Danger Signals Warn You of Approaching Paralysis

Slowly and Surely Exhaustion Goes on Until Collapse of the Nerves is the Natural Result.

You may be restless, nervous, irritable and sleepless, but you think there is nothing to be alarmed at. You have no appetite, digestion is impaired, and there is weakness and irregularity of other bodily organs. You feel tired. You feel that you are getting on in life.

MRS. ALLAN.

This has been proven in many thousands of cases similar to the one described in this letter. Mrs. Thos. Allan, R.F.D. 5, Sombra, Ont., writes: "Five years ago I suffered a complete breakdown, and frequently had palpitation of the heart. Since that illness I have had dizzy spells, had no power over my limbs (dormitor attack) and could not walk straight. At night I would have sleep attacks, and would wake up in the morning with aching limbs. I felt improvement after using the first box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after continuing the treatment can now walk, eat and sleep well, have no nervous spells and do not require heart medicine. I have told several of my neighbors of the splendid results obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50 cents a box, 5 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most successful restorative for the nerves that has ever been offered to the public.

It Isn't Your Town—It's You.

If you want to live in the kind of a town, like the kind of a town you'd like, you don't need to slip your clothes in a grip and start on a long, long hike.

You'll only find what you left behind. For there's nothing that's really new, it's a knock at yourself when you knock your town.

It isn't your town—it's you. Real towns aren't made by men afraid. When everyone works, and nobody shirks, you can raise a town from the dead.

And if, while you make your personal stake, your neighbor can make one, too, your town will be what you want to see. It isn't your town—it's you.

The Message of a Rose.

It was a beautiful rose and she was a beautiful lady.

She wore a white dress, a white hat, and in one hand, carefully wrapped in damp paper, was the rose. With her was a little girl about eight years old, in white also, for outside a summer sun burned fiercely.

The little girl had big brown eyes and thick chestnut curls.

"Two ice cream sodas, please," said the little girl to the soda fountain boy.

The beautiful lady smiled. The soda fountain boy smiled, too. The first time he had smiled all day, for the fact was, he was homesick and tired and discouraged. The proprietor of the store was gruff and stern, and with it all, a hard task master. The clerks were busy, customers were indifferent, and nobody, it seemed, had time or inclination to speak a pleasant word to the new soda fountain boy. He was so young, too, and the blue eyes were frank and honest. His thick, golden hair was clipped close to his head and his mouth turned up a little at the corners. In a little village fifty miles away lived a little woman whose boy he was and who still cried because she was lone some, too. She was so afraid her boy would fall into bad company, so afraid no one would be kind to him, and so sorry he had to go away. But money was scarce, it was almost imperative the boy should earn money, money, and the city offered opportunities the village did not, and so she had blessed him and kissed him and let him go.

And the boy had come to the great city where everything was strange and new and everyone was much too busy to speak to him. Every one—every one, for after working hours he had met some boys, boys city raised and bred, who laughed at his ideas of life in general. They made us of church and Sabbath schools, and were doing their best to get him into questionable places, but so far he had not yielded. But it was too long, and he had to go to the big downtown theatre the boys were always telling him about, who would be the wiser, and if he did play a game of pool or take a cigarette, why no one seemed to care for him, anyway.

And then the beautiful lady saw him looking at the rose.

He was such a fresh, handsome lad, his eyes so blue, his hair so golden, she looked at him again.

"You like flowers?" she asked gently.

"I love them," was the quick answer. "That is the finest rose I ever saw."

"What would you say if I were to give it to you?" she said.

The boy looked at her.

"I would be surprised," he answered, "I'm not used to anyone speaking to me, much less giving me a rose like that."

The lady put it into his hand.

"Take it," she said and give it to your mother." The boy's eyes suddenly filled. "I can't," he said. She lives in Weston, fifty miles away—barely sure you want me to have it?"

"Quite sure," smiled the beautiful lady.

And then the little girl and her mother finished their ice cream sodas and left the store. "Mamma," cried the little girl reproachfully, "your beautiful rose, why did you give it away? And it was all the one you had."

The little girl's mother took the little chubby hand in hers.

"I gave the rose away, dear, because the one I gave it to needed it more than you or I. Roses have messages, and if we listen close we hear them. I made no mistake I am sure."

The boy at the soda fountain washed and polished up the glasses with the happiest face he had worn since he left home. He even whistled a little under his breath. The big, lonesome ache in his heart was gone. He was going to do his best. He would not let the little mother in the old home be sorry on account of him. No, sir!

The rose he took and placed in a glass of cold water. Then he set it carefully on the marble shelf of the soda fountain. The proprietor happened to pass by. He saw it.

"Got a rose—eh?" he remarked in not quite so gruff a voice as usual. "Like flowers?"

Why I Am an Optimist.

Germany, a great military power—with a fleet, which in the circum stances, does not count, assisted by the anything but enthusiastic operation of bankrupt Austria-Hungary, and the bought support of the Sick Man of Europe—the corrupt and of fete Sultan—his waging war—against what? Against the Briti h Empire, the richest in the world—richest in ships, richest in martial pride and tradition; against France, second only to Germany itself in military strength, in naval power—which, added to our sea does count—and probably second only to Britain in wealth; against Russia with her almost inexhaustible population, her dawning dream of freedom and enlightenment, her illimit able resources, and her unconquerable fighting spirit; against Italy with her fine and splendidly equipped army, a useful fleet, and inspired withal, by a fierce, burning desire to wipe old scores with Austria; against Japan—the "Land of the Rising Sun," and no words of mine could improve that grand phrase; against Serbia, a nation of fierce fighters, with whom the business of bloodshed is second nature; against Belgium—who has already shown that a small nation is capable of accomplishing when sustained by a sense of cruel wrong perpetrated upon it. And who shall say how long or how soon it may be ere the list is extended. Now, are you downhearted, are you melancholy mumpers?

I want the public to stop looking at this war through yellow goggles; I want them to see the eyes and stout hearted by our Allies and our Australians; talk about the siege of Troy and all the heroic things old Homer wrote his long winded epics about—why, these lads have done more wonderful things than Homer could have invented if he had sat up all night working overtime. Think of the way our Colonial troops stormed up the heights near the sea on their first landing, and remember they had never been under fire before. Into the sea they rushed in the face of a tornado of lead, and then, like wild tigers up the rough, steep, giant cliffs they went, hanging on by their eyeballs in places, but always hanging on, whilst the Turks, led by their German officers, made the air ring with a rain of bullets—but they went. When, in all the war did the Germans ever perform a feat equal to that? Then tell me, why all this babble that has been running "how of late? It—any one ought to be down headed to the Germans; they are bleeding to death. Well, then, why worry? True, Germany is in possession of Belgium, Northern France and Poland—but what is the good of that to them? Every day they remain there means an expenditure of several million pounds and a strengthening of our position. And we are at length learning how to conduct the war. We are making the right kind of shells; we are sending 2,000,000 fine fellows out to France; we are leading our weaker allies all the money they want; we are grappling with the submarine peril—and our chemists are busy and we are getting through the Dardanelles. Do you really think the Germans are happy? Do you imagine for a moment that they would have started the war if they had known we were coming in? Our spiritual lawyers and our peace delegates and the rest of them at least did us a service by misleading the Kaiser in that respect just as his secret service agents were all at sea in thinking that Irish, Indi an and industrial revolution would break out in the event of war. Poor chaps, they didn't understand the British race and the British Empire! I confess that it makes me ill to meet so many of my countrymen with long faces. For heaven's sake let us buck up. Are we down hearted? Now, altogether—"Not likely," or if you prefer it, "Not 'arf." Imagine the British Empire being wiped out by the base and brutal half bred Teuton-for the German is only that at the best. He is the Unclean Thing of Europe—hopelessly depraved beyond all redemption. And we will wipe him out. There shall be no German Empire on the new map of Europe; no Austro Hungarian Empire—and no Turkey. France shall have back her lost provinces, and so shall Italy. Poland shall be a free kingdom—and Belgium shall have whatever she likes. Heligoland will, of course, come back to Britain, and the Kiel Canal will be de-nationalized. Of course there will be many other points to be settled; but these are already decided.

Talk about being despondent and low spirited—we ought to be so full of elation that we'd dread to go into St. Paul's for fear of pushing the dome off with our heads. We've shown the world that hearts of oak still grow on English soil. So when the next sad-faced son of sorrow comes walking to you about what may happen next week or next month slip him on the back and tell him of Neve Chappelle, of the struggle be-twen Mons and Compiegne; of fights in the air and fights by sea. Tell him of our boundless wealth in money, and our endless million men, of the ten or fifteen million more war riors we can raise, if need be, over seas, and if that won't make him proud and hopeful and confident, tell him to go to Hades and herd with the other lost souls—Horatio Bottomley.

Good Food for Soldiers.

Hon. A. E. Kemp, G. F. Galt and H. Laporte—the War Purchasing Commission—are exercising the closest scrutiny over the food supplied our troops in the instruction camps on home service. The commission is making contracts for food call for the best and the price paid is accordingly. There is, therefore, no cause for inferior supplies, and the regimental officers have been instructed to report at once any attempt to substitute inferior goods for the high class article contracted for and paid for.

Recently one of the commissioners discovered that ground coffee of an inferior quality was being furnished in one of the camps. At once he arranged that coffee mills be furnished each regiment, and nothing but whole coffee be taken from the contractors. By this precaution the coffee will always be fresh and the opportunity for substituting an inferior quality removed. Careful purchase and close scrutiny by this commission is given to the men fitting themselves to fight for the Empire, food, pure, wholesome and superior in all respects.

Nothing Like It for Colds.

Mrs. Holland Ferguson, Sheffield, N. B., writes: "Dr. Chase's Syrup of Lin seed and Turpentine has cured my children and myself of several colds. We are never without it in the house. There is nothing like it for colds and throat troubles, and it is so soothing and pleasant to take, my children would drink a whole bottle if they were permitted."

Is as true a mark of quality as the Sterling mark on silver.

The making of a Columbia Record is an artistic triumph.

Every shade of a vocal expression and every variation in tone is faithfully recorded and reproduced.

The same holds true in reproducing instrumental music.

In the records of such famous selections as Tschalkowsky's Overture 1812, one can distinguish the notes of every instrument at any moment, even in the most tremendous passages.

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system.

To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-purifier, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the organs to expel the impurities and rebuild your strength.

Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not find other relief. Refuse the starchy substitutes.

Editorial Brevities.

One thing is sure, farming is being done with greater ease now than it once was, and we believe it is being better done as well. Modern machinery has worked wonders on the farm.

Each individual in a country has a responsibility thrown upon him in regard to public affairs. Just as he regards this responsibility so will the affairs of his country and his country be conducted.

The recent threat by the Kaiser that all German subjects who worked in America munition plants would be subject to a charge of treason, has not driven out of Bridgeport a single one of the more than 600 German-born workers who are making ammunition for the Allies six days a week.

The current issue of the Army and Navy Journal asserts that about fifty German submarines have been destroyed since the beginning of the war. The largest estimate from England—which officially never announces her successes in the submarine warfare, except where the capture of survivors makes it necessary—has been thirty two.

According to an official announcement recently made the excuse for not sending conscripts to France are over a hundred thousand wounded soldiers in and around the city. British submarines every few days look up in the harbor and throw shells into bridges, ships, buildings and anything else in the immediate neighborhood. A few days ago British and French aeroplanes visited the capital and dropped many bombs. Turks and Germans are said to be quarrelling among themselves. Nice place Constantinople!

Constantinople must be a real restful place to live in these days. There is a shortage of food of all kinds to begin with. There are over a hundred thousand wounded soldiers in and around the city. British submarines every few days look up in the harbor and throw shells into bridges, ships, buildings and anything else in the immediate neighborhood. A few days ago British and French aeroplanes visited the capital and dropped many bombs. Turks and Germans are said to be quarrelling among themselves. Nice place Constantinople!

The Davidson War Contracts Commission which has been investigating the purchase of horses for military purposes met in Wolfville on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The sittings were held at the Opera House which was pretty well filled with interested listeners to the evidence given. A large number of witnesses from the western end of the county and from Hants county were heard. According to the testimony given, most of the horses seem to have been up to requirement, but evidence was given here, as in Kentville, to show a state of affairs far from creditable. We shall refer to the matter at greater length in another issue.

A New York World editor says: Had Admiral Mahan lived to see the beginning of the second year of the world war he would have found in the events of the first year the most striking vindication yet recorded of the influence of sea power upon history. Except for the British navy, Germany to-day would be master of the world. Germany's marvelous preparedness combined with her unparalleled military resources, gave the Teutonic alliance a commanding advantage that all the rest of Europe would not have withstood had land warfare alone been able to determine the result. But for the British domination of the seas the war would be over and civilization prostrate before triumphant German militarism.

All Canada Approves.

The World of Vancouver, is a newspaper that has long been noted for its spirited opposition to the leaders and policies of the Conservative party both in provincial and Dominion fields, so that the following tribute to Sir Robert Borden for his courageous attitude in denouncing his own followers is the more remarkable.

In an editorial headed 'All Canada Approves,' the World says:

It will be observed with general satisfaction that Sir Robert Borden has not hesitated to reprimand in severe language those of his own followers who have been found concerned in questionable transactions. His assurance that no member of the Government had any knowledge of what was going on is satisfactory in so far as it assures the country that what is a very unpleasant business is not to become also an exceedingly painful one. The matter seems to have been firmly grasped. When General Hughes stated to the Vancouver Canadian Club that he favored shooting army contractors who 'assumed' supplies, his audience made silence for his impulsive nature and perhaps discounted his language as extravagant. When Sir Robert Borden, judicial of mind and habitually reserved in language, refers to the culprit, rebukes by name two of his own supporters, and promises right investigation and condign punishment to all offenders, the whole Dominion heeds and applauds. There should be but one vote in Canada to-day regarding the Premier's stand.

Why not take a trip to see this beautiful country which surrounds us? J. D. Chambers is prepared to give you first class automobile service. Phone No. 21 for my price, it is reasonable.

The Premier in London.

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM A WELL KNOWN WOLFVILLE MAN WHO RESPONDED AT THE EMPIRE'S CALL.

London, July 20th, 1915.

DEAR MR. DAVIDSON:—I have never written anything for your paper, but as I know you to be a strong Conservative and a friend of our honored premier it occurred to me this morning that it might be all right to send a few lines to you, so that your readers might have an idea of how Sir Robert is being treated over here. I succeeded in finding a place in the ranks of the Canadian Service Corps, 5th division, second Contingent. We have been here for two months working hard and, I think, making good. We were reviewed by Sir Robert Borden and Gen. Hughes. We are hoping to go to some part of the fighting line soon, but no one but the heads know when, I have met one of the Henshaw boys. He was looking fit and I have heard good news about some of the other boys from our way.

I procured my six days leave last Monday and am about ready to make my way back to the camp life again. To state that I have had a good time in London this time draws a mild smile. It is certainly some town. I am only able in this letter to relate a part of one day's experience.

I started out from my hotel early yesterday morning, it being my last day in London. I first went down to Petticoat Lane, a few quarters where you can buy a suit of clothes, hat, etc., for a pound and anything one could think of from a few shillings to an anchor. I had great fun dickering with them and succeeded in procuring what I needed at a fair price. I had a few hours in the British Museum, was at a service in St. Paul's, visited the famous Art Gallery during the other days but had not time to visit the Victoria and Albert Museum. I was not far from the Strand in other days when everything was full of pomp and splendour but yesterday nothing but business seemed to be about. At 10 o'clock I went to the House of Commons to see the Premier. The House was magnificent. Just across the way is Westminster Abbey. I was so impressed with the beauty of the building from the outside after getting at the Parliament buildings, but when I entered this most wonderful building I was impressed indeed and truth. I stood in awe gazing about me when a clerical gentleman approached me and asked if I would like to join a group who were being conducted around the church. I thought this must mean a big tip on my funds were very low, but I knew it would be interesting so I joined the party and I am thankful I did so.

We first went to the tomb of Mary Queen of Scots, the body carved in stone above the tomb. Just across from her lies Queen Elizabeth and across there lies a lot of the great of the land who have gone to rest. I had not time to take notes and cannot remember it all but the impression I received will never leave me. We next visited Henry the First's Chapel, built by him. It has something to do with the Order of the Bath. You will know more about it than myself. We saw the tomb of Edward I, he was said to be seven feet high, and his sword, which weighs about 18 pounds, lies by his side. We saw the bodies of the two children who were killed in the tower of London and the body of their sister, a three days old baby. It was a sight to see. The conductor told us that the body of Edward I was taken up 150 years ago, over 400 years after it was buried, and it was found to be in a wonderful state of preservation. The most wonderful thing to my mind was the Coronation Chair where the kings have been crowned for many years back. The stone on which the chair rests is said to be over 1500 years old. It has been customary to have the chair decorated, but King George was crowned with no decorations on the chair not even a cushion. We saw the emblems and tokens of honor of many great men, Lord Roberts being the last one to be placed on the wall. I saw Gladstone's body carved so that it looks almost alive. Sir John Moore's tomb sent my mind back to the days of glory as I was led to think of him in my school boy days. I felt like crying when I gazed upon the face of Lord Nelson, he looked so young and pure, I do not remember whether or not I saw the tomb of King Edward, but you will know, I could not spend much time over the architecture of the great church.

On my way out I bought some photos which I am enclosing, which photos I would like for you to send to L.H. My mother was a subscriber to your paper while she lived, and I will be also should I live to return home, so that I hope you will do me the favor of sending the photos.

On leaving the Abbey I bought a paper and noticed that Sir Robert Borden was to be given the freedom of London at Guildhall Park down in the city. I hired a taxi, which made me poor and started for the place where our premier was to be honored. Hearing the piano a cab stopped the taxi and demanded a price, which thing I did not possess.

Dismissing car I had a talk with the Sergeant of Police, stating that I was from the premier's home and wanted to see him. He let me in, the only private soldier to see Sir Robert. receive his honors. To see the Lord Mayor of London drive up in his four horse rig, with out riders all rigged out to beat the band was a sight, but my eyes were out to see our premier, and when he entered my voice rang out so I am sure he must have heard 'Grand Pre forever!'

I was seated in the rear and could not hear the address given to him, but when Sir Robert gave his address I could hear it distinctly. He is a wonderful man and deserves all that is coming to him. After the proceedings had ended the crowd left in a drizzling rain. The policemen heard me cheering and allowed me to work my way near to the entrance. When they left the building I stood next to Asquith and Chamberlain and the Archbishop of Canterbury. It was a great time for me. As our Premier entered his auto I cheered again and went away happy.

With best wishes for the future for yourself and the home land, I am, Yours truly, ISAIAH WALLACE.

Canadian Crops.

1915, August 11, 1915.—The Census and Statistics Office issued today a bulletin giving a preliminary estimate of the yield of fall wheat, of hay and clover and of alfalfa, based upon appearances at the end of July as estimated by correspondents, and a report on the condition of other field crops at the same date.

FALL WHEAT, HAY AND CLOVER AND ALFALFA.

The preliminary estimate of the average yield per acre of fall wheat in Canada for 1915 is 28 1/2 bushels, as compared with 21 1/2 bushels last year and with 27 7/8 bushels, the average of the five years from 1910 to 1914. The harvested area of fall wheat in the five provinces of Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia amounts in 1915 to 1,268,700 acres, as compared with 973,300 acres in 1914 and the total estimated yield to 35,957,800 bushels, as compared with 20,837,000 bushels in 1914, an increase in total yield of 73 per cent. In area harvested, in average yield per acre, and in total yield, the fall wheat harvest of 1915 is therefore expected to be the largest on record in Ontario the total estimated yield is 27,480,000 bushels from 972,000 acres, an average of 27 7/8 bushels per acre and in Alberta the other large fall wheat province, the total yield is 6,225,000 bushels from 215,700 acres, an average of 28 1/2 bushels per acre. The estimated yield of hay and clover in 1915 is 10,589,800 tons from 7,875,000 acres, as compared with 9,265,000 tons from 7,997,000 acres in 1914, the average yield per acre being 1 3/4 tons, as compared with 1 1/4 tons in 1914.

ALFALFA SHOWS A TOTAL YIELD OF 128,755 TONS FROM 926,665 ACRES, AS COMPARED WITH 129,780 TONS FROM 90,355 ACRES IN 1914; THE AVERAGE YIELD PER ACRE IN 1915 IS 139.58 TONS AS COMPARED WITH 144 TONS IN 1914.

CONDITION OF PRINCIPAL CROPS.

Spring sown grain crops continue to show an excellent average condition, all being for Canada above 90 per cent of the standard representing a full crop. Beans, buckwheat and flax are 88 per cent of the standard, potatoes and turnips are above 90 and the remaining crops are as follows: Corn 82, maize 89, hay and clover 81, alfalfa 87, sugar beets 89 and pasture 89. Converted into a standard where 100 represents the average yield per acre of the seven years from 1908 to 1914, the condition of the principal grain crops at July 31, 1915, is as follows: Fall wheat 120, spring wheat 112, all wheat 113, rye and barley 111, oats 108, flax 107. That is to say, the yields per acre of these crops, according to their appearance on July 31, are expected to be above the average yields of the previous seven years to the extent of 20 per cent for fall wheat, 12 per cent for spring wheat, 13 per cent for all wheat, 11 per cent for rye and barley, 8 per cent for oats and 7 per cent for flax.

Summer Heat Hard on Baby.

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is all the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any one of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

About Machine Guns.

The Eastern Chronicle says: The push for presenting machine guns to the government has seen its best days. The Militia Department has no use for them. Orders have been issued for all that will be necessary and even all these can not be made in less than six months. The offers that have come into Ottawa of machine guns is considered in the light of embarrassing riches. For instance, this newspaper office might offer a machine gun, even though it could not buy one, knowing that it would not be called for. The government will supply all machine guns that the army regulations call for, so private people had better turn their attention and give their money to services that are relying for funds on patriotic impulses.

Drop in and see us when you come to the Provincial Exhibition at Halifax.

During the course of the year we receive thousands and thousands of letters and orders from our customers all over the Province. Hours and scores of them drop in and see us occasionally—and we are delighted to make their acquaintance. Hundreds of others make it a point of calling and seeing us when they are in the city taking in the Provincial Exhibition—and we are glad such an opportunity is thus afforded us to get together.

Are you planning to come to the Capital this year? If so don't return without calling and seeing us. You will find the 'Big Store' to be as whole-souled and democratic a store as you could wish to find.

Pretty Wedding.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Johnson on Wednesday evening, August the eleventh, at 8 o'clock, when their eldest daughter, Evelyn May, was united in marriage to Rev. Herbert Percy Everett, of St. John.

The bride, wearing a gown of white crepe de chene and veil and carrying a bouquet of white roses, was given away by her father. The bridesmaid, Miss Ada Johnson, sister of the bride, wore pale pink with hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink and malive sweet peas.

Your Duty, Boy!

To the Honor of THE ACADIAN. I wish to express the pleasure with which I read the letter of our young townsman, 'P. D.' and to commend the splendid, patriotic spirit displayed therein. In view of such an appeal to the young men of the town, I don't see how anyone who could go to fight for the defence of his country can feel comfortable to hold back and refuse to enlist in this time of great need. I have before me a list of nearly forty able bodied young men of our locality, without special family ties, who might be expected to offer themselves, so the hope of 'P. D.' for fifteen recruits from Wolfville was certainly not too much to expect. Of course there must be some private for all cannot go as officers. I wish that I were eligible to go myself, but am unfortunately unaccountably beyond the age limit, but I earnestly appeal to our young men to help their country at this time when the call is so urgent.
