

justice and fairness to order the immediate release of the prisoners upon all the charges before me. Let the prisoners be discharged.

Mr. Couriel, in giving his verdict, seemed much excited. Some applause followed the delivery of it, but it was instantly checked.

Mr. Devlin invited him not to discharge the prisoners but allow a hearing. He contended that they only could be discharged on an indictment.

The counsel for the United States should be heard on others, and Mr. Couriel had issued six warrants that he had not one before him.

Mr. Devlin then again brought the Judge to his feet.

Mr. Johnson said Mr. Devlin was mistaken. The Court meant that the prisoners were discharged on the one charge investigated.

The Court interrupted, and said Mr. Devlin was right; the prisoners were discharged in every case but one.

Messrs. Kerr, Abbott, and Laflamme, for the prisoners, objected to calling in question the judgment.

Mr. Devlin, counsel for the States, wished to be allowed to speak.

The Court desired to hear further argument. If no right existed to arrest on one charge, as he held, then neither had he a right to detain them on others.

His warrants were null and void, he saw he had been mistaken, and it was the duty of every British Judge, finding that to be the case, to rectify the error.

The Court, therefore, ordered the prisoners to be immediately discharged, and was prepared to incur the responsibility of its own act.

Applause again followed, this time not to be checked. The prisoners walked about and were congratulated by their acquaintances, and when they emerged from the building a few raised cheers.

The crowd at once dispersed. The money they stole was given to the raiders by the Chief of Police, it is supposed, before the verdict was given.

It is a matter of surprise here that Mr. Couriel did not delay decision until he had consulted the Attorney General.

There is splendid sleighing here to-day.

MR. LINCOLN'S RE-ELECTION.

[From the London Times, November 22.] Under the influence of concurrent causes, Mr. Lincoln has, no doubt, been, as everybody foresaw he would be, elected President.

The question which concerns us now is not so much how he came to be elected, as what influence that election is likely to have on our relations with the United States.

On this point we see no reason for alarm; nay, it may probably be that we are safer in the hands of Mr. Lincoln than we should be in the hands of any other man.

As regards the foreign states, and the selves in particular, we may reasonably believe that he has shown his wildness; he has gone through the course of defying and insulting England, which is the traditional way of obtaining the Irish vote, and we may not unreasonably hope that he is unlikely to repeat the experiment.

Every one has found himself firmly established in his office, and the first effervescence of national feeling had begun to subside, we have had no great reason to complain of the conduct of Mr. Lincoln towards England.

His tone has been less abusive, and his language has been less abusive, and the difficulties of his situation, we could have parted with Mr. Lincoln had such been the desire of the American people, without any vestige of ill-will or ill-feeling.

He has done as regards this country what the necessities of his situation demanded from him, and he has done no more.

President might possibly be called upon for a demonstration of more hostile spirit. We can regard the re-appointment of Mr. Lincoln as little less than an abdication by the American people of the right of self-government, as an avowed step toward the foundation of a military despotism, and as the subversion of a popular government, which may still exist in form, but which in substance is gone.

We would not be supposed to insinuate that it is the destiny of Mr. Lincoln to be the real founder of the dynasty of which he has taken so long a step; whatever be his merits, his warmest admirers themselves can scarcely contend that he is made of Imperial stuff. His hand has shaken the tree, but we yet await the man who is to gather the fruit.

Future history may probably date from the second presidency of Mr. Lincoln the period when the American Constitution was thoroughly abandoned, and had entered on that transition stage, so well known to the students of history, through which republics pass on their way from democracy to tyranny.

From the London Morning Herald.

For our part, we rejoice heartily in the defeat of General McClellan, as a prelude to the defeat of the North.

We rejoice that the cause of oppression, robbery, and injustice is entrusted to the hands of a vacillating, helpless imbecile, rather than to those of an able, resolute, and efficient soldier. Nor do we think that the hopes of peace have been seriously impaired by Mr. Lincoln's success.

Peace depends, not on the wishes of a man, but on the disposition of the nation. So long as the North was resolute in the prosecution of the war, neither General McClellan nor even Mr. Vallandigham could have made peace.

So soon as the North shall be heartily sick of the war, convinced that victory is impossible, and eager for a compromise even on the basis of Southern independence, peace will have become necessary to Mr. Lincoln, and could not be long delayed even by a Sumner or a Brownlow.

We believe that nothing could tend more strongly to bring about such a result as things as will essentially discourage the war party, and dispose the North to abandon its hopeless enterprise, than the continuance of Mr. Lincoln's rule, and in that belief we hail his re-election as an event of excellent augury for the interests of the South and of mankind.

On Sunday the 4th instant, Mr. James Warren, son of Mr. David Bishop Warren of Alameda Island was engaged in preparing a sleigh in which to drive to afternoon service, and while pushing it before him by the shafts to the door of the house, the runner caught in the side of a little incline, and caused his body to come in contact with the shaft, injuring him internally to such an extent as to cause his death, which took place on Tuesday, the 6th inst., only two days after he received the injury during which period his sufferings were very great. He was a little over 17 years of age, and was out on the 11th of Feb., Pembroke Observer.

FENIANS AND REBELS.

We extract the following from the Cincinnati Gazette of the 8th instant:—A meeting of the leading members of the Fenian Brotherhood was recently held at Chicago, at which measures for accomplishing the purpose of that organization were the subject of grave deliberation, after full information touching the resources at their disposal was submitted.

The plans they have had in view for years past are approaching perfection, and, in the opinion of these gentlemen, the time for striking a decisive blow for Irish independence is near at hand. As the result of these deliberations, a National Fenian Convention is called to meet in this city January 17th, 1865, to which all the circles have been invited to send delegates, and it is estimated that over one thousand will be in attendance.

The Convention announces that this will be the last general Convention to be held in this country—that before the necessity exists for another Convention the fires of liberty will be kindled upon the shores of Ireland and Irishmen from all parts of the world returning to right their centuries of wrong. In this there is much significance, and more in the fact that each circle in the United States has been strongly urged to send with their delegates as much money as is possible in order to make a fund of $2,000,000.

We do not profess to be able to say how much or how little truth there is in the foregoing. If we were to judge of the likelihood of such a plan as that which the Gazette sets forth being entertained by the chances it has for success, we should at once say it is an idle story invented for the purpose of creating a sensation. But the experience we have had and the knowledge we possess of the sort of men who seek what they call "the regeneration of Ireland," give it a more serious aspect than it otherwise might have.

The question arises in the mind of one, is it likely that these Fenians should consider the present a favorable moment for plotting a revolution in Ireland? Why not? Men of the same description have undertaken the task at much more unfavorable periods. It is not long since the British Government discovered an organization in every respect similar to the Fenian, except the name, and that came very near, which they felt it their duty to break up. The Phoenixians, as they called themselves, drilled by night in the fields and byways of Ireland, until some of their number were caught, tried and punished.

For aught we can tell, they may be doing the same thing now. Certain it is that their papers on this side of the Atlantic declare that the Fenians here have almost illimitable numbers of friends at home prepared to join them as soon as they can effect a landing on the "old soil." Equally certain it is that the world would be had full facilities afforded them for plotting and organizing in the United States. This year a great gathering took place in Chicago, where a Fenian fair was held, and to which delegates from all parts of America flocked, including the President of the Hibernian Society here. Many thousands of dollars were realized by that fair. Not a word of disapproval was raised against it by the United States press on the contrary, the organization was flattered and petted on all hands.

The native American laughs in his sleeve at the vagaries of Fenian Patriotism, but he does not dare to do so openly. The Irish vote is altogether too large to be despised either by Republican or Democrat. "Let the poor fools plot and talk," says the politician, "no harm can come of it, and meanwhile, by flattering their vanity, we may use them to our own ends." And use them to his own ends the "Yankee" does, even to the extent of inducing them to fight against the South, under the idea that they will be educated into a military proficiency which will enable them to annihilate John Bull. It is a very common thing to see the cities of the United States large placards asking Irishmen to enlist, and holding out to them the gratifying prospect we have named as the chief incentive thereto. Here, for instance, is a copy of a portion of an advertisement which, some time ago, we clipped from a Rochester paper for preservation as a curiosity. It is a State large placard of this sort occasionally prove useful:—

WAR WITH ENGLAND. ALTHOUGH Mason and Stillé have been given up, the warlike preparations of England are still pressed forward. In this time of her need it becomes especially the duty of IRISHMEN to rally for the defense of the truly paternal Government which has fostered and welcomed them here, exiles as they are from their own beloved land through the Oppression of England. Eight regiments of Irishmen are now in arms for the defense of their adopted country, against the most unnatural rebellion recorded in history; a rebellion which our citizens will quell within SIX MONTHS, when the attention of the victors will be turned towards INSULTING ENGLAND, AND IN BEHALF OF SUFFERING IRELAND. The Regiments are now quartered at Camp Hillburne, ac, ac, ac, ac.

Now, we do not suppose that Captain McMahon and the other recruiting officer whose names are attached to this present document had any other idea beyond that of filling up their companies. Still it goes to show the use that has been made in the States of the anti-British feeling so sedulously cultivated among the Irish by interested demagogues.

AMERICAN NEWS.

Head-quarters army Potomac, Dec. 11th. The movements in this Department which have been in course of execution these few days have finally been completed and now the objects intended to be accomplished can be given to the public as well as the results attained. It is known that the enemy were procuring large supplies for their troops by way of the Walden railroad to Stony Creek where they were wagoned to Potomac. The cavalry forces sent there to stop the rebel supplies, were successful.

The question is not whether they will be able to stop the supplies, but whether they will be able to do so before the task they have set themselves to accomplish can be fulfilled. It is not even whether they will succeed in bringing about the desired war. But it is this—Is it possible for them, in conjunction with the Confederate forces here, to give trouble on our border? There can be but one answer and that an affirmative reply. The number of Fenians in the States is generally believed to be very large. It is estimated that at the coming convention at least a thousand "circles" will be represented. If each delegate had but fifty constituents, there would be a total of 50,000 men. But suppose there were only 10,000, the number would amply suffice to make a series of sudden raids upon our borders. There is nothing to hinder a number of these brethren waiting until the next rebel dash is made from our territory, and then pursuing across the line, where they might take care not to catch any Confederate, while at the same time they played and murdered our people. What sort of comfort should we be likely to get from the United States Government if this was done? We should, in the probability, be told that citizens, justly and naturally irritated at the destruction of life and property by the rebels, could not be expected in the heat of pursuit always to distinguish between them and their aiders and abettors. Or suppose these Confederate raids are successful, and the anger of the American people is much higher than at present, could we expect the Federal Government to take any very extraordinary precautions if the Fenians were to make counter-raids? When we asked for redress, what an excellent opportunity there would be for Mr. Seward to indulge a little patriotism! He might copy the ipsum verbo of the assurances given by our Government to the United States, that every exertion should be made to keep the peace, and send them back in reply to our remonstrances. How remarkably easy we should all feel under such a course of policy. Let us say nothing to prevent our territory being violated by these Fenians. It would be the best means they could possibly adopt for bringing on the hoped for war. There are plenty of them; if they cannot raise $2,000,000, they can undoubtedly raise $1,000,000, and having a battery of their infantry, and a battery of their cavalry, and a battery of their artillery, they would follow and endeavor to annoy our rear guard, but each time they were driven back with loss. This P.M. the Notaway river was reached and the entire command crossed in safety, where they found the head of the 9th corps, who had started to their aid, and having a battery of their infantry, they will all be back in their old position in front of Petersburg, ready for the next move against the enemy.

Startling Intelligence. Headquarters Department of the East, New York City, Dec. 14.—General Order No. 17. Information having been received at these Headquarters that the rebel marauders who were charged with murder and robbery at St. Albans, have been discharged from arrest, and that other enterprises are actually in preparation in Canada, in view of the fact that the rebels are to the people of the frontier towns to adopt the most prompt and efficient measures for the security of their lives and property. All Military Commanders on the frontier are therefore instructed, in further acts of depredation and murder are attempted, whether by marauders or persons acting under commissions from rebel authorities at Richmond, to shoot down the perpetrators, if possible, while in the commission of these crimes; or, if it is necessary, with a view to their capture, to cross the boundary between the United States and Canada. Commanders are hereby directed to pursue them wherever they may take refuge; or, if captured, they are under no circumstances to be surrendered, but are to be sent to these Headquarters for trial and punishment by military law. The Major-General is instructed to see that the most prompt exercise, to the fullest extent, the authority he possesses under the rules of law recognized by all civilized states, in regard to persons organizing hostile expeditions within neutral territory, and then fleeing to it for an asylum after committing acts of depredation and murder, are strictly enforced. Authority has become indispensable to protect our cities and towns from incendiaries, and our people from robbery and murder. It is sincerely hoped that the inhabitants of our frontier districts will abstain from all like retaliation on account of the outrages committed by these rebel marauders; and that the proper method of redress will be left to the action of the public authorities.

Arrival of the Hibernian. Portland, Dec. 17. The steamship Hibernian, Capt. Dutton, left Liverpool at 1:30 on the morning of the 15th, and arrived here at 10:30 on the evening of the 17th. On entering the Mersey she ran down and sank a brig, sustaining but slight damage herself. The City of Baltimore arrived at Queenstown early on the 30th, and the America at Southampton on the morning of the 1st.

Loss of the Steamer "George Moffatt." BOWMANVILLE, Dec. 12.—On Saturday night the steamer "George Moffatt" encountered a Sunday morning. At about one o'clock on Sunday morning, when opposite this place, her smoke stack was blown off, while she broke, and in consequence her engine could not be worked, leaving her at the mercy of the waves. Shortly afterwards she was overtaken by a heavy sea, and the vessel was thrown on her side, and apparently fast between two rocks, with her stern towards the shore. The sea ran high all day, at times making a clean breach over her. There were on board eighteen men and two women. About one o'clock P.M. one of the volunteers leaped and succeeded in getting to the shore with a line. Large numbers of the inhabitants were on the beach to render assistance, unfortunately the rope broke. Two more of the crew came off in the remaining boat, and reached land with another line. How they were rescued, the position now of the remains is exceedingly perilous, and great anxiety was felt in some for their safety. Towards evening the gale partly subsided, and all were safely landed, and are now comfortably cared for by the hospitable farmers in the neighborhood. The cargo is a total loss.

Foreign Office, Nov. 28. Gentlemen, I have had the honor to receive the copy which you have sent me of the 1st session of the Congress of the so-called Confederate States of America. Her Majesty's Government deeply lament the promoted nature of the struggle between the Northern and Southern States of the former United Republic of North America. Great Britain has, since 1783, been the friend and ally of the Republic of the South, and it is with a deep sense of regret that she has been obliged to sever her relations with both the Northern and Southern States. The commencement of the civil war which broke out in 1861, Her Majesty's Government has continued to entertain sentiments of friendship, equally for the North and for the South, and it is with a deep sense of regret that she has been obliged to sever her relations with both the Northern and Southern States. The commencement of the civil war which broke out in 1861, Her Majesty's Government has continued to entertain sentiments of friendship, equally for the North and for the South, and it is with a deep sense of regret that she has been obliged to sever her relations with both the Northern and Southern States.

McMillan's N Y Club Skates.
WITH BRADY'S PATENT FARTEN-LING OR WITH STRAPS.
THIS celebrated Skates has no woods, is fastened by a patent arrangement of BRADY'S (of which our late fellow-townsman,
A. McMillan, has become the sole proprietary) which renders it remarkably easy on the foot, and does away with that liability to strap often caused by supposed circulation in tight strapping. Beautiful show cards and specimen Skates (Skates expected to arrive shortly) can be seen at the Perth Book Store, where orders will be received and every information in regard to them given.

SKATES.
H. CLARK'S PATENT SKATES.
THE same style of Runner Skates as used by the Champion Skater, JACK-SON HAINES. These skates have runners five-sixteenths of an inch thick, with oceanic bottoms, woods one-half inch thick, steamed and bent, and supported by metal thimbles, surrounding the posts, forming a base of over an inch in breadth, supporting the woods, which prevent their splitting,
a defect so common in all other skates.—
Strength, beauty of finish, ease in skating, and low prices are the characteristics of these skates.
All sizes and styles of finish for boys and Misses—sizes, 7, 7 1/2, 8, and 8 1/2 inches.
Gentlemen's Skates, 9, 9 1/2, 10, 10 1/2, 11,

Plush-lined Trimmings—sizes, 8 1/2, 9, 9 1/2,
and 10 inches.
The high character which these skates have maintained for the past two years fully warrants me in introducing them to the skating public of Perth and vicinity.

DR. GREEN'S
Vegetable Tolu Syrup.
THIS OLD time tried, standard remedy still maintains its popularity. When all others had proved inefficient, the Syrup alone continues to give satisfaction.
USE IT FOR COUGHS, COLDS,
CATARRH,
ASTHMA,
CHROU,
INCIPENT CONSUMPTION,
and all diseases of the THROAT, CHEST, AND LUNGS.

Twenty Years Ago this Syrup first made its appearance; and even then in its primitive and imperfect state produced such extraordinary results that it became, in a general way, a favorite. Many have made it, what it really is,
A FAMILY MEDICINE.
For as more than half the diseases "to which flesh is heir" originates from colds, so this may be considered a general preventive of all diseases, by removing the primal cause.

ADULTS
SHOULD ALWAYS KEEP THIS FAMILY PHYSICIAN
at hand; and by its timely use save hundreds of dollars that would otherwise be swallowed up in discharging doctors' fees.
Sold at every Drug and Country Store
throughout Canada.
Price 25 cents per Bottle.

Dr. Ward's
DEAD SHOT
WORM CANDY
(CERTIFICATE.)
Albany Medical College,
December 15, 1862.
I do hereby certify that I have analyzed Dr. Ward's Dead Shot Worm Candy, and to the public I would say that it contains nothing that is in the least injurious to the youngest infant. They are entirely vegetable, and possess those truly antiseptic qualities which above all others are preferable as exterminators of the common or tape Worm.
J. V. DEWEES, M. D., Prof. of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children.

This Medicine has been prepared by the proprietors for a number of years; has been used with the most decided success in numerous families of the first respectability, and has received the approval and recommendation of several eminent medical gentlemen. The most alarming symptoms of the disease arising from the presence of worms in the intestines have been speedily and entirely removed by the use of the VEGETABLE
WORM CANDY.
Dreadful indeed are the effects of these noxious vermin on the constitution, destroying the appetite, vitiating the nourishing principles, and their certain consequences are paleness, emaciation, a stoppage of the growth, &c., and are followed by consumption and decline. Even where worms are not discharged, this medicine acts as a gentle and safe domestic physic—clearing the passages of whatever is noxious, introducing a healthy chyle into the constitution.
This is a purely vegetable preparation, and contains nothing that is injurious to the smallest infant, and children will eat them
as quickly as common candy.
Price 25 cents,
