CANADIAN COPYRIGHT.

An Important Judgment by the Privy Council.

Toronto, July 29.—An important decision relative to Canadian copyright was given yesterday by the Privy Council in London, England. The case arose out of the picture entitled "What We Have We'll Hold," and which had such an enormous sale all over the empire during the Transvaal war. The British copyright was held by Messrs. Graves & Co. of London, Eng., and difficulty, it is said, arose over the supply and the prices for Canada, with the result that Mr. George T. Gorrie of Toronto issued a reproduction of the picture. As soon as Graves & Co. learned of the action of Mr. Gorrie they applied for an injunction restraining him from selling the picture. The injunction proceedings were stayed by the decision of the late Judge Rose, who held that a separate application should have been made for copyright in Canada.

Relying on the British act, which they contended applied to Canada, Graves & Co. appealed from the decision of Judge Rose to the Divisional Court, where they were again unsuccessful. They next appealed to the Court of Appeal of Ontario, and lost there also. Finally, the case reached the Privy Council in Britain, and a cablegram received in the city yesterday states that in this, the final court of all, the decision is once more against Graves & Co., and affirms the right of Mr. Gorrie, or any other Canadian, to sell the picture.

PRIZE FIGHTERS BEATEN.

ADVERSE JUDGMENT GIVEN AT ERIE.

No More Fights Until Court of Appeal Gives Decision on the Question.

Port Erie, July 29.—Fugilism received a knockout at Port Erie yesterday at the hands of Police Magistrate Ernest Cruikshank. He found John H. Herman guilty of promoting the Root-Gardner fight at the International Club House at Port Erie on the 4th of July. Sentence was deferred, pending an appeal to the Court of Appeal. The penalty facing Herman on the charge under which he was convicted is from $50 to $500 fine or one year's imprisonment, or both.

"This will not stop glove contests from being carried out until the Court of Appeal passes on this as a test case," said Herman after his conviction.

"It will stop all kinds of glove contests in the interim," said Magistrate Cruikshank. "If anyone tries to carry them on we will take the liberty to interfere."

From this it is evident that prize-fighting as such, or under the euphemistic name of boxing, will be prohibited in Port Erie henceforth. Magistrate Cruikshank said he had no doubt but the Court of Appeal would sustain the conviction.

The Magistrate said he dismissed the information on the Ernie-Zurbrick case because he thought the Root-Gardner fight was a stronger one for a test case. The decision of the Court of Appeal is not expected until the last of September or early in October.

Herman was tried on the charges of promoting a prize-fight between Warren Zurbrick and Frank Ernie and between Jack Root and George Gardner at Port Erie on the 18th of May and the 4th of July, respectively. When arraigned Herman pleaded not guilty in both instances. T. D. Cowper, County Attorney of Welland county, appeared for the Crown, and Herman was represented by T. C. Robinson, K.C., Toronto.

The Zurbrick-Ernie fight was taken up first by the court. Chief of Police Griffin of Port Erie, the first witness, described the fight, and said there were about 1,000 present. The prices ranged from $1 to $3. Testifying as to the Root-Gardner fight, Chief Griffin said Gardner was counted out in twelve rounds. He testified that some blood was drawn in the Ernie-Zurbrick fight and tests in the Root-Gardner fight.

On cross-examination by Mr. T. C. Robinson, K.C., Chief Griffin testified there was no "appreciable" injury beyond black eyes in the Zurbrick-Ernie fight. The casualties in the Root-Gardner contest were even lighter.

The chief said he was present, but did not interfere because he did not think it went beyond a boxing contest. He swore he would have stopped either or both of the contestants if it had looked like a prize-fight. If the referee had not stopped the Root-Gardner fight, he did witness would have stopped it.

Manitoba Harvest Hands.
The Manitoba Government has about completed the tabulation of returns relative to the number of harvest hands required in each district for this harvest. In a few days the announcements of the numbers required will be issued, accompanied with instructions relative to districts and routes. This year again all harvest hands will be booked to Winnipeg and from there will be carried free to and from the point where work is found for them. It is not expected that the demand will be so great this year as last, owing to the number of settlers already in the Province.

Some men waste their energy in crying over the success of others.

TWO SERIOUS FIRES.

SEVERAL PERSONS NARROWLY ESCAPE DEATH.

Ottawa, July 29.—Several persons narrowly escaped with their lives, and two were burned and bruised during a fire yesterday at the residence of Patrice Leclair, 162 Murray street. It was 4 o'clock when the blaze, which supposedly started from a defective chimney, was discovered. At that time dense volumes of smoke, accompanied by flames, were filling the rooms and when they awoke the occupants of the house were nearly suffocated. Miss Rosalie Leclair, who occupied a room on the second floor, was aroused by a cry of "Fire!" and as she sprang from the bed the flames burst through the partition. With her hair ablaze the young girl jumped from the second story to the pavement, and was severely bruised. Neighbors, who had been aroused in the meantime, succeeded in saving her from being burned fatally. Honore Leclair, 44, jumped from an upstairs window, and was bruised badly about the side and cut on the arm. Dr. Parent of St. Andrew street was summoned and attended the injured ones, who were taken to neighboring houses, and will recover. The house was pretty badly gutted, and the damage is placed at $1,500.

Dundalk, July 29.—About 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning this village was visited by one of the most disastrous fires in its history. The fire started in McFarland & Richards' general store in the Bell block. Owing to lack of fire protection and the rapid spread of the flames it was with difficulty that the employees escaped. McFarland & Richards lost all their stock; partly covered by insurance. Besides the above firm the following parties did business in the Bell block—W. W. Lucas & Company, bankers; Peter McGregor, grocery and confectionery store; Bank of Hamilton; The Dundalk Herald; James Lamont, barrister; Miss Hood, dressmaker. All these lost heavily by the fire, as well as a number of people who were in the store at the time. By the heroic efforts of the villagers the fire was prevented from spreading beyond the Bell block, though the McCullough House and other places caught fire several times. The origin of the fire is as yet a mystery. John Garner's stock of hardware and the furniture in the McCullough House was considerably damaged by removal and water. Miss A. Richards, the cashier of McFarland & Richards, who tried to save the books and close the vault, was severely burned. Miss F. Wilson, another clerk was slightly burned.

PEACE IN THE FAR EAST.

Russia Said to Have Made Important Concessions.

London, July 29.—The Daily Chronicle this morning, on the authority of "a usually well-informed correspondent," hears that peace will certainly be preserved in the far east throughout the coming winter. The correspondent says that Russia has made important concessions to the United States and Japan, while Great Britain, which has conducted her negotiations on more sober lines, has also obtained her desires.

The Chronicle says that an important Russian declaration will be issued shortly. Meanwhile, the paper says, it is significant that two British warships have just left Wei-Hai-Wei. "It is understood," says The Chronicle, "that the strained situation in the far east was discussed at a Cabinet Council in London last week, and that the present happy issue of the negotiations was announced at yesterday's Council."

AUTOMOBILIST IN COURT.

W. A. Kemp Charged With Furious Running of His Auto.

Toronto, July 29.—Mr. W. A. Kemp of the Kemp Manufacturing Co., an enthusiastic automobilist, was committed for trial at the September sessions, as the result of a complaint made to the county authorities by Hotelkeeper Jackson of Newmarket. Mr. Jackson claims Mr. Kemp, while on his way to Jackson's Point last Saturday, went through the town in his automobile at the rate of forty miles an hour, and frightened his horse so badly that it ran away and upset his buggy. Mr. Jackson, who was thrown out, sustained some painful bruises about the face and head. The vehicle was damaged to the extent of $100.

The new law governing the speed of automobiles in the county does not come into force till Sept. 1. This case, which is the first of the kind, is laid under section 33 of the Criminal Code, which is indictable offence and liable to two years' imprisonment who, having charge of any conveyance or vehicle, by wanton or furious driving or racing, or other wilful misconduct, or by wilful neglect, does or causes to be done any bodily injury to any person.

Mr. Kemp appeared before Magistrate Woodcock in the county hall.

PEACE RIVER DISTRICT.

ENORMOUS DEPOSITS IN

One Area Staked Out Upon Which It is Calculated There Are 250,000,000 Tons.

Ottawa, July 29.—The recent statement that steam coal had been found in the Peace River district is confirmed by Mr. Hugh Campbell of Cow Bay, Cape Breton, who has arrived here after some months of prospecting in the region referred to. Mr. Campbell was successful in staking out an area of coal lands upon which he calculates there are 250,000,000 tons of good coal. This is in the district near Hudson Hope, not far from the entrance to the Peace River Pass. In some parts the coal seams are nine feet thick. He says that people are going into the country in anticipation of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway reaching there in the course of time.

BRITISH FISCAL POLICY.

Special Meeting of Cabinet Will Deal With It.

London, July 29.—It is stated that arrangements have been made to call a special meeting of the Cabinet about the end of September, by which time it is anticipated that the Ministers' investigations of the fiscal problem will have been completed and the Cabinet will be in a position to reach a definite decision on Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's proposals. Premier Balfour will address the National Conservative Union October 1, and is expected to announce the Government's policy on the occasion. Mr. Chamberlain's opponents claim as a result of the reception given to his proposals by Parliament and the country that he is already shifting his ground.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

A Young Convict to be Tried at Calgary.

Calgary, July 29.—Ernest Cashel, who came from Montana and who is at present under sentence in Stony Mountain Penitentiary, is now charged with the murder of a farmer named Belt, who lived in Tail Creek, some miles east of Sodier. The alleged murder was committed last autumn. Cashel is a young man, not yet of age. He came down from Ponoka, and while here passed a worthless check upon a merchant. Chief English went north and arrested the young man near his home. This side of Red Deer the young fellow jumped through a window when the train was running at full speed and escaped, being captured some months afterwards and imprisoned. Shortly after the escape of Cashel the man Belt disappeared. He went suddenly and there was not the slightest indication of his whereabouts. From the fact that Cashel had been seen in the district and that later he had in his possession a horse and saddle belonging to the missing man, it is believed that he knew something of his whereabouts, but nothing in the way of a charge could be made until the man or his body was found. Last week some people near the mouth of Tail Creek, came upon the dead body of a man. An inquest was held, and a relative of the missing man positively identified him as the man Belt. A bullet was found in his shoulder. The coroner's jury, which was summoned, listened to some of the evidence which the police had secured, and brought in a verdict of wilful murder. The preliminary investigation will be held in Calgary or Red Deer as soon as the prisoner Cashel can be brought here from the penitentiary.

RECEIVED FATAL INJURIES.

Rodney, July 28.—This afternoon Mr. P. Martin, aged 32 years, a highly respected farmer, residing close to this place, was struck by a fast train while driving across the M. C. R. R. tracks here and fatally injured. The wagon was badly wrecked and both horses killed.

SAFE BLOWERS AT TORONTO

Office of Mr. Arch. Campbell, M. P., Wrecked in Second Attempt.

Cash Taking for the Day Had Been Removed, and Burglars Got But Little.

Toronto, July 28.—The safe at the mills of Mr. Arch. Campbell, M. P., at Toronto Junction, was blown open between one and three o'clock this morning, and a quantity of silver was stolen. The safe, which cost $600, was completely destroyed, and the part of the office where the safe was wrecked. The work appears to be that of expert safe crackers, who used dynamite and crowbars to force open the doors. Mr. Robert Collins, the head miller, opened the office at 7 o'clock this morning and was the first to notice the condition of the safe. People living in the neighborhood say they heard a loud report about three o'clock this morning, but did not think anything of it. This is the second time it has been opened. Once, three years ago, burglars made an entrance into the office and in the still of night proceeded with their nefarious work, only securing a few dollars for their pains. The last duty at night of the office manager is to remove the takings of the day to a safe place, and this system probably saved the firm a good many dollars.

THE KING'S VISIT TO IRELAND

Gratifying in every respect has been the reception accorded King Edward and his gracious consort by the Irish people, points out the Guelph Herald. The only jarring notes in the universal chorus of good will come from two unimportant antagonistic sections. Those who hate the Irish because they are Irish, criticize the King for making his visit of conciliation. His Majesty should not have imperiled his life or that of Queen Alexandra, we are told, in a futile attempt to pacify the people of the Green Isle. On the other hand we have Maud Gonne and her followers waving the green flag and hurling defiance at the hated Saxon. Happily between these two extremes there is one great and kindly sentiment over the Royal visit to Ireland.

At this distance it is impossible to measure the effect of the notable achievement which by his gracious presence in Ireland King Edward is accomplishing. Ireland, prosperous and contented, the book of her agrarian grievances closed forever, and her hand clasped in true friendship with her sister isle must herald the dawn of a brighter era for the whole empire. For be it well understood Ireland and the Irish form no inconsiderable portion of the mighty confederacy over which King Edward rules. Wipe out the achievements of Irish generals and Irish regiments in the war in South Africa and the story of that war will be robbed of its chief glory. The cultivation of the enduring friendships and good will of the people that have done so much and are capable of doing so much more for the development and preservation of his dominions, is one of the most kingly, as it is the most blessed, mission in which Edward the Seventh has ever embarked.

NOTED ENGLISH BACHELORS.

A correspondent asks the Brantford Courier for date of the paper in which reference was made to the large number of distinguished English bachelors.

That paper some time ago did make incidental allusion to the circumstance and the list is so remarkable as to be worth repeating. First of all, of course, there is Balfour, the British Prime Minister. The head of the greatest empire the world has ever seen; a noted philosopher, a unusually clever amateur musician and an all-round scholar, he is by all odds one of the most prominent men, yet he sticks to his single state with a quiet persistency which betokens a continuance in that condition until the end of the chapter.

Spencer, the great thinker, one of the greatest thinkers of all time, is still unmarried, although in his 63rd year, yet that circumstance has not prevented him from uttering some of the most profound thoughts with regard to sociological questions. Lord Kitchener, without doubt one of the most prominent of modern generals, is wedded to his profession alone. It is true that he is comparatively young, viz. 53, but it does not seem likely that he will ever enter upon domestic joys.

Sir Thomas Lipson, without doubt the most prominent and most successful of British commercial men, has evidently bestowed all his affection upon yachts. Perhaps he thinks that is one kind of she he can manage, while he does not feel quite so sure about the other variety. Leighton, the great English painter and president of the Royal Academy, was never married.

Rhodes, the most noted of empire builders, always clung to the single state.

Sullivan, the leading British composer, remained in single harness to the day of his death, and so the record might be continued.

The leading Statesman; the leading Philosopher; the leading Commercial Man, the leading General; the leading Artist; the leading Empire Builder; the leading Musician, all bachelors—truly it is a remarkable list.

On the other hand, Chamberlain, regarded by many as the actual if not the titular Premier of Britain, has shown his usual enterprise by becoming married three times; Asquith, in many respects the most prominent Liberal at present in the Old Land, has been married twice, and so have Dilke and many other notables.

Only Dodd's Kidney Pills are Doing Similar Things Daily

Reuben Draper's Gravel was Cured Three Years Ago—It Has Never Come Back.

Bristol, P. Q., Quebec, July 27.—(Special).—Reuben Draper, well-known here, tells a story of his cure of a bad case of gravel that would be considered miraculous if similar cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills were not being reported almost daily.

"About three years ago," says Mr. Draper, "I was taken ill with what I thought was gravel. I was suffering great pain, and the doctor I sent for gave me but little relief. Another doctor I tried failed to cure me, and I was getting weaker all the time."

"Then a man advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills as they had cured his mother, and I did so. In just one week after I started using them, I passed a stone as large as a small bean, and in four days after I passed another about the size of a grain of barley. That is two years ago, and I have not had any trouble since."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all ailments of the bladder and urinary organs.

ASIATIC LABOR.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN FRANKLY GIVES HIS VIEWS.

Would Not Consent to it For Transvaal so Long as Public Opinion is Hostile.

London, July 28.—During the course of the debate in the House of Commons, on the second reading of the Transvaal loan bill, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, referring to the proposal to introduce Asiatic labor into South Africa, declared that so long as public opinion was hostile to the proposition he would not consent to it. He believed, however, that opinion on the subject was changing, and if the majority demanded the importation of Indian coolies, he would not object to it. In regard to Chinese labor, Mr. Chamberlain said that not a single suggestion looking to the employment of Chinese in South Africa had ever been officially brought to the notice of the Transvaal Government.

DESPERATE CONVICTS.

Successful Fight for Liberty at Folsom, California.

Sacramento, Cal., July 28.—A despatch from Folsom says: Thirteen desperate prisoners, confined in the Folsom Penitentiary, made a successful break for liberty at the breakfast hour. After a fierce fight in the captain's office, during which Turney Cochrane was fatally stabbed, Guard Cotter was killed and Officer Palmer was cut on the head, they seized their arms and ammunition, and using the warden and other officials as shields, escaped. To-night, it is believed, they are making for the Bald Mountain. State troops, ordered out by Governor Pardee, have gone to the scene. The fight took place after the convicts had gone to the office of R. J. Murphy, Captain of the Guard, and seized Warden Wilkinson, his grandson, Harry Wilkinson, Captain Murphy and several other officers and guards. The convicts were armed with knives and razors, and with these they assaulted Warden Wilkinson and his officers. The warden's clothing was slashed into shreds, but he was not wounded. Turney Cochrane fought the convicts with a chair, raining blows upon them right and left. Finally, he was felled by a knife-thrust in the back. Guard Cotter was dismembered by a cut in the abdomen, and died a few hours later. Palmer was severely cut. The floor of the office was covered with blood.

The officers were outnumbered and soon relieved of their arms. Then, using the officers as shields, the convicts started for the armory on the outskirts of the penitentiary grounds. They passed a Gatling gun on one of the walls, but the guards were afraid to shoot for fear of killing the prison officials. When the armory was reached, the officers there attempted to interfere, but were quickly overpowered, and the convicts took a supply of weapons and ammunition and made a dash for the country. The convicts marched beside Wilkinson, and the officers were told if any of the pursuers took the life of one of their number that they would retaliate, life for life. At Mormon Bridge, about a mile from the penitentiary, the warden, his grandson, and Captain Murphy were released and sent back. Others were marched along with the convicts. Further on the convicts went to a farmer's house, seized his four horse team and wagon, robbed the house, took the farmer with them as a driver, and headed for Bald Mountain.

LYNCHED A WOMAN.

The Brutal Work of a Mob Near Shreveport, La.

Shreveport, La., July 28.—Information has reached Shreveport that the negroess, Jennie Steer, who it is alleged, administered poison in a glass of lemonade to Lizzie Dolan, the 10-year-old daughter of John Dolan, from the effects of which she died, was lynched by a mob Saturday night. The lynching occurred on the Beard plantation, near the spot where the woman's crime was committed. She denied committing the crime to the last. It is claimed the negroess fled from the Dolan household as soon as the crime was discovered. She was pursued by a posse, who found her crouching in a hayloft. She was dragged out and taken to the Dolan home, and fully identified as the woman who had placed the poison in the lemonade. The mob took her to a nearby tree, placed a rope around her neck and again asked her to confess. She was strung up without making any admissions. While the body was dangling in mid-air several bullets were fired into it by the enraged citizens.

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS.

A Recorder's Clerk in Montreal Missing.

Montreal, July 28.—A. Fournier, an accountant in the office of the Recorder's Court, is missing, and a shortage of $500 has been discovered in his books. The city holds a guarantee from a private individual of $500, so that the net loss will be small. Fournier has been missing since last Thursday. It is alleged that he left a note for his wife, confessing his guilt and stating that he had lost the money in stock speculation. His operations in this direction began in January, and appear to have been prompted by the advice of a friend, who was an insurance agent. Fournier was at one time manager of a branch bank at a salary of $800 per year, but lost the position and obtained a post in the Recorder's Court. He received the payment of fines, and in this way was enabled to secure possession of the money.

"FRUIT OF THE LOOM."

Men and women of taste and judgment go into ecstasies over the wonderful patterns, textures and colors which are the fruit of the loom. But there is one fruit they rarely consider, and that is the frail and faded woman, old before her time, because necessity compels her to work under conditions, which send her more favored sister to bed and the doctor's care.

The diseases which weaken and torment women, may in almost all cases be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. J. Dennis, of 888 East College Street, Jacksonville, Ill. "Words cannot express what I suffered. I sought relief among the medical profession and found none. Friends urged me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I commenced taking this medicine I weighed ninety-five pounds. Now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before. I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, breaking-down pain, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work and am a strong and healthy woman."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

THEY WANT RECIPROCITY.

American Furniture Men in Canada.

New York, July 27.—The second session of the first national convention of the National Furniture Association of America was held Friday. Eugene N. Foss of Boston made the principal speech in the evening on reciprocity with Canada, saying among other things:—

"Canada is the largest purchaser of our manufactures on the face of the globe, and we ask our Government to deal justly and fairly with our best customers. Our demand for closer trade relations with Canada rests upon broad foundations. Pre-eminent is the need of our manufactures for cheaper raw material, iron, coal, wood, hides, etc.

The following resolutions were adopted:—

"Resolved, that the Furniture Association of America regards with approval the action of the United States Government in seeking to reconvene the Anglo-American Joint High Commission for the purpose, among others, of negotiating a reciprocity treaty with Canada.

"That it is the sense of this convention that reciprocal relations, beneficial to both countries, should preferably follow the general lines of the removal by both countries of the duties on some or all of the natural products of each, and such mutual extensions of the free list and reductions and changes of the duties on the manufactured products of both as will give to each as low a rate of duties as is given to any other country."

SET FIRE TO THE HAY.

Boys' Mischief Causes a Loss of $40,000.

Winnipeg, July 28.—Fire last evening destroyed the large storehouse of the Arctic Ice Company, at the corner of River avenue and Main street, together with their stables and wagon sheds, and the two residences on River avenue, immediately to the east. The loss is about $40,000. A load of hay was being unloaded into one end of the icehouse, when a small boy with a match ignited the load. In the endeavor to get it away from the building the load upset, scattering the fire in all directions, and the result was as above stated. About 10,000 tons of ice will be rendered useless.

ANOTHER DRUCE CLAIMANT.

Issues Bonds on Claim to the Dukedom of Portland.

There is another claimant from the Druce family for the title and estates of the Duke of Portland. The claimant in this instance hails from Brighton, a suburb near Melbourne, and his name is George Hollanby Druce. He is a carpenter. He is pro-

THE DUKE OF PORTLAND, according to England with his solicitor.

Druce claims to be the illegitimate descendant and grandson of Thomas Charles Druce, who from 1835 to 1864 carried on business as an upholsterer in the Baker street bazaar in London.

A strong syndicate at Melbourne, having at its head J. McA. Howden, has been formed to finance the undertaking. Druce having issued bonds of £100 ($500), salable at £10 ($50), which will leave a fairly large margin of profit to the investors should his endeavor to prove his case and obtain the estates be crowned with success.

Joaquin Miller's Funeral Pyre.

The following anecdote is told of Joaquin Miller, the reports of whose death published recently were promptly denied the poet, who had a funeral pyre and monument built after his own designs.

Years ago he was journeying on foot, and was overtaken by an honest countryman, who took him up on his loaded wagon and gave him a long ride. Tired, at length, of conversation, the poet took a novel from his pocket and poured over it long and silently.

"What are you reading?" said the countryman.

"A novel of Bret Harte's," said Mr. Miller.

"Well, now, I don't see how an immortal being wants to be wasting his time on such stuff."

"Are you quite sure?" asked the poet. "Are you quite sure I am an immortal being?"

"Of course you are."

"That is so," responded Miller, "I don't see why I need be economical of my time."

The accompanying sketch of the pyre and monument is taken from a California paper some time ago. It is described as follows:—It has already been built under his own supervision, and from his own designs, in a romantic spot on the top of a heavenly hill back of the poet's home in Oakland, where big trees thrust themselves up into the air and huge boulders dot the ground.

Upon one of these is carved in big letters, "To the Unknown," the poet's greeting to the future which his eyes cannot pierce. The pyre itself is square, solidly built of 620 rough blocks of stone. Three steps lead up to it. It is ten feet square and eight feet high, so that from the top step a man can look over and see in its top only a shallow depression.

Here the poet has directed that his body be cremated, and the ashes scattered to the winds.

Know What He Was About.

It was just past midnight, says Tit-Bits, "John," whispered his wife, in a hushed voice, "John, wake up, there is a burglar downstairs."

John jumped from his bed and hastily rushed out of the room. Mrs. John goes to the door, and hearing nothing, calls out, "John, where are you?"

"Here I am," came a voice from above.

"What are you doing up there in the attic?"

"Confound you, woman, didn't you say there were burglars downstairs?"

The majority of sailors on the Atlantic ocean religiously believe that the frigate bird can start at daybreak with the trade winds from the coast of Africa and roost the same night upon the American coast.

CHATHAM. DRUGGISTS AND OPTICIANS. DRESDEN

GREAT RACE

Matched Speed Contest Between Two well-known and Philanthropic Citizens.

The good old days of footracing in Chatham are to be reviewed within the next few days by a brilliant matched race—a one hundred yard dash—between two rival speed merchants.

The contest will be duly announced and will take place over a specially marked out course on Tecumseh Park. The contestants are two well known philanthropic citizens, as the terms of the race demonstrate and the struggle promises to eclipse even the famous Fleming-Chase record of by-gone ages.

J. W. White, chairman of the C. C. I. Board, and Dr. Geo. Mussen are the competitors and both are going into arduous training for the event.

"Dr. Mussen has been worrying me a good deal of late with his challenges," said Mr. White, chatting to the hotel at noon to-day he was telling me how he would like to beat me. He may be able to do so, but I'm perfectly willing to accept his challenge and let him take his trial."

Asked concerning the conditions Mr. White said it would be a good idea to run it off on Tecumseh Park. The race could be duly announced and unquestionably a large concourse of citizens would gather to witness it. A silver collection would then be taken up in a similar manner to that at lacrosse and football matches and be apportioned as follows: Winner to take one-half of receipts and one-half to go to the Home for the Friendless.

"I would have been quite willing that the whole collection should go to the Home," said Mr. White, "but I don't think the doctor would consent. You know he expects to win and will want to get all he can out of it."

SUDDEN CALL

A very sad death occurred in this city last evening about nine o'clock, when Mrs. Geo. Lane, Queen street, was suddenly called into the Great Beyond.

Mrs. Lane had not been ill but was troubled with heart disease. She was sitting reading a paper when Mr. Lane entered the room. He had not been in the room long when she suddenly fell off her chair and in a few minutes was dead. Dr. Fleming was called but the deceased lady was beyond all human aid.

Deceased was 57 years of age and was born in Portsmouth, England. In religion she was an Episcopalian. Mrs. Caleb Wheeler is a sister of the deceased.

The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at three o'clock from her late residence to the Maple Leaf cemetery. Mr. Lane, the bereaved husband, is the caretaker of the Fair Grounds.

WANTED A DIVISION

J. W. White, the fat man's race winner, went on the Baptist Church excursion to Walpole Island. It was quite easily arranged that there should be races upon the island, and the excursionists all contributed. When the fat man's race was called, Mr. White was the only contestant. The weight limit barred all the rest. However, the weight was reduced to 170 lbs. and this let Andrew Thomson in. Andrew won the race. Mr. White claimed that the last buoy had fouled him and prevented his winning. On this ground he wanted the auctioneer to divide the 50 cents, but the ex-Ald. jungle that 50 cents together with a couple of coppers he had before and laughed the man of law to scorn.

CORNER STONE CEREMONY

During the ceremony the Bishop will be assisted by a number of priests, and immediately after it a lecture will be delivered by Rev. R. McBrady, C. S. B., superior of Assumption College.

ACCIDENT AT RODNEY

Ed. Cahill, of St. Thomas, was a Chatham visitor this morning and called at Wm. Gray & Sons office. He reported seeing an accident on a railway crossing at Rodney yesterday by which a man well known to him lost his life. The man was driving over the track when a train struck the rig. Both the horses were killed and the buggy was smashed.

PLANS FOR TIMBER SALE.

Nine Hundred Miles to be Sold in December.

Toronto, July 23.—Several timber agents and estimators called at the Crown Lands Department yesterday to get instructions for their work in connection with the coming timber sale, their duty being to furnish information upon which the Government's upset price will be based. The secrets of the sale are being pretty closely guarded as yet, but the impression is that it will be December before the sale can be held, owing to the extensive work necessary in inspecting the various limits. This sale will be the largest since 1885, and the fourth largest since confederation. In the neighborhood of 900 square miles, or 25 townships, will be offered. The occasion for the disposal of the timber is to make room for advancing settlement along the line of several new railways—the Temiskaming & Algonquin, the Bruce Mines & Algonquin, and the Central Canada Railways, the latter being the one projected by Mr. Connec and Mr. Clergue from French River to Hutton township. By disposing of the limits it will also relieve the Crown of the loss from fire.

A WIDOW'S SUICIDE.

She Was Temporarily Insane Through Insomnia.

Galt, July 23.—Mrs. Sophia Johnson, a widowed woman of 45 years of age, committed suicide here yesterday. She came to Galt about two months ago, and has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Deans of Chapman street. A day or so ago a doctor was called in to attend the deceased, and he found her in an excited state. She seemed demented, and complained of insomnia, saying that if she could only get a sleep she would be all right. Shortly after 3.30 o'clock this afternoon her daughter heard a strange sound coming from her mother's room, and hurrying upstairs she found the woman lying upon the bed with blood gushing from an ugly gash in the throat. Doctors were hastily summoned and when they reached the woman's side she was still alive, but died in a few moments. Her throat was found to be cut almost clear through to the bone, but the windpipe and the jugular vein being severed with an old razor, which was lying on the bed covered with blood. Mrs. Johnson was an eminently respectable woman, and her rash act was clearly committed in a moment of insanity. Coroner Vardon, who had been attending her, considered an inquest unnecessary, as the case was undoubtedly one of suicide.

Accident at St. David's.

St. David's, July 23.—(Special).—A serious accident occurred at the quarries on Monday, when Mr. Ed. Lowrey was severely crushed between two cars while assisting in shunting. Three ribs were bruised, and his left lung very much considered an inquest unnecessary, as the case was undoubtedly one of suicide.

The Picton Murder Case.

Picton, July 23.—The Coroner's jury in the Johnson murder case returned the following verdict: "That Edward Johnson, otherwise called 'Yellow,' on the 22nd of July, 1903, at Picton, in the county of Prince Edward, came to his death by a wound of the heart, and from the evidence we are strongly of the opinion that the wound was inflicted by one Edward Clark, otherwise known as 'Side-show Shorty.'"

New and important regulations have been made by the Ontario Government affecting loan companies, which will tend to the greater protection of shareholders.

A terrific cyclone has passed through the district of Tchernigof, Russia. Three villages were destroyed in a few minutes. Churches and houses were lifted bodily and carried a long distance. The loss of life was great.

IN THE LAND OF DREAMS
 By LESTER GRAY
 Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure

The setting sun burned through the river mists with lurid smoke. Its dying splendor silhouetted the drooping figure of the girl on the park bench and revealed pitilessly every line of discouragement and weariness.

The lower river walk was quite deserted, and so she kept her sunset vigil alone.

The day had been stifling. In the busy office the whirling fans had brought no breath of coolness. The keys of her machine had felt hot to her fingers, and the lines of typewriting had danced waveringly before her eyes. Somehow, with a strength born of the long ago days of childish freedom in field and wood, she had managed to drag through her work. And now the evening found her here, too weary in mind and body to realize that the river breeze was blowing freshly and the city noises were hushed by distance.

Her face was turned toward the western hills, already shadowed by the approach of night. Her fevered glance seemed to pass beyond them and see the peaceful valleys where rippling grain murmured in the night wind, where in the thickets by the splashing brook came the last faint calls of sleepy birds and drowsy cattle lay in the lush bottom grass.

The girl saw clearly, for in just such a valley she had once lived. She had waded in that clear brook and laughed joyously at her image mirrored in its flower fringed pools. Hark! That was the note of the whippoorwill. Faint and still more faintly it sounded. The scent of the evening primrose was in the air. Its sweetness was overpowering. Her head fell forward on her breast. She had fainted.

She looked around her dizzily. Her face and hair were wet and her head arm. "Is there no one left there who loves you," she asked softly—"no one who wants you to come back?"

She almost thought he had not heard the question, he sat so silently looking at the water rippling in the moonlight. Or perhaps he was angry. If she could recall her words.

Suddenly he caught his breath thickly, as if to choke back a sob. "Yes, there is one," he half whispered—"my mother."

Again the silence fell. Then the girl spoke. She did not look at him. He almost had to bend to hear the low monotone of repressed feeling.

"My mother! She has been dead these three months, but I—I did not appreciate her when she was alive. I was dissatisfied with the calm of my quiet country home. I wanted the glitter and the glare of the city. I forgot that she needed me, and I came here. Of course I meant to make a home for her, but that did not come first—no, my own pleasure came first. And when I was gone she faded day by day. I was all she had, so there was no one to tell me. I wrote of gay times with new friends, and she was too loving to worry me with complaints. Then one day the word came she was very ill; I must go to her at once. She had been down for several hours when I threw myself down beside her. It was too late—too late to hear her dear voice whisper that she had forgiven me."

Great tears were slowly rolling down her cheeks. There were tears in the man's eyes, too, but they shone with the light of new resolution.

"You have shown me your heart to-night, little girl," he said huskily, "and I thank you. You have shown me what I must do. I will go back to-night at once. I will face the shame and live it down for her sake."

The girl had forgotten her own pain in joy for another. His mother would have her own again. She stood up and held out her hand in goodby. She must not keep him a moment; his mother was waiting.

"You will go back and be a man for her sake," she said firmly.

"For her sake," he repeated, "and—for you."

And one day her land of dreams became reality.

SHE LAID HER HAND IMPLOINGLY ON HIS ARM.

lay back on a man's arm. Yet she felt neither fear nor surprise. The peace of her dream was still upon her, and her lips half parted in a smile.

The man had been gazing down wonderingly.

"Don't be frightened," he said gently, "You were tired and faint, I was close by and came to you. Rest quietly."

The girl lay back passively. Realities were still dim uncertainties to her; conventionalities but a part of the forgotten heat and burden of the day. The moon had risen, and in its white light her small face looked very pure and childish.

After awhile the man spoke again, hesitatingly, apologetically: "I sat down some time ago, but you did not seem to notice me. You were too busy watching the sunset. Your face was transfused. Where were you then?"

"I was in the land of dreams," she answered softly—"in the land of long ago. It is far away from the hurrying crowds, the noise and the heat of this great city, and there one never knows weariness and heart hunger. I know, for I was there once."

"Why do you not go back?" he asked.

"I cannot. Those who loved me and whom I loved are all dead. There is no place for me there."

The light of peace had faded from her face, for a sickening sense of reality had come to her as she spoke. But she had caught the note of bitterness in the man's voice, and now she turned to him, eagerly, gratefully. The moonlight showed a handsome young face, worn and haggard, its beauty dimmed by the too plain marks of dissipation. In the dark eyes was the shadow of despair. But the girl's face only softened into pity.

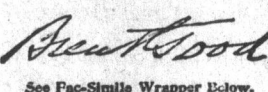

"Where is your dream country?" she asked wistfully.

He shrank a little from her clear gaze. Then he shrugged his shoulders with reckless nonchalance. "Oh, I am not as lucky as you. I dare not even dream of my country, much less go back." And he laughed bitterly.

"Then you mean you are afraid to go back?"

"Afraid? No!" he cried passionately, as though stung by her words. "I do not wish to go back. What's the use? I have burned my bridges behind me."

She laid her hand imploringly on his

A SENSE OF HUMOR.

IT IS A POTENT FACTOR IN KEEPING LIFE SWEET TO THE END.

One Need Not Be a Youngster In Mere Years to Have and Enjoy Fun. Age May Be Made as Green, as Jolly and as Gay as Giggling Youth.

"Take your fun while you may; you'll never be young but once," is a popular fallacy. It presupposes two things—that the young, because of youth, must have fun and that as soon as it is passed the capacity for enjoying it is over.

Some never grow old, and some are never young. Age lies in the individual and is not a question of dates.

Because a person ceases to be able to giggle at every remark, to bubble over with gleefulness at the slightest provocation, is no criterion that real mirthfulness has fled. The delicate sense of humor that may take the place of this showy buoyancy is far more to be prized.

A sense of humor is a potent factor in keeping life sweet to the end. A green and jolly old age is as jolly as a gay youth.

A sense of humor can be cultivated, and it should be as assiduously as forbearance, kindness or any of the cardinal virtues.

With the slipping away of youth despair asserts itself only when it is thought joy and mirth must flee also.

Are we sure that youth is so positively happy as it is supposed to be? Is there not a restlessness, an uncertainty, in the steps of a young girl that causes anxiety to be mingled with every move? She is full of theories, is imbued with ideals, but how to obtain the desired ends is a mooted question. She can never be as securely happy as is the married woman, or unmarried, who has, as it were, found her feet surely and knows how to get what she wants, or, at least, knows what she wants to get. There is a restless looking forward for pleasures each day, an unhappy killing of time before some promised joy arrives in the young that all who have passed it can painfully remember.

Girls are so imbued by the thoughtless, with the idea that all joy ceases with youth, that they have a feeling of commiseration for those who have bid farewell to this ephemeral period. Little do they realize how the study of all life, the enlarged power to feel, to see, to bear, to live, to enjoy, is the priceless gift of every added year.

There is something pitiful in watching the nervous grasp at joy in youth. We see constantly young girls literally afraid to loosen their hold on one day or one pleasure to fulfill an act of simple duty.

There is a not unfamiliar story of a young girl in a ballroom who was stopped as she walked about the floor on the arm of one of her partners by an old family friend, who inquired, with interest, for her mother.

"My dear, I'm glad I saw you," he repeated. "How's your mother?"

No reply. She only clung to the arm on which she leaned and was hastening by when the old gentleman, seeing her fear lest her escort should slip away, laid his hand on the young man's coat collar.

"My dear, I'll hold him," he cried, twinkling his eye wickily. "How's your mother?"

He was not a very nice old gentleman, perhaps, but that he got a full share of fun out of life none could doubt, and the attitude of the young girl, holding fast to her prize lest he should escape, is exactly the attitude of youth that looks to the early days for all its share of joy.

I was in a group of young unmarried women, some nearing thirty, others who had just overstepped this critical date. They were expressing in graphic language their sensitiveness about their age.

I have taken some pains to hunt up statistics about the attractions and accomplishments of women who were past this age which I commend to their perusal. In the first place novelists are taking women between thirty and forty for their heroines. It is the woman who dares to have thoughts and has cultivated herself to the point of expressing them who commands friends and lovers who are worth while.

Helen of Troy was over forty when she perpetrated the most famous elopement on record, and as the siege of Troy lasted twenty years she could not have been very juvenile when the ill fortune of Paris restored her to her husband, who, it is said, received her with love and gratitude.

Cleopatra was past thirty when Antony fell under her spell, and her fascinations for him had not lessened when she died ten years later.

Pericles wedded Aspasia at the age of thirty-six, and she wielded undisputed influence over men for thirty years afterward.

Livia was thirty-three when she won the love of Augustus, over whom she maintained her ascendancy to the last. Louis XIV. wedded Mme. Maintenon when she was forty-three years of age. Ninon, a celebrated beauty and wit of her day in France, captivated the love of the Abbe de Beras at the age of seventy-three.

Anna of Austria was thirty-eight when Buckingham and Richelieu were her devoted and jealous admirers.

There are women ready to die of senile debility at forty and women who first begin to taste the full perfection of womanhood's development at that age.

It may be noted in passing that old age must be full of mortification if the ghosts of wickedly spent time haunt the mind.—Susan W. Ball in Terre Haute Gazette.

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itching of the skin, eruptions or blotches, sores in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fog" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Patents. OUR NEW METHOD OF TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poisons from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. GUARANTEED OR NO PAY, 25 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

Water Valuable in Venice.
In Venice water is somewhat of a luxury, as the inhabitants have to depend upon the rains, and there is no company for supplying the city. The water for drinking and domestic uses is collected in subterranean reservoirs, where it is said to be filtered. It is doled out at the public wells, which are open one hour daily for that purpose, and then are carefully locked up.

Give Lemons Air.
To keep lemons, let them lie loosely, uncovered on a wire tray that will permit circulation of air on all sides and underneath. Keep them in a dry and cool room.

The Goat.
Originally the common or domestic goat was a native of the highlands of Asia. Naturalists generally regard it as having descended from an animal found in the Caucasus mountains and the hill country of Persia, called in the Persian language the pesang.

Boiled Fish.
There is nothing more difficult to serve neatly than a boiled fish. Do not cut the portions, but carefully separate them where the flakes are joined.

Dagobert's Throne.
The throne of King Dagobert, who reigned in the seventh century, is in the cabinet des Medailles at the French National Library. Dagobert's throne, which is of brass work, was forged and chased by St. Eloi for King Dagobert.

Snakes.
Of the 165 kinds of snakes found in the United States and twenty are venomous. They are the copperhead and water moccasin, which are closely related; the coral snakes of the south-west; the two species of sistrurus and the fifteen species of rattlesnake. The most dangerous of them, the water moccasin, is not seen north of Tennessee.

Lava.
Lava expands in passing from a liquid to a solid state, the gas in the liquid mass being violently expelled.

Goose Legislation.
Under Henry V. an act of parliament ordered all the geese in England to be counted, and the sheriffs of the counties were required to furnish six arrow feathers from each goose.

The Spitz Dog.
The rather dangerous breed of dogs called Spitz or Pomeranian dogs, a variety of Eskimo, were first bred in Pomerania, Prussia, but the popular name of Spitz was probably derived from the erroneous notion that they originated in Spitzbergen.

Greek Sultides.
Ajax killed himself with his spear. Jocasta, Antigone, Hamon, Eurycle, Odipus and many other Greek heroes and heroines died by their own hands.

A Poplar That Does Not Seed.
It does not seem to be generally known that the Lombardy poplar never seeds. It is simply a variety of another poplar and has to be increased wholly from cuttings. The pollen bearing form, so far as known, is not in this country. The plant is wholly pistillate.

A Matter of Temperature.
Speaking generally, wild creatures inhabiting hot countries are more savage than those of cold or temperate countries.

The Cutty.
It is not generally known that the word cutty as applied to a species of clay pipe very much used is a corruption of Kutach, a city in Asia Minor, where a species of soft white stone is found which is exported by the Turks to Germany for the manufacture of tobacco pipes.

Mexico.
Mexico has been estimated to contain 479 square leagues of forests, 18,134 square leagues of mountain land and 4,822 square leagues of uncultivated land.

A big tongue indicates frankness; a short tongue, dissimulation; a long and broad tongue, garrulity and generosity; a narrow tongue, concentration and talent; a short, broad tongue, garrulity and untruth. The man with a very short and narrow tongue is a liar of true artistic merit.

TRUCK DRIVER AND HORSE

How a Friendly Understanding Developed Between Them.
The friendly relations which often exist between truck drivers and their horses is shown in the story of Chieftain, one of the tales in "Horses Nine," by Sewell Ford. Tim Doyle, the driver, having been left alone in the world, takes up lodgings in the stable. The story runs thus: So for three years or more Chieftain had always had a good night pat on the flank from Tim, and in the morning, after the currying and rubbing, they had a little friendly banter in the way of love slaps from Tim and good natured nosings from Chieftain. Perhaps many of Tim's confidences were given half in jest, and perhaps Chieftain sometimes thought that Tim was a bit slow in perception; but, all in all, each understood the other even better than either realized.

Of course Chieftain could not tell Tim of all those vagrant longings which had to do with new grass and spring turf, nor could he know that Tim had similar longings. These thoughts each kept to himself. But if Chieftain was of Norman blood, a horse whose noble sires had ranged pasture and paddock free from rein or trace, Tim was a Doyle whose father and grandfather had lived close to the good green sod and had done their toll in the open, with the cool and calm of the country to soothe and revive them.

Of such delights as these both Chieftain and Tim had tasted scantily, hurriedly, in youth, and for them in the lapses of the daily grind both yearned each after his own fashion. And, each in his way, Tim and Chieftain were philosophers. As the years had come and gone, toll filled and uneventful, the character of the man had ripened and mellowed, the disposition of the horse had settled and sweetened. In his earlier days Tim had been ready to smash a wheel or lose one, to demand right of way with profane unctious and to back his word with whip, flat or bale hook. But he had learned to yield an inch on occasion and to use the soft word.

Chieftain, too, in his first years between the poles had sometimes been impatient with the untrained mares who from time to time joined the team. He had taken part in mane biting and trace kicking, especially on days when the loads were heavy and the flies thick, conditions which try the best of horse temper. But he had steadied down into a pole horse who could set an example that was worth more than all the six foot lashes ever tied to a whipstock.

COAL AT WALLACEBURG

Wallaceburg, July 29.—In spite of the fact that geologists have always maintained that there was no coal in Ontario, the manager of the Government diamond drill reported yesterday to the citizens' committee that the had passed through three distinct seams of the mineral on a farm on the North Branch, a short distance from town. A hurry-up meeting of the committee was called and samples were despatched at once to Ottawa for analysis and assaying. Other holes will be sunk to discover the drift of the deposit and also the probable size of the field.

ANOTHER DESPATCH.

Wallaceburg, Ont., July 28.—There is considerable excitement in this town to-day over the fact that coal has been discovered in the immediate vicinity. For some time past one of the Ontario Government's diamond drills under the direction of Mr. Roach, has been testing the territory, and a number of holes have been put

GIVEN GLASS OF POISON.

King Milan Asks Would-be Regicide to Drink.

Chicago, July 28.—Walter Wellman in a special despatch to The Times-Herald from Washington says:—One of the most dramatic stories of royal life I ever heard was told me by Moreton Frewen, the English traveller and economist, shortly before he sailed for home a few weeks ago. Mr. Frewen is a good deal of a sportsman, and has visited many countries in search of big game. Some years ago he was one of a party that occupied a hunting lodge in the depths of a Hungarian forest. Among the other sportsmen there was King Milan of Serbia. One evening, while they were all gathered about the supper table in the hunting lodge, Milan told this story:

"I had not been long upon the throne of Serbia," said the King, "before my secret agents brought me the details of a plot that had been formed against my life. The conspiracy embraced so many men in military and civil life that my advisers were very much alarmed and wanted me to cause them all to be summarily removed. I replied that it was not the business of a King to depopulate his kingdom, and if I executed every man who joined a plot against me it would not be long before I had no people to rule over."

"According to the plans of the conspirators, I was to be put out of the way by means of poison. An annual ceremonial banquet was soon to be held, and one of my aides-de-camp, Colonel Blank, whose duty it was to hand me a golden goblet of wine, was to see that the cup contained the proper dose. Declining to accept the advice of my Ministers, to make immediate arrests, and telling them to leave the whole matter in my hands, I went to the banquet. At the proper moment in the ceremonies the aide-de-camp came up to me, extended the golden goblet and made a very pretty speech, commending my reign as a blessing to the Serbian people, and wishing me many years more of health and happiness."

"I took the goblet," continued Milan, "and held it aloft a moment while I gazed about the banquet hall. You may imagine, gentlemen, the tension of that moment. Probably a third of the people in the room knew that the wine was poisoned, many of the conspirators being present as well as those of my trusted people who had been informed of the plot. As I looked into the eyes of the hundred men who sat watching me, it seemed to me I could distinguish the friends from the foes, though it was not difficult to tell which were in the majority. Probably I was the calmest man of them all, for I knew all that they knew, and something more besides."

"'Nobles and gentlemen of Serbia,' I exclaimed, 'it gives me great pleasure to receive this mark of affection and support of my people. It is with the happiest feelings of good-will to all and love for our dear country that I drink to your toast.'"

"At this juncture I touched my lips to the golden goblet and watched with keen interest the involuntary shudder that ran round the room. Pausing then, without having tasted the wine, you may be sure, I resumed: 'Upon second thought, I will not drink this toast myself. I see around me scores of my loyal officers, Ministers and friends. There is one among them who has given that I now propose to pay him the unusual honor of asking him to be my deputy and to drink this toast in my stead.'"

"So saying, I turned to Colonel Blank, the aide-de-camp and would-be regicide, who stood by my side, and handed the goblet to him. I shall never forget the look upon his face. In his eyes I could read his thoughts: He had been betrayed, his plot was known to me; he had his choice between drinking his own poison or being executed by my orders before daylight. He hesitated a moment, but only for a moment, then he bowed to me and to the company, and drained the cup to the last drop. A few moments later he fell dead in my arms. 'And that,' concluded the King, 'is what I call the death of a gentleman. He took his own medicine with a bravery worthy of a better cause.'"

A MUSKOKA TRAGEDY.

Three Young American Students Said to be Drowned.

Beaumaris, July 29.—On Sunday afternoon Joseph Hosack, a Princeton University student, whose home is in Carnegie, Pa., was accompanied by Walter Mercer, of Mercer, Pa., a medical student of Johns Hopkins University, sailed to Gravenhurst in a canoe to meet Hosack's cousin, a young man, who was to arrive there Sunday afternoon. When the young men did not return on Monday morning inquiries were made, and it was found the three had left Gravenhurst at 8 o'clock Sunday night. Searching parties were at once formed, every available launch owned by the various cottagers being sent out. Up to this evening nothing has been found but the paddles and Mercer's coat. It is feared the three young men have been drowned.

FOURNIER'S BODY FOUND.

The Defaulting Montreal Cashier a Suicide.

Montreal, July 29.—The body of Albert Fournier, the defaulting cashier of the Recorder's Court, was found floating in the river at the Government wharf, below Longueuil, yesterday. An inspection of Fournier's books was made last Thursday, and on Friday Fournier disappeared. The inspection, a regular one, disclosed a shortage of $500. The defaulter was 41 years old, and he leaves a wife and one child. After his disappearance his wife received a letter saying his accounts were short and that he intended to leave the city. The deceased was at one time manager of the St. Catherine street branch of the Bank du Peuple. He had been cashier of the Recorder's Court for seven years. His downfall is attributed to stock gambling.

LACROSSE

WALKAWAY FOR CHATHAM.

The Scotchmen came to the front in the local match of lacrosse yesterday with Thamesville. Of the twelve goals scored by the Chathams, ten were put into the nets by Scots. Angus scored five and the Ross brothers five—Frank three and Bert two—while O'Connor, the Irishman, butted in for two.

It was Chatham all the way and the easiest kind of a victory for the locals. The Thamesville aggregation was decided weak yesterday in play on both home and defence.

The game opened at the face off with Tackaberry getting the ball and rushing down the field and after a fusillade on Thamesville citadel of a few minutes Angus scored Chatham's first goal on a pretty low shot after fine combination work.

Bert Ross scored the second not long after the first was put in on a pass from Wilson.

After the face off in the centre of the field the ball travelled to Chatham quarters, where Fead relieved very cleverly.

O'Connor scored the third after pretty combination work down the field by Wilson, Angus, Higley and B. Ross, Ross passing to O'Connor.

Elliott now relieved splendidly to Grant, who brought the ball down the field, passing to Tackaberry, who passed to Frank Ross, and Bert Ross scored the fourth goal.

SECOND QUARTER.

In less than a minute after the ball had been faced in centre, O'Connor had put the ball between the stakes for the fifth score, after Higley had secured the sphere and run down the field, passing to Wilson.

The sixth count soon followed, Frank Ross scoring easily on a pass from O'Connor.

It was in the second quarter that the visitors made their goal, Barney McGee scooping the ball through the flags after Brackin had failed to relieve.

Chatham's seventh was a scoop through the nets by Angus after Allard, in goal for the visitors, had stopped a hard shot by B. Ross but could not get it away.

The second quarter was not ended yet and on good combination work down the field Angus got the ball from O'Connor and sifted it through on a skilful side shot.

THIRD QUARTER.

There was practically nothing doing in the third quarter. There were no goals scored. The Chatham defence were the busiest in this quarter of any, all doing good work, especially Fead, who capably relieved on many occasions, saving several scores.

FOURTH QUARTER.

The quarter was hardly opened before the ninth goal was scored by Angus and Frank Ross followed right up with number ten, Tackaberry passing to Higley, to Angus, to Ross. Bert and Frank Ross worked in a little brotherly combination and the eleventh was theirs, Frank putting it between the flags.

The last goal was the result of play by only the Chathamites, Hutchison on defence making a long throw to O'Connor, who tossed the sphere to Angus, and a dozen goals were scored.

The way they lined up:

SHOTS ON GOAL.

Referee gave perfect satisfaction and there was no kicking.

Higley was there with the goods and got his satisfaction.

Bert Ross played the star home game while Fead was the defence article.

Chatham's intermeddles, Hutchison and Tackaberry, did exceedingly well. They'll be fast seniors next year.

"Playing the way they did yesterday, Chatham could beat the Wallaceburg bunch just as bad," remarked an enthusiast after the game.

O'Connor engineered most of the attacks on the visitors and is a star—a great acquisition to the team.

Billy Wilson played a strong game on the home and was responsible for much good combination.

Keep up the evening practices and keep in good shape; there is yet plenty of chance for success.

Thamesville fought hard but were up against it. They had a couple of juniors on their team.

Hardy and a couple of others from Thamesville were seen among the crowd.

RELiance CHOSEN AS DEFENDER.

New York, July 28.—The news that the Reliance has been selected to defend the cup pleased Sir Thomas Lipton. He said:—"I am very glad to hear this news. Had I been a member of the New York Yacht Club committee I would have voted for the selection of Reliance. I believe that she is the best boat. In Shamrock III, I know I have the best yacht that ever crossed the Atlantic to challenge for the America's cup. If I win I want to compete against the best yacht that America can produce. I believe that in the Reliance you have a perfect type of an American boat. I am confident as ever I will lift the cup."
