There Must Be a Reason

That a great many of the garments that we have received in the past month were from new customers who had those garments mislabeled by other dryers and were sent to us as a last resort before a settlement was made with the owners. We were able to doctor up the majority of those crumpled garments to the entire satisfaction of those owners. If you have any sick garments of this character send them to us. If our customers don't accept the garments after we doctor them, don't pay us. No cure no pay. We have received a new shipment of dye, the best on the market. Raglans cleaned and dyed at shortest notice. Outport orders get my personal attention. J. J. DOOLEY, McKimley Bldg., 50d. St. Cor. Lime St. & LeMarchant St. July 8, 21

"Bovril Galantine" is delicious

Here is a new and very economical dish to serve for lunch or supper. Fill a pie-dish or mould with pieces of cold cooked meat. Add two hard-boiled eggs sliced, and if liked, some sliced red peppers and a little parsley. Dissolve about a dessertspoonful of powdered gelatine in hot Bovril and pour over. When set, turn out on crisp hearts of lettuce, and serve.

The Shadow of the Future.

CHAPTER III. THE SHADOW OF THE FUTURE.

The lad colors awkwardly, and begins to frown again, but looking from his great height on the exceedingly anxious little face upturned to him, he relents and tries to stave the matter off as a species of joke.

"Oh, that was nothing, little one! Only some of my—my nonsense. Don't you trouble about anything you heard."

"But I must trouble," Sydney persists; "I don't like it at all. Why said I was a—nymph of evil. Why?"

The lad, hard pressed, caught at her blunder.

"I never said you were a 'nymph' of anything."

"Well, something of that sort, you did indeed; something—unkind!" the great sad eyes filling again with tears.

"But I really never meant to be unkind to you, honor bright I didn't," cries the lad, blinking down at her with very uncertain gaze—truth to tell, he wouldn't be sorry to descend to her level and for all his five feet ten inches, to let loose some of his private vexations in a good hearty howl—but I am awfully bothered, and I—I was angry with some one else, and I didn't think of what I said. That is the truth. So just you forget all you heard."

Sydney sighs, relieved, but not fully satisfied.

"Then you don't hate me?"

"No, no—nonsense! Certainly not." A great breath of growing contentment.

"I am glad!" emphatically; "and you won't be cross with me ever any more?"

"Why should I?"

"But you won't?"

"Well, I won't, then."

"Thank you. Now you may go away, boy. Good-bye!"

She slips her threepenny-bit of a hand into one of his huge ones, and makes her farewell with such a glad-dened, altered countenance, that he is smitten with remorse for having vexed such a small, innocent thing. So he stoops down and gives her a kiss, with a furtive glance about, as if afraid lest a hard on the wing should catch sight of the harmless peace-offering.

"There, run off," he says, lifting her clear over the stile with one sweep of his great strong arms; "go back to Taffy. Or no, look here," his brows knitting again, "play about first a few minutes. And, I say," holding her still by a great bunch of holland frock and red sash, "never you mind if people are cross now and then. Take my advice and don't care about it. Good-bye!"

He stops to see her safely traverse Lewis' long garden, and when he has started, turns back once more to watch the dark-haired child passing on through the orchard.

"Poor little thing!" he mutters, though his tone of pity is at variance with the scowl that gathers on his face again; "poor little thing!" and for all the wrath he may be nursing, carries away with him a kindly recollection of the tender-spirited seven-year-old maid, whom, spite of all he was to owe her, he was never in this world to see again.

CHAPTER IV. MORE FAREWELLS THAN ONE. Memory has a trick of placing her pegs so irregularly, especially in the brains of the young, and hanging upon them incidents so detached from their surroundings, that while the afternoon recurred still stands vividly in the foreground of Sydney's young days, his sequence of events faded clean out of mind; perhaps because changes came thick and fast just then.

In point of fact, however, when the child had strayed among the fruit-trees long enough, according to her calculations, to dry off the traces of tears upon her cheeks, and hide these signs of woe from Taffy's sharp eyes; and when she returned through the back door of the cottage, between the wash-tubs on their settles and the wheelbarrow poised for the night on what she called "its hind-legs," to the flag-floored room where tea was modestly ready by this hour, she found, indeed, the meal prepared, but, for a wonder, left unguarded, while, taking joyful advantage of this negligence, a marauding puss from a neighboring establishment was seated on the table, and both the natural guardians of these viands were standing far down the path by the gate, talking to no other than Havens, the GUYWICK coachman.

"Papa! Where's papa?" cries Sydney, running forward. "Is he come for me?"

An instant silence fell upon the group. Then nurse, shaking her head at the others, came forward, explaining that Mr. Alwyn hadn't come, but "her little miss had got to go home."

"So come along and let you an' me get your things packed up, my deary," said the old woman, in rather a quavering voice ("nurse doesn't like my going," thought the child, and coaxed the old wrinkled hand caressingly); and together the two speedily collected the small wardrobe, though Taffy was so absent-minded she had to open the bag half a dozen times for articles well-nigh forgotten. Then she hugged Sydney wonderfully tight, and kept close, though somewhat trembling, hold of the child as they left the tiny white-walled sleeping-room, not loosing her till she was safely bestowed in her nook by Haven's side, and ready to start.

John Lewis and his wife talked, low-voiced, to the man to the last moment. Maybe they never noticed a small hand stretched out, anxious for farewell, for which puzzled aspect they only drew back, nodding to her as the pony trotted off, and for the first time she left them without a piny in her lap, or a cheery "Mind you come and see us again soon, Miss Sydney, dear."

But nurse seemed crying, and this tribute of love supplied all other omissions.

"I'll tell papa you say I cost nothing to keep, so he'll let me come back, Taffy, darling!" cried Sydney, and did just wonder, with ever so brief a pang, when, instead of the hearty, responding "Ay, that's right do!" they only signed a last good-bye, and all turned slowly toward the cottage, talking so intently they never saw the smile she twisted round to spend on them while their forms were visible.

But the getting home and the next few weeks were altogether so strange that these first signs of something unusual about were blotted out, and so faded to furnish warning of what came later on as most unwelcome knowledge. For her father, Havens said, was away still; and he was very ill, so Miss Foster, Leonora's governess, furnished her so soon as she reached home. And Mrs. Alwyn was away. "Gone to him!" Miss Foster wasn't sure. She supposed so; very likely they would hear to-morrow. And to-morrow, from somewhere, came orders for the children to travel to London, the governess with them.

Long did Sydney remember that journey, principally by reason of the overpowering hunger she suffered through its tedious length, and the disappointment that met her at its end. For cook, for some unexplained cause, declined to send up a schoolroom dinner before they started (she said she hadn't time, though that was clearly an unkind invention, since, as the carriage bore the children from GUYWICK, the recalcitrant domestic was plainly visible in company with two housemaids, a groom, and a gardener, unobtrusively feasting off the early strawberries, and to all seeming jauntily enjoying unlimited leisure and liberty!) and Miss Foster coldly turned a deaf ear to suggestions of biscuits by Leonora; and at the end of all those weary miles there was yet no father!

Instead of his presence ensued a most uncomfortable dreary month at lodgings, the governess still in not very amiable or willing charge. Mrs. Alwyn sometimes with them, often away, always in a mood varying between hysteria and ill-temper. Then, after the transacting, apparently, of much business—for backward and forward to Vere Street came constantly a Mr. Russell, brother to Mrs. Alwyn, and a Colonel Withers, similarly related to her first husband—a move was made in another direction.

"Are we going home to GUYWICK?" Sydney asked, and was answered by her mother, wearing the aggrieved air habitual in these last few weeks:

"Home, child, but not to GUYWICK."

"Then where to?"

"A different house; in Suffolk; it belongs to your uncle Russell."

"And papa will be there?" kindling into delighted expectancy.

"Of course," coldly; "but"—hesitating, looking dubiously at Sydney's eager, radiant face, and then coming to some conclusion—"but listen to me. You must recollect," very emphatically, "he has been very ill. You must never worry him. Above all, Sydney, you are not to pester him with questions about leaving GUYWICK. You will make him worse if you do. Remember that;" and the child, faithfully promised obedience, never broke her word, understanding all too soon her need to keep it.

For when, soon after his wife, Mr. Alwyn reached St. Clair's, it was but the shadow of himself that appeared—an old, white-haired man, with the icy touch of paralysis upon him; a living incubus that shrank willingly into the background of the new message; a father whom Sydney could still cling to, most dearly love, most lovingly tend, but never, never vex by reference to that recent past which seemed so sorely to have tried him.

"My poor husband is a mere wreck," was Mrs. Alwyn's formula concerning him to the people who gradually professed intimacy with them: first the few professional families round about the rambling, town-like village, the vicar at their head; next the lesser but penitently, I suppose, of strong constitutions which never know an ache or a pain all their lives through. They break up all at once. It's extremely distressing to be in the way of such cases, especially when one knows, unfortunately, nothing can be done to improve them."

True enough, perhaps; but most certainly with Mr. Alwyn nothing was attempted.

But nurse seemed crying, and this tribute of love supplied all other omissions.

"I'll tell papa you say I cost nothing to keep, so he'll let me come back, Taffy, darling!" cried Sydney, and did just wonder, with ever so brief a pang, when, instead of the hearty, responding "Ay, that's right do!" they only signed a last good-bye, and all turned slowly toward the cottage, talking so intently they never saw the smile she twisted round to spend on them while their forms were visible.

after the transacting, apparently, of much business—for backward and forward to Vere Street came constantly a Mr. Russell, brother to Mrs. Alwyn, and a Colonel Withers, similarly related to her first husband—a move was made in another direction.

"Are we going home to GUYWICK?" Sydney asked, and was answered by her mother, wearing the aggrieved air habitual in these last few weeks:

"Home, child, but not to GUYWICK."

"Then where to?"

"A different house; in Suffolk; it belongs to your uncle Russell."

"And papa will be there?" kindling into delighted expectancy.

"Of course," coldly; "but"—hesitating, looking dubiously at Sydney's eager, radiant face, and then coming to some conclusion—"but listen to me. You must recollect," very emphatically, "he has been very ill. You must never worry him. Above all, Sydney, you are not to pester him with questions about leaving GUYWICK. You will make him worse if you do. Remember that;" and the child, faithfully promised obedience, never broke her word, understanding all too soon her need to keep it.

For when, soon after his wife, Mr. Alwyn reached St. Clair's, it was but the shadow of himself that appeared—an old, white-haired man, with the icy touch of paralysis upon him; a living incubus that shrank willingly into the background of the new message; a father whom Sydney could still cling to, most dearly love, most lovingly tend, but never, never vex by reference to that recent past which seemed so sorely to have tried him.

"My poor husband is a mere wreck," was Mrs. Alwyn's formula concerning him to the people who gradually professed intimacy with them: first the few professional families round about the rambling, town-like village, the vicar at their head; next the lesser but penitently, I suppose, of strong constitutions which never know an ache or a pain all their lives through. They break up all at once. It's extremely distressing to be in the way of such cases, especially when one knows, unfortunately, nothing can be done to improve them."

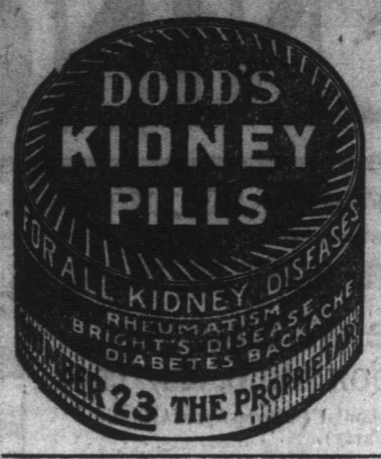

True enough, perhaps; but most certainly with Mr. Alwyn nothing was attempted.

HOWDY MISTER SUNSHINE.
Here's Howdy, Mister Sunshine, for you're welcome round the place. We're mighty glad to greet you and to see your smiling face.

Just nose around the blossoms in the garden as you will.
And do a little dancing on each dusty window sill.

There's a sleepy boy up yonder that will give you back a smile.
If you'll let your brightest sunbeam go and tickle him awhile.

Here's Howdy, Mister Sunshine an' we're mighty glad you're back.
Come along an' spill the roses an' the peonies from your pack.

There's a pair o' little robins in the elm tree nestin' high.
That have waited for your coming; an' to-day I guess they'll fly.

Coz I've heard their mother tellin' to those most impatient things.
That the first day it was sunny she would let 'em try their wings.

Here's Howdy, Mister Sunshine, an' a welcome that is true.
Every living thing, I fancy, gets the breath o' life from you.

An' I don't know if you know it, but the baby seems to grin.
Just a little more delighted when you're ticklin' of his chin.

An' the old man in his corner with his journey almost done.
Finds a thousand joys to please him when he's sittin' in the sun.

Here's Howdy, Mister Sunshine! Oh, it seems to me our girls

Are loveliest the mornings you an' dancin' in their curls,
An' though we must have sorrow an' there must be days of rain,
The joy is all the sweeter when you come to us again.

So it's Howdy, Mister Sunshine, from the lips of man an' boy,
An' the women folks who love you—here's a day we'll all enjoy.

MILK from Canada's finest dairy farms

Sealed FRESH in the Country

MILK—Nature's finest food—has such an important part in your daily diet that you naturally want to use the richest, purest and safest milk obtainable.

That is why you will be interested in Carnation Milk. In the heart of Canada's best dairy counties are the spotless Carnation condenseries. Here every day in the year is received pure, fresh, rich, "whole" milk from fine farms.

Part of the water is removed by evaporation, and the milk, now of creamy consistency, is sealed in air-tight containers, and sterilized—to make it doubly safe.

Thus, Carnation Milk reaches you fresh, pure and wholesome, protected against contamination. Your grocer—you, too—can keep it in the unopened container indefinitely.

And with it you can fill every household need for milk and it can be used as cream for tea and coffee, cereals and fruit.

But, if you want milk for drinking or cooking you must ADD WATER to Carnation Milk—at least an equal part.

Carnation Milk is absolutely free from sweetening or preservative. And it is of uniform quality and purity. You can use it in every recipe—it adds new flavor and a delicious richness.

Try this modern milk supply. Try it for one week. Order a dozen tall cans (16 oz. size), or a case of 48 cans of Carnation Milk from your grocer—the Carnation Milkman.

Made in Canada by CARNATION MILK PRODUCTS COMPANY, LIMITED, Aylmer, Ontario. Condenseries at Aylmer and Springfield, Ont.

A TRUCE IN IRELAND

Agreement Signed Saturday Afternoon--Lloyd George Wires Invitation to De Valera -- Ulster Minister Urges "Hands Off."

THE TERMS OF THE TRUCE.
DUBLIN, July 10. Truce terms were agreed to at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the British Military Headquarters. General Sir Neville MacReady, Military Commander in Ireland, Colbrand and W. Cope, Under Secretaries in the office of the Chief Secretary for Ireland, acted for the British army, and Commandants Robert C. Barton and J. Duggan represented the "Irish Republican" army; firstly, that there be no incoming troops of Royal Irish Constabulary and Auxiliary, and no movement for military purposes, except in maintenance of law; secondly, that there be no provocative display of the forces, and no pursuit of Irish officers and men or search for war material and military stores; fifthly, that there be no secret agents, noting of movements of and no interference with movements of Irish military men and civilians, and no attempts to discover the haunts and movements of Irish officers and men; sixthly, that there be no search of, or observation of, lines of communication; seventhly, that there be no search for messengers. Other details connected with court martials, motor accidents and similar matters, says the Bulletin, are to be agreed to later. On behalf of the Irish Republican Army it was agreed that firstly,

McGrath Had Spent a Small Fortune in Seeking Health

Newfoundland Man Sought Relief For Eight Years--Says He Now Feels Fine.

"Tanlac did for me what every other medicine I tried failed to do," said Patrick McGrath, of Colliers, Conception Bay, N.F.

"I had a bad form of stomach trouble for eight years and during that time spent a small fortune trying to get relief. After every meal gas bloated me up, sometimes almost cutting off my breath altogether, and at other times my heart would palpitate like it was about to jump out of my body. I was so short-winded that the least exertion would start me gasping and panting for breath. I got to where I wasn't sleeping enough to do me any good and in the mornings felt as bad as I did when I went to bed.

"My digestion is perfect now and I have a splendid appetite too. Soon after my head hits the pillow I am sound asleep and sleep all night long without waking once. In the morning I get up feeling as bright and happy as a boy, eat a big breakfast and go off to work whistling. When it comes to building a man up and making him feel fine Tanlac hasn't an equal."

FEW OUTRAGES.

DUBLIN, July 10. Few outrages were reported yesterday, apparently they occurred at places where orders to stop fighting had not been received. Alleged to be in reprisal for recent shooting at South Armagh, Draper Holmes, Unionist, was shot at several times Saturday morning near Lisdrumiskey, on his way to work. He was mortally wounded and died in hospital. The dead body of a chauffeur named Cummins was found dead on the road near Cashel, labelled "Convicted Spy."

AN EXTREMIST.

BELFAST, July 10. It is a case of "Hands off" with Orangemen, on the Lloyd George-De Valera conference, declared John Gordon, of the Ulster Ministry, in a speech at Larna, County Antrim, today. Lloyd George might be prepared to enter into conferences with De Valera to settle the affairs in Ireland, said Mr. Gordon, but Orangemen had settled the affairs of Ulster and to Messrs. Lloyd George and De Valera they said "Hands off."

DISARMAMENT PROPOSALS.

GOOD FISHING IN WHITE BAY.
S.S. Prospero, Capt. Field, reached port at 2.30 p.m. from the Northward. She brought a small freight and the following passengers:—Messrs. Alcock, Morgan, Baistone, Sackery, House, Parsons, LeGrow, Dawe, Verge, Samson, Elliott, Scammell, Crumney, Bailey, Vasey; Mesdames Percey, LeDrew, Harnett, Butler, Crumney, Bailey, Wilkison, Alcock, and Misses Garard, Moores, Sevier, Taylor, Payne, Hyde, Payne, Rodgers, Harnett, Fifield, Ploughman and Tibbs. The Prospero reports an unpromising outlook for the fishery in Bonavista and Trinity Bays although in some places small quantities of fish have put in appearance. At Grey Islands and on the South side of White Bay, however, the men have done well with both traps and hook and line as there is an abundance of fish in those districts. In the former place they are enjoying the best fishery for 35 years. Fish are plentiful at Belle Isle, but great difficulty is experienced in handling it, owing to the large amount of drift ice. Many schooners have suffered damage through contact with ice floes and are now undergoing repairs at Quirpon. The fishermen are confidently expecting the fish to strike in large quantities before very long and no doubt, promising reports will be received within the next few days.

Camp Thieves at Work.

A party of men camping on the Southside Hills had their tent entered for a second time on Friday last by some unknown persons. The lock on a box containing their cooking utensils, etc., was broken and a clock and flashlight valued at $5.00, stolen. The police are being acquainted of the matter.

Our claim is that Phosphate Cough and Cold Cure is the best preparation for all kinds of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and various lung troubles, and to substantiate our claim we can produce the proof by the sales we are making. If Stafford's Phosphate was not what we claim it to be why should people be buying it by the bottle and wholesalers purchasing it in gross quantities. Phosphate is only one of the many preparations we manufacture and have succeeded in obtaining a very large sale for owing to its medicinal qualities.

REMINGTON UMC

"Wetproof" and Dependability

"WETPROOF" is a coined word; it is a REMINGTON word and stands for the special patented process with which all Remington UMC shotgun cartridges are now treated. Cartridge cases have long been made of so-called "waterproofed" paper, but this exclusive "WETPROOF" process is something different. It is a forward step in the manufacture of shotgun cartridges.

The wetproof compound of special oils is applied, not only to the body, but also to the top of the cartridge after loading, effectively sealing it against moisture and giving to the contents that protection which insures uniformity of ignition, pattern, speed and penetration. Sportsmen need not fear the effect of rain or damp weather on their shotgun cartridges if they use REMINGTON UMC brands treated with this special, patented "WETPROOF" process.

Notes on the Railway Problem.

These are random thoughts, without any attempt to construct a case or a policy, but recognizing the terrible problem that the Railway Committee has put before the country at the present time, involving, as it does, the greatest part of our public debt.

It has been popularly believed during the past twenty years that the railway was responsible for the period of progress and prosperity through which the country passed. Nothing could be further from the facts. The railway construction policy came before the country incidentally and accidentally at the same time that a general tide of prosperity spread over the world. This country benefited through its traders and people by the borrowed money spent on railroad construction, and that is the only benefit that the country has ever received from the railway, and that is a very doubtful one.

The time has come now when the price has to be paid for the huge amount of interest which the public is called upon to pay is largely the result of a mistaken railroad policy. Most countries build their railways after they have found their resources. This country followed the mistaken policy of building a railway to find its resources. The result has been disappointing, for not a single industry or form of employment remains in existence as a result of the railway, with the exception only of the work incidental to its repairs and operation of the said road.

The only settlement built up in connection with the road was a "white" journey. It has been mistakenly said that Grand Falls stands to the credit of the railroad. As a matter of fact, the railroad has nothing in the world to do with Grand Falls. That industry is entirely apart and separate from our railroad system, independent of it, never indebted to it, and in any other way dependent for its existence upon our railroad. Grand Falls has an independent road of its own, about thirty miles long, which takes its product out to the sea.

Nothing could be more absurd than the operation of a road 549 miles long to reach a barren point of coast in the hope of making in order to connect with the Continent, when we have ample opportunities of connection at our coast line. If the long railroad could have given us a very greatly shortened connection with the Continent, or saved us from a sea voyage, it might have been worth consideration. Even then it would have been a very expensive luxury, but as a matter of fact, Port aux Basques does not save us from a sea voyage—and does not greatly shorten the time or distance. While it is not denied that there is some shortening of the distance, it is often as difficult to reach Port aux Basques as it would be to reach Placentia, and the sea voyage with its disadvantage is still there.

A tortuous, serpentine, attenuated railroad is constructed along the highest mountain peaks of the country, dealing with railroad difficulties for a great deal of the distance, and continually depositing its passengers at a rock-bound, storm-swept point, after it has trailed along a country devoid of anything attractive or profitable. The absurdity of this means of transportation is appreciated when we consider that our population is a maritime one, scattered along our coast line, with absolutely no interior population; that our coast offers the best of harbors and bays; and that the ocean furnishes us the natural highway for our intercourse and for our connection with the neighboring Continent. If a tithe of the money spent on the railroad had been spent on ships, we could now have had a daily mail and passenger connection with Halifax or Sydney, or both, and a service ample in every respect for all our needs, and our public debt would have been, at least thirty million dollars less than it is.

Consider the transportation of two hundred tons of freight from Port aux Basques, even supposing it has reached there. On the one hand, consider two trains loaded with this freight, and one steamer loaded with the same quantity; they both leave Port aux Basques at the same time, and will make the distance in about the same time. The ship will cost perhaps $10,000. The railroad for the same service will cost $30,000, and carries with it a multiple of expenses, such as interest, repairs and construction, telegraph operators, section men, conductors, brakemen, officers and workers of various descriptions, to attend the same purpose as the ship with the limited cost and outlay. Nothing could be more foolish than to continue this absurd expense. The cure for it is to shut up the railway and let the grass grow over it.

This contention does not mean that we should have no railroad system. Now that we have launched on this crazy scheme, it would be well to keep the road going as far as Lewisport, thus linking up all the Bays on the East Coast. The greater part of the expense of the railroad, however, can be avoided by closing the road from Notre Dame Junction to Port aux Basques. Our railway operation to the service of the local domestic needs of our people along the East Coast, and we would rely upon shipping entirely for outside supplies and intercourse.

The whole railroad scheme has been made an opportunity for political manipulation, as witness the series of arbitrations through which we have passed, and which have entailed so many people at the expense of the country. Surely the public have not used its eyes to these things. There is evidence that manipulation has not ceased, as witness the fact that the Reid Nfld. Co. last year were able to obtain the consent of the Government, presumably, to relieve and divest itself of almost all the assets by the formation of new companies to take over everything the Reid Nfld. Co. possessed, with the single exception of the railroad, and although the public failed to realize that this was done for a purpose, and that manipulation still proceeds, and that somebody is reaping of sins at the expense of an advantage therefrom? What is the purpose of the Railroad Commission last year? Surely not to rehabilitate the railroad; no serious attempt was made to do so.

The Report of the Commission recently given makes a better case for the Reid than the best prepared case by the smartest lawyers of Canada on their behalf could have made. The Railroad Commission in justifying their own blindness has proven Reid's case to the hilt so far as defects are concerned. Two years ago Reid would have had difficulty in convincing the Legislature and the public that a deficit of $300,000 was justifiable. Now the country's own Government Commission has proven a deficit of $1,000,000, and how was this accomplished? What accounts for the immense increase in the deficit amount? Has the public again failed to realize that an orgy of expenditure took place on the railroad immediately after the Government Commission took hold; that Reid's railway shops were filled with orders to the utmost extent; that the Foundries in making castings were never so busy before; that Reid's Water St. Stores did the biggest business on record; and that the operation of the road under the Commission must have been most highly profitable to the Reid in their various special companies, and that the deficit was thereby abnormally increased, and was by accident, or by design? If by design, for what purpose? Surely "he who runs may read," and the public must have a dull mind if it does not perceive the trend of things.

The remedy now is to put Reid in the position that his contract gives him, even if he has separated himself from his assets. At all events, if he fails to operate according to the terms of his contract, he should be deprived of all his lands, and the whole thing cleaned up, and then the road can be closed down, except such portion of it as serves domestic needs. It is better to meet the disaster in this way than to go on tampering with it and make it a bigger disaster still. Moreover, there is a possibility that the road may still be made the subject for further political manipulation.

King's Cove Notes.

Over 35 candidates sat at the C.H.E. Exams, which was held in the R. C. Hall last week. The writer wishes them every success.

The different schools in the district are now closed, the teachers enjoying a well-earned vacation.

Miss J. Barker, teacher of the R. C. Superior School, left for home on Monday past.

Miss Katie C. Murphy, who was attending St. Bride's Academy all winter, returned home Monday.

Mr. Reginald Curtis also came home from "Field Hall" Monday past where he was in attendance all winter.

Hon. D. A. Ryan, who was on a business visit here, returned to Trinity Wednesday.

Mrs. Thos. Lawton, who was undergoing special treatment at the General Hospital, St. John's, returned home last week. Mrs. Lawton's health is very much improved.

Mrs. Gilbert Brown and 3 children arrived here from Vancouver, B.C., last week on a visit to friends.

Mr. William Sullivan, of Ryan Bros. Trinity staff, spent the week-end in King's Cove with his friends.

The past week was a busy one for motor-car drivers, making as many as four trips daily to and from Trinity with passengers.

Some of our fishermen who had their traps in the water during the storm of Monday and Tuesday, had

CYR'S CHALLENGE TAKEN UP.

Barring fans will be delighted to hear that Charley Cyr's challenge has been accepted by Messrs. Bell, Robertson and Marzler, and our boys can be depended upon to keep up the honor of Newfoundland. Mr. Thomas, acting as manager for Johnny Bell, informs us, however, that Bell will not be able to run before August 20th for two reasons, one that he is participating in the Regatta, and secondly that he severely strained the muscles of his right leg on last Wednesday and is still undergoing treatment. As the Montreal challenger will be coming here regularly through the summer this can no doubt be easily arranged, and the delay will enable other runners than those mentioned above to get in condition. It is likely the race will be under the auspices of the A.A.A.

TO-NIGHT'S MEETING.

To-night's Baseball meeting will be private inasmuch as only officers and two delegates from each club will be present. The fixtures for the C.E.I. Garden Party will be drawn. A baseball relay race has been asked for the Veterans and this will also be decided upon. It is not known what will be done this year about the Mount Cashel series. The H. D. Reid trophy has been won outright by the Cubs so that at present there is nothing to compete for, though no doubt it is the intention of the sports' committee of the Garden Party to have the popular game of ball included.

TO-MORROW NIGHT'S GAME.

The C.E.I. should be able to put up a stiff front to the Lions to-morrow evening as they have been practicing most assiduously. Some of the positions have been changed which will tend to produce smooth ball, and it must be admitted that in the last appearance they had the Cubs on the go for a while. The lineups will be published to-morrow.

SOMEONE PLEASE ANSWER!

Another indignant letter has reached us from CUB JR. regarding the Junior League. It is full of threats and dire warnings to those in charge to have something immediately or there will be war. Possibly the matter could be taken up at the meeting to-night.

THE UMP.

Unhappy is the umpire Who never hears some kicks. Or calls a close play at the plate Who doesn't expect bricks.

Should he go through a battle Without the beeping horn; "Robber—Robber—Boneshead," He'd feel he was ignored.

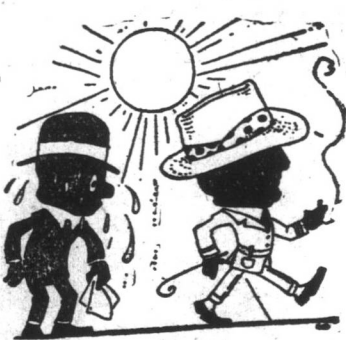

His work is very simple. He calls the balls and strikes, And watches all the bases To see if they are spiked.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

SEEKING A SOLUTION.

WASHINGTON, July 10. President Harding has approached Great Britain, France and Italy and Japan with a view to the holding, in Washington, of a conference to discuss limitation of armaments. The President furthermore has suggested to the powers interested in the problems of the Pacific and the Far East that subjects relating thereto be considered at this conference, at which it is proposed that limitation of armaments be considered. These statements were embodied in an announcement issued to-night by the State Department by direction of the President.

DEATH FROM THE SKY.

MOUNDSVILLE, W.Va., July 10. Six persons were killed, and approximately fifty injured at Langin Field, here, late to-day, when a Martin bombing plane crashed into a group of automobiles parked on the ground. An explosion followed setting fire to the machine. The dead were all spectators. A Lieutenant, the pilot and another Lieutenant, who was assistant pilot were rescued by Carl Miller, coach of Bethany College.

LAWLESSNESS IN BELFAST.

BELFAST, July 10. Rioting broke out in Belfast last night, and continuing throughout the day, became so serious this afternoon that military had to be summoned to restore order. At ten o'clock tonight the casualties lists showed that 15 persons had been killed, and nearly one hundred wounded. According to police accounts firing at patrols by Republicans precipitated the outbreak. From then the shooting was almost continuous in Falls districts. As daybreak came on, the tide of battle extended down the Falls Road, until it reached Townshend Street, which then became the centre of sharp rioting, with Unionists for the first time entering the fray. Carrick Hill and Millfield, the areas of the Nationalist strongholds next became affected. The firing here was intense, alternating with screams of crowds as they scurried hurriedly away. As a group of Orangemen marched four deep along Royal Avenue, from service at Ulster Hall this afternoon, there were scenes of excitement, Orangemen shouting defiance as they passed streets, down which bullets were flying. Next police rifles began to come into action, and the crowd on the street corner cheered wildly, when one of the shots brought down a man with a gun. Ballinacree, the city's eastern suburbs, caught the riot infection and generally the spirit of the troops was the last thing to be observed in Belfast. Late this afternoon armoured cars thundered along the avenue, cheered on by Unionists. At North Street the occupants tumbled out and laying flat on the pavement, opened fire. Orangemen from Shanighill Road, which is a continuation of North Street, lined up with the police and began shooting from that side on Republican forces in Millfield, who found themselves between two fires. Early in the morning a number of rifles were discovered. All over Ulster church parades were held to-day, presumably to the usual twelfth of July demonstration.

HANDY MEN ALL.

NEW YORK, July 10. Twenty-eight days after a large hole had been stove in her starboard bow, when she struck an iceberg on the Grand Banks, the three-master Danish bark, Astrid, made port to-day with a hatch of wood and cement, hastily rigged at sea, replacing the crushed plates. Mariners regard feat of the crew commanded by Captain Askov K. Skev as a nautical triumph.

C. E. WANT WARLESS WORLD.

NEW YORK, July 10. More than 16,000 delegates to the sixth World's Christian Endeavor Convention to-day, gave a tremendous demonstration to an appeal for a warless world, and the demand that United States join some International Association to promote world peace. They cheered Fred B. Smith, Chairman of the Commission on the Inter-Church Federational Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, as he urged all Christian Churches to bring pressure to bear upon national authorities at Washington to make United States a member of the League of Nations or of some other national guild.

LONDON INUNDATED.

LONDON, Ontario, July 10. Not since the big flood of July 11, 1883, when fourteen persons were drowned, and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property was destroyed, has London sustained such damage as during a storm which raged from 2 o'clock this morning until 2 this afternoon. In that time 3.05 in of rain fell and lightning was almost incessant. Terrible damage, that will run into thousands of dollars, was caused by flooding. The damage in the districts surrounding London, and throughout this part of Ontario will amount to thousands.

MUCH DAMAGE IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, Mass., July 10. Damage in Great Boston, from a series of six electrical storms that centered over this city and its suburbs, yesterday, was estimated to-day at $500,000, losses in the neighboring towns and cities, reports said, would approximate as much more. The heaviest loss resulted from the rain fall which measured 6.03 inches here in less than twenty-four hours, establishing a record. Three deaths were directly due to the storm. One woman was killed by lightning, an elderly woman died of shock and a man died of heart failure.

LEADERS WILL PROBABLY MEET.

LONDON, July 10. The British Prime Minister, Lloyd George, and the Irish Republican leader, Eamonn De Valera, will probably meet some day this week, to discuss basis for a general conference on Irish settlement. Lloyd George has asked Mr. De Valera to name a date, and has added a further invitation to any colleagues whom he wishes to bring with him. The Irish question has been long a history of baffled hopes, otherwise the present situation would be full of promise for a final peaceful settlement.

GERMAN JUSTICE ONLY.

PARIS, July 11. The French mission, which has been baffled attending the trial there of German officers charged with acts in violation of the rules of civilized warfare, returned to Paris yesterday afternoon.

The 'Longshoremen's Strike.

An emergency meeting of the I.S.R.U. was held on Saturday evening to discuss an offer from the captain of the American steamer Hannack, re loading that ship. He offered the men full control of the work of loading, giving them the option of appointing their own stevedores and timekeepers and make their own arrangements. After some discussion the Union decided they would not accept the captain's offer until a settlement of the strike was effected with all the waterside firms. The meeting adjourned shortly after 4 o'clock and the strikers, learning that the Hannack was being discharged, proceeded at once to the Furness pier. They were met at the gate entrance by a squad of police, but the latter were powerless against the oncoming crowd, which made a rush to the ship's side. Several of the Furness Withy office hands were caught, amongst them being Mr. W. Allan, who but for police protection would have been badly handled. He was marched up through the gateway before being rescued. Mr. T. Kennedy was also captured, but he managed to get aboard ship. The men were incensed against him, and there were shouts that he had a revolver in his possession. An attempt was made to search his hip pocket, but no weapon was produced. When the men who were discharging the cargo had been dispersed, the strikers gradually drew away from the premises.

C. L. B. Cadets.

PRESENTATION TO REV. E. H. FLETCHER.

The C.L.B. Cadets Athletic Association held an emergency meeting at their Armoury on Saturday evening last. The main business was to receive reports from Treasurer as to the financial side of their successful Dominion Sports, which proved very satisfactory and far exceeded anticipations. Immediately after general business Rev. E. H. Fletcher who has occupied the position of Chairman during the past three years—vacated his office—as he is leaving shortly for the Old Country. During his term of office he has endeared himself to all ranks and especially to the Athletic workers in the Brigade. This is proved by the presentation made by Lieut Motty on behalf of the Athletic Association of a splendid C.L.B. Silver Cup, suitably engraved, as a token of the esteem in which he is held. The Rev. Gentleman in a few choice words thanked all members for their co-operation and sincerely regretted that he had to sever his connection with the Association owing to being called to the Old Country. In losing Rev. Mr. Fletcher the C.L.B. Cadets lose a true sport, a true friend and a most energetic worker. We wish him and his family every success in their new home but sincerely hope that the time is not far distant when we shall have him back with us again. We welcome Lieut. Motty to the office of Chairman of the Athletic Association.—COM.

PATRICK BUCKLEY.

There passed away last evening an old and respected citizen of the West End in the person of Patrick Buckley. Deceased who had reached the age of 76 years had been in failing health for the past 12 months and his death was not unexpected. He leaves to mourn their sad loss, a widow and one daughter, Mrs. C. J. Cantwell.

5th Century Wei Buddha

Boston, July 11.—Much interest centres upon the wonderful Buddha with the cryptic smile recently added to the extensive Salada collection here. The enterprising tea company have many beautiful examples of oriental art in their palatial building and this piece, they say, comes from the Temple of Po-chy in Northern China, and is at least 15 centuries old.

Personal.

Hon. D. A. Ryan leaves for England to-day by the Sachem.

Mr. Wm. Dickie, President of the Dickie Construction Co., of Toronto, is at present on a visit to this city. He is accompanied by his wife and son.

Mr. E. J. Hoskins, General Traffic Manager of the Reid Newfoundland Co., returned to town from a business visit to Sydney, on to-day's express.

Brevet Lieut. Col. E. J. Wighton, nephew of Mr. Richard J. Walsh of the Beach, was promoted to the full rank of Lieut. Colonel on May 1st. Colonel Wighton has seen a great deal of service, and India will probably be the scene of his next activities.

Rev. E. H. Fletcher, accompanied by his wife and child, leaves for England to-day on S.S. Sachem. Mr. Fletcher whilst here was connected for a time with the teaching staff of Bishop Field College and later went as superintendent to the C. of E. Orphanage. He was also identified with the C.L.B.C. Athletic Association of which he was chairman whilst for the past few months he was President of the Officers' Mess of the C.L.B.C. Rev. Mr. Fletcher was deservedly popular with all whom he came in contact and he will be greatly missed by his many friends.

SCENE ON WATER STREET.—Two young men greatly excited in a heated discussion over the extra duties recently added to our tariff. Excitement vanished when a third person came up stating that BOWRING BROTHERS were still selling at the old reduced rates, regardless the additional tax.
 RESULT.—The two boys being out to buy a Raglan each, made a bee line for BOWRING'S and found them to their entire satisfaction in Price and Value.—jy9,21

Died in Hospital.

The Lunenburg fishermen, William Lance, landed, seriously ill, on Saturday from the schooner Grace D. Boller, and taken to the hospital, died at that institution early yesterday morning. The deceased was very popular amongst the crew of his vessel by whom he will be greatly missed. He will be interred to-day in the General Protestant Cemetery, undertaker Oke being in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Railway Commission Report.

AN APOLOGY FOR THE MANAGEMENT.

The cost of snow fighting during the past winter amounted to $137,760. This figure, however, includes the pay of the permanent staff of trackmen, who would, if not engaged in snow fighting, be charged to repairs of track.

No. 3 Rotary Flow, the construction of which was commenced as part of the equipment provided under the Branch Railways (1909) Agreement, was completed, but work on it was delayed through various causes and it was not delivered for service until late in the season.

Your Commissioners have been anxious to avoid any adverse criticism either from the Reid Newfoundland Company or the general public on the matter of upkeep of equipment and track, and have accordingly spent money far more liberally than the volume of traffic would reasonably warrant in an endeavour to leave everything in an improved condition.

As regards the rolling stock, the locomotives have been put in first class condition, engine after engine has been brought in and given a thorough overhaul, five have been supplied with new fire boxes, five with new tubes, one with new boiler, fourteen with new sets of tyres, two with new sets of driving wheels, two with new cylinders and all their machinery thoroughly overhauled, so that we can safely say that never has the railway been so well equipped as at present. The same attention has been given to all the other rolling stock and special attention to the cleanliness of passenger cars. These facts are reflected in the comparative statements of cost presented further on in this report. We felt that we were bound to restore the run down rolling stock and to establish a higher standard of upkeep.

The same may be said of the track. Ballasting proceeded all through the working season of last year and was resumed earlier than usual this year with the result that nearly 100,000 cubic yards of ballast will have been put into the track by June 30th, as compared with 91,000 cubic yards last fiscal year and 68,000 cubic yards in the preceding year. On the 1st July 120 the Commission took into stock 37,470 ties and have purchased in addition over 400,000 more. As far as can be learned the highest previous total in any one year was 340,000 ties put into the track. The serious condition in the labour market forced many men into the woods to cut ties. Contracts were made for 400,000 ties early in the season in the expectation that, judging from the experience of previous years, about 350,000 ties would be delivered. In former years the Railway Company could not obtain sufficient ties for their needs, but this year many men who had no contracts cut ties on speculation and brought them to the railway, because no other avenue of labour was open to them. Your Commissioners had to yield to the opportunity of these men, many of whom were in want and would have had to get poor relief, so that the money has not been wasted and the railway will benefit in a way that it has not done for many years. These and many other improvements such as widening of embankments, renewals of timber culverts, rebuilding Salmon River Bridge (Avondale) and Spread Eagle Bridge near Placentia, etc. (in course) both badly decayed, will place the track and its substructure in a much better condition than when we took it over. The general repairs of buildings was also speeded up and heavy repairs were given to the wharf at Lewisport and Clarendville, and very extensive repairs to snow fences. With this record, which is demonstrated by the comparative statements that follow, we feel that we are in a strong position to combat any claims for depreciation should such be put forward.

At the same time we could have found plenty of scope for improvements if funds had permitted. We might cite the filling of trestles (Placentia Line), the rebuilding of bridges and replacement of trestles by bridge spans in places where washouts have removed former bridge structures which the Railway Company failed to permanently restore, the building of new stations and the rebuilding of dilapidated stations, etc. and general clean up of the right-of-way by piling and burning decayed ties and other inflammable material, etc.

What has been said of the repairs of the Railway and its equipment is true also of the steamers. They have had a thorough overhaul and several heavy jobs fall to our lot, such as a new shaft for "S.S. 'Glencoe'", new boiler for "S.S. 'Argyle'" and renewal of electric light wiring on several of the others. The four-yearly special survey on several also fell due and involved extra expenditure. While the Government are not liable for any loss in the operation of the steamers, any profits resulting go to its credit, and heavy maintenance charges naturally reduce the prospects and amount of such profit. We purpose dealing more fully with steamers and their operation in our final report.

As regards passenger service, the number of passengers travelling has decreased, but we have earned more money ($80,000) than in the corresponding periods of the preceding two years (see statement). This result is attributed to longer average journeys undertaken by the passengers, and is largely accounted for by the large number who went to Canada last Fall and had to return again on account of strikes and no employment available, and to the large number of men put into the woods by the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company who came from all parts of the country. A small amount of the increase may be due to the raising of the first class fares, but our technical staff are of opinion that going to the failure of the Government to allow us to advance the second class fare "pari passu" with the first class, many otherwise first class passengers were tempted to travel second class, and instead of getting four cents per mile from them, as formerly, we only got three cents. To restore the former first class fare of four cents would leave these people still travelling second. In our opinion, therefore, it is necessary to advance the second class by one half or three quarter cent per mile.

Freight receipts are also up by about $40,000 in the nine months period. This is largely due to the new policy adopted by the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company of purchasing

CAULIFLOWER EARS.

The men with the cauliflower ears are classed with the rank profiteers; they box for a while and rake in a pile a hard couldn't get a t h e r in years. They spar for a few measly rounds, these brawny publicity hounds, and then they take in all manner of tin, including the shillings and pence. And what does it matter, my friends, what pug to the limelight ascends? What boots it who'll rise to a champion's size, or who to the dumping place wends? The fighters get rich in a year, when once in the front they appear; and peans of praise from a myriad jays are sung in each cauliflower ear. The scientist, scholar and sage, work on for a pitiful wage; they lack the double-looks for a package of prunes, their raiment is moldy with age. The pastors who bring the good news are needing good trousers and shoes; the stipends they draw barely pay for the slaw and the rent and the coal dealer's dues. The teachers instructing the young all feel in their hearts they are stung; they bitterly think their job's on the blink, as they labor the seasons among. But the men of the cauliflower dome, who cannot write essays or pomes, they brandish the paw and for it they draw the riches of several Nomes. But, gee, at the end of their years they often are busted, my dears; they blow in the cash that comes with a rush, the men with the cauliflower ears.
