PARIS, May 24.—News received here from the Dardanelles is to the effect that the recent Turkish attack against the British troops near Kaleh Tepe by two Turkish divisions was carefully prepared by Gen. Liman Von Sanders, the German commander and his staff, not only with the object of inflicting a check on the allies, but with raising the spirits of the Turkish troops and reassuring public opinion, which is said to have been profoundly impressed by the heavy Turkish losses at the beginning of May.

GEN. VON SANDERS BROUGHT UP THE FIRST ARMY CORPS, A CRACK ORGANIZATION WHICH HAD BEEN RESERVED FOR THE DEFENCE OF CONSTANTINOPLE.

Two divisions of this corps which had been put ashore the night before at Maidos immediately marched to Kaleh Tepe and attacked the Australasian and New Zealanders the night of May 18-19. They were completely beaten, however, losing 2000 men killed and 5000 wounded, the report says.

BIG GERMAN FORCE ON ITALIAN BORDER
Austrians Reported to Make Up Less Than Third of Number
CHECK ON SUPPLIES
Germany Will Feel Pinch in More Than One Respect

THE HAGUE (via London), May 24.—From information reaching The Hague it is understood that the Germans and Austrians have concentrated approximately 680,000 men on the Italian frontier. They have occupied strategic positions in order to meet an attack or to attempt to strike the first heavy blow in an endeavor to dishearten the new combatants at the beginning of the campaign.
 The Germans constitute the larger part of this force, which is made up of 44 divisions of approximately 20,000 men each. Only ten of these divisions are Austrians.
 German and Austrian diplomats here are apparently not perturbed by the news and have issued a new statement. It is pointed out in other quarters, however, that Italy's de- feat may have the effect of curtail- ing Germany's supplies. Large quanti- ties of which hitherto reached Ger- many by way of Italy and Switzer- land.

 Alpine Patrol in Conflict With Austrians on Frontier

ROME, May 24.—Austrian troops have torn up a section of the track of the railroad running between Vostino and Malberghetto, dynamiting one bridge over the Adige and destroying another by shell fire according to a special despatch from Verona.
 The Austrians have retired behind their fortifications on the frontier of Trent. Forty thousand Tyrolean, Ruthenian, and Bohemian troops have arrived at Trent. The police of that city are said to have arrested forty persons of pro-Italian sympathies. Twenty others, including two priests, have been taken into custody at Rovereto. Sigor DeBias, an Italian who formerly was a member of the Austrian Parliament and his brother were arrested at Ala in the Austrian Tyrol, and sent to Bohemia as hostages.
 Bishop Will Stay.
 The Bishop of Trent has declared he will remain in the city as long as a single building remains standing.
 The mountains along the frontier from Val Adige to Val Sugana are swarming with Austrian soldiers. The frontier line has been outlined with an elaborate system of barbed wire entanglements through which electric currents can be passed.
 The city hall at Avis, near Ala, has been destroyed, but the family of the mayor escaped across the frontier.
 The report of a clash between in- vading Austrians and an Alpine patrol has been confirmed.

Children Succumbed.
 A triad of Italians arriving at Carmona, near Gorizia, are reported to have been driven into a field by Aus- trian gendarmes, where they were forced to remain all night in a heavy rain without shelter or food.
 Several children are said to have died because of this experience. The women and children were permitted to cross into Italian territory the next day, but all the men were detained.
 The Austrian frontier in the Trentino has been evacuated by the civilian population, the gendarmes and the forest keepers. The frontier patrols have fallen back along a line run- ning near Ala, where the Austrians are reported concentrating. Civilians were ordered to remain indoors while Austrian troops marched thru Trent Sunday.

SOLDIERS AND CADETS PARADED AT BELLEVILLE

 — Were Inspected by Sir Mackenzie Bowell.

Special to The Toronto World.
BELLEVILLE, May 24.—Victoria Day was fittingly celebrated here in the afternoon. The 9th Battalion, to- gether with the various Cadets Corps of the city schools, paraded to the Agricultural Park, where a program of sports was carried out, all partic- ipants being members of the 9th Bat- talion. Previous to the sports, the formation was drawn up in review and the men gave a royal salute.
 The men were inspected by Hon. Col. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, accom- panied by Col. Preston, commanding officer. The march past was well ex- ecuted. It was the finest military par- ade ever seen in this city.
 John Bellard of this city was fined $800 and costs by this city was fined for having a blind pig in a stable which was owned. A quantity of liquor was found when Inspector Ar- nout and members of the local police force made the raid.

A huge procession, headed by the 26th Regiment band entered the park, where a fine program was carried out. A pleasing incident was the presenta- tion of 25 years service medals to five members of the 26th Regiment.

BOUDOIR ATTIRE FAVORS BOLEROS

Dainty Little Designs Are Charming Employed for Negliges

FOR USE IN TRAVELING

Darker Shades of Blue, Red, Brown and Mauve Are Practical

Dainty little bolero designs are charmingly employed for bodice and long negliges, which increase in fluidness and elegance with every new design.

For wear in the boudoir at home, light shades are favored, such as soft blue, palest pink and white, with an occasional preference for lavender or deep cream.

Soft Cream Lace. One very alluring model of the more elaborate type was fashioned wholly of soft cream lace, exploiting successfully the new craze for the bolero.

The little yoked bolero blouse section of net is also edged with lace and fastens over the vestee with narrow velvet streamer ties in black.

TEN BOATS KEPT BUSY CARRYING THE CROWD

Thirty Thousand People Crossed Toronto Bay Yesterday to Enjoy Hanlan's Point

Hanlan's Point was the Mecca for Toronto pleasure-seekers on the holiday. The Toronto Ferry Co. had ten boats carrying the crowds, and even that was insufficient.

Even the "U14," a submarine, where the periscope view of the grounds could be obtained, received its fair share of attention, and with the mingled cries of "ice cream cones, this way," and "try the ferris wheel, all contributed to make one of the best holidays that the citizens of Toronto will have this year.

SIX THOUSAND ABOARD STEAMERS ON HOLIDAY

Heavy Traffic From Toronto to Niagara and Hamilton on "Twenty-Fourth."

"Our expectations are more than realized," said C. E. Croft, general agent for the Canadian Steamship Lines, commenting on the heavy lake traffic on the holiday. "All our boats carried big crowds, making four trips to Niagara and four to Hamilton. We had to make an extra trip with the Corona, bringing it back from Lewiston. All told, there would be a total of 6000 people carried."

SIMPLE DESIGNS GREATLY FAVORED

Hairdressing Counts Not the Least and Adds Attractiveness.

PROBLEM SIMPLIFIED

Large Summer Hats of Many Styles Make Task Much Easier.

To be faultlessly and completely fashionable the devotee must study herself from a critical and unbiased standpoint—not falling to note her weak points at the same time acknowledging her attractive features.

But of possibly greater importance than might be imagined is the style in which the tresses of the devotee are arranged. The art of hairdressing is one which demands the utmost care, and in this, as in every other department of exclusive fashion the "extreme" should be sacrificed for the individual becomingness.

Problem Simplified. With the approach of the summer months, and incidentally the hat of huge dimensions, fragile net, chiffon, lace and exquisite flowers, the problem of modish hair dressing is simplified, for the greater the styles of hats and frocks the greater the number of becoming ways for wearing the hair.

With the artistic drooping chapeau or elongated brim, the "bob" is sweet when the devotee possesses the "oval" type of face with not too pronounced features. A less extreme style which is becoming to the great many is the soft low coil at the base of the neck, the front hair sweeping softly fairly low on the brow and just crossing the temples of the ears. Parts are all hidden, and graceful waves of classic line are charming, with the quaint empire frocks becoming for summer wear and at all times simplicity is the keynote of success.

A Message To Thin, Weak, Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain to 30 Lbs. of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh.

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I eat plenty of good, nourishing food, but no matter how much I eat, I don't get fat. The reason is just this: You cannot get less your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste."

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the rest of the body, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this is to use Sargol, the recently discovered powerful, natural, fat-building element and to stop the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, which is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. "Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point."

All good druggists have Sargol, or can get it from their wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

Caution—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia, and general stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds more, for it is a wonderful flesh-builder.

Dr. Clarke, superintendent of the General Hospital, has been notified by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire that members of their organization in Cleveland have expressed their desire to contribute to the fund established to assist the University Base Hospital. The matter has been referred to authorities in Toronto and it is expected that Canadian residents in Cleveland will be joined by American citizens interested.

Twelve Thousand Attended Picnic

House of Providence Grounds Presented Festival Appearance and Were Crowded.

A Splendid Program

Entertainment Featured by Band Concerts and Fireworks at Night.

Twelve thousand Torontonians celebrated Victoria Day by attending the 52nd annual picnic at the House of Providence grounds. The festival vied with the greatest in its history and proved that this important benevolent institution maintains its high place in the regard of the public of Toronto.

Feature Band Concerts. A feature of the picnic was the afternoon and evening band concerts, given by the famous Weston Brass Band, winners of the 1914 Ontario championship. A pleasing program of patriotic and popular airs was rendered. The attractions included aerial swings, games, fish ponds, a Punch and Judy show, ice cream and candy booths, and performances by the Imperial Oriental Marionettes; Hedder and Son, equitables, the Le Roys aerialists; Nip and Tuck, acrobats, and Bando, the clown. There were 12 refreshment tables, one from each parish, attended by women from the various churches.

The picnic concluded with a brilliant display of fireworks starting at 7 p.m. The receipts from the picnic are expected to net a surplus of about $7000, which will be used in meeting the institutional expenses. Since the beginning of the year the House of Providence has cared for over 700 poor and aged people. During the past winter the institution gave 25,000 meals to the needy.

The committee of arrangements for the picnic consisted of: J. W. Mogan, chairman; Benjamin Hughes, secretary; P. McCabe, C. J. McCabe, E. Rowat, R. Scullard, W. McMullen, J. Hurst, J. Sullivan and W. Murphy.

Miss Eleanor Oliver, of Elizabeth, N.J., has successfully passed the examination to be a full-fledged attorney-at-law.

The Garden

CONDUCTED BY R. T. TODD

Lychinis—The Lamp Flowers

Call Lychinis Chalcedonica, the well-known Maltese Cross flower, whatever name you like—scarlet lightning, flame flower, lamp light or any other one of the names under which it shines, Lychinis is a wonder of August.

There is only one other contemporary perennial that rivals in height and coloring this very old-time favorite of the renaissance border and that rival is Papaver Orientalis, a haughty Turk of the desert, aloof, inscrutable and so unapproachable that it vanishes at a touch. Not so Lychinis, the Maltese Cross.

These "lamp flowers" received their generic name, "Lychinis," from the startling brilliancy of their intense coloring, the ancient Greeks likening them to a lamp whose fluttering flames swayed to every passing breeze.

Of the family we will speak of but two—the Maltese Cross, commonly called "Lion's Paw" and the Scarlet Maltese Cross, the latter differing from the former only in being a little shorter and having one petal less.

The Lychinis plants are very insignificant looking until their blossom time comes, and then the wonder grows that one small plant could produce such a crop of wondrous blossoms, for the flower of the Maltese Cross is truly one of the mysteries of the midsummer garden.

From the early days of spring the plants grow as small fleshy specimens, each leaf oblong, two or three inches long. Until late in June the small green thing remains unnoticed in the background, when lo! on a sudden, the upper stem lengthens out and comes a tall slender shaft, four to five feet high, holding aloft a small green bud.

Slightly green buds fill out, nor give one small hint of the glowing flame within, and then a great glowing ball slowly forms gleaming flame-like orange-scarlet—a vivid ball of fire in the summer air.

According to the age of your clump will be the number of these fireballs.

Roses for the Garden

Swift's "Red Steer" Fertilizers

It Pays to Use Them

THE application of SWIFT'S FERTILIZERS will make your lawn more verdant, protect it from burning out in the summer, and give it a much earlier start in the spring.

Why buy your vegetables this summer when you can grow some in your lot with the application of SWIFT'S FERTILIZERS? Stable manure is a very good fertilizer, but it does not contain all the essential plant food elements required by the plants.

SWIFT'S RED STEER HIGH-GRADE FERTILIZER contains a liberal supply of available plant food. It will enrich your soil and enable you to grow more and better vegetables.

Buying For the Home is a BUSINESS MATTER--A Vital Part of the Daily Business Routine of Every Housewife

The idea that women read the "ads" only at such times as they have LEISURE HOURS to fill in is an exploded one. If that were true it would mean that the "ads" have little business importance to housewives. While, as a matter of fact, they have the most vital bearing upon the "business of the day" for every woman.

And, with women as with men, BUSINESS MATTERS are best disposed of in BUSINESS HOURS.

Her morning newspaper brings to the housewife the STORE NEWS FOR THAT DAY. And it is upon the suggestions contained in the "ads" in her morning newspaper that the prudent housewife bases her day's buying. Yesterday is a book that is written. Today is a book in the making. Today is another history in the making—another memory in the making. Today's "ads" will influence today's buying—naturally, inevitably.

Reading the "ads" is NOT a matter of such little moment that alive people put it off until they have an hour to "kill." It is a matter of IMMEDIATE BUSINESS IMPORTANCE, and is treated as such by people who desire to KNOW ABOUT ECONOMY OPPORTUNITIES.

Making Good

A considerable amount of criticism was generated both at home and abroad by the open professions of faith made by Canadians and the Canadian press generally in the quality of the troops sent from the Dominion. Private reports stated that the Canadian soldiers themselves felt highly embarrassed by the unrestricted laudation poured upon them by their friends at home, and they were tremendously chaffed by their comrades-in-arms in the old country. They wished to take their places more modestly and without the blare of affectionate trumpeting which they received from Canada. But such was the faith of their friends at home in their prowess that no abatement of the trumpeting could be had, and there was nothing to be done but to bear the chaff and to hope that they would prove themselves in the day of trial to be in some small way worthy of the expectations so proudly and openly expressed.

This was before Langemarck. Since then there has been no need for Canadians to praise the Canadian troops. All the military world is doing this for them. Even the Germans have recognized the headlong valor of the men who "saved the situation." The Prussians, who measure their appreciation by their expressions of contempt in inverse ratio, speak of the "Canadian rats." The Saxons, a more generous foe, frankly admit the bravery displayed. Still more satisfactory compliments are to be heard from authorities entitled to speak, and the British commanders have no hesitation in acknowledging the sterling quality of the work done in the trenches and in the open field. The casualty lists show that what has been done has been done in the face of the sternest obstacles, and there has been neither lack nor ease in gaining the successes achieved. It is a pleasure for Canadians to recognize the similar valor and determination in the face of the fiercest opposition of their comrades from Australia and New Zealand in the Dardanelles campaign.

Private accounts indicate that the men in the ranks of the British armies are as quick to acknowledge the worth of the Canadian troops as others are. There is no more chaffing and the Canadians have no longer to hold down shameful heads on account of the mistimed praise of their friends. They have made good and everybody knows it. All that was expected of them has been realized and more than realized. One professional complaint, as it is, to a branch of the service which is of particular efficacy in this war, in which artillery has played a major part. It has been stated by competent observers that they never saw guns better served than by the Canadians at Langemarck and in other recent actions.

We may feel assured that the decision to raise further battalions in Canada was not taken without consultation with the Imperial authorities, and perhaps at their instance. It is clear that such troops as Canada has sent to the front would be welcome in any line of battle. Canada has had faith in her sons. That faith has not been proven vain. It has been confirmed by deeds that strengthen the empire.

German Piracy

This war has exposed the fundamental fallacy underlying German notions about the super-excellence of their particular brand of "kultur." Before its outbreak many scientists and authorities in the field of public endeavor were inclined to hold that the system by which Germany had organized every one of the departments of science and industry for the service of the state was worthy of imitation. But as Sir William Ramsay, who himself so thought, observes in a recent article in The Quarterly Review, we did not realize that organization "had become a fetish, that Germans believed that by organization the world would be reformed and that it was the mission of Germans to compel the world to accept this doctrine as necessary for civilization." It is commonly held in Germany that

Lieut. W. D. Sprinks of "A" Fourth Battalion, Tells of Severe Test

Writing under date of May 2, to his parents in Toronto, Lieut. W. D. Sprinks of the 12th York Rangers tells of his experience during the battle of Langemarck.

"We were in Belgium doing nothing for a day or two when, on the Thursday afternoon, we heard a fierce bombardment of artillery, and about 7 o'clock the citizens came charging through the village with all sorts of rumors. Then came a bunch of French artillery-horses and men—and we found that they had been suffocated out and had to leave their guns. We all stood ready to move out, and in the middle of the night came the order to move. We found the Germans had advanced till they had practically a clear road to Ypres, and would have cut off all our second and third brigades along with imperial troops.

"We were the First and Fourth Battalions of the 12th York Rangers, and were to guard the canal, but found if we did not attack they would, and with only being somewhere between the canal and advanced about 1000 yards, and as the men say, it was a—no other word descriptive of it. We got to within 200 yards of the trenches when they turned the gas on us, but the men dug themselves in and never budged all day long. ## DISEASE IS DUE TO BAD BLOOD

To Cure Common Ailments the Blood Must Be Made Rich and Red.

Nearly all the diseases that afflict humanity are caused by bad blood—weak, watery blood poisoned by impurities. Bad blood is the cause of headaches and backaches, lumbago and rheumatism; debility and indigestion, neuralgia, and other nerve diseases like eczema and salt rheum. It shows how impure the blood actually is. No use trying a different remedy for each disease, because they all spring from the one cause—bad blood. To cure any of these troubles you must get right down to the root of the trouble in the blood, and that is just what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do. They make new, rich blood and thus cure these diseases when common medicine fails. Mrs. John Jackson, Woodstock, Ont., suffered from both nervous troubles and a run-down condition and experienced a complete cure through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "I was a sufferer for a number of years from neuralgia, and a general debility of the nerves and many medicines tried several doctors and many medicines but to no avail until I began Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. At the time I began the pills I had grown so bad that I could hardly be on my feet and was forced to wear elastic bandages about the ankles. The pain I suffered at times from the neuralgia was terrible. I had almost given up hope when I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In the course of a few weeks I felt an improvement, and I gladly continued the use of the pills until I was once more quite well and able to attend to all my household duties. If you are ailing begin to cure yourself today with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont."

LORD FISHER TO RETURN ONLY ON OWN TERMS

Will Work With Neither Balfour Nor Churchill as Head of Admiralty

LONDON, May 24, 3.35 a.m.—Arnold White, a well-known publicist, writes to The Daily Express today, saying that if Lord Fisher is to return to the admiralty it will be on his own terms. Mr. White says that he told Lord Fisher that he had broken up one cabinet and asked him if he was going to break up a second. To secure patents in Germany have found it a heart-breaking task from the trivial objections and tiresome delays imposed by the Berlin officials. "Many English manufacturers," he affirms, "have suffered from a species of organized piracy, consisting in the deliberate infringement by Germans of the patents which they held; from the difficulty of securing justice in the German courts or the reappearance of the infringers under a new name, until, from sheer weariness or reluctance to throw good money after bad, the unequal contest has been abandoned." It is no wonder that their practical methods in peace have had their sequel in their conduct of war.

PROBER GIVEN CENSURE BY MACKENZIE KING

Former Minister of Labor Said Methods Were Unfair to Labor

WASHINGTON, May 24.—W. L. Mackenzie King, director of the industrial relations department of the Rockefeller foundation and former minister of labor in Canada, interrupted his testimony before the federal industrial relations commission today to roundly denounce the methods of Chairman Walsh in conducting the commission's Colorado strike inquiry.

"I have seen witness after witness on the stand here treated in a manner that was anything but fair," he said. "In the name of labor I protest against the way this hearing has been conducted."

"If your objection to the examination of the chairman, 'based upon your observation of the examination of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.,' is it caused in part by the statement you heard a witness make here that he was guilty of high treason and should be punished?"

Mr. King said he spoke only of the general examination of all witnesses. He was questioned at length about his services to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and to the foundation. He declined to say what salary he received. The witness' outburst against Chairman Walsh came in the midst of questioning regarding a plan suggested by him to Mr. Rockefeller for dealing with the situation in the Colorado coal fields. The chairman sought to show that the plan would have eliminated union representation on boards of conference between employers and the miners. Mr. King objected strenuously to any inference that he was unfriendly to organized labor.

STRIKING TRIBUTE PAID BY A FRIEND

Eloquent Sermon Given on Life of Late Rev. Hugh Canning

PARISH IN MOURNING

Great Respect for Late Rector Shown by Large Congregation

Seldom has a more impressive funeral been witnessed than that of Rev. Hugh Canning, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, which took place yesterday morning from the church in which, during a period of eight years, he had ministered, and from the parish in which today there is general and sincere sorrow at the loss of so devoted a pastor.

Ten o'clock was the hour appointed for the beginning of the final ceremonies, but for an hour previous the church was thronged with people, and the altar hung with black and soon every available niche was occupied, until it is estimated 200 were collected within the sacred edifice, while still others waited without to get a glimpse or sound of the things passing within.

The church was heavily draped with black scarfs that circled the arches and festooned the pillars and pulpit, and from the sides of the high altar hung great black panels marked with outstanding crosses in white, and speaking of human sorrow and faith that is immortal. Wax tapers burned dimly on the altar and about the floor, and the music of the organ, the sanctuary, where it had rested since the remains were brought in the afternoon previously, and which in the interim had been visited by thousands from many parts of Toronto and from outside.

On Sunday afternoon, while the body of the late priest lay in state, the children of the schools had come in crowds to take a last look at one who had been so much to them in life, and in the evening veepers for the dead were chanted in the church.

Mass of Requiem. The funeral mass of requiem was sung by His Grace Archbishop McNeill, with Mgr. Kidd as assistant priest. The deacons of honor were Rev. Dean Morris and Rev. M. Cline, Deacon Rev. James C. Carberry, sub-deacon Rev. K. Morrow; master of ceremonies, Rev. J. McGrath; eight Mgr. Fallon, D.D., Bishop of London; Right Rev. Mgr. O'Brien, Bishop of Peterboro, and Right Rev. Mgr. McCann, V.G.; Right Rev. Mgr. Whelan, Rev. Dean Hand, Dean Brady of Bradford, and others, about 70 ecclesiastics in all taking part. The music of the mass was beautifully and touchingly rendered by the alternate choir of the boys of the boys of the brothers' schools, representatives of the community of St. Joseph, Loretto Abbey, Sisters of the Good Shepherd, Brothers of the Christian Schools, Holy Name Society, Knights of Columbus, Sodality and the De La Salle Institute assisted.

Bishop Fallon Preached. The sermon was preached by His Lordship, Bishop Fallon of London. A personal friend of the late priest, he never was grander tribute paid to friendship than that which emanated from the lips of the eloquent speaker on this occasion. The text upon which the discourse was built was, "You have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, that you may bear fruit, and that your fruit should remain." "I have spoken generally on the dignity of the priesthood," said Bishop Fallon, after outlining briefly the meaning and mission of the vocation, "because I have no time to perform in this saddest I have been called upon to do in my life. When Hugh Canning presented himself as a priest, he brought with him a noble character and a great many virtues. I know whereof I speak because between him and me there existed a friendship of twenty-five years, which later developed into something more.

"I never had any other home in the city than his house. Father Canning was one who hated sham, trickery or hypocrisy. He had a keen intellect and accurate judgment, the simplicity of a child, yet with vast reserve that prevented him showing himself as he really was to any except perhaps his closest friend. His humility made him obedient to authority but it never desisted in severity, his courage never gave place to irreverence.

What Every Woman Knows About Avenging a Lost Love

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1916, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

MRS. JOHN SMITH of Oakland, Cal., is suing her husband for an equitable division of the property.

Mrs. Smith is already divorced from her husband, and now that she is divorced Mr. Smith refuses to take care of her.

"I went down on my knees," testifies Mrs. Smith in the suit now in court, "and I begged my husband not to put me away from him, but he would not listen to me. He was in love with his stenographer. He said he would not live with me one day longer."

"You can go to either of my two houses," he said, "and live there during the three months you are making up your mind what you want to do."

"And so I went to the smallest house and lived, and I let him divorce me, but before I would consent to that I made him give me his pledge that he would take care of me as long as I lived, and that he would not marry his stenographer after he had divorced me."

"And now he is married to his stenographer, and he is not taking care of me."

Poor Mrs. John Smith! What a foolish woman she must have been! So you made him give you a pledge, did you? A pledge from a man like that! What does it amount to? Why did you think he would keep any sort of promise to any one any time he got ready to break it?

The Wrong Way.

You're in the right place now to deal with such a man—in a court of justice. I hope you will hold him to the exact letter of the law. And remember that you don't have to rely upon any promise of his for what is due you—the law will see to that.

The men who made that law were thinking of just such a man as this husband of yours, and just such a confiding, trusting woman as you, when they made it.

But now about that pledge concerning the stenographer, what did you mean by that?

Are you a friend of the stenographer, and did you want to save her from the misery and lost illusions—self-respect, dignity, even the least pretense of happiness?

Or were you trying to "get even" with her when you made your husband promise not to marry her?

Don't you know, you foolish little woman, that the greatest revenge you could ever have in the world would be to see the woman who had broken up your home married to the husband who deserted you?

He'll be just the same man when he's married to her as he was when he was married to you.

It wasn't this particular stenographer he loved. It was his own way—his own, cruel, selfish, shallow-hearted, light-minded way. Now he's got it, for a few minutes.

But when he realizes that the new wife wants her way, and that she objects to affairs just as strenuously as you did, there will be the same old story all over again.

Tubercles for Revenge.

I know a woman whose husband left her for another. And the woman went and lived in the little town with the newly wedded couple.

And she joined the same church and went to the same parties and belonged to the same country club.

And the first wife grew rosy and vigorous and full of a kind of wicked elation, and as she changed the second wife grew pale and thin and drooping, and one day the second wife killed herself in the rooms of the country club, and she left a letter telling why she did it.

"The first wife has murdered me," she said. "Every time Will and I had a quarrel I was afraid to go out for fear I'd meet her and she would see that I had been crying, and every time Will looked at another woman and my heart contracted, I always looked up to find the first wife smiling at me, and I knew that she knew and was glad, and I can't stand it any longer. Will is trying to me, just as he lied to her, and I can't live and know that she knows it."

And the first wife went to the funeral of the second wife and put a wreath of tubercles on her coffin, and nobody in that town who knew those people can bear the sight of tubercles to this day.

If you want revenge, Mrs. John Smith, you got it on the day your husband began to lie to another woman, just as he had lied to you.

I hope you'll get your property and your protection, for it is your just due, and when you have got it I hope you will go away somewhere and forget that you ever heard of such a man or such a woman in all your life.

And, whisper, it's all imagining, anyhow, the sort of love you seem to have had for that sort of man.

Be thankful that it is over. Rejoice in your freedom. Be grateful for returning sanity, returning health of mind and returning honesty of heart.

Stand up like a free woman. Look the world bravely in the face and live the rest of your life.

Don't just exist—a mere parasite of the unworthy love.

For not all the wedding rings in the world can hallow and make sacred a love so filled with dross as yours must have been.

Three Minute Journeys

WHERE CAVE-DWELLERS STILL LIVE LIKE THEIR FOREFATHERS.

FIVE centuries ago when the Spaniards conquered the Canary Islands they found white men living in the caves of the hills. Today descendants of the Guanches, as they are called, still live in the same caves. There are so far as I could judge from a very short acquaintance, the cave-dwellers are a happy-go-lucky people, full of fun and their history would suggest. I like women are the workers, for the men are ardent devotees to the Spanish belief in "manana"—it is always tomorrow with them.

Precisely how these strange people came to the Canary Islands I was unable to learn. There are no written records dating back beyond the Spanish invasion. The Spaniards found white men, we know, but we do not know whether they came from Africa as immigrants or are the sole survivors of the fabled lost land of Atlantis.

half a dozen villages of cave dwellers, but the largest is the town of Atalaya, which has nearly 100 inhabitants.

These people know no government and recognize no laws. They are peaceable folk, but were better the adventurous collector of taxes if he should dare to demand payment from them. Making their living from the manufacture of pottery, they use no wheel, but fashion the vessel around a smooth stone.

In Atalaya there may be seen all sorts of cave dwellings, from the tiny little hole in the rock to the 10 and 12-roomed ambitious structure. It is very likely true that some of the caves, as I was told when I visited the village, have been occupied for 500 years.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I have been keeping company with a young man for about one year, and we are not yet engaged. I like him very much, but he is of a very jealous disposition. For instance, when he takes me to a dance or a ball I never can have a real nice time because of his disposition. He thinks I should dance with no one but him, and if anybody else wishes to dance with me they should ask him if they may do so. Now here is where I differ from him. I think that if we go to a dance we may dance with whomsoever we like, providing we have danced together three or four times.

Please tell me whether or not I am right, as I am quite worried.

—WORRIED.

YOU are right about the matter. Of course you may dance with any one you please, and it is not his right to stop you. When you go to a dance with a young man you should dance with him three or four times during the evening.

IF they really tried to live in that awfully simple way that they are talking about long before the wedding; if they just LOVED the homely things that make housekeeping so beautiful when you enter properly into the SPIRIT of it; if they really and truly DID the things they have read of with so much emotion the whole game would look about as reasonable as this picture. You COULD fancy her in a dinner gown finishing the scrubbing. You COULD fancy his spade and dinner pail plus a dress suit. But your imagination really couldn't go much further. What they actually mean is that they would adore the simple life—with a butler.

She would be DELIGHTED to keep a cozy little nest of a house—with two maids.

So that when you hear them talking about the simple life don't take them TOO seriously.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

How It Turned Out.

AUNT MARY stayed to supper, and my wife, little ashamed of her feeling of the afternoon, was more than nice to her.

"I did feel ashamed," Mary admitted later, "awfully, though I really didn't show my mortification in the afternoon, did I?"

"You were uncomfortable," I said, truthfully.

"But Aunt Mary didn't notice, I'm sure."

"I think Mrs. Kayes did," I hinted mischievously.

Mary's face flamed.

"Oh, Peter!" she wailed, "I-I hope not."

I caught my wife's hands and held them.

"Little wife," I said thoughtfully, "I don't want you to be a social climber. Truly I don't. And if Mrs. Kayes is the type of woman to go away and laugh because a dear old country acquaintance chose to call while she was here, then I'd drop her from my list."

Mary has "Ambitions."

"I drop Mrs. Kayes," said Mary in muffled accents. "Peter, you're mad, quite mad. Why mother would have given anything to get me in with Mrs. Kayes long ago!"

"I can't understand that feeling," I said impatiently. "Mrs. Kayes didn't know you existed a year ago. At least she knew and ignored. She's merely taking you up now either because I know Kayes in a business way."

"Do you?" asked Mary eagerly.

"Of course I do," I said. "And a mighty decent fellow—not in the least bitten by the society mania."

"I didn't know you knew him," said Mary, "or I'd have asked you a long time ago to manage so that we could get into their set."

"I didn't suppose you'd care for that sort of thing," I said.

"The remark, my dear, was a compliment," I said.

"I do want to go with the best in town," said Mary.

Aunt Mary's Triumph.

"Mrs. Kayes's set are not necessarily the best. There's a vast difference between the best and the set that thinks itself best."

"When you think about yourself," commented Mary again, "isn't it so pleasantly contagious. I've seen it happen often."

"I suppose," I remarked, "that Kayes has asked her to call. I see no other reason why she should choose to unbare her front from a town in which we've lived all our lives with sufficient knowledge of each other's existence to warrant acquaintance if we wanted it."

"And Aunt Mary had to spoil it all!" the phone rang. I answered it.

"Hello, Hunt," said Kayes's deep, pleasant voice. "I want to tell you that I'd come home from swimming hungry as a bear, climb into the pantry and steal mother's home-made bread. Wonderful stuff, wasn't it?"

"Great!" I enthused. "Did your wife like it?"

"She had a wonderful afternoon," she said, with a pleasant laugh. "She's been telling me about Aunt Mary. That's why I called up. We'd like to have her at dinner, for we want to have some of Aunt Mary's will consent to do it."

I rang off and smiled at Mary with mockery in my eyes.

"My My!" I said. "What a dreadful blow to you! Aunt Mary and her bread have somehow put you in very strong with the Kayes."

Mary gasped.

A BRIDE'S OWN STORY OF Her Household Adventures

By ISOBEL BRANDS

Solving the Problem of Managing Food Odors.

housewife can be. She's such a busy person that although I've urged her to call dozens of times she hasn't been able to manage. But of course, in the contrary nature of things, this was just the psychological moment for her to come.

By that time, of course, I'd gotten so used to the cauliflower perfume that I didn't know whether it was particularly strong in the living room or not, but I eyed Mrs. Humphrey furtively, hoping and yet fearing that she'd notice. I felt so childish about it—although I'd done some thoughtful thing, but it just weighed on me, and after we had discussed local events, and clubs and neighbors and most everything else I could think of, I took the bull by the horns.

"Mrs. Humphrey, you're a more experienced housekeeper than I am. Will you kindly tell a perplexed cook what on earth she can do when her household has a plebeian desire for vegetables of the cabbage family, and an equally strong aversion for their fragrance while cooking?"

She laughed. "Is that what you're so nervous about? I saw you snit accordingly toward your kitchen several times, and I suspected what it's about. Well, don't fear. You never give up your cabbage. I had the same difficulty until I found out how to have my cabbage minus unpleasant accompaniments."

I jumped up. "Let me get my household card and write it. I wouldn't let such a secret escape my memory for worlds!"

"All you need do is to soak your vegetable a few hours before needed in cold, weak salt water; then rinse, and put over the fire in fresh cold water. Then they throw a sort of scum up to the surface. Let them come to a boil before putting in the salt, and then skim. After the salt is in, add a dash of cold water, and a second scum will appear, which should be removed at once."

"There's another important thing to remember. Cook all your over-fragrant vegetables uncovered. If you put the lid on—as I suspect you have now—the odor is very much worse."

Certainly that was more happily times than I had imagined. Sometimes I wonder how I ever managed when I left Aunt Juliette, that I'd been an expert housekeeper immediately. Why, like that which happens every day, and I find myself doing something absolutely wrong, or forgetting, or discarding, never know how to do it at all! Truly, housework information is never-ending!

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How to Protect Your Teeth and Prevent Rigg's Disease

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B. M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University)

THE teeth are the root of all virtue—in a physical sense. There is, then, something of an excuse for the feminine madness of blaming all the infections, chronic, accidental and parasitic maladies of an infant's life upon that mark and scapegoat. If a child has a sore toe, ten chances to one, though it be under six months of age, before teeth appear, or at an age when all the teeth have arrived, its mother, aunt, neighbor or grandmother will blame it on "teething."

"Ah, the little dear is only teething, doctor," say mothers when the child has bronchitis, dysentery, diarrhoea, tonsillitis, scarlet fever, appendicitis, colic, coughs and what not. Many a brain has been borne to its pier by these loving, home-made "guesses"—always wrong.

The teeth, like the hair, the nails and the other tissues, come silently like snow in the night. It is pure word-juggling of the most vicious American type that makes women snap up ready-made, catch-penny names handed down by tradition.

What Pyorrhea Is. There is, however, a universal disease of the teeth which everybody has soon or late. Happily it assails the mortal pearls of the mouth of grown-ups. With a medium of elbow grease and a tooth brush this ailment does not intrude its presence upon infants and youths. Ostracized until adult life, it bumpily seeks a foothold upon the "peri-dental" membrane, the sheath of the teeth.

Pyorrhea is the unpleasant name of this more than unpleasant disorder. Misnamed or treated by antiquated methods this widely distributed ailment leads to the loss of the teeth.

There is a tendency among progressive investigators to hold to the sweep-sweep judgment that a tiny animalcule called an amoeba is responsible for "Rigg's disease" or pyorrhea. An amoeba is a speck of life, so small that one drop of saliva may contain a million of them. They look under the microscope like splashes of clear transparent jelly. White blood corpuscles are so much like amoebae that a concentrated ensemble rush of the former upon a lot of bacteria around the teeth could easily be mistaken for amoebae.

Every mud puddle and pond teems with various types of amoebae. Cockroaches are an abundant source of them. Lettuce and plants often abound with amoebae. None of these, however, cause sickness. They are harmless, not pathological amoebae. Tropical dysentery and dysenteries of a certain kind hereabouts are associated with pathological amoebae.

Whether the dauntless parasitologists and dentists who trace pyorrhea to amoebae are correct or not, there is not a shadow of a doubt but that pus germs, microbes that manufacture matter, and other bacteria infect and destroy the membranes of the teeth, roots and the gums.

In fine, true pyorrhea is a germ malady with the undermining matter formed by bacteria and pus corpuscles. Parasitic amoebae—start the trouble, but the damage is actually perpetuated by a mixed infection of germs.
