QUEBEC GOES LIBERAL BY REDUCED MAJORITY

Government Has Fifty-five Seats to Opposition's Sixteen at Midnight

Bourassa Defeated Premier Gouin in St. James Division, Montreal, by Forty-one Majority, After Spectacular Contest—Nationalist Leader Also Tied Opponent in St. Hyacinthe—Lavergne Elected, Too—Conservative Leader Beaten.

(Special to The Telegraph.)
Montreal, June 8.—Returns received at midnight indicate that the Gouin administration has been supported in the elections by a majority of at least thirty-nine, the latest figures showing fifty-five Liberals elected to sixteen opposition members, the latter category including fourteen Conservatives and two Nationalists, while two Independent Liberals are counted on the government side, which they will undoubtedly support.

The net result of the elections is that the Gouin government will go back, but will have to face a much larger and stronger opposition, while the premier will have to return with the worst kind of a black eye in that he was defeated in his home riding by Mr. Bourassa, who converted a Liberal majority of thousands into a minority for Hon. Mr. Gouin of 41.

The duel between Premier Gouin and Mr. Bourassa was the spectacular contest of the campaign, and absorbed the interest not merely of the province but of the whole country, since the Laurier government had deliberately stepped into the defense of Premier Gouin, and had sent Hon. Messrs. Brodeur and Lemieux to speak for the provincial leader and declare that a vote for Bourassa was a vote for the Conservative party and one against Laurier. In view of this fact, the defeat of Premier Gouin in St. James is doubly significant.

Bourassa Ties in St. Hyacinthe.

Of course the provincial premier, who has been returned for Portneuf so that he retains his seat, but as a compromise to this Mr. Bourassa, according to latest reports, has also scored a tie vote in St. Hyacinthe, where he ran against Mr. Gouin, a straight Liberal candidate. The result means that the contest was given by the government-appointed officer against Mr. Bourassa, or will undoubtedly be a recount which may sensibly alter the complexion of affairs.

All the Ministers Returned.

Otherwise the government circles are little changed. All the ministers have been returned, the only important defeat being that of Achille Bergevin in Beauharnois, Mr. Bergevin having been very close to the government, and slated for an early portfolio.

The opposition in the new legislature however, will be very different to the one man arrangement of the last house, with P. E. LeBlanc leading the Conservatives and Messrs. Bourassa and Lavergne recruited from the federal domain to join the opponents to the provincial Liberal administration.

NEW YORK NURSE LURES DOCTOR TO ROOM AND KILLS HIM

Jares Her Victim Wronged Her and Courts Wouldn't Punish Him.

New York, June 8.—Sarah Keten, the young trained nurse, who lured Dr. Martin W. Auspitz, to a house in Harlem last night with a false sick call by telephone, and shot him to death after she had him in wait for many hours, declared today that she had no regret for her act. "I shot him, but I did not murder him," she said in a cell in the police station. "I killed him because he had wronged me and then refused to help me. I tried to punish him in the courts, but found myself powerless. My father and mother are dead, so I had to protect myself."

There seems little doubt that when the case against the girl goes to trial, a jury more will have an opportunity to pass upon "the unwritten law" or the justification of murder under certain circumstances.

GOVERNOR HUGHES RENEWS CRUSADE AGAINST GAMBLING

Albany, N. Y., June 8.—Governor Hughes sent to the extraordinary session of the legislature tonight his long anticipated special message, recommending for consideration the enactment of suitable legislation for the prevention of race track gambling. He also recommends the enactment of "suitable legislation with regard to diseases of cattle, especially tuberculosis."

Forty-five senators, more than a quorum were in their seats when the roll was called today, but Senator Poelker was not present. His vote is apparently of the utmost importance to the fate of the anti-gambling legislation recommended by Gov. Hughes.

CONSERVATIVES HAVE 68 MAJORITY IN ONTARIO

Carried Eighty-seven of the 106 Seats in Monday's Elections

Eighteen Liberals and One Independent in Next House—All the Straight Temperance Men Defeated—Toronto Went Solid for Government—Ottawa Opposition Cheered by Their Party's Showing.

(Special to The Telegraph.)
Toronto, Ont., June 8.—Final election returns show—Conservatives, 67; Liberals, 18; Independent, 1; Total, 106; Government majority, 68.

The Conservatives have carried both Brant, Brockville, Dufferin, West Elgin, South Grey, West Hamilton, West Hastings, West Kent, Kingston, Lincoln, London, East Northumberland, West Ottawa, Soo, eight Thorntons and East York.

The Liberal party in Ontario today has passed under red, but while the reports at first were of a most severe reverse, later returns show that the party will be much worse off than in the former house, either in membership or ability.

There are no striking features of the election except the return of eight straight Conservatives in Toronto.

All the temperance, labor, independent and straight Liberal candidates are simply wiped out and hardly leave a memory behind.

No Talk of Corruption.

There is little talk of corruption on either side. Recent dealings with a band of organized ballot swindlers at London have had a marked effect in clearing the air of that class, who unfortunately only needed to be protected by their friends in office.

With a government in power at Ottawa prepared to detect and punish Conservative wrong doing and one in Toronto equally keen to keep Grits up to the mark, the day of the corruptionists, it is hoped, is over in Toronto politics.

The power policy was the government's strong suit, and the people of western Ontario who depend on United States mines almost altogether for a coal supply, welcomed a change in power at Niagara with all its wonderful possibilities as to heating as well as lighting and cooking.

In certain parts there was a strong opposition to the government's policy, especially in the Niagara district and Hamilton, where local plans supply power at fair prices, but further west and in London and Windsor particularly, the people voted for power almost unanimously and supported the government, to whom they owe the development of the power scheme.

Canoe Man Drowned.

(Canoe, N.S., June 8.—Special.)—The finding of an overturned sail boat this afternoon in Squid Cove in this harbor, tells another tale of the loss of another life. This time it is a young man, Thomas Dolan, about twenty years of age, unmarried. A family living on the island heard cries and going in the direction of the sound found the overturned boat. The body has not yet been recovered.

Lynn Boy Drowned.

Lynn, Mass., June 8.—George Sheehan, twelve years, was drowned in Flax pond this afternoon. He and other boys were playing in a boat when some one playfully tipped young Sheehan out of the boat.

AMERICAN ROADS WILL NOT INCREASE FREIGHT RATES

Washington, June 8.—No general increase in freight rates is likely to be made by the railways of the country in the near future if it be made at all. Certainly nothing will be done before next autumn and it is likely now that anything approaching a general increase will be attempted this year.

FATAL EXPLOSION OF CHEMICAL ENGINE

Manitoba Fireman Killed and Another Injured by Cylinder Bursting.

(Special to The Telegraph.)
Hamilton, Man., June 8.—This morning Lorne Baker lost his life and Arthur Histerman and several others narrowly escaped.

WALTHAM WATCH FACTORY SHUTS DOWN

Two Thousand Employees Out of Work Till August.

Boston, June 8.—The 2,000 employees of the American Waltham Watch Company's factory at Waltham, were notified today that the works will be shut down on June 26 until August 4. The factory has been running on short time for several months, due to dull business.

CAN REVIEW THAT £300,000 LOAN AT BETTER RATE

Hon. Messrs. Hazen and Fleming's Mission to Montreal Successful

Will Decide Later Whether to Issue Long Term Bonds or Carry it Along for Another Year—Premier Starts for Ottawa to Arrange for Settling Accounts Between Central Railway and Dominion Government.

(Special to The Telegraph.)
Montreal, June 8.—Hon. J. D. Hazen, premier of New Brunswick, and Hon. J. K. Fleming, provincial secretary in the Hazen administration, were in the city today making arrangements for a renewal of a provincial loan for £300,000 sterling. They were quite successful in their mission, and Premier Hazen left today for Ottawa, while Hon. Mr. Fleming took the night train for Fredericton, where he was called by pressing departmental business.

The Premier and myself called at the Bank of Montreal this morning," said Hon. Mr. Fleming this afternoon, "and had a very satisfactory interview with E. S. Clouston, the general manager, and Mr. Stavert. Conditions are now such that I do not think there will be any difficulty whatever in renewing this loan upon the provincial treasury bills for another year. This will be done, unless we decide that it will be more desirable for the province to make a permanent bond issue at once. That is a question the government will have to decide very shortly, and formed part of the matter we discussed with the Bank of Montreal officials—whether we should issue a permanent bond issue or make another temporary loan so as to await better conditions in the money market."

The retiring treasury bills were issued at a discount of five per cent, but it is practically certain that we shall be able to renew them under much more favorable circumstances—probably four per cent or even better."

Both Premier Hazen and Hon. Mr. Fleming took a lively interest in the question which was under way. They however expressed surprise at the extreme quiet which marked the polling, remarking that in their own province of New Brunswick an election could be discovered much more easily.

To Talk Over Central Railway Bills.

"I am very well satisfied with the result of our conversation with the Bank of Montreal officials," said Premier Hazen, "and feel confident that we shall be able to renew the loan under much better conditions than the old government was able to secure."

"I am now going on to Ottawa to interview the Dominion government in an effort to settle the long standing negotiations regarding the double subsidy on the part of the Dominion government. The Dominion government furnished rails and fastenings for this road some years ago, and the department of railways is making a claim for this. The old provincial government, however, claimed that they were entitled to double subsidy on the part of the road running off Chipman, but this has never been settled between the two governments. I hope to be able to come to some mutually satisfactory arrangement between the two governments which will definitely settle the question and shall return to Montreal on Thursday on my way back to New Brunswick."

ROW BREWING AMONG REPUBLICAN LEADERS

Taft Men Scent Treachery Among Supporters in Being Willing to Divide Southern Delegates—Cannon's Friends Declare It is an Open Fight and No Candidate Has a Sure Thing.

Chicago, June 8.—A few handfuls of sand were thrown into the cylinders of the Taft political machine late today. So far, everything that has come up has been handled quickly and decisively by the Taft men, but today from their own membership came a proposition to divide the Louisiana delegation with the opposition, seating both Taft and anti-Taft delegates in each of the districts. These seats were to be divided in half a vote each.

The proposition did not come as a surprise, but the number of members of the national committee who favored the movement created some consternation in the Taft camp. The friends of the secretary for war on the committee brought about an adjournment rather than permit a vote to be taken today.

Before the Louisiana case, which involved four delegates at large and four district delegates, it was brought to a vote tomorrow, noses will be sharply counted. Members of the committee who have been ardent Taft supporters, but who have shown a disposition in the interest of harmony will be subjected to pressure from Washington. To allow the proposition to pass would be a serious blow to the Taft campaign.

Manager Frank H. Hitchcock of the Taft campaign tonight announced that there would be no compromise. He is determined to fight for the seating of the delegations instructed for Secretary Taft and declared that he would insist that the committee pass on all contests.

To settle them in any other way, he said, would be unfair to the delegations themselves. He expressed the opinion that the committee should not shrink the responsibility of sitting in judgment on the merits of every contest, and this view is supported by nearly every committee man from the West and South and many from the North.

Thus far, contests have been settled from the states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia and Kentucky and there has been no division of the committee disposition of them.

Glowing Crop Report.

Washington, June 8.—The crop reporting board of statistics of the department of agriculture, today issued a bulletin estimating the area sown to spring wheat to be 37 per cent, more than the area sown last year, indicating a total area of about 17,710,000 acres, or 611,000 acres more than sown last year. The condition of spring wheat on June 1 was 95.9 per cent of a normal as compared with 88.7 on June 1, 1907, and 82.2 the June before.

Taft Men Anxious.

Hasty conferences were held by the Taft members of the committee during the hearing of the Louisiana contest and the decision was reached that it would be wise to adjourn until they ascertained exactly where they stood. This course was followed. Mr. Hitchcock called on Secretary Taft in Washington. Charles P. Taft, brother of the secretary of war, did some telephoning and telegraphing on his own account. Manager Hitchcock feels

SEVENTY-SIX ATHLETES CHOSEN FOR AMERICAN OLYMPIC TEAM

New York, June 8.—To represent the United States in the Olympic games which will be held in London next month, seventy-six men, the pick of the country's athletes, were tonight selected as the American team at a meeting in the Astor house of the American Olympic team committee.

Bellars, the distance runner, who looks for Marathon honors; Dearborn, McGrath, Rose, Sheridan and Coe are some of those selected to compete in the heavyweight and discus events. Sheppard, at middle distance; Hillman, for the hurdles, and Ewery, in the high and broad jump, are some of the other selections which are regarded as safe event winners for the team.

While the team selected tonight will be the main reliance of America in the various events to be contested, the committee has also formulated a supplementary list of athletes including the more promising of the younger element, which may be drawn upon to complete the entry list in some of the events.

SHRUBB WANTS TO RACE LONGBOAT

New York, June 8.—Alfred Shrub, the English professional distance runner and holder of the fastest recorded records from 1 1/2 to 11 miles, arrived here yesterday on the Carolina. While here he will engage in a series of professional races, and he will try to induce Tom Longboat, the Indian, to run him a match for a respectable sum.

On board the Carolina on Saturday Shrub ran a match of four miles against a four-man relay. The race took place on the lower end of the pier, which covers 1 1/2 miles, and the opponents did not show him any play, he was quit after covering 2 1/2 miles.

DROVE AUTO TWO MILES A MINUTE

London, June 8.—At the Brooklands track today Police Sergeant the Italian driver, made a world's automobile record at the rate of 120 miles an hour over a distance of 2 1/2 miles.

MILTON'S EPIC NOT GAMBLING DEVICE

Lynn Police Find Clubmen Immersed in Volumes After Forcing Entrances

Boston, June 8.—Milton's "Paradise Lost" had the narrowest kind of an escape from being classified as a gambling implement in Lynn yesterday, when the police descended upon several rowdy literary clubs in that city in quest of evidence which would tend to show that members were more adept in the study of the fiddle turn of chance than of belles lettres.

For a while there was some earnest discussion among the members of the club as to the status of the book in the eye of the law, and it was some time before it was decided that the man who was found in one of the clubs with the volume in his hand could not be properly arrested for having a gaming device in his possession.

Advocates of summary measures held that the title gave it a standing somewhat similar to that of a dream-book in a policy case. "Paradise Lost," read out one of the bluecoats who was not particularly strong in enunciation, and to his comrades it sounded very much as though a couple of dice were in question.

The raids were made early yesterday morning, and without exception were fruitless. The authorities think there is gambling in Lynn, but the places which were looked upon as the most suspicious on the outside were nothing but reading rooms when the officers went within. All that the police discovered was several men deep in the perusal of gems of literature, with plank doors and buzzers to protect them from interruption. Not a card or a chip was to be seen.

Sergt. Andrew Besom, who was in charge of one raiding squad, found in a state street place, after knocking and entering with the aid of a "jimny," 15 men apparently absorbed in books. Among other works which proved most interesting at the hour of 2:30 o'clock in the morning, Sergt. Besom found a copy of Taine's History of English Literature, a diamond edition of Shakespeare, and a much worn volume of Cicero's orations.

Sergt. McBrien, in charge of another squad, entered a similar club on Union street, but after making in the way through a barber shop and breaking through a partition, the officers came upon what looked like a class of students "plugging" for an examination.

According to the police view, the proprietors of poker and crap games in Lynn have all provided themselves with small libraries for the purpose of thwarting possible raiders.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Short are guests of Mr. W. J. Upham, on June 18. Mrs. J. H. Rogers went to Fredericton on Tuesday as a delegate for the W. M. S.

HARTLAND

Hartland, N.B., June 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gardner, of Port Fairfield, have been visiting here. Mrs. H. E. Blakeley, of Perth, was the guest of Mrs. Gardner and other friends in Hartland last week. Miss Idella Robinson of Upper Woodstock, has been the guest of Mrs. Hebert Boyer. The Misses Dennison of Woodstock, have been the guests of Mrs. Percy Gardner. The ball game on Hagerman's field between the Centreville boys and the Hartlands on Tuesday last week was well played but resulted in defeat for the home team by 19 to 2. The weather conditions were anything but favorable. The raft of deal that broke away from Saxe's mill about ten days ago was a heavy draught horse compared to the deal horse of Gloucester, brought several pairs of horses from Ontario, but they were hardly heavy enough to suit the wants of bringing the deal Percheron he imported to this place was sold to Odour Shaw, of Middle Simonds, for $600. Mr. Shaw, in turn sold them to G. B. Nixon, of Brighton, at an advance of $80, which is high-priced horse-bleed. On Wednesday, S. A. Perkins and Fred D. Tweed of Saxe's mill were here looking for a heavy team but failed to find one. Yesterday was cold and hail fell. H. N. Dunsford and wife have taken up residence in the Exchange hotel. Yesterday John M. McCallum, of British Columbia, and Miss Ida Robinson of Newburgh, were united in marriage.

HAMPTON

Hampton, Kings Co., June 3.—An enjoyable bridge-whist party of young people was held at the home of Mrs. Geo. M. George, Hampton, on Tuesday evening last in honor of her daughter, George Wilson, who has spent a month's vacation at home. On Saturday Miss Wilson returned to Boston to resume her duties in nursing at Newton Centre Hospital. Mrs. Wilson accompanied her daughter as far as St. John. Mr. Augustus Cameron gave a delightful tea at her pretty home on Saturday afternoon from four until six o'clock for the pleasure of Miss Edith Deinastadt, making it more enjoyable to the guest of honor as well as to those who were present. Mrs. Cameron assisted in entertaining their guests by Mrs. J. O'Donnell, who poured tea, and the Misses Margie Algar and Constance Algar, who most gracefully served ices and other dainties in the dining room. Parker, of the Bank of New Brunswick staff, is spending a few days in St. John, the guest of Mrs. J. A. Owens. Mr. Harry Strothard, Mr. Fergus Ferguson and Mr. Ivan Rand have returned from Sackville where they were students at the University of Mount Allison. Miss Nina West is spending a few days in Wolfville. Mrs. Kewick, of Winnipeg is spending a few weeks with her sister Mrs. F. B. Read. Mrs. T. V. Cooke, of Gooderich (Ont.), is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. A. C. Wilkinson and intends spending the summer here. Mrs. Hugh Storm, of St. John, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Magee. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Creighton spent Sunday with relatives in Robbsey. Miss Fry spent the week-end in Sackville, the guest of her sister, Miss Hazel Fry. Mrs. Fred Ferguson has returned to Richibucto after a brief visit with friends in town. Prof. Perry and family left by the Maritime express on Monday evening for their new home in Quebec. A large number of friends were at the depot to bid them farewell. On Saturday evening the members of the Men's League of C. M. Church presented the professor with a handsome solid leather travelling bag as a slight token of their appreciation of his services. On Sunday evening the Central Methodist Church was crowded to listen to the choral service given by the members of Prof. Perry's choir. A most interesting program was furnished. The ladies' quartette rendered a beautiful selection. Miss Mae Atkinson and Mr. Austin Allen gave a duet, Mr. Harry Gorbell took the solo part in the Invisibile Chorus from Gaul's Holy City, Prof. Perry was heard in an organ solo and there were several choruses. The gem of the evening was the solo by Miss Mae Atkinson, "The Coming of the King." Miss Atkinson has a very sweet voice and sings with much expression. Mr. Jack McSweeney is spending a few days in Fredericton. Mrs. Claude W. Peters and little son, of New York, have arrived to spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Harris. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Cove have returned from August, where they were spending a few days with relatives. Mr. Laurence Bell has returned from Sackville and will spend the summer at his home in town. Mrs. Joseph Read is spending a few days at Baie Verte. Thomas Bourgeois, one of the best known residents of Fox Creek died suddenly last evening. Bourgeois was a carpenter and had been working in Moncton for some time at a machine shop, and as usual walked home last night. On the way he felt a pain in his side, and on arrival at the home reported to his wife that he was suffering from heart trouble. He rapidly became worse, and a messenger was sent to Moncton for a doctor, but before the doctor arrived he was dead. The deceased was about sixty-five years of age and is survived by a wife but no children. Daniel, Julie and Samuel are brothers. A child of Mr. Wilson Marshall, of the I. C. R., living on Pearl street, was badly burned about the head, face, chest and arms Thursday. Its clothing caught fire while it was playing with matches. The wholesale dealers in the city have signed an agreement to close at 1 o'clock Saturdays in the future. Clerks in the retail stores hope to secure Wednesday half holiday about the middle of June.

MONCTON MAN OFFERS TO ADVANCE WAGES TO I. C. R. EMPLOYEES
Moncton, June 6.—(Special).—Considerable feeling has been aroused over a circular issued by the railway intimating there is no money to pay salaries and leaving it optional whether they work or not. A prominent citizen who learned yesterday of the scurvy trick that is being played by the railway department, said he would make arrangements to pay all checks to I. C. R. men for at least a month's wages to the extent of at least $60,000, so that if the government, for the purpose of forcing through parliament a bill to steal twenty or thirty seats in parliament, is willing to have it advertised to the world that it has no money to pay the men who operate the people's railway there is enough public spirit right here in the city of Moncton to furnish it. The Times this morning says this circular is the most insolent document ever issued by a minister of the crown in this country or by any of his understrappers, and is absolutely unjustifiable. It is inviting the employees of this great public utility and common carrier to abandon their positions and thus embarrass and injure the business of the whole country. The revenue of the railway should be sufficient to pay the employees without any special appropriation by parliament, but the opposition was willing from time to time to vote necessary appropriations. The object of the circular may be to effect the voluntary resignations of some of the men whose places are desired for political beavers. For the first time in many years a scow loaded with stone was up Hall's Creek yesterday as far as the bridge, where repairs are being made. Thomas Bourgeois, one of the best known residents of Fox Creek died suddenly last evening. WOMAN WEARING "SHEATH GOWN" JARRED BOSTON
Entered a Downtown Restaurant, But Proprietor Refused to Serve Her.
Boston, June 6.—The sensational "sheath gown" made its public appearance in Boston tonight and caused a scene at one of the downtown restaurants. The young woman who wore the gown appeared at the restaurant with an escort and was at once the centre of attraction. The attention of the proprietor was called to the fact and he refused to serve her. She was then escorted to the street.

GOVERNMENT THREATENS TO GAG OPPOSITION

Closure Openly Espoused to Force Through Iniquitous Election Bill. Fielding, Wrathful Over Member's Criticism, Declares Minority Have No Rights Except Such As Majority Permit—Liberal Bluff Will Not Deter Men Who Are Fighting To Prevent Manitoba Outrage.

Ottawa, June 5.—Parliament today talked closure. Both sides talked, thus delaying business. So far honors of long distance talking are about even. Duncan Rees, H. W. Kennedy and G. W. Gordon were those who wanted the gag applied to the opposition. Throughout the day the debate was acrimonious and Finance Minister Fielding, who agitates himself unduly when things do not go to suit him, was visibly annoyed. C. L. Owen, (Northumberland), made his maiden speech and in doing so roused the fire of the petulant finance minister. The "baby" member handled himself well and is receiving praise for the manner in which he ruffled the experienced parliamentarian. Quoting a speech of Mr. Paterson, at Brantford, in which the minister of customs said there were 3000 men in his department who could not get their money because the opposition held it out for a better gage of conditions. Mr. Haughton, (Lennox), declared that the reason no progress was being made was because the government is attempting to cloud the issue until the elections in Ontario and Quebec are over. Dealing with Mr. Paterson's complaint that he could not get money for customs employees, he quoted the minister as telling the opposition that if the estimates passed, cheques would be sent out forthwith. Dr. Chisholm thought both sides talked too long and too much and the session was growing so long that it would be impossible for men in poor health to come to parliament. From the counties of Haron, Bruce and Wellington, Monday, six men came down in 1904 to sit in parliament and three of them are dead. "Let us stop acting like children," he said, "and get to business." There was no manufacturer in the country who would work his employees from 11 o'clock in the morning till 3 o'clock next morning, yet parliament was a factory turning out laws and wind-bags. He thought half a dozen back benches on both sides could settle the difficulty, and they should take it out of the hands of the two leaders. At midnight the house adjourned after having voted $1,500,000 for the interior department, $100,000 of which was for immigration expenses. Just before the house rose Mr. Graham, minister of railways, met the press and provision be made for the outside employees of his department. Mr. Graham intimated that the impression was abroad that these employees might be without their money for some time. "Come on Monday," suggested George Taylor, who was leading the opposition. "I want to be away on Monday. Instead of many other members," replied Mr. Graham. With this the discussion ended and the house rose to resume again on Monday. Ottawa, June 7.—The government and the Liberal press continue their attempt at humbugging the people respecting the scarcity of money in the departments. The Ontario ministers have been campaigning against the Whitney government instead of attending to their duties for which the country pays them. Mr. Graham, the minister of railways, is sending out a statement to the effect that the government has no money available when up to the present time he has not asked parliament for a single dollar. It has been granted, instead of remaining in Ottawa and attending to his business in parliament on Monday he is boasting himself from the Ontario back benches. This was one of the rights which opposition had no right to abuse. Mr. Owen mentioned 1896. "There was never an hour," replied Mr. Fielding, "when supplies were not available. What was held up was supplies for a future period and there was abundant money for immediate purposes, but the opposition today had a mistaken idea of their privileges. The minister of Lincoln, followed, pointing out that the minister of customs who was paid by the country for looking after its business was away in the Ontario elections, whereas if an ordinary member stayed away he lost his pay. George Taylor alluded to the attitude of the Liberal opposition in 1898, when they prevented voting of supply and for six weeks the civil servants were out of their pay. At the present time an objection to the bill was in the way and until the obnoxious sections were withdrawn, opposition had rights, which they would maintain as long as they could endure. "We had a minister of justice," said Mr. Taylor, and Mr. Lancaster agreed, "once," he said, "but now we have the minister of justice brought up at the feet of the late Premier Ross to do his dirty work." This was declared to be unparliamentary and Mr. Taylor withdrew the expression. He went on to say that the opposition would be worse than serfs if amended. In conclusion, he invited the government to attempt to apply closure. F. B. Carvell asked if the people of Canada would justify the government in withdrawing the election bill and these were cries of "no" by opposition supporters. There was only one solution to the present difficulty, namely, to adopt closure, and it was up to the government to take a better gage of conditions. Mr. Haughton, (Lennox), declared that the reason no progress was being made was because the government is attempting to cloud the issue until the elections in Ontario and Quebec are over. FOUR TEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY A TRIPLE MURDERER Arrested on Suspicion Of Theft He Confesses His Terrible Crimes.

Norwood, Mass., June 6.—Chief of Police Fred S. Sackett, of Norwood, and Chief of Police Wm. Dragan, of Dedham, spent the entire afternoon questioning Anthony Santo, the 14-year-old boy who confessed today to the killing of his two cousins, Frank and James Marino in Brooklyn, N.Y., last March. The lad sprang another surprise this afternoon when on cross-examination he admitted the killing of little four-year-old Stella Staula, at Dedham, May 11. Later in the afternoon the boy was taken to the scene of the Staula murder. The police believe that a severe attack of measles which he went through in 1904 has something to do with his confession. Chief of Police Sackett was waiting in Norwood for a Dedham cop when he saw Santo coming down the street. He stopped the boy and questioned him regarding a bicycle theft. He then took him to the Dedham courthouse and talked with him further. "Seems to me that the New York police are looking for you, are they not?" said the chief. "Yes," said the boy, "I killed James and Frank Marino in New York, Brooklyn." During the afternoon's cross-examination at the Norwood police station, the boy said that he had killed Frank Marino with a jack knife by stabbing him in the heart. The other Marino boy, Santo said, he killed with a rock. Killed a Little Girl. Upon being more closely questioned, Santo added to the confession which he made at the Dedham court house the following: May 11 I went to Boston, I came back and got off at the Boston-Dedham line. Then I walked toward Norwood. I saw a little girl. She had a black and white ribbon. When I saw her I had a mad spell. But I always try to be kind to little girls with black and white ribbons, because I know they lost someone. I had a light cap and this coat on. I struck the girl. I did not have any blood on my hands. Then I picked up a rock and she jumped when I threw it. There was a big log there. When I struck her with a rock she fell. I thought she was dead. I started to pray to help her and make her get better. When she fell she was not quite dead. I stayed there a while, but I did not know what to do. I don't know quite what time it was. I saw the train go but it did not see any man. Yes, I had scarlet fever a long time ago. I was sick two or three times. The doctor there every night to make me well." Chief Sackett and Chief Dragan court-housed with Santo for the murder in Dedham, investigation was cond

MORE CENTRAL RAILWAY BILLS

Members of the Pugsley and Robinson governments loudly asserted that the Central Railway showed a surplus. Nobody believed the statement. The opposition proved that the surplus was purely a matter of bookkeeping of the kind which which the old government made the people all too familiar.

Time was when Mr. A. B. Copp, M.P.P., provincial organizer of the Liberal party, expressed doubts about the Central Railway business. Yet the Central, if not profitable to the province, seems long to have been profitable to the electors.

Mr. Copp's activities in connection with the Central in 1905 appear to have yielded him the modest sum of $1,050 for legal services. What the legal services were does not yet appear, but doubtless particulars will be forthcoming later on.

A PARABLE

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, who framed the Franchise bill which has caused the trouble at Ottawa, has been seeking by means of a parable of his own devising to shift the blame from the government to the opposition.

MUNICIPAL ENTERPRISES

The London Municipal journal deals with British municipalities which are now publishing their annual financial statements concerning the public utilities they own and operate.

Notwithstanding the high price of coal and the monetary depression which occurred in the fall, better profits are shown than were at first anticipated and in many cases large sums have been allotted in relief of rates.

The London Municipal Journal, from which the above returns are taken, calls special attention to the case of Spalding, with a population less than 10,000, and a rating value below $250,000.

THE WATER SUPPLY

St. John is now receiving water through both mains under full pressure from Loch Lomond, and while other weak spots in No. 2 main may yet be detected, there is no present reason to anticipate any serious interruption of the service.

insurance rate in accordance with the statement of the underwriters that they would grant it when the city had the full gravity pressure from Loch Lomond under the plans prepared by Mr. Barbour.

A WRETCHED SERVICE

The St. John Common Council and the Board of Trade ought to devote some attention to the telephone service which subscribers in this city are now receiving.

Every telephone subscriber in this city, particularly every subscriber who uses the telephone for business purposes, is at present paying city rates for a village service.

The men who control the telephone company cannot too soon get it into their heads that the enterprise is not a private business. They cannot too soon realize that unless the service is brought up to a standard that will satisfy the subscribers the company is not fulfilling the conditions of its franchise.

TARIFF REFORM AND CANADA

While agreeing that Canada should not try to impose its tariff views upon the people of Great Britain, the Toronto News believes Canadians will soon have a definite offer of preference from the Mother Land and that they will then have to act promptly in regard to Imperial trade.

GOVERNMENT GOES IN FOR SCIENTIFIC TOWN PLANNING

Measures of Universal Importance About to Be Put Forth by the British Cabinet at the Instance of John Burns--George Bernard Shaw Has Just Subscribed $27,000 for a Private Scheme of the Same Sort.

(Copyright in the United States and Great Britain by Curtis Brown. All rights strictly reserved.)

London, May 14.—This month the Right Hon. John Burns, former post-boy in a public house (i. e., hired boy in a saloon) and now one of the principal members of the British cabinet, is to introduce a bill that will be of almost as much interest across the Atlantic and on the continent as it will be in England. If it passes and works as well as the laudably and practical Right Hon. John thinks it will, it is going to make a big difference to the next generation, and quite a lot of difference right away. The idea is to make a science of town planning, and to put the government in charge of the job. It occurred to broad-minded Americans that the government should make a better and healthier, and more attractive town if you lay out the scheme for it beforehand than you can if you leave it to grow up anyhow, guided only by land speculation. Various American efforts were made in this line, and some of them highly successful, too, but it was in Germany that the plan really became a kind of science. Lately England caught the craze and now the writer is informed that Mr. Burns—scientifically, and not as British Ambassador to the United States—is deeply interested, and wishes to see the latest system introduced in the United States. He is also unofficially to study English projects with a view to interesting prominent Americans in the great idea.

But the most significant fact is that the British government proposes to take a hand in the game. It is John Burns' hobby. He looks to it as a practical solution of many of the toughest economic problems of the day. His new bill on the subject, which will not be the topic of discussion throughout England, is calculated to put a stop to all ill considered, ramshackle building and land operations, the heavy hand of government authority is to be laid upon all property management, which henceforth must be conducted with a view to the public weal, and not to individual interests. Local authorities are to be authorized to conduct town planning operations, and the local government board, as the court of final appeal, is to decide as to how all these measures are to be carried out. Local councils in every city are to be empowered to acquire land for town planning purposes, and even to take over compulsorily any land or buildings which they may require. If private interests are injured, it is to be compensated, not by the government, but by government aid. For instance, should one property owner be benefited at the expense of another, the government is to indemnify the latter, which accords to the lucky owner. Thus will the government borrow from Peter to pay Paul and to run on cash, perhaps, even forget to pay Paul.

The writer recently had a long talk with the Right Hon. John Burns on this new scheme, and he is so much interested that he is not talking for publication; but it is very evident from Burns' entire attitude that he looks to town planning to do wonders. If it accomplishes only half of what the president of the local government board expects the millennium it would have us believe.

One of the principal features of the bill relates to local control of housing. Under existing conditions local authorities can exert no authority either as to the number of houses per acre or the style of architecture. Up to now the housing problem has been attacked on matters of detail; but not as a comprehensive whole. Though John Burns has no credit in introducing his epoch-making measure, its further progress does not altogether depend on him. This scheme is popular with all political parties; and even if the liberal government went out of office, as there are rumors of resignation, the conservatives probably would adopt this bill. In addition to the powerful interest of the British Government, which is fostering town planning, private individuals are vying with each other to make a town like Berlin alone there is one society which has put up 1,654 dwellings at a cost of $6,250,000. Most German towns are acquiring all the suburban property surrounding each site, and plotting it off into beautiful, artistic, "landscape" building lots, on which commodious dwellings are erected at nominal cost to tenants.

In England thriving settlements are now in full swing at Garden City, Ealing and Hampstead, near London, Manchester, Bourneville, Cardiff, Port Sunlight, Earswick, Oldham, Leicester, Harborne, Fallings Park, Sevconas and elsewhere. In addition to these mentioned, six other projects are in course of formation. Before the end of the year there will be twenty towns growing up on "planned lines."

The main idea is to acquire land in the suburbs, or within easy reach of great cities and to plot out this land in accordance with certain fixed principles of scientific procedure. For instance, in comprehensive town-planning schemes the area embraced is expected to comprise any land near a city that might be built upon within the next thirty or fifty years. Municipal authorities and private individuals are encouraged to plot out this land in such a way that wide avenues are provided for the main traffic between centres and outskirts, narrower streets are allotted for ordinary traffic, while less expensive roads and narrow drives are provided for purely residential districts. While the main thoroughfares are as direct as possible, the private drives are made to conform to artistic standards. Parks and ample open spaces are provided before the property reaches high value; and—departing from the usual procedure—most of these parks are in what is known as the "back fence" in residential and not in business districts.

All factories are assigned to localities on the opposite side of the town to that from which the prevailing winds blow; while railway lines and water communications are designed to tap these factories at their most convenient points of access. This takes the traffic away from the residential districts.

The future town is divided into sections, each of which is graded. High buildings close to each other are allowed in the centre and on main arteries, while in the residential portions buildings are lower. All warehouses and business offices must be placed in the centre of the town, as should also all municipal buildings, which latter are expected to be handsome and imposing in order that citizens may take pride in their corporate existence.

One of the first essentials to an efficient town plan is to have dotted about at frequent intervals on cheap land many small plots of open ground, where children can amuse themselves without being a nuisance to others or in danger themselves, as they are now. In the properly planned town no children will be seen playing in the streets.

Of course in settled cities such as London, it is impossible to adopt this scheme entirely owing to the enormous cost of land, but wherever possible, even in congested areas, many things are being done to alleviate present conditions. For instance, local authorities are converting bare, unightly courts into pretty park-streets wherever possible, as being walled, and houses altered. Many slums are radically changed in such a manner that more windows and larger doors are being put in, and as a consequence more light and air get into the structures.

Wherever possible, working people are encouraged to leave the congested districts and go to "town-planned" lands in the suburbs. With cheap street car and railway fares, the suburbs of the great cities in England are rapidly opening up. Instead of private land speculators being allowed to capture and hold for speculative purposes all the cheap lands in these suburbs, workmen's societies are purchasing land wherever possible.

Most of these societies are run on what is known as the "co-operative tenants" principle. In this way, the land is purchased by a private association of four or five philanthropic individuals, who agree not to take more than 4 or 5 per cent. on their investment. The land is plotted with the most up-to-date ideas; and houses are built and let only to such tenants as obtain stock in the co-operative society. The tenant pays his rent in the ordinary way, but instead of its going into the pocket of an individual landlord, it is paid to the society in which he himself holds stock. In the course of time, when he has acquired sufficient stock to cover the value of his house and land, he becomes practically his own landlord. The attainment of this ideal state is the ultimate object, the "ulterior design"—as it were—of every one who goes into the co-op.

In addition to becoming eventually their own landlords, co-partnership tenants have many other advantages, if they choose to partake of them. For instance, two families can take what are called "paired" houses—that is, a single large house divided up for two families, and with a common dining room. The two families, by combining, may eliminate the redundancy of keeping up separate cooking establishments. One may cook for the other, or they can take "turn and turn about." These paired houses are already in successful operation at Garden City. By combining their interests, tenants on these estates may attain an ideal state of existence which renders them superior to even co-ops and janitors.

At most of the settlements springing up all over England, the idea seems to be for the various families in any one settlement to have as many interests as possible "in common." Thus the houses usually include large spaces of open ground in the rear, and this ground is used by all tenants whose houses abut upon it. The "back fence" is becoming a thing of the past. In its stead one sees small wire boundaries a couple of feet above the ground. How this is going to work out for various families of growing children is bringing up a riddle to be seen. But still, people with co-partnership ideals need not necessarily be retarded by such trifles as this.

Probably the man who knows more about town planning than any one else in England is Ebenezer Howard, founder of Garden City. There is a proposal on foot to send him to America to lecture before economic societies in St. Louis, Chicago and elsewhere.

When asked by the writer for his views he made the following statement: "The powers given to the local government board—of which Mr. Burns is the head—are very far reaching, even to the extent of enabling it to frame provisions which may suspend parliamentary enactments. The government may make provision for town planning in all places where improvements are likely to be carried out, and local authorities are even empowered to purchase lands compulsorily for these purposes. Money may be borrowed by local authorities throughout the country for the purpose of building towns in accordance with the highest ideals. Wisely administered, this government measure will usher in a new and splendid era.

"London, as it exists today, is an enormous magnet, and it might be said that the people who are attracted to this vast city, and, indeed, to all other great cities, are human needles which are drawn almost irresistibly by this great magnetic force. What we propose to do in building towns that combine the advantage of the city with the country is practically to demagnetize cities like London."

"If, with our town-planning, we can make our new cities also attractive that they form opposition magnets to London, we have solved the problem. We are not building cities but are making what we call 'Town Countries.'"

"The demagnetizing of London and other big cities by forming centres of counter attraction all over England where men can pursue their lives under healthier conditions will be followed by some very remarkable results. In the first place, the great values of London, so enormous today, will disappear. The spell of London will be broken, and the great bubble burst. Today the life and earnings of Londoners are in pawn to the owners of the soil, who kindly permit them to live upon it at enormous cost.

"While the removal of a vast body of people from London to our town-planned cities will reduce the value of land in London, the rates will fall on a smaller number of people, and even these people will ultimately be forced away from the metropolis. As the land of London is not owned by its inhabitants but by private landlords, the consequences will be that the people cannot afford to live in the metropolis and will go to our towns, where they can have an interest in the property which they will own as part of their municipalities. In time the bondholders who today are masters of London will be unable to collect their interest, and as the bottom will have already dropped out of land values by the migration of people, so will the rate collectors have to reduce their rates or get none at all. The consequence will be that all people now dwelling in slums will have a large number of good houses at their disposal at cheap rents and lowered rates. And thus the problem of London overcrowding will be solved.

"Already proposals for the reconstruction of a new London have been projected. The late William Westgarth offered the Society of Arts $6,000 for the best plan of a remodelled London on Garden City lines.

"Today there are several tube railways which have been projected but are not carried out because the London County Council is making through Parliament such demands that capitalists will not go on with ventures owing to these restrictions. These checks upon private enterprise have even to affect the growth of London even now, and make it less rapid than it otherwise would be.

"But when the untold treasures of our land are unlocked and the people now living in London discover how easily vested interests, without being attacked, may be circumvented, then the land owners of London and those who represent other vested interests had better quickly make terms or London, besides being what Grant Allen terms a 'squid village,' may become a deserted one."

SIR FREDERICK BORDEN'S SON-IN-LAW DOING WELL AS MIDDLEMAN

Appointed Agent for American Concern That is Supplying Quebec Arsenal.

Ottawa, Ont., June 5 (Special).—A. L. Jarvis, secretary of the militia department, was examined by Mr. Crockett in the public accounts committee this morning as to the dealings of L. S. Macoun, son-in-law of Sir Frederick Borden, with the department of militia. He admitted that $34,200 had been paid to Macoun by the department before the material was delivered.

At that time he was acting deputy minister and considered that the department was protected by bills of shipments and by the standard quality of the material. This especially applied to the $66,000 worth supplied in August of last year.

Mr. Macoun was next examined. He said he was a manufacturer's agent and had sold $83,000 worth of automatic machinery to the Quebec arsenal last year. In April, 1905, he notified the militia department that he had been appointed agent for an American concern making such goods and requested that he be given an order for supplies for the arsenal.

The correspondence showed that previous to this request the department had been in direct communication with this same concern and had decided to buy from them.

"How did you come to apply to the Pater & Johnston Co., of Pawtucket, Rhode Island, for that agency," asked Mr. Crockett.

"That is none of your business," replied the witness. "It is my private business."

ENGLISH CRITICISM OF AMERICAN CHILDREN

(Mary Mortimer Maxwell, in the London Mail.)

Three years ago, asked to give, offhand, an example of an "imp," I should have replied unhesitatingly: "An American child, aged between two years and sixteen."

Now, I would modify my definition and example, and I am thoroughly convinced that the original "little girl who had a curl right down the middle of her forehead" was an American, though I cannot not admit that England, too, is not without her share of little girls who are patterned somewhat after the order of the small heroine of that moving rhyme.

No English visitor to the United States ever yet returned home without bringing certain thrilling tales of the infant terrible of this large country. It was Max O'Rell, I believe, who wondered how it was that such little demons as the American children became finally such passable men and women. I wonder at it myself, even now, and because they do turn out so well I have all the greater respect for the American child.

They are wonderful little individuals, are sensible to a degree, and very often they become really charming men and women in spite of the disadvantages of their bringing up.

For they have disadvantages, grave ones, too, from the English point of view. They have the disadvantage of being altogether too much with their elders, and having no rooms, either day or night nurseries, that they can call their own—unless they belong to very wealthy families or have parents with English rather than American views concerning the upbringing of children. Their poor little stomachs are overloaded at night with late dinners of hot soups, highly seasoned meats and vegetables, and rich pies and puddings. If they finally make too much noise or become too boisterous for endurance in the house (they roam the whole house at will), they are turned out to the department to play with all sorts of companions, and perhaps be kidnapped and held for ransom. For he it understood that child kidnapping is yearly increasing in this country. Yet children of well-to-do parents, children whose mothers are American gentlemen and whose fathers are prosperous business and professional men, are allowed in the city streets unattended, and in the village play all alone for hours in "front yards" which are as public as possible, without a vestige of a hedge or fence.

Yet the majority of such children turn out well. The majority are not kidnapped or molested; the majority do not end in prison. They grow up to be reputable citizens, marry, and have children of their own, whom they will doubleless bring up as they themselves have been brought up.

One finds such children frightfully inconvenient at the dinner table; one almost stands in awe of their wonderful intelligence and lack of backwardness in letting their light shine in the drawing-room, in the dining-room, in the library, and in the shops—wherever one goes. I was at a small dinner party one night where most of the guests were relatives of my hostess, whose thirty-year-old son sat opposite me. He broke a short silence by nodding at me in a very friendly way and asking:

"How is it that, being from England, you don't drop your sitches?"

The whole company laughed. I will admit that I joined in the laughter, for the situation was certainly absurd; but I know many a dignified Englishman and Englishwoman who would have had a shock at seeing the child at the table, and would have collapsed entirely at the question put by this awful American child.

Now that boy has become one of my greatest friends. During our delightful walks in Central Park, our long "trolley rides" miles and miles into the country (all for twopenny-halfpenny), I have explained to him just why it is that I do not drop my "sitches," and I have taught him something he never seemed to have learned at school or home—to raise his cap always to a lady, to his little sister, and to other little girls, and his elderly in general. I have explained to him that all the nice little English boys I know do this; and though at first he exclaims, "Use vain!" but how can they always remember?" he is remembering very well indeed.

But I am not always the teacher. A loving student, nature itself, this boy has a certain love concerning the birds, the bees, the ants, the grass, the flowers, and the trees that I had not supposed could be imparted in so entertaining a manner as he gives it to me. He tells me he has learned it all from certain children's books at the public library, books written by American naturalists especially for children, and worthy of the attention of all grown-ups. One day accidentally he took on an anti-bird which was one of a large collection of sand-towels and turkeys. "Sorry," he said, dolefully; then brightening up, "but I'm glad it wasn't my father's foot 'stead of mine. That would have been an earthquake to that ant city, just like it was at San Francisco—'giant foot crushes the ant town out of existence'—and you know that!"

Despite the fact that the American children are so much with their elders, they have a wonderful amount of individuality. It seems to be that they crave to be cultivated this individuality, and are often denied it. But one little New York friend of mine, who is with her parents and their visitor nearly all the time, goes to bed at night time when she is being put to bed, always insisting on saying her prayers quite alone. I have often wished that she had during the day were in a nursery with a good nurse, instead of listening to all the conversation between her mother and myself! I fancy she would prefer it. I have spoken of the neglect of the American boys to raise their caps as the English boys. The American boys are very apt to give to their little sisters, and their little sisters are more attentive to their little sisters and to other little girls than are English boys. The American boys are very apt to give to their little sisters, and their little sisters are more attentive to their little sisters and to other little girls than are English boys. Ruins of an Ancient Egyptian Temple

EXPLORE THE RUINED TEMPLE AT ABUSIR

There is more than one factor in the spell which Egypt casts over the happy person who awakes to find himself on the shores of the palm fringed Nile, says a writer in a London paper. There is the charm of the atmosphere and the possibilities of a social existence in a unique setting. To the cultured mind this environment is one of intense interest. To be able under pleasant conditions to visit day after day the colossal relics of a past civilization stirs the imagination as few things can in this matter of fact world.

By common consent the view from Deir-el-Bahari is considered of unusual interest. Beneath precipitous rocks, a light brown and golden tint the colonnades of the temple built by Queen Hatshepsut, who in the vicinities of which these shrines were expelled from the rulership of Egypt by her brother. Not content with this act the usurper obliterated his sister's royal cartouches from all the inscriptions on her half finished temple.

At the present day the pillars of the temple of this dispossessed queen stand out dazzling white against the golden brown cliff—a vivid and striking contrast of color. Two sloping ways lead the pilgrim up from one terrace level to another. Within the colonnade on the left are wall pictures of the Egyptian expedition to the land of Punt. Huts, palm trees and the Egyptian fleet are still visible.

An idea of the diameter of the columns can be gained by comparison with the native figure spanning one of the great columns. One of the most striking of the temple ruins is that known as the Ramesseum. Built on the plain of Thebes, on the western bank of the Nile, it served as a mortuary chapel to the tomb of Rameses II.

The temple as a whole was dedicated to Ammon, but the goddess Hathor, the Egyptian Venus, whose wonderfully perfect image was recently discovered, and the god of the dead, Anubis, were also allotted separate chapels. One of the best preserved of the pylons, or temple gateways, is that of the temple of Khensu at Karnak. Under the hollow cornice is a fine representation of the king praying and sacrificing to the Theban deities. The gateway is approached

The whole of the temple is constructed round a central axis which bisects the sanctuary. One of the principal gods of Egypt, Set, of Oeiris and Isis, Horus is represented either as a boy or a young man or with the hawk's head, the last indicating his solar aspect.

The two forms were two distinct deities in the very earliest times, but the two stories were soon confused, and the Horus who waged war against Set, his father's murderer, became identified with Horus, the rising sun, the Greek Apollo. He was worshipped in many forms and under many names throughout Egypt. As a child he was represented with the side lock of hair and frequently with his finger to his mouth. As a solar deity he figures either as a hawk or a man with a hawk's head, wearing a variety of crowns. He is sometimes merged in Ra-

Y. M. C. A. and the Tercentenary

President L. P. D. Tilley, of the Y. M. C. A., has received the following from the Tercentenary Dormitory Department of the Quebec Y. M. C. A.:

Dear Sir:—In view of the limited hotel accommodation in comparison with the crowds who have expressed their intention of visiting this city for the Tercentenary celebrations, we are making arrangements to lodge 150 men in our building.

The short time which the fetes will last, makes a charge of $2.00 per day desirable to cover cost of providing comfortable beds, bedding, &c. The use of plunger and shower baths, and of the Association's parlors and reading rooms is included in the dormitory accommodation.

As we wish to offer the advantages to Y. M. C. A. members first, we are unable to come together, it would be advisable to let us know in order that we may act accordingly.

Will you kindly oblige by placing the poster, which we are enclosing, in a prominent position. The poster contains fairly full details, but if further information is required it will be gladly furnished.

Thanking you in advance for your cooperation,
Yours truly,
STUART E. OLIVER,
Dormitory Secretary.

Abandoned.
It stretches in untilled acres, ragged and ill to see,
Meadow and pasture, stream and billock and tree,
Grapes in the wild green swampland waste on the straggling vine,
And unpruned limbs in the orchard bear goblets of bitter wine.
The sweet spring bubbles untested, the shading hill and cool
Deserted, pitiful farmhouse, and ruinous long stone wall,
How sad is the lichened hearthstone and the long silent door all!
Ah, you who seek in the city a fortune that ever evades
Your asking—wary, despairing—come home to the fields and glades!
Answering the one's heart-string, the whisper that urges clear,
"Peaceful and sweet" is the hillside farm, and treasure and health are here—

Harrison J. Philbrick has fitted up a reading room in the tomb of his ancestors on the banks of the Denbury (Conn.) High (Me.) a tablet of masonry, a comfortable armchair, vases of flowers and cases of books are included in the furnishings, as well as couch and rug, with a reading lamp.

While Dr. D. C. Brown was explaining to the students of the Denbury (Conn.) High school methods of restoring a person who had fainted, a student in the rear of the hall suddenly fell to the floor in a swoon. The physician immediately suspended his talk and gave his audience a practical illustration of the subject under discussion.
