A Bright World.

Some say this world is a cold, cold world. But it's always been bright to me.

With its heart-throbbing joys and warm desires 'Tis the things that are yet to be.

A Signal of Distress.

During the summer of 1898 I was spending my three months college vacation on the cattle ranch of an uncle in the Big Chazyne River country of western South Dakota.

I was there not merely for pleasure and the relaxation from a hard year of study which the visit afforded, but also to try the effect of the dry, pure air on a chronic lung trouble with which I was affected.

The ranch was not a large one, and the round-up only amounted to about three hundred head of beef cattle, for my uncle had but recently moved from the eastern part of the state to undertake Indian reservation lands, and was not yet sure that the experiment would prove successful.

The ranch lay on the north side of the Big Chazyne River, and a few hundred feet to the west of the house and out-buildings a large creek made down from the northwest, bordered by steep banks to within a short distance of its junction with the Chazyne, when they spread out and merged with the river bluff. This creek was generally dry in the summer, and during seasons of prolonged drought even the river itself sometimes became so low as to amount to hardly more than a brook.

East of the buildings, a strong barb-wire fence ran northwest from the river bank over the bluff, and after paralleling the creek for a short distance on the upland, turned west to its edge. The fence included a tract of about twenty acres, which was used for corraling the stock when necessary, though usually the herd grazed on the open prairie to the northward, guarded by four cowboys, of whom I was one.

My uncle's family consisted only of his wife and himself and their sixteen-year-old son, Charlie, who was so unfortunate as to have a deformed foot. I soon learned to think a great deal of this young cousin of mine, who, in spite of the fact that his deformity and general ill health forbade his sharing in the ordinary business and pleasures of the ranch, was an insatiable reader, a keen observer, and a most entertaining and pleasant companion. He spent his time around the house and corral, and I rarely saw him except at morning and evening, when I was in from the herd for meals. But at those times we found much to talk about. He would question me eagerly concerning my college life, for he expected before long to begin his own university course. For the rest, he often asked my advice and help about the work in which he was engaged, for he possessed a good deal of inventive talent and was always experimenting with various mechanical devices, which often proved useful around the place.

In May, shortly before my arrival, Charlie had spent several days with his father in Chicago, and had there seen, for the first time, flying high over the city, the box kites then recently invented. His fertile brain was immediately inspired with the idea of turning them to practical use on the ranch, and he purchased one. At the time of his visit to Chicago, public attention was concentrated on the Spanish-American war, and from reading of the operations of the United States fleets in the Gulf of Mexico, he also became interested in the naval system of signaling, and carried a code-book home with him. Shortly after my arrival he untold his plan to me. One morning while out on the prairie I had noticed a box kite flying over the buildings, and that night I asked him what it meant.

"One use," he said, with the enthusiasm which always lighted his face when such matters were under discussion, "father and the boys use them all out on the ranch and nobody left here but mother and myself. Now there's always a good deal of stock around the barns and corral, and it's always a chance that some thing may happen which mother and I can't handle. A steer may get along in the fence, or there may be a fire or some other common business. What I want to do is to fix up a system of signaling to let the men know if they are needed at the house. And I believe I have done it with my kite. I can tell them anything I want to."

"Well," I said, a little dubiously, "that's all right for a general signal, but I don't see how you're going to send any special information with a kite."

"Wait a minute," he cried, and disappeared in his room. He returned with the great oblong object in his hands.

"See that little pulley?" he asked, pointing to the lower framework of the kite. "and the fish line through it? I get my kite up, anchor it, and then fasten the signal flags of the Maine Code, for whatever message I want to send, to the fish-line, and draw them up to the kite. They can be seen and read from any part of the ranch."

"The boys don't know the code," I said. "They couldn't read the signals even though they saw them."

"It is very easily learned," he answered confidently. "and I believe would be well worth the trouble."

My uncle had listened attentively to the conversation, but at the close he smiled doubtfully. "Charlie," he said, "you've invented gate latches and feeding racks and any number of other useful things, and the idea of this is all right too. But I don't believe there will ever be very many occasions for putting it to practical use."

"Well, of course, I don't know as to that," said Charlie, "but I believe it will be a universal favorite, and the cowboys gratified him by spending a few hours in memorizing the code, which was as far as the matter went for the time.

In the latter part of July, the grass began to dry up on the prairie, and by the middle of August, owing to an unusually protracted drought and hot south winds, it became so shriveled that sufficient feed for the herd could not be found within many miles of the ranch. My uncle made a trip to the nearest shipping point on the Missouri River, and finding that the Chicago cattle market was high, determined to dispose of his animals while they were still in good condition. So the third week in August he drove the herd away, accompanied by three of the cowboys. As I was a relative he left me to take charge of the ranch during his absence.

The work I had to do was light and Gensley milk cows which were kept constantly in the corral and fed on green hay and mash. The care of these and of the sixteen horses, which I usually herded on the prairie during the day, constituted practically all my work and Charlie helped me a great deal about the lighter part of it.

One extremely warm afternoon, about a week after the herd had been taken away, I was sitting on a rock on the prairie about three miles distance from the house, with my saddle animal picketed near by and the horses grazing quietly over the adjacent hill sides. I was wishing heartily that a good rain might come to break the oppressive heat; and my wish was not without hope, for along the northwestern horizon lay a low, dark bank of clouds which had risen within the hour and which seemed to indicate a heavy thunder storm in that direction. The rest of the sky, however, was perfectly cloudless, and the sun beat down with unobstructed fervor. Even the snap and whirl of the grass-hoppers came infrequently, and the contented crunch of the horses as they nibbled the short-grass grew now the only sound that broke the majestic silence of the vast, rolling plain. Presently, as I sat despite the heat, enjoying in a languid sort of a way the peace and simple beauty of my surroundings, I noticed my horse suddenly lift his head and with pricked ears gaze steadily in the direction of the distant dry creek bed which ran past the ranch. The action in itself was not unusual, but the startled look in his eyes and the

After the jury in a Texas case had listened to the charge of the Court and gone to their room to deliberate upon the verdict, one of the twelve men went right to the point by saying: "That that Pike Muldrow order be convicted on general principles, he's had as they make 'em."

As the hum of approval went around, a seasoned little juror said: "I heard that Pike guy! It out that strain on the nerves, the blood becomes impoverished, the cheeks pale, the blood becomes impoverished, there are frequent headaches, palpitations of the heart and a constant tiredness. If the first symptoms are neglected it may lead to a complete breakdown—perhaps consumption. What is needed to restore vim and energy and vitality is a tonic, and absolutely the best tonic in the world is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These actually make new blood, and bring health and cheerful energy to tired and depressed girls and women.

Miss Viola Millett, Robinson's Corners, N. S., says: "I was a great sufferer from headaches, heart palpitations and troubles that afflict my sex. My blood seemed almost to have turned to water, and the least exertion left me weak and depressed. I used seven boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they have made a remarkable change in my condition. I can truly say that I feel like a new person, and I strongly recommend these pills to all weak, ailing girls."

These pills cure all forms of blood and nerve troubles, but you must get the genuine with the full name Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People on the wrapper around each box. Ask your druggist for them or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE CONDITION OF MANY YOUNG WOMEN IN SHOPS AND OFFICES.

Thousands of young women have to depend upon their own efforts to gain a livelihood, and to these, whether behind the counter, in the office, the factory or the mill, work means close confinement, less in him up, 'see' soon's 'it get out, an' fix the Judge, too."

"We must perfect the Judge," they agreed, and the verdict was 'Not guilty.'

The famous preacher, Bishop Potter, is a good American, and is endowed with a sense of humor. He tells a story against himself. In England, where a Bishop is 'my lord,' Doctor Potter was often so addressed. This was not easy for a good American democrat to hear with content. But Bishop Potter says he got accustomed to it, and was in a fair way of becoming spoiled.

Finally, a little incident delivered him, and levelled him again to the plainest democracy. When he returned to New York after a visit to England, he was greeted as he left the steamer by a friend, an old vestry man, who was hurrying on board to receive his wife and daughters. Pausing on the gangway, he grasped Bishop Potter's hand, and shouted: "Why hullo, Bishop, how are you?"—Bristol Mirror.

When the young mistress of the house entered the kitchen, she carried herself with great dignity. She had come to call the cook to account.

"Mary," she said, "I must insist that you keep better hours, and that you have less company in the kitchen evenings. Last night I was kept awake because of the uproarious laughter of one of your women friends."

"Yes, mum, I know, 'Mary replied, cheerfully, 'but she couldn't help it. I was telling her how you tried to make cake yesterday morning."

Some Seasonable Advice. It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by Rand's Drug Store.

I think, my dear," said the proud mother as the daughter sat at the piano and let a few thrilling thrills escape, "we should send Michael abroad to have her voice cultivated."

"All right," replied the husband and father, "and the father abroad she cultivates it the better."

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., OCT. 7, 1904.

This fall we are to have the elections for the Municipal Councillors. Nominations must be handed in November 1st, between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. Every candidate must be nominated by at least six persons qualified to vote in the district. Polling day will be on Nov. 15th, from 8.30 a. m. to 5 p. m. So far we hear little talk of whom the candidates are to be, but trust the people of the county are on the alert and that only good men will be selected.

The date of the Federal elections has been at length announced. Nominations day has been fixed for Tuesday, Oct. 27th, and polling day a week later. The contest will be a short and doubtless sharp one, and no man knoweth the result thereof. Sir John A. Macdonald, who is recognized as having been one of the most astute and far-seeing politicians that Canada has ever known, is on record as saying that nothing is as uncertain as a horse-race except an election. This from a man of so large experience should be sufficient to illustrate the folly of those who undertake to predict with certainty as to the result of this or any other election contest. Sufficient to be it that good men will be selected to transact the public business of our growing country, and let every honest elector go to the polls with this end in view.

The Kentville Advertiser has also been receiving letters regarding the 'disgraceful scenes' at the Robinson execution. Our ever moderate and even-tempered contemporary trusts that whatever action shall be taken to place the blame where it belongs will be done in a less public way than through the press. Evidently that other Kentville paper, the Western Chronicle, also trusts along the same line. Possibly the same trustful spirit may have place in the breasts of so-called leading and 'representative' men in the county. Unless we fail to read correctly the signs of the times, however, thinking people of Kings do not so trust, and the 'considerable correspondence on the subject,' which the Advertiser claims to have received, would indicate that we make no mistake in urging a full and public explanation being made.

One of the speakers at the Temperance meeting in the Baptist church last Sunday evening, a gentleman from New York who is visiting in town, referred to a matter of the utmost importance, and his remarks should bear fruit in the lives of all present. The speaker referred to the need of all right thinking people attending political conventions and caucuses and seeing to it that their party nominates only men who will vote to the department of art and fancy work, and here is shown an exceedingly attractive and beautiful display. It is, indeed, one of the strong features of the exhibition. The paintings, drawings and needlework, etc., would be a credit to a much larger show.

On the second floor is arranged the roots and vegetables, grain and field seeds, etc., and the collection of Educational exhibits. While not a large exhibit there is a good display of vegetables, and this is not the least interesting part of the show. The collection of school work which is placed in a small room at the west end of the second floor, does not show to the best advantage, is a most creditable one, and is well worth a visit.

Among the special exhibits is a fine show of harness and horse findings by Mr. William Regan, of this town, a display of pianos and sewing machines by W. T. Ford, an exhibit by the Singer Sewing Machine Co., and others.

The attendance for the first day was good, and notwithstanding the disagreeable state of the weather yesterday, the show was visited by a large number. This will be the big day and the building and grounds will no doubt be thronged. The Canning band will furnish a fine programme of music. Sir Frederick Borden is expected to attend and will formally close the exhibition.

The show days in Chambers' millinery department are bringing forth many beautiful hats in felt, velvet and fur. The trimmings are rich silk and velvet flowers, ribbon, birds, pretty styles of buckles, the feathered plumes and some fruit. A brown fur toque has a mechin chape and two large roses. There is a handsome hat of turquoise blue velvet with dark green binding, green and blue shot ribbon and abraded quill. Another is the three cornered toque, made of chenille and gray, conceals velvet, with a shaded plume and gray ribbon caught in the back with a buckle. A red velvet hat is shired underneath and trimmed with plumed leaves and a large rose and foliage of silk and velvet.

Two very striking hats show the crown-collared effect. One is of brown velvet, shired under the brim and on the crown, with a large brown and tansierine colored bird. The other is of tacked dark green silk, with a feather edge on crown and brim and trimmed with brown ribbon and a buckle.

The many friends whom Miss Clarke has made since coming to Wolfville are glad to meet her again in charge of this department.

THE EXHIBITION.

OPENED SUCCESSFULLY ON WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON—SPLENDID EXHIBITS IN EVERY DEPARTMENT.

All the arrangements for the exhibition were completed by Wednesday morning and the show was formally opened at 2 o'clock by Mr. B. W. Chipman, Secretary of Agriculture. It was hoped that Lieut. Governor Jones would be present but he was not able to be here. In the absence of Mayor DeWitt, Vice-President Bigelow presided at the opening ceremony. Addresses were given by Hon. J. W. Longley, Dr. Keirstead, Deputy Warden Campbell, Messrs. B. W. Chipman, P. Innes, B. H. Dodge, M. P. P., and H. H. Wickwire, M. P. P.

As stated last week the exhibition is held in the large warehouse of the Apple Shipping Co., which has been fitted up especially for the purpose and presents a fine appearance. A building has been erected near the street which serves as an office for the secretary, ticket office, etc. The grounds have been fenced, and the whole premises are very well adapted to the purposes of an exhibition.

Stalls have been erected on the grounds for the poultry exhibit which is a very good one. The two tents which were engaged are used for the exhibit of apples in barrels and other purposes.

Some of the exhibits of the miscellaneous department are also shown, including a display of ladders and other goods by Mr. D. E. Woodman, of Coldbrook.

There is also a 'fakirs row' which while interesting to some is not considered by many visitors as a necessary adjunct. In fact the executive has been somewhat harshly criticized by some for allowing this feature to be introduced.

In the main building is arranged what is pronounced by many who ought to be in a position to judge the finest collection of fruit ever shown in Nova Scotia. The apples are particularly fine. While the quality of fruit generally throughout the valley is not nearly as good as last year, the exhibit is said to surpass that shown at Bridgetown. There are a large number of collections and a very extensive display of single plates. The large number of special prizes brought out an exhibit of barrels and boxes in all the leading varieties.

The season has not been a favorable one for small fruits, and it is now too late to expect a large exhibit. The collections of plums are, however, exceedingly good, and there is also a good display of pears, peaches, quinces, grapes, etc. In the centre of the building there is a table bearing a fine display of ornamental plants and flowers. There is also a fine exhibit of preserved and canned fruits, pickles, etc.

who has been spending the last year with her sister in that city. Miss Emma Archibald returned from Lowell, Mass., on Saturday last, and is spending a few weeks vacation at her home here. She has recently graduated at the Lowell General Hospital, and will return to that city to practice her profession.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Collins left on Saturday last for Boston, St. Louis, Lansing, Mich., and other parts. They expect to be away all winter, and during their absence 'Windholm' will be occupied by Mrs. C. A. Heales and family.

Miss Flora M. Chute, of Berwick, who completed a course of physical training at Toronto last season, has accepted the position of Director of Physical Training in the Y. M. C. A. of Brantford, Ont., and left to take up her duties there last week.

Misses Julia and Nellie Regan are home from Boston, having been called in consequence of the serious illness of their father, Mr. William Regan. We are glad to know that Mr. Regan's health is so much improved as to permit him to be out this week.

Mrs. Bates, widow of the late Prof. J. L. Bates, of Woodstock, Ont., who has been a resident of Amherst for the past four years, has removed to Wolfville in order to give her children better educational advantages. Her eldest son will enter Acadia College, having matriculated from the County Academy.

The marriage took place at Trinity church, St. John, on Wednesday evening of Miss Margaret Mildred Patchell, to Harry C. E. Chesley, son of J. A. Chesley, of M. P. Rev. G. R. McDonald performed the ceremony. Miss Patchell is quite well known in Wolfville, having visited here on several occasions. THE ACADIAN extends congratulations.

Baby laughs when mother gives him Baby's Own Tablets; they taste good and make him well and happy. They are mother's help and baby's every day friend. Guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. The tablets aid digestion, cure colic, prevent diarrhoea, cleanse the bowels, allay teething irritation, and cure all the common ills of childhood. No cross, sleepless children in homes where Baby's Own Tablets are used. Mrs. M. Ready, Danbigh, Ont., says: 'I don't know what higher praise I can give Baby's Own Tablets than to say that I would not be without them in the house. I have found them on hand to meet any emergency.' Sold by all medicine dealers everywhere, or sent by mail at 25 cents by writing. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BOTH THEORY and PRACTICE.

Experience is necessary in the Drug Business, and nowadays suitable preliminary training is also indispensable. Pharmacy is a progressive profession. There has been almost a complete revolution in it in the last decade. The druggist who gives good service to-day must be up to date, and he cannot be COMPLETELY SO unless he has had a COLLEGE OF PHARMACY TRAINING.

None but graduates fill prescriptions in our store. We thus insure you ideal service, and that is the only kind of service you should be satisfied with when you require drugs.

LET US FILL YOUR PRESCRIPTIONS!

If you can't come telephone (No. 19.)

Personal Mention. A Visit to the St. Louis Fair. DRAR ACADIAN.—We arrived in this great city of the west on the evening of the 16th. The gale of the 15th made the passage across the Bay of Fundy very rough and caused a delay of one day in St. John which we used in visiting the parks, the suspension bridge, cathedral, &c. The day was fine but cold and overcasts were in demand. We had an hour in Montreal on Saturday. It was very pleasant there and we made good use of it in visiting St. Peter's and other points of interest. At midnight we crossed over into Michigan and nearly all the next day we were running through the rich corn fields of Indiana and Illinois. The houses are small as seen from the train and the people are said to lack enterprise raising chiefly corn and hogs.

Every day since our arrival and in that time have managed to get a good general idea of the exhibition. In going around on the intra-mural one gets a comprehensive view of the grounds and buildings and can then go at the detailed sight seeing more intelligently. There are twelve large buildings that call extended examination as these contain the best products of the whole world in all lines of industry and liberal arts. The mass of material assembled in these buildings is simply overwhelming and one comes away with a succession of impressions more or less distinct depending upon the retentiveness of the memory.

Mrs. E. A. Kennard, who has been visiting Mrs. Daniel Borden, of Town Plot, for the last few months, left on Wednesday of last week for her home in Malde, Mass.

Dr. George Johnson, of Ottawa, Dominion statistician, who is paying his annual visit to his farm at Grand Pre, was among the visitors to the exhibition yesterday.

Dr. H. Lawrence left on Friday last for a trip to the west. He will be away some weeks, and during his absence Dr. Fred Beckwith will have charge of his office.

Prof. A. E. Caldwell, who has been visiting the St. Louis Fair returned yesterday. He was accompanied by time, visiting friends, besides attending service in the Episcopal and Baptist churches.

Miss Cassie Miner, of Manchester, New Hampshire, who is spending a vacation with her sister, Mrs. Everett Caldwell, Gaspereau, spent a part of Saturday and Sunday with friends here.

Mrs. Jacob Caldwell has in her possession a pair of hand bellows, which she says, are more than a hundred years old.

Misses May and Edith Caldwell, of Berwick, paid a visit this week to their grandmother, Mrs. Hibbert Caldwell.

Quite a number of our people are attending the Exhibition at Wolfville this week.

Newtonville Notes. From some nightly visits recently paid us by Jack Frost, and from the brilliant coloring of the forest trees, we realize that the balmy days of summer have given place to those of autumn.

An old fashioned apple-paring was held at Mrs. Jacob Caldwell's last Thursday evening, when quite a number of our young people spent a sociable evening, and lent a hand in preparing Mrs. C.'s apples for winter use, and enjoyed immensely the treat of pie and other good things before returning to their respective homes.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR

has captured the approval of the people. The dealers of Berwick are delighted with the reports received from their customers and say that never before have they heard more general approval of a flour. This is what some of the Berwick people think of it.

Mrs. P. ANDREWS says: "Royal Household" is just about as good as any flour could be; it requires less kneading than other Manitoba flour, and is therefore easier to work.

Mrs. S. CREIGHTON says: "We have had three barrels of 'Royal Household' flour and have found that it makes excellent bread. It is the easiest flour to work with and in my opinion the best Manitoba flour we have used.

Mrs. J. E. WOODWORTH says: "I recently tried 'Royal Household' flour for pastry with most excellent results. As a bread maker I find it requires much less kneading than other Manitoba flour."

Mrs. W. M. TIBBERT says: "I can unhesitatingly recommend 'Royal Household' flour as a bread maker and for other baking purposes."

"THE ACADIAN" IS THE BEST.

CLEANED BY THE WAY.
You can't be both truthful and popular.
"What did the boss want when he called you up on the phone?"
"To call me down."
Medicine You Can Trust
There are no family medicines that have such a firm hold on the confidence of the people as those of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous physician and social book author. The superior skill as a physician and the integrity of character for which Dr. Chase is everywhere known stand as a guarantee for his medicine, on every box of which are found his portrait and signature.
"What! Say you ain't going to vote for Hamer, are you? He's crooked, you know."
"Street—Yes, but he's on the straight ticket."
When a fellow has no bank account to draw on it doesn't do him much good to draw on his imagination.
"It's all well enough to have an iron will," says the Manyung Philosopher, "provided it isn't a pig-iron one."
Surprise to Doctors
Most doctors are astonished at the results obtained by Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for eczema, salt rheum and itching skin diseases which are often considered well nigh incurable by word of mouth from friends to friends. The exceptional merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment have gradually become known until it is now a standard and the world over has a record of cures and testimonials in the history of medicine.

The Verdict of Public Opinion
In with the best article every time. That's why Putnam's Corn Extractor has been in the lead for the last half century. It cures corns painlessly in twenty-four hours and never fails. Use only Putnam's for corns and warts.
"What crime is he charged with?"
"Stealing a watch."
"Of course he will have to do time for that."
The other kind of mother-in-law: Grocer—You seem to be living most comfortably on canned goods lately.
Mr. Newwood (sadly) Yes, my wife's mother is away.
Racking Pain in the Joints
Early symptoms of rheumatism, neuralgia and sciatica are best cured by Nerviline, the quickest relief for muscular pain yet discovered. It's because Nerviline strikes in and penetrates right to the core of the pain, that it gives such unbounded satisfaction. "I caught cold in my shoulders while driving and suffered great pain," writes G. E. Dempsey of Berlin. "I used Nerviline freely and was soon quite well. I have found Nerviline an excellent remedy for rheumatism and neuralgia as well as for cold in the chest. I recommend Nerviline highly and wouldn't be without it." Price 25c.

Gentlemen—I fell from the bridge leading from a platform to a loaded car while assisting my men to unload a car of grain. The bridge went down, as well as the load on my back, and I struck on the ends of the sleeper causing a serious injury to my leg. Only for its being very fleshy would have broken it. In an hour could not walk a step. Commenced using MINARD'S LINIMENT and the next day was able to mount on business and got about well by the use of a cane. In ten days was nearly well. I can sincerely recommend it as the best liniment that I know of in use.
Yours truly,
C. R. GORDON.
"I presume," said the city boarder, that you got your buttmark from that nourishing old cow with the crumpled horn and the six-pointed ears in her eyes?"
"Oh!" interrupted the charming young lady from the city, before the milk-maid could frame a reply, "I thought they got the buttermark from the goat."
"What is the matter with your wife?"
"Her tongue is paralyzed. Cure her as slowly as you can, doctor, because her system will not stand a shock."
"You don't bring your wife with you, Mr. Jones," said the small boy of the house, addressing the guest. "No, my boy. Would you like to see her?" "Yes. Leadways, I would like to see her through." "See her through? What do you want to see her through for?" "Well, Mr. says your wife keeps you under her thumb, and I'd like to see it; for it must be a pretty big one."
A Judicious Enquiry.
A well known travelling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was warranted a 24 hour cure for an adult, and if he answered "No," they invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it is a sure cure. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale

Time to Boil Vegetables.
Mrs. Rotor gives the following rules for the time required to cook vegetables. All white and underground vegetables, are, as a rule, rich in woody fibre, which is softened by gentle cooking in soft water. As salt hardens water it should not be added till the vegetables are partly cooked. Satisfy sliced or quartered required 45 minutes, and the same time for new beets, while those kept over a winter require four hours. Green corn only requires five minutes after it begins to boil, long cooking taking away the sweetness. It is not generally known that celery is a very nice vegetable prepared like cauliflowers with a white sauce. Both, if cut into blocks boil tender in 20 minutes, while the Swede variety take 45. Carrots take one hour, and artichokes cut into slices are ready in 30 minutes. Parsnip take an hour, and dry beans should be soaked overnight and boiled until they crack. Potatoes require thirty minutes, and these are the principal vegetables at this season of the year.
The Man Who Works Hard
Perseverance and will-power he must have, but whether he has strength and vigor is another consideration. Hard working men usually have irritable nerves and should fortify their systems with a course of Ferrozone, a tonic that rebuilds and revitalizes beyond all telling. It's just wonderful the strength that Ferrozone imparts to broken-down men. It forms new blood, supplies the system with abundant nourishment, and where formerly there was tiredness and lassitude Ferrozone establishes a reserve of energy and vim. Try Ferrozone, -price 50c. per box.

I am taking up a collection, boss, for a poor orphan what ain't got no father and no mother."
"Here is a dime. I am always glad to help the unfortunate. How old is the poor orphan?"
"Only seventy-nine, boss."
Schoolmate—It must be lovely to be married to a newspaper man. You get free tickets to all the theaters and operas, don't you?
Mrs. Scribbler—Y-e-s, but we never go.
Schoolmate—Why not?
Mrs. Scribbler—We haven't anything to wear.

Goodwin—What do you think of that story of Jonas being detained in a whale's stomach for three days and nights?
Gayboy—Oh, it's all right. I've given my wife worse excesses than that many a time!
"What a fair skin Mahel has!"
"She has indeed. Still, it isn't as white as it is painted."
"Here's some angel food, John," said the young wife, promptly. "I made it all myself."
"Well, dear," replied the diplomatic John, "as you're the only angel about the place it's up to you to get outside of it."

Our Philanthropy—
THE DOCTRINE OF PHILANTHROPY—WHAT IS THE BUSINESS OF A CHRISTIAN?—THE DUTY OF ACTIVITY IN WORK FOR THE WELFARE OF OTHERS.
Some easy-going people anxious to evade the responsibilities that social life and civilization impose, excuse themselves from participation in moral reform work on the plea that they are "minding their own business." Nothing could be more barbaric or unchristian. One of the fundamental principles of Christianity is the duty of man to do all in his power for the welfare of others. Selfishness is neither commendable or right. Love for our neighbors is part of the Gospel that Christianity preaches. Love cannot be expressed by indolence. It means making the interests of others our own. It means the reverse of what is expressed by the phrase "minding our own business." The fact that a religion tells us if it does not help humanity is well expressed in a thoughtful article contributed to the American issue by Rev. Grover C. Clark, D. D., of La Grange, Ill. Discussing the statement of a saloon keeper who defined a Christian as "one who says his prayers and minds his own business," Dr. Clark writes: "The Christian has no right to be content with saying his prayers while his bare faced iniquity fronts at him while it destroys the people. If a rum shop exists within striking distance of him, it is the Christian's business to get on the whole armor of God and get out after that rum shop and smite it and keep on smiting it with the perseverance of the saints, until he smites it to the death. It is his business to do that with every enemy of man."
No one denies that it is the Christian's duty to save the drunkard, to lift up the fallen and to sustain civil government. Even the saloon-keeper consents that it is the business of the church to take care of the ripened product of his nefarious traffic. But I say it is the duty of the church to save the drunkards, as it is much more the duty of the church to stop drunkard-making.
If it is the duty of the church to lift up the fallen, it is much more her duty to keep men from falling. If it is the duty of the church to support civil government, it is much more her duty to see that she has a clean and honest civil government to support. If it is the duty of the church to pray for men in authority, it is much more her duty to see that she has decent men in authority to pray for. If it is the duty of the church to submit to the powers that be, it is much more her duty to see that the powers that be are ordained of God, not of the devil.
The Christian is not done minding his own business when he is through saying his prayers. We are by far too willing to content ourselves with saying our prayers while the rulers of the darkness of this world run things with a high hand. We are too much afraid of being offensive. We shrink from having a fuss, when we ought to be ready for a fuss at any time in the interests of righteousness. The Christian church ought to be a terror to evil-doers. Unless we make it so we fail of our full duty to God and man.
The Subway Tavern.
American journals, clergymen, and temperance workers continue to criticize severely the action of Bishop Potter in assisting at the opening of the subway tavern, and so giving the countenance of his high position to the bar-room system.
Here are a few paragraphs clipped from articles and quotations in a number of our exchanges:
"Bishop Potter's act is inexcusable and unpardonable. He has given his great influence to the devil, and has dealt a blow to the whole church."
—Rev. Dr. A. B. Holdrege, Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, Ga.
"To give a man more liquor for his money will certainly not lessen the drink habit. To create a pretext for poor, drunken loafers will not improve the laboring man."—Rev. Chas. M. Alford, Westminster Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia.
Bishop Potter must have seen that his act would put money in the pockets of the owners of the saloons that he blessed. What he failed to see was that the reform which this saloon professed to promote is and must always be, from the viewpoint of the church, a sham reform. For the church to choose between evil is for the church to sanction evil.
