FUSSELL'S FULL CREAM CONDENSED MILK
IS THE CREAM OF MILKS

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

That man is truly great who can rule his mental kingdom, who at will can master his moods; who knows enough of mental chemistry to neutralize a fit of the blues, to antidote any evil poison, to thought of the opposite thought just as a chemist neutralizes an acid that is eating into the flesh by applying an alkaline antidote.

—Orison Swett Marden.

The older I grow the more deeply I am impressed with the realization that most of us are committing the crime of lese-majesty of a very great kind.

And this kingdom over which we so strangely refuse to take the scepter is the kingdom of our thought.

How many of us can control our thoughts at will?

And yet to what one of us would not such a power be of inestimable value?

I found an ordinarily sensible friend of mine quite upset—yesterday, and what do you think was the reason? She had been looking for some time for a certain kind of goods she wanted for a suit, and not finding what she wanted, had finally taken something that "would have to do." The day after the tailor had cut into this makeshift, she had seen just what she wanted and at such a much more reasonable price than she had paid for the other goods.

"It has made me fairly sick," she assured me, "to think that I might so easily have had just what I wanted and not paid near what I did for that horrid thing either."

"It is a shame," agreed, "but as long as you can't change it, why think of the matter?"

"I can't just help it," she said, "I can't think of anything else."

Seems to me that's a deplorable state of affairs to let a mistake, or rather an unfortunate happening, poison her mind and cloud her day, merely because she hadn't the ability to put the thought of it from her. That's one form of lese-majesty of the thought—vain regrets.

Worry is another. Suppose tomorrow's tasks ARE going to take every bit of your ability. Will help you any to spend this evening in a fever of worry as to how you are going to accomplish them? You can't help thinking about it? Fle upon you. That's lese-majesty again.

True, this is not the easiest kingdom in the world to rule. Quite the reverse, but I do believe anyone can rule it, especially if he ascends the throne young enough.

If you deliberately set yourself to banish any thought which you know is harmful you will find your task growing easier each time you accomplish it.

But don't forget one thing. And that is that merely banishing a thought is not enough. You must add the positive to the negative. When you want to get rid of a train of thought don't just be satisfied by merely shutting it off the track, but be sure to put another in its place.

In other words, don't be satisfied with merely washing off the acid. Antidote it with the alkali.

Ruth Cameron

sets is the combination with defensible materials, soft, supple satins, velvets, chiffons, metallic laces, Oriental embroideries and numerous ornaments of silk cords, braids, fringes and pendants.

The most effective afternoon dresses are those of black mousseline over silk or satin in Oriental design, most of them having a deep hem of velvet. There are no touches of white on these dresses. The guimpes are of black lace or tucked chiffon.

From all sources investigated comes the announcement that the new spring lines will show trimmings. Although to the present no extreme novelty in trimming has developed, the new lines will at least have some braid and cotton trimming.

Stoles and mufflers are made of ribbon bands, alternating with fur or of ribbon in a trellis design, natter blue moire being plaided in this fashion and edged all around with ermine in a pretty little stole that twines around the neck and comes only as far as the waist. There it is finished in a ruche.

Ribbons were never more beautiful nor more artistic than they are at present, and there is every evidence that as a result of their daintiness and richness they will be greatly worn. Already tea gowns are being entirely built of lace and ribbon, and gauzy evening cloaks are "poems" composed of the same airy stuff.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a yellow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum, but a medicine of snow composition and with a record of 30 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

Fads and Fashions.

Paris is very emphatic in the use of the cloth-topped shoe, and the upper must match the color of the walking suit or carriage gown.

Garlands of roses are now being draped over cloche hats for little tois. Silver or gilt tissue or soft satin are the materials most used.

White coney is an expensive fur and much in favor for cloaks, long shoulder scarfs and hats for young girls.

Very effective is the banded trimming of cut steel beads outlined on either edge with two rows of fine jet beads.

Silver on black tulle, steel beads on blue de nuit (a dark blue) and coral on pink or blue, are some of the beautiful combinations used.

For evening there is a great demand for brocades, crepe de chine and all supple weaves that lack luster, but abound in wonderful colors.

The very finest ribbon flowers, bliz of coiled rosebuds usually, not so large as a 10 cent piece, are adorning jabots and shirtwaist frills.

A very economical way of trimming a velvet coat or costume is to have a detachable collar and deep cuffs of fur, which can be worn at will.

Black and white effects are being made up in many lines. A favorite with several of the manufacturers is the background with white pencil lines.

For evening the slippers are revealing a distinct feature of the newest fur-ing in a luxury of colors and materials. Lace, satin, cloth of gold and silver and many colors of suede and finished kid are shown.

For the matron the narrow half bandeau is very appropriate. Sometimes they are fashioned of narrow ribbon tied in a stiff necktie bow at one side.

Silk Marquise is taking the place of chiffon to a great extent, as drapery over silk and satin, and is being largely used for evening gowns as well as afternoon dresses.

Buckles for slippers come in antique forms, gold, silver and jeweled disks and fluffy rosettes of tulle and satin are used to decorate the front of the evening shoe.

Among the novelties in furs is tailless ermine, sometimes bordered with the little black and yellow tails, and again with a totally different fur in color and texture.

The touch of scarlet or red is a dominant novelty in the winter frocks. This red is merely used as a touch, in pipings, or in a single flower on gowns and mufflers and stoles.

Velvet calf is the name given to a new leather which is made up into all kinds of accessories. In texture it is like suede with an irregular watered pattern running through it.

Evening coats are seen in every style and description, with a preference in color for black, white, dull blue or rose. Usually they are cut on the loose kimono-lines, and the fur trimmings are in great elegance.

The Empire fashions as now worn are not by any means shapeless. They are on the contrary made so as to display the figure to the best advantage, even though the waist comes almost under the armpits.

A distinct feature of the newest fur-

C.E.T.S. "At Home."

The members of the C. E. T. S. assembled in their rooms last night to meet the chairman, Rev. J. Bell, and hold their annual "At Home." The rooms were decorated very tastefully with garlands and mottoes of "Welcome" and "Happy New Year." When the reception was over the guests indulged in games and amusements of various kinds. Refreshments were served. All enjoyed a very happy hour. Excellent speeches were delivered by Rev. Mr. Bell, the chairman, and Mr. R. G. Macdonald, Hon. Sec.

M.C.L.I. Moving.

The M. C. L. I. held their first meeting of 1911 in their rooms last night to outline a programme for the winter. The President, Mr. S. P. White-way, gave an address and made particular reference to the succession of King George V. to the Throne. All rose and sang the National Anthem. The subject of the debate was: "Is the time ripe for the Imperial Federation?" Mr. Peters and Mr. Whiteway took the affirmative and Mr. Hall and Mr. Ledrew the negative. Much valuable information was elicited, and it was quite evident, as the debate progressed that several sessions would be needed to do justice to a subject of so many ramifications. Next Wednesday the subject for debate will be "Are Unions displaying an unjust attitude to non-union men and employees; if so, should legislation be adopted to protect the latter?"

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its forms can be cured. It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything, I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at INJURED AT TANNERY.—Last night a workman engaged at the Sudbury Tannery had his left arm caught in the machinery and it was badly hurt, being severely cut. Police Heros Honored.

The routing out of the anarchistic burglars which resulted in the armed strife of Sydney Street, East End of London, on Tuesday last, was the outcome of the search for the assassins of Sergeants Tucker and Bentley and Constable Choate, who were shot down in cold blood on December 18th. So stirred was the nation that not only did the King send messages of sympathy, but the Government accorded for the first time in history a public funeral in St. Paul's Cathedral, the great mausoleum of the nation, to humble policemen. The Daily Mail says of it:

The scene in St. Paul's touched the heart and impressed the imagination. Here was assembled long before the appointed hour of noon a great congregation representative of our public life. The King was represented by his Groom-in-Walting, Mr. Edward Wallington, who occupied a place in the choir. Mr. Winston Churchill, with whom was Mrs. Churchill, was also in the choir as head of the Home Office, the departmental authority of the police. The Lord Mayor attended in civic state, and with his train of scarlet-robed aldermen, dignitaries, and officers gave a brilliant note of colour to the solemnity.

But the eye as well as the mind dwelt longest on the great and nameless company of dark uniformed police officers and men who were there to do honour and homage to their heroic comrades. They stood like a grim regiment in mourning beneath the centre of the great dome and far into the broad nave. Firemen, blue-jackets, soldiers and taxicab drivers were in their company. And beyond and around them was the multitude of the people, a dense, dark mass, expressive of the popular sorrow and admiration. The presence of this multitude gave a national character to this solemn and impressive scene. As noon approached a solemn stillness filled the vast and dim cathedral. The clergy and choir, a white-robed procession, waited at the great west door for the coming of the dead. Presently the silence was broken again through the thronged distance hoisted the funeral chant with which the Church greets its dead: "I am the resurrection and the life." Nearer and nearer came the sound of music and of footfalls until the gleaming cross rose above the bowed heads of the people. Upon the shoulders of former comrades was borne the wreath-laden coffin of Sergeant Tucker. They bore the policeman hero past the monuments of Wellington and Gordon to the hallowed spot on which have rested the remains of Nelson and Napier of Magdala and many a national hero. Behind came the coffin of Sergeant Bentley and Constable Choate, each with its burden of floral tributes and its pathetic memorial of death—the dark helmet and the flowers.

Three-quarters of a million Londoners lined the streets to show their sorrow at the tragedy and their appreciation of the courage of the dead men. In their presence was the grateful recognition of the spirit that animates the police of London.

It is safe to say that never before has the civil force of a great city had so striking a tribute from its people. Tens of thousands came up from the suburbs; not to see the attractions of a military show with all its clash and glitter, not to enjoy the glory of a procession, but to raise their hats at the passage of three coffins containing the remains of men not one of whom has earned as much as three pounds a week.

To all those hundreds of thousands of mourners there was something of a domestic horror in the matter. The police in the streets, with their kind guidance of pedestrians, their tactful smoothing of disturbances, their readiness for every kind of emergency big of little, their protective watchfulness at night, have become part of the life of the people. London regards them with a kind of affectionate pride. That they have to run into danger in the course of their work adds to the general regard. And when a group of constables while doing their duty in the heart of London are shot down by foreign assassins, it strikes the imagination of Londoners like a tragedy in the home circle.

The Tottenham Outrage

Only Parallel to the Crime of Houndsditch.

The only parcel to the crime of Houndsditch is that which occurred in Tottenham on January 23, 1909. As at Houndsditch the murderers were alien immigrants intent upon robbery and armed with automatic pistols, which they used against defenseless pursuers.

The two robbers were Russian Poles named Hefeld and Lapidus. They snatched a bag containing £80 in money from a clerk in the street and fled, firing right and left as they ran. Constable Tyler, who gave chase, was shot dead, and a few minutes later a little boy who happened to be in the fugitives' path was murdered.

The robbers next seized a tramway car and made the driver go at full speed for a mile, shooting a passenger who attempted to interfere. They leaped from the car and seized a milk-cart, after shooting its driver. They then fled across fields followed by a crowd of pursuers, many of whom were by now armed. Hefeld became exhausted at a high fence and shot himself, dying of the injury three weeks later. Lapidus took refuge in a cottage and was there shot dead by a constable. Twenty persons in all were wounded by the murderers' bullets.—Daily Mail.

The Isabella Accident.

Mr. Power who shipped the fish on the S.S. Isabella which was lost near Cape Pine by striking wreckage recently, arrived here yesterday. The craft collided with a piece of very heavy timber which was coppered and seemed to be part of a large vessel. It floated about with a lot of other material and so badly holed was she by the contact that she sank quickly. The men had a long row to get to Holyrood, St. Mary's Bay. In their boat and were used up on arrival there.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

Wood Alcohol in Wine

New York, Dec. 28.—A man and a woman are dead, and two other men are seriously injured to-day in hospitals, as a result of drinking liquor, said to have contained wood alcohol, at a West Side Christmas celebration on last Monday night. The dead are Mrs. Maria Delguidica, 22 years old, and Rocco Demarco. All attended a Christmas feast, for which the host had laid in a large store of wine, of which the party drank freely. Soon afterwards four members of the company were taken violently ill. Mrs. Delguidica died last night and Demarco early to-day.

TYPHUS OR TYPHOID!—We learn from good authority that the doctors of the city have not come to an agreement as to whether the disease now working such havoc on Barter's Hill and vicinity is typhus or typhoid fever.

A GENEROUS ACTION.—Before the 400 boys of the Juvenile T. A. Society sat down to tea last night! Manager Kielly of the Nickel gave them an hour's entertainment at the Casino Theatre. Mr. P. Hanley, of the adult body thanked Mr. Kielly from the stage on behalf of the juveniles.

Sergts. Noseworthy and Byrne were kept busy for a long while yesterday restoring to those who owned them the goods stolen by Thomas Evans, who yesterday was sent to the Penitentiary for 3 years. Hardly ever before in the history of crime in the city had so many robberies been perpetrated by one individual.

ROSALIND GETTING REPAIRS.—The s.s. Rosalind, which is now lying up in New York, has been surveyed and is getting a thorough overhaul and repairs. Her decks, engines and every part of the hull are being attended to and the work will take another month to complete. The Florizel Here.

The Red Cross Liner Florizel, Capt. Clarke, arrived here at 6.30 this morning after a run of 44 hours from Halifax. She left New York Saturday at 6 p.m. and came down to Halifax in 43 hours, having excellent weather all through. She left Halifax at 10 a.m. Tuesday for this port and had it thick and foggy, but calm, until last evening, when she had a gate-of-S.W. wind with a good lump of sea running. She brought a half cargo, considerable mail matter and these passengers: Lady Horwood, Miss E. Horwood, Mr. E. A. Dixon and six second cabin. She sails again at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Looking for Gus James

Sergt. Savage is looking for Mr. Gus James all over the city to-day. He was in town up to last Saturday, and it is believed that he went out by Sunday's express. He is wanted by the police to answer some questions about the quantity of fish that was aboard the "Fond Return" when she sank.

Kill Moonshiners in the Church.

Three Preacher Brothers Riddle Him When He Breaks Down the Door.

Blue Ridge, Ga., Dec. 24.—Carter Lingerfelt, moonshiner, was shot to death this afternoon in Mount Pisgah Church, about seven miles from here, by the Rev. W. J. Kimmow, and Mr. Kimmow's two brothers, all of whom are Baptist preachers, and one of whom was seriously wounded by Lingerfelt.

Christmas exercises were being held in the church when Lingerfelt broke down the door and threatened to kill the preachers. Lingerfelt had previously threatened to run the three ministers out of the country if they continued to preach against moonshining. The Kimmows continued their crusade from various pulpits.

When Lingerfelt appeared to-day they were ready for him. As soon as he drew a revolver the three preacher brothers opened fire and Lingerfelt fell after firing three shots himself. The Rev. H. W. Kimmow was wounded.

The preachers fired from the altar and Lingerfelt was killed just inside the church door. Other men crawled under benches. At the time of the shooting a big illicit still operated by Lingerfelt was being destroyed by Deputy Collector Hopkins within a stone's throw of the church grounds.

Lowest Rates for Sleeping Car Berths.

Pullman Company's Reduction is to Apply in Canada.

Montreal, Dec. 27.—The Pullman Company to-day definitely announced its decision to make the reduction of 20 per cent in the price of upper berths apply to its cars in Canada as well as in the United States. Most of the sleeping-cars in Canada are operated by the companies over whose lines they run, and none of these, which include the C. P. R., G. T. P., Canadian Northern and I. C. R., have made any announcement in this connection, but it is believed in railway circles that the Pullman rate of $1.60 a night for the upper berth will become general throughout the Dominion.

Schr. Had it Rough.

James Baird, Ltd., yesterday had a message to the effect that the schr. Invermay, Capt. Barnes, had harbored at Burgeo while coming from Port Hawkesbury, to St. John's. The vessel went to Wood's Island from this port with supplies, and after loading fish started to return but was driven by stormy weather across the Gulf. She reached Port Hawkesbury where repairs were effected, and she left again for here on December 14. She had it very stormy all through, and will leave Burgeo for here the first chance.

The Sydney-st. Battle.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Jan. 4.

Excitement over the hunting down of the anarchist burglar gang continues. Crowds swarmed to the dingy East End street which had been the scene of a battle the like of which has not been known in the history of the London Police Department. The Detective Department are pursuing the investigation into the Russian anarchist colony with unremitting energy.

During the night the police overhauled the ruins of the tenement house on Sydney Street, where the outlaws made their last stand, and were either shot or burned to death in the fight with the police or soldiers. The officers discovered parts of another body. Three bodies have been recovered.

The mysterious tragedy uncovered on Sunday is believed to form a link in the story of the Houndsditch burglar gang. A French Jew, Joseph Beron, who had lived near the anarchists, rendezvous, has been found murdered on Clapham Common, in the opposite end of London.

Londoners are greatly stirred by the succession of murders. The Conservative papers blame the Government, charging the authorities with having failed to enforce the Alien Act. The Liberal papers declare the excesses of the burglar gang an isolated case which should not affect the traditional British policy of receiving political refugees. The Times criticized the employment of soldiers and considers the affair to have been badly managed.

Sir Robert Anderson, former head of the Criminal Investigation Department, says: "British inaction regarding alien criminals would discredit the capital of medically certified lunatics."

Special to Evening Telegram.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.

Fighting Shipping Combine.

Special Evening Telegram.
NEW YORK, Jan. 4.

The Federal Government has brought suits, under the terms of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, in the United States Circuit Court, against thirteen principal trans-atlantic carriers, estimated to control ninety per cent of the steerage traffic worth $55,000,000 a year. Twelve officers of the defendant companies, all residents of America, are also named as co-defendants. Thirteen capitalists, the Government charges, entered into an illegal contract on February 5th, 1908, in London, England, by which they constituted themselves an Atlantic Conference, with power to apportion all traffic pro rata, impose fines on members of the Conference for violation of any article of the agreement, to wage cut-throat competition against all liners outside the conference, with the result, as is alleged, that the Russian volunteer fleet plying between New York and Lfian was driven out of business, the Russian-American line was forced to make terms with the Conference and enter its membership. The competitive devices of the Conference, it is also alleged, are still in force at the present moment against the Uranium S. S. Co., which plies between New York and Rotterdam, touching at Halifax.

Virginia Sustains Considerable Damage.

The schooner Virginia, Capt. Connelly, arrived here at 4 p.m. yesterday to Ryan & Co., salt laden from Cadix, after a run of 48 days. The vessel was bound to Trinity but had to make this port owing to the storm which raged. Shortly after leaving Cadix she met very rough weather, gale after gale being the experience, with mountainous seas, and the ship was badly buffeted, in the Gulf stream it was particularly stormy, and in making in over the Banks the terrific seas which ran frequently boarded her, doing considerable damage about the decks and carrying away some of the starboard bulwarks. She was for a while on the quarantine grounds after arrival until visited by Dr. Campbell who released her, the crew being in excellent health. The vessel proceeds to Trinity the first opportunity.

Laid Up With Lame Back

Pain, helplessness and suffering are overcome by DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Mrs. Frank Bloom, Harwood Lake, Ont., writes: "I want to tell you of the great benefit I found in the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I suffered so badly with kidney disease that when I lay down I could not get up without help. I was completely laid up with lame, aching back. I read about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the Almanac, got them and they cured me of kidney disease and back-ache."

"My husband had dreadful pains in his sides and obtained cure by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These pills are the best on the market and I am glad to recommend them."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are definite and certain in action, relieve the liver and bowels as well as the kidneys, are lastingly beneficial and economical. But to obtain these results you must get the genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

SHOT IN THE BACK!

Strange Evidence of a Doctor Called In to See One of the Dying Anarchist.

An inquest in regard to George Gardstein, or Goldstein, known as Levi, one of the murderers who was found dying at 59, Grove-street, Commercial-road, E., was held. A story resembling in its general details some of the romances of Robert Louis Stevenson was told by Doctor John James Scanlan, who was the only witness examined. Dr. Scanlan was called to attend the injured murderer at dead of night in a locked and shuttered house by two mysterious women who spoke scarcely a word.

Dr. Scanlan said he was temporarily assisting Dr. Bernstein at 55 Commercial-road, E. He first came in contact with the case at half-past three on Saturday morning.

The Coroner: Who called you? The Witness: Two women came to the surgery door, and called me up by the speaking tube in my bedroom.

What did they say?—They cried, "You're wanted; come at once." I dressed immediately and going down stairs opened the street door. Two women were waiting there for me.

The Coroner: Are both these women known?

Superintendent Ottaway: Yes, sir. They are at present detained.

The Coroner: What age were those women?—Dr. Scanlan: They were both young.

What did they say?—One said there was a man very bad at 59, Grove-street. She was the woman who subsequently took me to the house.

Did you ask her what was the matter?—I did not.

Is that all the conversation that took place then?—Yes; I did not say anything. We all three went in the direction of Grove-street.

Did the two women seem on friendly terms?—Yes, they were conversing and walking together a little ahead of me.

Did you hear anything they said?—I could not understand them.

Did they not speak English?—No. They were speaking some unknown tongue?—Yes.

Was it Yiddish?—I cannot tell.

When they told you you were wanted what language did they speak?—Broken English.

Were there any other words used in that conversation?—There was nothing else.

A WOMAN'S FLIGHT.

"We had proceeded about twenty-five yards down Commercial-road," went on Dr. Scanlan, "when one of the women disappeared down one of the streets running north from the main road."

The Coroner: Without speaking to you?

Dr. Scanlan: She did not say a word.

Did her companion explain her absence?—No; she went on.

Did she turn back to you?—No; we walked almost abreast. She turned down Grove-street, and I went with her, and came to No. 59. The house was locked up, but I saw a light in the front room upstairs.

The first floor?—Yes. There is only the ground floor and the first floor.

Did you notice whether the ground-floor window was barricaded?—The shutters were up. We both knocked repeatedly at the door, but could get no response. Then I knocked on the shutters of the ground-floor windows.

Did you speak to the woman who was with you about the place being locked up?—She takes you from bed to see a person, and when you get there you cannot get in.—It is a thing that often happens.

Did the woman make any remark?—No.

Did you make any exclamation when you found the door was locked?—I do not think I did. The doctor added that in response to more knocks the door was opened.

By whom?—I cannot say, sir. I did not see anyone. I heard immediately after I entered the ground floor door slam to.

As if some person from a room had got up for the purpose of opening it and gone back?—Yes.

Was there any light in the passage?—No, it was very dark.

Did you go upstairs?—The woman went up and I followed her.

Did she ask you to follow?—I suggested she should go first. It is the usual course.

The Coroner: This is not a usual case, doctor. Do not treat it as such. We want you to help to clear it up. I ask you again was there any observation made by her?—The witness: She said nothing. I lit a match and followed her upstairs.

Was any door open?—When I reached the landing I saw a light coming from the door of a front room. It was partly ajar.

Was it ajar before she touched it?—Yes. I noticed it before she reached it.

Did she enter first?—Yes; I immediately followed her into the room.

What sort of a light was there?—A dim light from an incandescent gas burner hanging from the middle of the room. Afterwards, during my examination, the light got dimmer and dimmer, and then it was revived by the woman going out and putting a penny in the slot.

She seemed to know where to go?—Yes, sir.

When you got in was anything said?—No; I went immediately to the bed, which was against the wall.

"SHOT BY MISTAKE."

What did you find in the bed?—I saw a man lying on the bed fully dressed. His boots were on.

Did you speak to him?—He was muttering as if in pain. I spoke to him in English. He gave me his name.

Did you ask him what his name was?—Yes. He told me that he was George Gardstein. I asked him what had happened. He said:

Three hours ago I was shot by a friend in the back with a revolver by mistake.

I then examined him, added the witness, and found that the bullet had entered the left side of the back. I found it under the skin of the chest. The man was very weak and he vomited blood while I was examining him. He frequently asked me to give him a narcotic. He seemed to be in great pain.

Was there any hemorrhage?—No, external hemorrhage.

Was there any blood on the bed?—No, sir, no blood.

What did you do? Did you give him a narcotic? I had one with me at the time.

The doctor said he came to the conclusion that the stomach and lung of the wounded man had been perforated by the bullet.

The Coroner: Was the woman in the room with you the whole time? The Witness: Yes, the whole time. I understood she could speak French. That was the only language in which I could converse with her.

Did the man speak English?—If spoke broken English.

You stayed with him some time?—It was nearly an hour before I left. I suggested to the man and woman that he should be taken to the London Hospital.

What did they say to that?—They would not entertain the idea.

Did they give any reason why?—No.

Did you ask the woman to go back with you to the surgery?—Yes; I made up some medicine. I gave her a mixture of nuxvomica, belladonna and opium.

The woman then left your surgery, I suppose?—Yes, sir.

Did you go again?—I went again about half-past eleven in the morning and found the man dead.

TWO UNKNOWN MEN.

Was the door locked then? Did you have to knock many times?—No. It was opened immediately by two young men in the passage.

Did you speak to them?—Yes, I said, "How is the man upstairs?" They said, "We don't know anything about it."

Were they speaking English?—Yes, sir.

Do you think they were English?—Yes, I went upstairs.

Whom did you see?—No one.

Was the door open?—No, sir, closed. I opened it and saw the man dead on the bed.

Did you see no one else?—No, sir. I went in a back room on the first floor and there was no one there.

Was that a bedroom?—It was a kind of common room, used for anything.

Was there a bed in it?—I do not think there was. I cannot say definitely.

Did you examine it at all?—No, I only just glanced in.

Did you inquire of anyone else in the house what had become of the dead man's friends or relations?—I did not see anyone.

Were the two young men gone?—I did not see them anywhere around.

Had they their hats on when you saw them first? They had caps on.

The doctor added that he returned to the surgery and communicated by telephone with the coroner's officer. In reply to the coroner he said he did not see any blood about the house nor did he look for it.

Can you say there was no blood?—I did not see any.

Did you notice the room? Was there any carpet?—I did not notice such. The room appeared to be in a state of considerable disorder. One thing I did notice was a mandoline in a table.

Did you notice any firearms?—No, I did not.

Any material for firearms?—No; I did not notice any bullets or anything of that kind.

Were there blinds to the windows?—Yes, ordinary holland blinds.

Was there one window or two?—Two.

Were the blinds pulled down when you went in the room?—Yes.

What was in the room?—There were chairs, a sofa, and a lot of clothes. I should describe the room as being in general disorder.

Did the room look as if anyone lived there?—Yes; it did.

Was there any fire?—No, sir; no fire.

Did you notice whether any papers had recently been burnt?—No; I did not.

Did you notice any papers about?—No.

THE DEAD MAN'S HANDS.

You made a post-mortem examination?—Yes, in the presence of three other medical men, two police divisional surgeons, and Dr. Bernstein.

Describing the dead man, Dr. Scanlan said he was a muscular, well-developed man, aged about twenty-three. He was 5ft. 9in. in height and weighed about 11 or 12st. He had long black hair parted in the middle, heavy eyebrows, and a light moustache. His teeth were sound and appeared to have been shaved within twelve hours of his death. He had light brown eyes and a sallow complexion. There were no identification marks on him at all. He was not tattooed and had no deformity. His features were of a foreign cast. On each arm he had three vaccination marks. His hand were small and Financing Revolutions.

Special Evening Telegram. CHICAGO, Jan. 4.

The Record—Herald publishes the following:—The carefully laid plans of some Chicago and New York capitalists, who are owners of silver and copper mines in Northern Mexico and Honduras, to finance the revolution now in progress in Central American countries, coupled with attempts to despatch two filibustering expeditions into the war zone, have been unearthed in Chicago by the Department of Justice. Agents of the department are in the city secretly investigating the war plot and several well-known financiers may be arrested for violation of the neutrality laws of the United States. The "Jack Plot Fund," for financing revolutions is said to amount to several million dollars.

McMurdo's Store News

THURSDAY, Jan. 5, 1911.

If you have hens it ought to be possible to make them lay during this mild weather. The use of McMurdo's Egg Making Food will help in that way. This food supplies in proper proportions the elements required to form the various parts of the egg—white, yolk and shell. It has been found very successful in this way, and we confidently recommend it to poultry keepers to increase egg-production. The food is also useful as a general condition powder for poultry and will greatly help, with other hygienic measures, to keep them in a healthy condition. Price 25c. for large package.

Furore Over Doctors' Fees.

Yesterday and to-day the one subject of importance discussed by citizens of all classes and kinds is the action of the city doctors in raising their fees. The consensus of opinion is that a public meeting of the citizens should be called to deal with the matter, and to draft a petition to the Legislature asking that the Government intervene to modify the charter of the Medical Society; others believe that medical practitioners from Canada and the States be invited to come here, and that the public will insure to them lucrative employment.

Frozen Herring Fishery

Passengers who arrived by the Bruce express, reported that the herring fishery is now drawing to a completion. There are about 25 vessels in all the Arms. There are four vessels in Bay of Islands, most of these are filling up with frozen herring. Capt. Whitley came back from Bay of Islands to-day. He was the only Newfoundlander there this winter who loaded a vessel and thereby showed great enterprise. The herring being caught there now are very large and plentiful.

Weather Along Line of Railway.

Along the line to-day the weather is mild and the temperature is from 30 to 40 above. There is no snow on the road. The Humber Arm froze over last Saturday, but yesterday the weather set in mild and thawed out the Arm, so that when the train passed through yesterday the ice was all broken up. It is a bad time to freeze here.

Entertainment and Tea at Seal Cove, T.B.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I wish to be allowed a little space in your valuable paper to give a short account of an entertainment and tea held in the Orange Hall, on the 29th ult., under the auspices of Miss J. E. Thistle, our good teacher, and the ladies of this place.

For a few weeks Miss Thistle with her scholars worked hard practising, in order to have something prepared to entertain the people who would be present on this occasion.

The hall was decorated nicely and all the young people looked very happy as they went forward to recite or sing, as the case may be. The new Church Organ had been taken to the hall a day or two previously, and although it is only a short time since the people have been accustomed to the music yet with a little more training to the young will bring the older ones into tune, as their voices show that all they need is to be trained, and they can compare with any of greater privileges. Miss Thistle presided at the organ and did her part well.

Mr. Hubert Single occupied the chair and made a few well chosen remarks at the beginning. Revs. Mr. Paine and Crane were also present and said some good things, which, no doubt, will be remembered by the boys and girls. The programme closed by singing the National Anthem.

As soon as possible the tables were made ready and spread with good things to tempt the appetite, and all set down and did justice to the tempting viands. The young folks had an enjoyable time after, and it was not until a late hour that they dispersed and went to their homes.

Great credit is due our esteemed Teacher for her untiring efforts in training the young folk. Some nice things were said, and it is quite evident that there is considerable talent in our young, and only time can tell what some of them will become. It must have been encouraging to our Teacher to see that not only the younger people coming forward to help, but the married ones as well. These took their part in good order. The proceeds of the meeting, which amounted to $43.70 go towards the building of a new school room which is very badly needed. The teacher and scholars require plenty of room and conveniences in the school room, then better work and less worry is the result. We are very fortunate this year in having such a capable and talented teacher among us. She is never tired of doing her best for those under her care, always feeling a great responsibility devolving upon her. We sincerely hope all her efforts will prove successful. She has given her services as organist in the Church, and our people appreciate her work and are ready to help when they can. She has a smile and a kind word for all whom she meets. We hope her years and opportunities to do good will be many.

Now, Mr. Editor, it is not often we find a place in the columns of your paper, but I would like you to know that we are alive to our duty and the interests of the young and rising generation upon whom depends the future of this and every place. If they are not educated what is their hope? Their future is black for them; but if they set their brains to work and take to what is taught them day by day they need not fear for the future.

Thanking you for space and wishing you a Happy New Year.

I remain yours,
JOHN M. HARRIS,
Seal Cove, Trinity Bay, South, Jan. 2nd, 1911.

MORE ABOUT THE FLAG.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I have read with interest two letters in your columns referring to the Flag of Newfoundland. The writers want the praises of the "Flag that braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze," still we are the counterfeits. I have been also long interested in this very matter and have made many enquiries as to the origin of the Pink, White and Green which thousands of Newfoundlanders, the world over, revere as the "Native Flag."

The poets, historians, and the "bushborns" persist in claiming the "Pink, White and Green" as our own peculiar flag.

While we glory in being British, and while we chant the praises of the "Flag that braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze," still we are the counterfeits. I have been also long interested in this very matter and have made many enquiries as to the origin of the Pink, White and Green which thousands of Newfoundlanders, the world over, revere as the "Native Flag."

The poets, historians, and the "bush-

to. This Native Society had a flag, and pink was its color. They used it on their hall and at their meetings and at their public balls and in their processions.

About three-quarters of a century ago they used to haul firewood for the Bishops—Protestant and Catholic, for the Parsons and Priests, and on these occasions each Society used to fly proudly their own peculiar flag. At that time the Natives, the English and Irish, were about numerically equal in St. John's, with a good sprinkling of Scotch to give it a flavour.

When the C. E. and R. C. Catholics were being built, feeling ran high. The whole population, without distinction of creed or nationality, joined together. When the sealers came from North and South and the haul of rocks was on the "Natives" outnumbered the others ten to one. Then it was suggested that creed and nationality be dropped and that all unite under one flag, not a native but a Newfoundland Flag, one whose folds would be broad enough to unite all Newfoundlanders, whether by birth or adoption, regardless of creed or nationality.

Whether the old fellows were wise in their generation may be seen by a glance at the occupants to-day of the highest positions in Church, State and Business.

One of the most gifted and patriotic sons of Newfoundland has crystallized the sentiment of the flag in the following touching and patriotic lines, which also accounting for its origin:—

"The pink, the Rose of England shows,
The green, St. Patrick's emblem bright,
White in between the spotless sheet
Of Andrew's Cross displays its whites.
Then hail! the pink, the white, the green,
Our patriot flag! long may it stand,—
Our sireland's twine, their emblem's twine
To form the Flag of Newfoundland."

There seems to be good historical grounds for the use of the Pink, White and Green. When the populace were, enthused and hauled stones to build the Cathedral they were all united under the Pink, White and Green. When the old-time "jowlers" came in from the sealfishery log-loaded they ran up the Native Flag in the place of honour, when Capt. Boy-Bastard, dry-nursed baby to the farthest north, had a silk Newfoundland flag of Pink White and Green to run up beside the Stars and Stripes on the North Pole and only that Peary was such a bouncer that little flag of Pink, White and Green would have been such a witness in his favour to the world that the evidence would be incontrovertible, and he would not now be regarded by some scientific men as a fakir rivaling Cook.

I find my letter has grown longer than I intended, so I apologize for the crudeness of these notes, and hope some abler pen will give the terms the time and ability that the present writer lacks.

As for the official flag with the "panorama" on it, it is impossible; not one out of a hundred will fly it, not those for it, or recognize it, if they saw it.

Custom and usage has given us the Pink, White and Green for our Newfoundland Flag, and no amount of criticism will detract it.

It symbolizes Unity, Fraternity and Christianity—the union of all classes, the brotherhood of Newfoundlanders, either by birth or adoption, and the banding together of all creeds for the welfare of our native land.

Then:—

"Fling out the flag, o'er creek and crag,
Pink, White and Green, so fair so grand,
Long may it sway, o'er bight and bay,
Around the Shores of Newfoundland!"

Yours truly,
BUSH-BORN.

Boy Had Fits For 6 Years!

Druggist advised DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD—Cure complete and lasting.

Mrs. J. D. Palmer, 35 Park St., Astoria, N. Y., writes: "When 5 years of age my boy began to have fits. They came on in the night. He would make strange noises, stiffen out. In a month, face would twitch and sometimes turned purple. After the fits could not talk.

"The family physician said all I could do was to keep them down so what. The second physician pronounced trouble Jeffersonian epilepsy, but could not cure him. He suffered for six years before beginning the use of Dr. W. Chase's Nerve Food had three fits about five days. Our druggist recommended Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. "Mary" Dreams Again.

NEWFOUNDLANDERS IN SYDNEY WORKING WHILE THEY WAIT.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I had another very curious dream last week, and as my last one about the road work turned out so well I am afraid there is going to be something strange happen soon.

Well, my sake's, Mr. Editor, it was during Christmas time, and after Tom and myself had a "drop" of hot punch, and a chat about the old time Christmas, and the good sport we used to have, my head began to reel and I felt a sort of excited like, so I went to bed.

I had not been asleep long when I dreamt we had decided to leave Harbor Grace, and joined the train here for Sydney, Oh, I thought everybody was leaving, and on the breast of every man's coat was the word "waiting." At first I thought that meant waiting for the train, but after getting on the train, all kept their badges on. All along the line at the different stations many people, mostly young men, joined the train, and each showed the same badge, and just then I noticed my Tom had one. What could it all mean; several times the thought came to my old brain to ask what it meant, but as I did not want people to think me ignorant, I just waited for something to turn up when I would find out. All along the line we went, on to Port aux Basques, and then on board the Bruce with us—oh such a gang, and all wearing the same badge—"Waiting." We had a grand time across to Sydney, and it was a delightful morning when we landed. Hundreds of Newfoundlanders were on the wharf as the ship came along side, and my curiosity was still more aroused when I noticed on the breast of each man the word "waiting."

Well, well, well, thought I, what can it all mean. Surely some person here will soon tell me; but no, we met some Harbor Grace boys, who were working there, hurrying to their dinner, and on the coat of each was the same word—"waiting." By and by I saw a familiar little man coming toward me, wearing a tall beaver hat, and a walking stick. He had a lady with him and I recognized him at once as one of our members. He seemed to be in the very best of spirits, and I thought before I would see more of Sydney I would find out the meaning of this word—"waiting." But to my surprise he had a different badge, and his was in letters of gold, in the shape of a half moon, and the letters were: "a-a-t-i-s-t-e-d." I could stand this no longer, so I asked the first man I met to explain to me what all this meant, and this is how he explained it:—

The word "waiting" means that hundreds of thousands of disappointed Newfoundlanders are waiting the opportunity to show through the ballot boxes that their confidence in the present Government has been misplaced; at home they are going away while they wait; and here in Sydney we are working while we wait. Yes, said he, working and sending the money we can earn home to our dear ones, money that goes into the revenue, only to be squandered by this one and that one with tall hats and gold-headed canes sporting from one part of the world to the other, while our children are often in need of good food and warm clothing.

But, said I, what does the word "satisfied" I saw on two or three men mean. Oh, who would not feel satisfied, he said, with nothing much to do, but sport around with a fat cheque book in his pocket, and his passage paid everywhere, not to speak of the prospects of a pleasant trip to England next summer to take in the Festival of Empire and see the Coronation. With this, Mr. Editor, he threw up his hands, as he was getting very much excited, and I woke to find poor Tom trying to shake life in me, as I had appeared to him to be in great agony.

Perhaps some person can interpret this dream of mine.

Yours sincerely,
Hr. Grace, Jan. 2, 1911. MARY

MEDICAL FEES.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—

"Sick! Semper Tyrannus!"

The tariff published by the medical fraternity of St. John's, as might be expected, has called forth the just and prompt indignation of the general public; and it is to be regretted that these gentlemen thought it feasible to take such an unpopular step. Talk about the charges of the Light Brigade! 'Twasn't a circumstance to those of the medicals practising here at present. That of the former showed courage which could only be expected from men who were prepared to risk all and die for the glory of Old Albion; the chief feature of the latter, however, is the desire to grab all and live for Mr. Us & Co. That the charges are too high, Mr. Editor, and will work great hardship, is patent to all. I will illustrate a case of the wife of an ordinary laborer, whose child has fallen ill and needs medical attention. She sends for a doctor. Presently the toot! toot! of an auto is heard, from which that gentleman alights, walks into the house, examines or looks at the little patient. He draws forth his fountain pen, writes a prescription, takes his hat and gloves from the table, and says:

"Beef tea three times a day; be sure to keep her warm; good afternoon," and again the toot! toot! is heard. That ends the doctor's work. But what about the mother and her little one? The parent looks at the prescription, calculates it will cost 50 cents to fill, and $1.00 for the doctor—$1.50 all told—puts her hand in her pocket and takes forth her all—60 or 70 cents, just enough to buy medicine! As to the beef tea and the warmth recommended by the medico, that's out of the question, simply because her good man had the misfortune to help discharge only one "longshore steamer during the week. But then, she thinks of a kind neighbor in her hour of need; and the poorer the neighbor the more inclined to lend a helping hand. This is an instance of a case often met with by the very gentlemen who raised the tariff. True, we have some medicals (like the lamented and regretted Dr. Stabb) who would refuse to take a fee from one so circumstanced; but, judging the present charges, I am of opinion the M.D. after some names, besides "Medical Doctor," may—henceforth read as meaning "More Dough." If these doctors, Mr. Editor, were an underpaid class of men, every encouragement would be given them to better their condition in life; but I venture to say the majority of them have fat bank accounts, in addition to fast horses, autos, bikes, etc. besides taking (some of them) yearly pleasure trips abroad, whilst the very class who are helping them to all this cannot afford a trouting excursion to the Nine Mile Post.

Fond Return Affair.

The matter of the Fond Return fish was brought formally to the notice of the police department yesterday, and as a result the skipper and owner of the vessel, Gus James and E. Carew of the schr. Star are being sought for by the police. As exclusively reported in the Telegram, the fish was taken en out of the Fond Return at Cape Broyle and transferred to the schr. Star, after which the Fond Return was lost off Bay Bulls, the skipper reporting that the fish was on board and had been lost in the vessel. The fish was later brought here by the Star and the owner, Mr. W. S. Monroe, recovered it. A searching enquiry is to be made into the affair and every effort will be made to get the two men wanted, so that the details of the strange transaction may be learned.

Treat for Juveniles.

The T. A. Juveniles enjoyed a treat at their rooms last evening at the hands of the Guardians and members of the Adult Branch. At 6 p.m. 400 of them marched to the Casino Theatre where they enjoyed an hour's amusement seeing the moving pictures. They then returned to the Hall and sat down to a liberal supply of good things provided by the ladies. The bands of Mount Cashel and the senior branch were in attendance and played lively music. At the close each youngster was given fruit and candy to take home. The seniors then opened the programme of dances, and to the music of the T. A. Band kept the amusement up till a late hour.

Tidewaiters Celebrate.

At the Tidewaiters' room last night the annual meeting of the Tidewaiters, Warehousemen and Custom service men was held. The election of officers for the ensuing year took place, viz.: President, W. Kelly, Vice-President, S. Garland, Secretary, J. Hanley. The report for the year just ended was read and adopted, after which the company indulged in the usual festivities and had a good time.

WON THE PRIZES.—The prizes at the tournament of the Central Amusement Club last night were won by Messrs. Houlihan, Chisholm, Chas. and Stacey.
