SUCCESSFUL AT NORMAL.

Educational Department Announces Examination Results.

Certificates and Marks Will Soon be Forwarded.

Information For Those Who Were Not Successful.

Hamilton Normal School results were announced by the Department of Education yesterday. The certificates and the marks of the unsuccessful will be forwarded in due course to the addresses reported to the department. Permanent second class certificates will be issued to those of the successful grade A candidates who are 21 years of age, and interim second class certificates to all other successful candidates. Candidates who have not succeeded in making the necessary standing for second class certificates, but whose marks bring them within the provision of section 12 (a) (b) or (c) of the Normal School syllabus, will be awarded interim third class certificates, valid for one year; and upon passing the final examination in April or June, 1910, will be awarded second class certificates. These latter candidates will be informed individually of the subjects upon which they must rewrite.

Those candidates who have failed at this examination will be required to attend another session, but they will be allowed to complete their course and write the final examination in April, along with the grade A students.

The names of the successful students, with the certificates obtained, are as follows:

BROTHER AND SISTER

Died In City Hospital Within a Few Hours.

A strange coincidence occurred in the death yesterday at the City Hospital of Emily Moffat, and the death to-day in the same institution of Willoughby Moffat, her brother, As they were both born in this city, and had been brought up together, they were much attached to one another and until a few weeks ago resided at 165 Bay street north, when they were removed to the City Hospital. Miss Moffat was the eldest daughter of the late Robert Moffat, and Willoughby was the eldest son. They passed away within 24 hours of one another. Willoughby was a moulder by trade. Death in both cases was from natural causes. There will be a double funeral on Thursday afternoon, and interment will take place at Hamilton Cemetery.

Both Mr. and Miss Moffat were well-known and very highly respected. They had lived for a great many years on Bay street.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES

To rent at $2 a year and upwards, for the storing of deads, bonds, stocks, wills, silver and other valuables.

TRADERS BANK OF CANADA

Notice to Smokers.

There is no pipe tobacco equal to the Extra Special smoking mixture, either in flavor or quality. It is sold in the large tins for 50 cents at peace's cigar store, 107 King street east.

Held Up By Floods

Denver, Col., July 7.—Hundreds of eastern people bound for the Pacific coast are blocked by landslides and floods in the mountains in various parts of Colorado. Along the line of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad west of Canon City, in the famous Royal Gorge, landslides caused by rains have covered the track to a depth of several feet in places. Three through trains are held at Canon City, carrying 1,000 passengers, including delegates to the Elks' national convention at Los Angeles and the Epworth League convention at Seattle.

ONE LIVED IN HAMILTON.

Three Boys Have Terrible Experience In Mountains.

Were Running Away, Bound For the Cobalt Country.

All Were Robbed and One Thrown Over Precipice.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 7.—Three youthful runaways, gold hunters, sons of wealthy parents in Camden, crippled from falls into ravines, and babbling from sunstroke, were picked up by the police of Pittsburg last night, after their terrible experience in the mountains of Pennsylvania.

The boys, John Edgerton, thirteen; Charles Novic and John Towney, sixteen each, decamped from their homes on the night of June 27, after making full preparation for flight, the first having a bicycle and the latter two with a tandem. Each strapped a knapsack upon his back. They had $40 between them, and decided that the Cobalt region of Canada was the proper place to make their fortunes. Towney's father is interested in the Niaguan mine in Canada, having placed his boy in an eastern school.

During the first two days everything went well. The boys eluded the police, who had been placed on their tracks by their unhappy fathers. The third night brought adventure. Young Edgerton was in the vanguard pedaling for dear life when he received the stern order to hold up his hands. He did so and his companions followed it. Then a lone highwayman went through their clothes, took $36 they had left, threw the bicycle and tandem over the cliff and ordered the runaways to follow their noses.

Daunted by this experience, the boys kept right on, and the very next day were again held up. This time they had nothing to give the highwaymen, and in anger he threw young Edgerton over a precipice. The lad fell about twenty feet and landed on a shrub, which he grasped, hanging between blue sky and a creek 200 feet below. For hours he hung there until rescued by his companions, who had run away while the hold-up man was maltreating their younger companion.

After this experience the boys plodded along in the broiling sun, young Edgerton going out of his head completely. For six days the three subsisted upon berries.

This morning the boys reached Pittsburg, even in their delirium intent upon reaching the Cobalt region.

The police here, however, were on the watch for them, and Detective Fred Will picked them up. Their parents wired car fare and they were sent back to Camden to-night.

Young Edgerton's father owns a large farm and has valuable options in the Cobalt region, and it is supposed that he had an idea that gold could be picked from the ground surface in Canada. Towney's parents formerly lived in Hamilton, Ont., where they still have relatives and friends.

WON'T GO TO THE COURTS.

City Wants Railway Board to Interpret By-Law.

Six New Cars For Barton and King Street Routes.

London Would Like Chance to Release Itself.

The Street Railway Company, it was reported in the City Hall this morning, is arranging to place six new, large, double truck cars on the Barton, James and King street east routes. This will dispose of the complaints made by passengers in the east end district of overcrowding, a matter that the city was arranging to take up with the company shortly. The company has entirely abandoned the scheme of building new car sheds. It is said that the latest ideas in large cities is to house the cars in the open, and that this is found more economical than erecting large expensive buildings. The company, however, will either enlarge the present repair shops at the corner of Sanford avenue and King street or build new ones in that vicinity. The work will either be done this fall or the first thing in the spring.

City Solicitor Waddell this morning received a copy of the lengthy judgment issued yesterday by the Ontario Railway Board in the case arising from the city's efforts to collect damages for repair work done, three feet outside the rails, on certain streets, during 1905-6. The amount is about $25,000. The Board holds that it cannot deal with damages actions under its creative legislative acts, these cases being the prerogative of the courts.

The case was adjourned indefinitely without costs to permit the city to go to the Court of Appeal with a view of having the question of the board's jurisdiction defined. The City Solicitor says this is the first case of its kind that has been before the Board, and this is the reason for the lengthy judgment.

The city, however, has no intention of going to the Court of Appeal.

It wants the by-law with the company interpreted, and the Board has power to do that. Mr. Waddell will put in evidence that the company was ordered to do this work outside the rails and refused. As soon as the Board gives its interpretation, if it is in favor of Hamilton, the city will undertake to collect the money through the courts.

Love Finds the Way

CHAPTER XXI.

The Towns, as Sir Ralph had said, was a grand place, and Mr. Clifford had an opportunity to admire it in silence. A couple of grooms sprang forward to help Sir Ralph alight, and a footman was already at the door to waft them with his magnificence.

Lady Besant was in the drawing room, and there the gentlemen sought her.

Her ladyship was the widow of a city knight whom Mr. Besant married briefly, putting himself also engarde.

"Yes, that's it," said the other, with a grin. "Now look out!"

And he commenced the attack.

But to the astonishment of all, especially the insatiate fox hunter, the quiet tutor had warded off the sudden attack and was handling the delicate foil with the utmost dexterity and grace.

Netted by the thwarting of his design to make the "tutor fellow" ridiculous, Mr. Besant redoubled his ardor, and was staggered and thoroughly dumbfounded to find his weapon jerked from his hand and flying with terrific force towards the ceiling.

The silence that followed for the next moment was something extraordinary. Mr. Clifford stopped and recovered the fallen foil.

"You were off your guard, sir," he said quietly, handing it to his astonished opponent.

"Yes, you never told me you understood," he muttered.

"You never gave me time," said Mr. Clifford, gravely, without the slightest appearance of triumph, and carefully averting his glance from that of Lillian, which he knew was fixed upon his face.

"Well, let us have another bout," said Mr. Besant.

But Mr. Clifford had put down his foil.

"Thank you," he said, "but——"

"Oh, come on," said Mr. Besant, loudly.

"You won't get it so easily this time, I can tell you. I was off my guard—regular taken in. Come along!"

Thus rudely pressed, Mr. Clifford resumed the foil and once more stood the attack.

This time Mr. Besant was more careful, but it was evident to Sir Ralph, who knew something of the art, and to Lillian, who could tell by Mr. Clifford's face, that the "tutor fellow" was but playing with his opponent, and in a few moments Lillian's face—she had been watching with sparkling eyes every movement of the glancing steel—flushed a fierce crimson as the foil was wrench'd from Mr. Besant's wrist and the point of the tutor's touched his breast.

Mr. Clifford dined alone that evening, and Sir Ralph, in his absence, spoke of his fencing exploit with steady satisfaction.

"You would have been surprised, madam," he said, turning to Miss Lucas, who sat listening as quietly as usual. "You would have been surprised at the dexterity with which Mr. Clifford handled his weapon. Really, I had not given him credit for so much skill or strength to wrest a foil from your opponent's hand as he did."

"Indeed, why should you not?" said Miss Lucas, with the air of one seeking information.

"Why?" hesitated Sir Ralph. "Mr. Clifford does not look strong, and—ahem!—struck me as being somewhat deficient in many accomplishments."

Lillian looked up quickly; she had been listening, for a wonder, as quietly as Miss Kate herself, with her eyes fixed upon the tablecloth and her hands clasped gracefully upon her lap.

Now she spoke with almost too indiferent an air, and her eyes, instead of meeting her father's, looked beyond them thoughtfully.

"How do you know, papa?" she said. "He said he did not ride," said Sir Ralph.

"And that is all he has declared himself ignorant of, and it's only one of many accomplishments. He did not say he could fence, and you see he can. Perhaps he can shoot, swim, walk, play billiards and drive a tandem with Mr. Besant himself."

Sir Ralph laughed.

"Poor Harry!" he said. "I was sorry for him; but no blame can be laid on Mr. Clifford's shoulders."

"The sword was forced into his hand," said Lillian.

"And would have been beaten out of it again, if he had not taken the defensive," concluded Sir Ralph. "Yes, it was very mortifying, but it was Harry's own doing, entirely. I fancy he will fight shy of your queer-looking tutor for the future."

Lillian laughed.

Miss Lucas, who pleaded ignorance of the whole art and mystery of fencing for an excuse, begged for the particulars and got them, this time from Lillian, who told the story of Mr. Besant's discomfiture with her usual calmness and candor.

"Very remarkable," said the expressionless governess; "very;" and so finished the subject—that is, for the present: she resumed it again on paper, for like the preceding evening, Miss Lucas retired to her correspondence. With the usual privilege we can follow her, creep through the keyhole and look over her shoulder as she writes. It is a long letter already, for several pages of it lie locked in the desk; this page is number ten, and commences thus:

"The young man of whom I have told you in the first part of this letter is still here, and from all I see, likely to remain for some time. The Italian lessons are supplemented by those of music and singing, the first of which he gave yesterday. I can almost hear you asking me how I am received and treated and what effect he will have upon the course of events at Rivershall."

"Sir Ralph evidently likes him; he treats him with a stately condescension he had almost written kindness—which he does not extend to me. Not that I would complain. I am well treated and am in the confidence of the helmsman of this great place, but you know better than I can tell you that, wear my path one of thorns and misery. I would treat it cheerfully in obedience to your command. As for Miss Melville, it is difficult to form a conclusion; but watching every look, gesture and word she expresses in his absence, I take it that there is little chance of romance resulting from his presence."

"Boxing gloves, Miss Melville," said Mr. Besant, with a grin, reaching them down. "Boxing is all the fashion now, and these—taking down the foils —are for fencing."

Then, as she examined the slight steel blades, he turned to the silent tutor, and, hoping to make him ridiculous, said:

"Do you fence? It's very easy, only wants a little attention and a quick eye. Take this and try."

And, without waiting for the refusal which he felt certain was coming, he thrust the handle of the foil into Mr. Clifford's hands.

"Sir Ralph is too proud to fear any ill consequences from this rash introduction of a handsome tutor; he trusts in

THE HAMILTON TIMES

WEDNESDAY, JULY 7, 1909.

THE LOAN A MISTAKE.

According to a statement, apparently inspired, in the Toronto World this morning, the Ontario Provincial Treasurer had received, up to the end of June, $2,404,000 subscription to the Ontario Provincial loans. Of this, something like $1,250,000 is all that has been subscribed for of the $3,500,000 loan which is being offered for sale to enable the Government to finance the Hydro-Electric transmission scheme. That only about one-third of this loan has been sought, notwithstanding the special inducements offered and the diligent campaign conducted to effect its sale, is a fact not without significance. The Government organs make a brave effort to appear to be pleased with the result, but it is rather a funeral jubilation. The Financial Post, in referring to the matter, says:

The Ontario Government's effort to raise $3,500,000 for its power project by a popular loan has proved an absolute failure. Finding that the individual investor would not respond the Government next had recourse to the banks. In spite of the very potential character of the request the banks did not respond to any appreciable extent and leading bankers did not hesitate to express their disapproval of the character of the scheme. Institutions which might not be impressed with the nature of the damage to Canadian credit caused by the Government's scheme were loth to take on any considerable quantity of bonds and thus render unavailable funds which according to present indications will be required for the ordinary necessary needs of the country (provided that the expected harvest matures), in fulfillment of the very excellent promise now offered. There was no occasion for the Government authorities to suggest as was stated in last week's Post that the banks did not favor the loan because they were greedy for larger profits. The statement is in line with the attack upon bank stocks as an investment, which was thoughtlessly made by the Provincial Treasurer three weeks ago.

Perhaps nothing could have better effect than the failure of this loan. It is the product of a policy of financial recklessness, socialistic hostility to private investment, and the prostitution of power to partisan ends. Even the floating of this loan was in its manner ill-conceived. This Province, this Dominion, needs for home development all the available capital which can be obtained in the country. If the Government of Ontario was determined to float a loan of $3,500,000, it should have sought the British money markets in which to sell its bonds, and let the home capital free for investment in the business enterprises of the country. The policy of depleting the stores of private capital readily available was a mistake.

CONFIDENCE UNSHAKEN.

Mr. Frank W. Morse, who, a short time ago resigned his position as first Vice-President and general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific, was interviewed on leaving by the White Star steamer Celtic, for New York, by a representative of the Liverpool Journal of Commerce. There has been considerable speculation in certain quarters as to the reason for Mr. Morse's vacating his office and an effort has been made by certain party organs to account for it on the theory of lack of confidence in the railway project. Mr. Morse, however, in his interview, gives no support to such a theory. He is quoted as saying:

EDITORIAL NOTES.

But, then, the "Minister of Power" might prove to be more of a success if he were dealing with wind power or natural gas.

If two justices of the peace are incompetent to try a case of theft, there would seem to be an urgent call for an amendment to the statutes.

The strike in the Cape Breton collieries has not yet resulted in crippling seriously the operation of more than one mine. A considerable force of police preserves order, but the situation is threatening, and a strong hand is necessary.

Before Mr. McNaught sets out to lecture on the great saving in loss of power and transformation by transmission at 110,000 watts instead of 60,000 he should take a kindergarten course in electricity.

Now comes a story to the effect that the British Government has already the Dreadnought of the air, a huge balloon propelled by two motors of 220 horsepower each. Are we to learn next that John Bull has a squadron or two of Dreadnoughts hidden in some out-of-the-way harbor?

A good many of Hon. Adam Beck's audience will agree with the Spectator, which has arrived at the conclusion that in this power matter "he either does not know what he is talking about or else does know and is talking at random for a purpose." In either case he is not talking for the benefit of Hamilton rate-payers.

The Ontario Medical Council has appointed a committee to discuss with committees from Manitoba and the Northwest Provinces the subject of medical reciprocity. Manitoba has already appointed a committee but British Columbia is not yet prepared to deal with the question. It is something little better than a scandal that the qualified Canadian physician of one Province should be a professional outlaw in another.

Now Whitby has been talking about the building of the transmission line. Speaking to a Toronto reporter yesterday he said that "from now on the work of construction on the transmission line will, the spendthrift municipal legislator will be stepping in here, as he has in the case of the gas undertakings and will be demanding a surplus of profit for the reduction of the rates. It cannot be too strongly emphasized that, to the manufacturer, electrical energy is a prime cost, just as much as is coal or raw materials. For the municipality to mullet him, in this matter, above rock-bottom figures will react most powerfully on the general prosperity of industrialism in the particular area!"

The Courier resents the attitude of the extortionate municipal electrician as expressed in "We don't ask the manufacturer to buy current from us"; it alleges that if he went elsewhere for it there would soon be given "an exhibition of municipal price-cutting and mutual throat-cutting practices." As a matter of fact, it says, in cases the manufacturer must buy his current from these municipally operated concerns, and it protests against him being "enlisted in high charges for the alleged but often mythical advantage of the ratepaying community as a whole."

It is only when seen imperfectly and at a great distance that municipal ownership and operation wins unqualified approval. When you come to know it as it is, you recognize it to be a very shabby idol.

AN ECONOMIC CRIME.

The Brazilian Review speaks out very plainly on the absurd protectionist proposal to burn up millions of dollars' worth of coffee, in order to keep it out of the market, and maintain prices at an artificial standard. It is indeed difficult to understand how any body of men in their senses could seriously consider such a proposition. The Review says: "From whatever point of view it is regarded the proposed destruction of 10 per cent. of the coffee crop is indefensible. Far better to leave the coffee on the trees even to cut the trees down and put them out of bearing for a while, than, after employing the whole rural population on cultivating and harvesting it, to deliberately go to work to rob humanity of its fruits of that labor by destroying its product. There is nothing, no interest, that can justify such wicked waste, nor do we believe that it can in the long run be of real benefit to anyone." The statement is in line with the attack upon bank stocks as an investment, which was thoughtlessly made by the Provincial Treasurer three weeks ago.

The Hamilton Herald is cocksure that Prof. Dicey, of Oxford, has not been properly informed of the facts regarding Whitney's legislation validating the power contracts, staying actions brought in the courts of justice, and compensating private property without compensation. Prof. Dicey has given careful study to the acts themselves. They are incurably vicious in principle. No Government that promotes and sanctions such legislation has any license to condemn theft, forgery or robbery.

The Art School Board having made so many sacrifices to maintain the facilities for art training in the city would hardly have asked the Board of Education to pay even $1,200 for the $3,000 worth of equipment to be turned over, had it not felt that it was bound to account for it to that extent. But perhaps if the school is to be carried on some arrangement may be reached whereby these effects may go as a further donation to the art cause. Of course the rights of those for whom the Board is trustee must be respected.

"Shoppell's" says that recent excavations on the site of ancient Babylon show that building houses to rent was as now an important business. Moderate-sized houses could be had at 75 cents to $3 a year, the latter having eight rooms, courtyard and access to the river. Other expenses of living were cheap in proportion. Chickens were worth 2½ cents each, and a sheep cost $1.25 to $1.50. If a girl did not get a husband herself, the State furnished one. There are those who will sigh for these good old days—for cheap house and food supplies, of course.

According to the Toronto Telegram an official, of Knox College Board of Management who describes himself as "the richest man in the congregation" of Central Presbyterian Church has refused his usual contribution to the college because he does not agree with the teaching of the institution. Needless to say, the official is right and the college is wrong. The only strange thing about it is that he should have withdrawn his pecuniary support and still held his place on the board. When he is at it he gives a few stabs at the "higher critics," always a good mark, and takes a whack at one of the Toronto Methodist churches. What right has any college or church to have views that do not suit the men with the money?

The sheath gown makes way for "the pantaloons gown," which is just now causing a sensation in New York. It is thus described: just read, girls:

It is made of light olive chiffon broad-cloth, with a train fifty-six inches in length, trimmed with French cord embroidery, embroidered, etc. Chantilly lace and black satin. Twelve dozen self colored buttons are used. It has the Directoire back, long effect. Louis XIV, front and bolero shape. Seven yards of cloth compose the whole dress.

But that is not the point. When the wearer stands still it resembles an ordinary gown; when she walks it is found to be separable above the knee and regular trousers come into view. Trousers—just trousers. They make no pretence of being anything else.

They measure thirty-six inches around the bottom and reach to the shoe soles. A seam that goes up the front of the skirt from the knees to the waist gives an all pantaloons appearance to the front of the garment.

No underskirts can be worn with this costume and the lingerie bills of those who adopt it will be a negligible quantity.

COMMEND POLICEMAN.

(Montreal Witness.)

The policeman who arrested an Italian on Craig street last Friday for driving without a license, then discovered that his prisoner was selling beer also without a license, and, in addition, carried a concealed weapon in the shape of a murderous, sharp-pointed knife, deserves special commendation.

A FAMILY TIE.

(Toronto News.)

The tie that father bought for best and wore a month or so.

Has served its time beneath the vest of brothers Jim and Joe. And now it's up to sister Sue to turn it to a bow.

For mother thinks it's nice to have our family ties, you know.

KEEPING THE PEACE.

(Montreal Herald.)

I think we must hold fast to that old-fashioned doctrine that price depends on supply and demand. In England taxes are levied on property in proportion to the amount of rent received. I saw a house in London that was not taxed because it was not rented. I discovered that the owner, being a rich man, kept his rent so high that no one would take the property. Because of this his land and house were not taxed at all.

ON BEHALF OF GEORGE STROND.

(London Canadian Gazette.)

It is well to add the admission made in the last report of the Deputy Minister of the Interior that Canada has scarcely any grounds of uneasiness on account of undesirable immigration from the United Kingdom. Dr. Bryce, the chief medical inspector, shows that only 412 British immigrants had to be turned back last year, or about one-ninth of the total exclusions, although the British arrivals last year were nearly one-half of the total immigration. Well may Dr. Bryce declare that the proportion is "singularly fortunate" in this respect. It is true that here we keep the peace without a ship or a gun. We do it with good schools, good sense, good will,

LIFE.

(Montreal Star.)

Give me a taste of life;

Not a tang of a seasoned wine;

Not the grape of an unripened vine;

The life that is really life;

But comes from no faint afar;

In the world of things as they are.

Give me that whole of life!

The joy, the hope, and the pain,

The struggle whose end is strength,

The loss that is infinite gain,

Not the drouth of a cloudless sky,

Give me the sun and the storm;

The calm and the white sea crest.

GIVE ME THE BEST OF LIFE!

To live in the world with God,

Where the seed that is sown and dies

Leads a harvest over the sod,

Where beauty and truth are one,

Where the right must have its way,

Where the storm-clouds part for stars

And the starlight heralds the day.

GIVE ME THE TOIL OF LIFE!

No idly won wealth to share,

Whether by pick or plow,

Until there comes that thought, I wis-

There's still one hotter place than

SAW WITH BARE HEADS.

Strikingly Patriotic Incident Occurs at Ticonderoga.

Governor Took Off His Hat to Man Who Started "America."

Speeches by President Taft, Jusser and Bryce.

Fort Ticonderoga, July 6.—There was a dramatic moment here this afternoon in the Champlain centenary celebration. Fully 10,000 persons were packed closely together on a sloping hillside, just below the ruins of the old Fort Ticonderoga. The Presidential party had been filling up by short addresses.

Far out in the crowd a thin small voice of a man was heard to sing the first notes of "America." The song was heard and grew faint. Just as it was about to stop a sweet contralto voice joined in. Two or three others came to the assistance of the struggling singers. Then came a loud voice: "Everybody join!"

All stood up on the grand stand and special stands and on the hillside. Hats came off and then 10,000 voices, with Governor Hughes practically leading them, sang the rest of "America." When the verse, "Our Fathers' God, to Thee," was reached, all bowed heads and there were tears in many eyes.

After the song, Governor Hughes advanced to the front of the stand and took off his hat to the man who had started the song.

Mr. Bryce and others delivered addresses.

Governor Hughes introduced the President, who said in part:

"As I sat here listening to the interesting remarks of the ambassador from France and the ambassador from England I could not but congratulate the United States on the implied compliment those two countries had paid to her by sending her as personal representatives of their respective chief executives men so distinguished in literature and history, statesmanship and administration."

He eulogized Champlain and expressed the opinion that it was well for the people to go back through the history of all nations in order that their heads, a little swelled with modern progress, may be diminished a bit, in the proper proportion of what was done by nations before and under conditions that seemed to limit the possibilities of human achievement. He paid eloquent tribute to Montcalm and Wolfe and said:

"For sixteen years it was my good fortune to go to Murray Bay in Canada for the summer. While there I learned some things. One was that while the Murray Highlanders and other soldiers of England conquered on the plains of Abraham, quite a number of these soldiers went down the St. Lawrence and were induced to settle on the French seignories, which lie 80 miles below Quebec. There were Blackburns and McConnells and Frazers and Camerons—all the Scotch names that bring back memories of the Murray Highlanders. What did they do? They had the good sense to marry French women. What happened? (laughter.) That country to-day is full of Blackburns, McConnells, Weirs, Camerons and Frazers, and they do not any of them speak a word of English."

"Gentlemen, there are other ways of conquering a people than merely by guns."

"I echo and endorse and emphasize all the sentiments of the two ambassadors and repeat their words, that never again may this fair valley be given a name in history by reason of its being the seat of bloody wars."

PRESERVING PANS

On Sale at Stanley Mills & Co., Ltd., Department Store.

Preserving pans, kettles and other necessities of that line are very much in demand these days, when the busy housewife is doing down fruit. The kitchen department of Stanley Mills & Co., Limited, carries a most complete stock to meet the needs of the preserver during the busy season. A perusal of this evening's store news will convince you of a few good bargains.

BOYCOTT HURTS JAPAN.

Persistence of South China Highly injurious to Trade.

Tokyo, July 6.—Japanese trade and navigation are suffering heavily by the South China boycott, which is persisting. The Asahi estimates the annual loss to the country at many millions. It declares that the boycott forced Japan to yield in the Tatsu Island dispute. China, it goes on, is not yet satisfied and demands the withdrawal of the claim for $200,000 for the Tatsu Islands.

Consul Samson at Hong Kong, who recently returned, urges that Japan yield. He submitted a startling table showing the decline of trade in all lines.

Japan is unwilling to yield, deeming that such a breakdown would be derogatory to her prestige.

INTELLIGENT READERS.

Library Expert Finds Very Low Average in United States.

Montreal, July 6.—"Scarcely three out of every thousand can be classed as intelligent readers," was the remarkable statement brought back to-day by Mr. Charles H. Gould, librarian at McGill University, on his return from the sessions of the American Library Association. This statement was made by Mr. J. C. Dana at one of the sessions of the association. He then proceeded to show that out of eighty-four million people in the United States less than 300,000 read magazines like Harper's, and most of these confined their reading to the illustrated articles. Mr. Gould thinks that Canada would make a somewhat better showing, but there is room here for more and better reading.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, petitioner in the West Peterboro' election protest, refused to submit to examination for discovery and the question will be decided by the High Court at Osgoode Hall.

Sciatica EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY.

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by "Nerviline."

We have all read and heard of the agonies of Sciatica, but only those who have been tortured by this dread malady can fully appreciate what it must mean to be cured after years of suffering.

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold and exposure brought on sciatica which affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended 'Nerviline.' I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day, and got relief. In order to build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, one tablet with each meal. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

Select tender, fresh beans; string and wash them. They may be cut in lengthwise pieces, short crosswise pieces or left whole. Have water boiling in a kettle over the fire with salt, and boil rapidly 20 minutes. Have jars sterilizing. Drain the beans and pack neatly into the jars and cover with boiling water. Lay the cover on loosely and set in the steam cooker or a kettle of boiling water and boil for one hour if in the kettle; three-quarters of an hour if in the steamer. Lift carefully, fasten on the cover, but put back to cook one-half the time required for the first cooking.

How to Can Vegetables.

(By Alice Gitchell Kirk, Writer and Lecturer on Domestic Economy.)

The canning of vegetables is a very simple process, if the one who has the work to do, or directs it does, understands the real meaning of sterilization. The word is cleanliness—surgical cleanliness—and the vegetables should be perfectly fresh.

Foods that ferment have in them some form of plant or animal life. Vegetables containing sugar, such as corn, beets and peas, are the most difficult to keep, while acid vegetables are most easily kept, providing sugar is not used.

To have perfect success, as in the canning of fruits, can in small amounts; do not make hard work of it, and follow accurately directions given.

STRING BEANS.

Select tender, fresh beans; string and wash them. They may be cut in lengthwise pieces, short crosswise pieces or left whole. Have water boiling in a kettle over the fire with salt, and boil rapidly 20 minutes. Have jars sterilizing. Drain the beans and pack neatly into the jars and cover with boiling water. Lay the cover on loosely and set in the steam cooker or a kettle of boiling water and boil for one hour if in the kettle; three-quarters of an hour if in the steamer. Lift carefully, fasten on the cover, but put back to cook one-half the time required for the first cooking.

STEAM-COOKED VEGETABLES.

Vegetables cooked under pressure of steam are very much finer in flavor and with much less loss in nutrient. Something is lost in boiling. Most of the boiled vegetable cooking is tasteless, unctuous, soggy and indigestible; all this is changed with steam cooking. Remember the art of cooking vegetables largely producing flavors which create a wholesome appetite and please the taste, and of so preparing the different foods that the right changes take place in them. To hot a fire frequently destroys results most desired. One great trouble with American cooking to-day is the extreme haste with which it is done, and my one plea is for better cooked vegetables; much of it, as done by most housekeepers, upsets the true definition of cooking.

MRS. KIRK READY TO GIVE A COOKING LESSON.

comes down like a plummet—cuts away when five hundred feet up and parachute fails to work.

Portland, Me., July 7.—Mistaking the promiscuous firing of revolvers by the crowd below as a signal for the climax of his aerial act, James Corcoran, an aeronaut, twenty-eight years old, of Lowell, Mass., cut away with his parachute jumps. Shortly after four o'clock the earth at the Fourth of July celebration here yesterday, and was dashed to the ground, meeting almost instant death at the feet of five thousand horrified spectators.

Corcoran was employed by Professor Joseph Laroux, of this city, with whom the municipal authorities had contracted for two balloon ascensions and parachute jumps. Shortly after four o'clock Corcoran had his arrangements all complete for ascending from the eastern promenade. Three parachutes were attached to the hot air balloon for a triple jump by the aeronaut. As is customary, it was arranged that Corcoran should drop with his parachutes when he heard a certain number of revolver shots from Professor Laroux on the ground, the latter to give the signal when the balloon should have reached a height sufficient to make the triple jumps possible.

Corcoran barely had left the ground before promiscuous firing of revolvers began, but Professor Laroux called out to him to keep on up. Above a few hundred feet it is hard for an aeronaut to judge correctly his exact height, as he swings on the bar and so, when Corcoran heard a second fusilade of shots, it is believed he was certain the signal had come for him to cut away in the parachute, for he was seen to drop from the balloon, although he was barely 500 feet in the air.

The distance was too short for the parachute dropped like a plummet, gaining speed as he neared the earth. He struck the ground on the site of a proposed monument to the late Thomas B. Reed, about one thousand feet from where the ascension was made.

Corcoran was still alive when his body was picked up, but unconscious.

It was found that he had sustained a fracture of the right leg and other injuries, from which he died in a short time. He was married and leaves a widow and one child.

TRINITY.

Fine Attendance at the Lutheran League Meeting.

The largest attendance in the history of Trinity Luther League was had last evening at the monthly meeting, which filled the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Paulsen, 301 Wilson street, at a very interesting session. Three new members were received; H. Slumkoski in the chair. Charles Duncert was elected secretary and Ernest Beckman, treasurer, to fill the vacancies for the ensuing term. Mr. Utterbeck was appointed to represent the league as spokesman at the welcome reception to the pastor-elect, the Rev. J. A. Miller, during the last week in August. The Misses Miller, Slumkoski and Paulsen rendered piano solos and duets, and the Misses North sang with guitar and mandolin accompaniment. Fred Utterbeck recited. The next meeting will be held on August 3, at the home of Miss Burton, 60 Tisdale street.

WELCOMED NEW PASTOR.

Reception For Rev. Charles Burrell at Barton Baptist.

Erection of a New Building Was Much Discussed.

Enthusiasm Among the People Speaks Well For Future.

The members of the Barton Street Baptist Church turned out in large numbers last night to the reception to the new pastor, Rev. Charles Burrell, who preached for the first time last Sunday and made a favorable impression.

It will be remembered that Mr. Burrell preached in a number of the churches in this city during the past year, and one of the churches was Barton Street Baptist. He created such a favorable impression there that when Rev. Mr. Brown resigned, Mr. Burrell was unanimously called. His reception last night was a very hearty one, the members doing their utmost to make him feel at home.

The ladies had charge of the arrangements, and acquitted themselves well. The church was tastily decorated with roses, ferns and other flowers.

Mr. F. McLean acted as chairman.

Mr. E. Henderson, a deacon of the church, gave the address of welcome, and said he thought the church had secured the right man, who believed the Bible from cover to cover. He had heard that Mr. Burrell was a good man for church building, and was fully confident that his reputation would be fully sustained.

The unanimity of spirit shown in the past by the different organizations of the church and by the members toward the new pastor could not fail to be continued and under the careful guidance of Mr. Burrell the church would be bound to advance. As it has not had a regular pastor for the past few weeks, and Mr. Burrell had now taken charge, new spirit would be added and the work would be pursued with more diligence.

Mr. R. Kemp, in giving the address for the Board of Managers, said that before the pastor had always received the hearty co-operation of the congregation, and he looked forward to a closer work, if it were possible, in the future.

Will Start Sharp at 9 o'clock a. m. on Thursday July 8th, 1909

The greatest annual merchandising event in Hamilton are the Shea summer clearing sales, an event planned for weeks ahead. Every department stirred with enthusiasm to make it the greatest sale in the history of this busy store. Extraordinary values will be offered, for our policy is to clear summer goods in summer time. Enormous purchases from manufacturers have been made at unheard-of prices and will be offered at sweeping reductions to help swell the tide of business for the next 40 days. Shop as early as possible for this store will close at 5 o'clock during July and August.

CAPE BRETON MINERS' STRIKE.

Company Claim Two-Thirds of the Men Are Working.

Mr. Bousfield Says Over Four Thousand Are Out.

Tried to Prevent P. W. A. Men From Going to Work.

Halifax, July 6.—The general impression in connection with the strike of the U. M. W. A. members in the Cape Breton collieries to-day is that the result is a triumph for the Dominion Coal Company. The predictions made by leading U. M. W. A. officials as to the strength of their organization gave the public the impression that when the strike occurred the collieries of the Coal Company would be practically closed down. A great surprise was sprung to-day when, in response to the call of the Executive of the U. M. W. A. upon its members to strike, only about half the men employed in the collieries responded, excepting possibly the Dominion Nos. 2 and 8, where 1,800 employees went out on strike, leaving only about 180 to 200 men to operate the big collieries, which, though short-handed, are running to-day.

No. 2 colliery was the centre of attraction this morning. About five hundred strikers crowded about the gates and all along the fences as pickets, but no efforts were made to stop the men who appeared for work, except calling them a few names, such as "scab," etc. A full force of special constables and the Coal Company's police were on the scene, and quickly dealt with the offenders, and few disorders were noticed.

The only incident of note occurred at this gate, when several of the strikers endeavoured to prevent a man from going to work, and Daniel McKenzie, surface foreman, and the special officer called upon the men to leave him alone. The strikers turned upon McKenzie, and struck him in the face, breaking his glasses and injuring his eyes. The affair passed off quietly, and no arrests were made during the entire day.

Major Douglas replied that the town would take every possible precaution to insure the observance of law and order among the men at the collieries, and that the town would appoint a sufficient force of special police at once.

The Mayor later addressed the assembled men, numbering 2,000, outside the colliery fence, and asked them to do all in their power to assist the authorities and officers of the law in the preservation of the peace of the community, and to prevent the destruction of the company's property and loss of life. The remarks of the Mayor were received with cheers by the men.

The situation would appear to be much improved this evening, though it is impossible to state just what may occur at a moment's notice.

U. M. W. officials anticipate a large number of new members joining their forces to-morrow and remaining out on strike, while the P. W. A. are just as confident that there will be a larger number of men at their places to-morrow than there were to-day.

It was estimated that 1,500 men turned out at all the collieries.

Mr. J. K. L. ROSS INTERVIEWED.

Mr. J. K. L. Ross, interviewed on the situation at 5 o'clock, said: "All our mine managers are well pleased with the conditions. To-day's output has been two-thirds of normal, counting all the active collieries. This is good, as some of the men are working in new places. The only mine idle is No. 6, and that we will make no attempt to operate, as its coal is not needed. At No. 1 all the men are at work; at No. 2, forty per cent; at Nos. 3, 4 and 10, one-half of the force is at work. At Nos. 7, 8 and 9, forty per cent are at work. At Nos. 5, 12 and 14, all the men are at work. On the whole, therefore, matters are much better than we expected, and we have no difficulty in mining all the coal required to meet the balance of the season's shipments."

The following statement was made by Mr. H. M. Bousfield, international board member of the U. M. W. A.: "The total number of all classes of labor that went to work this morning was 1,007 out of a total number of 5,280 employed by the company, and a large number of those 1,007 have since come out of the mines and returned to their homes. This does not include Nos. 12 and 14, Waterford Colliery No. 7, Hub, is totally tied up. We are all fairly well gratified with the results so far, and by to-morrow expect to have all of the company's collieries completely tied up."

TOBACCO STOLEN.

Daring Theft at Guelph—Private John Green Arrested.

Guelph, July 6.—From the door of the Police Court a case of tobacco and cigars was stolen on Saturday night and a private of the 30th Regiment was last evening placed under arrest on this charge. He gave his name as John Green. The case of tobacco and cigars was valued at $35, and contained the over supply of the regimental canteen at the Elora camp. They had been seized by Captain Head, and when the soldiers returned on Saturday evening the case was left on the sidewalk, just at the Police Court door, while the other paraphernalia of the camp was stored under the City Hall. Green, or New, which is believed to be his correct name, was remanded on the charge. Several plugs of Shamrock tobacco, the same as that in the case stolen, were found on his person.

BRAITAIN'S NEW AIRSHIP.

Company Being Formed to Operate the Patents.

London, July 7.—The Daily News quotes Dr. Boyd, who is the inventor and builder of the new English airship which has been making flights at night, as saying that a millionaire director of one of the principal railroad companies and other very wealthy men are interesting themselves in forming a private company with a capital of $250,000 to operate the patents which are being taken out in connection with his airship.

Dr. Boyd hopes to begin daylight trials of the machine about a month hence. He refuses as yet to reveal the whereabouts of the ship.

The other London newspapers, with one minor exception, ignore the accounts of the airship, so far.

BRUTAL SPORT.

Cocking Main Held at Ottawa on Sunday Morning.

Ottawa, July 6.—Within sight of the Parliament buildings, just outside the city limits of Hull, a cocking main took place on Sunday, in the presence of several hundred people from Ottawa and Hull. It is stated that no fewer than fifty rounds were fought, and the affair had all the brutal characteristics of the barbaric sport. Little secrecy is said to have been maintained in respect to the Sunday entertainment provided for the local sportsmen, and the affair was held in the open air. It is further stated that a similar cock fight was held four weeks ago last Sunday on the Chelsea road, not far from Hull, in a field owned, it is alleged, by a justice of the peace. The police authorities disclaim knowledge of these two open and flagrant violations of the law.

Indigestion
Dyspepsia Means Slow Starvation.

Let Those Who Have Experimented With Doubtful Remedies Turn To-day to

Dr. Hamilton's Pills

And be Cured Quickly. By the testimony of actual cures—the words of those who have proved the merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, you can satisfy yourself that indigestion and dyspepsia are curable.

"Four years ago I got into a condition of low health suffered all possible torture with acute indigestion, wind and stomach and dizzy headaches. The very smell of food often was sufficient to make me violently ill. Energy was gradually fading away, I no longer had any desire for work or for the company of other people and was in the depths of despair. Worse martyrdom brain and body could not suffer, and live. I used so many remedies without success that I was in poor hopes of getting relief when I started on Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In a month I noticed a slight improvement, and kept right on using one pill every second night. In a month I was at home again, looked ruddy, strong, healthy, and I felt as if I had been made anew. Four years have gone by and I still rely on Dr. Hamilton's Pills and attribute to their power my present condition of robust health.

CURED 4 YEARS

(Signed) H. P. ECKFORD.

Rodney P. O.

He advised, and test Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which for years have been the standard remedy for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Heartburn, Constipation, Flatulence, Headache, Backache, and all kidney, liver and bladder troubles. These diseases are all thoroughly cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box or five for $1.00, at all dealers or the Canadian Zone Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Mayor later addressed the assembled men, numbering 2,000, outside the colliery fence, and asked them to do all in their power to assist the authorities and officers of the law in the preservation of the peace of the community, and to prevent the destruction of the company's property and loss of life. Roy Purdy, Who Disappeared From Harrowsmith, Killed at Oklahoma.

Kingston, July 6.—Word has been received from Oklahoma that Roy Purdy, formerly clerk in the Harrowsmith branch of the Metropolitan Bank, who disappeared with the bank's funds over a year ago, was shot while riding in a freight car with seven other men. He was travelling under the name of Roy Purdy, went to the hospital and died last week. The remains will probably be sent to his parents in Harrowsmith. The unfortunate young man's father made good the money his erring son took.

MAY REMAIN DEAD LETTER.

Declaration on Naval Warfare Not to Come Up Now.

London, July 6.—The Standard publishes a report that the Government has decided to postpone indefinitely Parliamentary discussion on and ratification of the declaration made in London on Feb. 26, embodying decisions of the Naval Conference. The Standard says that it may therefore be concluded that the agreement will remain a dead letter.

The Naval Conference concluded its sittings on Feb. 26, and a declaration was signed, consisting of 71 articles, containing a large number of generally recognized rules of naval warfare. This declaration was made public on March 21, and the principles enunciated were to act as a guide for the international arbitration court to be established at The Hague.

The men were killed on Tuesday by an explosion of gas in the mine of the Cedar Hill Coal & Coke Company at Tollerville, near here. All of the dead were foreigners except one man.

FOOLISH GIRL.

PITTSBURG SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER FOUND IN DIVE.

Celestial Admirer Arrested on a Serious Charge—Chinese Adepts in Art of Love-making — Another Teacher Waiting for Bracelet.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 6.—Sarah Crew, a teacher in a Chinese Sunday school connected with the Second Presbyterian Church, to-day was sent to the House of the Good Shepherd, to be held as a witness against Lee Fuk, keeper of a Chinese dive, and a pupil of the young woman. The youthful teacher of the Chinese was arrested in his half-restaurant and half-dive last Saturday, but the preliminary hearing was not held until this morning. When Lee Fuk was arraigned the girl was asked to testify against him.

She broke into tears, declaring that the Chinese always had treated her kindly, had given her presents, and that she had no desire to be instrumental in sending him to the penitentiary. After much questioning Miss Crew acknowledged that she first became enamored of Lee Fuk while teaching him the Ten Commandments. Each Sunday Lee would bring her some little present, varying from a fan to a bottle of Chinese wine. He always treated her with the greatest courtesy, she said, and finally requested her to call at his alleged restaurant.

Akinetis who have watched the girl on the witness stand say she has imagined the entire story she told. They say she has read some such story, and that it has fixed itself upon her mind until she firmly believes the events actually happened.

The State will put these alibists upon the stand, and attempt to prove that the girl is a victim of hallucinations.

The State also has secured a number of letters from people in Canada for whom the Gingle girl worked when she first arrived from Europe, and it is said these letters declare she is not to be believed.

The defence will object to going into the story of alleged torture in the bathroom of the Wellington Hotel, which is alleged to have taken place six weeks after the girl says she was first attacked.

She has since repudiated the bathroom story, in which she said she had been blinded by pepper on the street, thrown into a car and taken to the hotel, where she was cut, beaten, and finally gagged and tied to a bath tub.

Later she revised the story, setting it six weeks ahead and telling that she was lured to a room in the hotel and held by two women.

Beyond pointing a finger for Miss Gingle's departure from Ireland or England or wherever her home might have been, the Canadian letters leave little doubt as to her reason for going to Canada in November, 1907.

The name of Tom Taggart, of French Lick Spring, Indiana, former Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was brought into the record of the Gingle trial here to-day.

Ald. Nault believed such was the case, though he did not know the whole facts of the judgment.

Regarding Dr. Lafleur, all that Ald. Nault would say was that he did not remember receiving $300 from him.

MAY REMAIN DEAD LETTER.

Declaration on Naval Warfare Not to Come Up Now.

London, July 6.—The Standard publishes a report that the Government has decided to postpone indefinitely Parliamentary discussion on and ratification of the declaration made in London on Feb. 26, embodying decisions of the Naval Conference. The Standard says that it may therefore be concluded that the agreement will remain a dead letter.

The Naval Conference concluded its sittings on Feb. 26, and a declaration was signed, consisting of 71 articles, containing a large number of generally recognized rules of naval warfare. This declaration was made public on March 21, and the principles enunciated were to act as a guide for the international arbitration court to be established at The Hague.

LONDON WOOL SALES.

London—The third series of wool auction sales was opened to-day before a large number of buyers, including Americans. Owing to the poor, miscellaneous offerings the prices realized were hardly a fair test of the market. Good wools were unchanged, but faulty stock declined 5 per cent., and Punta Arenas was from 5 to 10 per cent. lower. Home and French spinners were the principal buyers. A few lots of lustrous crosses were taken for American. The offerings amounted to 11,511 bales, and the sales were as follows: New South Wales, 900 bales; scoured, 914d to 914d; greasy, 82d to 101d. West Australia, 200 bales; greasy, 71d to 1d. Tasmania, 100 bales; greasy, 9d to 1d. New Zealand, 6,400 bales; scoured, 1d to 1d; greasy, 61d to 1d. Cape of Good Hope, and Natal, 400 bales; scoured, 11-14d. Punta Arenas, 3,200 bales; greasy, 84d to 1d.

COBALT STOCKS.

The mining market in Toronto was fairly active yesterday, Nova Scotia being the leading trader, opening at 47-1/2c and closing at 50 1/4c. Further reports of rich strikes on the property were largely responsible for the interest exhibited in this issue. Temiskaming was dealt in at 87c and 88c, closing at 88c. La Rose held its advance well and the other active shares moved with narrow margins.

Western Homeselling With a Brass Band.

Prairie schooners carrying five German farmers and their families from Oklahoma, eighteen in all, have just arrived overland in Logan, in the eastern part of the territory, to settle in the surrounding farming country. The caravan of schooners was accompanied by twenty head of horses and the first schooner carried a big German band of eighteen pieces, the martial strains of "Die Wacht am Rhein" heralding the advent of the homesellers. —Albuquerque Correspondence Denver Republic.

A CRY FOR HELP.

Missouri Town of Pattonsburg 10 Feet Under Water.

Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—Pattonsburg, Missouri, a town of 1,500 inhabitants, sixty miles north of here, is ten feet under water, and Chief of Police Snow, of Kansas City, to-day received a telegram appealing for boats to rescue the marooned citizens, many of whom had been driven to the roofs of their houses. At 9 o'clock this morning a special Wahab train, carrying fifty row boats, in charge of a detachment of officers, was sent to aid in the rescue work.

According to a telephone message from Pattonsburg, the waters were still rising, and rain was falling, adding to the discomfort of the sufferers. Three houses torn away by the flood float in the streams. The fate of the occupants was UNKNOWN.

REMOVED TO HIGH GROUND.

St. Charles, La., July 7.—Boats sent in nearby towns began arriving at Pattonsburg before noon, and all persons occupying dangerous positions were removed to high ground.

ROME AS A HEALTH RESORT.

Lies Between Sea and Mountains—Has Wiped Out Roman Fever.

Two important facts are almost always lost sight of in looking at Rome from a hygienic and climatic point of view, writes the Roman correspondent of the Medical Record. These are the sea and the mountains. Rome is really a seaport, although the Tiber is not freely navigable to all vessels. The distance to the mouth of the river is a short fifteen miles, while an air line from the city to the sea reduces the distance greatly.

About the same distance on the other sides are the Sabine Hills, Mount Soracte, the Albæ Hills, and further north the spurs of the Apennines, the city itself being about 200 feet above sea level. There is not a better watered city in the world and few are well watered, with its excellent drinking water and copious fountains in every piazza or open space. Nor is there a city that affords purer air, as might be expected from the topographical situation.

The winter climate is cold enough to make indoor fires comfortable, and we always have a stretch of about six weeks of unbroken cloudless weather in December and January—just crisp enough to be invigorating. The temperature of the summer months averages about 85 degrees. For bronchial affections in all their forms and manifestations a winter in Rome is usually very beneficial, and you can be assured of finding cooler all through the summer than in either New York or Boston.

The municipality evidently favors open air, whether for prophylaxis or treatment, and realizing how many cases of incipient phthisis or those predisposed to it may be thus cured or benefited has established hospitals in the hills for the climatic treatment and recreation of children during the summer months. Those hospitals are entirely gratuitous, the only requisites for admission being that the child must be between 7 and 12 years of age and must have an attestation of poverty and a physician's certificate of vaccination.

Roman fever, so called, no longer exists.

It was really a malarial fever with every now and then a malignant case. Since the Campagna has been drained and cultivated, and old portions of the city where fevers of this nature were more frequent occurrences have been demolished and new buildings with modern improvements put up, no one ever hears of Roman fever.

To find malaria you must go further nowadays to the district known as the Agro Romano, which is to the south of the Alban Hills and toward the sea, where are the famous and deadly Pontine marshes. Even there by means of draining the marshes and planting eucalyptus trees, the percentage of cases of malarial fever among the inhabitants is rapidly and constantly diminishing.

It is noticeable that employees of the customs, railway employees, and others who live in these districts and who have the doors and windows of their cabins closely screened with a very fine wire gauge, through which it is impossible for mosquitoes to pass, remain exempt from malarial fever, which is, however, prevalent among those who have not their doors and windows thus protected.

WEALTHY POETS.

Tennyson and Browning Left Valuable Estates—Victor Hugo's Property.

That poetry is not so badly paid after all is proved by Mr. Algernon Charles Swinburne's will, the probate of which was recently granted in London. His estate has been valued by the sole executor, Mr. Walter Theodore Watts-Dunton, at £24,282 gross, including personal effects to the value of £19,996. The whole of the property has been left to Mr. Watts-Dunton.

Tennyson left £5,208. He appointed his son his literary executor and bequeathed to him all his manuscripts, literature works and copyrights, subject to the payment of the income therefrom to Lady Tennyson for her life. Lord Tennyson's estate of Aldworth, the Farrington estate, the manor of Priors and the rest of his real estate were put under trustees for Lady Tennyson for her life. The copyrights of the late poet laureate's works were valuable, and Tennyson was paid by the publishers handsome sums for his poems.

Rober Browning, of whose will A. Tennyson and F. T. Palgrave were the attesting witnesses, left personally in England of the value of £16,775. The will was in Browning's own handwriting, with the initial letters of all the nouns substantive in capitals, after the old style.

Victor Hugo, who, like Lord Tennyson, attained the age of 83 years, had a personal estate in this country to the amount of £92,126. Dr. Charles May's property was valued at £25,657.

Matthew Arnold's estate amounted to £1,041. His will is one of the shortest he ever made, having come under probate. It was: "I leave everything of which I die possessed to my wife, Frances Lucy." Mr. Frederic Locker-Lampson left £30,419. Mr. Coventry Patmore £7,777 and Mr. William Morris, who died in 1896, £5,069. In the last named case, however, it is tolerably certain that poetry did not contribute a very large share of the total. Tit-Bits.

Gossip and Comment

Martin Sheridan lost 21 pounds weight during the two hours and a half in which he won the all around national championship at the Scottish Clans games, Celtic Park, Monday, according to a story published here in a N. Y. paper. The Irish-American athletic club's champion weighed 205 pounds at the start of the 100 yards dash, the first event in the grueling contest. He weighed 184 pounds immediately after he revived after staggering over the line in the mile run. It is almost incredible that Sheridan burned up and sweat out 21 pounds of his fatty and other tissues in 150 minutes while rolling up 735 points and beating his own record for the all-round championship by 255 points.

But it is remarkable that in five hours Sheridan regained ten pounds of the 21 pounds he lost. And, although he is usually a tremendous eater, he had had only a small meal, for he did not feel well and had drunk only two glasses of beer. At 10 o'clock last night he weighed 203 pounds after a good dinner.

The New York Graphic says, in its H. J. C. meet report:

"Billy Buckingham is a great favorite with everyone and has a big store at the track with G. S. Canfield."

"Will Shields, who lives at the Burlington Beach Hotel on the lake, requested the proprietor to put a bath tub in his apartment, which request was complied with. On Shields' return to the hotel the same evening he discovered an infant tub nicely arranged in his apartment. Calling the proprietor, Shields said, "I can buy all the finger bowls I want at the five and ten cent store."

"More Bowery and Second Avenue mice are here this year than ever. The metropolitan tracks will certainly not miss them as they are worse pests than Jersey mosquitoes and their continuous squalling is obnoxious to the few white men who are forced to be near them."

When a horse owner rejects with a laugh an offer of $12,000 for a two-year-old filly, it's a good indication that the turf is convalescing rapidly.

That's what Woodward Clay, the young Kentuckian, did a few days ago in New York, when George Odom offered that sum for Ocean Bound, the big daughter of Star Shoot-Flying Ship, that was the 1 to 5 favorite for the Astoria stake, worth $1,200 net.

That Clay made no mistake in refusing the bid most trainers agreed when they saw Ocean Bound romp the five-furlong course in 1:01 and beat Greenvale, one of the best fillies of the season, by five lengths.

In the halcyon days of United States racing, when the average attendance at the New York tracks hovered around 10,000, and on the big days approached the 50,000 mark, it was rather unusual to offer $12,000 for a two-year-old filly.

The statement that Joe Gans was the hardest puncher the prize ring ever knew is interesting when one remembers that Bob Fitzsimmons, John L. Sullivan, Peter Maher and six or seven others also were the hardest punchers.

The management of Hanlan's Point has pulled off another great success in the way of an amusement enterprise. Negotiations were concluded last night for the appearance there of James J. Jeffries, champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, and his sparring partner, Sam Berger. The engagement is for next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only. They will give exhibitions of boxing and bag punching both afternoon and evening on those days.

From the New York Telegraph: Every now and then we have presented to us the preacher as a spectacle. His roles are varied, but the favorite is the vice inspector. He shucks off his clerical garb, climbs into more sportive vestments and goes down among 'em. The painted women, the dive saloon, the gambling joint—he doesn't miss one in his rounds. The latest one is some vice inspector, the Rev. Dr. Will W. Carlton, a divine of Mason City, Iowa, who hit upon a brand new way to see the town and keep his skirts immaculate. He decided he would be police chief. After thunders from the pulpit had goaded a weak-kneed Mayor into taking a dare he was permitted to be a police chief for thirty-six hours. The good doctor hiked him first to the race-track, where he had the fun of seeing the great horse-racing contests of the year. Then he made a round of the girls' bars and, in a manner almost knowing headed for the den district. He went into the brothels and the gambling halls and had a perfect spot of time.

As a next result of his thirty-six hours of doing the town in grand old style he arrested three persons and none of them for any very serious offenses. But he had that good time and learned a great deal which will serve as food for sermons innumerable. The palm must be handed the good Dr. Carlton. He has inventive genius that puts his brethren of the cloth to the blush. He went the journey in a policeman's uniform and clothed with authority. He played it safe. The sanctified applauded, the politicians admired and the half-world's wits men had a treat.

SELLING WAR AT ERIE.

Two Horses "Boosted" There Yesterday.

Rochester Defeated the Torontos Yesterday.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 7.—The surprising feature at Fort Erie yesterday afternoon was the attendance. While there was a big falling off from the banner crowd of yesterday, still the number of people that turned out to witness the sport exceeded by far the expectations of the management. The 2,000 regulars that have been following the Canadian circuit this spring were increased by the arrival of the Latonia delegation, who got in this morning from Cincinnati.

Speculation was brisk, and a majority of the events keenly contested. There were no stakes features on the programme, the conditions in most of the races calling for selling allowances.

The best contest of the afternoon came with the running of the fourth race, in which some of the best milers at the track went to the post. The race was keenly contested all the way, and not until the last sixteenth did Cave Adams leap up as a dangerous factor. The pace throughout was very fast, the first mile being run in 1:38 3/5 and the last mile and 70 yards in 1:43.

What promised to develop into a lively selling race was started yesterday, when Guy Gray, son of Uncle Jimmy Gray, boosted Bob R., winner of the two-year-old race, $500 over his entered selling price. H. E. Gray also tilted Vesme $400 over her entered price. Both horses were prodded by their owners and bought in at the usual advance of $5.

J. J. Walsh has sold Dredger to Mode Nicl, and the horse ran in Nicl's name yesterday. He was fourth after running in second place most of the way. The colors of L. A. Cella were victorious twice.

Frank McCabe arrived from New York yesterday with Ragman and Querter. He will finish out the season on the Canadian circuit. Robert Tucker got in Louisville this morning. He will stop over in Fort Erie until the opening of the meeting at Saratoga.

Jockey Brannon was an arrival from Latonia. The delegation that got in from Cincinnati this morning numbered close to 300. Among the prominent ones were Johnny Fay, W. O. Walsh, Harry Lauderdale and Fred Meller.

Second race—Four-year-olds and up; handicap steeplechase; short course—D. Hallack, Salam, Detroit, Rounder, Don Diaz, Pukka, Collis, Armsby and Jack Dennerall also ran.

Third race—Three-year-olds and up; six furlongs—Arionette, 95 (Cross), 6 to 1, 2 to 1 and even; 1; Anne McGee, 100 (McIntyre), 7 to 2, 6 to 5 and 3 to 5; Oserine, 100 (Whiting), 7 to 5, 3 to 5 and out, 3; Time—1:24 2 1/2. Fair Annie, Chalice, Aunt Kate, Lady Chilton, Mexican Girl, Mary Candamela and Ida Rock also ran.

Fourth race—Three-year-olds and up; one mile and 50 yards—Cave Adams, 109 (Rice), 11 to 10, 2 to 5 and 1 to 1; John A., 108 (Brooks), 10 to 1, 3 to 1 and even; 2; Gretna, Green, 110 (Musgrave), 16 to 1, 6 to 1 and 2 to 1; Time—1:43 2 1/2. Siskin, Lady Esther and The Minks also ran.

Fifth race—Three-year-olds and up; six furlongs—Posing, 106 (Kennedy), 7 to 2, 6 to 5 and 1 to 2; May Cell, 109 (Robinson), 6 to 2, 1 to 2, 1 to 1; Grand Dame, 105 (Howard), 5 to 2; Granda, 100 (Howard), 5 to 2; Time—1:43 2 1/2. Mrs. Gilt, Serenade, Gwendolyn F., Lady Oriana, Pert, Aphrodite, and Little Minnie also ran.

Sixth race—Three-year-olds and up; one mile and a furlong—Console, 91 (Reid), 13 to 10, 2 to 5 and 1 to 1; Cruche d'Or, 105 (Musgrave), 13 to 5, 4 to 5 and 2 to 6; Belle Scott, 101 (Davidson), 13 to 2, 4 to 3 and 7 to 20; Time—1:43 2 1/2. Green Jubilee, Dunvegan, Donut, Dodger and Imboden also ran.

Seventh race—Three-year-olds and up; one mile and a furlong—Venus, 103 (Davidson), 15 to 1, 5 to 1 and 5 to 2; 1; Dispute, 94 (Ross), 100 (Musgrave), 15 to 6 to 1 and 5 to 2, Time—1:43 2 1/2. Baldur, Billy Pullman, Molesey, Minot, King of Mist and Oberon also ran.

STAMINA WAS SECOND.

Notttingham, July 7.—The St. Albans' Handicap Plate of 300 sovereigns, which failed in the Canadian Derby, may, it is said, go to New York to-day to take part in the Realization. In this connection the Morning Telegraph yesterday said:

A couple of weeks ago John Greener, of Notttingham, said that he would try Olambala, winner of the Latonia trophy, in the Derby at Fort Erie, and if he made good he would bring the Ormus colt to New York for the Lawrence Realization. Unless Olambala had a good excuse for his defeat yesterday, it is improbable that he will come down. He fetched up fifth in the Derby, Pinte, Michael Angela and Simeon heating him out.

The news of the defeat of Olambala, who is bred on lines similar to those of Oiseau, an Ormus colt Mr. Greener sold to James Buchanan Brady for $30,000 three years ago, caused much disappointment yesterday among eastern horsemen. Walter O. Farmer and other horsemen had pronounced Olambala a first-rate three-year-old, and eastern turf folk were hoping that their judgment was not in error, because another good horse or so would add greatly to the attractiveness of the oldest and most famous of Sheephead Bay specials. Pinte, the winner of the Fort Erie Derby, does not happen to be in the Realization. Neither is Michael Angelo; neither is Simeon.

Detective, the Medller colt, Charles Boyle brought down from Canada to start in the Realization, who created something of a stir at Sheephead Bay on Saturday by working a mile and a half in 2:32 and a mile and five furlongs in 2:47 2/5, has not done anything since. He did not need to. It would be better for him perhaps if he had not galloped that mile and a half in 2:32. However, if Charles Boyle does not ask him to do too much this week, he may get to the post fit.

Matt Allen, the man from whom Mr. Boyle purchased Detective, said yesterday that he got $2,500 for the son of Medller and Admiration. Mr. Allen would not have sold the colt if the racing horizon had not looked equally at the time Mr. Boyle made the offer for Detective. Mr. Allen thought he was keeping a better three-year-old in District Attorney, a son of Medller and Last Love, but as already related in these columns, District Attorney unexpectedly turned roarer on the veteran trainer of Tennessee. Nor is this mishap the sum of Mr. Allen's hard luck this season. His fine Knight of the Thistle colt Merry Knight, of which he expected almost as much as he did of District Attorney, has spread a foot. Mr. Allen does not know when he will get Merry Knight to the post again. The Knight of the Thistle who was training for the Realization when he hurt his foot.

TROTTING AT LONDON.

London, July 7.—The London races opened yesterday afternoon in Queen's Park, where a large crowd eagerly watched the results of the different events. The weather was perfect, and the track was in fair condition. During the whole of the afternoon not a complaint about either the day or the accommodation was made.

In the trotting to develop into a lively selling race was started yesterday, when Guy Gray, son of Uncle Jimmy Gray, boosted Bob R., winner of the two-year-old race, $500 over his entered selling price. H. E. Gray also tilted Vesme $400 over her entered price. Both horses were prodded by their owners and bought in at the usual advance of $5.

J. J. Walsh has sold Dredger to Mode Nicl, and the horse ran in Nicl's name yesterday. He was fourth after running in second place most of the way. The colors of L. A. Cella were victorious twice.

Frank McCabe arrived from New York yesterday with Ragman and Querter. He will finish out the season on the Canadian circuit. Robert Tucker got in Louisville this morning. He will stop over in Fort Erie until the opening of the meeting at Saratoga.

Jockey Brannon was an arrival from Latonia. The delegation that got in from Cincinnati this morning numbered close to 300. Among the prominent ones were Johnny Fay, W. O. Walsh, Harry Lauderdale and Fred Meller.

STAMINA WAS SECOND.

Notttingham, July 7.—The St. Albans' Handicap Plate of 300 sovereigns, which failed in the Canadian Derby, may, it is said, go to New York to-day to take part in the Realization. In this connection the Morning Telegraph yesterday said:

A couple of weeks ago John Greener, of Notttingham, said that he would try Olambala, winner of the Latonia trophy, in the Derby at Fort Erie, and if he made good he would bring the Ormus colt to New York for the Lawrence Realization. Unless Olambala had a good excuse for his defeat yesterday, it is improbable that he will come down. He fetched up fifth in the Derby, Pinte, Michael Angela and Simeon heating him out.

feet three inches, made by a New York boy.

Although he has never had the advantage of coaching, Russell has developed his own style in throwing, and while crude, it is effective. Now he has displayed such ability, he will be taken to perfection by a trainer, who will endeavor to perfect his form.

In addition to his ability as a high jumper, Russell has some ability as a broad jumper, and in the picture is shown clearing 17 feet.

TROTTING AT LONDON.

London, July 7.—The London races opened yesterday afternoon in Queen's Park, where a large crowd eagerly watched the results of the different events. The weather was perfect, and the track was in fair condition. During the whole of the afternoon not a complaint about either the day or the accommodation was made.

In the trotting to develop into a lively selling race was started yesterday, when Guy Gray, son of Uncle Jimmy Gray, boosted Bob R., winner of the two-year-old race, $500 over his entered selling price. H. E. Gray also tilted Vesme $400 over her entered price. Both horses were prodded by their owners and bought in at the usual advance of $5.

THE HAMILTON TIMES

WEDNESDAY, JULY 7, 1908.

WAS FOULY MURDERED.

The New York Police Have a New Murder Mystery.

Victim Had Been Dragged Into Doorway and Beaten to Death.

Son of Italian Saloonkeeper Spent Night Near Scene of Crime.

New York, July 7.—With her head beaten in and her body covered with bruises so as to render the face unrecognizable, an unknown woman was found dead, literally beaten to death, in the doorway of a tenement house at 436 East Thirteenth street, early yesterday. The entire doorstep was covered with blood and bloody tracks showed that the woman's assassins had walked around to the rear of a saloon after killing her and made away.

The murder was discovered by Morris Gross, a boy of 12, who was helping his brother deliver milk before daylight. The boy dropped his milk bottle and lantern and ran, screaming, to the street. He ran until he found a policeman at Second avenue.

The boy was so frightened that he could not speak, but he led the policeman to the hallway and pointed inside. "There's a woman dead in there," he said. "I saw her and she's all bloody."

The policemen found the woman's body under the stairway, beaten so badly that she could not be identified. Dr. Rutledge, from the Bellevue Hospital, said the woman had been dead two hours and detectives from the central office took charge of the case. Every man and woman in the tenement was taken to view the body, but all declared they had never seen her before.

The bloody tracks from the doorway led to the rear of a saloon owned by Baijio Calca and detectives saw a man asleep on a pool table in the rear of the saloon. They arrested him and he gave his name as Philip Calca, son of the proprietor. He declared that he had been asleep on the pool table all night and knew nothing of the murder.

Afterwards he said that he had heard a scuffling about 4 o'clock but that it was none of his affair and that he had gone to sleep again. The bloody tracks led up to the pool table and the murderer must have gone right up to the sleeping man. The tracks showed that the murderer had worn rubber soled shoes.

Simon Brady, a night watchman on the clock, said that he saw a man come out of that hall about 1 o'clock, of about 21 or 22 years of age, short and heavy built. He was nervous and he watched him. At First avenue he was joined by five other men. They talked a long while and then walked on 13th street to Second avenue and the man who came out of the doorway walked to a soda fountain. He asked permission to wash his hands, which were bloody.

The dead woman was cheaply but neatly dressed in a black and white checked skirt, a white shirt waist and a straw hat. The police believe that the victim of the murder was dragged into the hallway and attacked and that she died while defending herself.

WON'T GO TO THE COURTS.

think London could have the contract declared void. The point Ald. Beattie aims at is if Brantford and Hamilton were parties to the contract and have since dropped out, could not London do the same? Of course, there is a mistaken impression in London about the position of Hamilton and Brantford. Although these municipalities were parties to the contract in the first place, they did not sign the final contract and the words "Hamilton" and "Brantford" were struck out of the preamble as the result of an act passed in March of last year. At the same time the fact that some of the London aldermen are looking for a loophole to back out at this stage is evidence that the municipalities are not quite so enthusiastic about the scheme as some of its advocates would have people believe.

The Toronto aldermen, controllers and press representatives who will be entertained next week by the Hamilton council, will be met at the station by a reception committee, and escorted to Mayor McLaren's residence, where lunch will be served on the veranda. The afternoon will be spent at the Fernleigh Bowling Club. At 5 o'clock the visitors will be taken for an automobile ride along the mountain drive and through the annex. They will dine at the Commercial Club at 7 o'clock.

The street railway will begin using both tracks on Barton street to-morrow. It has been delayed because the city did not get the brick work between and outside the rails finished until Monday. The Board of Works expect to complete the asphalting of the street by September 1.

Permits were issued to-day to E. B. Patterson for a brick house on Bay street, between Barton and Murray street, for D. Fallside, to cost $1,800, and to E. Kinrade for two frame houses on Chestnut avenue, between Cannon and Barton street, to cost $2,200.

The chief business for the Finance Committee to-morrow afternoon will be the report of the City Solicitor as to the new division of the city into wards. Mr. Waddell will also report on the fees for jurors at the Kinrade inquest. A communication has been received from Publicity Commissioner Thompson of Toronto, asking that Hamilton appoint a representative to a committee, which will ask the Government to deepen and widen the Welland canal as well as Burlington channel, and other harbors on the lake.

Unless the City of Toronto grants certain concessions the Toronto Furniture Company has threatened to move to Hamilton or Brantford.

Fralick & Co.'s. July Clothing.

Sale starts Wednesday. It will pay you to get next to the clothes situation; look around, then come here. There isn't a suit sold in Hamilton for $20 any better than our $15 suits. Another line at $9.98 equal to most $15 suits. 13 and 14 James street north.

TEA TABLE GOSSIP.

Tickets for the Hamilton Street Railwaymen's moonlight can be secured at the dock to-night.

The members of the Westminster Presbyterian Church held a social last night and a large number were present. Refreshments were served and all present had a most enjoyable time.

—Misses Sadie Johnson and Tinne Carson, Toronto young ladies, who were injured in a mix-up between a street car and a Hendrie lorry in Toronto on May 19th, were each awarded $50 damages against the Hendrie Company yesterday.

—The Hamilton Mirror Plate Glass Company presented Fire Chief Ten Eyck with a handsome framed mirror, six feet long and two feet wide, to adorn the new fire station on Sanford avenue. The chief is very pleased with the present.

Euphemia Stevens, wife of Mr. John Stevens, passed away this morning in this city, aged 62 years of age. Mrs. Stevens is well-known as she has resided in this city for the past fifty years. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon from her late residence, 214 Mary street, to Hamilton Cemetery.

There was a very good attendance at the meeting of the Barton Street Eye-witness League last night. Mr. L. Davis gave a paper on "Leaguers and Church Work," after which Miss O. Wilson sang a solo. The roll was called at the close and well responded to. Three new members joined.

The young men of the Wentworth Street Baptist Church treated the young ladies to a lawn social last evening at the home of Mr. S. Wrage, Maple Avenue. A large number of the young people were present and numerous games were indulged in. The young men served refreshments.

—The steamer Turbinia brought up from Toronto this morning two Sunday school picnics. They were Wesley Church, with 800, and Fairmount Baptist, with 600 people. They enjoyed the day at Dundurn Park and Stanley Mills & Co. had special cars to show them around the city.

Fred Prescott, eldest son of William and Mrs. Prescott, 15 Margaret street, died this morning, aged 13 years. Deceased was a member of the St. George's Sunday school. The funeral will take place from his parents' residence on Friday afternoon.

John Smart, 14 Fairview avenue, an employee of the Gurney-Tilden Company, had two fingers so badly crushed while at work this morning that he had to be amputated. Dr. Cockburn performed the operation at the City Hospital.

The Times has been requested to ascertain a correction in regard to the subscription of one thousand dollars already announced as from W. D. Long to the Boys' Y. M. C. A. building fund. Five hundred dollars of that amount was Mr. Long's subscription, the other five hundred was subscribed by Mrs. Bishy.

Again last evening a large crowd was in attendance at Mountain Theatre, East End Incline, when "Woman Against Woman" was produced by The Summers Stock Company. This play is well received by the patrons of this breezy place of entertainment, and judging by the applause given last evening this piece gives more satisfaction than any yet produced. No doubt large crowds will be in attendance during the week, as the production is really a good one.

The body of Charles Green, who was drowned in the lake near Burlington last Saturday afternoon, has not yet been recovered. Grappling operations have been kept up since the accident occurred, but little hope is now entertained of finding the body. Mrs. Green, mother of the unfortunate young man, has been almost prostrated with grief, and has been under the charge of Dr. Spears, who allows no one to see her but her immediate family.

MOONLIGHT.

John R. Had Its First—One on Modjeska Also.

The John R., the Hamilton Ferry Company's fine new steamboat, went into commission last night, when a crowd that taxed the boat to its capacity took advantage of the moonlight given under the auspices of the Canadian Association of Stationary Engineers. The night was an ideal one, despite the fact that a rather stiff wind was blowing at times, and the sail around the lake was immensely enjoyed by all. The steamer started out shortly after 8 o'clock and after crossing the bay, sailed around Lake Ontario for about two hours. A laughing, merry crowd thronged the decks, and from the time the boat left the dock until it returned the moonlight never experienced a dull moment. The John R. is well fitted for these excursions, offering ample accommodation and comfort.

The St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid moonlight was held last night also, and was equally well patronized. The steamer Modjeska did duty as carrier, and Anderson's orchestra dispensed sweet strains during the night. The large crowd enjoyed itself thoroughly. There were about 700 aboard.

FELL FROM CAR.

Was Stooping For Cigar—Died From His Injuries.

Toronto, July 7.—John Richardson, of 30 Arthur street, died at St. Michael's Hospital early this morning as the result of a broken back, sustained on Saturday, May 29, by falling from a street car. Richardson was riding on the rear platform of a King street car when a cigar he was smoking was knocked from his hand, falling on the steps. He stooped to recover it, when the car jolted, throwing him to the pavement. Richardson was 45 years old, and well known in the city. He leaves a widow and six children.

PRINCE FAINTS IN COURT ROOM

Philip Zu Eulenburg Taken Sick While Being Examined.

Mixed Up in the Round-Table Scandals in Germany.

Commission of Doctors Thought He Had Been Shamming.

Berlin, July 7.—Prince Philip Zu Eulenburg had an attack of heart failure in court to-day while undergoing an examination at the hands of physicians to determine his physical fitness to stand trial on charges of perjury alleged to have been committed during the Harden-Von Moitk case, which was on outgrowth of the "round table" scandals of 1907.

When the proceedings opened to-day the presiding judge asked the prince if he was able to follow them. Zu Eulenburg, who was pale and who seemed to be suffering, answered that he did not think so. The judge thereupon declared the prince that the commission of physicians, upon arriving at the castle of Treibenberg, had seen the prince walking in the grounds, but that he had once entered the castle and gone to bed.

The members of the commission declared that in their opinion the prince was sufficiently strong to stand the trial. They declared he had simulated weakness and had held his breath in order to increase his pulse. The prince, who was sitting in an easy chair, arose at those remarks and stood trembling before his accusers. Resting his hand on the railing in front of him, he said: "That is not true! That is not true! I have never pretended. I have an interest in being well. I want to get through with this trial, and what would be the sense of my pretending?"

"Why did you hold your breath during the medical examination?" asked the judge.

"I did no such thing," retorted the prince, shaking with excitement.

The public prosecutor thereupon declared that the prince he placed under arrest and not permitted to give bad. Before ruling on this request, the judge consulted with his colleagues on the bench and decided that Zu Eulenburg should be examined by Prof. Kraus, who was present. The court room was cleared and the examination begun.

While undergoing it, the prince was seized with cramps. His pulse rose to 132, and he fainted away. The Princess Zu Eulenburg and the princess' son were thereupon summoned from the witness' room. Restoratives were applied and after the prince had partially regained consciousness the court resumed.

The prince lay on an invalid chair, with his eyes closed. Prof. Kraus declared that the prince was not able to go on with the trial, whereupon the public prosecutor withdrew his motion for arrest and the case was adjourned indefinitely.

COAL STRIKE.

General Manager Duggan Assaulted by Strikers.

The Riot Act Read—Excitement Growing Intense.

(Special Despatch to the Times.)

Sydney, July 7.—The second day of the strike opened with a small disorder at the collieries. General Manager Duggan was assaulted at No. 3 by seven men, one being a United Mine worker. The riot act was read at No. 2. The collieries are practically all in operation. As the workmen wished to remain at work approached No. 2 this morning they were met by thousands of jeering and shouting ex-comrades. General Manager Duggan, J. K. Ross, Superintendent McKenzie attempted to calm the crowd unsuccessfully. Duggan placed himself at the head of the workmen, asking the strikers to go away peacefully. A striker named Sherry assaulted him, not seriously. He was arrested. Excitement is growing rapidly.

PLAYGROUNDS.

U. B. of C. and J. Makes a Contribution.

A suggestion from the Playgrounds Association to the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America that the Brotherhood should assist the association in the playgrounds scheme has met with a most hearty response.

The Brotherhood at once undertook to put up the swings, see-saws and gravel boxes as its donation to the project, and has already begun the work at the Hespeler School grounds.

The association is very much pleased to be able to say that everything will be in readiness for the formal opening next week.
