NOTICE.

Under and by virtue of "An Act respecting the General Hospital" (6 George V., Cap. XIX.), and with the approval of the Governor-in-Council, the Board of Governors of the St. John's Hospital hereby give notice that they have fixed and prescribed the following scale of fees to be levied from and paid by all persons who occupy beds or undergo treatment at the Hospital. The scale is to come into operation on the 1st day of January, 1921.

SCALE OF FEES.

Every person receiving treatment in the General Hospital shall, after December 31st next, pay fees according to the following scale:

Persons admitted to the public wards $1.00 per day; persons occupying private rooms $10.00 per week, in addition to the daily fee of $1.00.

Every applicant for admission to the Hospital must bring with him or forward to the Superintendent of the Hospital certificate signed by a duly registered physician that such applicant is a proper subject for Hospital treatment.

Under the provisions of the General Hospital Act, 1915, all patients who are unable to pay fees shall be required to bring with them a certificate of their inability to pay, which shall be signed by the resident Relieving Officer, or where there is no such officer, by a Justice of the Peace, or Clergyman or other responsible person. The fees of such patients thereupon become payable by the Commissioner of Public Charity by virtue of the said Act.

By order of the Board.

CHAPTER XII.
"No news of Lord Gaunt yet," Bobby remarked at dinner. "Bright wears a face of despair, and I'm inclined to suspect that Gaunt has been playing a game of spoof."
"What do you mean?" said Decima.
"I felt like the lord mayor I once read of, who, being a simple-minded man, confessed that he longed to get out of his state coach and take a cab," she said, running up to her room.
"My poor child, how terribly your education has been neglected, for all you can speak French and Italian, and play the piano! You don't know your own language yet! Learn, you young dunces, that 'to spoof' is synonymous with 'to deceive,' only it's a bitter, because a more expressive word. Depend upon it, Lord Gaunt has been having a lark with the simple Bright—and a young lady who shall be nameless; and having had his fun, is off to other climes. Shouldn't wonder if he is on his way to Africa by this time."
"Oh, do you think so?" said Decima; and she gazed before her with rather a disappointed look in her eyes.
She was very quiet for the rest of the dinner; and when it was over, and she had listened to her father's usual monologue—a monologue which had lately grown more extravagant and sanguine—she stole out into the garden, and, leaning on the gate, thought of Bobby's speech. Would he not come, after all? Had he been deceiving them?
She opened the gate and walked down the fir-scented road until she came to the spot from which she could see the great house. The sight of it, the thought that its owner was, probably, many hundred miles away, and would not see all that—yes, she—had done, saddened her.
She was roused from her reverie by the sound of a horse's hoofs. Though at some distance, it rang pleasantly on the smooth road; and as she listened, it came nearer.
Instinctively she drew back under the shadow of the trees. The rhythmic beat came nearer and nearer, and presently in the moonlight she saw a man riding a big black horse. It was coming along at a swinging resting on her. "It is all beautiful—too good for such as I. And I am filled with shame when I think of all you have done for me."

His voice vibrated with a suppressed emotion.
"Oh; but it was nothing. Indeed, I enjoyed it. Bobby said it was because I was spending some one else's money; but it wasn't that only. I was thinking of the house—the poor, neglected, deserted house—and the people here."
"Ah, yes—yes," he said, rather grimly.
"And," she went on, frankly, "I wanted to make it nice and comfortable, so that you should be tempted to stay."
"I see," he said. "Well, you have succeeded. It is so nice and comfortable that I shall never want to leave it."
Decima looked up at him with a glad smile, as she patted and caressed Nero.

"I am so glad!" she said. "And Mr. Bright will be very glad. And Bobby! Will you not come in and see him? He is reading—cramming, as he called it—for his exam. Will you not come in? Our house, as I dare say you know, is only just up the road."
He hesitated a moment, a moment only; then he said, simply:
"Thank you—yes; I will come in for a moment."
He walked beside her with the bridle over his arm, and when they reached the gate, swung it over the post.
"Will he stay quiet?" asked Decima.
He spoke a word in the horse's ear. "Till morning, if necessary," he said.

She led the way through the dimly lighted hall into the faded drawing-room. Bobby was seated at the table in his favorite attitude; his head in his hands, his eyes glued to his books, a cigarette between his lips.
At sight of Lord Gaunt, he sprang to his feet with an exclamation of welcome.
Gaunt just glanced round the room, and then at the slim, girlish figure. It was like a flower, the one solitary flower in a gray, sober garden.
"Ah, Deane!" he said in a tone which wins a young man's heart. "Back again, you see! Cramming, eh? Lucky fellow! They wanted me to go into the army, but I hadn't the capacity or the industry."
"Glad to see you, Lord Gaunt," said Bobby, heartily. "My father's in his work-shop, laboratory, I'll bring him."
He hurried out, and Lord Gaunt and Decima were left alone.
"Have you had your dinner?" she asked.

He did not tell her that his dinner had been waiting for him for the last hour.
"Thanks, yes. At least—for even the conventional fib was difficult under the direct gaze of those truthful, trusting eyes—"It doesn't matter. I am not wedded to dinner. I have gone without any too often."
Mr. Deane came in, his grotesque dress clothes powdered with dust, his gray hair thrust hastily out of his eyes.
Lord Gaunt shook hands with him, and scanned him with a quick glance.
"How do you do?" said Mr. Deane.
"How do you do, Mr.—"
He looked at Bobby inquiringly.
"Lord Gaunt, sir. Lord Gaunt of Leafmore," said Bobby in an undertone.
"Of course, of course!" said Mr. Deane. "I am glad to see you, Lord Gaunt. Are you going to make a long stay at—"
"Leafmore," whispered Bobby.
"Of course! Leafmore! You will remain and dine with us!"
"We've had our dinner hours ago," said Bobby, laughing.

185 times - no difference!
Miss Betsy Lane Shepherd, famous concert soprano, has made this test 185 times. 185 public audiences, in 185 cities, have heard her compare her voice with its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. No one, out of a total of more than 100,000 listeners, has been able to tell when Miss Shepherd was singing, and when the New Edison—except by watching her lips, 4,000 similar tests of direct comparison, made by over fifty other celebrated vocalists and instrumentalists, have given this same result.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"
Perfect realism is your one vehicle to the inner joys of music which you crave.
Mr. Edison spent three million dollars in the research work which gave the New Edison perfect realism. He did this in order that the phonograph might transcend its former limitations and (here we quote Mr. Edison's own words), "bring into every American home, music so realistic and so perfect in its rendition as to be an unending source of benefit and pleasure."
The instruments which proved this perfect realism in Miss Shepherd's 185 tests were all exact duplicates of the original Official Laboratory Model on which Mr. Edison spent his three million dollars. You can also have an exact duplicate of this three million dollar original. We have it in our store, and guarantee it to be capable of sustaining the same test of direct comparison.

The Leviathan a "White Elephant."

Only a Skeleton Crew Now on Board But Costs $2,500 a Day to Keep up.
(From the New York Times)
The skeleton crew on the former American transport Leviathan under command of Captain John Jamieson, retired commodore of the American Line fleet, has been reduced to twenty sailors and firemen, who have been engaged during the past week in scrubbing the barnacles off her huge sides, which have accumulated with quantities of long green grass during the year and one month that she has been made fast to Pier 1, Hoboken.
Apart from the money the big liner might have earned in carrying passengers to Europe during the rush season last spring, when tonnage was in such great demand, it has cost the United States Shipping Board $75,000 a month for upkeep, which totals $975,000 for the thirteen months' tie-up.
The Leviathan is 908 feet long and eighty feet deep from the boat deck to the waterline, so that by the time the stand-by crew have floated their stages around her sides and cleaned them with their long-handled scrubbers it will be time to start all over again.
The big Atlantic steamship lines have discovered that the huge vessels of the Leviathan class can no longer be operated upon a profitable basis because of the high wages paid to the crews and the price of coal, which has increased to such an extent and is so scarce in all parts of the world except the United States, Great Britain and Japan. The International Mercantile Marine Company, for instance, cannot afford to operate the Adriatic or the Celtic to the Mediterranean during the coming winter season.

In addition to the high wages, the crews have to be larger now on the liners than they were before the war, because the unions demand that one man must only perform one job, no matter how light it may be. For example, the assistant cook, who is shipped to toast bread in the galley, is not allowed to boil an egg; and the assistant sculleryman, who is installed to peel potatoes, is not permitted to remove the skin from an onion.
In other days the crew of a ship were ready to do anything when ordered, from scrubbing the Captain's dog on Saturday night for the church service on the following morning to painting the key of the keelson.

The Bismarck, under these circumstances, is not desired by the International Mercantile Marine Company, and it is understood that the Cunard Line is contemplating turning the Imperator back to the British Ministry of Shipping after she has made another voyage or two.
As there seems no immediate prospect of the Leviathan being sold, some of the officials at Hoboken have suggested that she might be used to partly solve the housing problem in New York by fitting her up to accommodate about 3,000 persons, which they claim the 55,000 ton liner could do very comfortably. Her costly furniture and fittings, worth more than $1,000,000, disappeared somehow after she was taken over in April, 1917, and have not been located by the Government officials.
Experts connected with the big shipyards in New York said yesterday that it would take $2,000,000 to make the Leviathan into a floating up-to-date apartment hotel. The six passenger elevators are all in good condition and her spacious kitchens have ranges ready to cook all kinds of meals and there is sufficient gear in them now to cater for 5,000 persons easily three times a day.
The public rooms are ample and the swimming pool and gymnasium could easily be put into commission, the officials say. More bath-rooms would be needed and furniture and bedding for the cabins and public rooms.

When fitted out properly the liner could be towed up the Hudson and moored within easy reach of the Manhattan shore, where the tenants could go ashore and return by tender at stated hours.
If the Leviathan became popular as a floating apartment house the engines and main boilers could be removed and sold as junk and the empty deck space used as a lawn tennis court and exercise ground.

MINERS' STRIKE.
LONDON, Oct. 19.
The House of Commons to-night discussed the coal strike with great moderation and an absence of vindictiveness, but without arriving at a nearer prospect of settlement. Lloyd George explained his unemployment scheme as he outlined it yesterday to the deputation which visited him, but added little to his previous statement except that the scheme would embrace the building of new artificial roads round London. The Premier contributed nothing to the coal discussion which was largely confined to Labor members. The latter emphasized the urgency of arriving at a settlement before the dispute grew to grave proportions. William Bruce, Labor member for Aberthilly division of Monmouthshire, and President of the South Wales Miners Federation, suggested that the two shillings which the miners demand should be granted temporarily, pending the creation of a permanent Wage Board and the whole matter reviewed by the end of the year. He asserted there was no evidence that the miners had purposely restricted the output and declared that if he was to fight to a finish every man must be withdrawn from the mines regardless of the damage and loss involved. James Henry Thomas, of the Railway Men's Union, supporting Bruce's suggestion said, it was no secret that seventeen days ago a special meeting of Railway Delegates decided by only one vote not to strike forthwith after he had made the utmost efforts in favor of peace. He begged the House not to minimize the danger but to remember that the same people were meeting to-morrow and that the spirit of the workers was such that even if they felt a mistake had been made there existed a feeling of comradeship which drew them together. After Bruce's speech a Cabinet Council was held to consider the situation. Hence it was late when Premier Lloyd George rose to reply. He began by complimenting the House on the moderation and absence of bitterness with which the question has been discussed. He then referred to Bruce's suggestion, which he complained was in many respects obscure. He said if peace was to be attained there must be something more definite which would not merely postpone the dispute to the future and sow seeds of future trouble not only in mining but in every other industry. Reviewing the history of the dispute, the Premier reiterated the desire of the Government to end all arguments. He contended that any settlement should include inducement to increase output and lengthily discussed Bruce's suggestion, arguing that if at the end of the year it was found out the production had not been increased and an attempt was made to withdraw the increase in wages there would be another strike. The Government was not entitled to keep the country in suspense all that time. The Government sincerely desired to find an issue to the dispute and was prepared to examine any scheme giving an increased output for increased remuneration.

POLAND HANDED NOTE OF PROTEST.

LONDON, Oct. 19.
A note with regard to the Vilna situation was handed to the Polish Government on Sunday by the French and British representatives in Warsaw acting simultaneously. The note declared that the Allied Governments considered the occupation of Vilna contrary to the assurances given by Poland to the Allies and the League of Nations. The note is friendly but firm in tone.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS.

LONDON, Oct. 19.
There were no new developments to-day in the coal strike which began last Saturday. In all the coal regions where the men have laid down their tools order was maintained by the strikers.

THE EXCUSE.

PARIS, Oct. 19.
General Zoligouaski has issued a proclamation in which he said the Allies were insufficiently informed of the situation at Vilna. He was compelled by circumstances, he said, to take the action he did. He was sure the Polish people sympathized with him, but on account of the international situation it was impossible for him, he added, to have direct intercourse with the Polish Government and hence communications with Warsaw were cut.

BANK MESSENGER HELD UP.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.
Three bandits held up a messenger for Stats Commercial and Savings Bank of Chicago on a busy street corner to-day, and snatched a satchel containing twenty thousand dollars and escaped in an automobile.

REPORT GREEK KING DEAD.

LONDON, Oct. 19.
Central News Rome correspondent says to-night that the Giornale d'Italia publishes a report obtained by wireless from the Greek steamer Brindisi that King Alexander of Greece is dead. The last bulletin received by Reuters Limited from Athens, timed eleven o'clock this morning, said the King's condition was unchanged.

WOLVIN SATISFIED.

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.
Roy Wolvin, President of the Dominion Steel Corporation, returned here to-day after a two weeks' trip to the Company's properties in Nova Scotia and Wabana. The steel industry, he said, was in a satisfactory condition and he had been able to arrive at an agreement with the Newfoundland Government whereby the export of iron ore would be carried out under conditions favorable to the corporation and along lines desired by those who had conceived the British Empire Steel Corporation.

WILL BE ANNUAL AFFAIR.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 19.
Two schooners, one representing the United States and the other the Canadian fishing fleets, will meet annually in a series of races to determine the sailing supremacy of the North Atlantic. This decision was announced to-night after representatives of the Royal Yacht Squadron of Halifax and a local fishermen's committee had completed arrangements to make the forthcoming contest between the Gloucester schooner Esperanto and the Halifax challenger Delawana the first of the series. There will be three races in each annual series and the first race takes place at Halifax on Oct. 30th.

GETTING AFTER HOTEL MEN.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.
Hotel men who appeared before United States Attorney General Gallagher to-day to discuss the high prices being charged for food in their dining rooms could offer no remedy for the conditions and the Federal Attorney served notice on them that unless prices were scaled down shortly he would seek to have them indicted.

CUBAN SITUATION IMPROVING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.
Ever since the Moratorium was declared in Cuba about a week ago confidence has been gradually reviving in the sugar market and a slightly better demand has developed. An announcement that a New York banking interest would help in the financing Cuba caused further improvement in the tone of the market to-day and recent gains in raw sugar were followed by the first advance in refined sugar in many months.

Prince Arthur of Connaught May Be Greek Monarch.

Paris, Oct. 13.—The danger of King Alexander of Greece dying as the result of his severe illness caused by the bit of a monkey is deeply interesting official circles here and the question of whether the monarchy would be continued in that event or a Republic established is widely discussed. At the Foreign Office it was said to-day that Prince Arthur of Connaught or Prince Sixtus of Bourbon-Parma would be counted most acceptable as the successor of King Alexander should he die. Should a republic be established it is believed here that the Greek Premier, Elliphtherios Venizelos would be the most active candidate.

Harbor Grace Notes.

S.S. Sagona arrived here on Monday at about 1.15 p.m., and having taken on board a fair amount of freight left port again the same afternoon.

Mr. George Gulliver, of Clarenville, was in town on Saturday on a business visit.

For the past few days the marine railway dock here has remained idle the first time for the season that this has happened, as more schooners have been offering than could be taken up, at the time wanted; but, no doubt the adverse weather we have been having lately will account for this to a large extent.

The knockabout schooner Alcala, Ronald Knickle, master, belonging to Lunenburg, we notice, according to your paper of the 18th inst., took part in the famous ocean race off Halifax Harbor on the 12th, and came third, winning a prize of $600. This schooner will be remembered as being docked here in July last, and having undergone extensive repairs, before leaving for the fishing grounds. We congratulate the sturdy young captain on his success.

Mr. George Adams, of the east end, and crew, who have been fishing at Chimney Tickle for the past summer, arrived home on Saturday.

The photo-play "Break the news to mother," was a big hit at the Pleased-U on Friday and Saturday nights of last week.

The Aero Tennis Club held a dance in St. Patrick's Hall last night (Monday), which, no doubt, was very enjoyable to all the members who attended, as it has been on other occasions.

Miss Geraldine Fitzgerald, daughter of Magistrate Fitzgerald, Grand Falls, has been in town for the past few weeks on a visit to her aunt, Mrs. James Cron, and other friends.

The famous "dress-up" of days gone by has put in its appearance, so the young people tell us, and many of the fair sex who have to wend their way homeward unattended, are protesting against this "unknown." No attacks have come to light as yet, and perhaps this stranger is but a "star-gazer" bound on no bad mission. We hope so; for the sake of the ladies. This seems to be an annual visitor of ours.

Business during the last few days in town seemed to be getting a little more brisk, and we are hoping it will continue to be so as the fall advances.

Mr. Bartlett Churchill, of Carbon-car, was in town this morning. He arrived home from Bolster's Rock a few days ago, where he had been fishing during the summer months.

From reports we learn the price of fish on the Labrador was settled at $8.00 and the rise. The fishermen are expecting it will go to $9.00, and we are hoping, for their sake, that it will. For such shore fish as have been bought in town, $8.00 is chiefly the price paid, with a few exceptions of $10, this being for No. 1. The fish buyers have to be very careful on the cull, on account of the fish inspectors in St. John's being so strict, and most always the fishermen are disgusted with the way their fish is handled, some refusing to meet with the requirements of the culler.

Harbor Grace, Oct. 19, 1920.

Dance Well Attended.

The Jazola dance in the C.C.C. Hall last night was well attended, despite many other attractions. The hall was beautifully decorated and the music was all that could be desired. It is the intention of the Jazola Orchestra to run a series of these dances during the season and they are making arrangements for a big masquerade ball, which will take place early in November.

HENDERSON'S MOTION.
LONDON, Oct. 19.
Arthur Henderson, Labor Leader, will present in the House of Commons to-morrow a motion of the Labor Party, regretting the state of lawlessness in Ireland and lack of discipline of armed forces, which resulted in the death of innocent citizens and the destruction of property. Henderson will express the opinion that an independent investigation should immediately be instituted into the causes, nature and extent of reprisals.

HOPEFUL NEGOTIATIONS.
LONDON, Oct. 20.
Negotiations, which might settle the strike of coal miners are believed assured to-day. Leaders of both parties have shown a desire to reach an understanding and there is general belief that proposals were in preparation. Lloyd George declared he is ready to enter into negotiations, but he laid emphasis on the fact that the government wants a final settlement. He holds that coal production must be augmented. This morning's papers comment on the calm and dignified tone of the debate in the house and maintain that the debate has cleared the stage for a compromise.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

ARE WOMEN OR MEN MORE EXT. RAVAGANT?

An anonymous friend of mine wants me to say a word for the wife who is held up to public scorn because she spends more than her husband's income warrants and then hides the bills when they come in.

"Every one," says she, "has it in for that kind woman. You wouldn't think she'd possibly have a word to say for herself, but she has.

Many Men Are Like This.

Take my case, for instance. My husband is a professional man and has a more or less uncertain income. He has a very optimistic disposition whenever I talk to him about anything I want or anything that I've seen that I admire, he always says, "Why don't you buy it? Go ahead and get it." If I question whether we can afford it, he gets impatient and quotes someone who he thinks is making less than he, and says that they have such things.

And when he buys me birthday or Christmas presents he always buys beautiful things. So you wouldn't think I'd ever have anything to complain of. But here's what happens—once in a while, when money is tight, he comes in slowly, or the bills don't come up (legitimate bills for the things he has told me to go ahead and get) he has a perfect fit of the giggles. He accuses me of extravagance. I never would have believed I would be a bill for my husband, but I've two or three times lately when he came in after one of these excuses.

Now, I think it is he that is to blame for my being deceitful, not I. He Didn't Know His Income.

Then here's another case: I have a friend who found out after she had been married two or three years that she was living beyond her husband's income and was hundreds of dollars in debt. He had misrepresented the amount of his income when they were married and they had been living at a rate that would have all right if he had had what he had. She was perfectly willing to turn to and reduce their expenses when she saw how things stood. But up to that time I suppose she would have been criticised for running him in, debt, by those people who are always ready to blame the woman.

He Refuses to Help Her.

"Then I know another woman who has put hours into a budget system so that she can find out where the money goes and where they ought to cut down. That helps on her end of the expenses, but her husband pays certain bills and he absolutely refuses to keep any accounts. Perhaps you couldn't expect a man to itemize his personal expenses, but he might be willing to assign some lump sum to them and then itemize other bills. But no, he won't lift a finger to help her.

"People are always talking about the extravagance of women, but goodness, I don't think women are half so apt to be extravagant and careless with money as men, when you come right down to it. I'd like to know where that fable started, and I'd like to know what other people think of it."

So would I. Here's hoping my letter friends will give us a chance.

Beautiful Spy is Dead.

Lizzie Louise Wertheim, fashionable demi-mondaine, once celebrated in the gay night life in Berlin and later "queen of the German secret service," has died in the criminal lunatic asylum at Broadmoor. She was sentenced at the Old Bailey on September 20, 1915, to ten years' penal servitude, but after two years she lost her mind, and during the last few months had been so violent that attendants were almost constantly with her.

The death of Lizzie closes another sordid chapter of the German spy system. Her accomplice, George T. Breeckow, alias Reginald Rowland, who asserted he was an American citizen, was executed in the Tower of London on October 26, 1915.

Lizzi Klitze's connection with England began in 1902, when she was famous for her beauty and notorious for her conduct. She was described by then as "a charming little woman with lustrous brown eyes glowing in a peach complexioned face and a mass of gleaming hair." Her "crowning glory" was her greatest joy even up to the time of her death.

Lizzi came from a highly respected family and was well educated, but her guiding principle during her entire career was to enjoy herself. She was "playing the game" in Berlin in 1902 when she met Bruno Wertheim, then about 23. She learned from him that he was the son of a wealthy British family whose connections in England dated back about fifty years.

mation from young men who fell before her wiles, Rowland transmitted the information by using secret ink and writing between lines of regular business letters to his firm.

The British secret service men became active when he received a remittance for a sum which they knew to be the salary of a spy for a month. Then the plot in his correspondence was discovered. When he was confronted by detectives who said that Scotland Yard wanted to check up his passport he clearly showed his fear, a fear which never left him, and he confessed, but he made every attempt to shield Lizzi and it was largely owing to this fact that at her trial she escaped with only a prison sentence. A search of Rowland's belongings revealed her address, and the secret service men waited for her to return. She came about a fortnight later and was arrested. She showed great fortitude and courage, and the officials could not draw a confession from her. When Rowland became aware of her capture he made a more complete confession, in which he told of his early life in Germany and America; where he said his real name was George Breeckow. He did not implicate her, but letters from him to her furnished enough evidence for her conviction.

For years Lizzi had taken drugs and the hardships of prison life soon began to wreck her constitution and distort her mind. She lived in great suffering, but always maintained her cold dignity and admirable nerve until she developed periodical fits of violence. She was in the asylum nearly three years before the end.

PAPER CLOTHES.

They're talking now of paper suits, and paper shirts and collars, and paper socks and paper boots—a great scheme to save the dollars! My paper rags seem good and right, while at my lyre I'm slaving; but there's no other gent in sight who is intent on saving. Men do not want the cheaper things, when they go blithely shopping; they'd like to wear the robes of kings, though bank accounts be popping. The janitor of this, our flat, says, like a lord blue-blooded, "I want to buy an ermine hat and necktie diamond-studded." And he would paw and beat his breast and cut an angry caper, if you in kindness should suggest a nice new suit of paper. The tinsmith wants imported cloth when he goes out for raincoat; for paper suits that cut a swath he'd never make a payment. My paper pants look rather cheap, and they're a frost almighty, and often I'm inclined to weep when in my paper necktie; beneath my paper hat I write, beside the heaving billow, I save all day and sleep all night upon a paper pillow. And I'm the only guy on earth who's cautious, saving, thrifty; my paper duds have little worth, but bank accounts are nifty.

Women Refuse to Serve on Jury.

Magistrate Boyer, of Evanston, Ill., had read about the successful work of women on juries, and he also desired to pay a graceful tribute to the fair sex, lately come into full suffrage rights. Before him was a case involving a home that was of peculiar interest to women. So he instructed his bailiff to go out and get a jury of women. Two hours later the bailiff returned alone, jaded and dispirited. He had asked 20 women to serve on the jury, gone to their homes, stopped them on the streets, tackled them in stores, argued, exhorted, pleaded, threatened—but he came back alone. Some of the women were going to the theatre, some to afternoon receptions; others had to care for their babies; still others were going into the city on a shopping foray; others thought the court rooms "horrible." One wanted to ask her husband first and he would not be home until evening. Two stenographers refused because their bosses were going to the golf links, and three were downright angry at the very impertinence of the bailiff in asking them. "Get out and find some men for this jury," snapped the

His 14-inch Cow's Rib As Part of His Spine.

With a cow's rib replacing fourteen inches of his spine, Wm. Cosgrave has returned to his home at Lynn, Mass., after undergoing an operation at the Massachusetts General Hospital, necessitated by a kick from a horse which he received ten years ago. The ordinary graft is seldom more than two or three inches of bone. The cow's bone was boiled for 48 hours, then chilled and filed into shape, Cosgrave watching the work of preparation before going under the knife.

The Cavell Anniversary.

(October 12th was the fifth anniversary of the shooting of Nurse Edith Cavell by the Germans then in occupation of Brussels. The following commemorative verses were written by Dr. Rose Pringle, a talented Canadian lady living in New York, on the occasion of the re-interment of Edith Cavell on English soil, May 15, 1919.)

At Memory's call, that name gives place To the wistful charm of a noble face, Illumed by eyes steadfastly calm and clear, The nurse's garb, strong tender hands, The poise that instant faith commands In Life's design.

But the mists of that October morn Saw a woman lone, from her warm life torn By ghastly vultures in the guise of Men Whose vengeful lust and eager hate Naught else would quench, naught else would sate; And undismayed she faced their deadly might, Nor counted life, if Liberty but light A darkened world.

To the measured tramp of marching feet, To mighty music's throbbing beat, Mid vast, uplifted throngs—in royal state Thou comest home, England's own daughter! Neath English skies at last thou art; Thy flag, it rests close to thy heart; And wakened from Life's dream, thou sleepest not, Nor art thou dead!

Evening Telegram

W. J. HERDER, Proprietor
C. T. JAMES, Editor

Wednesday, October 20, 1920.

Impossibilities.

The Telegram has been recently upbraided by its enemies and censured by its friends, because of the attitude it has taken on the prevailing trade conditions. We do not know exactly just what our friends require of us, but we do happen to have heard that an abandonment of our arguments against the Fish Regulations would meet with approval in certain quarters. We are not, however, prepared to vacate the position, taken up, until we can receive an assurance that those Regulations have been the means of bestowing financial benefits upon the fishermen of this dominion. The exporters are doubtless able to look out for themselves. How in common decency could this paper approve and uphold the Fish Regulations, when every letter, every communication received, points directly to the one fact that we have been putting forward all the time, that the enactments covering the export of fish have not been in the best interests of the people. No amount of specious defence can cause a change in this sentiment. From all over the island comes the voice of protest, complaining that the people (fishermen) are being brought to the point of ruin by those abominable Regulations.

If trade is not so brisk as it usually was at this season of the year, where is the fault? The sun cannot be made shine brightly through the fog and mist, neither is it possible for the newspapers to boost trade where there is no trade to boost. If the foreshore of the port is inactive, because there is nothing doing, of what use is it for a paper to say that the whole place is alive with men working at the discharge of ships. Would not the falsehood be quickly called? It would be creating a false impression were any daily journal to attempt to represent things as they are not. Everybody knows that the boasted Fish Regulations have not produced the prosperity their authors assured us. They have been a burden to and a drag on trade ever since their promulgation. City and districts have felt the disastrous effect which has been engendered and there is not one man of principle in capital or outpost who can conscientiously and sincerely say that any benefit has actually accrued from the foreign policy insisted upon by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. How then can the press uphold the doctrine preached by Government supporters that there is no restriction of trade, when daily there are contrary expressions of opinion coming in from all sides. We state that the future welfare of Newfoundland depends upon exporters being allowed free trade. The throttling of business by the Fish Regulations has brought the country to its present condition, and nothing that can be said by the newspapers will improve matters until the first move is made toward the modification of grievous and unjust restrictions.

Notes and Comments.

The sad thing about honesty is its lack of popularity, especially in Newfoundland politics.

Our amende honorable to the Messrs. Hawes, will doubtless produce a series of chortles from the Advocate.

An alarming medical blunder is reported from Glasgow. It appears that a little girl swallowed a sixpence and was given medical assistance before her father was attended to, with the result that he still lies in a critical condition.

The consumer "paid through the nose" for his sugar supplies on the rising market, says the Morning Chronicle (Halifax). Now, when the law of supply and demand has brought about a decline, he is to be compelled to continue doing the same old thing. Talk about turning the other cheek!

A motor-car clock has been invented which never has to be wound up. It runs from power obtained from the batteries used for lighting the car-lamps. So little current is required to work the clock that it uses in a year less than is required to light a four-candle-power lamp for an hour.

The British War Office announces that the provision of the King Regulations forbidding the wearing of regulation military uniforms at fancy dress balls, which has been in abeyance in Great Britain since April, 1919, will, in future, be enforced. There will, however, be no objection to military uniform of obsolete pattern being worn on such occasions.

A profiteer took a wonderful country house, and set about making it even more wonderful according to his own ideas. One of his suggestions was a fish-pond which should contain eels.

"But you can't keep eels in a pond," objected the neighbour to whom he had confided this idea. "They have to go down to the sea every year, you know."

"Well, I won't have 'em," gasped the profiteer. "I always takes the missus and kids every year, but I ain't going to take no eels."

A striking example of the usefulness of the finger print system is the case of Fox, who was arrested in Montevideo on suspicion of being Le Roy, the man alleged to have perpetrated the Detroit trunk murder. It was not necessary to bring Fox to the United States, or to send detectives thence to South America to examine him. The finger prints of LeRoy, which the police were fortunate enough to have, were mailed to Montevideo and there, after a minute's comparison between them and the prints of Fox's fingers, the innocence of the prisoner was established.

An interesting feature in connection with West Indian Freemasonry recently took place when the New St. Andrew's Lodge, No. 3968 on the registry of England was duly consecrated, the ceremony being carried out in the Mount Horeb Temple, San Fernando. The situation of the Temple is magnificent, commanding a fine view of the town of San Fernando on the south, the Gulf of Paria with Venezuela being on the north. With a tropical full moon and such a grand outlook, the auspices were most favorable, especially as Masonry has apparently a new lease of life in San Fernando. On the occasion named there were brethren present from nearly every lodge in the island and not a few from overseas.

Mandamus Application Made.

WRIT DIRECTED TO MINISTER OF CUSTOMS.

A writ of mandamus has been applied for, at the instance of Messrs. Smith & Shipman, trading as Fish Exporters, to ship to New York, Labrador Codfish at regulation prices. The purpose of this application is to obviate the restrictions of trade between Newfoundland and the United States, and to ensure fair competition regarding the purchase and export of local produce to a market, which is prepared to accept unlimited quantities at the best price procurable. This writ has been served upon Hon. H. J. Brownrigg, Minister of Finance and Customs, and is returnable to-morrow (Thursday), October 21st, and the application will be heard before the Full Bench.

Fined for Breach of Customs Act.

Yesterday afternoon the Captain of the schooner Arthur D. Storey was again before the Magistrate on three charges preferred by the Customs authorities. He had been fined $200 on Monday for a violation of the Prohibition Act. The charges against him yesterday were first, having entered Bay Bulls from St. Pierre on Oct. 9th and not reporting; secondly, having entered at the port of St. John's on Oct. 13th and again not reporting, and thirdly for trying to smuggle into the colony liquor and tobacco with the intention of defrauding the Customs. Mr. Higgins, K.C., appeared for the accused and Mr. H. A. Winter for the prosecution. The hearing occupied the attention of the court all the afternoon. Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, Collector of Customs, and Mr. Jas. Wheeler of the Customs day boat, were called as witnesses for the prosecution and were examined by Mr. Winter and cross-examined by Mr. Higgins. Capt. Sturge was the only witness called for the defence and he pleaded guilty to the charge of entering Bay Bulls and not reporting. To the charge of having entered St. John's without reporting the captain swore that he did go to the Custom House and not being conversant with the rules and regulations, he asked Mr. LeMessurier to report his entry, but as his ship had already been searched by the police and the liquor found. Mr. LeMessurier directed him to the Inspector General. Regarding the third charge, he had already been fined $200 for having the liquor on board his vessel and the 9 lbs. of tobacco which were found was for the crew's use. Judge Morris, after listening to the evidence of both sides and hearing the plea of both lawyers, took into consideration the different aspects of the case and fined the defendant $25.00 for a breach of the Customs' Act in not reporting his vessel on arriving from a foreign port.

Drifters Went Down in Gale.

Crews Rescued and Brought to Halifax. Halifax, Oct. 15.—Old ocean has wrought havoc in the latest flotilla of trawlers and drifters, formerly units of the Canadian Navy's mosquito fleet operating off these shores during the war, to sail from Halifax for the British Isles. On Sunday last two trawlers and three drifters sailed for Inverness, Scotland, there to be commissioned for sale to the British fishing industry. On Wednesday one of the trawlers returned to Halifax reporting the loss of the Cape Breton coast of two of the drifters, the crews of which were saved. The other trawler was last seen heading for Sydney with the third drifter in tow. It is presumed that she arrived there safely. On board the T.R. 54, the trawler which returned to Halifax, were the crews of the two lost drifters. They had a narrow escape from going down with their boats, one crew being rescued as their ship's decks were awash. The drifter sank a few minutes later.

Seas Swept Deck.
"We steamed out Halifax Harbor on Sunday," said M. C. Connolly, of the crew of the T.R. 54, to a Morning Chronicle reporter yesterday. "Besides our boat there was the T.R. 25, and three drifters, Nos. 86, 87 and 15. We were not long out when the wind freshened considerably and by Sunday night it was blowing a whole gale. The little drifters were having a hard time of it, and that night we took No. 87 in tow. She was making little or no progress, and our skipper thought it best to get a line aboard her. It was a very rough night and we had no picnic aboard our own craft. T.R. 54 was bucking the gale in great style, but the seas frequently washed her and we lost almost all our deckload of coal, besides having the steering gear boxing carried away. Next morning at daybreak No. 87 signalled for her crew to be taken off. The drifter had been taking in seas now and then through the night, and towards morning suddenly began to fill rapidly. The water was above the fire, in the engine room when they asked for help from us."

Drowning Accident at Carmanville.

It is learned from passengers who arrived by S.S. Susu yesterday morning that a drowning accident, in which a young man named Elliot Hicks was the victim, occurred at Carmanville on Saturday last. It seems that in the gale of Friday last Hicks' schooner got her moorings tangled up, and whilst endeavouring to clear them the boat in which he was working was upset and before aid reached him the lad had gone under. Deceased was a son of Mr. Ezekiel Hicks and his untimely end has caused deep sorrow to his relatives and friends in Carmanville.

Time and Talents.

An Important Meeting.
It is particularly requested that all members of Time and Talents, who possibly can, will attend at Government House on Friday afternoon next at 2.30 p.m. An opportunity has arisen for Time and Talents to do special work during the winter similar to that done by members in England and it should appeal to all members. The meeting will also decide what is to be done with this year's surplus funds and every member should have a say. Representative decisions cannot be made unless members turn up. It will only keep you half an hour. D. White, Hon. Secy.

Lost Chain and Anchor.

Yesterday morning the S.S. West Waunck, which is here with oil fuel for the S.S. Yellowstone, lost about 30 fathoms of chain with anchor attached, the mishap being caused by the anchor shackle on the port side giving way. Diver Taylor was engaged yesterday evening and succeeded in locating the ground gear.

Personal.

Schr. Woveen sailed yesterday evening for Barbados, with codfish from A. S. Rendell & Co.
S.S. Rosalind is due this evening from Halifax. She will berth at Shea & Co's wharf.
S.S. Neptune sailed yesterday evening for the Labrador to bring up some of the fishing crews that are now on the coast.
S.S. Sagalind, which put into port last week in a disabled condition, has had repairs effected and continued her voyage yesterday evening.
Danish barque Clit and the S.S. Lake Furnas will go on dry dock to-day, the former to have repairs made to the hull, and the latter to have three blades put on her propeller.
S.S. Digby sailed yesterday evening at 3 o'clock for Liverpool.
Schr. Giant King is now at A. E. Hickman & Co's wharf, where she loads codfish and herring for Barbados. S.S. Noscopie is berthed at the Furness Withy Co's wharf where she is discharging her cargo of furs, etc. The Noscopie has one of the most valuable cargoes that has entered this port for some time.

Grandest On Earth, Says Quebec Woman.

"I Feel Like An Entirely Different Woman Since Taking Tanlac," Says Mrs. E. Matte.

"I feel like an entirely different person since taking Tanlac; have gained ten pounds in weight, and am enjoying the best of health," said Mrs. E. Matte, residing on St. Louis de Courville, Quebec, P.Q., recently.

"For three years I suffered from indigestion, and was already in a bad fix when I went down with the flu and had to stay in bed five weeks. The flu left me in a worse condition than I was before, and I suffered terribly all the time.

"I was so weak I couldn't walk across the room without support. I had no appetite at all, and even the odor of food cooking was sickening to me. My stomach was in such a poor condition I dared not eat anything, except a few dishes specially prepared for me.

"For months I lived on liquid foods that I didn't relish, and the little I forced down caused terrible cramping pains in my stomach that nearly set me wild. I was that weak and nervous it was almost impossible for me to get to sleep at night.

"For hours I would lie awake, and many times it was long after midnight before I'd fall to sleep, and then from exhaustion I would wake in the morning when I wanted I was still tired and weak. I got so I couldn't stand any noise, and the least little thing would upset my nerves till I'd quiver for hours without being able to control myself.

"Everything I tried failed me, and I kept on getting weaker and suffering still more. My husband suggested I try Tanlac and bought a bottle. I didn't think it would do me any good but was willing to try anything. From the very start I got better and was so delighted I kept right on taking it.

"I have finished my seventh bottle now; am well and happy, and nothing ever hurts me. I can't praise Tanlac enough for what it has done for me. And I am glad to give this testimonial, for I honestly believe Tanlac is the grandest medicine on earth.

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Paradise by Mrs. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gullies by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. West Coast Merchant Denounces Fishery Regulations.

(From This Morning's News.)

Yesterday afternoon a News reporter speaking to one of the biggest fish exporters on the South West Coast learned of conditions as they really exist in that important section of the country.

"There is very little doing," said the exporter, "though a few cargoes of codfish have been shipped to Oporto, and a few more are being made ready."

"Speaking of the fish regulations he pronounced them a curse and unhesitatingly asserted that their promulgation was primarily the cause of all the trouble in the European markets so far as the Newfoundland product was concerned.

While he did not condemn standardization, he was very pronounced in stating that the men sent to cull and inspect fish on the South West Coast were incompetent of carrying out the work entrusted to them. In some cases they went to extremes and in other cases they did not go far enough.

A number of the fishermen landed their fishing gear when they became aware of the over strict cull, and left for the Sydneys and the U.S.A., one or two settlements being practically cleaned out of all its young manhood. On the whole the exporter said the fishery was not an average, though in some places good catches were taken with traps. To-day very few seem anxious to dispose of their catches, and before a quintal is landed the fisherman, if he is a dealer, wants to know if his catch only covers his advances will supplies be given to carry himself and family over the winter.

The buyer finds himself unable to meet these demands, at least at the present time, as very few large shipments of provisions have as yet reached the coast. There is a considerable shortage of flour in many sections, and but for a 1500 barrel shipment by the S.S. Herbert Green to Grand Bank, the latter port would be very short at the present time. In parts of Placentia Bay there is little or no flour to be had. Getting back to the fishery regulations the exporter told of one case where a South West Coast firm shipped two cargoes of about 10,000 quintals of codfish to Oporto. After a long delay

76 shillings a quintal was offered them, but the Government would not let the firm sell at less than 80 shillings. The cargoes remained at Oporto for several months, and the shippers were not only obliged to pay $3,000.00 demurrage, but ultimately had to sell the fish at about 50 per cent. less than the first offer of 76 shillings. The exporter also cited a case where a West Coast firm loaded a cargo last July for Oporto, which was prevented from being shipped for weeks and weeks and has not yet reached market.

Whether this cargo will realize what it originally cost remains to be seen. Summing up the exporter condemned the regulations from A to Z and expressed it as his opinion that if they were removed and people allowed to conduct their own business, conditions would improve in a very short while.

Sugar in Large Quantities.

THOUSANDS OF BAGS STORED.

There are still thousands of bags of sugar stored in Shed 24, at the South End Terminals, says the Halifax Morning Chronicle. Some months ago it was said that several hundred thousand bags had been stored there, but since then some shipments are understood to have been made. However, the shed appears to be well stocked, the sugar occupying much space on both sides. In some places it is piled nearly to the ceiling.

Since this sugar was stored at the Terminals, to where it was transported by rail from the Woodside Refinery, there has been much discussion as to who owned it. The accepted theory is that it is American-owned sugar, sent here to be refined. Other reports are to the effect that it has changed hands several times. It has been said that the sugar has caked considerably since it has been placed in the shed, which has caused its value to depreciate.

It was recently reported that another cache of sugar was to be established in a warehouse along the waterfront. While no bags have as yet been stored, it is understood that between five and ten thousand bags will be placed there in the near future.

It is also reported that recently arrangements were made by one eastern refinery to store 100 carloads of sugar in an Amherst factory. The sugar now stored there is said to be valued at two million dollars.

Sugar Order a Raw Deal

(Morning Chronicle.)

Early and emphatic protest should be made by every citizen of Canada against the order of the Board of Commerce fixing the price of sugar and prohibiting the importation of cheap sugar from the United States. During the war the people of Canada willingly assented to governmental devised restriction on trade in the interest of our allies and ourselves to help win the war. Now that the war has been won trade should be permitted to resume its natural channels and all artificial restraints should be removed.

It is a notorious fact that during the war sugar manufacturers in Canada made enormous profits. It may be true now that owing to unwise purchases of raw sugar in anticipation of a vast increase in the demand at high prices the Refineries have loaded themselves up with raw materials. It may be true also that some remedial action is needed to prevent a financial crash and consequent unemployment, but if so the public is entitled to know all the facts before an arbitrary order is made by a semi-defunct board sitting in secret. The consumer was not represented at the hearings of the Board; no general announcement was made that the matter was under consideration and overnight an increase in the price of sugar is fixed upon the people upon an experts and incomplete statement of facts which a representative of the Refiners admits himself he does not understand.

The Board of Commerce itself invites protests to be filed before October 21st. The Board of Trade as representative of the business life of the city should give consideration to the matter at once. Protest should promptly be filed at Ottawa, a hearing should be had at which all parties interested should be heard and no artificial increase in the price of sugar should be permitted until the whole matter is thoroughly investigated and the people fully convinced of its necessity.

Sugar Importations.

The Toronto Mail and Empire has little sympathy for Canadian sugar refiners in their plea for protection against the importation of sugar from the United States on the alleged ground that such importation would mean the "dumping" in this country of a foreign produced commodity, below fair market prices. The Mail and Empire says:

"The anti-dumping laws are on the statute book, and while they are there, must be enforced. If they were not, business concerns in Canada suffering through non-enforcement of the law might be entitled to get damages in the courts. But there are purposes for which the anti-dumping laws were specially created. The intention was to prevent the United States or other foreign manufacturers from "dumping" their products into Canada at a much lower price than the regular selling price at home. If this anti-dumping law did not exist United States manufacturers who found themselves overstocked, might get rid of a large quantity of their goods at unduly low prices in Canada, in order to maintain good prices at home. If the 11-cent American sugar, which can be laid down in Canada for about 15 cents, has a genuine selling price of 11 cents in the United States refinery the sugar is not being "dumped" into Canada, in the generally understood sense of the term. If 11 cents is generally quoted in the United States, it is a fair market price, and the fact that the Canadian refiners are seeking to hold their prices up to about nineteen cents, does not make it less so. The spread between the United States and the Canadian price is obviously too great, and cannot last. The Canadian refiners were restricted to lower prices than American refiners were getting when sugar was on the up-grade, but even if the decline means a loss to them of large sums, the taking of that loss seems to be the only course. Sugar refiners have had large profits in the last two or three years."

Surely this is a fair presentation of the question. If 11 cents per pound is the normal market price of sugar in the United States, there is no reason why it should not be imported into Canada at that price, on payment of the regular customs duties.—Sydney Post.

THE WALL OF THE AFTER-DINNER SPEAKER.

Think not that I too bitterly complain
I would not walk the easy path through life,
I'm glad to bear my portion of its strife,
To know the rugged highways and the rain,
The disappointments and the clouds of doubt
Which come at times to test and try me out—
But, friend of mine, of you I now beseech,
Don't call on me to make a little speech.

Let me sit here and eat my evening meal
Without that inward throb of fear and dread;
Let me be gay while I am breaking bread,
And know the charm of fellowship is real;
I would enjoy the music and the wit
And not be deaf and lost to all of it;
Let him who likes the job get up to preach,
Don't call on me to make a little speech.

The hermit to his mountain cave retires
And spends his evenings bitterly alone,
Friends never come to make their friendship known
Or share the biases of the wood he fires,
He eats his meal in silence dull and grim,
And yet sometimes I think I envy him!
When night comes on he's safely out of reach—
He's never urged to make a little speech.

Soap Box Societies.

The first business of all soap-box societies, after funds have been raised, is to get some banners painted for use in public demonstrations. Therefore, it need surprise no one that the latest organization to claim public attention, "The American Women Pickets for the Enforcement of America's War Aims," went to Carnegie Hall, New York, to break up a meeting, armed and well prepared with banners covered with opprobrious remarks. The American Women Pickets, etc., had made a discovery which seemed to them to justify a riot. They had somehow found out that the Pilgrim Fathers were English. They had perhaps been previously under the impression that the Pilgrims came from Kivy or Cork to hold a celebration in honor of pioneers of English nativity was an outrage that could not be tolerated, so with shrieks and screams and waving of banners the meeting was broken up.

Be Sure Your Soap Is Pure Impure Soaps Are Not Wholly Soluble

When a soap is cheap it cannot contain all the pure animal fats and vegetable oils that make a soap efficient and harmless.

For that reason in cheap soaps adulterants are used—strong lyes, bleaching alkalis that eat the fabric, and extra water and "fillers" to give the cake size and weight. These impurities do not dissolve. They make a scum and give off an unpleasant odor, besides rotting the fine texture of the cloth.

KIRK'S FLAKE WHITE SOAP

Is wholly soluble in hot or cold or soft or hard water. It contains no fillers or impurities of any kind and is so pure that it is as safe as it is pleasant to use for toilet and bath, as it never injures the skin.

The solid white cake of Flake White is pure soap all the way through. It is unexcelled for any sort of washing and it is particularly popular as a laundry soap for fine clothes—always washing so quickly and leaving the clothes unharmed, lily white, sweet smelling and clean. Catches Man-Eater With Rod and Reel.

A big man-eating shark caught by Dr. Paul S. Howe, rector of the Episcopal Church, at Cape May, N.J., has been attracting large crowds to the pier on which it was exhibited. Dr. Howe was fishing with rod and reel for channel bass when he had a monster strike. He battled for an hour and a half before the shark was brought to gaff. It was found to weigh 358 pounds, and was nine feet one inch in length. Three small sharks and a half dozen croakers were found inside the shark when it was cut open. Lifeguards at both stations say the shark had been seen in shallow water and, as sharks usually travel in pairs, it is believed another probably in the vicinity.

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar 7½ to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

Counterfeit Worth More Than Genuine.

A strange counterfeit turned up at a Washington bank last week—queer because it was a bogus five dollar gold coin, and was worth about eight times as much as the genuine, because it was made of platinum. The spurious coin was made about 50 years ago and bears the date of 1869. The coins were made in Maine, and came to the notice of the Treasury Department when the scion of a wealthy family took a quantity of them from a safety deposit box, containing heirlooms and put them in circulation. All known specimens were confiscated by the Secret Service, and it was unknown until last week that others were still in circulation.

Handel's Appetite.

Some amusing stories are told of the voracious appetite of Handel. It is said that he once ordered dinner at an hotel. He arrived at the time appointed, was told that the dinner was ready, and was asked if he would wait for the others. Handel's reply was: "I am the others—serve the dinner," and he ate the whole of it.

Another story of the great musician is that while seated at dinner with some fellow-musicians, he suddenly exclaimed that an inspiration had occurred to him. Fearful of losing some flash of musical genius, his companions begged him to retire to an adjoining room to write it down. Later on during the dinner Handel again declared he had an inspiration, and departed to write it down. The proceeding excited the suspicion of one of the party, who went to the room to which Handel had retired, looked through the keyhole, and, behold, there was the great composer helping himself to some burgundy which an admirer had sent him, and which he wished to avoid sharing with the others.

Saxon Princess Brings Lawsuit.

Louise of Saxony, the divorced wife of the King of Saxony, is again in the public eye. She has brought suit against her present husband, Maestro Toselli, from whom she is separated, accusing him of having neglected their child and of spending on himself 40,000 lire which she had assigned to the maintenance of their boy. Toselli says the accusations are absolutely false and that the child is perfectly well and affectionately looked after by its grandmother. He is ready to defend himself before a court of justice.

The former actress, wife of Solly Joel, who has been made very rich by the South African diamond mines, recently appeared at Monte Carlo wearing a million dollars' worth of jewels, regarded as a record display at the famous gambling resort. She has a cabochon emerald, the finest stone of its kind in the world. Her costumes are the choicest the Paris modistes can originate.

"Iolanthe" at the Casino Last Night.

Professor Moncrieff Mawer and his talented company scored another complete success last night in the performance of "Iolanthe," that tuneful epic of Gilbert and Sullivan, at the Casino Theatre. The production is a brilliant and gorgeous one, and the company can be appreciated as artists giving a truly wonderful representation. Relieved of all its embellishments in the way of scenery, lighting effects and gorgeous costumery, the production would still be a masterpiece, for the artists failed in no particular to place before an appreciative house a truly realistic representation. In the splendid musical numbers the voices of the artists could be appreciated to the highest degree. In the abandon of the chorus there was a finesse extremely pleasing, and in the recitative of the principals one was forced to admit, as one learned judge stated in the vestibul last evening, "they are acting like professionals," and in this compliment from a critical observer is summed up what can be said by way of comment.

To the ladies of the cast must come first recognition. Miss Ida M. Howlett, in the role of Phyllis, must have realized her own success when called again and again to satisfy the whims of the audience, who wished to hear her sing. She has a splendid voice and it must be said to her credit that she gave of her best last night. As the shy, demure Ward in Chancery it is doubtful if a better choice could have been made from among the better class of professional actresses. Miss Elsie Herder, as the "Queen of the Fairies," has the perfect physical appearance which the producer longs for. She is stately, queen-like in appearance, creates a deep impression with her sweet voice and has a splendid stage appearance. Celia, Lella and Fleta, roles respectively taken by the Misses Doris Renne, Doris Withers and Eileen Cooke, are a trio of pretty and capable young ladies on whom much of the work of the chorus and dancing devolves. These three, while cast in minor parts, were responsible for much of the merit in the first act and were given merited applause. Mrs. C. Garland, in the title role of Iolanthe, is one of the singularly attractive young women on the stage. Her histrionic ability was best shown in the second act in the appeal to the Chancellor for her son. She also has a tender, sweet voice which blends perfectly in the ensemble work of the principals in the finale. A word of praise is due to the splendid work of the ladies of the chorus. Their tuneful voices and graceful deportment are an outstanding feature in an attraction of features. The ladies of the chorus of Fairies are: Mesdames E. Campbell, W. J. Carson and C. Oak; Misses Ruth Calvert, Jean Chafe, Florence M. Crocker, Gladys Clouston, Raphael M. Duder, Joyce Dunfield, Florence J. Ferguson, Kathleen R. Hayes, Anna Ledingham, Helen Lodge, Annie Lodge, Dorothy Pike, Gladys Redstone, Ethel Tucker and Nina Taylor.

Major J. J. O'Grady, as the Lord Chancellor, was the cynosure of all eyes in every minute he was on the stage. Major O'Grady is too well known in St. John's to need any introduction to theatre patrons, and he lived up to his reputation. In his role he has occasion to give utterance to some real philosophy which surely pleased his many friends. He also goes through his travesty work in a manner which always will find its own reward. W. L. Woods, as Lord Mountararat, was most appreciated for his artistic singing. It was indeed a pleasure to follow him through those tuneful melodies, particularly in "When Britain Really Ruled the Waves." As one of the Earls in the House of Lords at a time when it was under public discussion, he carries to his audience a real conviction that there were grounds for asking questions as to "brains" in the House of Lords. Leo Price, who can boast of a fine tenor voice, has all the opportunities in the role of Lord Trollopier to display his talents. As the bosom friend of Lord Mountararat he perhaps deserves special mention in the second act for a fine interpretation of friendship. A. Lawrence, judging by his work last night in the role of Strepton, left nothing to be desired in his handling of the part. He is the possessor of a very pleasing voice and has a good stage manner. The big impression from Private Willis is "I would not think much of any British soldier who would not go out of his way to oblige a lady," and A. B. Stansfield not only did not go out of his way to oblige a lady, the Queen, but he showed his audience he was capable of giving them music of a high order. His deep, rich basso seemed to be part of the role, and the role specially created for him. As to the chorus of Peers, eliminating the beauty and going to those more necessary things in a male chorus voices, they showed what can be done with an array of good singers. They are composed of Messrs. W. J. Carson, Max Colton, C. F. Garland, W. Herder, D. R. Herschell, W. J. Howell, D. Macintosh, Jos. Nunn, C. C. Oak, A. Ross, R. G. Rose, A. Roland, E. Spry, K. Trapnell and C. W. Udle.

Miss Maudie Hutchings was a dainty page, and, with her mimicry of the Lord Chancellor caught the attention of all.

The Orchestra too is an important feature in an opera like Iolanthe. They rendered able assistance to the singers and never once did overpower or dominate.

The opera will be repeated to-night, Thursday and Friday. On Thursday His Excellency the Governor and Lady Harris and party will attend the performance. His Grace Archbishop Roche will attend to-night's performance.

The Fish Regulations.

(Tricky Enterprise.)

Admitting that regulations are necessary in the shipment of our codfish, let us briefly consider the matter of the regulations themselves; for this is the real question just now. In considering this side of the situation we find ourselves confronted with the very same mistake that we condemned in our indiscriminate system of export—the mistake of extremes. We say, we agree with the regulations; but we entirely disapprove of the drastic manner in which they have been introduced. To establish such a reform as these regulations imply, requires much good judgment, and due precaution; and also much time. They cannot be adopted by the people, nor adapted to our trade, in one season, because the field is too wide, and the change too right-about, to expect their successful operation in so short a time.

And this is where we have made the mistake, and why there has been so much opposition to, and condemnation of, the regulations. Perhaps this mistake could not have been avoided; but now that it is hoped that every possible allowance will be made, so that the strain of the situation may be relieved. Whether intentionally or unintentionally the strain has been great; and the tie-up in trade has been almost paralytic; and two months' business has been literally lost to the country. This is to be regretted—nor could it be afforded.

Great Plot Against Children Since Herod.

Danish authorities are investigating what they fear may develop into the greatest wholesale baby murder plot the world has ever seen, growing out of a baby farming scandal. Madame Overby, who ran a large baby farm at Copenhagen, was arrested in connection with the unexplained disappearance of children from her home. Complaints were filed with the authorities covering her operations during eleven years in which the records show the mysterious disappearance of 100 infants entrusted to her. Since the first report to the police and Madame Overby's arrest mothers have daily been flocking to authorities to tell similar stories of the reported death and burial of children after Madame had received payment for their care.

Bell Island Cadets.

Official Presentation Championship Cup and other Athletic Trophies Won During the Season.

The Championship Football Cup of Bell Island, won by the Cadets, was officially presented last week to that body at the Star Hall, when over 150 members of "C" Wabana Co. lined up on parade. The occasion was also availed of to present to the Cadet representatives the numerous prizes and trophies they had won during the season at the various Sports, Games and Garden Parties. Judging by the appended Prize List, it was a veritable "Cadet Year" and luck seemed to follow their representatives in most of their efforts. A special Gold Medal was presented by the Corps to Sergt. Matthew Farrell, who was the Victor Ludorum of the Island in the seasons games; he having won twelve medals and being a member of the Championship team, as well as of the Cadet "aves" which won most of the games at the Garden Parties. Following the presentation of prizes, medals for general brigade work and attendance were presented to Sergt.-Major J. F. McEvoy, Sergt.-Instr. J. Stone, and Sergt.-Instr. P. Stoyles. This is the third time that Sergt. Stone has won the medal for general excellence as a brigade member. The presentation was made by Rev. J. J. McGrath, P.P., Chaplain of "C" Co., while Capt. J. M. Greene, O.C. Wabana Co. presided, and the following occupied seats on the platform:—Major Leo C. Murphy, Messrs. W. F. Billingsley, D. J. Jackman, R. D. Walsh, Andrew Murphy, John Connors, J. J. Farrell and D. Steele, while the parade formed up under Lieut. J. J. Murphy. Messages of regret at being unable to attend were read from His Grace the Archbishop, Patron of the Corps, Mr. C. F. Taylor, President of the B. I. Football League, and Dr. Humber A. Giovannetti, J.P. Before the close of the evening Capt. Green, on behalf of the brigade and Football Club, presented Sergt. Frank Jackman with a Gold Watch suitably engraved, as a tribute to the young Sergeant on the eve of his departure for Ireland, where he assumes Ecclesiastical studies.

The following is a list of the prizes and recipients as presented:—
