WORKMEN OUT BUT TRAINS RUN

Attention Now on Maintenance of Way Men
York Central Promises ample Police Protection to Workmen—More Out if they Vote Show's Two-thirds or Three-Fourths favorable.

(Canadian Press)
July 3.—Railway strike in-ched centered over the week end walk out on Saturday of shopmen upon their strike 4000 today turned to developments upon the canvass at Detroit, the vote of 400,000 maintenance employees and action by shopmen. Two days of the strike workmen have failed, according to the sources, to produce a definite opinion on the part of the men out.

Grable, president of the Maintenance of Way Employees, who returned to Detroit after conferences here with officials of other unions, today apparently laid the key to the strike situation and upon him hopes for averting further walkouts largely were banked.

The New York Central advertisements, after calling for all classes of shopmen, added: "Board and sanitary housing will be furnished and ample police protection provided at all times." The U. S. Labor board directs that all men taking the place of strikers are to be considered as strike-breakers and would be protected in their positions and considered as doing a public good.

Officials and clerks also took places of strikers in the St. Louis district, where the Pennsylvania shippers had asked to be reinstated, fearing they would lose a city and maintenance, but the road could not be verified.

Hiring Men.
Boston, July 3.—Sunday train service in New England was not affected by yesterday's strike of shopmen, so railroad officials reported last night. The roads kept their employment offices open during the day and the New York, New Haven and Hartford said that about fifty men were hired to replace strikers.

Pittsburgh, July 3.—About 2,500 employees of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad shops at Glenwood, a suburb, answered the strike call yesterday. There was no disorder.

St. Thomas, Ont., July 3.—There was no strike on Saturday of the 1,500 shopmen employed in the United States railroads who have their divisions, shops and roundhouses in this city.

Man Cut To Pieces High In The Air By Airship Propellor

Louis James, Swinging from Rope Ladder, is Caught by Another Machine.

Trying Exhibition Stunt by Climbing from One Airship Into Another—Drops Dead Into Thick of a Staring Crowd.

(Canadian Press)
Chicago, July 3.—Swinging on a rope ladder dangling from an aeroplane 800 feet in the air, as he sought to thrill 5,000 pleasure seekers at Homewood, a Chicago suburb, Louis James, a nationally known aviator and a protégé of Ruth Law, was yesterday cut to pieces by the propeller of another plane and dropped into the midst of the crowd below.

The occasion was the second day of a much advertised aerial celebration under the auspices of the American Legion of Homewood.

The feature of the day, James, was to perform the stunt made famous by Lieut. Homer C. Locklear, that of climbing from one ship to another in mid-air.

When both ships were inspected, James climbed to the top wing of one and, lying flat upon its surface, grasped two struts and gave the signal to go ahead.

The planes rose and seemed to sheer together for a moment. James and the ladder were thrown squarely into the propeller of the lower ship, a heavy box of wood, turning at 1,600 revolutions to the minute.

The body of the man was seen to crumple as, a moment later, mangled and bleeding, his hands still clutching a bit of ladder bar, he dropped into the crowd below. James was dead long before his body hit the ground.

The two pilots, nerve shaken, made rough but successful landings.

Split Switch While Traveling at High Speed on Philadelphia and Reading Line—Piled Up in Mass at Bottom.

(Canadian Press Cable)
Atlantic City, N. J., July 3.—Splitting a switch at the Cape May cut out while traveling at high speed, Philadelphia and Reading express train No. 83, bound from Camden to Atlantic City, plunged forty feet down a steep embankment early today, and its engine and five coaches piled up at the bottom, a mass of wreckage. Estimates of the number of dead and injured vary. Nine are known to have been killed, and some reports say at least twenty persons had lost their lives.

The dead identified early are: Walter Wescott, engineer; Wm. Souder, fireman; Sol Worth of Mays Landing, N. J., a passenger. The injured list was variously placed between twenty and seventy-five.

The fact that the train was composed of solid steel coaches probably kept the death toll down.

Rescuers worked for several hours under the glare of searchlights removing the dead and injured from the wreckage. The scene had been plunged into darkness when the engine struck an electric light pole, clipping it off near the front of the train.

Rescuers worked for several hours under the glare of searchlights removing the dead and injured from the wreckage. The scene had been plunged into darkness when the engine struck an electric light pole, clipping it off near the front of the train.

At least six persons were killed and about twenty-five injured, half of them seriously. The majority of the injured were residents of Philadelphia, who were participating in a special Sunday excursion to Atlantic City. Among those from other points were:

Daniel Phelan, Norwood Hotel, Atlantic City; C. Nadle, Egg Harbor, Egg Harbor, N. J.; Rev. Vaughan Bossy, Egg Harbor; Randolph Walker, 1203 Mediterranean avenue, Atlantic City; Joseph Wolf, Atlantic City.

As Hiram Sees It

"Well, sir," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam to the Times reporter, "the 'Hannet' report, 'the Fut' o' July out to Renforth. We had a real nice time. Hannet she learn some o'p' 'winkles about leetle' 'sweaters an' pull-overs, an' me an' Peter Clinch set on a plan on the shore an' watched gals in pull-overs divin' an' swimmin' in the Kanne-bechus. They had best races, too—single scull an' four-oared an' canoe—an' when some of the fellows got out in the lake boats about a mile from the boat-house, they wanted to keep right on goin' over to that there Gal Guid's camp on Long Island—where you could see the tents on the shore. I did like them boat races—an' up in the pavilion they got a picture o' Renforth as he was singin' a song to think he was in paradise, sir."

Fighting Still But The Regulars Have Upper Hand

De Valera is Reported to Be With the Besieged Insurgents

Sackville Street Swept by Machine Gun Fire, But Irregulars' Return is Feasible—Today May See Completion of Operation by Free Staters.

(Canadian Press Cable)
Dublin, July 3.—The final assault on the position held by the Republicans in Sackville street was begun at nine o'clock this morning, and was still continuing nearly an hour later when this despatch was filed.

The other areas held by the insurgents in various parts of the city were occupied by the Free Staters during the night.

Heavy fighting was going on in Sackville street, which was swept by machine gun fire. The Free State forces were operating from O'Connell bridge to the Parnell Monument. The return of the insurgents was feasible.

The machine gunners were maintaining a devastating fire against the front of the buildings, particularly pressing the attack on Hamman's Hotel, where Eamonn De Valera was believed to be holding out following his flight from the Gresham Hotel. Despite the great danger from stray bullets, large crowds were watching the fight from a distance.

Several insurgents were surrounded in the streets of Mullingar by national army troops and placed under arrest. One of those captured was Brig-Gen. Maguire, commanding the first eastern division of the insurgents. The prisoners were conveyed to the military barracks.

BATTLE IN SACKVILLE STREET
Dublin, July 3.—Battle in the Sackville street area is raging at 1 p. m. The insurgents are responding vigorously to machine gun bombardment.

It is generally believed the task of clearing the Republicans out of the Sackville street area will prove extremely difficult and involve heavy property damage, particularly in view of the report that they are commanded by such "old hands" as De Valera, Cathal Brugha (Charles Burgess), Austin Traynor and Oscar Traynor.

Details of the operation of the national army, in the Free State force is now called, as revealed in the latest official communications, are regarded as pointing to impaired morale on the part of the insurgents, and to the rapid crumbling of their defenses when seriously attacked.

Yesterday's operations in most cases were carried out by the use of armored motor cars and intense machine gun fire. Apparently only in one case was artillery brought into action, and that was the attack on Hamman's Hotel in Talbot street.

The wiping out of this corner's best central telegraph office in Amiens street to the great northern railway station and central telegraph office in Amiens street nearby.

The capture of the Swan Hotel in York street proved a more difficult operation. In this engagement the Republicans displayed considerable resource, all managing to escape with the exception of three who were wounded.

The attack was made by an armored car and a small force of Free Staters quartered in an undertaker's establishment nearby. The fight lasted several hours.

The Republicans, who were strongly entrenched, had hung a horseshoe outside a window. They declared their luck would last as long as the horseshoe remained. Most of the defenders were mere boys, and their pluck and dardelivity won warm admiration from their imperilled non-combatant neighbors as well as from the attackers.

MANY SMASHES FOR FOUR BASES

Heavy Clouting Again in the Big Leagues.

Williams Still Leads With Twenty, But Ruth Gets Three and Brings His Total to Twelve—Gloucester Bay Horse Races—Late Sport News.

(Canadian Press)
New York, July 3.—Apparently spurred to greater exploits by a sudden spurt on the part of Babe Ruth, home run sluggers of both leagues fattened their totals in a week end that reverberated with circuit blows.

Ruth, in his real stride for the first time this season, hammered out his fourth homer in three games and his twelfth of the season yesterday, while the Yankees were taking their fourth straight from Philadelphia, 9 to 3.

But overshadowing even this Ruthian achievement, was the record of Tillie Walker, who cracked out a brace of homers, making his total four in the last two games and bringing his season's total to seventeen, only three behind Ken Williams, who led.

Ruth collected a homer in the first game of a double-header on Saturday at Philadelphia and two more in the second game, in which six were made off together.

Scintillating danger to his crown, Williams walloped out his twentieth four base drive yesterday, and helped the Browns take their fourth straight game from the Indians.

St. Louis and Brooklyn each gained a full game on the Giants in the National League race as a result of double victories over the Reds and the Red Sox, respectively, while the leaders were idle.

Hornby of the Cardinals failed to increase his home run total after having registered his eighteenth on Saturday. Wheat added Brooks' in the second game in his tenth circuit pop.

The Detroit Tigers recovered their batting eye and checked Chicago's winning streak of eight games, rounding the White Sox, 12 to 8. Walter Johnson's shutout streak, which had lasted for three games, was ended when the Athletics, 6 to 5, defeated the Senators 2 to 1. Attractant was in old time form and the Chicago Cubs easily defeated Pittsburgh, 8 to 1.

Gloucester Bay Races.
Sydney, N. S., July 3.—Tommy D. Dunholme and the Yankee were the winners in three classic races, at Gloucester Bay on Saturday afternoon. The Yankee, a green trotter owned by Spurgeon Gammon of New Glasgow, furnished one of the surprises of the meeting. Tommy D., driven by Ned Martin, C. N. R. conductor, won the $5 prize for the best looking trotter.

Cleveland, July 3.—The forty-ninth renewal of grand circuit harness horse racing will open at the North Randall track today and continue through five days, provided there is no postponement because of the weather, in which event racing will continue through Saturday. Horsemen say the programme indicates one of the greatest opening meetings in the history of the grand circuit. The Edwards, 2:08 pace, valued at $3,000, in which ten are entered, is the big event today. The track is in excellent condition and record breaking performances are predicted if the weather is favorable.

PREMIER, AFTER MUSQUASH VISIT, SPEAKS OF HYDRO

"I feel stronger than ever that what the people of St. John need to do is to go ahead with determination and with faith that the project will be of material benefit not only to the city but to the province in a plentiful supply of electrical energy for development in the community," said Premier Foster this morning, in speaking of his visit to the Musquash power development site on Saturday.

The premier said it was with a great deal of pleasure that he watched the operation of the three powerful units capable of delivering 10,000 horse power to the people of St. John and the Kennebec valley, just as soon as the opportunity presented itself for them to take it. He termed it a happy sensation to witness the realization of what was a few years ago but a mere plan.

A discussion of the hydro situation is expected to take place this evening at a meeting of the United Organizations, scheduled to take place in the Y. M. C. A. Mayor McEllan, Herbert Phillips and C. H. Peters, members of the city hydro commission, have been invited to attend, as well as Gordon Krebs, chief engineer.

IMPORTANT DYE DISCOVERY. During and since the war close and most successful attention has been given to the subject of dyes. A British company, in which the government is interested, developed a special line of dyes in connection with a very strong form of artificial silk, also produced by a British company. The manufacture of this silk had been impeded by the difficulty of dyeing it in fast shades; but that difficulty has now been overcome. The new dyes attach themselves to artificial silk, but have no effect on cotton; therefore a cloth in which cotton and artificial silk are mixed can have the silk dyed one color by the new dye and the cotton dyed another color by an ordinary dye. Further, it was found that the final color of the fabric as a whole could be modified by subsequent chemical treatment. Very good results are expected to follow from this development.

YOUTHS BREAK IN AND DO DAMAGE
Boys with a mania for destroying property have done a lot of damage at the Allison playgrounds, below the Exhibition building. They were not small boys but big fellows. Some time ago, they forced one of the outer doors of the pavilion, drove in the panels of the inside, and finally forced it open and got inside. The windows facing the veranda, and made up of very small panes of glass, were boarded up on the outside but the young house-breakers deliberately smashed nearly every pane in the long row from the inside. They did some further damage, scattering everything over the floor and trampling with dirty boots on some kindergarten material that had been stored in boxes. Outside they got on the roof and ripped off some planks.

WEDDINGS
Peters-Ebbett.

A wedding of interest to St. John people took place in New York on Tuesday, June 27, in the Madison avenue Presbyterian church, when Miss Beatrice Elyzabeth Ebbett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Ebbett, 800 Princess street, was united in marriage with Dr. Andrew Peters of Lunenburg, N. S., by Rev. W. R. Jelliffe, cousin of the groom. The bride wore a dress of navy blue silk with gray trimmings and gray hat. They were accompanied by the bride and groom left after the ceremony by boat, stopping at Boston and Portland. From Portland they came by train to St. John where they were met by the bride's parents. For their honeymoon trip they will continue to Montreal. The Thousand Islands and the Adirondacks, in which place they will spend two weeks before returning to Lunenburg.

Osborne-Myles
There was a very pretty wedding at half past five o'clock on Saturday morning in St. Peter's church, when Rev. George Coffin, C.S.S.R., united in marriage Miss Anne Myrtle Myles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Myles, and Miss Helen Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Osborne. The bride was charmingly attired in a travel suit of blue French tricot with hat to match and real scarf, and wore a carriage bouquet and roses. She was accompanied by Miss Mary McNamara, who wore a gown of Canton crepe with hat to match and carried a bouquet of cream roses. Hugh Hanson supported the groom. A dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, 565 Main street. Many silver and gold presents were received, including a set of Community silver from Dr. and Mrs. Ainsworth, with whom the bride was employed as a dental nurse. Mr. and Mrs. Osborne will reside in the city.

Dykeman-Hannah.
A pretty wedding took place at noon today in Zion Methodist church, when Rev. George Coffin, C.S.S.R., united in marriage Miss Helen Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hannah of 10 Canton street, to Percy Dykeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Dykeman, this city. The church was beautifully decorated with daisies and butternuts. Miss Wright presided at the organ and played "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly gowned in a white tulle and lace and she carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served at the home of the bride, which Mr. and Mrs. Dykeman left for a trip to Prince Edward Island. Going away, the bride wore a navy blue traveling dress with gray satin, with picture. Many of their friends were at the station, and they were liberally sprinkled with rice and confetti. On their return they will reside at 10 Canton street. The bride received a large number of beautiful gifts, including cut glass and silver.

IMPORTANT DYE DISCOVERY.
During and since the war close and most successful attention has been given to the subject of dyes. A British company, in which the government is interested, developed a special line of dyes in connection with a very strong form of artificial silk, also produced by a British company. The manufacture of this silk had been impeded by the difficulty of dyeing it in fast shades; but that difficulty has now been overcome. The new dyes attach themselves to artificial silk, but have no effect on cotton; therefore a cloth in which cotton and artificial silk are mixed can have the silk dyed one color by the new dye and the cotton dyed another color by an ordinary dye. Further, it was found that the final color of the fabric as a whole could be modified by subsequent chemical treatment. Very good results are expected to follow from this development.

EXPECT ARREST IN CITY HALL CASE TODAY

An arrest is expected this afternoon in connection with a city hall case involving the non-elective head of one of the city departments. It is understood that the information has been sworn out and all that remains is the issuing of a warrant and the apprehending of the person indicated.

Mayor McLellan when asked about the matter this morning said that the matter was in the hands of D. Mullin, K.C., who had been retained in the absence of the city solicitor, Dr. J. B. M. Baxter. Asked regarding rumors that the affairs of other people formerly in the city employ were to be the subject of investigation, the mayor said there was one case, the details of which he was looking into, and he said an enquiry might follow.

MOVEMENT IN ENGLAND FOR SUNDAY SPORT

London, June 14.—(A. P. by mail.) Many people are demanding that the London County Council allow the playing of cricket, tennis and other games in the parks on Sundays. The movement has the support of most of the newspapers, and not a few of the clergy. They say that if people go to church in the morning they ought to be allowed to play games in the afternoon.

"London spent yesterday out of doors," said the Daily Chronicle. "There was a perfect Sunday for games. Every private cricket ground, bowling green and tennis ground was occupied. The only grounds where tennis was forbidden were those controlled by the London County Council. While members of the council themselves play tennis on Sunday, they prohibit others from doing so in the public parks. Thousands of young men and women who would have played but for the county council kill-joy ban, dived out doing nothing."

"It is the same with cricket. The thousands of patches controlled by the county council are not allowed to be used on Sunday, and boys were standing about smoking cigarettes who would have been playing games but for the Saboteur's fetish. No games on Sunday. There is a growing storm of public anger at this prohibition of Sunday games."

"I shall certainly see the triumph of this movement for Sunday games," said a reformer who is behind the movement. "In England every Briton has the right to get drunk, if he wants to, between certain hours on Sunday. It is absurd to permit a man to get drunk on Sunday, but prohibit him from playing games in the public parks on Sunday. A man cannot get drunk while playing games. Therefore I am for games on Sunday if only in the interest of temperance."

New York, July 3.—(10:30)—Early dealings on the stock exchange today were light and irregular, reflecting the small attendance of members. Mexican Petroleum made an initial gain of 2-1/2 points, the greater part of which was cancelled in the next transaction. [The more acute situation in Central Europe precipitated further weakness in foreign exchanges with the German market at the new minimum of 28. Neen Report.]

New York, July 3.—The market lapsed into absolute stagnation soon after the opening. Sales during the first hour fell below 70,000 shares, the lowest of the year. Commission houses were deserted and public interest was altogether lacking. Some leaders of the industrial group were not quoted during the morning. The only popular issue to show activity and strength was Studebaker, which rose 1-1/2 points.

Lesson No. 41.

DETECTION CIRCUIT FOR THE VACUUM TUBE.

After the radio-frequency oscillations have been intercepted by the antenna and inductively or conductively impressed upon the secondary circuit, they are rectified by the vacuum tube so that a preponderance of current flows in one direction through the plate circuit.

In the accompanying diagram of a detection circuit the primary and secondary windings of the receiving transformer are represented by (L-1) and (L-2) respectively. (C-1) is the shunt secondary condenser, and (C-2) the grid condenser.

Vacuum Tube Detection Circuit

As the incoming oscillations are impressed upon the grid circuit, they tend to charge the grid alternately positive and negative. When the grid is positive, it attracts the electrons leaving the filament, and when it is negative, it repels them, with the result that the plate current is increased when the grid is positive and decreased when the grid is negative.

If a group of incoming radio-frequency oscillations is impressed upon the tube, the group is rectified by the valve action existing between the grid and the plate with the result that the grid condenser receives a uni-directional charge.

For the purpose of detection the potential relation existing between the grid and filament may be so adjusted that a small decrease in grid potential will result in a comparatively large increase in the plate current while an increase of the grid potential will cause a small decrease of the plate current.

When the grid condenser (C-2) is connected between the grid (G) and the secondary of the receiving transformer (L-2), it receives a uni-directional charge due to the rectification of the groups of radio-frequency oscillations. During the period of a group of oscillations the charge in the grid condenser increases and the plate current decreases. When the group of oscillations is completed, the charge in the grid condenser is dissipated through the grid leak (R) and the plate current returns to its normal value.

LESSON NO. 42.

ELECTRIC WAVE GENERATION.

The previous articles have outlined a few of the more important features connected with the generation and reception of radio-frequency oscillations. It is essential that the principles underlying the production of these high frequency oscillations and steps by which the oscillations progress in the resultant audible sounds should be explained in detail.

Electric waves may be divided into two classes, continuous or undamped waves of constant amplitude, and discontinuous or damped waves whose oscillations have decreasing amplitude. It is with the damped waves, emitted by a spark transmitter, that this article is concerned.

The following diagram will serve to illustrate the comparison between these two classes of high frequency oscillations.

Damped Wave Train

Continuous Wave Train

The wave-length may be expressed as the distance between two points of maximum energy while in the lower diagram it is shown as the distance between two points of minimum energy.

It has previously been stated that damped waves are generated by the periodic charge and discharge of a battery of condensers. In the closed oscillatory circuit of the spark transmitter the discharge of the condenser alternates back and forth across the spark gap and sets up high frequency or radio frequency oscillations.

MILLIONS MORE OF WOMEN THAN MEN IN WORLD
Berlin, June 12.—(A. P., by Mail.)—Man's minority on earth as compared to women, a fact even before the war, has been increased by that conflict until today it is estimated there are 25,000,000 more women than men in Europe alone. Official statistics published here show that the surplus of women in Europe has increased by 15,500,000. Before the war there were 1,038 women to every thousand men; now the proportion is 1,111 to 1,000. The rising surplus has been most marked in Russia, where the number of women has grown from 1,042 to 1,299 for every 1,000 men. This is on the basis of figures for fifty-two governments. The situation has also been notably changed in Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, Great Britain, Luxembourg, France and Italy. In Germany, exclusive of Upper Silesia, there are 1,100 women to every 1,000 men, whereas before the war there were about 1,026. On the contrary, the number of surplus women has decreased in Denmark, Norway, Sweden and the Netherlands. An outstanding feature of the situation is that girls of a marriageable age are in the minority of the surplus, most of those in the excess classification being of older years and many of them widows.

GIRL FINDS 16-GEM PIN; ASKS ADVICE, GETS $25
New York, July 3.—Miss Lydia Aherns, twenty years old, of 1,473 Second Avenue, went into Woolworth's store at Fifth Avenue and Fortieth street. On the floor she saw something that sparkled. She picked it up and found it was a breast pin containing eight large pearls and eight diamonds. She put the pin in her pocket and took it back to her work in a Fifth Avenue tailor shop, where she showed it to some of her friends. Mrs. Anna Biddle of 137 East Sixty-sixth street, went to Miss Aherns at her work and asked her if she had the pin. "Maybe I have and maybe I haven't," the girl answered, and Mrs. Biddle walked out. Miss Aherns went to the East Sixty-seventh street police station, showed the pin to Lieutenant McCullom, told him where she found it and asked him what she should do with it. The lieutenant sent for Mrs. Biddle, and after a conference with the two women he turned the pin over to her. Mrs. Biddle then took out a little envelope and gave it to Miss Aherns. It contained $25 in gold.

McCORMICK THREATENS LIBEL SUIT OVER GLAND
Declares Report That He Purchased One From Another Man Is Utterly Untrue.

Chicago, July 3.—Intention to sue for libel those newspapers which said he had purchased a gland from another man and grafted it into his body is announced by Harold F. McCormick in a statement to a Chicago Tribune representative.

While not relishing any of the publicity attendant upon his recent visit to the hospital, Mr. McCormick is considerably incensed at the reported stories that he had taken advantage of the unfortunate circumstances of a fellow man to deprive him of a vital organ. This is utterly untrue, according to Mr. McCormick. When the rumor first became current, Dr. Victor Leshpinsky, who attended Mr. McCormick in the hospital, issued a categorical denial. This denial was printed by some but not all of the newspapers which had printed the original story.

Other counts in the contemplated libel suit probably will include charges of telephone tapping, invasion of his sick-room, the surrounding of his house and trespass upon his property.

"Obviously, I do not want to make any money by the proposed suit," said Mr. McCormick, "but I know of no other way to protect myself from the persecution which I have been suffering in a matter entirely personal to myself."

SOLDIER PROBE

Inquiry by Canadian Commission About Charges re the Pension Board.

A weekly news letter from the G. W. V. A. News Service says that the decision of the House of Commons to broaden the scope of the royal commission which is to investigate the charges of the G. W. V. A. against the Board of Pension Commissioners, is regarded generally by Canadian ex-soldiers as the first instance in re-establishment measures since the conclusion of the war. The broadening of proposal advanced by members of all parties in the house and accepted by the government was to the effect that the commission be empowered to examine all matters of complaint, within reason, which ex-servicemen might have against existing legislation and methods of administration of such.

In all probability the commission, says the letter, will concentrate its efforts on the first instance to the Maxwell-MacNell charges, which will undoubtedly require a considerable number of sessions before the evidence is complete and a decision arrived at.

The veterans at present are particularly interested in the personnel of the proposed commission. The Winnipeg Branch, G. W. V. A., has requested the government to make at least one appointment of a man who had seen service in the ranks, and asked that this appointment be chosen from outside of Ottawa and, if feasible, that a Winnipeg man be selected. Other branches of the G. W. V. A. have wired or written asking that the appointment of the commission be considered entirely aside from the political aspect.

Domestic headquarters of the G. W. V. A. at the present moment is concentrating upon the collection of the evidence in support of the charges. With nearly 100,000 cases of war-pension claims on record, very little difficulty is anticipated in bringing forward an overwhelming amount of pertinent material.

No definite announcement has as yet been made as to when the personnel of the commission will be selected, or as to when its activities will commence.

ONLY SIX LEFT OF BELGIUM'S DOGS FAMED IN WAR

Ghent, Belgium, June 14.—(A. P. by mail).—Only six of Belgium's "War Heroes" remain. They are human heroes, but brilliantly intelligent and daring dogs which distinguished themselves for valor and fidelity on the field of battle. Originally there were sixteen but ten proved that even dogs can be martyrs. Three were killed in action at the front, three died of wounds, and two were poisoned by the Germans, one died of grief over the loss of his soldier-master, and one was mercifully put out of his misery when the enemy came to seize him.

The six survivors were proudly exhibited by their owners at the Palais des Fêtes recently. Some have gallant acts of war. They have saved children from drowning, stopped runaway horses, caught burglars, protected sheep and stood silent guard over their masters' lives and homes. Three of them have the Cross of War for heroism and devotion in the field.

CABLE TAKEN OVER

Halifax, N. S., July 3.—The Direct U. S. cable from Ballingskelligs, Ireland, to Harbor Grace, Nfld., and Halifax, was taken over here on Saturday by the Imperial cable from the Western Union Cable Company. The British government purchased the cable in November, 1920, for $60,000, but it remained under Western Union control by lease until Friday night. A section of the cable running from Halifax to Rye Beach, Mass., remains with the Western Union Cable Company.

The cable now taken over was laid in 1874. Its first Nova Scotian landing place was at Tor Bay, Guysboro county, but it was moved to Halifax in 1887. The Western Union Cable Company took control of it from the Direct United States Cable Company in 1912.

TO LEAD WORLD IS THE SUPREME DUTY

So Says Jas. M. Beck About Great Britain and United States.

The following is an extract from the speech of James M. Beck, U. S. solicitor-general at the Pilgrims' dinner in London.—

"I believe that the Great War was the sanest period in my lifetime because in the gigantic illumination of that tremendous catastrophe the peoples of the civilized world saw for the first time that they were on the verge of an abyss. The whole tendency of the industrial civilization for a century had been to crush the spirit of individualism and to substitute a form of mechanical civilization. In no nations more than Great Britain and the United States has the mechanical spirit been carried to a more intense degree. None appreciated more that the elimination of labor by labor-saving machinery marked the progress of humanity. Then, suddenly, in 1914, came a great awakening, and the saving remnant of civilization began to think that there was something more and higher in life than thermal dynamics, that there was a higher religion than acceleration or facilitation, that it was not enough to talk for three thousand miles over the telephone unless you had a message to give that was worth repeating. We had ceased to remember the eternal verities of life, had had begun grossly to over-value the temporary and trivial. We over-value the new and undervalue the old.

"The vice of our civilization is that it is quantitative and not qualitative. We create automatic efficiency and undervalue individual craftsmanship. How we overvalue play and undervalue work! What more crushing indictment can there be of the mechanical age than that to many millions of men work instead of being regarded as a noble privilege is regarded as a degrading servitude! We overvalue rights and undervalue duties. We greatly overvalue the state and undervalue the citizen. We overvalue the body and greatly undervalue the soul. It is the great duty which this country and the United States now owe to the rest of the world to restore the lost values of civilization and to lead the world."

Who Pays For Advertising?

THIS is a direct and reasonable question; and in the case of Daily Newspaper advertising, intelligently used, the answer is simple: Nobody. It pays its own way.

Nobody pays for the new carburetor that gives added mileage to your motor car. It pays for itself in the gasoline it saves.

Nobody pays for an improved cash system in a modern department store. It pays for itself in economy of human time.

Nobody pays for well planned and written Daily Newspaper advertising. It pays for itself by reducing the cost of sales and by increasing production. And it often receipts old bills for follies with advertising labels.

The advertisement in your own local Daily Newspaper tells you the best things to buy and where to buy them. Every new purchase helps the whole community to command cheaper and better goods.

FOR SLUGGISH, CONGESTED LIVER AND BILIOUSNESS

TRAINED NURSE ADVISES USE OF ALKALINE SALTS, AND TELLS WHY ORDINARY SALINES FAIL

By ALICE LANDLEE, Certified Nurse.

Contrary to common belief, such drastic purgatives as Epsom, Rochelle, or other "morning salts" and powders as generally used have practically no effect upon the liver. They produce a strong aperient action by passing straight through to the lower bowel almost immediately, and flushing out the impurities of the intestinal tract, thus storing up future trouble, as anyone knows who has tried them. When the saline water is not absorbed by the intestines, it is excreted by the stomach or intestines at all, it of course cannot reach the liver, and this accounts for so many of my patients saying ordinary salts proved worthless for their liver disorders. I do not advise the "pill habit" as a last resort, for, if a few small pills are powerful enough to affect the entire contents of the intestines, they must be strong enough to produce an exceedingly harmful reaction.

My invariable advice to chronic constipation sufferers is to drink two or three times during the day (not before breakfast) a tumbler of water in which has been dissolved a teaspoonful of Alkali Salts. Any chemist can supply this being an amount of the extreme rapidity with which it is absorbed. This water is pleasant to drink, has no salty taste, and you cannot drink too much of it. I have never noticed any but excellent after-effects, and results have always proved permanent.

again create the lofty ideals which form the foundation on which we have erected a superstructure.

"There is creeping through the minds of men like poison the idea that the Great War was futile; that there was no right or wrong about it; that it was the outcome of certain economic factors. In the names of those who gave their lives to uphold justice and liberty I denounce that as a hideous blasphemy and a monstrous libel on the memory of those martyrs for the right, who fell believing that they died for something more than the economic benefit of the nation. I believe that this temporary period of weakening will pass away, and men will see again that it is the supreme duty of Great Britain and the United States to lead the world in the new Pilgrims' Progress which will take mankind out of the Spout of Despond and lead them towards the Delectable Mountains of peace, justice and liberty.

PROHIBITION AND POVERTY

New York, July 3.—Prohibition has been a big factor in cutting down poverty in families, according to statistics just issued by the American Association for Organizing Family Social Work of New York and the Boston Family Welfare Society. In ten of seventeen cities listed, however, there were more families under care during the "dry year" than in the "wet" year.

Mrs. William F. Tilton, chairman of the Boston society, declares that figures in the survey which she conducted, prove that there has been a reduction of 85 per cent in cases where drink was a factor in the poverty of the families included.

"Such good results under partial enforcement," she continued, "are significant of what we may expect when the dry law is properly enforced. They are not just statistics, but they represent human beings made happier by the absence of intoxicants from their lives."

New York city, according to the figures has shown a reduction of 64 per cent, the years used being 1917 and 1921. Rochester's reduction is 91 per cent; Newburgh's 98, St. Louis' 94, Chicago's 86, Boston's 91, Pawtucket's 100, Atlantic City's 82, Newport's 68, Portland's 85, Cleveland's 84, La Crosse, Wis., 91; Portland, Ore., 40 per cent increase; Hartford, Conn., 38; Washington, D. C., 75, and Providence, R. I., 95.

Our portrait is of Mr. MICHAEL T. ROONEY, of 25, Granville Avenue, Long Eaton, England, who writes:—

"Some years ago whilst touring Ireland with 'Shanley's Boys', I contracted some kind of an irritable skin complaint, which seemed to battle different treatments in the way of ointments and lotions, all of which utterly failed to give me the slightest relief. Recently I read in the 'Lancet' of a cure by Dr. Clarke's Blood Mixture, but I refused. However, he, knowing his curative power from experience, made me a present of a bottle, which I began to take. Remarkable improvement in my health, I got another bottle, and continued the treatment until I had used four bottles, and now my skin is perfectly healthy again."

Sufferers from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Bells, Pimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, Gout, should realize that lotions and ointments can but give temporary relief—to be sure of complete and lasting benefit, the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter, the first cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes, and expels the impurities, that is why so many remarkable recoveries stand to its credit. Pleasant to take, and free from intoxicating ingredients.

R BETTER ATTENDANCE

Every Child Should be in School Up to Grade Eight,

N. Marks Mills Says, and Most Should Go Through Grade Eleven—There Should be No Option for Trustees—Notable Paper.

Following is the paper read at the New Brunswick Teachers' Institute by N. Marks Mills, LL.B., of St. Stephen, on the subject of strengthening the compulsory school attendance law.

Mr. Mills is chairman of St. Stephen school board and a member of the Parents' Association. He said—

The Compulsory School Law of the province of New Brunswick is found in an Act of the Legislative Assembly of the year 1906, chapter 18, and is entitled "An Act providing for compulsory attendance at school."

This Act has been twice amended, first by chapter 34 of the Acts of 1908, and second by chapter 34 of the Acts of 1911. The amendments passed in 1908 only applied to the cities of St. John and Fredericton and the towns of Chatham and Newcastle.

Before discussing the law of this province governing attendance at school, I am going to make a few general remarks on this subject, after which I will endeavor to discuss the existing law.

In the first place I do not like the word "compulsion" or "compulsory," and I think that every child in this province should have the right to receive an education; it is equally the right of the state to require that each child accept the means of education provided. I think this can be accomplished, however, without heading the Act with the words "you must" and "you shall not."

This may be only a pedantic quibble, but I know nothing from book study, but of which I have heard something from the practice of my profession.

In connection with the point in question, I notice that the Saskatchewan Act is entitled "The School Attendance Act," the Manitoba Act is entitled "An Act Respecting School Attendance," the Alberta Act is entitled "The School Attendance Act," in Ontario there are two Acts, one entitled "School Attendance Act, 1918," the other "Adolescent School Attendance Act, 1919"; in Nova Scotia "compulsory attendance" are the words used under part 2 of the Education Act; in the State of New Hampshire school attendance is provided for by general law relating to schools, in Massachusetts the provisions relating to attendance are found in the Education Act. All of these Acts require, or that the child shall accept the education for which the province or state is bound to provide.

The compulsion is there, but it is not the right to insist that every child shall accept the education provided. While this may invade the rights of the individual to a certain extent, and you know that we belong to a race which for generations has always jealously guarded the rights of the individual, yet public opinion today accepts this limited invasion of the parent's right to control his or her child.

On the other hand, the parent has the right to require, and does require, that the course of study in our schools shall be adequate for this day and generation, that the buildings in which the child is to be taught shall be well heated, well lighted, well ventilated, and sanitary in every way. When all these things are provided for, then the state, and only then, has the right to require the child to accept what is provided in the way of education.

The question raised in the last paragraph makes it difficult to discuss "Strengthening the Compulsory School Law," having in mind the application of the law to the whole province. I am not prepared to state that the educational authorities and the boards of school trustees of this province has provided all or nearly all that a parent has the right to expect on behalf of his child in the way of education, the method in which it shall be imparted, and the place where the child shall receive it.

However, we have had an Act relating to "Compulsory Attendance at School" on the statute books of this province since 1906. It has not been universally adopted by cities or towns or by the school districts. The adoption of the act is optional with the council in cities or towns, and in school districts with the qualified voters at the annual school meeting. Only a few have adopted it. In reply to an enquiry on this question I have received the following letter from Chief Supt. Carter:

The Chief Superintendent of Education, Fredericton, N. B., June 28, 1922. N. Marks Mills, Esq., K. C., St. Stephen, N. B.

Dear Sir,—Replying to your inquiry of June 22nd, I may say we have no means of knowing the number of districts that have passed the compulsory clause. They do not report.

I think it is safe to say that most country districts have passed the clause, and it is equally safe to say that a few, if any, of them have enforced it. When it has once been passed by the school meeting it is always in force in the province employing a truant officer—St. John and Moncton. Fredericton has a partial enforcement.

Yours faithfully, W. S. CARTER, Chief Superintendent.

There are no doubt many reasons for this, but time will not permit of my discussing them here. The cost of enforcing the act is no doubt the reason which would be given in many of the school districts, and in some of the work in order to maintain himself or some person dependent upon him. Should Be Uniform.

In any event the attendance as to years or extent of education should be uniform all over the province. Under Section seven of the act, the expression "child" means any boy or girl between the ages of six and sixteen years, living in the city or town. In 1908 the act was amended in so far as it related to the cities of St. John and Fredericton and the towns of Chatham and Newcastle so that the expression "child" means any boy or girl between the ages of six and fourteen. While I believe this was a step in the wrong direction, by the same act of 1908, the cities and towns just mentioned took another step in the right direction, as another section provided that all children between six and fourteen should attend school during all the days that the public schools are in session, instead of one hundred and twenty days as provided for in the original act.

If the purpose of the act of 1906 is to compel every child in this province to receive an education, then it should not be a question of age, but of the amount of education is required for the public good, and I believe a sufficient standard will not be reached in any case until the child has passed the examinations at grade eight and in all cases unless the necessity before referred to prevents, the child should continue to the end of grade eleven.

In all the Acts which I have examined however, relating to school attendance, the length of attendance appears to be fixed by the age of the child. In Saskatchewan it is over seven and under fourteen; in Alberta it is over seven and under fifteen; in Nova Scotia it is over six and under sixteen; in the State of New Hampshire, over eight and under sixteen; in the State of Maine, towns may make by-laws concerning children between six and seventeen years of age not attending school, while the general school law of the state requires attendance between the ages of seven and fifteen and the child between fifteen and seventeen who cannot read at sight and write legible simple sentences in the English language shall attend some public day school during the term such school is in session, and in the State of Massachusetts between the ages of seven and fourteen. In New Brunswick, of all the provinces and states mentioned is the only one where the bringing in force of the compulsory attendance act is wholly optional with the local community. In Nova Scotia it is optional only outside of the cities and towns. While all the provinces and states mentioned treat the matter on the basis of the age of the child, yet in each act there is a reference to a certain standard of education, and I believe that as years go by this standard will be raised in every province of Canada.

In Ontario the age of attendance is between seven and fourteen years and Ontario has also passed an act cited as "The Adolescent School Attendance Act," passed in 1919, Section 9 of which applies to children between fourteen and sixteen and which only came into force on September 1, 1921, Section 7 of which applies to adolescents between sixteen and eighteen years and requires attendance at part-time courses for a certain aggregate of hours and which will only come into force and take effect on September 1, 1922; and Section 9 of the act which comes into force after September 1, 1922, requires all cities or towns or school districts to provide for part-time courses for adolescents between the ages of fourteen and eighteen years, and permits other school sections to do so. In Ontario the act is in so far as it relates to children between seven and sixteen, is not optional.

N. B. Act Criticized.

I repeat again that the optional feature of the New Brunswick act is one of its weaknesses and what is even worse, if the act is adopted by council of a city or town one year, it may be repealed by a two-thirds vote of the council at any time.

Section 14 of the New Brunswick act provides that if a child does not attend school for one hundred and twenty days, the board of school trustees shall notify the parent or guardian that they are liable to prosecution under the act unless they satisfy the board that there was a good reason for the failure of such child to attend for the full period prescribed; and Section 15 is along somewhat the same lines. Anyone who is or has been a member of a school board will realize what a beautiful time the members of a school board would have in a small town acting under Sections 14 and 15. These sections are another attempt to straddle the fence. Such clauses as "good reasons for the failure to attend," should be removed from the act, and definite exceptions from attendance should be definitely stated. Section 19 provides the exceptions under this act and if they are proper ones, then Section 14 is not needed at all and only provide an excuse for a parent or guardian to worry a school board. I believe that Section 19, however, is too general and more definite exceptions should be stated.

If the act was in force all over the province, then I believe it should be amended to provide for the appointment by the government of a provincial school attendance officer, and I further believe that the school attendance officers in each city, town or school district should be appointed by the respective boards of school trustees, and that no police officer should have anything to do with the enforcement of the act.

Generally speaking the act seems to be loosely drafted. It mentions a truant officer, and only by inference is the board of trustees or the city or town council authorized to appoint officers.

To sum up briefly my rambling remarks, I think that any law relating to school attendance should be part of the general school act of the province, that there should not be any local option as provided by the present act; that the government should make the law and enforce it; that the law should provide that every child should commence attendance at school at six years of age and continue attending school until he or she has passed the Grade 8 examinations, and that attendance should be continued until the 11th Grade is finished, with a certain few definite exceptions to the latter provision; that all exceptions from attendance should be clearly and definitely defined by the act and as little left to the decision of a sympathetic board of school trustees as possible; that an examination of the acts of the western provinces relating to the question, particularly the acts of Alberta and Saskatchewan would be beneficial in drafting a new act for this province, and that the sooner this is done the better.

FROM INFANCY TO LIFE'S SUNSET TANLAC BRINGS HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Nature's Blessings Are Open to All, and It seems Inexcusable for Anyone to Remain a Miserable Weakling When This Great Medicine Is Restoring Vim, Vigor and Abundant Vital Energy to Hundreds All Around Them Every Day.

The foundation of health is laid during the early years of life.

From the tiny toddler with foot hesitantly placed upon the bottom-most step, to the venerable grandfather at the top of Life's stairway, Tanlac is praised by all for the vim, vigor and abundant vital energy with which it blesses each step.

The earlier in life that one begins the use of Tanlac, the better equipped will that person be to cope with the vicissitudes of this existence. By preparing the digestive system of the youngster Tanlac smooths the path and insures health and strength through all the years ahead. We cannot forget that the foundation for good health in our advanced years is laid during the early years of life.

How sad it is to see men and women by the thousands going through life with less than half of the vigorous health, strength and capacity for enjoyment that is their birthright. And how much sadder it is to know that all their sufferings and lack of happiness are due to their own failure to take advantage of Nature's gifts. One looks out, faint, weak, and weary, and wonders why. Are you healthy as you should be? Have you the vim, vigor and abundant vital energy that you need? Do you feel that you are coming to the end of your path? Do you feel that you are being worn out by the vicissitudes of this existence? Do you feel that you are being worn out by the vicissitudes of this existence? Do you feel that you are being worn out by the vicissitudes of this existence?

vented by more attractive conditions in the country. Miss Melickjohn, R. N., of the department of health, spoke on "Prevention." The teaching of French was advocated by Miss Etta J. Lesier. Another speaker was W. M. Morris, of Toronto.

Resolutions were passed expressing thanks to the trustees, for the use of the building, to those who prepared papers, and addresses, to the high school orchestra, to the press, regretting the death of Sir George R. Parkin, to Dr. W. S. Carter for presiding at the meeting, and to His Lordship the use of St. Vincent the public meeting were adopted unanimously.

Are your needs best filled by this Coupe?

THERE is often a question as to whether a Sedan or a Coupe is best suited to one's personal needs.

If you want a car for the whole family you will not hesitate to choose the Sedan.

If, on the other hand, you drive mostly with but one or two companions, there is an intimacy about the Coupe that makes it a delightful car to own.

But it is sometimes convenient to have capacity for a fourth passenger.

For these occasions, the Durant Coupe has an extra seat with back rest, which folds out of the way when not in use.

A Coupe is used a lot for shopping, the theatre, driving to the club and visiting.

The Durant Coupe therefore has a convenient package compartment back of the driver's seat, a large rear compartment, long enough for golf clubs, and the door-locks permit you to leave packages in the car with as much security as in your own home.

to spreading "slanders" about himself. Truth did not say whether it guaranteed the news agencies against possible imposts, but at any rate Bottomley's efforts to stop the sale and distribution of Truth failed. It is quite possible, however, that if he had been more generous toward some of the subordinate crooks who he employed in connection with his frauds, he would still be at large.

It has long been the opinion of Saturday Night that editors of such journals as John Bull should be given penal servitude for life on general principles. The lying journalistic demagogue who habitually poisons the wells of public intelligence is the foulest menace that democracy has to contend with. Even at a thousand miles distance it was obvious to trained journalists who chanced to see John Bull that it was a black-mailing sheet. Truth touches briefly on this point, and shows that Bottomley's method as an editor was to solicit other words to offer them immunity from attack by him at a fixed price. He also accepted fees to "boost" crooked usurers and bookmakers. Wherever he had his pen as the staunchest Englishman of them all. But blackmailing journalism was but a small part of his activities. His adventures in the law courts in connection with shady finance began in 1892 and during the last thirty years, according to Truth, he has been associated with nearly fifty company promotions, not one of which was clean, and the majority bubble companies of the very worst type.

"That such a man should have attained so great a hold on the British public by creating a legend of intense super-patriotism with regard to himself that he was able to perpetrate the colossal frauds for which he was finally laid by the heels, insistence on this virtue of his, casts ridicule on the sentiment of patriotism.

Those who have any illusions as to Bottomley's character may be referred to the issues of London Truth of May 31 and June 6, where the facts about Bottomley are stated clearly and fully. His indictment and conviction is another of the great services that Truth has rendered the people of Great Britain during its long career. Since 1918 Truth has been the great revealer of another of the ventilating facts about Bottomley's Victory Bond clubs, as the details came to them; and in the early part of 1921 the damning nature of the evidence it presented almost weekly would have been sufficient to justify his arrest.

Bottomley at first tried banter and cajolery in the form of private communications; but the revelations and changed his tactics by launching a series of articles against Truth and its editors. So courageous is that journal that it did not flinch. Then Bottomley tried another plan of campaign. He endeavored to bulldoze W. H. Smith & Sons and other large distributing agencies into refusing to circulate Truth by threat-

ing them, by a legal action as justice

that he could be elected time after time to the House of Commons, and contented an enormous figure for flamboyant speeches and gludgy articles, does not reflect much credit on the intelligence of the "man on the street" of whom he professed to be—and frequently was—the authentic spokesman. The British House of Commons is one of the most justly honored bodies on earth, and it has never been without a few impudent and shady rascals who would have small chance of election to public office on this continent. Readers of Our Mutual Friend and other novels by Dickens must be aware that this state of affairs is no product of modern laxity, but of an old tradition.

But it is probable that the house never harbored a more impudent and transparent rascal than Bottomley. The cynicism with which popular journalism is conducted on all sides is evidenced not only by the fact that Bottomley was able to secure eminent financiers, a Canadian among them, as his backers on John Bull, but in the fees he received from Lord Rothmere, brother of Lord Northcliffe, for "religious" articles in the Sunday Pictorial. His remuneration said to have been upwards of $1,200 were written by collaborators and Bottomley would express his appreciation of a particularly juicy bit of exhortation with the words: "That's the stuff to give me."

Bottomley was a cold-blooded croak who enjoyed being dishonest; his capacity for spending equalled his greed. Characteristically enough, he was rooted on all sides by the gamblers who were his favorite associates. Undoubtedly he had a personality which impressed itself tremendously on the primitive minds of the mob, and he certainly claimed high rewards for his much advertised "patriotism."

THE HOLIDAY AT RENFORTH

Good Water Sports Were Enjoyed by Large Numbers—Dance in Evening.

A large number of people, including the residents of Renforth and their visitors, enjoyed themselves on the holiday at the water sports held in front of the Renforth Athletic and Outing Association clubhouse.

A single scull event was easily won by Pierce Peterson, who came in several lengths in front of his nearest opponent.

Special arrangements had to be made to regard to the floats for starting the boat races.

How the users do appreciate these new and better matches.

How pleased they are to have at last such thoroughly dependable matches—matches that always light the first time; that don't break nor glow; and the heads don't fly off.

The Longer Stick keeps the flame away from the fingers; this means a lot to the smoker and to the woman who does her own cooking.

CASTS DOUBT ON PICTURE OF BRANT

Romney's Indian Chief Questioned by Mrs. O'Beirne, of Lundy's Lane.

Toronto, June 27.—Newspapers here are giving considerable prominence to an interview by Mrs. Iran O'Beirne, of Lundy's Lane, Ont., in which she claims that Romney's famous portrait of the Indian chief, Joseph Brant, "is no more a true picture of the man than it is of you or me."

Certain meagre entries in Romney's diary on March 29 and April 4, 1776, have been generally regarded as convincing evidence that Brant was one of the army's subjects and a loyal part of his lifetime.

The officials of the dinghy race were: starter, Commodore Walter E. Logan, R. K. Y. C. J. judges, H. Heans, George R. K. Y. C. J. judges, I. Murray.

The power boat race officials were: starter and referee, Commodore Barton; timer, A. I. Machum; judges, John Kierlin, George Palmer and George Rogers.

CLOSING OF MINES BLOW TO CHURCH OF ENGLAND WORK IN SOUTH AFRICA

MAURICE TOURNEUR presents THE LAST OF THE MOHICANS

WHEN WOLFE WAS FIGHTING MONTCALM for the possession of this New World Indian tribes played an important part in the fortunes of war. This tale deals with startling incidents in the career of the daughters of an English general who was trapped by a false Indian guide. A friendly young chieftain, however, protects the girls as a weird sort of lover. The narrative abounds in tender scenes mingled with the din of strife and subtleties of the savages.

It is a stupendous picture and highly artistic, not of the usual modern Indian story type at all. It shows much light upon the inside phases of North American life when our nation was in its infancy.

STANDARDS FOR WOLFE MONUMENT
The action of the Toronto District and York County Command, G. W. V. A. and Ladies' Auxiliary, in preparing and taking to England two standards to be placed on Wolfe's Monument in Westminster Abbey in perpetuation of the idea popularized during the war by the innumerable fighting battalion flags deposited there, has touched a responsive cord among ex-service men of Canada generally.

There were very few men serving in the G. W. V. who did not make a special effort to see Canada's corner of the spiritual home of the Empire, during the progress of the conflict. They felt that the tomb of Canada's first great military leader of British birth, thus adorned was an inseparable link binding the Dominion to the Empire. When it became necessary for the various units to remove their colors, citizens of both the Old Country and the Dominion alike looked upon it somewhat in the light of calamity. Bishop Ryle, Dean of Westminster Abbey, voiced this feeling some two years ago when he expressed the earnest hope that the Dominion would furnish colors to adorn the monument for posterity. To the Toronto District and York County Command, G. W. V. A. and its Ladies' Auxiliary, is extended the unstinted commendation of Canadian ex-service men in re-establishing this great symbol of national unity.

JAPAN'S OWN "YELLOW MENACE"
Japan has a "Yellow Menace" as well as California and other Pacific states. During and after the war boom, Japanese employers imported coolies and operatives from Korea and China to work in their textile mills, mines and smelters. Now the native Japanese workers consider the presence of their alien labor a grievance and their attitude toward these invaders is the same as the attitude of the Japanese. Because of the California question the Japanese find it difficult to handle this matter, as the cases are considered identical.

 Word received from Mr. and Mrs. F. G. The operation was successful and he is recovering from its effects.

FOR NEW SCHOOL.
 Nineteen tenders have been received for work in connection with the building of a new school in the west side, and they are now in the hands of the school trustees to be opened at a meeting some time this week. The larger number of these are from contracting firms in the city. Some are for various parts of the work, as the plumbing, heating, masonry and other branches of the work.

BRING DEMPSEY HERE.
 R. K. Knighton of Montreal, representing W. T. Duggan of the Mount Royal Arena, is in the city in connection with a project to bring Jack Dempsey, Frankie Fielding and other prominent boxers here for a ring exhibition during the present month. This morning he called upon the mayor and members of the boxing commission. The mayor authorized the commission to take what action they considered advisable.

THE EMPLOYMENT OFFICE.
 W. J. Ryan, manager of the federal employment service, announced this morning that he hoped to get the local branch opened by next Monday. He said that some stock in the rooms in the Kennedy building, which had been rented by the bureau, would be moved this week and in the meantime the rooms used in the former bureau would be brought from Fredericton.

CAPTAIN JAMES A. McBETH.
 Many friends in the city and along the river will regret to hear of the death of Captain James A. McBeth, which occurred this morning at three o'clock at his residence, 42 McKeown street, after a lingering illness. He was born in this city sixty-six years ago, and since the age of seventeen had been well known as a pilot and captain on the St. John river, retiring only last year. For many years he resided at Westfield, but moved to St. John about two years ago. He was a member of the Canadian Foresters. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Frank H. Ryan, of Brookline, Mass.

The secretary has received a full supply of the recent judgment of the Board of Railway Commissioners re railway freight rates, and any person interested can have access to it at the Board of Trade office.

PARIS TRIAL TOMORROW.
 It is expected that John Paris, whose fourth trial on the charge of murdering Little Sadie McAuley will commence tomorrow, will again be represented by G. H. Vernon, K. C. of Toronto, while Attorney-General J. P. Byrne, K. C. and Dr. W. B. Wallace, K. C., will appear for the crown. A warning to the jury on the part has been issued and it is expected that those who do not attend for the opening of the case tomorrow will be dealt with more stringently than former offenders have been. The maximum fine for refusing to attend when summoned for jury duty is $10 a day, and this is calculated to be stiff enough to bring the recalcitrant to terms.

TRAFFIC CASE.
 In the police court this morning Wilford Campbell was charged with exceeding the speed limit at the Mill street crossing on June 27. The report was made by Policeman McNamee. Mr. Campbell said there must have been some mistake as he had not gone down Mill street on that day, but had come out Pond street and turned into Mill. The magistrate said there seemed to be considerable difference of opinion and he thought there must be some mistake, but he would look into the matter and bring it up later. He said that traffic policemen had a very difficult duty to perform and paid a tribute to the efficient manner in which they carried out their work.

COMMENDED FOR SENDING IN CALL NOT NECESSARY

A man who sends in a false alarm of fire is usually branded as a fool or a male, but there was an unknown chap who sent in an unnecessary call for the pumotor on Friday, but who is receiving a certain amount of commendation for his action.

The call came in from the Long Wharf to No. 3 station and Dr. L. A. Langstroth accompanied the pumotor to the scene of the supposed drowning accident. When he arrived there the only evidence of a fatality that could be found was a crowd of people watching the operations of a seaplane. It is presumed that the man who sent in the alarm came to the conclusion, when he saw the crowd, that somebody had fallen overboard.

Dr. Langstroth said afterwards that, while the run was unnecessary, he could not but praise the action of the person who sent in the call. Too often, he commented, people wait until the victim of a drowning accident has been taken from the water before giving the alarm, with the result that the services of the pumotor are unnecessary. He said that the apparatus should be called for as soon as possible after an accident has happened, so that it can be on hand when it will be of some use.

SPORTS AND A MINSTREL SHOW

A Good Time at the Narrows on Holiday—St. John Entertainers.
 More than 1,500 people attended Dominion Day sports conducted by the Cambridge Outing Association at the Narrows. The sports consisted of foot races, tug-of-war and water sports, and wound up in the evening with a grand minstrel show put on by the Thorne Lodge Troupe and the McEachern male quartet, with E. N. Stockford interlocutor. The sports were held in front of the Hotel Narrows, at Cambridge, and the show was presented on the spacious veranda of the hotel, which is conducted by F. D. Brogan, formerly of St. John. Automobiles were ranged so that their lights shone on the veranda in place of footlights and about 800 people remained through the evening to take sufficient account of the minstrels.

In a tug-of-war, Cambridge won from Jensen and Cody's defeated Cambridge. The prizes were presented by Dr. Walter. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Frank Hamm, James Bond, Dr. Walter, William McDonald, and Stephen Wilson, while Messrs. Hamm and Bond also materially assisted those putting on the minstrel show.

The McEachern Male Quartette sang several selections at service in the Narrows Baptist church on Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Patterson was the preacher. All the party returned to the city on Sunday afternoon in automobiles.

OPENING OF THE PLAYGROUNDS

Many happy kiddies were admitted this morning to the city's free playgrounds, where they will spend much of their time during the ten-week holiday from school. Six playgrounds opened their gates this morning for the first time this summer, and the staffs of a teacher, an assistant and a caretaker for each were present to take up their work. It was expected that considerable time today would be spent in getting the grounds into shape for use, as the grass in some was found to be badly out of condition, due to lying untouched through the long autumn, winter and spring months. The work of opening the various grounds was under the supervision of Miss Heffer, superintendent of playgrounds for the city, who spent the whole day in visits to all the grounds to see that things were being got into order and to lend a helping hand where necessary.

HAD HARD TIME

A week-end pleasure trip almost turned into a drowning accident was the experience of a party of city people on the variable Kennebecasis river yesterday afternoon. Speaking to a Times man this morning, one of the party, a business man of the city, said that he and another gentleman and his wife were on the river for the week-end. Yesterday afternoon the three, accompanied by a dog, started from Sandy Point in a row boat, on a river smooth as glass. But, when they were out as far as Long Island, the wind suddenly came up with great force and the waves broke over the bow of the boat until it was almost full of water. The male members of the party, wet through, rowed their hardest and tried to make a landing on the island, but found it impossible owing to the rocky nature of the shore. So they lay on the river for an hour, and it was only by the hardest of bailing that the unwieldy boat was kept afloat. About three hours after starting out, the party were able to make their way back to Sandy Point. The gentlemen of the morning expressed his sentiments as follows: "It was the narrowest squeak I ever had, and I'll gamble that I won't have another for some time." The hurricane came up just about the time that the earthquake shock was felt on land.
