"I Avoided an Operation Appendicitis Disappeared"

Mrs. James Wells, Udora, Ont., writes—

"I took a severe pain in my right side. It was very bad at times. I tried oils and tablets without gaining any relief. The doctor pronounced it chronic appendicitis. I dreaded an operation and a friend advised Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I used them and not only obtained relief from pain, but I believe it has completely freed me of appendicitis, as it is now over a year since I have had any of the old symptoms."

A QUEEN UNCROWNED

THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER VII.

But that was enough. As a slight dent with a boy's foot once overflowed the dam, and changed it to a foaming torrent, so everything was swept with relentless force from his mind at the touch of those rosy lips, save the one thrilling, tumultuous thought that he loved her, with all his heart and soul. The next moment she was in his arms, held there almost fiercely, while he stooped over her with a strange fire burning in his dark eyes, and a strange flush on his handsome face, crying out fiercely, passionately: "Jacquetta! Jacquetta! I love you!"

With a cry that he never forgot—a cry fiercer, wilder, more passionate than his own—he dashed his retaining arms away, wrenching himself from his grasp, and clasping her hands over her ears, as if to shut out the sound, fled—fled for more than life—away.

It was rather a peculiar mood, to use a mild phrase, that the Honorable Alfred Disbrowe walked home. There were a great many conflicting feelings surging through his mind, and chief among them were astonishment and mortification. Did ever man in this world make a proposal, and have it answered in such fashion as this?

He reached home, at last—half hoping, half dreading, to meet Jacquetta. The drawing-room door lay open, and a clear, sweet voice he knew only too well, was singing. The song stopped, and he heard her say: "There! there is a hole in the ballad! Where's papa, Frank?"

"Upstairs, in the library," said Frank, sauntering out, encountering Disbrowe in the hall.

Disbrowe went in—half afraid to do it, too, for he could not tell how Jacquetta would meet him. She was lying back, half buried in the downy cushion of a lounge, caressing her huge, savage dog, Lion, who crouched at her feet, licking her hand and watching her with his eyes of flame. As Disbrowe entered, he started up, with a growl like distant thunder.

"Now, Lion, be quiet!—have manners, can't you? It's only your cousin, Alfred, you know. Come in, my dear sir; I'm alone here, and feel awfully blue." And a dreary yawn attested the truth of her words.

As Captain Disbrowe, angry and provoked at this unlooked-for sort of greeting, obeyed, and flung himself, half sullenly, into an armchair, her eyes fell on the dearly-brought flowers which, almost unknown to himself, he still carried in his hand.

"Oh, what pretty flowers! Hand them here, Cousin Alfred. Lion, go after them."

Lion dutifully got up and trotted over took the flowers in his mouth and brought them to his mistress.

he ground his teeth, more than one naughty word escaped. Jacquetta arched her eyebrows, and pulled up her lips. "Why, Cousin Alfred; Good gracious! I wonder you ain't ashamed! Do you know what you said, sir?"

"Jacquetta, you will drive me mad!" he exclaimed, passionately.

"Dear me! you said it again! Now, Lion, behave yourself! Don't eat all my flowers that way!"

"Jacquetta, will you listen to me?" he cried, stopping before her in his excited walk.

"Well—proceed."

"Jacquetta, I love you."

"Well, I'm glad to hear it, I'm sure. It shows a good deal of good sense on your part."

"Jacquetta, are you merciful? I have asked for bread—shall I get a stone?"

"You deserve a viper, sir! Sit down, I tell you!" she said, imperiously.

He obeyed, with something like a groan.

"Now, then, Captain Disbrowe, what do you want."

"You, Jacquetta!—my love!—my darling!"

Oh, the infinite dept of mockery in her eyes and smile!

"Indeed! And what do you want of me, pray?"

"Oh, Jacquetta! what a question!"

"Is it? I see nothing extraordinary in it. If you came and asked me for Lion, here, I should probably ask you what you wanted of him, as well. And I rather fancy you would find it an easier question to answer than this."

He was silent, and bit his lip. The look of intense mockery on Jacquetta's face was mingled now with unutterable scorn.

"Oh, the wisdom of these men! Oh, this wonderful love of theirs! Oh, this unspeakable depth of refinement and delicacy! Lion, my boy, thank God you love me, and have not a man's heart!"

"Jacquetta!" he said, with a haughty flush, "what do you mean?"

"Oh, to be sure!" she said, "you do not know. If I had been one of your Lady Marys, or Lady Janes, would you have dared to talk to me like this? Because you found me a wild Yankee girl, who rode steeplechases, played with dogs instead of Berlin wool and French novels, you thought you were free to insult me, and to talk to me as you would to a coal-heaver's daughter in England. Don't interrupt me, sir, and don't attempt to deny it; for knowing what we both know, such a declaration from you is nothing more nor less than an insult!"

He faced around, and the light of his dark, bright handsome eyes shone full upon her face.

"What we both know?" he said, slowly. "May I ask what you mean by that, Miss Jacquetta?"

She swept across the room like a tragic queen, with the ringing tread of an outraged empress. That light in her eye, that fire in her cheek—all unusual there—what did it forebode?

"What have I said—what have I done—that you should dare to utter words like these? I am a wild, willful, thoughtless girl—too fearless and masculine, it may be, for my sex—but is it my fault that God gave me a man's heart, to do, and dare, and brave? I was frank and open with you, because I thought you an honorable man—because I thought you would understand me; and I could have loved you as a brother. And you have returned it like this? Oh, Captain Disbrowe! it is worse than 'Et tu, Brute!' You know, and I know, now that the scales have fallen from my eyes, how you regard me. Would you marry me?—would you take me to England?—would you show me to your friends—me, the mad, uncivilized North American savage—as your honored wife, and the future Lady Earncliffe, of Disbrowe Park? No, sir—you never would! You never intended to! And, even if you would, could you, as a man of honor, have done so? Ask your own heart—if you

Strong Men of Old

In all ages, feats of great strength have excited much interest, and the more extraordinary examples have been deemed worthy of record by historians.

Remarkable though present-day feats undoubtedly are, they have often been eclipsed by those recorded in bygone days.

One of the most famous strong men of antiquity was Polydamas, the Thessalian, who lived about 400 B.C. Wonderful stories are told of his colossal size and strength. On one occasion he is said to have held a wild bull so firmly, by one of its hind feet that the animal, in its struggles to release itself, wrenched off its hoof, while another feat for which he was renowned was the stopping of a chariot when driven at full speed by seizing the wheel.

Richard Coeur de Lion was an exceptionally strong man, and it is related of him that, while a prisoner in Germany in the hands of the Emperor, he showed a thoroughly practical proof of the force of the blow he was able to deal with his clenched fist.

The son of his principal warder had invited the royal captive to an exchange of blows, and winning the right to deliver the first punch by the cast of the dice, struck the king a heavy blow on the side of the head, staggering him.

Richard, in his turn, now struck and "landed" on his opponent's ear with such force as to kill him on the spot. Sir Walter Scott, in his imitation romance, "Ivanhoe," makes use of the story in his relation of the exchange of buffets between the King and Friar Tuck.

A Cross of Pearls

What are perhaps the most remarkable natural pearls in the world are being exhibited in the Australian Pavilion at the British Empire Exhibition.

This extraordinary exhibit, known as the Southern Cross, is a cluster of nine pearls forming an almost perfect Latin cross. The shaft is composed of seven pearls measuring an inch and a half in length, while the arms of the cross are formed of one pearl on each side opposite the second pearl from the top downwards.

Examination under a powerful microscope shows that the gems were produced by nature in their present arrangement, probably as a result of mutual compression during growth.

The pearls were discovered in 1874 by a pearl fisher at Roeburn, in Western Australia, but so amazed were the finder and the owner of the vessel that, believing it to be a heavenly wrought miracle, they buried the treasure and left it to be forgotten.

It remained hidden until 1879, when an Australian explorer, Alexander Forrest, passed through Roeburn and, hearing accidentally of the pearls, discovered its existence to the world.

It is now the property of a London merchant, and is valued at £10,000.

Is Britain Overcrowded?

FEWER BIRTHS, BUT STILL TOO MANY PEOPLE.

The birth-rate in this country has been falling for nearly half a century, and you will find numbers of people who will pull long faces over this, and it means that Britain is going to the dogs. Point out to these people that over a million babies are born yearly in Great Britain, and they will shake their heads and say: "Yes, but look at the birth-rate. It is only 22.5 per 1,000, and falling!"

A birth-rate of 22.5 per 1,000 means that for each ten thousand people, 225 babies arrive yearly, a total for the country of well over a million. The deaths on the other hand, are less than half a million, and the rate is falling year by year. In other words, the births are more than double the deaths.

Emigration Does Not Help.

Large numbers are constantly emigrating from this country. The number is, in fact, a little over a quarter of a million yearly (177,000 to various parts of the Empire and 99,000 to foreign countries), yet, even so, the population is increasing. Not merely increasing, but increasing rapidly, for, in addition to the excess of births over deaths, we have also to reckon on the number of aliens who are constantly arriving and settling in this country.

From 1870 up to the date of the Great War the annual increase of our population averaged no less than 418,000. The war killed off more than three-quarters of a million of our men and cut the birth-rate by about 150,000 a year for four years. But the war stopped emigration almost entirely, and this alone was compensation for the extra deaths and diminished births. That is to say, if compensated, so far as numbers went, although, of course, it meant that the remaining population was short of able-bodied men and consisted largely of elderly people, women and children.

In 1920, the second year after the war, the birth-rate leapt upwards, there being 300,000 more babies born than in 1919. The rate has since fallen to about the 1914 level.

But here is the point which the pessimists forget, or of which they never think. A curious point, too, and one well put by the Registrar-General, Mr. S. P. Vignian: "The birth-rate, when operating on an increasing population, has a rearmetrical effect, and a declining birth-rate may then produce a constant or even an increasing annual addition to the population."

That is exactly what is happening in this country, and we already have more people than we can either feed or house. The fact that there are smaller families makes no difference, there being more smaller families. Thus, six persons with four children each equal twenty-four; eight with three produce the same result.

Each year about 550,000 young men and women come upon the labor market, which is already overstocked, and England is to-day the most over-populated country on earth, for we have actually 701 persons to each square mile. In other words, if we divided up the land amongst the people, there would be less than an acre apiece.

Compare our fearfully crowded state with other parts of the Empire. Canada has just over two persons to the square mile, and Australia just under two. Newfoundland has two, New Zealand eleven, South Africa only ten. Is it not about time that poor old Britain should get some relief, and be enabled to pour her overcrowded millions into the open lands elsewhere?

Lard should not get so hot that it smokes when frying doughnuts. Shredded watercresses and mayonnaise are delicious in buttered brown bread sandwiches.

Impetuously he started to his feet, and dashed back the clustering folds of his fair, brown hair.

"Jacquetta; this is not the first time you have insinuated something which must be explained—I repeat it, must be! What do you mean?"

She gazed before him, and met his excited gaze, with eyes from which the fierce, angry light had died out; and a faint, scarcely perceptible smile flickered around her mouth.

"Shall I really tell you?"

"Yes."

"And do you mean to say you do not understand me?"

"I say nothing. I want to explain."

"Then," she said, with a triumphant flash of her eye, "you shall hear it! What of Norma?"

"Jacquetta!"

"Alfred!" she said, with a mocking smile.

"Who told you—how came you—"

"There, that is enough! Go—leave me!" And she opened the door and pointed out.

"First tell me—"

"I will not! Leave me!" she said, with an imperious stamp of her foot.

YOUTHFUL MURDERERS GET LIFE IMPRISONMENT.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.

Life imprisonment was the punishment fixed to-day by Justice John R. Caverly upon Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and murderers of 14 year old Robert Franks. This was a complete victory for the defence. Youth was the controlling factor in Judge Caverly's decision. He said no minor had ever been sentenced to death in Illinois on a plea of guilty. Entrance to the courts building was guarded by a squad of detectives, each member of which closely scrutinizing every person entering the building. Credentials which were necessary to pass each sentinel in the street leading to the entrance were carefully inspected. Passing the first barrier the person seeking the court room on the sixth floor was challenged four times before finally gaining access. Sheriffs and deputy sheriffs formed a receiving line on both sides of the lobby on the lower floor. Judge John R. Caverly, piloted by a large force of motor policemen and guarded on all sides by officers, reached the criminal courts building about twenty minutes of nine and in a few minutes had made his way to the court room to impose the penalty upon Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb for slaying Robert Franks. No untoward incident was reported on the Judge's trip down town from his residence. The court finds no mitigation in the crime itself in defendants personalities or their antecedents said Judge Caverly. He then accepted full responsibility for declining to impose the death penalty on persons who are not of full age. The court passed separate sentence on murder and kidnapping charges, naming life imprisonment as the punishment for murder and imprisonment for 99 years on the kidnapping indictment. This was to meet legal technicality.

STILL IN THE COUNTY JAIL.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.

This afternoon Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb still were held at the County Jail and officials refused to state when they would start for jail. Meanwhile the police escort remained in front of the jail, prepared for immediate departure. There were intimations that the trip might be delayed until to-morrow. Plans previously announced were that the prisoners were to be conveyed by motor car. The penitentiary is about forty miles from Chicago. "Was all we could have asked for," said Clarence Darrow, Chief Counsel, "there will be no appeal." "I don't regard it as a victory except a victory for justice," said Benjamin Bachrach, of Defense Counsel, as he shook off those who offered congratulations on the youth's escape from the noose. "Do not congratulate me personally," Nathan F. Leopold, Sr., sat still, weeping and Foreman Leopold, Nathan's older brother, relaxed visibly as the Judge reached the words in his statement which meant life or death for the youths. He had sat with tense face as the Judge read from his manuscript. The Loeb and Leopolds watched anxiously as Nathan Jr., and Richard were heralded quickly back to the elevator to be returned to their cells. Then as the court room emptied rapidly, Jacob Loeb interrupted a interview by newspapermen with, "Oh Clarence, they are waiting, let's go." Nathan Leopold, Sr., had recovered his composure, opened his cigar case and passed cigars to members of the group as they fled from the room.

GEORGIANS FIGHTING FOR IN-DEPENDENCE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 10.

The struggle between Insurgents and Soviet forces in the Georgian Republic is continuing fiercely. According to latest reports reaching here the Insurgents hold the Principal Trans-Caucasian Railway which runs through Tiflis to Baku. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the Caucasus and Soviet troops are being hurried to the scene. Georgia was part of the old Russian Empire but refused to recognize the Bolsheviks when the latter overthrew Kerensky. The Georgians formed a separate state, proclaiming their independence in May 1918 and receiving de jure recognition from the Allies in January 1921. Later in 1921 a revolution occurred and a Soviet Government was set up. Georgians Insurgents are demanding recognition of their independence of the Soviet regime. Their President who is now in Paris, has asked intervention of the League of Nations to stop bloodshed and has offered to submit the independence issue to arbitration.

It is with renewed faith in America, the President said, that I welcome you. A new record of achievement has been made in the past six months by you in the domain of aviation. It has been made by men who wear American uniforms. It has been your skill, your perseverance, your courage, that has brought this great honor to our country. In what is probably a great opportunity for the scientific development of transportation your enterprise has made America first. I trust the appreciation of your countrymen will be sufficient so that in its field America always will be kept first.

"The men who make their living by fishing offer fruitful field for education and I think the time is opportune for the Governments of the countries of the Continent to take some action along this line." The statement quoted was made to-day by Professor Prince, of Ottawa, who read the first paper at the opening session of the convention of the American Fisheries Society in the Parliament buildings. Dr. Prince is of the opinion that a system whereby the fishermen of the country would learn something more about fish and their habits and food could be inestimable benefit to the country as it would bring about an increase in the number of fish caught and would prevent the extinction of certain species which are fast disappearing.

Robert Mantell as Cardinal Richelieu

IN "UNDER THE RED ROBE" COM-ING TO THE NICKEL.

What in many respects is expected to be the outstanding event in the history of photoplay presentation in St. John's will take place next Monday night when "Under the Red Robe," a sumptuous screen version of Stanley Weyman's famous historical romance bearing the same title, makes its bow at the Nickel theatre.

Featuring Robert B. Mantell, John Charles Thomas and Alma Rubens, the new picture not only represents a remarkable cast of actors, but represents the most careful regard for historical accuracy in the important features of settings and costuming. The picture was nine months in the making, and the total cost is upwards of $1,500,000. In lavishness of production, beauty of setting, power of drama and excellence of acting the film is said to be unequalled in photoplay history.

All of the famous examples of the architecture of the period represented are faithfully reproduced. The Palace Royal at Paris, formerly the palace of the great Cardinal under Louis XIII, is an instance, also the interior of the Louvre. The reproduced castles of the famous historical personages appearing in the picture—as the Castle de Cocheoret in the south of France—represent the result of much research.

In many of the settings and in the costuming there is richness and elaborateness far surpassing anything heretofore attempted. This is noticed in the big mass scenes, which fill the eye at some representations of the court of Louis XIII.

Robert B. Mantell has the role of Cardinal Richelieu while John Charles Thomas appears as the heroic Gil de Berrault. Alma Rubens will be seen as Renee. Others in an especially notable company include Genevieve Hamper, William H. Powell, Rose Goghan, Ian MacLaren, Mary McLaren, Otto Kruger, Evelyn Gosnell, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Sidney Herbert, Charles Judels, Martin Patet, Arthur Housemann and Andrew Dillon.

"Under the Red Robe" is adapted from the Weyman story by Bayard Veiller, directed by Alan Crosland, and the settings are by Joseph Urban.

WHEN MOTHER WAS RIGHT.

Margaret, my young neighbor at the beach, came by the porch with her mother the other day. She had on a new dress of canary yellow linen. Her mother came up to sit with me while Margaret went on to the store and I commented on the new dress.

"It does look pretty well," said Margaret's mother "but I think rose would have been more becoming to her than yellow. She has rather a sallow complexion, you know, and green and yellow aren't her colors. But she was very anxious to have a yellow dress because they were showing so much yellow in the shops in New York when we were down there last month and so I let her have it. I'm just as willing that someone else should tell her that rose is more becoming," she added with a smile. "She'll be more likely to agree with me next time."

A Course In Experience.

In other words, Margaret's very wise mother is letting Margaret make her own mistakes in minor matters like this, where mistakes aren't vital. If Margaret is mistaken when that dress later on she will have to learn the hard way. Just the other day I ran across the other side of a story like this. Once again I admired a new dress on a young friend of mine. "I don't care much for it," she said with an indifferent shrug. "I wanted that new

Sham Heroes at the Seaside

HOLIDAY-MAKERS FLEECE BY BOGUS THRILLS.

A sensation was caused at a certain seaside resort, when the holiday season was at its height, by a "man and shark fight." From the promenade could be seen a terrific struggle between a bather and some demon of the deep, and when the man swam ashore, towing after him his vanquished adversary, there was a salvo of applause. When, too, a benevolent-looking visitor started a collection, his lead was promptly followed by others.

Later it leaked out that the whole thing was a "plant." The "shark" was a porpoise, and it was, moreover, definitely dead before it "attacked" the man, having been caught two days previously and cast from a boat.

Reverding the "Rescuer."

Similar deeds are often staged for the purpose of exploiting holiday-makers. Usually a man falls off a jetty into a few feet of water, whereupon another plunges to the rescue and brings him ashore. A third starts a collection for the "hero," with the result that several pounds are extracted from visitors. Then—quick exit! Just as the police come up the trio vanishes, to find a "pitch" elsewhere.

At Brighton two or three years ago a woman was so impressed by cleverly stage-managed representation of this comedy that she contributed a wad of Treasury notes to the collection. This gave the cue to her male companion, who added to the notes all the money he had in his pockets.

There are, however, numerous forms of the trick. One may occasionally be witnessed in a quiet resort, where policemen are few and far between, and where almost any incident however trivial, goes as far as a joke goes in a court of law.

A solitary bather—generally a woman gives signs of distress, whereupon a man passing along the shore casts off boots, coat, and waistcoat, plunges into the sea, and strikes out for the bather, who eventually wriggles ashore in an apparently exhausted condition.

That the inevitable big-hearted rescuer starts first the cheering, and the collection. If contributions make a reference to the loss, the rescuer has sustained through the damage to his clothes, usually causes them to burn more freely.

Some victims are not averse to this method of "helping." When a group of them have a party, one usually is to his own party in a time and enough for all to hear that the

But now alone I try to write
The words which would not come.
When all the bitter tears are dried
Sometimes when you're alone,
You'll find a calm to those denied
Who never grief have known.

I know the hurt is keen to-day,
I know the loss is great.
But what if you should go away
With no one there to wait?
And oh how lonely heaven would be
If all you loved were here
And there was none you longed to see
To welcome you, my dear?

If God had spared you every blow
Which comes to us on earth,
Had shielded you from every woe
And filled your years with mirth
And then at last he bade you leave
Your place above to find?
Throughout eternity you'd grieve
For those you'd left behind.

Oh you have had a lovely child,
And you have lost a son
But soon you shall be reconciled
When life's brief time is done
For Heaven is made of those we love,
The beautiful and true,
And God has taken him above

Majestic Memorials

NATURAL MONUMENTS TO THE GREAT.

To climb Great Gable in the English Lake District is regarded as excellent practice for such climbs as the Matterhorn or even Everest, and last year, it will be remembered, it was acquired by the Fell and Rock Climbing Club as a memorial of the members who fell in the war, and handed over to the National Trust for the enjoyment of the public for ever.

Now a tablet of bronze has been affixed to the crag, the centre of which is occupied by a relief map of the 3,000 acres of mountain area now vested in the Trust and containing the names of the twenty climbers who fell in the war.

Fighters for Freedom.

An island in a memorial is something of a novelty, but it may be claimed that the Island of Capri is the lovely and stately memorial of the great Italian patriot to whom King Victor owes his throne, Giuseppe Garibaldi. This island was purchased and presented to him by some of his English friends. He is buried in an olive grove on the island, which lies off the coast of Sicily. Thousands of Italians and Sicilians make pilgrimage there.

The power of simplicity to be effective is shown at Cracow in the memorial to the Garibaldi of Poland, whose struggles and death for the cause of his country's freedom have at last borne fruit. Looking along a straight street one sees a grassy mound, a winding path leading to the top. On the top lies a mighty boulder stone, hauled from the mountains, and inscribed upon it is one word, the name of the national hero, "Kosciuszko."

On the peak of Majuba Hill in South Africa are many scattered boulders strewn about with Nature's profusion, but there is one which stands out from all the rest by reason of its enormous bulk. It is the giant boulder of the historic hill upon which a battle was fought between British and Boers, who are to-day associated to the government of the Dominion of South Africa, and it contains the words, "Here Colley Fell."

The Fields is not the only memorial to Edith Cavell, for the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, in the great national reservation called Jasper Park, is called Mount Cavell; whilst David Livingstone, the pioneer missionary explorer, not only has his name and name inscribed in Westminster Abbey, but he also has his name bestowed upon a whole range of mountains and upon a great waterfall on the River Congo.

Mount Evans, on the fringe of the great Antarctic continent, is the memorial to a gallant seaman who went with Scott and was the first of the party to succumb, but the most majestic thing in all the frozen land is the simple cross in memory of Lieutenant

Oates, the "very gallant gentleman" who went out to die in the blizzard lest he should be a hindrance to Scott and the others fighting their way back to the base camp.

Gunners of the Insect World

There are few animals better known than the skunk. Every woman has admired its handsome fur, and to-day there is a skunk farm on Dartmoor, where the animals are raised to supply the fur market.

In its wild state the skunk roams the whole of North America from had slumped dand fallen, with the disallows about in broad daylight is rarely molested. The reason is that, if annoyed, it can discharge from a special gland a spray, the odor of which is extremely obnoxious.

The writer speaks from experience when he says that there is nothing else to compare with it, and that a whiff of it will make any human being deadly sick. A sporting dog, if "skunked," is useless for days, losing all power of scenting game.

Acid Spray for Enemies.

There is a small beetle known as the bombardier, which defends itself, when attacked, by discharging an acid fluid. But this beetle's ammunition is not only offensive; it is also volatile, and actually explodes with a sharp little report when it meets the air. A bombardier can fire a dozen charges of this kind in succession.

There are other insects which have this peculiar habit, one a kind of ant

Britain's Libelled Weather
A DOCTOR'S DEFENCE OF OUR CHANGING CLIMATE.

We hear a great deal of the wretched climate of this country, and of the wonderfully fine weather conditions which prevail in what are described as the more favoured regions of the world. These glorious climates of other lands must be taken with the proverbial grain of salt, since they are often productive of anything but good for those whose lot it is to live in them.

The climate of Britain comes nearer to the ideal than that of almost any other country. For most people the really essential thing in life is the ordinary work of every day; and the climate that is best for work may surely in the long run claim to be the most nearly ideal.

There are four chief portions of the globe where the winter temperature averages not far from 53 degrees, and that of the summer not far from 60 degrees. They are: Britain; the Pacific coast of the northern United States and southern British Columbia; New Zealand; and southern Chile and portions of Patagonia.

Of these four regions Britain is the most favoured. The climate is stimulating at all times, both by reason of abundant storms and because of a moderate seasonal range. It never, however, reaches such extremes as to induce the nervous tension which prevails so largely in the United States. The mean temperature of the globe is both highly favourable, and gentle Britain to first place in any estimate of the relative stimulating power of the various climates of the world.

These admirable qualities of climate are at their best in and around London. But, of course, relative dampness must be taken into account. New Zealand, the Central Pacific coast, and sometimes Britain herself are unduly damp for long periods.

Our climate owes much to the warm subtropical ocean currents from the West Coast of Africa. On the Continent of Europe, where people go for the "season," the seasonal variation is greater than in Britain, and therefore less favourable.

Germany, for example, has a climate that in spring and autumn spurs the people to an astonishing degree of effort. But the summer and winter are very debilitating, as in the eastern and central United States, and therefore the people draw largely on their nervous energy and exhaust themselves.

The effect of the seasons, and of dampness and temperature, upon workers in mills and factories comes home to us very closely as an industrial nation as well as a "nation of shopkeepers"; for it has been shown that the output of manual labour varies with the seasons, and that therefore it is a mistake to be "speeding up" all the time.

Regulating Energy by Machinery.

It is a fact that in many factories the same amount of work is expected each month. Hence at certain seasons many operatives work harder than they ought, while at others they do not work so hard as they could without special effort.

If factories were run in accordance with a well established seasonal curve of energy, we should find the machinery running slowly in winter, faster in the spring, and in May perhaps ten or fifteen per cent faster than in January. Then in the summer it would run more slowly than in May, but no so slowly as in winter. Finally, in the autumn it would run at greater speed than at any other time of the year. The operatives would scarcely be conscious of the difference, and they would probably do more work and preserve their health better than under the present system.

Fish and Chip' Fortunes

Of the extent of that often-despised trade, the selling of "fish and chips," few people have even a hazy idea. Yet figures compiled recently show that every week 50,000,000 fish and chip meals are served in this country.

Nearly 100,000 people are engaged in the industry, which calls for 1,000,000 tons of fish and 550,000 tons of potatoes annually.

The Medical Officer of Health for Friers in that city serve 600,000 meals weekly, there being in Bradford alone 300 shops exclusively engaged in the business.

So highly esteemed is this form of food that several countries have lately sent representatives to England to learn the best methods of preparing it.

Last year a number of skilled English friers made a tour of various French towns, by invitation of the French Chamber of Commerce, to demonstrate their craft.

Special machinery is now being devised to meet the requirements of the industry, which has a turnover of nearly £50,000,000 a year.

Fish Farming

At Ebury, in the Cotswolds, there is a farm where every year trout are bred in hundreds of thousands for the stocking of rivers and lakes all over the country. The eggs are collected in the autumn and winter and after being allowed to rest for some weeks, are washed in a current of pure water and placed in glass hatching boxes.

From the time they are a week old the young fish are fed continuously on finely-minced raw meat. The water in which they live is made to run for some distance through watercress beds and other forms of aquatic vegetation before entering the ponds. In this way a supply of natural food, such as flies and small snails, is assured. After every artificial meal the water is carefully changed, as dirt almost invariably spells disease.

In a short while the young fish learn to keep their quarters clean, sweeping all impurities away with their tails.

The greatest care has to be taken to ensure that the water is not only clean, but of the right temperature. It must also contain the requisite amount of iron and lime.

TROUBLED WITH ECZEMA YEARS

In Pimples Between Knee and Ankle, Itched Badly, Cuticura Healed.

"I was troubled with eczema for three or four years. It broke out in pimples between my knee and ankle and itched badly, especially at night. The irritation caused me to scratch and the scratching caused eruptions. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it helped me. I purchased more, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment it was healed." (Signed) Miss Alice Clark, Marshfield, Vt., July 16, 1923.

Keep your skin clear by using Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for every-day toilet purposes. Touch pimples and itching, if any, with Cuticura Ointment. Bathe with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Dry and dust lightly with Cuticura Talcum.

Playing Tricks With Time

Travellers Who Lose and Gain Days. A few weeks ago the American aviator, Lieut. Russell Maughan, created a record by flying from New York to San Francisco in one day—that is, between dawn and darkness. He left New York at 3.59 a.m. and reached San Francisco at 9.44 in the evening.

The distance is 2,870 miles, and on the face of it the aviator covered the distance in 17½ hours. If we allow only 2½ hours for stops, this means he was travelling at something like 180 miles an hour.

Actually the case is quite different, for the pilot was flying with the sun. He thus gained six hours of daylight, so that his flying time was not 17½ hours, but a little over 22 hours.

If he had travelled in the opposite direction—from East to West—he would have lost 6 hours of daylight, and so cut his flying time to just over 10 hours.

Day That Went Astray. For convenience's sake the degree of latitude that cuts through Greenwich is counted as the first degree. Since there are in all 360 degrees, the 180th is exactly opposite Greenwich on the other side of the earth, and the result is that a vessel crossing the Pacific gains a day if going eastwards, but drops one if going in the other direction.

A year or two ago passengers on the steamship Dacota, en route from Seattle to Yokohama, lost December 25th, Christmas Day. If the ship had been travelling in the other direction they would have had two Christmas Days.

To put the matter as plainly as possible, if you travel around the world in a westerly direction you are constantly chasing the sun, so that sunrise comes at longer intervals than if you are staying in one place. By the time you have circled the planet you have had one sunrise less than the stationary observer. On the other hand, if you have travelled eastwards, you have had one more.

THE WINDFALL

I ushered in the glad new year by paying my income tax, then drank a stein of kickless beer, and let my j a d e d nerves relax; "O u r government," I said, "I fear, will make us mortgage all our shacks. I paid my tax for '23, I paid in full, at one fell swoop, that I from worry may be free, and rest unharried in my coop; but all worn voters must agree such taxes put us in the soup. Our government's a great expense, a luxury that leaves us broke; the tax collector journeys hence with all the kopecks in my poke; there doesn't seem to be much sense in those excited statesmen folk." To-day I yodel in my shack, my once sad heart expands with glee; a quarter of my tax came back, without a hint or hunch from me; there's an addition to my stack and my bank roll is good to see. "Our government," I say, "is great, its bulwarks all unblemished stand, and he's a cheap and tawdry skate who'd criticize our statesmen grand; and I am surely proud to state this is my own, my native land. What other government on earth refunds a tax that once is paid? The others find what one is worth, then on his bundle make a raid; now I indulge in harmless mirth, and my old grouch has been misled."

As it is cut through a plain, the Manchester end is only seventy feet above the level at its mouth.

Yet this is a common sight near the Manchester Ship Canal. A jasper covek can be seen working in his galleys while a few yards away, on the bank, a farmer is front to pull and the other hangs on behind to help steer the boat by keeping her on-end. If the ship's stern were allowed to swing across the canal it would be difficult to get her to go straight again, as there is so little room for steering.

When there is a heavy wind, the rear tug is all the more necessary to keep the boat straight against it. Strange though it may sound, a strong westerly wind will raise a choppy sea in the canal. The spray often beats over the quays at the end of the waterway.

On several occasions, heavy rowing boats have been wrecked by bad weather in the canal.

A Triumph for Mankind

Expeditions such as those undertaken to the North and South Poles, the attempts to conquer Mount Everest, or the plan to girdle the globe by means of aeroplanes, which has been all but accomplished by the gallant American airmen, all tend to prove that there still exist in the world men to whom the love of adventure is as strong as it was in the days when Columbus, or Cabot or Drake sailed out into the unknown in their frail craft.

In every age have been found men who are ready to risk their lives in ventures of this sort, and although there are people who consider such undertakings useless, it is fortunate for all of us that these carping critics receive but little attention. In these days when so many are intent on the one object of amassing wealth, these conquests over Nature or even those efforts which end in failure are most inspiring even to the most prosaic of us. They lift us out of ourselves and show us that there are other rewards worth striving for which rank far higher than pecuniary gain.

The latest accomplishment of circumnavigating the globe in the frail flying machines is a record of intrepidity and endurance, and the names of the men who have accomplished the feat will be ever associated with those of the great explorers who are famous in history. It is another triumph of man's ingenuity and persistence over the forces of Nature and it is a practical illustration of the possibilities of flying as a commercial enterprise in the near future.

Yesterday a luncheon was given by Vice-Admiral Sir Frederik Field on board H.M.S. Hood, at which the following were present: His Excellency the Governor, His Lordship Bishop, Hon. W. S. Monroe, Rt. Hon. Sir William Lloyd, C. J. Fox, Hon. Mr. Justice Johnson, Hon. Tasker Cook, Hon. J. R. Bennett, Hon. Sir John Crosbie, Hon. Sir Patrick McGrath, Hon. Sir Edgar Bowring, Sir Joseph Outerbridge, A. Police Make Raid

Yesterday the police made a raid on West Premises and seized a quantity of liquor. When the matter comes before court interesting particulars will likely be brought to light.

A Multitude of Visitors

Topsail was thronged with visitors yesterday, all bent on paying a visit to H.M.S. Hood. Motor boats piled backwards and forwards with passengers all the afternoon, and the High D, which came round from St. John's, and the Pawnee were also in great demand. Crowds came from Bell Island, from the North side of the Bay and from all the settlements along the South Shore, and for hours they explored the big ship and wondered at the wonderful mechanical devices, the culinary arrangements, the crews' quarters, the food supplies necessary for this floating city, the guns, the torpedoes, the hospital quarters, the chapel and school and particularly the kangaroo, parrots and the heaver. Practically every part of the great ship was thrown open to the visitors, and if they happened by accident to wander into a section which was not on view, there was always a guard on duty to politely inform them of the fact and to direct them to other objects of interest. Arrangements have been made for the various schools and institutions to visit the Hood, and already parties of Girl Guides consisting of the 3rd St. John's Co. (Methodist College), under the command of Miss Moore, the 8th (C. of E. Orphanage), under Miss Sparkes, and the 7th (Methodist Orphanage), under Miss Clarke have been on board.

Great interest was taken in the Hood's motor boat yesterday, which travelled from the ship to the shore in less than five minutes. As it tore over the water, little of the boat was visible owing to the huge wave it threw off from its bows and the boiling surge which followed it.

In spite of the great number conveyed on board there was not a hitch in the arrangements and not a single accident occurred throughout the day.

Magistrates Court

The owner of a jewellery and dry goods store of New Gower Street was arrested yesterday under warrant at the instance of his domestic, who assaulted her. He was fined $5 and costs.

A drunk and disorderly was fined $2.00 or 7 days. A lewd and abusive language case was postponed until Saturday.

An assault case was withdrawn. Three young men named Johnson, Motrey and Abraham Smith were arraigned this morning charged with the larceny of a motor car the property of T. P. Halley, which they damaged to the extent of $216.00. Mr. Brown, B.L., entered a plea of guilty on behalf of the accused and asked for a mitigation of sentence, as his clients promised to make good $100 damages to the car within 30 days. The amount had not been paid up to 3 p.m.

Const. H. Rideout had a motorist before court charged with speeding on August 22nd. A fine of $25.00 or 30 days imprisonment was imposed. The case of a woman against her husband for non-support was postponed until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

A resident of Spauldard's Bay was fined $10 and costs for speeding his two passenger Ford car whilst coming to the city two weeks ago. The evidence of several witnesses showed that the driver passed through Kelligrews at over fifteen miles per hour. The accused admitted that he was exceeding the speed limit, and offered in extenuation that he was in a hurry to procure pedigrees of which could not be procured in his own settlement. After hearing all the evidence the Inspector General, who prosecuted, admitted that the case was not as serious as at first appeared, an opinion in which the Judge concurred. Mr. J. S. McGrath appeared on behalf of the accused.

Old Country Roads

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—After reading the Newfoundland Road Booster, with your permission I would like to have a say in the matter. There are some good reminders in it for old-timers that can recollect the most part of it and I think we all should be proud of the great improvements made on our roads during the last few years, but our by-roads have been neglected. They are too narrow and dangerous for motors passing each other. The Heavy Tree Road, well known by the members of St. John's West, was surveyed by Mr. Noad seventy-five years ago and named by him. He told us there was a road in Exeter by that name, where he came from. Short's Road was surveyed about sixty years ago, passing Samuel Ruby's farm. This road was named after a little man that had a log house in the middle of the road. The Ruby Road was named by John Casey about fifty years ago. The Dixey Road was named by William Steers. It leads to a beautiful spot of aluvial land which he compared with Dixey Land in South America. The Cochrane Pond Road was surveyed by Mr. Allan Lous and the writer. Now the question is, are we old-timers entitled to the extension of these roads? One writer in the Road Booster says that we need a King's highway in Newfoundland from St. John's to Port aux Basques. That's a grand proposal and the proper place to start would be from the Cochrane Pond Road. If taps the Old Placentia Line that was surveyed about forty years ago. Follow this line right along and it will open up a new country where tourist travellers would enjoy themselves.

The tourists don't come to see our villages; they want to get in the interior where they can enjoy good fishing and shooting in season. This road would go right through it.

Now it's up to the members of St. John's West to boost this road as the late Sir Robert Thorburn and his colleagues boosted the Cochrane Pond Road and got it made. God-speed the good roads.

Yours truly, OLD-TIMER.

CREDIT RENEWED. PARIS, Sept. 11. The $100,000,000 credit extended by J. P. The credit was originally extended to assist in the fight against the depreciation of the franc.

FORNIGNERS HELD. PEKING, Sept. 11. An unconfirmed report from Uru, Mongolia, says that all foreigners have been prevented from leaving that city. Action is said to be the outgrowth of a case of illegal traffic in arms.

YOUTHFUL MURDERERS IN JOVIAL MOOD. CHICAGO, Sept. 11. Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, whose future is to be spent in drab cells at Illinois State Penitentiary, passed their last day in Cook County Jail here in jovial mood as to jail life. Awaiting final preparation of papers which would formally establish them as lifers and under decision which holds no hope for pardon or parole, the two youths were able to joke and laugh. "I don't see how I can serve 99 years and life at the same time," Leopold remarked to his guard; "we are in from now on, so it doesn't matter any difference when you take us down," Loeb told the attaché of the sheriff's office who visited his cell to confirm details of personal history for commitment papers. Nathan Leopold, Sr., the aged and grieved parent of his namesake and heir would have his boy serve out his time. "Surely, surely," he replied in broken voice when asked if he would be satisfied to have the boy remain in the penitentiary for life. "There is but little to say," said Jacob Loeb, uncle of Richard, "we have been spared the extreme penalty, but what have these two families to look forward to?"

At Indian Tickle two banking schooners are travelling from seventy to eighty qts codfish per day. Stationers are not doing much as bait is scarce. Two steamers are loading fish at Horse Harbor and Dominica. The weather is fine.

The management of this organization, in view of the urgency of the appeal on behalf of Child Welfare has generously decided to devote proceeds to this fund. Mr. Spicer is a passenger on S. S. Dixey which left Boston to-day for Halifax.

City Folk Spend Day Out of Town

Wm. P. The Hartley Record says, "We sent out in the month of July over 250 tons more than we have ever sent out in any one month in the history of the firm."

Does this not speak for itself? Yes, we certainly do think so.

GARDEN PARTY POSTPONED.

Owing to the inclement weather the Garden Party in aid of the Children's Summer Camp, which was to have been held this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. J. S. Harris, has been postponed till to-morrow afternoon at the same house.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of my dear sister, Stella M. Hall, who died Sept. 10th, 1917 R.I.P. Deep in our hearts there's a picture Of a loved one laid to rest; In memory's frame we shall keep it, Because she was one of the best. My lips cannot speak how we love her, My heart cannot tell what I say; God only knows how we miss her, As we all travel to her grave day by day. —Inserted by her sister Rita.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of our darling little son Stanley Brown, died September 11, 1918. "In our hearts we mourn the loss Of him we loved so dear, What would we give to clasp his hand His gentle voice to hear; His loving smile and welcome voice That were so dear to us, He's resting now in Heaven above, In God alone we trust. And we think of you dear Stanley While teardrops dim our eyes; You could not say goodbye to us Before you closed your eyes, Dearest Stanley you have left us, Never will your memory fade; Loving hearts will always linger Around the grave where you are laid." —Inserted by his mother, father, brothers, sisters.

A Motor Collision

At 2.15 this afternoon a motor accident occurred at the corner of Duckworth and Prescott Streets, when a Studebaker car owned by Cyril Carter and driven by Frank O'Donnell, struck amidships a car owned by M. Connors, the Druggist, which was proceeding west along Duckworth Street, doing damage to the door, running board and dasher. Carter's car escaped with a few scratches. A young lady named Abbott who was driving in Connors' car at the time, had her face cut by falling glass and had to be assisted to a nearby drug store for treatment. The cause of the accident was due to heavy congested traffic in the vicinity. A traffic policeman is badly needed in this particular section.

Money Protects Money

It all depends on who's who. A motorist loses his car, the "hogrower" goes to jail. A child loses his life, the motorist goes free. It's a daily happening. Is a car more valuable than a child's life?

Meanwhile the slaughter of the innocents goes on and the Ancient Order of Herod for Mutual Protection flourishes. One day an innocent four-year-old has his face torn away by a reckless Herodian; next day a little boy has his leg broken and his bicycle smashed; the following day another boy is mangled and his leg has to be amputated; next morning a little girl has her eye torn out by a speeding maniac, and that afternoon a lot of three is grabbed into a shapless mass by another charioteer of Herod. Every case is airily dismissed as "an unavoidable accident" or the dead and mangled are blamed by a jury of motorists. Money must protect money by all means. So our streets have become shambles and juggernaut takes his daily toll of innocent lives.—Catholic Register.

Concert for Child's Welfare
 AUXILIARY ASSOCIATION FORMED.

The Smoking Concert advertised to take place in the Casino Theatre last night, took a most unexpected turn, and one that must ultimately benefit the Child Welfare Association Funds.

The concert was called for 8.15, but at 8.30 there were only forty in the audience and the performers proposed to give the people back their money.

At this stage, Mr. W. R. Warren, after consultation with Sir John Crosbie and the performers, decided to ask the small audience to form a committee to ensure a full house on a future occasion for the Bables. Addressing the audience, Mr. Warren said that a committee called the Men's Auxiliary to the Child Welfare Association be formed, and that Sir John Crosbie be Chairman and that the committee be composed of every one present.

The motion was seconded by Hon. W. J. Higgins and carried unanimously.

Sir John Crosbie is accepting the position, said that the movement was one that must be active, but that other attractions had prevented people from attending last night. The committee would get to work and see that a full house would be present at the next attempt. He urged the necessity of meeting the $2,500.00 required and said he would subscribe $250.00 himself. The gentlemen who had come to sing had promised to do their part and the amount could easily be made up. By those present, subscriptions to the amount of $450.00 were promised and the committee will see that the hall is filled next time.

After this the C. L. B. Band, who were giving their services, played some selections and a regular smoking concert and "sing-song" was carried on and at the end every man volunteered his services as a member of the Men's Auxiliary of the Child Welfare Association. The committee will meet on Wednesday, September 17th, in the Casino. The concert will take the form of a smoked. Ladies following the concert, just as much as the men and are asked to come. MUST SERVE 37 YEARS.
 CHICAGO, Sept. 10.
 Youth alone saved Nathan Leopold Jr., 19, and Richard Loeb, 18, from death on the gallows for the kidnapping and murdering last May of 14 year old Robert Franks. Instead, Judge John R. Caverly, the retiring Chief Justice of the Criminal Court of Cook County, sentenced the two young intellectuals to life imprisonment on the murder charge and to terms of ninety-nine years imprisonment for kidnapping. Under the latter it was stated they cannot be released on parole until they have served more than 37 years in Joliet Penitentiary. A life term alone would have permitted such release after about twenty years. The boys listened to the pronouncement of sentence intently. Leopold's poker face lacked its customary high colouring, but his facial muscles were under perfect control. Loeb's lower jaw hung a bit loosely as he sat with parted lips.

GREAT BRITAIN MEANS WHAT SHE SAYS.
 GENEVA, Sept. 10.
 Great Britain stands by the League covenant which provides for military and naval assistance by all signatories to preserve peace. This declaration was made to-night by Lord Parmoor, representing the British Government after the Disarmament Commission debate on arbitration, security and disarmament. In a statement to the representatives of the Press of the world Lord Parmoor affirmed that Great Britain meant what she said when through the lips of her Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, she declared her readiness to submit all disputes to arbitration. He added that the words "all disputes" included those usually criticized as questions affecting vital interests and national honor.

Pleasant Social Gathering

By Sunday's express Mrs. L. Shano, who is here on a 3 months' holiday visiting her brother and friends, will leave for her home in Vancouver. Last night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Morris, Golf Avenue, a supper and dance was given in her honor. Some twenty couples were in attendance, and dancing was kept up till the wee hours of the morning. The music was supplied by Mr. Sullivan, and all proclaimed that they had spent a most enjoyable time. During the dance a pleasing presentation was made Mrs. L. Shano by Walter Gart, of the Postal Staff, on behalf of the gathering.

MANY LOCAL RECORDS BROKEN YESTERDAY.

Dick Fraser (S.B.C.), the champion Pole Vault, beat his previous record by three quarters of an inch in this event. Grant Burnell (C.L.B.), established a new record for the 1 Mile Walk. He beat his best previous time on turf by 12 1/2 seconds, and lowered J. Steele's time of 8 minutes, made in 1913, by one-fifth of a second. Jack Canning (S.B.C.) by a spectacular finish in the quarter mile, broke the previous record, held by A. Martin, by 1/2 sec. L. Henley (S.B.C.) was acclaimed champion hammer thrower. He beat Howlett's record by 2 inches. C. Stone (C.L.B.) smashed the long standard record for the Half Mile yesterday, by 3/4 sec. The previous record was 2 minutes 13 seconds, held by J. M. Greene. The champion Broad Jumper, S. Parsons (M.G.C.A.) hung up a new record for this event. Parsons, who had beaten his previous jump by 6 inches on Tuesday night, made an amazing leap of 18 ft. 7 in. yesterday. One foot 11 inches over his previous performance.

CHAMPIONSHIP SPORTS DRAW A LARGE GATHERING.

St. Bon's Track Team Captures Hayward Trophy For Third Time.

Over 3,000 persons were present at St. George's Field yesterday afternoon when St. John's witnessed the 4th Annual Championships, conducted under the Amateur Athletic Association. Never, perhaps, in the history of local athletics has a programme of events been so closely contested. The races were very thrilling, there were many surprises, while several new champions were acclaimed, and many local records went by the boards. The weather conditions were ideal for the holding of such an event; everything favored the athletes in this respect, and the interest of the spectators never waned. From start to finish the contests proved most exciting, and there was keen competition between the M.G.C.A. and St. Bon's Track Teams for the Hayward Trophy. It was not until the last event of the day, when the Broad Jump had concluded, was the victorious team made known. St. Bon's, as in the past two years, once again proved their superiority in the athletic field, made by the narrow margin of one point, they successfully defended the Hayward Trophy which they now hold for keeps. The M.G.C.A. team, with the odds against them, put up a splendid fight, and they share in the honors and the congratulations of their many friends.

Amongst the invited guests of the Association, were His Excellency and Lady Allardice, who were received by the reception committee. His Worship the Mayor and the officers and men of the Imperial Service Squadron. Others present were the Clergy of all denominations and many distinguished citizens. A striking feature of the Sports was the participation of the men from the Squadron in nearly all of the events. Although they failed to get a first place, several seconds and thirds were captured, and made a good impression. Mott and Cunningham of H.M.S. Adelaide did well in the High Jump. During the afternoon the bands of H.M.S. Hood and Mt. Cashel lentened the proceedings considerably with appropriate airs, adding much to the enjoyment of the day. The Field Committee carried out the arrangements in a very satisfactory manner. There was not a dull moment noticeable throughout the entire programme, and to Field Captain, Hon. W. J. Higgins, K.C., and assistants, every praise is due. The neck, Stone having a slight advantage, but both had a good lead on Thorburn, who was fully fifty yards behind Skirving at the beginning of the last lap. Here, however, he spurred, and was ahead of Skirving and only about a yard behind Stone. 1st C. Stone (C.L.B.); 2nd W. Thorburn (S.B.C.); 3rd H. Skirving (C.L.B.). Time, 4.50 and 4-5.

Quarter Mile Senior.

This was another spectacular race. A large number of runners lined up for the first round of the field it was uncertain as to who would win. Johnston, however, was in the lead. Coming for the final stage, Canning forged ahead of two competitors and finished in the lead. 1. J. Canning (S.B.C.); 2. D. Johnston (M.G.C.A.); 3. J. Herder (M.G.C.A.). Time 59 3-5 sec.

High Jump.

Several of the naval men were entered in this and put up a noble fight, getting two of the places. The final result was: 1. C. Eagan (S.B.C.); 2. A. B. Mott (H.M.S. Adelaide); 3. T. D. Cunningham (H.M.S. Adelaide). Height 5 ft. 1 1/2 inches.

Hammer Throw.

This was also an interesting item, and ended rather surprisingly for the reason that a new entry in this event emerged victorious. The result was: 1. L. Henley (S.B.C.) 81 ft. 6 in.; 2. W. Coe field (M.G.C.A.) 73 ft. 2 in.; 3. R. Jordan (H.M.S. Constance) 70 ft. 8 inches.

Club Relay Race.

Two clubs entered and it was a spectacular race. In the first relay Parsons (M.G.C.A.) got a lead of about eight feet over Eagan (S.B.C.). This, however, was reduced to about 2 feet by Canning (S.B.C.) who ran against Johnston (M.G.C.A.), with Halley (S.B.C.) and Herder (M.G.C.A.) it was a thrilling race all round and Halley just won in ahead of his opponent. Time 1 min. 13 4-5 sec.

Putting Shot.

Much interest was displayed in this owing to the known prowess of the contestants. The result was however—1st K. Goodyear (M.G.C.A.) 32 feet 2nd W. Coe field (M.G.C.A.) 30 feet 2 inches 3rd H. Diamond (M.G.C.A.) 27 feet 8 inches.

Throwing Discus.

As this did not count for the Club trophy the same interest was not shown as in some of the other events. However it was a well contested item and ended 1st K. Goodyear (M.G.C.A.); 2nd F. Coe field (M.G.C.A.); 3rd R. Jordan (H.M.S. Constance).

Half Mile Race.

In this race there was broken a record held for fifteen years. C. Stone who has been running well all the year was looked upon by some people who know the game, as the most likely to break this record and yesterday he did so. The previous best known time was made by Mr. J. M. Green, in the Highland Games held in 1909, the time was 2.13. Yesterday the time was 2.12 2-5. The race was a good one and created keen interest the order at the finish was 1st C. Stone (C.L.B.); 2nd W. Thorburn (S.B.C.); 3rd G. Perry (M.G.C.A.) Time 2 min 12 2-5 sec.

Broad Jump.

With only two points in the difference of the two clubs, supporters of both watched this event with feverish excitement as on it depended the fate of the trophy. The contestants too were filled with the same spirit and all exerted their greatest efforts with result that a record was beaten by a substantial margin. On Tuesday night S. Parsons (M.G.C.A.) beat his own record by 6 inches. Yesterday he beat Tuesday night's record by 1 foot and 11 inches. The finishing order was 1st S. Parsons (M.G.C.A.), 18 feet 7 inches; 2nd G. Halley (S.B.C.) 18 feet; 3rd W. Skinner (S.B.C.), 17 feet, 8 inches.

Following the presentation of prizes by His Excellency the Governor, the National Anthem concluded a very successful programme.

"Telegram" Road Race.

Ron O'Toole, winner of the "Telegram" Road Race last year, made the 10 miles from the Octagon in 57.05 and beat his rival, W. Linegar, by nearly 400 yards; and the third man, G. Stone, by about 1,100 yards. O'Toole covered the course last year when the course was in better condition, one minute and forty-six seconds quicker. He was in fair running form and appeared fresh at the finish.

Linegar, who was running his first 10 mile race, suffered somewhat from galled feet, owing to poor footwear, and his performance showed that he is a possessor of wonderful stamina. Two sailors from H.M.S. Adelaide, Holmes and Stoker, took part in the race, and gamely finished the course, although it was their first time in any race more than three miles. They brought up the rear of the local runners and beat the tape almost together. Stone and Ralph were running together until nearing Darvey's, at which place the former took the lead, and gained third place. G. Crane was the only one of the entrants who did not finish the course. After completing about half the distance he became ill and was obliged to give up.

The nine contestants lined up at about four o'clock, and all were together for the first fifty yards, when O'Toole took the lead with Linegar, Stone and Ralph in succession. O'Toole and Linegar had a lead of sixty yards on the third man at the end of the first mile, the former only one yard in the lead, tried to break away, but only two yards separated them when they passed Nash's Gate. Going down the grade east of that place the distance which separated them was increased to 20 yards. At Brookfield near Bennett's Dam, the bridge O'Toole appeared to be speeding up when passing Gault, but he did not succeed in increasing his lead more than a dozen yards until he had passed the Road de Luxe. Both men were going well at the beginning of Cornwall Avenue and Albany was passed by O'Toole, exactly 45 minutes after the start. It was after taking Cornwall Avenue that O'Toole appeared to gain. He passed the Maternity Hospital as Linegar crossed the bridge near Bennett's Dam. Coming into LeMarchant Road great crowds of people lined the thoroughfare and motor traffic, which up to this time did not seriously hamper the runners, became an annoyance. Several cars passed between the first and second man just west of St. Claire's Home. Coming across LeMarchant Road Linegar tried hard to lessen the distance between himself and O'Toole, but the latter checked not a whit and entered St. George's Field well in the lead. He finished the course in 1 minute and 39 seconds quicker than Linegar.

The following is O'Toole's time:—

Donovan—14 minutes.
 Byrne—20 minutes.
 Nashe—29 minutes.
 Brookfield—33min. 15sec.
 Kitty Gault—35min. 30sec.
 Sanatorium—37 minutes.
 Road de Lux—40 minutes.
 Albany—45 minutes.
 Maternity Hospital—49 minutes.
 St. George's Field—54min. 35sec.
 Full Course—57min. 05sec.
 Linegar broke into the field as O'Toole was completing his last 20 yards, and was given a great reception. He crossed the tape in 58 minutes and 44 seconds. Gover Stone, who was running third all through, finished in this position and appeared quite fresh. His time was 61.45.

The following finished in the order mentioned: 4th J. Ralph; 64min. 5th G. Hanly; 69.05; 6th G. Kelly; 69.15; 7th, Holmes (H.M.S. Adelaide); 72.45; 8th Stoger (H.M.S. Adelaide); 73.55.

The race was one of the best yet held, and the various runners are to be complimented on their splendid showing which augurs well for future distance runs. O'Toole is undoubtedly a marvel and showed little signs of fatigue at any time throughout the race. He has a good runner up in Linegar who is making a name for himself in long distance events. The committee in charge of the road did excellent work and a special word of praise is due all officials who handled the race.

The trophy and medals were then presented to the winners by His Excellency, who congratulated the winners on their prowess.

FOOTER GAME POSTPONED UNTIL MONDAY NEXT.

The football game between the H.M.S. "Repulse" and the "City" which was to have been held to-morrow night, is cancelled as the Officers and men of the H.M.S. "Repulse" are entertaining the other members of the Squadron. A game, however, has been arranged for Monday, the contesting teams being the H.M.S. "Repulse" eleven and a team from the G. W. V. A. which will comprise some of the best of our ex-Army players.

The H.M.S. "Repulse" is reported to have a splendid aggregation and in a game with the City of Halifax defeated it by 6-0.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

The tie-up fixtures will be continued at St. George's Field this evening, when the Cadets and Guards will try conclusions. Both teams are looked upon to be strong contenders for the second championship and an exciting clash is predicted. The game starts at 6.15 sharp.

HAYWARD TROPHY PRESENTED TO COLLEGE.

After yesterday's sports the St. Bon's athletes accompanied by some of their supporters proceeded to the College where Mr. J. G. Higgins, manager of the team presented the Hayward trophy to the Rev. Bro. J. Bro. Ryan in accepting the trophy expressed his keen delight in being able to do so, and heartily congratulated the victors on their success. He thanked them on behalf of the College for the self sacrifice, they had displayed, but through which alone was it possible to win in a contest such as that just concluded. It was gratifying to know that the victory was won by ex-pupils of the College who though passed out from its walls were still loyal to its alma mater, and were always willing to do anything to bring honor to it. At the College to-night yesterday's victories will be fittingly celebrated.

A Man Who Dreads Riches

Trying to Run His Factory at Loss.
How many people can truthfully declare that they do not want to be rich? There is at least one individual in the world—already a wealthy man—whose main ambition in life is not to be a millionaire, believing that "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God."

He is Mr. Arthur Nash, a well-known Baptist, who runs his great clothing factory with the idea of losing money. What is more, after running his business in a true Christian manner and allowing his employees a generous proportion of profits, he finds it is making more money for him than ever.

When Mr. Nash, who as a child worked on various farms—any place where he could get a living—first acquired his clothing factory, it was a "sweat-shop," and had twenty-nine employees, the foreman receiving a weekly wage of £18s. The other workers received a corresponding "sweat-shop" wage. After he obtained control of the factory, Mr. Nash, who has always been of a religious turn of mind, had a talk with the workers. He told them he was going to run his business on the Golden Rule—"Whatever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them, for this is the law and the prophets."

He informed them that he would pay them the same wages that he would them to pay him if they were up in the office and he were down in the workroom. He began by giving the foreman £31s. a week and increasing the other workers' wages. Mr. Nash went away soon after for a much-needed holiday, and he was quite reconciled to the idea of returning to find that the business was facing bankruptcy. Two months after he came back and went to the factory—to find that they were selling three times as many garments as they were before he went away. Moreover he was astonished to find that the same factory force was turning out three times as much work. So the Golden Rule was a profitable investment in his factory.

After running his business for a year on the Golden Rule idea, Mr. Nash was distressed by the discovery that he had made more money than ever.

Here, then, was a serious dilemma. The manufacturer had applied Christian teaching to the very best of his ability and in perfect good faith to his business. And yet at the end of the year he found himself almost a millionaire. And the Scriptural warning about the millionaire and the needle's eye made it almost impossible for him to sleep at night.

Wealth That Isn't Welcome.
As I own practically all of the stock of the company," Mr. Nash declared some time ago, "in the natural course of events I am doomed to become a very rich man. Please let that word 'doomed' remain in your mind, for that is the horrible picture before me.
"I see no way to go on with this experiment and avoid becoming a millionaire, and I do not want to be a millionaire."
To avoid this "terrible possibility" of becoming a millionaire, Mr. Nash has since given away to his employees over £100,000 worth of stock in the company. But now the thought that is disturbing this remarkable manufacturer is that he may be helping some employee on to the very doom which he fears so much himself.

Woman Bluebeard Charged With Death of Three Husbands

Also Suspected of Having Disposed of Several Friends.

Berlin, Aug. 26.—Frau Krieger, wealthy landowner, has been arrested by the Berlin police as a feminine bluebeard, charged with the murder of her three husbands. She is suspected also of having killed several of her acquaintances.
Frau Krieger, at forty, had married three men, the youngest sixty-five. Immediately after marriage, the police charge, she would do away with her husband, using poison, ax or gas. The alleged motive was always money. She is said to be worth several hundred thousand dollars.

A Satisfactory Answer Before Midnight

Ten years ago Great Britain went to war. Perhaps the most poignant picture of events preceding the declaration and of the announcement in the House of Commons of the sending of the fateful ultimatum to Germany are contained in the Autobiography of Margot Asquith (second volume). We take the following from the fifth instalment of excerpts from the Autobiography published in the Sunday Times in 1922:

"I sat breathless with my face glued to the grille of the gallery, when my husband rose to announce that an ultimatum had been sent to Germany. Having read telegrams from our Ambassador at Berlin and our Minister at Brussels, he paused after this, and then said in a slow, loud voice:—

"I have to add on behalf of His Majesty's Government: We cannot regard this as in any sense a satisfactory communication. We have in reply to it repeated the request we made last week to the German Government, that they should give us the same assurance in regard to Belgium neutrality as was given to us and to Belgium by France last week. We have asked that a reply to that request, and a satisfactory answer to the telegram of this morning—which I have read to the House—should be given before midnight."

"I looked at the House, which was packed from gallery to floor while my husband was speaking, and through misty eyes the heads of the listening members appeared to me as if hewed in prayer.

"A satisfactory answer before midnight."
"These fateful and terrible words were greeted by wave upon wave of cheering, which continued and increased as Henry rose and walked slowly down the floor of the House."

The King's Message.
"When the Speaker had finished reading the King's message all the members poured out of the House, and I went down to the Prime Minister's room.

"Henry looked grave, and gave me John Macley's letter of resignation, saying:—
"I shall miss him very much; he is one of the most distinguished men living."

"For some time we did not speak. I left the window and stood behind his chair.
"So it is all up?" I said.
"He answered, without looking at me:—

"Yes, it's all up."
"I sat down beside him with a feeling of numbness in my limbs, and absently watched through the half-open door the back of moving men. A secretary came in with Foreign Office boxes; he put them down and went out of the room.
"Henry sat at his writing-table, leaning back, with a pen in his hand.
"What was he thinking of?"
"His son?" My son was too young to fight; would they all have to fight? . . . I got up and leant my head against his; we could not speak for tears. . . .
"I looked at the children asleep after dinner before joining Henry in the Cabinet room. Lord Crewe and Sir Edward Grey were already there, and we sat smoking cigarettes in

"Fighting Blood" at the Nickel To-Day

ALL ST. JOHN'S WILL WANT TO SEE THIS SERIES.

The Nickel Theatre announces with pleasure that the famous "Fighting Blood" stories will commence to-night.

Love in an ice cream parlor is brought to the screen in "Fighting Blood." The stories were written by H. C. Witwer, America's most popular writer of sporting stories, and were published originally in Collier's Weekly. The series traces the history of Gale Galen, a typical American small town boy, from the time he starts as a soda-jerker until he becomes middle-weight champion of the world. In the opening scenes a completely appointed soda fountain was constructed by Director Mal St. Clair at the R-C Studios, and a good many of the humorous incidents occur in this scene. The feature to-day is a great melodrama, entitled "The Lion's Mouse." This is a mystery melodrama just crammed full of action, thrills and suspense. It shows a mere slip of a girl who plays the role of an amateur detective, who goes through all sorts of trying situations until she has finally cornered a wicked and notorious gang of blackmailers.

"The Lion's Mouse" was produced by the Hollandia Film Corporation and directed by the popular director, Oscar Apfel. The charming Marguerite Marsh and the handsome Wyndham Standing play the leading roles. The balance of the cast is exceptional.

The question of thrills in the motion picture has been one of great discussion. The director who has been able to make the biggest thrill with the least danger to life and limb has been accorded unlimited praise. In "The Lion's Mouse" Mary Odette, who plays the role of Clo Riley, the mouse who has promised to gnaw and help her girl friend, Beverley, escape from her entanglements, is the one who is forced to walk the six-inch ledge to safety.

Card Party and Dance at Star Hall

The fall programme of entertainments under the auspices of the Star Ladies' Association opened in the club rooms last night with a most successful card party and dance. The winners in the card tournament were C. Trickett and Miss B. Squires. An appetizing supper was served after the conclusion of the games, following which dancing was indulged in. About 100 couples tripped the light fantastic to the music supplied by the C.C.C. Orchestra. The elimination dance was conducted in a new fashion, which created much amusement. It was won by Miss K. Larkin and Mr. Bagg, who were presented with suitable prizes by Mrs. Buckley, President of the Association.

Wedding Bells

MacDONALD-MILLER.

A quiet though pretty wedding took place at St. Thomas' Church on Tuesday, Sept. 9th, when Miss Gertrude MacDonald was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. Martin A. Miller, the ceremony being performed by the Rector, Rev. J. B. Elliott. The bride who looked charming in a travelling costume of fawn broadcloth with a French hat to match, carried a bouquet of coloured sweet peas, was given away by her father, Mr. Geo. MacDonald and was attended by Miss H. MacDonald, who was attired in a rose taffeta frock with black velvet hat. The groom was attended by Mr. Clinton Thorburn. The presents received were valuable and useful, among them being several cheques. The groom's present to the bride was a cheque and to the bridesmaid a ring, and to the groomsmen a pocket book, Mr. and Mrs. Miller left on Tuesday's express for Corner Brook, where they will in future reside.

Last Chance to See the "Eternal Three"

FAMOUS STORY WILL BE REPEATED TO-NIGHT.

"The Eternal Three," a Goldwyn picture, directed by the celebrated Marshall Neilan from his own original story, was presented last night at the Majestic Theatre, and held the audience spellbound with its clever acting, intensely human, modern theme, and its beautiful climax.

Of course, with such famous players as Claire Windsor, Robert Boothby, Raymond Griffith, Bessie Love, Tom Gallery, William Morris and others in the cast, it is a superlative to describe the acting as excellent, but it truly was.

With the meticulous adherence to details which has marked "The Strangers' Banquet" and other big Neilan productions, Marshall Neilan presents several remarkable scenes—the ranch scenes, which were "shot" in Mexico, the Bryce Canyon scenes, and the gorgeous ball room spectacle being especially noteworthy.

The story deals with the ingratitude of humanity—in "The Eternal Three" it is the unusual case of an adopted son (Raymond Griffith) planning to elope with the beautiful young wife of his foster parent. The wife is Claire Windsor and never has she seemed more lovely than in this film, and her husband, the great surgeon with a great love for humanity, is Hobart Bosworth. Raymond Griffith, as the foster son, is a charming fascinating fellow, probably not a villain, but with a weakness for pretty faces. On the way to elope with his foster father's

Stage Secrets Revealed

Mr. Joseph Barker, in his book, "Studio and Stage," just published, reveals several stage secrets and tells how audiences are deceived. He says: When "The Garden of Allah" was produced at the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, London, a couple of years ago, much speculation was excited by the realistic reproduction of a sandstorm—one of the big moments in the piece. Lots of people believed the "sand" to be real sand; while others declared that it was sawdust, while as many again were convinced that it was soft-soap. A certain pignancy was lent to the controversy by Mr. Arthur Collins' polite refusal to divulge the secret. As a matter of simple fact, the secret of the foregoing guesses was correct: the stuff used was catmeal. Storms of every kind, except possibly the purely emotional variety, lend themselves to practice of the art of deception on the stage. Blizzards have, perhaps, not often been staged, but snowstorms are not at all uncommon. A common device used in obtaining the necessary effect is a long trough, which is hoisted in the flies. The trough is filled with pieces of white paper—the suggestion that the rejected efforts of budding playwrights are used for the purpose is not, I believe, supported by facts—and, at the crucial moment, the trough is inverted and the "snow" emptied through the fine-mesh wire netting on to the stage. I remember that at a musical play called "The Snow man," produced at the Lyceum, London, one Christmas some years ago, the snow refused to fall. Courtice Pounds and James Welch were prominent in the piece, and the former, after waiting in vain for the snow to descend as it should have done, saved the situation by inventing the gag, "Let us go into the inn and procure a stoup of wine." Hardly had the pair left, the stage than the snow fell as if it would never cease.

Falling Rain.

The sound of falling rain is usually imitated by means of a metal drum, containing dried peas, revolved at the required rate; while a gale of wind is "put over" with the aid of a cylinder whose wooden cogs, coming into contact with a taut piece of linen or silk, give forth a combined whistling and moaning sound.

A thunderstorm affords excellent scope for mechanical and semi-mechanical devices. A story, wrongly attributed to Augustus Harris, is told of a producer at Drury Lane, London, who was rehearsing a thunderstorm scene, and who called out to the man whose job was to "make" the thunder: "Now then, hurry up!" Hardly had he spoken than a clap of real thunder shook the silence of the theatre. The producer waited until it had reverberated into the distance; then, shaking his head, said, testily, "Not a bit like it—have another go!"

I remember hearing a good stage thunderstorm story when I was working for Michael Gunn, the Dublin Manager and producer. "King Lear" was being presented, and in the middle of the storm a loud crash, as of thunder, started the house, while, following it, there came rolling down stage a dozen or more hefty cannon balls. At the sight of them the almost decrepit king was galvanised into talking hurried and undignified refuge on the orchestra side of the footlights, against which the cannon balls came to a standstill with a succession of metallic bangs. It turned out that by way of obtaining the thunder effects in this particular theatre a man was employed in trundling a wheelbarrow-load of cannon balls over a specially prepared surface at the back of the stage. Somehow on this occasion the man had slipped and fallen, with the disastrous result I have described.

Pole. Just after arriving at Thank God Harbor, Greenland, Captain Hall, died of a mysterious illness. Then the Polar is ran into a storm, was caught in the ice pack and sprang a leak. Orders were given to save the provisions by throwing them on the ice. Some of the crew got out to put the articles flung overboard at a safe distance from the ship, which by its rising and falling motion, was raving the ice. In the darkness of the night, with its blinding sleet, the party on the ice were separated from the Polar is. At dawn, not a trace of the ship was to be seen. Not until 1873 was the group cast adrift rescued. In those anxious months, the ice floe on which they were marooned, had drifted 1,800 miles. Mr. Kruger returned to New York after this adventure and served for more than thirty years as a pilot on a ferry.

Fiji Islanders in England

It is fifty years since the Paramount Chief of the Fiji Islands, named Sacombo, who had been converted from cannibalism to Christianity by James Calvert, ceded the islands to Britain.

Two Fiji Chiefs, Ratu Raboi and Ratu Veli, arrived in England recently to tell the King how the natives appreciate the benefits of British rule. They brought with them a present of valuable whale's teeth, and these they presented to King George at Buckingham Palace.

The days of cannibalism in Fiji are long past, and all the islanders look upon themselves as Christians.

Many of the islanders worked in the Labour Battalions in France during the war, and the Chiefs have been accompanied by Ratu Sakuna, Fijian Commissioner to Wembley, who was educated at Oxford. According to Ratu Sakuna, the Fijians are great athletes and play an excellent game of football—with bare feet. Their cricket is so good that some years ago they sent visiting teams to New Zealand and to Australia.

They are the greatest sailors and swimmers in the world, for Fiji is made up of about 250 islands scattered over the South Pacific ocean.

If they charged you a dollar a cake the makers could not give you a better soap than Ivory.—adv.t. 17
