Lady Wyvernes' Daughter.

CHAPTER XIV.

Tenderly and gently the young husband wrapped her cloak round the trembling form, wondering, as he did so, if it was the heat or late hours that had made his wife so ill.

Agatha looked with bewildered surprise at her sister's face when the light from the hall-lamp shone upon it: it was white as death, and looked years older.

"Let me take you to your room, Iseni," she said; "you look worn out."

While the gentle girl removed the diamonds from the rich dark hair, and helped to take off the costly dress, she heard deep, bitter sobs die away upon the white lips of Lady Lynne.

"You are over-fatigued," she said, caressing the face bent upon her shoulder; "lie down now, and try to sleep."

Ten minutes afterward, when Agatha entered the room with some wine for her sister, she found her lying perfectly still, her face turned from the light to the wall.

"I am glad she is sleeping," thought the young girl. "She looked so ill, I was alarmed." Then she went out and closed the door.

A few minutes afterward, and a white face looked out into the moonlight, and until morning dawned Lady Lynne paced up and down her luxurious chamber, ever and anon a passionate cry coming from her lips.

Women Tell Each Other How They Were Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Woodbridge, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles. I would have headaches, backaches, pains between my shoulders and under my shoulder-blades and dragging down feelings on each side. I was sometimes unable to do my work and felt very badly. My mother-in-law told me about the Vegetable Compound and I got some right away. It has done me more good than any other medicine I ever took and I recommend it to my neighbors. You are quite welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you think it will help some poor sufferer."—Mrs. EDGAR SIMONS, R. 2, Woodbridge, Ont.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial?

The famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtues of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

the mother would ask, when the child's heart was glowing with her words. "Ah, so, Bianca! let your destiny be to re-establish it. Live for that, and you will be the greatest of all the ladies of Monteleone."

So the young girl grew up in the lonely castle, cut off from all the pleasures and amusements of her age, without any companion except her mother; living only in the glories of the past and the hopes of the future, thinking of the present merely as a probation that must be endured. At the age of eighteen she was beautiful as a houri, and accomplished to an extraordinary degree. She spoke Italian, French, and German with as much fluency as Spanish. She sang beautifully, and played with no mean skill. Well might her mother's heart glow with pride as she watched her, and her hopes rose higher day by day.

Madame Monteleone had begun to form her plans. She had purposely lived in the most economical manner, and had so managed to save a sum of money. With this she intended to go to Madrid, where her name was still known and honored, and there introduce her beautiful child to the notice of the Spanish queen. While maturing these plans, a circumstance happened which rendered them all useless and unavailing. Destiny had other things in store for Bianca Monteleone.

The northern front of the castle faced the high-road that led to the ancient and celebrated city of Seville. One evening a man, coming on business to one of the servants, found in the middle of the road, a young gentleman, who had apparently been thrown from his horse, and lay either stunned or dead upon the bank, while the horse quietly grazed at some distance from him. In a few minutes the inhabitants of the castle were aroused, and, by Madame Monteleone's command, the gentleman was carried into one of the bedrooms, and a doctor sent for with all speed.

The extent of his injuries was soon discovered; they were a violent concussion of the brain and a broken ankle. For many days the life of the young stranger trembled in the balance. During that time he never recovered his senses, but evidently imagined himself in England. They discovered that he was an English nobleman, for in a small pocket-book was written his name, "Stephen Lord Lynne." They knew he must be wealthy, for he wore diamonds of great value, and a purse full of gold was found in his pockets. Inquiries were made at Seville, and then they discovered that the wounded stranger had been residing for some weeks in that city, and that only two days before his valet left him and returned to England. Some large boxes belonging to him were still at the hotel, and these were forwarded to Serrano, at Madame Monteleone's desire.

Very slowly did Lord Lynne recover consciousness and strength. His gratitude was boundless. He spoke French fluently, and as both ladies habitually conversed in that language, there was nothing to check their friendly intercourse. All that he had to tell was soon told. He, Stephen Lord Lynne, had succeeded in his little two years ago, on the death of his father. His mother was still alive, and in compliance with her wish he was traveling for two years before he married and settled down.

The Importance of Food Combinations.

Few housewives know what they should about combinations. The following simple words by a doctor may, if read and heeded, do much to avert that bugbear, indigestion.

A food in itself may be perfectly wholesome, and yet, when combined with other things, be positively harmful. Bread, containing as it does the carbohydrates (sugars and starches) and proteins (albumens), and butter, furnishing a pure form of fat, constitute an admirable combination in the well-known article, bread and butter.

In pork and beans, the famous New England dish, we have another good combination, though not one that may be so universally partaken of with impunity. A combination, however, furnishing good muscle for the laboring man.

The meat breakfast is an American idea. Continental Europe not indulging in it. In hot weather, meat breakfasts should not be eaten except by those engaged in manual labor.

The mistake in American diet is too much meat rather than too little. Less meat and less rheumatism is a rule.

Too much salt fish and meat and too little vegetable food pave the way for the disease known as scurvy. Defective blood, resulting in anemia, may be the sequel of a total deprivation of animal food.

A mid-day meal of bread and milk in hot weather prepares one much better for resisting heat than does a meat dinner, supplemented with rich desserts. One cools, the other "adds fuel to the fire."

It is hygienic to eat the more acid fruits with meals. Thus do we naturally relish cranberries with turkey. Fruit acids are best; whenever the system craves acid, these are better than vinegar or other artificial acids.

Two things are pretty well agreed upon by the best authorities; namely, that a mixed diet is best, and that more trouble comes from over-eating than from eating many things, though either fault is bad enough.

Regular eating, and no eating "between meals," is the most sure way to have and preserve an appetite, while, if you come to a certain meal without an appetite, my advice is to omit that meal and wait for the next one.

Jonavici Would Dam Belle Isle.

ONE STEP IN CREATING CONTINENTAL NAVIGATION ON ST. LAWRENCE.

QUEBEC, (Star Special)—Dimitri Jonavici, Rumanian engineer, who some time ago submitted plans to the Federal and Provincial Governments regarding the possibility of continental navigation on the St. Lawrence River, is in town to-day.

Without divulging his plans in full, he left the impression that one point would be the erection of a nine mile dam at the eastern end of the Belle Isle strait, which would prevent the cold currents coming from the north entering the river. Not only would navigation benefit from this change in the conditions but, according to Mr. Jonavici, the St. Lawrence River above would be transformed into the greatest summer resort in the world. "The waters of the St. Lawrence would, by retaining a constant warmth, attract tourists from all parts of the country," he said. "The waters are clearer here than those of any of the other resorts and the beautiful river would see thousands of tourists on its shores."

Regarding the cost of the enterprise, he said that it would naturally be very high but he would not even give estimate because he had not studied the conditions under which the work would be carried on. "However," he added, "I do not think that if the results to be attained were guaranteed, either the Federal or the Provincial Government and other interests would hesitate to undertake obligations which would bring such returns."

"I did admire that last piece of yours, Mr. Lyon," remarked a lady friend. "Was it your own composition? It had a wildness and freedom about it."

"Indeed, madam," replied the musician, "I was putting a new string on my violin."

Bill: "I sent a five-shilling postal-order to the man who advertised here to take out wrinkles in the face." Tom: "And did he tell you?" He did. He said I was to walk out in the open air at least once a day, and the wrinkles would go out with me."

For Miss MacFarlane is young and pretty. eager to wed and frequently overlooking many important details, young couples arrive at the ceremony here with the bride and the groom without witnesses.

Valera Issues Order to Cease Fighting.

Baldwin Gets Great Reception in Commons--Communists Terrorize Citizens--Malcolm Bruce, Socialist, Surrendered to Police at Glace Bay.

VALERA ADMITS DEFEAT. DUBLIN, May 29.—(Special.)—The Government (led by Eamon De Valera) in all ranks in the Republic of Ireland has been ordered to discontinue the army struggle has been announced to-day. Issued under the name of the Government, the document states that the Republic can no longer defend itself successfully by force. Further sacrifices on the part of the Republic would now be in vain and the Government has decided to withdraw from the struggle. The military must be allowed to return to their homes for the moment with those who have destroyed the Republic. Do not be sorrowful over the loss of the Republic and your sacrifices and your blood. You have served your country and kept open the way to independence. Laying down your arms now is an act of patriotism and pure as your hearts are taking them up. The Government will not call another document calling off another armed force against the Republic. It is signed by Frank Aiken, Minister for Defence. It reads:— "I, the Government, have decided to withdraw from the struggle against the forces of our country and to accept the terms of the agreement. Foreign and domestic affairs of the Republic have for the moment been suspended."

BRUCE SURRENDERS.

SYDNEY, May 29.—Malcolm Bruce of Toronto, wanted here on charges of seditious utterances, to-day surrendered at Glace Bay to Magistrate A. B. MacGillivray. Bruce was released on a fifteen hundred dollar bond and the preliminary hearing was set for Thursday morning next. On Sunday, May 6, when addressing a meeting of miners at Glace Bay, Bruce is alleged to have said he hoped to see the day when the Union Jack would be trampled in the mud and the Red Flag flying in Canada as the standard of freedom for workers. The Crown is said to have located a number of persons who they heard the alleged words, while his friends are said to have obtained two hundred affidavits from people supposed to have been at the meeting.

GLACE BAY, May 28.—Two locals, Dominion No. 1 and Dominion No. 24, have turned down the resolution submitted by the District Executive calling for a part time strike to enforce the re-opening of the ware contract with a view to securing the rates of 1921.

AUTO ACCIDENT AT NORTH SYDNEY.

NORTH SYDNEY, May 28.—Byron Mackinnon aged 25, was critically injured and Katie MacDonald, aged 5, and W. W. Bonner, aged 15, were slightly hurt as the result of an auto accident to-day on Gannon Road, when the car left the road and wrecked itself against the store of Byron's father, Edmund Mackinnon. Gibson Youden, the driver, was arrested on a charge of driving the car in an intoxicated condition and was released on one thousand dollars bail. James Murdoch and William MacEwan, the other occupants, were placed under surveillance as material witnesses.

A Gruesome Find.

The famous Great Eastern, the first iron keelship of the sea, was built at Millwall. When she came to be broken up, after a brief and inglorious career, the skeleton of a man was found built into her hull, between the double bottoms which were one of the special features of the ship—quite enough, according to nautical superstition, to account for the persistent ill-fortunes which dogged her.

There will be no practice for George's Street Church Choir to-night.—May 29, 11.

Manitoba Missionary Tells His Story

OF WHAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS HAVE DONE FOR HIM.

They relieved him of rheumatism and neuralgia after he had suffered for ten years.

South Junction, Man., May 28.—(Special.)—"I became sick with rheumatism and neuralgia about 10 or 12 years ago. After 6 years it began to get serious and I had to give up my work. I had special treatment for a while, without much, if any benefit. I took different kinds of medicine both for internal and external use. I started taking Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them excellent. I have derived a great deal of encouragement and benefit from using them. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a wonderful remedy to do work of this kind. I recommend them to my many friends and neighbors. This statement is made by Rev. Severt Olsen—well known and highly respected in this place.

Dodd's Kidney Pills will relieve Kidney trouble no matter where or in what form it is found.

Inter-Club Billiards.

INSTITUTE PLAYERS HAVE 39 POINT LEAD.

The billiard games last night were attended by a large number of enthusiasts and the exhibitions were good. Reid (C.E.I.) and Freeman (G.) played a very close game all through and Reid won by 25 points giving the C.E.I. a lead of 185 points to the final game of the first round. The lead was not in fact, for in the final game Angel (G.) beat Moore (C.E.I.) by 146 points and reduced the advantage to 39 points, so that the second round starts on a practically even footing. The breaks for the first game were:—

Reid (300)—25, 16, 10, 13, 10, 10, 12—112.

Freeman (275)—10, 18, 25, 17, 13, 14, 11, 13, 15—137.

B.I.S. Footballers Meet.

'CHAMPS' ELECT NEW OFFICERS

A large gathering of B.I.S. football players and their supporters held a meeting in the B.I.S. rooms on Sunday after last night, when arrangements were made for the coming season's games. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one, mostly all of last year's players being available. With the addition of some new blood in their ranks, the "champs" will be as strong as ever, and are being looked upon to make another bold bid for championship honors. The election of officers for the season resulted as follows:—

Captain—J. G. Higgins.

Vice-Captain—E. Phelan.

Secy.—Treas.—W. B. Skinner.

League Delegate—J. P. Crotty.

The players have already had several good stiff practices. The Irish boys played a friendly game with the crew of the S.S. Digby at the Shamrock grounds last night. The result being a victory for the B.I.S. by 4 goals to 2.

Exodus Across Border Has Now Stopped.

Canadiana have reason to be well satisfied with the manner in which the country's commerce has been maintained in the face of adverse trade conditions in foreign markets, according to the message of Col. F. A. Hatch, retiring chairman of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association, which held its annual meeting in Toronto recently in conjunction with the Toronto branch. Mr. Hatch went on to point out that the country's exports for 1922 were greater than the high mark of 1920, based on quantity instead of price. Judged on the same basis, Canada's imports show a falling off from the big year of 1920, and that, in the speaker's opinion, demonstrated clearly that the country is gradually reaching the stage where it will make more and more use of its own resources.

The speaker was particularly pleased to see that the migrating army which swung over the United States some time ago is beginning to appreciate that nothing was gained in the process of migration; and that the wanderers are now on their way back to this country. Further, Canada is proving attractive to immigrants from the old land; but, at the same time, care should be taken to direct the immigrants into the proper channels, when they can be made quickly find reasonable comfort and content.

In the report of the executive of the Toronto branch attention was drawn to the importance of sharing in the British Empire Exhibition in London in 1924, in order that Canadian industry may be adequately represented to the British people. The report expressed the hope that arrangements could be made so that western coal could be sold at a satisfactory price throughout Ontario.

Painting Electric Cables.

There is often to be seen in the streets of our towns a man kneeling on the pavement, repairing the electric light cables that run through conduits underground. Beside him are four pots of paint required to finish his job.

One of the four cables with which he is dealing is the "positive" (which brings the current away from the power station) and one of the "negative" (which takes it back). These he paints respectively red and blue. The colors are not dangerous, since both are dangerous, but are there for purposes of identification.

The third wire contains a lower power than the other two, and is used where a voltage smaller than that of the main current is needed. This, in order that there may be no mistake, he touches with a splash of white.

The remaining wire is known as the "high tension." It is often used for carrying current to sub-stations, and round it he will paint a circle of yellow.

When a repair is next needed at this point another man may have the work in hand. But the four colors will tell him at once the nature of each of the cables under his eye.

To Dainty People Who don't want dingy film on teeth

This offers you a method millions now employ. It is used the world over—in some 50 countries—by people who want to fight film.

You see the results everywhere. New charm, new beauty comes from glistening teeth. Now we urge you to learn, by a delightful test, how such teeth are acquired.

Film—the great enemy

Film is the teeth's great enemy—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That's why beautiful teeth were seen less often than now.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why few escaped tooth troubles.

Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, now so alarmingly common.

No dental science sought ways to fight film, and in time found two. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film comb that contains harsh grit.

Constant guardians

Pepsodent also creates constant guardians. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is the cause of neutralizing mouth-acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digester in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus it gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

'Twill delight you

The Pepsodent results will amaze and delight you. This test may change the whole dental history in your home.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

What you see and feel will very soon convince you. And that is most important. Cut out coupon now.

I. W. W. is Held as Wall St. Bomb Suspect.

Lieut. Joseph Gegan, famous chief of New York's bomb squad, questioned witnesses in an effort to prove or disprove the charges that Noah Lerner, 28, was implicated in the Wall Street bomb explosion.

Lerner is in jail on a charge of murdering one of the 82 persons killed when an infernal machine was set off in front of J. P. Morgan's office, September 18, 1920. He was arrested on information furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doyle, who said they knew him very well when they were members of the Kuzbas industrial colony in Siberia. Lerner declares the charges were made out of spite because the Doyles disliked the colony and everybody connected with it. The Doyles returned from Russia recently, and preferred charges against promoters of the Colony in New York as a result of which nine were indicted for alleged grand larceny.

They said Lerner had admitted to them that he drove the wagon in which the bomb was conveyed to Wall Street. An I.W.W. card was found in his possession when he was searched at headquarters.

Leg Color in Baby Chicks.

If a chicken from white-plumaged and white-legged parents shows bluish-colored shanks, it will have such colored shanks when mature. Chickens from buff-colored, white-legged parents—like the Buff Orpington—are hatched with yellowish or reddish-yellow shanks, but these shanks gradually fade to the regulation white.

The chickens of the Barred Plymouth Rock frequently show a greenish-yellow shank or one mottled with black. They are generally pullets and the shanks generally turn to the desired yellow. If the shanks are yellow—not orange—when the chicks are hatched, they frequently become too light in color. But strange as it may appear, if the chicks from willow-legged birds are hatched with yellow shanks, the shanks in time will become willow.

The shanks of Black Orpington chicks at first are not black, but are somewhat mottled or black near the heels and lower down a pinkish yellow, writes Thos. F. McGrew in Western Poultry Journal.

The crested breeds, Polish and Houdans, have a protuberance upon the top of the head which forms the base of the crest, and the larger the protuberance the larger will be the crest, so that one can estimate quite accurately the size of the crest the adult fowl will have, as soon as the chick is hatched.

If apples are to be served with pork, duck or veal, make them with a little serrin.

WOMAN INJURED WHILE BIRD-SEEDING.

Miss Harley, of Broadmayne, near Dorchester, England, met with a serious accident while searching the high Dorset cliffs near Ringstead for eggs. She had been lowered to the bottom of the cliff, when a piece of rock, dislodged by the rope, fell on her head, rendering her unconscious. She could only be reached by means of a boat, but was eventually rescued and taken to hospital.

Miss Harley, who is 65, is known as one of the most daring climbers on the coast.

The Workless Hundreds.

The inconsistency of the Government in ignoring the terrible predicament in which 1500 men of the city find themselves in today, is absolutely opposite to the zeal they displayed the whole year previous to the Election, when they seemed to go out of their way to devise all kinds of wasteful jobs. A few weeks ago St. John's made an appeal to Premier Squires on behalf of these workless men, many of whom no doubt voted for the Government candidates. There was no response, and, so far, nothing has been done. We would suggest to the Government that work could be found, and the money well spent in the paving of New Gower Street from the City Hall to Hamilton Street. This is an improvement that is badly needed and it could be done most efficiently in co-operation with the City Council. We also suggest that the work be apportioned out in contracts, and the men be paid according to the amount of work performed. The work should be done at so much per perch and a man will be paid according to his merits. In this way, idleness and loafing will be eliminated, and the scandals witnessed at the Public Works the past two years would no longer be an eyesore to the taxpayers. The work of sewerage all the houses on the street should, of course, be completed before the permanent road bed is laid, so that the street would not have to be torn up again. This work would require a large number of laborers, and the crushed stone now lying in useless piles at the West End could be utilized, and some of the loss retrieved from that disgraceful expenditure.

The Election Act.

The gradually growing tendency to ignore and violate the provisions of the Election Act with impunity is having a demoralizing effect on the people of this country, and if not stopped soon will reduce Responsible Government, a free and honest expression of the people in the exercise of their franchise, to a farce. It will take men ready to sacrifice themselves perhaps as to their political future prospects to bring about the necessary reform. We have come to the point now when a political leader who has control of the Election and the Treasury can say: "If I spend money enough I can win the election by purchasing votes sufficient to constitute a majority in every district." This is a deplorable state of affairs and is in direct contravention to the provisions of the Election Act. What applies to giving out money is equally applicable to the wholesale giving out of provisions to people who are in comfortable circumstances and would repudiate the idea of being classed as paupers. It is a well known fact that in several districts this practice was carried on openly and boldly till polling day. In one district that we know of the regular Relieving Officers were superceded and four special distributors employed to distribute Government flour, bread, pork, tea, sugar, molasses, etc. There was no attempt at secrecy in this case, and all that the recipient need do was to say how much he wanted. We are informed that some of the men who received these free "givings" have money in the Savings Bank. If this practice is allowed to go with impunity this election there is no doubt that it will be worse at the next election, and the electorate will become so thoroughly demoralized that every man will holdily ask to be paid for his vote. There was a time when such conduct was considered disgraceful, dishonorable and unmanly, but now that the majority are being infected with it—or soon will be—the condemnation will come from such a small minority that they will be laughed at as being old-fashioned and foolishly honest. One can see evidences of this today in the expression of public opinion on all sides. It is truly an appalling development and the public man who is brave enough to rise up and put a stop to it and insist on the provisions of the Election Act being strictly carried out may sacrifice himself politically, but in the end, when sufficient time elapses to render a calm and correct verdict he will be regarded as one of the greatest benefactors to his country.

St. Barbe Election.

VOTE TAKEN 9 DAYS AFTER DATE SET.
The count in the St. Barbe Election will probably be made known tomorrow. According to authentic information the election in parts of this district was held nine days after the regular date set. At Harbor Deep and Williams Port it is stated that the election took place on the 12th of May and that a day or two previous Mr. Boone visited the places telling the people that the Government had been returned.

C. of E. Orphanage.

MR. J. G. HODDER RE-APPOINTED.
A meeting of the management committee of the Church of England Orphanage was held last night at the Byford Hall to consider the appointment of a superintendent for the Boy's Department. A formal application for re-appointment was received from Mr. J. G. Hodder, who resigned some months ago to contest Trinity District in the interest of the Opposition. After considerable discussion this application was accepted and Mr. Hodder takes charge of the institution again. As considerable misapprehension appears to exist regarding his position in this matter, the committee of management desire to make plain their position. Before entering the political field, Mr. Hodder definitely and formally resigned. He was allowed to go on short notice, but first had to arrange for somebody to carry on while the management was looking for a successor. It has been found impossible to secure anybody suitable for the position. There appears to be no prospects of securing such a person. Mr. Hodder has given the greatest satisfaction in office. The management are anxious to boost the institution and the interests of the orphans as much as possible. Hence, when Mr. Hodder applied for re-appointment he was given his old position again.

Fire at Court House.

PROMPT ACTION AVERTS BLAZE.
Prompt action on the part of several people this morning averted what might have been a destructive fire at the Court House building. At 10 a.m. Mr. Charles James, of Ayre & Sons employ, whilst proceeding to the Colonial Secretary's Department, noticed a case of waste paper that was lying in a corner on the first landing all ablaze. He immediately ran to the police lockup and summoned help. Constable John Walsh responded and with help, removed the burning case outside the building and put out the fire with the hose brought from the lockup. The wainscoting in the hallway was considerably burned and the walls blackened. Chemical extinguishers which were thought to be on the premises could not be found when wanted and the only thing left to do was to remove the blazing debris.

Telegraph Cable Cut.

ARMOUR USED TO MAKE WIRE NAILS.
A short while ago it was discovered that the Anglo-American telegraph cable which lands at Island Cove, Placentia Bay, had been put out of commission. An investigation disclosed the fact that some 15 or 20 fathoms of the cable had been hooked from the sea bottom close to shore and taken away. The matter was placed in the hands of the police last week, and it is understood several arrests were made. As the one who cut the cable is a half witted sort of fellow, prosecution will not likely follow. Some of the galvanised wire which is used as armour for the copper wire was found to have been cut up and made into nails. The cable line cut connects with Sydney.

Youthful Pickpockets.

MADE A HAIL ON SATURDAY NIGHT.
Saturday night three youths, whose ages range from 7 to 11 years, visited a well known West End grocery store and stole a purse containing $5.00 from the pocket of a young lady who was there making a purchase. Not content with this haul the lads lifted a handkerchief from the pocket of another young lady who was standing by. This haul netted them $1.50. The youths afterwards set out and spent the proceeds. They were rounded up yesterday by Detective Walsh.

Lobster Fishery a Failure

CODFISH PROSPECTS GOOD.
According to reports furnished the Board of Trade, the lobster fishery on that part of the West Coast between Richard's Harbor and Raymond's Point East, has been a complete failure so far and amongst a large number of fishermen not one case has been packed. The codfishery on the other hand looks more encouraging than for years. There are 220 dories and 2,000 operating and to date, 34,000 quintals were landed with 500 quintals as the catch for the last week up to that time.

Caught 50 White Fox.

THREE MEN MAKE GOOD WAGES.
Three men who were fur catching on Grey Islands during the winter, caught some 50 white fox for which they received $1,500. The furs were purchased by Mr. C. Martin. The furriers made a good season's wages, netting $500 each.

Magistrates Court.

An outport man, charged with being drunk, was given his freedom.
A drunk and disorderly was fined $2 or 7 days.
A few civil cases were also disposed of.

JUVENILE COURT.

Three boys of tender age, who have a bad police record behind them, were charged with a series of petty larcenies—pick-pocketing, etc. The first charge against them was for breaking into the store of F. Banakin, Water Street West and stealing cigarettes to the value of $14.00. Second, the larceny of a purse containing $5.50, the property of a woman who was making some purchases in Geo. Knowling's Grocery Dept. on Saturday night last, and, third, on the same night, stealing from a woman's pocket $1.50. Each of the accused was convicted and sentenced to a fine of $25.00 or three months' imprisonment. These juvenile offenders are the ring leaders of a number of boys who have appeared on similar charges quite recently. Much pilfering has been reported to the police of late, and the lads referred to are supposed to be responsible for the crimes committed. The Detective Department has been working overtime looking into the many larcenies reported, and in each case the guilt was being traced to the young criminals now placed under lock and key.

Entertainment.

CANON WOOD HALL TO-NIGHT.
An entertainment will be held in Canon Wood Hall to-night, the proceeds of which go to the W.H.M.S. for Mr. Gordon's work. Miss Kathleen Fraser has prepared an excellent programme for the occasion, and will be assisted by the pupils of her class. It will be remembered that a very good entertainment was staged under the direction of Miss Fraser last year in aid of the same cause, and taking into consideration the great deal of trouble she has gone to, in preparing for to-night's most worthy object, we speak for her a crowded house.

Obituary.

JOSEPH KENNELLY.
"How can the falling of a single star affect the universe whose myriads are One lamp being quenched though all the rest burn bright."
One nook of Heaven will miss its wonted light.
The many friends and acquaintances in this city, who had the pleasure of knowing and meeting Mr. Joseph Kennelly of Bristol, Conn., U.S.A., will regret to hear that very recently he was stricken with pneumonia and after a short illness lasting but a few days passed peacefully away on the 18th inst.
Mr. Kennelly, who was a well known and respected citizen of Bristol, for many years occupied a prominent position in one of the leading brass and copper manufacturing concerns of that city, which position he held with much honor until his demise.
Having a large circle of friends in Newfoundland he manifested a very keen interest in the political, industrial and commercial life of this country, particularly in St. John's West, where he worked for many years as cutter under the late Mr. C. H. Thompson in the Newfoundland Boot and Shoe Factory.
Some twenty odd years ago Mr. Kennelly emigrated to the United States and settled at Bristol, Conn. He visited here two years ago with his wife, formerly a Miss Mesley of this city.
His passing away was most unexpected, and to his friends at home and in this city his death has caused the deepest sorrow. Being fortified by the rites of Holy Mother, the Church, and having lived a good life, death for him had no terrors. Joseph Kennelly was a devout Roman Catholic and in every action of life was manifest with principles of an upright Christian citizen.
The writer of this brief note had the pleasure of knowing Mr. Kennelly for many years, both in St. John's and the United States, and through the medium of the Evening Telegram begs to offer his sincere sympathy to the many friends and relatives of the deceased, particularly his wife. Request—call in Face. T. J. F., St. John's, Nfld., May 29, 1923.

They included 14 stretcher cases, Nurses and Doctors were in attendance, and more than 50 priests accompanied the pilgrims.

Strike in Ruhr Spreading

ESSEN, May 29.
The strike movement is spreading throughout the Ruhr and fresh walk-outs among the metal workers and miners are reported in the nearby unoccupied territory. The general strike called at Hamburg is affecting the iron works there, belonging to Stinnes interests. The communist manifestations at Wanne became so threatening that French troops intervened for the first time, as a result of which the demonstration collapsed. The Communists in Bockum have extended their position, but the city firemen and civilian volunteers wearing white arm bands, still hold the Fire House. The Communists stormed this place for the third time yesterday, the fighting lasting one hour and the shooting was the heaviest since the siege began, but there were only a few casualties.

Activities of T. N. Gymnastic Club.

Joint Meeting Held Last Night—Physical Exercises Were Chief Features.
The members of the Terra Nova Gymnastic Association held a joint meeting of the Girls' and Men's Club last night to finalise matters in connection with their dance which takes place Thursday night in the Grenfell Hall. The ladies' branch has already established a reputation for their successful entertainments and are looking after the catering and dance specialties. The proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of equipment and additional athletic apparatus. This will be ordered next month and will arrive for the early fall. When the Club intends to start hard practice. It is the intention later on to give a big gymnastic display. The girls club, though but a few months in existence, under the capable instruction of Physical Director Holmes, has acquired an athletic efficiency that is surprising. In an exhibition to be run off later on, the girls will take a prominent part. This will be the first of its kind in which the members of the fair sex have attempted anything in this line. After the meeting, Mr. Karl Quintz, of the S.S. Casino, gave an exhibition of boxing and wrestling which showed him possessed of speed and strength. Mr. Quintz weighs 175 lbs. and is very muscular. The men's class did some good work on the vaulting horse and bars which showed plenty of pep and agility. Instructor Holmes gave an exhibition of hand to hand standing and balancing which was a treat. Through lack of a good under man he has been unable to give the public much in this line, but Mr. Quintz made a good support, and the turns pull-ups, and balancing done by Mr. Holmes was the best seen here since the "Bedell Bros." performed in the Casino Theatre some years ago. Miss Clara Armstrong gave an exhibition on the vaulting horse in which she won the admiration of all present. She showed plenty of nerve and agility and more than held her own against the men with whom she competed. Messrs. Johnstone and Diamond are instructing a girls class in preparations for the Bathing Season.

Find She Broke Neck Weeks Ago.

Niles Center, Ill., May 19.—Mrs. Peter J. Meinz, of Niles Center, fell off her back porch three weeks ago during a storm. She landed on her head. There was a little pain in her neck, but she rubbed it with liniment and went about her household duties. Three days later Dr. Rudolph Stinsel called around. He found that her neck had been broken, two vertebrae had been fractured. Ordinarily it would have caused death, he said.

Cat Mothers Three Valuable Foxes.

Toronto, May 19.—Three young foxes, valued at several hundred dollars, which were slowly starving to death on a fox farm on the Port Arthur and Duluth railway, have been restored to full health by the ministrations of a common house cat. The cat is bringing up her adopted family with every appearance of success.

British Emigrated Less in Year 1922.
MANY FORMER EMIGRANTS RETURN TO NATIVE COUNTRY.
LONDON, May 17.—According to recent figures published here by the Board of Trade, the number of British subjects who were recorded in 1922 as "leaving permanent residence to the United Kingdom to take up permanent residence in non-European countries," was 174,095. Against this total must be placed 65,035 persons of British nationality returning from permanent residences abroad, leaving a balance of 109,070 by which the British population of the United Kingdom was reduced during last year. This is appreciably less than in 1921 when the net balance of emigrants was 123,000, and then in 1915, when it was over 300,000.
As in many previous years, the United States has absorbed the largest number of British emigrants, but whereas in 1913 it took nearly 130,000, in 1922 the figure had fallen to 60,000. Moreover, 12,811 former emigrants, British subjects, arrived in 1922 as having returned to the United States to resume permanent residence in Great Britain, a net total of 37,811, less than half the yearly total allotted to the British Isles by the new American immigration law. Canada in 1922 has taken room for a net total of 24,000 British immigrants, as against 1921. Australia, on the other hand, at 20,759, shows an increase of nearly 12,000. It is noticeable, whereas last year the number of adult women emigrating was more than 8,000 about the number of men this year the position is reversed, with the men outnumbering the women by 6,537. Most of the total is accounted for by the preponderance of male emigrants, the proportion of 5 to 3 going to Australia.

Occupation Has Affected British Trade.

During his presidential speech at the annual meeting of the Association of Trade Protection Societies of the Ruhr, Sir Eric Geddes, British export trade indicator, said that the slight improvement in the British export trade indicator in the first quarter of 1923 was due to the fact that the price of raw materials had been checked in the Ruhr. "For the third quarter," he said, "the price of raw materials is about 10 per cent below the 1913 level. The fourth quarter shows an improvement of four per cent over the first quarter of 1923. The price of raw materials were practically the same as in the first quarter of 1923."

The situation is particularly serious in the Ruhr Valley, which is the main source of raw materials for the British. "We know that the Ruhr Valley has caused a slight temporary check in certain of our trades," he said, "but the general tendency is to a sympathetic improvement in a certain number of connected trades, but on the other hand it is accompanied by a very serious check in other trades, particularly in wool and cotton textiles. We all know that the Ruhr will, in the end, have a disastrous effect on the power of the countries, more particularly Germany, Belgium, and France. This ultimately will affect for a considerable time the purchasing power of other countries which have been active in the Ruhr valley. It is a crippling one on all sides of the world."

He discussed the effects of the Ruhr on the British. "The way European countries are being from us to-day, primarily that their productivity is being hampered to such an extent which enables us to buy manufactures from them at a lower price than we are able to sell them. Consequently their currencies have depreciated and their purchasing power has largely gone. German workers to-day, on a par with other workers, can produce an amount of work which is worth a great deal more than they are able to sell for. This is a crippling one on all sides of the world."

Where the Bombs Fell.

HOW LONDON SUFFERED IN THE WAR.

London suffered considerably in the air raids during the war, for from the first visit of the Zeppelins on May 31, 1918, to the last aeroplane raid on May 20, 1919, no fewer than 547 explosive and 355 incendiary bombs were dropped in the London area, according to reports received by the London Fire Brigade.

The figures giving the number of machines taking part were only approximate, since the great height at which they flew made counting difficult; but 128 aeroplanes are known to have appeared over the metropolis, whilst the Zeppelins were probably fewer than a dozen all told. Unfortunately, 524 persons were killed and 1,344 injured.

A rough estimate of direct monetary loss gives a figure of just over £2,000,000 for the whole of London, which is probably a good deal less than most people had imagined. 174 buildings were destroyed and 619 seriously damaged. 224 fires were reported.

Most of the big public buildings, such as the Houses of Parliament and Government offices, escaped damage, but in 1917 a bomb of about 100 lb. weight fell on the roof of the General Post Office. A temporary building adjoining was demolished. The main building, however, received little injury.

In the same year an explosive bomb was dropped on the Royal Academy. Passing through the skylight of one of the galleries, it penetrated the floor and exploded upon contact with the crown of the brick vault over a corridor immediately below.

Here, again, the damage to the main structure was only slight, and there was no fire. On one occasion Somerset House was struck, but the building did not suffer greatly.

A map marking the position where bombs fell shows that the neighbourhood of Clerkenwell, Bethnal Green, and Holborn suffered most. Though Bermondsey, Deptford, and Woolwich all came in for some share of the damage, London south of the river was comparatively fortunate.

It was a matter of congratulation (reports the British Fire Prevention Committee in "Air Raid Damage in London") to observe that the average Londoner, both male and female, showed his mental equanimity and sang-froid, often under most trying circumstances. Those who were panic-stricken were for the most part aliens.

THE WORLD'S PRESS.

FEDERAL DEVELOPMENT.

London Transcript: Reckless motorists are in some instances being sent to jail, but the best disposition of them would seem to be to put them on a treadmill, thus giving them a chance to become pedestrians.

BETTING, TAXES AND MORALS. London Times: Of the justice of the proposal, from the point of view of the incidence of a tax on betting, we take it that there will be no dispute at all. It remains to be proved whether it is feasible and whether it has any real bearing on public morality.

"GIRLISH." London Daily Mail: "We don't criticize the domestic affairs of other nations, but when one of them so extends its domestic legislation as to impose a restriction upon the ocean-going traffic of the world it is time for the British Parliament to take some note of it. Even to the extent of preparing steps in retaliation."

BETTER WORK; KINDLY FEELINGS. London Daily Telegraph: There has been welcome evidence of life in many directions of better work being done, of much diminished discontent, and of easier relations prevailing between Labor and Capital. That is the most essential thing of all in this country if we are to have a return of prosperity after the last two leanest years in our industrial history.

UNCLE SAM'S FOREIGN RELATIONS. Los Angeles Times: Woodrow Wilson is not insistent upon making either personal or political capital out of our foreign relations. He was at one time wholly committed to a League of Nations that was largely of his own making. He would accept nothing else. Now he is willing to accept American participation in the International Court—either "as is" or with such specifications as President Harding and Secretary Hughes would hedge it about with if Woodrow Wilson and his loyal followers can bring their consideration into a complaisant mood this may be accomplished. If there is a just and honorable American policy with which to go abroad the Republicans and Democrats should be able to find it together. Instead of butting their heads against one another in the dark.

A THOUSAND MILES AT 84. Providence Journal: Edward Payson Weston, the distinguished pedestrian, who was born in Providence as long ago as March 15, 1838, is getting ready to start next month on another long-distance walking trip. This time he will attempt to travel on foot from Troy, New York, to Chicago, a distance of a thousand miles, in sixty days. Last year he walked across New York State, and he sees no reason why he should not successfully carry out the more ambitious undertaking he has now set for himself. Most of us, if we attain to the age of eighty-four, will hardly be thinking about taking thousand-mile walking tours "cross country." But Mr. Weston has imposed a rigid discipline upon himself, and at the opening of his eighty-fifth year is a good example of the same mind in the sound physical frame. Providence is proud of him and offers him her best wishes as he begins what may be in some ways the most notable walking trip he has ever planned.

Drives Wilhelm and His Family Out With a Shovel. Dutch Gardener Does Not Know Ex-Kaiser is Allowed Great Liberties. DOORN.—The ex-kaiser has given the Dutch government his parole not to leave an area of about 20 square miles surrounding Doorn castle. In the time of the late emperor, Wilhelm made little use of the permission to leave the castle grounds. Since his second marriage, Wilhelm moves about more frequently. Every Sunday morning, after the religious service, which he himself conducts in the castle and which everybody is expected to attend, the ex-kaiser, with his "ready-made" family, take a walk or motor ride within the limited area. Once it happened that a gardener who didn't know the ex-kaiser and who hadn't been told of the permission granted him to wander about, threatened him with a shovel, driving them out. The owner later apologized.

The ex-kaiser has a big closed German-made car and two smaller open machines which are in constant use in nice weather. MINARD'S LINIMENT USED BY VETERINARIANS.

Feared Madman Had Run Amok.

SAN JOSE, Cal.—Women screamed and fainted, men climbed fences, and streets emptied of traffic recently, as Albert Trivelpiece, freshman of the College of the Pacific, clad in a flannel nightgown, bedroom slippers, and straw hat, and armed with a chair rung, marauded through San Jose in the direction of the railroad tracks, blushing sunset crimson and going strong.

Police, alarmed by frantic summons to curb a madman, ran down Trivelpiece with the patrol wagon. He was captured with a dog catcher's net. He told his story, which was that he was being initiated into a tennis club, and had been carried blindfolded into the centre of the city in a machine, dumped out, and told to "beat it."

Dog Saves Child From Awful Death.

North Brookfield, Mass.—The life of little Florence Coderie was said to have been saved by her shepherd dog, King. Seeking flowers in the woods north of here, the child was caught in a quagmire.

She began to sink and grasped the dog. As Florence went deeper into the swamp King stood firm to his task. All night child and dog remained there, too exhausted to make a sound. A brother of the 12-year-old girl, searching after a large posse had gone to rest from a night long hunt, found some flowers which Florence had dropped and discovered her holding King. The child was in the swamp up to her armpits and the dog's legs were deep in the mire. Florence was exhausted and speechless for several hours, but it is believed she had suffered no permanent ill effects. The dog responded readily to treatment.

Hints About Ice.

To break ice into small pieces, take a large needle and force the point of it into the ice with a thumb. Ice may be broken into larger pieces with the aid of a long clean nail and a hammer. A large block of ice should be wrapped in several thicknesses of old blanket, or put into a hay box, where it can be kept for several days without much loss in weight. Small pieces of ice may be kept for quite a long while in an unglazed flower-pot over which a piece of white flannel has been tied in such a way that it hangs down inside without touching the bottom. Put it in a draughty place—preferably near a larder window.

What is to Become of the Gould Fortune?

What is to become of the $50,000,000 fortune of George Jay Gould, now that the prominent United States financier is dead? Will the capitalist's last bequest show he has taken the obviously easy course of dividing his fortune equally among the seven children of himself and his first wife, Edith Kingdon Gould, or will there be complications? Complications, probably, for matters between George Jay Gould and his children have not been always harmonious. When Marjorie, eldest daughter of the Goulds, made her debut in 1909, society was overwhelmed at the display. Covers for the 250 guests were said to have cost $100 each while the decorations tallied up the neat little sum of $7,500. Expensive favors ran the affair up to several thousand dollars more. Marriages Disrupt Family. The year following Marjorie was married to Anthony J. Drexel and within a 15-month two more marriages had thickened the ranks. Vivian, the second daughter, was married to Major John Graham Hope Horsley Barseford, 5th Baron Decies, and became Lady Decies while Jay Gould married Anne Douglas Graham, in whose veins flowed the blood of the Hawaiian Princess Kaiulani. With all of these the family was obviously pleased. But when, in 1917, Kingdon Gould announced his marriage to Miss Annunziata Camilla Maria Lucini, an Italian artist who had been a governess in the Gould household, the family was to say the least surprised, and when, five days later, George Jay Gould, Jr., made known that he had married Miss Laura Carter, George Gould, Sr., promptly disinherited him. His displeasure was no less mani-

Horseshoe sauce is nice served with fried fish.
Green peppers are surprisingly delicious when creamed.
Slices of crisp cucumber are nice served with sliced veal loaf.
Finely minced vegetables or salt-

Fresh strawberry sauce is nice served with steamed cutlet.
Neither salt nor sugar is needed in home-made baking powder.

Meat and eggs should not be eaten more than once a day.

Cooking Without Fire.

All primitive communities, probably, cooked their food in hot ashes, or in ovens from which the fire was raked before the food was put in, and campers still use the latter method of cooking, with an oven of heated stones. But the fireless cooker as we know it to-day bears little resemblance to the savage's bed of hot ashes or the housewife's outdoor oven.

Once the art of managing the cooker has been mastered its advantages will be found to be many. Food cooked in this way is generally believed to be more savory and appetizing than when cooked over fire. Pots and kettles do not blacken with smoke, there are no unpleasant odors and no heat from the kitchen and, best of all, to most people, no money worth speaking of is spent for fuel. With the "fireless" it has often been found only necessary to use a gas or oil stove for a few minutes in the early morning, except for tea and coffee. Thus it is a means of great saving in fuel.

It is generally conceded that it takes about half as long again to cook in a "fireless" as on a stove, but the makers of some of the cookers declare that it takes only one-fourth as long again, and some of them say that it takes no longer, with the hot soapstone plates, to roast foods in a "fireless" than it does in an ordinary oven.

One of the advantages of the "fireless" is that the question of getting an early breakfast is solved if cooked cereals are used. The oatmeal or similar cereal can be started on the cook stove at night and cooked till morning in the "fireless." Soup, meat, rice and vegetables can be prepared early in the day, started on the fire and then slowly in the "fireless." Foods that are difficult to cook should be taken out when their time is half up and reheated on an ordinary stove, then put back and finished in the "fireless." This is unnecessary if they have been previously half cooked. Theories on these matters, however, are not of much value, as fireless cookers vary somewhat, and there is such a tremendous difference in foods. Excellent cook books can be easily obtained that treat the subject thoroughly, and their instructions should be carefully noted if one does not wish to learn by painful experience. The "fireless" must not be expected to work perfectly with all sorts of cookery, though to hear some advertisers rave one would think that stoves could be completely dispensed with. Not at all; the "fireless" can never be anything more than an assistant.

Foods that must boil quickly are not usually a success in a fireless. It is just the thing, however, for tough fowls and round steaks and other foods that can become tender only with long, slow simmering. Tough meats of this kind should get a good start of half an hour on the stove before being put into the "fireless." Cereals, macaroni and vegetables that require long, slow cooking, may also be cooked to advantage in this way. Care should be taken that they do not remain in the cooker too long, however, as they may sour, but this seldom happens, unless they remain several hours or a day longer than it is necessary. It is said that an article should not stay in over twenty-four hours and not so long as that when the weather is hot.

The "fireless" may serve other purposes than that of cooking. It may be used as a warming oven in case any one is late to dinner, and it is a convenience in case of sickness, if there is no fire, as water can be kept hot in it a long time.

As the "fireless" retains cold as well as heat, being non-conducting, frozen desserts that do not require stirring can be prepared in it. A moussé or parfait can be put into the smaller pail and then set with a sufficient quantity of ice and salt into the larger one.

If economy is a necessity, a fireless cooker can be improvised with ease. Eggs have been cooked to perfection in a padded hat box. They were placed in small earthen vessels filled with boiling water, tightly covered, wrapped up completely in flannel and packed in the box, which was fitted with a tight cover.

A small old trunk that has no cracks or breaks where air can enter, makes an excellent fireless cooker, as many now know. Fill the trunk with clean hay or excelsior. Bury the pot containing the food and hot water in the heart of the hay and then close the trunk and forget it till the meal time. Fattening of some kind may be pressed down over the pot to protect it still more. Cushions are sometimes used to stuff around the kettle, but they are likely to become unsanitary unless the kettle is very carefully wiped. This must be done before it is removed from the stove, for there must not be a moment's delay after the kettle is taken from the fire. It must be slipped instantly from the stove into the box and then sealed up immediately. Those who have not made a success of fireless cooking have failed in one of these points.

Crumpled newspapers are sometimes used instead of hay, but owing to the printer's ink they are not considered sanitary for use near food.

The box, which must be three or four inches larger in every direction than the vessel containing the food, should be lined with asbestos or with several thicknesses of paper. The packing material must be pressed down hard and felted, should be pressed over the top. The cover must fit tightly over the box like the lid of a trunk. When the box is not in use it should be left open and the hay should be often renewed.

Demonstrations of Fireless Cookery may be seen during Baby Week in the Star of the Sea Hall from Monday June 4th, to June 8th. A home-made Haybox Cooker will also be shown during the Baby Week Exhibition in the Star Hall.

Air Prize Offer.

The details of the British Air Ministry's £50,000 (about $230,000) helicopter competition have been issued in London. The conditions include the following points: Machines must ascend 2,000 feet, hover at that altitude over one spot for an hour and be able to make a speed of 60 miles an hour. The machines are also required to descend vertically, with the engine stopped, from an altitude of 500 feet. The competition is limited to helicopters or "equivalent types of flying machines."

THEY CALLED HIM AN "OLD PILL"

THAT was years ago when he packed a terrible stomach, a mighty irritable stomach, and a liver that refused to do the things that all good livers should. No wonder his friends called him an "old pill" and stayed away.

But that was years ago—long before he discovered Beecham's Pills and learned that two at bed-time can bring sunshine into a man's life. Today, he's an optimist, a hero to his wife, and a staunch believer in Beecham's Pills.

The cheer that Beecham's Pills bring into a man's disposition, is the incomparable cheer of sound digestion, active liver, and regular habits that make good health.

Totems.

320 YEARS INN SECRET STILL UNSOLVED.

Who were the writers of the cryptic symbols which have been discovered on the walls of the ancient Star Hotel at Yarmouth, England?

There are about 100 of the signs. They are all in one room, and for hundreds of years they have been hidden by wall paper. Local antiquarians are puzzled by the designs, which include signs of the Zodiac, a sextant pointing to a cross surmounting a burning lamp, an Egyptian "line of life" figure that resembles a bear, a wryner and a toad, while predominating over all are the triangle, the arc, and the circle.

An authority at the British Museum could offer no clue to the origin of the symbols, and for the want of a better explanation, local people are advancing the theory that the room in which they appear was once the meeting place of a number of Yarmouth men, banded together to overthrow the authority of the Cheque Ports over the local fishing industry.

This episode in the history of the east coast dates back to about 1660, when the Inn was a comparatively new building, and it may be that the members of the band, to preserve the secrecy of their identity, were known by "totems," which they inscribed upon a roll on the wall.

PROMOTER AND HIS WIFE SENT FOR TRIAL.

Albert Richard Edwards, of Lincoln-street, Moss Side, Manchester, and his wife, at Brighton on May 9th, were committed for trial at the July Quarter Sessions on charges arising out of the "mothers' perambulator" walk from London to Brighton on April 7. Mrs. Edwards was charged with ill-treating their 4-month-old child, and her husband with aiding and abetting.

Bail was furnished by Mr. J. D. Sutcliffe, of Manchester, who said that he came forward on humane grounds, although he did not know the defendants.

Dr. Leonard Parry, of Hove, cross-examined by Edwards, said: "I think you are the only man who has ever been so callous as to wheel a baby 52 miles in one day."

Edwards, because we are original persons you must not describe us as callous.

When charged Edwards said: "It is all rubbish; it does not matter what they say," and later he remarked, "We shall not patronise Brighton any more, but go to Blackpool, where they are more enterprising."

Home of Our Con- ception Bay Families

Pioneers in Our Country's History.

(H. F. SHORTIS)

I recently had the pleasure of reading an interesting book "The Story of Philip Henry Gosse," written by Edmund Gosse, the Librarian of the British House of Commons. It is such a source of information as to the early history of the town of Conception Bay, as they called it, and the Gosse family, who came to the town in 1825 when he was 15 years of age. It gives a most interesting account of the life in the South of England, and the connection with Newfoundland.

It is impossible to give the facts I would like to give, but the author, who was a most pleasing and prolific writer, has brought up amidst his surroundings, gives a description of the joys and sorrows of that time.

Philip Gosse after leaving school served his apprenticeship, for two years, in the office of George Garland & Sons, who carried on a very extensive and prosperous business with Trinity. Afterwards he availed of the opportunity, with a chance of promotion, to proceed to Newfoundland, with a position in the office of Slade, Elson & Co. of Carbonear. His elder brother, William, had a position a few years previous with the firm of George and James Kemp at Carbonear, and eventually became senior partner of the great firm of Pack, Gosse & Fryer, who succeeded Kemp's firm, when they retired millionaires, and one of the most successful firms that ever carried on business in this country. This family of Gosse had no kinship with others of the same name who had settled in Spaniard's Bay and Torbay. The ancestors of Philip Gosse were cloth manufacturers of Ringwood in Hampshire, England, and family traditions state they were Huguenots from France, having gone to England about the time of King Charles II, the Merry Monarch, when so many manufacturers from the Continent of Europe settled in England, and were followed by their craftsmen—helping in no small way to establish the industries that have made England famous throughout the world ever since.

WHEAT PROWSE STATES.

Prowse in his history states that the other Gosse families in Newfoundland belonged to the ancient family of Gosse, and were undoubtedly connected with the trade of this country for hundreds of years. The Gosse's, and Codrers of Torbay received titles to their property as far back as 1765, but I believe the Gosse of Spaniard's Bay are still older. As a proof of this—who has not heard of Solomon Gosse's Birthday? It commemorates our National Dish of "Figgys Duff," and takes the place with our fishermen of the Pimm Padding of Old England—and the days our fishermen receive the pork and duff dinner, has always been styled Solomon Gosse's Birthday, and can be traced back to our very earliest days, until its origin has disappeared in the mists of antiquity.

AS CARBONEAR WAS THEN.

It was a much more considerable place than he expected to find it. "This town is the third largest in the Colony, coming next to St. John's and Harbour Grace. The crowd of shipping, including a fleet of about seventy schooners, just about to start for Labrador, all making up a scene very different from the desolation which he had imagined of Newfoundland. The fields, gardens and potato patches mapped out the sides of the hills, and the verdure was smiling everywhere, up to the very edge of the woods. The presence of the Labrador fleet was disturbing, and until these vessels were gone, he put a week or two with Mr. Assey the storekeeper. But after that he took up a permanent position in the counting-house. This office was pleasantly situated in the midst of a large garden, in front of the dwelling house, where the resident member of the firm, Mr. Elson, lived with his family."

There were four clerks in the office, and the next few years his boom companion was his fellow clerk, William Charles St. John, better known as Charlie, whose parents resided in Harbour Grace. He spent many a weekend with the family of Oliver St. John, who carried on business there, and had married a daughter of the old Surveyor Charles Davis Garland, so well known as the hero of Carbonear Island—and who, during the French War in 1782, fortified the island at his own expense, and assisted Governor Graves to such an extent that he received the well merited thanks of the British Parliament.

A TIPPERARY HOT.

Philip Gosse tells us that Oliver St. John belonged to a Protestant family of Tipperary, Ireland, which claimed relationship with Oliver Cromwell and Lord Bolingbroke. It is interesting to remark here that my old friend, Oliver Victor Travers, still hale and hearty, although well up an octogenarian, and one of the leading spirits of the second city, is a grandson of Oliver St. John and perpetuates the name of his ancestor the old Lord Protector.

MEMBERS OF THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Philip Gosse and Charlie St. John were both of a literary turn of mind. Philip became the celebrated Naturalist, particulars of which any of my readers can ascertain in the British Encyclopedia. Charlie St. John became Editor and Proprietor of the "Companion" newspaper, newspaper of Harbour Grace, wrote a short history of Newfoundland, dedicated to my old schoolmaster, John I. Roddick, and eventually settled in Boston, where he became a close friend of Henry W. Longfellow, the author of Evangeline, etc., and many other celebrities of the Hub. His son, Henry St. John, now over 30 years of age, still lives in Boston, and, like his father, has written many beautiful poems, published in book form, describing his old home in Newfoundland and its beautiful scenery. There are many interesting facts mentioned about Carbonear, one hundred years ago, that I must keep for another time.

French have New System of Tennis Scoring.

In view of the fact that the present method of scoring in the game of tennis is quite clumsy, especially in match tournaments, the French have devised a new system, the principal object of which is to end long-drawn-out contests. Instead of requiring six games to win a set, the French would have the set go to the player who first won nine games, while four sets—three in which neither player scores—would be done away with. Further, matches should be the best two of three instead of the best three of five sets. In this way no match could consist of more than 21 games.

"Wall" of Water Rocks Ocean Vessel.

Towering 10 feet, a "wall" of water believed to have been set in motion by a submarine disturbance, nearly proved disastrous to the Pacific liner Brush, 50 miles off the coast of Mexico recently. The captain of the ship described the approach of the strange freak of nature as an unbroken black line near the horizon when first observed by the lookout. When its nature was discerned, the ship was made ready for the onrush of water. When the wall hit the Brush, the captain declared it was as if a huge hand had clasped the vessel and raised it into the air. There was not a breath of wind, but for six hours after the occurrence, the log of the ship shows, the Brush labored in swells equal to those off Cape Horn and was driven miles off its course.

A one-man life-saving device with which shipwreck victims may "walk" to land, is being offered steamship companies. It consists of two pontoons that slide back and forth alternately in a rigid frame, the operator placing a foot in each one, standing erect, of course, and grasping the handles of a steering device. As the pontoons are worked, paddles on the bottom aid the walker, folding up as to offer no resistance on the forward slide. In windy weather a sail assists the walker.—Popular Mechanics.

2. Recitation—Miss Annie Thorne.

3. Song—Miss Flora Kearney.

4. Dance—Miss K. Kearney.

5. Recitation—Master J. Bradshaw.

6. Trio (Piano)—Misses Kennedy, O'Dea, Halley.

16. Recitation—Master Gerard Martin.

FINALE.

Before the children proceeded to their homes, they were each given a bag of fruit and candy, and the Ladies of the Auxiliary are to be congratulated for arranging such an enjoyable treat. Special praise is due Miss Mary Halley for the deep interest she took in the concert and of the programme which was a great success.

WHEN SHE MET HIS WIFE.

A friend of mine who stayed in town with her husband last summer while most of the other wives in the neighborhood were off in the country with their husbands, thought she had as real an enjoyment of a mid-summer holiday as any of her husband's friends.

She was one of those who, with the children, and he had to accept his friend's hospitality and in return she had to give her little attention to a husband.

My friend is a good sport. She isn't the kind who would let an admiration for herself condemn any kind of fault. Some women would have liked her for that.

Many women would not have accepted the truth as quickly as she did.

A Bad Time to Find Out
But there are many women who, if they could really know the wife whom some philandering male has subtly or openly pictured to them as impossible to live with, would be very much surprised.

And if they could know the man, as he is in his home life in relation to this same woman, they would be still more astonished.

And if, as sometimes happens, philandering becomes more than philandering and the woman thinks she has found an affinity and defies the laws of the world to go off and live with him and "make up to him" for his first unfortunate venture, I suspect the day is very likely to come when she will think in her heart: "I wonder if his wife was so disagreeable, after all? I can see how he must have made things awfully hard for her," etc. And that is a very bitter time to think such thoughts.

There is no better salt in the world.

THE DEBTOR.

Wally Mason

Hugh Howgar owes me fifteen cents, which fact I much regret. I have no doubt his bosom is filled with when he recalls that debt. I have no doubt he'd like to pay, for he's a worthy gent, and yet a most unlucky jay who seldom has a cent. I often try to run him down, just to relieve his mind; but he goes looting through the town, a cloud of dust behind. I'd like to say to him, "Oh, Hugh, forget the sum you owe, come, visit me when day is through, as in the long ago. I miss you when the daylight falls, and dusk is in the dell. I miss the good old bearded tales I used to hear you tell. I miss the arguments we had beneath the old sun tree; you do not owe a blooming cent, so come and visit me." I can't get near enough to speak the thoughts that fill my head; he chases like a pale blue streak whenever he hears my tread. And though I follow on his trail, some kindly words to say, and chase him round the county jail, he always gets away. Unfortunate the man who lends, in solitude he weeps; for thus he'll lose his dearest friends, and they'll be lost for keeps.

Lure of Gold

ATTRACTS MEN TO NORTH LABRADOR.

The lure of gold is again beckoning men to the barren stretches of North Labrador. Rumors of an eastern Klondyke that obliterated the trail of '98 will either be confirmed or dispelled when a sturdy little steamer named the "Petrel" again pokes its nose into Halifax harbor and that is now completing preparations to search out the yellow rainbow's end. Chartered from the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, the "Petrel" will sail on May 13 for the coast of North Labrador. On board will be a party of seven, headed by M. Ogilvie, mining engineer of Ottawa, with a captain and crew of 23. Ogilvie, a veteran of every gold rush in the last quarter of a century—in Klondyke, British Columbia and elsewhere—and a man who is not merely a prospector, but a skilled mining engineer, declares gold is to be found in the rivers of Labrador. The problem is not one of finding pay color, but enough pay dirt to make profitable commercial exploitation. The party is outfitted with all the machinery and equipment necessary to make thorough tests of gold in sufficient quantities to send the mints delirious. It is no holiday jaunt. The country to which the expedition is going is sterile, bitterly cold, and for eight months of the year isolated from the rest of the world. A rush there before gold is discovered in quantities would end in tragedy. The Petrel will sail early in June for St. John's, Newfoundland, and wait till northern navigation is possible. Then the assault on Labrador's secret will be launched. It will be October at least before the expedition is able to send back even a preliminary report. Adventurers are accordingly warned that there need be no rush over packing.
