cunning and resoluteness, he changed his mind. Even if he gave the man the beating he merited, it would never serve Constance. What should he do to save her? He stopped dead short, looking at Rawson Fenton indignantly, his hands itching, and as he looked Fenton rose and addressed the captain of the steamship, who was passing.

It is always at this moment that the cup is almost within the grasp that the hand trembles.

He went up the stairs and knocked at the door of the sitting room, and Mary opened it.

"Is your mistress ready?" he asked, trying to speak calmly.

"Nearly," replied Mary, who had her outdoor things on.

"Very good," he said; "I will not come for you till the steamer is ready to start. Tell her to keep her veil down."

Mary made no response as she shut the door, and Rawson Fenton went down stairs again and out on the pier. Lord Elliot passed him at the door of the hotel, and stood looking after him with the same intense longing which he had experienced on the preceding evening.

"She's asleep, worn out," she whispered. "Come and see for yourself whether she is happy or not."

He crossed the room on tiptoe and looked down at Constance. She had fallen into a state of stupor, rather than sleep, and as he gazed at her white, wan face he did not need any further assurance from Mary.

The tears that rose to his eyes were no shame to his manhood.

"Come away, my lord," whispered Mary, fearfully; "he lay come in and find you."

He drew her outside the door. "Where is he?" he demanded. "Let me see him."

Mary went to the window overlooking the pier, and pointed out Rawson Fenton sitting now on one of the bulkheads, his arms folded, a cigar in his mouth.

Lord Elliot looked long and steadily at him, then moved toward the stairs. Mary, in her fright and excitement, caught his arm.

Lord Elliot was staggered by the cool effrontery of the lie, and his face reddened angrily.

"I think you are mistaken," he said. "I have reason to believe Miss Grahame is here!"

"And if she be, what business is it of yours, sir?" demanded Rawson Fenton.

Lord Elliot had a card ready, and he held it out.

"I am an old friend—friend," he repeated, with an emphasis on the word intended for Constance's ear, "and I beg that she will see me if only for a moment."

Rawson Fenton's eyes gleamed, and he tore the card in two.

"Miss Grahame cannot see you, my lord," he said, curtly.

"I will hear whether she will or not from her own lips," said Lord Elliot; and he stepped past him into the room.

"Constance—Miss Grahame!" he exclaimed.

Constance took a step forward, then stopped, and hid her face in her hands, and he went up to her and touched her arm.

"Miss Grahame, in God's name, what does this mean?" he said, gently, his voice trembling with anxiety and excitement. "Where are you going, and who is this gentleman?"

Before she could have replied, Rawson Fenton strode in between them.

"Permit me to answer, Lord Elliot," he said, with an ugly sneer. "Permit me to answer for this lady, upon whom you have thrust yourself. She is going to France with me, her affianced husband."

"Is this true?" Lord Elliot said, still addressing her, and taking no manner of notice of him. "Is it true? Are you indeed going with this man?"

"Yes, it is true," she said, almost inaudibly. "Do not think worse of me than—than you can help."

"I never think anything but well of you, Miss Grahame," he responded, his voice shaking with emotion. "But how is it that I find you here, alone, without friends, and—so unexpectedly?"

He could not force himself to say "the day after that on which you were to have married another man."

"I can not—can not explain," she faltered.

"Tell me this, at least," he pleaded, earnestly. "Tell me whether you are going of your own free will."

"Yes," she breathed, "of my own free will."

"Now sir," said Rawson Fenton, malignantly, "you have received an answer to your impertinent questions and I shall be obliged if you will rid us of your unwelcome presence."

The second whistle shrieked out as he spoke.

Lord Elliot looked at him steadily.

"This lady has replied to me, but I am not satisfied," he said. "By the right which my friendship gives me, I shall insist upon your informing me how it happens that I find her here under your care."

Rawson Fenton's face grew black.

of a quick step upon the stairs, and he hand grasped Rawson Fenton by the throat and he was flung across the room.

A shriek rose from Constance's white lips, echoed by Mary, and she fell almost lifeless upon Wolfe's breast.

He stood looking round, the first of an outraged lion blazing in his eyes; and the group stood, white one could count twenty, motionless and seemingly turned to stone.

Then the marquis, with his arm holding Constance tightly, held out his hand to Lord Elliot.

"Thank you, Elliot," he said, hoarsely. "God bless you! You have saved her. Oh, my darling, my poor, tried darling!" and he hid his face for a moment against her.

Rawson Fenton had fallen so heavily that he was stunned for a space; he staggered to his feet, and wiping the which had struck the table, he extended his hand threateningly.

"I—I call you all to witness," he blazed, "I call upon you all to judge between me and this brute!" he involuntarily took a step forward.

"Keep him out of my reach, Elliot, or I shall kill him!" broke from the marquis' lips.

"This man," went on Rawson Fenton, "who steps between me and my wife has no right, no shadow of a right, to do so. Hear her! You shall hear it from her own lips! Constance!"

"Silence, Elliot!" roared the marquis, struggling for self-control. Lord Elliot stepped up to Fenton and Mary shrieked.

"See here, my man," he said. "Take my advice and go while you can."

Rawson Fenton glared at him for a moment and then at the marquis.

"Constance!" he repeated. "Do you hear me? Tell these fools—that they have no right to step between us, that you came to me of your own choice! Constance, remember!"

She opened her eyes and raised them to the stern face above her that melted in a passionate love under her gaze, then she tried to draw away from him.

"Yes," broke from her lips; "it is true! It is my own choice!"

"You hear!" cried Rawson Fenton. "You hear! You will believe her! Let her go. Let her come to me, you villain!"

The marquis' arm drew more tightly round her, if that were possible. A knock came at the door, and Lord Elliot strode to it and opened it an inch.

"Beg pardon, my lord," said the landlord's voice, "but they have sent to say that the steamer can't wait."

"Tell them she may go," said Lord Elliot; and he had never spoken any words with a deeper satisfaction.

"No!" cried Constance; and she sprang from the marquis' grasp. "No! Oh, Wolfe, Wolfe, let me go! Let me go! You do not know! Ah, if you know!" and she stood wringing her hands.

"You see!" said Rawson Fenton, picking up his hat and advancing to Constance. "You hear! Are you satisfied? Let us pass! You—you scoundrel, you will stop us at your peril!"

Lord Elliot leaped against the door, the marquis stretched out his hand to Constance, but she fell on her knees before him.

"Wolfe," she moaned, her eyes dilated with fear and anguish, "let us go. You do not know all! Don't—don't anger him!"

The marquis bent and raised her. "My poor darling!" he murmured, the voice standing out like whiplash on his forehead. "Do I not know all? We shall see. Have no fear, Constance; you are safe now, safe now."

"Yes, I—I am safe!" she panted, white with terror. "But you—oh, Wolfe, if you would only let me go with

Sarsaparilla Sense.

Any sarsaparilla is sarsaparilla. True. So any tea is tea. So any flour is flour. But grades differ. You want the best. It's so with sarsaparilla. There are grades. You want the best. If you understood sarsaparilla as well as you do tea and flour it would be easy to determine. But you don't. How should you? When you are going to buy a commodity whose value you don't know, you pick out an old established house to trade with, and trust their experience and reputation. Do so when buying sarsaparilla.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been on the market 50 years. Your grandfather used Ayer's. It is a reputable medicine. There are many Sarsaparillas—but only one Ayer's. It cures.

"Listen and obey her, lord marquis," sneered Rawson Fenton, something of his ordinary calmness returning to him. "She is wiser than you. You have made scenes enough. If you have any regard for the women you profess to love, to say nothing of yourself, you will take her advice."

The marquis lifted Constance bodily and carried her to a chair.

"Elliot," he said, quietly, "tell that fellow to leave the room—the house—the place. If he refuses, throw him out of the window."

"Come, sir," said Lord Elliot, opening the door. "Take the chance my friend offers you."

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., NOV. 6, 1896.

Editorial Chat.

The Pacific Cable Conference opens at London on Wednesday next. Canada will be represented by Sir Donald Smith, Mr Stanford and Hon. A. G. Jansz, and no doubt our interests will be well looked after.

We congratulate Acadia College and Professor Haley on the brilliant article on the X rays published in the Herald on Monday. It was illustrated by well executed cuts and made a very good presentation of a new subject. As far as we know nothing of the kind has been done by any other college in the Maritime Provinces. It shows the enterprise and ability of the Professor, and the college is honored by his work.

On Monday next our town is to be visited by Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture. He will be received by the town council and the faculty of the University, and will pay a visit to the School of Horticulture. So far as we are aware the present visit is the first one ever paid to our county by a Minister of Agriculture, and his visit will no doubt be much appreciated by our farmers and horticulturists—the backbone of the county.

The "battle of the ballots" in the United States is over and although the definite result cannot yet be ascertained, enough is known to assure a decisive victory for McKinley, the republican candidate for the presidency. The cause of sound money has triumphed and the stability of the republic has been maintained. The contest has been a bitter one, and more interest has probably centered in it than in any previous election for president.

So far as is apparent to the uninitiated no action has yet been taken with regard to putting up labels to mark the names of our streets. The work of getting the streets named occupied a considerable time, and we hope that some way of indicating them will be provided before the names are forgotten, thus rendering a repetition of the task necessary. But in all earnestness, gentlemen of the Council, would it not be well to have this work accomplished.

On the published list of lecturers at Dalhousie College for the coming winter we find members of the various religious denominations. The Roman Catholics are represented by Archbishop O'Brien, the Baptists by Dr. Keirstead, the Church of England by Bishop Courtney and Rev. Dymon Hague, the Methodists by Rev. W. J. ...

It is 300 years since Sir Walter Raleigh planted the first potatoes in Ireland, on his estate near Youghal, and now the Irish Gardeners' Association propose to hold a tercentenary celebration of the event. In Ireland the potato found a congenial soil and literally overspread the land. The Irish potato has fed many generations of Irishmen and helped to feed a good many Englishmen and Scotchmen also, and has even been shipped to America to feed the people on the continent from which it first came. It is worthy of a celebration.

Kings Co. Agricultural Society.

The 107th annual meeting of the Kings Co. Agricultural Society was held in Evangeline Hall, Lower Horton, on Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock. There was a fair attendance of the members. After the meeting had been called to order by the president the secretary read the governments' annual circular. A statement of the receipts and disbursements of the Society for the year, which had been found correct by the auditors, was also read. The secretary was voted $14.00 additional for extra work and expenses.

Mr James Simson was elected delegate to the meeting of the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association. The report of the directors for the year was read by Dr J. N. Fuller, chairman, and adopted by vote. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Thomas Taux. Vice-President—Dr G. E. DeWitt. Sec.—Taux—Dr H. Chipman. Directors—Dr J. N. Fuller, W. C. Tremblin, C. F. A. Patterson, L. P. Dennison, Charles Bold.

A resolution was passed that the directors be empowered to provide animals suitable for the different locations in the district. The usual arrangements were made for the providing of literature. It was arranged that the annual dinner be held in Wolfville on Thursday, Dec. 10th, at usual hour.

How Old Acadia College Was Built Without Money.

BY D. G. PARKER.

Tho' sixty years of grace, and more, Have borne me long time's obiding shore; My memory holds Acadia's birth, Among its cherished thoughts of earth; And ere the picture fades away, Its story let my pen portray.

Two sainted prophets of those days; Both worthy of immortal praise; Contentment from the King above, As agents of Jehovah's love

Without a cent, conceived and planned, To rear a college in this land. The one (1) was gentle as a child, In voice and mien, both sweet and mild; But with persuasive strength of mind, Was to no trifling things confined; And gifted with prophetic eyes, A royal work resolved to try.

The other (2) was a king by birth, And honored for his sterling worth; His voice was majesty alone, Commanding by its kingly tone. With faith in God, their hearts were filled;

And they resolved to rise and build; To rise and build without a cent, From bank, or hostile (6) government, A stately college on you hill. Which in the future years should fill This land with learning's love.

To bring their work in shape and line, They first worked out a neat design; And every timber in the frame, Was there assigned its place and name. These prophets then with master skill, Went forth their bill of frame to fill.

With scientific thought and care, They pondered o'er this bill of fare, And knew the trees of sundry size, That stood before their dreaming eyes, With all their mils, and posts, and beams, Was something more than idle dreams.

From Blomidon, along the shore, They strolled, ranged the mountain (4) o'er, And won the people by their zeal, In sympathy with them to feel. The time was ripe to rise and build, Just when, and where, the Master willed.

One volunteered to get a mill, To suit the order in the bill; Then others made the site complete, In all dimensions, square and neat; And so the work went grandly on, From day to day till all was won.

And then along the stony beach, Within a vessel's sailing reach, The timber of the future frame; In sundry lots six and a half, Was placed beside the waters there, As jewels in Jehovah's care.

And now, a noble volunteer, (5) And so he sailed along the shore, Where ships were seldom seen before; And in the Master's hallowed name, He gathered up the college frame.

And on the south Atlantic shore, (6) They told their story o'er and o'er, And while they spoke, the people heard, And gave responses to their word, In generous gifts of rich supplies, That reached this port, a great surprise.

A cargo of the choicest pine, Was there, the tribute which they paid, And landed here without a charge, A proof their hearts were warm and laid.

And from this valley (7) in the west, Their gifts were not held at the rest; But were in kind, all in their line—Boards, and planks;—hemlock, spruce and pine;

A loaded vessel brought them here, With words of welcome and good cheer. And from the city in the east, Their gifts were not held at the rest; But were in kind, all in their line—Boards, and planks;—hemlock, spruce and pine;

A good foundation, soon was laid, But both the prophets of the Hill, Were busy in their mission still; Obdient to their friendly call.

The people met in church and hall; And while their story they proclaim, Cold hearts are kindled to a flame.

And when there was no gold to spare, They press their claims with equal care: "You boys catch fur, you girls pleasee knit."

"The fur will sell, the socks will fit, No gift you bring, will we refuse; "Down to a pair of baby shoes, (9) These were the claims I've heard them make.

For God and old Acadia's sake; And these appeals were not in vain, But answered, time, and time, again; And on my word you may rely, One time, they got an apple pie.

Tho' then a lad engaged in play, I yet recall the raising day, (10) When people came from far and near, The large and stately frame to rear, And proudly left it towering there; A monument of faith and prayer.

And thus from base to golden ball, (11) Till on the Hill it stood complete, With wisdom on its gaily seat; And every charge was fully met, Without a mortgage or a debt.

Wolfville, Oct. 28, '96. NOTES:—(1) Professor Isaac Chipman. (2) Dr Crawley. (3) For years the friends of Acadia College struggled with the provincial parliament for chartered college rights, and were vigorously opposed by Uniscke, Young, Doyle, Wilkins, Howe and many others, but after the championship of Dr Crawley and the Hon. J. W. Johnson, favorable legislation was secured. (4) The whole frame was furnished by the cooperation of many hands, along the Cornwallis and Wilmet mountains. (5) Matthew Beck with, Esq., of Cornwallis. (6) Liverpool and Milton. (7) The Annapolis Valley. (8) The college was 150 x 35 feet with a central transept section projecting both in the rear and front; it was four stories high in the rear and three in the front.

(9) I remember these claims being urged before the friends of my old Berwick home. (10) In those days buildings were not raised as at present, a stick at a time, but in large sections, and boys and men gathered in large numbers with pitchforks and pike poles, and the consummation was celebrated with a feast on the fat of the land. To this, Berwick, nineteen miles distant, generously contributed its quota. The college was raised in 1843, and was finished with the gifts of the people, except the library and museum in the west end, which was completed in 1854. This imposing structure, whose inward history can never be written, was laid in ashes December 28-1877. (11) Its cupola was surmounted by a large golden ball that retained its brilliancy to the end.

Town Council.

The regular monthly meeting of the town council was held on Tuesday evening. Present: The Mayor, Conna. Borden, Collins, Porter and Haley, and the recorder.

The chairman of the Poor Committee reported that Nancy Spinney, a pauper boarded with Harry Spinney, had been transferred to B. S. Caldwell's. On motion it was ordered that Caldwell be paid at the same rate as was paid Spinney, viz. fifty cents per week.

A petition was read from J. W. Barrs and twenty-three other ratepayers stating that a street was much needed to connect Orchard avenue with Pleasant street and asking that a committee be appointed to visit and report on the same; and it was ordered that the road be opened. On motion the matter was referred to the Street Committee.

The following bills were ordered paid: Acadia Electric Co. $10.50 Edward Chase 75 J. W. Vaughn 3.00 Township of Horton 30.08 J. W. Selfridge 1.00 Town Revisors 9.08 F. W. Woodman 2.28 Town Clerk 6.97

Coun. Porter made a statement on behalf of Mr James Simson, one of the appraisers of land recently taken over by the town for water purposes.

Coun. Caldwell stated that Mr H. G. Collins was desirous of getting a lease of land at "Mad Bridge," said to be owned by the town. Mr Collins was referred to owner of same.

Some discussion took place relative to the Fire Co. and it was resolved that the Water Committee be instructed to have rooms in the town hall put in suitable condition for firemen to meet in.

Football.

A match was played at Wolfville on that place and the Kentville team. The game was witnessed by a large number of spectators and resulted in a draw—neither team scoring. The game was hotly contested, the teams apparently being very evenly matched. This is the eleventh match played by these teams.

The Wanderers defeated the Dalhousie team on Saturday at Halifax, the score being 16 to 0.

It is likely that the annual match between Dalhousie and Acadia will be played on the campus here on the 18th of November. This is the game in which Wolfville people are particularly interested, and no doubt it will be witnessed by a large number.

The Acadia team has arranged for a match with Mount Allison on Friday next.

Hantsport.

Miss Laura Churchill and Miss Kate Neily left for New York on Wednesday last.

Mr J. E. Newcomb is visiting friends in Hantsport.

Rev. D. E. Hatt preached his annual Thanksgiving sermon last Sunday morning in the Baptist church. His text was, "The Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad." Psalms cxviii-3.

The four policemen, managed to keep order last Saturday night.

Mr Fred Churchill, who is attending Acadia College, spent Sunday at his home.

Wainwright & Frazer's College—the largest, oldest, and best Commercial College in Nova Scotia—has a staff of seven skilled instructors. A Diploma from this college gives the best chance for a good situation. More applications are received by the college for first-class positions than can be filled.

Time lost during Xmas holidays is made up to the student. Send for catalogue to S. E. Whitson, principal, 95 Barrington St., Halifax, N. S.

Chief Engineer Anderson, of the marine department, Ottawa, is coming to New Brunswick and Nova Scotia to locate new lighthouses.

For the cure of colds, coughs, and lung difficulties, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is unequalled.

IN purchasing a winter dress it is always well to have as many patterns to select from as possible, especially if it costs you nothing. Send us a post card and get a full line of our new samples—not an old fashioned piece in the lot. These goods are all imported direct from England, thereby saving the Canadian wholesaler's profit. We are not afraid to have our prices compared with any goods shown in Canada. We merely ask you to give us the chance of the comparison. All our dress goods will be found to be double fold—about 45 inches wide. We might mention as of particularly good value our broad dress goods at 42, 65 and 80 cents. There are altogether different styles from those shown last year.

Blanchard & Co., Water Street, Windsor, N. S.

We also wish to say a few words about our new fall jackets. These are bought by us in Germany and are unsurpassed for good value. We have a special line of black jackets at $2.25, $3.25, $4.25 and $5.25. Our $5.25 jacket comes in black, brown and blue. If you wish higher priced garments we have those at $6.00, $8.00, $9.25, $10.75 and $14.00. Our best one is black heavy cloth, trimmed with real sable and is worth $16.00. We will send you any of these on application and will prepay the express charges. It will thus cost you nothing to see them.

Blanchard & Co., Water Street, Windsor, N. S. (FORMERLY CARVER'S.)

Death of Charles W. Fitch, Esq.

It is with the regret which many will share that we record to-day the death of Charles W. Fitch, Esq. of this town. Mr Fitch had been in somewhat precarious health recently, but was able to attend to his business as usual until Saturday morning, Oct. 31st, when he suddenly expired while in conversation with a neighbor. He was a man esteemed and honored by his fellow citizens, and beloved by his family and a wide circle of friends.

He leaves a widow, two sons and three daughters. The sons are: Charles S. Fitch, of Wolfville, and William Fitch, who resides in the North West; his daughters are, Miss Annie Fitch, of Wolfville, Mr Andrew Jack, of Halifax, and Mrs Grant, wife of Rev. Donald Grant of Montreal.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, Nov. 2nd, and was attended by a large number of representative men and women of the town.

Rev. Mr Trotter, Pastor of the Baptist church, of which Mr Fitch was a member, conducted the services. The hymn beginning "Jerusalem the Golden" was sung by the choir of the Baptist church. The Scriptures read included part of Psalm 38 and Rev. vii: 14-17. Mr Trotter spoke in part as follows: Grief is not opposed to Christian feeling. Indeed the surer one approaches the character of Christ, the more responsive he becomes to human feelings and sorrows when the deep relations of family life are broken.

Mr Trotter recited a beautiful hymn that came from the Greek and was very fitting. Referring to the friend who had been removed he spoke of him as a Christian whose life bore witness to his faith, who had filled up the measure of his duty and was now called into rest.

He then offered prayer for the family and especially for the absent children. The hymn beginning "Asleep in Jesus" was sung and the benediction pronounced. As the cortege left the house the sun, which had been hidden by the autumn mists, shone through the clouds and bathed in cheerful, tranquil light the fields and orchards about the house from which a faithful man had passed to his eternal home.

Personal Mention. (Contributions to this department will be gladly received.) Hon. Dr Borden was in town this week.

Miss Sadie McKeen is visiting friends in Wolfville.

Miss Maude Hall, of Annapolis, is the guest of Miss Agnes Johnson, of this town.

Dr Burnett, of Sussex, N. B., was in town over Sunday, visiting his daughter, Miss Burnett, teacher of elocution at the Seminary.

Evangeline Division celebrated its eighteenth anniversary on Monday evening. A musical and literary programme was presented and suitable refreshments were provided. A very pleasant evening was spent. The division is in a healthy condition with prospects of a successful winter's work.

The Methodists are making preparations for holding a "Goose Supper" about the 20th. The successful character of such entertainments in the past should be sufficient to ensure a full house on this occasion.

On Saturday evening, Nov. 14th, the members of "Evangeline" Division plan to pay a fraternal visit to Gasperon Division, when an enjoyable time will no doubt be had.

The farmers have had a bad time harvesting their crops this fall. Most of the apples are now gathered, but a great many potatoes are yet in the ground.

The members of "Lily of the Valley" Division at Port Williams gave a very pleasant Hallowe'en party in their hall last Saturday evening. A most enjoyable evening was spent.

One of the most enjoyable social events of the season was the party given by Mrs. J. M. Hayes, on Wednesday evening last. Music, and games of various kinds were provided, and a delightful evening was spent by all.

There was not much of a stir in town Hallowe'en. A few beds decorated with burnt cork, and a few "pepa yans devils," were in evidence, but there was no serious deviation from the accustomed serene and quiet order of things.

There was quite a little excitement occasioned in town on Saturday afternoon last by a pugilistic encounter in which one of our popular young townsmen figured most creditably. It's not safe to interfere with Her Majesty's mail. It's bad for the eyes.

A meeting of the farmers and fruit growers of the County will be held at Kentville, to-morrow. Addresses will be delivered by Hon. Mr. Fisher, minister of agriculture, Hon. Dr. Borden, B. W. Chapman, Sec. of agriculture, and others. Matters of supreme importance to the horticultural and agricultural interests of the County will be discussed.

The members of Wolfville Division held a "Silver Social" in their hall on Wednesday evening, which was a most enjoyable affair. Besides the members and a few invited friends a number were present from "Lily of the Valley" Division, of Port Williams. The evening was passed in the usual social way, and closed with a short musical programme. Refreshments were provided during the evening.

To accommodate those who wish to attend the Farmers' and Fruit-growers' meeting in Kentville on Saturday, the A. railway have kindly made the following arrangements: Excursion, return tickets at one first-class fare will be issued from Windsor, Kingston and Kingsport, and intermediate stations, to Kentville. Special trains will leave Kentville for Kingston at 4.00 p. m., and the express train going west will leave Kentville at 3.30 p. m. Meeting will be called to order sharp 2.00 p. m.

You know it. Rays of shy blue
Above a center small and golden,
An autumn face of cherry hue
And a flush of olive.

When the year rests at Michaelmas
Before the leaves must vanish faster,
The country people see it pass
And call it aster.

It does not come with joy and June;
It knows God's time is sometimes Tardy;
And waits until we need the boon
Of spirit-lark.

So unobtrusive, yet so fair,
About a world it makes so human,
Its touch of grace is every where—
Just like a woman.

Along the road and up the dike
It wanders when the noons are busy;
To tell us what content is like;
That's Mlyn's deity.

Temperance Convention.
The grand division, Sons of Temperance,
of Nova Scotia, held its forty-fifth annual meeting in Halifax last week.
There was a large number of representatives present. Encouraging reports were received concerning the growth of the organization. The following extract from the opening address of the Grand Worthy Patriarch is taken from the report of this convention as given in the Life Herald:

"Deriving his information from many sources, the grand worthy patriarch said he was prepared to state the conviction that the order in general in Nova Scotia is in a healthy condition. Certainly there is much yet to be desired, there are places where the cause is languishing;
there is need of great care and renewed zeal and effort; but there is no cause for discouragement. And the old order of the Sons of Temperance was never more needed than it is to-day. It has been a revelation to find that there are still parts of this province where the very elements of the doctrine of total abstinence are not understood. There are places where a large proportion of the people have yet to learn that the use of intoxicating liquor is destructive, always destructive—and that the only safety is in always abstaining from it.
There never was a better time than this for temperance teaching than our own, and it has an immense amount of educating yet to do."

The grand worthy patriarch continued:
"Let me entreat our membership not to waste time and strength in discussing the necessity for a Dominion plebiscite, but to organize at once and prepare to agitate at the polls an unmistakable demand for immediate prohibition. The proposed plebiscite differs from previous ones in that legislation is promised if the vote of the people warrants it. Former plebiscites were mere expressions of opinion with no prospect of immediate legislation as the result. The force of the liquor traffic, the aid of all those who have perpetuated it, will therefore be exerted in the coming contest. I tremble for the result unless the people become aroused to appreciate the issue involved and to consider large numbers to the polls and give an overwhelming majority in favor of prohibition. No more important subject will come before this grand division during this session and I trust that some definite plan of organization for the campaign will be devised. Let the temperance forces of Nova Scotia be aroused, united and organized, and our majority will lead the Dominion. The responsibility to a large extent rests on the Sons of Temperance.
I would suggest that a special committee be appointed to present to this session
some definite plan of campaign."

able value of the city. The amount wasted in alcoholics would provide six times over for the total taxation and it is the duty of the city to expend by the London school board annually. The gross yearly expenditure for relief to the poor in London is about £2,750,000 which is only one-eighth of the amount of its drink bill. The net cost of the county of London at the present time is £19,215,000, the whole of which could be paid off in one year by the sum spent in intoxicating liquors. The consideration of these telling figures cannot fail to excite practical men to the task of economy alone.—Union Signal.

A PERMANENT CURE.
A Letter Proves the Value of Pain's
Celery Compound.

A Medicine that Makes People Well and that Keeps Them Well.
Fergus, Ont., Sept. 22, 1896.
Gentlemen:
The following testimonial, relative to your Pain's Celery Compound, will no doubt interest all who remember my debility given more than two years ago.
The long interval has afforded me
ample opportunity for judging of the effects of the medicine.
I have always valued the duration of a cure more than the temporary relief. It is difficult, if indeed it is possible, to get a medicine that will produce a permanent good effect, so much being dependent on right use and dietary regulations. We must keep Pain's Celery Compound, and we must consider the quality as well as the quantity of the food we eat. I am convinced by experience that if this medicine be properly used and afforded fair play, it will do good work.
I am past seventy; yet, since I took the Pain's Celery Compound, I feel as well as an old man can feel. For this condition of health I can think of no other cause than use of the Compound.
I am, gentlemen,
Years faithfully,
JOHN IRELAND.

Wouldn't use False Keys.
The notion that alcohol may do good because for an instant it seems to do good, was well answered by a physician's response to a man who was too much given to the pleasures of the table. The man had said to the doctor:
"What do you think of the influence of alcohol on the digestion, doctor?"
"I think its influence is bad," said
the physician.
"But a little whisky taken just before a meal is the only key that will open my appetite, doctor."
"I don't believe in opening things with false keys," answered the doctor.
This response was particularly applicable for a falsely stimulated appetite is a rare prelude to indigestion.

Wholesale Dealers Must Get a License.
The late excitement over the wholesale liquor traffic bids fair to be revived.
Within a few days past an official has obtained the opinion of a prominent firm of Halifax lawyers, which is to the effect that the recent decision of the privy council leaves no question that the provinces alone have the power to license.
The writer's opinion on the matter further states that without a license a wholesale liquor trade cannot now be conducted at all. The document further says that if any brewers or others are now selling wholesale they can be prosecuted and compelled to take out a provincial license.
There seems to be no doubt the wholesale license dispute is now coming to a head.
What the next step will be is difficult to imagine.
The Halifax breweries have already been warned by the Dartmouth authorities that the sale of ale, etc., in Dartmouth by wholesale must be discontinued
unless a license is obtained.
It is claimed in Dartmouth that the time has passed for perfecting the appeal of the Turtle Grove Club from Superintendant Russe's decision, and that an appeal can be made now.—Life Herald.

Stormy Days won't matter...
when you have clothing that keeps you warm in any weather. Just a layer of Fibre Chamox through your coats, vests or wraps provides a healthful comfort that will last all winter, no matter how severe the weather. The waterproof covers protects makes it impervious to rain or sleet, its light weight leaves you free and unburdened so that any exercise is possible and its non-conducting properties keep out every whiff of cold air or frosty winds. It only costs a few extra cents, so for health and comfort's sake have it put in all ordered clothing and only buy the ready-to-wear garments which bear the Fibre Chamox Label.
Only 25 cents a Yard, and always find the Label.

Scraps for Odd Moments.
Mr Sanguinetti—You began life as a barefooted boy? New dark—Yes, sir,
I was born without shoes.
I see that your coachman has left you,
Jockey.
Yes, I was one of the few things he couldn't steal.
Rucher—I see that young Flyton has been keeping you accounts.
Grabton—Oh, he's been keeping all the money, too.
Minards Liniment umberrman's Friend.
I want a new hat in the very latest style.
Please sit down a few minutes, the fashion is just about to change.

Little Marie—Mamma, when I grow up may I marry a Dutchman? Mamma
—Why a Dutchman, dear? Little Marie
—So I can be a duchess, mamma.
Justice—You are charged with stealing Major Pinnoch's chickens. Have you any witnesses?
Prisoner—I hob nob, I don't steal
chickens before witnesses.
I was Sir Piddling Clarke who says I answered to a witness who says that he had been welded to the truth from infancy—Yes, sir; but the question is—how long have you been a welder?
Minards Liniment is used by Physicians.
Can I see Mr P—? I asked the "New Lettin" reporter. She is out, sir; said the attendant. One of the family then?
All out, sir. Well, wasn't there a man last night? Yes; but that's out, too.
Mother—Come, Bobby, why are you so naughty to-day, just when Annie is paying us a visit?
Bobby—Cause Annie told me it was a good boy she would sing for us this evening.
Female Sunday School Teacher (who is trying to explain the parable of the good shepherd)—Suppose, Tommy, your children were all little sheep, what would they do?
Tommy—An old cow.

Miss Percibonham (to her brother)—
What do you think is the most stylish color for a suit?
Brother Jim—Well, I don't know much about style, sir, but for myself I should prefer a white one.
For all other information apply to Railway Agents or to

W. A. CHASE, I. E. BAKER,
Secretary and Treas. Manager,
Yarmouth, Nov. 1st, 1896.
Mrs Spooner—Charles, do you think you would ever marry again?
Mr Spooner—What, after having lived with you for ten years? Never.
Mrs Spooner says she would give something handsome if she only knew just what he meant by that.
Edwin—How is Mr. Blueman getting along? Has he proposed yet?
Edwin—Yes, he has. He has asked his hands all the evening, the second night he had my pug dog in his arms;
last night he held Willie on his lap for an hour. I have hopes.
Ask for Minards and take no
other.
A lady who was looking about in a tri-cotee shop with a view to purchasing something gold noticed a quality figure,
head and shoulders of which appeared above the counter. "What is that Japanese idol over there worth?" she inquired.
The salesman replied in a subdued tone
—"Worth about £10,000, madam; it's the proprietor."
