DECLARATION OF WAR BY RUSSIA IS EXPECTED TODAY

Hope of Averting a General European Conflict Almost Abandoned

RUSSIA MOBILIZING HUGE ARMY CLAMOR FOR WAR INSISTENT TENSION IN EUROPE NOW ACUTE

Direct Negotiations Between Russia and Austria Prove Failure—Slender Hope Based on Apparent Unwillingness of Four Great Powers To Start Hostilities—Britain May Frame New Proposals.

Canadian Press Despatch.
LONDON, July 29.—The day's events brought no relief to the suspense nor any diplomatic achievement to restrict the Austro-Serbian war to those two nations. The feeling throughout England and the continental feeling as reflected by the correspondents of the London papers is tonight distinctly more anxious than yesterday.

Two events have made for pessimism. The direct negotiations between Russia and Austria, which gave the other governments hope of a compromise, have failed, and are ended. Russia is mobilizing against the Austrian frontier four army corps in each of four districts, consisting of 1,500,000 men. Russia's resolve to stand by Serbia appears to be fixed, and the Russian censor has approved despatches declaring that Russian sentiment is all for taking up arms.

Hope Not Lost.
A manifesto by the Russian emperor making his policy clear is expected hourly. The diplomatic representatives have not yet despaired. They all say there is still hope, and have their belief on the fact that Germany, France, Great Britain and Italy—the two last named most of all—do not want, and do not think, the Austro-Serbian quarrel important enough to justify it.

New Peace Proposals.
Sir Edward Grey, the British secretary of state for foreign affairs, to whom all look as the foremost conciliator of Europe, is attempting, it is said, to frame fresh proposals for a settlement. The diplomatic world of London clings to the belief that a means can be found whereby Austria may satisfy Russia, that she can attain her ends without recourse to measures which the Russian Government and Russian public opinion cannot accept.

Move Against Germany.
There is the greatest anxiety as to whether Russian mobilization will be confined to the Austro-Serbian conflict, or whether it is proceeding secretly against Germany, but between mobilization and war there is a diplomatic world of London bridged in 1908, and may again be bridged.

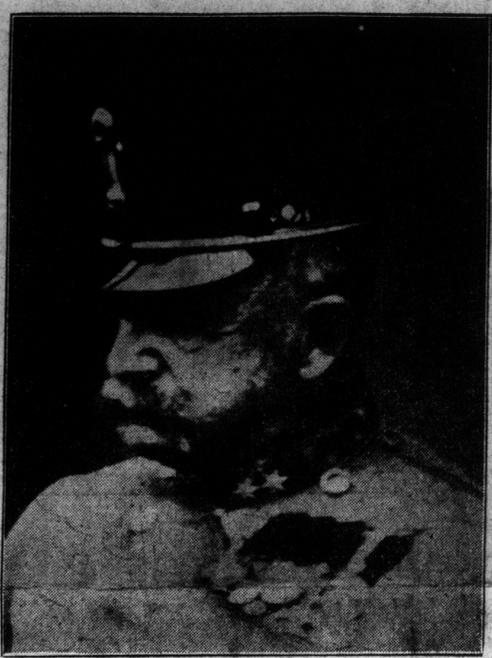

Britain Takes Precautions.
Councils of state were held today at St. Petersburg, Berlin and Paris. The British Government continued the attitude that the crisis does not yet concern Great Britain save as a spectator and peacemaker. An official statement issued tonight says:

"No measures have been taken by the military authorities, which are of the nature of mobilization, or of orders which have been given are of a purely precautionary and defensive character. The naval measures are also precautionary. No mobilization has been ordered."
In the face of what so calm a mind-statement as Viscount Morley called in the house of lords tonight "the possibility of a vast catastrophe," the politicians and the press have become sobered to an extent that this country has never before known. Not a word inciting to international or domestic hostilities comes from any quarter. The most bitter anti-German papers speak of Germany in terms of respect and friendship.

Grapple in Darkness.
C. F. G. Masterman, appointed chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster some months ago, speaking at Ipswich tonight said:

"Should international war come, it would mean a new story in the history of civilization—a kind of death grapple in the darkness, a cosmic catastrophe."

COMMANDS AUSTRIAN ARMY

Archduke Frederick, who succeeded the murdered Archduke Francis Ferdinand. He will lead troops against the Serbians.

WAR DECLARATION IS AWAITED WITH IMPATIENCE BY RUSSIANS CONFIDENT SPIRIT IS DISPLAYED

Political Miracle Alone Can Prevent Participation in Conflict—Emperor Nicholas May Lead Troops Into Action—Political Differences Have Been Obliterated.

Canadian Press Despatch.
ST. PETERSBURG, July 29.—In Russian eyes the die is cast. Only a political miracle can avert war.

Russia does not swerve from her determination to support Serbia and partial mobilization has already been ordered. There is every indication that the whole vast military machinery of Russia will soon be set in motion.

An imperial manifesto is awaited. Should, as it is understood, Emperor Nicholas become generalissimo of the forces, an immense wave of enthusiasm will sweep over Russia. The political parties have sunk their differences.

The general attitude is not "linguistic" but one of resolute confidence in the justice of the country's cause and readiness to make preparation.

Terms Impossible.
The proposal attributed to Austria to discuss terms when Belgrade had been occupied is regarded as impossible. It is pointed out that before the opening of hostilities, Russia proposed to Austria direct exchange of views, which Austria rejected.

The foregoing St. Petersburg despatch was passed by the censor without revision—a fact which is considered highly significant.

MOBILIZE IN FAR EAST
SHANGHAI, July 29.—The British far eastern fleet is mobilizing at Weihaiwei, on the north coast of Shantung Province. The German fleet is mobilizing at Tsingtao, about 200 miles to the south.

AUSTRIA CALLS RESERVISTS BACK
Order Sent to Consul at Winnipeg for a General Mobilization Thru West.

Canadian Press Despatch.
WINNIPEG, July 29.—General mobilization of Austrian army reservists in western Canada was ordered today, when a cable reached the Winnipeg office of the Austro-Hungarian consul. A letter from the Austrian war department, confirming this cable and giving the names of first reservists, is now on the way to Winnipeg, and will reach the city in eight days.

The expense of carrying war reservists from Winnipeg back to Austria will be borne by that government. Letters to Austrian reservists, telling them to be prepared for a call home, will be sent out in the next few days.

MISSING DOCTOR IS SOUGHT BY DELEGATE

Tamworth Physician Wanted on Murder Charge, Reported to Be Hiding Not Far From Place Where Crime Was Committed—Inquest Opened Yesterday.

By Staff Reporter.
TAMWORTH, Ont., July 29.—That the death of Blanche Yorke, the dressmaker, whose body was found in Dr. Robinson's house, resulted from hemorrhage and loss of blood, caused by an illegal operation, was the finding of Professor W. F. Connell, of Kingston, who performed the post-mortem examination at the inquest held here today.

Shortly before the inquest opened Provincial Detective Miller slipped away quietly and is now supposed to be on the trail of Dr. Robinson.

At 4.15 the courtrooms were packed to its capacity, and many who had traveled miles could not secure admittance. Fully half of those present were women. Governor Dr. C. H. Cowan, Napanee, presided, with Crown Prosecutor C. H. Preston in attendance.

Found Laundry Bag.
Bruce Richards, one of the men who first discovered traces of the crime, told the jury of his visit to the Robinson house with J. Taylor and the bailiff to seize furniture. He outlined the manner in which the discovery of blood-stains on the bed-spring and floor was made. He outlined the information that after a search of the house he and his companions located in a laundry bag a blood-stained towel and clothing. His evidence was corroborated by the other members of the party.

"She said she was going to Dr. Robinson's office to get some medicine," said Miss Walsh, one of the last persons to see Blanche Yorke before her disappearance. Miss Walsh understood that Miss Yorke would return to the house to do some dressmaking. She planned to accompany her on the trip home. In reply to a question from one of the jurors, Miss Walsh said that when she met Miss Yorke on the street going to Dr. Robinson's, she was wearing a raincoat and tan hat. She also told of a visit to the office of Dr. Robinson, where she saw Miss Yorke last seen. She waited in the doctor's office for fully ten minutes while he was working in his small office.

Doctor Was Cool.
A few minutes later Mrs. Irwin came into the doctor's office and the door talked to them both for a time. She saw about 8.30 the evening on which Miss Yorke disappeared. Mrs. Irwin's story followed along the same lines as the other witness saw the hand satchel.

Witness Saw Smoke.
Two days after Miss Yorke's disappearance, Mrs. Wager, the next witness, who lives across the road from the Robinson house, saw black smoke coming from the furnace chimney. She remarked to her husband that the doctor must be cold, and that it was unusual to see such smoke in July.

Mrs. Wager also saw the unfortunate girl on the 8th, in the clothes described by other witnesses. Mrs. Dr. Robinson's wife lives east of the city, and on the 8th at 10 o'clock in which she saw smoke issuing from the furnace chimney. This was the night before the doctor's disappearance. On Sunday, the 12th, Frank Yorke, no relation to Blanche, saw Dr. Robinson on the street and they talked about the girl. The doctor said, "I would not know the girl personally, if I met her on the street."

At ten o'clock the inquest adjourned till ten o'clock Thursday morning. Body Exhumed.
At eleven o'clock this morning the partly dismembered and badly mutilated body of Blanche Yorke was dug out.

GOING AWAY.
It is vacation time—the hour for outings—maybe it is camping, motor-ing, yachting or touring.

Harry Kanarick, age 10 years, of 37 Mitchell avenue, was severely bitten by a dog last night at 8.30 o'clock and because it is feared the animal had hydrophobia, the injured lad will undergo Pasteur treatment.

The boy was passing in front of a near by house and sank its teeth in his leg. Passersby forced it to release its hold, but not until it had caused a severe wound.

KAISER AND CZAR MAY CONFER RIFT IN WAR CLOUDS IS SLIGHT BRITISH NAVAL PLANS COMPLETE

Russia May Give Consent To Occupation of Belgrade

Special Copyrighted Cable.
LONDON, July 29.—The World hears tonight from a diplomatic source that the czar in a communication to Austria admits Serbia deserves punishment by Austria, and that Russia would remain passive if Austria is content with occupying Belgrade. This news somewhat relieved the tension. At the same time France is feverishly mobilizing, and ordinary railroad service toward eastern and Italian frontiers is completely disorganized by the hurried movements of the troops and supplies.

SUSPENSE AT BERLIN IS GREAT BUT HOPE NOT YET ABANDONED

Meeting of Cabinet Council Failed to Relieve Extreme Tension—Assurances Given at French Embassy Afford Some Encouragement.

Canadian Press Despatch.
BERLIN, July 29.—The public was anxiously awaiting late tonight the result of a cabinet council held today on the Austro-Serbian situation but nothing transpired to relieve the suspense.

Information also was anxiously awaited concerning telegrams exchanged between Emperor William and Emperor Nicholas, but here, too, hopes were blasted. The public, nevertheless, still sees a favorable augury in the interchange of telegrams itself.

Meanwhile news continues to pour into Berlin regarding Russia's military measures. The French embassy professes to have assurances from the German Government that Germany would not regard a Russian mobilization on the Austrian frontier as an absolute casus belli—assurances perhaps received since Emperor William's return to Germany.

Pessimism is Great.
But the situation undoubtedly is bad and the pessimism of the bankers and the public justified. While the Reichs Bank today decided to leave its rate unchanged, this decision is believed to have been intended solely to avoid further alarm and a rate advance is fully expected before the end of the week.

Two long lines of men stood all day before the counters of the Reichs Bank handing in notes for redemption in gold. These lines were still unbroken when the bank's business day closed. Among the applicants for redemptions were many small depositors in savings banks, who had withdrawn their balances from these institutions and then hurried to the Reichs Bank to exchange the notes for gold.

The foreign exchange market here reflects the anxiety prevailing among the Russian and Austrian peoples. It is evident that English and French bankers are drawing all their balances from Russia, Austria and Germany, and that the capitalists in the three countries are transferring their money to London as security against the uncertainties of war.

The runs on the savings banks here continued today.

VIENNA STIRRED INTO A FRENZY
Demonstrations Reached Pitch of Great Enthusiasm—Belgrade Shelled by Warships.

Canadian Press Despatch.
VIENNA, July 29.—The war spirit in the Austrian capital is hourly increasing. The streets of Vienna tonight were crowded with enthusiastic processions, singing and hurrahing, and traffic in the leading thoroughfares was almost brought to a standstill.

The patriotic demonstrations today surpassed in extent and fervor anything witnessed within memory. A despatch to a Vienna newspaper says that three of the Danube monitors began shelling Belgrade early in the morning after the bridge across the Sava had been destroyed by the Serbians. The shells wrought havoc in the exposed part of the city, damaging the king's palace to the fortification walls, and the barracks and other buildings. This despatch says that the Serbians did not return the fire.

BOY BITTEN BY DOG WHICH MAY BE MAD
Mitchell Avenue Lad in Sick Children's Hospital Following Attack.
Harry Kanarick, age 10 years, of 37 Mitchell avenue, was severely bitten by a dog last night at 8.30 o'clock and because it is feared the animal had hydrophobia, the injured lad will undergo Pasteur treatment.

London Feels European Situation is Going From Bad to Worse—France as Well as Britain Strives for Settlement—Italian Censorship Becomes Active—British Censorship Beginning to Be Felt.

Special Copyrighted Cable.
LONDON, July 29.—Feeling here tonight on the European situation is going rapidly from bad to worse. The only ray of hope is afforded by the report that the kaiser is arranging to have a personal meeting with the czar to impress on him the necessity of localizing the war. There is still a belief in the kaiser's power in the fullest sense as a peace advocate among European sovereigns, and in his personal influence with the czar. This is all that now remains between Europe and the immeasurable catastrophe of a general war.

It is true that the French Government is also working with Russia to the same end, but owing to her alliance, France cannot press too hard for peace without arousing the suspicion of St. Petersburg. Owing to a drastic censorship little news of interest is coming thru from Vienna. The World received word today stating that the Viennese newspapers were hard pushed to fill their columns, as very little relating to the crisis was permitted to be published, and there is no other news.

Italian Censorship Active.
Another bad sign is that the Italian censorship is also becoming active, which means that military and naval movements there may be masked. Italy next to England has been the most earnest advocate of peace at this juncture for she has been already haunted by her Tripoli and Turkish adventure. Even in London the censorship on military and naval news is in full operation, all the newspapers having been requested by the war office and admiralty to publish nothing on the military and naval arrangements now going forward.

Admiralty Plans Complete.
The World learns that Winston Churchill had completed plans with the board of admiralty today enabling the British fleet to be mobilized in the North Sea on twenty-eight hours' notice. There is doubt that the two squadrons of the first fleet have already gone north accompanied by cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

Winston Churchill is now in his element. Recently he had been looking gloomy over Ulster, but since the chance of a European scrap has loomed up in his face bears the perpetual expression of cheerful expectancy. He has always been credited with wishing to see the fleet in action and the prospect raised has caused him to forget the existence of Ulster.

Scheme to Aid France.
Lord Kitchener, who is now home on leave, has been in daily attendance at the war office, giving the benefit of his counsel to the general staff, and it was said today that he assisted in giving the finishing touches to a scheme for landing an expeditionary force of

BELGRADE REPORTED TAKEN
LONDON, July 30.—A Vienna despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says: "After a heavy bombardment by the Danube gunboats, Belgrade was occupied by the Austrian troops Wednesday."

Russia and France Continue Their Feverish Preparations for Hostilities

GREAT POWERS CONTINUE TO MASS ARMIES IN STRATEGIC POSITIONS

Diplomats Strive to Confine War to Austria-Hungary and Servia—Attitude of Russian and German Emperors Closely Watched—Telegrams Exchanged Between Rulers in St. Petersburg and Berlin.

Canadian Press Despatch. LONDON, July 29.—Reports of the massing of armies in strategic positions came from all points of Europe today, but no actual clash of opposing forces was registered. Diplomats concentrated their attention on efforts to confine the war to Austria-Hungary and Servia, the two nations immediately concerned in the quarrel, and the attitude of the German and Russian emperors was closely watched, owing to their near relations to the countries engaged.

It was learned that telegrams had been exchanged between imperial rulers in Berlin and St. Petersburg, and it was the general conviction that the salvation of Europe, or a great and calamitous war was in the hands of these powerful monarchs.

Situation of Extreme Gravity. Premier Asquith referred to the international situation in the house of commons, but all the information that he was able to impart was contained in a few words. He said: "The situation at this moment is one of extreme gravity, and I can only usefully say that the British Government is not relaxing its efforts to do everything in its power to circumscribe the area of conflict."

Troops on March. Austria-Hungary and Servia reacted today with the march of troops towards positions of attack and defence, while military aviators on both sides flitted through the air along the frontiers in an effort to discover their opponents' positions. No idea of the plan of campaign could be obtained by the general public, however, owing to the rigidity of the censorship in regard to military movements. It was known that the Austro-Hungarian Government requisitioned the entire train service, and that private transport in the dual monarchy had ceased, and it was gleaned from despatches from Servian points that the Bosnian frontier was looked upon as the most likely point of attack of the Austrian troops, and thither the soldiers of

WAR BULLETINS

BERLIN, July 29.—The North German Gazette, the official organ of the German Government, publishes in its evening edition the following comment on the international situation: "The peaceful tone of the official Russian communication, issued yesterday, finds a lively echo here. The unknown destination Government shares the wish of Russia for the maintenance of peaceful relations, and it hopes the German people will support it by maintaining a moderate and quiet attitude."

STUTTGART, Württemberg, Germany, July 29.—Socialist anti-war demonstrations in this city today led to such serious collisions between the manifestants and the police that the authorities called out the troops to cope with the disturbances. Police guards were attacked with volleys of stones by the people.

PEACE ASSOCIATION TO MEET. BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 29.—The International Peace Association, at the request of the American delegates now here, has called a meeting for next Friday. EMPEROR TO COMMAND. ST. PETERSBURG, July 29.—It is considered probable that Emperor Nicholas will become the generalissimo of the Russian forces, his second in command being his second cousin, Grand Duke Nicholas Nikolaievitch, and Gen. Soukhomlinoff, the minister of war.

AUSTRIANS TO BRIDGE SAVE. LONDON, July 29.—It is stated in connection with the blowing up of the railway bridge across the River Save by Servians that the Austrians have another bridge in sections on the side of the river which they can put up in a few days.

SILK MARKET SLUMPS. TOKIO, July 29.—A slump in the silk market has resulted from the outbreak of the war between Austria and Servia and the withdrawal of buying orders by Europeans. Several banks have raised their exchange rates on London.

ADRIATIC SERVICE STOPPED. LONDON, July 30.—A despatch to The Times from Durazzo says the Austrian Lloyd steamship service from the Adriatic Sea is completely interrupted. There were enormous transactions yesterday in insurance against war rates. The rates trebled and quadrupled as compared with those of Tuesday.

RESTRICTS WIDTH OF BRIDGMAN AVE. Thirty-Eight Feet Across Under Subway, Railway Commission Rules.

By a Staff Reporter. OTTAWA, July 29.—After hearing the application of the City of Toronto for an order maintaining Bridgman street at its full width in connection with the subway at Spadina road, the railway commission decided that the street should be widened to 38 feet, upon a five-foot sidewalk on each side and that a 26-foot space should be reserved on the north side of Bridgman street to the board of public works for the use of the city.

The work of Mr. Atkinson will be that of chief organizer in charge of the work of twelve field-secretaries.

BOYS WERE LET OFF. Some boys living at the beach had a little parade in their pyjamas last Sunday morning about one o'clock. Policeman Reese and another constable fired six or seven shots at them and ordered a halt, but the boys thought the shots were fired by thugs.

HON. DR. ROCHE BETTER. ROCHESTER, Minn., July 29.—The condition of Hon. Dr. Roche, Canadian minister of the interior, who underwent an operation here, was reported slightly improved this morning.

NEW WAR CRY EDITOR. Lieut.-Col. Bond yesterday assumed the duties of his office as the new editor of The Canadian War Cry.

BRIDGE SPANNING RIVER SAVE BLOWN UP BY SERVIAN FORCES

Austrian Infantry and Artillery Fired Upon Foes, Who Retreated With Small Losses—Servian Steamers Laden With War Munitions Captured.

Canadian Press Despatch. VIENNA, July 29.—The Servians at 1.30 o'clock this morning blew up the bridge spanning the River Save between the Austrian Towns of Semlin and Belgrade. The Austrian infantry and artillery stationed at Semlin, in conjunction with monitors on the Danube, fired on the Servian positions beyond the bridge. The Servians retreated after a short engagement with trifling losses.

A small detachment of pioneers, in co-operation with the customs officers, yesterday captured two Servian steamers laden with ammunition and mines. The pioneers and revenue guards, after a short, sharp encounter, overcame the Servian crews and took possession of the vessels and their dangerous cargoes. The captured ships were towed away by one of the Danube steamers.

Emperor Francis Joseph will return to Vienna from Ishl tomorrow, and may then go to Buda Pest, in order to be nearer the scene of action. Popular enthusiasm is growing since the emperor's manifesto and patriotic demonstrations are being held all over the country. Runs on the saving banks are diminishing.

FRANCE CONTINUES TO PREPARE; TROOPS CONVERGE ON BORDER

Stock of Provisions is Being Collected in Paris—Police Exercise Surveillance Over Austrian and Germans in Capital and Precautions Are Being Taken Against Disorders.

Canadian Press Despatch. PARIS, July 29.—France continues quietly to prepare for war. The troops of the active army are gradually concentrating near the frontier. A military guard has been placed in the great four mills at Corbeil, near Paris, while in the event of war would be taken over by the army, while the bakers in Paris are laying in large stocks of flour and the city authorities to prevent all possibility of famine in the capital started for today a reserve store of 15,000 tons of flour. The police department is exercising a general surveillance over Austrians and Germans in Paris, where many thousands of them reside, and the prefect of police today ordered the discontinuance of the service of the night porter, the side-walks and on the terraces in front of cafes in consequence of disorders which have occurred since the beginning of the international tension.

The government made an appeal to the press to keep calm and carefully to verify its news concerning the crisis of the active army.

Adolphe Messimy, minister of war, today visited the military wireless station on the Eiffel Tower and ordered the staff to be doubled, the officers to remain on duty, and the telegraph office to be kept open.

Foreign Office Gleamy. At the French foreign office a pessimistic view of the general situation prevailed this evening. Other representatives think that the only hope of averting war is that Austria-Hungary recognize the determination and unity of

R.C. CHURCH ASK TO BE RELEASED

Want Permission From City to Resell Danforth-Carlaw Corner.

During the session of the city council this afternoon a recommendation passed yesterday at a private meeting of the board of control, in connection with conditions of sale of city property to the Roman Catholic church will be considered. The city sold 126 feet of land at the corner of Danforth and Carlaw avenues on Jan. 28, 1913, upon condition that the church commence building within two years. The price of the land was $17,000. The solicitors for the church inform the board that circumstances have arisen which compelled the organization to build on another site, and that the city relieve their clients of that site.

The agreement, and that a clear title be given, so that they may re-sell the property, the board recommended concurrence without asking for a report from the assessment department. The land is said to be now worth $50,000.

CITY WILL PRESERVE BEAUTY OF VIADUCT

Few Properties Yet to Be Acquired Before Work Begins.

Early settlement with property owners east of Castle Frank road and west of Parliament street is anticipated by the assessment department, and this will include the purchase of property needed for the Bloor street viaduct. Nearly all the property in the middle section of the viaduct is now owned by the city, and the remaining land is to be expropriated now that was at first anticipated. The city is seeking to prevent private owners from building right up to the board of public works to the viaduct to obscure the architectural beauty of the structure.

BARGAIN HUNTERS IN WALL STREET

Rush of Buying Orders Steadied Market—Day of Great Strain.

Special to The Toronto World. NEW YORK, July 29.—While other stock markets throughout the world today were either closed or in a demoralized state, the New York Stock Exchange remained open, and there was nothing to indicate any prospect of its closing, no matter how serious the war in Europe may become. There were no failures. Heavy buying was a feature and bargain hunters hurried to Wall Street.

President H. G. S. Noble of the exchange said: "The fact that the New York Stock Exchange alone had a free and unrestricted market today is a tribute to the sound condition of American finance."

There was demoralization in the first few minutes of the day, and some stocks fell to the 1917 panic figures. There was a general decline of two to four points, with a gradual recovery of one to two points.

Absorbed Foreign Offerings. The local market not only took further foreign offerings in large volume, but proceeded to buy heavily for its own account, much of the buying representing investment purchases of a character more substantial than had been witnessed for years.

Insurance on gold exports was raised $5000 per $1,000,000, but $5,200,000 was engaged for shipment, a total of $28,800,000 this week, and $107,700,000 this year.

Cotton fell 11 to 24 points. Wheat fell about 2 1/2 cents a bushel. The Chicago board of trade kept open and there were no failures. Wheat closed at 5 5/8, 4 3/8 a bushel below Tuesday's prices.

Seven London Failures. The London, Paris and Berlin stock exchanges were open yesterday, but Berlin alone showed any activity in buying. There were no failures in the London Exchange. The exchanges at Amsterdam, St. Petersburg, Frankfurt, Hamburg, Vienna and Madrid were closed.

As a result of the subsidence for the time being of the enormous liquidation of American stocks for European account, which was said to have reached a total of approximately 250,000 shares during the last ten days, a very much more confident tone prevailed on the stock exchange today, and there was a marked improvement in sentiment throughout the financial district.

At the close of the day the feeling was very general about an untie, for the time being at least, had been safely passed.

Outburst of Cheers. Evidence of this was afforded by the fact that after the demoralization which developed immediately after the opening of the market, values rose steadily throughout the day until normal conditions were almost restored before the stock exchange session was constrained to close. The realization that the strain had been effectively relieved, and that a wild demonstration on the floor of the exchange when the gong sounded the traders and it was said that the highways and byways of the Wall Street district.

It had been a feverish, anxious day, but the strain had not reached the breaking point and the fact that the New York Stock Exchange had remained open during the entire period of the greatest disturbance that has taken place at the world's financial centres for more than half a century was generally regarded as a remarkable testimony to the strength of the money situation in this country.

PARTIAL MOBILIZATION BY RUSSIA ON FRONTIER NEXT TO AUSTRIA

Four Army Corps in Districts Affected Are Being Placed on Feet of Twelve Hundred Thousand Men—Berlin Hears of Stationing of Muscovite Forces Along German Border.

Canadian Press Despatch. LONDON, July 29.—Partial mobilization of the Russian troops in the southern and southwestern districts was ordered by the Russian war office last night, according to despatches received here. It is argued that this action seriously diminishes the chances of maintaining European peace, it does not necessarily imply a rupture of relations between Austria-Hungary and Russia. The hope is still expressed of succeeding in bringing about a truce standing between those two states.

Affects Austrian Frontier. The present mobilization order affects only the Russian frontier, contiguous to Austria and not the German frontier. It is confined to the military districts of Kiev, Ekaterin, Moscow and Kazan. The peace footing of each of these districts is four army corps, each of them numbering 40,000 men, or a grand total of 160,000 men. The command to mobilize doubles this total, so that 1,250,000 men are affected by the order.

Correspondent says that orders have been issued in the Russian Poland industrial district to impound all horses suitable for military work. The correspondent adds that the military authorities requisitioned the horses of the Kielce factories last night.

Military activity on the Russian side of the frontier is confirmed by many evidences which have reached the ears of German officials, but it was stated here today that no mobilization order had been issued by the Russian war office.

Russia Moves Up Troops. Private reports from the Russian frontier say distinct indications of Russian military activity have been noticed throughout the Russian regions, which have been moving forward to occupy such strategic points as the frontier at Wirballen, Russian Poland, and have been served out with 350 rounds of ammunition per man, while made purchases of forage have been made for the cavalry.

A number of German regiments have been moved toward the frontier as a precautionary measure. The men wear the new gray service uniforms and carry their field equipment.

There was the most intense activity in diplomatic circles here today, but no tangible developments were reported. A French diplomat said he saw some ground for optimism, but the German foreign office declared there was nothing on which to base a judgment on way or the other.

The German crown prince arrived at Potsdam today, and a military council was afterward held in the new palace. The emperor and empress, the crown prince and other princes of the imperial family were present. They conferred for an hour.

Over Two Hundred Thousand People Witness Funeral Procession in Streets of Dublin.

Canadian Press Despatch. DUBLIN, July 29.—More than 200,000 persons, standing bareheaded and silent in the streets tonight, witnessed the funeral procession of the three persons killed last Sunday when the King's Own Scottish Borderers fired into a mob during an attempt by the police and the soldiers to seize arms which were being brought into Dublin for use by the Irish Nationalist volunteers. All shops were closed for the occasion.

The procession, which started from the cathedral, was a mile and a half long. The mayor and the city council and other public bodies and battalions of Nationalist volunteers followed the hearse. As the funeral cortege passed the scene of the shooting the bands played dirges.

Burial was in Glasnevin cemetery and the volunteers fired a volley over the graves.

Canadian Press Despatch. LONDON, July 29.—Mme. Grouitch, the American wife of the Servian Assistant Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Slavko Grouitch is expected to come to London to raise a corps of volunteer surgeons and nurses for war service. She notified a London friend yesterday that the Austrians had prevented her from crossing the border to join her husband. She wrote from Sals-Maria, Engadine, Switzerland: "I am wild with anxiety for Slavko, but feel I can really be of more use outside the lines than within them at the present juncture. If I hear that war has broken out, I shall at once return to London to raise a corps of volunteer surgeons and nurses, otherwise I will await instructions from Slavko. At present he can get no news thru me on this side, but I hope he will be able to reach me by way of Greece in a day or two. The suspense is terrible. Mms. Grouitch was formerly Miss Mabel G. Dad's Unexpected Visit.

THE medicine Dad gave me for my nerves did help considerably, but Dad was one of those sensible old doctors who believes in finding the root of a disturbance instead of blindly quieting it. Now, some instinct had made me keep the fact of my night work at Foot's factory a secret from mother and dad. I knew very well they'd feel that a man's work should end at 5 o'clock, and that I was overdoing it by working on Foot's books after office hours. I could not keep the fact a secret long. One night I was poring feverishly over the books there when I was conscious of a shadow across the glass of the factory window. I looked up and saw Dad peering curiously in. I laughed a little guiltily and opened the door for him. "Hello, Peter," he said. "What in the world are you doing over here in this part of town?"

"What are you doing over here yourself?" I asked. "Well," said Dad, "that's really very simple. The watchman over in the factory across the street fell on one of his rounds, broke his arm, got to the telephone and 'phoned for me. I've been fixing him up and came back to turn in his keys. Did you know it's after 8 o'clock?"

"Yes," said I. "To tell you the truth, Dad, I'm frequently over here around this hour. I do Foot's book-keeping for him after I leave the office, and—and there's really much more to do than I thought there would be."

"Why?" said Dad very quietly. "I flushed."

"To tell you the truth," I said, "I have to have the extra money to keep things going."

"And that," said Dad, "is the cause of the nerves, eh? That's why my son, who was six feet in his stockings, and broad and ruddy, looks a little bent and haggard, and older than he ought. Peter, is Mary extravagant?"

I was face to face with the question at last. How to answer it! Must I admit that my wife was driving me to the nervous?

I looked at Dad and smiled. "No more than I," I said. "The increased cost of living makes it a little hard for you to worry along on my salary."

"Hum," said Dad and stroked his beard. "I fancied for such a young man, Peter, you were doing marvellously well. How much does Foot pay you for this night work?"

"Twenty dollars a month," said I. "It helps."

"Keep on," said Dad, firmly, "and it will cost you double that a month to build up your nervous system." And Dad swung back the door of the factory office, slammed it—a most unusual thing for him—and disappeared.

It was a conversation that was destined to be very eventful for me.

SALARIES AND THE STAGE

Maud Hanford in "Along Came Ruth."

Art Is the Old Story of Dollars and Cents

By STELLA GORDON

If you haven't any money," smiled Miss Hanford, "you shouldn't come 'round the stage. I don't mean that money will even help you land a good part, but I do mean that it is foolish to face the long search for that part without enough money to live comfortably. More failures on the stage can be attributed to a lack of bread than a lack of talent."

"While the glamour of the stage was entirely responsible for the stage-struck girl of yesterday, it is the glamour of big salaries that is responsible today. The press agents have written so many stories about the enormous sums their stars are supposed to make, the public has come to believe that the stage is carpeted with greenbacks. And when 'Sweet Sixteen' gets a tiny part in some company at $30 a week she thinks she is rolling in riches, and tells all of her amazed friends about it, and they spread the wonderful tale. "But she forgets—and even the old performer seems to forget—that her weekly salary is at the best really only half of what she is paid. She is lucky if she gets her salary for 30 weeks a year—and she has to pay her expenses for 52 weeks. So you see, with even a good season's work 'Miss Sweet Sixteen'—and every one else of us—really nets just half what she is actually paid.

"It may seem unbelievable, but it is frankly true that there are many more actresses getting less than $50 a week than there are getting more than $50. Of course, as in every other profession, there is plenty of room—and money—at the top of the ladder, but I am speaking to the girl who is contemplating the stage as a business, and the chances are that she will never get to the top.

"Many a good business woman has been spoiled in the making of a poor actress, and I have listened to innumerable regrets that hold the sad wall of 'it might have been.' One little woman that I know was never tired of wishing that she had taken up stenography. She figured—rightly, too, in her case—that she was making less money on the stage than she could have made with a typewriter."

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie: I am engaged to a young man who is a very nice young man, but he is the youngest boy in the family, and he likes his own way. And if he does not get his own way with me all the time, he gets quite angry and goes away for a while.

He knows I care for him very much, should I let him see I care for him? Should I let him see I care for him? Should I let him see I care for him?

WELL, Viola, I don't think much of your young man, I must say. If you can't get on with him now, what are you going to do when you're married to him? He must be a good deal of a bore— isn't he? Has he never learned to say "ladies first"? What does he want his own way about so desperately? A man who is so determined to have his own way that he makes himself disagreeable to a girl about it can't be much of a gentleman. Perhaps you don't care for gentlemen— but you do care for your own—fair. You'll have to settle it yourself.

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care of this office.

One Moral Effect of Lonesomeness

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

JUDGE ALLEN B. ENDICOTT is discouraged. More than that, Judge Endicott is worried—worried almost to death. He doesn't see what the world is coming to, or who is going to grab it by the scruff of the neck and pull it back into its proper place in the universe. All on account of the women.

"This decade will be known as the decade of woman's folly," says Judge Endicott. "Men are steadily going up in the moral plane; graft and the evils of ten years ago are disappearing—but the women are not keeping pace with the men."

"All over the world men are giving up the habit of drinking. A man can't drink too much and hold his job. Women are beginning to drink. Men are giving up smoking. They've had to. No corporation will employ a man in any position of trust who smokes cigarettes. And now the women are learning to smoke."

"Women spend most of their time in the arms of chauffeurs, cabmen, hucksters and others who pose as instructors in the new dances. The husbands of these women are down town working to buy new clothes for their wives, and the clothes that the women buy are so indecent that it has been found necessary for many of the churches to make a public protest against the modern fashion of woman's dress."

"Men are advancing in morals—and women are going back."

There—now will you be good? And the worst of it is—it's true. So true that nobody who thinks at all can even attempt to deny it. Men are better than they used to be—a whole lot better. They have to be—the women won't marry them.

Men Are to Blame?

Fifty years ago six men out of ten drank a little too much once in a while. Now, if six men out of ten did that, they'd lose their jobs—both down town and at home. Employers will not hire a man who drinks—and a woman will not live with a drunken husband.

There's no great moral reform behind all this: it's simply a matter of expediency. Drink and the world drinks with you—but you'll have to hold your job alone. And as to the women and their weird performances—how long did you think, oh, masters of humanity, that you could set a bad example and not have the weaker sex follow it? How did you think that you could do one thing, and say another, and never have the women of your family notice it?

You have preached for generations about the virtue of modesty, humility, temperance, and obedience—and practiced the very opposite of all these excellent qualities. More than that, you have picked out for the objects of your conspicuous devotion women who wouldn't know Miss Modesty if they met her in the road, and who never obeyed anything or anybody in their lives. A little girl sat in the school room the other day trying very hard to study. There was a substitute teacher and all the children were having fun with her.

They made faces and they mewed like kittens behind their books, and they threw spitballs and did everything they could to make the poor substitute miserable. The good little girl was shocked. She really liked the teacher, and, besides, she had promised her mother to get a certain grade in that particular lesson she was trying to study. So she studied and studied—and the teacher was very glad, for she loved the little girl and was a friend of the little girl's mother.

But all at once the good little girl threw down her book, made a hideous face, and started to do a surreptitious rump under the edge of her foolish little skirt—coat. I don't know what happened—just then the real teacher came back and order came with her.

Making His Home Attractive.

When the little girl's mother asked the good little girl about it, the good little girl looked very pitiful. "Mother," she said, "I like to be good in school, I really, truly do—but, oh, I do hate to be lonesome."

Gentlemen of the jury—consider the evidence in the case, and consider it carefully. Haven't you been letting the good little girl be pretty lonesome, all these years, and don't you think that has something to do with her sudden desperate attempt to act as much like the bad little girls as she can, in the hope of pleasing you, so she won't be lonesome any longer?

I knew a woman once who had a beautiful home, in a quiet, modest sort of way, but her husband never would stay in it. So one night when he came home to dinner he found the living room strangely altered.

There were no rugs and there were no books and there were no flowers—there was sawdust on the floor, there were empty bottles on the center-table, and there was a strange smell of stale beer all over the place.

"I found out how it looked down at Tom's Place," said the woman I know, "and I thought I'd fix up the house the same way—to please you."

And then, when the man was not pleased, the woman cried.

Women are such dear, sweet, simple little things, you see. They believe what you do—and not what you say. I don't believe there's anything particularly bad about the modern woman, Judge Endicott. I'm afraid she's just tired of being lonesome, that's all.

What do you think of it—honest and truly now?

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Beauty and Grace Are Signs of Well-Being

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

BEAUTY, whether awake or asleep, abounds forth peculiar graces. Many women speak meekly nothing with so much grace that 'tis a kind of heaven to be deluded by them.

As long as a neat figure and a fair face are not neglected, all is optimism and the affairs of the world seem to go right. Almost any sort of a figure, girl's or youth's, man's or woman's, can be made elegant and dashing with the proper procedure. Take time enough and all other graces will soon fall up their proper places.

To some kinds of persons, their graces of form serve them but as enemies. This would, however, be a topsyturvy world if what were comely envenomed her who bears it.

Strength and prowess in the fields of muscular daring are not looked for in women; but a good carriage, a cultured posture, with finish and grace of figure, are her elemental essentials.

The lack of feminine nobility, poise and muscular command among women is so notorious that training of railway guards and conductors, as well as the propaganda of safety-first education of railroad and street car companies, is directed toward the correction of this paramount feminine weakness. The want of muscular agility and drill among women—less apparent in those who dance—is not made up by corset wearing, posing and attitudinizing. Many who are artfully alert to these latter theatrics do not know how to board or disembark with grace and safety from a street car. Indeed, ninety-nine of the sweeter sex in each hundred leave a car backwards.

Instead of sauntering, with security, walking forward in the direction in which the car is travelling as they step down upon the street, women, as a rule, awkwardly and in great danger to life and limb, use their right hand to hold the car and set their back to the motorman.

It is a fallacy to think that siphon-like figures and gawdle-like mobility are associated only with youth. The very girls who played basket ball, danced and skated, foolishly abandon these exercises as soon as marital or household duties are undertaken. Yet this should not be. Women should maintain their grace and agility to the end of a long life.

I mean that beauty is but the outward sign of inward well-being. A healthy stomach shows in the roses on your face. If you are travelling as they step down upon the street, women, as a rule, awkwardly and in great danger to life and limb, use their right hand to hold the car and set their back to the motorman.

Here are a few external exercises that will help you to internal happiness, and, consequently, beauty: Before you leave your bed in the morning, stand with the feet apart, and rest your hands on your hips, and palms down. Come forward now 50 times to a sitting posture. This will strengthen the thighs and tighten up the muscles of the abdomen.

To enhance the lines and contour of the waist, stand with the left hand on the left foot. Allow the right arm to describe a circle above your head and do a circle horizontally with the left leg. Do this little stunt 20 times alternately with each arm and leg, morning and night, the waist will be

Answers to Health Questions

Mrs. C. C.—Do you think pain of and on for a week are caused by indigestion or being in a run-down condition from which I have suffered a great deal?

This is too obscure a query to answer. Constipation, if you mean that, often does this very thing.

A. E.—Have black lines below eyes. Sometimes they turn blue.

Excitement, worry, constipation, loss of sleep, all cause them. Be cheerful and go to bed earlier. Apply a peroxide cream to the spots.

E. J. E.—Two of fingers below knuckle joints are very much swollen, stiff and painful at times. What is the cause, and is there any remedy for this?

Microbes and infections in the joints are among various causes. Doctors now make these parts or apply dry heat to them. Electrically generated heat called "diathermy" is used in Germany.

Dr. Hirshberg will answer questions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. He will not undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. Three Minute Journeys Where Men Are Entertained While They Work

By TEMPLE MANNING

IN the city of Tampa, Fla., where more cigars are made than even in the island of Cuba itself, more than 30,000 Cuban cigarmakers are employed in the great factories. And while they work they like to be entertained.

A custom peculiar only to the Cuban factories is that of employing a reader, whose duty is to read aloud the morning newspapers to the cigar rollers, translating the news into the Spanish tongue. After the local items and events of national importance have been read from the American papers, the latest events in Cuba and Spain are read, the morning being devoted to this practical and informative entertainment.

In the afternoon the latest Spanish novel is taken up, and the cigar rollers revel in romance while they work.

It was a strange scene that met my eyes one day last year when I went with one of the owners of the largest cigar factories up to the huge work-room, where 800 men were seated at benches rolling the cigars. The air was stifling with tobacco smoke and tobacco dust. The light seemed dim and hazy. I felt rather than saw the intense activity

Rolling Cigars to a Romance.

In the room, and yet these 800 men might have been deaf and dumb for all the noise they made. They sat with their tobacco leaves and the dull sound of knives were the only sounds that marred the silence.

Quite suddenly to me a soft, musical voice rose above the muffled sounds, and, though I could not see the speaker, I knew that he was reading some Spanish romance with all the dramatic gestures that it required. I turned to my guide as he whispered to me: "That is our best reader. He makes as much as $200 every week that he works."

To my surprised questions my host explained the system. Each cigarmaker contributes 25 cents a week to the reader fund, and in return for this tax is assured a knowledge of current events and the entertainment of the best Spanish novels as he works. The cost to him is little more than his newspapers and magazines would cost, and his work hours are made much pleasanter.

The reader naturally finds his work very hard upon his voice, consequently there are shifts of readers, each floor having at least two. They read one week and rest their voices during the next.

As SILLY as a LOBSTER

THE old justice "as silly as a goose" should, in justifying the goose, be changed. In all the world there are few creatures as silly as the lobster.

Why the goose is a veritable Solomon compared to the lobster? Would a goose, when once caught and released, try to get caught again right away? That's exactly what the lobster does. The best lobster found in the world is the northeastern coast of New England, its shoals, bays, inlets and rocks supplying the lobster to perfection with all it requires for feeding and breeding places and protection against its enemies. The Maine fishermen use a trap called a pot. A lobster pot is a simple enough contrivance.

It looks like an immense brick made of wooden slats. Both ends are covered with loose, strong netting made from tarred rope. There is a hole in the middle of each net.

The trap is sunk to the bottom by being weighted with stones and lies on the bottom in a horizontal position. Its location is indicated by a buoy attached to it by rope. A cod's head or other tempting bait is placed inside the pot, made stationary by being fastened on

This soon attracts the lobster, and he reconnoitres about the net to see how he may get at the aggravating morsel. In his skimming he discovers the opening in the netting at the end of the trap, and he turns and backs himself through it.

According to all observant lobster fishermen, the lobster no sooner gets inside the net than he becomes aware that he is in trouble. He loses all desire to sample the bait that tempted him to get in the net, and he turns and backs himself through it. He moves about in the trap in an agitated manner looking for a way to get out. He looks as eagerly as he a few minutes before sought for an opening to get in. So agitated is he that he forgets that his best pedestrian work is accomplished backward, and he does not try to back out of the hole as he came in, but exerts himself to his utmost to get out head first, a feat his enormous claws make impossible.

But, as lobstermen say, let this crazed lobster be released from the pot, he will no sooner be out than the bait inside tempts him again, and he once more seeks for a way to get in and seize it. He had a daughter, whom he called Beatrice, in honor of his first and only renews his frantic endeavors to escape again. No matter how many times the lobster might be let out, he would just as often set to work to become a prisoner again.

Dante's Sweetheart

Dante's love was Beatrice Portinari of patrician blood. She had a tall, willowy and commanding figure, an angel's brow, a sweet, rosebud mouth, a swan-like neck, curling, fair hair, and eyes of a deep and ravishing blue. The poet wooed and won the maiden's heart, but she died at the age of 24, on the eve of her nuptials with that illustrious writer. The desolation caused by Dante's demise cast a lasting gloom over his character and career, and inspired his verses with that melancholy pathos which runs like a dark thread through his brightest fancies. He did not, however, remain scrupulously loyal to her love, for in after years he married a certain Dame Donata, who turned out to be a vicious virago. By this woman he had a daughter, whom he called Beatrice, in honor of his first and only

THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 30.

THE ROCKS AHEAD!

The after-crisis of a Europe-wide war must give pause to the reigning families, the governing classes, the nobles and landholders, the millionaires, the military systems of that continent. For out of so mighty a struggle and its attendant slaughter and destruction would come, not individual conquerors, one or two, but the reign of the common people, the advance of socialism, new experiments, state ownership of land, abolition of titles and hereditary influence, a new Europe, a new religion, based more on humanity and less on the welfare of the few.

The men and classes who are fighting such mild reforms as those embodied in the Parliament Act, the plural voting bill, old age pensions, in the bills for improving education, reducing child labor, giving increased rights and protection to women, regulating the hours of a day's work, etc., would have some real things to fight and other things that to them might mean more than revolution.

To save old Europe from such a mighty change only the speedy march of social and political reform in Great Britain, in Germany, in Russia, in the southeastern countries will ever be effective. If even that will, on the blaze is staged and the passions of men and races, suppressed for centuries, are let loose.

THE BUS BYLAW.

We have already stated our views with regard to the introduction of a motor bus service, and nothing has transpired to change the situation. Commissioner Harris has given plain figures to support his own view of the matter. He is exceedingly reluctant to undertake the establishment of a bus service, but he recognizes that buses may be useful in outlying districts where the initial cost of street car tracks would prohibit the establishment of such service for sparsely settled areas.

The board of control has cut the proposed expenditure to $150,000, and even this is regarded by many authorities as too much to throw away on an experiment. This is the point that really has to be determined. If the plan for a bus service is merely by way of experiment, then a much smaller sum than $150,000 would be ample. If, however, the city council believes that a regular service should be installed in face of the experience elsewhere, and the adverse report of the commissioner of works, then the bylaw can be submitted to the taxpayers.

Our own view is that some of the outlying districts should be considered in the absence of street car accommodation as a field for bus operation, but action of this kind can only be regarded as a makeshift, failing the adoption of a comprehensive plan of street car service embracing the whole city and giving transfers to every point. No bus service can ever supplant this business necessity. It is quite clear that a five-cent fare would not cover the bus expenses, and it is equally clear that very few people would ride in the buses at ten cents and none at all of those for whom the service is chiefly designed.

The establishment of a bus service, therefore, means the opening up of a permanent channel in which to throw away money.

Most of the districts for which buses are asked would have now been supplied with transportation had Mayor Hocken's proposals been carried thru for the purchase of the street railway. Such sink-holes for city funds as the civic lines and the proposed bus lines would have been closed up, for the civic lines, as part of the general system, would show a profit and contribute to the growth of business. Every year of delay will make this more apparent, and the blunderheads of 1914 will be classed in this matter with the dunces of 1891.

Commissioner Harris has taken a sensible view of the circumstances, recognizing that reliable information can only be had from direct local experience. The establishment of a few lines in the suburbs will show what can really be done with buses under Toronto conditions, and some of the outlying residents who are willing to pay the extra fares for the service may be benefited. We sincerely hope the loss may be less than has been estimated, but as the dwellers on the boundary lines merit some consideration, we have no objection to something being done to help them, in the absence of the larger and wiser purchase plan.

HOME RULE FOR CITIES.

Mayor John Purroy Mitchel of New York has started a campaign for city home rule. Next spring a state constitutional convention will be held and he aims at securing an amendment of the provisions of the present constitution which will confer greater powers of self-government on the municipalities of the state. What New York and every city in the state wants more than any other thing today, the mayor declares, is genuine, broad, practical home rule, fortified by constitutional provisions. That simply means the right of the people of the cities to manage their local affairs. They alone know local conditions and are best fitted to deal with them.

Among the powers with which cities should be endowed, in the mayor's opinion, is that of formulating, adopting and amending their own charters and of enforcing such police, sanitary and other regulations as experience has demonstrated to be wise, just and necessary. He also urges that municipalities ought to be authorized, in their own discretion, and without application to the legislature, to construct, acquire, own, operate and finance their public utilities and services, and that each municipality should be made the sole judge as to what constitutes a public utility. Mayor Mitchel's demands afford further proof of the new spirit that is moving municipalities all over the United States. They have been the victims of the legislatures controlled by special interests and they want freedom to conduct their own affairs for the public benefit.

THE EUROPEAN CRISIS.

Altho the formal declaration of war by Austria on Serbia only announced what had actually begun, it naturally was more impressive to the public mind. In effect it flung the gauntlet before the Russian Government, and that government can only lift the gage knowing that Germany will stand shoulder to shoulder with her partner in the Triple Alliance. In that event France will be involved and the four European nations that lead in military power will enter upon a conflict unprecedented in world history in so far as not standing armies but the peoples themselves will confront each other. For in the last resort every man capable of bearing arms may be called on to serve under the colors.

The two remaining nations of the concert of Europe are not necessarily bound to enter the fray. When renewing the triple alliance Italy reserved liberty of action in the case of Britain and also gave assurances to London that she would neither become the instrument nor the auxiliary of an aggression against the republic. The United Kingdom again is under no obligation to engage in any European war. Sir Edward Grey has more than once explained that no agreements exist committing the country to the support of the dual alliance irrespective of the cause of difference, and that complete liberty of action has been reserved to decide when and how assistance is to be given if circumstances should so require.

Britain is not directly concerned in the war between Austria and Serbia, and British papers recognize that the Austrian Government has reason to resent the provocation given by her turbulent little neighbor. Indeed, unless future developments either menace British interests or infringe the rights of countries whose integrity is guaranteed, the policy of the United Kingdom should be one of "watchful waiting." If it no longer occupies a position of splendid isolation, it has at least come under no binding obligations other than those that will commend themselves. Britain's real interests in this crisis lie in the localizing of the war that has unfortunately begun and in the preservation of peace, and Sir Edward Grey's endeavors in that direction will be approved thruout the empire. If national ambitions and jealousies convulse the European continent, let Britain bide her time as a disinterested mediator.

THE BOYS' FRIEND.

Mr. C. J. Atkinson has been the boys' friend in Toronto for many years, and it is a distinct loss to the boyhood of the city that he is being carried off to a wider field of usefulness. Comparatively few are aware of the amount of work that has been done in the old Broadway Avenue Gardens and in the Boys' Dominion, but these things have left their stamp, and we believe the stamp of the image of the King, on the character of a host of boys in Toronto for years past. This is no ordinary contribution to the citizenship of the community, and Mr. Atkinson deserves to have an expression of the gratitude of those who appreciate such work before he goes away.

It is unfortunate perhaps that Toronto frequently fails to recognize the worth of men in her own field until they are called elsewhere, but at least there is some distinction for the city

Sinclair of Tillsonburg, Conservative candidate for South Oxford in the last provincial election, was declared elected by a majority of five by Deputy Judge Wallace today following the recount which took place last week. Mr. Sinclair's official majority following the election was four, and the recount was demanded by Col. T. R. Mayberry of Ingersoll, defeated Liberal candidate. Judge Wallace had forty-seven disputed ballots placed before him at the recount, and out of this number he allowed seventeen to Mr. Sinclair and fifteen to Col. Mayberry. Fifteen ballots were disallowed altogether. The total vote polled for Mr. Sinclair was 2886, while Col. Mayberry's vote was 2881, giving the Conservative candidate five majority.

BURNING SUGAR IS FINE DISINFECTANT. Prof. Tribert of the Pasteur Institute, has demonstrated that burning sugar develops formic acetylene-aldehyde, one of the most powerful antiseptic gases known. Five grams of sugar (77.15 grs.) were burned under a glass bell holding 10 quarts. After the vapor had cooled bacilli of typhus, tuberculosis, cholera, small-pox, etc., were placed in the bell in open glass tubes, and in half an hour all the microbes were dead. If sugar is burned in a closed vessel containing purified meat or the contents of rotten eggs, the offensive odor disappears at once. The old-time popularity of burned sugar appears, therefore, well founded.

PROTESTS ATTACKS ON DANUBE BOATS

LONDON, July 29. — A telegram from Premier Pachitch of Servia to the Servian legation in London regards a formal complaint in regard to Austrian attacks on Servian merchant vessels on the Danube. It says: "The Austro-Hungarian military and civil authorities fired thruout the day on July 16, without the slightest provocation from our side and damaged three of our trading vessels at Kostolatz, on the Danube. The Servian flags were hauled down and replaced by the Austrian colors. There were, however, no casualties."

RUN OVER BY MOWER. KINGSTON, Ont., July 29. — Run over by a mowing machine his father was driving in a field at his home near Newburg today, the ten-year-old son of William Schermerhorn was severely injured. HOUSETOPS FOR CHILDREN'S PLAYGROUNDS. The newest thing in romping places for youngsters is the apartment house roof playground, and the first to be opened is the Garden of the White Rabbit, atop the Hendrick Hudson, on Riverside Drive, New York. This playground was planned by Mrs. Helen Spor, a designer of nurseries and playgrounds. The first house-top recreation place for children were fitted up on the roofs of school buildings. Then followed the settlement house roof playground, which is now regarded as indispensable in the crowded sections of New York. The house-top playground is expected to become popular in virtually all the large cities, not only because it is the only kind that can be had where park or vacant lot space is unavailable, but also because it insures the maximum of sanitation, safety from accidents and protection from the evil influences of the streets.

COW TEST REVEALS SPLENDID RECORD

Five Years' Observance Shows That Ayrshire Cow is Capable of Large Production.

The second edition of The Ayrshire Milk Records, which is issued by the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, has just been published and contains particulars of nearly three hundred cows that were registered in the yearly test.

The secretary of the association, Mr. W. F. Stephen, says of a foreword: "Five years of record of performance work has shown that the Ayrshire cow is capable of large production. The test has revealed that we have some wonderful producers, as the records in this book show. The test has further revealed wonderful uniformity in milk flow, as well as high average of fine butter fat. As these records have been made under ordinary conditions, they go to prove our contention that the Ayrshire cow is the most economical producer of all the dairy breeds. The dairy ability of a breed should not be judged by what a single cow or several cows can do, but by what the average production of the breed is. Then, too, it is the long test that is valuable in showing what may be expected from the dairy herd, for the whole year, so that while a week's test or a month's test may be of interest, it does not in any way determine whether or not the cow is a paying proposition. After a fair trial Ayrshire breeders are confirmed in their opinion that the yearly test is the only means of determining the worth of the dairy cow and ultimately of the breed. Since the commencement of the test 225 cows have been tested. A number have given over the required amount of milk and butter to qualify, but have failed to freshen with the fifteen months from the commencement of the test. We call particular attention to the rule governing the Canadian record of performance test, whereby the cow in the test appears to be a normal cow, having to commence her test within fifteen months after freshening, and must freshen again within fifteen months after the commencement of the test. Thus a cow four years old may have three freshenings within 30 months."

NEW BUILDING AT TRURO COLLEGE

Contract Has Been Let for the Construction of Science Building.

The contract has been let for the construction of a new science building at the Agricultural College at Truro, N.S. The building to be three stories in height and a hundred and twenty by fifty feet wide. The first story is to be devoted to general, the second to entomology and plant pathology, and the third to domestic science. Up to the present time these classes have been held in the Normal College, but owing to the growth of both the agricultural attendance, as well as the attendance in the Normal College, this arrangement was very unsatisfactory.

The funds for this new building have been secured from the federal grant, the building being a part of the grant that the Agricultural College has received from the Government of Canada. The building is to be equipped with the latest facilities for the present investigation work, which will be done in the new building through the use of the proper accommodation.

BIG HOG OFFERINGS FEATURE MARKET

Cattle Medium and Common in Quality—No Choice Stock Seen.

Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards on Wednesday were 72 carloads, comprising 233 calves, 1789 hogs, 1716 sheep and 380 calves.

There were scarcely any cattle of good quality on offer, the bulk being of the common and medium grades.

Trade was slow compared with Monday, but prices were about the same for the same quality livestock.

Stockers and feeders were slow to sell at unchanged quotations.

Milkers and springers were hard to sell, as there seemed to be no buyers who were anxious to invest.

Veal calves sold at steady prices.

There were 1716 sheep and lambs, which caused easier prices, especially for lambs, but the hog market was a little easier, owing to fairly liberal receipts.

Butcher's Cattle.

Good steers and heifers sold at $8 to $8.25; medium at $7.50 to $7.80; common at $7.00 to $7.25; inferior at $6.50 to $6.75; medium cows at $5.25 to $5.50; medium cows at $4.75 to $5.00; common cows at $4.25 to $4.50; canners at $3.75 to $4.00.

Stockers and Feeders.

Steers, 700 to 900 lbs., $7.50 to $7.75; stockers, $6.25 to $6.50.

Milkers and springers were slow sale. We only got one sale of 10 cows at $6.00 to $7.00.

Receipts of Veal Calves.

Receipts of calves were moderately large, but prices remained steady. Choice calves sold at $10 to $11; good at $9 to $10; medium at $8.50 to $9.00; common at $7 to $8; inferior at $6.50 to $6.80.

Receipts of Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were large, and prices for lambs were lower. Sheep, light, sold at $4.25 to $4.50; medium, $4.50 to $4.75; heavy, $4.75 to $5.00; canners at $3.75 to $4.00.

Selects fed and watered sold at $3.15 to $3.25; and $3.40 to $3.50 weighed off cars; and $3.75 to $3.85.
