ARCHIBALD SCOTT, Eq. SIR,-As the Agent of various Fire Insurance Companies, I beg to bring under your notice my PATEMT ARTIFICIAL SLATE. This PATENT ARTIFICIAL SLATE. This composition has been upwards of, three years exten-sively used in New Branswick, Newfoundhand and Prince Edward Island, the Canadas and Nova Scotia, principally for covering shingted roofs, as you will parceive by the accompanying circulars of certificates. It has been severely tested, and proved most success-fully its fire proof qualities under most extraordinary circumstances; so much so, that I am of opinion that Fire Insurance Companies should encourage its general application to all kinds of wood building (where the color would be no objection to its being used, such as the back walls of dwellings in the city, out houses, ware-houses, &c., as well as the coofs) by lowering the premium of insurande on such buildings as are covered.

1 have the honor to be, sir,, Your obedient servant, J. W. ROSS. Patentee and Manufacture

Sin, --In answer to your note of the 12th inst. I consider the use of your 'Artificial State Paint'' on shigled Roofs, as greatly diminishing the risk against Fire--I have frequently reduced the premiums on Buildings in the Country, upon its application, I am, sir, your ob't servant. HASZARD'SE GAZETTE

DR. THOMAS PICK. As I had not only long been familiar with Dr. Dick's works, but had had the pleasure of a correspondence with him for several years, it was my purpose to visit him, from the time that I had determined to go to Sectland. Accordingly, I went from num, from the time that E haddetermined to go to Scotland. Accordingly, I went from Edinburgh to Dundee by coach, and was there met by Dr. Dick's son-in-law, who had come, by request of the Doctor, to take me to Broughty Ferry, distant about four wiles. miles miles. Broughty Ferry is a small villiage, of very mean appearance, and I should sup-pose that its chief attraction lay in the fact that Dr. Dick resides there. His dwelling, however, was not immediately in the village, but about a quarter of a mile back of it, on a beautiful eminence, which overlooked Dundee and a large tract of the adjacent country. As we approached the house, Mr. M., his son-in-law, told me that the Doctor was upon the look-out for us, and he knew that we were on the way, for he perceived that his window was thrown up; and as we approached the house, he came running out with the activity of a boy, and gave me one of the most affectionate greetings I ever had from anybody. He immediately intro-duced me to Mrs. Dick, and she scarcely fell behind her husband in demonstration fell behind her husband in demonstrations of good will. She was the daughter of a celebrated clergyman, Dr. Young of Ha-wick. She had been married to Dr. Dick but five or six years, fbut had before been married to a Mr. Davidson, a famous lecturer on Chemistry, who, in consequence of some explosion that took place in connection with some chemical evapariment while be was lecturing in Leaexperiment, while he was lecturing in Ireland, was regarded as an astrologer, and had land, was regarded as an astrologer, and had measured out to him by the ignorance and superstition of the poor Irish, a pretty severe retribution. Mrs. Dick herself was much engaged in philosophical pursuits, and in her appearance was not unlike Maria Edgworth. She had, two or three years buttom attempted to litt structure which before, attempted to lift something which was an overmatch for her strength, and from that time had lost the use of one arm altogether. Doctor Dick's house was a small, neat building, and the grounds around were laid out and ornamented with exquisite taste. I found him in person rather below the middle size, though well proportioned, with a face and manner well becoming a "Christian philosopher." He had formerly been a philosopher. He had formerly been a settled minister in the United Secession Church, and had very considerable popu-larity as a preacher. He was subsequently for ten years the teacher of a school at Pesth; but from the time he came to Brough-ty Ferry, he had been engaged in nothing but making books and cultivating his grounds; though he occasionally delivered scientific lectures, and now and then preach-ed for a brother minister in the neighbourhood. I found his conversation marked by very much the same characteristics with his books. Though he seemed to be truly evangelical in his views, he dwelt more upon the philosophy of religon, and especially the connection of religion, with science, than upon those generally admitted truths which we are accus tomed to identify with the life and power of Christianity. His heart was -I doubt not in more senses than in h one—his telescope and observatory wit-nessed to his love of the visible heavens as truly as his Bible, and his closet could have

THE REPULSE OF THE IMPERIALISTS AT AMOY. SHANGHAE, JULY 10.—The payment of taxes is everywhere resisted, and at Shanghae it was expected by every one, both natives and foreign-ers, that the mandaring of Amoy would make an effort to recover their city, which they wanted the courage to defend when they had it, and from which they field in such terror that they could not find time to strike a single blow. Every effort was made to collect a respectable force for that purpose, and the whole coast of Forkein was visited by junks, with mandarins in them, in order to bring the hardy race of that province to the scene of action. According-ly' on the 28th May, an Imperial force, consist-ing of 14 war junks, was seen to approach the harbour of Amoy. As the day happened to be wet, with a continuous dribble and occasional heavy showers, and as these doughty warriors had failed to provide themselves with umbrellas against such an emergency, according to Chinese fushion.

heavy showers, and as these doughty warriors had failed to provide themselves with umbrellas against such an emergency, according to Chinese fashion, the fighting was put off until the weather should become agreeable and fine, and the junks came to an anchor in the outer har-bour. The following day (Sunday, 29th) being beautiful and bright, there was not the slight-est excuse for putting off the fight any longer, so the junks were heard to be all getting their great clumsy wooden anchors up preparatory to entering the harbour. They approached in fine style with numerous brilliant flags and pen-nants flying from their mastheads, gongs beat-ing, and firing off guns and crackers, which they did with the double object of stimulating and supporting their own fainting courage, and carrying terror into the hearts of the rebel possessors of the city. This effort at frighten-ing an enemy is slways a favourite plan with the Chinese, and held in great esti-mation by them, inasmuch as by this means they hope to get rid of the very unpleasant alternative of fighting. This warlike declara-tion and hubbub had, to a certain extent, the desired effect, for on the approach of the man-darin admiral, many of the insurgents, struck to the heart with the panic that this formidable approach created, took to their heels, and were to the heart with the panic that this formidable approach created, took to their heels, and were to be seen from the decks of the junks, sculling away in numerous boats from the scene of so imminent a danger as that which threatened them. The admiral came bravely on in his war-junks when he saw the excellent effects of his cure and by way of havine its fullest effects war-junks when he saw the excellent enects of this ruse, and by way of having its fullest effects, the goings were make to sound more loudly, the flags blew more merrily out, while crackers, musketry, and big guns all lent their influence to increase the confusion which was thought to prevade the whole rebel camp. This, however, was the cause of the mandarin's defeat. For they believed from the numbers they aw here. was the cause of the mandarin's defeat. For they believed from the numbers they saw hur-rying away that the panie was general, and landed with a small body of about 500 men to mount the hugo fragments of granitic rocks that are piled up like water-worn boulders all round the city of Amoy. They rushed down in a body from this matural fortification to attack the northern onto where they arracted no round the sity of Amoy. They rushed down in a body from this matural fortilostion to attack the northern gate, where they expected no resistance, for on their way they had been told that the usurpers were rushing out of the op-posite oue pell-mell, as they themselves had done a few days before; and that they had only to enter and take possession of their old quar-ters. Instead of the very easy conquest the Imperialists anticipated, they were met with a most detarmined resistance. The approach to the northern gate was by a narrow siging lane, leading into an open triangular space, based by that part of the city wall in which the gate was. The gate was by a narrow siging lane, leading into an open triangular space, based by that part of the city wall in which the gate was. The gate was by a narrow siging lane, leading into an open triangular space, based by that part of the wall, and both opening at right angles to each other, with a square chamber between them that was open above, and large crough to contain a respectable guard, with a piece of artillery to command each entrance. Before the assailants had time to form in any-thing like order, and as soon as the formass of them emerged from the lane, under the com-mind of a mandarin who were a blue batton and feather, and who distinguished thesing the bravery in leading his men to the attack, done to the invisible. I know not that he ever claimed the honour of any new astronomical discoveries; but he certainly deserved the honour of giving additional at-traction to the discoveries of others, and of rendering them eminently subservient to the interests of true religon. He seemed to me to possess, in a very uncommon degree, the spirit of an enlarged philanthropy; he con-sidered that knowledge was essentially diffusive—that no man or body of men have a right to appropriate it exclusively; but that it is a debt which every one owes to the common humanity, that he should extend the circle of useful knowledge as far as he can, taking care, at the same time, that diffusion is not at the expense of thorough-diffusion is not at the expense of thorough-ness and accuracy. Dr. Dick seemed to be quite rich in philosophical apparatus, and in the morning, after breakfast, he amused me by taking me upon his observatory, and setting me to look at various objects through both the telescope and the microscope. We walked for a while over his grounds, and then ascended a hill a little way off, from which he pointed out to me the dwelling of Thomas Erskine, the author of the work on Faith, &c., who was, just at that time, as I under stood, rather a conspicuous follower of stood, rather a conspicuous follower of Edward Irving. We also walked into the village, and on our way went to an ancient tower, now in ruins, the origin of which lies back beyond all tradition.

by the caprice of the winds. Wherever there is a settlement of a dozen people, you may look out for a newspaper. The first necessity of a new population is a newspa-per. It inverts sometimes the vulgar principle of political economy, which will insist that the demand produces the supply ; for that the demand produces the supply ; for it happens with newspapers every now and then that the supply produces the demand. The newspaper of a little colony often comes into existence before the readers ; some farinto existence before the readers, some far-sighted speculator being always in advance with an article of consumption which he knows well enough will become indispensa-ble by and by. Even New Zealand, while it was yet undergoing the early stages of an exeruciating experiment, had a newspa-per; and Hong Kong where the fatality of the climate might be supposed to deter any sensible man from risking more than a month's subscription, has its 'Gazette.' Indeed, we are not quite sure that a news-paper is not a sort of social instinct. Peo-ple get up newspapers where this is nobody paper is not a sort of social instinct. Peo-ple get up newspapers where this is nobody to read but themselves. Passengers on a long voyage who have no news to tell, ex-cept that which they get from each other and no body to tell it to whon they get it, frequently smuse themselves by playing at newspapers. This is more remarkable than the most out-of-the way birth of flowers. A harebell on a rock is not half so supprising as a newspaper on board ship.—Fraser's Magazine,

Magazine, SPIRIT-RAPPING .- Punch says he cannot profess to understand the mystery of spirit rapping; but he has seen several authenti-cated causes in which a devotion to spirits has caused many to be without a rap.

VARIETIES.

MUMMIES. Mr. Buckingham think the Catacombs of Egypt contain more hu-man bodies than there are people now living on the globe. These mummies are now wholly destitute of any animal matter. It has all changed into a resinous substance or decayed. They are taken from the catacomb to be exported, and to be used for fuel. The finest are exported whole as objects of curiosity for museums. Certain parts, as the inside of a head and chest, are sold as a drug, and the back bone is ground into a powder which is highly prized by artists.

HINTS TO FARMERS.

How TO CATCH & SHEEP .-- In catching sheep never catch them by the wool on the back, as it hurts them exceedingly, and has in some cases been known to kill them, particularly in hot weather, if they are large and fat. Indeed, the best way is to avoid the wool altogether, and to ac-custom yourself to take them by the hind leg, or what is better, by the neck, placing one hand under the jaws, and the other at the back of the ears, when by lifting up the head, a child may hold up almost any sheep. But much depends on how a flock is treated. Few people are sufficiently gentle with sheep. In Maryland, and south of it, sheep are rarely approached near enough to touch or catch them, except as farmers are themselves treated, in all countries, and alike by tyrants and demagogues, when they are to be sheared or slaughtered. By kind and gentle as-age, and occasional salting, a man may have his sheep so tame that he may play with them, as every man that has a heart will sometimes do with his dog. At any rate, the feeling and thoughful farmer will never suffer his sheep, or anything else under his guardianship, to be unne cessarily terrified or otherwise ill treated, -Wool Grower Lard never spoils in warm weather, if it is cooked enough in frying out. In feeding, with corn, sixty pound ground, goes as far as one hundred pounds the kernel.

Turnips of small size have double the nutritious matter that large ones have. Ruta Baga is the only root that in-

DEAR SIR-H is now eighteen years since I was first troubled with the water-brash and derangement of the stomach. I have taken ddvice of the best Phy-sicians in this city and New York, in London, Paris, Garanny, and Italy, followed their prescriptions, and visited the several sulphur and other springs in this country. (Mis-watering places of Germany, and else-whee' in Europe, and had found no relief. Since in-king the Bitters I have never had a return of the Water-brash, which daily troul-led use of late years to a very great degree. My appetite has retained; the astrone flatulence, severe constipation of the bowels, general debility, and sleepless nights under which I suffered, have entirely left me. Having found as great relief from this most discoursging dis-order. I have recommended a tail of your medicine to many of my friends, who are now using it to great advantage. And I cannot refrain from writing to you in its favour und praise, for the good you have be-stowed upon the community; and trut that what little is in my scope to offer in extending the circula-itom of your "Oxygenated Bitters," will be done with grateful pleasure at al times.
