

COLONIAL SECRETARY

Recipient of Numerous Boquets

Premier Lauds Chamberlain as Great Exponent of Imperial Unity.

Special to the Daily Nugget. London, June 26.—Premier Balfour at his best today, having presided at the presentation, at the International Club, of an address by the Colonial Secretary Chamberlain in recognition of the latter's services to the empire. Referring to Mr. Chamberlain's great proposals, the premier it would be absolutely for the benefit of the empire to make opinions upon various economic questions the property of party loyalty. The preference question was not new but Mr. Chamberlain more than any other dead or living, had given life to the expression and idea of imperialism. The colonial secretary gave a happy reply.

MAD MULLAH PUT TO FLIGHT FROM THE KOYUKUK

Special to the Daily Nugget. London, June 26.—Contradictory telegrams have been received from Somaliland. One says that Mad Mullah has destroyed five British posts. Thirty-nine British officers out of forty-two white men are said to have been killed and two thousand native soldiers made prisoners. A dispatch to the war office, however, from General Manning, announces his arrival at Bobotele unopposed.

He says the Mullah is in full flight. Gen. Manning adds that this flight of the Mullah would be turned into a complete rout if it had been possible to send a column of sufficient strength from Bobotele to Damot. The prisoners captured say the tribes are disorganized. Manning says nothing about the loss of army officers so it is believed the first report is a canard. The very best cigars obtainable to be had at the Empire. crt

FIRST STEAMER FROM TANANA

The N. C. Co.'s steamer Rock Island returned at 9:15 this morning from a round trip to Androefski. At Weare on her return she connected with the Seattle No. 3 of the same company from Tanana points. Passengers for Dawson were transferred to the Rock Island which proceeded on to this point. The following is her list of passengers: From Tanana—A. J. Hosmer, G. Lough, A. D. Packett, D. E. Edwards, W. J. Keyo, W. Grant, P. A. Collin, Virginia Oliver, S. C. Knight, A. J. Prudhomme, Mrs. Kay, T. Burke, W. H. Davis, D. McPherson, R. G. Brownlew, J. Rose, J. T. McGinn, G. Werlin, U. Kaslo, McClough, W. Newman. From Circle—J. Woods, O. McKinnon, F. Pfeiffer, B. Fisher, F. L. Quirk, F. J. Hooney, D. W. Donovan, D. Buckley, G. Murdoch, J. Conners, C. B. Arnold, Mrs. R. J. Guis, Teresa, Jno. Ellark, J. Marnall, J. B. Forrest, Walter Scott, M. McLeod, F. E. Church, R. Berry, W. S. McConnell, G. Daniel, S. Croban, J. Maguire, A. F. Rose, T. Thompson, J. E. Feger, W. Williamson, L. A. made, M. Guborte. From Eagle—A. Harrison, L. Engisiet, C. Edwards, W. H. Daley, J. Marion, N. Narion. Tanana is a dead one and never had any foundation for being otherwise reported according to Mr. Alex. Prudhomme who returned from banks at about the same as Dawson prices. I retained a few pounds of flour, 10 and 15 pound lots at the rate of $17 per sack but the usual price was $5 per sack. Canned meats and good bacon were scarce, the latter selling at 75 cents per pound; sugar, 25; butter, 24 lbs. for $2; dried fruit, 25 cents per pound. Even at these comparatively low figures there was little demand for stuff for the very good reason that there was no money with which to buy. However, there was no destitution in the country through lack of grub, such as it was. Mr. Prudhomme brought back to Dawson with him a number of picks and shovels, there being no demand for them there, which fact does not speak well for the country from a mining standpoint. He also started home with a lot of coffee and other groceries which he disposed of to the company stores along the river. Regarding the mining industry of the Tanana country Mr. Prudhomme said: "Every creek in the country is named and staked, the principal ones being Pedro, Gold Stream, Fairbanks and Cleary. On Pedro Messrs. (Continued on page 6.)

SEAT WAS IN DANGER

Member for Glengarry Has Close Shave. Sold Goods to Government But Manages to Escape the Penalty. Special to the Daily Nugget. Ottawa, June 26.—Schnell, member of parliament for Glengarry, saves his seat in the house of commons. The committee on privileges met this morning to consider the sale by him of goods to the government and consequent breach of the "independence of parliament" act. There being nothing to show that Schnell's firm was aware of the identity of the government purchasing agent it was decided on motion of Northrup (Conservative) to ask the house to relieve Schnell of all pains and penalties of his offence. Police Court. The Dawson attorneys were the recipients of a bunch of bouquets handed by Mr. Justice Macaulay, in the police court this morning, who likened them to Oliver Twist, who never could be satisfied. The remark was caused by the laxity of the counsel in being in court at the proper time. Two cases were on the docket, the attorneys in neither of which were present when the cases were called. In the case of Julius A. Stromberg vs Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Cox, in which suit is for the recovery of $212 in wages, there was a difference in the amount due which was adjudicated and judgment given plaintiff. Geo. Mick was given judgment in the sum of $485 against John Enlund for wages. The original amount claimed by Mick was $1135, which was at the rate of 50 cents per hour for 14 hours per day for 4 months and 12 days and for 19 hours per day for the balance of the 5th month. The defendant was not present but his lordship thought the rate higher than the going wages and gave judgment at $100 per month and board for 5 months less $15 received in cash on account. FOUND—Note book belonging to Jas. Madden. May be received at Nugget office.

BOTH FEET WERE LOST

Overtaken by Storm He Lay 48 Hours on Trail When Mercury Was 68 Below. Among the passengers to arrive on the Rock Island this morning was one E. T. Mauer, a young man only 21 years of age who will carry with him to the grave most horrible evidence of his experience in the northland. Both the young man's feet and ankles are off, the result of his being caught in a blizzard 40 miles up the Tanana river from Fort Gibbon, or Weare as it is usually called by river men, on the 31st day of last December. Young Mauer had been in the Klondike upward of a year, having come here from Butte, Montana. Last October he left Dawson and went down the Yukon to Fort Gibbon where he hired to the military department of the government, there being a post at Fort Gibbon. He was sent up the Tanana late in December on business when he was overtaken by a storm. Being unable to reach shelter he sank down by the trail where he remained 48 hours before being found by a man named Fitts who assisted him to a place of shelter and later hauled him on a sled to Fort Gibbon. The boy's feet and legs were so badly frozen that amputation of both was necessary about four inches above the ankle joints. During the time he was lying helpless on the trail the temperature in that part of the country was 68 below zero. Mauer was treated by the post surgeon at Fort Gibbon and has since been cared for at the post until he started on his way out. On the boat a collection of $160 was taken up and presented to the unfortunate youth. He will continue his journey to the outside in a day or two. His denunciation of the country that cost him so dearly is very bitter. Baby-Go Carts Smith has just received a new consignment of good, low-priced Go-Carts. Get one before they are all sold. WILL CONTEST AGAIN

Negotiations are being conducted with a view of arranging another contest between Burley and Choynski. Nothing definite has been settled yet but it is hoped to make the final arrangements this evening when a meeting will be held. Choynski's hand is improving rapidly and it is thought will be all right in a couple of weeks. If satisfactory arrangements are made tonight the date set for the go-will probably be between three and four weeks.

MONDAY, JUNE 29, 1903.

TANANA.

Tanana is a frost pure and simple. Such is the consensus of opinion among those who returned to Dawson today on the steamer Rock Island and certainly they are in a position to know whereof they speak.

The lurid tales of the "veracious" Jap so eagerly swallowed by our gullible morning contemporary have proven to have been founded upon airy fairy notions.

The scores of good claims which were to turn out fortunes to their owners this spring, have disappeared and the work now being done in the district amounts practically to nothing.

There was no reason in the stampede of last winter—nothing to justify it, no well substantiated facts to indicate that a real strike had been made, nothing in short but highly exaggerated yarns imposed upon a too credible public by a few parties who had personal interests to serve.

The Tanana country is undoubtedly in the northern mineral belt and through process of time and with the introduction of improved machinery may be expected to become a productive mining center.

It was a full year after the great strike on Bonanza creek before Dawson offered a field for commercial and other business enterprises, but still in the light of that knowledge hundreds of people set out for Tanana during the middle of an Arctic winter, expecting to find an opening for every conceivable kind of venture.

How sadly they erred our news columns explain today. The Tanana may be all right in years to come, but as a poor man's country it has proven a disappointment.

CALLS FOR ACTION.

The Sun has informed the public that Mr. Ross is not, and never has been, sufficiently well to attend to his duties in parliament since the election of December last.

In the light of events it is pertinent at this time to call attention to the position in which the public has been placed by reason of oft repeated assurances which it now appears has no real foundation in fact.

It will be remembered that the local board of trade, together with the miners organization at the Forks had determined prior to the sitting of parliament, to send delegates to Ottawa to protest against the Treadgold concession.

Under the circumstances it was believed that the interests of the community would best be left in Mr. Ross' care and consequently it was decided to abandon the delegation idea.

Now it appears that Mr. Ross has been able to spend little or no time in the house and during a great portion of the session has been out on the Pacific Coast.

Had the facts been known to the public as they should have been made known, the delegates would have been sent on to the capital, and a more emphatic protest against the iniquitous concession would have been entered. The territory has suffered not only on account of the disability of its member, but through the suppression of the truth has been led to forego the privilege of sending a delegation to Ottawa.

Altogether, the situation is extraordinarily unsatisfactory and seems to call for action on the part of those who were instrumental in electing Mr. Ross to office.

The collapse of the Tanana boom should result in renewed activity throughout this district. A second Klondike has yet to be discovered—and in fact there is no other district in the Yukon that can be compared with that of which Dawson is the commercial center.

Russia has politely informed the United States government that such little disturbances as a massacre of several hundred inoffensive parties are not a proper subject for international comment.

The suppression of the Treadgold grants is essential to Yukon prosperity. With Treadgold in the saddle the miners of the Yukon territory would have a hard row before them.

British Columbia is enjoying a miniature Klondike stampede. Reports of claim jumping, thefts of grub, etc., indicate that old time traditions are being observed.

INTERESTING SESSION

Eagles Have Enjoyable Time at Meeting Last Night.

Dawson Aerie, No. 50, Fraternal Order of Eagles, held an interesting meeting last night when F. L. Perkins of the Sun was introduced to the mysteries of the order and provided with a pair of wings.

At the close of the business session a social session or "aperance" meeting was held at which stories were told, songs sung, reminiscences related and a good time enjoyed.

Max O'Reil is said to have remarked just before his death that he would rather wear a hat than a halo anyway.

NEW MINING APPLIANCE

Machinery Here for Gold Run Company

When in Operation Will Handle 4000 Cubic Yards of Gravel Each Day.

Many are the devices being employed this season by holders of extensive mining interests to decrease the cost of extracting the gold from the frozen gravel, to handle the maximum of dirt with the minimum cost.

The plant of the Gold Run Company is quadruple in its effect, consisting of four elevators and sluicing devices instead of one, each operating separately and independent of the other.

The main idea in the plant, that which results in the enormous saving of labor is the fact that water is entirely used as the force to place the gold bearing gravel in the boxes in lieu of the man with the pick and shovel.

When the negro laborers descend into the diamond mines at Kimberly, they knew out the hard diamondiferous earth and put it in wooden tubs which are hauled on stout wires to the surface where the earth is spread over the ground to undergo for several months the softening influences of heat and cold.

It was necessary until recently to go very carefully over the concentrates to pick out the garnets and many other foreign substances until nothing remained but the rough diamonds.

Among the employees in the sorting room was Fred Kersten, a bright young fellow, who quietly went to work to try to discover a way to separate the diamonds from other stones more quickly and easily than could be done by the slow process of hand picking.

The elevator to get rid of the tailings is a system of buckets that are attached to an endless chain and which carries the debris to the surface and deposits them out of the way.

The properties of the Gold Run Company embrace over twenty claims and it is the intention to work them all in the same manner.

These machines with three men will do the work of forty or more, they require the services only of a fireman, engineer, nozzleman and possibly an assistant to the latter at times.

There was a coating of grease on the board which had retained the diamond, while the garnet slipped off.

Then he invented a machine by which his discovery might be utilized. One part of his machine was a slightly inclined table coated with grease and vibrating when the machine was in motion.

The invention was an entire success. All the garnets and other minerals that are not wanted pass over the surface of the table while every diamond, large or small, is retained.

Raising Buffaloes

It was feared a few years ago that the buffalo, which once roamed our Western plains by millions, was doomed to utter extinction.

Not only is the well-protected herd in the Yellowstone Park flourishing and multiplying, but there is also a fine herd, the result of private enterprise, in the valley of Mission Creek, in northwestern Montana.

Prof. Morton J. Elrod, who occupies the chair of biology in the University of Montana and is the director of the university's biological station, near Flathead Lake, has written an interesting account of these buffaloes, which has been published by the university.

The Flathead herd has a man with it constantly. The animals, therefore, are accustomed to man and are not alarmed at his approach.

It was placed at a high altitude, over 7,000 feet, where snows are deep, winters long and severe, and where it would be very difficult to give the animals aid in case of scarcity of food.

Though the animals range in a treeless valley there are coulees, moraine depressions and river and creek banks, which offer shelter.

In 1884, Charles Allard and Michael Pablo bought ten head of buffalo from an Indian who had brought them from east of the Rocky Mountains.

four head, eighteen of which were half breeds, for the buffalo can cross with cattle. From this beginning of thirty-six full blooded and eighteen mixed breed animals the present herd has descended.

In February, 1902, the herd numbered 230 full blooded and sixty-five mixed breed animals. Not a few were sold in earlier years to zoological parks, circuses and private citizens.

This short record shows what can be done by private enterprise. In twenty years a herd of thirty-six full-blooded animals has increased to more than 350, or ten times the original number, with no record of many sales that have been made in that time.

The cows do not have calves until they are four or five years old and about half the cows have calves every year.

Some of the calves die, about the same proportion as among ordinary cattle on a range. Most of them, however, are remarkably bright and active.

They usually range in two herds but in the winter of 1901 they were in three herds.

A herder is kept with the animals constantly. He knows where they are, keeps note of the increase and looks after the calves and the herd generally.

As about half of the calves are males and so many bulls are not needed a few of them are sold every year to butchers at Helena, Butte, and other neighboring towns.

In 1884, Charles Allard and Michael Pablo bought ten head of buffalo from an Indian who had brought them from east of the Rocky Mountains.

The price put on the animals for these purposes is very high, the freight haul is long, the cost of transportation is anything but cheap and the danger of death before the end of the trip is large.

When a visitor desires to see the herd he must either seek it on horseback or hire a buggy. If he is wise also he will secure the services of an Indian as a guide to find the animals and round up the smaller herds into one large bunch.

The Indian starts out toward the high butte, where they are most frequently found. When a herd is sighted he will ride toward it until he can determine whether the animals are buffalo or cattle.

In the latter case he takes another direction until another herd is sighted, and it frequently happens that one travels for hours before seeing the herd in the distance.

The animals go in small squads of from two or three to fifty. The Indian guide races his horse after a squad approaching in the direction he wishes them to go.

He usually ranges in two herds but in the winter of 1901 they were in three herds. With them are many herds of cattle and horses.

Puppy and Parrot There's the fout who whistles shrilly (though he never keeps the tune). On the street car and the elevated train.

And the bleacher fiend who wholly spoils your pleasant afternoon By his yelling at the umpire—quite in vain.

And the porcine theatregoer who dissects the play aloud. While he crows you over sideways in your seat.

And the dolt who keeps his hands up on your shoulders, in a crowd. And the ass who shouts to people on the street.

And the bawling, blatant huckster who disturbs your beauty sleep— They are savages of note, I grant you that.

But the man who makes them all look insignificant and cheap Is the cad who keeps a puppy in his flat!

Ki-yi! bow-wow! Hear the mongrel yelp. Yapping at a non-existent rat. There are villains "doing time" Who are novices in crime.

To the man who keeps a puppy in his flat! There's the girl who murders Chopin and believes she has a voice.

And the chambermaid who wrangles with the cook. And the woman buying tickets, who can never reach a choice.

And the lady who desires to sell a book. And the spit who likes to call her mother down before a guest.

Shoots to Recall Home Seattle, June 16.—From the sunny cotton fields of Tennessee every man is a colonel and every woman a princess of romance.

The darkies sing all day and the mocking-bird thrills out its song in the moonlight, where Honor walks proudly erect at midday and lies proudly shot full of holes at midnight.

But the gayety rang hollow on his ears, no danger lurked behind the jiffous moments and gave them spice and the tang of life.

With a sigh of pure joy he swept his hand to his hip and the next instant was "making with his gun sweeter music than any he had heard that evening.

Living by His Books An amusing story is told of Robert Buchanan, the author, who, like many another well known literary man, had a hard struggle at the beginning of his career.

Nick Burley umpired the game and showed himself fully as conversant of the fine points as he is of that of right hooks and left swings.

When the Civil Service and Gandolfos came together they started out almost in the same brilliant manner their predecessors did, only one score being made in the first two innings.

Both sides took goose eggs in the second. Rock and Duncan both went out at first on the assist of second and Montgomery retired on a fly to the same point; the three outs being made by Doyle and with his assistance.

The slaughter of the Service began in the third and when the Gans had finished the score was 6 to 0. Ugh! LeCappellain, Long and Doyle scored in quick succession and were followed by Forrest who went out at first on the assist of pitcher.

In the fourth the Gans could score but once. LeCappellain fanned, Long circled the bags in safety and Doyle went out at home on a magnificent throw of Harrison from far out in center field.

all scored one after the other. Culligan lammed a safe hit to right field and Captain Stevens of the Gans concluded they had gotten on to Traube's curves and changed pitchers in the middle of the inning, he going into the box and "Slim" taking first.

The Gans scored but once in the fifth, though six men went to the bat. Traube drove a long fly to Harrison which was caught after a sensational run, Rock took a walk, made second and went out at third on a forced play.

HERE FROM PORCUPINE

Trappers Are Out After Good Catch

Persistent Prospecting Fails to Disclose Presence of Gold.

A number of passengers arriving on the Rock Island this morning were from the Porcupine river where they have been engaged in trapping and prospecting. Among those seen by a Nugget representative was R. Mason who with his partner, Joe Hosfall, spent the winter about 125 miles up the Porcupine from where it empties into the Yukon. They have been on the Porcupine for three years, coming out each spring to sell the winter's accumulation of furs.

Mason says it has been thoroughly demonstrated that there is no gold on the Porcupine as not only himself and partner, but many others, have thoroughly prospected that stream and its tributaries for several hundred miles back.

However, the Porcupine is rich in fur and Mason and Hosfall report a very prosperous winter in that line, the skins taken being those of marten, fox, beaver and bear. They sold their furs to the N. A. T. & T. Co. at Rampart and are now on their way to the headwaters of the Pelly river to select a trapping field for next winter.

Mason confirms a report published in the Dawson press some months ago of the finding of a human skeleton near the bank of the Yukon a short distance above Rampart. House. Beside the skeleton lay a rifle on the stock of which were carved the initials "H. D."

Mrs. P. C. Wältenbaugh, when walking along the sidewalk by the McDonald Iron Works Saturday evening was assailed by a dog and severely bitten on one of her thighs. The wound has since been very painful.

FIRST STEAMER FROM TANANA.

Smallwood and Atwood own Nos. 5 and 6 below and claim to have dirt that will go $250 to the bucket but as they are doing very little work and are not showing any gold the statement is not generally credited. Three or four other claims on Pedro are being worked in a half-hearted way but I saw nothing to show for the work. On Gold Stream a few holes have been sunk but no work is being done. The same is true of Fairbanks and Cleary creeks. In fact, in the entire country there is no appearance of active mining and no gold is coming out nor will there be any coming out this summer. Some of the claim owners say they are waiting for machinery but the truth is that they are waiting for something to turn up and if it does not they will nearly all get out this fall. I do not think there were over 250 people in the country when I left on June 9th. A good cabin and lot could be purchased for $10. Hundreds of people had left in small boats for down river, most of them headed for Nome. Many are still there who do not wish to go down river and have not the money to come up. At Weare are dozens of men, all broke and all anxious to work their way on steamers up to Dawson.

In the entire Tanana country Mr. Prudhomme says there are but 2 or 3 small boilers and but one of these is working. It is used for thawing on a Pedro claim, the dirt being hoisted by windlass. Only two creeks, Pedro and Gold Stream, have been thoroughly prospected and the fact that no work to speak of is being done convinces Mr. Prudhomme that they are of little value.

Judge James Wickersham was in Fairbanks but did not establish a judicial district there as there was not sufficient indication of future business to warrant it.

Alex Coups, the man shot the latter part of March by ex-Recorder Duenkile, has entirely recovered. Duenkile was not prosecuted.

Many returning Tananaites are bringing their dogs back with them, about 40 having been brought back on the Rock Island.

The steamer Rock Island will sail at 8 o'clock tomorrow night for St. Michael and intermediate points. Her officers are Le Ballister, master; Bauer, pilot; Saude, first officer; Carrick, purser, and Mathews, chief engineer.

OTHER TANANA REPORTS.

Of the many passengers who reached Dawson on the Rock Island from Tanana this morning none seemed more pleased to return than Carrie Lowe, laundress, clairvoyant, mind reader and fortune teller.

"How is Tanana?" asked a reporter of Mrs. Lowe.

"On de bum," responded Carrie in a voice that could be heard across a Manitoba wheat field.

"Will you go back?" asked the gatherer of news.

"If I knows myself, I se here to stay and don't you fergit it," responded Carrie as she placed her hands on her hips and emitted a loud "ha! ha!"

"HAM GREASE JIMMIE."

J. J. Connors, known from Galveston, Texas, to Point Barrow as "Ham Grease Jimmie," was a passenger on the Rock Island from Tanana this morning. Jimmie left Dawson last fall going to Valdez where he spent the winter, joining in the rush from that place to Tanana in March. He was 32 days on the trip, the distance being 480 miles. He started with a horse but after traveling about 100 miles, had to leave him and complete the distance with dogs. Jimmie says Tanana is no good, that the whole camp won't even support one dance hall and that all the gamblers are getting out. Jack Marshbank left for Nome two weeks before Jimmie left Fairbanks. "Ham Grease Jimmie" says that the people at the Tanana had lived for some time on the hope that several hundred people with money would arrive on the first boat from Dawson but that when the Seattle No. 3 showed up with less than 40 it was off and people began to leave in small boats the very next day. The majority of those who have left have gone down the Yukon river owing to the fact that it is easier to travel with than against the current.

DR. MEDILL, MAYOR.

Under the statutes of Alaska an election was held at Fairbanks early this month, incorporating the town and electing municipal officers. There were numerous candidates for the office of mayor and the contest, according to Dr. Chambers who arrived this morning en route for Fairbanks to Skagway, was a hotly contested one, resulting in the election of Dr. C. D. Medill who will be remembered as "Little Ducky" who was with Rudy for a long time and until he left for Tanana in March with a stock of drugs, Rudy being behind him in the enterprise. "Ducky" is the first mayor of Fairbanks. The honor could not have been bestowed on a better or more deserving man.

JOHN P. O'CONNOR.

Everybody in Dawson remembers the scavenger man with the dun-colored horse who, with his two sons, left for Tanana with the first rush. John is still there but one of the boys returned on the Rock Island this morning. O'Connor was employed by the government at freightage for some time after he reached Fairbanks. After that he was idle for some time but two weeks ago he bought a well from which he is supplying the citizens of Fairbanks with water for domestic purposes and for chasers. He is said to have a good thing. A story is told on John that when it was decided to incorporate Fairbanks and that city officers be elected he took an active part in the movement and announced himself as a candidate for alderman. His candidacy, like Jonah's gourd, flourished for a night and all the boys drank to the success of the future alderman. But, alas! some one from Dawson sprung on John the fact that last fall he had renounced his allegiance to the Several baskets of fine fish were taken from the Klondike yesterday, the sordough actor John Mulligan being one of the fortunate anglers. The fish caught are a species of trout called greyling. Since the water in the Klondike fell last week it has been quite clear and fly fishing has been very good.

Another meeting of the committee of the 4th of July was held yesterday evening in the reading room of the D. He stated that a canvass made of First Avenue alone would not include any of the big banks, the transportation stage companies, yet in a short time the committee had secured amounting to over $1100. The positive the committee counted upon $800 or $700 more very least. The collections were quite easy and everyone had seemed enthusiastic celebration.
