ARRESTS IN MAIL ROBBERY CASE

Thefts Which Involved Nearly $6,000,000

President and Vice-President of Central Securities Co. of Chicago Indicted and Eighteen More to Follow—Alleged Uncovering of a Big Plot.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—A score of indictments returned on Saturday and disclosed yesterday by the arrest of two of the indicted men are declared by John V. Clinan, assistant U. S. district attorney, to clear up mail robberies throughout the country aggregating nearly $6,000,000. Names of the other eighteen are withheld pending their apprehension.

The men arrested were John W. Worthington, president and Owen T. Evans, vice president of the Central Securities Company of Chicago. This Securities Company, it is charged by government authorities, was used for the disposal of securities obtained in robberies including liberty bonds, which it allegedly was altered to make them salable.

Mr. Clinan declared that the ramifications of the plot to dispose of alleged stolen securities extended throughout the nation.

This is one of the biggest round-ups this office has ever tackled," he asserted. "The arrests of Worthington and Evans, though of utmost importance, do not scratch the surface."

Among the mail robberies which the authorities declare Worthington and his associates have been connected with are: Toledo, Feb. 17, 1921, $1,000,000; Dearborn street station, Chicago, April 6, 1921, $300,000; Mount Vernon, Ills., January 14, 1921, $12,000; Toccoa, Georgia, Sept. 10, 1920, $300,000; Council Bluffs, Iowa, November 17, 1920, $2,800,000.

In addition the recent disappearance of $500,000 worth of Sinclair Oil stock in New York is being investigated in connection with yesterday's arrests.

Moncton, N. B., Aug. 2.—Fire started about midnight at Richibucto, and threatened the whole northern section of the town, but was reported checked at eight o'clock this morning.

The buildings destroyed include Union Hotel, with barns; LeBlanc Hotel, with barns and sample rooms; Barney Doucett's store and residence; A. & R. Loggie's freezer, warehouse and store; Richard O'Leary's freezer, warehouse and store; Mrs. Z. Lege's residence and tinshop; Mrs. Cyrille Long's residence; Ned Long's residence; Peter Bernard's residence and barn; Peter Doucett's house and barn; George O'Leary's store. The stock in the stores, freezers and warehouses are nearly a total loss.

Much fishing equipment was also destroyed. Loss Half Million. It is estimated that the loss is more than half a million dollars. There were two fires.

The first, a small one, broke out in the barn in the rear of Peter Bernard's home, about a quarter of twelve o'clock. Mr. Bernard's barn was totally destroyed and the flames spread to the house, which was also destroyed. From this the flames spread to the home of George E. O'Leary and both house and barn were destroyed. This fire threatened the whole section of the town for about 4 1/2 o'clock.

Soon after this a second fire broke out in the barn of the Union Hotel, barn, house and garage being destroyed. From here the fire spread to the garage of Arthur Mallico. It was extinguished by the fire department. The Leblanc Hotel, purchased a few days ago by Andrew Wood of this town. It was totally destroyed, also barn and sample rooms.

From the Leblanc Hotel the fire spread to the stores and freezers of Richard O'Leary, and A. and R. Loggie. Stores, freezers and warehouses of both firms were destroyed. The homes of Mrs. John and Michael Long were also destroyed, as were the tinshop of Nichol and blacksmith shop owned by David Richard.

Loggie's and O'Leary's freezers were full of mackerel, which are a total loss. The stores belonging to these two firms and other stores burned, carried large stocks very little of which was saved. There was a large quantity of fishing gear, and equipment owned by Andrew Wood had just begun to operate the Leblanc Hotel, Monday being his first day.

Big Fire at Bear River. The large clothes pin and dowl factory of Charles Ross, Ltd., of Lake Falls, 14 miles from Bear River, was destroyed by a fire which broke out from some unknown cause, but apparently from a boiler house about three o'clock Saturday morning. The efforts of the company's fire department kept the flames confined to the mill proper, and all the stores, warehouses, blacksmith shop, barn, cookhouse and dwelling are saved. The loss is estimated at $50,000, which is partially covered. With the spare machinery and equipment owned by the company and located at other points in the country, the manufacture of hard wood products can be commenced again very soon.

As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram," said the Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornebaum, "I have a grievance. With four friends I motored through the Settlement. We were thirsty. We paused at a farmhouse for a glass of milk. The farmer charged seventy-five cents for the five glasses. You see, the price is charged to encourage tourist travel and to aid in the enforcement of the prohibition. But when a liquid refreshment is made high enough in price a man will not buy it. You see, he'll come down here and get it."—By Hen.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Sir George H. Perley, K. C. M. C., Canadian high commissioner to Britain, who some time ago announced his impending retirement from that position, arrived in Ottawa yesterday, accompanied by Lady Perley.

Speaking of recent events in Britain, Sir George said "My opinion is that Meighen has done very well in London. He stood strongly for all Canadian interests in negotiations there and at the same time impressed the British people with his fairness and his desire to settle all these knotty problems in the best interest of, and to the satisfaction of, the various parts of the empire."

His speeches and public utterance in Britain have been a very high place and showed the same ability in that direction that all of us Canadians know he possesses in such full measure."

"Golden Voice" Is Stilled Forever; Caruso Is Dead

APPARENTLY RECOVERING, SUDDEN RELAPSE CARRIES AWAY WORLD-FAMED TENOR

End Comes in His Beloved Italy—Operation for Abscess Which Caused Acute Peritonitis Performed on Sunday as Last Resource—World of Music Shocked by News.

Naples, Aug. 2.—Enrico Caruso, world's famous tenor, died here today.

SETBACK MAKES AN OPERATION NECESSARY. Caruso underwent an operation on Sunday, over the results of which the surgeons are pessimistic, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Rome today, quoting a Naples message. Caruso was said to be tremulously weak yesterday afternoon, the weakness of his heart necessitating injection of camphor every two hours.

The final operation was for an abscess between the liver and the diaphragm, which caused acute peritonitis. The tenor was until a week ago on the way to the pier from the long illness which began in New York last winter early in the operatic season, when suddenly he had an unexpected relapse and was removed from Sorrento to Naples. He arrived at Naples on Sunday night, and the messengers and specialists who were called in decided to operate immediately.

When the tenor sailed from New York for Italy, on May 28, he appeared to have recovered from the long illness which he had contracted in New York. He was improving nicely and that his voice would be permanently improved by his illness.

A WISE DECISION

The harbor commission act is buried, as it deserved to be. The last minute appeals of the mayor and the Globe yesterday afternoon were made in vain. While the vote cast was extremely small, it was decisive, and had a full vote been polled it is plain that the result would have been the same.

There should be food for reflection in the result for the Board of Trade group who sent out that remarkable issue of the Board of Trade Journal, urging all citizens to read it. If they did read it, the authors have their answer. These gentlemen will also have observed that there were prominent members of the Board who did not support them, and this may prompt them in future to get the feeling of the members generally before becoming the extremely partisan champions of any cause.

The mayor and city council have learned what the people think of the harbor commission act. They were given that information at various times, but were unconvinced. They must now see that they would have been quite justified in rejecting the act at any time in the last year and a half, during which period they were marking time. The way is now clear for such action as would be to the real advantage of this port, and when that action is taken the council will find the citizens ready to lend their support.

As for those gentlemen who charged that a political game was being played, they must now reflect that if yesterday's result is any indication of what will happen to them in a political campaign they may as well stay out of the game. As a matter of fact, they were the persons who introduced politics, and they have their answer.

There were certain persons also who imputed motives, whispered insinuations about selfish interests opposed to harbor commission, and by every means sought to arouse prejudice against individuals in the hope that it might bear fruit to their liking. They, too, have their answer.

The Globe may possibly learn from this experience that in lending the use of its columns to anonymous writers who seek to belittle opponents, and attack individuals from behind a hedge, is not the most discreet policy in journalism. Also it may or should learn that to preach blue ruin is not to gain support in a community which has some faith in itself and in its future.

One citizen who can review the campaign and its result with great satisfaction is Mr. H. R. McLellan. But for his determined activity there would probably have been no second public meeting to discuss the harbor commission act. He found himself opposed by a formidable array of talent, but it is not too much to say that he carried the majority of the audience with him on each occasion. He had the right side of the argument and was not at all disturbed by the reputation or debating skill of his opponents. He has done the city good service.

So far as the Times is concerned, it extends the assurance of its distinguished consideration to those who impugned its motives and questioned its wisdom; and it will heartily support them in any movement which bears on its face, without the necessity of long legal opinions, the assurance that it will be for the benefit of the port of St. John. It is obvious that the citizens must stand together to achieve their ends, and that will be possible only when and which is sought is believed by all to be in the public interest. All is not lost because the people refused to give up control of the harbor on terms that could not be defended. St. John is still a national port, and must receive national recognition.

If there is one lesson more than another that needs to be learned in St. John, it is that the citizens should pay more attention to matters affecting the city's welfare, so that when a plebiscite is taken the large vote will reveal the universal interest. The question of harbor improvement remains with us. There is need of full and free discussion of the whole subject. No one group should be permitted to get the impression that its views can prevail without the sympathy and support of the people at large.

Judging from their comments, after the returns came in, some of the advocates of the harbor commission act are sad losers.

AFTER THE VOTE—WHAT?

Despite the apparently hopeless view of the situation taken by Mayor Schuch, as revealed in his letter to the Globe yesterday, despite the alleged decrip state of the wharves revealed by Commissioner Bullock, and despite the assertion of some bad losers that St. John has been thrown back a quarter of a century, the citizens who opposed the harbor commission act are confident of the future of the port without that inopportune bargain as the most enthusiastic supporter of the act would have it if it were adopted. The Times freely credits the majority of those who voted for the act with a belief that it would benefit the port. It believes, also, that ten years have passed they will see that by waiting and demanding fair terms the city has pursued a wise course. There is no cause whatever for despondency. The city has not been set back, but placed in a better position to go forward. The citizens should resent any blue ruin talk from any source.

The advocates of the harbor commission act were not able to get unanimity of action, but persisted in forcing the issue. The lesson taught yesterday was that the first thing to do is to get all the people interested and working together. St. John is a national port. It has a stronger claim on the people of Canada than has Portland, Maine. It must be developed. The government did not ask us to adopt harbor commission, and will not refuse to do business with us because we have not done so. The C. N. R. has interests at this port too great to permit of neglect. The road to Ottawa is still there, and the geographical position and national importance of St. John have not been changed. The spirit which made the winter port is not dead. St. John will go forward. Let unity of action be the watchword and all will be well. Such unity may only be secured by proper publicity and free discussion.

A WORD TO THE GLOBE

The Globe during the campaign just closed gave the free use of its columns to anonymous writers who did what they could to discredit personally a number of people, including the editors of the Telegraph and Times. It is the rule of a good newspaper that the light shall be in the open, and that he who makes a personal attack upon another shall make a personal attack upon himself. There can be no serious objection to an anonymous letter discussing the last campaign in a question of the wisdom of a policy, but when a personal attack is made the author should be made to come out of the underbrush for inspection. Mr. Baxter said bitter things about the Times and Telegraph and the man who sits behind a desk and writes for publication, but he did it openly. He also gave the Globe a certificate of character, which may or may not cause a pleasurable flutter in the Globe and compliments alike has been revealed. A cause that cannot triumph on its merits deserves defeat, and the introduction of unfair personalities and the anonymous imputation of motives does not gain sympathy or support. It prompts the reader or the listener to look more carefully into the merits of the case, and to enquire whether there are not other reasons than the public interest behind a campaign of this sort. In the heat of a campaign many injudicious things are said, and are freely forgiven; but a calculated policy of insinuation and imputation of wrong motives deserves severe censure. Let us hope the Globe has learned the lesson.

THE QUESTION OF THE RAILWAY CROSSING

The question of the railway crossing in Douglas avenue is receiving some attention at City Hall. The way to eliminate the grade crossing is to carry the railway over the avenue and at the same time protect the navigation of the river. The raising of the railway bridge would effect this change. A strong appeal by the city council to the provincial government might have some effect, as the ownership of the foreshore on which the western pier stands gives the government the power to right the wrong that was perpetrated by the federal public works department. The city must also bear its share of responsibility, as the eastern end of the bridge is within the harbor limits.

THE TORONTO GLOBE SAYS

The Toronto Globe says: "There is at present more evidence of new building or improvement of existing buildings in rural Ontario than there has been in six years past. But material and labor costs will have to come down to a point a good deal nearer pre-war conditions before improvement in this respect becomes at all general."

THE NEXT FULL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRADE

The next full meeting of the Board of Trade should not be without its features of interest. Some explanation might be asked concerning the Board of Trade Journal and the grossly incorrect and misleading statement of harbor revenue for the last nine years. A Board of Trade should be accurate in such matters.

Various parts of the province have suffered much from fire this summer. Today the town of Richibucto has suffered severely.

"Well," asked Cherry, "did he refuse?" "He did not. He not only sent me back a box of cigars, unopened, and necktie, which the brute had never worn, but he also sent five boxes of face powder, saying that he estimated that would be about the quantity he had taken away on his coat during the time we were engaged."

46-DAY HUNGER STRIKE CHEATS HANGMAN

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Andrew Brkajko, who last April killed his wife, last week achieved his purpose by beating the hangman's rope by starving to death. "I will never hang," he had told the authorities. "I will go to my wife's funeral."

HE HAD STARVED HIMSELF FOR SIXTY-SIX DAYS, TAKING NOTHING SAVE A LITTLE MILK AND NOW HE WAS AN ORANGE.

He died in the County Hospital, where he had been taken by physicians. The County Jail had despaired of getting him to take nourishment. Brkajko began the hunger strike three weeks after he was sent to jail to await trial. He had shot his wife after a quarrel in their home at 1755 West North avenue. Then he had fought a revolver duel with Policeman Dennis Condon and had been wounded twice. Tricks were tried to tempt him. Glasses of milk were left at his bedside. Oranges were placed within his reach. While anyone was present, Brkajko made no move to touch them. When he was alone, the milk and oranges vanished, but he did not eat enough to sustain life.

President Harding was advised by a telegram that he had the best wishes of the Negro race, which pledged its full support to him and the government in the cause of justice.

The convention, which will be in session one month, will consider "legislation for the future government of the Negro race of the world," it was announced by Marcus Garvey, who signs himself "His Highness, the Potentate of the Universal Negro College, and Provisional President-General of Africa."

STARS OF LONG AGO RETAIN THEIR OLD CUNNING

Cy Young and Other Ex-Indians Beat Rivals 11 to 6 in Exhibition at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Aug. 2.—Old-time professional baseball players, some of whom played with Cleveland as far back as 1879, today defeated a team of veteran sand-lotters 11 to 6, the event being one of the features of Cleveland's 123rd anniversary celebration.

A large crowd was present to watch the former stars. Cy Young, the only pitcher who ever won 300 major league games, went to the box at the outset of the contest with Chief Zimmer, his old catcher, behind the plate. Each is well over fifty years of age. This famous old battery worked two innings, being followed by younger pitchers and catchers, including Nick Atrock, the comedian of the Washington American League Club, who was an added feature.

Only two hits were made off Young. He struck out two batters and gave one base on balls.

The old-timers' infield was the same that played for Cleveland in 1902, '03 and '06. Charlie Hickman on first, Nap Lajoie on second, Terry Turner at short, and Bill Bradley on third. Not an error did it make. In the outfield were such famous old stars as Jess Burkett, now coach of the New York Giants; Harry Ray, Elmer Flick, Ollie Pickering and Larry Twitchell, and Bunk Congdon.

Others who participated were Neal Ball, who alternated at shortstop; Fred Gatch, Paddy Livingston and Rosenbach, catchers, and Earl Moore, Albert Nelson, and Helme Berger, pitchers.

Lajoie and Bradley were the only ones who started in the game to finish. The old-time pros batted more timely than the sand-lotters. The old-time pitchers struck out nine men, Berger showing to the best advantage.

Burkett and Bradley did the best batting, getting six of the professionals' twenty hits. Burkett got three out of three times at bat, and Bradley three out of four.

Gatch made the professionals' only error. The sand-lotters got seventeen hits and had two errors.

OTTAWA MAY GET EXECUTIVE OFFICES OF C. N. RAILWAY

An Ottawa despatch to the Toronto Mail and Empire says:—The Rivoli claims of Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg to the executive offices of the whole government railway system have been put forward, and a decision between them, however, has not yet been made by the government, nor will one be made until the lines are consolidated and the Canadian National Railway Act is proclaimed. Toronto claims the offices because it was the headquarters of the Canadian Northern Railway; the Rivoli claims the offices because it is the headquarters of the National System, and is the great public ownership of the Dominion. Montreal points the fact that it has been the headquarters of the Grand Trunk System as a seaport, and a great commercial metropolis. Winnipeg considered to have the chance of securing the railway office. There is said to be a possibility that the executive staff of the Canadian National, including the Grand Trunk System, may be located in Ottawa, this staff comprising only about 200 persons. Toronto and Montreal and Winnipeg, under this plan, would continue to be the headquarters of their respective sections of the system.

BLIND HERO FOILS FATHER OF BRIDE

Succeeds, Through Ruse, in Bringing Her to America, Despite Opposition—Stabbed on Wedding Night.

(New York Times.)
Salvatore Filippo, a blinded hero of the Argonne, landed in New York yesterday from the Cosulich Line steamship Argentina, bringing with him from Italy his seventeen-year-old bride, Isabella Bruna, dark eyed and of unusual beauty.

Philippo, who is twenty-seven years old, came to America fourteen years ago, and lived for a while in Manhattan. When the war began he enlisted in the 8th Infantry, Twenty-eighth division, sergeant major, he went into the Argonne drive. When four of his men were lying wounded, exposed to the German fire, he crept out and brought one back. Then he crept out again. Three machine gun bullets went through his head and left him blind for life.

After lying four months in the hospital, first in France and then in Baltimore, he was finally permitted to go to his home in Erie, Pa. His mother decided that she wanted to return to her home in Italy, and her blind son went with her. In an Italian village he became acquainted with Isabella Bruna. He could not see her face, but fell in love with her. He had a disability pension from the United States government amounting to $137 a month. This gave him a position of affluence in Italy. He wooed Isabella with many gifts.

Isabella's father resented the attentions of the blind man. He knocked Filippo down one night when the young man came wooing. "Keep away from my daughter or I'll kill you," was his stern ultimatum. Disregarding his threat, Filippo continued his love-making clandestinely, and at last there was a secret wedding at his mother's house.

The night of the marriage, the father, with some of his friends belonging to a sinister secret society, broke into the bridal chamber. They stabbed Filippo twice in the back and once in the arm, leaving him for dead. When he recovered consciousness his wife was gone.

While he was in the hospital his mother found the girl's hiding place and discovered that the father had succeeded in turning her affections from her young husband. Though they lived apart, they kept up secret communication.

When Filippo announced that he was coming to America his bride refused to accompany him. She went to the Argentina to see him off. The ship, he said, was to sail at four, but it started at two. When the ship was out on the Atlantic, Filippo produced a ticket and passport for his bride. She would not speak to him for three days, but at last relented.

Customs officials, acting on Filippo's pleas, searched the pier at Brooklyn just before the Argentina's landing, to to this studies elsewhere, but was very well known and popular in Ottawa. During the war he served with the Royal Naval Air Service and soon after the armistice met with an accident while flying. He was for some time temporarily employed with the Canadian Air Board.

Mr. Anglin was a young man who showed much promise and ability in the profession, which his father had chosen, and which he had chosen to follow. The deep sympathy and sincere regret of the community goes out to his bereaved family. News of his sad death comes as a great shock to a host of the younger Ottawa set, whose friendship he enjoyed, especially in view of the tragic circumstances of his end.

"Being his parents, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. C. A. Gray, Mrs. S. V. Paterson and Miss Beatrice Anglin, and one brother, Edward, all of Ottawa."

The young man was a grandson of Hon. T. W. Anglin, for a long time a resident of St. John, in Waterloo street. Margaret Anglin, celebrated actress, is his aunt.

PRESIDENT SEES NEW HOPE RISING

Speaking at the tertiary celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims, President Harding declared his hope that the principles of toleration and liberty for which the Pilgrim Fathers crossed the Atlantic might soon awake a new world era in which peace and understanding would be assured among nations.

"A new hope looms today," said the president. "We are slowly but surely recovering from the wastes and sorrows and utter disarrangements of a cataclysmic war. Peace is bringing life and new assurance, and peaceful realization and insistent conscience will preserve that peace. Our faith is firmer than ever, and our confidence in the future of our nation is unshaken."

"The international prospect is more than promising and the distress and depression at home are symptomatic of early recovery. Solvent, financially sound, unexcelled in industry, resolute in determination and unswerving in faith, this United States will carry on."

CITIZENS REJECT COMMISSION ACT

Only 3,569 of 18,000 Electors Cast Ballots—The Majority Against the Act is 785.

By a vote of 2,177 to 1,892 the electors of St. John yesterday rejected the harbor commission act. The majority of the voters who showed by their ballots that they did not consider this act good enough was 785. In other words the vote against the act was about three to two. H. E. Wardrop, the common clerk, said last night that about 18,000 were eligible to vote yesterday, but only 3,569 made use of their privilege. This fact was a matter of disappointment to many thoughtful citizens, that in a matter of such prime importance to the welfare of St. John so few citizens went to the polls.

The vote by wards was—

PAPAL NUNCIO REACHES PARIS

Marks Formal Resumption of Diplomatic Relations Between Vatican and France.

Paris, Aug. 2—Resumption of diplomatic relations between France and the Vatican have been formally effected by the arrival in this city of M. de S. de S. de S., who will act as papal nuncio here.

This morning's newspapers emphasized the importance of his coming to Paris, and devoted considerable space to the government's recognition of the Holy See.

Diplomatic relations between France and the Holy See were interrupted in 1904 as a result of a controversy between the Vatican and the French government which began in 1901. The trouble arose when the French chamber of deputies passed a bill to limit the powers of religious associations in France, despite the protest of Pope Leo XIII. In 1902 the dispute became so violent that France recalled from Rome her ambassador at the Vatican, and Pope Leo retaliated by directing the papal nuncio at Paris to request the resignations of two French bishops who were supporting the government. This action was taken by the nuncio without transmitting the order through the French office, as was required by the concordat between the Holy See and France, and led to the final break.

Since 1901 France has been unofficially represented at the Vatican.

OUT OF WORK, MANY SEEK SHELTER IN THE MEURLING REFUGE IN MONTREAL

Montreal, Aug. 2—Two hundred each night was the average number of men accommodated in the Meurling Refuge here during the last month, as against an average of fourteen in July of last year. The highest point was reached last Sunday, when 242 men asked for free lodging. This constitutes the highest number in any summer month since the refuge was opened in 1914. Lack of employment is the general reason given by those seeking shelter. In winter the average number is said to be 300 daily.

Among the officers elected at the closing session of the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Ladies' Orange Bénévoles Association, held in Toronto last week, was Miss Jessie Woodland of this city, who was elected to the office of First Lecturer of the organization.

Why Women Can't Think the Same As Men

The Difference in Structure of the Male and Female Brain Explains the Opposing Views of the Two Sexes on the Same Subjects

By Professor Charles Gilpin
Of Oxford, England

Men and women face each other on this mundane sphere usually with opposing viewpoints on all questions, problems and activities, and for that matter, the males and females of species seem to be diametrically opposed similarly throughout the entire animal kingdom. As with man, so with the male mammal, bird and reptile—deference to the female often ceases soon after mating.

The lordly male, secure in possession of his mate, proceeds to put her under his subjection.

The female, having views of her own for the government of conduct, thereafter opposes her wits to his to gain her own ends in her own way.

Take the case of two children, one male and the other female, born at the same instant or a time apart, in the same house or different houses, related to each other or unrelated, and growing up together or thousands of miles apart. From the first squawk to the last gasp of life this male and this female will probably have opposing views of the same thing, whatever the topic.

It is to Professor Louis R. Sullivan, assistant curator of anthropology of the American Museum of Natural History, however, that we are indebted for an exact scientific statement of causes of the mental differences between men and women. He finds that the forehead of woman is vertical for an inch or so before it recedes backward, while man's forehead recedes at once from the ridge under his eyebrows.

He finds that woman's forehead is straight across the brow, while man's has a dividing depression above the nose. In the male child, up to six years of age, the forehead bone is actually separated into two parts, which then begins to coalesce, but the depression continues during his life.

In other words, man's brain has separated into two segments by a dividing depression, forming a double hemisphere of control, while woman has only one hemisphere of control.

Man has conspicuous brow ridges with conspicuous muscular markings. Woman has no brow ridges, or, if any, much less massive.

Professor Sullivan adds: "That portion of the female cranium below the nasals is more projecting than man's. The head, as a whole, is smaller and narrower, and the bone rims above the eyes sharper. The vertical foreheads of women have been continuous since the birth of the human race."

The verdict of Professor Sullivan is that mental and physical pursuits have caused the heads of men to become more receding at the forehead, to become larger and more massive, with many cubic centimeters more of brain. He finds that the head and brain of woman is still primitive, doubtless owing to household rather than mental and intellectual pursuits.

From the conclusion of the above scientist we understand why "the female of the species is deadlier than the male."

Lacking that bulging ridge under the eyebrows, she cannot reason on matters in the same way as man. Unable to get his viewpoint of things, she has ever "sassed back." Man's perceptions are nicely distributed into the two hemispheres of the brain. Man is thus able to gather a vast array of facts in the mind and mental images on which to base his conclusions. Woman, having but one hemisphere of thought, jumps to her conclusions instantly, and this conclusion is invariably the direct op-

The late Lillian Nordica, famous opera singer, was noted for the broad forehead and massive face accredited to men

It is a significant fact that the brain of the female pig, who is one of the best of animal mothers, presents more differences between it and the male pig's brain than there are between woman's and man's posite of the carefully wrought out effort of the man.

There are exceptions, of course, as there are to all rules. We have some females with receding foreheads, mostly Central European women, and some males with vertical foreheads. We often hear people remark of a certain woman, "She ought to have been a boy or man," and of a certain male, "He should have been a girl or woman." If we examine these foreheads involved we usually find the exception to the rule. The dominant woman, who bosses the household or community, has the male receding forehead. The timid man, who hides behind skirts, has the female vertical forehead. These may be wise exceptions, in a way, having needed utility. At the same time, as men and women, we prefer to have men remain manly and women womanly, however opposed to each other and however difficult of mutual compromise.

We must look for an explanation of the opposing views of men and women in the perceptions, some of which are located in the frontal of the forehead entirely across its base. Woman having no brow ridges, or, if any, being less massive than man's, the perceptions are thrown further back; in fact, are reversed. Reversed perceptions mean reversed conceptions of the same thing. Take the whole human brain. There are no two brains alike. Every fissure, every pocket, every nerve and muscle differs a little in each brain. There is also a little difference in the distribution of the white and gray matter which connects each of the above functions. This accounts for the different occupations of people, the different thoughts that arise; in fact, all of the differences of individual thinking. The brain is largely independent of every other section of the human structure; that is, in a way. Below it there may be ailments that in no way affect the brain. Even in seasickness we often see the brain keeping perfectly normal in the most impressive. Take, for instance, the brain of Christine Nilsson, unquestionably the greatest prima donna that ever lived, still living to-day in Paris and known as La Comtesse di Casa di Miranda. She was born in the great forest of Sweden, the daughter of the forester of Count Hamilton, and passed her childhood there. We can only account for her early and later enlarged musical genius as the result of environment, of the musical roar of the great pines acting, perhaps, on the mother, and later finding expression in the child.

Left—Brain of a man and (right) the brain of a monkey, which a woman's brain resembles more than a man's does

How else could she have picked up a violin in infancy and played it well without instruction?

How else could her vocal cords have been early and rapidly developed, so that she was sought by local fairs to play and sing?

If you glance at the portraits of Nilsson and Patti you will note that they are exceptionally vertical, which, to my mind, implies that the higher the female vertically rises before the forehead recedes the greater the woman. I note this principle illustrated in the foreheads of Queen Victoria, the world's female master mind in politics and government; in the female novelists, George Eliot, George Sand, Charlotte Brontë, etc., and in the female painter, Rosa Bonheur.

The late Lillian Nordica was noted not only for a very wide, vertical forehead. She practically reversed the order of sexes by having the massive face accredited to men. Her head was unusually large for a woman's. Patti, on the contrary, had an exceedingly small head, but a well packed brain of fine accomplishments.

There is still the other feature of the discoveries of Dr. Sullivan. His investigations showed that the first men and women had vertical foreheads and heads identical and indistinguishable. He was able to deduce this from the Congo pygmies, the most primitive of existing peoples and the lowest in the scale. It would be impossible to determine sex by the skeleton of the Congo pygmies. Not even their pelvic bones differ sufficiently to aid in determining sex. The living males and females are identical skeletally. Just what is the answer? Scientists deduce that the brain of man alone of the two sexes has evolved into a type far removed from the primitive, and that the female brain is still in its primitive state and condition. Such conclusion, obviously, is only partially true. The male brain and the female brain, as shown by their brilliant achievements throughout human history, have evolved at least partially together and continuously, from lower to highest. This evolution reached its limits only very recently, and it is extremely doubtful if the human race can make much more advance in brain evolution.

It is easy to see why man's brain in time began to angle backward and the woman's brain did not. Man finally went to the fore in scholarship and deep thinking, while women remained stationary as their household duties. In consequence the cerebrum or forebrain of man constantly enlarged its size. Enlargement can only take place in a rearward direction. In time the cerebrum growing behind, or, rather, its growth being pushed backward, came to almost entirely overlap the cerebellum or section of the brain in the back of the head. Examination of the brains of deceased great men has shown the cerebrum entirely overlapping and overweighing the cerebellum. Here we have the measure of the advance, the vast development of the modern superman brain over the primitive man brain.

Such growth of cerebrum has been delayed in woman. It is only within recent years that she has taken to the seats of learning. Already her cerebrum is being vastly modified by scholarly studies, entrance into politics and engagements in scientific pursuits and scholarships. As her cerebrum pushes backward and more and more overhangs the cerebellum, woman's forehead will also become, and is already becoming, less and less vertical and more manlike. One can forecast the day when the heads of men and women will again become identical, not in the primitive sense of low mentality, but in the evolved intellectual sense of the highest mentality. It can be forecast further that as the heads of the sexes equalize under intensive learning the differences of points of view will gradually harmonize until both sexes will take the identical view of the same thing. We shall then have at the end, as in the beginning of the human race, men and women of practically one mind.

Beethoven, whose forehead and skull most closely approached the perfect masculine standard of its functions. Darwin, for instance, was more or less a sick man all of his life. In voyages at sea, as a naturalist, he was subject at all times to mal-de-mer, never could get used to the motion at sea nor over seasickness. During all the time, whether merely sailing on land or having added mal-de-mer at sea, he continued his wonderful construction of the doctrine of evolution and lived to carry it to a finish.

The female brain is at times one of Unusually interesting heads portraying the scientific view of certain aspects of masculine greatness and smallness—printed mainly to console the women who may not like what is said of their brains in this article. (From Professors Sizer and Drayton's "Phrenology and Physiognomy.")

London, Aug. 1.—The date for the official termination of the war, except as regards Turkey, will be September 1, the date announced in the House of Commons.

Under the "termination of the present war act," the war could not be declared officially ended for Great Britain until the peace treaties had been ratified, as was decided that the treaty they might be ignored. The last other treaties, that with Hungary ratified in Paris on Tuesday.

The setting of the date for the official end of the war will pave the way for settlement of financial transactions standing between the Bank of England and the stock exchange, and will be a much to certain lines of business.

FEW EXTENSION FOR THE EPIDEMIC IS RECOMMENDED

The board of commissioners of the general Public Hospital at its meeting yesterday approved a scheme of extension of the present epidemic hospital by the addition of an annex which should be situated in the lower story and accommodate for the epidemic nursing staff the upper story. This scheme, it is thought, would care for the needs of the next few years and would be the most expensive. It was decided to place a matter before a joint meeting of the special commissioners and the finance committee of the municipal council, such other business was transacted, also for the new nurses' home, which was approved and a special retaining fee was paid for Dr. H. L. Abrams.

M. E. Agar was in the chair. The special commissioners present were Mrs. Verne McLellan, Dr. G. R. J. Crawford, J. King Kelley, Hon. Dr. W. F. O'Brien, J. I. O'Brien, Alexander McLellan, W. E. Emerson, Frank Flewelling and Dr. H. Heiden, superintendent of the hospital.

The report of the superintendent read 151 patients admitted, 161 discharged and 109 remaining, eleven have died. The four nurses, the Misses Ward, Brown, Fraser and Myles, had been sent to Montreal for training in the care of maternity cases and the four nurses, the Misses Anderson, Martin, and Andrews, had returned to Montreal after completing their course. The illness of Miss Laura He was reported but she was said to be improving. The completion of scrap and painting the fire escapes was reported. The sum of $240.75 was paid the Union Foundry for work on the fire escapes. Thirty new mattresses for the epidemic hospital had been ordered.

A letter from a coal merchant gave prices for coal. Mr. Agar said it was new thing to have merchants make offers of coal and it indicated an easier situation as regards coal. The hospital was said to have sufficient coal to last till October and Dr. Heiden recommended that the matter of coal supply be left for the present in view of the position of the finances of the board.

Fine Show at Queen Square

Jimmie Evans and His Musical Revue Make a Great Hit—Many Unable to Gain Admission.

Jimmie Evans and his big musical revue scored a great hit at the Queen Square Theatre last evening in the comedy playlet, "Jerry on the High Seas." Hundreds were unable to gain admission. It was easily the best show that the Evans Company has yet put on here. Mary Clark's violin solo went over best and Bob Elsworth, who sang "Whispering," had to respond to many encores. Irene Finlay and the chorus scored in "Hello, Virginia." Bonnie Rossley, the local girl, received a big reception on her entrance and had to sing several encores. She sang at the moving picture show. Kitten Fraser, the soubrette, is becoming a bigger favorite with each performance. She was well received last evening.

Other features were the saxophone quartette by the three Clarks and the popular Billie Laker; Rose and Mary Clarke, in a sailor's romp and Joe Devine, the Hebrew comedian, who sang one of his popular songs and had the audience in an uproar. He is one of the best Hebrew comedians that has played St. John in years.

Last but not least came the popular Jimmie Evans as "Jerry." He had the house in an uproar and his fine tenor voice was heard in a duet with Billie Laker. In "A Dream of Old Erin" he stopped the show and it seemed as if the audience could not get enough of him.

A big feature of the show is the special scenery and electrical effects which are a treat to see. Special mention also should be made of the new orchestra at the theatre which has made a decided hit with the patrons of the Queen Square Theatre.

DE VALERA NOT TO GO TO LONDON AT THIS TIME

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Dublin, Aug. 1.—Thomas Foran, president of the Irish Labor Party, addressing the annual congress of the party today at the Mansion House, declared that if labor had to handle the present peace negotiations it would mean peace and freedom for Ireland. But he added, if the Irish negotiators deemed it advisable to turn down the British proposals, they would have the co-operation of the labor movement in any event that might follow.

Eamonn De Valera, the Irish leader, also delivered an address in which he paid a tribute to the support of the struggle for Irish freedom. He was given a warm ovation by the audience.

Mr. De Valera told newspaper men here that he had no intention of visiting London this week and that no arrangements had been made for a future visit there.

Desmond Fitzgerald, the Sinn Fein minister of propaganda, also made the announcement today that Mr. De Valera was not going to London this week. Mr. Fitzgerald also said that the visit of Art O'Brien to London was purely personal, without political significance.

REWARD OFFERED FOR KILLING OF BANK BANDITS

Detroit, Aug. 2.—A standing reward of $5,000 was announced by the Detroit Clearing House Association for the arrest and conviction or killing of any person who robs or attempts to rob a member bank of the association.

"The killing of any person committing robbery," the association stated, "for the purpose of the reward, shall be considered the same as an arrest and conviction."

Chief of Police James P. Smith of Walkerville admitted that Samuels, a person arrested Thursday on suspicion of knowing a good deal about the Pettie Cole bank robbery last week, when $18,000 was stolen from a branch of the Merchants' Bank, has made a full confession of the affair and has given the names of the three accomplices. Their arrests are expected within a day or two. More than $2,000 in Merchants' Bank bills were found hidden in Rodgers' home, just outside Walkerville city limits.

INVESTIGATION OF HUNGARY'S "GRAND OLD MAN" IS ON

Budapest, July 21.—(Associated Press by Mail)—Count Bethlen, the Hungarian premier, has set in motion an investigation of the various acts of which Count Michael Károlyi, "the grand old man of Hungary," now an exile from his native land, stands accused. These include the allegation of high treason made before the National Assembly by Prince Windischgrätz, in connection with the organization of the Hungarian revolution.

Several members of the Independence party are involved in the same accusation which has been made up with the aid of memorandums that Károlyi is declared to have addressed to the Entente governments during the war.

Prince Windischgrätz cites Clemenceau's replies to interpellations in the Chamber of Deputies, in which the French premier said he had proof that Károlyi entertained close relations with the Entente governments. The documents and evidence which Windischgrätz has handed over to Premier Bethlen, he declares that Károlyi volunteered to Entente governments to start a revolution in Hungary and that he conspired to that end with revolutionary elements in different countries.

Farewell Bill of Jack Roof and Company

Jack Roof and his big beauty chorus scored a big hit in their farewell bill at the Opera House last night. "He Is in Again" proved to be the best comedy bill put on by the company. The comedy in the production was ably handled by Jack Roof and Jules Black, who had all convulsed with laughter with their wit and humor, combined with their amusing antics.

Baby Edna again delighted the audience with her song and dance number, as also did Miss Jane Herd in her Jazz dance offering.

"Beau Revel," the Thos. H. Ince special production, proved to be the best feature picture yet shown at the theatre. It is a striking photoplay of New York's "four hundred," ably directed and acted. It concerns Lawrence Reed, known to the "smart world" as "Beau," wealthy and fascinating.

Wishing to break his son's infatuation for Nellie Steele, the proprietor of an exclusive dancing club, he makes a compact with him not to see her for two weeks. He says he will have her alone in his apartment on midnight of the last day. When the last day arrives, Nellie's brother makes a frantic appeal to her for money and she hastens to "Beau's" apartment for aid. Dick follows her there. Then follows a highly interesting scene. A climax that you can't afford to miss.

There is also another episode of "The Avenue Arrow" serial, which concludes one of the best programs seen at the Opera House for some time.

AUTOMOBILE CASES.

There was an interesting session of the police court yesterday afternoon when no less than twenty-nine automobile drivers were before the magistrate charged with exceeding the speed limit. All these drivers were reported by special officers Moresca and Malley who said they were employed by the New Brunswick Power Company. They said that a certain section of Mill street between Union and North streets had been measured and the time of the automobiles between certain posts there taken.

Some of these drivers pleaded guilty and were fined $5; others pleaded not guilty and paid $10 after some evidence was taken; others had their cases postponed to permit them to bring further witnesses; while a few were fortunate enough to discover that the two special officers had apparently no sign of their car on his list and these were allowed to go.

STANDARD OF QUALITY

It is estimated that there are nearly two hundred different brands of baking powder in Canada; and the fact that there is more Magic Baking Powder used than all the other brands combined, must show conclusively that it is eminently superior.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

CONTAINS NO ALUM

It has always been the policy of the manufacturers to maintain the high quality of Magic Baking Powder—to make, and keep it, as near the point of perfection as possible.

5,000 CARS OF B. C. APPLIES THIS YEAR

J. A. Grant, British Columbia fruit commissioner, expects his province to ship nearly 5,000 cars of apples this year.

In the Armstrong and Enderby district a total of 35 cars of mixed fruits are expected to be sent out, while 215 cars of mixed fruits will be sent out from the Okanagan valley alone. This includes 172 cars of apples. Vernon, Oryana and Kelowna will contribute a total of 2,908 cars. Of this number, 1,995 cars will contain nothing but apples.

Pentton, Summerland and Naramata will contribute a total of 1,292 cars, 1,050 of which will contain apples. Keremeos and Peachland will send out 172 cars.

A FINE PROGRAMME

Under the auspices of the East St. John Community Club a very successful concert was given in the Edith Avenue hall in East St. John last night by the concert company of St. Philip's church, and a satisfactory amount was raised for the St. Philip's church fund. An excellent programme was given. The choruses, "Gospel Train," "My Lord What a Morning," "Zion Children," "Silver Slippers," "Roll, Jordan Roll," "Come out of the Wilderness," "Walk in Jerusalem," "Rolling, Rocking in His Arms," "Steady," and "Steal Away," were admirably rendered by the company. Solos were given with fine effect as follows: "Going to Leave the Old Home," Mrs. Leslie; solo, Mrs. A. Hoare; solo, Mrs. Lucas; "Sun do Move," Mrs. Bennett; Mrs. Leslie and Mrs. Williams sang the pleasing duet, "Life's Railway." Mrs. McAleer gave a reading in a most acceptable manner. Brief addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Raynor of Woodstock and Rev. W. H. Stewart of St. Philip's church. The community club made final arrangements for the picnic which is to be held this week and is to be of the old-fashioned good time variety. It was decided to hold the picnic in the grounds of John Tonge.

PRICE OF WHEAT

(Toronto Globe.)
Considering the stake which Canada has placed on the wheat crop this year, any light that can be thrown upon the world market for wheat and the probable price of it is of importance to the community generally. As the wheat and the western crop moves further towards safety, there is increasing confidence, and interest centres in the probable market conditions. Last year the United States exported 360,000,000 bushels, and imported 60,000,000, leaving net exports of 300,000,000. It is expected that this year's exportable surplus will be 200,000,000 bushels, and a similar surplus may be available from Canada.

HEATED CONTROVERSY.

Bathing Without Bathing Suits Urged In Berlin.
Berlin, Aug. 2.—A heated controversy has broken out between the Catholic and the Democratic Vorwarts over the question of nude bathing. One Dr. Leopold Fiedler has been advocating the repeal of laws forbidding nude bathing. This suggestion has aroused the indignation of the Vorwarts, pointing with pride to the example of the ancient Greeks and the modern Japanese and Scandinavians.

WILL FURS ADVANCE?

(Toronto Globe.)
Fur buyers who have been in Northern Ontario and other parts of Canada to make purchases for the coming season stated yesterday that the market had been cleaned up by buyers from the United States and that trappers are holding what supplies they possess for the higher prices to be had from United States buyers. Even the supplies of wolf skins, which were quite heavy in Winnipeg and Edmonton until recently, have been purchased by United States firms.

STORAGE EGGS.

Eggs when newly laid are fairly free from bacterial infection, but when imperfectly handled may become badly infected. Bacteria penetrate the shells through the pores and enter the egg contents. Dirty and damp nests are a prolific source of infection. There is a danger from bacterial infection in the incubator, as the infection is liable to result, as shown by moulds on the inside of the shell, in keeping uncleanliness of eggs is determined by the kinds of bacteria present rather than the number.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

A woman identified as Sara Cowan, said to be the daughter of Hon. J. K. Cowan, was found dead yesterday in the Maryland Hotel in New York. Death was due to alcoholism and drug poisoning. In 1909 Miss Cowan eloped with Charles Monson of New Haven, and ten years later she obtained a divorce in Seattle.

OCEAN TONNAGE.

The tonnage launched in 1920, 4,144,549, of which more than 4,000,000 were the product of American yards. In 1919, the tonnage launched was 3,382,882 gross tons, and in 1918, 3,382,882 gross tons. RAILWAY FIGHT IN MEXICO OVER WAGES

Mexico City, Aug. 2.—Definite action by the Mexican railwaymen on a general walkout scheduled for yesterday was deferred to await reports on the strike vote in outlying districts. It will probably be three days before the results will be known.
Government officials today reiterated their determination to enforce the wage reduction which provoked the strike threat, and various railway unions have announced that they will attempt to tie up all government operated lines if the reduction is made.

SIR ROBT. HORNE NOT DEPRESSED OVER FINANCES

Expecting Big Trade Recovery in the Autumn.

A Story of Michael Collins, Sinn Feiner—Guarding the Premier—London Disappointed When Dempsey Defeated Carpenter.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

London, July 31.—It may be some consolation to the pessimists to know that Sir Robert Horne is in no way depressed over the effects which the dispute has had on our national finances. Admittedly, the Chamberlain budget estimates have been upset, but talk of the introduction of a new budget bringing increased taxation in its train may be dismissed. Over the cigars Sir Robert Horne is pleasantly cheerful. He expects a big trade recovery in the autumn and hopes, with a considerable degree of confidence, that a few fat months at the end of the financial year may make good the losses sustained during the lean months that have just passed.

Lenin and Trotsky Threatened. This expectation of better times coming is, I find, pretty general among the business men who frequent the West End clubs in London. There is immense relief over the settlement of the dispute and over the prospect of purchase in the engineering trade.

With these troubles out of the way, there is, it is felt, no reason why we should not experience a real boom in trade as soon as the "holiday" spirit is over. But it is whispered that the main factor of the industrial situation is to be looked for in Russia.

The general mobilization which has been ordered is regarded by shrewd observers as an act of desperation on the part of Lenin and Trotsky. Already their communist doctrines have gone by the board. So long as the peasant was refused the right to traffic, he resolutely declined to grow more than he required for his own needs. So the communist theories have broken down in practice and it looks very much as though Lenin's reluctant admission of the fact has come late in the day.

Discontent is rampant; populations, even of the rural districts, are starving, and even the mobilization of the army can hardly avail now to arrest the counter-revolution. An army which is under-fed tends to become a danger to a nation, rather than a weapon of safety. No one challenges the cleverness of Lenin, but he has sought to overthrow economic laws which, as all history

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

WOMEN OFTEN THINK THEY HAVE HEART TROUBLE, INDIGESTION, NEURALGIA, PROSTRATION, ETC., WHEN IT IS ONLY IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD.

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, pains across the back, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of the real cause—iron starvation of the blood. This is proven by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for awhile all their alarming symptoms quickly disappear and they become strong, robust and healthy. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissue. Without it nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the strength out of it. If you are not strong and well do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but take some organic iron—Nuxated Iron—at once. But be sure it's organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic NUXATED IRON is like the iron in your cereal and the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and it often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, worn-out women in two weeks' time. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters "N. I." on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

shows, are stronger than socialism or any other ism. The prostration of Russia is affecting the trade of the whole world and is paralyzing Europe on an enormous scale. It is scarcely appreciated except in higher financial circles. The prevalent belief is that the end draws very near and that we shall hear very soon that Lenin and Trotsky have been flung from power. They have so outrageously abused. By the way, Dr. Edward Laboff, a member of the Russian peasant party, is to open a discussion at one of the political clubs in London next week on this very question of the failure of the communistic experiment in Russia.

Irish Affairs. One of the adventures of Michael Collins, Sinn Fein leader, was narrated to me recently from a source which I can hardly believe capable of inventing the story. The story is that Collins was writing at a table in the room of a small private house "somewhere in Ireland," when an officer, with a posse of grim auxiliaries, arrived and surrounded the premises. The officer alone entered the room and advanced to where Collins was seated. A very remarkable dialogue ensued. "Well, Collins," said the officer, who was on the alert with his automatic, "here you are. And now I am afraid you must come with me. My men are all round the building." The Irish leader looked up, but did not leave his seat at the table. "Very well," he said, "if you wish it will come with you. But consider carefully what it means. If I go with you, I vest, brilliant looks, and just the time of a dove grey topper with black band and a gold-headed cane and a black-rimmed monocle, the modern young man of fashion can almost compete nowadays with the courtier of his feminine compeers.

Clara Butt's Good-bye. An enormous audience gathered in the Albert Hall to say good-bye to Dame Clara Butt and her husband, Kennerley Rumbold. At the end of this month they will sail on a world tour, visiting Australia, Tasmania, New South Wales, Canada and America, and will not return until next year. All the usual commentators at such scenes were in evidence—tumultuous applause, dozens of bouquets, basket of fruit, and, as a climax, a party of little girls, dressed on to the platform each presenting to the popular idol a bunch of flowers, and each in return receiving a kiss. The line was brought up by a small boy, who was borne away in the singer's arms, and would not be too small a fitting reward. The programme matters not and criticism is unnecessary. True, Kennerley Rumbold and Miss Adela Verne sang and played between whistles, but Dame Clara Butt is the leader. Attired in a dress of shell pink, and a long cloak of white charmeuse, with collar and sleeve edgings of white fox, she performed with a grace and a beauty which full value for their money and their adulation. Everybody wishes them a prosperous journey and a safe homecoming.

Carpenter's Defeat. All London was on tip-toe for the result of the great glove fight and there was a noticeable gloom when the news arrived that Carpenter had gone down and out inside four rounds. So strong was the belief of the French champions' invincibility in London that before the fight and up to the moment the result became known, thousands of people were lamenting their inability to get their bets accepted against Dempsey. This curious situation arose from a vast error. The gallant, debonair figure of Carpenter had quite captivated popular imagination. He was the only champion boxer who took off his gloves to fight in the war, and the supremely easy manner in which he knocked out our heavyweights entirely deceived our critical judgment. British spectators can now gauge more accurately how very poor heavyweights must have been when the man who disposes of them inside a minute and a half, and beats by American in four decisive rounds. Good boxing authorities draw one conclusion from the full account of the fight. They think that Carpenter was the more skillful practitioner and that he carried the quicker, and perhaps the more powerful, Dempsey's capacity to withstand punishment was far greater than the Frenchman's.

London Fashions For Men. Undoubtedly there is since the war a far more adventurous disposition in men's fashions. This is exhibiting itself less in any marked new styles of suiting, though even here the tendency is all for lighter colors and more daring cuts, than in the gorgeous hues of modern haberdashery. Socks and ties are now worn by fashionable men, as one may see oneself any afternoon in Pall Mall or New Bond street, apart from the evidence of the shop windows, of a startling description that would have been absolutely taboo ten years ago. This affection for bizarre jazz rainbow effects seems to reach its exuberant zenith in the case of pyjamas, which are becoming almost too loud to sleep in. In this respect, London seems to be leading the way in the "palmy" days of the Regency. We may see them carrying—and let us hope gracefully composed—long walking sticks brilliantly lacquered and resplendently handled and nearly as tall as themselves.

The monocle is coming right back into favor, too, and to be correct must be worn dangling on a broad black velvet ribbon similar to Sir Squire Bancroft's, but must also have a thick, black ebony

LOST 29 POUNDS DYSENTERY WAS THE CAUSE

Dysentery is one of the worst forms of bowel complaint, and hardly any other disease so quickly undermines the strength and brings about a condition of prostration and utter collapse that often terminates fatally. To check the unnatural discharge of dysentery, the large intestine should be used that grand old remedy with a reputation extending for 70 years.

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY.

Mr. G. H. McVagh, Mower, Sask., writes: "About eight years ago I had severe attack of dysentery. I was sick for three weeks. I weighed 154 lbs. when I took sick and 125 when I got stopped. I think I tried every medicine on the market, but did not find relief until I used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and one bottle did it. I think there is nothing like it for diarrhoea or dysentery. All the usual commentators at such scenes were in evidence—tumultuous applause, dozens of bouquets, basket of fruit, and, as a climax, a party of little girls, dressed on to the platform each presenting to the popular idol a bunch of flowers, and each in return receiving a kiss. The line was brought up by a small boy, who was borne away in the singer's arms, and would not be too small a fitting reward. The programme matters not and criticism is unnecessary. Refugees Everywhere. "Russian refugees—This is a distinct problem from that of the famine sufferers in Russia. According to this week's Red Cross bulletin there are no less than 2,000,000 of these refugees scattered throughout the Baltic provinces, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Yugoslavia, Austria, Germany, and France. Of these refugees, 600,000 are children, and the remainder are men, women, and old people. No country wants them, no government knows what to do with them, no government is doing anything definite or constructive with them. Meanwhile they are dying. The only prospect that I can see for their relief is that they will be abandoned to the Red Cross and other agencies preferring to turn their attention to more lasting benefits of child relief.

It seems anomalous that 2,000,000 of these children should be abandoned to the fate that is declared to be that of the Russian refugees who are scattered in many countries in Europe. The official organ of the American Red Cross, "What is to be done?" says the children are "the most pitiful catastrophe" if they could know the problem is beyond the reach of voluntary relief and what else is to be done. It is a policy to concentrate on the things where some good can be done. And that is what the American Red Cross is doing.

Children—The Red Cross and the American Relief Administration are cooperating their efforts on the children. Their situation is the most critical, and offers the biggest popular appeal. Work for them means work for the rising generation, which the Red Cross and the other relief organizations teach as many as possible of the 5,000,000 of those who are in such physical condition of most urgent need required.

China Recovering. China—The acute distress caused by the recent famine is over. The authorities here believe that China is in a position from now on to take care of herself. Eastern Europe—The situation from the Baltic provinces continues to be greatly improved from the food point of view. No general relief is considered necessary on a large scale after the coming harvest. But conditions during the past year have produced such widespread malnutrition that the children are the sufferers here biggest popular appeal.

The American Relief Administration plans to care for 1,000,000 children in Austria and Poland next year.

POST-WAR FAMINE CRIES FOR RELIEF

40,000,000 Sufferers in Russia—Refugees Present Problem—Pellagra in America—The World Situation.

Washington, July 26.—Pestilence and famine, the aftermath of the war, still sharply to public attention by Herbert Hoover's telegram to Maxim Gorky. At our own doors as President Harding points out, have the sudden spread of pellagra in the cotton belt, due to undernourishment, which has its roots in the same post-war condition.

Here is a bird's-eye view of the relief situation in the world today: Russia—The highest authorities here regard the reports from Russia as anything but exaggerated. In fact, the inference is that the Soviet Government would prefer to minimize conditions rather than to exaggerate them. Latest estimates received by cable today indicate there are some 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 famine sufferers in Russia. Mr. Hoover is doing anything definite or constructive with them. Meanwhile they are dying. The only prospect that I can see for their relief is that they will be abandoned to the Red Cross and other agencies preferring to turn their attention to more lasting benefits of child relief.

way of relief measures in the South, where pellagra, it is estimated, will claim 100,000 victims this year, probably ten per cent. of whom will die. This, too, is a result of malnutrition, in this case due to the failure of the farmers to market their cotton crop. The authorities believe, however, that the plague will be restricted to those communities where undernourishment is prevalent, and do not look for any spread of the epidemic.

ROMANCE OF THE TELEGRAPH IN NORTHERN WILDS

First Venture to Connect the Country by Wire Made in 1899—Lonely Life for Operators—Now Adapt Line to Telephone.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 1.—(By Canadian Press)—Whenever old "sourdoughs" of the Yukon foregather to talk of the old boom days when they lived in the colorful atmosphere of lively mining camps, the romance of the building of the federal government telegraph line from Ashcroft, B. C., to Fochy-Mile, Y. T., just above Dawson, on the Alaskan boundary, is always prominently featured. In their minds, the development of northern British Columbia and the Yukon Territory is closely linked with the maintenance of this queer mode of communication with the outside world.

In the face of enormous difficulties, the nineteen hundred and one miles of wire was strung through a virtual wilderness in less than three years. Materials for construction and provisions for the workers had to be carried in by dog teams in winter and pack trains in summer.

The first venture in telegraph construction by the government was in 1899, at the time of the great Dawson gold rush, when six hundred miles of wire was strung from Bennett, B. C., to Dawson, Yukon Territory, and was mailed to Skagway, Alaska, carried from there a distance of about two hundred miles through the White Pass to Bennett, where they were placed on the wire.

In the fall of 1900 gold was discovered at Atlin, B. C., and the telegraph line was extended from Bennett to that point. From that time until the last gap between Forty-Mile and Ashcroft was closed on September 28, 1901, the work was steadily pushed forward, one gang working from Ashcroft north and another from Atlin south. At about the time the two crews met another extension to the line in the North—from Dawson to Forty-Mile—had been completed, thus connecting with the United States Alaskan lines, and bringing in a great deal of additional revenue, as the United States cables to Alaska were not laid until nearly three years later and in the meantime all messages to America's northern possession had to go over the Canadian circuit.

While for a time it was found feasible to work direct from Ashcroft to Dawson, the rapid increase in business in recent years has made it necessary to cut the wire and relay from Hazelton, B. C. in those severe wire trouble, other relays can be established without delay.

The lure of the north has strongly gripped most of the telegraph operators, who prefer life in a lonely cabin in the wilderness to the bright lights of the big cities. Many emigrated during the war, but lost no time in getting back to the north when demobilized.

There are two operators in each cabin, one of whom is a combination operator and a lineman, who is held responsible for the repair of any breaks in the wire in his district. They cook their own meals, provisions being sent in once a year by pack train. Moose and other wild game is plentiful, so there is no lack of fresh meat. Most of the men augment their incomes by trapping, making an average of two thousand dollars extra yearly.

Of the one hundred telegraphers employed between Forty-Mile and Ashcroft, a large percentage have been in the service since 1899 when the line was built. Each man is allowed three months' holidays every three years.

It having been found that the wire can be used for telephone service without in any way interfering with the telegraph service, the government has installed telephone exchanges at many points and surrounding ranchers are thus brought into closer touch with each other. This feature of the service is being gradually extended and it is expected that before long even the most sparsely settled region will enjoy the advantages of telephonic communication.

HALF CROP OF APPLES.

(Toronto Globe.)

Prospects for apples in the export section between Bowmanville and Trenton have grown steadily less favorable since blooming, when a record crop was indicated. Unsuitable weather at that period—cool nights, dangerously near the frost-line, and murky days—prevented the bees from working and hindered the proper development of the flower, with the result that the "set" in most localities, was exceedingly disappointing after the abundant showing of bloom. Added to this came the hot spell of a few weeks ago, which prolonged the June "drop" to an alarming extent, and the high humidity at the same time was responsible for a serious spread of scab.

Barring a few hail storms, the period of serious danger is now practically over, and fairly accurate predictions as to quantity and quality may be made. The
