CANON RICHARDSON DISCUSSES ADDRESS OF PROFESSOR McBRIDE

The following sermon was preached by Rev. Canon Richardson in Trinity church yesterday:— "The seed is the Word of God." It is take these words as my text this morning. It is not with any intention of expounding the parable of which they form a part, but because they are suggestive of a subject which I want to bring before you. My attention was called within the last few days to a certain address delivered recently in Montreal upon the relationship of science and religion, and a report of which appeared in the Saturday Evening Times. The lecturer was a professor of science in McGill University, and presumably a man of light and learning. It was not, therefore, that his words should have awakened a widespread interest. But they evidently did more than that, they made a profound impression upon those who heard them. The attitude of the learned lecturer towards religion generally was one of friendship, for after speaking of the way in which what he called his "traditional faith" had "crumbled" just before the difficulties raised by the new knowledge, he went on to declare that "after a long period of unrest, it had been possible for him to fight his way back to a hope that God and immortality are what Christ represented them to be." That sounds at first very reassuring, yet in the face of that fact, the popular impression made by the lecture is summed up in the heading of the press report: "A summary which would seem to be justified by Dr. McBride's endorsement of it, have been published in the press of this city, and have, therefore, been widely read. I do not feel justified in allowing anyone to think that the last word upon the subject has been spoken, or that Dr. McBride and Dr. Symonds are in any sense final authorities in their respective spheres of influence. The McGill professor I do not know, though I gladly accept the Rev. G. Osborne's description of him as an "honest and sincere man." With Dr. Symonds, however, I have the honor of being personally acquainted, and I desire to preface what I shall say by remarking that he is a man for whom I have the greatest possible respect, and with whose ideas and

AFTER THE FIRE

Arrangements Being Made for Repairs to Buildings—Appraising Losses Will Be Finished Tomorrow. Contractor James Myles had a crew of men at work today making repairs to the Prescott building on King street, which was gutted in last Thursday's fire. Edward Bates, representing the Royal Bank, and John Flood, for the insurance people, were engaged today in appraising the damage to the building occupied by the American Canning House. Bates and Flood are being asked for the tearing down of the building. The statement in one of the morning papers, that Edward Bates had been engaged to tear down the building was not correct. In conversation with Mr. Bates this morning, he said it was his opinion that the fire had been caused from hot ashes which had been dumped on the floor of the basement under J. W. McWhorter's store. This basement was occupied by Brock & Paterson. The ashes had been dumped alongside of some rubbish, and from this the fire had caught on the sides of the electric shafts and had then spread very quickly to the top of the building. The appraising of the Royal Bank building will probably be completed this afternoon and the work on the stock of Brock & Paterson and the American Canning House will be completed tomorrow.

The funeral of the late Daniel Donovan took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, Dock street. Rev. A. W. Meahan officiated, and interment was in the new Catholic cemetery.

A. H. Hanington returned today from Montana, where he has been attending a meeting of the Kimberly-Montana Mining Co. Regarding the reported sale of the property, Mr. Hanington would not talk, as he said he would have to report first to the local shareholders.

ST. JOHN MAY HAVE BIG STRIKE OF HANDS AFTER FIRST OF MAY

Masons, Carpenters and Painters Will Demand Higher Wages, and They Have Been Endorsed by Every Union in the United States—Some of the Masters Think Advanced Rate Should be Paid.

There is a possibility of St. John having a big strike on its hands after May 1st. The reason for the expected demand is the fact that the masons, carpenters and painters have decided that the remuneration for their work was insufficient, and they would demand higher wages on May 1st. All three unions discussed the question of higher wages some time ago, and it was resolved by the masons to demand 40 cents per hour, work to begin at 8 a. m., instead of working for $2.00 per day and laboring from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. at present. The Carpenters' Union decided to demand $3.00 per day instead of receiving $2.00 and in some cases $2.50 per day. The painters are now receiving $2.00 per day, and on May 1st they will demand $3.00 per day.

The three unions, it is stated, submitted their plans to the other unions in the city and they were endorsed by all. The case was then referred to the head of the International Union in New York, and the matter was brought up before every union in the neighboring republic, and was endorsed in every instance. A report came from the International Union in New York, that the decision was in favor of the proposed increase. HAD A VERY LARGE CARGO

C. P. R. Liner Mount Temple Had one of the Largest Cargoes on Record. The C. P. R. steamship Mount Temple, which sailed from Montreal last week for London and Antwerp, took away one of the largest cargoes that ever left this port. The valuation of the cargo being $450,000. Among her freight were 922 cwt and 148,818 bushels of wheat. The big steamer is now well on her way with her heavy cargo being retained in another large cargo before the season closes. She has on board a large export of American goods.

MONCTON NEWS

MONCTON, Feb. 18.—The Builders' workmen, factory of Moncton, which is seeking incorporation will take over the factory known as the R. C. Donald property at St. John's street. The company intends to carry on a general woodworking business and also the construction of the factory. The contractors are J. A. Bourque, T. D. LeBlanc, Simon Melanson, Fred T. LeBlanc and Camille Richard. A new boiler and engine have recently been purchased from the Robb Engineering Co. of Amherst and a load of up-to-date machinery for the factory has been ordered. The contractors and woodworkers are looking forward to another busy summer in Moncton. The citizens were treated to the most interesting and amusing of the two hundred speeches last night of seeing two hundred men gathered for a night. The speakers were members of the Juvenile Temple, I. O. G. T., which is in such a flourishing condition in this city. Mrs. J. V. Jackson, of this city, is superintendent of Juvenile Temple work and will be in charge of the work during the ensuing year. She has organized many new temples at different points in this section but the Moncton temple is the largest and has the most members. The members of the temple are the most enthusiastic and the most active in the work. The fact that two hundred took part in the meeting is a proof of the popularity of the temple. The taking of evidence in the equity suit of Thibodeau and Cormier against the estate of the late J. B. LeBlanc, has been going on here before James McQueen referee in equity, for the past two or three weeks. The case now stands adjourned till next week but the taking of accounts will probably not be concluded for a week or two more. The counsel in the case are James F. Chiel, for the complainants and W. B. Chandler, K. C. for the defendant.

SUCCESSFUL SERVICES

The Tabernacle church was crowded last night. The meetings have been growing in interest. Many are seeking the higher life. Mr. Waring said last night that the usual answer to the question, "Why is it that you are not better?" is in terms of character. A man is worth not what he has but what he is. Good character is the best capital for this life and for the life to come. Genius fails of true success when it has not good character. A royal heart is needed for royal deeds. The character attained here determines the life hereafter. Character is to the soul what constitution is to the body. It needs exercise. All a man's deeds, words and thoughts are being built into his character. Gods are we, saints, heroes, heroes, if we will. To be Christ-like we must give as well as get. Character needs nourishment. Appropriating faith receives this from God. As these things God that man has new character, new life, and each year work surpasses the pleasures of earth. Work and faith are both needed.

OUTLAWS AND GUARDS

Smith ordered his guards to hold their ground and use their weapons and he set the example by opening with his own Winchester. So deadly was their fire that Colorado and his gang were routed, leaving two dead and one wounded behind them. Colorado himself is reported to have been slightly wounded. In leading the attack on the outlaw Smith fell mortally wounded and two of his men were killed. News of the attack was conveyed to Tomas about twenty miles distant, and the Mexican authorities dispatched a detachment of rurales in pursuit of the bandits, who flew towards the highest mountains, where their stronghold is believed to be located. Smith's home is said to have been in Montana. He had been in the employ of the Dolores Mining Company for two years. This is the first appearance of the outlaw Juan Colorado reported since his band attacked an emigrant train near the Mormon colonies at Casa Grande, about three months ago.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

ALL IS VANITY. The Times new reporter was rather sad this morning. He was thinking about his friends the correspondents, who make the news of the day. He read over the morning papers, and turning to the staff generally made these observations:—"That's a flat prospect. Alice is married and there's no word yet of a petition for divorce. Old man Fallera was made president of France yesterday, without an arrest being made, even for voting at the Sabbath. There's nothing doing at Algeria, and Kaiser Bill hasn't limited a yell for three whole days. The Chinese have delivered the goods—not a missionary killed. The Boston Longshoveln men are still at it, and there's not a word yet of a petition for divorce. John A. McCall's picture goes to the scrap-heap. Wall street is so dull that Russell Sage has gone down town for a week. What chance have we to get out a newspaper? Did you ever see the life of '87? There's nothing doing at City Hall. The Citizens' League has been taking more hope. The weather is as monotonous as the life of a politician. The members of the legislature haven't had a clinch since they went to the legislature. The election entries got whaled as usual. The case in Milford isn't smallpox. The earthquake in the West Indies didn't knock a brick. The low loan hasn't smashed anything—not even a record for a whole week. It all makes me feel like going out and banging a policeman, so that you fellows can get an item. It's awful."

BOODY BATTLE IN MEXICAN MOUNTAINS

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—A Fort Worth Texas, despatch to the World says that details have been received there of a battle fought in the Sierra Madre Mountains of Mexico Saturday between Juan Colorado's band of outlaws and the guards of a bullion train traversing the mountain trail leading from the Dolores mines to the railway station at Tomas, on the Rio Grande, Sierra Madre and Pacific Railroad. Bullion to the value of many thousands of dollars was being conveyed on the backs of mules to the railroad for shipment to the United States. William Smith, an American, was in charge of the pack train, with seven Mexican guards armed with Winchester. The train was passing through one of the wildest extremes of the mountains, where the trail was extremely narrow and dangerous when the attack was made by Colorado and about twelve of his followers. The outlaws opened fire from behind boulders and other places of concealment.

the impulse to love and to be loved, to give pleasure rather than give pain, then he dare not doubt that love and goodness are the nature of Him from whom the creature came, and to be asked

"Do I find love so full in my nature, God's ultimate gift. "That's His own love can compel with it? Here the parts shift! "Here, the creature surpasses the Creator—the end what began? "Would I find in my impotent yearning do And dare doubt He alone shall not help him, who yet alone

In the same way, Dr. McBride's argument for the immortality of the soul must meet with the approval of every thinker. We can see points of analogy between nature and the human soul, in view of which the presumption of immortality becomes very probable, but there is no concrete process of reasoning by which it can be demonstrated as a fact. Every syllogism is somewhere open to attack. But when we turn to the testimony of our deepest consciousness, we find there a certainty needs no demonstration.

When the lecturer went a step further, and asked us to see in the effect of Jesus Christ's teaching the supreme vindicator of His claim to deity, we were sent into the world to do God's will, and to reveal His truth, he is again only in accord with the Christian's own consciousness. "I was sent into the world to do God's will, and to reveal His truth, he is again only in accord with the Christian's own consciousness. "I was sent into the world to do God's will, and to reveal His truth, he is again only in accord with the Christian's own consciousness.

There is, then, nothing in all this that is in any sense new, nothing that would not be accepted by the vast majority of modern theologians, yet it is good to have it so forcibly expressed from the chair of modern science, and we are glad to see Synonyms that the cause of truth and religion have been served.

But that is not all, and Dr. McBride goes on to discuss those who are absolutely alien to that which the Church holds fast as her heritage of faith. Take, for example the hard-given to orthodox certain he draws between the teaching of Jesus, and the theology of Paul—a distinction so clear that we are told that Jesus came to keep our faith, we must leave Paul's theology, and return to Christ. "There is nothing new, or particularly striking about this conception. Not seldom the same plea has been put forward by modern theologians, but I do not think we need hesitate to accept it, for as a matter of fact, the Bible does not deny that the faith which in his last days St. Paul claimed that he had kept, was to him, at least, an objective body of truth committed to him by Jesus Christ, not something which he had created, but something he had kept. If I may quote the words of a distinguished theologian, "The fact is that the body of truth which he had received, or too ready to receive the teaching of tradition merely because it was tradition, but whose mind was open to the truth, whether its statement came from the scientist or the theologian, I would say this about St. Paul. "The faith was not absolutely committed to him, which had to hold, and so to apply, but which he had not made, and was not to improve. He was to receive it as a deposit, it was the word of Christ which he preached. "That, quite clearly, was the Apostle's own view about his own position, not absolutely conclusive, of course. It does not prove that he might not have been mistaken, but, if we accept, as Dr. McBride accepts, the reality of the resurrection of St. Paul on the road to Damascus, then his subsequent convictions ought to have some weight. The evidence is not lightly set aside, and only by a strange contradiction of thought is it possible to speak of the teaching of the Epistles as "of a different order, altogether and spiritualized, it is true, but betraying its origin at every turn.

It might further be added that it is not easy to see how modern science, and modern criticism have destroyed the whole basis of St. Paul's teaching. The evidence has been accumulated to hear the earlier books of the Bible attacked upon scientific grounds, and modern critics have endeavored to show that "it is quite possible that had we been witnesses of the deeds of Christ, we should not have termed them miraculous, but have seen in them instances of the wonderful effect of the mind on mind in curing nervous disease. How incredible a supposition! How vastly more difficult to believe such a hypothesis as that than to accept the faith of the universal Christian church that these things were done by the power of God in the person of His incarnate Son. Yet that is what we are asked to do, and in the name of science.

But, after all, Dr. McBride gives away his whole position by conceding the miraculous in certain cases, for, speaking of this hypothesis about the influence of mind on mind, he says, "To believe, namely, the resurrection from the dead." The reality of Christ's resurrection he rightly regards as indisputable upon the ground that the remarkable effect of our Lord's resurrection upon the disciples must have had a cause external to themselves. It is a splendid argument, and one that must appeal to most thoughtful men. A few years ago, a clergyman in Brighton wrote to Lord Salisbury, at that time prime minister, asking him his reasons for believing in Christianity. I give you his answer as it appeared in the London Record. "Everyone has their own point of view from which they look at these things. To me the central point is the resurrection of Christ, which I believe, "Firstly, because it is testified by men who had every opportunity of seeing and knowing, and whose veracity was tested by the most tremendous trials, both of energy and endurance, during long lives. "Secondly, because of the marvelous effect it had upon the world. As a moral phenomenon, the spread and mastery of Christianity is without a parallel.

no more believe that colossal moral effects lasting for two thousand years can be without a cause, than I can believe that the various motions of the magnet are without a cause, though I cannot wholly explain them.

To anyone who believes the Resurrection of Christ, the rest presents little difficulty. No one who has that belief will doubt that those who were commissioned by Him to speak—Paul, Peter, Mark and John—carried a Divine message. St. Paul's fall into the same category. St. Paul has the warrant of the generation of Christians who saw and heard the others.

That is the barest and roughest form the line which the evidence for the inspiration of the New Testament has always taken in my mind.

Dr. McBride accepts the logic of this argument, but denies its real force by refusing to extend it to lower levels. He does still further weaken his position by making another exception in favor of the Vision of St. Paul. He admits that Jesus rose from the dead, and that St. Paul was given a special revelation of the risen Lord, but denies to Jesus any power to reveal smaller miracles, and refuses to believe that the apostle to the Gentiles was inspired by God to teach Divine truths. On that there is anything more utterly illogical and weak.

I should like to have said more upon this subject, but I must not keep you longer. I have tried to show you briefly the impression made by Dr. McBride's address upon myself, both in its strength and in its weakness. From the standpoint of my own littleness I believe in the value of scientific research, as firmly as I believe in the value of the written Word, but I have yet to learn that there is any contradiction between the two. On the contrary, indeed, it would be easy to quote from men who, by universal consent, rank amongst the scientific leaders of this age, and of the ages that have gone, to show that in their judgment there is no such inherent contradiction. Let me conclude with the words of one eminent in our own time, Professor Woodhouse, the Cambridge physiologist:

"Curious things I accept because the evidence to me is overwhelming, though I do not pretend to understand it fully. I accept, as I do many temporal things, the things which are beyond the rest of all I have sufficient evidence around me to believe. There are certain things which I do not understand, but which I accept, as I do many temporal things, because I have sufficient evidence around me to believe. There are certain things which I do not understand, but which I accept, as I do many temporal things, because I have sufficient evidence around me to believe.

For everything we get something taken away. Every act pulls two ways. Some men in power dole out their souls for it. They can't have soul and power at the same time.

And so, in this quick-living age, most of us can't have energy and health at the same time. One or the other must be lost, and it is usually health.

We know we are doing wrong and would like to return, but we have a morbid fear of being laughed at if we aim to live and eat according to conscience and good sense.

Some of us break away for a while and endeavor ourselves to a diet. We read the hardy Scotchman, that fed on porridge and oatcake, making soldiers of muscle and dash, and how Cassius's army was fed on corn. But the diet doesn't last long. We quickly swing back into the great line, eating and drinking to fatten like the rest, eating everything and anything, at all times, and say we've found it. We say: "what is a stomach for if it isn't to obey the palate."

Therefore, if you feel your food lies like a "lump of lead" on your stomach, beware: Your gastric juice is weak. It can't dispose of the food in time to prevent fermentation. Take something that will do it effectively and at once. Take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the most powerful tablets in the world for the relief of all kinds of stomach trouble, nausea, indigestion, the worst cases of dyspepsia, fermentation, bloating, feeling of dyspepsia, heartburn and brash.

RUTLAND, VERMONT, HARD HIT BY FIRE YESTERDAY

Six Brick Blocks in the Business Section Were Wiped Out—Losses Will Reach $750,000—Hydrants Were Frozen and Firemen Were Hampered.

Rutland, Vt., Feb. 18.—Six large brick blocks in the business section of the city, destroyed by nearly a score of fires and many smaller conflagrations, were destroyed by fire today. The loss on the destroyed property is estimated at three quarters of a million dollars. The fire went beyond the control of the local department and help was summoned from White Hall (N. The fire broke out shortly before 10 o'clock this morning and spread with great violence, taking block after block in its sweep, but was finally stopped through the energetic work of the firemen aided by two heavy party walls and by the heavy snow on the roofs. The fire was discovered in the Ripley block on Main street, and soon extended to the blocks directly south and then to the Baker block on the corner of Center street. Swinging around the corner it took in the Baker and Tuttle blocks on Center street, the latter a six story brick building having on the farther side the Tuttle Company, printers, loss, $120,000; Ripley block, destroyed the Cranston block occupied by the Cranston Combination Store Company, and in the rear a block on Willow street, owned and occupied by the Cranston Cash Company, printing press on the farthing side of the Cranston block stopped the fire's progress toward the Merchants' Row.

The following is a list of the estimated loss and insurance:

Ripley block—William Y. Ripley, owner, loss, $20,000; insurance, $25,000; J. K. Kean, dry goods, loss, $30,000; insurance, 5,000; Hopkins & Howley, clothing, loss, $15,000; insurance, $8,000; live tenants, loss, $12,000; insurance, $10,000.

SUDDEN DEATH OF RICHARD BRADLEY SATURDAY NIGHT

He Had Gone to a Drug Store For Relief But Death Came First—His Fiance Was With Him When He Died—W. R. Pendleton Dead.

Richard Bradley, of 60 High street, died under exceptionally sad circumstances last Saturday evening last. During the week he was confined to his home because of erysipelas, but on Saturday felt greatly improved and part of the afternoon and evening he spent with friends residing in Portland street. Feeling suddenly weak, he started, in company with Miss Croteau, his fiancee, for R. B. Davis' drug store on the corner of Portland and Main streets, but he had scarcely been in the store more than a few minutes before he collapsed, with the young woman to whom he was betrothed at his side.

Dr. W. F. Roberts was summoned, but nothing could be done. His friends and relatives the shock was overpowering, for there has been little further anxiety about his illness. The body was conveyed home and tomorrow afternoon the funeral will be held from Portland Methodist church, where deceased had long worshipped.

He was twenty-eight years of age and was a wine driver in the Maritime Mail Works. Sisters are Mrs. A. W. McNeil of this city, and Miss Emma Bradley of Boston. Harold and Kenneth Bradley, residing at home, are brothers. He was a young man who enjoyed the good will of all who knew him, and the expressions of regret because of his sudden death and of respect sympathy for those who were near to him, were very many.

The father of deceased, Capt. Richard Bradley, a sea captain, sailed from about 7 o'clock yesterday morning at the home of his son, Sylvia R. Pendleton, 61 South mer street. Deceased was a resident of this city for about thirty-five years, and was widely known in the community and enjoyed the esteem of all.

For the past month or so he was in failing health. About 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening he was in his son's room, 143 Mill street, when he took a sudden walk. The ambulance was summoned and he was quickly as possible he was conveyed to his home, where Dr. E. J. Broderick attended him, but his heart was affected and he continued to sink steadily.

Mr. Pendleton was a native of Maine, but a great part of his life was spent in the province. His wife died a few years ago and one son, two brothers and two sisters survive. The latter reside in Rockport. The ambulance was summoned at this evening's train for interest. He was 65 years of age.

NAME JOHN E. WILSON SUGGESTED AS MAYORALTY CANDIDATE—MORE NAMES FOR ALDERMANIC LIST.

Attention was again brought yesterday with the names of new candidates for the next civic elections. John E. Wilson is reported to be the choice of a certain section of the community for the mayoralty.

Mr. Wilson is at present out of the city and his views have not been ascertained. Mr. H. Hatchell and C. B. Lockhart are mentioned as likely to offer for aldermanic places. These are, as far as is known, the first names that have been mentioned for these positions. All Frank by mentioning for mayor, and Mr. Arthur by declining to accept a nomination for Alderman ward, and left the field open. It is probable that other candidates for aldermanic places will appear before the election takes place.

It is said that Mr. Lewis will have opposition in the forthcoming election in Sidney ward. On Saturday a number of the ratepayers called on John H. Long, alderman, and asked him to be a candidate for alderman. Mr. Long asked for two or three days to consider but it is said to be quite likely he will accept.

J. H. Crockett, of Fredericton, spent Sunday in the city.

CANADA'S DUTY TO THE EMPIRE

Robert Meighen Discusses Mutual Responsibility Here and in England

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS

Address Delivered Before the Past Presidents and Council of Montreal Board of Trade.

At a dinner given in Montreal last Wednesday by the Montreal Board of Trade, the past presidents, members and a few invited guests, Robert Meighen, in responding to the toast "Industries of Canada," delivered a notable speech which has attracted considerable attention. In discussing the mutual responsibility of England and Canada, he laid stress on the dominion's duty to the empire, and spoke of the misconceptions which were common in the community. The following report of Mr. Meighen's speech is taken from Friday's Montreal Star.

At a dinner given in Montreal last Wednesday by the Montreal Board of Trade, the past presidents, members and a few invited guests, Robert Meighen, in responding to the toast "Industries of Canada," delivered a notable speech which has attracted considerable attention. In discussing the mutual responsibility of England and Canada, he laid stress on the dominion's duty to the empire, and spoke of the misconceptions which were common in the community. The following report of Mr. Meighen's speech is taken from Friday's Montreal Star.

Professing his remarks by an epitomized history of agriculture, Mr. Meighen called attention to the fact that the western prairie and rolling lands of producers of wheat may be gathered from the fact that they contain an area of more than 300,000 acres, all capable of producing wheat of the finest quality; whereas the largest area of wheat in this country, that smaller country to the south of us, which is called "America," but which we more correctly call the United States, has never had under wheat cultivation more than 20,000 acres, upon which there have succeeded in producing 800,000 bushels of wheat. It is important to remember that of our 300,000 acres in the Northwest, we have only at this date present, occupied by about 80,000 farmers, and the producing area is less than 80,000 bushels of wheat alone. It is therefore a simple multiplication sum that if only 200,000 more wheat farmers were on our fertile western lands we shall then produce more than 500,000,000 bushels of wheat annually.

The need of increasing population we all admit and advocate, and the need of the right kind of population we are equally sure of. The population we need is that of the British empire put before the British electors as logically and persistently as we can. The population we need is that of the British empire put before the British electors as logically and persistently as we can. The population we need is that of the British empire put before the British electors as logically and persistently as we can.
