DOMINION COAL COMPANY STRIKE

Halifax Military Troops Called on to Protect Employees from Aggressive Strikers.— No. Six Mine To Be Closed.

Glace Bay, July 8.—Strikers stormed the gates at Dominion No. 6 last night, burned some property of the Dominion Coal Co., and poured volleys of shots into the buildings of the plant. The fence around the mine was almost demolished, and the small force of constables there had all it could do to prevent the rioters from getting at the machinery. That the presence of the troops is urgently needed, was conclusively proven by the attacks on No. 6 and there is wonder today that no one was killed in the melee.

A report that the strikers had planned a concerted attack on this colliery gained ground early yesterday afternoon, and a special train with eight county constables was hurried to the scene. They got there none too soon. Crowds of strikers were gathered around the plant and the few men who had gone in to work were chased and stoned.

When the train appeared, an attempt was made to drag the constables off it, but with drawn revolvers they forced the infuriated men back and the engine was run through the mob several times to disperse it, of whom as it became dark, the of whom as it became dark, the fence was torn down, one of the gates was torn off, and only the drawn revolvers of the constables kept the strikers outside of the fence. Suddenly a volley of shots came from the crowd. Some of the men made their appearance armed with guns, and a fusillade was poured indiscriminately into the colliery buildings. A hole was shot through one side of the wall of the fan house and electric lights and insulators on the fence were shattered. While the shooting was going on, stones, sticks and all the missiles that the rioters could lay their hands to were hurled at the men working inside the fence, and many were the narrow escapes reported. As soon as morning dawned, the crowd dispersed, so that it was impossible to identify any of the rioters. Tonight a company of infantry with a machine gun will be probably stationed at No. 6, which is the most isolated of all the mines.

There is intense indignation in many sections of Glace Bay at the attitude of Mayor Douglas. At last night's meeting of the Town Council, the Mayor declared that there was no need of any military force, as the situation was under control of the civil authorities. Councillor Wilton, the Chairman of the Police Committee, declared that if the Mayor did not think there was need of military aid, he did. At several of the collieries he had seen occurrences that were nothing short of riots. To his knowledge, men had been beaten and stoned while endeavoring to go to their work, and if a man could not exercise his right to go to work, it was high time that military aid was secured.

"Conditions are no worse than on pay night," the Mayor replied.

A resolution deploring the calling in of the military at this stage was carried by the casting vote of the Mayor. The vote was 5-5. The Conservative organ here classed the men who voted against the resolution as "Coal Company men" and the others as "Independents." Among the "Independents" is D. MacDougall, the head of the U. M. W.

Pending the arrival of the troops of the permanent forces sent from Halifax today, no very serious attempt was made to operate those mines of the Dominion Coal Company which were closed yesterday. At Dominion No. 1, there was a serious riot this morning when the men attempted to work, and in the melee, Policeman McRitchie was struck over the head with a stone, and had a serious gash cut in his forehead.

Epidemic Near Clementsport

An epidemic of smallpox is reported to have broken out in this county near Clementsport and the district of Victoria. A number of cases have been reported and placed under quarantine by the municipal health officer, who is taking every measure to stamp out the disease, which is supposed to have originated in the lumber camps. One of the most serious features of the outbreak is the fact that the disease is of so light a character that many who were affected, failed to properly diagnose it and thinking it was merely an attack of hives, went freely about amongst the neighbors. In this way it is feared the disease may spread and assume more serious proportions.

Young Apple Trees

If you have young fruit trees in your orchard—trees that are from one to three years old—you ought to keep the ground well cultivated. Some of our most successful orchard-ists cultivate their orchards from year to year, regardless of the age of the trees. Others, however, seed their orchards down as the trees get from six to eight years old. Still others keep their orchards seeded to clover and other crops for a year or two, then break up the sod and cultivate the ground for a year or two. It depends upon the orchard as to which method to follow, but in all cases young orchards should be cultivated continuously for several years.

Caterpillars Causing Great Loss Along C. P. R.

A plague of caterpillars has been causing great annoyance and loss along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway in this province for the past two weeks, says the St. John Sun. The country infested lies between Fredericton Junction and McAdam Junction and extends for twenty-five or thirty miles. The insects, which are present in millions, have stripped all poplar, birch and maple and fruit trees in this district to the last leaf, and the country presents the desolate appearance of late October.

The most remarkable feature of the pest, however, is their ability to hold up traffic on the railway for hours. They do this by attaching themselves to the rails at night in such numbers as to completely cover them for miles probably attracted by the warmth which the steel retains after the ground becomes cold. A train running on to them soon stalls on account of the rails becoming thoroughly greased. The crew then have to sweep the rails clear and sprinkle sand on them before the train can make any headway.

The Montreal passenger train from Halifax was delayed forty-five minutes recently, and the same night the fast freight was held up for three hours. Next day, however, the passenger engines were equipped with nozzles which applied a jet of live steam on the rails just in front of the wheels. This cleared the track very effectively.

These caterpillars are known as the Forest Tent Caterpillar and are almost identical with the Apple Tent, the common grey worm seen so frequently on fruit trees in the early part of June. The female most lays from three to four hundred eggs at a time, and it may be wondered where this pest will stop. Nature, however, provides a remedy in the form of a little parasite fly, which lays its eggs on the body of the caterpillar. When these hatch the tiny larvae feed on the body of their host and eventually kill it when it has entered the chrysalis stage. So deadly are these parasites that it is seldom the caterpillars appear in numbers in the same locality for more than two consecutive years.

There is a lesson however in the season's experience, fall banding with the caterpillars, is a sure preventive. This was carefully applied by the caterpillar was conspicuous by its absence.

St. John Boy Who Died a Multi-Millionaire

Boston, July 7.—A phenomenal rise to fortune from comparative poverty to many millions and a commanding position in the financial world is the career of Robert D. Evans, a native of St. John, N. B., who passed away yesterday from the effects of injuries received in a riding accident.

About fifty years ago Mr. Evans came to Boston a poor boy. He left his birthplace at St. John when a lad to seek his fortune. After a varied career he became interested in rubber work and set about to master the details of the industry. With other men who realized the enormous profits in rubber, young Evans became a quick competitor. Within a few years he had organized a firm of his own. When the American Rubber Company was organized, he emerged from the process of organization with a controlling interest. Later he was made president of the United States Rubber Company.

Mr. Evans next turned his attention to mining. He bought up large blocks of the stock in the United States Mining Company. Then followed a bitter contest with a rival faction for the control of the company, ending in Mr. Evans disposing of his interests for an enormous figure. Mr. Evans organized the Yuba Consolidated Gold Mines Company, for gold dredging in California, and in this property alone he has been realizing an income of nearly $1,000,000 a year.

Mr. Evans was elected a director of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts in recognition of his experience as an art collector. Pioneers in the rubber industry remember him as the most aggressive, ambitious and courageous fighter in the then undeveloped field. He saw the great opportunity and plunged his modest fortunes and energies into rubber. Mr. Evans' fortune today is estimated at from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000. Mr. Evans has been personally supervising the arrangements to entertain President Taft and has been looking forward to his coming.

The Canker Worm

"That which the caterpillar hath left hath the canker worm left; that which the locust hath left hath the canker worm left. The tree is dried up and the fig is withered; the palm tree also, and the apple tree, even all the trees of the field are withered."—Joel 1, 4.

Evidently the canker worm is not a modern innovation. The old prophet must have been up against the real thing, and not being equipped with spray pumps and arsenics the trees of the field would wither away while he stood helpless. Even had Joel the best equipment of the present day, spraying outfit, Paris green, and all the necessities of modern orcharding he would still have had an uphill, losing fight in the presence of a bad attack of canker worm.

In theory the canker worm may be controlled with arsenical poisons applied in spray. In practice some of our best growers fail to handle them. This season has brought a larger crop of the pest than usual, and in spite of every effort they have gained ground. The conditions for fighting insects have been favorable. No rain has fallen in June to wash the spray from the trees. Every grower was on the lookout and warned by last year's failures, was ready for early work. The lime sulfur spray was supposed to destroy the eggs before they hatched, but this failed to have any particular effect. Paris green, arsenic of lead, arsenic of lime, have all been tried in various proportions, and while some report a measure of success, the majority are prepared to say that a dose of canker worm is too much for the spray pump.

There is a lesson however in the season's experience, fall banding with the caterpillars, is a sure preventive. This was carefully applied by the caterpillar was conspicuous by its absence.

Deal as Good as Closed Now

From all that can be learned about the city it appears that the transfer of the Rhodes-Curry concern is practically an accomplished fact. This deal has been in the air for at least two years. During that time it has been engineered by Mr. W. B. Tennant, of St. John, and Mr. J. R. Douglas, of Anherst, and from time to time rumors have arisen that it was near completion. It appears, that now, at last, the transfer is about to be closed. There is no reason to believe that the Canadian Northern Railway has anything to do with the purchase, but it is not only possible but extremely probable that among the purchasing syndicate are a number of capitalists who are interested with McKenzie and Mann in the C. N. R. and that this railway will be one of the largest customers of the reorganized company. The transfer will be made to a private corporation, chiefly of Montreal men, and will be in the nature of a change of control rather than a complete selling out of the business. It is understood that the intention is to largely increase the capital stock for the purpose of extending the works.

Those who now are on the list of shareholders have the option of selling or remaining in the new company. The Rhodes-Curry concern has a paid up capital of $346,000 and a surplus amounting to the magnificent sum of $850,000. There is no bonded debt. It has been almost from the start a most profitable business, as is seen from the very large surplus, this having been created after most generous dividends had been paid. The cash dividends to stockholders have ranged in the vicinity of 10 per cent, but there have also been dividends in stock amounting in one year at least to 100 per cent. The present transfer came to a head about two weeks ago, but some little difficulty arose which prevented for the time the completion of the papers. If the necessary documents have not already been signed they are now ready for the signatures of the interested parties.—Exchange.

Claims of Middleton to Experimental Orchard

At a public meeting held at the auspices of the Middleton Board of Trade held on June 23rd, 1909, at which the proposed location of the New Provincial Experimental Fruit Farm was discussed, the following resolution was carried unanimously:—

"Whereas Middleton being centrally located offers the greatest advantages to the largest number of Counties and people who would be benefited by such an Experimental Farm; and Whereas Middleton can be visited from all parts of Hants, Kings and Annapolis Counties (where fruit is now being grown successfully) at much less expense and loss of time than at any other point in the Valley, from as far east as Windsor, west to Annapolis Royal, South to Caledonia and Lunenburg, people can visit Middleton and have from two to six hours in the town and return home the same day, which cannot be accomplished at any other point in the Valley, and

"Whereas the Counties of Lunenburg, Queens, Shelburne, Yarmouth, and Digby are those from which the greatest development of the fruit industry is to be expected if this experimental farm is to be of any practical use it should be located where it could be visited, without loss of time; the people of these counties can time and at as little expense as possible to and away from Middleton more economically both in time and money than at any point further east and

"Whereas the Counties named receive little or no benefit from the two existing Experimental farms of Nova Scotia, they being situated close together and in a distant part of the province, and

"Whereas an Experimental Farm at Middleton would distribute the advantages better than if located nearer Truro, and

"Whereas we all feel that it is the aim and object of the Government to have this Experimental Farm placed where it will be of the greatest service to the greatest number of people developing and benefitting those districts which are adapted to the growing of fruit but to which as yet little attention has been given."

Another New Boat

(Digby Courier.) Mr. Romans, manager of the Union Bank of Halifax at Bear River, has purchased from the Lloyd Mfg. Co. of Kentville, a trim little power yacht. She was brought from Kentville to Annapolis Friday on a flat car and was removed from there to the water by Mr. W. A. Chute, the well known building mover, who sailed her to Bear River on Saturday. The handsome craft is 28 feet over all and is propelled by a 12 h. p. Lloyd gasoline motor. Commodore Chute informs us that she made the run from Annapolis to Bear River, against a strong head wind, in one hour and fifty-two minutes. Mr. Chute can move boats or buildings either by land or water and has always been very successful in the moving business. Mr. Lloyd was at the engine during the run from Annapolis to Bear River which was made without a skip. We are pleased to welcome Mr. Romans to the yachting fraternity and would again suggest to all the boat owners that a meeting be arranged at some central place and a club organized to represent yachting on the entire Basin and its tributaries, which we think would be better than having a small club at each port.

SPECIAL SESSION OF MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

Resolution to Restrict Running of Motor Vehicles on Saturdays and Sundays Passed.— Waiting Rooms to be Built at Granville Ferry Slip.

Council met in the court house at Annapolis Royal, in special session, on Tuesday, the 29th day of June, A. D. 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, pursuant to public notice given by W. G. Clarke, Warden of the Municipality of the County of Annapolis, as provided by the Statute in that behalf. The following resolution was carried unanimously:—

1st. The voting of additional funds to complete repairs to Ferry Slips at Granville Ferry and Annapolis.

2nd. The taking of such measures as may be necessary to restrict the running of Motor Vehicles certain days in each week within this Municipality.

Present: The Warden, Councillors—Outhit, Charlton, Fitch, Armstrong, Bishop, Grimm, Thomas, Buckler and Porter, Rawding, Healey, Piggott, Brown.

The committee appointed to make repairs on the Ferry Slip between Annapolis and Granville Ferry made a verbal report on the same by their chairman, E. H. Porter.

A Valuable Catch

While out fishing the other day about three miles from the island, Capt. G. A. Thurber caught a large haddock which upon being thrown into the boat spued up a solid gold brooch. This valuable pin, together with the large number of fish, made a very successful day for the genial Captain. Anyone wishing to see this pin and hear the story related more particularly can do so by calling upon the Captain at the Freeport House where he is stopping during the absence of Mrs. Thurber.—Freeport Items, Digby Courier.

Got a Verdict from Man Who Ruined Her Husband

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—A decision far-reaching in its importance, and one which will be of interest to the cause of temperance everywhere, was handed down by the Michigan supreme court yesterday. Mrs. Nettie Marriman, of Brass Lake, brought suit against one Frederick, a saloon-keeper, in the same town, claiming $10,000 damages for having sold liquor to her husband, thereby rendering the latter a drunkard, as well as causing the plaintiff to lose her home and money, and the companionship of her husband.

It was shown to the satisfaction of the court that until Marriman took to drink he was a prosperous railway telegrapher, and stood high with his employers. Drink caused him to lose everything and finally his wife was obliged to leave him. On an appeal the supreme court gave a verdict against the saloon keeper for $5,225.

the Municipality of Annapolis County is prohibited between the hours of eight o'clock a. m. and twelve o'clock p. m. of Saturday and between the hours of eight o'clock a. m. and twelve o'clock p. m. of Sunday of each week and that the penalties for violation of this by-law be the penalties provided in the Motor Vehicle Act of the Province of Nova Scotia, Chapter 44, Acts of 1907, and the amendments thereto and proceeding for the recovery of penalties under this act shall be taken and carried on under Chapter 161 of summary convictions Revised Statutes of Nova Scotia, 1900, and such proceedings may be taken by direction or by any person and all fines and penalties recovered shall be paid to the Treasurer of the Municipality.

This resolution was moved by Councillor Haley and seconded by Councillor Grimm and was discussed by a number of councillors. By order in council Mr. E. R. Clark and Judge Owen were heard, the former in favor of the resolution, the latter opposing it.

The resolution being called for the motion passed.

Ordered that fifty notices (similar to the one in the Municipal Office) be printed, distributed, and posted throughout this Municipality.

Councillor Charlton gave notice that at the January session he would move that the motion passing the by-law restricting motor vehicles be rescinded.

Council adjourned sine die.

O. S. MILLER, Municipal Clerk.

The Canadian Idea

(From the Toronto Star.) The American Senate has decided to admit wood pulp upon somewhat more favorable terms than those proposed by Senator Aldrich. But it still clings to the notion that the industry of manufacturing Canadian wood into paper is to be carried on in the United States, which is very far from the Canadian idea.

HELPS THE POOR SAVE MONEY.

Through the efforts of the Rev. Caroline Bartlett Crane 400 small bank accounts are in active operation in the Savings Bank of Kalamazoo. The savings collector, who is a paid trained worker, collected in the first eighteen months of her service $14,452.41, which would otherwise have melted away in foolish expenditure. Gilt-framed crayon portraits on the walls, onyx clocks on the mantels when the household furnishings are sadly out of repair and the children's shoes out at the toes, are in many of the homes mute memorials of where some of the money used to go. Now the savings collector, who makes weekly rounds, gets there before the agent with a glittering instalment-plan bauble. She receives any amount from five cents upward, enters it on the owner's bank book, and carries it to the bank for deposit.

"My husband says to me, 'Ain't you ashamed to give out so little to a bank?' declared one woman, who handed over thirty-five cents, 'but I says, 'No, I ain't, 'cause the bank lady says, 'It's all right.'"

It is this encouragement that is helping many a family to save. They never did it on their own initiative, because they couldn't brave the splendor of a mahogany desk and a brass-framed window with their meagre mite. Now, it is saved penny by penny during the week, and when the bank lady comes it is brought proudly out from the cracked teacup in the china cupboard and from the old black stocking in the lower machine drawer. One family is saving to buy a home. One woman who sews for a living now counts seventy dollars in the fund she is laying by with which to send her daughter through college. The largest of the accounts is not over two hundred dollars. They are drawn on in time of need. But that is precisely what they are for. With these funds have been bought hundreds of bushels of potatoes and scores of tons of coal, some of which the Charities Organization would otherwise have been obliged to supply.

It was out of an investigation of the chattel mortgage evil that the savings collection work developed.—Mabel Potter Daggett in The Delinquent for June.

There is no peace so tranquil and glad as that which follows forgetfulness of self in the requirements of another.

MORE DEADLY THAN CANCER.

It is said on high authority, that cancer causes only 30 deaths in every thousand deaths, while Indigestion causes, directly or indirectly, fully one-half of the deaths in this country. Indigestion starves the body, weakens the liver, poisons the blood and in short, takes the life-power and vigor of the mind. You need not fear Indigestion, if you take the Mother Syrup, and correct the wholly from herbs, and correct the diseased stomach as no other medicine can do. Mrs. Ralph Stephenson, of P.O. Huron County, Ont., writes on Jan. 23, 1909, saying: "We have had Mother Syrup in the house. As a stomach medicine it is the best I have ever used. It always keeps us healthy and well. Price 50c per bottle. Sold everywhere. A. J. White & Co., Ltd., Montreal.

Press Opinion on the Georgian Bay Canal

(Extracts from letter to Toronto Globe, May 22nd, 1909.)

"The Georgian Bay Canal would result in such a reduction of inland rates to the ocean port as to cut down the freight rates on grain to one-third of the present rate. This enormous saving in freights would largely go into the pockets of the western farmers, with a corresponding benefit on everything they import. Besides, the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal would open up the immense region of country of the northern parts of Ontario and Quebec, a country that so badly requires such cheap transportation, and transportation that can be given in no other way. The utilizing of the large rivers would furnish an enormous amount of waterpower that would soon induce important industries to locate themselves along the entire length of the Canal, which would be of immense benefit to the whole country.

"Many other benefits would follow the building of this great Canadian waterway, such as the passage of ocean steamers to the head of the Great Lakes and vice versa, with full cargoes to and from Europe, and the likelihood of an immense trade springing up between the great west and the Maritime Provinces. It would have the very desirable effect of uniting by the best of all ties, community interest, the east with the west of Canada, and so keep the whole of Canada's interior trade for Canada, instead of allowing it to go to the United States, as the building of the New Welland would. It is a route which it would be a disgrace to Canada not to make use of in face of all the immense inducements for new and profitable business that such a canal will open up. The opening of this canal will develop this northland into one of the richest possessions of the country, and attract thousands of investors, to which may also be added the immense business that should arise with the Hudson's Bay, to which large and navigable rivers run from near the sources of the Ottawa river through a country able to sustain from all reports millions of people, but now valueless for want of such transportation as the Georgian Bay Canal would give. Against these immense possibilities the building of the Welland Canal has nothing to offer, and instead has great possibilities of a dangerous loss of trade to and complications with the United States."

AMERICAN OPINIONS.

"From an engineering point of view disregarding for the moment political boundaries, there can be no doubt that the Ottawa route is by far the best for a deep waterway from the upper Lakes to the sea. The route is not a canal. There are only short stretches of excavated channel (amounting to 32 miles in all), and the rest is open lake and river navigation. Except for the time required to pass through the locks, a vessel could make nearly as good time on this route from Chicago to Montreal as from Chicago to Buffalo. Making allowance for delays at locks, it is found that a vessel will take only about 14 hours more for the voyage to Montreal than for the voyage to Buffalo. Thus, if grain is shipped from Chicago or Duluth to Buffalo at 1 1/2 cents per bushel, it is evident that it can be taken to Montreal through this waterway for not more than 1 1/2 cents. Conservative estimates of the traffic which such a route could command show that it should earn sufficient on its cost from the start, with an element from tolls to pay the interest-moneys possibilities, of increased traffic in the future, in view of the coming development of the great Canadian Northwest.—Engineering News, New York.

"Canada has gone ahead without having the market of the United States in which to sell her products and to that extent has become our competitor in the world's markets."

"It may be a great many years yet before the boast of the Canadian statesman is realized that the Dominion can feed Great Britain; but the great number of steamers now plying from the St. Lawrence with cargoes of grain and cattle bear ample testimony to the fact that the tendency of the competition is becoming every year more serious. That the Dominion is doing everything possible to do this business is likewise evident by the recent governmental guarantee of construction for the Grand Trunk Pacific Railroad, another band of trans-continental steel to parallel the Canadian Pacific, as also by the canal construction which has already diverted to Montreal considerable in the export line which otherwise would have come to New York, and when the Georgian Bay Canal construction is completed will do even more toward that end.—Syren, New York.

CAMP SUSSEX VISITED BY A TERRIFIC HAIL STORM.

Sussex, N. B., July 5.—Camp Sussex was taken unawares this afternoon by one of the fiercest storms, while it lasted, that has been experienced in these parts for some time. During the forenoon finer weather could not have been desired, but shortly after dinner the sky became over-clouded. The infantry, with the exception of the 74th Regiment, did not go on parade, as usual at 2 o'clock, as there was to be a turnout later in the afternoon.

The 74th, with its band at its head paraded to the rifle range for target shooting about 2 o'clock in full strength. They had not proceeded far however, before they were overtaken by a very heavy shower, which caused them to seek shelter. As the other two regiments did not parade at 2 o'clock the signallers were left in undisputed possession of the field and commenced their work immediately, dividing into sections of two- and three for station practice.

Suddenly the skies became dark, a few sprinkling drops of rain made their way earthwards and those who were at liberty ran for shelter. The signallers at their respective depots valiantly remained at their posts until they received the command "C. I." which means "vacate your stations and come in." And those who were farthest away from camp were pretty well drenched before they managed to "come in."

In shorter time and space than are required for the telling the raindrops were transformed into hailstones, the smallest of which were the size of peas and the average about an inch in diameter. Soon the ground became strewn with hail, and though the sun came out about 3 o'clock and shone brightly until 5, some of the hailstones were seen in fairly large quantities at 6 o'clock on the grounds. About 5.30 o'clock this evening rain began falling once more, but after a few showers a pretty rainbow appeared, which was welcomed all along the line.

The storm made things very disagreeable, a good many of the tents, which had been brailled up for ventilation purposes, being flooded. Some of the horses in the 8th Hussars and Army Service Corps became frightened at the terrific downfall and a number of them stampeded. Blankets had to be placed over the heads of many of them to keep them quiet.

A man once complained to his spiritual adviser of his habit of exaggeration, which he found it impossible to overcome. His friend said: "When next you find yourself guilty of anything approaching falsehood, go back to the one deceived and explain your misrepresentation and apologize. You will soon get over the habit then." It proved a sharp but a sure cure. Accuracy in statement led to truthfulness in nature.

Minding One's Own Business

A good start indeed, on the road to success has been made by the man who has learned the art of being a "know nothing." Though this statement sounds absurd, there is truth in it. One of the first principles of a successful employe is to keep his mouth shut concerning his employer's business, when with other men employed in a similar capacity in other firms the natural tendency of the crowd is to talk "shop."

A certain amount of this is, of course, all right, and in many instances mutually beneficial. But the trouble is to know when to draw the line. Though an employe of a big business concern or of a small one for that matter is not entrusted with all, or perhaps even any, of the important secrets of the firm, there are many valuable points which he is in a position to pick up here and there, simply because he is in their employ. It may be merely some method that his firm has adopted in some branch of its business that he tells his friend about—with pride, perhaps, or with condemnation. Those friends may be perfectly good friends and sincere, but if they are "alive" the chances are that they will straightway mention the matter to their own employers. It is foolhardy indeed to tell outsiders of the inner workings of one's firm and expect them, without any incentive, to keep the matter secret. If you, yourself, are unable to keep your own mouth shut about it, how can you expect others to do so?

Young men are prone to tell each other of the bridging down of expenses and to an outline of the various "tight-wad" economies of their employers. Many cases these small economies, practiced by every firm that succeeds, are changed by gossip from mole hills of practical business acumen into mountains of doubtful credit, questionable financial standing and implied failure.

Sooner or later, the fact that an employe is telling business secrets, however unimportant they may be, to outsiders is bound to reach the ears of the firm. However capable the employe may be, no employer is going to stand for anything of that sort. In self-defence the employe must be discharged. A young man, starting out in the business world, once went to an older man who had been pre-eminently successful in the same line, and asked for advice.

The older man paused a minute and looked at the young boy impressively.

"I've got one thing to say to you, young man," he said, "and that is—be a 'know-nothing.'"

The young man was astounded, and asked the older man what he really meant it.

The old fellow, a trifle irascible, as old men are wont to be—especially if they have been successful themselves—refused to explain further, and told the young fellow to think over what he had said and its meaning would in time be clear to him.

The young man had been only a few weeks in the business, but had managed to let every other employe understand that the junior partner was an especial friend of his father and had placed him there. Moreover, he entertained the other employes at lunch each day with anecdotes he had heard in his own home concerning the friendships, social entertainments etc., of the junior member of the firm. He constituted himself a sort of ready-reference manual of the doings of the junior partner outside of the office.

In a surprisingly short time his own father called the young man aside and accused him of telling things that did not concern him, stating that his friend, the junior partner, had complained to him about it. In conclusion the boy's father advised—"be a know-nothing, my son, and," he added, more explicitly, "by that I mean keep your mouth shut with your fellow employes about the firm and its business, and know absolutely nothing that is going on in the office, nor any of the office politics, except the requirements of your own individual work."

THE CONFESSIONS OF A SECOND WIFE.

Since this is a confession, it may as well be a frank and truthful one. I am not jealous of my husband's first wife—at least I hope I am not. But when he looks depressed or when I see that he is not as happy as I would like him to be, I am conscious of an uncomfortable doubt. I have tried to bring my sense of humor to bear upon this pain, too, and sometimes have succeeded fairly well—sometimes I have failed dismally. A trying trick that my dear husband minded reverie or abstraction; and he has that of sinking into an absent-mindedness so far forgets himself as to call me "Mary" instead of "Sarah." Once when he had been particularly forgetful and dreamy he did this three times in one evening. At last my resentment and appreciation of the ridiculous sprang to arms. With the fourth "Mary" I answered sweetly:

"In heaven, dear! Won't I do?" I had heard of another wife who had done this, and it had sounded funny to me when I heard the story; but when I uttered the unseemly and unrefined speech I was overcome with shame, my anger fled, and, bursting into tears, I begged my husband's pardon. I knew that I had hurt him, and I told him so.

"I am hurt," he said; "I had no idea that the memory of my poor girl, or that my thought of her, distressed you. Since it does, I shall be more careful in the future, my dear wife, and try not to talk of her."—Success Magazine.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 14, 1909.

The true facts of the miners' strike at Glace Bay are difficult to obtain. The Sydney and the Halifax dailies contain profuse information on the subject but unfortunately the reports contained in each paper conflict with those given by its contemporary. One states that the presence of the militia was necessary in order to quell riotous acts on the part of the strikers, another insists that no such acts were evident and the effect of the troops was unsalutary. The Sydney Record says:-

"The fact that two sets of constables-one appointed by the county, the other by the town of Glace Bay and those chiefly from the ranks of the U. M. Workers-indicates a rather remarkable state of affairs. These constables are now proceeding to arrest one another and the situation would be farcical if it were not so serious. It is now about time for the people of this county to apprehend seriously where this state of affairs will ultimately land us."

The strike has extended to the Coal Mines at Inverness and it is feared will spread to others. The Board appointed under the provisions of the Lemieux Act to investigate the dispute between the employees of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company owing allegiance to the U. M. W. A., and the Company is to meet in Halifax today.

The regulation which was passed at the recent session of the Municipal Council to restrict the running of automobiles on Saturday and Sunday has been forwarded to Halifax for the approval of the Governor-in-Council. Until it receives this sanction the law cannot be enforced, consequently drivers of horses must be prepared to meet the motor vehicles on any day in the week.

The battleships are fitted with twelve boilers of the navy yard type. Their armament comprises twelve 11-inch guns, twelve 5-inch guns, sixteen 3 1/2 inch guns, four machine guns, and six torpedo tubes.

ACCIDENT TO THE H. & S. W. EXPRESS.

Yarmouth, July 5.-The H. & S. W. express, which left here at 8.55 this morning with a number of passengers met with a bad mishap at Arcadia, three miles from here. Owing to a defective rail the train left the track and the locomotive toppled over into the ditch. The passenger cars left the rails, but remained upright. The engineer and fireman jumped and escaped with a few scratches, and although the passengers were shaken up none were injured.

Obituary

WILLIAM AVARD CHUTE.

It was learned with surprise and regret by our townsmen yesterday morning that Mr. W. Avard Chute had passed away during the night. Mr. Chute had been in ill-health for some time past but few of his friends and acquaintances realized that his disease was approaching a crisis.

A bronchial trouble from which he had suffered for some years developed into tuberculosis, and since the early spring his decline has been gradual but constant.

Mr. Chute was a son of the late Solomon Chute, of Clarence, and was unmarried. He is survived by one brother, Norman E. Chute, and two sisters, Mrs. Wallace Langley, of West Paradise, and Mrs. Winfield Scott Tucker, of Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Chute left the homestead in Clarence some years ago and has since resided in Bridgetown. Last spring he bought a small farm at the west end of the town from Mrs. M. K. Piper, intending to make his home there and engage in light farming, trusting that the outdoor life would benefit his health. Finding his health steadily declining he was compelled to relinquish this hope. About a week ago he was brought to town to attend to some business and was taken critically ill at his brother's house where he remained until his death which occurred from heart failure.

He was esteemed as an honorable man in his dealings and as a kind-hearted friend and neighbor. In religion he was of the Baptist faith. The funeral will take place this afternoon from the home of Mr. N. E. Chute.

MR. CHARLES LONGLEY.

At his home, Upper Granville, on Thursday, 8th inst., there passed away one of the most venerable residents of this community in the person of Mr. Charles Longley, at the age of ninety-three years and nine months. Although it is some years since his familiar form was seen on our streets his illness, outside of a certain form of rheumatism, was of only two months duration.

Mr. Longley was born in Granville of English descent. He followed the occupations of farmer and cooper and was greatly respected and esteemed in the community where he has always resided.

He leaves three daughters, Misses Charlotte and Annie Longley, who reside at home, and Mrs. Davis, who resides in Massachusetts.

MRS. STELLA OUTHOUSE.

Many people in Bridgetown who enjoyed the acquaintance and friendship of Mrs. Stella Outhouse, daughter of Mr. B. Havey, formerly of Bridgetown, now of Digby, were shocked to learn of her sudden death in that town on Friday morning when she was found dead in her bed. As Mrs. Outhouse has been for several years subject to attacks of epilepsy, it is supposed that while alone in one of these attacks she died.

Mrs. Outhouse, who was a widow, is survived by one daughter, Miss Wilda, who, having just finished a course of study at Wolfville, returned home a few weeks ago. At the time of her mother's death she was absent from home, camping with friends on the St. John River. Much sympathy is expressed for the daughter and for the parents and brother of the deceased lady by their many friends here.

INEXCUSABLE.

It is not possible to conceive of situations where the use of profanity might be excused, says the Hamilton Spectator. It will be difficult for many virile men to imagine a situation where the use of profanity could be justified. At its best profanity is but a poor thing, adding nothing to the statement of a really great man, and weakening in force the statements of men who, without it, might appear much more impressive in their conversation.

The satisfaction derived from faithful service should not allow you to 'let up' in the least.

A big negro and a small Italian were sawing a large timber, for a subway, with a heavy cross-cut saw, each in turn pulling it back and forth. A pugilistic Irishman stopped to watch the operation. In a minute he hit the negro, saying: 'Give the saw to the little fellow if he wants it.'

School Muddle

(Truro News.)

The school muddle in Sydney has brought out a lot of unseemly insinuations, and discussion that the whole city should be ashamed of.

Some friends of Vice-Principal Stewart and Supervisor Moore, who have been retired from any connection with the Sydney schools, presented them with a set of pipes, with this paragraph in the address that accompanied the presents: 'Gentlemen, will you accept these pipes with our good wishes. And although you may be far from us when making their acquaintance, we hope that when they have become tried and valued friends you will enjoy their companionship among us in Sydney.'

Correspondents in one of the Sydney papers go lively for those who made the presentation of such articles, and more lively for teachers, who are supposed to instruct their pupils in anti-tobacco literature, accepting such gifts.

One correspondent in the Record wrote: 'Sir,-In connection with the presentation of a set of pipes to Supervisor Moore and Vice-Principal Stewart by the other teachers in the city schools, a correspondent in your columns asks the question "Is nicotine a poison?" The text book which is used in the schools and which is supposed to be taught by the teachers themselves, answers your correspondent's question.

Health Reader No. 2 at page 90 has the following: "As already said, nicotine of tobacco is almost sure to cause sickness of the stomach and vomiting in those who are just beginning to use the poison. It injures the lining of the stomach, and hinders the flow of gastric juice and in this manner seriously interferes with digestion."

Again on page 85 of the same text book I find: "In many cases tobacco acts as the usher at the door of the saloon, etc."

And at page 84 it says: "Sores on the lips and even cancer sometimes result from the use of tobacco; the breath foul and repulsive shows the condition of the stomach, the tissues and the blood."

"Those in charge of inebriate asylums say that nearly all their patients have been users of tobacco as well as alcohol."

This is only a sample of the writing that some of those interested in education, have been slinging at each other in the tempest in a teapot trouble, that has been boiling in school matters in Sydney for the last five weeks.

SANE PENOLOGY.

A man in Buffalo who broke a window was released recently under supervision of a probation officer on the condition that he would, through the latter, pay the owner of the window its full value in weekly installments. Four young men who set fire to a barn, causing damage to the extent of a thousand dollars, were ordered to pay $250 each in regular weekly installments. Three have discharged the obligation and the fourth is meeting his as rapidly as his earnings permit. In this province a short time ago a man was sentenced to five years in prison for setting fire to a building. It is not difficult to decide which is the saner method of dealing with the crime of arson. Our criminal code has been largely responsible not only for manufacturing criminals but for saddling their maintenance upon those who have already suffered by their delinquency. When a man breaks a window and is charged with malicious injury, the usual procedure is to commit him to jail, tax the community for his keep, rob his family of his services, compel the man who loses the window to put in another, and to cap all by making a criminal out of a previously good citizen. The worst of it is that this left-handed justice is carried into dealing with children who are thrust into a life of evil or left to learn crime as a trade through the shameful criminal indifference of those who are responsible for making and administering law. In the city of Toronto recently, where the magistrates claim to be overworked, one of them referred to an attempt to secure an adequate system for dealing with child delinquency as a "fadism." It is a God-like "fad," and the day will come when we will look with absolute horror upon present day methods of criminal procedure as we do now upon those of the early part of last century.-Home Journal.

LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVE OFFICERS.

At the Convention of the Liberal Conservatives at Truro last week, the meeting passed a resolution endorsing R. L. Borden, the conservative leader. C. E. Tanner, of Pictou, was re-nominated as provincial leader. The nominating committee reported the following named as officers of the Nova Scotia Conservative Association: Hon. President-J. S. McLellan, Sydney. President-W. B. A. Ritchie, Halifax. Vice-President-T. S. Rogers, Amherst. Treasurer-Col. F. H. Oxley, Halifax. Secretary-To be appointed later by the executive. Executive-C. E. Tanner, Pictou; J. C. O'Mullin, Halifax; Frank Stanfield, Truro; W. B. Ross, K. C. Halifax; H. McInnes, Halifax; W. L. Hall, Liverpool; George Henderson, Halifax; W. F. O'Connor, Halifax; Dr. P. C. Woodworth, Kentville, with the presidents of all county associations, all members of parliament and of the legislative assembly.

WHEN HARD AT WORK IN HAYING TIME

Everybody at some time or other feels the desire to travel; comparatively few may travel far in person, but everybody may journey to distant realms representatively. One's money may go to scenes tropical and Oriental; and thus one's own power and personality may be projected into the uttermost parts of the earth. In this fashion, even a small pocket-book may become an avenue of deliverance from a petty, trivial and self-centered existence.

Throw Away the Crutches

In Ireland not long ago, newspaper men discovered the case of a healthy man, physically, who for thirty years stayed in his bed and had during all that time been supported by his mother. This fellow was so devoid of ambition, determination, and respectability that he had thrown himself down in discouragement and finally the idea that he was incapable took such complete possession of him that he remained in bed while the glorious years rolled by.

Disgusting, wasn't it? But there is nevertheless a similarity between this fellow's life and the mental habits of many men and women of all ages in every community. They have placed a dead line between their ambition, courage, determination and respectability may not pass and in consequence their lives are hemmed into a very small area. These self-imposed limitations are almost invariably imaginary. Men make excuses for not doing things which they are clearly able to do, which they ought to do and the profits and pleasures of which they would like to reap, but they do not want to sacrifice the beastly pleasure of lying in bed in order that they may win the prize. So they make mental crutches and say: "I would do my part to purify politics, only I really haven't time," when as a matter of fact they have time and to spare to give to the work. Three hours a week on the part of all of the citizens in any ward would drive the keel into speedy retirement.

The man in the show window would pitch in and do his share, the best workman in the whole establishment only he isn't strong enough to work like that, though he really has strength and to spare. The man who ought to improve his mind by evening study says that he would do it only of course he hasn't time, though as a matter of fact he has time to kill and does slaughter it by doing nothing for whole hours at a stretch.

All these excuses are simply crutches by which we make ourselves lame. We fool ourselves into the belief that we need them and by using them day by day we finally get so accustomed to them that we feel that we must have them. By constantly using them, our positive faculties are weakened and our lives are blighted. We blaze our way for our non-progress with that nobler matter of fact we are like coats, I do, bed, we are alighted Mike, a lost strength of backbone them. Nature takes from us the more we do not use, and gives us well! in advance that which we do use the more courage and more determination we must first use that little which we have.

We have used that miserable crutch of an excuse so long that we think that we cannot get along without it. Arise! stand erect, throw it away! The need of it is a delusion!

Be like those men and women who in religious fervor go to holy places, limping on canes and crutches, and who hang them on racks and walk away erect.

Cigarette victims, drug victims, drunkards deaden their senses by their habits, and we pity them. But the excuse habit is a self-made drug that is "doping" to death the possibilities of many a fine life!

What good is an opportunity to any man who instead of taking it will take an excuse-as a drunkard will take a drink?-Halifax Herald Ed.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL.

There are many cases of whooping cough in town.

We are compelled to hold over some correspondence and other interesting matter for another issue.

A. S. Crowe of Cobalt, Ont. has our thanks for a special number of the Cobalt Nugget descriptive of the $300,000 fire.

Mr. A. R. Bishop has put up a sign transparency before his store which is a good advertisement of his art as well as his wares.

Mr. F. C. Harris, who is one of our foremost gardeners, has our thanks for a beautiful bunch of the earliest sweet peas.

A citizen suggests that it is time our firemen had a practice drill, as a number of changes have been made on the staff and some are new to the service.

The concert given under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. Autumn Leaf Rebekah Lodge takes place tonight and promises to be an interesting program.

Rev. W. H. Warren will occupy the pulpit of the Bridgetown Baptist Church next Sunday, morning and evening. He will preach at Centrelea in the afternoon.

Fire destroyed the barn of W. B. Hicks at Tupperville on Monday night. It contained two tons of hay and various farming implements which were also destroyed. There was some insurance.

At eight o'clock on Friday evening, 16th inst. there will be a meeting in the vestry of the Bridgetown Baptist Church for receiving the reports of the Advisory Committee and considering a call to a pastor for the church.

Midnight marauders entered the cellar of Dr. Jost on Wednesday night last, and helped themselves to plentiful supply of eatables. They entered through a cellar window covered by a screen. Possibly these were the same young scamps who burglarized Mr. Lloyd's store on Wednesday afternoon.

A meeting of the school board was held yesterday afternoon and two appointments were made of teachers for the ensuing term: viz. Miss Nettie Bishop to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Johnson and Miss Chipman of Tupperville to replace Miss Florence Cochran, who has also resigned.

Four or five of our young "street gamins" were implicated in the theft of over a dozen bottles of ginger ale from the cellar of J. E. Lloyd's store on Wednesday afternoon last. One of the youngsters, a colored lad by the name of Owen, was arrested yesterday and we understand has confessed to the crime. The other boys have mysteriously disappeared. Owen will be brought before the Crown prosecutor, Mr. Irvin, this morning.

S. S. Institute meetings are being held by the Presbyterian Church in Nova Scotia, convening at Bridgetown last Friday afternoon and evening. The following leading speakers were present: Rev. J. C. Robertson, B. D., General S. S. Secretary for the Presbyterian church in Canada. Rev. A. J. W. Myers, B. D., representing the S. S. committee of the Synod of the Maritime Provinces. Rev. Hugh M. Upham, B. A., Conventor of the S. S. Committee of the Presbytery of Halifax. The evening meeting was open to the public.

The Bridgetown and Dalhousie Telephone line went into operation last Wednesday, the 7th inst. At present there are five telephones on the line. Toll office at Bartlett Gillis' on the Thorne Road, Capt. J. J. Buckler's, Morse Road, and at Norman Buckler's and Thomas Todd's, Dalhousie Hill, and at John Anderson's at Durling Lake. The stock has been nearly all subscribed by residents of the West Dalhousie section. An arrangement has been made with the Nova Scotia Telephone Co. by which the privileges of the line are extended, making it in effect a branch line of the established system. The new line will be added to the Bridgetown circuit, giving subscribers the privilege of calling without charge. The line will be a boon to this formerly isolated section, and will cover the last section of the county to be extended telephone privilege.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL.

The Salvation Army will hold a grand concert in the Court House on Monday evening next. The Aberdeen Band will be the special attraction and Col. Turner, of St. John, will occupy the chair. Lieut. Hood is forewelling.

The Colonial Theatre moving picture show is receiving a good patronage. The films showed the train wreck on the H. & S. W. at Arcadia last Monday night. The management have been having some difficulty with the machine but expect to have it in good running order by next Saturday night.

A trip to India will be given by the Rev. W. H. Warren with his stereopticon views in the Baptist vestry, Tuesday, July 20th, to which all are invited to come. This interesting entertainment will be under the direction of the Junior Mission Band. A silver collection will be taken in aid of the Band's work.

A correspondent takes exception to the item published by our Middleton contemporary, regarding a seizure of liquor and states the facts as follows: "Inspector Hall recently went to Middleton and searched the premises of one Harper and secured ninety odd bottles, and two kegs of beer, also several bottles of whiskey. Said Harper was arraigned, convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars and costs, and the magistrate ordered the whiskey and beer destroyed. This was done on Friday last, and the full complement of wet goods seized at said Harper's was emptied and poured out by Inspector Hall and his constable."

TO FORM MARITIME PRESS ASSOCIATION.

It is probable that the New Brunswick Press Association will hold a short session at Sackville early in September. Plans are being made to have the newspaper men from all parts of the Maritime Provinces meet in Amherst about September 9th, with a view to forming a Maritime Press Association, and it is because of this fact the New Brunswick men have chosen Sackville for their place of meeting and the Nova Scotians have selected Amherst. Each of the present associations will hold a session at their respective meeting places after which they will unite at Amherst. Prince Edward Island journalists will be invited to be present at the latter gathering.

PECULIAR DISEASE.

A report from Weymouth is to the effect that John Pleasant, son of John Pleasant (colored), died yesterday, the fourth member of that family to die in as many weeks. They are taken with a disease somewhat resembling typhoid and nine days afterwards died in spite of everything which can be done. Mrs. Pleasant, the mother of the family, was taken down yesterday and in her case the disease is aggravated by the fact that she is completely worn out through nursing the others.

A BUSY SEASON FOR YARMOUTH.

All the hotels and pleasure resorts in this neighborhood will have their full quota of visitors this summer. Large numbers are daily arriving, and are "locating" at different parts of the County. Markland and Bay View Park are largely booked for July and August, and the Grand Hotel will be, as usual, full to its capacity. The Queen, Oxford, Carvel Lodge and other private and public boarding houses, are also well booked up and altogether it looks like a busy season.—Telegram.

Mr. Roy, Canadian commercial agent in Newfoundland, reports that the pulp mills to be erected on that island by the Hearst interests, will cost from ten to fifteen million dollars. The scheme embraces the exploitation of one of the most valuable timber areas in Newfoundland. Recently a Syracuse syndicate has purchased another Newfoundland timber area of 250,000 miles and will erect mills at a cost of three million dollars. Mr. Roy reports that Canadians are losing their boot and shoe trade in Newfoundland to Americans, owing to their failure to advertise.

To Prevent Drowning

Now comes the season of drowning accidents. Lakes and rivers in the immediate vicinity of Detroit until next fall will afford pleasure to the thousands upon thousands of those who seek their hot weather recreation upon the water. But there will be tragedies. Every summer season of joy leaves its trail of death.

The rock-the-boat idiot must needs have his inning; the adventurous canoeist must court death by paddling a craft meant only for shaded canals into too boisterous waters.

How to prevent drownings is the question. What should a person do when he is thrown suddenly into the water and he can't swim? G. W. Corson, swimming teacher at the Y. M. C. A., Toronto, naturally takes a keen interest in the problem. He advises a more thorough education who must have their pleasures on the water, says the Detroit Free Press.

"Dog-paddling to safety is the best plan by which to circumvent death," majority of non-swimmers who are waded beyond their depths, do the water in a canoe or a boat, or who only four things they should not do.

"First: They throw their hands high out of the water and endeavor to clutch at the air as if at a rope. Of course, this sinks them immediately. Even a very buoyant person and his head high out of the water, will sink if he tries to keep his hands high out of the water and endeavor to clutch at the air as if at a rope.

"Second: They shut all the air out liable to go straight down and never specific gravity and rendering their that the drowning person will rise come up again. It is an error to try and sink three times before finally disappearing. There is a vast difference in the specific gravity of persons. For instance, in all my experience, I have found only one woman who could not float without motion. Those persons whose make-up is largely muscle and bone, and whose chest capacity is proportionately small, will sink out of sight at once; while a fat, round person who cannot swim, is liable to come to the surface of the water. This latter circumstance will sometimes happen to a person in shallow water after he has once taken his feet from the bottom. He does not know how to get his feet down against the drowns often in sight of the rescuers who think the victim has perished. In these cases the rescuer may say death is a relief to the sufferer.

"Third: They are suddenly into the water and they make the fatal mistake of struggling hard, thus shaking all the water out of his clothes. Move slowly, and breathe in through the mouth. Do not shout.

"Fourth: Should a rescuer approach a drowning person, the imperiled one generally will do everything of which the human mind can conceive to impede the good intention of the rescuer. He will bind the rescuer's limbs and endeavor to climb out of the water as high as possible, not considering the fact that the only weight of a person is that portion of the body which is out of the water.

"Very few persons weigh a pound in the water. Many weigh less than nothing. It is a heavy woman who will register an ounce in the water, and a heavy man who will register 10 ounces. A person who is being rescued should lie flat on his back.

"Last week eight persons endeavored to cross the Hackensack river in a rowboat. The boat upset and the three young men swam to shore, while the five women were drowned. These young men knew how to swim, but they didn't know how to rescue a non-swimmer."

THE VALUE OF ALASKA.

When the late Secretary Seward, 40 years ago, gave Russia $7,000,000 for the Peninsula of Alaska, lots of the Yankees thought he was crazy to buy such a desolate, bleak, icy-bound country.

That the $7,000,000 was a good investment is forcibly realized when we learn that in the 40 years that have passed since the United States Senate ratified the treaty of purchase, Alaska has produced a wealth exceeding $350,000,000, or nearly one hundred per cent. per year on the investment, and yet, as we are told, "the pick and the plow have as yet barely pin-pricked the surface of Alaska."

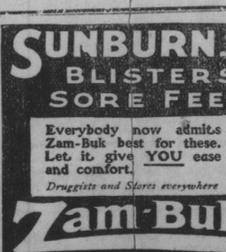

YARMOUTH A MODEL TOWN.

The Maritime Merchant, of Halifax, in its last issue devotes a considerable amount of space to the recent excursion of the Halifax Board of Trade, of Yarmouth it has the following to say:—

"Yarmouth was a revelation. The turn-out of automobiles was amazing for they have 55 in this place of only 8,000 people. A large number of these autos were waiting for the party and if there wasn't room enough for all, big teams accommodated the rest. The beauty of Yarmouth was an eye-opener to everyone not familiar with the place. Many of the private residences are large and even magnificent and all, both large and small, are neat and pretty and well set. Every man, rich or poor, in Yarmouth, has his trim lawn, and hedges abound everywhere. Flowers, of course, are dearly loved and extensively cultivated. There is no place like Yarmouth in Nova Scotia. It is an object lesson to most Halifaxians in landscape gardening. People who are interested in town improvement go to this place. We should like to see emulation of Yarmouth become general, and to this end should like to make every town jealous of Yarmouth's reputation as a beautiful town."

Thinning Fruit on Trees

Ladders, step-ladders and intelligent men are all that are required in thinning fruit on the trees. As a general rule, it is well to take off all advisable to leave more than two apples and deformed apples. It is in- plies together, and, if the tree be heavily laden, thin to one.

On July 7th, last year, I commenced to thin Greenings, and continued on Holland Pippins, Alexanders and Baldwins. When the fall apples are about the size of walnuts, they may be thinned. Thinning Spies before last of July is not recommended, but afterwards it may be proceeded with until harvest.

In 1908, this work, on my entire orchard of Greenings, Baldwins, Kings, Golden Russets, Spies and a few other varieties, effected a uniformity of size in the ripened crop that facilitated packing in boxes, a method certain of adoption in the near future for it is only thus that we will be enabled to receive the highest market price, and prove our boxed apples equal to those of British Columbia and Oregon.

By thinning, the buds for the following year are benefited by the nourishment which has not been uselessly absorbed by unsalable fruit. Proper methods of fertilizing, thinning, spraying, cultivating and pruning cannot but produce apples fine enough for the world's competition.

In thinning ordinary-sized trees, which are about two-thirds loaded, a man could thin from ten to fifteen trees per day. In case of an unusually large tree being overloaded, a man would need to spend about one-half day in removing the small and deformed apples.

In breaking the stem, one may use the same method as in picking in the fall; and avoid injury to the fruit buds for the succeeding year. There is very little danger of injuring the fruit buds in thinning, the only danger being in the placing of ladders, and a person moving about in the tree, when he is liable to break the fruit spurs.

Although I found the expense of thinning in 1908 averaged 5 cents per barrel of fruit harvested, the cost of picking and packing was reduced, in not having to pay for the handling of small and inferior fruit.

A large, over-loaded tree, if not thinned, would probably produce about four barrels of firsts, but if thinned would very likely yield eight or more, thus almost double the profit, after paying a man 75 cents for thinning it. My entire crop of eight hundred and eighty barrels were picked and packed for 20 cents per barrel and including the cost of thinning was handled much cheaper than in the previous year.

From this method, adopted for the first in 1908, I reached results otherwise unobtainable. Only 7 per cent. were graded seconds, while 93 per cent. ranked as firsts.

Therefore in conclusion, my advice to the fruitgrowers of Ontario is to thin apples, peaches, and, in fact, all fruit where trees or vines are overloaded.—J. J. Gilbertson, Nortolk Co., Ont., in Farmers Advocate.

Joker's Corner.

A NEGRO'S PHILOSOPHY.

Mr. W. T. Stead, the great apostle of peace, and the man who was most instrumental in founding The Hague conference, told a good story in a recent lecture as to how easily war might be stopped.

"Men talk sincerely," he said, "about loving one another, about the universal brotherhood of man, and in the same breath they assert that it is right to burn and maim and kill in war. They are not so logical as a young colored recruit who served in the Philippines. This young man, at the end of his initial engagement, was hauled before his captain.

"So you ran at the first fire, did you?" said the captain, scornfully. "Yes, sah; an' h'd 'a' run sooner, if I'd knowed it wuz comin'."

"Have you no regard for your reputation, Calhoun?" "Mah reputation hain't nuffin' to me, sah, 'long side o' mah life."

The captain smiled and twirled his moustache. Here was an intelligent young man. He'd talk him over to the right point of view.

"Even if you should lose your life Calhoun," he said, "you'd have the satisfaction of knowing that you had died for your country."

"Wet satisfaction could dat be to me, sah, when de power o' feelin' is wuz gone?"

"Then patriotism means nothing to you?" "Nuffin', sah. I wouldn't put mah life in de scales agin any government dat eber existed, for no government could replace de loss o' me."

"Calhoun, if all soldiers were like you, the world's governments would all go to pieces."

"On de contrary, sah, dey'd last for ever; for, if all soldiers wuz like me, den dere couldn't neber be no fightin'."

A TRYING HORSE.

(Exchange.) One of the summer visitors who was trying a horse, the property of a New Hampshire farmer, with a view to buying him, noticed that after driving a few miles the animal pulled very hard, requiring a firm hand and constant watching. "Do you think this is just the horse for a lady to drive?" he inquired doubtfully.

"Well," answered the owner, with an air of great candor, "I must say I shouldn't really want to be husband of the woman who could drive that horse."

WHAT HE REMEMBERED.

"An' ye fell from a window, Jerry? How far wuz it ye fell?" "Tin stories."

"Well, well! That was a great fall. And what did ye think on your way down?"

"Reverry, I didn't think of nothin' until I nessed th' fit' story. Thin I remembered I left me pine on the window sill."—Cleveland Plain Dealer

HELP FOR THOSE WHO HAVE STOMACH TROUBLE.

After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.—SAMUEL BOYER, Folsom, Iowa. This medicine is for sale by W. A. WARREN, BRIDGETOWN; A. E. ATLEE, ANNAPOLIS ROYAL; and BEAR RIVER DRUG STORE. Samples free.

Lost Energy Restored by Psychine.

Mr. Geo. Pratt, of Clarkson, Ont., says: "Four years ago my son Wilbert was so run down, thin and emaciated, that we thought he was going into a decline and feared he would never pull through the severe cold of the winter months. The boy had no appetite and seemed to have lost all energy and interest in life. He was altogether in terribly bad shape. His condition caused us the gravest anxiety.

"Fortunately I procured PSYCHINE for him and this soon gave him a new lease of life. It is really remarkable how rapidly this splendid medicine brought about a change. After taking one or two bottles he was hardly recognizable as the same young man. PSYCHINE effected a cure about the farm again. Today he is a robust young fellow, and if anything, stronger than his brother. Nothing in the way of hard work seems to affect him. I cannot speak too highly of PSYCHINE. It certainly saved our boy and made a man of him."

Prevents the children taking cold, wards off that terrible malady La Grippe and completely forifies them against disease. It should always be used for colds, a gripe, we rices, loss of appetite, etc. Send to Dr. T. A. McCUMY, Limited, Spa Inn Ave., Toronto. Sold by all druggists: a-d dealers, 50c and $1.00.

ILLUSIONS OF WAR.

War I abhor, And yet how sweet The sound along the marching street Of drum and fife! And I forget Wet eyes of widows, and forget Broken old mothers, and the whole Dark butchery without a soul.

Without a soul—save this bright drink Of heavy music, sweet as death; And even my peace-abiding feet Go marching with the marching street; For yonder, yonder, goes the fife, And what care I for human life!

The tears fill my astonished eyes, And my full heart is like to break; And yet 'tis all embannered lies, A dream those little drummers make.

O, it is wickedness to clothe You hideous grinning thing that stalks Hidden in music, like a queen That in a garden of glory walks, Till good men love the thing they loathe!

Art, thou hast many infamies, But not an infamy like this. O, smap the fife, and still the drum, And show the monster as she is! —Richard LeGallienne.

There is only one method of acquiring a good handwriting—that is by never allowing one letter that is not as well written as the writer is capable of being sent to the post, even though the recipient be a dearest chum. Soon the habit of excessive neatness and carefulness will become fixed, and not until then can the effort be relaxed for a moment. To some, of course, a clear, well formed penmanship is easily taught, for others there will never be a time when the utmost care can be dispensed with, but each year makes it more difficult to make any definite change in one's chirography.

Piano keys, as well as all ivory articles, should be cleaned with alcohol.

Use dampened newspaper for polishing nickel stove trimmings, rubbing vigorously.

Stained table linen should be put into pure boiling water before putting any soap on it.

After greasing the cake tins powder them with flour, and the cakes will come out whole.

Rhubarb makes the best sauce when it is baked in layers with small pieces without peeling.

The most easily digested meats are mutton chops, venison, sirloin of beef, lamb chops, rabbit and chickens.

One reason why cake falls is that the sugar is not dissolved. Another is because too much butter is used.

Prick potatoes before baking, so that the air can escape. This will prevent their bursting in the oven.

Roll sausages in flour before frying them; it will keep them from breaking, and will also improve the flavor.

Bathing the eyes in hot water will often relieve the intense irritation caused by exposure to winds and cold.

Woolen blankets are best washed in warm soapsuds, rinsed in warm water and hung to dry on a warm, windy day.

Always rinse the eggbeater after using in cold water and it will wash without any trouble in the dishwasher.

Take a small block of wood and cover with a piece of old carpet and use to rub off range when through using.

Windows should be closed during a thunderstorm as window glass is one of the first possible conductors of lightning.

Use a hot curling iron loosely covered with a wet cloth to renovate velvet bows on a hat by inserting same in the loops.

In scrubbing the kitchen use hot water and a little kerosene. The secret of a nice, clean floor lies in changing the water often.

The resistance of glass jars that refuse to open can be overcome by setting them top downward in an inch or two of hot water.

When changing the oilcloth on your kitchen table place several newspapers underneath it and it will wear three times as long.

Cauliflower should be turned head downwards in cooking, so that any scum may not by any chance settle on the white portion.

Add a teaspoon of cream or milk when you are creaming butter and sugar for cake, and you can do the work much more quickly.

A few drops of alcohol rubbed on the inside of lamp chimneys will remove all traces of greasy smoke, when water alone is of no avail.

Keep a little whisk broom hanging near your toilet table and use it exclusively to brush your hair brush and comb every time they are used.

"TO SIT SERENELY."

"Learn to sit serenely" if you would acquire distinction of manner," advised the April Grandmother. "It may seem an unimportant matter, but nevertheless comparatively few young girls know how to properly seat themselves, look comfortable when they are seated or get up gracefully from a seat. One reason for this awkwardness is due to the fact that teachers who are not themselves fastidious in regard to physical poise permit their pupils to rush into a class room and fall upon a seat, instead of constraining them to enter deliberately and sit down. After a time the pupil who is permitted to assume an unconventional position on when at her desk gets into the habit of wriggling nervously from one side of her chair to the other, sits on one foot or spreads her knees widely apart—attitudes which are not only uncomfortable but vulgar.

"Many girls look awkward and uneasy when seated because they slide onto a chair from its side instead of from its front edge and do not allow themselves sufficient space to turn in when approaching a seat. When ready to sit down one foot should be slightly in advance of the other, so that by pivoting on the toes, bending the hips and knees the body will swing easily onto the chair. Care should be taken to place the hips as far toward the back of the seat as it is possible to get them.

"The girl who sits on the edge of a chair and leans far backward is in as awkward an attitude as she can possibly assume and one that will not only impel her to cross her knees but help to injure her spine. She should remember that when seated the hips must invariably be further back than the shoulders, otherwise it will be impossible to sit erectly, gracefully or comfortably—which, of course, means serenely. This attitude will bring both feet in their correct position—squarely upon the floor and partially covered by the skirts. The consciousness that one has small, prettily shaped feet is not an excuse for thrusting them forward, and in my younger days every gentleman's ankles were solely a matter of supposition so far as the public was concerned.

"In a praiseworthy effort to sit gracefully a great many girls take elaborate pains to arrange their draperies, and consequently their pose looks stiff, whereas by simply seating themselves in the correct manner and with the knees close together their skirts—if not too scant about the hips—will naturally fall in graceful folds.

"Unless the hands are allowed to lie idly on the lap," concluded the April Grandmother, "the effort to 'sit serenely' will be unavailing. Many girls have a habit of grasping the arms, sides or back of their chair or twisting their fingers or toying with some ornament while other people are talking to them and of emphasizing their own remarks by 'clawing the air' under the mistaken impression that they are making gestures."

SOME USES FOR KEROSENE OIL.

There are few things about the home more helpful to the housekeeper than kerosene oil. The oil will remove ink and fruit stains from clothing without injuring the fabric. Soak the spots in the kerosene and then wash them in hot suds. Or, if they prove obstinate against this treatment place the garment or stained article (if of material that can be boiled) in a granite dish. Take a pailful of soft water, half cupful of kerosene oil and nearly a half bar of soap and pour over it. Boil from one to three hours. This will often take out ink stains from table linen when other methods have failed.

Bath tubs, sinks and wash basins clean easily with a cloth wrung out of the oil. Nickel-plate on a stove may be kept bright by rubbing with the oil and then polishing with a piece of soft fannel. Oilcloths and linoleums wiped up with a cloth dampened with the oil will look fresh and new.

Kerosene is good for cleaning the rubber rollers of the wringer if they have become discolored and covered with lint. Dip a cloth in the oil and wipe off the rubbers, then wipe it with a dry cloth and they will be bright and clean.—L. K.

THE BOY WHO DIDN'T PASS.

A sad-faced little fellow sits alone in deep disgrace. There's a lump aising in his throat, tears streaming down his face; He wandered from his playmates, for he doesn't want to hear Their shouts of merry laughter, since the world has lost its cheer; He has sipped the cup of sorrow, he has drained the bitter glass, And his heart is fairly breaking; he's the boy who didn't pass.

In the apple tree, the robin sings a cnsery little song. But he doesn't seem to hear it, showing plainly something's wrong; Comes his faithful little spaniel for a romp and bit of play. But the troubled little fellow sternly bids him go away. All alone he sits in sorrow, with his hair a tangled mass, And his eyes are red with weeping; he's the boy who didn't pass.

How he hates himself for failing, he can hear his mates jeer. For they've left him with the dullards—gone a half a year; And he tried so hard to conquer, oh, he tried to do his best. But now he knows he's weaker, yes, and duller than the rest. He's ashamed to tell his mother, nor he thinks she'll hate him, too— The little boy who didn't pass, who failed of getting through.

Oh, you who boast a laughing son, and speak of him as bright, And you who love a little girl who comes to you at night With smiling eyes and dancing feet, with honors from her school, Turn to that lonely little boy who thinks he is a fool And take him kindly by the hand, the dullest in his class. He is the one who most needs love, the boy who didn't pass.

CLINGING TO HOPE.

(By Henry Christeen Warnack.)

No matter what betide, let us cling to hope. No anchor is as sure. Hope is the star of our day and the star of our night's despair. It is a rain upon the desert and a light upon a way that was lost. It is as sweet fruit from a tree that was barren and as a flower in a desolate place. We are ever defeated while within us is a lingering promise of things desired. With hope in the heart we never wholly overcome our fear. He who is wholly overcome by the opposite of his own will, within our own making, breaks down on the ground on which we stand. We sink beneath our own weight. We are the rock of our salvation. We stay us and will not let us fall. When all our plans have seemed to fail, so that our way is paved with memories of all we sought and lost, hope gives us courage, and we battle on. Hope fights with the hilt when the sword is broken and so long as one small ray from hope's bright star shall filter through the gloom we shall never cry out that we are undone.

FIRST IMPRESSION.

A pebble at the fountain head may change the course of a river; so a first unfavorable impression, produced, perhaps, by a soiled collar, a torn glove, muddy boots, frowsy hair, or uncared-for finger nails, has turned many a boy and girl downward who would otherwise have gone upward. They may not have dreamed that they were judged and condemned solely by their appearance. Perhaps no one ever told them how much depended on their being always neat and well "groomed." Perhaps no one ever told the boy that he would not get a situation in a decent place if he wore soiled linen, or unblackened shoes, or if he held a cigarette stump in his fingers, or kept his cap on when applying for it. Perhaps no one ever told the girl that if she went about heedless of a rip in her sack, braids hanging from her skirt, buttons missing from her shoes, or with her collar soiled and crumpled, no one would want her in a store or office.

DEEP BREATHING.

Pay attention to the great importance of deep breathing, that is, of inflating the lungs to their fullest capacity. Shallow breathing is the rule, deep breathing the exception; that is why consumption finds such a fertile field in a large proportion of the people. In the majority of cases consumption commences just below the clavicle (or collar bone), for here is the portion of the lungs that is less used in ordinary breathing. The individual with a pair of healthy lungs might inhale millions of tubercle bacilli daily with impunity. Like every other organ in the body, the lungs become vigorous with use; disuse means decay; therefore, to develop the lungs, they must be exercised by deep breathing. Every five minutes of lung exercise daily will work wonders.

GRATEFUL FOR ECZEMA CURE

Any Sufferer Can Write to Mrs. D. McGillivray, of Nanton, Alta., for full information

There are undoubtedly many frauds in the testimonials of medical firms—letters written by friends or even employees of the advertiser. But, on the other hand, in some cases the testimonials are thoroughly genuine, gladly offered by prominent citizens, who are grateful for the cure.

Such a case is that of Mrs. D. McGillivray, of Nanton, Alberta, who cured her two children with D. D. D., and is glad to tell others about it. She wrote on September 3rd last:

"Your letter to hand of recent date. I must thank you for so kindly inquiring about my order and also the child. I am glad to say I received the three one dollar bottles of D. D. D. and two cakes of Soap safely, and am delighted with the result of both prescription and Soap. The Soap is all that is required to complete the treatment. The little boy of two years and a half is to all appearance cured of the dreadful Eczema.

"My baby girl at two months broke out with the same rash and I treated her with D. D. D. and am perfectly satisfied she is cured to our great joy. I feel sure it is a splendid remedy for all skin diseases and can highly recommend it. I will be glad to recommend it to any one suffering with skin trouble."

If any reader of this paper should write Mrs. McGillivray, we request that a self-addressed stamped envelope be enclosed.

THE SWING.

My locks are thick with silver threads My pockets full of gold; I'd give it all to live again When over me the orchard trees Their blossoms used to fling. And to and fro I gaily soared In our old swing.

A board and length of rope sufficed For saddle and for reins, Upon the fiery steed I spurred Over distant hills and plains; On many a long and lonely road I made his hoof-beats ring While living some enchanted tale In the old swing.

My fancy often made it seem A boat upon the sea, Or great balloon that swiftly sailed The ether blue and free. I put a girld 'round the world In one short day of spring. And spanned the goal from pole to pole, In my old swing.

BOWEL COMPLAINT IN CHILDREN

When six months old the little daughter of E. N. Dewey, a well-known merchant of Agnewville, Va., had an attack of cholera infantum. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was given and effected a complete cure. This remedy has proven very successful in cases of bowel complaint in children and when given according to the plain printed directions can be relied upon with perfect confidence. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by W. A. WARREN, BRIDGETOWN; A. E. Smith Cove

One of the greatest picnics ever held in the County will come off on Wednesday next, July 21st, at the pretty village of Smiths Cove. All the divisions of Digby County and several in Annapolis County have been invited to co-operate for the purpose of making the affair a memorable one from the standpoint of a temperance rally. In addition to the picnic features and sports of a highly interesting nature, which promise to be keenly contested, there will be an imposing temperance parade of division members, headed by the Bear River Brass Band. There will also be a number of short vigorous speeches upon the progress of temperance. Supper will be served in the hall for the small sum of twenty-five cents, and arrangements have been made to feed all the way from five hundred to one thousand people. Smiths Cove is famed for its beautiful scenery and invigorating climate, and another thing, that should not be forgotten in speaking of the picnic, is the cherry crop. Cherries will be at their best on the 21st, and the stock in this vicinity is the largest and choicest to be found anywhere. This is the garden of the cherry region, a regular cherry paradise. In the evening, commencing at 8 o'clock, there will be a concert in the hall. An excellent program has been arranged. Local talent will be assisted by a number of visiting tourists, among whom are some of the leading musicians, including vocalists, violinists and pianists, of the larger centres of the New England States and maritime provinces. The committee in charge are sparing no efforts to make July 21st a day long to be remembered in the history of Digby County, and every resident of the county, who possibly can, should plan on coming to Smiths Cove for the temperance picnic and rally on the 21st of July.

Cecil Jordan lost his life by drowning here on Thursday last. Jordan, who was about eleven years old, was in company with several other boys of about the same age, playing on a raft that was moored off the ferry slip. The raft tipped over and Jordan was thrown into the water. The cries of his playmates attracted the attention of a sailor on a vessel near by who jumped in after the boy but was unable to find him. The body was found some fifteen minutes after the accident occurred and the doctors who were on the scene worked over him for some time before pronouncing him dead.

On Sunday, the 11th, the Rev. H. D. deBlois, Grand Chaplain, conducted divine service at St. Alban's Church, L'Equille, and subsequently buried Capt. George Emmerson, lately of Upper Clements, and formerly of Bear River. A large concourse of people were present. It would be unjust not to refer to the willingness of Bear River Lodge A. F. and A. M. to do everything in their power on behalf of their late brother during his prolonged illness. They did "love in deeds" and not merely in words. A large deputation both paid their last tribute of regard and fraternal duty to the deceased, who leaves a widow and child to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father.

It has been said that there was no place here suitable for a Fish Packing Firm to locate. This is misleading as the best of accommodations can be found near the pier and railroad. David Hayden has a two-story building about 25x50 feet and a wharf adjoining which he will sell or let at reasonable prices, and it will be found that money talks in a number of other locations. "Let them come."

THE MAN WHO WINS.

"The man who wins is the man who works— The man who toils while the next man shirks; The man who stands in his deep distress With his head held high in the deadly press— Yes, he is the man who wins. "The man who wins is the man who knows

The value of pain and the worth of woes— Who a lesson learns from the man who fails And a moral finds in his mournful wails, Yes, he is the man who wins.

"The man who wins is the man who stays In the unsought paths and rocky ways, And perhaps, who lingers, now and then To help some failure to rise again, And he is the man who wins."

SORRY IF HER CHILD INHERITS $1,000,000.

Chicago, July 1.—If Leonard Loeffler, six years old, has fallen heir to a fortune of $1,000,000 his mother will be sorry.

It has been reported among the relatives of the late William Loeffler that his will, which will be probated this week, bequeaths his entire fortune, amounting to $1,000,000, to his grandson, Leonard, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loeffler, and this intimation moved Mrs. Loeffler to express the hope that her son might not inherit riches.

"I do not want any son of mine to inherit a million dollars," declared Mrs. Loeffler.

"Why?" she was asked.

"Because I do not think it does a child any good to have riches which he has not earned. If Leonard can get a fortune by working for it the way his grandfather had to do, I shall be the proudest mother in the world, but there is no reason why he should have wealth unless he does earn it.

"I want my boy to earn what he gets. I don't want him to get $1,000,000 for nothing. That is how much I think of money. It spoils children and removes the incentive for work, and it is work that shapes a career."

SLOPING THROUGH LIFE.

(The Standard, London.) Lord George Hamilton (Chairman of the Poor Law Commission), in a discussion at the Eighty Club on "The Poor Law," dealt with the majority report of the recent commission at some length, and concluded with the following reference to the increasing numbers of people who "slope" through life, doing as little as possible for themselves and getting as much as possible done for them by others.

"This is an evil we have to contend with, and we must recollect we are in competition with other nations. We are passing through a most serious epoch in our national existence. Other nations have marched from poverty to riches. We are rich. Are our accumulated wealth and habits of ease leading to efficiency or increasing the ranks of those who are incapable of maintaining themselves? "Germany is striding ahead industrially, and I believe it is due to the splendid moral and disciplinary training through which she puts her people. The quality of her unskilled labor under her military system is enormously improved. All these moral and disciplinary measures are more or less lacking in this country.

"Good men are not to be made by a wholesale collection from the community or by transferring the responsibility for the children from the head of the family and of the individual to the shoulders of the public at large. Our recent report was based on a recognition of this principle. It is by the moral regeneration of the individual alone that we can deal with this great question of pauperism. That is the only way by which we can rehabilitate ourselves and get rid of this terrible cancer of pauperism and unemployment, and it is upon this that we have made our recommendations to the public."

CONSIDERATION FOR OTHERS.

Egotism and selfishness are never attributes of the fine positive character.

They only stand in the way of that harmony which we should create between ourselves and those we meet.

No man should fail to surround himself with an atmosphere of harmony and he will do this invariably when he manifests a fine consideration for the feelings of other people.
