When Rheumatism Strikes the Heart It Kills—"Nerviline" the Cure.

Effect of Nerviline on Chronic Cases Is Almost Magical.

Exposure to wet or cold is apt to bring on an attack. The muscles stiffen, the joints swell, and exertion brings on excruciating twinges.

Often the pain shifts from one part to another, and this is dangerous, as the heart is apt to be attacked. Death as a rule follows a heart attack.

The pain of rheumatism is quickly rubbed away with Nerviline.

This is a swift, lasting and safe way to cure rheumatism. You can depend on Nerviline. It has the power, the penetrating force, the control over pain that is so essential to a rheumatic remedy.

Lots of testimonials to prove Nerviline's certainty of cure.

The following letter is from Mr. E. O. Sautter, Port of Spain, Trinidad: "Last year I was severely troubled with rheumatism. I had it in my arms, shoulders and knees. The pain was at times excruciating, and laid me up so that I couldn't work. I went to Smith Brothers' Drug Store and was advised by the manager to use 'Nerviline.' That was excellent advice. I used Nerviline as directed and was cured, completely cured of every trace of my old enemy."

Once you use Nerviline you'll realize it's different from all the others—that it contains something that gets right "at" the pain the minute you rub it on. The large 50 cent family size is the most economical—get it today, or else the 25 cent trial size. Sold by dealers everywhere.

CHAPTER VI
The Artist's Model.

"Twenty pounds a year?" suggested Norah.

Harman shook her head decisively.

"No, my lady," she said, "that would be too high a wage, and too much for so young a girl as Becca to have to spend on dress—for that's how it would all go," she sighed.

"Well," said Norah, thoughtfully, "where is the special wickedness in that, Harman? If I earned any money I should like to spend it how I pleased, and I am sure Becca would buy very pretty clothes."

"Yes, my lady," assented Harman, respectfully, "she has good taste, though where she got it—if you'll make it ten pounds, my lady."

"Very well," said Norah. "Well!" she asked, with a smile, for the woman had looked at her with a peculiar fixedness.

Harman colored and dropped her eyes.

"Begging your ladyship's pardon," she explained, in a low voice, "I was thinking that I told your ladyship that you were not like the countess, your mother; but I didn't know you so well yesterday!" and she curtseyed.

Norah looked down, and her lip quivered; then she said:

"Will you tell Becca that I should like to see her?"

Then she ran into the house, with her heart lighter and brighter than it had been since she arrived at the Court, and altogether unconscious that she had that morning forged two links in the chain of her destiny.

CHAPTER VII

An Apology and an Invitation.

CYRIL BURNE stood looking after Norah and the earl for some moments then he went back to his easel. But he could not work. The beauty of the scene which he had so revelled in a short time ago had mysteriously fled; the sun was still shining, the trees still in their summer beauty, but the joyous light had somehow disappeared at the moment Norah had passed from sight.

He sat and gazed absently at the sketch, but he saw not it, but the lovely face, with its expressive eyes and the wealth of golden-brown hair.

He had been smitten by her beauty on the preceding afternoon, but now that he had talked with her, basked in her smile, watched the thousand expressions that flashed in the lovely eyes and seemed to dance on the sweet lips, his admiration had grown into—what? That aching in the heart, a craving to see more of her, to hear her, to be near her, which we call love.

His face grew pale in the intensity of his thoughts, and unconsciously he murmured:

"Lord Arrowdale's daughter, and I am a poor painter! And it was she whom I heard last night! I knew it! Lord Arrowdale's daughter! Will he be angry with her for staying to talk with me? For letting me paint her? Perhaps he will tell her that she sinned against the fetishes, Conventionality and Propriety—will forbid her to recognize me when she sees me again. And I must meet her! I must! I must! Norah! I never thought the name so beautiful before! Oh, Jack, Jack, you didn't call me a fool last night; but I deserved that you should! Norah!"

He murmured the name as if it were the sweetest music in his ears; then he looked at her figure in the sketch, and, as if it cost him a tremendous effort, he gently and softly drew the wet brush over it and effaced it.

"I stole that," he murmured. "It was not fair. It was sacrilege! But some day—"

He broke off suddenly, becoming conscious that he was not alone. At the right of him among the trees flickered a patch of pink. It was a woman's dress. He looked at it with some surprise, and saw a tall, slim girl, with black hair and dark, melting eyes, which were fixed on something in the distance. She had not seen him, and he had sat too motionless and quiet for her to have heard him. He wondered vaguely what she was looking at until he saw a waiting, impatient look.

A lover has no eyes for any other woman than the mistress of his heart, but Cyril Burne was an artist, and he noticed that the girl was more than pretty, and he watched her as she stood tapping her small foot on the ground and plucking at the cheap, but neat, lace on her dress—watched her absent-mindedly.

Suddenly she turned her head, as one instinctively does when one is watched, her dark face flushed, and she made a movement as if to conceal herself behind the trees, but as Cyril mechanically raised his hat, she stepped forward, and stood looking at him half-shyly, half-defiantly.

"It is very warm," said Cyril, for the sake of saying something, wondering whether she was a servant, and inclined to decide that she was a farmer's daughter.

Becca inclined her head.

"Yes," she said, "What are you doing?" and her dark eyes wandered curiously to the picture.

"Painting," he replied, checking a smile.

She came up to him and looked at the sketch, and the thought crossed Cyril's mind that he had quite a grand private view that day.

"It's very pretty," she said; then, as she looked at him again she made a half-curtsey and said, her face crimson: "I—I beg your pardon, sir. I—I didn't know you were a gentleman."

Cyril laughed.

"Didn't you?" he said. "Well, that's a mistake other people often make. And, after all, perhaps I'm not. But we won't argue the question; you have done nothing that requires my pardon. Are you waiting for some one?"

The girl started and looked at him, and then averted her eyes.

"No," she said, in a low voice, "I was looking at the deer."

He nodded. He was sure that he had not seen her before, and yet somehow her voice seemed familiar to him. Suddenly there flashed upon him the recollection of the fragment of conversation he had heard by the horse pond last night, and he looked at her with more than interest.

"Do you live near here?" he asked. She nodded.

"In the village, sir."

"Well—I suppose I mustn't ask your name?" he said, with the frank smile in his eyes and about his lips that was so characteristic and irresistible.

The girl colored, and shot a glance at him out of her dark eyes.

"Oh, yes, sir; I'm Becca South."

"Becca? That's short for Rebecca, I suppose? Well, it's a pretty name, and—"you're a pretty girl," he was going to add, thoughtlessly, but it struck him at the moment that it was scarcely a wise thing to add to the vanity already existing behind the pretty face—"and now I must be going," he said instead, and he began to pack up his things. In doing so he dropped his box of colors, and Becca quite naturally went down on one knee to help in their recovery.

"You are very kind and I am very clumsy," he was saying, with a laugh, when, as if from the ground, Guildford Berton and his black horse stood before them.

Becca uttered a cry and let drop the box, and Cyril, looking up, fancied he saw, if not fear, a look of recognition in her face, which had grown suddenly peony-colored; but Mr. Guildford Berton glanced at her in a cursory sort of way.

"Ah, Becca," he said, carelessly.

She stood for a minute, her eyes fixed upon the ground; then, putting the box on the ledge of the easel, turned and disappeared among the trees.

Cyril expected Guildford Berton either to ride on or to commence a verbal, perhaps a physical, attack upon him in continuation of that of the morning, but calmly went on arranging his painting tools.

But, to his surprise, Guildford Berton dismounted, and coming up to him, said:

"Mr. Burne—for I have learned in the village that that is your name—I have come to offer you an apology for my—discourtesy this morning."

He pronounced the words slowly and distinctly, though in a low voice, as if he had been rehearsing them, and Cyril looked up at the set face with a look that was one of astonishment for Incandescent Gas Lighting.

Possibly, the feature of incandescent gas lighting most frequently noted by casual observers is the great ease with which tasks, ordinarily arduous under artificial light may be performed under the Welsbach gas mantle. The light has a peculiarly "soft" quality, difficult to describe, but which is readily recognized by those who have had experience with the gas mantle lamp.

In its general effect upon bodily health and comfort, the use of incandescent gas lighting is decidedly favorable. The currents of air set up by the burning gas improves ventilation, tending to expel the air vitiated by respiration and draw in fresh air to replace it. Harmful or dangerous disease germs are instantly destroyed in the flame. The extent to which this effect takes place may be verified by placing a gas lamp close to a ceiling without any provision for interfering with the up-rushing air currents. The charred particles which collect immediately above the lamp are the remains of dust particles which before passing through the flames were laden with germs and microbes. Actual experiments have shown that the burning of gas lamps in rooms previously containing bacteria, resulted in absolute sterilization of the air.

Contrary to the popular notion, the temperature of rooms lighted by incandescent gas lamps is seldom markedly greater than under incandescent electric light, even under unfavorable conditions of ventilation, while in rooms provided with the ventilating facilities required by the demands of hygiene, the temperature in gas-lighted rooms is frequently lower.

By J. J. St. John.

the moment, but instantly changed to a more cordial one.

"I was engaged in deep thought when I came upon you suddenly, and, being quite unprepared for your presence, I—I candidly admit—lost my temper. I beg to tender you an apology."

Cyril held out his hand in frank and prompt response.

"I accept it, Mr. Berton," he said. "I fancy we both lost our tempers, didn't we? At any rate, I am sure I did. But, you see, I disliked being disturbed at my work as much as you did at your thinking. And, after all, it was I who was in the wrong, though I am glad to find that I was not quite such a criminal as—well, as I supposed," he said, good-naturedly, for he was going to say, "as you tried to make me out."

Guildford Berton took the hand and held it for a second, then let it drop, and stood with his eyes fixed on the ground, as if he were listening intently to every word the other said. Then he raised his eyes, and, looking first at Cyril and then beyond him, said, in the same guarded, impassive voice:

"I hear that you are staying at the rooms at The Chequers?"

"Yes," said Cyril, "and very jolly little rooms they are."

He spoke quite pleasantly and genially, for it was not his way to bear a grudge against the man whose apology and hand he had accepted.

"Yes, I am living in a small cottage in the lane close by; any one will show it to you. Perhaps if you are not more profitably or pleasantly engaged you will come in and smoke a cigar with me this evening?"

He gave the invitation almost in the same tone as that in which he had offered his apology, and Cyril would have liked to have declined, but, thinking it would seem ungracious, he accepted at once.

"I shall be very pleased," he replied.

"Very well, then," said Guildford Berton.

He still stood, his eyes fixed on the ground.

If Your Throat is Husky, Catarrh May be Starting.

A weak or irritated throat is the first step towards Catarrh. Everything depends on your remedy. A cough mixture slips quickly over the weak spots, drops into the stomach and does little but harm digestion. It's altogether different with Catarrh—It cures because it gets right at the trouble. You inhale Catarrh, breathe in the vapor of healing balsams that strengthen and restore the weak throat tissues. You'll never have colds or coughs. Throat trouble and catarrh will disappear with the use of Catarrh. Get the large dollar outfit which includes the inhaler, it lasts two months and is guaranteed to cure. Smaller sizes, 25c. and 50c., sold everywhere.

WATER

Water is a mild, wet beverage which is used to lubricate man. Some men need lubricating more than others, and at times are compelled to fall back on some alcoholic stimulant which imparts a headache that would feel better if equipped with shock absorbers.

Water can be applied either internally or externally without injuring anybody, but most people prefer to swallow it in rapturous gulps. With so much water in the world it would seem as if more could be used on the outside with satisfactory results, but this thought does not appear to strike until Saturday night comes around.

One of the advantages of living in the country is that water is free, while in most of our large cities it costs as much as a good grade of cylinder oil. It is a hard blow to move to town from the farm and be obliged to rent drinking water by the short gallon, and listen during the still hours of the night to the ceaseless tripping of the water meter. The very apex of extravagance is seen when a plutocratic property holder sprinkles his lawn four nights a week with water furnished by the city at the price of wood alcohol.

Water is a great aid to the corn crop when it is not applied too far apart. It is a question which makes the most money for the owner, watered corn or watered stock, but in the long run a good crop of yellow dent corn makes a softer dying bed and a more salubrious future.

Water is deposited on the earth by nature, which sometimes forgets when to turn off the faucet. When

No one who has ever passed through a cloudburst and came out with his bones in their original location, will ever scoff at the storm king or leave home without a pair of white wings.

In Milady's Boudoir.

SMILE AND WIN THE WORLD.

What is more infectious than a woman's smile, which emanates directly from the heart and shines from the eyes? The whole souled kind of a smile, not the made to order variety. Smiles, dimples, and blushes go a long way to enhance a face, whether fair or plain.

The old saying is that dimples and blushes go together, but old sayings are not always true. Blushing is largely a matter of practice and the result of a good healthy skin. The woman who lets her skin grow dull and thick, with hardened muscles and the corners of her mouth sagging, will never find herself blushing; while the girl who looks well to her complexion and her general health will find the rosy flushes come easily.

Cultivate smiles, for these keep the lines softened and help to hide old age. Habitual pouting enlarges and coarsens the under lip, and all the unconscious tricks of facial expressions increase and deepen the lines. In positive malformation, of course, a surgeon should be consulted, but the slight defect can be largely relieved at home.

Stand before a mirror and "try on" pleasant expressions just as you would a new hat. Try and try again, always looking in the glass. Strive to attain a smile that shows your teeth, for the whiteness of them will lend brightness to an otherwise dull face.

Laugh as much as you can. Better have a few tiny wrinkles about the eyes that massage will eliminate, than to go about with a pouting face and sagging mouth. And when you smile, don't do it in an absentminded manner. It is one of woman's greatest and strongest attractions—that of a pleasant smile. Look at the person you smile at. Stand in front of the glass and practice it until you get just the right smile that will show two rows of glistening teeth, and you will have gone far toward helping your personal appearance.

French Steamer Pro Patria.

The little French steamer Pro Patria was supposed to have got away from North Sydney this morning for this port on her last trip for this season, bringing a cargo of flour to Tessier & Co. In all probability the vessel will resume the St. John's-St. Pierre-Halifax-North Sydney route next spring and will run in the east trade between North Sydney and St. Pierre during the winter months.

Dr. Carrel Prevents Infection in Wounds

By Applying New System of Sterilization.

Paris, Oct. 22.—A system of sterilizing wounds which has been successfully applied at the hospital at Compiegne under the direction of Dr. Alexis Carrel of New York, Nobel prize winner, has been extended to the American hospital at Neuilly, the American and Belgian hospitals in Belgium and will probably be adopted in all the war hospitals of the Entente Allies.

Hughes Le Roux, editor of the Matin, describing a visit to the Compiegne hospital, quotes Dr. Carrel as saying:

"Beginning in September, 1915, it would have been possible to suppress completely the suppuration of wounds in the hospitals, but our process encountered such resistance from the heads of the profession that it was, so to speak, applied nowhere, though the lives of a great number of wounded would have been saved by this means. The savants would not believe in the possibility of the complete sterilization of deep wounds, but we have succeeded in doing it."

The process as described by M. Le Roux consists of complete irrigation of the wound by means of a rubber tube with numerous branches, perforated with many small holes. The sterilizing solution was perfected after experiments with 200 or more different substances in various combinations. The wound is thus rid of all foreign substances, and every corner or possible pocket is thoroughly cleansed.

The process of healing is carefully watched, and if normal healing does not ensue the wound is examined for foreign substances which might have inadvertently remained, and irrigated anew. But the removal of muscles or bones not irreparably injured is not practiced on the first or second examinations as frequently as has been the case heretofore, and in this way parts are saved which might otherwise have been lost.

When examination shows that the wound is aseptic, the wound is closed. "Experience shows," says Dr. Carrel, "that in a sterilized cavity thus closed, nature's healing process goes on with a rapidity hitherto unknown. The duration of the treatment is abridged about two-thirds and the number of amputations diminished 50 per cent. In certain cases complete healing occurs in one-tenth the time required under ordinary treatment."

"The economic consequences of this treatment can be seen from the estimate of 25 per cent. depreciation in the value of a man suffering from an infected fracture, while with a sterilized fracture the depreciation is only 5 per cent, resulting in a great decrease in the pension rate as well as in the cost of the treatment."

If sugar is added to stewed fruit after it has become cold, much less will be required to sweeten it.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DISTEMPER.

The Verdun Thrust.

(From the Boston Transcript.)

The matter of immediate and commanding interest in the brilliant French stroke at Verdun is not at all the ground taken from the Germans. Relatively to the space occupied by the German armies in France, this is but a narrow strip. The interest and consequence of the proceeding lie in its demonstration, added to the demonstration already recorded on the Somme, that the Allies now possess superior powers of destruction. By a well-managed and sudden coup, the French commander has brought to bear on the Crown Prince's front the preponderating gun and man power that has already permitted the advance of the Allies on the Somme and the capture of the intensely fortified points of Comblès and Thiepval. The new Verdun drive is a part of the working out of the supreme test of the resources of the two antagonists, and the test is going against the Germans. It is the moment when, after a long clinch between two apparently equally matched wrestlers, one of the antagonists begins to yield, his strength proving less than the other's, and to bend to his fall. It is quite evident that the Verdun salient can never be the point of principal pressure of the French. But the blow here has the effect to confuse and weaken the German resistance on the Somme, and greatly to hearten and stimulate the French nation. Incidentally it demonstrates the French superiority in the air. Manifestly the Germans were surprised, and such surprises are only possible, in these days, when the defenders' air reconnaissance is poor. It further crippling blows such as this can be dealt by the Allies at other points on the western line, the power of the Germans will soon be exhausted beyond the possibility of effectual resistance anywhere. The French success at Verdun will have very important consequences.

The Deluded German Ajax.

London Telegraph.—We observe that the German papers still go on repeating their tale that the population of London is panic-stricken at the Zeppelins, and still go on heaping their own people with stories of devastation and destruction among the fortresses and ammunition factories of Great Britain. They remind us of nothing so much as of poor demented Ajax bathing his hands in the blood of the sheep and cattle which he had just slain in the pitiful delusion that he was putting his bitterest enemies to the sword. His madness, however, was heaven-sent; they are merely lying to deceive themselves and others. If only they could see the Londoners whom they picture as cowering in terror. If only they could hear the contempt which even those who are physically most nervous of the dropping bombs express of these midnight miscreants and of the arch-miscreant who despatches them on their errand! The loathing of the unspesakable and his way.

Hallowe'en Concert and Sociable.

The Hallowe'en concert and sociable held by the Young Ladies' Guild of St. Andrew's Church in the Presbyterian Hall last evening was largely attended. The hall was beautifully decorated with the flags of the Allies, the usual Hallowe'en figures being prominently displayed. During the evening a sale of work prepared by the Guild took place and together with the sale of candy, "grab bag," etc., a handsome sum was received. At 8 o'clock a most enjoyable concert took place, the following contributing numbers: Mrs. King, Misses Mera, Strang, Sbes, Hayward, Hanlon, Ryan; Pte. Green, I. Corp. J. Strang, Messrs. C. Trapnell, C. J. Fox, McIntosh, A. Bulley, J. Dewling, Williams and Young. The accompanists were Mr. King and Miss Hayward. The proceeds are to be devoted to church work and the fund to assist disabled soldiers. Congratulations are due to Miss Robertson, President of the Guild and her co-workers who were instrumental in promoting the affair.

THE APPEAL.

Yesterday we spoke of the need and clear call for men, that Newfoundland may continue to play her part in the field and keep her gallant regiment up to strength. To-day we publish an appeal from the Recruiting Committee, which puts the case succinctly and well. It pays tribute to those that have gone and so well represented the Island; it points out the obligation that is upon those that yet remain. There is no need for us to expatiate upon it now and repeat what we have already said. We are pleased to be able to note already a fine response from the north. Lieut. Hicks reports from Seldom-Come-By that twenty-four volunteers are coming on the Prospero and more will follow, while Rev. Stenlake has secured four recruits from Long Island. These places are to be congratulated: the northern districts are sustaining their reputation. The others will not lag behind: let us see them make a spurt. Let us aim at a daily average of at least a score of recruits. If that can be achieved there will be no fear of the Regiment falling for lack of reserves and losing its splendid individuality. It must be maintained at strength. And to Newfoundland last of all must Britain call in vain for men. By our performance in the next few weeks and months will be measured our merit to the title we have chosen for ourselves among her colonies—"The oldest and most loyal."

The Marina— and Others.

It now transpires that six American Hives were lost when the Marina went down, and it seems to have been established beyond all doubt that the attack was without warning. It must not be thought, however, that this formidable combination of circumstances will dismay Washington. Undoubtedly the incident will prove annoying to Wilson and the Democrats on the eve of the elections, and will be utilised to the full by their opponents. But experience has made the good President and his henchman secretary adroit in these matters and the finding of excuses to keep the country out of war. They have been commendably prompt in asking Germany for "information" on the subject, and they will make a great show of firmness, knowing well that no satisfactory reply can possibly be received or action taken until after the fate of the presidency has been decided.

Britain and her Allies are not likely to be much concerned which way that decision may go, but they will certainly be interested in developments once it has been made. The election past and the overrated German vote no longer of importance, the President, whether Wilson or Hughes, will be compelled to take notice of this last outrage. It will be strange if he is not compelled to take action as well. How can Germany make the most shadowy pretence of having kept her famous "pledges" in this instance? No warning; no measure for the preservation of human lives; thirteen of them, including six Americans, lost; and not even the possibility of proving the vessel a troop-ship or armed. If, of course, we accept Baron Beresford's view that Germany aims at bringing the States into the war willy-nilly, or will conduct her ruthless warfare regardless of that country's attitude, there is nothing more to be said. We would in that case merely have to await events which would make it plain even to Washington that it was time to cast aside pride and turn its attention to fighting.

Careful critics, however, will not share this view, but explain the case and the whole course of the lately revived submarine campaign merely as evidence that Germany is out to do all the damage she possibly can to

Britain, and that the "Tirpittaites" have got the upper hand in the matter. Evidently they do not consider that America's power to do them harm is worth balancing against the immediate gain. If so, they are making a great mistake. Her intervention can only hasten greatly the end, and the idea that her presence at the council-board when peace is being debated will assist Germany is a great misinterpretation both of America herself and of the Allies. To us this is sufficiently obvious, but it is not so to the Germans. They have already made enough big mistakes of this sort to be quite capable of falling into this one, and they may have occasion in the end to see the biggest of all in the episode of the war beginning with the Lusitania and ending with the Marina.

If our readers cannot make sense of to-day's messages (which happen to be unusually interesting) we shall not be surprised; if they can, their thanks are due to us. We would be the last to discourage economy in the public service, and the practice of the Postal Telegraph Department of utilising to the last inkly shred the carbons used in making copies of the public messages is most praiseworthy. It has its disadvantages, however, for quite a number among the public like to know what the messages contain. For our own part we have no complaint. When a number of names, weird enough in the original, have been metamorphosed by the little vagaries of our telegraph lines, given a striking grammatical setting and finally sent to us with the letters either hopelessly blurred or omitted altogether, the result is most interesting. To disentangle it all with the help of a few atlases, Who's Who and Whitaker's Almanack provides as pleasant a way of filling the tedium of the many vacant hours we have at our disposal every morning as any we have yet discovered. But sometimes it fills them too effectually and a number of riddles are left to our readers themselves to solve. Perhaps they find it amusing.

Careful critics, however, will not share this view, but explain the case and the whole course of the lately revived submarine campaign merely as evidence that Germany is out to do all the damage she possibly can to

FURTHER STORIES OF THE MARINA.

CORK, To-Day. Fifteen Americans who reached Cork on Tuesday night with other members of the crew of the Marina are to-day under the care of the American Consul. "I saw two submarines," said Robert Preston, one of the crew, "while I was getting into the boat of Mr. Smith, the only surviving officer. The second explosion came after we were clear of the ship. The first torpedo had given the vessel a tremendous list. The second righted it and shook it from stem to stern and broke it; it sank immediately. I saw three of the crew running up the stern as the vessel gave a last tumble. Capt. Brown was the coolest man on board. During the launching of the boats he saw that every man visible was in the boat, then jumped for a boat himself but missed it in the rough sea and was drowned before our eyes." Questioned further in regard to two submarines, Preston said they were plainly visible from the bridge. The first one attacked on the starboard, while the other lay off some distance to port doing observation duty. The ship was struck squarely in the bunkers, said Robert Hay, a member of the engine room. The staff bunkers fell in and the engines were dismantled. Two men were killed in the stockhold and several others were scalded. Three boats got away, the fourth was smashed. Orders were given to see particularly that all Americans among the passengers of crew were saved. The wireless operator tried to summon aid but his gear was dismantled by the first torpedo.

Charles St Church.

INVITES Nfld. PASTOR. The Charles Street congregation has the reputation of taking time by the fore-lock and looks out for her new minister before the best ones are picked up by other congregations. With a year and a half yet to complete the time of the present pastor—Rev. Hamilton Wigle—the Church has invited Rev. W. J. Bartlett, of Sydney, to become their pastor in June 1918. Mr. Bartlett has not had time to reply to the invitation, but it is fully expected that he will accept. The people of Sydney brought Mr. Bartlett from St. John's, Newfoundland, two years and a half ago, so that his term there exactly synchronizes with the pastoral terms at Charles Street. While the present pastor formerly of Winnipeg and the next one formerly of Newfoundland, surely the congregation will be demonstrating that "extremes can meet."

Here and There.

LINE TROUBLE.—The Reid Co's. telegraph lines which were interrupted during last night are partly restored to-day.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.

AN APPEAL

The Recruiting Committee of the Patriotic Association deem it necessary that the King's subjects in Newfoundland should be made acquainted with the present condition of affairs and that, by a full knowledge of the needs of Empire, the patriotism of the Colony may be stimulated.

From the beginning of the war now in progress, voluntary enlistment has been the basis upon which has been built up the Naval and Military contingents from Newfoundland. We have sent 1500 men for the Navy and 3000 for the Army. Not a few have been decorated for bravery, and all have sustained the highest traditions of the Empire and won for themselves and for the Colony undying fame.

In the North Sea, on the Atlantic, on trade routes and wherever duty has demanded, our Naval volunteers have acquitted themselves with distinction.

Wherever the Regiment has been called on to discharge its duty it has won unstinted praise.

But more men are needed to finish the work, to overwhelm the enemy, and secure the blessings of a lasting peace. We therefore appeal to the men of Newfoundland to offer themselves for service and to furnish His Majesty the King with a portion of that help which the Mother Country deems necessary to accomplish this result.

The obligation rests upon us to furnish reserves to fill the ranks, and our comparative immunity from the consequences of a state of war must not be allowed to blind us to the stern need of more men, not alone that victory may be secured but that Newfoundland's place in the Colonial Empire of Great Britain may be assured. It must not be said of us that the blood shed and the treasure expended has been in vain; but if the response which is anticipated be fully realized it will be blazoned to the remotest dependency of the Crown that the boast of this Colony has been well justified—most ancient and most loyal.

Wedding Bells.

ELLIS-VEY. A quiet but pretty wedding took place this morning at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin when the bride took place of Miss Ada Ellis, youngest daughter of Mr. A. Ellis of Gray & Goodland's, and Walter Ingham Vey, youngest son of Mr. J. J. Vey, manager of the Mfg. Co. The bride, who entered the church leaning on her father, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, was charmingly arrayed in a handsome travelling suit, carried an ivory prayer book, and as bridesmaid, Mr. Gordon Christie, L.R.A.M., ably supporting the bride. The Rev. H. Uphill performed the ceremony. As the bridal party leaving the church the Bridal Chorus, Wagner, was played. Miss Muriel Ellis, sister of the groom, presided at the organ. The groom's present to the bride was an anniversary clock, which the bride's father had bought for her. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents.

Was It a Joke?

By RUTH CAMERON.

At the country place where I was staying last summer, a neighbor of ours told us this little experience.

At a city shop, which delivers free to a radius of a hundred miles, she bought two pieces of blotting paper and ordered them sent. The blotting paper cost ten cents. The gross profits could not be more than five, and the cost of delivery was twenty-six cents. Fancy! My neighbor regards this as a huge joke on the shop.

But was it? Who Pays That Twenty-Six Cents? Who actually pays that twenty-six cents? The consumer, of course. To be sure, the woman who bought the blotter doesn't pay the whole of it, only an infinitesimal assessment. But she also pays an infinitesimal part of countless costly deliveries made to other people.

With my purchase from another shop, I found the other day a small slip requesting that merchandise returned for a refund be in proper condition and returned within the week because—"Much waste is caused by the habit some people have of keeping purchases for weeks, sometimes months, and then returning them, often in unsaleable condition. This waste adds to the expense of doing business. YOU pay your share of this expense when you buy goods here or in any other store."

All Abuses of Privileges Add To Expense of Doing Business. All wastes, all abuses of privileges, add to the expense of doing business.

Having little parcels sent that you might have carried, or have had included with some larger purchase, is one such abuse.

Delaying monthly payment of bills is another.

"But," you say, "suppose I do what is fair, and other people do not, what good does it do me?"

The One Way You Can Help. It is just that feeling that keeps more people from trying to improve conditions than any other motive. The thing the average person can contribute to any forward movement is the water-drop of his co-operation, the sand-grain of his effort to do the square thing.

And you know what happens when you get enough little drops of water and enough grains of sand together.

To be sure I should like to see the rewards of such effort more fairly divided. I am told that there is a small shop somewhere where they are trying out a two-price system, one for the customer who pays cash and carries his goods home; the other for the customer who wants credit and delivery.

Here's hoping that system will succeed!

Army Officers Discover a Rifle Bullet

That Can Pierce Armour at Fifty Yards.

(N. Y. Times.)

An armor-piercing bullet which can be fired from the regulation army Springfield rifle was tried out at the Sandy Hook Proving Grounds with surprising results a few days ago. It is of only .30 calibre. Fired at a distance of fifty yards the projectile pierced through a sheet of steel three quarters of an inch thick, and then penetrated a silhouette target planted behind the steel plate. In the tests that followed not one, but many such targets were riddled by bullets which first passed through steel protection in front of them.

This bullet, which was called "an infinitesimal armor-piercing projectile," yesterday by one of the officers who witnessed the Sandy Hook tests, is the outcome on the part of some of the ablest officers in the Ordnance Corps of the Army. Only a few have been manufactured up to date and all of these were made in Government plants by Government mechanics acting under the direction of officers.

The first batch of the bullets was delivered at Sandy Hook a few weeks ago. Last Wednesday they were officially tested in the presence of about fifty Ordnance officers and the corps of engineers. Half a dozen silhouette targets the size of an ordinary soldier were rigged up and placed behind a sheet of 1/4 inch steel about forty feet long and ten feet in height.

A special detail of soldiers from the Coast Artillery Corps and enlisted men of the Ordnance Corps was selected to do the firing. At 100 yards the bullets did not penetrate the steel, but at fifty yards practically every one went crashing through and most of them also passed through a target after clearing the steel. The targets were practically destroyed as a result of the tests.

In appearance the new bullets are exactly like the ordinary bullets used in the army regulation rifles. The small armor-piercing piece of steel is increased in lead, which acts as a lubricant when the bullet strikes steel and thus simplifies penetration. After the tests at Sandy Hook were concluded the area immediately in the rear of the steel plate and targets was found covered with the projectiles, and in nearly every instance the projectile had not been in the least distorted.

The lead covering is, of course, ripped from the projectiles as it passes through any solid obstruction. It is believed that one of the new bullets could be fired clean through from ten to twenty men standing in a row. The first man in whom the leaden incensement would be left would of course be the most terribly wounded. It is not believed that it is contemplated ever to use the new bullets in ordinary infantry actions.

The great value of these bullets, it was pointed out yesterday, will be against armored motor cars, against troops hiding in houses or behind steel or other protections, and in certain kinds of trenches. The bullets can be fired from machine guns as well as rifles, and it was said recently by an officer who is familiar with them that against such instruments of war as the now famous British "tanks" used on the Somme against the Germans recently, they would undoubtedly greatly simplify defensive operations.

The next tests to which the new type of bullet will be subjected will probably involve, it was said, its penetrativeness through wood of various thicknesses. These tests will also be made at the Sandy Hook Proving Grounds.

WINTER'S COMING. It is a pleasant thing to know that a winter comes a-coming, and we shall have the luscious snow for which we have been sighing. Some people shudder when they speak of this delightful season; they hate to hear the blizzards shriek, and mark the brooks lets freeze. But I am glad to see the sleet. I keep my harpstrings thrumming, and clap my hands and wave my feet, for wintertime is coming. 'Tis then we sit around the fire, the whole blamed bunch together, and tell old tales and punch the lye, and laugh at stormy weather. We're closer drawn in kinship then, than warm days ever find us, the children and the whiskered men, and granny perch behind us. Home life is truer when the storm howls round the roof and basement, when our old sitting room is warm, though frost is on the casement. So light the lamp and bar the door, and keep the fireplace burning; all other seasons are a bore, and wintertime is coming.

WINTER'S COMING. It is a pleasant thing to know that a winter comes a-coming, and we shall have the luscious snow for which we have been sighing. Some people shudder when they speak of this delightful season; they hate to hear the blizzards shriek, and mark the brooks lets freeze. But I am glad to see the sleet. I keep my harpstrings thrumming, and clap my hands and wave my feet, for wintertime is coming. 'Tis then we sit around the fire, the whole blamed bunch together, and tell old tales and punch the lye, and laugh at stormy weather. We're closer drawn in kinship then, than warm days ever find us, the children and the whiskered men, and granny perch behind us. Home life is truer when the storm howls round the roof and basement, when our old sitting room is warm, though frost is on the casement. So light the lamp and bar the door, and keep the fireplace burning; all other seasons are a bore, and wintertime is coming.

WAR REVIEW.

LONDON, To-day.
Six American lives were lost in the sinking of the British steamer Marina. The American Consul at Queenstown has been informed, according to an official despatch, of the 51 Americans reported rescued at least two are injured. It is reported that the Marina was attacked by two submarines and that she sank within ten minutes. A heavy sea was running at the time. Up to the present the number of lives lost is in doubt. There has been little concentrated infantry fighting on the European battlefield. Along the border between Transylvania and Roumania the opposing armies continue the fray, but there is little change in the situation. In the region north east of Campolung in Roumania, fighting goes on, and Bucharest claims the capture of Mt. Reccand in Bratecua and the repulse of attacks in the Dragoslavie sector. Berlin claims the repulse of Roumanian attacks north of Campolung. Bucharest says an advance was made in the Jull Valley region and the Vulcan Pass making progress. The Roumanians have gained a victory in the region of the Szurdok Pass on the Roumanian-Transylvanian frontier. A wireless message from Bucharest reports the Roumanians drove the Austro-Germans back from the frontier, capturing prisoners and artillery. West of Lutsk in Volhynia the Russians have taken an Austro-German trench south of Svinitsky and repulsed counter attacks. On the Shara River Berlin reports that Russian attacks were repulsed. In Galicia the Austro-Germans have checked attacks below Stanislaw and occupied Russian positions in the Narayavka region, near Halicz. On the Angles French front in France and Belgium there has been little except artillery work. The Germans shelled the British front around Ypres and South of the Ancre the positions at the "Stuff" and Schwaben Redoubts. Bad weather is hampering operations in Macedonia, but the Serbians have made an advance in the Corna bend. The French have occupied Monastir, west of Prespa Lake. Artillery combats have occupied the soldiers on the Austro-Italian front.

GERMANY ASKED TO ACCOUNT.
WASHINGTON, To-day.
Germany has been asked to furnish the States with any information the Imperial Government may have concerning the sinking by submarines of the British steamers Marina and Rowanmore. That the request was forwarded became known through the American Embassy at Berlin.

SON TO CROWN PRINCE OF SWEDEN.
STOCKHOLM, To-day.
The Crown Princess of Sweden, gave birth to a son to-day. Crown Prince Gustav Adolf married in 1905 Princess Margaret Victoria, daughter of Prince Arthur, Duke of Connaught. They now have four sons and one daughter.

LOSSES HEAVY BUT DECREASING.
LONDON, To-day.
The October losses of 107,033 bring up the total British casualties for the months of the Somme offensive to 414,202. The daily average loss for October was 3,452. So far as is shown by the London figures, the losses of the British have been decreasing since August. The total reported for September was 119,540 or a daily average of more than 3,800; the August total was 127,945; a daily average of 4,127.

DETAILS OF LOSSES.
NEW YORK, To-day.
A News Agency despatch from London published to-day follows:—The British killed and wounded during the past month number 108,265, according to official casualty list this morning. Of this total 22,859, including 1,877 officers and 21,972 men were killed; 76,684 wounded, including 2,858 officers and 73,826 men; and 8,712 missing, including 439 officers and 8,273 men.

GERMAN "INTERNATIONAL" LAW.
COPENHAGEN, To-day.
A despatch from Frederichsaven to the Berlingske Tidende says the Captain of the Norwegian steamer Ternshet, who was taken to Frederichsaven with the members of his crew yesterday, reports that the Commander of the German submarine which sank his vessel told him that all cargoes for England will be treated as "contraband" in future.

SUCCESS IN MACEDONIA.
PARIS, To-day.
Official: British aircraft bombard important enemy depots at Demir-Hissar north of Lake Dolian. Italian artillery caught under its fire and dispersed Bulgarian troops in the direction of Akinjulin in the bend of the Corna. The Serbians continue to advance west of Lake Prossia. We occupied Singler Monastery. Bad weather prevails, generally hindering operations.

ALL ABOUT BOYED.
LONDON, To-day.
In the Commons yesterday Carlisle W. Bellairs asked Lord Robert Cecil, War Trade Minister, the reasons why the Foreign Office granted free conduct to Captain Karl Boyed, formerly German naval attaché at Washington at the time his withdrawal was requested by the American Government. Bellairs also asked whether Lord Robert was aware that Captain Boyed was head of an organization engaged in forgery, murder and arson in the States, and was now organizing in boats operating off the American coast from Lubeck. Lord Robert replied that safe conduct had been given Capt. Boyed at the official expressed wish of the States Government. The British Government felt the Captain's capacity for injuring the interests of this country was at least not greater in Germany than in the States. The Government saw no reason to doubt that all that Bellairs says about Capt. Boyed is true. Some of it is officially true but I don't think anything would be gained by announcing that no further safe conducts would be granted."

TWO MORE NORWEGIANS.
LONDON, To-day.
The Norwegian steamers Falketell and Ferdal has been sunk; the announcement is made by Lloyds.

OFF THE PEEAGE LIST.
LONDON, To-day.
Premier Asquith told the House to-day that the Government would introduce a bill providing for the removal from the peerage of those members of the House of Lords, for instance the German Princes, who are now in arms against the Allies.

OUR DEBT TO GERARD.
LONDON, To-day.
Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War Trade, announcing in the Commons yesterday the transfer of responsibility for matters relating to British prisoners in enemy countries from himself to Lord Newton, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, took occasion to express in the strongest language the deep debt of gratitude which in my judgment this country owes to Ambassador Gerard for securing better conditions for British prisoners. Lord Robert added, "Whatever may have been true at the beginning of the war, I believe it is no longer true that British prisoners are treated worse than those of other nationalities. In this relation decency of treatment is due almost entirely to the exertions of the American Ambassador. At the same time I should not like to conceal from the House that the conditions of some of the camps in Germany and other countries are still very far from satisfactory."

PASTOR RUSSELL DEAD.
TEXAS, To-day.
Charles Tazo Russell, known as Pastor Russell, Independent Minister and Editor of the Watch Tower, and prominent author of studies of the scriptures, died this afternoon on a passenger train en route from Los Angeles to New York, of heart disease.

ATTACKED BY TWO SUBMARINES.
LONDON, To-day.
Consul Frost has arranged to take the depositions of the 28 American survivors who have proceeded to Dublin. Thirty-four additional survivors including 15 Americans, are expected to arrive at Cork to-night. An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Skibberen, where some survivors of the Marina arrived, said the steamer was attacked by two submarines.

ANOTHER GREEK SUNK.
LONDON, To-day.
Lloyds report the sinking of the Greek steamer Massalia. The crew were landed at Gibraltar. The steamer Massalia was 2,186 tons gross.

THE RAIDER HOME AGAIN.
BERLIN, To-day.
The German submarine U-53 has returned safely, according to an official announcement.

FURTHER PIRACY.
PARIS, To-day.
A Lisbon despatch says a German submarine has sunk three Norwegian and British ships; 27 Norwegians and 29 Italians were landed at various ports.

1.00 P. M.
DEUTSCHLAND IN THE UNITED STATES AGAIN.
NEW LONDON, Con., To-day.

The German merchant submarine Deutschland arrived in the Harbor early this morning. Captain Koenig said the Deutschland left Bremen on October 10th and made the trip here without special incident. The entire crew comprise 25 men. The Deutschland appeared to enter the outer harbor shortly after midnight and proceeded to the dock of the Eastern Forwarding Co. The Deutschland was said to have a large cargo of chemicals. The Deutschland left Bremen on Oct. 10th and tied up at a berth prepared for her at 2.35 o'clock this morning. The submarine entered the lower harbor shortly after midnight coming in by the race at the entrance to Long Island Sound. For several weeks the Eastern Forwarding Co., agents for her owners, had a tug each night off Montauk Point ready to meet the long overdue Bremen, but the tug was withdrawn some time ago. It was evident that the Forwarding Co. had some warning of the Deutschland's arrival, however, for the tug was engaged and Capt. F. Finckh of the company, accompanied by a health officer, steamed out to meet her. The North German Lloyd steamer Willehad, which had been at her dock here for a number of weeks awaiting the arrival of the Deutschland, let her searchlight play on the water marking a path by which the Deutschland travelled to her wharf. The Deutschland carried clearance papers for Baltimore or any Atlantic port. The boat was no sooner moored than she was screened from sight by a pontoon carrying a high fence. Her crew went on board the Willehad to quarters awaiting them.

"PATRIOTIC" LABORITES IN AUSTRALIA.
MELBOURNE, To-day.
The anti-Conscription lead in the balloting on the question of Compulsory Military Service is only slightly reduced in the latest returns which show the following results against Conscription: 883,000. It will be a considerable time before the actual result is known. The newspapers are discussing the reconciliation of conscriptionists and anti-conscriptionists and Laborites, but the future depends entirely upon the attitude of Premier Hughes. The political situation is tense. At Sydney, 29 Labor members of the State Parliament have withdrawn their support from W. A. Holman, Premier of New South Wales, and formed a new party, while the Minister of Labor and Industry, John Estell, has resigned his portfolio owing to the differences over Conscription. At Brisbane, Senator Bamford has been expelled from the Labor movement because he supported Conscription. The resignation of Albert Garner, Vice-President of the Executive Council; A. J. Russell, Assistant Minister of Marine, and M. Higgs, Minister of the Treasury have been accepted.

TORPEDED WITHOUT WARNING.
DUBLIN, To-day.
The marine British steamer Marina was torpedoed without warning according to a statement made by the American survivors of the vessel, who arrived here to-night from Bar Haven, declared the statement of the Associated Press; that two torpedoes were fired at the Marina and that the submarine watched the boats containing the survivors for half an hour without offering any assistance.

SURVIVORS' TALE.
DUBLIN, To-day.
Twenty-eight survivors of the S. S. Marina arrived at the Seaman's Home here last night from Bar Haven. In a statement to the Associated Press they said, "we reached safely after more than 30 hours rough sea in an open boat." Capt. Brown was last seen lowering himself to a raft. The Marina with a cargo of whiskey from Glasgow to Baltimore was struck by a torpedo without warning on the starboard side off Skelling's Rock at 4.14 o'clock Saturday morning and sank in a few minutes. A second torpedo struck the port side of the vessel ten minutes after the first. All Americans aboard were members of the crew except one passenger, named Middleton, of Fredericksburg, who was drowned. Two stowaways were also drowned. The submarine watched our boats for half an hour, but offered no help." The Rocks named the Little Skelling and Great Skelling are situated in the Atlantic Ocean about eight miles S. W. of the Island of Valentia on the S. W. Coast of Ireland.

THE ANGHELIKA ATROCITY.
LONDON, To-day.
The Chronicle to-day says that further details regarding the torpedoing of the Greek ship Angelika, show that another crime against the usages of civilized warfare must be added to the ghastly history of German submarine warfare. The vessel left Piraeus at 7 o'clock in the evening having on board 150 officers and men who were going to Salonika to join the National Defence movement. After night fall the Angelika was sailing off Pleras with all her lights burning and showing those signs of nationality which the Germans themselves advised more than a year ago that the Greeks should display. At 9 o'clock the vessel, according to her captain, who has just returned to Piraeus, was torpedoed without the slightest warning. A torpedo struck her amidships, but as she was sailing near the shore the captain had time to turn her head toward land and beach her, thus saving many lives. It is believed that fifty persons perished as a result of the explosion of the torpedo. Another Greek vessel came along and encountered the submarine and was warned not to go to the assistance of the Angelika under pain of being torpedoed also. The lack of help resulted in the loss of lives which might have been saved.

AMERICAN AIRMEN KILLED.
PARIS, To-day.
Two American aviators have been killed near Nancy. The despatch gives no further details. The plane was an aeroplane containing two Americans, captured while flying over the Boulevard plateau near Nancy. The observer fell out and the pilot who came down with the machine was crushed to death under the engine.

ROUMANIAN OFFICIAL.

BUCHAREST, Oct. 31.
On the northern and northwestern fronts, from Tulgheș to Bicaș, the situation remains unchanged. At Brazoșca a small detachment surprised and repulsed the enemy on Mount Roșca, causing him heavy loss. In a single trench we found two officers and 40 men dead. We have occupied Mount Roșca, taking some prisoners, capturing a machine-gun and a searchlight. At Predealuș the bombardment has slackened. In Prahova valley and in the region of Droșlavie,
north of Campolung, we repulsed several enemy attacks. To the east of the river Alt an action is proceeding.
In Jial valley the pursuit of the enemy continues. At Orsova on the Danube, the bombardment is less violent.
On the southern front the situation is unchanged.

RESULT OF GERMAN RAID IN CHANNEL.

LONDON, Oct. 31.
The loss of six drift net boats, in addition to the sinking of the transport Queen, in the torpedo boat destroyer fleet raid, aided by German submarines in the English Channel, was admitted by Arthur Balfour in the Commons to-day. In answering a number of questions concerning the raid on the Channel transport service
the First Lord said that while the raiders had all the advantages that raiders possess in choosing the moment for attack, in this case it certainly failed. The only cross-Channel steamer to be attacked, Balfour said,

was the empty passenger vessel Queen and she would have been saved, he added, had the captain realized she would float. Six hours after the attack, the torpedo boat destroyer Flirt,
he said, was surprised in the darkness
by German destroyers, which fired on her at close range and sank her. The destroyer Nubian was torpedoed while attacking the German squadron, and could have been brought to harbor,
the First Lord asserted, but for the gale. It is believed the Nubian can be salvaged. He then admitted that six drift net boats had been lost. There is ground for thinking, Balfour declared, that two German torpedo boat destroyers, after being hit during the action, struck mines and were blown up and probably sunk. The above is the first intimation from British sources
that any ships, except the Queen, Flirt and Nubian were damaged in the German torpedo boat raid during the night of Oct. 26th and 27th. The British official statement said two of the ten German destroyers were sunk and the rest driven off, admitted the loss of the Queen, said the Flirt was missing,
and declared the Nubian grounded after being disabled by a torpedo. The German official statement on the raid declared that at least eleven outpost steamers, two or three torpedo boat destroyers or torpedo boats were sunk or damaged by the German squadron. The statement added that the German ships returned safely to their base without any loss.

BRITISH CASUALTIES FOR OCTO-BER.

LONDON, Oct. 31.
The British casualties reported in October in all war areas, are: Officers 4,331, men 102,202.

THE MARINA CASE.

LONDON, Oct. 31.
The Globe says: "Germany in her new sub. campaign apparently has thrown to the winds all consideration for neutrals and such pitiful shreds of international law as she still professed to maintain." The Pall Mall Gazette says: "If the facts bear any resemblance to the first versions it is clear President Wilson will be confronted by an awkward dilemma." Referring to President Wilson's "strict accountability" note and his election appeal of having kept America out of the war,
the Pall Mall Gazette says: "Even his firmest supporters may feel some anxiety as to the possibility of reconciling his diplomatic notes with his election posters in the view of such an incident as this. Whether America has any real protection to confer upon her subjects at all is a question which the Marina case may carry to a final answer."

ROUMANIAN VICTORY.

LONDON, Oct. 31.
The battle which has been in progress in the Szurdok East region on the Rumanian-Transylvanian frontier, has ended in a brilliant victory for the Rumanians, according to a wireless message from Bucharest today. The Austro-German forces are declared to have been repulsed from the frontier after having lost much artillery and many prisoners. Along the whole front of the Transylvanian Alps on the northern Rumanian border the Tonic lines have been shaken by the Rumanian attack, the despatch adds.

THE MACEDONIAN SITUATION.

LONDON, Oct. 31.
An official report from the Macedonian front, issued to-day, says: With the exception of a sharp patrol action near Kalandra, the situation remains unchanged. Our naval airplanes dropped bombs on the railway bridge at Simsirri, east of Drama, and inflicted damage.

ENGAGED IN FIERCE STRUGGLE.

PARIS, Oct. 31.
The official report from the Macedonian front to-day says that the Serbian troops in Cerna region, supported by French artillery, are engaged in a fierce struggle with the Germans and Bulgars. Yesterday west of Lake Presba both French and Serbians made further progress. The French took possession of Singlers Monastery.

GERMAN TRENCHES CAPTURED.

PARIS, Oct. 31.
A system of German trenches northwest of Sally Sallissel on the Somme front was carried by the French last night, the war office announced today. The French advanced as far as the Sally Church. South of the Somme the Germans made repeated attacks between Blaches and the region south of La Maisonette. By means of their last attempt they obtained a footing in some of the Malsonette farm buildings. On the Verdun front artillery fighting was less severe near Douaumont, and there was no infantry action in that locality.
Rhinine was bombarded violently by the enemy and some civilians were killed.

AUSTRALIAN CONSCRIPTION.

MELBOURNE, Oct. 31.
The position of the conscription referendum is virtually unchanged, but its friends declare themselves hopeful that the final result will show a majority in their favor. The political situation seems certain to become complicated but developments in this respect are not expected until Premier Hughes returns shortly from Sydney. Wars are being heard for the arrest of single men between the ages of 21 and 31 who failed to report under the compulsory training scheme.

ONLY TWO KILLED.

London, Portuguese East Africa, Oct. 31.—It is officially announced that the Portuguese forces lost only two killed in capturing Newveld from the Germans on Oct. 24th.
The losses of the German troops are described as heavy.

BROUGHT DOWN BY BRITISH AVI-ATOR.

LONDON, Oct. 31.
Capt. Boelke, the German aviator, whose death was reported yesterday in despatches from Amsterdam, is said to have been brought down by a British aviator east of Cambrai.

THE MARINA'S TOLL.

LONDON, Oct. 31.
Capt. Browne and about fifty of the crew of the British steamer Marina are reported by the Press Association to have been drowned when the vessel was sunk off the Irish coast, after having been torpedoed by a submarine Saturday last.

A DANGEROUS "FISH."

LONDON, Oct. 31.
A telegram received to-day from Creekhaven by United States Consul General says that among the survivors of the Marina who landed at Creekhaven, are 16 Americans. One of them is Frank Howard Smith, Veterinary Surgeon. According to the telegram received by Mr. Skinner, the ship was first struck amidships on the starboard side and a terrific explosion followed. The second struck the bow and the steamer went down almost immediately. Several men were killed while attempting to get into the boats. Some of the sailors saw the wake of the torpedo, according to the report, and until the ship was struck thought it was a fish.

ENEMY LINES BOMBARDED.

LONDON, Oct. 31.
A bulletin from the British headquarters in France, issued to-night,
reads: Our artillery and trench mortars bombarded the enemy's lines today in the neighborhood of Hohenzollern and La Basse Canal. There was considerable hostile shelling against our front at Ypres area and Heuterne, south of the Ancre, especially around Stuff and Schwaben redoubts and Regina trench. Otherwise there is nothing to report.

RESCUED FROM TUG.

FALMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 31.
The Dutch steamer Ryndam has brought to port the captain and twelve of the crew of the American tug Vigilant, who were rescued at sea.

Complete Readiness of the British War Machine.

The Slogan of Our Fighting Men is
"Hammer the Germans and Hammer Them Unceasingly."

New York, Oct. 26.—The New York World this morning publishes the following cable from its staff correspondent, Joseph W. Grigg:

British Headquarters on the Somme, October 25.—Whatever may be the developments of the next few weeks,
one thing which most impressed me in the four days' visit which I have made to the British front is the complete readiness of the colossal British war machine in France to meet the rigors of a third winter there. The Germans figure that cold weather will stymie the Anglo-French attacks in the west, thus giving the Germans opportunity to "dig in" for the winter, but this is the furthest thing from the mind of any one in the British army with whom I came in contact. The slogan of this army is "Hammer the Germans and Hammer them Unceas-ingly."

Bad weather may hinder certain operations, but the shell heaps in France indicate no decrease in the preparations. There is an ominous steady-sitting about it at other parts of the line than the Somme sector even now. In the zone adjacent to the fighting line,

Best Nerve Specialist in England Was Consulted

But Nervous System Failed to Respond to Treatment Prescribed.

Nervous disorders frequently result from injury to the nerves in accidents or because of the shock to the system. The writer of this letter was injured in a mix-up with some coils, remained unconscious for three weeks, and in spite of continued treatment in hospital could not obtain restoration of the internal nerves which control the action of the digestive and other vital organs.
He travelled to Europe and consulted England's greatest nerve specialist.
Relief was only temporary, in spite of many treatments used.
His letter gives the facts briefly and tells how he was finally cured by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Can you imagine any more severe test of this great nerve restorative?
Mr. Henry P. Venn, Cedar Ranch,
Malakva, B.C., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has restored my nervous system and given me new health.

SUNLIGHT SOAP.

£1,000 Guarantee of Purity on every Bar.
THE "Sunlight" Guarantee of Purity was never more justified than it is to-day, because it enables us to insure the wives of our gallant soldiers and sailors against the drudgery and worry of household cleaning.

Sunlight Soap saves rubbing—saves scrubbing—saves the clothes. That portion of a wife's allowance which must be devoted to the cleaning of the home is, therefore, absolutely safeguarded when spent on Sunlight Soap.

SUNLIGHT SOAP is made for the housewife's profit for only thereby can the makers hope to profit by Sunlight Soap.

The same Lever on Soap is a Guarantee of Purity and Excellence.

Norway and Germany.

Germany's protest against the action of the Norwegian government in refusing to permit belligerent submarines to operate in Norwegian waters may bring Norway into the war. The Norwegian people are firmly resolved to stand behind the government and their newspapers are already warning the Huns that no matter what the cost may be, they intend to fight, if necessary, for the ideals of civilization.

Germany's purpose in provoking
Norway at this time and in this manner is not clear. The opinion is expressed by some observers that the Kaiser has long been annoyed by Norway's strict observance of the laws of neutrality and has never ceased to hope that Sweden would some day throw in her lot with the Central Powers. It is believed he is firmly convinced that Sweden would break with the Allies if Norway should join them, and that this is the idea back of the submarine controversy. Other observers see in the affront to Norway a result of the failure of the United States to protect neutral rights when the U-53
ran amuck off Nantucket, sinking passenger steamers and placing in danger
the lives of a large number of Americans. It was pointed out, at that time, by such papers as the Boston Transcript that Norway, if called upon to do so, would undoubtedly refuse to permit the very thing which the Washington Government, contrary to its previous declarations, made no effort to stop. If Norway should fight for the principle it is upholding it would do so in the interest not only of small neutral states like itself, but of a great nation like the United States which has at no time taken so bold a stand for neutral rights as the Norwegians are taking now.

Norway has a comparatively small population, but its people are great fighters. Out of a population of 2,500,- 000, it could put into the field a well trained army of about 110,000 men of all ranks. In war time all the males between the ages of fifteen and fifty-five are liable for service. The Norwegian navy consists of four ironclads,
three coast defence monitors, forty torpedo boats, half a dozen destroyers and five or six submarines. Several of these vessels are practically new. Of course, the navy may have been strengthened since the war began. In any event, it is quite a formidable fleet for purely coast defence purposes.

The economic position of Norway
has been greatly changed by the war.
Great fortunes have been accumulated by the shipping interests and other lines of business also have paid enormous profits. The distribution of wealth throughout the country, however, has not been even, and prices have gone up steadily, causing considerable hardship. It is not so much that the country is suffering from a shortage of foodstuffs at home as from the temptation of producers to export to other countries where abnormally high prices are paid, thereby causing the home prices to advance sharply. On the whole, however, Norway is undoubtedly a much wealthier country to-day than it was two years ago. If a break with Germany should come, it is not likely that much damage could be done to Norwegian ports by German naval raids, for in addition to Norway's own fleet, valuable assistance from the British navy would be forthcoming.

Aside from the possibility of dragging Sweden into the struggle against the Allies, it is difficult to see what Germany could hope to gain by declaring war on Norway.—St. John Telegraph.

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit.
Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill.—"While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said
she had been as sick
as I was some time,
and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine.
I cannot praise it enough for it saved
my life and kept me from the Insane Hospital."—Mrs. E. Sheldon, 6607 S.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best,
but with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned
