

What Society is doing

"The Little Brown House."
There's a candle shining out clear Through starlight and storm, the
live-long night
In a window small, I can see it
glow
In the Little Brown House beneath the hill.

As I smoke my pipe in my dugout small
I can hear the dreadful death-rain fall
When I close my eyes my thoughts will roam
To the Little Brown House I call my home.

I know the candle shines for me,
With a message of love, across the sea.
While the courage and hope it sends, I seem
To clearly feel, in many a dream,
Of keep the candle burning bright
Through starlight and storm, the
live-long night
For my "ticket to Blight" may seem
To the Little Brown House beneath the hill.

REVISED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Author of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

LESSON FOR JULY 7 BEGINNING THE CHRISTIAN LIFE.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 18:1-4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Whoever will let him take the water of life freely.—Revelation 22:17.

DEVOTIONAL READING—John 15:1-8.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL FOR TEACHERS—Matthew 27:47-54; Romans 5:11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Loving and trusting
Jesus.—John 1:38-51.
MEMORY VERSE—We love because he first loved us.—1 John 4:19.

1. How Lydia Began the Christian Life (vv. 18-15).

Lydia was the first convert to Christ in Europe. Hers was a typical conversion. Note the steps therein:

1. Attendance at the place of prayer. (v. 18)
2. The accustomed place here was at the river side. The accustomed place today is in church. God can and does save men and women without any seeming connection with places of established worship, but he appears to most people at such places. The very fact that he has established and sustains churches here and there is an urgent call to all men and women to place themselves in the way of salvation. While no one can save himself, yet all can put themselves in the way of salvation by attending church, reading the Bible, etc.

2. Listening to the preaching of the Word of God (vv. 13, 14).

Paul took advantage of the opportunity which was given him by the assembly of the "group of devoted women to preach Christ to them. He was alert for and prized highly the opportunity to tell the people about Christ. He knew also how perilous it was to neglect to witness for Christ at a time when unsaved people are together. The opportunity is God's call to preach Christ. It is an urgent call to all men and women to place themselves in the way of his saving grace.

3. She was baptized (v. 15).

This ordinance follows belief in Christ. The inviolable rule in every church was for believers to be baptized. While there is no salvation in the water of baptism, yet hearty obedience should be rendered in this respect. Lydia brought her household to Christ. This is as it should be. She showed signs of the new life, in that she expressed gratitude toward those who had been instrumental in her conversion (v. 15) by constraining them to share the hospitality of her home.

4. The casting out of the spirit of divination from the damsel (vv. 16-19).

The casting out of the spirit of divination from the damsel, Paul and Silas in prison. The pain of bleeding backs, and of feet in stocks, kept them from sleeping; but not from praying and singing. The Lord heard their prayers and sent an earthquake which shook the jail, opened the doors of the prison, and loosed the bonds from the prisoners' hands.

(1) Visitation of the supernatural (vv. 17-19).

The jailer was awakened from his sleep by the earthquake. This earthquake was unusual in that it loosed the bonds from the prisoners' hands. In his desperation the jailer was about to commit suicide. This was averted by Paul's assurance that all were safe. The fact that the doors were opened and the prisoners free and yet no one escaped, showed him that something unusual had occurred. Therefore, he came trembling and prostrated himself before Paul and Silas.

(2) The great question (v. 30). In the presence of the supernatural he cried out, "What must I do to be saved?" One's salvation is not far off when he utters this cry with sincerity.

(3) The vital answer (vv. 31, 32). "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ," is the only way to be saved. (Acts 4:12). Though the way of salvation is restricted, it is simple and easy. No one who has believed on Christ has failed to receive it. The subject matter was not blind faith, for they saw and heard the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house. They were taught the meaning of belief in Christ.

(4) The evidence of a transformed life (vv. 33, 34).

(a) He was baptized (v. 38). As soon as one believes on Christ he should be baptized. (v. 31).

(b) He tenderly washed the stripes of Paul and Silas, showing that he was no longer the brutal jailer (v. 34).

(c) He rejoiced (v. 34). The one who really accepts Christ is filled with joy.

(d) A transformed home (v. 34). He brought his household to Christ and his household.

The U.S. Government is considering the purchase at the pit mouth of all coal mined and its sale at fixed prices.

"Truth in Advertising"

TRUE Advertising is GOOD SEED—It is the ONLY Seed worth sowing. You run against an advertiser now and then who is not so careful as he ought to be as to what goes into his ads. An untruthful word, spoken, may soon be forgotten—but once the lie gets into PRINT, there is no telling HOW long it will live to work HARM.

Had there NEVER BEEN Advertising Liars, the Selling Cost of Things would now be a great deal LESS in all lines of business, which is another way of saying that the ADVERTISING ABUSES of other days have operated to PAWPOUSE and honest advertisers alike.

The AD is the SPOKEN WORD of Business. More and MORE, all classes of people are reading and RESPONDING to advertising. Why? Because the public is learning to regard advertising in a SERIOUS LIGHT. People are beginning to understand that the AD is TRUE.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING is the Modern Standard. Decent STORES and decent NEWSPAPERS all over America are LEAGUED TOGETHER to eliminate the FAKERS, and to make all Advertising SQUARE with FACT. Merchants and Business men whose Advertisements you see in the Advertising Columns of THIS Newspaper are DISCIPLES of THIS NEW SCHOOL. If the Advertisement SAYS it, the purpose is to MAKE GOOD.

NORFOLK NEWS

SUDDEN DEATH AT SIMCOE YESTERDAY

Miss Isabel Waddle Found Dead Early Friday Morning

OTHER SIMCOE NEWS

(From our own Correspondent)

Simcoe, July 6.—Miss Isabel Waddle, sister of Mrs. John Goodland, who had been living in the Goodland home on Lynnwood avenue since some time last year, after the death of Mr. Goodland, was found dead early yesterday morning.

Deceased was in her 70th year, and apparently in good health. On the previous evening she had called on Mr. and Mrs. Kohl, Waidale, Norfolk St., south, and later on went over to Head St. north to call on Mrs. Porteus, with whom she had spent an hour during the afternoon, in the park, and had made an arrangement to go to Port Dover on the morrow by the 10.30 car.

Mrs. Goodland had not heard her sister coming in after her call on Mrs. Porteus, and the shock was quite severe.

The funeral will be held on Sunday from the home of the Misses Waddle on Union street, Mrs. Goodland being at present in a very indifferent state of health.

The police are adding to their list of victims by way of spotting 'auto drivers' who are found running in compliance with the road rules, and the results are evident in more caution about the streets.

Owners of cars protest against going to the show in broad daylight and being obliged to turn on the lights, or pay the fine for leaving the car standing after dark, which settles down while the show is on. Up to the present no parts of any streets have been designated for parking purposes.

The earliest way out is to pay the fine, and as a result of this to square up by that method oneself.

Domestic Police in Town J. B. Murray and W. H. Alway, after combing through Port Dover, arrived in Simcoe yesterday and made a round of the factories in search of shirkers from the draft.

They were in evident good humor yesterday, for of almost one hundred who did not have on their person the necessary papers, only two were brought to court. All of the others were given a few hours to make good.

The police discussed the matter of vouchers instead of the real birth or marriage certificates, and affirmed that they could not take the written statement of two neighbors as to marriage, unless it were under oath before a commissioner or justice of the peace. And they held to their contention even after having been brought a copy of the government notice published in all daily and weekly papers during the first week of June.

They left here with the impression that Simcoe was pretty well combined out, and that a shirker would find that this is a poor place to hide.

Board of Education Meets There was a short session of the board of education last night. Present, Chairman Monroe, and Messrs. Murdoch, Burt, Sutton, Kelly, Marshall, and Aiken. The report of the management committee regarding the engagement of teachers and the passage of a small batch of accounts were all that was before the board.

Promotion Results This Week Principal McPherson intimated that he would be able to hand the promotion lists to the press this week.

Funeral of Thos. Puzey, Sr. The following were bearers at the Thomas Puzey funeral yesterday: H. A. Carter, Chas. McCall, W. Y. Wallace, G. A. Curtis, Edward Matthews, and Dr. W. M. McGuire. Service at the house and the grave was conducted by Rev. A. B. Farney.

AUTO MISHAP MARS PICNIC

Car Turned Turtle at Marr's Hollow, Near Simcoe Last Night

From Our Own Correspondent. Simcoe, July 6.—The "Wagon by One" class of the Baptist Sunday school, for their monthly social evening, this time on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Beaupre, of Marr's Hollow, were interrupted in their merry talk last night by an auto accident.

Stanley Matthews, Woodsier and two young ladies, traveling south in a Ford car, turned turtle over the bank on the east side of the roadway, after recovering from an abrupt detour to the west. Matthews received severe cuts about the head and hands, and Miss Cartwright, a farmerette, at present stopping with the Nelsons, corner Union and Colborne streets, was picked up unconscious, and taken to the Beaupre home for first aid, and later brought to town by Mr. Ernest Irwin. The other young lady, Miss Roskard, another farmerette, escaped with a slight shaking up.

Mrs. McGilvery, Colmer and Toll were all of them summoned to the scene, and responded promptly. Dr. Toll in turn was delayed by a slight mishap to his car.

There is a bed of sand on the roadway near where the accident occurred, and it was while turning out for a passing vehicle that the car became unmanageable. One of the ladies was at the wheel at the time.

Mrs. Beaupre saw the difficulty before the crash came, and warned her guest. The men folk ran down at once, and found the occupants pinned under the car, and the engine still running. It was after the car was turned over that Miss Cartwright, after taking a few steps, fell and remained motionless, unconscious for more than a quarter of an hour, and late last night was still considered to be possibly seriously injured. So far was the wreck below the roadway that the headlight of a car above threw no light down for the workers.

Both of the young ladies hale from Toronto, we are told. This is not the first case in which a charge of the steering wheel of cars passing down the hill at Marr's, and the patch of sand there has now a reputation for treachery. The young folks were traveling at a very moderate rate at the time.

THE SITUATION.
 In a speech which he made yesterday Bonar Law, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, uttered the warning that the delayed German blow on the Western front would not be any the less serious because of the halt in the launching of it, but he added that the Allied forces were supremely confident with reference to the outcome. The right hon. gentleman said that he trembled to think what would have happened to the Allied cause had not the United States taken the place of Russia and in this all will agree. Uncle Sam got into the fray at a somewhat late date, but he will prove a prime factor in helping to give the finishing blows to the big bully, whom the British and the French have now checked in his designs for nearly four years.

The Italians continue to make good progress along the Piave and are also meeting with success in mountain fighting.
 Sir Robert Borden participated yesterday with other overseas Premiers in a Supreme War Council held at Versailles. Among other things sincere congratulations were sent to the Italian army upon recent notable victories.

THE WAR AND BUSINESS.
 The following are extracts from an address recently delivered before the Toronto Advertising Club, and there is a large sized kernel of common sense in the attitude of the speaker.
 The cause of the Allies, we are told, is at stake.
 Canadians and Americans at this time are urged by their Governments and others to practice thrift and economy, not only in the use of foodstuffs, but in regard to many other products. The degree of response to these requests is left largely to our individual initiative.

The question is: Except in respect to foodstuffs, is it fair to us in the cases when it is thus left to our individual initiative, to urge this, when, generally speaking, our expenditures are governed by our pocket books?
 Consider the fact that it is the every-day buying and selling of goods that furnish taxes and funds that allow the Government to carry on its work, both civil and military. If we all stopped spending money on many useful commodities that are on sale, and hoarded our money, the injury would be great to everyone, because the fact that you buy from me enables me to buy from someone else, and this process is necessary to keep the wheels of business turning.

Furthermore, the way we are urged sometimes to stop buying all goods that are not absolutely necessary would indicate that those who advertise, or endeavor in any way to sell anything, are not loyal to the cause of the Allies. This idea carried to its ultimate conclusion would ruin the interests of the country that are producing what is the basis of prosperity—the sources of Government revenue—and this would generally react upon us all to the point of irreparable injury.
 From the market every one of us procures his daily bread—capitalist, professional man, and wage earner alike obtain their compensation. The market sustains the industries, churches, schools, colleges, banks, newspapers; in short, everything that requires money.

Therefore, it is a foregone conclusion that the market must be maintained, and the greater extent to which it is maintained the greater prosperity there will be.
 Even the Government itself exists because of the market, for where there is no market there is no genuine constructive government.
 The only real economy necessary is of the products of nature, principally perishable. We must not waste food products. This is understood by every one, and must necessarily be continually and forcibly made plain to us.
 It is a well recognized fact that the great war expenditures can only be met by increased production.
 It is, therefore, right that we should continue to advertise, employ salesmen to further the selling of our goods, purchase and exchange anything we require to deal in that is on the market, for it is necessary for the interests of the war discontinue or curtail these transactions the Government will issue the legislation necessary to restrain us, and only in this way can a fair basis of trade be enforced—fair to one and all alike.

 Therefore, it is your duty and mine to continue our commercial efforts to the fullest extent possible, and do all we can to assist and carry on the marketing of all marketable products.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM.
 In all Canadian industrial centres the housing problem is becoming more and more tense, and the trouble of it is that the cost of building these days is like everything else, an exceedingly expensive proceeding.

In Guelph, as in Brantford, a local organization has commenced to tackle the problem, and in Toronto an agitation has arisen for houses which will accommodate more than one family. During a discussion on the latter proposal it was argued that the plan might give rise to even more serious problems than the present, but on the other hand it is contended that right now there is much doubling, and even tripling up, in the Queen city. Houses that formerly cost $1,800 to build now entail an expense of $2,700, with rentals advancing in a corresponding ratio. As the outcome many families find they have to sublet portions of their dwellings to other tenants in order to meet the demands of the landlord. In addition to this helping to save the rent, there are other items such as heat water charges, etc., which can be shared together. As a matter of fact two or three incomes, comparatively small in themselves would make a brave showing if lumped together in a common "economy chest." A separate house for each family is, of course, the ideal plan, but conditions are commencing to arise which make the plan more and more difficult for the smaller wage earner. Under such circumstances it would seem to be the part of wisdom to place the sharing up method with regard to one building, under the best possible safeguards, under the maximum of separation within the four walls.

At a meeting of the board of education, Principal Bell's salary was increased to $2,000. Miss Hubbs has resigned and has taken a school at Perth. A motion that a school nurse be engaged, was referred to a committee composed of Dr. Lovett and Henry Reider to report.
 The young ladies in town collected $194 from the sale of roses on Monday, which will go towards the Great War Veterans' fund.
 The man charged with thefts of a revolver from one farmer, and three cases of whiskey, and $300.00 from another, was committed for trial by Magistrate Patterson.
 The death took place this morning of Mrs. A. D. Perley, Walnut street, after a lengthy illness. The funeral will take place on Monday. Mrs. Andrews of Toronto is visiting her niece, Mrs. H. C. Perrot.
 Mrs. Tallock and daughter, Miss Sarah, of Elwood were guests of the Misses Inkster.

 Mrs. L. Chappel is spending a few weeks with her son, Frank, at Galt.
 Miss E. Lilley has returned home after spending a few days at Grimsby Beach.
 Mrs. W. Stewart and Miss Phyllis Fraser, who have been visiting in Toronto, have returned home.
 Sgt. Alf Scott, who has been in Paris this morning, and after spending a few days with his sister in Hamilton, will sail for the Old Land. He is with the Imperial Engineers.
 Miss May Clayton of Toronto is the guest of Miss Featherstone, Willow street.
 The funeral took place yesterday afternoon of Catherine M. Carter, beloved wife of Mr. Thos. Geddie, to Paris Cemetery. She was a native of Fifeshire, Scotland, and came to Canada with her husband and son, Robert, in 1871. For some time they resided in Paris, and later to Paris Cemetery. She was 40 years had lived on the late John Robinson's farm in Brantford township, which is the family homestead. Deceased was a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church and until prevented by advanced years, an active member of the Ladies' Aid. Of a kindly and warm hearted disposition, the late Mrs. Geddie had a large circle of friends, who learned of her demise with sincere regret. To her aged partner in life and son the sympathy of the community will be extended.

A Biographer—No matter how morally excellent the man may be who dictates to you, since he is a married man, you must not permit him to pet you, or in any way treat you as a lover. BOLSHEVIK ARRESTED.
 Windsor, Ont., July 5.—In the arrest of Andrew Behanko, 26, alleged co-conspirator of John Perrohuba, who was committed for trial on charges of sedition, the police believe they have uncovered a continent-wide plot to overthrow lawfully constituted authority and establish a regime similar to that instituted in Russia by Trotsky and Lenin.

Arraigned in the police court today Behanko pretended not to understand English when the Government translator translated letters written by the accused to friends in Montreal and other Canadian cities.
 In these letters the authorities were termed "parasites," while members of the union were urged to keep up the fight against the "bloody militarism of Canada."
 "I am a Communist and Communist," he wrote under his signature.
 This, according to the interpreter, is the slogan of the official Russian group of anarchists in America.
 Behanko was committed for trial at the next sitting of the Ontario Supreme Court.

ON BRITISH WAR FRONT

The Main Topic of Conversation Among Men is the Remarkable Success of Thursday Last

By Courier Leased Wire
 With the British Army in France, Friday, July 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Along the whole British front to-day the main topic of conversation was the remarkable success achieved in Thursday's attacks south of the Somme by the combined Australian and American troops, assisted by a fleet of English-maned tanks. Even the German prisoners were admitting ruefully that the drive had been conducted with cleverness and invincible courage. To this praise was added a telegram from Field Marshal Haig to the forces involved, expressing his warm congratulations on the victory which attended the operations, and on the skill and gallantry with which it was executed. The Australians and Yankees to-day were holding their newly-won possessions strong after having repulsed a series of three counter attacks during the night—one on each flank and a third in the centre. All these enemy assaults were thrown back easily, and still more prisoners were added to the large number taken yesterday, while many of the hostile infantry perished in the attempts to regain that which they had lost.
 Additional reports confirm previous ones that the enemy casualties Thursday were exceedingly heavy, and that the German list of killed was very long. Not only did the attacking forces work havoc in the enemy ranks, but the supporting artillery maintained a most destructive fire over the German territory.

CHATHAM EXERCISED OVER GAS SITUATION

Mass Meeting to be Held This Evening—Railway Bd. Hearing Monday

Chatham, July 6.—At a public meeting Thursday night the National Gas Act and the gas situation in general was discussed at some length, and in its various phases. The seriousness of the situation was very clearly emphasized and the peculiar predicament of some manufacturers shown. Some use gas for special purposes, for which coal cannot be used, and suitable fuel is not available. The manufacturers have been put off just the same as those who use gas only for steam purposes, because they use more than the 5,000,000 cubic feet annually allowed by the latest act of parliament.
 It was decided to have a mass meeting in Tecumseh Park to-morrow evening, when some details of the situation will be fully set forth. It is likely that there will be a big attendance of citizens when the hearing opens with the Railway Board on Monday morning. There is a very strong sentiment locally that there is no occasion for any increase in the price of gas to consumers, and any effort in this direction will be strenuously opposed. The meeting Thursday night was unanimous in this connection, and also that domestic consumers should be served first, and then manufacturers, in the order of their importance in national need, and in the character of their business.

A VERY SAD DISASTER

 Further Details.
 Peoria, Ill., July 5.—August Mehl, brother of Captain H. P. Mehl, the pursuer of the boat, who lost his wife, made the following statement regarding the disaster:
 "The whole thing was over in an instant. I was in the cabin of the boat when it struck a submerged log and I heard my brother cry out, 'Everybody upstairs.'
 "The crowd rushed for the upper decks. I rushed to the engine room to notify the engineers. On my return I saw my wife running ahead of me up the companion way. I fol-

CHAPTER XXIX
 A Pleasant Evening

I chided Donald for his selfishness in not wanting his little brother to share his pleasures, and the relief was "I'm the biggest," was all he would say in return.
 When Nellie came back I left them and dressed for dinner. We always went early when we intended to play cards, and so I dressed for the evening. I took special pains, as Elsie had advised, not even scorning the aid of a little rouge on my pale cheeks.
 Bob came in just as dinner was ready. I had begun to fear that he was not coming, and the relief was so great it made me weak.
 "You look very nice," he said as we sat down to dinner. "I shall hold into my duds after we finish."
 I tried to appear natural, to ignore the fact—even in my own thoughts—that he was only with me on sufferance, and to talk of impersonal matters. I repeated what Donald had said about his being the "biggest," and his willingness that George should remain as he was.
 "The little rascal's jealous, that's all," Bob replied, a tender smile lighting up his face.
 "But I have tried to be very careful not to make him feel that way," I replied. "I know a first child is apt to be a little jealous when the second baby arrives."
 "More than a little some of them. I remember hearing mother tell of a neighbor whose children were very nearly of an age. When they were left alone one day, the older child reproved said he wanted to be the baby; I imagine we don't realize how they feel when they see another supplanting them."
 "My, you don't think Donald would hurt the baby, do you?"
 "No, I didn't mean to intimate that he would. Donald is a manly little chap and older than the child mother told about."

 "He is a darling!" I said with such emphasis that Bob laughed aloud.
 "Naturally you would think so," he responded, then that subject exhausted we finished our dinner almost in silence.
 When we reached the Baldwin's we found Mr. and Mrs. Bolton, a charming couple whom we had met only once before, Mrs. Farnsworth, and a Mr. Lansing, a bachelor friend of Mr. Baldwin.
 "I thought I would have two tables to-night just for a change," Mrs. Baldwin told us.
 "It will be delightful!" I assured her, and I meant it. It would oblige Bob and me playing at the same table. I may have imagined it, but I thought Bob also looked relieved.
 "Husbands and wives cannot play together!" Mrs. Baldwin announced as we took our places. "Mr. Bolton and Mrs. Garrett will play with Mrs. Farnsworth and Mr. Lansing. Mrs. Bolton with Mr. Baldwin, and I will inflict myself upon Mr. Garrett."
 "We all took our places amid much laughter caused by Bob's protesting that he would have chosen her had she left it to him to select a partner."
 "He doth protest over-much," she replied gaily, as we commenced to play.
 I was delighted to hear Bob's laughing ring out occasionally during the evening. I was enjoying the game and the people with whom I played. I felt very thankful for these new friends of ours. I knew an evening alone would be hard for both Bob and me while everything was so fresh in our minds. And too, I doubted very much that Bob would have come home had it not been for the bridge engagement.

 He and Mrs. Baldwin won, which added to his good nature. Bob was like many people who play cards; it was the desire to show he was a good player, not the stake for which he played. As we simply kept count of points and the loser at the end of the month entertained at the theatre, it wasn't that he minded losing save for the reflection on his playing.
 We stopped at sharp eleven and adjourned to the dining room where we sat down to a delicious supper. Mr. Baldwin seemed so delighted to be host that I thought with a sinking heart how I had blocked any attempt of Bob's in that direction, no matter how simple.
 On our way home I broke the silence.
 "Elsie telephoned she was coming over to luncheon to-morrow. If you are going to be at home I shall ask Tom to come over to dinner."
 "I have an engagement," he returned, then as I said nothing, he added, "perhaps I can break it. Yes, I will call it off if Tom will come. It is a long time since he has been over."
 "That is my fault, I haven't invited them."
 "Find out if he is coming as early as you can and let me know. If he isn't going to show up I'll keep my engagement." Bob replied, showing me plainly he would not come to be alone with me.
 "The thought was bitter but I crushed back all feeling and said: 'I'll let you know just as soon as I possibly can. Perhaps I had better telephone before you leave the house in the morning; then it won't interfere with your plans in any way if he cannot come.'
 "That's a good idea," and Bob turned a plainly puzzled face toward me. "It was not my manner of meeting such a condition. Continued in Monday's issue."

It is understood that Sir Herbert Ames has been asked to take charge of the campaign for the sale of War Savings Stamps throughout Canada. This will be the last year that the Canadian Patriotic Fund will be run as a private enterprise. There will be no further campaigns, and the Government will contribute all or most of the funds needed.

WANT DIAMONDS REPAIRED.

Officials of the Y.M.C.A. softball league, as well as a number of the players, have expressed themselves as of the opinion that action should be taken by the parks board to place the softball diamonds on the various parks of the city, in better repair. The ground is very uneven, they state, and nothing in the nature of portable sacks to mark the bases is provided.

REGISTRATION FIGURES.

Registrar J. S. Dowling to-day forwarded to the Canada Registration at Ottawa a total of 23,623 registration forms filled out here up to June 22. Of this total, 11,276 were male and 12,347 female. Some 2200 volunteered to do farm service, and duplicates of these applications have been sent to the Ontario Resources Committee at Toronto.

PARK CARS ON MARKET.

On and after Tuesday next, Chief Stelmis states that no motor cars may be parked in front of the Brant theatre on Dalhousie street, but must be left on the market square, where a watchman will guard them. The chief is now completing arrangements with the management of the theatre.

TWO MEN PER DAY.

Two men per day was the limit set for voluntary enlistment during the past fortnight in Western Ontario. Recruiting returns for the first half of the month of June shows that volunteers have become as scarce as drinking fountains on the Sahara, 30 being the total to offer their services. The scarcity was largely due to the fact that only two were received from the United States, while previously large numbers came from across the border to enlist.

DECREASE AND INCREASE.

For the fourth successive period of the month of June, Canadian Pacific Railway earnings showed a decrease as compared with the corresponding period a year ago. Earnings for the last nine days of June totalled $3,419,000, representing a decline of $556,000 or 13.9 per cent. On the other hand, Grand Trunk earnings during each week in the corresponding seven days in June, 1917, were $2,411,295, or $206,375 more than last year. This was a gain of 14.5 per cent.

GARDEN PARTY.

Next Saturday the Women's Patriotic League assisted by the L.O.D.E. Brant Chapter, will hold a Garden Party at the home of Mrs. W. C. Livingston, Brant Ave., in aid of the French. Last year a similar Garden Fete was held at the home of Mrs. Livingston for the same noble cause, and a large sum of money raised for our brave Ally, who is so greatly in need of help just now. In addition to afternoon tea, there will be an ice cream booth which will be under the management of the Brant Chapter, L.O.D.E., the ladies in charge being Mrs. W. T. Mair, Mrs. J. J. Hurley, Mrs. Brewster, Mrs. Ramsay, Mrs. N. D. Neill and Mrs. Jordan. Soft drinks and punch will also be served, and many other attractions, such as fish pond, while elephant table, fortune telling and a fifteen minute musical programme staged at intervals during the afternoon and evening, will help the time pass very pleasantly. Owing to the need for food conservation, the ladies have decided not to have the usual table of home-made cooking this year, and this will be appreciated by all, as a real sacrifice, as the home-made cooking has always been in great demand other years.

A money changer would have the opportunity of a life-time were he to open an office on the ground floor of the City Hall Saturday morning. The offices of the city treasurer and the tax collector are flooded long before the hour for the opening of banks, with marketers anxious to change their X's and Y's.

CITY COUNCIL

Mayor MacBride awoke with a sudden start and realized that the City Council hadn't met for a few two weeks. In view of the urgent need for farm help, Registrar J. S. Dowling suggested to-day that all persons who had registered for farm service, or who are now willing to do farm work, should give in their names to T. Y. Thompson, the local representative of the Ontario Resources Committee, who will be able to find them positions much more quickly than will the central organization at Toronto.

POSITIONS FOR VETERANS.

G. A. MacDonald, secretary of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, can put returned soldiers in touch with a number of firms seeking help. The positions open include switch board operators, cabinet and furniture makers, shoe hands, shoe cutters, motor truck drivers, lumber cutters. The provincial institution at Burwash also wants three returned men to serve as guards, unmarried men preferred.

DISBAND MILITIA.

A new move by which all militia units in rural communities and most of the auxiliary units in cities will be disbanded in the near future, the war has been made by the military authorities. The new rule will not apply to such militia organizations as the Queen's Own and Grenadier regiments, who are maintaining their drills, but, on the other hand, the Army Service and Medical Corps, outside of the C.E.F. will be abandoned until after the war.

BAKERS TO PROTEST.

Representatives of the bread manufacturing concerns announced to-day that a delegation was being organized to protest to the city of Ottawa next week to ask for modification in the requirements for the handling of victory bread. The labelling of the bread, involving extra expense for labor and labor is the principal objection, the manufacturers stating that no saving is effected thereby. Substitute flour up to 20 per cent. is now being used locally, and the new bread is palatable in every way.

COUNTY COURT

In the county court yesterday afternoon, Vespaud and Fred Mastin faced charges of the theft of parts of automobiles. The pair, who are father and son, and proprietors of a taxi service on Grandview, were accused of the theft of a car from Fred Buck in 1915. The elder Mastin was acquitted, but his son, Fred, was sentenced to one year in jail.

LOTS OF WATER PUMPED.

Record quantities of water are being pumped at the waterworks daily, Secretary Fred Frank of the commission stated this morning. Far more water is being used for watering purposes than last year, as much less rain has fallen. The Water Commission this week received an anonymous letter charging that the city water was being wasted on Shellard's Lane, and referring to a returned soldier living on that street in insulting terms. The letter is being taken to identify the writer and punish him.

Grey County Council was waited upon by a delegation from the Y.M.C.A. with a request for $25,000 for the Red Triangle Fund.

Two Persons Hurt in Smash On Colborne Street Last Night

David Mash, 113 Bruce street, sustained a fractured leg and other injuries about the face, and Mrs. Hall, 23 Park Avenue, a broken arm in a motor accident at the corner of Park Avenue and Colborne street shortly before eight o'clock last night. Mash, who is an Italian, was riding in the aisle of a motorcycle driven by his cousin and headed west along Colborne street. Just after he reached the corner of Park Avenue, they struck a car driven by Mr. Fred Wedlake, and Mash was thrown against a telegraph post, sustaining painful, although not dangerous injuries. The driver of the motorcycle escaped with a shaking-up, as did also Mr. Wedlake, but Mrs. Hall, an elderly lady who was in the latter's car, sustaining a broken arm. Dr. Gambia was summoned to attend the injured persons, and Mash was removed to the hospital, where Dr. Briggs is also attending him. The motorcycle was badly smashed in the accident.

GERMANY MUST ACCEPT CONDITIONS

Or She Can Never Have Peace Terms—The Message of Lloyd George to American Troops

By Courier Leased Wire. Amsterdam, July 6.—A bitter attack on the German peace with Roumania and militarism was made in the debate in the Reichstag Thursday by Dr. Cohen, Independent.

The arrival in France of one million American soldiers had made the German emperor realize that his defeat was certain. The emperor, Premier said, had had many illusions regarding the war. One of these was that the new American troops would not be capable of meeting those of Germany, trained to the minute.

Premier Lloyd George reiterated forcefully that the Allies do not covet a single yard of German soil and do not desire to despoil Germany of her rightful inheritance or the German people of their legitimate rights.

COBB GETS TO SECOND PLACE

Setting Merry Clip in the American League—Groh is the Leader in the International

By Courier Leased Wire. Chicago, July 6.—Heinie Groh, of Cincinnati, is the new batting leader of the National League, replacing Fred Merkle, the Chicago first baseman. Averages released to-day give Groh a mark of .350 with Merkle trailing a point behind. Jake Daubert, the Brooklyn veteran, also has a .349, the averages in yesterday's games of Wednesday. Max Carey of Pittsburgh, who is leading the base stealers, brought his total up to 34. Bunch of Cincinnati with O'Mara of Brooklyn are on even terms for honors in sacrifice hitting with 16 each. Wickland of Boston, leads in home runs with five. Chicago leads the clubs in batting with an average of .273, while the New York Giants, their closest rivals, are on top in fielding with .971. Leading batters for 30 or more games: Groh, Cincinnati, .350; Merkle, Chicago, .349; Daubert, Brooklyn, .349; Smith, Boston, .347; Mann, Chicago, .322; Williams, Philadelphia, .320; Faskert, Chicago, .317; Hallocher, Chicago, .311; Bigbee, Pittsburgh, .302; Schmanat, Brooklyn, .299.

Ty Cobb, the foot-footed Georgian is setting a merry clip in the American League. The Detroit outfielder has jumped from seventh to second place among the batters, and has advanced into a tie for second place with Bobby Roth of Cleveland for most bases. He is six bases behind George Sisler, St. Louis, who is leading that department with 29 thefts. Babe Ruth, Boston, before last night's game, led in the week because of a reported misunderstanding with Manager Barrow, slammed out a brace of circuit drives and landed the home run hitting with eleven. Chapman, Cleveland, leads the sacrifice batters with a mark of 22. New York leads in team batting with an average of .269. The leading batters who have played in 30 or more games are: Sisler, St. Louis, .346; Cobb, Detroit, .342; Baker, New York, .331; Ruth, Boston, .325; Burns, Philadelphia, .322; Milan, Washington, .323; Hooper, Boston, .322; Phipps, New York, .316; Walker, Philadelphia, .312; Murphy, Chicago, .293; Pratt, New York, .298.

A bogus U. S. sailor, caught soliciting cash in a New York subway train, was soundly thrashed.

BITTER ATTACK IS LAUNCHED

By An Independent Socialist in the German Reichstag

Amsterdam, July 6.—A bitter attack on the German peace with Roumania and militarism was made in the debate in the Reichstag Thursday by Dr. Cohen, Independent.

Men who depend upon a clear head, keen judgment, and energetic action for success, realize the importance of moderation in eating and drinking.

Remember Last Winter?

Was every nook and corner of your home warm and comfortable, or like many others did you suffer from the effects of a poorly heated house?

WHICH?

—Don't Blame it all on the Coal

Fuel was hard to get, and possibly not of the best quality, but in a great many cases the cause of poorly heated homes last winter was faulty heating systems. In some cases the boiler is too small, in others not enough radiation, in others improper piping.

—What About Next Winter

Every indication points to a bad fuel situation this coming winter, and it will be up to every household to get the most heat and the best general results possible from every pound of coal. These results can only be attained by your heating system being 100 per cent. efficient.

—Do This Right Now

If you have any reason to believe that your hot water or steam heating system is not all that it should be, we cannot urge too strongly that you have us overhaul it during the summer months. Don't wait until fall. Even in normal times we are very busy at that time, and under present conditions we may not be able to serve you unless your order is placed immediately.

HELPFUL HOME
CANNING HINTS

(By Laura Buffum, Domestic
Science Expert of the National War Garden Commission,
Washington, D.C.)
"Processing" is the final application of heat to sterilize the products
which are packed in sealed jars.
Processing is done in boiling water,
steam or steam under pressure, and
by the character of the product and the kind of apparatus used. The time is longer when boiling water is used. Under steam pressure, harmful organisms are destroyed in a much shorter time because of the higher temperature. The National War
Garden Commission, Washington,
will mail to you a free canning
manual upon request, for a 2-cent
stamp to cover postage.
Before starting actual canning work everything needed should be at hand and in order. If using the hot-water bath outfit, have the boiler on the stove one-half to three-quarters of an hour before it will be required. In this there should be an open false bottom, raised one inch, and the amount of water needed should be poured in and heated.
The jars should be placed in the processing vessel as soon as filled.
The hot-water bath should be really hot and at the boiling point when the first jar is put in. By the time the last jar enters the water should be nearly back to the boiling point again. Avoid putting jars into cold or warm water after filling them, and letting them stand in the bath while the water is getting hot. The water should be one inch over the top of the jars.
Note the time when the water
begins to boil and keep it boiling
continuously during the full period.
Then remove the jars at once. If the sterilizer cover does not fit
snugly, place a towel over the top of boiler or bucket and press the cover down over it.
If the processing is done in a steam pressure outfit, put water in the bottom of the canner, according to directions, set the jars in place and adjust the lid. Clamp this on and close the pet cock. When the steam gauge registers the right pressure, notice the time and keep the temperature even during the processing period. When this is over, wait until the gauge registers zero before opening the pet cock and unfastening the cover.

All jars should have their seals made tight at once when removed from canner. Keep accurately both time and required temperatures. The and thus avoid failures. The Commission will gladly answer any questions written on one side of the paper and sent in a self-addressed stamped envelope.
(By Ellen I. Kelley, Director, Department of Household Science, National War Garden Commission, Washington.) Whether in town or country, we all need to eat some green vegetable every day in the year. String beans are among the most valuable and palatable ones. It saves storage space and the cost of jars to dry them.
Select green string beans in prime condition for table use. Wash carefully and string. Very young and tender beans may be dried whole.
More mature beans may be clipped at both ends. Also they may be cut not snapped—into small pieces.
They may be salted, washed, too, before cutting across. The free drying manual sent out by the National War Garden Commission, Washington, gives detailed directions for drying fruits and vegetables. A 2-cent stamp will bring it to you if enclosed with your request.
Blanch string beans six to ten minutes, according to size. Cold up, drain and remove surface moisture by gently pressing between clean towels. Spread thinly on trays, first putting down paper or thin muslin. Beans may be dried in three hours, but frequently unless the air is exceptionally dry a longer time is required. Start at 110 degrees F., if applying artificial heat, and raise gradually to 145 degrees F. The Commission will furnish you any questions written on one side of the paper and sent in a self-addressed stamped envelope.

SURVIVOR TELLS
STORY OF SINKING

Sergt. Knight Gives King
George Account of Tor-
pedoing of Llandovery
Castle
London, July 4.—Sergt. Arthur
Knight of London, Ont., a member of the Canadian Ambulance Corps,
who was one of the survivors of the Llandovery Castle, was summoned to Buckingham Palace today to give King George an account of the disaster. The King was most sympathetic and kindly, asking
many questions of the young man.
Sergt. Knight afterwards related what he had told the King. His story is interesting, for it throws light on the loss of the nursing sisters.
He was in a boat with fifteen of the sisters and a crew of nine. He said:
"Our boat struck a davit and there was 'way' of about fourteen knots on the sinking ship. We broke all our oars in trying to keep the boat clear of the ship, and finally managed to get away and drifted rapidly past the Llandovery Castle's stern. The deck of the vessel was almost awash as we passed,
and as she sank our boat was cap-
sized and sucked under.
"I saw some of the sisters pitched out, and that was the last of the boat as far as I am aware, unless I saw a glimpse of a glimpse of later
was the same boat, bottom upward.
I went down and, on coming up,
was struck on the head and dazed

I floated for what seemed to be two

"It was a German U-boat, and I

what proved to be a submarine.
This order was accompanied by a threat to fire a big gun if we refused. I scrambled aboard the submarine and seven or eight Germans gathered around me, asking:
"What do you want?"
"But without waiting for my reply four of them seized me and pitched me bodily back into the boat."
Sergt. Knight's story confirms the narratives of other survivors relative to the Germans ramming and firing on the wreckage and boats from the Llandovery Castle.

It is headed "With compliments to
the British Canadian Recruiting Mission of Indianapolis, Indiana,
and to my friend Capt. W. E. Jeak-

Scarce heard amidst the guns below,
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived—felt dawn—saw sunset
glow;
Loved and were loved; and now we lie
In Flanders Fields.
Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you from falling hands we pass
The torch. Be yours to lift it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders Fields.
1915.

AMERICA'S ANSWER

We heed the call of Britain's dead
On Flanders Fields, where allies
bled,
And died the death of soldiers brave.
The sacrifice supreme they gave.
Where ran their blood like poppies
red,
On Flanders Fields.
America now comes with all Her manhood's flower, prepared to fall.
If need be, to avenge the toll
Ye gave amidst the battle's roll,
On Flanders Fields.
With you we grasp the torch that came Back from your dead; and with its flame
We light our nation's beacons bright.
In God We Trust. Our cause is right.
If we break faith, then be our shame
On Flanders Fields.

HELPFUL HOME
CANNING HINTS

(By Laura Buffum, Domestic
Science Expert of the National War Garden Commission,
Washington, D.C.)
"Processing" is the final application of heat to sterilize the products
which are packed in sealed jars.
Processing is done in boiling water,
steam or steam under pressure, and
by the character of the product and
the kind of apparatus used. The time is longer when boiling water is used. Under steam pressure, harmful organisms are destroyed in a much shorter time because of the high temperature. The National War
Garden Commission, Washington,
will mail to you a free canning
manual upon request, for a 2-cent
stamp to cover postage.

Before starting actual canning
work everything needed should be at hand and in order. If using the
hot-water bath outfit, have the
boiler on the stove one-half to three-quarters of an hour before and the time is longer when boiling water is used. Under steam pressure, harmful organisms are destroyed in a much shorter time because of the high temperature. The National War
Garden Commission, Washington,
will mail to you a free canning
manual upon request, for a 2-cent
stamp to cover postage.

Note the time when the water
begins to boil and keep it boiling
continuously during the full period.
Then remove the jars at once. On the sterilizer cover does not fit
snugly, place a towel over the top
of boiler or bucket and press the
cover down over it.

If the processing is done in a
steam pressure outfit, put water in
the bottom of the canner, according
to directions, set the jars in place
and adjust the lid. Clamp this on

BROTHERHOOD OF NATIONS

Under the head of "The Brotherhood of Nations," the following has been printed and circulated in the United States by Senator Negley.
It is headed "With compliments to
the British Canadian Recruiting Mission of Indianapolis, Indiana,
and to my friend Capt. W. E. Jeak-
ins, of Brantford, Ontario."

THE BROTHERHOOD OF NATIONS
Lieut. Col. John McRae was a Canadian physician who served in the South African War as an artilleryman.

He was on his way to Canada when the war began in 1914, and immediately upon landing he entered the Valcartier Training Camp. He later joined the McGill Hospital Corps and went with it to France, where he rose to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, and died in the service in January of 1918.

The inspiration for the poem appearing below, written by him, on the Flanders front in the spring of 1915, is thus explained by Capt. J.
E. Jeakins and Sgt. Charles E. Bis-set, of the Canadian Forces, both of Brantford, Ontario, who were with the contingent of Canadian soldiers who came to Indianapolis to aid in the War Chest campaign in May of 1918, and each of whom frequently in their speeches in that work, recited this poem with splendid effect.

SURVIVOR TELLS
STORY OF SINKING

Sergt. Knight Gives King
George Account of Tor-
pedoing of Llandoverly
Castle

London, July 4.—Sergt. Arthur
Knight of London, Ont., a member
of the Canadian Ambulance Corps,
who was one of the survivors of the Llandoverly Castle, was summoned to Buckingham Palace today to give King George an account of the disaster. The King was most sympathetic and kindly, asking
many questions of the young man.

Sergt. Knight afterwards related
what he had told the King. His story is interesting, for it throws
light on the loss of the nursing
sisters.

He was in a boat with fifteen of the sisters and a crew of nine. He said:
"Our boat struck a davit and
there was 'way' of about fourteen
knots on the sinking ship. We broke all our oars in trying to keep
the boat clear of the ship, and finally managed to get away and drifted rapidly past the Llandoverly Castle's stern. The deck of the vessel was almost awash as we passed,
and as she sank our boat was cap-
sized and sucked under."

"I saw some of the sisters pitched
out, and that was the last of the boat as far as I am aware, unless what I caught a glimpse of later
was the same boat bottom upward."

I went down and, on coming up,
was struck on the head and dazed by a heavy bit of wreckage. I went down again to a considerable depth and then was blown into the air by an explosion of some kind. I suppose it was the boilers.

Order from Sub.
"I had on no clothing except a pyjama jacket, and managed to cling to a piece of timber on which I floated for what seemed to be two hours. Presently a boat came alongside and I was pulled aboard."

"It was then pitch dark and I heard an order in good but slightly accented English to go alongside of what proved to be a submarine.
This order was accompanied by a threat to fire a big gun if we refused. I scrambled aboard the submarine and seven or eight Germans gathered around me, asking:
'What do you want?'

"But without waiting for my reply four of them seized me and
pitched me bodily back into the
boat."

Sergt. Knight's story confirms the narratives of other survivors relative
to the German's ramming and firing on the wrecked and boats from the Llandoverly Castle.

Wilhoit Has Made Great Start as Kauff's Successor

Alternate Left-Fielder of Giants Hit at .412 Clip in Five Games This Season

Joe Wilhoit, who has been a member of the Giants for a considerable length of time, but who is by no means well known to Polo grounds fans, is now being given a chance to show the rooters just what he is capable of, and it must be said of him that he is making a good beginning. He isn't a star by any means and his work since he has been posted in the left field when the Giants are facing a right handed pitcher hasn't been perfect, for it was his inexcusable nap off second base in the ninth inning of the second game with the Phillies on Saturday that probably cost the Giants a double victory over Moran's men. Nevertheless his stickwork has been just a little better than was expected, and he has, by his hitting, kept the Giants back into a winning stride.

Since the departure of Benny Kauff, Wilhoit has played in five games and in seventeen official times at bat has made seven hits for an average of .412. Batting in the cleanup position, he has gone to bat eight times with a chance to drive in a run or advance a runner and has come through on four of the eight occasions. When it is remembered that he has had mighty few opportunities to hit his stick against that of enemy pitchers in the past year or so his work is a bit impressive.

Joe's fielding, however, has not been up to the standard. In five games and in seventeen official times at bat he has made seven hits for an average of .412. Batting in the cleanup position, he has gone to bat eight times with a chance to drive in a run or advance a runner and has come through on four of the eight occasions. When it is remembered that he has had mighty few opportunities to hit his stick against that of enemy pitchers in the past year or so his work is a bit impressive.

Recalls Case of Roush. The case of Wilhoit recalls that of Eddie Roush. Eddie went to the Giants when the Federal league dissolved, and as John McGraw has three great outfielders in Burns, Kauff and Dave Robinson Roush was forced to remain on the bench. This fretted him beyond measure for he complained that it made him feel "loggy." On rare occasions he was given an opportunity to break in as a pinch hitter, but on these occasions he failed to make much of an impression, as he seldom came through with the desired hit. He accounted for this by saying that he needed regular work to polish up his batting and make him good for anything with the stick and that his theory was a logical one was proved by him as soon as he was traded to the Reds in the deal which took Christy Mathewson to Cincinnati as manager of its club and sent Charley Herzog and Wade Kilfeater to the Giants.

Installed as a regular in the Cincinnati outfield, Roush immediately began to hit consistently and his fielding became a feature of the Red's play. He wound up the 1914 season with a substantial average and last year captured the batting honors of the National league by compiling a mark of .341.

Wilhoit is not another Roush, but he undoubtedly will make a capable outfielder for the Giants and may surprise the fans by his work.

Thorpe Starts Well. Jim Thorpe, like Wilhoit, is glad of the opportunity to get into the game more often than he has done in the past, but so far he hasn't had a great deal to do. The Giants have had to bat against left handers only to help Kauff forsake striped shirt shirts for the more durable flannel khaki, and in these two games the big Indian acquitted himself well. He drove in one run with a triple on Arthur Nehf in Boston last Tuesday and the following day nicked Bunny Hearne for a blow that sent two runners scampering over the plate.

"WIN WAR" MOTTO OF MRS. PANKHURST

English Suffrage Leader Delivers Forceful Message to America

NEED WOMEN'S HELP

"You certainly are a people who do things," said Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, by way of greeting to a New York reporter, who was awaiting her after her first peep at New York, the day after her arrival there. "There is more enthusiasm in a morning here than you find in England in a fortnight. Of course, it remains to be seen whether or not you can keep up such a pace when you have been in the war for a much longer period."

Mrs. Pankhurst is there as representative of the British Women's Party to weld the interests between the women of this country and the women of the other allied nations, and not for any political motives. She is looking much younger than upon her last visit here, two years ago, and has taken up her new work with the same vigorous spirit and determination that long ago characterized her as a leader. She is centering all her efforts now on helping to win the war.

"The need of women's help in this war cannot be too forcibly brought out," said Mrs. Pankhurst. "and it is this need that determined me to come to this country and endeavor to increase the bond between the women of the allied nations. It will take all the courage, energy, and self-restraint that the women can summon to make us victorious. All this enthusiasm is wonderful, and backed by the well-known American spirit no task should be too great to undertake, but when you have got down to the ground-when all classes are working side by side—then will be the true test of the sincere desire of the women to do their share."

"I have seen so much suffering during the past year that I am a bit torn as to where the greatest hardships are endured. The courage and hope of the French people is unshaken. While in France last month I visited, among other sections of the front, several villages in Alsace, and the joy of the people there at being restored once again to France is most touching. Immediately after their release from the

CELEBRATES GLORIOUS FOURTH

An historic ceremony took place on Thursday when the Stars and Stripes were hoisted over the City Hall, Toronto, in honor of signing of the Declaration of American Independence. The entire City Council was arrayed on a platform at the main entrance while Mayor Church delivered greetings to the great allied Republic. The province was represented by Sir John Hendrie, and the army by Col. Bickford.

While waiting in the railway waiting room at Chatham, Benjamin St. Pierre, a farmer of Pain Court, dropped dead.

German oppression they returned to their beloved French customs and the French language was taken up by all the inhabitants. Schools are conducted without interruption, and in the evening classes you see men and women past fifty years of age studying diligently along with the children. In spite of their many other duties, the French officers, in order to gratify this earnest wish of the inhabitants, are giving every moment they can to instructing the classes.

"While many of the homes are so completely demolished that living conditions are almost unbearable, the people will not stir from them and remain as long as there is any sort of a roof to cover them. It is not an uncommon sight to see an old French woman sitting peacefully among the ruins, sewing or looking after her brood of children. All are overjoyed at America's coming in and are resolutely waiting until the moment when the power of this nation can be felt.

over the air raids in Paris, and after the first few times the super-gun was not so greatly feared. Families with children left the city, and that gave rise to the rumors that people were fleeing by the thousands, but now men and women go about their duties quite the same as before.

"The air raids are not so bad in Paris as in London, the noise is not nearly so great, and there is not so much destruction. "But my visit to France could not eclipse my experiences while I was in Russia in the midst of the revolution. The suffering, barbarism and wanton destruction there are quite unbelievable. No one was safe, and innocent bystanders were in many cases mown down for no reason at all. While I am here I hope to be able to speak about Russia as I saw it, and point out that there are many Russians loyal to the Entente, but who are waiting for a guiding hand to lead them. The Cossacks can do nothing, for they are only equipped with rifles and swords, and have none of the modern weapons of warfare. But even with this great handicap it was these brave soldiers who saved the day last summer and held back the Bolsheviks when we were all in danger of being slain in our beds. Something must be done for these poor people, although I realize that the problem of getting relief to them is serious one. There is no outstanding figure in Russia at the present time to take hold of the situation, so the Russians must go on helplessly until relief comes. Things are getting to such a state that the people cannot longer endure the conditions. I am surprised to find here that Kerensky made such an impression. Only a few minutes in his presence was enough to convince me that he was not the man to save Russia, and I consider that he has the most unpleasant personality of any man I have ever seen. He never raises his heavy eyelids to look one squarely in the eye, and has an uneasy manner that does not inspire confidence.

"The women of England are thoroughly for Lloyd George. We believe that he is the only man now to handle all the difficult problems before the country, and we are ready to support him in every way. Our party is so organized that we can now be of some service to the country. We do not ally ourselves with any other political organization as you do here, for we feel that we have something to contribute as women which politics has heretofore lacked.

"Our program embraces, first of all, plans to win the war—that is ever our foremost thought. Then we have worked out a housing plan and an educational system which will mean equal education for all. We hope to provide against a class war, and to this end we are studying extensively the industrial question. We are urging co-operation in industry, and already the effect of our ideas has been felt in munition work. We shall urge the wide use of natural resources, short hours of work, high wages for good work and the very best working conditions. Since women have been working in such numbers in the factories the output has been greatly increased, and we hope that this will be an example to men to keep up the standard.

"The reforms urged by women and in the interest of women are not temporary, for women will continue in all occupations after the war. Industry will grow along with the readjustment of the world's activities, and there will be plenty of work for the women as well as the men returning from the battlefields.

"England is not suffering from lack of food, as many believe. True, we have to do without many of the things we once had, but the national health is extremely good, which goes to show that we used to eat too much. France is the country that is living on short rations. During the month I was there I saw no butter, and even bread and sugar could only be obtained in the smallest quantities, and a permit was necessary.

"The latest war measure of the Women's Party is the establishment of a Montessori school in London for orphans or children of soldiers with educational ideals, who, because of the war, have been deprived of the opportunity of an education. We have taken a house and will have resident pupils and day classes."

Mrs. Wardell, of St. Thomas, pleaded guilty at Windsor on the charge of having married John Fournier, of South Norwich, when she was already married to Wardell in St. Thomas.

SIDELIGHTS OF THE STAGE AND SCREEN

"THIS IS THE LIFE."
George Walsh will be seen at the Rex the first of next week in "This is the Life."

This new comedy-drama deals with a young man, Billy Drake, (George Walsh) who is particularly happy and carefree and whose father finds difficulty in bringing him down to every day work. After many efforts all of which the young man turns aside largely with a joke, the father, who is a munition manufacturer, decides to send him to South America to guard a munition shipment. He declares Billy must go or lose his income.
Billy Drake loves his uncle and motion picture, but he is also fond of his income. So Billy agrees to go. Before he starts, however, he sees a young girl who is particularly beautiful. She is in front of a motion picture "queen." Through a breaking down of her auto and his repairing it he becomes acquainted with her. When she goes on board the ship to sail for South America, this girl is on board. There is also on the ship Herman Von Nuttenburg who is interested in stirring up trouble in the South American republics.

A motion picture company which is to sail at the same time misses the ship, but Von Nuttenburg steals the company's camera which he thinks is a new style of machine gun. Von Nuttenburg gains the confidence of Billy and takes him into his stateroom. There Billy sees the camera and is convinced that everybody on board is connected with the motion picture outfit.

Soon after the vessel reaches a South American port a revolution starts. Throughout Billy is sure that the whole thing is a picture play and even when he is captured by the government forces and is ordered shot, he takes it as a piece of camera work.

At the last moment he is impressed with the fact that the revolution is real and by a clever ruse he escapes. He rescues the girl who is also held a prisoner and after a spectacular fight they get away. Federal troops arrive and capture Von Nuttenburg. It appears that the girl is really the daughter of the American Consul and Billy has become her real hero, which causes a happy ending of the play.

"A DOLL'S HOUSE"
Portraying one of the most arduous roles in her screen career, Miss Elsie Ferguson will be seen in the city next week in "A Doll's House," a pictureization of the famous play by Henrik Ibsen, the distinguished Norwegian dramatist, whose remarkable plays have held the stage for more than thirty years. In this notable pictureization of "A Doll's House," directed by Maurice Tourneur, Miss Ferguson appears as a doll wife who, when her husband falls seriously ill, forges her father's name to a note in order to provide funds so that her husband may undertake a long journey for the preservation of his health. Like Banquo's ghost, the evidence of her criminality rises to torment her years later, and it brings about a separation between her husband and herself. During her troubles she has learned to gauge her husband's shallow soul, and her doll-like nature is transformed thereby.

The role is an exceedingly difficult one and tests Miss Ferguson's dramatic ability to the fullest. The photoplay is one of dramatic interest, and great heart appeal. Miss Ferguson is ably supported by a staff of brilliant screen players, among whom are several children whose notable performances in the past insure highly capable portrayals in this superb photoplay, which will be displayed at the Brant theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with every accessory necessary to make the presentation one of the most notable of the season.

"RESURRECTION"
Screen Version of Tolstoy's Powerful Story Has Pauline Frederick

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel
The moral purpose of Tolstoy's story, "Resurrection," to be seen at the Brant Thursday, Friday and Saturday, is beyond question. In novel and stage form it has been received as an honest handling of a vital subject. The screen version produced by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation does not attempt to dodge the issue so masterfully treated by the Russian author. Tolstoy shows in "Resurrection" how a woman pays when she transgresses the moral law and how the partner

POSITION OF HANDS IN PIANO PLAYING

There has been untold harm done in the past, and to a less degree even at the present time, by the pedantic idea that there is a certain "correct position" for the hands and fingers, which must be acquired at all cost, even before the pupil has learned anything else. At the keyboard, the too great insistence on this is one of the chief sources of the fault known as "stiff wrist," and even where this evil does not result, the player is hampered in the matter of variety of tone.
A rather flat position of the hand, the cushion part of the first joint of the finger pressing on the keys, is favorable to a sweet, mellow, song-like tone—a rounded position of the knuckles, the fingers striking on their tips like little hammers, is favorable to a hard, sparkling, brilliant tone. Why commit yourself exclusively to either? Think of the effect you wish to produce in the particular passage you are executing, and let the hand act accordingly.

much disappointed at her first hearing of a noted pianist "because he did not hold his hands correctly," her idea of correctness being derived from the cut on the first page of her instruction book, which she deemed an infallible authority.

TIPS.
Play, sing or hear some music every day.
Sometimes you wouldn't think of it, but religious music was the forefather of all modern music.

An old adage says that "any fool can play fast, but it takes a good musician to play slowly." The Brazilian pianist, Gulamar Novaes, says "to play too much in a fast tempo is to encourage a mechanical memory."

What do you think of the organist who recently wrote to the minister of his church saying that if the latter persisted in preaching such long sermons he (the organist) would have to consider sending in his resignation?

same way. Let that be your consolation."

The singing of patriotic songs is most epidemic in many schools—an over-urgency on certain patriotic day, and then neglected for weeks. These songs should be learned with a full meaning of the words.

What about the school marches. Are they chosen with care? If the Soldiers' Chorus from "Fidel" or the March from "Aida" for example were played on the piano or by the school orchestra, the marching would improve and the taste for good music would be stimulated. It would be well to write the name of the march and the composer's name on the bulletin board. Play it often so the pupils may become familiar with it. Then try another worth-while one.

The ability of the conductor is best seen in the practice. It is there a performance is either made or marred. A concert, like a battle, should be won before it is fought.

Did you ever hear Irving Berlin's "Ode to the Popular Song?" It goes like this:
"Popular song, you will never be missed.
Once your composer has ceased to exist,
While Chopin, Verdi, Beethoven and Liszt
Live on with each generation; Still, though you die, after having your sway
To be forgotten the very next day,
A rose lives and dies in the very

of her sin goes free. It is not a pleasant story, and paints vice in anything but alluring colors.
Katusha, a Russian peasant girl, who is the servant and companion of the two old maid aunts of Prince Nekudov, is betrayed by that nobleman and left to face the consequences alone. Turned away by the two maiden aunts, Katusha takes refuge in the barn of a peasant, where her child is born. After its death, the mother becomes a woman of the streets and is given a "Yellow Ticket," according to the Russian custom. Katusha sinks lower and lower until she is entangled in a murder case. Although innocent, she is convicted and sentenced to Siberia.

gone many weary miles on her journey across Siberia. In the meantime she has met Simonson, a fellow prisoner, who has taught her the way to moral resurrection. This man defends her against one of the officers of her escort. Knowing that he truly loves her, Katusha refuses the pardon and the protection of Nekudov's name and goes into exile with Simonson, a man who is willing to make any sacrifice for the cause of humanity.

Pauline Frederick is the Katusha of the screen production. She suits the part physically and mentally and acts with admirable dramatic force.

"THE BEAST OF BERLIN"
Rupert Julian's masterful screen production of the intimate life of William II., Belgium before the war and during its invasion by the Germans, the habits and crimes of the King of Prussia and Emperor of Germany, with a thrilling forecast of the end of the present world conflict, opens at the Rex theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.
"The Kaiser" is a motion picture stupendous in its treatment of present-day world history, in its presentation of heretofore unthought of facts and incidents, a study of more than a year by Rupert Julian, the famed screen director and actor, who himself presents a remarkable rendition of the role of the Kaiser, remarkable in its close attention to every detail of make-up, costume, mannerisms, habits and exaggerated ego of the ruler who has plunged the world into mourning to advance personal ambitions and has sacrificed the honor of nations, homes and men, women and children.

The picture chronicles, in vivid truthfulness, the peacetime and inoffensive peoples before the invasion of the German hosts, shows in horrible but authentic pictures the treatment of the peasants by the German army as it plows through Belgium and its inhabitants, takes the spectator into the Imperial Palace and the chambers of the Kaiser and unfolds startling, poignant insights into his private life.
The receipt of the news of the sinking of the Lusitania, of the American Ambassador's statement that the United States would consider a continuance of the U-boat campaign as unfriendly, of the declaration of war by the United States and other prominent incidents of present-day history are truthfully and faithfully reproduced and a stupendous thrilling forecast of the end of the present war provided.

ANNOUNCEMENT
FALL WHEAT SEED
IN VIEW of the partial failure of the Fall Wheat crop in this Province this year, it will be necessary for farmers to make early arrangements for the supply of seed which they will need for Fall sowing. Under these circumstances farmers who have on hand quantities of wheat suitable for Fall seeding are urged to conserve them for this purpose. If there is no demand locally, the information should be supplied to this Department, or to the Local Office of this Department in your County, so that every effort may be made to have an equitable and satisfactory distribution. The need for foodstuffs justifies a large acreage of Fall wheat in this Province again this year, and the co-operation of the farmers in the mobilization and distribution of the available seed supplies is invited.

IN THE WORLD OF LABOR

The organizers of the various international unions who have been in Canada recently all report upon the remarkable headway the labor movement is making in all parts of the Dominion. It is safe to say that the increase in membership of Canadian unions during the present year has eclipsed all previous efforts; they are not joining in hundreds but in thousands, and there is no province or section of the country but where big drive is on. These organizers all tell the same story, and say when returns for the year are in they will make an amazing showing.

To "carry on" the educational work of the Ontario Section of the Canadian Labor Party, a "Labor Lecture Bureau" has been established, and some of the foremost speakers in the province have enlisted for effective platform work. Organizations affiliated with the party are securing the services of any of the speakers by communicating with Secretary James Simpson, Labor Temple, Toronto.

James Simpson, vice-president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, will leave on an extended lecturing tour in New Zealand, and while away will make a study of labor conditions and problems in the Antipodes.

International Organizer E. W. A. O'Dell and Business Representative E. Drage of the Waterloo District, have succeeded in having a revised list of prices accepted by the Solid Leather Shoe Company of Preston, negotiations being carried on with Mr. W. H. Steel for the firm. The proceedings throughout were of a most satisfactory character.

Cooks, Helpers, Waitresses and Waiters' Union, No. 400, of Spokane, Wash. have signed up a new agreement with the restaurant proprietors which calls for eight hours per day, and runs at $4.50 per day; first-class cooks, $4.50 per day; second-class, $4; waiters, $17.50 per week; waitresses, $12.50; dish washers, $15; pantry girls, $14. The week consists of seven days.

A new union of the Brotherhood of Boiler Makers and Iron Ship Builders, No. 64, has been organized in Jackson, Mich., with a membership of over 50. With the completion of this union the entire Michigan Central is organized from Chicago to Buffalo, including the Canadian Central, into the Metal Trades Department of the A.F. of L.

More than 150 employees of the Baker Iron Works, Los Angeles, Cal., walked out following refusal of the company to reinstate nine molders who had been discharged with being too active in the interests of the union. The metal trades council has served notice on the company that its 200 members will cease work unless the molders are reinstated.

The strike of the 200 members of the Carpenters' Union of Salt Lake City, Utah, for higher wages and eight hours resulted in favor of the strikers, who remained idle for several days. The hours per day the men were demanding were granted, and the wage rate fixed at $5.

Henderson on Democracy. Arthur Henderson, member of Parliament and leader of the British Labor party, during a recent speech

"Democracy had to fight hard for every inch of ground it won. It was in the grip of mighty forces it had not learned how to control. It fought blindly, and found itself foundering some that were, if properly used, beneficent, with those that were entirely malignant. It could not see the mechanical inventions of Watt, Hargreaves, Arkwright, Cartwright, Crompton, which revolutionized the industrial system at the beginning of the last century, were only bad because they were allowed to fall into the hands of the capitalist class. It is not surprising if, in its empirical approach to politics, democracy made some mistakes, misjudged the direction in which events were traveling, and had but a fumbling grasp upon the reins.

"All this is of the past. The situation to-day is very different. Democracy is awake and aware of its own power. It sees things in a better perspective, and realizes that at home and abroad the triumph of democratic principles in politics and industry and social life is a matter simply of wise and capable leadership and resolute and united effort on the part of all sections of the organized movement. There never was a bigger opportunity for democracy to achieve its aims than the one which is now ours. It is that we should begin to think not only of the great social and economic changes that are to take effect in the coming period of reconstruction, but of the methods and means of securing them.

"Labor will seek to build up a new order of society, rooted in equality, dedicated to freedom, governed on democratic principles."

FIVE U-BOATS ACCOUNTED FOR

British Convoy and Destroyer Sank Three Subs Off the Irish Coast

An Atlantic Port, July 4.—A large British transport used for the conveying of American troops to France and a destroyer sank three U-boats off the Irish coast not so many weeks ago, according to arrivals here today from England. The two vessels were travelling in company and were running through a fog off Lough Swilly. Suddenly the fog lifted and there, not far away and almost directly ahead, were three large German submarines. The surprise of those on the transport was no greater than the apparent surprise of those on the U-boats. One of them was directly ahead and within 300 yards of the bow of the transport. There came a langling of bells to the engine-room and the British vessel, with ever-increasing speed, bore directly down on the small craft ahead.

The bow struck the underside of the transport and the liner kept on with hardly checked speed the gun crew at the stern gun opened fire on a submarine that was off the starboard side. The passengers who told the story said it was understood at an English port that this submarine had been sunk, and the third shot scoring a direct hit. Some of the passengers said that some men had been picked up.

While the attack was going on the American troops who filled every available space on deck watched the encounter with interest and cheered the gunners. The third submarine was accounted for by the crew of the destroyer. The transport is now said to be in drydock having her staved-in bow repaired.

Two More U-boats Sunk

An Atlantic port, July 4.—An attack upon a convoy of vessels returning from ports on the other side and the loss of the British cargo steamship Orissa were reported today by those who got in on passengers on a British steamer. During one of three attacks a torpedo fired by a German submarine narrowly missed hitting the passenger vessel. It was the conviction of those who arrived that the destroyers conveying the merchantmen succeeded in destroying two of the submarines by the use of depth bombs. Those on the liner watched the sinking of the Orissa, saw the explosion that followed the striking of the torpedo and the men on the unfortunate freighter taking to their boats. It was reported incidentally among the passengers that five of the crew of the Orissa had been killed by the explosion of the torpedo.

There were three attempts made to sink vessels in this convoy. One of the largest and fastest of the eight vessels that had assembled to make their way through the dangerous seas under escort was the passenger ship that got in to-day. She left the other side on June 25, with 177 passengers, including a number of American soldiers and sailors home on sick leave.

The first attack and the sinking of the Orissa happened when the steamship had been out of the port hardly one day. The second breach came when the passenger were at dinner, and the third alarm was sounded about 9 o'clock the same night.

TIRE AND WHEEL PROBLEMS OF THE AMERICAN ARMY

Manners and Customs of Motorist in Europe is Very Different

Examined through war spectacles, the tire and wheel problems of the American army abroad become many and diversified. Europe has customs and standards decidedly its own and it has blended everything in the way of automobile manufacture and road construction to suit those customs and standards—all quite different from American forms. Therefore, says one American Rubber Company, a comparison of conditions, of problems and of types affords interesting contemplation at this time when American assistance has become so vital a factor in the world's war.

Fundamentally drastic differences attribute themselves to philosophical and psychological elements. Autocrats of Europe constitute a "class"—that is, the European, no matter whether he can afford it, simply must have a chauffeur. He drives his own car rarely. The American is just the opposite. He invariably drives his own car and all manufacture of cars and tires has been long times timed to give him untroubled service, comfort, convenience and easy repairs in case of accident. Noteworthy, then, is the sharp contrast in rims. The European uses the clincher type to the total exclusion of the straight-sided; the American favors the latter type. If the American gets a puncture, he yanks off the tire, puts on another, pumps it up and is off again.

Not so with the European. He carries a spare wheel with tire inflated and inflated. If he gets a puncture, the chauffeur removes the wheel, applies the spare wheel and goes on. When the chauffeur returns to the garage he must pass an hour or so prying off his clincher and making the necessary change. The European, however, maintains that the chauffeur enters for work and not to loiter at the steering wheel. This is simply one of the conditions the first Americans to cross found confronting them. Consequently they have gone about independent of European methods and forms, bringing all their own wheel and tire equipment.

But the fact can never be overlooked that in the event of a severe reverse of military fortune an occasion might arise when we might want to draw on European supplies. In consequence, the American army has been buying a good many clincher tires.

Another item is the roads. European roads are par-excellence. They are virtually solid blocks of concrete and a sustained speed on them is such as has never been known in this country. It was with surprise that Americans found all allied motor cars on steel-studded tires. They stuck religiously to safety treads.

The French smugly admit the superiority of the safety tread for American roads—and the steel-studded for French roads. In Northern France the winters are damp and wet. The roads become greasy, coated and steel-studded tires are not only desirable, but absolutely essential.

The American is going to use chains. The French will not use chains only when it snows. Frankly they don't like chains. They say they cut the roads—and the British won't allow them at all. Besides, the hard, unyielding surface of the roads wears out chains much more rapidly than in this country. Another astonishing thing to Americans is the wide usage of dual pneumatic tires. Such usage is so far ahead of us in road construction. Here stones would wedge themselves between the tires and mutilate the side walls.

In Europe one never sees stones on a road. The European prefers dual pneumatic tires to the large single pneumatic because he has a decided aversion for many tire sizes. A five-inch section in front and a seven-inch section in back meets his requirements nicely.

The chief advantage of dual pneumatic tires to the European is that if one blows out the automobile can still proceed without attention to the damaged tire. So much does he hate delay that many of the heavy touring cars are mounted on dual pneumatic tires.

The contention of the company that truck tires of the pressed-on type are most adaptable to rough going and also more economical, in that they conserve gasoline by relieving the truck of weight, has been completely borne out on the

CONSTIPATED CHILDREN

Childhood constipation can be quickly banished through the use of Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which never fails to regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and in this way relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. Eugene Couture, Knox Bridge, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets have been marvellous in the case of my baby. She was constipated and feverish, but the Tablets soon regulated her bowels and made her well." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

War front American officers at first were loyal to the demountable type, but after this pattern had been in usage for some time they were eager to adopt the pressed-on type, universal in Europe. They found that many of the bolts rusted and as powerful a press was necessary to take them off as was required to put on the fixed type.

THE ROYAL AND ANCIENT

The Niagara Falls, N.Y., hand-some club house and beautiful course at Lewiston Heights was formally opened last week. Nine holes only are so far ready for play, although conditions being favorable it is hoped that the full 18 will be in commission this autumn. This new course is easily one of the finest in the State of New York. It is the work of Nicol Thompson, the Hamilton golf pro., and architect, and is a credit to Canadian golfing talent. The links are redolent of romance as it was here the United States troops were entrenched in the fight of 1812. In fact, Mr. Thompson has at the 7th hole very cleverly utilized as hazards some of the old military trenches of over 100 years ago. From the spacious verandahs of the club house Brock's Monument across the river is easily distinguishable whilst a very clear view of Toronto can be seen silhouetted against the sky some forty miles away.

One of the novelties of this up-to-date golf course is a "ribbon green." This is 30 feet wide only, running back to a depth of some 90 feet. It is admirably trapped and requires a most skillfully pitched up shot to hold the green. This production has excited much discussion. It is certainly a most distinct departure from the ordinary course of 30 yards square or so. Ordinarily speaking, any radical departure in the Royal and Ancient, either as regards rules or course construction should be discouraged, but this "ribbon green" has certainly many good features to recommend it. The experiment will be watched with interest. It looks like a good green, but play only will determine its merits or demerits.

In their recent extended tour through Ontario, their Excellencies the Governor-General and the Duchess of Devonshire and party visited the Royal and Ancient and played the opening game of the season over the new golf course there. Just to show the growing vogue of golf throughout the Anglo-Saxon world, this incident of the Duchess and the Highlands of Ontario recalls the fact that a few years ago Muskoka depended upon fishing, boating and bathing entirely for its attraction to draw the tourists and holiday crowd. To-day there are seven golf courses there and another one or so in contemplation. It's pretty hard to carve out golf courses on the islands and rocky shores of Muskoka, but the Navigation Company and the management of the hotels had to come to it. They found the best class of summer trade was passing them by. They demanded golf in their holiday itinerary and golf the Muskoka management have had to provide at the expense of tens of thousands of dollars. There can be no successful summer resort these days unless facilities are provided for the enjoyment of a round of golf. In the States they learned their lesson some years ago. And in Canada it is being brought home to resort managers more and more every year. No golf, no tourist trade of the best class. That's the situation and it has to be met.

The exhibition match for the Red Cross at Brantford last week was easily one of the most interesting amateur events ever staged on a Canadian golf course. The contestants were Mr. George S. Lyon and his son, Seymour, of Toronto, vs. Mr. T. B. Reith of Montreal and Mr. Irving S. Robeson of Rochester, N.Y. Unfortunately, it was a bitterly cold afternoon with a nasty cross wind, but a large and enthusiastic gallery saw a very fine demonstration of the game. It was generally thought that the Canadian champion and his long hitting son would be too much for their opponents, but the Montreal crack was in his best form and gave a most finished exhibition by backed up by the steady Rochester player, the Lyons pater et filius, were vanquished 2 to 1 by their Eastern opponents.

The following day the participants in this thoroughly interesting match motored over to Hamilton and participated in two matches there. The morning game was Lyon and Reith vs. Robeson and T. B. Martin of Hamilton, twice amateur champion. The "dopesters" had a rude shock in this contest, as Messrs. Robeson and Martin playing a steadier and better game, went out by 3 to 2. In the afternoon came another surprise. Mr. Robeson partnered with Mr. A. A. Adams, champion of the Hamilton Club, easily defeated Mr. Reith and Mr. Seymour Lyon, 4 and 3. They started off by winning the first six holes with a best ball of 2. It was a very fine exhibition by the winning pair of steady partnership golf of the in and out variety, Mr. Adams getting fours at the first two holes and Mr. Robeson the next two and so on throughout the match. They "dovetailed" perfectly and the result was never in doubt.

Mr. Robeson, who is a 4 handicap man on the Calkins system, is a very big manufacturer in Rochester, N.Y., but always devotes three or four months every year to golf. He is a very sound player indeed and uses a Travis putter especially, with deadly effect. He was last year North and South champion at Pinehurst last April and is altogether a very good example of a golfer caught rather late in life.

Mr. Reith, who has not played in Ontario very much and not for some years, delighted the galleries which followed him. He is the very finest product of the snappy Scotch school with a knowledge of the game gained in early youth, and it is a pure delight to see the way he uses his wrists.

Mr. Lyon is still playing the never-beaten fill-the-last-hole game which has made him famous on two continents, whilst Seymour Lyon has undoubtedly a great golfing career ahead of him. At present he has a tendency to run after his ball from the tee, which is a mannerism that may get him into trouble. He is to-day easily the longest driver in Canada and he does not require that little red flag to beat the majority of men from the tee. He should cut it out.

The Professional Golfers' Association of America has decided to play international matches on the lines of those played last year with one very great difference. There will be only three teams instead of four, the foreign-born professionals forming one team instead of being divided into Scotch and English camps as was the case last year. This will make the task of the "Homebreds" much harder and they will certainly have no run-away victory over the combined forces of their opponents. Invitations to their opponents have already been sent out and the team will be made as strong as possible. The dates fixed are July 5th, 26th, 27th at Baltusrol, Apawamin, and Inwood.

THE DANGER OF THE BLOOD

If Not Corrected in its Early Stages Consumption May Follow.

In no disease is delay or neglect more dangerous than anaemia, a poverty of the blood. It is very common in young girls and in persons who are overworked or confined within doors. It makes its approach in so stealthy a manner that it is often well developed before its presence is recognized.

But taken in time there is a specific, a tonic medicine which increases the number of red blood corpuscles, thus enabling the blood to carry the life-giving oxygen to all the tissues of the body. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had unbounded success in the treatment of this stubborn disease because of this wonderful property. The correction of anaemic conditions by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything in medical science. Miss Jessie McLean, Trenton, N.S., says: "I was as weak as it was possible for anyone to be, and yet be able to go about. My blood seemed to have turned almost to water. I was pale, the least exertion would leave me breathless, and when I went up stairs I would have to stop and rest on the way. I often had severe headaches, and at times my heart would palpitate alarmingly. A good friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I have reason to be grateful that I took the advice. Soon after beginning the use of the Pills I began to get stronger, and by the time I had taken seven boxes I felt that I was again enjoying good health. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blessing to weak girls, and I shall always warmly recommend them.

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LADY'S THREE GORED GATHERED SKIRT.

One of the very newest skirt models is shown in this pattern, No. 8749. It is narrow at the lower edge and is just the type of skirt which is being worn with the new hip length or Eton jackets in the new spring suits. The closing is at centre front, where it buttons from belt to hem. The style of this skirt is also very good for wash materials. There are three rows which are gathered all around to the slightly raised waistline. The slanted pockets are more up to date than the patch style, and they are finished at each end with arrow heads.

The lady's three gored gathered skirt pattern No. 8749 is cut in five sizes, 24 to 32 inches waist measure. Width at lower edge of skirt is 1 1/2 yards. As on the figure, the 26 inch size requires 2 3/4 yards of 26 inch, 44 inch or 54 inch material.

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents to The Courier office, or two for 25 cents.

THE FIFTH GEORGE

New York Times
If Thackeray were alive his pen would trace with that simplicity which was the highest art, the story of the Fifth George eating buckwheat cakes with his Queen in the American continent in his capital. How brief and tactful the notice of their coming: "The King and Queen desire to call at the Eagle Hat, and will be there in a few minutes." Unannounced they drive up, little George in his snug uniform and carrying his faithful stick, almost a measure of himself; Mary, a size larger, motherly, plain, wholesome, unfashionable in her dress, simple in her manner, looking like any other decent English-woman who had a well-brought-up boys and a girl.

They climb the steps into a hall where the soldiers and sailors, British, Canadian, American, are playing games, eating with the sauce of hunger, feeling at home in a sympathetic atmosphere—a free-and-easy place of many sounds and laughter, of liberty and equality. George and Mary are ordinary visitors, come to disturb no one, to mingle with all, to be friendly. No distinction for them; and above all, no ceremony. They want to eat an American dish and sit down with the boys at one of the big tables covered with white cloth. "Buckwheat cakes is the best thing we have," says the host, a little flustered by the visit. And buckwheat cakes it was, with New England maple syrup. George and Mary clear their plates with gusto, vote the unfamiliar griddle cakes delicious, and then go the rounds of ditches and ditches, departing like people who have had a good time.

It was the most natural thing for George, every such a democracy to do. On the fourth of July, (will George III. turn in his grave?) the King pitched the first baseball in a game between American teams. Arlie Latham, one of our most unashamed diamond heroes, had been coaching George in right delivery, and probably the King was a bit nervous about his performance. He was certainly more concerned than Arlie Latham, a king of baseball comedians and always a complete stranger to embarrassment.

"We kings must stick together," said Charles of Austria to a royal pal in the same boat the other day. George of England has another version. "We democrats must stick together," and he means what he says. His days are spent in doing his bit like one of his subjects, which should really read fellow-citizens. A busy King he George. He is seen everywhere and at all times of day and night; in camps and hospitals, "over there" as well as in England; sometimes in munition factories; at reviews, at receptions in soldiers of the Allies, at any function where his presence and a kindly word may count. He loves a "hero" as much as anyone likes to talk to Tommy Atkins, and has a great desire to be hospitable to the fighting men from overseas. Heart and soul he is in the war all day long, and does not want to be reminded of his was born to show that a King can be a genuine democrat and lover of liberty in the great war to preserve the British Empire and to save the world from autocracy and odious Kultur.

A Four-Pound Egg.
Naturalist doing field work in China picked up an egg which the natives declared was the egg of the Phoenix—the Fung-Whang, Ho-Ho bird. The investigations made by naturalists has resulted in the decision that disregarding popular legend, the immense egg, forty times the size of the domesticated hen, is that of a gigantic prehistoric ostrich. Two imperfect eggs of this fossil ostrich are in existence and are owned by museums in the United States, but this is the only perfect one known—perfect with the exception of a small hole through which the original contents may have disappeared.

Its discoverer was a peasant in the Province of Honan, China, who one day found it sticking in the bank of the Yellow river and kept it as a curiosity, treating it as the egg of the legendary Phoenix, which is still revered by designers of Chinese decorations. The fossil shell was filled with water when it arrived at the museum and was found to have a capacity of a tride more than two quarts. Two quarts of albumen, yolk and proteinaceous matter—four pounds of foodstuff—evidence that the high cost of living was one of the modern things ancient China did not invent.

No scientist has ever seen a home of the bird which laid this one from the mud of the Yellow river. It may be imagined that the travelling naturalist had some difficulty in acquiring it for the Phoenix to which it was locally attributed stands in Chinese art and tradition as the symbol of immortality and resurrection. For their part, the aviator who escaped from German captivity, says that George, to whom he told the story of his adventures by request, is one of the most democratic men he ever met; which must be true, for Pat talked to George without a hitch for an hour and a quarter and was never more at his ease in his life.

Edward VII was born to be a royal statesman and negotiate alliances on the Continent which should prove the safeguard of the British Empire. It is just as certain that George, the Sailor Prince,

That fact alone is sufficient testimony to the excellence of this product.

For the Maxwell clientele is composed of that class of buyers who select carefully and who demand full value for their money in quality and in service.

Nor do they accept mere promises—being careful buyers they demand proofs.

Perhaps the very fact that we never have made a claim for this car that has not been backed up by proof in the form of official records, accounts in part at least for the predominance of Maxwells.

Another reason—and unquestionably a potent one—is the fact that there are no freak features, no inventions, no radical innovations in this product.

We do not attempt to invent new devices or to supplant tried and proven units with others of our own discovery.

Every unit in this Maxwell—motor, clutch, transmission, axles, steering gear, etc.—is of standard type—though designed and made a little better, we believe, by the Maxwell organization.

For five years this model has remained practically unchanged.

Refined in details, body design changed from time to time to keep pace with changing fashions—for Maxwell buyers demand style as well as efficiency.

But in all essentials of chassis design the present model is identical with that of five years ago—because that first Maxwell was right at every point.

250,000 owners endorse your judgment when you select a Maxwell Motor Car for yours.

Fatigue
Engineers know by experience and self-inspection how much we are affected by noise, and how a period spent in the midst of working machines and mechanical operations, causing deafening and strident sounds of a wide range and shocks to the auditory nerves, produces a feeling of sensory fatigue, and that although this fatigue attacks primarily a single organ, it little by little extends to the whole of the nervous system, leading in some cases to such a feeling of weariness that it may impair the capacity for work in a greater degree than severe muscular fatigue. "Further, deafening sounds, such as those in a boiler shop, affect the acuteness of hearing; indeed, may cause deafness itself, or perforation of the membrane tympani. Little appears to have been done by investigators in this particular branch of fatigue work, remarks Cassier's Engineering Monthly, but it is safe to suggest that any efforts made in industrial works—in indeed, in any place where work is done—to reduce the amount of noise and to make the atmosphere in which the workers toil as restful as possible, would lead to increased production, and an improvement in the general condition of the workers, particularly in their nervous systems.

This Prophet Was Wrong.
Admiral von Tirpitz is on record as having admitted his professional reputation, a year ago, that if Germany used the submarine without restriction or compulsion, Great Britain would be starved into submission before the end of six months. Twice six months have passed, and the exports of meat products from the United States, mostly to Great Britain and other entente nations, have increased during the period from 169,000,000 to 3,559,000,000 pounds. The reputation of von Tirpitz has, therefore, been shattered. He has shown the plain people of Germany learn that the daily allowance of beef is rising rather than falling, in Great Britain, it will be a serious merit. His one hope lies in the fact that the plain people of Germany are slow to learn.

ONE WAY TO HELP.
I pay my bills when they are due, and help to aid the cause; it is the smoothest plan in view—the best that ever was. If you owe Johnson fifteen dollars, and Bulger three or four, if you are standing off DeJones, for junk bought at this store, you are not doing all you should, to help to help the Hun; our prospects are not quite so good, while you are owing him. If Johnson had his fifteen wheels, he'd buy thrift stamps to-day, and so'd Bulger's, who grumpy feels, because you do not pay. If Bulger had the iron men you've owed six months or more, his face would beam with smiles again, he'd buy nine bonds or four, in times of peace the stand-off goes, no rolls we need to flash; but when we are beset by foes, each cent should pay in cash. Then every one can do his best to save his country, and all such plans go galley west, unless our bills are paid. Your talk of help and sacrifice may be the stuff that thrills, but all such chatter cuts no ice, unless you pay your bills.

ONE-HANDED PLOUGH.
In Central America many primitive agricultural implements are still retained. The milpa farmer still uses a plough with a crooked tree branch pointed with iron. The objection to the modern two-handed plough is that one hand is needed for guiding the animals, hence the introduction into Honduras of a trial modern style plough with one handle. This has been tested in many soils at the national experimental station at Tegucigalpa. The results are pronounced "almost incredible," one man with an ordinary yoke of oxen having cultivated an acre and three-fourth in two days, while five or six days would be required with the plough of the country.—Family Herald.
