Madam-It's Got to be Blended or You Can't Use it for Pastry as Well as for Bread

All this talk about western wheat flours being "pastry" flours, is just plain talk. Anyone, who knows anything about wheat, knows that western wheat flour cannot, will not and does not, make as good pastry as "BEAVER" FLOUR.

Any flour, which is said to be western wheat flour, and makes extra good pies and cake, will be found to be blended like "Beaver" Flour—whether it is sold as such or not.

A blended flour like "BEAVER" FLOUR is the only one that is equally good for bread and pastry. You will understand WHY.

Manitoba wheat has what the bakers call strength. It makes a big loaf of bread; but the bread is spongy or full of holes and lacks flavor.

Ontario wheat, blended with spring wheat, makes the ideal bread and pastry flour. By combining the two in just the right proportions, we have "Beaver" Flour—a flour that makes the real home-made bread and delicious light pastry.

In cities such as Toronto, where bakers have tried a blended flour, it was found that although a smaller appearing loaf was the result, the people refused the Manitoba flour bread in favor of it—and there is now no other flour used.

is sold for what it is—a scientifically blended flour—the original blended flour—pure, honest, reliable.

Don't bother with two kinds of flour—don't put up with heavy pastry, or flavorless bread. Order "Beaver" Flour—at your grocer's.

Dealers—write us for prices on Feed, Coarse Grains and Cereals. THE T. H. TAYLOR CO., LIMITED, - CHATHAM, Ont.

R. G. ASH & CO., St. John's, Sole Agents in Nfld., will be pleased to quote prices.

A True Diamond

CHAPTER I.
She is Expected.

"MISS CRUMP," said Lady Dove to her companion, "what are you stopping for?"

The poor companion had read on till her throat ached and a weariness, which she could not disguise had taken possession of her.

"I beg your pardon, I thought perhaps Miss Whitburn would be soon arriving."

"The hour of Antonia Whitburn's arrival has nothing to do with your reading," said her ladyship. "The whole business is very annoying to me; but reading soothes my mind. Go on, if you please."

Miss Crump cleared her tired throat, and in a weak voice she continued the novel which was suitable for soothing her ladyship's nerves. It must be owned that she did not think very

Why Not be Well and Strong

When weak and run down DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will help you back to health.

This letter tells of two women who have proven this.

Mrs. D. Stott, Cobourg, Ont., writes: "After recovering from typhoid fever I was left in a very low state of health. I was weak, nervous and not fit to do any work. A friend of mine, Mrs. G. M. Brown, had used DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD and told me that it benefited her wonderfully. I took courage and began the use of the medicine. After taking the first box I began to feel an improvement in health and now after using four boxes I am completely cured. I now feel like myself once more and believe that I can attribute the cure to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Life is too short to spend weeks or months dragging out a miserable existence of weakness and suffering. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures by forming new rich blood and building up the system. You can depend on it to benefit you, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

much about the words she was reading. Her mind went back to the time when she had first come, as a young and hopeful being, to Aldersfield House, full of ideas of being useful, helpful, and loving. Now she was a living machine and she knew it, though she remembered the time when she had been quite otherwise. "Poor child," she thought to herself, "I wonder how soon her youth will be crushed out of her? Poor child, poor child."

Just at this moment of time Miss Anne Crump made several mistakes; but Lady Dove, being also busy with her own thoughts, said nothing, so that it was not till the companion called the hero by his wrong name that she was reproved.

"Really, Miss Crump, your reading is becoming quite unintelligible. If you left me no one would take you in; and pray what would become of you?" Miss Crump blushed as she answered sadly and humbly.

"I don't know, Lady Dove, I am sure."

"No more do I. No one would put up with your slowness, Miss Crump. Everybody is advanced now, and your education is merely nominal, I assure you—merely nominal."

"I am afraid it is, compared with the modern standard."

"That is just what I said, you need not repeat it. I am extremely worried about having to take in this girl. If Sir Evas were not so ludicrously conscientious I should not have allowed him to suggest it even. But I hope people will see that we do our duty. Sir Evas says one cannot allow one's own flesh and blood to be—to be—"

"No, of course not," hastily put in Miss Crump, without waiting for the end of Lady Dove's sentence.

"I did not finish my sentence, Miss Crump—I was going to say that I should not like people to say that our niece was without a home."

"It certainly would be sad when there is so much room in this house."

"Room has nothing to do with it. She is the child of Sir Evas' half-sister. The old Sir Evas married beneath him. My husband's stepmother was nobody; but still the girl could boast of being niece to Sir Evas Dove, and it would not do."

"Not at all," sighed Miss Crump. It had "done" for her to be nobody's niece in particular; but that was different. Her father had been a superior tradesman; but having failed in business, through the dishonesty of a partner, he had died of grief, leaving his only child, Anne, penniless at the age of twenty, and with but few relations to help her. Lady Dove had "rescued her out of charity," as she called it, and since then she had taken great care to keep this human being in complete bondage. The truth was, Miss Crump was extremely useful to her. All the more so since she had lost all natural power or wish to rebel.

"I have told you all about Miss Whitburn so that you may help me to educate her till such a time as she comes out. She will, in the meantime, be very useful to me when visitors are here, for really, Miss Crump, you are getting very dull."

Miss Crump looked down on her book and did not answer. She knew she was dull, and the knowledge was not made less painful by being often reminded of it. Lady Dove, getting no answer from her companion, continued.

"I dislike that way you have of saying nothing, Miss Crump. Dear me, that girl will soon be coming. Sir Evas forgets I shall have all the anxiety about her. She is not related to me; but I will not have it said that I ever fail in what is right and charitable towards the penniless."

"Of course not," murmured Miss Crump, who felt bound to answer.

"This girl has been educated somewhere in the Colonies. Her father was a doctor, her mother died when she was born. The girl has of course had no advantages. We are her only living relations, and as such, we mean to make a small provision for her by giving her a wedding trousseau. She must marry, of course, and naturally, she will wish to please us in this respect, as in all others."

Lady Dove was not thinking of her companion as she said this, rather she was talking to herself, and the thoughtful expression of her face told Miss Crump plainly enough that her ladyship was making plans. Lady Dove made a great many plans, as her poor companion knew well enough, for the trouble of carrying them out usually devolved upon her.

"She is only sixteen, I think?" murmured Miss Crump.

"Only sixteen. It is a very tiresome age. However she could, I suppose, marry at seventeen or eighteen. Lady Carew quite recognises what a great sacrifice I am making in taking a young and penniless relation to live with me."

"You said she could entertain dull people and walk with Sir Evas and teach in your village school and take messages when you cannot send me," said Miss Crump, without meaning in the least to be sarcastic. Lady Dove looked quickly at her companion; but she saw at once that the human machine meant no harm, so she merely answered.

"Of course she must be useful so as to repay us for taking her in; but you must remember, Miss Crump, that Sir Evas' step-niece is a lady by birth."

Miss Crump blushed a little. She was never allowed to forget that her father had served behind a counter.

"I shall treat her as one of the family," continued Lady Dove. "Sir Evas wishes this; but I expect her to remember that without us she would be, at this moment homeless and penniless."

"Poor child," murmured Miss Crump.

"And why poor child?" said Lady Dove, with rising colour; then she recollected that Miss Crump's opinion was of no value at all, and the frightened companion was only thankful that her answer was not waited for, her hand-task mistress continuing angrily: "Go on with your reading, if you please."

When Lady Dove said "if you please" in that tone, it meant that she was in a very bad temper. This was not a very rare occurrence, still Miss Crump had not yet, after all these years of persecution, become accustomed to these words spoken in that tone. They were often followed by petty persecutions which the poor companion dreaded without being able to rebel against them. She read on and on; the book was dull, but that did not affect Miss Crump very much, for she was dull herself. "Poor child, poor child," she thought, as the winter afternoon slowly drew to its end, and the rain pattered drearily against the window. "How will she bear it? She will be too young to—accustom herself to 'his life as I did.'"

"Leave off, please," said Lady Dove, starting up, "don't you hear the carriage coming? It is very tiresome that Sir Evas has been called away to-day. My life is one long martyrdom. Ever since I married I have had—"

"Shall I go, Lady Dove?" asked Miss Crump.

"Yes, go; no, stay; and presently, you can take my niece to her room. Have you seen that everything is ready for her?"

"Yes, Lady Dove."

"When there is no company she will dine with us, on the other days she must dine with you in the sitting-room."

"Thank you," murmured Miss Crump.

The Nova Scotia Fleet Growing

Over One Hundred and Fifty of These Vessels Are Now Engaged in Deep Sea Fisheries.

HALIFAX N.S., May 16.—Over 150 vessels from Nova Scotia are now engaged in the deep sea fisheries this season, which means an increase of four hundred men and $250,000 capital.

Over 30,000 people in the provinces are dependent upon this pelagic industry. The livelihood of thousands of others are affected by the circulation of money resultant from the prosecution of the fisheries, and among its adjuncts are cold storage plants, ship yards, coopers shops, boat shops, and general outfitters.

No portion of the Banking fleet is owned in Halifax, but since the first of March 95 vessels have cleared from this port for the Banks.

These vessels are owned mostly at Lunenburg, and have come here for bait, salt, and other supplies. Each boat spends not less than $1,000 while here.

HALIFAX THE CLEARING HOUSE. The port of Halifax is the Clearing House of the fisheries, and one-half ($5,000,000), of the total value of all fish handled in the province passes through its coffers.

The figures of 1911 relating to the Banking fleet, as distinct from that which operates off-shore, shows a total number of vessels engaged, 113. Lunenburg sends out 104 of these, Shelburne County 3, and Richmond County 6. Averaging their cost at $11,000 (initial cost complete, with outfit) there is a total of $1,463,000 invested in that branch alone. The 1911 catch by these vessels amounted to 225,000 quintals, valued at $1,500,000. For 1912 there is an increase of 25 vessels to the fleet, which means $225,000 additional capital invested, four hundred more men employed, and estimating the average value of catch to a vessel to be $10,000 (a safe computation, considering the high prices of last year, already there is an estimated increase in the value of total fares of $250,000.

Each year witnessing improvements in the fleets, in equipment, methods of fishing and increased facilities for handling the production. A greater number of boats are equipped with engines.

Prior to 1900 there was not one modern cold storage plant in the province. To-day there are four, and one of the largest of these intends doubling its output within the year. Already there is invested in his branch of the business $500,000. The plants each employing 150 to 200 men.

CHAPTER XXVII.

AUGUST EIGHTEENTH, 1858.

But not the thoughts of a joyous future could dissipate entirely the sadness of that bridal, for Margaret was well beloved, and the billow which would roll ere long between her and her childhood's home stretched many, many miles away. Still they tried to be cheerful, and Henry Warner's merry oaks had called forth more than one gay laugh, when the peal of bells and the roll of drums arrested their attention; while the servants, who had learned the cause of the rejoicing, struck up "God save the Queen," and from an adjoining field a rival choir sent back the stirring note of "Hail Columbia, Happy Land." Mrs. Jeffrey, too, was busy. In secret she had labored at the rent made by her foot in the flag of bygone days, and now, perspiring at every pore, she dragged it up the tower stairs, planting it herself upon the house-top, where, side by side with the royal banner, it waved in the summer breeze.

And this she did, not because she cared aught for the cable, in which she "didn't believe," and declared "would never work," but because she would celebrate Margaret's wedding day, and so made some amends for her interference when once before the stars and stripes had floated above the old stone house.

And thus it was, amid smiles and tears, amid bells and drums, and waving flags and merry songs; amid noisy shout and booming guns, that double bridal day was kept; and when the sun went down it left a glory on the western clouds as if they, too, had donned their best attire in honor of the union.

It is moonlight on the land, glorious, beautiful moonlight. On Hagar's peaceful grave it falls, and glancing off from the polished stone, shines across the fields upon the old stone house, where all is cheerless now and still. No life—no sound—no bounding step—no gleeful song. All is silent, all is sad. The light of the household has departed; it went with the hour when first to each other the lenesome servants said, "Margaret is gone."

Yes, she is gone, and all through the darkened rooms there is found no trace of her; but away to the eastward the moonlight falls upon the sea, where a noble vessel rides. With sails unfurled to the evening breeze, it speeds away—away from after that hearts on the shore which after that bark and its precious freight have sent many a throb of love. Upon the deck of that gallant ship there stands a beautiful bride, looking across the water with straining eye, and smiling through her tears on him who wipes those tears away, and whispers in her ear, "I will be more to you, my wife, than they have ever been."

So, with the lovelight shining on her heart, and the moonlight shining on the wave, we bid adieu to one who bears no more the name of "Maggie Miller."

Sir,—For some years past the sprinkler came across Cabot Street but never went west of Barter's Hill, where the people's residences were enveloped in dust. Complaints were made frequently but without avail, until a few days ago when a couple of residents called on Councillor Mullaly and he just got this boon for us. One would imagine to see the cart turn round at Barter's Hill that the people of west Cabot Street were not taxpayers. Thanks, Councillor Mullaly, when the right time comes the people of west Cabot Street won't forget you.

Odd Fellows Welcome

THEIR GRAND MASTER, MR. J. A. CRAIG.

Atlantic Lodge, No. 1, I.O.O.F., met last night and formally received Bro. J. A. Craig, the Grand Master of the Lodges of the Maritime Provinces. Mr. Craig came here accompanied by Mr. Bayne, of Prince Albert Lodge, Moncton, N.B. At the meeting were many outport brethren, and it is safe to say that it was one of the largest gatherings of Odd Fellows ever held in St. John's. Shortly after the meeting opened Mr. E. D. Spurrell, the Noble Grand of Atlantic Lodge, rose and read a most flattering address to the Grand Master. It was printed on white satin, and is as follows:

ADDRESS (I.O.O.F.)

St. John's, Nfld.,
23rd May, 1912.

J. A. Craig, Esq., Grand Master Grand Lodge of the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland Independent Order of Odd Fellows:

Dear Sir and Brother,—It is with feelings of sincere pleasure that we meet to welcome you to this Ancient Colony.

Your visit marks the first occasion on which, since the inception of our Order here, we have had the honour of receiving in official capacity, or indeed any other, a Grand Officer, and we trust that when again you meet in Grand Lodge, you will be able to give our brethren on the Continent such a favourable report of us that we may look forward to many more such visits.

When our beloved Order was first established here, our Charter was granted by the Sovereign Grand Lodge direct, but lately, as you are aware, we have become affiliated with, and are working under the Charter of the Grand Lodge of the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland. While Odd Fellowship recognizes no artificial boundaries, but seeks to inculcate and spread throughout the world, the principles of Universal Brotherhood, it nevertheless increases and intensifies our pleasure to welcome one who owes allegiance to the same flag as ourselves and shares with us in all the glorious traditions of the British Empire.

We are confident that your official and fraternal visit to Newfoundland will tend not only to cement and strengthen the bond of fellowship between us and our neighbouring Provinces, but will also stimulate us in our efforts to make more widely known the beneficial character of our Order, and so induce others to aid in the good work. That our endeavours hitherto have not been in vain you will have ample opportunity to observe when you visit Grand Falls and Bonavista, and meet the flourishing Lodges there.

We have watched with great interest the remarkable growth of the Order throughout the world, but especially the rapid advance in the jurisdiction over which you so ably preside. We, in Atlantic Lodge, take pride in being a unit in the strongest fraternal Society in the world, the most powerful financially, and the most widespread in its benevolences and whose great influence is ever exerted to benefit, even the least of the members, of the weakest Lodge where the need for help and counsel makes itself felt.

We congratulate you on attaining the highest position in the gift of the Grand Lodge, and trust that you will be spared for many years to be a useful and honoured member of that august body.

In conclusion we ask you to accept this baby seal, and trust that in years to come it may remind you of what we hope will prove to have been a very pleasurable trip.

Signed on behalf of Atlantic Lodge:
E. D. SPURRELL, Noble Grand.
W. T. YOUNG, Recording Sec.
J. C. PHILLIPS, D.D.G. Master,
District No. 26.

The Grand Master made a very eloquent speech in reply and heartily thanked the members for their warm welcome to him. When speaking he referred to the Home Scheme Fund, which has for its object the raising of a home for aged Odd Fellows and for widows and orphans of members. The Home may be erected in Halifax. When Mr. Craig had finished his address, Mr. D. Johnson, who had just taken his degree, and the youngest Oddfellow in Newfoundland, presented Mr. Craig with a pretty little baby whitecoat. Bro. Bayne also delivered an excellent address, wherein he dealt with the Oddfellows Relief Association. A very pleasing feature of the meeting was the receipt of a note from Empire Lodge, S.O.E., heartily welcoming the Grand Master to Newfoundland. Mr. Craig presented his photograph to Atlantic Lodge and this will be enlarged and hung in the main room of the Lodge. To-night Mr. Craig will be dined at Wood's West End Restaurant.

The s.s. Adventure is due to-morrow from Sydney.

I will not argue things, my friend, or waste my time debating, for I have harness here to mend, and other chores are waiting. Let candidates conduct their game—that sort of thing's expected—but things will go on just the same, no matter who's elected. The orators may rant and bray and hand out roast and stricture; my buckskin hen has laid astray, confound her silly picture! and I must go and seek her nest, and see that she's corrected; and things will all be for the best no matter who's elected. The country's future is in doubt? It always was, my neighbor; and I, to help that future out shall stay at home and labor; the threats of statesmen don't distress or make my soul dejected; the land will hump along, I guess, no matter who's elected. Oh, worry! for the frantic chaps and those self-seeking sinners who hope to collar pleasant snaps if their men are the winners. I keep my growing pumpkin vine from bugs and worms protected; the land will still be doing fine, no matter who's elected.

Advertising Our Advertisers.

AN ADVERTISER'S EARNEST REQUEST TO ALL OF THE READERS OF ADVERTISING.

After you have read what a man has to say for his product, whether he be a retailer or a manufacturer, then you measure the goods themselves up against his claims for them, and in a very short time you know where to get the best of everything. It is all so simple. It is such a money-saver; it is such a time-saver. And since every good thing you buy, you do buy through advertising, whether you know it or not, why not look for the advertising instead of making it constantly look for you?

If you will do this, the whole problem will be simplified immediately. The advertiser will not spend sixty per cent of his money trying to get your attention. He will already have it and he will be able to devote his entire attention to his selling talk. When this is done, the selling cost of everything will again be lowered and, the buying public, will be the ones to gain the benefit.

Advertising as it is, is so much cheaper method of salesmanship, that the non-advertiser is simply clinging on by his teeth. So think how much cheaper every product is going to be, when the cost of selling is again reduced, and you learn to turn willingly to the ads.

Get the habit now—for your own sake.

Now why don't you do your share toward lowering the cost of marketing merchandise?

Practically every standard thing you buy is an advertised article. And it is always cheaper because it is advertised. The volume and the distribution more than make up for the advertising. You can't send a salesman around from door to door as cheaply as you can a newspaper.

But the pity of it is that most advertisers have got to get their ideas into your mind when you are not looking. The greater part of advertising impression is subconscious impression. Your eye registers the thought against your will.

If you would only learn to read consciously and even eagerly what an automobile manufacturer or a clothing merchant or a shoe store has to say about its product you would bring down the cost of each article immeasurably.

EMPIRE DAY.

This day of the year—May 24th—was for the greater part of the Nineteenth Century observed as Queen's Birthday in honour of Queen Victoria. Since then it has been kept as Victoria Day and Empire Day—and appropriately, for during the Victorian era, the Empire became really conscious of itself, and people began to think imperially. Much pioneer work was done in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries. The Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries were eras of expansion, and particularly so during the reign of Queen Victoria. For during that time the area and population of the Empire grew enormously. It was the commencement of the epoch of steam and electricity applied to transportation and communication. It was the age of the steam locomotive, the steamship, the land telegraph, sea cable, and the telephone. Steam and electricity applied to engines, moving and fixed, transformed industry and generated extraordinary activity in the coal field, the engineering shop and the textile factory, which stimulated the growth of great manufacturing towns, commercial marts, and vast over-seas traffic. In these activities, the lieges of Victoria shared far more largely than the citizens of other countries, and British subjects took to themselves control over large possessions over-seas and assumed control over great natural resources and peoples in these possessions, and all were knit together by mutual interest and the heritage of a common political aspiration. The home training in civic and national administration and the love of independence, and the determination to be master in their own home, whether it was in Britain or in the British beyond the Seas, gave to the Victorian epoch the features which are making for the permanence of the integrity of the Empire. These features are popular parlaments in the Colonies; and Executive Governments responsible to the popular parliaments with an Imperially appointed Government in touch with the responsible Ministry at home.

These developments Over-seas are the glory of the Victorian era. They give to that age the character which has induced the people of to-day to continue to honour Victoria's natal day as Empire Day. For these developments are daily tending to knit the British people together. Before the Victorian age the tendency was disruption. Before the day of Colonial responsible government statesmen who observed the tendency of the times looked upon separation of the Colonies from the Home Land as inevitable. But when the Home Government began to leave the destiny of the Colonies to the people themselves the tendency completely changed, and the Colonies became the strongest supporters of the Empire, and are today teaching the people at home that they, too, are Britishers as well as those that stay at home.

It will be remembered that it was the lesson taught by the Colonies to Chamberlain and later to King George, that gave rise to the rallying cry:—Wake up, Britons, and think Imperially.

Schooner Strikes Berg.

Schr. Bonus Strikes Growler—Head Gear Gone, Bows Stove, and a Race for St. John's Harbor to Save Ship and Crew.

The captain and crew of the little schr. Bonus, which crippled into Bay Roberts from Sydney, had to work for all they were worth at the pumps. She was bound down with a cargo of coal when about 30 miles this side of Cape Race icebergs were sighted. When reaching down the shore at night and carrying all sail on her, the vessel went slam bang into a growler, which tore out of the water nearly 50 feet. It was well she was staunch or she would have been badly stove. Her bows were badly beaten in, head gear carried away, and the pumps had to be manned and kept going. She is now here in St. John's, and H. S. Butler is giving her thorough repairs.

Salmon Plentiful

Lots of Salmon at Cape Ray is reported by to-day's train, but codfish is scarce. Trout are plentiful and halibut were never as plentiful as they are at present. Trout are going up the different arms and inlets of the streams in the vicinity say that they never saw more fish. The Reid and Co. are expecting a large number of sportmen this year.

E.S. Hocken Here

The barq. E. S. Hocken, Capt. Marlyn, reached here this forenoon from Barbadoes after an excellent passage of 20 days. She brought a cargo of molasses consigned to Harvey & Co. The E. S. Hocken was here last fall and took a load of bulk fish up the Mediterranean. After unloading her present cargo she will load fish for the foreign market.

Let Son Carry the Rifle

Father Must pay $300 Damages to His Son's Victim.

Because R. E. G. Burroughs, dealer in mining properties, living in Smith's Falls, allowed his twelve-year-old son to carry a rifle, he must pay $300 damages, the amount assessed by a jury, to Johnny Moran, who lost his left eye as a result of a shot from his rifle. Mr. Justice Britton says the award is "quite too small an amount."

Johnny Moran was out with the Burroughs boys and others on the streets of Smith's Falls last December. The Burroughs and another boy struggled for possession of the gun and it went off, the shot hitting Moran.

The jury found contributory negligence on the part of the victim because he was in front instead of behind the gun, but the judge finds that this is not warranted.

Costs are awarded on the High Court scale.

Submarine Outclassed by Hydro-Aeroplane

Weymouth, May 10.—The King's trip in a submarine, which travelled two miles submerged, was made in company with his son, Prince Albert, who is a student at Dartmouth Naval College, and Winston Churchill.

Referring to the flight which Commander Samson made yesterday with his hydro-aeroplane, when he circled the fleet at a height of a thousand feet and remained in the air for an hour, alighting in broken water. Horace Short, inventor of the hydro-aeroplane, declares that as a result of that test the aerial machine will change naval warfare completely. Samson was able to see the rocks under the water, and it would therefore be easy to locate a submerged submarine. "You may take it," said the inventor, "that the aeroplane has knocked out the submarine. The latter's effectiveness depends upon its invisibility. Now that is gone. The submarine has met its match."

Commander Samson carried a bomb 300 pounds in weight, and inventor Short expressed confidence in his ability to construct a hydro-aeroplane capable of carrying a bomb containing a ton of explosive. Such a missile dropped upon the deck of a battleship, he remarked "would certainly sink the vessel."

From Davis Inlet

Mr. John Ford writes a particularly interesting letter to Mr. T. D. Carey of the Evening Telegram. It is dated from Davis Inlet, Labrador, and was written December 19th, 1911. Mr. Ford conveys kindly remembrances to Mr. Carey's family, with whom he is acquainted. He says that during the whole fall gales of wind have prevailed, and this was so detrimental that the people could not go on the seal hunt, and the pelts of these animals are very scarce. Foxes are also very scarce and only seven of these animals were killed between Main and Hopdale. At the time of writing many people were badly off, and Mr. Ford paints a gloomy picture for the rest of the season. God help these people if no success has reached them ere this. It must have gone hard with them. Seals must have been plentiful, and this in itself is a godsend. Partridge were reported plentiful. The following got seals: Wm. Ford, Black Island, 40; Wm. Ford, Paul's Island, 30; Geo. Voisey, 58; S. Bromfield and sons, 14, and 2 foxes; other hunters, 4, 5 and 7 seals. Up to the time of writing 21 below zero was the lowest temperature. Mr. Ford wishes Mr. Herder, Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Carey a very Happy Christmas, and we hope that despite the Arctic winter he has had a pleasant Xmas himself.

Snake Almost Swallowed Babe.

New South Wales Waging War on Reptiles Following Incident.

Sydney, N.S.W., May 13.—Because a big carpet snake recently tried to swallow John Warts' baby whole near Walcha, the settlers are waging a war of extermination on big reptiles all over New South Wales. The baby was a girl only a few weeks old, and the snake a monster nearly eight feet long. It crawled into the infant's crib during the night, and in the usual way attempted to get the baby down its throat, head first. The marks of its teeth were visible under the child's chin and above its eyes, showing that it opened its mouth nearly wide enough to take the entire head inside.

The family were awakened by the child's screams and rushed to its aid, whereupon the snake dropped its prey and tried to escape, but was killed by the baby's father with an axe. The carpet snake is not poisonous, and the baby recovered, though seriously ill for several days from fright.

Fly Imperils Life.

A fly flew into the nose of William Burke, 70 years old, of No. 421 Bronx Park, New York, causing hemorrhages which physicians of Fordham Hospital have been unable to stop. Mr. Burke is in a serious condition. In response to a call from an ambulance, Dr. Jones, of Fordham Hospital, found Mr. Burke in a weak condition following a hemorrhage which lasted for several hours. He was unable to remove the fly from the nasal cavity.

Housewives to Boycott Meat.

See No Other Relief Against Present Prices For Three Months.

New York, May 4.—The Housewives League, of better boycott fame, is perfecting its plan to boycott meats. Mrs. Julian Heath, the president, said that housewives had besieged her by telegram and letter to call a meeting and declare a boycott, but not wishing to act without reason, she had conferred with retail dealers and with packers. They offer no relief for the coming three months. With beef now selling at 6 cents more per pound than it was on Tuesday, she said at the annual luncheon of the Universal Sunshine Society in the Hotel Manhattan, remarking that it would be impossible to hold off the boycott in the face of such conditions.

"They complain of a scarcity of beef," she said, "but they have also been complaining of a scarcity of butter. Yet only a few days ago an inspector destroyed 30,000 pounds of butter which had been kept in cold storage until it was unfit for use. Veal is killed off when the stock might be kept for beef. We cannot condemn the one without the other."

"The time is convenient for a boycott on meat," said Mr. Heath, "for fresh fish and fresh vegetables are abundant. And meat will be made at once to the fish dealers not to advance their prices, or instead of reaping a harvest they might also come under the ban."

A mass meeting in Cooper Union on May 14, called by the Housewives to urge public markets, will be turned to the uses of the meat boycott.

Obituary.

By the death of Mrs. Catherine Parsons, of New Harbor, Trinity Bay, on Monday last, one of the oldest and most respected and most dearly beloved of that place passed away. Her illness was but brief, and up to the last she was busy at her household duties, but a few days ailing brought the end. The deceased lady was the relict of the late Moses Parsons, who died last year and who was well and favourably known throughout the country. Their home at New Harbor was an ideal one, and for many years its hospitality was enjoyed by visitors from far and near. There the clergy found a haven of rest, and the school-teachers an abode that was truly a home; and the members of Parliament never passed it. It was one of the homes that was loved, and this was because of the kindness of those who abode there.

Mrs. Parsons was a member of the Newhook family, noted for their expert skill in the palmy days of ship building, and also as being among the early pioneers of New Harbor. Her entire life of seventy-seven years was spent there, and her influence was always for good.

Such lives and characters compose the best assets of a community and tend toward the social and religious advancement of the times. Several brothers and sisters survive her, and the Telegram tenders to them its sincere sympathy in this the hour of their visitation.

Dramatic Court Scene.

Paterson, N. J., May 8.—For ten years believed to be dead, Ralph Mowerson, of Syracuse, N. Y., has succeeded in persuading the Court of Chancery here that he is really alive. His appearance in court, just as his supposed widow was testifying that he died in the west in 1902, was dramatic. The man was in court to defend an action for annulment brought by John G. Schwartz, whom she married some years after the supposed death of her first husband. While she was telling of the receipt of letters announcing Mowerson's death, the lawyer for the man Schwartz brought Mowerson into the room.

"Do you know this man?" the lawyer asked.
Mrs. Schwartz gasped and whispered: "Yes, he is my husband."
Mowerson explained that he had tired of married life, and had gone to Phillipsburg, Montana. He could not explain, however, the erroneous reports of his death, which were sent to his wife.

Made Trip in Submarine.

And Aerial Flight Now Proposed for His Majesty.

Weymouth, May 10.—King George, who is here seeing for himself the progress toward the reorganization of the home fleet, has again taken up the life of a naval officer with remarkable gusto. His Majesty already had added one item to his experience in naval work by going down in a submarine. He spent ten minutes below the surface of the water in one of the latest "D" type of boats which carries a disappearing gun, and expressed himself as delighted with the adventure. The aerial corps which is continually manoeuvring over the fleet is hoping to carry the King as a passenger.

His Majesty also witnessed big gun practice by the fleet on board the Neptune, the flagship of the commander in chief.

Premier Asquith, Mr. Churchill and Mr. Balfour who are attending the manoeuvres all have been down in a submarine.

Love by Wireless Angers Uncle Sam.

Trivial Messages Have Interfered With the Government Service.

Newport, R. I., May 11.—The matter of interference by amateurs and others with the wireless communication of the naval-torpedo station and ships of the Atlantic fleet has reached a climax in the last two weeks, and the latest thing to retard important official business is a large number of messages from girls smitten by the manly Jack tars of the big ships.

These maidens, living in Boston and other cities along the coast, send the most trivial messages to their sea-faring friends. One of the most ardent messages intercepted here was from "Sweetheart Maggie" to "Darling Jack" in which Jack was implored to come to Boston as soon as he could because Maggie's heart was "just melting away" for him and he hadn't kissed her for so long her "lips were dry."

Capt. Williams, commanding the torpedo station and who has supervision of the wireless plant, has incorporated many of the intercepted love messages in a report to the Navy Department and they will be placed before Congress in an endeavor to show why there should be government regulation of wireless.

The steamers of the Fall River line are also accused of sending many trivial messages at a time when they interfere greatly with government business. The matter will soon be taken before Congress.

A Marriage Record

Geneva, Switzerland, May 11.—A matrimonial record of a curious kind has been created by a well-to-do farmer named Sissela, of Aaran, the capital of the canton of Argovic, who has just married his wife for the fourth time after divorcing her on three separate occasions.

Sissela married another woman during one of the intervals, but divorced her some months after the wedding. Mme. Sissela returned to her parents and lived quietly until her former husband came to call her to remarry him. The couple, who are in love with each other and are still young, are now on their fourth honeymoon. They have been married, divorced and honeymooned on four occasions during eight years.

Council and Sanitary Men.

Another special meeting of the City Council was held last night to discuss the question of the increased wages asked for by the Sanitary men. The men sent a communication rejecting the offer of $10.50 per week made by the Council and asking the men to work until 7 a.m. Sunday. The Council holds that this kind of work on Sunday mornings is done in Canada and the States and the Councilors believe it should also be done here. The Council believe they have made a fair and reasonable offer, and further believe that the sanitary men should accept it.

Worst is Yet to Come.

New York, May 3.—The next twelve months will see some new records in high prices for meats, eggs, and butter, is the belief of I. L. Preston, editor of the Produce News.
The price for potatoes would go to $8 a barrel, he adds, if it were not for Irish and Belgian imports. The cabbage crop is short, and cabbages, like artichokes, are becoming luxuries.
Poultry is the one product that has not risen in price by leaps and bounds.

The Murder of Miss Jewer.

BOSTON, Mass., May 23.
On last Friday night a woman, whose name was thought to be Lillian Jewer, was murdered at the Baldwin, an apartment hotel in the south-end of this city. The full name of the unfortunate victim is Lillian Eleanor Jewer, and she came to Boston from Botwoodville, in Exploits Bay, Newfoundland. She has a sister named Susan, and a brother named Jack, living in Botwoodville at the present time. The murdered woman is about 30 years of age, and was handsome and attractive; and the riddle of her death is still unsolved. For several days the police and detective force of this city have been engaged in an effort to solve the problem, but without avail; and the murder of Lillian Jewer has developed into one more of the many mysteries of which there is no apparent solution, and which the police of a great city are constantly trying to unravel.

The conclusion, such as it is, arrived at by the Boston police, is that Miss Jewer was killed by an insane person, who has made a practice of killing girls who live in the Tenderloin district, and murdering them by unusual methods. When the young woman's body was discovered, her nose was stuffed with string; her kimono forced into her mouth, and a towel tied so tightly around her neck that it had evidently been the means of strangling her to death. Evidently the woman had made a determined fight for life, for the appearance of her rooms showed that a terrific struggle had taken place before death came.

A man, who was known as a friend of the deceased woman, was arrested, but later on was released, and the police are now hunting for another man, who, they believe, has killed several women in a similar manner. Miss Jewer has lived in Montreal, and has relatives in the Canadian North-West.

BOTWOOD, May 23.
Lillian Jewer is a daughter of John Jewer, Sr. She is 34 years of age, and left Botwood 17 years ago. Two brothers, Aubrey and John, and one sister, Susie, are living here now. Two other sisters reside elsewhere in Newfoundland; a brother Harry, is a sailor, and a sister, Jane, is in British Columbia. The father and mother were among the pioneer settlers of Botwood, and both are living.—Daily News.

Visit Proved a Spiritual Uplift to the Methodists of Twillingate.

The Rev. J. K. Curtis, B. A., Field Secretary for the Eastern Provinces of Canada and Newfoundland, recently visited Twillingate in the interest of Sunday Schools. He arrived on the 13th inst., and preached twice on Sunday, morning and evening, and conducted a mass meeting in the afternoon, and a second mass meeting on the following Monday night. The very large amount contributed by the people for the S. S. Department was a clear demonstration of the fact there is "good in the old town yet."

Yes, the people flocked to hear the Rev. J. K. Curtis, for whom they still retain a very warm place in their affections, cherishing precious memories of the soul refreshing season of his pastorate here. His discourses to-day are full of the same evangelical and soul winning fire, and in that respect, and has made a lasting impression. He is doing a telling work in the interest of the new department to which he has been called. His efforts here have helped the Circuit generously, and encouraged Sunday School Workers, interested and benefited the scholars, being a spiritual uplift to all round. He conducted some "Round Table Conferences" which were seasons of instruction and means of grace. The only regret is that our Field Secretary could not spend more time amongst us. He left on Tuesday afternoon, the 16th, for Moreton's Harbor, carrying the best wishes and fervent prayers of the people of Twillingate.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

LONDON, May 23.
General Booth of the Salvation Army, was operated on to-day for cancer. A bulletin issued following the operation, stated that it was successful, and that the ultimate restoration of eyesight depended only on the recuperative powers of the General himself.

BUDAPEST, May 23.
Another hot fight between the police and strikers occurred near the House of Parliament this morning. Two policemen were killed, and several fatalities occurred among the strikers. The mob wrecked considerable business property and set on fire the street cars.

WASHINGTON, May 23.
By a vote of 147 to 126, the House of Representatives reaffirmed its decision that no toll should be charged on American vessels engaged in the coastwise trade for passage through the Panama Canal. The provision was bitterly fought and the result was received with cheers.

BERLIN, May 23.
William Marconi and Isaac, Managing Director of the Marconi Wireless Company, have taken action against the "Welt" Ammontaj newspaper for libel contained in an article accusing them of exploiting the Titanic catastrophe for the Company's benefit, by holding out news for sale, etc.

LONDON, May 23.
The National Executive Committee of the Transport Workers' Confederation has decided upon a general strike commencing to-night, in support of the Thames lightermen in the dispute with their employers, and also to enable the Federation to adjust their own grievances. The original cause of the trouble was a dispute concerning the employment of a non-unionist workman. The man was a foreman named Thomas, a Scotsman, who refused to join the Journeymen's Union. The men refused to work under his orders, and several thousand of them were locked out, upon which the committee ordered several thousand more to strike. It is estimated that a hundred thousand transport workers will be affected by the decision reached. This will bring virtually the whole trade of this part of London to a standstill. The resolution arrived at by the Committee of the Transport Workers' Federation confines the strike for the moment to London. The General Secretary said this morning that it meant the stoppage of work by all London workers, and, if necessary, a national strike later on. Representatives from every port in the Kingdom were present at the meeting and the resolution was unanimously adopted to quit work, owing to the alleged boycotting of members of Trades Unions and the deliberate breaking of agreements by employers. No fewer than 150,000 dockers, lightermen, labourers, and others connected with the docks will be involved in the strike. Any attempt to direct traffic to other ports will be the signal for the disaffection. Work in some of the London docks was paralyzed this morning, and numerous vessels, laden with foodstuffs, were unable to discharge their cargoes, while perishable stuff is rotting in the warehouses. The whole trade of the Port of London is at a standstill.

Molasses Arrive.
NELLIE LOUISE.
The schr. Nellie Louise, Capt. Burke, 23 days from Barbadoes, arrived yesterday afternoon, bringing 500 puncheons of molasses for Bowring Bros. She took fish to Pernambuco and made the round trip in three months and ten days. Coming from Barbadoes favorable weather prevailed for the first three weeks, when it became rough. The vessel arrived off Cape Race at 5 p.m. Wednesday, but owing to the icebergs she made slow progress.

ATTILA.
The barque Attila, Capt. Morgan, reached port at 8 o'clock this morning after a passage of 25 days from Barbadoes. She met the trade winds and a fine time was had until the vessel reached the edge of the Grand Banks, where adverse winds were experienced. Gales of wind were prevalent from the W. N. W., and for several days the vessel made little headway. She passed Cape Race Wednesday night, but like the Nellie Louise had to be nursed slowly to port. The Attila brought a cargo of molasses consigned to Balne Johnston & Co.

Miss Curwen also holds the woman's record for 100 yards, her time for that distance being one minute 12 2-5 seconds.
