KINGS COUNTY COUNCIL

Holds Special Meeting and Approves Auditor's Formal Report

The report of Price, Waterhouse and Company, Chartered Accountants, Montreal, on the auditing of the books of the Municipality of Kings County was received at a special meeting of the Municipal Council on Thursday last.

On opening the Council the Warden said he had just received word of the death of Councillor Gaul at 3.30 Thursday morning. The Warden paid a warm tribute to Mr. Gaul: "he was the 'Father' of the Council; a man of excellent judgment, deeply interested in the affairs of the Council." Councillor Bill also spoke of the severe loss the County had suffered in the death of Councillor Gaul. Tributes were paid to the late Dr. P. N. Balcom, of Aylesford, who for many years was Medical Officer of the Municipality. Letters of condolence, expressing the sympathy of the Council, will be sent by the Clerk to the families of Dr. Balcom and Councillor Gaul.

The report of the auditors covers the four years from January 1st, 1920, to December 31st, 1923. At the time of the commencement of the investigation upon the financial affairs of the Municipality in February of this year, the late Clerk and Treasurer, P. L. Dodge, was absent from his duties on account of illness and there was no other officer of the Municipality to whom they could refer.

The financial records of the Municipality were found to consist solely of one cash book (in addition to incidental records, such as bank pass books, cheque stubs, etc.) but this cash book had only been entered up in respect of one of the five bank accounts, no entries whatever appearing for the bank accounts maintained for the Provincial Highway Taxes, the County Home, the North Mountain Railway Damages Fund, or the Patriotic Fund. No attempt had, it appeared, been made to reconcile the cash books with the general bank account, the transactions of which it purported to record.

The general disorder in which were found the vouchers, receipts, invoices, accounts, minutes and other original records and documents of the Municipality indicated a considerable degree of negligence. Such vouchers and receipts as were available for inspection were in great confusion, and it was apparent that no systematic approval of expenditure had been obtained by the Clerk from the Finance Committee or Council; and so far as could be observed, no systematic verification of the accounts themselves had been made by the Clerk prior to their payment, and this was especially noticeable of payments to hospitals and institutions.

The complete lack of subsidiary records threw upon the auditors the labor of ascertaining from outside sources the existing obligations of the Municipality. This was done by advertisement in the public press and by correspondence with the corporations, institutions and larger business houses with which the County appeared to have had dealings. Although every means available was taken to ascertain the outstanding liabilities, as at December 31, 1923, there is no certainty that all liabilities are included in the balance sheet prepared as at that date.

Exhibit 14 contains the particulars of all insurance policies which the auditors have been able to locate covering the County's buildings. From this list it appears that the insurance carried on the buildings and contents is considerably below the replacement values.

The amount of $9,568.17, shown as receivable as at December 31, 1923, represents the total amount of overpayments to the Government on account of Highway Taxes from 1920 to 1923 inclusive.

The overpayments appear to have been the result of incorrect returns made by the late Clerk to the Provincial Government—the returns of taxes payable on Highway Account gross in all cases in excess of actual gross amount of the Tax Roll. An Act was passed at the 1924 session permitting the County to deduct $3,189.39 from the Highway Tax normally payable for each of the years 1925, 1926, and 1927, the aggregate of these amounting to $9,568.17.

The Auditors suggest that the Highway Tax should be levied and collected at the normal rates, but in the presentment (Estimate) the difference between the amount to be collected, and the amount to be paid over to the Government, ($3,189.39), should be added to incidental revenue for the year, thus decreasing the County Rate proportionately.

The towns which were party to Joint Service Expenditure appeared to have contributed less than the proportionate amounts agreed upon from time to time during the four years covered. This situation was the result of the omission by the late Clerk to bill the Towns with the difference between the estimated requirements and the actual expenditures each year, it being the case that the expenditures were in every instance in excess of the estimates.

The totals receivable for Kentville being $2,454.76—Wolfville, $2,078.48. No amount is charged into Joint Service Account for rent of the Court House. A bill from outstanding that the maintenance of these buildings is a Joint Service item, and that they appear to be owned solely by the Municipality. Nor is any charge made for the cost of administration, except a proportionate amount for Office Expense, which is estimated as 4-10 of the total of all administration.

Considerable space is devoted to the Auditor's Accounts. The Auditor is calling in all the accounts of either the Clerk or the Treasurer. The Auditor is calling in all the accounts of either the Clerk or the Treasurer.

CRICKET CLUB REORGANIZED

During the past year or eighteen months nearly every adult cricketer in Wolfville, or the neighborhood, has removed elsewhere. The death of Mr. John F. Herbin also removed an outstanding figure. This has necessitated the reorganization of the Wolfville Cricket Club, which was effected last week. It will mainly consist of the younger generation. Rev. Mr. Dixon presided at the meeting and the following officers were appointed: President, Rev. R. F. Dixon; Manager, A. C. Cox; Captain, Nelson Grant. The Club by permission of Rev. Dr. Patterson will play on the new ground for the present. A subscription started last week has been well received and enough has already been promised to purchase two new balls and two bats. A match with the Windsor Junior team is hoped will be shortly arranged. All lovers of the game of whatever age are cordially invited to come down to the Campus for practice which will be given by Mr. Cox or the captain, Nelson Grant.

WOLFVILLE DEFEATS WINDSOR

In Valley League Game—Score 16 to 0

The Wolfville baseball team journeyed to Windsor last Thursday and played their first league fixture with the team in that town. The final score was 16 to 0 in Wolfville's favor. The following account of the game is taken from the "Hants Journal": "The visitors started out in the first inning, and on two singles, one double, a walk, and two errors, scored six runs. It was plainly seen that the locals were off in their hitting from the very start of the game, for in the first inning with two out, Fogarty reached first on an error, Clark advanced him to third with the first clean hit of the game, but Singer, usually a reliable hitter, flied out to Dick. It looked as if a real ball game was in progress in the Wolfville half of the second. Harry Smith playing left-handed, picked up Barteaux's hard grounder and pegged from a difficult angle to Fogarty on first. Every one seemed to tighten up, and Munro was disposed of, Baker to first, while Smith caught Robertson for the last out. With such a fine brand of ball in the second, the spectators looked for a score for Windsor, but Baker and Anthony struck out, while Eagles took care of Kuhn's grounder. Wolfville scored some more in the third, scoring three runs on three hits, three errors and a stolen base. Ellis opened Windsor's half of the third with a safe out, but was caught napping off the first sack. Robertson followed with another safe one, and Hughes reached first on an error, while Robertson took third; Hughes ran for second on the first ball pitched to Fogarty, and when Phinney started his peg to second Robertson set sail for home, but Barteaux saw the local catcher getting under way and intercepted Phinney's throw and got the baseman at home by a foot. The best play of the game was pulled off in the third inning. Kenney singled, stole second and advanced to third on Phinney's bunt; Hughes faked a throw to second to get Phinney, but whipped the ball to Singer, who had Kenney six feet off the base, and with the help of Smith and Robertson they ran him down. This showed real headwork on the part of Hughes."

ASHES OF VENGEANCE A MAGNIFICENT PRODUCTION

Here is a picture that can't be overrated. It has everything—and of everything in rich abundance. Joseph M. Schenck took cognizance of the trend to historical romance, knew he had the biggest star on the screen, and determined to present her in the greatest picture of the year. And with him, determination is performance. This, in a nutshell, is why "Ashes of Vengeance" is the peerless picture of 1923. And don't think that drama was sacrificed to overshadowing opulence—through magnificent runs riot in manly settings and gorgeous costumes; some more massive and more magnificent than anything the screen has ever reflected, the Norma Talmadge who is dear to the hearts of hundreds of millions is ever the central figure in a love story the like of which even she, in her thirtieth year, has never before had chance to interpret; the story of an adamant aristocrat whose purple pride, passionate hatred and desire for vengeance bowed one by one to the exaltation of an all-consuming love. And this love shoots like a sunbeam through the shadows of a calamitous epoch; stands out in the midst of a virile rush of action, of herculean battles between hate-maddened swordsmen—the vivid re-creation of days darkened by the ruthless ambition of Catherine de Medici. At the Orpheum, Monday and Tuesday.

TORONTO UNIVERSITY EIGHT TO REPRESENT CANADA

St. Catherines, Ont., June 15.—Never headed and rowing well within themselves after the first half mile, Toronto University crew won the right to represent Canada in the eight-oared contest at the Olympiad in France next month by taking first place in the Canadian Olympic elimination contest held on the Canadian Henley course last Saturday afternoon.

Wolfville was visited by a cloud-burst yesterday afternoon and for some time rain fell in torrents, during which a slight electrical storm prevailed. It was a veritable deluge which caused anyone in the open to seek cover.

TOWN BASEBALL LEAGUE

Holds Annual Meeting and Draws Up Schedule

The annual meeting of the Town Baseball League was held on Tuesday evening at the Town Hall, with the president, H. P. Davidson, in the chair. It was decided to sub-divide the town into slightly different districts this season, and the three teams competing will be the East End, Centre and West End. The trophy, which was donated by the publishers of The Acadian, was won last year by the West End, and this season one of the other teams will no doubt do their best to win it. The team which first wins the cup three seasons will hold it permanently. The series will not begin this year until the first of July, the following being the schedule decided upon:

- July 4—East vs. West
- July 11—East vs. Centre
- July 15—East vs. West
- July 18—West vs. Centre
- July 22—East vs. Centre
- July 25—East vs. West
- July 29—West vs. Centre
- August 1—East vs. Centre
- August 5—West vs. Centre
- August 8—West vs. Centre
- August 12—East vs. Centre

As will be noted by the schedule the games will be played on Tuesday and Friday of each week, and as last year, will be played in the evenings, beginning at seven o'clock. It is hoped that more interest will be taken in the games this year than was manifested last season.

At the meeting on Tuesday evening the following officers were re-elected: President—M. P. Davidson; Vice-President—Dr. J. A. M. Hemmison; Sec.-Treas.—P. W. Davidson

LAWRENCE GAUL

The death occurred at the Infirmary, Halifax, Thursday morning, of County Councillor Lawrence Gaul, of East Dalhousie. Although in his eightieth year, Mr. Gaul was active and vigorous, and until a few months ago had never known what it was to be ill. But recently his health failed, and he went to the Infirmary for an operation, which was successfully performed two weeks ago, and he seemed to be improving, but took a turn for the worse on Wednesday, from which he did not rally.

Few men held a higher place in the esteem of the people of King's County than Lawrence Gaul. He was a man of sterling qualities, and was deeply interested in all that made for the best welfare of his native county. For upwards of thirty years he served continuously as a member of the County Council, where he was regarded as a man of sound judgment. He was also one of the promoters of the Western King's Memorial Hospital, and was a member of its Board of Directors.

Mr. Gaul was a native of Dalhousie, where for many years he conducted a general store. He had also carried on extensive lumbering operations, and only a few years ago sold out his interests to the Berwick Co-operative Company. By his industry, honesty and exceptional business ability he had prospered and was a well-to-do, but was always generous in the use of what he possessed. Mrs. Gaul predeceased him by three years. He is survived by two sons, Constantine and Douglas, of Dalhousie; and two daughters, Mrs. Clara Kirkpatrick, of Dalhousie, and Mrs. W. D. Muir, of Wolfville. The funeral will be held at his home, Dalhousie, on Saturday afternoon.

SHIRLEY MASON AND CHARLES JONES DEFY DEATH IN EXCITING STUNT

That there is a special Providence protecting the daring motion picture player is demonstrated again in "The Elvenhour". Bernard Durning's production of Lincoln J. Carter's exciting melodrama, in which Shirley Mason and Charles Jones co-star. This sensational William Fox feature, which comes to the Orpheum theatre for two days commencing Friday, is studded with hair-raising thrills that unfold in breathless succession.

In one of the daring scenes, Charles Jones swings head foremost from a ladder suspended from a flying hydroplane and catches Shirley Mason up in his arms from a motor-boat as he speeds by her. Not satisfied with this stunt, you get a semi-closet-up of Shirley and Jones climbing the swaying ladder until they reach the safety—if such it can be called—of the plane. This scene was not rehearsed. It was too hazardous. Some ten odd cameramen were in position to shoot the action and what they got is one of the most thrilling stunts ever enacted on the silver sheet.

If the modern girl must reveal some charm to win a husband, let her reveal some ability as a cook.

DEATH OF PROMINENT CITIZEN

Sir Charles Townshend Pass'd Away Suddenly on Monday Morning

The community was shocked by the unexpected news of the death of Sir Charles Townshend, which occurred at 6 o'clock on Monday morning at "Rosedale", his summer home here. While his health had not been so good as usual during the preceding few days there was no indication of his condition or that his end was so near until Sunday when he took a turn for the worse and passed away as stated above.

Since coming to Wolfville to reside in 1904 when he purchased the fine estate of the late John W. Boreas, Sir Charles has been a familiar figure in our community life, and his passing is deeply regretted.

He is survived by his wife and five children, George, who arrived home last week from British Columbia; Miss Mary Townshend, at home; Mrs. J. D. Sherwood, of this town; all children of his first marriage; and two sons by his second marriage, Stewart, an engineer, and Wray, who is practicing law at Windsor.

In the passing of former Chief Justice Sir Charles Townshend, Nova Scotia mourns the loss of one of her native sons who had filled the land of his birth and whose faith was justifiable in that he attained, by his sterling ability, the highest professional honors the province could bestow. Born in Nova Scotia, educated in Nova Scotia, he spent his entire life in the Province of his birth. Sir Charles was born at Amherst eighty years ago. He was a son of the late Rev. Canon Townshend, rector for sixty years of Christ church, Amherst, in which edifice today will be found several memorial tributes to the service of the Townshend family. His mother was Elizabeth Stewart, daughter of Alexander Stewart, Master of the Rolls in Nova Scotia, an illustrious grandfather of one who was to prove an illustrious grandson.

S. S. DISTRICT HELD YEAR'S CONVENTION

Central District of Kings County Met at Kentville—Officers Elected

The Central District of Kings County Sunday Schools of the M. R. E. C. held the annual convention on Thursday in the United Church, Kentville. President, W. E. Porter, was in the chair. After devotional services, conducted by Rev. B. J. Porter, a summary of the work and conditions was given by the President, Mrs. J. R. Webster, Secretary-Treasurer, gave a report of the finances. The schools are paying their allotment, and the full allotment of the district will be paid.

A roll call of schools and reports was responded to by most of the schools, showing that much interest was taken. There are sixteen schools in the district, of which eight are evergreen; four other districts should have schools; local workers are needed.

An inspiring and helpful address on "Missions", by Rev. G. W. Schurman, of Blitworth, was discussed at considerable length. A Round Table conducted by the Field Secretary, Rev. W. C. Machum, was of a most helpful nature. At the evening session, an address was given by Mr. Machum, on "Essentials in Religious Education". The supreme opportunity of the Church is her childhood and youth. The privilege of Sunday school leaders is to unite with God for the religious training of the young. For this great work there are certain spiritual and intellectual requirements, and the introduction of the best in methods is necessary to efficiency. Mr. Machum has also held conventions during the week at Aylesford, Berwick and Canning.

Officers were elected as follows: Aylesford: President, Mrs. A. J. Banks; Secy-Treas: Miss Jean Bishop; Berwick: Pres: Walter Ward; Secy-Treas: Mrs. Ivor Best.

Canning: Pres, Miss Gertrude Eaton; Secy-Treas: Miss Lois Porter, Percu; Kentville: Pres, Thomas Weaver; Secy-Treas, Miss Alice Porter.

The executive of the Kings County Religious Education Council met at Kentville on Thursday afternoon. Reports were received and new officers elected as follows: President: W. E. Porter, Kentville; Vice-Pres: Prof. A. Sutherland, Wolfville; Secy-Treas: Mrs. J. R. Webster, Kentville.

ABOUT BOOKS

(By The Acadian Bookman.)

James Gould Cozzen, whose mother, nee Bertha Wood, was formerly a student at Acadia Ladies' Seminary, and whose first cousin, Mary Read, graduated from Acadia University in 1923, has achieved the remarkable distinction of having completed his first novel, "Confusion" (B. J. Brimmer Co., Boston), before he was twenty years of age and of having had it published while he was still twenty and a Sophomore at Harvard University. No less striking than the early production of the book is the knowledge of the world and of books suggested by its pages. This rich store of material, permeated by ideas somewhat in the manner of H. G. Wells, is organized for the purposes of fiction with a success that speaks the narrative artist. Rapid, concentrated presentation of emotional situation frequently reminds one of Thackeray.

The central character, Cerise D'Atree, daughter of a French father and an English mother, after very careful training in childhood, is sent, because of the Great War, to a girls' school in New England. Confronted with the facts of a world in confusion, she ponders deeply on the meaning of life, and has not yet reached a definite conclusion at the time of her tragic death. Readers of this novel will look forward to what Mr. Cozzen may have to say in later fiction as to the meaning of life.

An interesting illustration of the vitality of picturesque fiction is "The London Adventures of Mr. Collin", originally written in Swedish, by Frank Heller (handled in Canada by McClelland and Stewart). The variety of action, the frequent surprises without sacrifice of plausibility, the delightful humor, and the entertaining style make this book superior to a large proportion of the literature of roguery. Readers are advised not to use it in an attempt to induce slumber.

One can't help wondering what Babe Ruth's thoughts are as he receives his salary check.

Editorial

Our pulpits are our work clothes. Each of us live some kind of a sermon every day.

GET READY TO ENTERTAIN TOURISTS

Isn't it rather quiet in Wolfville after the schools are closed? is a question often asked by those whose stay here is confined to the college year. The answer would have to be in the affirmative were it not for the hosts of summer visitors who select that season because of our delightful climate and surroundings and the interesting historical setting which has made this region famous all over the continent at least. Those with the numbers who attend the various conferences and summer schools make life anything but prosaic. In fact in the days before the war when the tourist travel was at its best Wolfville enjoyed a far greater activity in the summer than during the winter season.

The present indications justify the expectation that during the summer which has now begun Wolfville and the sections surrounding will experience a return of old time conditions and that the number of our summer visitors will equal if not exceed that of any previous season. In order to reap the best possible results from such an invasion preparations should now be in progress to give those visitors a cordial welcome and so far as is in our power to make their stay among us such as to cause them to wish to come again. Whatever we do as a community or as individuals to manifest our hospitality and interest in their welfare will be undoubtedly appreciated and productive of a spirit of friendliness that will be mutually beneficial.

LET'S QUIT ALIBI-ING

The "panicky" business man is ever with us—a slight depression and he immediately climbs to the house top and shouts that the country is going to the eternal bow-wows. He is not content to meet the situation courageously by adopting such policies that conform with trade conditions, but instead moans to his fellow tradesmen the "seriousness" of what he interprets as calamity. He surrounds himself with an atmosphere of doubt and anxiety; he becomes a destroyer of business morale, destructive to the end of his unfounded conclusions.

Business today not only calls for men with faith in the future of our Valley, but a faith in the industry they collectively represent—men who not only have a true vision of the future but the will and courage to grapple intelligently with the problems that arise from the "ups and downs" of trade and commerce which, as cycles, come and go like summer and winter, and to meet these problems with no loss of warranted optimism.

Let's not talk about "poor business", let's plead for "better business". When the monthly sales report shows a lower level, turn on more steam, mix more aggressiveness with your initiative. Spend more time "trying" than "alibi-ing" and you will be a bigger asset to your business, to your community and to yourself.

BUY IN THE MARITIME PROVINCES

In a recent issue THE ACADIAN referred to the advantages likely to accrue to the people of these provinces from a more systematic effort to provide near at home the commodities which make up their living. The endeavor was made to show that the saving effected in the matter of transportation if turned over to the producer at home would enable him to make a good profit while supplying his products at prices considerably lower than are of necessity charged for similar articles when imported. There is at present a campaign on in some sections of the Maritime Provinces in favor of a buy-at-home policy, which ought to be encouraged.

It may be of interest to those who are concerned in this movement to learn that in the province of British Columbia a "Buy B. C. products" week has become a regular feature and is duly observed. The event was celebrated last week, when in all the business places goods produced and manufactured in that province were featured. The Vancouver Board of Trade has a B. C. Products Bureau in connection with which a luncheon was held at which manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers were represented and the chief speaker was a man from Seattle, where a campaign similar in many respects is being carried on.

THE THEATRE TAX

Proprietors of picture houses throughout the Maritime Provinces are asking that the tax imposed by the government upon their operations be lessened or removed. They say that business is falling off as a consequence of the extra demands made upon their patrons by this tax. In Nova Scotia, at least, the provincial exchequer has during and since the war drawn heavily from the pockets of the people through this channel. Just now the public are finding taxation rather burdensome and often in excess of what they regard as necessary. This levy on theatres, which at its inception was camouflaged as "war tax", was from the first a misnomer. During the war the patriotism of the people actuated them to willingly respond to the demand made upon them, a demand which in view of reported surpluses they now very naturally consider unnecessary and unjust. In consequence less people are attending the theatres. This invention of the amusement tax was a happy thought on the part of those in charge of the public revenues, but if persisted in to the present degree is very likely eventually to become a case of "killing the goose which has laid the golden egg".

KEEP THE HIGHWAYS CLEAR

Our highways should be kept free of noxious signs of various kinds and characters.

It is an obvious fact that highways should be clearly and adequately marked, especially those used for motor traffic.

But it is also apparent that the highways should not be cluttered up with various markings and signs that tend to confusion and hazards of the traveling public.

For example, some unscrupulous vendor puts up a monstrous sign "Stop" in large letters and an advertisement in smaller ones. Such road signs are nuisances.

To make travel safe and easy the roads should be absolutely free of all but directions and explanations which the authorities find necessary.

All advertising signs should be back sixty feet from the highway lines. Such action would allow the motorist to drive along with intelligence and security.

A friend is a person who tells you of your mistakes if they are worth noticing and keeps still if they are not.

Through the praiseworthy co-operation of the local Boy Scouts and the Municipal Council the town of Chester, our rival tourist resort of the South Shore, had a genuine clean up day on Saturday last. All the accumulated refuse was gathered up and conveyed to the town dump free of charge, after which the dump was leveled and covered with earth. We have exceptional facilities for work along this line in Wolfville which should be encouraged to do service overtime. Our dump has a capacious appetite, the satisfying of which will eventually provide a valuable town asset. Anyone familiar with what has already been done at the "bridge" along the line indicated cannot fail to realize the possibilities.

Directors of the Woolworth five-and-ten-cent stores now value the company's "good will" at 20 million dollars. "Good will" is an invisible asset. It is, to a business, what reputation is to the individual. A business may lose its last dollar—everything tangible that it owns. But, as long as it retains its reputation for fair dealing and merit, there is still a lot to salvage. So with people, reputation is the best form of wealth. Good will is the direct heir of good service.

Hold Annual Convention at Truro
—Large Attendance

The eleventh annual convention of Nova Scotia Women's Institutes was held at Truro last week. About eighty delegates were registered representing a membership of some 3,000 women. The sessions, which were held in the Science Building at the Agricultural College, opened Wednesday morning and were presided over by Miss Helen McDougall, Superintendent of Women's Institutes, who gave a very encouraging report.

Brief reports were received from individual Institutes all over the Province. These indicate an astonishing variety of activities, all coming well within the meaning of the Institute motto: "For Home and Country". While hospitals and various charitable institutions have enjoyed many favors from the organization, the public school, especially in villages and country districts, apparently holds a premier place in its attention.

Following are excerpts from the Superintendent's report:

We have now 90 Institutes in our Province, an increase of 10 since our last Convention.

Our little periodical "Home and Country W. I. N. S." is proving most successful. Up to the present we have 758 subscribers. It is the only purely Institute paper published in Canada. The Home Economics work carried on by the department has been successful; twenty-four (24) short courses in this subject have been held since last Convention. Miss Miller has had this work in charge and has also made 41 visits to Institutes, and in conjunction with your Superintendent spent three weeks touring the Province last summer, doing special extension work in Home Economics.

Your Superintendent has made 41 visits to Institutes, addressed 10 public meetings, and given five lectures in Home Economics to the Rural Science students.

The literature on Nutrition, Labor Saving and Pre-natal Care, published last year, has been distributed widely. As you are aware, the Federal appropriation out of which our Women's Institute work was financed was withdrawn in March of this year. The province has granted sufficient funds to carry on the work until October of this year, but we have no assurance as to what support we may have in the future.

During the past year Institutes have been reporting more promptly and fully than previously, which has helped considerably in carrying on the work. However, in order to get a summary of the work, a questionnaire was sent out. 61 Institutes replied. Replies to the questionnaire show the following: 58 Institutes have appointed Home and School Committees; 48 Public Health Committees; 43 Home Economics Committees; 15 Legislation Committees.

19 Institutes only corresponded with the Conveners during the year. 35 of the Institutes make their committees responsible for special programs in the Institutes.

School lunches and school exhibitions are supported to a lesser degree than last year.

21 Institutes are carrying on some work for the girls in their community. 22 Institutes only have studied Parliamentary Procedure.

The work undertaken by the various Institutes differs considerably, school work, Public Health and Home Economics being of special work. Community work and charitable work are also of great interest. During the year a large number of Institutes have given valuable financial assistance for a number of different purposes. Mention may be made specially of the Infants' Home, the School for the Blind, the Children's Aid, the Maritime Home for Girls, the proposed Inter-provincial Home for Women in Moncton, as well as other charities. Contributions in many instances have been most generous. While charitable causes are all worthy of sympathy and assistance, there is grave danger that the Institute members and the public generally may lose sight of the fact that the Institute is an educational and not a money raising organization.

When an Institute pledges itself to raise a large sum of money for sending out of the community, there is a great possibility that this will so exhaust the energies of the members that proper Institute work, namely educational work, is neglected.

The work is showing definite progress, and we have much to encourage us. All Institutes have times of discouragement and disappointment, and the courage and enthusiasm with which an Institute overcomes difficulties shows the fibre of which its members are made. An Institute is what its members make it and it is the whole-hearted interest and service of each member that spells success and that makes us worthy of our initials W. I. N. S.

were presented by Miss C. Thomas, for the Committee on Agriculture; and by Mrs. W. W. Baird, for that on Home Economics. Miss Thomas referred to the weakness of the agricultural industry, in its lack of system for selling products. She referred to the exodus of young men, and said that the girls should be encouraged to take up more generally the out-of-door work on the farm. In connection with the publicity campaign for tourists, she thought something could be done in the way of arranging for refreshments booths, at advantageous points on the highways, making a specialty of fruits and other Nova Scotia products.

Reporting on Home Economics, Mrs. Baird, of Nappan, described the field work being done and the various special lines of interest taken up by individual Institutes. Oleomargarine had received a good share of attention, Menus in the home and instruction in cooking, sewing, etc., in school were among the matters of interest. Mrs. Baird, in outlining one of the main lines of activity in this department for the future, stated that there is great need

THE INVERTED PYRAMID

BY
Bertrand W. Sinclair
Author of "North of Fifty-three"

"The first fifty years of holding Hawk's Nest was altogether a pretty lively affair. But they kept right on the job. In '59 gold was found in the Cariboo and people rushed into B. C. by thousands. The Hudson's Bay monopoly was broken. B. C. became a Crown colony. We got title to our land. Grandfather began to operate in timber. Confederation with the Dominion took place in '69 or '70, in my father's time. There have been lots of changes in this country since old Roderick came. But we're still here."

"You can quite truthfully say that you belong to one of the first families, eh, Rod?" Laska bantered.

"Oh, well," he replied carelessly, "that's sheer accident. Nothing to be cocky about. I didn't have any hand in the big doings."

"Still, it's something to live up to, don't you think?" she inquired seriously.

"Perhaps. I don't know that it's on the cards for me to carry on any particular tradition. Neither myself nor Phil. We're superstitious, in a way. Of course we belong to the family, and all that sort of thing. But we're only younger sons, after all."

"I don't quite understand," Laska wrinkled her brows. "What difference does that make?"

"Quite a lot—to us," Rod grinned amiably. "You see, the original Roderick had certain notions about money and property. He laid down as a working principle for his heirs that the estate should never be divided and partitioned out to each generation. He said that the bulk of it ought to remain compactly in one inheritance, for the benefit of everybody concerned. He made various suggestions as to how this should be carried out, but the main one is that the home place and the bulk of the holdings shall pass into control of the eldest son. We've proceeded always on that basis. Grandfather, in fact, when it came his turn, converted the estate into a corporation. The control is always vested in the eldest son. He owns the shares and carries on the management. Seventy per cent of the net income goes to him. The other thirty per cent of revenue is equally divided among the rest of the children, whether there's one or a dozen, and is paid to each for life as each attains his majority."

"Grandfather is really the king of the castle. He's eighty now and I don't suppose he can last much longer. The governor is the active manager. When the governor goes out, Grove takes over the whole works. He'll live here. His children will probably be born here, and his oldest son will be expected to carry on in the usual manner. It's a pretty well-established family custom."

"What do the younger sons do?" Laska inquired.

"The girls naturally get married and go away with their husbands. But the younger sons?"

"Oh, we generally stick around," Rod said casually. "But once our schooling is completed, we are at liberty to do what we please. There's usually a lot of opportunity in connection with the family affairs. We own a lot of lumber and land along the coast. When a younger son wants to set up elsewhere, a vine and fig tree he has to 'I see," Laska looked thoughtful. "It's something like the old English way of entail."

"Yes, except that it isn't a law. Merely a custom. You might call it a family tradition. Any generation could depart from it, if they wanted to."

"They stood for a minute looking at the dull red of the tile roof showing through the trees."

"Shall we walk around a bit?" Rod asked. "Or shall we go and have a game of tennis before dinner?"

"Let's walk. I hate tennis when it's hot," she said frankly.

"They closed the iron gate behind them and lounged along under the trees."

"What became of the 'Hermes'?" Laska asked suddenly.

"Went to the boneyard long ago," Rod replied. "Next time you're up in the library look in that big glass case by the east wall. You'll see old Roderick's charts and navigating instruments, sextant, chronometers, so on. The ammic and compass is on the 'Haida'—some of the old metal fittings, too. The old 'Hermes' was all oak, brass, copper and bronze. Her figurehead stands in a corner of the hall. You noticed it?"

"The wooden figure of a battered Neptune? I didn't know what it was," Laska confessed.

"Across the lawn as they strolled, there came presently a man in flannels. When he came up to them it turned out to be Phil."

"The governor wants you, Rod," he said. "They're making medicine in the library. I'll look out for Miss Wall. You'd better look out for yourself," Rod answered with brotherly impudence. If he had dreamed how close he came to the mark with this youthful attempt at repartee, Rod would assuredly have kept silence. If there were any one of the blood for whom Rod had a genuine and fish affection, it was this tall brother who stood smiling down at Laska all. In the very nature of things Rod would not know that he had just placed Laska's hands a weapon to be used—however unconsciously—against his brother, that anything he could say or do should conceivably tilt the uncertain scales of a woman's decision. So he turned at his own sally and strode away toward the house, whistling "Hey, hey, Cope" and wondering carelessly why they were making medicine and what his father could want of him so urgent that Phil had been sent to command his attendance. So far as Rod was concerned, his father's intentions were usually conveyed in the trim-hority that was seduced by the quay under that roof who had so clear a vision of all that had preceded him, and so faint a comprehension of his future. The normal youngster of that age is sagely forward-looking. He has no retrospect. He is full of impatient hopes, dreams, desires, whenever he lifts his eyes beyond the absorbing present. Rod deliberately refrained from lifting the curtain of the future. When he went beyond the engrossing moment, he looked backward over the history of his country and family which were so closely knit, and he saw all the great adventures, the exciting struggles, the foundation-laying and the slow purposeful upbuilding, as something which had become a finished process before he was born. He would spend hours mooming over his great-grandfather's journal and feel a pang of regret that he had not lived in those quickening days. They were gone. The land was tamed. The Chilikofins would never again come raiding with the sea otters were vanished along with the men who hunted them. The trading vessel, square-rigged or fore-and-aft, had given way to the steam tramp. From Land's End to the Strait of Juan de Fuca was a twenty-day voyage instead of thirty weeks. Law, order, custom molded men now. The frontiers were charted and surveyed. What was the use of being born with a spirit that chafed against the dull certainties of a world in which everything was known, defined, reduced to a formula? The world that Rod knew was like the Norquay family—static! So he summed it up. All the great deeds done, or at any rate the necessity, the spur of doing remove beyond him. Those silent shores to which Roderick Sylvester Norquay sailed with Vancouver in 1792 were cluttered with grubby towns, marked off into private areas for individual exploitation. Those inland seas which they had explored and charted were speckled with vessels in the lumber trade, the coal trade, coastal transport, fisheries. The forests were falling under the axes of ten thousand loggers. There was only the adventure, the struggle, the arid business of making money. And no Norquay had a vital need of doing that. Their forefathers had attended shrewdly to the acquisition of land and timber when it could be had for the taking. The Norquays did not need to make money. They had it. It came rolling in to them. They could sit still or play; it was all one. Static! That was the term Rod used.

That a capacity for thinking about such things in such fashion was scarcely by the normal intellectual equipment of an eighteen-year-old youth did not occur to Rod. He had the singularly unboyish quality of hoarding his thoughts, of living very much in a reflective world of his own, which he shared with no one; which indeed he sedulously masked from every one he knew, unless it was Mary Thorn. Even to Mary he permitted only shy, stray glimpses of what sometimes crowded his brain, as a concession to her confident belief in him, her conviction that the most fanciful thing he could utter was at least worth consideration merely because he saw fit to give it utterance. Whereas any groping effort to encase an abstraction in words served only to bring an amused look to the collective faces of his own people. His father would lift heavy eyebrows in polite surprise. Grove would laugh coarsely. Even Phil would look a little puzzled, a little bored. Rod knew. He seldom made such experiments in self-expression. But his mind would concentrate with burning eagerness on a great variety of things. And sometimes his conclusions saddened him without his knowing why.

This decree of banishment from Hawk's Nest in midsummer provoked him to sullen pondering in the quiet of his own room. He recognized authority, obedience as an observed tradition in that house. It was not the fact of his being bundled off to a university that troubled Rod. He had looked forward to that as a necessary and perhaps delightful experience. It was the snap judgment which hastened the date of this mental discipline—as if it were a penalty inflicted on him for an offence—as if he were a small child caught with his fingers in the jam pot.

So Rod, sitting with his elbows on the window sill looking out on the terrace streaming full flood between Valdez and Big Dent, seeing the glassy green incline and the white flash foam, wondered irritably why his father saw fit to penalize him, to warn him in that offensive, suggestive manner

Canadian history is full of romance and vividness. One of the most striking of its contributions was the movement of British loyalists from the United States at the close of the American Revolutionary War. Sacrificing their all these people faced the hardships of settlement in a new country. Their courage was not without its rewards and of these they were no doubt prouder of the hereditary title of "United Empire Loyalists," conferred upon them and their descendants in 1798, than of anything else.

In the city of Belleville, Ont., on June 16, 17, 18 and 19, the 149th anniversary of the arrival of the first United Empire Loyalist in the Bay of Quinte district was celebrated with interesting pageants and ceremonies. Many descendants of these loyal pioneers participated. It was in September, 1783, that five ships carrying Loyalists sailed from New York via the St. Lawrence River, to settle in the Quinte district. Wintering at Sorel, they arrived at their destination in the following summer. They made homes for themselves in the virgin forests, and laid the foundation for the busy towns and cities and the prosperous agricultural areas of today.

Our illustration shows in the upper left-hand corner, Lieut.-Col. S. S. Lazier of Belleville, President of the U. E. L. Celebration Corporation. In the upper right-hand corner, General Sir Wm. Otter of Toronto, a vice-president; below him, Sir Hugh John Macdonald, K. C., of Winnipeg, also a vice-president. Sir Hugh is the son of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first Confederation Premier, whose early home in the Bay of Quinte district is also shown.

about Mary Thorn. There was no ground for that. Rod knew his father as a fair-minded man, not much given to moralizing, nor arbitrarily instructing his sons in ethical problems. He wouldn't have issued a fiat like that without some stirring him up. Rod scowled. He could guess pretty well who had done the stirring; who, being not too nice in surreptitious amours of himself, was indignantly jealous honor the family dignity, the family honor fared in his brother's hands. As Rod was a very precise summary of one phase of Mr. Grosvenor Sylvester Norquay. It wasn't a flattering estimate of character and Rod kept it strictly to himself. When he was small he had disliked Grove's high-handed style, his tendency to dominate, an occasional outburst of a brutal streak. As Rod grew older that dislike became contempt, deep and abiding. A queer feeling to exist between brothers. Yet not so rare.

A warning bell brought Rod out of his absorption. He dressed and joined the others in the dining room.

It was a leisurely meal, unobtrusively ceremonial, after the conventional fashion of those who have gained the privilege of partaking of food as a pleasure, and not as a mere necessity. There was nothing lacking. To dine at Hawk's Nest was the equivalent of dining in the home of any cultivated person in New York, Paris, London—black broadcloth and plain shirt front, corsage that revealed gleaming shoulders; snowy linen, polished silver, cut flowers; conversation as an art; good food, wine, perfect service. A black-coated man hovered discreetly behind the chairs, silently anticipating every want.

GOOD SHOT

Our King is one of the best shots in the world, and his horsemanship is second only to his shooting. His third and fourth hobbies are reading and stamp collecting, the latter being the only thing that tempts the King to turn from pressing duties, in the kingdom, owing to his habit of calling in all the interesting people of the hour for consultation and discussion. Though laying no such claim to Beau Brummelism as that maintained by his father, Edward VII, the king has, it is said, an immense wardrobe, exclusive of more than ninety uniforms.

They that forsake the law praise the wicked. But such as keep the law contend with them.

Not only has the Legislative Council New Brunswick ceased to be but the body of those constituted that anti-slavery body in our sister province has passed away. In this as in many other matters the policy of the government at Halifax appears to be to keep the province at the end of the process.

Hotel and boarding-house keepers throughout the Province are now making preparations for the tourist trade of the summer season. Will they please take this hint with regard to their purchases of tea for tourists? Will they be so kind as to select MORSE'S SELECTED RANGE PEKOE TEA? If they do they can be sure of pleasing the visitor no matter how particular they may be as to tea quality.

The bountiful rainfall of Sunday came just in time as it was much needed. Growing crops of all kinds are making little or no progress because of the continued dry spring and summer, while there seemed very little of a hay crop of any kind. The condition was completely changed by the rain which began to fall generally in the early morning and continued off and on for twenty-four hours.

We remind those who are taking a holiday in the matter of providing a suitable tourist camping ground that this season is rapidly advancing and motor visitors by motor are likely to arrive at any time. A good camping place has been made on the property of Willow avenue, but much yet remains to be done before the necessary accommodation is provided. It is hoped that operations will be at once resumed so that the camp site will be ready for early arrivals.

THE ACADIAN printery has recently moved out a tastefully arranged and fitted folder for the Royal Hotel, of Wolfville. Extensive changes and improvements which include a handsome new dress of paint, add materially to the attractiveness of this most popular place. The proprietor has gone to the expense to provide for the comfort of patrons and by the judicious use of printer's ink is making the fact well known as well as the many attractions which Wolfville has to offer visitors. All good citizens he patronizes in their institutions.

Street comment would indicate that there are getting dissatisfied with the work being made in the work of the present construction. At the present time it is evident that the measure of municipal activity is likely to be postponed until after the usual summer season is with us, while it was hoped that the work would be completed by the end of June. It is claimed that the present mixer in use is inadequate to meet the demands upon its capacity and that operations are seriously held in consequence.

NEWS—HAND IT IN

If only a few friends of the Acadian will only remember us from week to week in a little way it will help amazingly to make The Acadian much newer and therefore that much better from the real test of a paper, the subscriber's standpoint.

As you know, the local weekly paper is made up of little items and it is almost impossible sometimes to run down the news. Therefore your co-operation is most cordially asked to help along the making of your paper from week to week.

If you have an item drop in and tell us about it, send us a little story about it, phone us, anyway, so it gets to this office and the business will be promptly attended to.

If you have someone visiting you, or if you know of a friend who has, send it in. If there is a social in your neighborhood don't forget us with an account of it. North, East, West, South, spells NEWS and we want your co-operation from all points of the compass this end.

We try to run down the news, scout for it, but it is a hard matter sometimes to get it all and because of this we are asking you to help us out. Please do this and don't be afraid that items are too trivial for public mention.

ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING OF CANNING METHODIST CHURCH

The annual business meeting of Canning Methodist church was held on Tuesday evening, June 10, and largely attended, pastor Rev. Thomas W. Hodgson, presiding. The evening opened with the following delightful program:

Vocal solo—Gerald McElhiney, accompanist, Miss Josephine Harris.
Violin duet—Mrs. (Dr.) F. F. Chute, William Payzant, accompanist, Mrs. Charles Sinnett.

R. W. North, clerk, gave a very fine financial report, with all expenses met. Rev. Thomas W. Hodgson expressed the joy that had been his during his three years' ministry and thanked the congregation for the support and deep interest shown in the work. The pastor expressed the hope that the coming year might prove the "best" since the pastorate of Rev. Thomas W. Hodgson, the membership and attendance have increased and the work of the Lord has been greatly blessed.

The steward, R. W. North, presented the budget for the coming year, and it was moved and seconded that it be accepted. The following names were presented for membership of the Quarterly Board: R. W. Holt, A. M. Neary, Jesse Davidson, Mrs. Edith Ells, Charles Sinnett, Mrs. C. C. H. Eaton, Arthur B. Holt, Ernest L. Eaton.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the following address presented by Mr. A. D. Payzant on behalf of fifty friends in the congregation, which was accompanied by a purse:

Dear Mr. Hodgson,—As a small token of our regard for you as our pastor and friend, fifty members of your congregation ask you to accept this purse of money as a small token of our loving esteem, on the eve of your departure to the Old Country. We wish for you the very best of health and happiness during your holidays and hope that the accompanying gift may add to that pleasure. You and Mrs. Hodgson have won a large place in our hearts during your sojourn among us.

Rev. Thomas W. Hodgson, who was taken entirely by surprise, was much affected, and said "There are times where words fail. This to me is one." He thanked his people for their loving gift and said, "While visiting Mother my thoughts will very often be of this, my second pastorate. My hope is that the coming years, wherever spent, may be as happy as those in Canning. WINDSOR DISTRICT OF METHODIST CONFERENCE

Holds Annual Session at Canning—Disapproves Vendor's Revenues

The Windsor District of the Methodist Conference held its annual session in the church at Canning last Thursday. A decided change from the conditions of a few years ago was the arrival of practically all the members in autos, independent of whether or not there were trains.

This changed method of travel makes it possible for the delegates to get away as soon as the business can be attended to, and while it tends to expedite business, it also tends to crowd out some features that made the coming of the District more of a real event in the history of the local church.

The Chairman, Rev. D. B. Hemmeon, D.D., of Wolfville, presided. The first session was devoted to ministerial matters. Rev. G. W. Whitman, of Horton, is retiring after 43 years in the active work. Rev. W. I. Croft moved, and the District passed, a resolution expressing the appreciation of his brethren for the veteran, and the services he has rendered the church. Wilfred G. Burbridge, B.A., B.D., was recommended to be received into full connection and ordained at the Conference this week in Bridgetown. John C. Downing, of Windsor, was accepted as a Candidate for the ministry.

There was an unusually good attendance of laymen at the general session, nearly all the circuits being represented. The returns show an increase of more than thirty in membership, a small decrease in the total of missionary giving, but a considerable increase in the total amount raised for Connexional purposes. The report of the Religious Education Secretary was encouraging, showing an increased activity and increased results in the work among the young people.

The District passed resolutions favoring the abolition of the Sustentation Fund. It passed another resolution expressing its disapproval of the large revenues received through the Vendor's Commission and calling for further restriction on the sale of liquors by this commission, which liquors, it must know, are not for medicinal purposes, but for beverage use. It also commended the suggestion and the effort being made to make possible a prison farm for the Maritime Provinces.

BAND CONCERT

The first public appearance this season of Canning Citizens' Band, on Thursday evening, June 12, was greatly enjoyed by hundreds who availed themselves of the opportunity of combining business and pleasure. These open-air concerts will continue every Thursday evening during the summer months. There is a great improvement in our band and we have been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Robert Gordon, as Instructor, who is well known among bands and bandmen in the Maritime Provinces. The following program was enjoyed:

KING'S DAUGHTERS CONDUCT SERVICE

The King's Daughters Sabbath School Class, leader Mrs. Rufus Eaton, had charge of the music of the United Baptist church, Canning, Sunday evening, June 8th. The young voices blending in song added much to the service, which was of a very high order, the pastor, Rev. W. G. Heisler, delivering a very fine address. The following was the personnel: Misses Ruth Bigelow, Leila Blenkhorn, Claire Eaton, Clara Meek, Sylvia Heisler, Vera Heisler, Nellie Eaton, Ona Ward, Blanche Huntley, Ellen Miller, Kathleen Harris, Emma Bennett. The class was assisted by Mrs. E. F. Avery, Miss Isabel Meek, Miss Pearl Mosher, organist, Mrs. Rufus Eaton. The program was as follows:

Anthem—Choir.
Vocal duet—Miss Isabel Meek, Miss Ruth Bigelow.

S. S. CONVENTION AT CANNING.

The Canning District S. S. Convention of the M. R. E. C. convened with the United Baptist, Wednesday evening, June 11th. Rev. Waldo C. Machum was present and spoke, emphasizing the importance of Sunday school education in the life of a child.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President—Miss Gertrude Eaton, Lower Canning.
Vice-President—R. W. North, Canning.
Secretary—Miss Lois Porter, Percu.
The King's Daughters S. S. class furnished a good programme of music for the evening. While in town Rev. Mr. Machum was entertained at the Baptist parsonage.

A widower had a monument erected at the grave of his wife and upon it this inscription: "The light of my life has gone out." Later he married again, and shortly this line was cut upon the tombstone: "But I have struck another match."

Wonderful Tea!

Users of KING COLE Orange Pekoe are frequently heard to remark: "It's really wonderful tea." This is not particularly in reference to its outstanding quality although that is necessarily included, but is due to the wonderful way it "spends." For KING COLE Orange Pekoe is a rich liquoring tea as well as a deliciously flavorful one. Skilful blending combines these two great tea qualities for your enjoyment.

Maori Retains Native Customs

Geographically considered, New Zealand is the Japan of the South Pacific. It has much the same varied configuration, the same abundance of bays and harbors, and like Japan, lies about midway between the tropics and the pole. New Zealand is, too, a land of never fading verdure.

Canadian Pacific officials report that in recent years tourist travel from Canada and from Europe through Canada to New Zealand has shown a remarkable increase. From the earliest days of settlement the fame of New Zealand's wonderful scenic attractions has spread abroad and they are now regarded as without equal by their kind in the world. Within the compass of the two main islands are found virgin forests full of remarkable subtropic vegetation with many rare and beautiful flowers; wonderful thermal regions cover a wide area in the centre of the North Island where volcanoes, geysers, boiling springs and countless other manifestations of nature's titanic hidden forces are manifest. The lakes and floods of the South Island are of an unimaginable grandeur and magnificence, and the country provides excellent sport for the fisherman or big game hunter, with its trout and salmon filled rivers, and the fine deer herds of the interior.

At Returns, on the Northern Island, may be studied many interesting phases of Maori life, for here the Maori still retains most of the old customs and traditions of his storied past, and all through the country one comes upon his gad-

SCOTTS BAY

Scotts Bay Division, which is very progressive, held a "Dixie evening" on Monday, June 9, the programme composed of Southern readings and melodies being delightfully interesting. Mrs. Benjamin Tupper, Worthy Patriarch, presided. Readings were given by Mrs. Leverette Huntley, Miss Cloyd Neaves, and Arthur Huntley. Several choruses by the Division were also much enjoyed.

Mrs. Truman Corkum underwent a successful operation at the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, and is improving. Mrs. David Webster, who accompanied Mrs. Corkum, is spending a few days in St. Croix.

CANARD

Rev. G. D. Hudson and Mrs. Hudson, Upper Canard, attended the Baptist District Convention.

Rev. G. A. Logan and Mrs. Logan, of Upper Canard, accompanied by Miss Ada Reynolds, of Canning, have returned from a motor trip to Brookfield and Truro.

Captain Findley, accompanied by Mrs. Findlay and Captain Geddes, Halifax, motored through the Valley last week, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Dickie, Upper Canard.

Miss Ruth Jackson, of Acadia, is teaching in Lower Canard for the remainder of the term owing, we regret, to the illness of Miss Swallow, who returned to her home.

of further study of food values, quoting from Miss Rose, of Cornell University: "The inadequately fed child develops into a handicapped adult. Numbers of six-year molars are decaying as much because of poor building material as because of poor care."

Two committees were appointed: Resolution committees—Mrs. D. C. Hilton, Carleton Place; Mrs. Cole, Bridgeville; Mrs. A. H. Patterson, Hortonville; Mrs. Blenkhorn, Nappan. Nominating committee—Mrs. A. A. Ward, Canning; Mrs. J. A. Musgrave, Upper North Sydney; Mrs. J. P. Puddington, Caledonia; Mrs. L. V. Harris, Bear River.

At the opening of the afternoon session, greetings were extended to the delegates by Miss Eva McDorman, on behalf of the Truro Local Council of Women, and by Mrs. John M. Trueman, on behalf of the Bible Hill Women's Institute.

Miss Helen Miller, of Truro, assistant to the superintendent of Women's Institutes, gave an interesting report on her work in various parts of the province.

Mrs. H. A. Dickson reported for the Public Health Committee. She emphasized the need of further effort to secure a more adequate number of public health nurses, both for purposes of instruction in the schools and bedside nursing. The aim of the Institutes is not the diagnosis of disease, but the dissemination of simple health principles for the prevention of disease, and, wherever possible, the assistance of the community in securing better Public Health nursing service. The Home and School Committee's work was reported by Mrs. A. H. Patterson, of Hortonville. In the majority of communities, school trustees are sympathetic and very appreciative of Institute work. In a few cases they resent the push for improvement which the Institute frequently brings. Many definite instances were noted of improvement in school conditions through Institute activity.

Principal Cumming presided over the closing session which was open to the public and largely attended. He commended the organization on the progress of the year, and spoke in high appreciation of the work being done in making many places more livable. Mayor Murray gave a brief and address of welcome, which was responded to by Mrs. Cole, of Bridgeville. A violin solo by Albert Trueman was much enjoyed. The speakers for the evening were Hon. D. A. Cameron, Provincial Secretary; Mrs. Grace Wood Rogers, of Amherst; and President G. J. Trueman, of Mount Allison University.

Mrs. Cameron spoke of the difficulty of keeping the young people on the farms and of the various social and economic problems that seem at times most insurmountable. He cited the case of Denmark, after her partial dismemberment by Germany, and the intense patriotism cultivated by folk in festivities and mutual co-operation.

Mrs. Rogers, who is an authoress of the book, spoke on the institute motto "For God and Country", emphasizing the need of preserving some old fashioned ways, such as respect for the Sabbath, reading, and the beautifying of surroundings.

Mrs. Trueman spoke on The Rural School Problem. He mentioned the fact that the ideal of consolidated schools largely failed through lack of sympathetic co-operation on the part of the community, and urged the Women's Institutes to unite in creating public sentiment that would back up such movements.

At the opening of the Thursday morning session reports were received from standing committees on finance and legislation! The finance report was read by Mrs. E. F. Avery, of Canning and the legislation report by Mrs. D. C. Hilton, of Carleton Place.

In connection with the report on legislation a resolution was passed petitioning the legislators of Nova Scotia to amend the school law so that wives of ratepayers be considered co-ratepayers with their husbands and have equal rights and privileges for all school purposes. The resolution was moved by Mrs. D. C. Hilton, of Carleton, and seconded by Mrs. A. H. Patterson, of Hortonville.

A resolution was before the convention asking for legislation substantially equivalent to the Mothers' Allowance Act of Ontario. No action was taken, it being felt advisable that the resolution should first be carefully studied by all the institutes of the province.

The report of the nominating committee was adopted. This was as follows:

Convenor Home Economics Committee, Mrs. W. W. Baird, Nappan; assistant, Miss Dorothy Morse, Somerset.

Convenor Home and School Committee, Mrs. A. H. Patterson, Hortonville.

Convenor Public Health Committee, Mrs. H. A. Dickson, Onslow.

Convenor Legislation Committee, Mrs. D. C. Hilton, Carleton.

Convenor Finance Committee, Mrs. H. McGee, Bridgetown.

Convenor National Events Committee, Mrs. J. H. Cunningham, Bear River.

Dr. J. D. Logan, of Halifax, representing the Nova Scotia Publicity Bureau, gave an address on the spiritual significance of the tourist business to this province.

In the afternoon a resolution was passed thanking the federal and provincial governments for aid heretofore extended the institutions and petitioning for a renewal of that aid through the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

In the evening, a reception to the delegates was given by the Bible Hill and Onslow Institutes. Solos were sung by Mrs. Eugene Mosher and Miss Dorothy Black. Miss Jean Creelman favored with readings, the primary class of the Bible Hill school put on a pretty drill and the Onslow Institute gave a playette. Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

NO AUTOMOBILE FINES IN QUEBEC

Violators of Traffic Regulations Will Lose Their License

QUEBEC, June 13.—In taking over today the enforcement of the automobile traffic and safety regulations, which have been transferred from the Provincial treasurer to the Minister of Roads, Hon. J. L. Perron announced that in future no fines would be imposed, unless in exceptional cases, but licenses would be cancelled.

"I do not want to say that the system of fining those who exceed the speed limit was not a good one but I believe that a change must be made and in future I expect to attain results, which could not be possible by the system of fines," he said. "Imprudent drivers will lose their license and will be deprived of the right to operate an automobile."

MYSTERY NEST

The crested fly-catcher has a strange passion for weaving a cart snake-skin into its rough nest, generally placed in the hollow of a tree. The nest frequently is placed so far within the tree as to be well out of the sight of any inquisitive bird, who might see it if it were left in plain sight. So the explanation is that the fly-catcher chooses to select a cart snake-skin with which to build its nest as a matter of protection—that it knows that all other birds fear a snake, and displays the skin to drive them away—does not seem to be a very plausible one. The bird's habit remains one of the mysteries of nature yet unexplained.

TO ADVERTISE FRUIT

OTTAWA, June 10.—In order to advertise Canadian fruit in the prairie provinces, and to stimulate consumption, the fruit branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture will make an exhibit at this year's western fairs. In addition to the display of the various fruits grown commercially in Canada, demonstrations will be given in the best method of canning fruits and vegetables and recipes distributed.

WEIGHT AFFECTS WEAR

One of the first questions the avrtoing automobile prospect now asks regarding a car is, "What is its weight?" The reason is that buyers have come to realize that the mileage they get from tires—and that means the money that must be spent for tires during the life of a car—depends largely upon the weight of the automobile. Also it takes more fuel to pull a large car than it does a car of lighter weight. But low weight alone is not enough.

If it has been obtained at the sacrifice of strength, the result is quick depreciation and short life. Almost as important as weight of a motor car is its balance. This means the correct distribution of the weight on the four wheels. This equalizes the wear on tires, and secures perfect traction, thus eliminating much of the dangerous tendency to "skid" found in larger cars.

The most important automobile brake is under the driver's hat.

Get far more wear from dainty garments

It isn't because they're so fragile that your crepe garments, fine silks, and laces wear out quickly. It's the injurious things contained in ordinary laundry soaps.

You can get far more wear from the sheerest, daintiest things you own—by laundering them this way:

Use snowy-white, crinkly PALMOLIVE PRINCESS SOAP FLAKES. Nothing but purest soap. A great foam of suds that gently dissolves all dirt and soil—but never injures the finest fabric. And if anything it really brightens and renews delicate colors.

Being pure soap—nothing else—they go farther and clean more thoroughly. That makes them actually economical for use in the washing machine, for all laundering, and for all household purposes in fact.

Your dealer has them in handy one-pound packages. Do get some—if only to try—today.

E. TRASK, Mgr.

Mr. Harold Schofield and family are now quarantined for diphtheria, two cases in the home. The question arises, where is the cause? This makes five or six families in that part of Greenwich to be in quarantine for that disease, one family on two occasions during the last year and four months. Never used to be so, why now?

The much needed rain came very early Sunday morning and continued most of the day, also that night and some showers Monday.

A dyke or arbutau meeting held here at the Fruit Company's warehouse, on Monday evening, brought a large and enthusiastic attendance.

Mrs. Harris Forsythe recently visited a week at the home of her parents in Woodville, Hants Co.

MRS. ROBERT NEWCOMB

The death took place very suddenly on Tuesday morning, June 10th, of one of the most widely known and most highly respected citizens of this community in the person of Pauline Newcomb, widow of the late Robt. Newcomb. There are left two sons and two daughters. The sons are Dwight of Springvale, Maine, and Ralph of Port Williams. The daughters are Mrs. Bayard Morine and Mrs. Elbert Congdon.

Besides these, the deceased leaves one brother and five sisters. The funeral service conducted by the Rev. Gordon C. Brown, Rector of St. John's church, was held at her late residence, Church Street, on Thursday afternoon, at three o'clock.

DEATH OF MRS. W. H. BELCHER

The death of Mrs. Rachel S. Belcher, relict of the late Lt. Col. William H. Belcher, of Canard, occurred on Friday last at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles S. Basse, this town. Before her marriage the deceased was Miss Rachel Shaw, of Canard. She was a most estimable lady who had many friends.

The funeral service which was held at 2:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon was conducted by Rev. G. D. Hudson, pastor of the Upper Canard Baptist church, of which Mrs. Belcher was for years a faithful member. Rev. C. H. Martell, a former pastor and special friend, paid tribute to the high Christian worth of the deceased, referring particularly to her literary gifts and intense love of nature.

Mrs. Belcher is survived by three daughters, Mrs. James E. Eaton, Lower Canard; Mrs. C. S. Basse, Wolfville; and Mrs. L. D. Payzant, Dartmouth.

CELEBRATED FORTY-SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

The members of Lily of the Valley Division, S. of T., have decided to suspend their regular sessions during the summer, as usual. On Monday evening the final meeting was held at which it was decided to adjourn until the last Monday of September.

The birthday of the society falling at about this time it was decided to make this meeting take the form of an anniversary. Accordingly, a suitable program was provided and after the regular business of the session had been disposed of the doors were thrown open to a number of invited friends. In spite of the busy season and rather unfavorable weather conditions the hall was well filled and a very enjoyable time was had by all. Mr. T. J. Borden, who was the only charter member of the Division present, and who was asked to preside, introduced the program with a very interesting account of the formation of the society and its activities. "Lily of the Valley" was organized June 17th, 1878, and has thus passed its forty-sixth anniversary. The first meeting was held in the old vestry of the Baptist church and since its sessions were held at various places until the erection of the handsome and commodious hall which the Division now occupies and which is fully paid for.

During the intervening years many residents of the district have held membership in the Division and conditions with respect to the temperance reform have undergone a very decided change.

The program of the evening included a well given reading by Miss Hiltz, of the teaching staff of the public school; musical selections by Mr. Mason and Miss Lucy Cogswell, vocal duet by Mrs. O. G. Cogswell and Mrs. Dodge, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Cogswell. Brief addresses were given by N. W. Eaton, P. G. W. P., of "Mable Leaf" and B. O. Davidson, P. G. W. P., of Wolfville Division.

At the close of the program ice-cream and other refreshments were served and an interesting social time was spent, the meeting being brought to a close by the singing of the closing ode of the order.

The Division meetings have been well attended and most interesting during the past winter and excellent work has been done. During the past quarter Mrs. Charles Newcombe, of Church Street, has been Worthy Patriarch, and has conducted the affairs of the society with great credit.

EDUCATING BOY OFF THE FARM WRONG SYSTEM, SAYS BIG FARMER

WINNIPEG.—"Could any farmer in Ontario have made a success of his farm if he ran it the way many Western farmers run theirs? How could a cowless, chickenless, sowless, farm be made to pay anywhere?" asked Richard Willis, successful thousand-acre farmer of Turtle Mountain, at the Mortgage Association meeting.

"Our educational system is working the wrong way," he declared. "We pay big taxes for higher education and we are educating our boys off the farm instead of on it. I know, because I've got two that have been educated off it."

No other life equalled that of the farmer, free from debts and worry," Mr. Willis said, and looked the part. "We don't become millionaires," he continued, "but no millionaire can enjoy himself any better than the farmer in the condition I have described."

Just to show what cows and chickens on the farm meant in actual cash he told of a man whom circumstances had forced into the purchase of a cow in 1916, because he could not make grain pay his living. The woman of the house looked after the cow and chickens and since that time had clothed herself and two children on the egg and cow money and had $4,000 in the bank.

"There is a better opportunity for the young man today who wants to farm than there ever was," Mr. Willis said, and pointed out that it was possible to buy improved land with good buildings on it at very low prices.

He suggested the financial interests should make it their business to go into the immigration end of the problem. The thing to do was to bring good people and settle them on the improved farms and he suggested that the loaning companies must have plenty of such farms that they could afford to sell at very low prices and go to some trouble in picking just the right kind of men.

CHASE-BANCROFT

The marriage of Mr. Donald Chase, of this place, and Miss Marguerite Bancroft, daughter of the late Hon. Joseph Bancroft, which took place at high noon on Tuesday at the home of Dr. J. B. Hall, Lawrence town, Annapolis county, was an event of special interest to the many friends of the principals at Port Williams. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. MacDonald, D.D., of Wolfville, only the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties being present.

An interesting exception was the presence of two Micmacs from Lequille, who came to express their friendly interest and to present to the bride suitable tokens of their esteem. The happy young couple are enjoying a motor trip during which they will visit Kedegamakooog and other points on the South Shore, returning to Port Williams where they will make their home. Both Mr. and Mrs. Chase have many friends in this vicinity, the groom being one of our most popular young men, and the bride while a student at Acadia Seminary at Wolfville also being deservedly popular.

PRIEST SUED BY MOTHER OF GIRL

Charges Daughter Taken Unlawfully—Aid Society May Be Involved.

With the issue of a writ in the Supreme Court against Rev. W. E. Young, Roman Catholic parish priest at Yarmouth, proceedings have been instituted which are possibly without precedent in Nova Scotia.

The Plaintiff, Mrs. Nellie Doucette Jeffery, a widow, is claiming damages against Father Young for trespass and for unlawfully taking her daughter, not yet of age, out of her custody and control. The girl left home, it is alleged, upon the instruction of the priest and was brought back by her mother and Chief of Police Bain. Again, it is charged, Father Young told her to leave, and again she was brought back. Then, acting upon information given him by Father Young, Rev. A. J. Prosser, Children's Aid officer, instituted a search of the premises and again removed the girl and delivered her to Father Young.

Proceedings were immediately taken and action may also be taken against the Children's Aid Society for the part

MOUNT DENSON IS CORRECT

To the Editor THE HANTSPORT ACADIAN: Dear Editor,—In answer to Inquirer, in your last issue of the "Hantsport Acadian", I may say that Inquirer was right, and the friend wrong, in the spelling of our suburb, Mount Denson.

It was so named from one of the first settlers, Colonel Denson, a retired British officer, who took up a large grant of Crown land there. His residence was on an eminence near where the old Wickwire house stands now.

His settling in Mt. Denson must have been early in the last century, as the writer visited those grounds in the first of the seventies and the Denson house had gone into decay, only the outline of the cellar was to be seen.

I well remember the first time that I heard this hamlet called Mount Denson. It was while travelling on the D. A. R. some years ago, the Conductor, or brakeman, in calling the stations, said, "Mount Denson Next". Only once has it come under my notice in print spelled Denson; that was in the Canadian Official Railway Guide and Gazetteer, and they admit that the Railway name is Mount Denson.

DIARY OF MARGARET D. MICHENER

Sunday May 27th 1849. This is a beautiful day. The "Hantsport" came in this forenoon from St. John and Philadelphia. John Michener and Mrs. James are in here; we went up to Sunday School, there were between sixty and seventy scholars. The School was very interesting. Mary Dickie, Marianne Davidson, Rachel Leighton, and Sarah Vaughan were added to my class, and Abigail Holmes took a class. Mr.

Frederick Fields was severely shocked on Wednesday afternoon when it became known that Mr. Frederick Fields, a respected citizen of Hantsport, had met an untimely death by being buried beneath several feet of earth, the result of a cave-in while digging a sewer from the bungalow of H. E. Wilson, on Avon street, to the Avon River. The accident happened near the lower part of the drain which was about ten feet in depth. Mr. Fields is survived by a sorrowing widow, one son, Patrick, at home, and six daughters, Laura, in the West; Annie (Mrs. Fred. Sweet), Mary (Mrs. Colby), Florence (Mrs. Alex. Scott), of this place, and the Misses Frances and Amanda, of Kentville, who have the sympathy of the whole community.

NEWS OF CHEVERIE

A good-sized and appreciative audience enjoyed the concert given by the "Merry Maids" class under the able leadership of Mrs. B. H. McLaughlin, in the Cheverie Hall on Saturday evening, May 31st. The program was as follows:

Chorus, "Hello Canada", by the class.
Reading, "Her First Day"—Allen Burgess.
Song, "Dreamy Alabama"—Mary Macumber and Mrs. B. H. McLaughlin.
Reading, "Geo. Washington's Youth"—Vivian Card.
Motion Song, "Midsummer Fairies"—Six Girls.

The ladies sold ice-cream and home made candy just before and after the performance. Altogether a very enjoyable and profitable evening was spent. The Merry Maids and their leader are to be congratulated upon their success.

Another very interesting event was the celebration of the 3rd anniversary of the Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. Mortimer Parsons on Friday evening, May 30. There was a large gathering of the members and their guests. An interesting report of the Institute's activities was read—a report which showed the value of such an organization to the place. Games and exceptionally fine vocal and instrumental solos and duets followed, after which tasty refreshments were served and enjoyed by all. The evening closed with the singing of the Institute "Ode".

Friends gathered at the home of Capt. Morris Dexter on June 4th to celebrate with him his 74th birthday. This was another very enjoyable event. Capt. Dexter carries his years remarkably well, and his many friends join in hearty congratulations and "Many Returns".

Mrs. Edna Tully went to Truro on Tuesday, June 10th, to represent the Women's Institute at the convention there.

Mrs. I. J. Dexter, who went to New York a few weeks ago, has returned home, accompanied by her brother Mr. John Irvine, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. T. M. Webb, who went to New York two months ago, has also returned, looking very much benefited by her visit to her sister there.

The people of Cheverie were glad to hear the very fine sermon delivered from the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday evening, June 8th, by Rev. Wilfred Burbridge, B.A. Mr. Burbridge worked very successfully on this circuit as a student three years ago. The pulpit was very prettily decorated with flowers on Sunday evening.

Mr. Eugene McLaughlin left recently for a trip to Boston. Here's wishing him a jolly time in "The Hub".

We are pleased to note that Mr. B. H. McLaughlin, who sprained his ankle badly a few days ago, is making speedy progress toward recovery.

The public examinations of the Primary Dept. of the Cheverie school are to be held under the auspices of the Home and School committee of the Women's Institute on the occasion of their Mothers' Day session next week. The children have had a very successful year under the tuition of Miss Elizabeth Fuller, and we expect they will make a fine showing.

The new sign of the Cheverie School is eloquent testimony to the steadiness of hand and keenness of eye possessed by Capt. Morris Dexter in spite of his 74 years. The sign is a real workmanlike job.

Rev. T. M. Webb still manages to find time in spite of his many duties to carry on work among the boys. A successful and profitable supper was held recently to raise funds for equipment for the work and sports. The ladies appreciate very much Mr. Webb's leadership.

Mrs. Emma Macumber and Harold were visitors in Cheverie recently.

REPARATIONS QUIBBLING

Fellows came in; he took some supper and then went down to the new vessel. Jane and I went up with Mother as far as the school house; after we got back Simeon and Richard came. He went up to Father's and stayed all night, and we went to Mary's.

June 1st. This has been a rainy day. I read a good part of it, went over to Mrs. Harris' in the afternoon.

2nd. I went out collecting for the Union Society. Sister Ann went down to Olivia's and followed her. The "Village Belle" came up today, which is Hibbard's new vessel; she is a smart looking craft. When we came up from Olivia's we went up home accompanied by Jane Ellis, who stopped all night. We spent a pleasant evening which was mostly occupied by music, both vocal and instrumental. Simeon and I returned at nine o'clock, the moon looking down smilingly from above and no wind to disturb the peaceful stillness of a lovely moonlight evening, which possesses a great charm for lovers.

3rd. This has been a fine day. The Sunday School is very interesting. Mr. Cogswell preached after school; it seemed I had not heard him preach so well for a long time. We went up to Father's and after dinner went up to Sam's, as he wished us to. In the evening we returned home and Hannah Fuller and Louisa Brown came in. Louisa brought me a letter from Aunt Lydia Kelly. Louisa Kirk was here also.

4th. Simeon went to Windsor in the morning, and at night he went away with Edward Barker for pilot to Bridgeport.

5th. I went down to Abigail's to help her quilt, and spent a pleasant day. Mrs. Michener went there Sunday and returned Tuesday evening. I called at Capt. Holmes and received 26 for getting Sunday School books. Mrs. Kendall came in and paid her missionary money.

6th. I went down to sister Olivia's and sewed for her. I sat upstairs, which is very pleasant, and watched the vessels. The "Village Belle" went to Windsor; Richard is commencing his seafaring life.

7th. I went up to Mother's. Ann was quilting upstairs. I got a peck of potatoes and Ann came home with me. Robert was down and graded a few trees for Widow Davidson.

8th. I was awakened by Mary and Hibbard talking in the kitchen; he had just come from Windsor. I made me

HANTSPORT HAPPENINGS

Mr. Raymond Morris, of New York, is spending a vacation at the home of his parents, Capt. and Mrs. Morris, Avon street.

Mrs. C. Rockefeller returned to Hantsport on Tuesday, after spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Ruggles Dodge, at the Aylesford Hotel.

A large number of citizens attended the band concert, under the auspices of the I. O. F., on E. McDonalds grounds at Mount Denson on Tuesday evening.

HANTSPORT WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The local Women's Institute held their monthly business meeting on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Asaph Newcombe. They had for their guest Mrs. Dennison, Secretary of the Grand Pre Institute, who in a few well chosen words gave a brief outline of the methods of carrying on the work in their organization.

An excellent report was given by Mrs. J. Lyon, convenor of the cemetery committee. Through the zealous efforts of Mrs. Lyon and her co-workers the cemetery has been transformed from a veritable wilderness of bushes and weeds of almost every description to a place of beauty.

The collectors to solicit for the Children's Aid fund will call on the citizens of the town this week. The responses were of a miscellaneous nature. Meeting closed by all singing the "Institute Ode".

Humility isn't essential to statesmanship. Political pie goes to those who have the crust.

THE APPLE AND ITS USES

The apple crop of Canada last year, according to Bulletin No. 35 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, entitled "Canadian Grown Apples", amounted to 4,063,719 barrels. This was about one million barrels less than the crop of 1922. These figures, compiled by the Fruit Branch, are given in an introduction to a long list of fruit recipes which it is hoped will encourage the greater use of Canadian apples. This bulletin, which is available at the Publication Branch of the Department, shows that Canadian apples have been particularly successful in international competitions and are recognized as unsurpassed anywhere in the world. Apples are classified according to the seasons in which they should be used and as to their suitability for cooking, dessert and other purposes. The advice is offered that apples should be cooked in earthen or granite utensils and on silver, granite or wooden spoons used for stirring. The recipes are all manner of dishes that can be made from the "King of Fruits".

TO ATTRACT CAPITAL

According to a recent issue of the Boston Post, the state of Florida will shortly vote on an amendment to the state constitution which precludes the passage of any state income or inheritance tax laws either now or in the future. Should the bill become law, Florida will have a subtle and highly effective method of attracting wealthy individuals and capital. By maintaining a winter residence in Florida and living in it for a stated interval each year, the wealthy citizen of a more northerly and more heavily taxed state is able to evade a large portion of his tax burden. Florida's suggestion may possibly be of interest to certain of the Canadian provinces. A study of the incidence and effect of certain taxes often induces those responsible for the raising of revenue to seek other methods. After the passage of income tax laws in certain states, adjoining states or provinces sometimes gain much by passing exemptive legislation. The announcement by any of the provinces that no provincial income or inheritance tax would be imposed in the future or for a period of say ten years might go much farther in attracting capital and enterprise than large amounts of money spent on advertising and on immigration propaganda. The proposal is at least worthy of passing note.—Financial Post.

MAY FIX NUMBER OF MARITIME SEATS

Government May Do This to Soothe Injured Feelings Over Tariff

OTTAWA.—It is impossible to say what the government's policy is as yet to the proposal from the Maritime provinces that the British North America Act be amended so as to provide that the representation of these provinces in the House of Commons shall not fall below a fixed number, but it begins to look as though it might be adopted. Prince Edward Island has that now, the amendment of 1914 having provided that its representation in the House shall not be less than that in the Senate, which is fixed at four.

Under a strict application of "rep." by "pop.", the Island would only have three, with grave danger of its being further reduced to two.

If no change is made in the act, then, under the present redistribution measure Nova Scotia will lose two members. Owing to the increase in her French-Canadian population, New Brunswick escapes reduction, but identity of interests causes her to support Nova Scotia's claim. Government circles realize that something worth-while must be done for the Maritimes. The tariff changes are unlikely to make a strong impression down there, and the reduction in freight rates on commodities will not have any more effect. Something of a spectacular nature is needed as a provision for fixed representation shapes up better than anything in sight. The loss of Halifax and Kent portends great danger to the government and it is bound to do its utmost to stem the tide.

THE CHEAPER CUTS OF BEEF

The pot roast which is frequently used by the thrifty housewife in the effort to keep down her butcher bill and still provide good meals, may be made from many of the cheaper cuts, such as the chuck, of the beef carcass. After being wiped with a damp cloth it is placed in a covered bake pan or casserole, with two cups or more of hot water. It should be covered tightly and baked in a moderate oven on top of the stove, keeping the heat just below the boiling point. Pamphlet No. 43 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, obtainable from the Publications Branch, shows how the meat bill may be reduced by utilizing the cheaper cuts of beef. One-half hour's time for each pound of meat in the roast is recommended. About an hour and a quarter before serving, pared potatoes and sliced carrots and onions may be added. When ready to serve, the roast should be removed to a hot platter and the gravy thickened and seasoned. If the meat is very fat, it is advisable to remove the fat from the top of the gravy before thickening. The pamphlet contains many other recipes for utilizing the cheaper cuts of beef.

SEES NO GRACE OR ART IN MODERN JAZZ DANCING

Miss Elizabeth Burchenal, the best authority on folk dances in the United States, sees no grace or art in modern jazz dancing, and so is devoting herself to teaching the graceful, vivacious dances which the people of Europe dance. There the old folks, young folks and children all enjoy themselves together and no one feels "out of it" because of not knowing the latest strangle-hold and totter. The same thing that has made the Virginia Reel live so many generations as the chief entertainment at many "mixed gatherings", will make the continental folk dances popular in America, Miss Burchenal believes: their democracy.

Miss Burchenal was at the State College of Washington recently and gave a series of lessons in folk dances, which the college opened to the general public, in order that school physical training teachers, playground supervisors, masters of granges and farm bureaus and other social groups could learn the dances and teach to the communities for all to learn.

WHEN FATHER WAS A BOY

My father sometimes likes to tell how, when he was a boy, That chopping kindling-wood was fun, and milking such a joy; And how he'd hustle home from school as fast as he could run. And never think of playing till every chore was done.

He says he thought it was a treat to pick the plums and cherries, And even tries to make believe he liked to stem gooseberries! But when he's telling of the time when he was just a "kid", And what a busy one he was, and all the work he did—

My grandpa, he just sits and smiles, but never says a word About what Father's telling, as if he hadn't heard; But I'll bet you "most anything you'd mention, like as not Grandpa remembers many things that Father's just forgot! —Mary L. Hemphill.

TEN COMMANDMENTS OF SPOT-LESS TOWN

- 1. Don't throw anything on the side walk or street. Find a rubbish can.
2. Don't tear up paper and scatter it anywhere.
3. Don't let any piles of ashes or rubbish stay in your backyard.
4. Don't mix ashes and garbage in the same can.
5. Don't fill the ash-can or garbage-can too full.
6. Don't chalk the sidewalk, fences, buildings or pavements.

- 7. Don't deface park benches, school furniture or any public property.
8. Don't forget that horses love banana skins. A banana skin isn't dangerous if it is inside a horse's stomach.
9. Don't do anything that will bring disgrace to the town where you live.
10. Don't expect your town to become clean and perfect all at once. It will become an ideal community only when everybody does something every day to help make things better.

CITIZENSHIP

An alien does not change into a citizen over night. The changing of his dress may be done in an hour. The changing of his speech is a longer process. And the changing of his ideas is still longer. Really, to become a citizen of our country, a man must first turn his mind from the old land to the new; he must desire to be a Canadian. In the second place, he must learn how Canadian institutions have grown and how they are carried on; he must understand what are a citizen's responsibilities in this land.

SERVICE PLUS PRINTER'S INK

Dr. B. J. Palmer, father of chiropractic, said the other day: "The poet who said 'build a better mouse trap and the world will make a path to your door' was wrong. You've not only got to build a better mouse trap, but use printer's ink to tell the world about it. Then, and then only, will the world know about your mouse trap. This applies to all things."

EDUCATION

Education is the formation of such habits of thought and action as will enable us to live sanely and happily, to know how to make knowledge when we need it, and to be of real service to the community of which we are a part.

There are lots of slivers on the ladder of life, but most of them point up—you don't feel 'em till you start to slip. Keep on Climbing.

A PIED, PIPER.

In Billy's job, as in many positions where men have won fame and distinction, it is personality that counts. It is his mission in life to inspire confidence, and to lure innocent sheep and lambs to their destruction with as great alacrity and lightness of gait as if they were skipping to the fields of Elysium, and this he does to the King's taste; he was born for his task. Though but two years old he has a substantial beard, and long white hoary locks. His mien is gentle and there are no horns visible which might give rise to fatal suspicions. But in his eyes there is an air of command, backed by the force of a portly frame, which enables Billy to do what he will with the sheep and lambs which come within his ken, and even influences calves to keep a straight path. In the busy season he saves the salaries of five men; in ordinary times he does the work of two or three.

He was three months old when he arrived at the Canadian Pacific Stock Yards, Montreal, but he took to the work at once. He followed the heels of the men, and while other animals tried at the work had to be coaxed to labor by rewards of cake and biscuits, Billy needed no such spur, but in three months time would glance at the sheep comfortably, start off at a cheerful trot and without hesitation the doomed animals would surround him and happily ascend the winding runway to the abattoir nearby. Then at a command he would go back and coax any stragglers, till he had all at hand ready to be slaughtered.

Now to look at Billy, it might seem that he did this work in all innocence, and that he was quite unaware that he had led his charges to any harm; but that would be doing an injustice to Billy's mighty intellect. He leads the flock right to the edge of the platform where they are killed, but then he carefully edges to the wall, keeping as far as possible from the danger point till he reaches the only spot of safety, then he slides back from the helpless sheep, wriggles out and goes back for another lot.

His treachery does not weigh on his spirits, he is utterly complacent and self-satisfied, impatient to be on the job.
