ALLIES THROU... HOSPITAL SHIP TORPEDOED AND SCORES LOSE THEIR LIVES

ALLIES THROU... FRESH FORCES ACROSS VESLE

The Germans Make Stronger Stand Passage of River Proceeds. COUNTER-MOVES FAIL Particularly Fierce Fighting Continues in Region Northwest of Rheims.

The Germans now are offering strong opposition to the further advance of the allied troops along the Vesle River from the east of Soissons to the region west of Rheims. Meanwhile, however, the main bodies of the enemy army continue to make their way toward the Aisne to the north of which stream they hope somewhere to reach a haven of safety from the persistent onslaught of the British, French, American and Italian troops, who in less than three weeks have all but blotted out the Soissons-Rheims salient.

Notwithstanding the bringing into play by the enemy of large numbers of heavier calibre and artillery of machine guns and the employment of large numbers of picked troops, including the well-tried Prussian Guards and the Bavarians, and despite the fact that the rains have swept the lowlands into quagmires, the allied troops have forced crossings of the river at a number of new points, and on the north side of the stream are engaging the enemy.

Further Ground Won. The latest French official communication, which recently has been extremely modest in its tone, gains made by the allies, says that Monday saw only local engagements and that the situation in the battlefield is without change.

German Retrogrades. It is not beyond the realm of possibility that the greater portion of the western battlefield will shortly be under geographical change in position. From the southeast of Amiens, near Montdidier, northward to the region around Ypres, the German front seems all a-tremble with expectancy. In addition to a retreat near Montdidier to the west bank of the Aisne River, retrograde movements in the face of attacks around Albert and an evacuation of territory over a front of half a mile north of La Bassee Canal, the Germans are nervously bombarding British and French positions at various points, possibly with the intent of ascertaining their strength.

Just what the Germans have in mind cannot be forecast. It is known, however, that Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, during the early stages of the allied offensive on the Soissons-Rheims sector, detached heavy numbers of his men and sent them to the aid of his sorely tried imperial German troops. The German prince thereby weakening his line while Field Marshal Haig's front was not materially touched by withdrawals. It is not improbable, therefore, that Rupprecht is worrying somewhat over this diminution in strength and already has placed barriers between himself and the forces fronting him to ward off possible attacks, and is endeavoring to ascertain what chances he has to hold other positions from which he had intended ultimately to launch a drive toward the channel ports.

HOSPITAL SHIP TORPEDOED AND SCORES LOSE THEIR LIVES

Steamer Warilda, Bringing Six Hundred Wounded and Sick From France, the Victim—Perfect Discipline and Splendid Morale Shown.

A British Port, Saturday, Aug. 5.—The torpedoing early Saturday morning of the British hospital ship Warilda was one of the most narrowing disasters in the history of submarine warfare. The number of dead is variously estimated from 105 to 120 and upward and includes several women nurses.

The ship was bringing six hundred sick and wounded from France to England, among them were seven Americans, two officers and five enlisted men, all of whom have been accounted for except one private. There were aboard 59 nurses and members of the voluntary aid department, and sent to various hospitals in various parts of the country. The torpedo struck the after part of the engine room, killing the third engineer and two other members of the engine room force. The dynamo was destroyed, plunging the vessel into darkness.

Were Drowned in Trap. Just over the dynamo was the wardroom, which contained more than 100 patients. Most of these were killed outright by the explosion, and the others, many of whom had been freshly injured by the torpedo, found themselves trapped. It was impossible for outside aid to reach them, and, except a few who jumped overboard and were picked up nearby, this part of the ship quickly settled and water flooded the wardroom, drowning the men caged there.

After being torpedoed the ship remained afloat for two hours and a quarter. Immediately after the explosion five boats were launched, but before they could be cleared they were smashed and many of their occupants were drowned.

Destroyers rushed to the spot where the submarine was seen to submerge and dropped depth charges. When the 650 survivors have been landed, at a British port.

Morale Was Splendid. Stories of the fearful struggle in the darkness to rescue the helpless invalids are told by survivors. The ship remained afloat more than two hours, but for a great part of the time continued under headway because the engines could not be stopped.

More than 650 survivors, brought here shortly after six o'clock, were given first aid treatment, food and clothing. The patients were placed aboard special trains, which had been waiting to receive them, and sent to hospitals in various parts of the country. The torpedo struck the after part of the engine room, killing the third engineer and two other members of the engine room force. The dynamo was destroyed, plunging the vessel into darkness.

MEN IN HOSPITALS OPPOSED TO RIOTS

Col. H. C. Bickford Issues Statement Regarding Recent Disturbances.

Col. H. C. Bickford, Toronto district commander, said he was convinced it was not the returning soldiers who were doing the rioting. He had called the commanding officers of the various hospitals together yesterday, and reports by these showed that on Friday night only 37 men from the hospitals were out on pass, and that on Saturday night only 48 were out. As hundreds of persons took part in the disturbances, it was evident that the crowds must have been composed of either returned men or civilians. Enquiries also showed also that the returned soldiers in hospital were opposed to the rioting.

Women Went First. The less seriously disabled assisted their more unfortunate mates to go first. Women were placed in the first boats lowered, notwithstanding their protest that they should not precede the patients. One boat, containing six women, was thrown against another just before touching the water and upset. Three women from the capsize boat were picked up by another small boat, along with five wounded British soldiers, all of whom had managed to keep afloat altho each had an arm in a sling.

The Warilda had been in the channel service two years, and this was her first crossing from France in which she did not carry a number of German wounded prisoners, and sent to various hospitals over this fact, and some expressed the opinion that it was of sinister significance.

When the steward regained the deck he rushed below to get some of his clothes. "I stumbled over wounded in the dark and fell," he said. "The bombs were shaking the ship. I finally found my cubby and obtained some clothes and returned to the deck. There I was placed in another boat which managed to go free without disaster. The Warilda settled slowly at the stern and then upended. When the water reached the boiler they blew up in a terrifying column of fire and steam, and then darkness fell again.

GERMAN STAND STIFFER THAN ALLIES THOUGHT

Paris, Aug. 5.—There was a lull in the battle along the Soissons-Rheims front last night and the breathing spell extended into this morning.

The Germans are being favored by the weather conditions, which have transformed the Vesle River banks into swamps and morasses, and they are making a stiffer stand here than was anticipated.

TANKER SUNK BY SUBMARINE

Went Down Off Canadian Coast After a Fight of Three Hours.

A Canadian Port, Aug. 5.—After a three hour battle with a German submarine about 90 miles west of here today the oil tanker Lux Bianca was torpedoed and sunk and two of her crew killed. The oil tanker left port at eight o'clock this morning and three hours later the battle opened and the ship was kept up for over two hours. The U-boat had the longest range guns, and her shots had a more telling effect. Falling to sink the tanker by gunfire, the submarine launched a torpedo which ripped open the stern of the steamer and she soon disappeared into the depths.

GERMANS RETREAT FOR TWENTY MILES

Lost by Crown Prince in Big Battle.

London, Aug. 5.—Since the crown prince began his retreat his army have fallen back twenty miles and lost forty thousand prisoners. The present German position is nearly a straight line between Soissons and Rheims. The latter town is still surrounded by the enemy on three sides, the latest successes have relieved the pressure east of the city. The enemy requires fewer divisions to defend this line than if he retreated across the Aisne, whose many windings would necessitate large bodies of troops to defend them.

GERMANS OFFENSIVE ADMITTED STOPPED

Berne, Aug. 5.—The German offensive has been stopped and present operations cannot be publicly discussed, declared General Hollinghath, Bavarian minister of war, in speaking to the first chamber.

Besides, our people are sufficiently steady and patiently will accept the events which delay a final result."

GEN. FOCH PREFERRED OWN MAP TO GERMAN'S

Paris, Aug. 5.—The Echo de Paris recalls a conversation between Premier Lloyd George and General Foch soon after the general was appointed to the supreme allied command, and says it has an important connection with the present victory. A HARDY AND VIRILE PEOPLE—

Was what Jacques Cartier found when in 1534 he landed at Stadacona, an Indian village, where now the mighty Quebec rears its stately citadel. "They spent much of their time traversing in birch bark canoes the many large bodies of water which are in this country." And so it has been down through the centuries; the mighty lakes and rivers, the meandering streams and solitary pools have ever lured the virile and the hardy in the summer at least to their shores. There with yacht, skiff, motor boat and, perhaps the most popular, canoe many have wooed the health and vigor for which the stalwart Indians were noted.

PEOPLE PROCLAIM THEIR PATRIOTISM

Thrilling Celebration of Fourth Anniversary Declaration of War.

MANY SPEAKERS HEARD

Hon. Dr. Cody, Mayor Church and Hon. N. W. Rowell Give Addresses.

Responding to the invitation to mark the fourth anniversary of the declaration of war, and the annual Civic Holiday by taking part in a Community Song-Fest, Toronto citizens turned out in their thousands to enter with spontaneity and accord into what is hoped will be the inauguration of a number of great musical gatherings for the purpose of furthering a love for the greatest of the arts, and at the same time to serve as an impetus to patriotism by the inspiration which a uniting of song amongst the people is sure to afford. The weather, too rather warm for comfort, was otherwise ideal, and the site chosen for the gathering would be hard to eclipse, both in beauty and historical association. The time chosen was 11 a.m., and long before the hour individuals and family parties had taken possession of the favored spots under the shade of the trees on the lawn fronting the parliament buildings, and bordering the avenue of Queen's Park. The throng was of an altogether cosmopolitan character, and every age was represented. Men, women and children were in summer garb and festive attire, the panama hats of the men appearing in great numbers above the white blouses and pink summer wear of women, parasols of every shade being at a premium. When Frank S. Weisman lifted his baton to direct his fine orchestra, and the assembled citizens, the people stood massed as one dense multitude before the stand erected at the steps of the buildings, and decked patriotically in red, white and blue, and in which the orchestra was seated. The words of the opening number, "O God, Our Help, in Ages Past," were taken up with a unanimity that showed that those present had come out to sing, and were going to fulfill their purpose. Printed programs had been distributed, and old and young followed the verses to the close. The overture, "Carnival," charmingly rendered by the orchestra, followed, preceding the address of the mayor, who was the first speaker. Mayor Church Speaks. The mayor thanked all who had made the event possible, especially the officers, choir and musical aggregations who had given their services to mark the fourth year of entrance into the war, the memory of which would live in history. Referring to the part Canada had played, and is playing, the mayor thanked all the people of the United States. They are our brothers in arms. They are the same race as ourselves, they speak our own tongue. We thank God, too, for the protection of the British fleet, which has saved the liberty of the world. It has transported millions of men, and today the Germans are losing everything and are the war Canada will go ahead by leaps and bounds. "Nothing is too good for returned soldiers," continued the mayor. Toronto had riots, and in them he regretted that some innocent people had been hurt. "Yet there was a riot mob-rule is not going to rule, I am a mayor," he declared. In concluding, Mayor Church expressed his pride in the young land that had given so many of her sons, and hoped that before the close of the year peace would be proclaimed, and German militarism dead forever. The singing of the "Maple Leaf" followed, the chorus being taken up enthusiastically by the assemblage. The well known singer, Frank Oldfield, gave the popular number, "Sussex by the Sea," in the chorus of which he was assisted by those present. Enthusiastic applause on the part of the audience brought another verse by Mr. Oldfield, as was also the case when D. A. Morel gave a spirited rendition of "La Marseillaise," with which the audience also showed fair familiarity when joining in the chorus, "Land of Hope and Glory" was another selection with Mr. Oldfield as principal, and the great gathering as assistants. A number on the program was the entrance of Hon. N. W. Rowell, who had just returned from overseas. Mr. Rowell expressed his pleasure at meeting so many of his fellow citizens on so interesting an occasion, and reported that the men overseas were fit, in good spirits and ready to meet the Germans at any time. The speaker referred to the brilliant work of General Foch, which had changed the whole situation. The Germans had been driven back at the Marne, and were being driven back again now. Mr. Rowell referred to the splendid reinforcements from America, which are going over as our allies in hundreds of thousands. Mr. Rowell spoke of the 75th Batalion of Toronto, the remaining members of which he had met overseas, and of the "Nursing Sisters," who had been cruelly murdered by German bullets, and concluded with the assurance that the allies had pledged themselves to see the war thru to the full measure of their ability, until peace is assured. Hon. Dr. Cody's Address. "We do well on this fourth anniversary of war by the mother country to join in this open-air service of praise and patriotism," were the opening words of the Hon. Dr. Cody. "Someone had said," he continued, "let who will make the laws of a country, but let me make its songs." He hoped there would be many repetitions of such occasions in Toronto. Referring to the war, the speaker said it had been undertaken to vindicate our sacred word to stand by a bully, for peace and decency, declared the speaker. The German war lords had thought to strike before the Americans could reach the other side in force, but they had been lamentably mistaken. Sir Douglas Haig, too, had sent out the message which thrilled the world, "we are fighting with our backs to the wall," and the Germans did not know, said Dr. Cody, that Britains are never so dangerous as when they fight with their backs to the wall. "The Americans are now over a million and a half strong, God bless them," was the fervent prayer of the speaker. Faith in our men in the glorious navy, and in God who will never allow truth to be baffled, was the concluding admonition offered. The singing of "Rule Britannia," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "O Canada," "The Star Spangled Banner," and the "National Anthem" was included in the musical program, the whole of which was carried out with an enthusiasm that spoke for the pleasure with which it was entered into by the people of Toronto.

Cheers for the King, and for Frank S. Weisman, leader of the orchestra, closed the ceremony. HAD STROKE. Two people suffered stroke while the "community singing" was in progress at Queen's Park during the noon-hour yesterday. Both the sufferers were women. One of them was a woman of advanced age. While standing with relatives at the corner of University avenue and College street, she complained of feeling ill and then suddenly collapsed. Friends carried her to a shady place under the University avenue trees and administered first aid. OUT FOR PICNIC ON CIVIC HOLIDAY

Toronto Citizens Off to Lake Shore to Escape Heat.

Boats and Trains Carried Large Crowds on Pleasure Bent.

Crowds left by both rail and steamer for the various amusement resorts for the various amusement resorts yesterday. The Civic Holiday was fully taken advantage of by thousands of workers, tollers, housekeepers and their families and even the "tired business man" drifted to the cool shades and fresh lake breezes. The day was an ideal one for picnic parties and every available locality for open air amusements had its fair quota of pleasure seekers. The city streets were mostly deserted and transportation companies of all kinds, including the street railway company, carried large throngs of people away from the damp, sultry hot city to more congenial resting places. Stores were closed and business was completely at a standstill. The holiday was, however, a quiet one, due particularly to the fact that it was a Monday and that a great number of people had left the city on Saturday for a full week end and also to the atmosphere of trouble and riot which is still hanging over Toronto following the events of the last few days.

Great Song-Fest

At noon there was a great song-fest in Queen's Park, when large crowds gathered to sing patriotic songs and listen to the addresses delivered by Mayor Church and Hon. Dr. Cody, minister of education.

The boats to Niagara Falls and those who sailed the lake and bay for short water trips and excursions all carried large crowds of pleasure seekers. All trains leaving the city yesterday and Sunday bore crowds of people who took advantage of the Civic Holiday to pay a long deferred visit to friends and relatives living near-by towns and villages, the traffic being as heavy as on the occasion of any of the other past summer holidays.

The local playhouses of course reopened their fair share of patronage, as there were many who did not desire or did not find time to leave the city. Among the Islands of Georgian Bay. The archipelago consists of something like thirty-two thousand islands, ranging in size from several square miles down to the size of a dining table. Lunge and bass fishing is exceptionally good in the water of this district, and comfortable and well operated hotels and boarding houses are located at Honey Harbour, Killarney, Whistler, Go-Home-Bay, Sable Head, Parry Sound and many other points. The Grand Trunk operates through coaches and parlor library buffet cars from Toronto to Penetang, where direct connection is made with steamer for Georgian Bay resorts. AMERICANS EXTEND AGES OF SERVICE

New Man-Power Bill Makes Men Liable to Forty-Five.

LADS OF EIGHTEEN

President Reserves Right to Call on Neutral Residents.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The new administration man-power bill extending the selective service act to all men between the ages of 18 and 45 inclusive and authorizing the president to call such persons into military service "in such sequence of ages and at such times" as he may prescribe, was introduced today in both houses of congress.

The measure, which was prepared by Secretary Baker with the approval of the president and approved by the General Crowder, was referred to the military committees. Congressional leaders plan to have the measure considered soon after the summer recess period is over the latter part of this month.

In presenting the bill to the senate Chairman Chamberlain of the senate military committee explained in a brief statement its purposes and gave assurance that everything would be done to expedite its passage. While senate leaders admit there may be some opposition they hope that it will be finally passed by September 1.

The principal portions of the bill are as follows:

The president may draft such persons liable to military service in such sequence of ages and at such time or times as he may prescribe, any citizen or a subject of a country neutral in the present war who has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States shall be relieved of liability to military service upon his making a declaration in accordance with regulations as the president may prescribe, withdrawing his intention to become a citizen of the United States . . . and he shall forever be debarred from becoming a citizen of the United States.

Industrial Provisions.
The provisions relating to persons engaged in industry and agriculture providing for their relief from military duty would be amended to read: "Persons engaged in occupations or employment found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or the effective operation of the military forces or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency."

The principal section would provide: "All male persons between the ages of 18 and 45, both inclusive, shall be subject to registration in accordance with regulations to be prescribed by the president, and upon confirmation by the president or other public notice given by him or by his direction, stating the time or times and place or places of any such registration, it shall be the duty of all persons of the designated ages, except officers and enlisted men of the regular army, the navy and the national guard and naval militia while in the service of the United States, to present themselves for and submit to registration under the provisions of this act."

"Persons shall be subject to registration as herein provided who shall have attained their 18th birthday and who shall not have attained their 46th birthday on or before the day set for the registration in any such proclamation by the president or by any such other public notice given by him or by his direction, and all persons so registered shall be and remain subject to draft into the forces hereby authorized unless exempted or excused therefrom by the president may at such interval as he may desire from time to time require all male persons who have attained the age of 18 years since the last preceding registration, and on or before the next date set for registration by proclamation of the president, except such persons as are exempt from registration hereunder, to register in the same manner and subject to the same requirements and liabilities as those previously registered under the terms thereof."

Weekly registration of youths attaining the age of 21 during the next few weeks was proposed by General Crowder as the only means of obtaining the 200,000 men to be called to the colors in September. This could be done by presidential proclamation and would add about $0,000 to the number of men available.

NATURE OF CASUALTIES.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Of the American soldiers wounded in the Marne-Aisne offensive, probably less than one in twenty will die from their wounds, more than four-fifths will be returned to service, and only 14 per cent. will be discharged for disability, according to a statement of the chief of staff today, based upon the officially attested experience of the allies during four years of war.

BRITISH-AMERICAN AVIATORS GO ON TOUR

Washington, Aug. 5.—Cities to be visited by the American and British aviators, for which an aviation tour is being arranged by the committee on public information, have been selected and approximate dates determined upon. Unfavorable weather conditions may cause alteration of some of the dates.

Major C. K. Rhinehart, U.S.A., will be in command of the party, which will start from Washington, and the guest of honor will be Brig-Gen. Charles P. Lee, C.M.G., former British aviator, now head of the British aviation mission to the United States. In the party will be several American and British aviators, and flights and lectures will be given at the different cities named.

FRENCH AT RAILWAY OF MONTDIDIER-AMIENS

With the French Army in France, Aug. 5.—French troops have reached the railroad line between Montdidier and Amiens over virtually its entire length. They occupy all the hills dominating the valley of the Avre.

The towns of Mortsel and Moreuil, on opposite sides of the Avre, ten miles north of Montdidier, are still in the hands of the Germans. During the retirement of the enemy from the hills on the west bank of the Avre, a few prisoners were captured by the French.

On the front before Reims, French artillery fire caught a body of Germans which had congregated near St. Thierry, about four miles north of the city. The fire of the heavy French guns quickly dispersed the enemy.

"HOLD FAST" IS CRY OF LLOYD GEORGE

Allied Prospects Never So Bright, British Premier Declares.

MESSAGE TO NATION

Invincible Bravery of Soldiers Kills German Dream of Conquest.

London, Aug. 5.—"Hold fast," was the keynote of a message to the British Empire issued by Premier David Lloyd George and promulgated in a dramatic way throughout the kingdom at the hour of 9 o'clock tonight. The message was read to the audiences in theatres, concert halls and other places where people were assembled, including the moving picture theatres.

Sealed copies of the message had been distributed to the managers of all these places, with the request that they open and read it at 9 o'clock. The message follows:

"The message which I send to the people of the British Empire on the fourth anniversary of their entry into the war is: 'Hold fast.'
"We are in this war for no selfish ends. We are in it to recover freedom for the nations which have been brutally attacked and despoiled, and to prove that no people, however powerful, can surrender itself to the ambitions of militarism without meeting retribution, swift, certain and disastrous. We are in it to prevent the horrors of war for ourselves by the actions of the world. To stop short of victory for this cause would be to compromise the future of mankind."

"I say 'Hold fast.' Because our prospects of victory have never been so bright as they are today. Six months ago the rulers of Germany deliberately rejected the just and reasonable settlement proposed by the allies. Throwing aside the last mask of moderation, they partitioned Russia, enslaved Rumania, and attempted to seize supreme power by overthrowing the allies in a final and desperate attack. Thanks to the invincible bravery of all the allied armies, it is now evident to all that this dream of universal conquest, for the sake of which they have prolonged the war, can never be fulfilled.

"But the battle is not yet won. The great autocracy of Prussia will still endeavor, by violence or guile, to avoid defeat and so give militarism a new lease of life. We cannot seek to escape the horrors of war for ourselves by saying them up for our children. Having set our hands to the task, we must see it thru till a just and lasting settlement is achieved."
"In no other way can we endure a world set free from war."
"Hold fast."

NO QUARTER IN FISMES.

Paris, Aug. 5.—The Americans covered themselves with glory in the hand-to-hand fighting in the streets of Fismes yesterday when they captured that German base. The fighting is said to have been the bitterest of the whole war, the Prussian guards asking no quarter and being bayoneted or clubbed to death as they stood by their machine guns.

ALLIES CONTINUE PURSUIT OF ENEMY

Both Banks of River Are Under Heavy Artillery Fire.

TO STAND ON AISNE.

Germans to Attempt Halting of Allied Advance Shortly.

Paris, Aug. 5.—The allied pursuit of the Germans continues and latest reports are that only a few enemy troops remain south of the Vesle. The Havas Agency today in reviewing the situation, French patrols have crossed the Vesle at Bazoches and Jonchery, west and east of Fismes respectively.

Allied troops hold the entire southern bank of the Vesle. The Fismes and Reims-Stubborn resistance was made by Prussian and Bavarian guards between Muizon and Champligny, but they were forced to suffer heavy losses. Both banks of the Vesle now are under heavy artillery fire from the opposing armies.

The Germans, it is believed, will try to stop at an intermediate position between the Vesle and the Aisne, but probably they will not make a definite halt before the Aisne is reached.

The enemy has suffered serious losses in men and materiel. Enemy dead are scattered along all the roads leading north. A large number of platforms for 88 millimeter guns have been found in the old German lines, further indication that the Germans intended to stay there.

The question is being asked in Paris whether the German advance north and south of the Somme after that from the Marne does not indicate a change in tactics in order to obtain effectiveness for a new offensive elsewhere. It is also asked if the retrograde movement will not result in an extensive withdrawal similar to that from Somme in March, 1917.

MRS. WILSON LAUNCHES BIG CARGO-CARRIER

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—With a hearty God-speed from the president of the United States and Mrs. Wilson, the cargo-carrier Quistconck, the plant, was successfully launched early this afternoon.

Mrs. Wilson, with the president standing at her side, christened the ship as nearly 50,000 persons, standing in the broiling sun, wildly cheered.

The president made no speech, but in response to the urgent appeals of the crowd, waved his hat and shouted, "Good luck to you."

The large cargo-carrier is the first of the largest shipyard in America. It will be launched by another within a few weeks and it is expected that more than fifty ships will be launched by the end of the present year.

MARKED DEPRESSION IN GERMAN ARMIES

Documents Taken by British Disclose Effect of Recent Events.

With the British Army in France, Aug. 5.—Documents of the most significant character, indicating that recent events have brought about an extremely marked state of depression in the German army, have fallen into the hands of the British. Most significant of all, perhaps, is an extract from a German officer's diary, in which he relates he had been asked by the divisional headquarters whether the troops in the line favored peace or a continuation of the war, his answer being: "Immediate peace or an immediate decisive battle."
This entry was dated before the German drive for the Marne began.

Hardly less important is a letter taken from a German prisoner. It was written to him by another German who was stationed along the Marne. It reads:
"You will be as thick of it now. Shirk as much as you can. Do not be stupid. We are risking our lives only for big victories. Now we are in the hands of the British. We are in a very bad way. The C.P.R. has completed arrangements to transport to the west this great army of workers."
The war is becoming a greater mass-sacre than ever. What is going to happen, I don't know. Germany is slowly crumbling to pieces."
Another prisoner just captured on the British front says that the official figures show that 12,000 of his comrades were made prisoners in the Champagne fighting, but that rumor along this front is that 60,000 Germans and 800 guns were lost.

Adding to the gloom of his division, which realizes that Germany has suffered a great defeat, the prisoner said the food given the men was very poor. He said that poor rations had been especially noticeable for the past three months. The only time that good food is served, he said, is before the Germans are to participate in an offensive.

ENCOUNTER RESISTANCE NORTH OF VESLE RIVER

Paris, Aug. 5.—Fierce detachments which crossed the Vesle are meeting with resistance from the Germans, says the official statement from the war office.
"There is nothing of importance to report from the battlefield. Small French detachments which crossed the Vesle are meeting with German resistance everywhere."

HARVEST HANDS IN DEMAND TO SAVE WESTERN CROP.

Mr. R. L. Fairbairn, general passenger agent, Canadian Northern Railway, Toronto, states that as a result of a conference between their western representatives and representatives of the Dominion and provincial governments in Winnipeg it has been decided that at least 20,000 harvesters will be required over and above the local supply of help available to garner the western wheat crop this year.

An appeal must be made to the east and this help should be timed to reach Winnipeg for distribution to needy points west, from August 20 to September 10. It is understood that harvest wages this year will be from $2.50 to $4.00 per day with board, for about three months' work.

FRENCH WAR MISSION TO VISIT AUSTRALIA

Washington, Aug. 5.—France's war mission to Australia, headed by Albert Metin, member of the cabinet of officers, and with the famous General Pau as chief of the military section, has arrived in Washington to spend a few days before proceeding on the way to Sydney. Arrangements were made today for the visitors to call on President Wilson and to meet members of the diplomatic corps.

On leaving Washington, the mission will go to San Francisco by way of Chicago, Denver, Colorado Springs and Salt Lake City, and will be officially received at each of the cities by the municipal authorities.

TO REINSTATE MEN IN WESTERN UNION

New York, Aug. 5.—Reinstatement of 1,000 Western Union Telegraph operators, said to have been discharged for joining or sympathizing with the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, and the adoption by the government of an "open shop" policy in the telegraph industry, similar to that adopted for railroad employes, is asked of Postmaster-General Buison in a resolution adopted by members of the union here yesterday.

The preamble of the resolution says that, since the government took control of the wires, "discharges have been made from New York, St. Louis, Atlanta and other cities," and that "if this policy be not immediately changed, it will result in serious consequences."

BRITISH DECOY SHIP TRAPS SUBMARINE

Sir Eric Geddes Tells Thrilling Story of Sea Fight.

London, Aug. 4.—A thrilling story of a night between a British decoy ship and a German submarine was told by Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the admiralty, at a weekly concert held for the American troops at the Palace Theatre tonight. He explained that the Germans now know about the ruse and it is needless to withhold the story longer.

The decoy, known as "550," had the appearance of a dingy old collier, which was suitably attired, he said. This ship sailed into the Atlantic with the necessary orders and finally sighted a German submarine. The decoy turned and ran away, but the submarine overhauled her and opened fire. Some of the German shells fell on the decoy's deck and members of the crew were wounded and killed. The fight of the decoy continued until the vessel was sunk. One hour and a half later the submarine drew nearer.

In the meantime the decoy's decks had been lit up and the captain knew that her magazine would soon explode. In fact the explosion came in a short time and sent one of her guns hurtling thru the air.

The submarine had now swung around in front of the decoy. The captain of the latter signalled to a man-of-war which had been keeping below the horizon and then unmasked the forward gun of the decoy and heavily shelled the submarine. One projectile tore away the enemy's conning tower and another hit her in the hull. She sank after the fight had lasted for five hours.

The warship, which had been keeping out of sight, moved up and rescued the crew of the decoy.

"There is no longer any need of secrecy," concluded Sir Eric. "Admiral Sims, and his men, says that one of trapping submarines."

SOVIET GOVERNMENT SUPPORTING JUNKERS

Amsterdam, Aug. 5.—The entire diplomatic representatives in Russia, before leaving Volodga for Helsinki, made known the attitude of their governments to the soviet government, according to a Russian newspaper Pravda, as quoted by German newspapers. They declared that their countries did not desire to maintain any sort of connection with the soviet government so long as that government was supporting "the German junker power in Russian soil" as was within public knowledge, the newspaper reports.

GERMAN GUNS BUSY OPPOSITE LA BASSEE

London, Aug. 5.—Raiding operations were carried out last night by the British southeast of Arras, near Neuville-Vitasse, in which prisoners were taken, the war office announced today.

On the northern front, opposite La Bassee, the German guns have been very active. They have shown some activity also north of Bethune and between Hazebrouck and Ypres.

Munitions Workers

Eternal vigilance and unfaltering effort is the price we must pay for victory.

If our efforts are not equal to or greater than our enemies' we shall become their prey.

We are forced to recognize a considerable "slackening up," man for man and woman for woman, in Canadian munitions production.

The high motive which animated and stimulated the munitions worker a year or more ago is seemingly dying away. The work has become too much "a matter of course."

This attitude must be conquered. Munitions labour was never so vital. Its effect upon the morale of our Armies was never so potent.

Catastrophe would actually follow a continued slowing up of munitions labour.

Put the old fire and enthusiasm into your work.

MEN AT THE FRONT NOT DOWN-HEARTED

Hon. N. W. Rowell Brings Cheerful Message on Return From Overseas.

That the great wish and hope of the Canadian troops fighting in France and Flanders is that the people at home "Carry on" and do their part while the soldiers at the front are driving back the Hun, is the gist of a message from Canada's armies overseas, brought by Hon. N. W. Rowell, who has just arrived here from the other side.

Hon. Mr. Rowell has had many opportunities during his stay in Europe, of meeting prominent members of the Dominion forces, and other public men, and has had occasion to give expression of the thoughts that animate the soldiers on the other side of the ocean. Last night he said: "A message which I am sure that Canadian troops at the front would like to carry on until the war is brought to a victorious conclusion. I look with confidence that the people at home will do their part, and to carry on as a whole-hearted and united manner, so that by the combined efforts of those at home and those at the front, Canada may play a worthy part in this, the greatest struggle of history."

WOMAN OF BRANTFORD IS REPORTED MISSING

Mrs. Laura Hancock has been missing from her home, 377 Colborne street, Brantford, since July 16. Mrs. Hancock had been ill for a year and was in a very weak condition. She apparently left her home about noon and her people have had absolutely no trace since.

Mrs. Hancock stands about five feet five inches in height, and was wearing a black hat, white waist and grey skirt. She carried away a club bag with the initials "L. H." on the side. She has a rash on her forehead.

The Brantford police have been unable to get any trace of the missing woman, particulars of whom were supplied to them by her husband, Norman Hancock.

However, no call came and because of these troops being warned for a possible hurried departure to take the boat for Toronto, there were no field sports or ball games in camp. There was a half holiday this afternoon in connection with Toronto's Civic Holiday and many visitors were in camp.

LIEUT. B. N. GARRETT PRISONER IN GERMANY

Missing Pilot Forced to Land Behind Hun Lines During Fight With Fokkers.

The many friends of Lieut. Beverley N. Garrett will be pleased to hear that he is a prisoner in Germany and in good health, according to a cable received yesterday by his father, A. N. Garrett of The Toronto World, from his elder brother, Gunner Dudley Garrett, who is convalescing in a London hospital.

Lieut. Garrett was reported missing three weeks ago. Letters received by his father yesterday afternoon indicate that the aviator went out on patrol on July 14 and the flight became mixed up with some other British machines of the same type of another squadron when some skinning took place with enemy scouts. In the ensuing confusion young Garrett became lost and when the patrol re-formed he was nowhere to be seen. This took place about four miles behind the German lines, southeast of Nieppe Forest.

B. E. Smith, major R.A.F. officer commanding Lieut. Garrett's squadron, the 64th, in his letter says: "He is a great loss to the squadron and I deplore his absence. He is, I feel, a very fine pilot. He was an extremely fine fellow and very popular."

Lieut. Garrett's squadron chum, Walter R. Henderson, who was a schoolmate at Ridley College, gives some interesting information concerning the "show" where young Garrett lost his way.

"We went over on a patrol and Beverley has not returned. The last I saw of him he was driving with me on a German Fokker. I never saw him after. His engine may have knocked and he wasn't shot down. I am positive he wasn't shot down, as we outnumbered the Huns and the fight didn't last long. We were 2000 feet up and four miles over, so if his engine fouled he has landed in Humland, all right."

"We are all very sorry over it, as he was one of the gamest in the flight. He had been in previous good fights and did wonderfully well. He could handle his machine as well as the next man. The scrap started this way: We were patrolling the line when we saw a patrol of 8 E's from another squadron get into a trap. They dived on four Fokkers and eight Fokkers came out of the clouds onto them. We immediately dived on these and Beverley and I picked one Hun on the tail of an S E's. I fired a long burst and 'zoomed' up, looping over my tail. I saw Bev. on the Hun tail firing short bursts. I lost sight of both then and that was the last I saw of him. But I didn't worry as it became a general mix-up for a few minutes, and we didn't get into formation until, 15 minutes later, that two of our machines were missing. When we arrived home one was there, but Beverley was not."

While the cable from his brother yesterday, is not official, it makes a positive statement that the young flight-lieutenant is a prisoner, hale and hearty, in some prison camp in Germany.

Lieut. Garrett and his brother Dudley were boys at Ridley when the war broke out, having previously attended University Schools. Both were proficient in Rugby, hockey and cricket. Beverley's best in athletics was as a member of the Aura Lee Club, junior hockey champions in 1916.

MARCHING TO VICTORY.

It was a proud moment when the War Gardener brought in his first basket of beans. It was his first important victory. All spring he had been fighting out worms, drouth, and weeds, and at last, the first fruits of victory—beans.

But the War Gardener's war is not yet over; his victory is not yet completed. He must call upon the women and the kitchen for reinforcements. If you can't, dry it, and store it away for the winter. Not until then is your war garden victory assured.

Write to your Provincial Committee of the Canada Food Board, or, if in Ontario, to the Ontario Organization of Resources Committee, Toronto, and get one of the attractive and helpful booklets of instructions which are being distributed at 5 cents per copy. It will tell you about canning, drying and fruit storing.

The Allies Mobbed to France

Change in the high command, rather the creation of a one high command, of the allied forces is bearing magnificent fruit. General Foch is getting results in a surprising way.

Of course, the apologists of the old system will say that that, too, was their program—that they were only waiting more men, more munitions, more supplies; that they have these now, as well as the American army. But it is more than that: Foch and Wilson believe in a different kind of fighting, of striking before the enemy can strike, of striking back, of fighting, of counter attack, of following up, even if you are short-handed.

The old order of a mass of men without battle; of inglorious retreats; of not removing forthwith generals who failed in the task assigned them, or in not making good of the chances that came their way; all these things are over.

And the same with the naval arm: the British fleet could have got to Constantinople in the early days of the war if the aggressive method had then been recognized as it is today. Not that it is a new plan: it was the plan of Alexander, of Hannibal, of Frederick the Great, of Napoleon. There's an instructive article in the current Blackwood on Foch, that brings out the great difference between the two systems. And the French turned the Germans at the Marne four years ago; as the allies following their plan of that time are sending them back headlong over the same ground. France and French generals were on the right track from the start.

Sir George Adam Smith.

Sir George Adam Smith, principal of the University of Aberdeen, and perhaps the greatest living literary theologian in Britain, is at present on a visit to the United States, and it has been hoped that he would pay a visit to Canada. Sir George is best known as a writer, his volumes on Isaiah and the minor prophets, on Jerusalem and the Holy Land and on various theological subjects, giving him high rank, but as a preacher and speaker he is among the foremost. His visit is in connection with war purposes, and his interest in the war is measured by the two sons that have fallen in the fight, and the third at the front.

Sir George is in the United States as a guest of the national committee on the moral aims of the war—the aims common to the allies. Sir George himself defined his mission as one "to effect a closer co-operation between American and British universities after the war."

"We expect to establish a co-ordination of the degrees so we shall be able to exchange post-graduate students," he stated. "Heretofore the British universities have sent their post-graduates to Germany. But the magnificent endowed laboratories of the universities in this country will afford to our students wonderful opportunities for research and study."

Sir George, speaking of the actual war, said that, while Britain's casualties in the war were proportionately as great as those of France, Britain had not been invaded. "It is France that has made the greatest sacrifices."

Yet Scotland, with a population of 4,750,000, has sent 200,000 men into the war. "I feel that Canada has sent a million men who has not equaled this. The universities have been swept bare of students, save for those too young to go or those who have returned unfit for further service."

It will be unfortunate if Sir George cannot be persuaded to include Toronto in his tour. He has no more enthusiastic admirers anywhere than in Canada.

The Good Dr. Jekyll and the Bad Mr. Hyde.

Serenely confident in the belief that only a small percentage of its readers ever appear at the editorial page, our neighbor, The Globe, has placed the columns of the page under the worthy Dr. Jekyll, but has committed the rest of the paper to the control of the more practical Mr. Hyde. We recall in the old days how Dr. Jekyll wrote strong editorials against the liquor traffic, while Mr. Hyde, of the business office, was filling the remaining pages with alluring advertisements exhorting the populace to drink long and heartily of Scotch whiskeys, French brandies and Milwaukee beers. The editorial Jekyll was strong against race-aside betting, but Mr. Hyde, of the sporting staff, leaped the lobby at Ottawa, which defeated the Miller bill. During the past week the Mr. Hyde who passes on copy and looks after the make-up has been given the place of honor on the front page to a virulent attack on the Union government as a collection of Bolsheviki who were bent on railway nationalization, while the worthy Dr. Jekyll, in the editorial columns, has been defending the Union government and the cause of public ownership.

The Globe's Ottawa correspondent—again evidently an ubiquitous Mr. Hyde—has unearthed an order-in-council passed by the government which enables private property to be confiscated. He points out that under this order the Ross Rifle Company has been badly treated, and intimates that the plant and business of the William Davies Co. may be entirely confiscated. He says that our traveling ministers while abroad spent all their time apologizing for the Bolsheviki tendencies of the Union government; but he points out that these apologies were not accepted because the financiers of the world were horrified at the way we are taxing the Canadian Pacific and are threatening to seize the property and trample upon the contract rights of the Grand Trunk!

Good Dr. Jekyll does not agree with this at all and declares himself in favor of public ownership. He is silent in respect to the Ross Rifle, but defends the course of the government in respect to the railways. In the course of his deliverance in Saturday's issue he says:

"Canadian ministers in London have been obliged," says a despatch, "to give public reassurance that Canada would keep faith with those who invested their money here."

The "despatch" thus vaguely alluded to was a despatch to The Globe which appeared, featured on its front page, on Friday last. Mr. Hyde is evidently getting in his work again and Dr. Jekyll refrains from quoting him fully. Let us supply the omission to some extent. Part of the Ottawa despatch which appeared in Friday's Globe reads as follows:

During their stay in London the Canadian ministers were obliged to give public reassurance that Canada would keep faith with those who invested their money here. Hon. Arthur Meighen, while in London, gave a positive declaration on behalf of the government that "Canada would allow no conscription of legitimate investment."

It is being pointed out, however, that this declaration can hardly carry its intended reassuring influence so long as a certain order-in-council, passed by the Borden government in March of last year, is not rescinded. This order-in-council, which has hitherto apparently escaped notice or comment in Canada, gives authority to the government to adopt the most extreme methods in Canada, so far as the arbitrary expropriation of private property without compensation is concerned. British and United States financiers, however, apparently know of it.

Other People's Opinions

Raising Judges' Salaries.

Editor World: You will have noticed where "Most Learned Judges" have been meeting in the city and the chief topic under discussion is not how can we raise more money for the poor boys, my brothers, who are stopping the bullets for the same judges; or, how can we increase the H.I.A. they paid the boys, but how can we force the government to increase our $2,000 for sentencing the noble youth to stop bullets in our behalf. A number of the same septuagenarians have long since passed the period when Oiler decides they should be treated with chloroform. Notably, O'Leary, Coulter, Ermatinger. The Danish used to cut off the right arm of all who put up the prices during war. Here is a good chance for an inactive and absent cabinet to get busy. We think you should have the ability to do some awakening in the right place and stop all these ruinous strikes. If the press fails to speak up rest assured my brother soldiers will not be inactive on their dire calamity, I am admirably your reader.

THE WIFE

By JANE PHELPS

Sanguine Youth.

CHAPTER II.
It was not only in house furnishings that Ruth reveled; she loved, also, dainty, soft fabrics to wear. Her house gowns she fashioned herself, of tact on odd Oriental fabrics, and her underwear was always of sheers, softest lawn or silk.

Her street clothes were always simple. She was always the case with people of taste. She had little use for evening or party dresses, as the town was small, and her aunt missed with few of the people.

Strangely, Ruth never had seemed to mind this. There were two or three girls quite near her own age with whom she was intimate, after a fashion, and a few young men whom she condescended to treat to it were unavoidable. But mostly she and her aunt were together, each seemingly satisfied to have it as usual. Brian Hackett came to visit his relatives.

Brian's uncle happened to be the father of one of the girls whom Ruth visited. She was a college man—even if he had worked his way—and was different from the slow-going southern boys in whom she had no particle of interest.

Brian Hackett was twenty-five years old when Ruth met him. He was tall, straight and broad-shouldered. His finely shaped head, brown hair and eyes, white teeth and winning smile, were partly what had attracted the beauty-loving Ruth. For no one could deny that Brian Hackett was handsome. Yet there was nothing in the least effeminate about him.

It was on the occasion of his second visit that he proposed to Ruth and was accepted. In the meantime they had corresponded. It probably would have made no difference to Ruth, feeling as she then did, but she had not been so ingained in your nature that you never would have been contented in meagre surroundings, even had you not been so indulged. Then, after a long look in which amusement struggled with something else, something very like disappointment, she said: "You would you look washing dishes in that?" she indicated, by a gesture, a soft, trailing house robe of creamy silk.

"It isn't all selfishness, dear," she had said when she and Ruth discussed the matter, "although I am selfish where you are concerned. But I know you never will be happy as a poor man's wife. That it is so, is probably my fault in a great measure. Yet, I imagine, if you were not so ingained in your nature that you never would have been contented in meagre surroundings, even had you not been so indulged. Then, after a long look in which amusement struggled with something else, something very like disappointment, she said: "You would you look washing dishes in that?" she indicated, by a gesture, a soft, trailing house robe of creamy silk.

PRINCIPLE GOOD BUT METHOD BAD

Opinion of Veteran and Labor Leaders Regarding Recent Riots.

William Varley stated yesterday afternoon that he had been invited to address the gathering of returned soldiers and others at the demonstration held at Queen's Park in the city because a woman had approached him earlier in the day and had demanded that he, in the name of the returned soldiers, apologize for the occurrence of Friday and Saturday. He addressed the gathering, not to apologize for any alleged delinquencies of returned soldiers, but to point to the government the need of listening to the voice of reason, and to act instead of everlastingly side-issuing queries. It is quite correct to call the German military establishment a "great machine," doing its work and moving with precision. Americans are unused to arms and never had military training of any sort. Here and there a boy will be sent to West Point and in the course of time will be an officer in the small American regular army.

When we went into this war a little more than a year ago we took hundreds of thousands of young men who never had had guns in their hands, drilled them a few months, taught them how to shoot, and then we advanced them to use the bayonet, and how to conduct themselves as soldiers. Then we turned them against this great German machine. They stunned the machine. They disregarded German rules of warfare. We read how beyond Chateau Thierry they were ordered to attack the Hun. They "shrew off their coats," the Americans did, "rolled up their sleeves," and sprang at the Hun with "unbelievable ferocity." They fought "like tigers," says a French correspondent. The Huns were forced back, their dead strewn the ground, the Americans captured more than 20,000 of them, killed and wounded as many more, and moved forward like a swift-going steam roller. This with less than six months' training.

Perhaps, after all, the Germans have the wrong idea about war. The battle is not won by a military machine, but is gained by the man of courage, who strips off his coat, and attacks with unheated ferocity, the American has ignored the German machine; it is to him something to be smashed with a hammer and thrown into the ditch.

The effective use made of their rifles by the Americans surprises the Germans," says a cable despatch. The American soldier has his rifle for use, not for ornament. The German and other Europeans depend almost entirely on their artillery, their bombs, hand grenades, but the American has been carefully trained to use the weapon which is placed in his hands, an effort having been made to turn out a great army of sharpshooters. When French and British soldiers go "over the top" of their parapets, fire when the enemy is 300 yards away and then rush forward in a charge. They merely fire toward the enemy. Not so the Americans. When they face their foes they fire deliberately and at 800 yards. Each man picks out a living target and when he fires down goes a Hun. Then the charge is made. We read: "When the Americans rushed forward the ground was covered with the bodies of Germans. The reason is plain: they were marks for sharpshooting Americans. No wonder the Germans are surprised at the work of the Americans. Says a cable despatch: "The Americans encountered the Germans in hand-to-hand combat, attacking with almost unbelievable ferocity. That is their business in life, the slaying of Germans, and the more they kill the sooner will the war be over. 'Treat them rough' is the motto of the ideal system of instruction in using their arms and 'unbelievable ferocity' which is only another way of saying courage, are what will win the great combat. The German war office is said to be exceedingly indignant over the employment of 'black Americans' in the battle line. These black Americans are American citizens, who, now a product of the ideal system of instruction developed in this country, are second to no fighting men on earth, and unlike the 'white Hun' who fight clean, they do not attack women and they would not, if turned loose in an enemy city, slaughter innocent children. 'But, boy,' as the wife of one of them is quoted as saying, 'they can go home.' The 'black' American at home is a civilized individual, he attends public school in his youth and in his adult age turns his attention to various pursuits, the same as his Caucasian neighbor. The two races do not come socially to any great extent because neither desires it. Even so, the negro is less "distant" than many settlements of German-born residents. The outcry from Berlin is a compliment to the negro. The Hun has met him on the battlefield and has verified the proud boast of Mrs. Henry Johnson, of Albany, N.Y., U.S.A., whose husband, in "going some," found himself finally in front of a French commander who decorated him with the Croix de War.—N. OLD COUNTRY VICTORS IN PATRIOTIC CRICKET

FOLLIES OF THE PASSING SHOW—By Mitchell

HAVE YOU EVER NOTICED? Many only a multitude of junk.

Defeat the Rest by Thirty-seven Runs on the Holiday.

The patriotic cricket match staged at Trinity College grounds yesterday was a huge success in every sense of the word. The proceeds were divided between the Red Cross and the G.W.V.A. A nice sum was netted, and these two associations will benefit to no small extent.

A contingent of returned soldiers from the Base Hospital were interested spectators and enjoyed the match immensely. A series of sports were run off in conjunction with the match. St. Edmunds won the relay race, R. Murray was the victor in the sprint and the tent-pegging competition, T. Morris won the boys' race.

The cricket itself furnished some good features. The batting of Roberts, Simmons, Barford and Wakefield, for Old Country, was excellent, and Marsden and Wakefield fielded the bowling.

For "the rest," Dorkin, Tunbridge, McKinnon and Moyton were best with the bat, and McKinnon and Tunbridge were the best bowlers.

Also "the rest" led by 13 runs in the first inning, the Old Country made up the leeway and eventually ran out winners by 47 runs.

TO BUGS HERCHE FROM W. MAC'S FRIEND DUNCAN McALLISTER

To Miss Ida L. Webster, Care Toronto World. Dear Lassie,—You are no sic an awsome body after all, and it was real guid o' ye to answer oor screed about the baseball game. Willie Macpherson, the returned soldier, ye ken, and a sly toad, who causes muckle mischief about the hospital, has cut it out the paper to show theither lads. Willie says ye mind him o' a lass he used to walk out with in Glasgow and was daffy about. The nurse barges him something awfu' about ye, but Willie just grins like a sheep's head. But mair about that another time.

TWO FROM THE HERD ON HOLIDAY PLAYED OVERTIME IN MORNING

Onslow's Timely Hit Turned the Trick Before Luncheon—Leafs Hit Smartly in Afternoon and Won by Wide Margin.

The Leafs celebrated Toronto's Civic Holiday in the right fashion. George Witte's Buffalo Bisons made their first appearance of the season here and took the short count in both games. In the morning the Herd gave the Howleyites a peck of trouble, and it took a base smash by Eddie Onslow in the eleventh, with nobody out, to pull a 2 to 1 victory.

The afternoon heat was much better. The Leafs swung their little old bats like champions and piled up the runs and hits on two Buffalo pitchers with telling regularity. The final count was 7 to 1, with Hal Justin having no trouble in holding the Bisons in check.

Nine thousand fans had a fine time after the dinner hour. The Leafs had on their batting legs and carried the afternoon game to a 7 to 1 victory. Justin was up for good form, and Butley's six holes were not so hot.

Only one mistake was chalked up against the Leafs in the afternoon. It was a single by Purcell, but he was the most useful young man, with three drives, sending in one run and scoring two himself. Callahan, Lear and Justin helped themselves to a couple of runs each.

Two hits and an infield out gave Purcell his lone tally in the 8th. In only one other inning did the Herd look like scoring and good fielding cut down this chance. The Leafs retired as they batted in the first inning, but went right to work in the second hole and showed over two runs. An error by the Bison shortstop started the joyful stuff. Lear and Purcell dropped a hit in left, Onslow's bunt forced Lear at third, but Mokan's healthy smash to left let over the first run. He took out one of the safes for another counter. Justin rolled out.

With one out of the way Callahan was
