million dollars; 261 in manufacturing and industrial plants with a loss approximately of two and a half million dollars, making in these four classifications 4,648 fires with a loss amounting to $5,674,813; so that over 86 per centum of the fires and over 82 per centum of the total losses occurred among four classes of properties.

The fire marshal points out that if the fires in these four classes of properties can be minimized it will be striking at the fountain head of the fire waste of our province.

He declares his belief that the loss can be minimized only by awakening in the public mind a universal watchfulness against carelessness, accumulation of rubbish and insanitary conditions.

Spoke to Pupils.

A meeting of the pupils of Aberdeen School was held in the kindergarten this morning, Capt. C. F. Ferguson of No. 5 fire hall, and Principal Claude Brown of Aberdeen School in brief addresses instructed the kiddies on the main points to be observed to prevent fires.

Capt. Ferguson emphasized the necessity for a general cleaning out of all inflammable materials from the attics, basements and yards. The children were warned to be careful in the handling of matches, and under no conditions to use them in their play. All leaves, he thought, should be raked up and carried into the gardens, where they could serve to enrich the soil instead of being burned in the streets and yards. The kiddies were also urged to refrain from setting any bonfires on the streets or in their yards.

Principal Brown dealt with the subject from the patriotic standpoint, emphasizing the duty of each one to see that nothing is wasted and pointing out the large waste that is caused by every fire.

LAD WANTED SOLDIER TO HAVE SOMETHING

Didn't Have Corporal's Stripes Nor Spanish "Floo."

It was one of those street cars with a long seat to one side that a bouncing little boy of perhaps three years old catapulted into the other evening, followed by a young aunt, who was obliged to step lively to keep pace with her charge. Up near the front, he discovered a young soldier, and the precocious kiddie darted for him, calling over his shoulder, "I sit beside soldier."

Climbing on the seat, he beamed up at the bigger boy in khaki and remarked, "Hello."

"Hello," said bigger boy.

"You a corporal?" asked the wee man.

"No," replied the soldier.

"I am," said the small chap. "Look at my chevrons," and he squirmed around to show two stripes on the left sleeve of his little blue reefer jacket.

"Been wounded, too. Have you?" he continued, pointing to a bit of gold braid on his right sleeve.

The young soldier was obliged to admit he hadn't even been wounded.

The small lad looked earnestly at the big lad a minute or so, then sneezed, and his face lit up with inspiration.

"But you got the Spanis' floo or something haven't you?" he urged, and everybody laughed, because just at that point in the conversation, the car was standing at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, so everybody heard the shrill little voice distinctly.

LISTEN TO JOHN HENRY'S TALE OF DOMESTIC WOE

John Henry has a wife, a large family, a mother-in-law, debts, grey hair, a bald head, and every other encumberance that a man unwittingly invites to dwell with him forever and a day when he takes unto himself a wife.

John is much the same as the ordinary run of married men, a right good husband in the eyes of his wife when she is feeling well, but a sort of a mean cuss when she is rather peevish. He is such a man that his mother-in-law says that if he should die suddenly she is not sure at which of the two ports across the great divide he would get off. This may be something in his favor, for the majority of mothers-in-law would consign the husbands of their daughters to the place of everlasting torment. On the other hand, the elderly lady may have a softer heart than usual, and while she is charitable enough to express a hope that she may meet him on the golden shore, she has the idea that his place of abode in the next world will be a few miles above that of the kaiser.

However, John Henry is not kicking at his lot in life, nor does he care what is thought of him. His tale of woe is about an umbrella. One of those recent days when the bottom appeared to have dropped out of the clouds he hastened into a store and bought a showerstick which was on the bargain counter marked down from one dollar and a quarter to one dollar and a half. If it had not been for the thought of the many kiddies at home and the fact that he had only one cent over the one dollar and a half in his pocket he would have bought a good umbrella. This one served to keep out about ten per cent of the rain, and it gave him the appearance of being out of the wet. He carried it on the days when it rained, and when it looked threatening he also brought it along.

One morning last week he started out from home without it, but after a glance at the sky he returned for it. Hurrying out, he forgot to sit down a moment, and, as every mother will tell, this is where he made a mistake. However, he caught the car and was carried down to the spot where he draws his salary. Hustling off the car he forgot all about his new bargain flour-sieve umbrella, and he has not seen it since. It has not been turned into the street railway offices. He says that if the scoundrel who walked off with it from a North Belt car is a married man, with a mother-in-law, and has thirteen or more children under fourteen years of age, he may keep it. If such is not the case, John Henry respectfully asks that "for the love of Pat" the umbrella be returned.

LARGE CONTINGENT OF RETURNED MEN ARRIVE IN LONDON

Trainload of Western Ontario Soldiers Home.

NEARLY ALL WOUNDED

Citizens Turned Out With Autos to Greet Veterans From Front.

A party of 158 returned soldiers arrived this morning at the G. T. R. depoa about 1:30 o'clock. A splendid turnout was at the station to welcome the boys home. Nearly all of them had been wounded and carried signs of this fact. They were taken to Princess Avenue School, where they spent the night. Many were from London, but the majority were from towns throughout Western Ontario.

Lieut. Johnston and Lieut. M. W. Meak were in charge of the party.

The Canadian Garrison band turned out to meet the men. Many of the men who came from the United States were given leave and left for their homes early this morning.

Surprised by Brother's Return.

Miss J. Fidlar, vital statistician of the Institute of Public Health, had a happy surprise this morning in the unexpected arrival home of her brother, David Gilbert Fidlar. She didn't even know he was on the way. He came in early this morning with the big contingent of returned men.

He was attending the O. A. C., Guelph, at the time of his enlistment, and he went overseas three years ago in September with the 4th Universities Company, Princess Patricia's Light Infantry.

Seriously wounded at Sanctuary Wood in May, 1916, he has not been able to return to active service. He is expecting his discharge, and will go on with the work he had taken up before entering the army. His older brother, Capt. Edward Fidlar, formerly pathologist of the Institute of Public Health, is at present attached to the staff of No. 11 Canadian General Hospital at Shorncliffe and expects to remain on military service until the close of the war.

A large number of automobile owners of this city kindly volunteered to meet the men at the depot. They were asked at the board of trade dinner to assist in the work and the following helped: Jack Greer, Harry Chapman, J. T. Johnston, J. C. Beemer, Mrs. Wheeler, Rev. H. B. Ashby, R. A. Bayly, police car, Alderman F. Harley, L. A. Jones, Geo. Copeland, A. A Langford, J. K. McDermid, S. F. Lawrason, board of trade car, Rev. Bingham, Geo. H. Belton, W. E. Buchner, Dr. Arnot, Max Lerner, W. R. Yendall, Frank Ashplant, W. A. Martin, R. J. Dowler, W. J. Stewart, J. L. Johnston, Dr. Smith, D. H. Howden, John Bridge, Mr. Sutherland, C. H. Stevens, A. A. Campbell, Adjt. Martin, Chas. Talbot, A. W. White and Lee Jones.

MANY NAMES SUGGESTED

Advertiser Receives Further Letters Re New Hospitals.

Further suggestions for the name of the new military hospital are being received at the office of The Advertiser, the general public taking much interest in the chance to choose a name that will be adequate for the building. Among the names reaching this office today are Royal George or Westminster Hospital, suggested anonymously, London Service Hospital, suggested by Russell Pinch, 68 Wellington street, and Middlesex Military Memorial Hospital, suggested by Raymond Smith.

WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 9—Wall Street, 1:30 p.m.—War shares underwent further depreciation during today on reports that Austria would soon announce acceptance of the Entente's peace terms. Reactions of 2 to 6 points ruled among these stocks, but rails and other standard shares were relatively steady.

AN ANSWER TO THE PRISONER'S PLEA.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST trace of excitement or disquietude appears in the reply directed by President Wilson of the United States to Prince Maximilian of Baden, imperial German chancellor. If he takes the matter seriously, the president does not indulge in many words to welcome German overtures. His is a frigidly polite statement to call again when common sense has brought more definite convictions upon which to base negotiations. The Allies at present are not at home to Germany, and they are not making any apologies or manifesting any perturbation as to the future. While Wilson demands that the Germans leave the soil of all invaded countries as a preliminary to peace conferences, he does not seek to amplify his demand with reasons or arguments. It is a simple order to "Get out!" The Germans are going from this invaded soil whether of their own volition or by means of the application of the force of Allied arms. The Allies heard the Germans say something about it, but it sounded like apologetic mumbling, so they have asked not too softly, "What did you say? You had better speak louder." The Allies are deaf so far as Germany suggesting peace "arrangements" is concerned. The first thing for Germany to do is to discontinue making necessity a virtue, and to state its terms in language that cannot be misunderstood. "We are ready for complete surrender" is about the only sentence that will reach Allied understanding.

Wilson also begs to inform the new German chancellor that the Allies are not in a talkative mood while a German soldier remains on invaded soil. Belgium, Northern France, Serbia and Poland are not to be pawns in this game of international chess. The role of conqueror is not assumed by the Allies, but a thousand times more necessary it is that Germany shall be unable to assume such an attitude, not even to the extent of one acre of ground.

Then for whom does the German chancellor speak? For the constituted authorities, the kaiser and his war lords, who have conducted the war, or for the German people? The president explains that this is "vital from every point of view." In a word he says on behalf of the Allies that they will not treat with the German emperor. And this is virtually a demand for his overthrow, for he could no longer be regarded as the ruler of the German people while the nations on the other side refused to conduct any negotiations with him.

The simple note of less than 300 words (290 to be exact) must now be in Germany. Whatever comfort the Germans may secure from it may be gauged by their apparent expectations for peace. Here in a nutshell are the replies their latest peace proposals have brought them:

1. State your position definitely toward the Wilson terms.
2. Get out of all invaded territory.
3. Get rid of your kaiser and his war lords.

The purpose of the note cannot be mistaken by the kaiser, the chancellor or the German people. The Allies simply ask these questions without committing themselves to any bargain for a conference, not even an implied bargain. Germany is pinned down to further overtures at once unless she chooses to face inevitable defeat by full force of arms, a method more to the liking of the Allied peoples than any other.

If Germany sought to gain an advantage by subterfuge, her objects have failed completely. She must make all further diplomatic advances, with the knowledge that the statesmen of the Allied countries have no faith whatever in her good intentions, and that the making of terms is altogether a matter for the court. And Germany is not a member of that court, but the prisoner at the bar.

GERMANY MUST PAY.

"We cannot proceed a step without guarantees."—Winston Churchill.

IN THESE WORDS the British soldier-statesman points out the greatest stumbling-block to peace without complete Teutonic defeat. How can there be such guarantees until Germany is placed in a position where she cannot break her word?

Prior to this war the word of any nation or government which promised to accept certain conditions would have been taken without question; the request for an armistice would have been granted almost certainly, and unbounded rejoicing would have broken out at the evidence of the foe's willingness to make peace. There existed a code of national and international honor which was regarded as almost sacred.

Germany has changed all this, and the most binding oath her statesmen could take would not now be regarded as more than a lightly-spoken and utterly unreliable assertion.

In the first instance, Belgium suffered severely from the Teuton faithlessness. Then France, Britain and neutral nations were adversely affected. It appeared that all the disadvantages of the Huns' vileness were to accrue to the Allies while the perpetrators were to reap all the benefit. Month after month the Allied peoples and press said: "The Germans will have to pay a fearful price for all this; they will reap what they have sown." In spite of this oft-repeated assurance, there was doubt. How can they be repaid? How can they be made to suffer? These questions were asked and were answered but vaguely.

When the Lusitania was sunk, there appeared to be a chance of the foe receiving some of her just reward because of American intervention, but this hope almost died before the declaration of war came. Nevertheless, that was the starting point of Germany's harvest of tares. No nation suffered by the loss of the Lusitania one-thousandth part of what Germany has.

Now the full measure of repayment is at hand, for Wilhelm and his people. No matter how despairing their cries, how genuine their desire for peace on the Allied terms, how humble their demeanor, they cannot be trusted. They have brought on themselves the righteous wrath of civilization and they cannot escape the punishment. They ruined Belgium temporarily, overran a large section of France for a time, inflicted losses on Britain, America and neighbors by their disregard of all laws, human and divine, but they doomed themselves and their own land for centuries to come.

Every German killed, every civilian starving, every town shelled now is directly attributable to Germany's treatment of obligations as "scraps of paper." The world has suffered at the hands of the Hun, but "The Fatherland" share of that suffering is to be greater than the portions of all others combined.

LONDON'S DIRECT APPEAL.

LONDON has all the civic pride it needs—not that there can ever be too much loyalty to a city or too much earnestness for its advancement. But there are few cities whose inhabitants love them better than London people love London or wish them better fortune than London people wish London. Incidentally, there are few cities better worth affection and great expectations.

Now the problem is to translate this feeling on the part of London people into positive action—to harness it, and to deliver its power effectively at the spot where it will produce real benefits for the city. It is not a difficult problem, and every citizen will have the opportunity in the coming week of October 14 to assist in the solution.

Beginning on Tuesday next week, teams of energetic and loyal London men will seek new members in the board of trade. Membership in this board means having a part in making London's dreams come true. A minimum of 800 members is sought. The number is not great—but think what can be accomplished for London by 800 or more of its citizens, leagued together to advance the city's interests, to build it up, to bring its advantages to the front, and to fight for it if the occasion requires.

Your regard for London is the ground for this appeal. London has done much for you. Do something for London.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Clean up!

Less rubbish, fewer fires. It's worth while.

The boys overseas are doing it; why shouldn't we?

It's not impossible that cleaner basements might bring down insurance rates for London.

Germany will stand to the last against a humiliating peace. Even so she is likely to get a rest before long.

Unity is the keynote of Allied action now; for evidence, see the unanimity with which Welhelm's peace move is rejected.

Is it not rather strange that a special request has to be made to have the police check "speeders"? Is it the custom to ignore laws?

Less than three weeks now until we gain that extra hour's sleep. Pity is it comes on a Sunday, when nearly everyone can sleep in anyway.

The German "Fatherland party" will oppose peace to the limit, that is by proxy. It will endure courageously the death of any number of the common soldiers.

London's Board of Health holds different opinions from those of other cities on the advisability of closing schools to stop the Spanish influenza epidemic. Is it possible other places are right?

We need not pay much attention to reports that Germany is due for a great upheaval once the people learn the truth. Enough of the truth has sifted through to have ended the rule of the Hohenzollerns if the people were not still ready to back the all-highest, but undoubtedly the masses are growing impatient at the postponement of victory. The Teuton civil world is war-weary, disappointed, discouraged and the spirit behind the fighting lines is demoralizing. The Entente will pay little attention to the newest phase of the German peace offensive save to note the internal situation it reflects and strike harder than ever because of it.

THE OATH.

[Belleville Ontario.]

A gentleman in Belleville has received the following note and suggestive poem from a friend in Cleveland, Ohio: "I am inclosing herewith a poem that I have clipped from the Great Lakes Recruit, a monthly magazine that is printed by the boys in the Great Lakes Training Camp at Chicago. It is the spirit of the American people at this time to boycott entirely everything German, both now and after the war. The Yellow Dog Clubbers' Club, of which I sent you the circular, is now forming a league of school boys in Cleveland, and they will be on the watch for any pro-German talk that they may hear. You know what a force a small boy is when turned loose, and in this connection it certainly will be a good cause."

I will not drink from a German cup
Or eat from a German plate;
I will not deal with a German man
All foul with German hate.

I'll use no drug with a German name,
That's grown on German land;
I'll eat no food or drink no beer
If made by a German hand.

I will not use a German tool—
Razor, knife or saw;
I will not trade with a German shop
That lives by German law.

I will not sail on a German ship
Where German songs are sung;
I will not breathe, where God's pure air
Is soiled by German tongue.

I will not forget those awful deeds
To girls and little boys;
No more I'll hang on Christmas trees
Those blood-stained German toys.

I will not take a German's word—
He'll break it if he can;
There is no love in a German heart
Or faith in a German man.

This is my oath; when the war is done
I'll swear to keep it true;
And since I know you feel the same
I'll pass it on to you. —L. J. COMB.

"He's dead," replied the native.

"What happened to him?" asked the city man.

"He got loaded one day and tried to shoot the rapids," was the reply.

There are 17,986 ways to make a wife happy. But the surest way is to slip her a $10 bill and tell her to go buy herself something to wear.

Reform and charity should both begin at home. But the trouble is that they never do.

Many a bachelor is that way because he knows he wouldn't be happy if he married a woman for her money and knows he wouldn't be happy if he married a woman who didn't have any money.

A sure way to be unpopular is to be so well pleased with yourself that you are displeased with everybody else.

Another reason why black eyes are still being worn is because a man will say what he thinks before he thinks what he is saying.

A sure sign of middle-age is when a man reads the front page of his newspaper before he turns to the sporting page.

Another fat-headed fool is the man who lets a ten-cent argument lead him into making a $10 bet. And there are plenty of them.

Before you get her she may not mean what she says. But after you get her you can bet that she does.

And when you are courting her she never lets on that she doesn't believe you know what you are talking about. But it is different after you marry her.

We are all so busy singing the praises of Dear Old Mother that we let her do all of the housework.

If all the women under the age of 25 were ordered to register for the draft, there wouldn't be any slackers. No woman would admit that she was over 25.

THE HEART OF EILEEN.

By Louise Oliver.

Eileen Wainwright, leaning back wearily against the cretonne-covered back of the piazza rocker, could not help overhearing the conversation going on just inside the club window.

At first the words had no meaning, for her own thoughts were busy with other things. Then she realized that someone, an often referred to "she," was most unpopular with the conversers, and suddenly hearing her own name mentioned, she realized that she herself was the subject of this unpleasant discourse.

It was Mrs. Langdon Merrill talking to her sister, Mrs. Enoch Cathbert, about her son, Lionel Merrill, and Eileen herself.

"Don't you see it all, Jennie?" said Mrs. Merrill's voice. "She's come back because she's tired of nursing. You know that's what both the Wainwright girls did after their father lost his money—trained for nurses. And as she and Lionel had a sort of boy and girl affair, she thinks she'll take it up now where they left off. I shouldn't worry about it, only the girl's a raving, tearing beauty. I'll have to confess I never saw such eyes. She was always pretty, but this nursing has done something to her that I can't explain. Her eyes look as though they had seen things. In short, Jennie, she's got that sort of ethereal look about her that appeals to a man. And she knows it, you can gamble, and she's going to play for big game. But it's not going to be Lionel Merrill, if I know anything, just when he was beginning to take an interest in Mary Evans—the very thing I've set my heart on all my life. I don't know what the Aberdeens meant by asking her here. Why didn't she go to France, where she's needed? I've no patience with nurses who do not go to France."

There was more, but Eileen, deciding she had heard enough, got up and left.

Her indignation had cooled to a quiet amusement. The same things that had given her eyes that "look" and her skin that pallor had taught her that life is too serious a thing to let one's self be troubled by the idle chatter of people who don't count. The only thing about it that bothered her was the fact that Lionel would probably be approached upon the subject, and it worried her to have him annoyed.

She joined the Aberdeens at the end of the terrace, watching a set of tennis.

"Thirty-love," explained Jean Aberdeen as Eileen came up. "Lionel Merrill and Mary Evans are whaning."

It was the first time Eileen had seen him for seven years, and she approved of what she saw. He was older, of course, but the fine lines in his face had deepened, his eyes had a man's determination, and his body, lithely supple, showed excellent training.

"Why didn't Lionel join the army?" she asked Jean.

"Why!" Jean's eyes were indignant. "Because his mother wouldn't let him. It's a shame, when he wanted to go so. She doesn't give him a chance. He's turned out to be a man in spite of her. She's tried to make him a puppy."

The set over, Lionel came up to the group on the terrace. "It's little Eileen back again," he said, taking her hand and looking searchingly down into her eyes. "And she's come back a very beautiful lady—but it strikes me, a sad lady. We'll have to have a few parties to brighten her up, I see that."

Eileen laughed and shook her head. "It's not a time for parties, Lionel. One can't feel festive these days."

Mrs. Merrill arrived in time to hear the remark.

"You're very patriotic, Miss Wainwright. One would think your patriotism would carry you across seas."

Eileen's face clouded. "I wanted to go," she said simply. "My sister and I drew lots, and she won. We think an exodus of nurses from America would be bad. Women and children need care. It was my lot to stay and do my bit to take care of them."

Several days passed, in which Lionel Merrill managed to see Eileen very often. Just as his mother had feared, the girl-and-boy affair threatened to ripen now into full bloom.

Then, one soft evening in June, when the stars were struggling through a long, pale twilight, he told her he loved her.

"Eileen, dear, I love you," he said, suddenly. "I can't let you go back to New York. I can't let you go away again, my white angel."

She drew away gently. "Lionel, we must not talk of love. It can't be. You see, I know your mother doesn't approve of me. And I'll never marry a man against his mother's wishes. Goodbye, dear boy. I must go in. And please don't try to see me again."

Two days later Dr. Harbison came downstairs at the Merrills', where Mrs. Merrill was anxiously waiting for him in the hall.

"It's pneumonia, Mrs. Merrill. Lionel must have a nurse right away. But there isn't an extra nurse in the state. The Red Cross has drained the hospitals dry, and there aren't enough new ones volunteering to study. I have places this minute for a dozen, and I can't get one."

"But what shall we do?"

"I'm sure I don't know, Mrs. Merrill."

"I have it," she exclaimed. "There's a girl—a nurse visiting near here. Perhaps she'll come." But her voice was unwilling.

Mrs. Merrill herself called on the telephone and stated her case.

"I'm sorry," said Eileen. "My rest is over, Mrs. Merrill. I must return to New York today. The babies and mothers need me. I'm pledged to them and to the soldiers, if they need me on this side. I can't take anyone else."

"But Lionel needs you, my dear Miss Wainwright. If he were a soldier would you nurse him?"

"Yes."

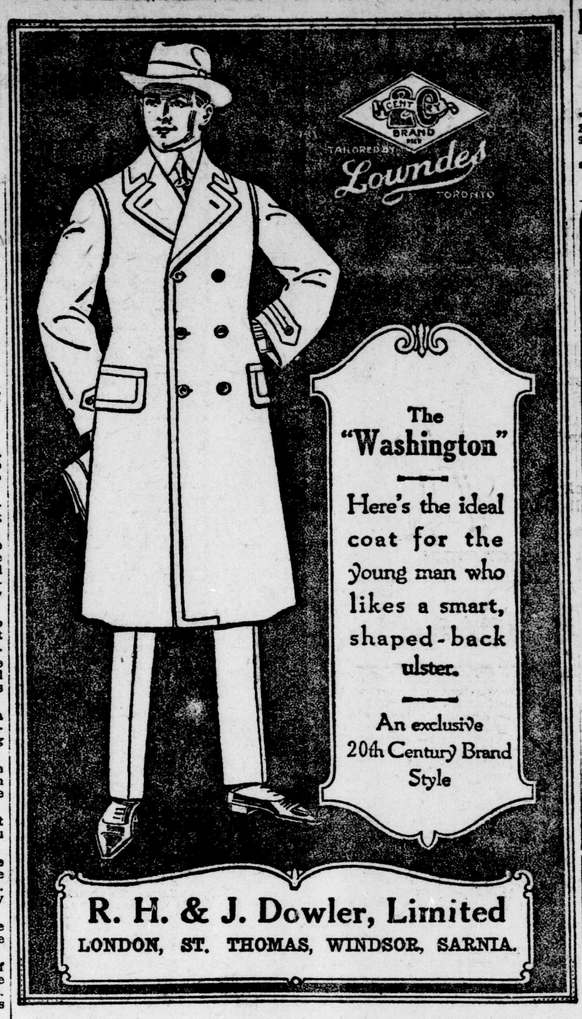

"Then, my dear, he'll be a soldier. He has always wanted to be one. It is my fault he wasn't. If I consent when he gets well will you come?"

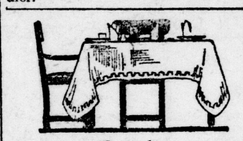

"Yes, I can do that without breaking my pledge."

"And Miss Wainwright! There is another thing, I've been fearfully unkind. I—I think Lionel cares for you a great deal. If you can forgive me I am going to ask you to be kind to him. I really think it helped to make him sick. You'll come right away, won't you, my dear?"

"Yes," answered Eileen, "I'll come instantly."

"It seems," mused Eileen thoughtfully, as she hung up the receiver, "that it takes the fear of death to move some people's hearts. I often wonder if this war isn't just for that very thing! Of course, I'd have gone, boy, dear, but it didn't hurt your mother to coax me—and it didn't hurt her to promise you to your country, either, my soldier."

COULDN'T GET OUT OF BED BY HERSELF

Mrs. Williams Was So Crippled Up With Rheumatism She Could Hardly Move.

"Tanlac helped me right up out of bed after everything else failed, and if I hadn't taken it when I did I believe I would be lying there yet," said Mrs. G. Williams of 716 South Maybelle street, Tulsa, Okla.

"I was in a terrible rundown condition for the last six months," she explained, "and my sufferings from indigestion and rheumatism were something awful. I had to be particular about what I ate, for nearly everything disagreed with me and gas would form from sour, undigested food, and bloated me so I was miserable for hours. I got thin and weak, and fell off to less than a hundred pounds, and rheumatism gave me so much pain I couldn't get out of bed without help, and then I could hardly stand on my feet. My arms and lower limbs hurt all the time, and many a night I couldn't get an hour's sleep. My nerves were all unstrung and I was so worn out I had to take to my bed, and at times I was so weak I couldn't move without somebody helping me.

"One of my neighbors told me about Tanlac, and I decided to try it. I have now taken seven bottles, and it sure chased away that rheumatism in a hurry. I have been feeling splendid for several weeks now, and haven't had a pain to speak of. My appetite is good and I can eat most anything I want without it hurting me. My nerves are in good shape, I sleep like a child and get up in the morning feeling fine. I am picking up now every day, and I know from what it has done for me that Tanlac is the best medicine on earth."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth); then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for five times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Her Choice of Books.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—I am a constant reader of the letters sent to this section of the paper, and would like to join also. I have often noticed in papers that lemon juice and orchard white takes off tan. I would like to try it, but do not know what orchard white is. Do you think it is quite harmless?

Some of my favorite authors are Charles Garvice, May Agnes Fleming, Bertha M. Clay and Effie Adelaide Rowlands. Do you approve of my choice? Would you please name some that you think are popular?

BILLIE BURKE.

Ans.—1. I haven't the least idea what the preparation is, nor if it is harmless. It is an advertised article, and that is all I know about it. But what harm does a little tan do anyway?

2. Not particularly from what I have heard of these authors' books. They are said to give misleading views of life, and are apt to crowd a girl's mind with foolish ideas. Read something more up-to-date, such as "The Red Cross Girls' Series," or the "Marjorie Dean High School Series." "Ruth Fielding in the Red Cross," and "Ruth Fielding at the War Front," by Alice B. Emerson, are readable books. Also hunt for volumes by our own Marian Keith, or by Jean Webster, Eleanor H. Porter, Frances Hodgson Burnett, L. T. Meade, L. M. Montgomery, or Gene Stratton-Porter. All of these write excellent books for girls to read.

OWEN SOUND GIRLS' LEAGUE.

It seems rather too bad that the Christmas socks which are to be sent overseas by the Girls' League could not have been inspected by everyone interested in knitting these soldiers' comforts. There surely never before was such a wonderful display of beautiful socks. Hundreds of pairs were tied ready for packing, and the girls who were helping continually exhibited and exclaimed over the different color schemes. Many of the socks were tied with scarlet ribbon and presented a gay and attractive appearance. The Girls' Patriotic League at their business meeting voted ten pairs of socks to the Belgian relief shower.

GUELPH CANNING KITCHEN.

One look at the window of the Community Canning Kitchen tempts one to go inside and be convinced that since its inception on September 3 some people have been working hard. An estimate of the fruit and vegetables conserved is about four and a half tons. This, going overseas to our soldiers, means a boon to humanity in the hospitals and camps that quite repays anyone for the time and energy given to this labor of love. All kinds of vegetables have been canned, also apple jelly, apple butter, carrot marmalade, mustard pickles, etc., have been made. Mrs. C. R. Crowe and Mrs. Barnes, as president and secretary, have had a busy time, as have Miss Gray and Miss Kugler, the instructors, and Mr. Raymond Crowe has given valuable assistance in his capacity as engineer. Several weeks ago Miss Stewart, Paisley street, donated to the Red Cross Society some of her clever handiwork, as displayed in a handsome table scarf and pillow cover. Tickets, ranging in value from 1 cent to $1, were sold, and a lucky number drawn for at the annual meeting of the Red Cross. The winner, No. 30, was Mrs. Taylor, corner Dublin and Liverpool streets, and the amount raised, about $52, has been donated to the kitchen.

AUBURN AND BLUE LAKE W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Auburn and Blue Lake Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. James McKenzie. There was an attendance of 30 members present, and an unusual amount of business was brought before the meeting. Delegates were appointed to attend the convention in London. It was decided to share with the other Brant County institutes in endowing a cot in the Princess Patricia Hospital, also to contribute food and clothing for the children's shelter. Arrangements were made for the monthly packing and also for the Christmas packing of soldiers' boxes. Very pleasing instrumental selections were given by Misses Jean McKenzie and Aileen Johnson, and a duet, "Come, Ye Birds of Spring," was given by Mrs. W. Sager and Mrs. J. Wilson, and much enjoyed by all. A very instructive address on "The Work of Women in the World" was given by Mrs. O. Collins. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. U. C. Grandine.

WATERLOO PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE

The progressive euchre given under the auspices of St. Quentin Chapter, I. O. D. E. in the library hall, Waterloo, proved a most enjoyable affair. The hall was artistically decorated with flags, bunting, etc., flowers and shrubs giving a pretty touch of color. Pretty tally cards found partners for all the players, and at 9 o'clock each one was located and doing his or her best to win a prize. After a number of keenly contested and very enjoyable games, the highest scores were made by Mrs. L. Hogg, Mrs. Charles Roos, Mr. J. A. Harpe and Mr. A. G. Heller, who found themselves the happy possessors of handsome prizes. A dainty wartime supper brought the jolly evening to a close.

I. O. D. E. PLAY BRANTFORD.

Large audiences greeted the three performances of "The Prince o' Patters," the delightful little musical comedy, which was put on by local talent under the direction of Mr. NeVille of New York, who also took a leading part at the Grand under the auspices of the Dufferin Chapter, I. O. D. E., the proceeds going to purchase comforts for the Canadian soldiers. The principals in the cast are all well known amateur vocalists, who have time and again given their services for patriotic purposes, and they if possible outshone all previous efforts in this, their latest appearance.

BRANTFORD CANNING KITCHEN.

A meeting was held of the Brant County Women's Institute and board of agriculture for the purpose of completing organization for a canning kitchen at Echo place to be used for Red Cross work. Superintendent George A. Putnam of Toronto addressed the meeting.

BRANTFORD PATRIOTIC LEAGUE.

During the month of September the following articles were shipped from the Red Cross rooms of the Women's Patriotic League: Pyjamas 91, surgeons' gowns 8, cloth caps 115, personal property bags, 409, sheets 7, housewives 74, socks 564, kit bags 100, ward slippers 19, binders 6, sculleties bandages 24, "Y" bandages 18, shirts 65, total 1,410. The value of these shipments is $894.94. In addition, many hundred Christmas stockings were packed and forwarded.

PORT STANLEY I. O. D. E.

Recent donations to the local I. O. D. E. are: $10 from Arthur McDonald, $10 from the Junior Auxiliary of the I. O. D. E., $5 from Rev. S. H. Eastman, and $2.85 from the Junior Auxiliary to purchase flowers for the sick. This junior organization is composed of a dozen little girls from 8 to 12 years, and on Saturday they held a tag day for the Children's Shelter in St. Thomas, collecting $40.

ST. CATHARINES I. O. D. E.

The Lord Tennyson Chapter, I. O. D. E. held a tea and musicale, at which prizes were presented to entrance pupils of public and separate schools for highest standing in history.

LISTOWEL I. O. D. E.

The Daughters of the Empire sent a check to the Navy League for $1,500, of which $1,017.85 was collected in town and $357.15 in the country; $25 came from a donated pig, and the Britton Patriotic League donated $100.

ALLAN WRAITH, I. O. D. E. STRATFORD.

The regular meeting of the Allan Wraith Chapter was held, and the monthly prisoner of war money sent as usual. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, October 17. The meeting closed with the national anthem.

KITCHENER SOCK SHOWER.

A "sock shower" was held by the Princess of Wales Chapter, I. O. D. E. at 310 Weber Chambers, after which over 500 generous parcels, containing soldiers comforts and Christmas cheer, sent to all the boys overseas who enlisted in Kitchener.

LAWRENCE STATION PATRIOTIC LEAGUE.

The Patriotic League sent a box to the McKay rooms containing 31 pairs of socks and 2 jars of jam. A box was also sent to the Byron Sanatorium containing jam, jelly, honey and maple syrup.

OWEN SOUND PATRIOTIC LEAGUE.

Unusually interesting was the meeting of the Women's Patriotic League. Mrs. Parker was in the chair; Mrs. Robertson read the recording secretary's report, and Mrs. Barrett gave the treasurer's statement for the past six months, which showed the total receipts as $2,631.11, and a bank balance of $146.12, which does not include the Belgian shower. For the shower, Mrs. Barrett reported $87.50 received, and about sixty pairs of socks. It has been decided to still receive contributions, so these totals will probably be largely increased. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Holmes, among other letters, read one from Mrs. Eaton, thanking the league for their contribution to her work and telling something of what the Grey rooms mean to our boys overseas Mrs. Parker spoke of the pleasure it was for the league to help with this wonderful work, even in a small way, and expressed the wish that the contribution could have been larger.

Mrs. Masson reported that the packing committee on September 27 packed for overseas: 648 pairs socks, 36 sets pyjamas and 9 pairs pants; for Canadian Red Cross, 21 pairs bed socks, 16 sets pyjamas, 40 stump bandages, 56 head bandages, 10 many tailed bandages, 50 wash cloths, 8 hot water bottle covers, 160 p. p. bags, 12 Red Cross bags, 84 pairs socks, 61 stretcher caps, 6 trench caps, 15 arm slings, 3 dressing gowns, 50 housewives. The shipment was valued at $875.23. Miss Parker reported for the wool committee that 156 pounds of wool were given out in September and 1,516 pairs of socks shipped during that month. A cheque for one hundred dollars is being sent to Capt. Mary Plummer in response to her appeal for funds for the Christmas boxes.

The ladies were delighted to receive a delegation of boys who came to hand over $10, the proceeds of a show given in Ballantyne's barn. The boys who all belong to Ryerson school and were greatly interested in the junior town during Chautauqua week are: Waldon Ballantyne, Albert Rolston, Archie Burns, Orville Burns, Roy Border, Warren Kellestine, Arthur Wardell, Morton Henderson, Willie Trumbley, Beverley Flarity and Ernie Renkoester. They caused considerable amusement by informing one of the ladies who inquired the price of a ticket to admit her to the next show that "It all depends on your age!"

Mrs. W. P. Telford read two very interesting letters from her brother, Pte. Bob Somerville, giving a vivid description of events in France during the last few months. In closing the meeting Mrs. Parker remarked that she hoped it would be possible to have Lieut.-Col. Eberts McIntyre, D.S.O., speak to the league during his visit in town.

JIMMY COON STORIES

Copyright, 1917, by George Matthew Adams.

ON THE BEACH.

Those hunters, Jimmy Coon, Teddy Possum, Peter Rabbit, with Snapper behind and Chatterbox, the Red Squirrel, to point out the way, at last came to the lovelliest little lake—"Lily Pond," Snapper called it.

White water lilies grew in it, and grass and bushes grew near the shore. But when they came to this lovely little lake, they heard the roar of the surf, and beyond the lake, across a bank of sand, was the beach, and sea birds were circling over the curling breakers and fishing.

Jimmy Coon and Teddy Possum had a mad game, jumping up and down trying to catch the flying birds and running up and down the beach.

When Snapper came up, he was cross to see those rascals act as if they were crazy. He sat right down and he said, "What is the matter with you idiots? Don't you know that it is a serious matter to find my Aunt's pantry, and that you ought to be quiet and not let anyone see you? For if any of the Turtle tribe should see you they would run and tell Aunt Patience, and then the game would be up for good and all."

"Anyway, Snapper, we had a pretty good game—running after those silly seagulls—if we never find the pantry at all," said Jimmy happily.

"There, there, Snapper," said Chatterbox in a soothing voice, "don't worry. Nobody would ever think such foolish creatures as Teddy Possum and Jimmy Coon would ever have time to make a plan and carry it out to get Turtle eggs from the pantry of Aunt Patience."

So Jimmy Coon and Teddy Possum settled down and stopped their wild racing and jumping, and soberly followed Snapper's slow pace—and the pace of Snapper set surely was slow.

Peter Rabbit had been settled down all the time, and he was shaking with fear. Those gulls couldn't think what in the world the little animals could be doing, going so carefully over the sand dunes.

Every little while some gull would swoop down near them, but would not stop a minute—just look out of this bright eyes and scream, "Stop thief, stop thief!"

These rough words scared poor little Peter Rabbit nearly out of his wits. Jimmy Coon and Teddy Possum had to hold him up on both sides, for they were afraid that he would faint dead away.

Sea birds were circling over the curling breakers and fishing.

Tomorrow—Snapper Hunts for the pantry.

"FLOO" HOSPITAL OFFERED BY NO. 4 NURSING DIVISION

Lecture Room Offered for This Purpose to Mayor.

"No. 4 on the Job," is the slogan of members of No. 4 Nursing Division, St. John Ambulance Association, who have gone overseas to serve as V.A.D.'s. No. 4 is very much on the job at present, cooperating with the public health nurse and health authorities in coping with the present outbreak in the city of Spanish influenza.

At present twelve cases are being cared for by the volunteer nurses, two of whom are out on duty today, and other cases have been reported to them. The emergency hospital at 404 Talbot street, the headquarters of the nursing division, has been pressed into service, and one patient was admitted there yesterday. It is probable she will not be able to leave for a week.

Today Mrs. J. F. Thomson has laid a proposition before Mayor Somerville, namely, that the nursing division lecture-room be turned into a temporary hospital. A dozen cots can be accommodated in the space, and in view of the fact that the hospitals have not been receiving influenza cases for the sake of their other patients, it is probable the offer will be viewed with favor. In event of its acceptance a room in which to hold lectures for classes will be required by the division in some central place, possibly the city hall, until the epidemic abates.

No. 4 Division has three cots at Port Stanley which will required to be brought from there, and another cot in use. Eight or nine more cots will be required to equip the emergency hospital. The members of No. 4 Division are giving their time to this service and doubtless will receive practical support from the citizens.

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL-BOX

Wants the Music.

Dear Miss Grey,—Well, here I come asking for help. Say Miss Grey, I think I would get tired of printing all the letters that are sent in. Could you get the words and music, if possible, for me of these songs? "Reginald Burchell," "Missouri Waltz," "Boston Burglar," and "Little Brown Jug." I am 13 years old and passed my entrance this year. What do you think of my writing? I worked outside all harvest, driving horses and pitching.

CORNELIA.

Ans.—Requests for songs referred to readers.

F. D. K.'s Hint.

F. D. K.—Your hint for "Pernickety" much appreciated, but as the article has already been advised for her, I need not print your letter. Thanks sincerely.

Trials of Home Decoration.

Dear Miss Grey,—Do please tell me how to paint a carpet. Shall I use just ordinary floor paint and which side of the rug shall I paint, the top surface or the underside, which has no nap?

Several years ago, a renovating germ got into my system and I painted and grained a walnut chest of drawers with light oak paint. Did I say, painted and grained? Smeared, splotched and daubed! Of all the atrocities committed in the name of home decoration!! The same indignity was inflicted on a wee table. When I came out of my decorative nightmare, I started on the table. Now, can you, Cynthia, or any of your Mail-Box friends tell me how to get all this off my chest (of drawers, I mean), as it is so horrible it hurts.

Don't say: "Try any of the varnish removers on the market," because it took two 30-cent cans of that and a can of lye and two teakettles of boiling water to get it nearly off the wee table.

We are thinking seriously of migrating back to the land in the early spring, so I shall, no doubt, deluge you and yours with a variety of queries later on, if you will stand for it.

Does anyone want my pumpkin marmalade recipe? We find it delicious, but one man's nectar is often another man's poison. Very sincerely,

BOSTONIAN.

Pumpkin Marmalade—Five pounds of pumpkin peeled and diced, 5 pounds of granulated sugar, 2 ounces of bruised ginger root (do it with the hammer); let stand over night. Then cook 1½ hours slowly and mash with potato masher. Now add 3 oranges and the lemons. Grate a little of the peel (about half), adding the juice and pulp which has been put through the chopper. Cook slowly 1½ hours and can. This makes five pints.

Ans.—How humiliating it is to have to plead ignorance to each query propounded by "Bostonian." I do not know how to paint a carpet, nor how she may remove the troublesome varnish. Seems to me I'd go at the latter armed with a blunt knife and a square or two of coarse sandpaper. Any hints from our readers will be more than welcome.

And, "Bostonian," dear, there's something left out of the recipe, I'm afraid. How many lemons should be used? That migratory move of yours sounds very interesting. Am sure our farm women readers will be pleased to help all they can by answering some of your queries.

Daily Bible Question Club

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY, OCT. 13, 1918.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION.

(By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.)

Abraham Helping Lot.—Gen. xiii: 5-11; xiv: 14-16.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

7. Verses 8-9—Would you regard it to be possible or not, and why, for a man to be truly good, and yet be quarrelsome, or anything akin to it?

8. What do you think of Abraham's offer to settle the dispute with Lot?

9. When a partner makes a proposition to give, or accept certain terms to dissolve a partnership, and the other partner refuses, how would you characterize the two men?

Golden Text: A friend loveth at all times, and a brother is born for adversity.—Prov. xvii., 17.

CHRISTIAN FRIENDSHIP.

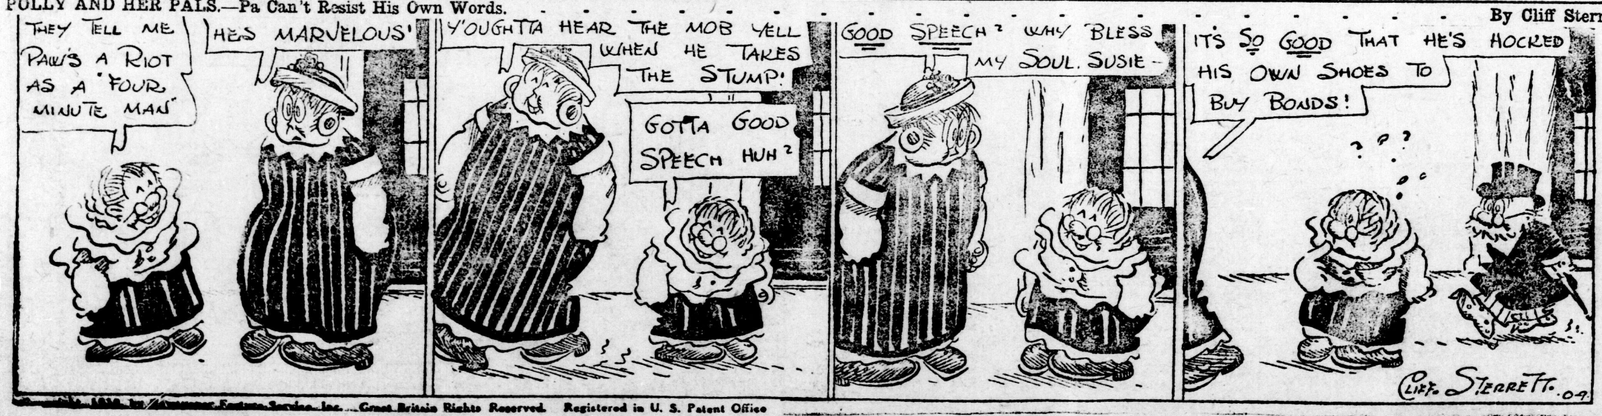

The saying that "blood is thicker than water" implies that blood relationships are always more dependable than any other kind, but this is not always true, and it is never true when compared with Christian friendship. When two persons are joined to Christ, and are friends of each other, there is no friendship more precious or reliable. To be united in love and fellowship with God is to form a strong tie which never can be broken. The love of Jonathan and David is a sample of Christian friendship. The tie which bound them together is a sample of the tie that binds together the people of God. Church membership does not always produce this kind of friendship, but real unipn with God never fails to do so.

METEORIC ASCENT OF DEMPSEY TO TOP OF PUGILISTIC LADDER

Breaks All Records in Speedy Rise to Fame—Willis Ritchie Only Other Mitt Artist to Vie With Dempsey.

The game of pugilism presents any number of weird performances, and it is not unusual to see some young fellow of championship calibre "drop from the skies," as they say on the turf. As an instance, we have at the present time this young Jack Dempsey, whose meteoric rise to the top ranks in the heavyweight division is the talk everywhere boxing is known, spoken or thought.

Enough has already been said about the class of Dempsey to make it unnecessary to dwell at any great length on his pugilistic ability. Suffice to say that he has more than made good everything that has been said of him by his most admiring friends. He is the goods, and almost certain to become the next heavyweight champion of the world if Jess Willard will either get out or fight him. At least that's the opinion of a few folks who generally know what they are doing when doping a scrap.

Heavies Develop More Slowly.

In the case of Dempsey, his swift rise must be considered remarkable. One reason is that heavyweights are not as quickly developed as the boys of the lighter classes. In the first place the majority are so heavy that they are lacking in speed. There's Jess Willard, Fred Fulton, Tom Cowler and a lot of others who, placed alongside of this Dempsey, appear slow as cart horses. They haven't the speed, and the view of the outsider would indicate that they have spent nearly all their development period in an effort to swing heavy punches, while they themselves assimilate the same type of blows.

But it is not so with Dempsey. That's where he has the edge on the others. It is this in a great measure which has been responsible for his rise from nowhere to somewhere in three years of professionalism. Three years is a mighty short time to get to the top in the fighting game. There have been many boxers who have spent all their fighting years trying to get there and never succeeded. There have been others who have used up as much as 10 or 15 years in the uphill grind before they landed a title or could be termed topnotchers.

Bat Nelson Waits Twelve Years.

There is, for example, the case of Battling Nelson, the Hegewisch Dane, who fought for many years before he could capture the title from that wonderful negro, Joe Gans. Nelson started fighting in 1896, and for 12 long years or until 1908 he plugged along at the profession, winning and losing at times, until he finally got the big crack at the title. That was his battle with Gans, who at that time was caught in the whirl that leads to "has-beenville." The Baltimore negro was one of the most remarkable boxers that ever put on a glove, but Joe had been in the game five years longer than Nelson when the latter knocked him out.

With Gans it was just a case of another fighter not knowing when he was through. He was a fighter away back in 1891, and the records show that he had been in the game nearly 17 years when shorn of the title by the Battling Dane. The negro was 34 years old when his finish as a topliner came.

Quick Rise by Willie Ritchie.

But as in the case of Dempsey there have been other young fellows who have shot to the front with great speed. Willie Ritchie, the California lightweight, was a meteoric riser. Ritchie started fighting in 1909. In 1912 he was lightweight champion. He acquired the title by defeating Ad. Wolgast, the Cadillac Bearcat, on a foul in 10 rounds. Place those three years' work by Ritchie along of the numerous years put in by Nelson, and such a performance must be considered remarkable.

Ritchie was fighting just as classy men as Nelson, Wolgast, and others had fought, too. But it so happened that Ritchie fell from the top much more quickly than expected, although the manner in which the title was taken from him always left a suspicion that he might have been handed the worst of the decision. He fought Freddie Welsh 20 rounds in London, and the title was awarded to Welsh.

Going back a bit further, there was the case of Young Corbett of Denver. Corbett, whose name was William Rothwell, started fighting in 1897, just about the time that wonderful little Brooklynite, Terry McGovern, was knocking out everybody he faced. It included. The information is authentic was only natural that McGovern, the featherweight champion, should some time have to meet Young Corbett, and they did clash less than four years after Corbett had started fighting. Corbett knocked out the wonderful McGovern in two rounds, surprising the world. That feat made the Denver boy a champion after less than four years of scrapping.

OFFICERS DEFEAT PAY OFFICE IN BALL GAME

Commissioned Soldiers Trim Penpushers by 5—1 Score.

The officers triumphed over the pay office of the W. O. R. in a scheduled game of indoor baseball held at the heights last night. The score was 5 to 1. Play was very even despite the fact that the commissioned officers managed to cross the pan four more times than their pen-pushing opponents. O'Loan and Dehart starred in the field for the victors, and Pope was effective in the box. Williamson of the pay office was rather generous with his hits, which accounted for the victory of the officers.

On Monday No. 1 team of the W. O. R. trimmed No. 2 team of the same unit by the lopsided score of 13 to 1. The next scheduled game will be held on Thursday, when the orderly room stacks up against No. 2 nine.

The line-up in the game between the officers and pay office was:

Officers.	Pay office.
Hotson.....	Shortstop ..... Deloge
Rooney.....	Catcher ..... Digneux
Sandbury.....	First base .... McLeod
O'Loan.....	Leit field ..... Russel
Pope.....	Pitcher ... Williamson
Campbell.....	Second base .. Cuthbert
Aikens.....	Centre field ..... Snell
Gillies.....	Third base ..Hawkshaw

WEST NISSOURI SCHOOLS HELD A BANNER FAIR

THORNDALE, Oct. 8.—The annual school fair of West Nissouri which was held on Thorndale fair grounds was quite largely attended by the parents and children from all over the township. Owing to the illness of R. Finn, district representative, Mr. Green of Oxford County assisted in the management of the fair. Of the ten schools represented in West Nissouri School Fair Association, only two schools entered the parade. These were Rebecca School and Cobble Hill School, and the teachers, Miss I. McGuffin and Miss J. Rumble, deserve great credit for the excellent manner in which the pupils paraded. Miss McGuffin's school secured first prize, and Miss Rumble's second prize.

Another interesting feature of the fair was the public speaking contest. Gordon Duffin of Wyton School gave an excellent address on "How British Prisoners of War Are Treated," and secured first prize. Kingsley Angus of Wyton spoke on "The Quail," and secured second prize.

The majority of the schools entered the stock judging contest, in which two pupils from each school were required to judge three sheep. In order to secure the shield, which is given as the prize, a school must win it for two successive years. Wyton School won it in 1917, and also this year, and were presented with it on fair day. Gordon Duffin and Leroy Walters were the pupils who judged from Wyton School.

The weed-naming contest was also quite keenly contested. S. S. No. 6 secured first prize, and S. S. No. 16, London Township, second prize.

BAN RACING FORM AS AN UNDESIRABLE GAMBLING AGENCY

Minister of Justice Urged To Take the Necessary Action.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—Banning of the Daily Racing Form is being urged upon the minister of justice, and the matter will be considered by the cabinet. During the war racing has been abolished, and recently the big news services eliminated reports of the racing results. The Racing Form, however, continues, and the argument is advanced that by means of it and the operation of handbooks an extensive gambling is carried on in connection with racing on the American circuits.

CARPENTIER WILL FIGHT AFTER WAR

Champion's Health Returns After Long Service.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Georges Carpentier, the European heavyweight champion, has recuperated to a wonderful degree since taking charge of the physical culture and athletic work at the Joinville Military School for Training in France, following his leave of absence from military work.

Carpentier does not plan to retire from the boxing game, as has been reported, but is anxiously awaiting the time when the war ends, that he may take another flier against some of the best heavyweights in the world—Jack Dempsey and Champion Jess Willard included. The information is authentic and comes from Victor Breyer, the well-known sporting man of France.

"Of late I have noticed in some of the papers that Carpentier had made up his mind to retire from the game. I have seen a great deal of the young man lately, and I can assure you it is all a mistake. He is in splendid health now; in fact, since he entered the Joinville Military School he is transformed and has never been better. His one desire is to see the war finished so that he may start again, and he is quite eager about it.

"At present he is giving quite a number of exhibition bouts all over the country, especially in the American camps, where he is very popular. If anything he is heavier and would welcome a match when the war is over. I have never seen him box with better judgment, and his hitting is more powerful."

DICTATE TERMS ON GERMAN SOIL, SAYS PREMIER OF ONTARIO

No Dealing With the Present Berlin Government.

HAMILTON, Oct. 8.—"The terms of peace must be dictated by a victorious Allied army on German soil," Sir William Hearst, premier of Ontario, declared to the great patriotic meeting held in the First Methodist Church here this evening in connection with the sessions of the Methodist General Conference.

There would be no peace terms made, he said, with the present perjured and blood-stained German Government. Germany had appealed to the sword, and by the sword she must be punished. The Allies couldn't trust the white flag when it was held up by the German chancellor. Complete and unconditional surrender was the only message to the Hun.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10.

This ought to be a singularly busy day and an exceptionally prosperous one if properly managed; that is, if a tendency to large and extravagant ideas regarding the manipulation of money matters be checked. Large and bold enterprises, especially those developed in combination with companies, associations, secret orders, or even in intrigues or schemes, should be eminently successful. Papers, contracts and documents all may be signed with security, and all commercial and professional pursuits should thrive. Those in employment may expect promotion, preferment and increase of salary. Benefits may come from peculiar sources or persons.

Those whose birthday it is are promised a fortunate year, but should beware all prodigality. A child born on this day will be clever, industrious and respected, but should be taught the folly of reckless handling of money.

During the latter months of the siege of Ladysmith, tobacco was sold for £6 per pound, and a 3d packet of cigarettes for 7s and 6d.

A large Philadelphia theatre is, it is said, to be the first one in the world to be operated without footlights. All the stage illumination will come from electric lamps above.

Minerals Your Body Needs--- Soda and Potash For Growth

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D., (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

These many ages the farmer has recognized that lime and phosphates are fertilizers and minerals required in stock feeds and the soil properly to nourish animal and plant life.

That the human creature also needs such salt of the earth has not been fully realized until recently.

Excreted from the body in the course 123456123456123456 of a day are nearly two tablespoonfuls of these minerals. Somehow, somewhere, in some way, this loss must be made up, or the human physiology will cease to do its part in the world's work.

There are at least eight necessary elements present in these fertilizers, among which are to be found lime, phosphorus, soda, potash, sulphur and magnesium.

Vegetables, fruits and meats convey most of these to the various parts of the human body.

Minimum Amounts Unknown.

However, the required amounts and proportions of each are not always present in particular edibles. Indeed, the scientific study of mineral fertilizers for human tissues still lacks many facts in order fully to inform you of your exact needs of phosphates, glycerophosphates, sulphates, nitrate, oxides, lime, potash or soda.

Scientists have not yet discovered the minimum amounts of each of these mineral fertilizers demanded by the tissues to sustain life. That they are indispensable, however, is certain from a number of facts. In their absence, wasting and fatal infections appear, such as tuberculosis, malnutrition, marasmus and several other maladies.

Calcium of lime and phosphorus are peculiarly important and so essential to the body that without them death with symptoms of "air hunger" or suffocation has been known to occur.

Man has the advantage over a cow, a horse or a pig because he has the fields and the fields of a wide choice from which to select many foods. And while may, as some scientists and philosophers assert, have the power of judgment, choice and free will, yet they needs fare farther afield than they are able to to obtain a wide enough variety unless man serves it to them in their selected feed.

Lime and Phosphates.

Cereals and grains, as a rule, are essentially deficient in lime. Rations all too exclusively composed of corn, oats and other grains, often produce weakness, exhaustion, sluggishness and death.

Leguminous plants such as beans and peas yield an abundance of lime and phosphorus. Unless this is furnished, medicines with lime and carbonates are needed.

Mothers who nurse their infants may be in dire need of lime. Peas, beans and lactate of calcium or other forms of calcium must be administered in some form, if the flow of rich milk is to be maintained.

Vegetables, fruits and meats supply some lime and phosphates, but it is often necessary to write a prescription for these to be added to the diet.

The minimum requirement of soda, potash, magnesium, chlorine and other elements are much smaller than those of iron, lime and phosphorus. The latter are much more essential to health and life.

Even common table salt is not such a great necessity. There may be more hidden reservoirs of this in the anatomy than is suspected. If both soda and potash are excluded, however, growth ceases.

Answers to Health Questions

A. B. C. Q.—Please give me something for grey hair.

A.—

Henna leaves ..... 1 ounce
Boiling water ..... 1 quart

Place the henna leaves in the boiling water and let it stand all night. In the morning strain and heat to the boiling point. Add two ounces of henna powder and stir and strain. Brush this into the clean hair. It is harmless and very effective. But why try to change something that may be very beautiful?

M. E. B. Q.—Please tell me what to do for palpitation of the heart.

A.—Palpitation of the heart is caused by overexertion, sleeplessness, constipation, kidney disorders, anaemia, convalescence from serious fevers, physical deficiency and shortness of breath. You should have a thorough physical examination made.

J. B. Q.—Please give me something for headaches.

A.—The causes of headaches are numerous and must be found by an examination before proper treatment can be given. You should also have your eyes examined, as they often are the cause of headaches.

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

How Madge Cleverly Managed to Betray the Hiding Place of the False Rice Paper.

"Grace Draper's brains must be getting addled or else she is absorbing some of the Teutonic cocksureness, and imagines ours are," Lillian said ruminatively while I struggled to preserve my poise under the startling announcement that Mrs. Allis was actually in the house, engaged as a maid. "Of course, the woman is exceptionally well disguised, I'll have to slip it to her for that; her wig is perfect, and whoever made her up is a crackerjack. If I hadn't been expecting them to bite when I inserted the advertisement she might have fooled me for a little while. But as it is, I recognized her the minute I set eyes on her."

She paused, glanced at me shrewdly, then went on rapidly:

"You don't need to have a minute's uneasiness, Madge. You're not going to set eyes on her nor she on you."

"I don't want to be shielded," I protested. "I must have my share in this work and danger as well as the rest."

"You must be shielded all I can manage," Lillian returned, looking at me significantly. "I won't be so cruel as to shut you out of the final round-up, and I shall need you there. But for the next few days you'll obey my requests, won't you?"

"Of course," I answered cheerfully.

"Well, then," with a flash of approval in her eyes, "you're not to stir from the second floor except when you're personally conducted to your father's next door. This Allis fiend is the one uncertain factor in this business. Of course, she is working under Grace Draper's directions; they want someone inside the house at night, for they know Kato sleeps next door. And while I am sure that Draper has sent Allis here primarily to put you permanently out of the way, yet she has no doubt instructed her to wait until the last minute to do it, so as not to interfere with the plans for getting that paper. But Allis is too full of dope and hatred for you to risk letting her addled brain become inflamed by the sight of you. And, of course, she's not going to be out of sight of either your mother-in-law or me for one minute.

Keeping Mrs. Allis Busy.

"I explained to her, very seriously and plausibly," she went on, "that there are invalids in the house, and that the elder Mrs. Graham and I prepared the meals ourselves. I put her to work cleaning and dusting, and your mother-in-law will keep her busy when I'm not there. And, of course, we're going to give her and Kato plenty of time for conferences. But she'll not be allowed upstairs, and don't you come down.

"You'll have plenty to do, for Mother Graham is going to take care of Katie, leaving Agatha free to snoop to her heart's content. I want you to divide your time between your mother-in-law's room, where the Chinese vase is, and your own, and watch the Asiatic and Agatha. Of course, don't let them actually get the paper, but if they don't find out where it is before night give them a hunch without letting them know you're doing it. And now, look out for yourself. I'm overdue downstairs to break in the new maid."

She flashed me a merry, confident smile as she went out of the room, and I envied her sureness. With her to plan a thing was to accomplish it. And the task she had outlined for me to betray the hiding place we had so carefully guarded in a manner that would appear plausible, was one I infinitely dreaded—doubted my ability to perform.

It was Agatha on whose knowledge of the house I counted, who gave me the opportunity I wished. Agatha, whom Lillian had given full opportunity for sly watchfulness because we both had seen that Kato had intuitively realized Agatha's peculiar genius and was himself following her.

The house in which we live was built originally for a physician, and my mother-in-law occupies the bedroom which was his. From an alcove adjoining it a spiral stairway leads to the library below—in the physician's time, his office—with a little hallway and outside door. It is a room which neither Dicky nor I would have liked, but my mother-in-law chose it, perversely enough, for she never dares to climb up or down the twisting, narrow stairway.

The doors to the stairway at the top and bottom are always kept locked, and since the Chinese vase was removed to my mother-in-law's room, I have always kept the keys. The first step in my little plot was carelessly dropping the keys when I was sure Agatha was watching me. The next, after satisfying myself that she had them—and warning Lillian of this fact so that she could keep Mrs. Allis away from the library below—was to go into my mother-in-law's room with an apparently perturbed manner, locking the door ostentatiously behind me.

Fooling the Asiatic.

There are heavy curtains between my mother-in-law's bedroom and the alcove, and I hadn't been in the room long —every minute of which I spent standing before the table upon which stood the Chinese vase—until my sharpened ears heard the slightest perceptible rustle, which I would never have heard unless I'd been watching for it, and I knew that Cousin Agatha's sharp eyes were peering through the curtains.

I heard no second rustle, but I was psychically sure that the silent Asiatic had come noiselessly in behind her, and taking advantage of her absorption had concealed himself in the folds of the curtain at the other side of her.

With trembling fingers I took down the Chinese vase, removed the single blossom it contained, poured out the water, ostentatiously unlocked a small box on the dresser and took from it the curiously-shaped magnet, drew forth the metal pencil case from the depths of the vase, and from it unrolled the rice paper Allen Drake had laughingly prepared.

I appeared to peruse it carefully, then with an audible "Thank heaven it's all right!" I reversed the process I had just gone through, and with a soliloquized "I think I'll take this into my own room," I unlocked the door and went to my room.

Lillian appeared a moment or two later with the news that Agatha, followed surreptitiously by Kato, had ascended the staircase, and that they had come down in reverse order, the quick, noiseless Asiatic having been successful in following Agatha without her knowing it.

"There's only one thing left for us to do—to settle Agatha's hash so she can't meddle," she said. "The rest is in the laps of the gods."

DOTTY'S BIRTHDAY GIFTS.

Tommy left the house, with his papers tucked under his arm, looking very gloomy. Tomorrow was his sister Dotty's birthday and Tommy hadn't a penny with which to buy her a gift.

"Of course, Mama's going to fix up a rag doll, but what girl likes a rag doll?" he mused to himself as he sat down in front of the toy shop window. "Why, if it was only one of those flat wooden dolls with cotton for hair and a painted face it would be better than a rag one!"

A tiny hand touched his knee and Tommy looked down to see two bright eyes peeking at him from under a tall, pointed cap.

"Hello, Tommy," cried the merry little fellow. "I'm Happy Giggles from Make-believe Land."

"Where's that?" asked Tommy drowsily.

"Why, just the other side of Toyland," replied Happy Giggles. Tommy's eyes came open with a pop at the name of Toyland.

"And there's really and truly a Toyland where they make toys?" he cried.

"Make toys nothing," laughed Happy Giggles. "Toys live and breathe just like you and me in Toyland."

"Oh, dear," laughed Tommy, "I'd love to go there. Maybe I could coax one of them to come home with me for Dotty's birthday!"

"Toys never leave Toyland," replied Happy Giggles, "but from them you might get an idea how to make a copy of them. Anyway, let's go and see what we can do." And out of the toy shop galloped a great wooden horse and Happy Giggles and Tommy jumped upon his back and away they went.

They stopped for Dotty and her mama and Happy Giggles gave them a nice carriage to ride in and they soon reached Toyland.

They stopped at a big white farmhouse all surrounded with wooden trees, painted a bright green, and a great big red wooden barn stood behind it, just like the toy farm Tommy had seen in the toy shop window.

"Oh, yes," said Happy Giggles, "I brought the fellow who made it out to look at this place."

The farmer's wife came running out of the doorway. She was made of wood and wore a painted dress. Trotting at her heels came a little wooden girl, followed by a wooden puppy dog wagging his wooden tail.

Happy Giggles introduced them all and the farmer's wife took them out to meet Mr. Farmer himself, who was feeding the wooden cows and horses. Over the meadow scampered sheep, pigs, chickens and goats all carved out of wood.

Tommy and Dotty were simply wild over the place and hated to hear Happy Giggles say it was time to return home.

"Why, they all look as if they were carved from cigar boxes and painted up," laughed Tommy when they galloped away.

"Let's Go and See What We Can Do."

"So they are," replied Happy Giggles, "and if folks knew how easy it is to make them, no one would be without a present." And before Tommy could ask him any more questions he disappeared, taking Dotty and Tommy's mother with him.

Tommy pulled out his pocket knife and on his way home stopped at the cigar store and got several cigar boxes. When Dotty's birthday dawned she found a crowd of wooden toys standing around her plate to greet her and Tommy was too happy for words to think he had copied them from the toy folks in Toyland.

AILMENTS OF WOMEN

There is no denying the fact that thousands of Canadian women drag along day in and day out suffering with these ailments peculiar to their sex which make life a burden. If women who suffer from dragging-down pains, inflammatory ulcerated or catarrhal conditions would only give that greatest of all remedies Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial, they would readily find relief from such suffering, as the many letters of commendation constantly being published prove.

Sage Tea Darkens Hair to Any Shade

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-time Recipe that Anybody can Apply.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, grey hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Is a Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat.

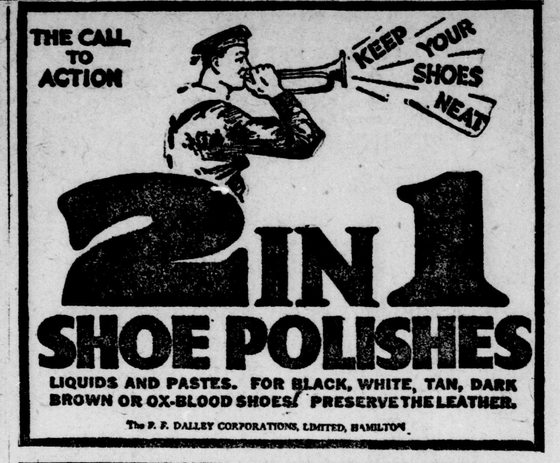

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

Fatal Mistake to Ignore Nature's Danger Signals

Slight Kidney Troubles Soon Develop into Chronic Complaints

You Can't Neglect Nature's Warnings and Remain Healthy

Danger cannot always be seen—and because of this fact many people have entirely ignored Nature's danger signals—with the result that to-day hundreds are suffering unnecessarily from chronic kidney and bladder troubles.

It is the old story. You feel that something is wrong in the region of the kidneys and bladder, but because you don't suffer acute pain right at the start you conclude that there is nothing very serious the matter and fail to remedy the defect. That is the fatal mistake.

Nature's Methods of Warning.

When Nature warns you by a pain in the back, headaches and dizziness that there is poison in the blood stream, you can readily conclude that your kidneys are out of order and need immediate attention and assistance. You may say to yourself, "That will pass away in a day or so," but the truth of the matter is, it won't, for once those delicate organs are affected, the congestion must be speedily removed or chronic kidney trouble will develop.

The Function of the Kidneys.

Picture the condition yourself. The kidneys are the great blood filters, and when they fail to clean the uric acid and other impurities from the blood, these are carried through the system again and lodge in muscles and joints, setting up infection, which results in rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, etc.

Once established, these diseases develop, as the cause has not been remedied, and the kidneys still fail to perform their proper function, and clear the blood.

How to Remedy the Cause.

You can readily understand yourself, without our going into further detail, that if kidney and bladder troubles are to be cured the cause must first be removed, and the kidneys restored to perform their proper function of purifying the blood. This is exactly what Gin Pills are for and what they do. Gin Pills remove the congestion from the kidneys, strengthen them and re-establish their proper function. In this way the blood is purified and the disease germs carried out of the system.

Gin Pills have relieved the sufferings of hundreds of Canadian men and women. Mrs. Ross writes from Comax, Cumberland Hospital, Vancouver Island:

"I came here from New York about five months ago crippled with rheumatism. I was unable to earn a living for two years, and spent all my savings trying the hot springs, with little relief. At last in despair I tried Gin Pills, and now at 47 I am able to continue my work."

A Remarkable Case.

Here is the case of a man, Mr. Isidore Thomas, who had given up all hope of ever regaining health and strength again. Gin Pills did more for him than he believed possible, and in a short time he was not only better, but had gained 20 pounds:

Tiley's Rood, Gleve County, N.B.

Translation of Isidore Thomas' letter in part.

"I beg you to publish my letter, so that people may know what Gin Pills did for me. My case was very serious. I was so sick everybody expected my death any day. Finally, on advice from friends, I tried Gin Pills, and in a short time was well again, and soon had gained 20 pounds."

Make Grateful Friends.

Have you a friend or neighbor suffering from Gravel or Stone in the Bladder? If so, think how grateful to you they would be if you were instrumental in helping them regain their former health and vigor. Tell them about Gin Pills and what they have done. It's no secret.

Hear what Mr. Brenchley, of New Westminster, B.C., did.

After Gin Pills had relieved his sufferings he heard from his sister in England that she was confined to bed with sciatica and that many others in the neighborhood were afflicted with the same dread disease. His faith in Gin Pills was so great that he sent a number of boxes to her and asked her to distribute them among her friends also. Is this not the proper spirit of "Do unto others and bring them relief"?

The Premier Remedy.

The wonderful results obtained by Gin Pills have placed them in the forefront among the standard remedies for the relief and prevention of kidney and bladder disorders. Hundreds of testimonials from people in all parts of Canada tell us the same story—that Gin Pills help by first removing the cause.

Kidney disorders are the cause of great suffering and prolonged agony. Don't hesitate when that pain in the back warns you that your kidneys are affected—use Gin Pills and be sure of safe, sure and speedy relief.

The Danger Signals.

Here is a list of Danger Signals that warn you of Kidney and Bladder derangements:

A dull ache or pain in the back, pains in the sides and groin, Brick Dust Deposits, Painful Urination, Dizziness, Constant Headaches, specks floating in front of the eyes, a general feeling of lifelessness, swollen ankles or joints, Sciatica, Pains, Symptoms of Rheumatism, Lumbago, etc.

Any of these warnings should convince you that your kidneys need assistance. That congestion must be removed at once or grave results will follow. Don't hesitate and think you will be better to-morrow—you won't! Time, unassisted, never remedies kidney derangements. In cases like this Nature needs Nature's Remedy, and that is found in Gin Pills.

A sample free on request.

Gin Pills are sold everywhere for 50c a box. A free sample will be sent to you if you write us for it.

WARNING—

That pain in the back is a danger signal.

Pain in the back is one of the commonest symptoms of kidney trouble. It is Nature's way of telling you that your kidneys are tired, congested and need immediate assistance, or they cannot keep the blood stream purified.

You know the rest. Once the blood stream is poisoned, a chain of diseases follow, and you probably become an invalid. Be warned, in time and free yourself from the ravages of all Kidney or Bladder afflictions, Brick Dust Deposits, Painful Urinations, Backache and constant Headaches.

GIN PILLS

Gin Pills have brought relief to thousands—they will do the same for you. Try them.

The Picture of Health

BEAUTY and health usually go together. There may be classic features, but lacking the clear skin and healthful glow of the complexion, they fail to attract.

Pure, red blood is essential to beauty. For, in addition to giving color to the skin, it fills the body with vitality and energy.

There is a sparkle to the eye and grace and elasticity of every movement of the body.

Health and beauty abound.

Now just because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new, rich blood, it is conducive of health and beauty. It supplies exactly what is lacking when you become pale, weak, languid, and lose the vivacity of health.

Even beauty of disposition and character are marred when the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves are weak and exhausted.

You lose sleep, suffer from headaches, digestion fails, and you get to looking on the dark side of things until you become downhearted and discouraged.

But as your system is restored by this food cure you find cheerfulness and confidence returning. The form is rounded out to graceful proportions, the glow of health is shown in the complexion, and you feel the vigor and energy which enables you to accomplish things.

With restored strength you experience the desire to serve and help others, and so beauty of complexion, of form and of character unite to make you happy and contented.

It is only necessary to look for the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, on the box you buy so as to be guaranteed against imitations. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

WILSON REFUSES TO GRANT ARMISTICE TO HUNS UNTIL ALL FOE TROOPS WITHDRAW FROM INVADED TERRITORIES

Germany Must State Whether It Accepts Wilson's Fourteen Terms—Chancellor Must Say Whether He Represents the German People or Those of Potsdam Who Are Conducting the War.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—President Wilson has met Germany's peace note with a move which will, at one stroke, develop whether the Teuton proposal is sincere or merely a pretension, and if pretension it be, fully justify for all time before the world prolonging of the war with "force to the utmost; force without stint or limit." At the same time the president has left wide open the door to peace.

Declining to propose an armistice while the armies of the central powers remain on invaded soil, the president today called upon the German chancellor to state as an absolutely necessary preliminary to a reply from the Entente Allies and the United States whether Germany accepts the principles of peace so repeatedly laid down, or merely proposes to accept them "as the basis of negotiations," and whether the chancellor merely speaks for the German military masters conducting the war, or the whole German people.

Way Open to Peace.

As the full significance of the president's diplomacy is disclosed it becomes evident that he has left open the way to peace and at the same time left the militarist leaders of the central powers with a question they must necessarily answer in a way that will lead to peace or confront them with an embarrassing situation in their own country.

Among diplomats here the president's communication is regarded as one of his master-strokes. It is pointed out that upon cursory examination it may not show such strong terms as some may have desired. All the president's advisers, however, are confident that as close consideration reveals its full import it will be apparent that it is a long step forward if Germany really means peace, and that if she does not it will strip bare another hypocrisy of German diplomacy so completely that the responsibility for prolonging the war never can be charged to the Allies, even by the German people themselves.

No Reply to Austria.

The text of the president's communication was made public today by Secretary Lansing, together with the official text of Prince Maximilian's note, which was published in Monday's papers. At the same time officials let it be known that there would be no reply at present to the Austrian note, similar to that of the German chancellor. It is not considered necessary to deal with Austria until the time comes for a reply to her dominating ally.

POUND PEACE INTO HUN IS ATTITUDE OF A. F. OF L.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The attitude of the American federation of labor toward the new German peace proposal is that it should be ignored, and that the thing to do is to "batter away at the enemy lines" until a peace has been secured such as has been enunciated by President Wilson. This attitude is set forth in a statement by John R. Alpine, acting president of the federation, telegraphed here from Washington to the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy, which made it public.

STAND READY TO CRUSH SAYS DIAZ TO ITALIANS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—General Diaz, commander-in-chief of the Italian army, has issued a general order, reminding his soldiers that the enemy still is on Italian, French and Belgian soil, and calling on them not to be weakened by flattering hopes of peace, but to hold themselves in readiness to completely crush the enemy if his peace offers prove to be "a fresh form of the old guile."

SMOOTHE WORDS CANNOT EXPIATE FOUL DEEDS.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press dispatch from Reuter's Limited.)—Addressing a gathering of 5,000 on the war aims of the Allies, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill last evening said that the life was beaten out of the mighty German army. The proud kaiser was taking refuge behind the appearance of setting up a parliamentary government and was almost pitiably suing for peace. We must beware lest the Hun cajoles us into nullifying our achievements. The latest German proposals filled him with misgiving and suspicion. We cannot accept smooth words in expiation of foul deeds. We cannot proceed a step without guarantees. President Wilson, Premier Clemenceau and Mr. Lloyd George would never be trapped.

Mr. Churchill was constantly interrupted and many men and women were ejected from the meeting.

REICHSTAG MEETS TO CONSIDER REPLY.

[Special to The Advertiser by Arthur S. Draper, Copyright, 1918, Tribune News Service, New York.]

LONDON, Oct. 8.—A meeting of the German Reichstag has been called for Thursday next, when it is expected President Wilson's reply to the chancellor's note will be considered.

It is understood here that Washington got into communiction with the Allied Governments even before it received the official note.

Following the lead of the French Socialists, the British Boilermakers' Union has adopted a resolution, welcoming Germany's action and asking the Allied Governments to explore fully the possibilities of an early honorable peace.

PRES. WILSON'S REPLY TO HUNS REGARDED BY PRESS AS DIPLOMATIC TRIUMPH

American Newspapers Praise President For the Thorough Manner in Which He Has Gone to Bottom of German Peace Proposals.

New York, Oct. 9.—All the newspapers laud President Wilson's reply to Prince Maximilian.

The Boston Herald says: "For them (the war lords), or whoever they may be whom the chancellor represents, the president has a straight answer on the question of an armistice. There is the open road to an armistice which might open the way to peace. Evacuate the invaded territories, and evacuate them without destruction or pillage, without malicious cutting of fruit trees, and without deportation of the inhabitants. Then, and not till then, we may talk peace. Now the fight goes on."

Places Responsibility.

Boston Globe: "The sole purpose of the German Government in proposing a peace conference is to save its face with the German masses. The president has contrived to throw the responsibility for continuing peace negotiations squarely on the German rulers, in such a way as fearfully to embarrass them in their attempt to pose before the gradually awakening Teutonic peoples as injured peacemakers. The president has matched Foch's military success with a diplomatic triumph."

Brilliant Answer.

Buffalo Courier: "President Wilson's reply is a brilliant piece of war diplomacy. He has turned down the main desire for an armistice, and at the same time put up to the chancellor the responsibility of saying whether the Germans will accept terms which are, in fact, a complete surrender."

Buffalo Express—The privilege of withdrawing undisturbed from France and Belgium would have the same effect as an armistice. It would mean extrication of the German armies from their present unfavorable position and enable them to form a strong line on the short front of the German border. But the Allies may prefer this method of saving their nationals now in German power. The president's note is quite non-commital and is evidently intended to be only preliminary.

Germany Nailed Down.

Cleveland Plaindealer—President Wilson's reply does not directly bring peace nearer. But, in accordance with the Wilson way of doing things, it does nail Germany down to actualities, and thus clarifies the methods by which Germany must seek peace. Therefore, by indirection, peace is brought nearer. It will not come by the way of Maximilian, it will not come by any way that Potsdam arranges and lays out. It will come when the German people speak and speak unmistakably their surrender to the terms civilization has fixed.

Kansas City Star—Presumably President Wilson hoped by his inquiry to establish before the world the sincerity or insincerity of the German peace proposals. It is possible that the president expects by the terms of his inquiry to invite a revolution in Germany. At the same time obvious dangers are involved in the discussion which has been thus invited. Germany never has found it difficult to speak fair words while doing foul deeds. It is impossible to conceive of any reply that would affect the slightest the duty of this Government and its allies to continue to use forces to the uttermost to rid the world of the menace of that autocratic militarism which still, to all appearances, dominates the mind and heart of Germany.

San Francisco Chronicle—The German request for an armistice has been definitely refused. There is only one way by which Germany can bring the matter of a truce up for serious consideration, and that is by evacuation of invaded territories.

Reply Is Unswerving.

Milwaukee Sentinel—The reply is firm and unswerving, but adroit in that it puts the onus of continued war upon Germany's rulers. Thus we say, a door to peace by submission is left ajar for the German people to force open by forcing submission upon their Government.

St. Louis Westliche Post (German language newspaper)—President Wilson has clearly indicated the way to peace in his fourteen theses: Every drop of blood shed as a result of a refusal by the German Government to accept them will be visited on that Government. The president's fourteen conditions are not to be debated. They must be accepted.

VICTORY LOAN CAMPAIGN IS LAUNCHED IN WESTERN CITY

Sir Thomas White Explains Issue in Winnipeg.

MINIMUM IS $300,000,000

Bonds Will Return 5 1-2 Per Cent Interest—All To Be Spent in Canada.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 8.—Sir Thomas White, minister of finance, opened the campaign for the second Canadian Victory Loan, with a stirring speech in Winnipeg tonight. The industrial bureau was crowded with men and women to hear the finance minister speak on the new loan.

Five hundred millions of dollars is the amount required to be raised by the Canadian Government to carry on Canada's part in the prosecution of the war. The minimum amount which the minister of finance asks for is three hundred millions of dollars. The larger amount will be raised if possible.

Sir Thomas in his speech announced the terms of the forthcoming war loan as follows:

To Be Spent in Canada.

"Through the prospectus of the fifth Canadian war loan—the Victory Loan of 1918—the Dominion of Canada will ask for a minimum amount of $300,000,000 with the right to accept all or any part of subscriptions in excess of that sum, to be used for war purposes only, and to be spent wholly in Canada. The rate of interest will be 5 1-2 per cent per annum, payable May 1, and November 1, and the denominations $50, $100, $500, and $1,000. The loan will be offered in two maturities—five-year bonds due November 1, 1923, and 15-year bonds, due November 1, 1933.

"The issue price will be $100, and accrued interest for both maturities making the income return 5 1-2 per cent per annum. Provision is made for payment in five installments as follows: 10 per cent on application; 20 per cent December 6, 1918; 20 per cent January 6, 1919; 20 per cent February 6, 1919; 31.16 per cent, March 6, 1919.

The Why of 31.16 Per Cent.

"The last payment of 31.16 per cent covers 30 per cent balance of principal and 1.16 per cent, representing accrued interest at 5 1-2 per cent from November 10 to due dates of the respective installments. As a full half year's interest will be paid on May 1, 1919, the cost of the bonds will be $100 and interest. Payment may be made in full at the time of application at $100 without interest, or on any installment date due thereafter, with interest accrued at 5 1-2 per cent per annum. Bearer bonds will be available for delivery at the time of application to subscribers desirous of making payment in full. Bonds registered as to principal only, or as to both principal and interest in authorized denominations will be delivered to subscribers making payment in full as soon as the required registration can be made.

Free From Taxation.

"Bonds of this issue will be free from taxation—including any income tax—posted in pursuance of legislation enacted by Parliament of Canada, and will carry the privilege of conversion into any future domestic issues of like maturity or longer issued by the Government during the remaining period of the war.

"Subscription lists will open on October 28, 1918, and close on or before November 16, 1918."

Sir Thomas White, in the course of his address, said:

"The Victory Loan is an undertaking of the utmost national importance to the people of Canada. Its success is absolutely essential to our continued prosecution of the war and the maintenance of prosperity upon which our war efforts naturally depend. Canada relies on the Victory Loan to enable her to 'carry on.' It is not necessary to speak of the achievements of the Canadian forces in France. Their valor has won the admiration of the world, and will for all time shed lustre upon the name of Canada.

War Run by Finances.

"An army constantly requires food, clothing, ammunition, pay. For these purposes money must be raised. Finance underlies all the operations of war. The main purpose of the Victory Loan is to raise money for the continued prosecution of the war until final victory is achieved. Money can be devoted to no higher purpose than this. The Victory Loan is essential that we may carry on the war.

"There is another and most vital aspect of the matter. The success of the Victory Loan is absolutely essential to the prosperity of Canada and every class and individual in Canada. Canada is a great producing country. We produce much more than we require ourselves, and have the balance for export. The value of these exports has enormously increased since the outbreak of the war. In the fiscal year 1914 they were $450,000,000. Last year they were over a billion and a half. Our total international trade for 1914 was a billion dollars. Last fiscal year it was two and a half billions.

Production Has Increased.

"Increased production and higher prices have wrought the transformation. The main items of our export trade are agricultural products and manufactures. The value of agricultural exports, including animal products, has risen from two hundred and fifty millions in 1914 to over seven hundred millions in 1918. The value of manufactures exported has risen during the same period from $57,000,000 to $636,000,000. The exports from fisheries, forests and mines all show substantial increases. This is what has kept Canada strong to sustain the burden of the war.

"It is owing to this that Canada as a nation, notwithstanding the great increase in her national debt, is in a stronger position economically than at the outbreak of the war. Our total bank deposits show an increase since 1914 of over half a billion dollars, and our people during the same period have purchased from their savings over $700,000,000 worth of our war loans. With so much sacrifice as has been endured we should not dwell unduly upon the increase in material wealth, but it is most important from the standpoint of our ability to continue the prosecution of the war, apart from other considerations, that the Dominion should be kept sound and strong financially.

Loan a Vital Factor.

"The Victory Loan is a vital actor in the creation and continuance of our prosperity. The great bulk of our chief exports is bought by Great Britain for the use of her civilian population at home and her armies in the field. She buys the salmon catch of the Pacific, she buys the exportable surplus of the wheat of the western prairies, and of the flour manufactured from it. She buys the cheese of the eastern dairy farmer. She buys the output of the hundreds of munition plants of Canada, which in turn take the product of our great steel plants. This means the employment of tens of thousands of operatives. Our great ship-building yards are filled with orders for tonnage.

"How does Great Britain pay for all these products? For the greater part the Dominion Government furnishes her with the money. Where do we get the money with which to supply her? From our Victory Loans. Last year's Victory Loan was the means of finding a market for hundreds of millions of dollars of our products. It has kept Canada prosperous in all departments of national activity. Apart from patriotic grounds it is the direct immediate personal interest of every citizen of Canada to contribute to the Victory Loan. Its success means $500,000,000 of new business for Canada.

First Loan Above Par.

"Canada today is in the fortunate position of issuing her second Victory Loan at a time when the securities of the first Victory Loan stand above their issue price to the public. The best future customer is the pleased customer of the past. What an advantage to Canadian finance after the war if, as is probable, every holder of Canadian bonds would see them quoted on the market at a premium over their issue price. No matter what happened abroad, Canada would be, in such circumstances, able to carry on her further financing within her own frontiers. The rate of interest upon the new loan is most attractive to all. This is a case where each subscriber in helping Canada would also benefit himself. The fact that the great body of Canada's war loans will be held by our own people is one of the strongest factors in our economic situation. If Canada had been obliged to borrow her war expenditures abroad the result would have been most serious to the future of the Dominion.

An Axiom of Prudence.

"Prudence enjoins upon all today the duty of saving their money for the period of readjustment which will follow in the wake of the war. What better investment for this money than a bond of Canada, backed by all its resources, joined to the industry, intelligence and enterprise of the great Canadian people? Over two hundred million dollars of last year's Victory Loan was furnished by eight hundred thousand subscribers of amounts of $5,000 and under. Subscribers from $5,000 to $100,000 took eighty millions. Over one hundred millions were in subscriptions of $100,000 and over. This year we shall expect at least five hundred million dollars from over a million subscribers.

"Canada's domestic war issues have been so made that their maturities, extended over periods of five, ten, fifteen and twenty years, will give no serious difficulty to future governments. To have adopted the principle of short-date financing in the expectation that the war would not last long would have been a fatal error, as the principal of large issues would have fallen due at a time when immense sums of new money would be required. Short-date financing is always dangerous."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

The local market was small this morning, and little produce was offered.

Oats remain firm in price.

Hay went up, and brought from $16 50 @18, instead of from $16@17 50 as formerly. Very little hay is being offered, and only 7 loads were brought to the market yesterday.

All vegetables and fruits are firm in price and scarce in quantity.

A shipment of live hogs was expected, but up to 10 o'clock was not received. They are expected to sell for $18 per cwt.

GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Opening: Corn—October, $1 18; December, $1 19.

Oats—October, 68c; December, 67½c.

Winnipeg, Oct. 9.—Oats opened ⅝c to ⅝c lower for October and ⅝c to ⅞c lower for December.

Flax opened 2c lower for November and 1c lower for December.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Sharp breaks in the price of corn took place today, owing to the fresh selling due to the peace outlook. Liquidation by holders continued and shorts became decidedly aggressive. The market showed but little power to rally. Opening quotations, which ranged from 1½c decline to ¼c advance, were followed by rapid declines all around.

Oats lacked support. Stop-loss selling by holders was more pronounced eve nthan in corn. After opening ⅜c off to ⅛c advance, the market began an almost vertical descent.

WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 9—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Recessions extending from large fractions to a point by such leaders as U. S. Steel, Reading and Marine preferred, were the only conspicuous exceptions to the general firmness of stocks in the first half hour of today's trading. Variable strength was displayed by oils, utilities, especially the telephone and telegraph issues, and Bethlehem and Crucible Steels. Latest war developments induced moderate covering of short contracts, but dealings were comparatively light.

THANKSGIVING CARDS AND BOOKLETS
HAY'S STATIONERY

At the Patricia Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Also a two-reel big V Comedy, "Roofs and Riots," and an excellent vaudeville act by Wright and Aldine, aerial artists.

"The Unbeliever," at the Patricia Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The Unbeliever," one of the most wonderful patriotic films ever produced, will be shown at the Patricia Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It is based on Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews' novelette, "The Three Things," and was produced by the Thomas A. Edison Company in conjunction with the United States Marine Corps, and is being presented by George Kleine.

There are many vital lessons presented in this picture. To tell the story briefly is next to impossible. It reveals not the worst side of war altogether, but rather the great leavening process which develops the best in human character.

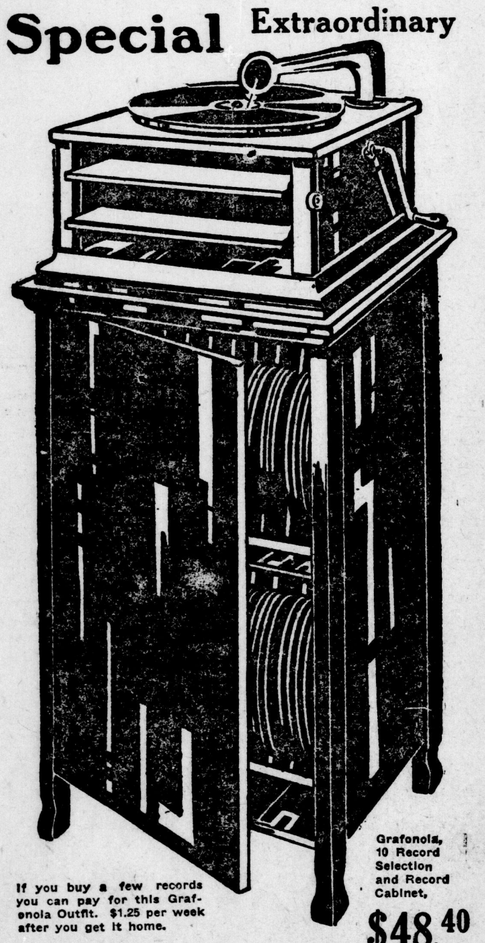

Philip Landicutt, the hero, is a petted son of wealthy parents, and descendant of men who had defended bravely their country. When the war came his associates were rejoicing that it would not affect "their set," nor disturb them in their purposeless pursuits. But the sight of the marines drilling inflamed every drop of patriotic blood in the lad's veins, the spirit of his ancestors asserted itself, and he became a member of the Marine Corps. The gruelling duties of the men at the front, crawling out over "No Man's Land" and planting a mine, trench work and a charge "over the top," wipes out all past snobishness and class prejudice, implanting a belief in God and the brotherhood of man.

HUNDRED COUPLES AT WEEKLY KHAKI DANCE

Under the auspices of the Overseas Chapter, I. O. D. E., the weekly khaki dance was held in the Masonic Temple on Tuesday evening. About a hundred young couples spent an enjoyable evening. An orchestra, selected from the Canadian Garrison Band, furnished the music.

These dances were held every week last winter, and it is intended to hold them every Tuesday evening the coming winter, as the dances are growing more popular every week. Besides providing a pleasant evening for the soldiers in camp, a great deal of patriotic work is done through receipts. The entire proceeds are donated every week to patriotic work of various descriptions. Mrs. A. H. Clinger and Miss Blanche Pigot are the conveners for the dances. The hall was prettily decorated with the flags of the Allies and myriads of little colored lights.

GET TOGETHER TO FIGHT THE BIG PROBLEMS

Board of Trade Expansionists Hear Brilliant Addresses.

CANADA'S BIG CHANCE

Hon. Hugh Guthrie Declares Nation Faces Greatest Opportunity.

The "get-together" board of trade campaign got together some two hundred leading citizens at the Tecumseh House last night, and they were treated to some of the best get-together talks ever delivered here. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Canada's solicitor-general, and Allen D. Albert, Chicago, were the principal speakers. Both were brilliant addresses, and both speeches bristled with lessons on the value of co-operation. Mr. Guthrie's remarks dealt with this in a broad world-wide phase. It was really a tale of the Allies' great war effort boiled down. It could easily be termed a brilliant word picture of the greatest co-operation and get-together movement the world has ever seen.

Some Gentle Jabs.

Mr. Albert came closer home. He attacked the matter from the civic, the municipal phase. His speech was interspersed with gentle jabs which he evidently believed would make some of his hearers squirm in their seats. They were delivered generally in the form of witticisms, but this made them none the less effective. The speaker is a student of municipal ills. His advice on how to avoid them was timely.

The gathering was a representative one. Mr. Guthrie's remarks, as were those of Mr. Albert, were applauded to the echo. Russell Kelly, president of the Hamilton Board of Trade, was a visitor, and along with J. C. R. Foster, the campaign manager of the board of trade awakening, or as Mr. Albert suggested, its passing, were the other speakers. F. E. Leonard, president of the board, presided, and Dr. E. E. Braithwaite acted as toastmaster. Before the opening of the main speeches George S. Gibbons made a sterling appeal for everyone present to get out behind the Victory Loan drive. "Show the kaiser that the civic population is behind the boys at the front to the last," he declared.

Best Brains Needed.

Mr. Guthrie opened his remarks with reference to after-the-war problems, declaring that Canada must organize and utilize the best brains of the Dominion to handle the problems that will arise when hostilities cease. He then launched into a brief review of Canada's war effort to date, stating that the enlistments to date were approximately 600,660, out of a population of eight millions. Canada's force, he declared, has always been kept up to the full quota on the firing line, and he said that he had been told that Canada is the only one of the Allies with units on the firing line up to their full strength.

Mr. Guthrie touched briefly on the industrial life of the Dominion during the war, declaring the outstanding feature had been the Dominion's achievement in the matter of finance. He passed over lightly the fears of some that Canada will not be able to handle her heavy interest charges, declaring that not only would the Dominion be able to do this, but that at the end of the present year a good slice would be cut off the principal by the ever-growing revenue of the country. He was sure that Canada would pay ten or a hundred fold what she is paying today if it was necessary to hold the cause for which her sons were fighting.

Develop Resources.

Mr. Guthrie touched on what he termed a radical change that the Dominion has undergone in its railway developments. The Government ownership of the C. N. R. was what he referred to. He explained with much detail the reason why the rates on railways had been advanced. It seemed that his remarks on this were but a prelude to what was to follow, his views on what Canada should do to provide employment for soldiers after discharge, and men in munition plants. His idea in a word was that the Government should subsidize or undertake the development of Canada's natural resources. He mentioned specifically the mineral wealth of the Dominion. He declared that after the war there would be a great demand for raw material. This would be Canada's opportunity.

Mr. Guthrie approached the end with a few kind words about the Union Government and its ability to court unpopularity. He said it could not be accused of courting popularity, and concluded with a glowing and eloquent tribute to the Allies' great effort in the war and the greatest of these—the Motherland. His remarks here as well as his statements on the German peace offer, which might be embodied in the sentence, that "Prussianism must go before peace can come," were applauded to the echo. "We should be prouder of her than we ever were before," he declared of the two little isles, in the Atlantic, and his hearers rose to their feet and cheered as he sat down.

Canadians in future will be known as "North Americans" if Allen Albert has his way. He referred to Mr. Guthrie's remark that one had to go to the United States to get a true appreciation of what Canada's army has done. Mr. Albert accepted this as a challenge, and declared that the people of the United States are the Americans south of the border. His tribute to the Canadians was that if the Americans keep on they will soon make the Germans fear them as they do the Canadians. This statement he declared to be a definite fact.

U. S. in War to End.

Mr. Albert lost no time in answering Mr. Guthrie's picture of what may happen after the war. He declared that he looked on the making of peace with a confidence that he found hard to express. He did declare that no peace would be wrought or endured a moment before "we (he meant the U. S.), have made good our pledge to the men who died before we entered the war."

Mr. Albert paid a tribute to the great Allied leaders in a rather novel way. Call it an economic or a spiritual determinism of plain religion, he said, but the affairs of the child upon earth are in God's omnipotent hands as he chooses his leaders as he needs them. He gave the Allies Wilson, Joffre, Foch, Haig and Lloyd George.

Getting around to his subject, Mr. Albert said the board of trade movement was peculiarly Canadian, and had no counterpart in any other country.

"It is usually made up of great dignity," he said; "rare quality of appreciating good speech, some activity and tons and tons of conservatism—men of the only human groups who expect to run the street cars by putting the breaks on."

Likes Canadians.

After this opinion had been launched upon the ears of his hearers the speaker informed them that he had known boards of trade in Canada rather favorably. They were the most charming of all audiences, but lacked "pep."

He did not think that after the war it would be difficult to get jobs for workmen. He believed that it would be difficult to get workmen for jobs. He did not believe that it would be difficult to get markets for products. He believed that it would be difficult to get products for the markets.

The outlook of London for the future he said was bright. He mentioned taxes and advised them that if they wanted to live in any other city in the world and pay lower taxes than they do here, they should stay at home.

One Bad Policy.

Mr. Albert gave a sermon on the bad policy of buying factories for a city by thinking factories. His idea of a city is one where workmen are contented to live and to make a city progress. The city must be made right for the home life. He touched first on the schools and spoke of the wonderful advertisement Canada has secured through the Ryerson School. He pictured the horrors of the taxpayer when the Technical School was built, and the fireproof Boyle Memorial School. However, he was pleased to see that in London the characteristic existed that so long as the money was kept in fireproof vaults, fireproof schools were none too good for the children.

Music and health movements were next touched upon and lastly religion, sometimes known as an environment favorable to the expression of the best self of the human. He was loudly cheered and applauded as he sat down.

MORE COPS WANTED, AND MUST BE LIVE ONES

There are vacancies on the police force for four or five stalwart men, according to the statement of Chief W. T. T. Williams. He finds it hard to get the men who are suitable for the job. Someone suggested that silent policemen could be used at some of the street intersections for the direction of traffic. "We have too many silent policemen now," replied the head of the force with a twinkle in his eyes. "We do not want any more of this sort, but we want the men who are alive all the time."

Seriously speaking Chief Williams thinks that the "silent policeman" may be all right in some places, but it is not suitable for a city the size of London.

Appearing at the Majestic today and Thursday in one of the most thrilling plays of the great war, "Vive la France."

The story was written by H. H. Van Loan and C. Gardner Sullivan did the scenario. R. William Neill directed with the assistance of Bert Seivel, while John Stumar, assisted by George Barnes, is responsible for the camera work. It is Barnes who went aloft in an aeroplane to get scenes of an aerial conflict, obtaining results said to be startling in the extreme. Supporting Miss Dalton as leading man is Edmund Lowe. He is a newcomer to the Ince forces, but it is said that his acting is distinctly superior in quality and that he is certain to find favor with the film-going public. Frederick Starr and Bert Woodruff are also in the cast, which apparently is of uniform excellence. The production is said to have been staged with a lavish hand. In vaudeville, John Fiddis, the silver-voiced tenor, will render a number of popular songs.

METHODISTS WILL HOLD VICTORY THANKSGIVING

The Methodist Ministerial Association met in Wesley Hall, Monday morning, and concluded plans for a great "Victory" thanksgiving service in Dundas Centre Methodist Church next Monday (Thanksgiving Day), at 11 a.m. Rev. F. L. Barber, Ph.D., will give the address, and the musical program will be in charge of Mr. Parnell Morris of Dundas Centre choir. In view of the present German peace overtures it is felt that this ought to be one of the greatest church gatherings of the kind ever held in London. Every last Methodist family of London and surrounding district is asked to plan now to be present next Monday.

The association was also addressed by Miss Blanche Friend, London's public health nurse, who gave the ministers present a very clear insight into the nature of her duties, and showed them how they might help her in the discharge of the same. On motion of Messrs. Morris and McKinley, a hearty vote of appreciation was extended to Miss Friend for her splendidly informing address. Vice-President H. T. Fergusson presided.

The popular screen comedian appearing at the Majestic Theatre today in one of his funniest plays, "Bees in His Bonnet," a comedy guaranteed to make a mummy laugh.

Sweet Lila Lee, the new Paramount star, one of the youngest and most talented actresses in the silent drama, known for years in vaudeville as "Cuddles," will be seen in her first photoplay, "The Cruise of the Make-Believes," at the Majestic Theatre on Friday and Saturday this week.
