REBUILDING NORTH LINE

Construction Gang started Work at this End of Branch—Ties Distributed—Heavy Steel—Dillinger Enquiry

The re-construction of the North line has commenced, from this end and will be pushed as rapidly as possible till practically a new road bed is built. The ties are being distributed and the construction gang with boarding car outfit is now on the job. It will take 250,000 ties to complete the work. Heavy steel will be laid as far as Disley and on certain other portions of the branch. All the line, where the worst snow trouble was experienced last winter, will be snow fenced this fall.

There will be a reorganization of the management of the C.N.R. very shortly and Gen. Supt. Brown will assume control of the western lines. Although the line from Brandon will be built this summer there will be but little construction elsewhere as it will take the company all their time to get their lines in shape for the fall traffic. The severe winter and the weakness of their equipment have placed them in a bad position and Mr. Brown will have his hands full right from the start.

The C.N.R. western system has been given over by Frank Dillinger representing the railway commission and he heard the grievances of the people along the north line a few days ago at Saskatoon. Commenting on this meeting, under the heading, "A Guarantee Needed," the evening Capital says:

At the Dillinger meetings yesterday, the various phases of deficiency in railway service were thoroughly discussed, and about all the information extant was laid before the representatives of the railway commission, so there is no question but what Mr. Dillinger will be able to report intelligently to his superiors as these men ought to be immediately discharged and black-listed from all railway service as well, and the same punishment should be meted out to switching crews who, it was stated at the meeting, loafed away the time for which the company was paying them to work when the people were in need of the fuel in the cars which their engines were ready to switch. If a railroad is to be in a position to operate its lines efficiently it must have discipline and promptitude among its employees, and the charges made so publicly should certainly be investigated and, if true, the offenders dealt with as the situation requires.

Certainly, to go back to the general subject, there has been enough talk on the subject to last a very long time. Let us now have service, that is prompt and efficient, and we will all be glad to bury the past in the sea of oblivion.

FORGER ARRESTED

Cases Arise Out of the Blairmore Affair—Reports say There was Something Crooked

Macleod, Alta., May 6.—Felix Montebelli has been arrested at Blairmore on the charge of perjury based on statements made in an affidavit over the former Blairmore townsite litigation. Montebelli's wife, Malcolm McKenzie, M.L.A. to come and defend him.

This is the case that has excited the province for several months. It was in the courts and finally in the legislature.

Charges of Rascality
Many direct charges of rascality have grown out of the litigation, the burden of which is that Malcolm McKenzie, local member of the legislature, has used his influence with the Liberal officials controlling the homestead machinery at Ottawa, to secure from one Lyon a merchant at Blairmore, and alleged homesteader of the townsite, a property now valued at more than $200,000.

The case has attracted a great deal of attention. At first the crown undertook a suit to invalidate the title which had been granted to Mackenzie, but the case was suddenly dropped by the crown after paying all costs. However, the facts elicited showed that Montebelli and Lyon had some dispute over a homestead and no progress was made until the Italian had sold his claim for $1000 to Mackenzie and immediately the Grit favorite of Southern Alberta was given a title to the property by the department, in spite of the fact that Lyon was the first man to reside on the land and erect a house and a general store.

Pilmsy Pretext
The Italian's claim was based on the fact that while a section man on the C.P.R. he had erected a shack in which he stored potatoes. On this he based a claim which Mackenzie was able to maintain with little effort. The trial of Montebelli is expected to re-open many sensational phases of the case.

DONALDSON DENIES RUMOR
Return of Neilson's Associates Member's Name with Story of Collusion—Government Asked to Prosecute

Prince Albert, May 6.—John Neilson one of the noted deputies at the late election and his son a politician who have since the institutions of criminal proceedings been in Chicago have returned home and have again taken up their residence here with the family. The other fellows are at Great Falls, Montana. Since Neilsons have returned it has been hinted around that they came with Mr. Donaldson's consent, and he has written the following letter to the press denying the insinuations in the strongest language:

The Letter
To the Electors of Prince Albert District:
Gentlemen,—A rumor has reached my ears since I have been given the seat for the district in the provincial house, that there was a deal between myself and the government of the province as regards the prosecution of the perpetrators of the northern polls fraud. The rumor takes the form of a statement made by several prominent Liberals, that in consideration of the government giving me the seat, I will allow the prosecution of the united delinquents to drop. This rumor is absolutely without the slightest foundation, but it may appear to have some truth in it owing to the fact that J. Neilson and son returned to Prince Albert as soon as the privileges and election committee of the House gave its decision.

I spent a considerable sum of money in having the chief delinquents prosecuted, with the result that although he was found guilty by a jury he was let off by the supreme court at Regina. As I have no guarantee that the same thing will not happen again should I proceed any further, I would suggest that the proper person to institute proceedings against Neilson and others is the attorney general of the province. I consider it the duty of the attorney general to see that the perpetrators of the Northern Polls outrage are brought up for trial. I would remind the people who are circulating this report to bear in mind that it is open for any elector in the district to prosecute in this case. For my own part I will await developments and see what action the attorney general will take before I move any further in the matter, but I strenuously deny that any arrangement has been made between the Government and myself about this affair.

I cannot conclude without thanking all those who so loyally supported me, not only at the poll, but all through the last eighteen months, and it will be my constant endeavor to prove myself worthy of the trust they have reposed in me.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
S. J. DONALDSON.

Mr. Porter of Portage la Prairie is a guest at the Clayton.

Ald. Thomson has been appointed acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bole have returned from their jaunt south and east. During their trip they visited New York.

J. H. Haslam has a large and handsome automobile which far exceeds in speed and appearance any other in the city. He has sold several to business men this season.

J. F. Frame, law clerk in the attorney general's department, is acting deputy in the absence of Frank Ford who is in the east. Mr. Ford will bring his family with him from Toronto.

I. R. Bingham of Moosomin, was in the city on Monday. He went to Broadway for a couple of days and will return here this evening. Mr. Bingham has prepared the interior plans for a number of hotels. The new license act provides that such plans must be kept in each room for the guidance of guests.

An order-in-council has been passed appointing the following King's Counsel in and for the province of Saskatchewan: J. H. Lamont, attorney general of Saskatchewan; F. W. G. Haglath, former attorney general of the North-West Territories; T. H. McGuire, ex-chief justice; James McKay, Prince Albert; Norman Mackenzie, Regina; J. T. Brown, M.L.A., Moosomin; Frank Ford, deputy attorney general.

Four sisters and a superior of the Order of the Grey Nuns went north to Saskatoon yesterday to open a hospital. They will return in the course of a few days to open the hospital here. While the new building is being erected use will be made of the old St. Mary's church.

Senator Davis is in the city en route from Ottawa. This has been a long session and the senator had the satisfaction of waking up the old chamber on the Hudson's Bay railway question, the investigation of other in the city. He has sold several telegraph and telephone rates in western Canada.

A. L. Gordon of the firm of Jones and Gordon left on Saturday for the east. He will visit Mr. Jones at Saranac Lake and will then go to Ottawa to attend an important law case affecting the estate of the late G. A. Montgomery. Miss LaFleur is a claimant to the money in the court of Chancery. The will of the deceased did not cover all the estate and a good deal of money reverted to the crown.

The decision of the court en banc respecting the ownership of R. H. Williams' property on Rose street, has resulted in the erection of a joint business block on this site. Mayor Smith having arranged with Mr. Williams to build together and use a common fire wall. This building will be a massive structure of brick with Bedford stone facings. The whole block will have a 150 foot frontage. The building occupied by the Regina Heating and Plumbing Co. is being moved to the south to allow construction to proceed at once.

Additional Locals
Adam Reid, western manager of the Royal Victoria Life Insurance Co. is in the city conferring with Mr. Wilson, the Saskatchewan manager respecting the company's business in this province.

to how things have fared with the merchants and general public along the Qu'Appelle & Long Lake line during the past month.

Mr. Whitelock, the delegate from Davidson, seems to have struck the keynote of the situation pretty accurately when he said that what was needed was not redress for the past, but rather a guarantee that satisfactory service can be had in future. This is in line with the action of the Winnipeg board of trade, which sent to the Dominion government a resolution asking that steps be taken to secure the carrying out of such improvements on the line of the Canadian Northern as will secure adequate service to the people along these lines.

Beyond all question the C.N.R. had much to contend with in the operation of this branch. To begin with nearly every siding between Regina and Prince Albert was full of C.P.R. cars at the time the line was turned over, and it was no easy matter to clear the freight thus accumulated. Again, as has already been stated the C.P.R., Great Northern and the Northern Pacific all found much difficulty in keeping their lines open during the past winter. Furthermore, as it is known, the C.N.R. met with unexpected delays in securing snow-plows and other equipment necessary for winter service, so that, taken altogether, there is a good deal to be said in behalf of the difficulties under which the company has labored.

But now, with the coming of warm weather, the settlement of the coal strike, and the possibility of making needed repairs to the road-bed, the company will be expected and with reason, to give better service from now on, as well as to energetically bend their efforts toward the securing of such a condition of their lines and such amplitude of equipment as will prevent a repetition of the tie-up and paralysis of traffic which has been such an eye-sore to the public at large during the past months.

What is more, the company's officials ought, if they value their reputation as railroad men, to thoroughly investigate the charges made by several speakers in the meeting yesterday, that employees on this branch had been lazy, negligent and wilfully disobedient, and, as was strongly hinted by one speaker, guilty of blackmail. If train crews at Craik did actually refuse to obey instructions and go to the help of train loads of snowed-in passengers, then

WEEKLY REVIEW

Secretary Phillips, of the G.T.P., said in regard to the rumor that they would abandon the G.T.P. site at Prince Rupert for North Vancouver as the western terminus of the road. Mr. Phillips stated that it was newspaper talk and that they had done so much already to prove it. "It is ridiculous," said Mr. Phillips. The bank of Commerce has opened a branch there. J. D. McArthur's outfit and supplies for work on the extension of the Grand Trunk Pacific from Westaskiwini to Saskatoon have been shipped to Hardisty. It is the intention to complete the grade into Saskatoon this fall, and a large force of men and teams will be put to work on their arrival. At a meeting of the Canadian Club the proposal to have W. T. Stead, the famous peace delegate, address the club was turned down owing to Stead's unpatriotic course during the Boer war. Mr. Stead was in Regina and addressed over one hundred members and guests of the Toronto Press Club. On the arrival of Gen. J. K. Kuroki and party at Victoria they were received with a salute of seventeen guns. Guards of honor were furnished by the local troops. Lieut.-Gov. Dunsmuir welcomed the party on behalf of the federal government. The Japanese arranged a procession and welcome celebration. When Mrs. Ansis Louise Demossey took the stand at her trial for killing Gustave Simon, she denied the guilt and stated that when she left Simon's office there was another woman there. A little heap of bones and ashes near the fire door, and a burnt and scorched piece of bone of not more than a foot long resting against the boiler, is all that remains of the two men who met death in the wrecking of the eastbound C.P.R. freight at File Hill recently. A cable message was received in Montreal announcing that Mr. F. H. Ross, the McGill Rhodes' scholar, had won the chancellor's Latin essay prize. Ross has already won the Craven and Ireland scholarships, the blue ribbons of Oxford's classical course. The grand jury at Nelson found a true bill against James Mamatano for the attempted murder of his uncle. Prisoner pleaded guilty and asked for mercy. The judge ignored the plea and said that the public was not safe while the prisoner was at large and sentenced him to imprisonment at New Westminster for the rest of his natural life. Prince Edward of Wales, eldest son of the Prince of Wales, on May 1st joined the Royal Naval College at Osborne, Isle of Wight, as a cadet. He will be treated exactly the same as the 400 other cadets. He will occupy a bunk at the college and be restricted to 25 cents a week pocket money. He was born June 23, 1904. Richard Moisey, a prominent East Zorra farmer, was found dead in a ditch on his farm. Moisey was subjected to fainting fits and it is supposed that he fell in the ditch while out walking and got drowned. The freedom of the city of London was conferred privately on Sir Robert Bond, the Newfoundland premier at the Guildhall, London. Sir Robert was not present when the other premiers were made freemen of the city. Dublin is preparing to entertain many homecomers from America this coming summer who are expected to return for a visit to the big Irish national exhibition. The exhibition, which is by far the most important affair of the kind ever held in Ireland was opened with great ceremony on Saturday last. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, addressing the Canadian Club at London, said that he had no fear of Canada becoming Americanized. American immigrants in Canada were a practical people and had quitted the United States for Canada because it was a better country, with better laws which were administered ten-fold better. He was a great admirer of the American Republic, he said, but Americans who crossed the border knew that their life and property were secured than in their own country. The contract has been let for the erection of a $75,000 sand-bank and brick works at North Battleford and work on the building has commenced, and the plant is to be ready to work in two months.

If Your Horse Gets Hurt? KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE... ought to be in every stable and barn in Canada. It prevents all little horse troubles from becoming big ones—and takes away all signs of lameness. With a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure handy, you are prepared for accidents that may happen at any time.

While climbing out of a window on the first storey of Old St. Lawrence market, Toronto, early Thursday morning after putting out a fire, Fireman Mat Swadlow, slipped and fell to the sidewalk and had his arm broken in three places, his hip and cheek badly cut and his head injured. He was carrying his axe when he fell. Harbor echoes were awakened at Montreal by the arrival of the first ocean steamer after being held up at Quebec for a number of days by ice. The first arrivals are the Hibernal and Marina, both freighters from Glasgow, and a whole fleet of sister ships were on their way up stream. Big contingents of dockmen had been looking seaward for several days and the fact that the boats were in sent up the spirits of the dockmen who have been idle all winter or subsisting by shovelling snow from the city streets. Members of the fashionable St. George's Episcopal church, at Hempstead, Long Island, were astonished when they learned that the pastor, Rev. John M. Cook had departed and that Miss Flora Whaley had also left her home and had written letters saying that she would not return. Rev. Mr. Cook is married. Miss Whaley has a considerable fortune of her own. A hockey match in May sounds like a pipe dream or the story of some Arctic explorer, yet the residents of Ottawa enjoyed the rink has been closed for some time. It came to the president's ears that there was still excellent skating ice in the building and so the hockey match took place. The Huron was the first steamer to reach the head of the lakes this spring, and with the arrival of the Northern Navigation Co's fine new flag ship on May 2nd, traffic on the lakes is again resumed. Nearly a thousand people gathered on the dock to see the steamer tie up. When the Huron came through the harbor, the men who met their fates in the accident were Charles Jones, fireman, and Harry Howes, brakeman. Engineer Kyle admitted that he disobeyed orders by running past Myrtle where he should have met the train with which he collided. He said in the steam and fog he mistook another train on the siding for the one he was to meet. ADMITS MISTAKE Myrtle, May 3.—At the coroner's inquest here regarding two deaths on March 25 last in a C.P.R. collision, the jury returned a verdict that the train was met with a vendictive alute by nearly every boat in the harbor. She made every waf through the ice in great shape for a time but when she got in mid-harbor the ice was too much for her, and it was a long time before she was able to make the dock and the master notified a tug. The Huron is again in charge of Capt. Robert Footo, with M. Ironsides as first mate. A novel point in the payment of sessional indemnity to senators appointed during a session of parliament has just been ruled upon by the minister of justice. His decision is that the statutory fine for each day a senator is absent from the house must be imposed for each day of the session of parliament, prior to the appointment of the new senator whether the senate was in session or not. There are five vacancies in the ministry. Four of them were appointed on January 15 and one on March 12. Parliament met on Nov. 22, and they have been mulcted for every day from that date to the date of their appointment. Five hundred men working on the Grand Trunk Pacific west of Neepawa went on strike on Friday morning, most of them starting east by the C.P.R. The majority of them were apparently foreigners. ANIMALS AT RIVER PARK Little Buffalo Calf, Angora Kid and Other Attractions. Winnipeg, May 2.—Perhaps the most interesting piece of information from a news standpoint at River Park is the fact that a young bull buffalo calf has been added to the herd this year. This precious youngster, who was born about two weeks ago, is a fine fat little fellow and was about as lively a little animal as it would be possible to imagine. During the visit he was gamboling around his mother in the most erratic fashion. He is bound to be the pet of the children during the coming summer. The new comer is of a very high brown color, large boned with a peculiarly shaped head and has every prospect of developing into an exceptionally fine specimen of his kind. The buffaloes have stood the winter better than any other animals in the park and are all looking in fine condition. There are several other juniors at the park besides Master Buffalo and one of the rights that will delight the children is a kid Angora goat which, not only being excruciatingly funny in his antics, is a very handsome little fellow, being spottedly white and black with a well formed and sturdy little body. Needless to say, he is his mother's pride and any attempt to play with him is keenly resented. Another most amusing sight is the timber wolf pup, they behave just like a dog, fighting and playing, and all seem to be enjoying the first experience of life immensely. At the bear pit the cinnamon bear was perched on the top of his pole complacently surveying the efforts of his keeper to construct a steel railing around the top of the pole to prevent children from falling over. This bear has grown considerably since last summer as has also his mate, but both are in very poor condition just now. Other animals visited were the black bear, crows, elk, moose, silver foxes, red foxes, badgers, coons, ermine, muskrat, homing pigeons and the ducks, and all these, although looking in a run down condition after the winter, will soon, with the coming summer, recover their usual appearance.

MANCHURIA EVACUATED Both Russia and Japan Pull Out and China Gives Thanks. Pekin, May 4.—The Russian and Japanese troops have now completely evacuated Manchuria in accordance with the Portsmouth treaty. All military movements have ceased, and the areas hitherto controlled by the Russian and Japanese troops have been restored to the Chinese. Since Mucken was handed over to the Japanese evacuation has been proceeding gradually, the Chinese local authorities assuming authority. Chinese troops have been dispatched to Hai-lung-Kiang to replace the Russians who have left. The Manchurian administration is to be reorganised, and then a definite statement will be made regarding the distribution of troops. The Chinese government has presented a note to the Japanese government expressing hearty appreciation of the complete withdrawal of Japanese troops from Manchuria. WHOLE FAMILY DIED New York, May 5.—Wm. Cross, 38 years old, his wife and their two sons, were found dead from inhaling gas in their home in Jersey City today. The gas that killed them had come from a pipe in the cellar that was to have been connected with a heating range. The police believe the four deaths resulted from accident.

COAL STRIKE SETTLED

The coal strike is at last settled and a two years' agreement has been entered into between the miners and the operators.

The negotiations for the settlement of the present strike a great deal of credit is due the Dominion government for the untiring efforts on behalf of industrial peace.

The labor leaders were not unreasonable in their peace negotiations, but the miners themselves were a little headstrong all through the proceedings until at times it became doubtful whether they were under the control of the organization or not.

BOTHA, NOT STEAD

Toronto has been criticised because the members of the Canadian Club refused to entertain W. T. Stead, the well known English editor, he being a pro-Boer during the South African war.

There is a wide difference between Gen. Botha's position and that of W. T. Stead, and if the latter had had his way during the war, the former would not be the prime minister of a British Colony today.

The Canadian Club can entertain Gen. Botha, but not Mr. Stead.

WASTED SYMPATHY

Those who know Frank O. Fowler, politician and grain dealer, must admit that the interference of Judge Phippen in his behalf at the recent court scene in the grain trade prosecution, was a waste of sympathy.

The people of the west are familiar with the case referred to, and it is well known that evidence exists to prove conspiracy on the part of the grain trade as alleged in the prosecution of the men now before the court.

Everyone respects the principle enunciated by the judge, but those who stances of the case, will not acknowledge Frank Fowler and the circumstantial application of that restraint too often ignored.

PRESS COMMENTS

International tragedies usually leave scars long after the days of the happening, but rarely is the actual evidence remaining when the catastrophe passes into history.

For nine years it has lain there and though two contracts for its removal have been made, they have fallen through, and the wreck must stay until the United States government removes it.

This conclusion is said to have been strongly supported by the survey of the contractors, who undertook to raise the wreck and whose divers made a minute examination.

PARLIAMENTARY REVIEW

The third session of the tenth parliament of Canada was brought to a close with the usual ceremonies. It was the 95th working day of the session although, in actual sense, the session lasted for five months and six days. The speech from the throne dealt with the usual generalities. It referred to the continued prosperity of the country, to the cautious advance of commerce and reviewed the legislation just closed. Special emphasis was laid upon benefits of the industrial disputes act and upon the tariff legislation. There were no unusual features except that Sir Wilfrid was absent, his place was, however, taken by Sir Richard Cartwright, who as senior privy councillor, took his place to the right of the throne. There was not the usual crowd of ladies on the floor, but there was an unusual attendance of the public owing to the ceremony taking place on Saturday afternoon when so much of Ottawa takes a holiday. As the hand of the guards played "God Save the King" after His Excellency's departure the tired legislators and all the attendants upon parliament said "Amen."

Whether justified or not, the charge was openly made in parliament that one of the main purposes of the institution of the commission was to rake up material to discredit a number of the leading members of the Conservative party. Mr. G. W. Fowler a New Brunswick member of the house had initiated a deal in western lands in which a number of his colleagues participated. The Union Trust Co., of which Hon. G. E. Foster is an official, was brought into it through his company assisting in financing the deal. The selection of the lands purchased was brought about and their transferable value considerably advanced, so it was said by the information given to the parties to the transaction by an official of a railway traversing the Canadian Northwest. In this way, it was alleged, by Liberal members that a number of their political opponents had prostituted their places in parliament by placing themselves under obligations to interests now which at any time he seeking their support for the advancement of legislation or interest to their property or on the other hand desirous of having them offer material to some legislation detrimental to their interests.

In their places, however, were proved and experienced leaders who might be depended upon to rise to the occasion should circumstances for evidence of their ability to prove their merit in that respect. In the common there was as leader Hon. W. S. Fielding, the minister of finance upon whom political gossip has already cast the mantle of the premiership, while in the senate that old political war horse, Sir Richard Cartwright, for the nonce, shouldered the responsibilities of the premiership and the general direction of the Liberal party's destinies should the occasion arise to require the assertion of authority.

It had been pretty well arranged, however, before the departure of Sir Wilfrid Laurier that all contentious subjects had been either settled or wiped off the slate for the time being, and that only such matters as might be disposed of without party strife or combat should come up in the final days of the session. Thus it was much of interest incidental to the closing proceedings was lacking when compared with previous sessions. Several bills which might have created somewhat of a fight, simplified matters a great deal. The estimates of the department presided over by the minister who accompanied the premier to the old country were rushed through before they departed so that there could be no trouble in that department. Last, but not least, there was a gentleman's understanding between Sir Wilfrid and Hon. Mr. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, that political peace would mark the closing proceedings.

Thus it was that the coast was cleared for the absence of the first minister and his colleagues. It will be remembered, however, that for a time there were grave doubts that he would be able to get away and represent the Dominion at the colonial conference. The political horizon looked pretty stormy for a time just prior to his departure. But the threatening storm cleared to a very marked degree with the resignation of the Hon. W. R. Emmerson, minister of railways and canals.

The circumstances leading up to that event constituted a situation of unparalleled dramatic tension and will place the past session within the category of special interest in the history of the Canadian house. It was without doubt the most exciting session since the advent to power of the present administration.

Contentious legislation there has been in plenty since the Liberal party came into power in 1896. That is true of every parliament. During the old Conservative regime, they had their scandalous sessions which will be ripe in the minds of many readers. The past session, however, is the first one in which the word "scandal" has been so rife during the present regime. Heretofore the scandal records in Canadian politics had been largely to do with the conduct of the affairs of the country, or, as the word "hoax" is most freely used, termed it, "hoaxing."

The past session saw the scandal feature turned in the direction of the personal conduct of the ministers. A great deal has been said and printed as to whether a minister's private life is a matter of public concern. Some claim do not obtrude themselves too glaringly on the public eye and do not interfere with the administration of the affairs of the country. Others contend that a minister has as much right to be judged by his private life as his public acts and that his conduct should be above reproach and a good example to the public at large. However that may him but later on an accusation was made against Hon. Mr. Emmerson by a New Brunswick paper of which Mr. Fowler is a shareholder. This led to his resignation and institution of libel actions against several papers which published the charges and these cases are now sub judice.

Mr. Bourassa made another effort to have Mr. Fowler prove or withdraw his charges, but the speaker ruled the motion out of order on a technicality. As has already been stated these incidents constituted the most exciting of the sessions compared with which the ordinary legislation passed into insignificance. There were a few measures carried which aroused more than passing interest but the session was devoid of great questions or debates on matters of great party policy which have in the past stirred the interest of the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. For instance, last session the Grand Trunk Pacific legislation was put through. Its passage was stubbornly and stiffly contested foot by foot by the opposition, but there was nothing like it introduced last session. Debates on religious teaching in the public schools in schools have in the past thrilled and aroused the passions of the people, but there was never a thrill to be had during the past session apart from the "wine, women and graft" talk.

As the session was more famous for that connection than for the importance of widespread interest in the legislation enacted it will be of interest in this connection to recite briefly the circumstances which led up to the important developments of the latter part of the session. It will be remembered that during the last parliamentary recess a commission was appointed by the government to enquire into the operations of the different life insurance companies whose head offices are in Canada. The course was largely influenced by the amazing disclosures made in connection with similar companies in the United States. During the last session the report of this commission was presented and laid on the table of the house.

The evidence which had been taken throughout the sittings of the commission was well known and widely commented upon and it so happens involved some of the operations in western lands of a number of members of parliament on the opposition side.

Whether justified or not, the charge was openly made in parliament that one of the main purposes of the institution of the commission was to rake up material to discredit a number of the leading members of the Conservative party. Mr. G. W. Fowler a New Brunswick member of the house had initiated a deal in western lands in which a number of his colleagues participated. The Union Trust Co., of which Hon. G. E. Foster is an official, was brought into it through his company assisting in financing the deal. The selection of the lands purchased was brought about and their transferable value considerably advanced, so it was said by the information given to the parties to the transaction by an official of a railway traversing the Canadian Northwest. In this way, it was alleged, by Liberal members that a number of their political opponents had prostituted their places in parliament by placing themselves under obligations to interests now which at any time he seeking their support for the advancement of legislation or interest to their property or on the other hand desirous of having them offer material to some legislation detrimental to their interests.

This situation led to taunts and insinuations of disclosures, by members on the Liberal side and it was in response to one of these that Mr. Fowler made his famous "wine, women and graft" disclosure threat.

Here was a situation which contained all kinds of possibilities. The insinuation was levelled at the heads of the ministry and there was at once a clamor, led principally by Mr. Bourassa, for more definite charges or else for a complete withdrawal. The situation became at once dramatic and intense. It was claimed by the independent press of the country that neither side was desirous of a show down. It was in fact strongly hinted in the press that there was an understanding between the leaders of the House to ward off further developments along these lines. This was, however, denied by the leaders, who claimed their willingness to have the situation cleared up.

In the meantime there had been a lively debate about the resignation of Mr. Hyman, who had gone away sick and had left his resignation behind him but in such shape that there was doubts as to its validity. There were rumors about him which Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated in the house were denied by Mr. Hyman and which statements were doubtable to the premier. Subsequently Mr. Fowler's threat set the house by the ears and precipitated the most exciting debate of the session. The demand for an accounting was received with silence by

In describing the Dreadnought the official program of the day's proceedings says: "She has satisfied her creators and fulfilled all anticipations. When 80 per cent of her guns were first fired together, with a total energy of 354,792 foot tons, some cups and saucers were broken. All else withstood immediate concussion and the difficult problem of preventing the blast of one gun from interfering with that of another has been solved. She has completed a voyage of ten thousand miles, and, without using all her boiler power, maintained a speed of over seventeen knots for 3,400 miles. She could have done another thousand at the same speed."

MORGAN BUYS A BANK

Canadian Institution Passes Into Hands of Railway King

Montreal May 2.—Nothing new has developed today in regard to the changes in the Sovereign bank. It is given out that there is not the slightest truth in the story that the bank was to be amalgamated with some other large institution. For some time it has been understood that J. Pierpont Morgan and his associates have been acquiring a firm hold on the stock of the bank. Having become heavily interested Mr. Morgan desires that some modification should be made in the policy of the bank. The changes now made and those taking place are apparently the result of the purpose.

A meeting of the directors was held today. After it was over, an announcement was made that Mr. Jarvis had been prevailed upon to accept the presidency in succession to Mr. McDonald, who felt that his own active business interests prevented him from giving the bank as much of his time as he would desire. It was announced that the bank's business had grown at a phenomenal rate during the past year or two, and that the health of the present general manager, D. M. Stewart, had suffered considerably from the exacting nature of his work. In view of this, it is altogether likely that assistance will be afforded him by the appointment of a joint general manager. Mr. Jarvis will take up his new duties as president at once.

Mr. Lewis was asked why, and replied that nothing before was said about the repairs and the shut-down took effect immediately upon the expiration of the last contract with the men.

For Every Woman According to Her Needs

Heel Protector's Save Both Heel and Shoes

She Cares for Her Footgear

NO GIRL would dream of wearing the old rush or wooden sandals of the ancients. The evolution of the shoe, gradual as it has been, has yet been most complete. Through sandals and rush footwear we have passed, first, to the uncomfortable and elaborate slippers of the middle ages, and finally, to the perfect footgear of today. So entire, indeed, has been this evolution that a Greek goddess herself was not so well shod as is the modern girl.

For sentimental reasons, if for no other, therefore, the practical girl should care well for articles that represent so much thought and labor and time. Being practical, however, she would probably scout this reason and give as her motive for the trouble she takes to keep her shoes in good repair the prolonged life and improved appearance bestowed upon them thereby.

ECONOMY IN CARE
Perhaps, too, she is right, for certainly ten minutes a day spent in giving shoes a thorough "beauty treatment" will work wonders with them. Prevention, however, is better than cure, and so our practical girl pays first attention to the care of her footgear at the moment of its buying. In the end it is really economy to buy several pairs of shoes at once, providing none of them be of pronounced ephemeral styles, for rest from constant wear is their chief asset. Every girl should possess at least two pairs of shoes and two of slippers in active service, to say nothing of such special varieties as dancing slippers or gymnasium shoes. A common sense home in the evening—for the practical girl is apt to be self-sustaining—she should at once change her shoes for slippers, and if it is at all possible she should not even wear the same pair of shoes throughout the day. Observance of this rule will save her many a time from tired, aching feet, and will bring beneficial effect upon the shoes themselves.

The shoes once bought, however, the daily treatment becomes more important. Never, above all, hurl an offending pair of shoes into a dusty closet without a thought of them until you put them on again the next morning. It is by no means necessary to polish them daily; twice a week at the stands devoted to women is enough for that. Every day, however, the shoes should be first brushed carefully to remove dust, and then thoroughly rubbed with vaseline. Special attention being given the worn places. The vaseline should be left on all night, as the leather needs grease as a restorative, and in the morning the shoes should be again rubbed to remove superfluous grease.

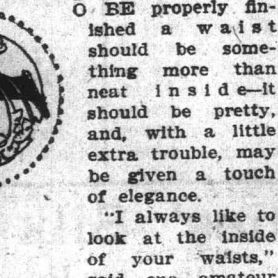

TREES ARE IMPERATIVE
They should by no means be left simply standing in the closet or wardrobe during the night; a tree for every shoe is imperative. Strange to say, the more expensive fitted trees are not so good as the cheaper jointed ones, which are much easier to manipulate. As soon as a shoe or slipper leaves the foot, it should be placed upon its own individual tree, and kept there until next used, always brushing carefully with a felt brush. More than this, a shoe box is an absolute necessity. The inevitable dirt and dust of the average closet mean death to the most hardy of shoes. A large soap box answers the purpose admirably. Hinge the lid, and cover the interior with cretonne, chintz or wallpaper. In a box of this size there is room for every shoe and slipper you possess.

Slippers, of course, since they get less hard wear, need less care. Besides keeping them always on trees and in the box, the only rule to observe is to treat white and light-colored slippers with a prepared cleansing chalk as soon as they begin to show signs of wear.

It is of prime importance that repairs should be prompt, and that attention should be paid to the little furnishings whose condition so surely indicates repair or replacement. Never let a lace get beyond the days of its pristine freshness; never leave a shoe for one day without a button. By walking properly, on the balls of the

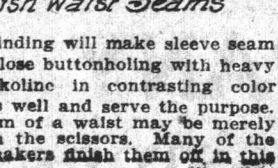

A Shoe Brush and Trees are Essential

Finishing a Waist

FINISHED properly, a waist should be something more than a simple affair. It should be pretty, and, with a little extra trouble, may be given a touch of elegance. It is of prime importance that repairs should be prompt, and that attention should be paid to the little furnishings whose condition so surely indicates repair or replacement. Never let a lace get beyond the days of its pristine freshness; never leave a shoe for one day without a button. By walking properly, on the balls of the

To Finish Waist Seams

THE GROWING BABY
MOTHERS are often in despair in relation to the way baby outfits grow. It is a puzzle, if his clothes were made for him, and then alter them in a little while without having them look "patchy," is sometimes a puzzle. Skirts are easily disposed of by letting down a tuck or facing a hem, but waists are the problem. This problem, however, is to be solved before it occurs rather than afterward. In a rapidly growing child, unless you can afford to discard the garments as soon as they become too snug a fit, the clothes should be cut a size or two too large and the surplus should be disposed of without showing. If the waist has a belt set in, the material of the waist should be carried down under the belt, and a further addition may be made by taking a tuck so close to the top of the belt that it will never be noticed. This can be let out at any moment for length, and should be put in by close hand-running, so that it may be the more easily removed.

Winding the Bobbin
I f your machine is one of the newer makes, and has a winder with the "automatic" catch, you can save yourself a good deal of trouble by winding a fresh bobbin while the sewing is going on. To do this, put a second spool upon the spool-holder, and attach an end to the fresh bobbin. Slip the catch in place, and while the long seams give smoothly from under the presser, empty the bobbin in the usual way. What a convenience! It is to be regretted, alas, every machine sewer knows

Easy Way of Using Insertion
W HEN one considers the yards and yards of lace insertion that are used on a single garment, it becomes quite apparent that any easy method of producing the result will be a boon to busy workers. If straight lines only are to be used, the insertion does not require the finest of handwork, insertion can be put in by machine without the stitching being in evidence and in a manner that is absolutely strong and durable. First, fasten the insertion into the fabric rather closely and firmly, then stitch along both edges with a small firm stitch, taking in only the first thread of the lace. Turn the outer portions of the material over into the lace and again stitch just within the edges perfectly strong, enduring even the ravages of the laundry without pulling out.

A Simplified Mode of Shirring
T HEE gown of today is an elaborate creation, much shirred and much tucked, and any simplified method of doing the work is to be welcomed. To get the best results the work should all be done by hand, but where time must be made a consideration, very fine machine stitching can sometimes be substituted. Many tucks and shirrings are much in vogue, and are very beautiful when well managed. If the tucks are carefully put in, of the required width and are threaded with silkines exactly matching the color of the material, they can be drawn up very easily and with perfect success. The shirring is done by drawing up a string of any material, through the eye of a rather coarse needle, then the needle passed through the tuck eye first. If the tucks have been sewed by

THE POINT OF VIEW
HA VE you ever tried to reach something which lay upon a shelf that was a trifle too high for you? And have you not found that, while from a distance of six feet it was in perfectly plain view, when you had reached the shelf the article had entirely disappeared from sight? And have you never looked through magnifying lenses, only to discover that the object was blurred if held too close to the eyes almost any sort that is soft and pliable can be utilized. The cord that fits the tuck snugly gives the best results.

THE JOY OF DETAIL
DO YOU know that you have missed half the pleasure of life if you do not realize the fascination of detail? Do you know, too, how happy is the mortal who does realize that fascination? Everywhere this unholy love may assert itself. From the room in which absolutely everything follows a certain scheme to the costume, where there is not one fleck of any color, save the one or two previously decided on, it is in evidence.

THE POINT OF VIEW
Very well! All this illustrates the value of an outside opinion in some given perplexity. While it is not well to carry our trials to outsiders if it can be avoided, there are times when, by reason of being too close to the "shelf" we are not capable of obtaining a clear view. It is often said that no third person can give really valuable advice between the subtle differences and the little things which go to make up the sum total; it cannot be accurately conveyed in words. It is just in account of this fact, however, that the outside view is valuable. By the sufferer, the subtle little things are viewed through the lens of his unit until their proportion is often so exaggerated as almost to eclipse the original grievance.

THE POINT OF VIEW
The judicious outsider, seeing from a distance, takes a saner, broader, clearer view and starts at the very foundation of the trouble. She can say to the one with obscured vision, "Put your hand there," "Push aside that," and, above all, "Come here with me and get my view. You will then be able to go

THE POINT OF VIEW
There are plenty of people who would be benefited if you told them that a good tonic and plenty of fresh air would relieve their troubles. They would far rather sit at home and cry. Was it not Henry Ward Beecher who said that when a woman of his accepted congregation came to him in a perfect frenzy of despair about her soul, he always felt sure that she had been eating too many hot biscuits?

THE POINT OF VIEW
Indigestion is the unsuspected cause of many physical ills and of nearly as many more mental attitudes which have resulted in real trouble. One wise woman who recognized this principle was accustomed to go to her physician from time to time and say, "Doctor, I want some medicine for crossness—pure, unadulterated crossness." And the physician, being equally sensible, would prescribe a restricted diet and give her something to square up her digestion. And, lo! her troubles fled like the mist of the morning.

And here, too, was the outside-point of view valuable.
