Sir Adam's Placing of Toryism Before Public Weal Alarms Workers.

LABOR LEADERS TALK All Public Utilities Must Be Kept Clear of Politics, They Believe.

London Labor is steadfast in its belief that the public-owned enterprises of this province must be safeguarded against the inroads of the political tricksters. This has always been Labor's attitude, and this is why Labor today has not changed its attitude of 1919. London Labor believes now, as then, that Sir Adam Beck should be defeated in order that Ontario's pub-lic ownership ventures, including the vast hydro-electric projects, shall not be jeopardized by contact with those interests that have already launched hydro into the political field.

"Beat Beck and keep hydro out of politics," Mayor Wenige has declared and it meets with the approval of Ald.
John Colbert, one of Labor's two representatives in the city council. "That's a very sensible stand to adopt," concurs Ald. Colbert, whose prominence in Labor circles is undisputed, as the president of the London Street Railwaymen's Union and a past president of the London Labor Ald. Colbert conscientiously be lieves, as do the workers of London generally, that the time has come when the people of this province must stand together in line and prevent the passing of their public utilities, whether they be railroads or electrical developments, into the hands of those who would project them ruthlessly

Then the Wagon's Owner Comes Along and Objects to Proceedings.

Dr. Hugh Stevenson, M. L. A., has acted in humorous capacities during his long public career, but never until this morning has he attempted the time-honored role of auctioneer.

Early this morning, the doctor while going through the city market was urged by some wag to deliver a political address to the crowds who come every Saturday morning to the local square. Dr. Stevenson thought the idea a good one, for he ascended an auctioneer's wagon, near King street, and proceeded to address the Brides and tea parties and moonlight dialogues have no priority over the June days, in spite of all the publicity they get. Yesterday at Springbank London's school children held their annual picnic and the happy laughter of the little people made the far-famed wedding bell sound like a funeral march. From the time in the early morning when their elders were just shaking off sweet sleep until the last rays of the setting sun lit their homeward trail the kiddies made the green sward of the park their play-ground. Never once did their energy flag or their goodwill lessen. The "sang on their way down," as any street car conductor will vouch for They ran races and chased balloons all day, except when they were bus the refreshments around the long tables

WORKS HIGH IN AIR

Today James Wright Is Painting Flagpole on Technical School.

James Wright, London's daring steeplejack, was at his old tricks again when he climbed the flagpole on the Technical School this morning. and from his aerial perch or boatswain's chair plied his brush, with; the result that the flagpole on the "Tech." will be once more resplendent n a coat of glittering white.

Wright has been plying his trade as steeplejack for over twenty-eight, years, and although he is now 52 years of age, claims that his work at such dizzy heights does not affect him any more than it did when he was in his early twenties. The top of the Technical School agpole is slightly over 135 feet from the ground, and when The Advertiser man climbed to the roof to see Wright at work, the Boys 14-1 Howard Pollock. 2 ground looked a long way down without going higher for further thrills

Mr. Wright is modest about his work, and it was with difficulty that his record could be obtained. He mentioned, however, that among other ing and repair of the 335-foot steeple on St. James Church in Toronto, was among the highest jobs that he has attempted in recent years. When asked what he felt like when working at these heights, he said: "Ii When a steeplejack starts to have feelings, it is a sign that he will soon have nerves, and when he gets to the point where he starts considering the risk he should quit and start painting barns. For the last thirteen years Wright has been employed in his chosen call-during that time has painted the flagstaffs on 105 schools, some of them several times. The repair and painting of water tanks is an important part of the work of steeplejacks, and Mr. Wright has "daubed" most of tanks in London, the highest being that at the D. S. Perrin factory,

HAY CLAIMS LIBERALS VICTORS IN 1919 ELECTION

LIBERAL LEADER GIVES INSPIRING CALL TO GUELPH

Says That After 1919 Election Liberals Should Have Been In Power.

RAPS DRURY RECORD

Declares That Party Stands Four-Square On Hydro Policy.

Special to The Advertiser. Guelph, June 9 .- F. W. Hay, Liberal leader, addressed a large and enthusiastic audience in the Regent Theater here last evening, in the interests of the candidature of Mr. Frank Howard, the Liberal standardbearer in South Wellington, and was given a flattering reception. He delivered one of his characteristic camectors in a clear-cut and logical nanner, and was frequently applaud-d in his remarks. He dealt first of all with the responsibilities of citizenship, urging al who had a vote to go out on election day and cast that vote for at leas one of the three candidates in the riding. So it was natural that his yearning should be satisfied with the model of a Speed Wagon because even in Gold Coast there are representatives of Reo Motor Car Company, of Windsor, Ont. The juvenile African mind probably received its first impression of American ways from the mighty Speed Wagons that help do the work of Accra.

Gold Coast has a population of less than three million, of whom only about 150 are Europeans. The chief products of the colony are gold, palm-oil, ivory, and one or two less known products of native origin.

An original of the Reo Speed Wagon which proved so fascinating to the African lad will prove equally or more fascinating to the person interested in economical delivery. Jack Beemer of Beemer and Co., the London Reo Representative, will be glad to furnish all the details.

THE reason why the Mighty Speed Wagon sells for such a moderate price is perfectly clear when you stop to consider that the Speed Wagon represents but one manufacturing profit.

All of the vital parts of the Speed Wagon are made in the big Reo shops under Reo management, Reo methods of precision, and according to Reo's exacting standards. Because there can be but one profit in the Speed Wagon, its selling price is lower than would be possible otherwise. And because the Speed Wagon is built to a single standard of quality and uniformity, its value is many times greater than its price would imply

QUICK ACTION BRAKES EXTRA LARGE AND EXTRA SAFE

In the construction of Dodge Brothers Motor Car, every consideration has been given to the owner's safety.

This is particularly evident in the brakes, which, with their 14-inch drums and 21/4 inch lining, are appreciably larger than the average. The extra surface thus provided develops greater friction when the brake bands contract over the drums-and it is this friction which stops the car.

Connecting levers are designed to transmit the maximum of power with the minimum of effort. The slightest pressure on the brake pedal has an immediate effect. This pressure is distributed evenly between the two rear wheels by a highly, efficient equalizer, which prevents skidding because it retards both wheels simultaneously.

And the brake bands grip evenly all around the drums. This protects the

The raffke it second-cousin to the schieber. He makes money in the stock exchange, backed by tips and borrowed funds, and often comes nome a mark millionaire. He is of a little higher grade than the schieber, for he must know something of stocks to be able to foresee the trend of events, but he is a well-known character in Germany. He is of all classes, from the big raffke who starts with some capital to the little raffke who climbs up from the gutter. The little raffke may live in a small apartment in a poor neighborhood and have to figure on every cent of his household expenses when he starts in to speculate. He rapidly rises and within a few months may have some millions of marks. He then gets a cook and maid for his wife, moves into a better neighborhood, and climbs to a higher social circle. He buys a house or builds one, mortgaging everything to the limit, and paying his debts as the mark falls lower and lower. He may have borrowed ten million marks when the mark was a thousand to the dollar, an amount that was then equal to ten thousand dollars in gold. If he has not already paid the notes he can now clear off his mortgage for about five hundred dollars, mak-

"It is freely admitted that the campaign to bring out a Liberal in this election was started and is even now directed by a certain Toronto paper," declared this Liberal. "The local Liberal paper will not deny that, if it adheres to its slogan and tells the truth. Personally, I do not see why there should be such a howl about the one when nothing is said of the other Toronto paper, which is undertaking to tell the Liberals of London what they should do."

WEST'S BIGGEST PROBLEM-EARNINGS AND COSTS

the same J. Bruce Walker. "The Canadian west is going to be a great country," said Mr. Walker.
"Unfortunately there are those in the east, and I have met quite a number of them, who think the west has gone to the bow-wows. That view is wrong, and it is not fair. The province of Saskatchewan, for instance, has more automobiles, per capita, than any place on the continent, one to nine of population. It has more telephones than any other place with same area. The three western provinces last year, with a population less than two million people, produced 388,000,000 bushels of wheat, which is almost 50 per cent of the amount produced in the country south of us with its 110,000,000 people."

Costs Up; Earnings Down. "But is it not a fact that the western farmer complains that he has not made money out of this large

Quite so. But wait-during the time of the war prices went up, and farmers branched out. They com-mitted themselves to large payments for land and machinery and other things. They did just what men in other lines of business were doing away up, and so did their earnings, all was well. The same banks, the machinery men and others with the west. There are farmers who had the farmers' paper; they who have failed in the west: there had to be paid. The result was in are farmers who have failed right many cases that there was nothing here in the east. I have no doubt at left to pay the merchant who had all about the future of the west. We carried these accounts; the merchant, are surely, perhaps slowly, arriving in turn, could not pay the wholesaler at the method of farming that is suitor the manufacturer from whom he able for that country. bought, and the farmer was left with only one set of his creditors satisfied, left with big payments to be made next year, and with very little cash to go ahead with improvements or with plans for his next year's work. with plans for his next year's work. In many, many cases he had gone in too deen and when prices dropped too deep, and when prices dropped he was unable to reach out and pull the west, and they must be solved." "How about the reports that there were many families leaving the west and going to the United States?" asked The Advertiser.

"The families who have left the Canadian west have been in most cases those of men who were engaged in the building trades. There has been a very big boom in the building trades in United States, and the Canadian west has sent over its share of men to participate in this, just the same as the Canadian east has sent over its share of men for the same ose. As far as farmers leaving American west, there is no reason why they should do so, because we are just as well off in our west as they are in theirs."

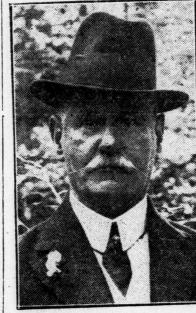

Want Men With Capital.

The old days of homesteading in the west are just about played out," is Mr. Walker's opinion. "We like to ret men there with between $3,000 and $4,000. With that amount I would strongly advise that they go into Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, and buy land on a long term arrange ment at the 6 per cent interest charge that is now in force. "Dear Mr. Murphy,—My brother says, 'Curls, of course. She's too much of an old woman, as she was. And as she was she appeared to be a dark girl, and as she is she appears as she was she appeared to be a dark girl, and as she is she appears to be fair. He doesn't like her skirts. They are too long and tight. Don't they go to church? Why doesn't little Buttercup walk, or try to? After all, Mr. Murphy, we like Toots and Casper. Yours truly. After all, M. Many and Casper. Yours truly, and Casper. Yours truly, "TOOTS' AND CASPER'S FRIENDS." for the sake of wearing curls. "AGHAST."

"To be or not to be, that is the question." What question? About Toots' hair, of course. Is it to be curled, or not curled? That's the Pickford or Nita Naldi. Somebody individuality, and I rather think she has. I never saw anyone who wore her hair just like Toots used to do, but I have seen lots of the girls with curls, especially after they have had t bobbed. I think I like the old Toots best, Mr. Murphy, but if Toots really wanted the curls, let her have them and I'll promise to like her just as well anyhow.

> Crime. Special to The Advertiser.

New York, June 9 .- A short, stocky man, carrying a girl's corpse wrapped up in brown paper, was arrested early today as he was about to throw his sinister bundle over the rail of a ferry boat at Arlington, Staten Island. The man gave the name of Elionzo Lazarda, and said the dead woman was Miss Helen Martin, 24, a trained nurse, who had been employed by Dr. George B. McAuliffe, a physician in a fashionable neighborhood just off Central Park. Lazarda was the doctor's man servant. Lazarda, who is a Filipino, was locked up on a charge of homicide. Police believe he strangled the girl after luring her to his bedroom on the top floor of the doctor's home. South Battleford M. P. Says Examination of the room showed blood stains. The furniture was upset, indicating a struggle. Dr. McAuliffe was away at his summer home at Sag Harbor, Long Island, and the house was occupied only by Dr. McAuliffe, jun., who was found asleep in his room when police arrived, and by the servants.

Heard No Sounds. Dr. McAuliffe, jun., said he had heard no sounds of a struggle. He had seen the girl about the house at 1 p.m. Friday, and had seen the Filipino there at 7 a.m.

"I choked her for half an hour, then she was dead." In these words Elionzo Lazarda, Filipino, confessed to the murder of Miss Helen Blossom Martin, a trained nurse, according to the police of the West Brighton station. He had carried the body about with him for hours after the crime, riding in taxi cabs and on ferry boats through crowds of New Yorkers, Unheard-of many of whom stopped to look curiously at the short little man struggling with the big bundle. The corpse was fully clothed, was doubled up, brown, paper, the whole held together with heavy cord.

Carries Bundle.

Carrying this bundle, which weighed 140 pounds—the man weighs about 120—Lazardo entered a taxicab and lrove through the theatre crowds to the Battery, where he boarded a ferry for Staten Island. The taxi driver offered to help him carry his bundle, but he refused.

The spectacle of the little man wrestling with the bulk package at-tracted so much attention from pas-sengers on the boat that Lazardo had engers on the boat that Dagardon the chance to dispose of the body. He chance to dispose of the body. He chance to dispose of the body. He George, Staten Island, and drove to Arlington, Here he boarded a ferry once more. This time he was so weary that he permitted Edward Mareur, the chauffeur, to help him carry his bundle aboard. Feels Body.

The chauffeur felt bodily heat through the wrappings, and he realized the burden was limp and soft.

He hastened to inform Police Sergeant John Miller. As Miller ran on the boat the Filipino hoisted the bundle to the rail and tried to shove it into the water, but he was not He was seized and hustled into the ferry house. Sergeant Miller tore open the package and exposed the blonde head of a young girl, with marks of strangulation on her neck. Lazardo looked calmly at the distorted face and shrugged. The night backed away. Rushed to a police station, the Filipino at first refused to talk at all, then, little by little fragments of the story were obtained unwrapped and straightened out. The girl was clad in a pink house dress, black shoes and stockings.

To Wash Lace

Whisk a tablespoonful of Lux into a thick lather in a quart of very hot water. Cool to the required temper-

Very fragile lace should be basted on a piece of shrunken cheesecloth and allowed to stand in the suds. Rinse

The exquisite beauty of such fairy-like fabrics is wonderfully preserved by Lux. The gentle cleansing suds impose no strain on delicate threads, but free them from the dust and grit that might otherwise destroy.

Lux is made by our exclusive process, ensuring its absolute purity. The thin satin-like flakes dissolve instantly, leaving not a particle of solid soap to stick to the gossamer-like threads. The rich cleansing Lux suds quickly restore your most treasured possessions to their original beauty and loveliness.

> Lux is sold only in sealed packets-dustproof!

on heavy trading. The Eries were much more active also on a large turnover. The street now figures that transportation earnings of the Erie cover fixed charges, while the profits from the coal company will leave a fair surplus for the preferred stocks.

The industrials had a further slight reaction in the first half hour or so, but they were finally influenced by the great buoyancy in the railway section and in the last hour drew generally above the Eriday closing.

St. Paul.—The activity of St. Paul stock today was in line with the movement in the low-priced rails generally but particular at the state of the st stock today was in line with the movement in the low-priced rails generally, but particular attention was paid to the St. Paul situation for two reasons. In the first place, the road has been showing decided improvement in operating income, and secondly, it is believed that the large amounts charged off to maintenance in the first four months of 1923 will not be duplicated during the year. The Sugars.—The recent selling in the sugars, particularly in Punta Alegre. will not be duplicated during the year.
The Sugars.—The recent selling in the sugars, particularly in Punta Alegre. has been set down as due to several causes. On Friday the fluctuations in the sugar futures were wide, and in England the price of sugar declined. Cuban rows also were softer. It is reported in sugar trade circles that Europe will be less of a factor in the Cuban market during the coming months. A hand-to-mouth policy is now evident. In the case of Punta Alegre Pressed Steel C Pierce-Arrow Royal Dutch. Selling had further cause in the fact that at the meeting of directors this week no action was taken on the dividend.

BOND MARKET

The bond market remains very firm, with keen bidding very much in évidence in connection with tenders for new municipal issues. This close bidding is one of the most interesting points in connection with the government and municipal market today.

On Tuesday the city of St. Thomas called for tenders for $100,000 5 per cent On Tuesday the city of St. Thomas called for tenders for $100.000 5 per cent bonds, the spread on the high nine bids being less than one point. The money was borrowed at a cost to the city of only 5.24 per cent, this price being very well in line with the highest prices that have here paid to municipalities for well in line with the highest prices that have been paid to municipalities for some dime. The inference is that on the part of dealers there prevails a keen demand for high-grade bonds.

Prices in the general list have remained firm, with a tendency to strengthen, while 1934 maturity Victories have strengthened on the exchange by a fraction of a point. 1934s, being taxable, are comparable with other investments, and at the present price the yield is approximately 5½ per cent. 1934s are now 11½ year bonds. cent. 1934s are now 11½ year bonds, and therefore do not in every case meet the requirements of investors, who dethe requirements of investors, who desire long term securities; hence it would be reasonable to see long term municipal bonds selling on the same, if not a better basis than Victory bonds of this particular maturity.

Demand appears to be fair, and as there is no indication of an increase in supply, it is probable that a comparative shortage of high-grade bonds for some time yet.

New York, June 9.—Railway shares practically monopolized the stock market in today's short session. The rapidity with which these stocks moved ahead showed something more than a belated appreciation of the present favorable position, and still more favorable outlook with regard to earnings. It also demonstrated that many participants in the bear campaign of a month ago had not got away with the paper profits in the railway list. Today these short selelrs began to scramble. It was principally this hurried short covering which was responsible for the particularly sharp upturn in stocks like Missouri Pacific preferred and St. Paul preferred.

New York Central made a new high for the year, getting up to 103. Some still maintain that the dividend to be acted upon next Wednesday will be a severe shock to the entire railway share aminet. Southern Railway was another that bettered its previous high for 1923, when it went through 35½ on heavy trading. The Eries were much more active also on a large turnover. The street now figures that transportation earnings of the Eric cover fixed charges, while the profits from the coal charges.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, June 9.—Argonaut continued to harden on the Standard Mining Exchange during this morning's brief session, selling up to 90 for net gain of 2½. Newray advanced to 40, and Vipond rallied to 51½, both up 1½ while Goldale ranged from 62 to 59, and closed up 2 at 60. Net gains of a cent were shown on close by Clifton and Buckingham, while Bidgood and West Dome Lake were fractionally firmer.

Big producers mostly gave good account of themselves, McIntyre closing up 30, and Wright Hargreaves up 4. Dome Mines, however, was down 25.

In the silver section, Keeley showed net gain of 6 and Temiskaming of one, while Beaver was slightly firmer. Coniagas, however, was off 10, Lorraine off 2, and Castle and Larose both of 1.

This retort was the cleverest of the debate thus far. A venerable story about an oft-killed cat, a reflection upon the sincerity of new recruits to the anti-union cause, illustrated by Jacob's voice and Esau's hand, and a claim that a bargain should be kept even if it were a bad one, rather diluted the wine of this really brilliant effort.

Hon. R. M. McGregor of New Glasgow spoke against the union. It was amazing to find a parliamentarian of amazing to find a parliementarian of seventeen years all at sea on the question of procedure, as he demonstrated himself to be on the subject of the mode of reconsideration. His appeal, for possible union with Anglicans, fell upon uninterested ears. It appeal, for possible union with Angli-cans, fell upon uninterested ears. It is clear that the next approach for such union will have to come from the Church of England to the sister the Church of England to the sister Church of Scotland. west or in Fort William terminals. According to views of exporters expressed tonight, July wheat is now the highest on the market, being $1.15½.

Winnipeg July is also the highest continent. Shippers with New York connections are the heaviest buyers, showing the urgent need in Europe, as this wheat is going out by the quickest Atlantic route. Clearing skies in Europe are the big influence, and brokers who are always informed have read the signs that Europe will soon be in a position to buy foodstuffs heavily, and they want to have wheat where it can be got at Upper Lake ports.

There is no trading in October, although there are many offers, and the awheat control board in the west is holding off trading. Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan is being urged to accept the chairmanship of Canada's wheat board, with which there goes the salary of $50,000 a year. The weather is ideal for growing crops.

In the of usual mental poise and of justice, equal mental poise and enteral poise and enteration should be so sincerely optonicate, is impossible of explanation.

Eloquent preachers, wise statesmen of the church, ecclesiastical lawyers college presidents, missionary enthusiasts, ardent patriots, analytic ditors, keen minded sovereigns of the bench, are to be found on the one side and on the other.

A tribute to the Toronto Presbytery as "the most concerted in He predicted legal suffocation for the church," charmed the assembly, the unionists and told them frankly that they could close the door from the face of every delegate from Hamdenial of the right of the popular votes to control the will of the assembly.

Some Words With Great Power

of these are, so that when we are in a position to use them we won't overlook the chance.

"Free" is one of the most powerful words in the language. Perhaps we can deliver free; if so, we mention free delivery in the Want Ad, and if we think it important enough, put it first. Perhaps we are prepared to sell, "Free trial." A rental agency can feature "free transportation" for people looking for homes. A farmer advertised apples. Pumpkins were cheap. He advertised, "Free pumpkin for each customer."

Advertisers who have used the Want Ad section for years have learned the relative values of several words referring to price. Words countless advertisements. Nevertheless, it is often still a mighty good thing to say, especially if what is offered is something the public is wary of placing confidence in. Horses, cows and other live stock come in this category.

Entirely New!

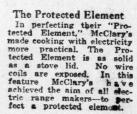

Inside, McClary's oven is porcelain enameled. The walls are seamless and rounded at the corners. Remove the heating elements (they slide out easily)—and the oven is as clear and easy to clean as a large enameled-ware dish!

A remarkable oven-McClary's! Not only does it make baking an easier and pleasanter task-but it imparts to baked dishes and roasts greater nourishment and improved flavor.

This is because it bakes and roasts perfectly without drying out the food.

Closing the door seals McClary's oven tight—thus preventing rapid evaporation. Naturally meats cooked in this oven are wonderfully juicy and tender—and lose but little weight—a considerable economy. (This oven is an exclusive McClary's feature.) Don't deny yourself the satisfaction of cooking with this won-derful range. ment of a coach, all set to hand the leaders a trimming and incidentally break into the win column. If all this happens the situation will be as tight as the most ardent fan could desire because if it doesn't mean an upset in the first series it is sure promising for the second portion of the schedule.

It might be just as well, considering that Senor Luis Firpo has an important and highly remunerative engagement with Jess Willard dated for June 12, that he strike Cuba off his dollar-grabbing itinerary now in progress-around Mexico. Jack Johnson and Sam Langford, two old cronies of the ring, are now shedding the glow of their presence in the "shunny isile, and there are plenty of fans yet who think either of the two gladiators what score will win the title. Will be considered by the watcher that the conditions reasonable, might damage Firpo considerably as a box office attraction, and make the Wild Bull of the Pampas think he's chosen to play the role in a real bullfight.

mission comes nothing. The big man of boxing of one of the states above mentioned told the writer today that New York's attitude used to be amusing, but now the assumption of national superiority that comes out of the New York commission has begun to wear on the nerves. Maybe if the sister states fall for the conference, they will tell Muldoon and his colleagues a few things that might be good for them to know.

It looks now as though Lew Tendler will try himself out against Pal Moran, an open air show in Philadelphia on the night of June 18. Moran is due at Atlantic City from New Orleans to-

TO BE READY END OF JUNE

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, June 8.—During the past few days, decided changes have been noted in the new home of the St. Thomas Golf and Country Club at Union. According to information given out Friday by officials of the club, the management expect to have the greens ready for play by the end of June. A new tractor is now in operation and the cutting and rolling of the fair ways is well under way. One official reported to The Advertiser Friday that considerable stock had been sold in London and that several members from the Forest City were looked for, as a big celebration is planned for the opening day and it is likely that professionals will be secured to play an exhibition match.

Ruth's Opportunity May Lie In Injury To Cy. Williams

Philly Slugger Hurt His Back—Giant-Brave Trade Is But a Change of Scenery For Players Involved.

New York, June 8.—It is greatly to be hoped that Cy Williams, slugging Philadelphia National, will not be kept out of the game long with his injured back, which forced him to retire in the fourth inning og Thursday's battle with St. Louis. If he is out only a day or two, of course, that much time lost won't count so much against his chances to break Babe Ruth's homer run record, and set one of his own. A longer period away from the plate, however, would make his record-setting ambition difficult to achieve, and would give Babe a chance to caten up to him.

Reports today from St. Louis were days, hammering away at anything the pitchers have to offer. It wa't do to rush him, though, for unless he completely recovers he may have trouble all summer, and then the Babe would have the real chance to forge ahead.

E. As to that Gowdy-Watson for Smith-Barnes deal, announced today by the Boston and Glants managements, it is very much a fitty-fifty proposition. Neither team has strengthened or weak-ened itself. Barnes is not there for much longer, and McGraw is getting of an unruly player in Smith, who has always chafed under the Giant viles. Smith is a good extense, but long even with Esson, unless he esttles down under discipline. Respectively the season that they would have the real chance to forge ahead.

He looked around. A street car, bound for a suburb, passed noisily. It paused briefly before the railway station, neither discharging nor taking on a passenger, then clanged protestingly on its way. Impressed in Spike's mind was a mental picture of the chilled motorman, and of the nductor huddled over the electric heater within the car. Down below her she could see Brother and Sister, and she just knew that they were chuckling over her punishment. This added to her anger, for Littlest Bear really was very angry. But there was nothing she could do about it. She didn't dare come down out of that tree, so she sulked and sulked and pitted herself that she hated and tried to think that she hated everybody and everything.

Mother Bear had gone back to her ishing. Presently there was a swift movement of one of her big paws, and out on the shore came a shining, flapping fish. Mother Bear pounced on it before it could flap back into the water. Then she carried it over the water. Then she carried it over to Brother and Sister to be divided between them. Mother Bear went back to her fishing, while the two little Bears smacked their lips as they gobbled up that fish.

In a little while the same thing happened again. The next fish Mother Bear ate herself. Littlest Bear looking down from the tree Bear, looking down from the tree, saw it all. How she did want to taste of one of those fish! But Mother Bear never even glanced up at her. She acted just as if there was no such person in all the Great World as such person in all the Great World as Littlest Bear. The fishing was good, Hardly would one fish have disap-peared when there would be another for Brother and Sister to pretend to for Brother and Sister to pretend to quarrel over. They were big, plump fish, and Littlest Bear's mouth watered more and more as she watched Brother and Sister enjoying them. It seemed to her as if it was more than the littlest Bear, "and that next time you will be obedient." Then she told the little Bears to follow her, and endure it. There was nothing else to Finally, Mother Bear caught a little the fish she had caught. She carried it over to the foot of the tree and dropped it there. "You may come down now," she growled. "This fish is for you." Littlest Bear was still sulky. She wanted to say that she wouldn't come down, but she didn't dare to. slowly she climbed down. "I won't touch that fish! I won't

Elephant paths are not to be found phants do not go in single file. in the forests, says Carl Akeley, the well-knwn big-game hunter, there are elephant paths everywhere, out them travel would be almost imtime on their trails, which go everywhere except, oddly enough, among the tree ferns. The elephants are constantly changing their paths, the natives are always digging pits in them. Some trails, however, have evidently been used for centuries. One trail, a little wider than an elephant's fott, was worn six inches deep in the solid rock! It must have taken the shuffling elephants hundreds of years to wear the rock away

The fact was that Betty Blair and Betsy Blair were cousins, born within a day or so of each other, one in faraway India and the other in the New England home of her ancestors. Betsy's missionary parents had sent her home when they found they could not hope to raise her in the Indian climate, but both had succumbed to that climate before they could revisit their home. So Betsy had been brought up by uncle and aunt, the brought up by uncle and aunt, the brought up by uncle and aunt, the beautiful aunt beautiful and beautiful an old town who half suspected that they were twins anyhow, so closely did they resemble each other, and so

UP FROM THE DEATH CELL

By JOHN W. KANE.

Kane Discloses To the Warden a Torture Chamber, the Tombs-They Are Obliterated

Curly Kane wins his way to regeneration while in prison. A wild lad, he killed two carmen in a hold-up and after 17 months in murderers' row got a new trial, with a life imprisonment sentence instead of death. He studies law, reads, trains himself to be a magazine writer, and conceives the idea of a law permitting parole for life prisoners who serve made to the various forms of punishfifteen years. By finesse he gets it passed. A new warden, with modern ideas, makes Kane his private secretary. After thirteen years Kane walks alone two hours in the open

CHAPTER XLI.

During my two hours' absence from the prison the warden had been to the capitol building and had there held a conference with the state board of control, the governor and the attorney-general. Some of the intended activities and changes were made known to me in the warden's office upon my return.

"The board thinks that we ought to cut the expenses as much as possible," he told me, soon after we had he asked, a stern look in his usually entered his private office, "and kind and humorous eyes. among other things they cut off the jobs and salaries of five different men | told him. formerly employed here; three of the places will remain unfilled, and two ingly puffing at that black cigar, places formerly held by paid em- then: ployees will be taken over by prisare," I remarked.

"All that it's possible to bestow." ne laughingly answered. "It's something new here, but they're doing it successfully in three or four other states, and we can, too," Just then I heard the gong that called the prisoners to their meals. I Get a Room Outside.

How We Worked.

The warden's chauffeur and I were the only two prisoners who slept in that building. There were five others -the barn man, the fellow who cared for the incubators at the chicken houses, another chauffeur, the care taker of the dairy herd, and the furnace man-who slept at other places outside the prison inclosure proper.

The chauffeurs were the only two whose duties took them off the prison lands, but all the rest of those who slept outside—and a few who were out during the daytime only-had the run of that whole reservation when not at work.

My own hours for work were irregular. Sometimes the warden's business would require his absence stone crusher for two or three weeks for two or three days; and with the exception of the mail that related week. They had no use for it in strictly to the more unimportant institutional business, none of it would whenever mail matter piled up on us a little bit, we would simply get busy with it and-with the exception of time for meals-turn it all off without stopping.

Because of the fact that a great deal of the correspondence related to matters that would require careful thought upon the warden's part, which led to discussion between us. a great deal more time was required during that first year of his administration than was for the later correspondence. Many times-as often perhaps as three times a week-we would remain in the office late at night, and most of that time would and hoped-for future management. The warden was not one to criticize his predecessor in office, and I made it a point always to refer to the past as bearing upon a system rather than upon the policy or management of any individuals. During one of those talks in the month of May, 1917, reference was ment in the past.

The Warden Learns Something. "Have you seen the tombs yet?" I asked.

"The tombs," he repeated, "What do you mean?" "I mean that specially prepared combination of tomb and cell back there by the boiler room." He looked at me a moment in silence. "That's the first I ever heard of such a place." "Well, it's there," I assured him

"I've never seen the inside of the thing, but I've seen many a man who came out of it, I've seen them come out weak and pale, and I've seen them come out with bloody heads." "Who inflicted the bloody heads?"

"The old system of penology," He was silent for a time, meditat-

"Strange that no one told me about that before," he remarked. "We've been so busy though-perhaps no one thought of it.' "Well, as I have heard about it." "Yes, it will that," he went on. "I I explained, "the so-called tombs are explained to them that you were al- two dungeon-like cells made of thick ready saving the state the expense of walls, and in the walls there are rings a man to do the work you're doing. fastened, and to those rings prison-Then it was decided not to fill the ers were strung up from time to time. master mechanic's position with a The thing is built of cement, and free man, because we have here a from what we could gather about it, high-class man that can fill it. Four or five guards were walking on the flanks and bringing up the rear; they were there in order that no prisoner might get a chance to whisper anything to one of the law-makers or hand him a written communication. Well, you just ough read the glowing report-maybe you did read it-that those learned men went back down town and made about the manner in which this place was being run.

"And right that very half-hour during which the delegation was in here, four men were swinging up to those rings back in the dungeon, and two of them had bruised and bleeding heads. Besides that, on the day the delegation was to come we had much better food than usual on the tables, and we heard the warden him self stand there and deliberately tell those legislators that that was about the way we were fed every day.

Butter Thrice a Year.

"I heard with my own ears these very words from him: 'You know senator, we have here on the place a herd of fine Guernseys, and we always plenty of milk and butter.' To that than I get all the time.' And the rejoinder by the warden was: 'Well this is a day of progressiveness, and are obtained by feeding the prisoners well.' And the truth of the matter was," I concluded my speech, "we never at any time got anything but a little bluish, thin, separated milk, and we were allowed to have butter about three times a year."

"I take it that such talk failed to inspire much confidence on the par of prisoners," smiled the warden. "On the contrary," I told him, "i nade most of the inmates hate the warden, the guards and most everything else with the bitterest kind of hatred, and their sole hope was some be answered until his return. And day to get out of the prison and try to break even by inflicting further injury upon society at large."

"But about that half cell and half tomb thing; where's the key to it?" "It's around here somewhere, no doubt," I answered, "if they didn't throw it away before leaving.

"If I knew where it was," he returned, "we'd go in there tonight and look the place over. But I'll see it tomorrow-and then, Mr. Man," he chuckled, "you and others will get to see what I do to your celebrated

"What do you want to do with it?" the governor inquired.

"I'd like to get a force of men busy with sledges and dynamite, if necessary," answered the warden, "and we'll tear that relic of barbarism way-and in its place we'll set up a blacksmith shop and something else looking to construction rather than to destruction."

That part of their conversation was within my hearing. "Get busy, then," the governor told him; "the sooner the thing is gone and forgotten the better."

At that instant a new thought occurred to me, and after the governor and the others had departed, I approached the warden with it.

"I just wonder, warden," said I, "if t would be permissible for me to make a suggestion, privately, about that tombs business.'

"Why, of course," he replied. "Well, here it is," said I. "It's almost a certainty that there will be make it a point to give the boys some criticism of the present policy here, and the other side-not parthe senator replied: 'That's more ticularly the other party, but all those who favor old-time penology-will bring up everything possible against the present system. And because of we've found out that better results that, I'd suggest that before the tomblike thing is destroyed some record be made of it.

"What kind of record?"

"Why, simply make a perfect photograph of it both inside and out. More than that, I'd get some of the fellows in there who have actually been strung up in the place to allow ou to string them up exactly as the old regime did, and then I'd take the picture and keep the plates under lock and key. Do you get the idea?'

That is exactly wha was done. I was present when the photographer WANTS MAYOR TO GIVE took the flashlight of the interior of the place, and I went in person and explained to three of the old-timers what was wanted in the way of their posing there for the pictures. The result was a perfect picture of the whole thing-including the naked men strung up there by their wrists -was obtained. A few weeks later the merry ring of n anvil and the hum of some other machinery could be heard comin rom that particular spot.
