Investment News

Halifax, August 28th, 1913.

While You Save.

The advantages of the Partial Payment Plan to the man with a small "nest egg" are so obvious that they hardly require explanation.

He need only make an initial deposit of $20 to purchase one share of stock (par value $100, or one bond (denomination $100); $40 will purchase two shares or bonds; $60 will purchase three; $80 will purchase four; $100 will purchase three—and so on, according to the size of the "neet egg." The balance is payable in nine monthly instalments, each one-half of the initial deposit.

Thus the convenient terms of the plan conform to his circumstances, enabling him to start an investment AT ONCE and complete the payments from his monthly savings.

And as he receives the full dividends paid on the securities while he is paying for them, he will obtain a considerably greater income from his savings on this plan than if he were to deposit them monthly in the savings bank. This coupon brings the bookiet telling all about the plan.

THURSDAY EVENING, AUG. 28, 1918.

What becomes of the emergency? It is generally understood that one of the staff of the Toronto "News," is the special Canadian correspondent to the London "Times," and so when we read the following in the columns of the latter paper, written by "our own correspondent," we sit up and take notice:

There has been a general renewal of the discussion on the Navy question, and there is keen interest to know what action will be taken by the Government.
The common suggestion is that in the next Session of Parliament an appropriation of thirty five million dollars for the construction of three Dreadnoughts will be placed in the Supply Bill, and that no immediate provision will be made for the maintenance of the vessels.

be placed in the Supply Bill, and that no immediate provision will be made for the maintenance of the vessels.

Those who recommend this solution forget that while the Senate has NO FOWER to AMEND It may RELECT a Supply Bill. Once having refused to approve the Naval Aid measure the Senate will be almost bound to resist any attempt to secure its passage by indirect methods. It has to be remembered also that the adoption of the Bill by the Senate would be a distinct refutation of the Laurier leadership and leave him practically no alternative but to retire. It is now understood that Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself was calefily instrumental in preventing the acceptance of Mr. Borden's emergency proposals. A group of influential Liberals in the Commons would have accepted the Bill and joined issue with the Government on the permanent policy, but Sir Wilfrid himself could-set be induced to consider any compromise.

any compromise.

The chances are that the next Session of Parliament will be devoted chiefly to redistribution, and it is doubtful if the Naval Bill will be reintroduced. Once redistribution has been accomplished the Government will be free to go to the country.

All this is a confession that the brutal ragging of free speech in the Common last session, and all the frantic abusing of the Senate have not been successful in enabling Mr. Borden to force thorough

While Britain perhaps ould not have any invincible objection would not have any invincible objection to handing it over to Greece at some time, yet she would not think of ever letting it fall into the hands of any of the Great Powers. Sir Edward Grey, of course, did mot deal with the Opprian question at all in his speech, but he discussed the question of Thrace with reserve. Turkey had been advised to respect the Rose. Midia frontier as decided upon after the war. There was not a hint thrown out by Sir Edward, however, as to just what the Powers would do if the Turks persisted in holding Adriauople. This omission was significant, for it suggests that the Powers are not ready to take any active armed measures to drive the Tark from thence; and it may also be that the revisiation of the berbarities perpetrated by the Bulgarians upon all son. Bulgar peoples in the conquered districts has caused the Powers to re-consider the question of establishing Bulgarian authority again in those regions. One thing seems definitely agreed to, however, and that is the finality of the boundaries arranged for between the Christian Balkan Powers. There is to be no revision of the treaty. HOLMER CHALLENGES

HOLMER'S OFFER. HOLMER'S OFFER.

Hans Holmer has offered to run Willie Kolebmainen a series of races at three distances, the winner of the first race to name the second distance. He suggests a race of 20 miles the third week in November as a starter, and says in case he wins he will name 15 miles for the second race with New Year's as the date.

Holmer, doubtless, has in view running this 15 mile event, which would give these the results of the results of the second race with results of the second race.

RESPITE FOR WATT. Last evening Sheriff Davidson, of Cum-

Ottawa:

"I am commanded to inform you that His Excellency the Administrator of the Government has been pleased to order a respite of sentence of the court. In the capital case of Oharles R. Watt, for three weeks, that is, until the 18th of September.
Repeat back immediately upon receipt.
Letter confirming follows to-morrow."

A general feeling of relief awept over apparets at the word passed from mouth Amherst as the word passed from mouth to mouth as it is now felt that the sen-tence will be commuted to life or a long term of imprisonment. All during his imprisonment Watt has been a model prisoner. He had apparently little thought for himself, but was much exer-cised over the grief and sorrow of his aged father and other members of the family.

The thorage of the control of the same of the control and compoure was broken down. He had propared himself for the end and would sooner go through the ordeal than have the day postponed if it had so come. For the past few weeks the prisoner has devoted almost his entire time to a study of the Bible and other religious works and writing letters of farewell to friends. Below is given his letter addressed to Jailor and Mrs. Simpson:

I want you to understand that it is impossible for me to express my feelings toward you in this hour. But I must say that I thank you both from the bottom of my heart for your kindness to me in the past few trying months. May the blessing of God rest on you both forever, and may it be His blessed will that you continue to live in good health for years to come. I will now say good-bye. May we meet in Heaven. God's will be done.

plunges 135 feet and loses his pipe.

New York, Aug. 25.—Peter Kelly, a Brooklyn Rapid Transit motorman who was off duty, was riding over the Brooklyn Bridge in a rear seat of a trolly car amoking his pipe yesterday afternoon when he heard the yelping of a dog and saw a small animal, which apparently had dropped from one automobile and had been hit by another, limbing to get away from succeeding automobiles. Kelly did not even stop to remove the pipe, but leaped from the car, and in reaching for the dog he silpped through the girders of the trolly track and plunged into the East River, 135 feet below.

Going down he made two complete somersaults and part of another, striking the water on the back of his neck, with the pipe still in his mouth. Martin Malon, foreman of a Dock Department drew at work beneath the Brooklyn pier, saw Kelly tumbling through the sir, and by the time Kelly bobbed up to the surface of the water he and two of his men were in a rowboat. The tide was strong and Kelly was carried 200 yards upstream before he was dragged into the boat. He had lost his pipe. He was sent to the Hely Family Hospital, Brooklyn, where it was said he probably would recover. He told how he had tried to save the dog.

THIS NOON'S STOCK LETTER. (F. B. McCurdy & Co.)

New York, Aug. 28th.—The article in the Herald published this morning claiming that President Huerta had practically yielded to Mr. Wilson's proposal, caused a sharp upturn in the market this morning and sithough the truth of this despatch was later denied, the fact that Mr. Lind has been ordered back to Mexico City and the fresh negotiations are under way give hopes that the whole Mexican embrodie on the United States in the hope of settling its internal affairs. The market reacted somewhat after its opening advance, but turned strong again on the announcement that Mr. Lind had been ordered back to Mexico City, and the entire list now shows a good tone, with advances ranging from good-sized fractions to over-a point in the active list. Smelters, of course, was the most favorably affected by the Mexican news, and vanced sharply above 67. The pool continues active in the interboro issues, and reports that a dividend at the rate of five per cent, will be declared next Wednesday are still current in the street.

In some quarters it is said that one per cents of the back dividends may also be paid off at this time.

New York, Aug. 25.—Timothy Kiely, who was once a stoker on steamships in the South American trade, died on Sunday at his home, 256 Waverly Place, in Greenwich village, leaving an estate valued at $2,500,000. All of it goes to his widow.

A nice. Bessie Graham, who lived in the did home hold many years and took the Kiely name, slithough never legally adopted, was cut off in the will because she married Thomas Dalton, a cierk, against Tim Kiely's wishes.

Kiely's wishes.

Kiely came to America from his birthplace in County Cork, Ireland, when he was 14. He went to see as an apprentice and rose from a stoker's job to an engineer's before he came ashore for good. In 1872 he was chief engineer for the Butterlek company, weaking overalls, his hands fill of action waste.

Six years later he invented a return steam trap, whereby condensed steam in heating apparatus is, returned to the boller. The trap is now in use everywhere. Its profits made Tim Kiely rick of hours may be made by letter or personally, at the Studio after 5 p. m., the couldn't draw or cipher, but he knew how to control steam. He and Frederick in 1880 the steam fitting manufacturing firm of Kiely & Mueller, now at 34 West Thirteenth street.

"I was engineer at the Western Fennsylvanis Hospital for the Insane when I first met Kiely," Muellen said yesterday, "He was on the road selling his own steam trap. He suggested that we become partners. Inside of a month we were in business togsther in New York."

Kiely put some of his profits into real estate and made more money. In the 30s he erected a building on Thirteenth street, and rented it to the Butterick Company. Thus his former employers became his tenants. He sold to James A. Hearn part of the property which is now Hearn's department stors. He also invested largely in Rockaway and Babylon, L. I. A street in Arretne is named for bim.

He was twice married and had no children. Bessie Graham, his first wife's niece, who took the Kiely name and married over his protest, was at the Kiely home in Greenwich village on Thursday anght when the will that didn't mention her was read.

BE WISE IN TIME AND GET IN-VERNESS IMPERIAL COAL in NOW while we have it in stock. The past two or three years, at this season, have found our fyles loaded down with orders for Inverness Coal which we were unable to fill. Sufficient supplies could not be obtained from the Mines. This state of affairs lasted well into the Winter, and many of our Customers were compelled to use other Coals. At present we have stocks sufficient to fill all orders, and we would suggest to those of our customers who use INVERNESS IMPERIAL COAL that they fill their cellars now. There is sure to be delay in getting shipments later on, as this is the usual condition at all of our Mines during the Autumn and early Winter. It seems to be particularly the case as regards this very superior DOMESTIC COAL for which there is a demand usually greater than the supply.

A serious automobile accident occurred on Water St. yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock by which Joseph, the 7 year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Asel Weston, Water St., received severe cuts and bruises, and had a narrow escape from fatal injuries. As the car came around the corner from Ochterloney St. the little fellow got in front of it and it is stated that those in the automobile could not see him on account of a team obstructing the view. The little fellow was knocked down and received a severe cut on the chin which required two stitches. His legs and nose were also hurtand one tooth was knocked down and received a severe cut on the chin which required two picked up by James Roscoe, and those in the automobile conveyed him to Dr. Payann who attended to his injuries. Last night he was in a semi-conselous state, but it is hoped no serious result will follow.

SACCHETTI CRITICISED

In the Boston American of Sunday, February 2, 1913, Mr. Frederick Johns, the well known critic of that newspaper, gave a resume of the opera season to date. Part of it dealt with Umberto Sacchetti. the star tenor of the Boston Opera Com-pany, who will be heard here in the Grand pany, who will be heard here in the Grand Opera Feetival at the Academy, which begins on Monday evening, September 1. Mr. Johns wrote:

"Umberto Sacehetti has proved one of the genuine surprises of the season. Beside Caruso he is the only tenor I would call "golden volced," and with the robusto tendency, he has yet what the Italians call the white quality, a bell-like clearness both beautiful and thrilling in its tone. Only his laok of volume keeps him from the title of world's greatest tenor." "This year he has appeared with Tetrazzini, in "Lucia di Lammermoor," with Mary Garden, in "Tosca," several times in "I Fagilacoi" and "Cavalleria Rusticana," and twice in "The Grif of the Golden West." He is certainly an acquisition to the Ucompany, and well should he be, with the reputation brought from abroad, from the Metropolitan and the Philadelphia-Chicago Opera Companies."

the Philadelphia-Unicago Opera Com-panies."

M. Sacchetti alternates with M. Gio vanni Gatti in singing the leading teno roles in the Grand Opera Festival Reper toire, Cavalleria Rusticanna, La Traviata and Il Trovatore.

MEXICO DECLARES Negotiations cannot be satisfac- Second officer and a seaman

Mexico City, Aug. 28.—Without comment, Frederico Gamboa, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, presented to the standing committee of the Mexican Congress last night all the facts in the controversy between Mexico and the United States. The congressmen comprising the comments. Senor Gamboa insists that the negotiations are not entirely concluded, but should they be it is probable that soon the entire affair will be regarded as a closed incident.

New York, Aug. 28.—The steamship Imperstor, the largest vessel aftoat, was swept by fire early to-day as she lay in her dook in Holokes, with her crew and 1,131 steerage passesgers aboard.

Second Officer Gobrecht, who led the crew indo the hold to fight the flames, was eat off from his men, enveloped in a cloud of smoke, and suffocated. His body was found as hour later, untouched by fire, and brought ashore.

A seaman, whose identity is not yetdetemined, one of the party who went down with Gobrecht into the bowels of the vessel, was missing at roll call. He undoubtedly perished, too.

A fleet of fire fighting craft, augmented by apparatus on shore, surrounded the entire affair will be regarded as a closed incident.

Many Mexicans believe that the only bar to the acceptance of the propositions in the second note was in the incistone that President Huera climinate bimself from the electoral contest. Their point is that this was impossible for him to do since he is a Mexican citizen.

If there should be further negotiations, it is practically certain that they cannot be satisfactorily concluded if this demand of the United States be insisted upon.

N. S. RULERS IN SESSION. Union of Municipalities is meeting at

Through this cloud the Hoboken firement rushed.

The dining saloon of the second cabin suffered the greatest damage from smoke and firemen's passage. The handsome appointments of the saloon were a wreck when the smoke cleared away. Despite the reinforcement of the firemen the flames gained headway. A tug steaming slowly down the river roused the water front with its airen. Fireboats from New York, a fleet of tugs and another battery of fire engines from Hoboken rushed to the scene. A heavy cloud of smoke awang over the vessel and settled down on the water. Bridgewater. The Union of Nova Scotia Municipali-ties is in session at Bridgewater. Yesterday morning Mayor A. D. Gunn, of Sydney, the President, delivered a lengthy address. In his remarks he incorporated his suggestion that the joint resources of the Province should be used to guarantee over the ressel and settled down on the water.

One thousand longshoremen employed by the Hamburg-American line, the Imperator's owners, went on strike 24 hours before the vessel's arrival. Their places were filled by men from the Brooklyn dooks, and the strikers were told that they would not be taken back. Officers of the line said, however, that they believed the strike was in no way connected with the fire. Somebody's carelessness, they thought, had been responsible. SHIPPING NEWS. his suggestion that the joint resources of the Province should be used to guarantee bonds so as to enable each town to sell its debentures at the same figure.

Arthur Roberts, town solicitor of Bridgewater, secretary-treasurer, presented the financial report showing a membership of fitty of our municipalities, and a comfortable balance on hand.

The President celled upon Mr. Roberts for an address on municipal rule. In an exhaustive paper he made an eloquent plas for authority from the legislature for more independence in municipal government. He suggested as a remedy a government. He suggested as a remedy a government departmental control or management.

Mayor Hood, Yarmouth, and Town Clerk McLeed, Springhill, discussed the question, followed by Controller Harris, of Halifax, who urged that municipalities should have power to take a plebiscite on important questions.

The resolutions committee appointed were Mayors Stuart, Trarc; Kinley, Lunenburg; Goucher, Middiston; Hood, Yarmouth, Dawson, Bridgewater; Engineer Doane, Municipal Clerk Archibald, and Warden Bishop, Halifax; Wardens McKay, Pictou; McMullin, Antigonish; Counciliers Beehner, Lunenburg; Ferguson, Cape Breton; Municipal Clerks Dimock, West Hants; McLeed, Cumberland, and Town Solicitors Dennison, of Digby, and Butta, Sydney Mines.

Yesterday afternoon the delegates were the guests of Luneaburg, arriving from Bridgewater by special train. They enjoyed a harbor a cumpituous pionte lunch returned to Lunenburg, where the Joth Regiment band deligated a large audiouse. schooner Harry.

American Cousins, it is considered a breach of the rules of good dressing to wear a Straw Hat after Labor Day. Now Labor Day is just a few days away and as Halifax and Dartmouth men do not consider for a moment that they are one little wee bit behind anyone as far as dress goes, of course there is going to be a big demand for Hard and Soft Hats the next few weeks.

However, whether you are one of the real "Live Ones", or whether you are satisfied to follow just a little behind the other fellow, you will be interested in our showing of Men's Hard and Soft Hats for Autumn wear. They are here in the very newest shapes and shades.

The wonderful manner in which crops and garden produce can be improved by what is known as electro-culture—i.e., the electrifying of areas and plants by special installations—seems likely revolutionize farming and gardening. As a striking illustration, however, of the old saying that there is nothing new under the sun, it might be mentioned that, although electro-culture is still in its infancy, the idea of using electricity to assist Nature in the enlivation and development of plants was tried as far back as 1746, when an Edinburgh professor found that two myrds trees that he had electrified blossomed sooner thas others. beek as 1746, when an Edinburgh profesor found that two myrtle trees that he had electrided blossomed sooner than others.

But he real beginning of practical electro-tulture, as we know it to-day, was in 1885, when Professor Lemstrom, of Sweden, made his first experiments.

Method of application.

That the application of electricity tecrops is an enermous advantage to sericulturists may be gathered from the fact that, in some cases, as much as forty-five per cent. increase on crops has been obtained on land of medium productiveness through electric discharges. The usual method is to arrange a system of poles around the field to be electrified, these poles being surmounted by strong porcelain insulators.
The main wire is fixed on to these insulators, extending round the outside of the area to be cultivated, says the London Daily Telegraph. Finer wires are also stretched across the field at intervals of about 20 feet.

Potatoes, radishes, and bestroots have been found to be greatly benefited by this "plant-shocking," as it is termed.
Indeed, in almost every ease in which the system has been tried arcellent results have followed, and Mr. T. Thorne Baker, a well-known expert on electroculture, says that, in regard to radishes and bestroot treated electrically, these have shown a marked increase in the percentage of sugar, while in the case of a potato crop so treated in France the potatoes were ready for lifting a week earlier than the ordinary ones.

Mention of France reminds one that electrical apparatus is now being used in the vine-growing districts. The apparatus is really a new type of lightning conductor, and is pixed on a collamid wolf lass than 100 feet in height.

Perhaps, however, the most extraordinary development of electricity as appiled to farming is in regard to poultry rearing. Mr. Thorne Baker has pointed chicks, so that many young ones die sometime eyield as percentage of week out that eggs hatched in incubators during the first few days. If, however,

In most spheres of work we find the workers concerned have a vocabulary of their own, introducing 'salang' words of weird design, turning phrasess into such shapes that they are basely recognizable. An unlimited number of these phrases are used in the army.

A man whose duty it is to attend to the washing up, serving up dinners, and responsible for the "general cleanlines, id., sailed either a "swab," "cook's mate," or "800k's bully," whereas a fellow cencerned in the welfare of his mainter's property while at drill is the "orderly buffstick." The orderly sergent, who marches the sick to hospital, attends to the delivery of letters, etc., is nicknamed the "orderly pig."

Tmong the eatables we find "rootie" substituted for bread, "wads" for cake or pudding, the latter sometimes being termed "duff." A request to pass the butter is made as follows: "Chase the cow up the meadow," or "Pass the roll-me-in-the-gutter."

Duchess is Wealthy.

On the day of her marriage the Duchess of Fife will come into an income of $50,000 a year. Upon the death of her mother she will inherit Mar Lodge, the beautiful home of the Fife family, as well as the Princess Royal's house in London, and will have a total income of about $200,000. She is a quiet, refined girl, very fond of outdoor sports. As a child she was a familiar figure in Kemp Town, Brighton. Every morning she and her sister, with their governess in attendance, could be seen bowling their hoops in Sussex Square. Often they would play with the other children. One young man to-day relates with pride that the Duchess of Fife first taught him to bowl his hoop. Few people realized that the two plainly-dressed, fair-complexioned little girls were the grandchildren of Queen Victoria. At the Cripples' Home at Alton, Hants, there is an inmates' cricket team. Many of the players have only one leg, but despite this disadvantage the team, has won two matches this sesson. There is also a football team at the home, and although the team can only muster seventeen legs, yet of the seven matches played last season they won four and lost only one match, the other two being drawn.

JOCKEY LAW. Hard and Past Rules Which Riders Must. Obey

Must, Obey.

Oraganour, the second winner of the Derby to be disqualified in the whole history of the famous contest, met with that unhappy fate under the 140th Bule of Bacing in England.

This rule provides that "If a horse or his jockey jostle another horse or jockey the aggressor is diaqualified, unless it be proved that the jostle was wholly caused by the fault of some other jockey, or that the jostle was wholly caused by the fault of some other jockey was partly in fault." The rules of racing, which are drawn up by the Jockey Ulub, are no fewer than 184 in number, and, as may be imagined, they cover the ground with considerable thoroughness.

Among other reasons for which a horse may be disqualified is crossing—that is, unless it can be proved that the animal was two clear lengths in front when it srossed.

A horse can be disqualified if he has run at a meeting not recognized by those autocrats, the stewards of the Jockey Club, or if he is owned (wholly or partly) by a disqualified person. Turthermore, if the poor animal has been the uncounsclous intrument by which bad men have carried out fraudulent practices, he is liable to disqualification.

In fact, everybody who goes racing must walk warily, for the rules which govern the sport are full of pitfalls. For instance, it is quite enough to disany person or thing, other than his ewn equipment, between passing the post and returning to weigh in. Furthermore, the jockey must ride his mount to the appointed place for dismounting previous to weighing in. He must not walk except in cases of accident or illness, when the lords paramount of racing gractously allow him to go on his own feet or be carried to the scales. While we are on the subject of the weighing-room, we may learn that though the jockey is weighed with the jockey.

Well, having got our jockey weighed out, let us accompany him to the start.

during the race must be weighed with the jockey.
Well, having got our jockey weighed out, let us accompany him to the starting gate, when he passes under the orders of another autocrat—the starter.
This potentate may, at his discretion, dispense with the gate altogether. He may also declare a "no start," and recall the horses, by means of a flag, when they are already well away. It behoves the fockey to obey the starters; orders with the utmost particularity, for that gentleman has the power to fine any rider whose conduct displesses him, to the extent of $50. He will also report the offending horseman to the stewards,

The Jockey Club stewards are such absolute autocrate that they even tamper with Time itself! Every horse's age is reckoned as beginning on the first of January in the year in which he is born. Thus, a feal which first saw the light in November would be reckoned one year old on the 31st of the following month.

Moreover, these same stewards are particular about the names by which owners of racebornees may choose to be known. Anybody using an assumed name must have it registered and pay a fee, and this has to be done annually. Moreover, he cannot use his real name at the same time. This does not worry the trainer, however, for he is not allowed to use an assumed name at all.

The profitable pastime in estching wander; ing birds during the voyage across the Atlantic and selling them on his arrival in port. All sorts of birds come shoard at sea and many of the rare specimens find a resdy sale.

His chief assistant is a whistling brown linnet, which lures the wanderers aboard from its cage in an open port. When it whistles the vagrant filers alight on the ship and presently flutter inside. Then the port is closed and the strange birds are quickly made prisoners.

prisoners.

"I have caught hundreds of them and I supply the Lendon Zoo regularly," said the bird eatcher. "On a recent homeward-bound voyage the linnet lured a snowbird. It was the first one the London Zoo had been able to procure in 16 years.

the London Zoo had been able to pro-cure in 16 years.

'!What the birds require when they first slight on a ship is not food, but water, and it must be boiled. Gulls follow a ship all the way across the Atlantic and back. American gulls are regular convoys as far as the English channel, where they desert to follow a westward bounder home again.

'The English gulls, which are dif-ferent, haying black feet, yellow bel-lies and gray-white wings and backs, convoy liners over and back the same way. The gulls like emigrant ships best, because the more passengers there are the greater quantity of scraps is thrown overboard.''

After his first great success W. E. Penley, the English comedian, had to act in many plays, which somehow did not seem to please the public. Some of these he just kept alive by his "gagging." On one occasion, when a wretched play had been going for some weeks in this manner, the consitted young author came behind and asked Mr. Penley why he "gagged" so much. "The play will be all right," he said, "if you will only speak my lines quietly and watt for the laugh." To this Mr. Penley replied promptly: "That's all very well for you, old man. You live in town, but, you see, I live in the country and have to catch the 18.15 from Waterloo!" Long Waits.

Auction Room Curiosities. Everything, it is said, comes into the London auction room sooner or later, and the list of eurosities that have and the list of curiosities that have been sold in the past is surious. Among them have been locks of Nelson's and Wellington's har, the head of a Peruvian Indian, a human skull no bigger than a walnut—that of a dwarf found in the interior of Mexico — "Gom Paul's" hat, a curious, greasy, battered headgear that fetched $126, and the blue silk vest which Oharles I. wore at his execution, which was purchased for $1.000.
