59TH YEAR. NO. 23454

LONDON, ONTARIO, FRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 29, 1922.

PRICE, THREE CENTS

TURKS HALT ADVANCE PENDING PARLEY

Husband and Wife to Vote Next City Election

REVISED LAW PERMITS EQUAL BALLOT RIGHTS

Qualification Granted Irrespective of Actual Property Ownership.

ALTER INCOME TAXATION

Proposition To Be Charged on Previous Year's Earnings.

Several important changes in the assessment act have been noted in the revised copies, it was announced at the city hall Friday.

Perhaps the most outstanding of these involves the income tax regulations, and it has now been definitely established that all persons assessable for income tax will have to pay in proportion to their earnings of the "preceding" year, and not up to the following year, as has been customary in many instances in the past.

May Vote at Election.
It is further ruled that both husband and wife, whether owners or tenants, may vote at the municipal elections, irrespective of the actual ownership of the property.

In the past persons who were subject to assessment for income were divided roughly in two great classes, those who received straight salary and those whose annual remuneration was problematical and subject to change. A salesman working on the commission basis, whose gains varied from week to week, would be an illustration of this.

The system has been, it is explained, to base his income tax on his probable earnings for the forthcoming year, judged by his earnings of the past year.

As a result, the system has now been made more equitable. There will be now but little cause for argument of misunderstanding, the officials state confidently, while they are securing the accurate information and the entire problem will be vastly simplified.

Exercise Franchise.
Touching upon the other change in the statutes, the officials point out that many persons who previously have been deprived of their ballot will now be enabled to exercise their franchise irrespective of who may own the property, the husband or wife.

At present, if a man owned the property, his wife did not vote unless he was willing to enter with her into a joint agreement, making her a partner of ownership. The same applied in the case of women who owned the property. Their husbands were not entitled to vote unless the same procedure was effected.

Many residents were unwilling to do this, the officials state, but explain that this will not be necessary. All may vote now, whether owner or tenant.

BET ON BRITISH ELECTION.
London, England, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The question of when the general election will be held in the United Kingdom is keeping the politicians guessing. Thirty guineas per cent against the general election being held before the end of this year is the latest quotation of the underwriters.

SWEAR DIBSDALE WAS NOT INSANE

"This man shows no signs of active mental disease at the present time. In my first interview I saw that he was malingering."

"What led you to believe that?"

"He wilfully answered questions wrong. He gave me incorrect answers to everything. Told me the name of this girl deceased was Jesse Baker. Then he said it was Jesse Jones. He gave me four different names for her, all wrong."

"What do you say as to his condition when these shots were fired?"

"I think he knew what he was doing."

Objects To Reply.

W. R. Meredith objected to this reply, but the court ruled that the same question was open to be asked of defense alienists, and that Dr. Clarke's opinion need not be accepted by the jurors unless they believed it.

"Tell his lordship and the jury on what you base that opinion."

"Because he shot twice. He shot in the proper direction. When deceased did not fall at first shot he shot again, saw no movement on her part, loaded the gun and turned the gun on himself, taking the least way out in his opinion."

"Does it indicate anything as to his view of his action?"

"I think he knew it was wrong and wanted to get out. If that boy did not know what he was doing, he might have been a picture of stupidity."

"The younger men are the men who know?"

"Younger men who are brilliant know more than the older men who are not so studious."

The last witness called before noon adjournment was Dr. Walter English, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, Hamilton, a former Londoner, who has studied mental diseases since 1886.

"Since June 1, 1907, I have been medical superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, Hamilton, Ont."

"Tell the court how many cases you have examined for insanity?"

"I examine every patient, and we admit one a day, and have a population of 1,100."

"What do you say regarding your experience on mental diseases?"

"I believe myself qualified."

"Have you examined the prisoner?"

"Yes, twice."

"Are you in a position to speak on his mental condition May 31?"

"From what he has told me and what I have seen in this court, I am convinced that he was not, and is not now insane. He has not in his life history shown that characteristic indolence, one of the first symptoms of dementia praecox. He has held jobs by the fact of his ability to do the work. He quit one job for another of longer hours and, therefore, more money. He figured out for me the increase he would make on this new job."

"Is there anything else which indicates his condition?"

"His thriftiness. He told me he owns a home worth $4,500, which he has paid for by ten years of saving."

"Does the manner in which he came down the street May 31 assist you in coming to a conclusion as to his condition?"

"It does."

"Was he laboring under a disease of the mind, which made him incapable of appreciating right from wrong?"

"He was not in my opinion."

"Why?"

"He knew the hour that the girl returned home. He did not listen to the girl's pleading after firing the first shot. He turned the gun on himself to escape the penalty of his crime. His attitude after the shooting has fortified my opinion."

"What do you say as to the testimony of the physicians for the defense?"

"I do not believe that he has dementia praecox."

"What about the tests?"

"They only mean that he is not of high mentality, but those of high mentality often develop mental diseases."

Mental Capacity.

"His mental capacity is said to be that of a boy 11 years old. What do you say about such a boy's mentality?"

"A boy of 11 years old knows right from wrong, and knows it is wrong to shoot a gun at people."

"How does accused's test compare to the American army?"

"Very well. According to the published reports the average mental age of the American army was 12 years."

On cross-examination, Dr. English denied that executive duties at the hospital did not keep him from attending to scientific work.

"In all branches of medicine the young men are advancing more rapidly."

"If an older practitioner does not keep up with the day."

"Psychiatry is advancing rapidly now. Observation is the great thing."

"Yes."

"You can't account for this outbreak of this young man."

"Unless it is, as we often see, a case of unrequited love."

"Do you say taking of the shotgun is not abnormal?"

"Is abnormal."

"What about this boy, is he indifferent now?"

"No."

"Is that feigned?"

"No. It is anxiety."

"Is he all tense?"

"No."

"Is he paying strict attention?"

"Yes."

"Do you think that is the attitude of a man interested in the proceedings?"

"Yes."

"Then your experience is different than others here."

Dibsdale was seated at the time with head bowed and hands on knees, an attitude assumed all morning, in contrast to his continual scowl noted during previous appearances at the trial.

"What do you mean by saying the firing of two shots is evidence of sanity? There are many people in the asylum who fired more than one shot, aren't there?"

"Yes. But if that man had fired several shots at the body he would have showed insane tendencies, but he stopped as soon as his shots took effect and turned the gun on himself."

"Do you honestly believe he meant to escape by shooting himself?"

"I believe he shot to escape the penalty for shooting the girl."

"You don't mean to say he did not make up his mind to kill himself until after he killed the girl?"

"I think he did."

"You are getting into the realm of speculation, aren't you?"

"A Theory."

"It is all a theory."

"There is no clear-cut line between sanity and insanity?"

"No."

"The act itself is almost a prima facie for insanity?"

"Not necessarily."

"Do you think the influenza had anything to do with it?"

"It may cause a toxemia, but I expect he had recovered long before last May."

"You can't give us any reason for this act?"

"You don't assist us much."

"I cannot say whether I do not not."

"These may be a sudden outbreak, such as this, without anything to forecast it?"

"At times, yes."

"And this is one of the times?"

"I wouldn't say that."

"Are the symptoms which follow long continued practice of self-abuse compatible with the symptoms seen here?" asked Judge Mowat.

"I think so," replied Dr. English.

Mother Collapses.

At this point the mother of the slain girl collapsed in court, and when efforts to revive her proved futile she was carried to a retiring room by her husband and two constables.

The testimony of Dr. English concluded the evidence for the prosecution at 12:40 p.m., and court adjourned until 2 p.m. Upon resumption of the trial Friday afternoon, W. R. Meredith proceeded to address the jury, members of which are expected to return a verdict late Friday.

Expressing the opinion that Gordon Dibsdale, placed on trial for his life, charged with the murder of Christine Near, his 15-year-old sweetheart, is afflicted with dementia praecox, a form of insanity, was the main evidence adduced from alienists testifying for the defense at the fall assizes Thursday afternoon.

These experts, including Dr. Bernard McGhie, superintendent of Western Psychopathic Hospital, Dr. Stevenson, assistant superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, London, and Dr. James Wilson, jail physician, swore that in their opinion the prisoner is suffering with dementia praecox, which manifests itself in violent homicidal and suicidal outbreaks.

Prior to adjournment of the trial at 5:30 p.m., the crown called Dr. Emerson L. Hodgins and Dr. James Hoffmann, London, who attended accused while in Victoria Hospital recovering from self-inflicted wounds, and their testimony indicated that Dibsdale was of sane mind after the killing. Further expert alienists will be placed on the stand Friday morning in rebuttal to defense testimony.

Dr. McGhie Testifies.

Immediately following the noon recess, Dr. Bernard McGhie, superintendent of Westminster Hospital, was called by the defense to the stand. He examined the prisoner Dibsdale.

"I have."

"When did you first examine him?"

"On the evening of September 20, and the examination lasted about an hour. I have examined him on three occasions since, the last time being last night."

"Did you make any test of his mental age?"

"Yes, on the second examination."

"Tell the jury the nature of those tests."

"It is made by alienists dealing with sub-normal children and early adults in their twenties. The test is laid down by specialists and consists of a number of questions which, when answered, indicate mental age. The answers are recorded and marks are given. A summary was made and a report as to mental capacity was deduced therefrom."

"If correctly given they are fairly accurate. I took particular care in this case, because I knew there was much at stake. I was with his friend, who co-operated much better on the second examination."

"What did you find the mental age of prisoner to be?"

"What is the authority for these?" asked Judge Mowat.

Used Princeton Scale.

"It is the Princeton scale, used in the United States, and the tests themselves were used in the Canadian army in examining cases."

Dr. McGhie then explained the tests, which consisted of questions answered by Judge Mowat declared that he could not understand the test after learning the prisoner earned such good wages.

"Did you have a conversation with accused outside of these tests?"

"I did."

"He must be incapable of knowing such an act was wrong. If it is true that he shot this girl twice, was he incapable of knowing such an act was wrong?" said Judge Mowat.

"I am telling witness this. He must be incapable of knowing the act was wrong."

Continuing examination, defense said: "What were those conversations that you think affected test?"

On first examination, McGhie evaded answers, deliberately leading me off the track. I believed he was not answering me truthfully. He was feigning, but it was a very crude attempt, easy to determine and show he was simple boy to try to get away with it."

"On your subsequent examination did that attempt to feign pass away?"

"I overcame that by my approach to the prisoner."

"Were there any objective symptoms in this man?"

"Besides those of mental subnormality, there are other symptoms evident in the prisoner."

"What were those?"

"His mannerisms peculiar. Raising the forehead and wrinkling the brows, cyanotic condition of his hands, cold and clammy. Took very great pleasure in some absurdities of test, which did not appear to me to be in keeping with the serious position in which I found him. The most important was his emotional indifference, saying he felt better after hearing the gruesome details at his trial than the day before. He smiled almost continually."

"What sort of insanity would that indicate?"

Dementia Praecox.

"To me it indicates early symptoms of dementia praecox, a form of insanity, usually progressive, but there may be acute phases in which a man is worse, later returning to normal."

Gave Opinion.

"You gave an opinion as to what he thought at the shooting?"

"That was what I thought, not what he thought."

"Are you prepared to say if this man were not on trial and you heard these symptoms, this man should not be walking around the street?"

"I don't think anybody should write a certificate to lock this boy out, ruling out this act for which he is on trial."

"Would you agree that that boy is the type which you would expect to develop dementia praecox?"

"I will agree that he is the type which might develop it."

"No reasonable man would do the shooting?"

"No reasonable man would commit any crime. I am willing to grant that that was a peculiar bit of conduct."

"The feigning he gave you was the feigning of a child?"

"No. To feign insanity is very hard to do, unless a person knows how insane people act. He was trying to act a thing he knew nothing about."

Knew Right From Wrong.

"Are there any insane people who know right from wrong?"

"Most of them do."

"If they do wrong you don't punish them, do you?"

"No. It would not be fair, because they have been committed to our care by loved ones, and the government will not permit it. They are really not responsible."

"These other doctors know something of dementia praecox as well as you?"

"Certainly."

"One man kissing another is not abnormal?"

"Not in certain families."

"It is a very disgusting thing for one man to kiss another," said Judge Mowat.

"Some nations do it, but we Anglo-Saxons feel more like kicking a man kissing another man."

"You will admit he is of very low mental degree?"

"Not very low."

Eleven Years Old.

"He is 11 years old mentally."

"Do you know what the normal is on those tests?" asked W. R. Meredith.

"It is sixteen," said W. R. Meredith.

"The American army did not measure 16," said witness.

"The men who devised that test set a high standard for normal mentality."

"What was the average mental age found by these tests in the American army?" asked the court.

"There were a million men there."

"I have no official figures, but it was 12 years, I understand."

"Do you think meeting the girl would act as a disturbing influence?" asked counsel.

"The coming in contact with a girl would not drive many people crazy."

"Would influenza affect the man?"

"Did he have it?" asked Dr. Clarke.

"I did not hear any doctor say he had influenza."

"His parents said it. You don't have to have a doctor to have influenza, do you?"

"No, but before the toxemia would break down the body it would have to be severe. He may have just had the stripe."

"Moir carried on his work until he did the murder. You know that soldier?"

"Yes, but Moir was known to be an epileptic long before he did the shooting."

Judge Mowat cautioned counsel to refrain from introducing another case.

"What do you think of the prisoner now?"

"I don't think he presents a perfect picture of mental disease."

Good Imitation.

"A pretty good imitation," added W. R. Meredith.

"Suppose this man committed an abnormal act, such as burning his money, would he be safe to walk the streets?"

"No, I would not say that. I would have him brought in for observation."

"Would you say the prisoner is indifferent?"

"I don't know."

"Lord, bless my soul, you examined him."

"Yes, and he was not indifferent."

"He was scared."

"What do you think about him?"

"I think that boy is worrying and anxious."

"Stupid?"

"No, I would not use that word at all. He is not a picture of stupidity."

"The younger men are the men who know?"

"Younger men who are brilliant know more than the older men who are not so studious."

The last witness called before noon adjournment was Dr. Walter English, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, Hamilton, a former Londoner, who has studied mental diseases since 1886.

On cross-examination, Dr. English denied that executive duties at the hospital did not keep him from attending to scientific work.

"In all branches of medicine the young men are advancing more rapidly."

"If an older practitioner does not keep up with the day."

"Psychiatry is advancing rapidly now. Observation is the great thing."

"Yes."

"You can't account for this outbreak of this young man."

"Unless it is, as we often see, a case of unrequited love."

"Do you say taking of the shotgun is not abnormal?"

"Is abnormal."

"What about this boy, is he indifferent now?"

"No."

"Is that feigned?"

"No. It is anxiety."

"Is he all tense?"

"No."

"Is he paying strict attention?"

"Yes."

"Do you think that is the attitude of a man interested in the proceedings?"

"Yes."

"Then your experience is different than others here."

Dibsdale was seated at the time with head bowed and hands on knees, an attitude assumed all morning, in contrast to his continual scowl noted during previous appearances at the trial.

"What do you mean by saying the firing of two shots is evidence of sanity? There are many people in the asylum who fired more than one shot, aren't there?"

"Yes. But if that man had fired several shots at the body he would have showed insane tendencies, but he stopped as soon as his shots took effect and turned the gun on himself."

"Do you honestly believe he meant to escape by shooting himself?"

"I believe he shot to escape the penalty for shooting the girl."

"You don't mean to say he did not make up his mind to kill himself until after he killed the girl?"

"I think he did."

"You are getting into the realm of speculation, aren't you?"

"A Theory."

"It is all a theory."

"There is no clear-cut line between sanity and insanity?"

"No."

"The act itself is almost a prima facie for insanity?"

"Not necessarily."

"Do you think the influenza had anything to do with it?"

"It may cause a toxemia, but I expect he had recovered long before last May."

"You can't give us any reason for this act?"

"You don't assist us much."

"I cannot say whether I do not not."

"These may be a sudden outbreak, such as this, without anything to forecast it?"

"At times, yes."

"And this is one of the times?"

"I wouldn't say that."

"Are the symptoms which follow long continued practice of self-abuse compatible with the symptoms seen here?" asked Judge Mowat.

"I think so," replied Dr. English.

Mother Collapses.

At this point the mother of the slain girl collapsed in court, and when efforts to revive her proved futile she was carried to a retiring room by her husband and two constables.

The testimony of Dr. English concluded the evidence for the prosecution at 12:40 p.m., and court adjourned until 2 p.m. Upon resumption of the trial Friday afternoon, W. R. Meredith proceeded to address the jury, members of which are expected to return a verdict late Friday.

Expressing the opinion that Gordon Dibsdale, placed on trial for his life, charged with the murder of Christine Near, his 15-year-old sweetheart, is afflicted with dementia praecox, a form of insanity, was the main evidence adduced from alienists testifying for the defense at the fall assizes Thursday afternoon.

These experts, including Dr. Bernard McGhie, superintendent of Western Psychopathic Hospital, Dr. Stevenson, assistant superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, London, and Dr. James Wilson, jail physician, swore that in their opinion the prisoner is suffering with dementia praecox, which manifests itself in violent homicidal and suicidal outbreaks.

Prior to adjournment of the trial at 5:30 p.m., the crown called Dr. Emerson L. Hodgins and Dr. James Hoffmann, London, who attended accused while in Victoria Hospital recovering from self-inflicted wounds, and their testimony indicated that Dibsdale was of sane mind after the killing. Further expert alienists will be placed on the stand Friday morning in rebuttal to defense testimony.

Dr. McGhie Testifies.

Immediately following the noon recess, Dr. Bernard McGhie, superintendent of Westminster Hospital, was called by the defense to the stand. He examined the prisoner Dibsdale.

"I have."

"When did you first examine him?"

"On the evening of September 20, and the examination lasted about an hour. I have examined him on three occasions since, the last time being last night."

"Did you make any test of his mental age?"

"Yes, on the second examination."

"Tell the jury the nature of those tests."

"It is made by alienists dealing with sub-normal children and early adults in their twenties. The test is laid down by specialists and consists of a number of questions which, when answered, indicate mental age. The answers are recorded and marks are given. A summary was made and a report as to mental capacity was deduced therefrom."

"If correctly given they are fairly accurate. I took particular care in this case, because I knew there was much at stake. I was with his friend, who co-operated much better on the second examination."

"What did you find the mental age of prisoner to be?"

"What is the authority for these?" asked Judge Mowat.

Used Princeton Scale.

"It is the Princeton scale, used in the United States, and the tests themselves were used in the Canadian army in examining cases."

Dr. McGhie then explained the tests, which consisted of questions answered by Judge Mowat declared that he could not understand the test after learning the prisoner earned such good wages.

"Did you have a conversation with accused outside of these tests?"

"I did."

"He must be incapable of knowing such an act was wrong. If it is true that he shot this girl twice, was he incapable of knowing such an act was wrong?" said Judge Mowat.

"I am telling witness this. He must be incapable of knowing the act was wrong."

Continuing examination, defense said: "What were those conversations that you think affected test?"

On first examination, McGhie evaded answers, deliberately leading me off the track. I believed he was not answering me truthfully. He was feigning, but it was a very crude attempt, easy to determine and show he was simple boy to try to get away with it."

"On your subsequent examination did that attempt to feign pass away?"

"I overcame that by my approach to the prisoner."

"Were there any objective symptoms in this man?"

"Besides those of mental subnormality, there are other symptoms evident in the prisoner."

"What were those?"

"His mannerisms peculiar. Raising the forehead and wrinkling the brows, cyanotic condition of his hands, cold and clammy. Took very great pleasure in some absurdities of test, which did not appear to me to be in keeping with the serious position in which I found him. The most important was his emotional indifference, saying he felt better after hearing the gruesome details at his trial than the day before. He smiled almost continually."

"What sort of insanity would that indicate?"

Dementia Praecox.

We never discharge cases of that kind as completely cured."

"Is it accompanied by suicidal or homicidal tendencies?"

"In certain phases the patients are given to impulses, either homicidal or suicidal."

"I suppose a man never does anything unless on impulses?" commented the court.

"I know we are going to get into a sea here."

"We are on a very dangerous sea," replied P. H. Bartlett.

"In later examinations and on hearing parent's evidence of a shut-in life for prisoner, is there anything you can throw light on?"

"He was not up to normal in reaching third book only at fourteen. In industrial life he was somewhat sheltered by an interested party who overlooked some faults. His apparent stupidity at that time would indicate dementia praecox. The history given by his family of emotional instability may be an indication of dementia praecox."

Scientific View.

"Have you ever seen a young man desperately in love?" asked Judge Mowat.

"Give us a scientific description of it."

"We have found in many cases, love affairs are unsatisfactory due to the emotional make-up of the patient. In many cases the fact that they do not feel competent to carry out a love affair has a disturbing effect on their mentality."

"Look at the prisoner," said the court. "How do you account for the difference between now and his mind at your examination?"

"There is no exciting cause."

"Describe the appearance of that man in the box."

"From his appearance, he is not taking an intelligent interest."

"Did you notice when I said 'look at the prisoner,' he raised his eyes?"

"He is not following the trend of the conversation."

"O well," said Judge Mowat, "he has expert counsel to do that for him."

"Was there any statement made by him to you that discloses any condition in his past life?" asked counsel.

"I do not know, your lordship, if I am to disclose confidences of his past life."

"Doctors should not divulge confidences," said the court. "Can we not believe this? This will be objectionable evidence to the delicacy of ladies present. I am going to give warning. I will adjourn the court for five minutes."

With this warning practically every woman present withdrew excepting one or two who were requested to leave the court.

Dr. McGhie then swore that Dibsdale confessed to him that he indulged in secret habits not conducive to good health since he was 14 years of age, and that this fact worried him when contemplating a successful marriage to his sweetheart.

W. R. Meredith stated in court that this information was only divulged after permission to do so had been obtained from Gordon Dibsdale, his client.

Judge Mowat cautioned the defense not to use the word insanity at the trial, declaring it to be too wide under the law. He urged counsel to ask Dr. McGhie if Dibsdale knew right from wrong, but counsel refused to do this.

"From history and your observation of the man he was at the time of the crime on the 31st of May, suffering from dementia praecox in its incipient form?" Dr. McGhie was asked.

"In my opinion he was showing signs indicative of dementia praecox."

Cross-Examines Witness.

Cross-examination by J. C. Elliott, Dr. McGhie admitted that this occasion marked his first appearance in a criminal court as an alienist. He gave his age as 33 years, and stated that he graduated in medicine in 1916. His experience since graduation as an alienist came in for close scrutiny by the crown attorney.

The crown submitted several text books by medical authorities treating on the symptoms of dementia praecox in an attempt to batter down Dr. McGhie's testimony.

"You heard the story of the shooting," asked counsel. "Why did the prisoner fire the second shot?"

"I don't know," replied Dr. McGhie.

"That's the most honest answer I have heard here for some time," said Judge Mowat.

Dr. William B. Stevenson, assistant superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, London, was next called by the defense. He stated that he has been connected with insane asylums in Ontario asylums for a period of four years, and examined Dibsdale five times. He swore that the tests demonstrated accused's mental age as that of an 11-year-old boy.

"The thing that impressed me most about the boy was his emotional dullness," said Dr. Stevenson.

"He seemed to have no appreciation of his own position. His mannerisms impressed me. He would laugh without reason and wrinkle his brow, holding these peculiar grimaces for some time."

Corroborates Dr. McGhie.

He corroborated Dr. McGhie, regarding the symptoms of dementia praecox as observed in the prisoner.

LOCAL CHOIR TO STAGE CONCERT

Musical Art Society Organization To Appear at Patricia,
April 5.

Reorganized Body to Compete at Provincial Contest in Toronto.

The plans for the first concert to be given by the newly-reorganized Musical Art Society choir have been completed.

The performance will be given Tuesday, April 5, at the Patricia Theatre. The assisting artist will probably be a new Russian tenor who has made a great sensation in musical circles.

A. D. Jordan has selected an excellent program, which will be given entirely without accompaniment.

Numbers already chosen are
"Jesu, dulcis memoria," by Richard Dering (1617). "Tenebrae factae sunt," by Palestrina (1594). Both these selections will be sung in Latin.
The Russian school will be represented by Gretchaninov's "Planting Flax," Taneyev's "The Stars," and Rachmaninov's "Gloria to the Trinity." English part-songs will include Bantock's "Awake, Awake,"
"On Himalay," and a novelty by Sir Edward Elgar, entitled "Owls." Special numbers will be given by the separate choirs of men and women.

In addition to the regular program, the choir will rehearse for the provincial competition, which will be held in Toronto in April, and it is expected that with the very carefully chosen voices that make up the choir of 100, a creditable showing will be made by the London contin-gent.

A waiting list of 25 members is being formed, all of whom are expected to rehearse with the choir,
but who do not become active members until a vacancy occurs in the regular body. This will provide for any shrinkage in the choir through illness, removal from the city, or any other cause.

Many applications for membership are coming in from nearby towns.
The committees for this season are:
President, Col. E. G. Shannon;
vice-president, H. B. Hunter; secretary, E. B. Cottle; treasurer, C. H.
Froggett; executive committee, E. L.
Copeland, H. W. Gibson, Rev. G.
Quintin Warner, J. H. Ryan, membership committee, H. B. Hunter, H.
W. Gibson, F. W. Brown, Miss A.
McKenzie, Mrs. G. A. Gerald, Mrs. H.
F. Clarke; music committee, Rev. G.
Quintin Warner, Ed Smith, J. H.
Ryan, A. J. McFadden, E. S. Crawford, D. H. Yull, conductor. A. J.
Jordan; librarian, Fred W. Robins; accompanist, Jennie Steele.

The first rehearsal will be held next Wednesday night in the Parish Hall of the Cronyn Memorial Church, at 8 o'clock. The conductor or membership committee will gladly welcome any singer who wishes to apply, the test for membership being based on quality and range of voice, ability to read at sight, and previous experience, although the late condition is not being stressed too greatly,
as some of the most promising vocalists accepted have had but little choral experience.

PASSENGERS JOLTED WHEN BUS COLLIDES WITH TRUCK

None Injured in Crash at Corner of King and Clarence Streets, Thursday.

Several passengers in a Hamilton road bus had a narrow escape from injuries when the vehicle was wrecked by a truck owned by Catalano & Sansone at the corner of King and Clarence streets at 5:55 o'clock Thursday night.

The bus was proceeding east on King street when it was met by the truck, traveling south on Clarence street. The bus lost a front wheel, suffered a damaged hood and a broken windshield. The truck was not damaged.

The passengers of the bus were badly shaken, but received no injuries. The bus was driven by J.
Shearson, 74 Rectory street, and the truck by Richard Barrett, 421 King street.

Chief Opposes Closing Of No. 2 Hall

THERE are opponents to the fire hall solution, as advanced by Alderman Holmes, who would re-open the north end fire hall and close No. 2 hall in the rear of the East London town hall, Rectory and Dundas streets.

Fire Chief John Aitken is among the number who hold that it would be a most ill-advised move at this time. He holds that in view of the fact that there is such a large business district in the east end of the city, as well as so many industrial plants and the Hospital for the Insane in addition, fire protection should not rest solely upon the central fire hall.

DR. F. H. MITCHELL DIES AT KILWORTH

Former Londoner Passes at Advanced Age After Lingering Illness.

After a lingering illness, the death occurred on Thursday morning of Frederick H. Mitchell, M. D., well-known physician of Kilworth, at the advanced age of 74 years.

The late Dr. Mitchell will be mourned by a wide circle of friends.
He is a son of the late B. A. Mitchell, a former druggist of this city, who was in business for nearly 60 years, and was educated at the Helms-bury College, London, going to Montreal, where he studied medicine, and graduated from McGill University.
Dr. Mitchell practiced in Lobo village, going later to Delaware. He also conducted a private sanatorium at Kilworth. During his lifetime he was honored in his work, having held the office of coroner in his district, and also that of health officer.

He was married twice. By his first wife he leaves a son and daughter—B. A. Mitchell, of Orenco; Origan, who was here at his bedside
at the time of his death; and Miss Edna Elder, of Deckererville, Mich.
His second wife, formerly Rachel Blair, survives him; also graduated in medicine, and was of great assistance to the doctor in his practice.
Florence Mitchell, of London, is a half-sister.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE

PLAN WINTER'S PROGRAM

Adelaide Street Church Organization Elect Leaders for Various Activities.

Plans for the winter's work were discussed at an executive meeting of the Adelaide Street Baptist Young People's Union, held Thursday night in the church basement, and it was decided that there will be a special program arranged every fifth Monday in the future, to be held by the group system will be used as previously, and new leaders were chosen by the executives at their last regular meeting, and it is expected that larger numbers will attend the winter's meetings than that of last year.

At the meeting last Monday night, 77 young people were reported in attendance, thirty more than that at the previous meeting. Mr. Bissett is given full credit by the different committees for the efficient way in which he has handled the organization. The president has made a personal campaign, and fruits of his labor were evidenced by the large attendance last Monday night.

Letters have been received by the secretary from Mr. Gross, president of the Wortley Road Society, suggesting ways and means of installing a missionary library by the B. Y. P. U. of Adelaide Street Church. A committee has been appointed to look into the advisability of this matter, and the members will bring forth the results of their investigation at the next executive meeting on the night of October 9. The committee appointed is composed of Francis Scott, Cora Carson and Mrs. J. E.
McNaughton.

Mrs. McNaughton was also elected as junior leader, following the resignation of Mrs. Wm. Peglar from that position.

"LIVE WIRES" STAGE RALLY

London Girls' Clubs Hold Autumn Gathering at Y. W. C. A.

New General Secretary Delivers Heart-to-Heart Address on Life's Purpose.

"When live wires get together, the atmosphere is bound to be charged with electricity," said a visitor at "Lenmore," the downtown residence of the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday evening, when about two hundred or more bright faced, happy looking girls gathered for "Live Wire Night," the 1922 autumn rally of the Federation of Girls' Clubs.

Sandwiched between inspirational addresses from Mrs. Donald McLean, convenor of the industrial extension committee; Miss Marjorie Morton, the new general secretary; Miss Clara Brenton, supervisor of kindergartens in London; Mrs. Freda Stephens, president of the Girls'
Canadian Club, interpretive dancing
by Miss Edith Wynne Pryor, a contributor of physical education, and musical numbers, including community singing, was a report presented by the federation, which told an engaging story. The story was one of the growth of the federation since 1919 from one club to six hundred and forty, from an organization requiring to borrow $25 from the board, to a flourishing corporation having a substantial bank account, and the majority of its units in the same satisfactory state.

Its Un Distinction.
Mrs. McDonald, the secretary, reported that no less than 105 of the club girls had taken up courses in home nursing, 119 dressmaking, others English, social ethics, Bible study. There are a means of distinguishing themselves in dramatics,
one girl had taken up matriculation.

Through co-operation in the federation, a number had been privileged to attend summer camp conferences, etc., while the president, Miss Ruth Lucas, had been sent to the triennial convention of the Dominion Y. W. C. A.

But the federation girls and their leader, Mrs. Mattie Rose Crawford, have no intentions of resting on their laurels. For the 1922-23 journey toward the receding goal of ambition, they received a rousing send-off from Mrs. Donald McLean, who, extending a welcome on behalf of the board, spoke briefly and to the point on the subject of "Live Wires."

"A live wire is a means of distributing light, energy, power, one of the greatest forces in the world. Under certain conditions it is a source of danger. It is made safe by insulation.
It is wrapped to protect it from young men, who are full of youth, energy, and power, you girls can be a tremendous power for betterment of the community. Here is where the insulation, protecting through its many activities, working toward the highest development of the girls."

An Undeniable Asset.

"Anything that tends to increase the efficiency of the working power of the state, and safeguarding the power of the workers, is an unde-niable asset. It is on this that we claim for greater recognition from manufacturers and other employers. We claim they are directly benefited by the higher efficiency of their workers, and we hold that they would be still more benefited if London if we had better equipment for carrying on our work."
(Applause.)

Miss Morton, the new general secretary, for whom rally night was a "coming out party," so far as the girls' clubs of the Y. W. C. A. were concerned, immediately established friendly relations, and evoked laughter with the quotation, "Do not make the mistake of thinking you are a live wire because you sputter a little."

"Does your sputtering get you anywhere?" was the pertinent question she asked. "It takes a strong, steady stream of power to lift burdens and turn the wheels of commerce."

Urging the value of confidence,
"the girl that thinks she can't is generally right," she said, "and the girl who thinks she can, succeeds."

Conveying the greetings of the Girls' Canadian Club, Mrs. Freda Stephens, president, referred to its aim, to make of girls and young women good Canadian citizens.

Talking about "The Live Wire when musical, Miss Brenton pleaded for keeping the song all through life. While not questioning the scientific side, she was inclined to deplore the lack of melody and rhythm in the lives of the little children of today who are put to bed in the dark, instead of being rocked to sleep to mother's lullabies, as in good old days. Emphasizing the great need of heart culture, she closed with the thought that because music vitalizes the life of the child, it should be cherished to vitalize all life.

"Let us use music as a tremendous power to climb to higher and better things," she said.

Miss Moore extended a cordial invitation to the Sunday home hour, and Miss Ada Minelly made announcement with regard to the Federation paper, a paper, of which a sample copy will be on exhibition the first federation night.

Miss Ruth Lucas, president, gave the address of welcome. Mrs. Mattie Rose Crawford introducing Miss Morton to the girls in a graceful speech. A solo by Miss McClure, violin and piano numbers by Miss Florence Brooks and her brother proved enjoyable features.

A happy social hour was enjoyed over tempting refreshments.

"I SPIED TODAY"

PRIZE FOR BEST ITEM DAILY.

YOU must see something going on every day. Perhaps not a big thing, but interesting. The Advertiser wants you to send it for use in the "I Spied" column. Every reader a reporter is the idea behind the plan. The items must not be written to "take a stab" at any person. If so, they will not be published.

In order to create interest in the column, the GRAND OPERA HOUSE has donated two seats each night as a prize for the best item of the day. Your name and address must accompany the item, and it can run with only your initial attached if you desire. The contest is on. WHO WANTS TO GO TO THE GRAND?

If "A. L." in Thursday's "I Spied" column will call at The Advertiser Office today or Saturday, she will be given two tickets for the Grand Theatre Saturday.

TEACHERS TO VISIT WINDSOR SCHOOLS

London Association Accepts Invitation to Inspect Border City System.

London public school teachers will visit Windsor in a body Friday, Nov. 3, to examine the Rotary schools of Windsor and methods of teaching employed there.

Members of the executive of the London Teachers' Association, at a meeting Thursday night, decided to accept the invitation of Windsor teachers. Arrangements were also made for the annual meeting of the association, which takes place Nov. 2 and 3.

Sessions on Thursday, Nov. 2, will be held in the city, and if possible, in the London Normal School. T. E.
Clarke, of the Normal School staff, is scheduled for a paper on "Economy in Teaching Spelling," and W.
Y. Bell, of the city council, will speak on "How the Public Schools Can Further the Interests of Industry."

Although the speaker has not yet been announced, a member of the staff of Western University is expected to address the teachers at the evening session.

Rotary schools in Windsor will provide a visit of much interest to the London teachers. It was explained that the name "Rotary" is applied owing to the fact that classes move from one room to another for different classes.

Tickets for the excursion to Windsor are to be made good over the week-end, so it is expected many of the London teaching staff will spend the holiday in Detroit.

OPPOSE CHANGE IN WARD SYSTEM

Ex-Alderman William Wilson, who has already announced his intention to enter Ward 2's aldermanic field at the next election, takes issue with those members of the city council who advocate the abolition of the ward system for polling purposes.

"The change cannot be accomplished without a vote of the people," he asserted Friday, "and I was the one who moved in the city council that we revert to the ward system. The vote at large is only done in small towns, and is out of date."

Up-To-Date Motorists Like Snails; Tote Their Own Homes With Them

The independence of the traveling public from the worries and tribulations of railroad travel and poor hotel accommodation is becoming more and more exemplified every day, when such complete convenience can be attained as was exhibited in an automobile caravan which passed through London this morning.

The vehicle, which bore an Indiana license, was of boxlike construction, mounted on a small touring chassis of popular make, and contained everything that was necessary to complete the comforts of a small home.

Inside the arrangement was a veritable surprise box of ingenuity. There

SEEK CO-OPERATION IN HUMANE WORK

Members of London Society
Appeal to St. Thomas Body
For Support.

In a letter drawn up at the meeting of the London Humane Society in the city hall Thursday night, and forwarded to the St. Thomas Humane Society, is a request for greater cooperation on the part of the St.
Thomas society in order that work may be carried on with increased effectiveness in the counties of Middlesex and Elgin.

Constantly increasing activities are indicated by the monthly reports submitted to the Humane Society by Inspector Tustin. The report for September shows that the average number of calls attended to each day was 21.

Rt. Rev. James Fielding Sweeney,
the Bishop of Toronto, who visited the Humane Society kennels on Victoria street Thursday afternoon, expressed only the highest praise for the manner in which the work of the society was conducted, offering Mr.
Tustin cordial commendation on the careful and kindly fashion in which all cases were attended to.

During the month of September 104 cases were handled by the society. Horses examined numbered 319, and 5 were destroyed. Dogs cared for numbered 27, and cats 32.
Other animals examined numbered 217, and 88 crates of poultry were examined.

During fair week 68 performing animals were examined, Mr. Tustin keeping a watchful eye on conditions amongst all animals at the fair grounds. He stated, however, that conditions were all that could be desired.

One summons was issued by the Humane Society, and one conviction secured. Warnings issued numbered 14, and advice was given in 62 cases.

In one day 32 emergency calls were received by Inspector Tustin, but of these only 27 could be given attention, owing to lack of time and conveyance.

SHOWS NECESSITY OF CHILD ACTIVITY

Dr. Dearness Addresses the Tumesh Avenue Mothers' Club Gathering.

Dr. John Dearness, former principal of the Normal School, was the speaker at the opening meeting of the Tumesh Avenue Mothers' Club, held Thursday evening. The subject chosen for discussion was "Training While Learning." He pointed out the necessity of every person being able to carry his or her own weight. "A baby carries its own weight by giving an equivalent amount of happiness," said Dr. Dearness.

He impressed upon the mothers
the necessity of keeping the child active, in some useful way, as all honest work is in itself an education.
He went on to say that he thought it would be a good idea if an arrangement could be made, so that credit would be given in school for all manual work accomplished at home or outside of school hours in order to encourage the young people to work.

He concluded his address by saying that any one who was dependent upon the labor of others was a parasite.

It was decided to hold two meetings in October—a special one in the afternoon, for the convenience of the mothers of the younger children, who are unable to leave their children in the evening. These mothers will have the opportunity of becoming acquainted with the teachers at this meeting.

Mrs. S. E. Plewes, the treasurer, and the only new officer for this season, was introduced. In a brief report, she stated that the balance on hand amounted to $24.

A social committee was appointed including Mrs. Sant, Mrs. C. Boyce and Mrs. H. Storie; also a reception committee, with Mrs. Brice as convener, and Mrs. G. Hyatt and Mrs. S.
Jones as assistants.

A charming program was given,
the following taking part: Mrs. S. W.
Tentlin, a solo; Miss Campbell, a solo, and Miss Margaret Taylor a recitation.

HOLMES RESENTS WORD CATPAW

Ald. Holmes resents the expression
"catpaw," as used at the last meeting of the finance committee of the city council during the discussion as to the most favorable manner in which to "speed up" the business of the city hall.

Dr. Holmes points out that he was not to be considered the "catpaw" in the move which has resulted in the committee's determination to stage a special session of all department heads. He was in fact the prime mover, and demanded that events in city council circles be pursued to a logical conclusion.

THE EXECUTIVE council of the London Football Association will hold a special meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms Friday night. Every member is asked to be present as several matters of urgent importance will be discussed.

ERNEST HUTCHESON.

ANNOUNCEMENT that Ernest Hutcheson, the famous piano virtuoso of New York City, will give a series of Thursday evening recitals in Toronto this fall and winter will be greeted with interest by many of Mr. Hutcheson's former pupils, now scattered throughout Ontario, who will welcome this opportunity of their maestro and gaining further inspiration and profit.

TO DIVIDE WORK OF SCHOOL OFFICIALS

Board of Education Expects Satisfactory Arrangement
in Attendance Dept.

The work of the public school attendance department with its attend-ment problems involves the enforcement of the adolescent school attendance act, will be divided between Dr.
George S. Weil, public school attendance officer, and Miss Dallas Radcliffe, who since September 1 has been assisting in this department.

Although a special committee of the board of education was called for Thursday afternoon to discuss the question as to who should be "boss," an insufficient number of the trustees appeared. Trustees Edwin Smith (chairman) and A. N. Udy were present, and while the issue was discussed at some length it was felt that a decision should be withheld until the majority of the committee were in attendance.

It is believed that an inept con-trovercy will be averted, however, before anything of a serious or unpleasant nature develops. The duties will be equally divided, it was explained Friday, in such a manner as to reduce the possibility of conflicting opinions to a minimum. That this arrangement will be satisfactory is expected at this moment, and in any event, it is pointed out that any dispute that might arise from time to time will be ironed out by the school inspector, who will represent the higher tribunal or court of appeal.

No further misunderstanding is anticipated in board of education circles.

URGE NEW SCHOOL
BE STARTED SOON

Trustees Fear Building May Not Be Completed by September, 1923.

A special session of the board of education with but little delay is imperative, school authorities state. It is their earnest desire that actual work in connection with the construction of the new public school at Oliver and Trunk Road be undertaken before the snow flies.

They fear that if a start is not made within a reasonable time, the work will be so delayed that it will be impossible to have the structure completed and ready for occupancy when the schools reopen September next.

If such should be the case, they reason, the classroom accommodation situation for east and southeast London will have assumed the most alarming proportions, and the attending problems most difficult to solve.

In the meanwhile, it is reported that plans for the contemplated building are all ready for the final consideration of the trustees.

SOLVES LOST
GRAPES MYSTERY

next day, nursing a plot. Looking over the class he spied some spots on the outer garments of one of his hopefuls. Turning the causes of his spots over in his mind, he decided they were not from eggs, neither from a bowl of Scottish mush or apple sauce. As these are the three chief articles of diet in the north end of London, he was passing to pass very closely to where the boy with the spotted garment was seated.

When the class started work for the day a sentence was given to be analyzed, and it ran somewhat after this fashion: "Ripe grapes on a moonlit night are a great temptation to small boys."

And as the future men of the world picked out verb, nouns, etc., there stole across the countenance of the grape juice lad a look that was sheepish and guilty.

Finally it was suggested that the spots on the blouse might possibly have been made by crawling through the fence from a vineyard, and a little further questioning laid bare the plot in which three of the lads had shared for the purpose of sampling the school teacher's grapes.

And the sequel was to be seen on Thursday afternoon after school, when baskets were provided, and the three boys were invited, or instructed, to report for duty at the house of the vineyard to gather the grapes and carry it safely into the home of the teacher.

They showed themselves to be such good grape pickers the first time by moonlight, that the teacher was just certain they would be dandy by daylight with a proper amount of supervision.

Thus is the crop of 1922 gathered in, and all is in readiness for the wine press and grape jelly.

sible step for the prevention of such a conflagration. It is explained that these fears are based on the relations known to exist between the Angora government and soviet Russia, and the potentialities of such relations.

The whole British policy, it is stated, is to keep the Turks from crossing the Dardanelles into Eastern Thrace, because it is maintained that in this event fighting would certainly occur, and the whole of the Balkans would be drawn into the struggle. It is declared emphatically that such a crossing will not be countenanced.

The issue of war or peace still hung by a thread this morning, and there was no relief from the tension existing yesterday. Violation of the new Turkish soldiers are approaching to within a few feet of the British outposts and reconnoitering the whole of the defensive positions. General Harrington's orders have not been changed.

The cabinet went into session again this morning, and probably will continue throughout the day, with only the necessary intermissions.

MONTREAL, Sept. 28.—A great bog, three miles long and one and a half miles deep, which it was intended to utilize to make up Montreal's fuel shortage this winter, is ablaze at St. Therese, Que. All attempts to put the local fire department to put the fire out have failed, and it is now feared that the whole bog will be destroyed.

The bog is the property of Ald. George Vandellac, and was recently visited by a deputation from the Montreal City Council, which is handling the Council situation here. A heavy fall of rain alone will save the bog. There is a suspicion that the peat may have been deliberately fired.

BLAME WIARTON FIRE
ON DEFECTIVE WIRING

WIARTON, Sept. 28.—Fire, which may have been caused by defective wiring, totally destroyed a frame stable owned by D. W. McClure, today. The building was worth about $1,000 and was protected by $400 insurance.

Sparks from the blaze ignited the roof of the local skating rink in several places as well as the roof of a warehouse nearby. These were extinguished only through strenuous efforts.

Authority for the commencement of the preliminary audits of the books of the Chatham Gas Company was given to Harry Collins, an auditor, by Mayor Harrington this morning. The audit will be used in the negotiations between the city and the gas company in a rate adjustment.

MEDICAL COUNCIL
HONORS DOCTORS

Chatham Physicians Notified of Appointment to Ontario Examining Board.

Special to London Advertiser.

CHATHAM, Sept. 28.—Two Chatham physicians have been signally honored by the Ontario Medical Council by being appointed to the examining board of that body. They are Drs. C. B. Oliver and J. W. Rutherford, and are the first physicians of Western Ontario west of London to have a place on that body.

Dr. Oliver will be the examiner in obstetrics and gynaecology, and Dr. Rutherford will be examiner in surgery. Both doctors, who received advice of their appointment by mail this morning, are well up in their profession, and enjoy excellent reputations among the medical fraternity of Western Ontario.

Dr. Arthur Day, a former Chatham boy, who was reported as "missing" in a dispatch from Detroit, is quite safe in Toronto. His mother, Mrs. Andrew Day of this city, held a long-distance conversation with him last night, and reported that her son is quite safe.

The war memorial committee of the G. W. V. A. will conduct a campaign in the city shortly to raise funds for the memorial, which will be placed on Sixth street, between the Bank of Commerce and the Standard Bank. Plans for the campaign will be discussed at a luncheon in aid of the fund, which will be held in about two weeks' time.

Gasoline tractors are being used here quite extensively to break the land for fall planting for the farmers. Horses are only being used where the ground is soft. The acreage to be plowed this fall is much larger than that of last year.

Col. W. A. McCrimmon, inspector of physical drill and cadet work in the public and separate schools for Western Ontario, is in the city for a few days, and is engaged on preliminary work in connection with physical drill in the public schools.

In an interview with him today, Col. McCrimmon predicted a return to cadet drills, which have been somewhat lax in the city schools for the past two years.

Authority for the commencement of the preliminary audits of the books of the Chatham Gas Company was given to Harry Collins, an auditor, by Mayor Harrington this morning. The audit will be used in the negotiations between the city and the gas company in a rate adjustment.

The Chinese objected to railway building because white men went through their cemeteries with their surveys and roads.

URGE TEACHING OF DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Broughdale Mothers' Club Seek Approval of Board of Education.

Though only organized a few months before the summer holidays, Broughdale Mothers' Club is already making its interest and co-operation felt in a most practical way in connection with the school life and work.

At the September meeting held Thursday evening, the members expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the teaching of domestic science and manual training in the school, so far as possible, the teachers, Miss Dickerson and Miss Limon, consenting to do so, provided the approval of the school trustees could be obtained. Miss Dickerson and Miss Limon were asked to act as a committee to approach the trustees with regard to the matter, and also to ask, in the event of consent, for the advancing of the necessary amount to purchase equipment, this eventually to be refunded by government grant.

The Mothers' Club further gave a donation of $10 to purchase books for the school library, and has set as a further objective, the purchasing of a piano. In order to raise funds, it was decided to hold a sale of home cooking, and candy Saturday, Oct. 21. The following committee will be in charge: Mesdames Ullin, Ellis Hodgins, Fred Dickerson, Milligan, R. Oak, J. Thurston, Charles Ward and W. H. Wyatt. Regular meetings will be held the fourth Thursday of every month.

An earnest effort is being made to enlist the interest of every woman in the district in the work of the Broughdale Mothers' Club on behalf of the school.

CONDUCT ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT BETHESDA

Special to London Advertiser.

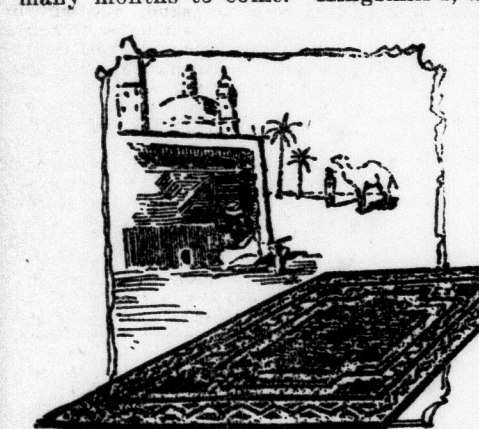

MONKTON, Sept. 28.—The anniversary services of the Bethesda Methodist Church were held on Sunday. Special music was furnished by the Wilton Grove choir, assisted by Ernest Goodwin, violinist, of Toronto.

The ideal weather made it possible for the church to be crowded to capacity both morning and evening. The preacher of the day was Rev. Gordon Butt, who delivered two able and inspiring sermons. A very liberal thankoffering was received. Many of the farmers are now busy at silo-filling.

Home-like, cozy rooms are found without tiresome search by the use of the Want Ads.

and confidences regarding Dibs-dale's habits.

"Was he suffering from any disease of the mind?"

"I think he is in the early stages of dementia praecox."

"Is dementia praecox associated with acute outbreaks homicidal in the acute stages?"

"Yes."

"On cross-examination by the crown, Dr. Stevenson stated that he was first asked to examine Dibs-dale by Dr. Robinson, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, under whom he is employed."

"Are you prepared to say he has dementia praecox?"

"I am prepared to say he has dementia praecox."

"Will you go any further?"

"I think he is insane."

"That sounds like an eagerness from an expert witness," interrupted the court.

Upon application of P. H. Bartlett
Judge Mowat allowed Albert Dibs-dale, father of the prisoner, to be recalled to the witness box. He stated that for $90 and a violin for $160.
He later "took the violin back" and exchanged it for another phonograph, costing $475.

Dr. Wilson Heard.

The last witness produced by the defense was Dr. James Wilson, jail physician. He gave evidence that he practiced medicine 40 years, and has acted as jail physician eight years, during which time he has seen many cases of insanity.

"His general conversation, manners and actions showed me that he suffered from hallucinations," said Dr. Wilson. "He told me he dreamed quite often that two men were coming with a long knife to kill him.
I would be satisfied they were unfeigned, because I asked him. He did not tell me."

"What was his demeanor when he was in jail?"

"He was extremely quiet, and said very little, and sometimes he was the reverse. He appeared to me to be suffering with dementia praecox.
He appeared in jail just as he is in the box now."

"Had any spasms or confused periods in jail?"

"He seemed confused most of the time."

"Did he know what he was doing?"

"I don't think he knew what he was doing."

"Did he know right from wrong?"

"I doubt if he did."

"How many cases of insanity have you seen in the last six months?"

"Probably 25."

"You are not going to disagree with experts, are you?"

"I am not an expert."

"Of course not, you are quite plain about that," said Mr. Elliott, provoking the laughter of the court.

"Wouldn't you expect a man to be pretty well confused with a serious charge before him?"

"But he seemed quite jovial about it."

"Why didn't he sleep?"

"I asked him that and he said because he had hallucinations. I saw no feinting."

The first medical evidence called by the crown to combat that of the defense, was Dr. James Huffman of London, who attended the prisoner at Victoria Hospital.

"What was his demeanor?"

"That of the average ordinary man suffering from a wound. I would not say that I know much about insanity."

"Was there in the conduct of this patient, while you attended him, anything different than you noted in ordinary patients?"

"Not in any way."

"You were merely attending to his wound?"

"Yes."

Dr. Hodgins Called.

Dr. Emerson Hodgins of London was next placed in the box. He stated that he knew insanity as a general practitioner. He attended accused at Victoria Hospital.

"What do you say as to the general conduct of the patient?"

"In my opinion it did not differ from the ordinary patient. He gave me clear, straightforward answers to my questions."

"Did you notice anything abnormal about him?"

"No, sir."

Cross-examined by W. R. Meredith, witness admitted that symptoms of insanity subside in the event of bodily injury.

Court was then adjourned until 9:30 o'clock Friday morning and the trial of Gordon Dibsedale is expected to conclude late Friday.

CHAPTER II. FIFTH INSTALLMENT.

WHEN I began my reign, General von Caprivi was chief of the admiralty. He was the last general to hold this post. I at once took energetic steps in hand the development and reform—in fact, one may say the foundation stone—of the Imperial German navy, based on my preliminary studies in England and at home. That was not to the liking of the general, who was able but rather self-willed and not entirely devoid of pride.

Unquestionably he had rendered valuable services in mobilization, improvement of the officer corps and the improvement and development of the torpedo boat organization. On the other hand, the building of ships and the replacement of worn-out material were in a deplorable state, to the detriment of the fleet and to the dissatisfaction of the shipbuilding industry, which was growing and looking about for employment.

Being an old Prussian general, Caprivi's way of thinking was that of his day—that of his comrades of 1864, 1866, 1870, 1871—in his eyes, the army had always done everything and would continue to do so in the future; therefore, no great demands for money to be devoted to the navy should be imposed upon the country, since, should this be done, there was danger that the sums destined to the army might be decreased and its development thereby hampered. This idea, from which he was not to be dissuaded, is false. The amounts granted did not flow into a reservoir from which they might be directed by the mere turning of a valve, now to army, now to navy, channels. Whenever Caprivi was unwilling to demand anything for naval construction, in order, by so doing, to turn more money toward the army, things did not happen as he foresaw. By his action the army received not one penny more, but merely whatever the minister of war asked for and received in accordance with his budget.

There was need of creating a secretariat of state for the navy which, entirely independent of the ministry of war, should have as its duty to demand and obtain for the navy as much as was required for the protection of our commerce and colonies. And that is what came to pass later on.

Caprivi soon came to me with the request that I relieve him from his post. He stated that he was not satisfied with it in itself; that, moreover, I had all sorts of plans for the future affecting the navy which he considered impossible of realization, in the first place, because there existed no means of replacement for the officer corps—at that time the yearly influx of cadets was between sixty and eighty—and a large navy without a large officer corps was unthinkable. In addition to this, he informed me, he had soon seen in the course of the inspection tours of his majesty that the emperor knew more about naval matters than he, the general, which placed him in an impossible situation in relation to his subordinates. In view of these circumstances, I parted with him, placing him in command of an army corps. Following the motto, "The navy for the seamen," I chose, for the first time, an admiral as his chief of staff which was received in maritime circles with great joy. The man chosen was Admiral Count Monts.

Bismarck's Successor.
When I was soon afterwards confronted with the rather unexpected retirement of Prince Bismarck, I found the choice of his successor a difficult one. Whoever it might be was sure to have a hard task without any prospect of appreciation for what he might achieve; he would be looked upon as the usurper of a post to which he was not entitled and filled. Criticism, criticism, nothing but criticism—that was sure to be the daily bread upon which the new chancellor must reckon; and he was also certain of becoming the target for the hostility of all those who favored Prince Bismarck as well as with that of the many who previously could not do enough in opposition to him. There was bound to be a strong current of enmity toward the new chancellor, in which the old prince himself would not be the least serious factor. After taking all this into consideration, it was decided to choose a man belonging to Prince Bismarck's generation, who had held a leading position in the wars and had already filled a government position under him. Hence Caprivi was chosen. His age was a guarantee that he would be a careful and calm adviser for the "crushed" young emperor.

Very soon the question arose of the extension of the insurance treaty with Russia. Caprivi declared that, out of consideration for Austria, he was unable to renew it, since the threat against Austria contained therein, when it became known in Vienna—as it almost invariably would—was such as to lead to very disagreeable consequences. For this reason the treaty lapsed. To my way of thinking, it had already lost its main value from the fact that the Russians no longer stood wholeheartedly behind it. I was confirmed in this view by a memorial written by Count Berchem, under-secretary of state, who had worked with Prince Bismarck.

The Agrarian Conservatives opposed Caprivi as a man without landed property and a violent fight raged around the commercial treaties. These difficulties were greatly enhanced because Prince Bismarck, ignoring his former maxims, took part in the fight against his successor with all his characteristic energy. Thus arose the opposition of the Conservatives against the government and the crown, and the prince in person sowed the seed from which later grew the "misunderstood Bismarck" and that "Reichsverdrossenheit" (unfriendliness to the empire), so often taken up in the newspapers. The "misunderstood Bismarck" created permanent opposition throughout my reign against any suggestions and aims by means of quotations, speeches and writings, as well as by passive resistance and thoughtless criticism.

Everything that was done was painted in black colors, made ridiculous and criticized from top to bottom, by a press that placed itself quite willingly at the disposal of the prince and often out-Bismarcked Bismarck in its behavior.

This phenomenon became most apparent at the time of the acquisition of Heligoland. This island, lying close in front of the great waterways leading to the principal Hanseatic commercial ports, was, in the hands of the British, a constant menace to Hamburg and Bremen and rendered impossible any project for building up a navy. Owing to this, I had firmly resolved to win back this formerly German island to its fatherland.

The Deal for Heligoland.
The way to cause England to give up the red rock of Heligoland was found in the colonial domain. Lord Salisbury proved inclined to exchange the "barren rock" for Zanzibar and Witu in East Africa. From commercial sources and the reports of the commanders of German cruisers and gunboats which were stationed there and cruised along the coast of the recently acquired German East African colonies, I knew that, as soon as Taga, War-es-Salaam, etc., rose to prosperity, the importance of Zanzibar on the coast of Africa, as the principal port of trans-shipment, would be a thing of the past, since, as soon as the above-mentioned harbors were made deep enough and provided with sufficient cargo-loading equipment for trading steamers, there would no longer be any need of ferrying goods coming from the interior in dhows to Zanzibar, in order to have them again loaded on vessels there, since they could be loaded direct at the new harbors along the coast.

Therefore, I was convinced that we had, first, an acceptable asset for swapping purposes; and, secondly, a good opportunity to avoid colonial friction with England and come to a friendly understanding with her. Caprivi agreed, the negotiations were concluded, and one evening, shortly before dinner, was able to tell the emperor and a few intimates the exceedingly joyful tidings that Heligoland had become German.

A first and very important extension of the empire had been achieved—without bloodshed—the first condition for the upbuilding of the fleet was fulfilled, something which the natives of the Hanseatic towns and the rest of the North Germans had wished for centuries had come to pass. In silence, an important event had occurred. Had Heligoland been acquired in the chancellorship of Prince Bismarck, it would probably have been valued very highly. Having happened under Caprivi, it loosed a lot of criticism. It was merely Caprivi, the usurper, who had had the audacity to sit in the prince's chair, and the "irresponsible," "ungrateful," "impulsive" young master who had done such a thing! Had Bismarck only wished, he could have had the old rock any day, but he never would have been so unskillful as to give up to the English for it the very promising African possessions, and he never would have allowed himself to be thus worsted. That was the sort of thing heard almost everywhere. The newspapers of the prince joined loudly in this sort of criticism, to the great grief of the people of the Hanseatic cities.

Curious, indeed, were the criticisms occasioned by the swapping of Zanzibar and Witu, which appeared in the Bismarckian press, although previously, when I worked under him, these newspapers had always explained that he had not much belief in the value of colonies in themselves and looked upon them merely as objects to be exchanged, possibly, for something else, in deals with the British. His successor acted accordingly to these ideas in the Heligoland question, and was most violently criticised and attacked. Not until the World War was on did I see articles in the German press which unreservedly admitted the acquisition of Heligoland to be an act of far-sighted politics, and added reflections as to what would doubtless have happened if Heligoland had not become German.

The German nation has every reason to be thankful to Count Caprivi for this achievement, since thereby the building of its navy and its victory at the Skagerrak were made possible. As for the German navy, it long ago acknowledged this.

The school law of Count Zedlitz aroused violent new conflicts. When they led to Zedlitz's retirement, the cry arose among the adherents: "If the count goes, so must the chancellor." Caprivi left his post, in a calm, dignified manner. He tried honestly, within the measure of his powers and abilities, to continue the traditions of Prince Bismarck. In this he found little support among the political parties and for this reason all the more criticism and hostility in the public and among those who, had they acted for the right and the interests of the state, should have stood by him. Without one word of apology, Caprivi, in noble silence, lived all the rest of his life in almost solitary retirement.

WILL HOLD "OLD BOYS' REUNION" AUGUST 5 TO 11

Members of Executive Committee Discuss Preliminary Plans For Event.

WRITE RAIL COMPANIES

Decide To Call General Meeting of Association On October 19.

Plans were discussed in regards to the Old Boys Reunion by executives in the committee room at the city hall on Thursday night, and it was finally decided to hold the event Aug. 5 to 11, next year. The reunion will be one of the largest yet held if things are carried out in the way plans have been arranged.

The meeting was called to order by J. E. Sanders, vice-president, who spoke at length, welcoming the members of the committee, assembled, and made mention of the fact that within the last few years 17 of the members had passed away, among them Dr. H. R. Abbott, former president, and expressed regret of their absence.

After the address by the acting president, letters were then read by the secretary, Edwin Smith, received from the different members expressing their desire to stage an event of this nature and expressing their willingness to assist in any way possible to make the reunion one that would be remembered in years to come.

Letters will be written forthwith to the different railway systems asking for reduced rates for the members wishing to attend, and it is expected that the request will be granted.

It was decided to have a general meeting on October 19, where further discussions will be had, and also for the purpose of electing officers, in whose hands will rest the responsibility of the affair.

In the course of the meeting City Treasurer Bell jokingly suggested that the event be staged somewhere in Quebec, and City Clerk S. Baker thought it should be held at Port Stanley, while someone suggested a "welcome sign should be hung on the old police station entrance and that it be held there.

The committee, which met on Thursday night, included J. E. Sanders, Edwin Smith, City Treasurer J. S. Bell, City Clerk S. Baker, Alderman Childs, Alderman Ashton and "Uncle Bill" Moore.

Letters will be sent the different members, requesting that they be present at the general meeting in order to bring in new ideas and also to boost the affair generally.

The different clubs, principally the

URGES GRANT FOR CANCER RESEARCH

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The federation of medical allied services of which Sir Berkeley Moynihan is president, has decided to urge the government to allocate £500,000 to cancer research. John P. Lockhart-Mummery, cancer specialist at St. Mark's Hospital, London, in moving a resolution to this effect, said the state had done practically nothing to combat one of the worst scourges of civilization, which was causing the death of 25 per cent of the population over 45 years of age.

Dr. Lockhart-Mummery said the serious phase of cancer was that the disease preferred to attack the healthy, hard-working people, not the drones or weaklings.

SUBMIT REPORT ON INSTITUTIONS

Grand Jury Compliments Conditions of Various County Buildings Inspected.

Jurors Are Commended by the Judge For Their Interest and Expedition in Duties.

Commending public institutions of London and vicinity, members of the grand jury of the fall assizes who have conducted a tour of inspection brought in their report to Mr. Justice Mowat at the courthouse late Thursday afternoon. After reading the report Judge Mowat thanked the jurors and discharged them.

The county jail was the first institution visited, and according to the report was "kept neat and clean," and to those jurors who had performed similar service before the general condition was "the best seen yet." The food was termed "wholesome and good, and special reference was made to the gardens which supply vegetables to the jail.

Everything was found most modern and "the finest possible" at the Westminster Psychopathic Hospital, where 401 patients are receiving treatment. As for Victoria Hospital, the report said: "It is still carrying on and as well to the front as ever." There are 188 patients under treatment, which is half the accommodation.

At St. Joseph's Hospital the jurors found the care of 120 patients to be equal to that at other institutions. "It is a fine institution in beautiful shape," said the report.

Excellent work is being carried on at the Ontario Hospital which is overcrowded with 1,232 patients. This building is 52 years old, and some of the wooden floors show signs of age. Dr. Robinson and his staff were complimented by the jury for the splendid handling of the unfortunate inmates.

A good report was also turned in for the Thomas A. Hall home for children in South London. Byron Sanatorium was branded perfect in administration and treatment of patients by the report. Similar tributes were paid to the Aged People's Home and Protestant Orphan's Home.

"Taking it altogether London and district is blessed in having so many large groups of institutions so well kept," the report concluded.

In discharging the jurors, Judge Mowat expressed pleasure that they had entered their duties with interest. He explained the criticism often directed at periodical visits to public institutions by crabbed jurors, and warned the members not to be perturbed by it, declaring that they are boards of directors for the community.

He commented on the fact that there are 126 nurses in training at Victoria Hospital, as compared to 188 patients, but added that winter months would increase the number of patients and provide clinics for the pupil nurses.

"You have done the court work all right and expeditiously," he concluded in discharging the grand jury.

SEEK PASSPORTS FOR ARMENIANS

Western Ontario Residents Alarmed Over Plight of Kinsmen in Constantinople.

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—With the object of asking the Canadian Government to use its influence with the British Government to have passports issued to relatives of Armenian residents of Constantinople, George H. Alexander has come to Ottawa. He is connected with the Dearborn Independent, but on his present mission is representing Armenian residents of Western Ontario, many of whom have relatives in the Near East, who are eager to get away, fearing massacres by the Turks. It is not proposed to bring all these relatives to Canada, but merely to enable them to make their way to Greece, Rumania, or some other country.

Mr. Alexander states that at present none of them are allowed to leave Constantinople, while a great many of those who escaped from the Turks have fled. Mr. Alexander states that Armenians who came to Canada, settled chiefly in Western Ontario. He hopes to arrange an interview with the government on Monday.

FORMER FRENCH CHIEF CLERK DIES

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—Dr. Y. R. Eppaham, Chapeau, who for about 40 years was chief clerk of the French modes of procedure of the House of Commons, and one of the best-known men, not only in Ottawa, but throughout Canada, died today at his home, 20 Russell avenue, in his 79th year.

He had been ailing in health for some time.

DISSOLVES INJUNCTION GRANTED SANDWICH MAN

TORONTO, Sept. 28.—Justice Latchford at Osgoode Hall has dissolved the injunction granted to Alderich Chappus of the River road, Sandwich, by County Judge Smith of Essex, restraining Sandwich West and the county of Essex from widening and paving the front of River road.

The objection taken by Mr. Chappus to the work was that it would decrease his property, on which he contemplated building a $40,000 home.

The nitrogen inhaled with oxygen of the air serves no purpose in the body.

"LISTEN TO ME" TO BE TUNEFUL PLAY

Musical Extravaganza Will Be Presented Three Times At Grand Theatre.

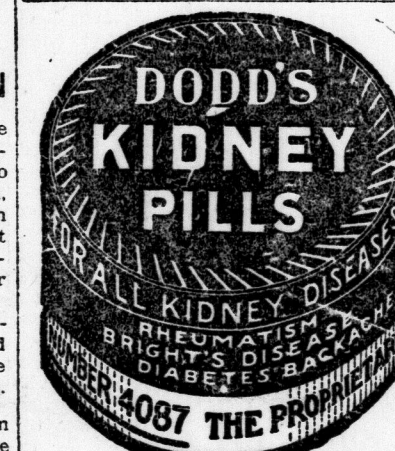

The grand has a real musical comedy attraction tonight, and for matinee and evening performances tomorrow, in the tuneful musical extravaganza, "Listen To Me." The book, lyrics and music of this gorgeous production are by Charles George, and it has already proven the most loved of all attractions of the kind.

The general expense in producing and operating a big extravaganza in recent years has increased so many fold that it has been looked upon with disfavor by the producers to take the long chances of breaking even on the investment; therefore, the reason for the scarcity of this type of entertainment. Unlike the musical comedy, it requires gorgeous scenic settings, scores of novel costumes, wonderful lighting effects and a big company to properly stage it, to say nothing about the number of mechanics required.

LeComte and Flesher have shouldered the load, and trusting to luck, have invested thousands of dollars in modern equipment, and "Listen To Me" is presented in two acts and seven scenes, making four remarkable transformations, whirling the auditor from New York to the North Pole, then through Candyland and back to the starting point, presenting the most bewildering and kaleidoscopic effects ever presented on any stage. A cast of par-excellence, including Betty Dawn Martin, Barbara Bronell, Bessie Delmore, Joe B. McGee, Billy Murphy, Ross Robertson, Chester M. Gates, are supported by a chorus of bewitching femininity, who present the novel ballets and ensembles fetchingly.

BIZARRE COAT.

MOTHER SAVES DAUGHTER'S HEALTH

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Both Mother and Daughter.

Lumsden, Saskatchewan. — "My mother had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and when I needed something for my periods I took it and got good results. I recommend it to women with any female troubles and know other women who have been helped by it and do the same." Mrs. MAX HATZEL, Lumsden, Saskatchewan.

Many cases like this come to our notice. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is often recommended by the mother and the grandmother too, for bear in mind, it has been helping women for nearly fifty years.

Women Tell Each Other In your own neighborhood are women who know the value of this wonderful medicine and they tell to one another about it. So if you are troubled with pains and irregularities, a tired feeling, nervous and sleepless spells, or have other annoying symptoms caused by some female trouble, you have only to ask some neighbor what she thinks of your taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Robert's Cod Liver Oil & Tar

Is a scientific remedy in which the powerful curative properties of Cod Liver Oil and Tar are combined. The mucous effect of the oil having been removed, the extractive principle is left to build up wasted strength and tone; the tar set up by Lumsden, Celsa, Bronchitis and other affections of the respiratory organs. Try it, for it does stop coughs.

WISE MISS LONDON KEEN ON ATHLETICS

Married Sister Also Evinces Lively Interest in Keeping Physically Fit.

The growing interest of women and girls in the city in keeping themselves physically fit through judicious exercise has been strikingly demonstrated this week, in the rush to enroll in the classes of the physical education department of the Y. W. C. A. The headquarters in the university gymnasium on Oxford street has been besieged by feminine inquirers, keen to take up various forms of gym work, drill, folk dances or athletics. Already the program of the clever young instructor, Miss Edith Wynne-Pryce, is crammed with daily engagements for the coming term.

Every Thursday evening, an advanced class will be held for business girls who took up the course last year. Wednesday evening is to be devoted to the new beginner business girls. The married ladies' class, so popular the latter part of last season, is to be resumed, with meetings two mornings a week, Monday and Thursday. The tiny tots are to have their innings at 10:30 Saturday mornings, immediately following the junior school girls, who meet at 9:30 on Saturdays.

Junior and senior classes are being organized in aesthetic dancing, the juniors for Mondays at 4:30 o'clock, and the seniors at 7 o'clock.

In addition, Miss Wynne-Pryce is taking the university girls three afternoons a week, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

As previously announced in The Advertiser, the season's work will be launched next Monday evening with a grand rally in the gymnasium, games to be a feature. All girls in the city interested in athletics will be cordially welcome. Refreshments will be served.

A big demand is taking place for tickets for the final match of the Y. W. C. A. girls baseball league, to take place in the Armories Saturday evening, between the Shamrocks and Smallman & Ingram's Thistles.

The deciding match will be preceded by an exhibition game at 7:30 o'clock between the Bell Telephone and McCormick Manufacturing Company teams. The umpires who have done their duty heroically throughout the league season will be present for the wind-up. Messrs. W. Legg, J. B. Ferguson and E. Dennis.

WITH BRIDES KELLEY-MACPHERSON.

At the Westminster parsonage on Tuesday, Sept. 26, the marriage was quietly solemnized by Rev. W. M. Keteley, of Reta MacPherson and Fred E. Kelley.

DOBBYN-HILLMAN.

A quiet and pretty wedding took place in the presence of immediate relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Hillman, Moss, Tuesday, Sept. 26, at 2 o'clock, when their only daughter, Mabel Florence, was united in marriage to Mr. Derwood Garfield Dobbyn, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dobbyn of Florence. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Byron Snell of Alvinston. The house was beautifully decorated with pink and white China asters. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father. The ceremony took place beneath an arch of asters and white wedding bells. Mrs. Snell playing the wedding march. The bride wore a simple but charming gown of white georgette crepe, with a maline veil, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily-of-the-valley. After the ceremony luncheon was served. The bride and groom left for eastern points, the bride traveling in a blue point (twill suit) and champagne velvet hat. They will reside in Detroit.

McCANDLESS-WOOLLATT.

The marriage of Miss Helen Woollatt, youngest daughter of Mrs. A. Woollatt, to Mr. Fred McCandless, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McCandless of Iderton, took place on Wednesday at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Colborne street.

Miss Annie Woollatt of Toronto, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march, and Rev. Geo. T. Watts performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Woollatt, looked lovely in her wedding gown of ivory tulle, and carried a crown of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Miss Ruby Scott acted as bridesmaid, and wore a gown of pale green tulle, with silver slippers and corsage of Virginia roses.

Mr. Douglas Woollatt, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The ceremony was a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Colborne street.

EXPECT FAIR CO-EDS TO HOLD THEIR OWN

One Heroic Woman Only Enrolled in Complete "Freshie" Medical Class.

"We'll guarantee to marry them for nothing in consideration of payment of tuition fees," jokingly remarked a prominent member of the faculty of the Western University on Thursday afternoon, when quizzed with regard to probable enrollment this year of fair co-eds. Immediately he had made the remark in the hearing of a terrible newspaper person, he repented him of his folly.

"Seriously," he begged, "we shouldn't like an impression like that to get abroad."

"Too good to keep," retorted the heartless scribe.

Next Monday and Tuesday will tell the tale of the number of serious-minded young women who will enter upon or continue their university courses in the Western. If he isn't too tired as a result of the deluge of candidates, the registrar may even be induced to give out figures early in the week.

It is anticipated, states Dr. K. P. R. Neville, that the registration of women students in the arts faculty will at least equal that of last year.

Already the "No Room" sign is in order to be hung out for the first year in medicine, in which enrollment is limited to 50. Of the half a hundred entering the first year, one lone girl is taking her place with the men, Miss Margaret Strang, a graduate student of this year of the London College Institute.

Miss Kathleen Braithwaite, who has won the good-will of all her classmates, and the golden opinion of the medical student body as a whole, returns to take her fourth-year work, after a summer spent in research work, associated with Prof. Robertson in Prince Edward Island.

OFFERS TWO HATS.

Dear Miss Grey—I am indeed very sorry when I read on your page of lots that are needing clothing. I've just found I have two hats I can spare; one is a navy blue sailor, the brim is velvet and crown like plush; it turns up at the left side; trimmed around crown with wide band of corded silk ribbon, finished at the right side with ends, and three buttons; head size about 23 inches; would do for a girl 16 or any woman who will be in need of a hat for fall or winter. The other hat I am offering is a little tight-fitting turban of black satin, prettily beaded, would suit any girl up to 15, with bobbed hair. I am willing to pay postage on the parcels. Have inclosed a trifle towards the S. C. H. Would you please have some of the Boxesite write me. I am 16. Well I will close now, wishing all success to you and the Boxesite. Sincerely yours,

AN ENGLISH COMPLEXION.

It is good of you to offer these hats to our Boxesite. They will come in quite handy just now, as the weather is getting cooler, and one doesn't like wearing straw hats. Thank you for the donation towards our fund, and hope you receive some interesting correspondence through the Mail-Box. Am mailing the address you asked for.

Mrs. Fatty—An error was made in my answer to your letter Wednesday. I said that I could always tell the old country Boxesites by their hand-writing. But the answer read, I could always tell the old Boxesites. The word country was omitted.

ROSE OF SHARON

Isn't it lively, Boxesites, to get an old-time letter from Rose of Sharon, full of vivid descriptions? We missed your letters, Rose of Sharon, as everyone used to look forward to them, also to March Wind's. Maybe we will hear from March Wind, too. And in the same breath you came back to earth to the most practical subject, imaginable—eating. I'm after all, the inner man is a most essential person. Thank you for the recipe.

SAYS THANK YOU.

Dear Miss Grey—I am writing to thank Spookendyke through your column for the parcel which she sent me, which was very acceptable, also very useful. I think the Mail-Box is very useful to those who are in need. I saw where Anchor had two girls' coats to give away; if she has not given them away I would be very glad to get them, as I have two girls just the ages. I would also be glad to any boys' clothes if anyone has any to spare. Hope I have not taken up too much space in your valuable paper, I am,

MOTHER OF EIGHT.

Spookendyke will be pleased to hear that her parcel was appreciated. There have been numerous requests for the clothing offered by Anchor, so I am afraid you will be too late to receive them.

OFFERS QUILT PATTERN.

Dear Miss Grey—After a long time I come wandering back to the Mail-Box. I have taken The Advertiser for a long time, and get lots of help from it. If anyone would like a quilt pattern I have one they can have. What shape has would be suitable for a quilt? What shade would go well together, hat, coat and dress, with dark blue eyes and dark brown hair? The last time I wrote I sent a dime for the hospital fund, but did not see my letter in print. Will sign my name, Lanyard sat and took intelligent notice of the room. Phinuit chuckled, and consulted Monk in the tone of one reasonable man to his peer.

"It's plain to be seen he wants these jewels—means to have 'em. Do you know any way we can keep them from him?"

Monk moved his head slowly from side to side: "None."

"Then you agree with me, it would save us all a heap of trouble to let him have them without any more stalling?"

Monk quietly opened a false door in a pedestal of his desk. Lanyard could hear the spinning of a combination manipulated by Monk's long bony fingers. And presently he Monk straightened up with a six-stamped dispatch-box in his hands.

"With this upon the desk, and unlock with a key on his pocket ring."

"There," he announced with an easy gesture.

Lanyard rose and stood over the desk, investigating the contents of the dispatch-box. The collection of magnificent stones seemed to tally accurately with his mental memoranda of the description furnished by Eve de Montalais.

"This seems to be right," he said quietly, and closed the box. The automatic lock snapped fast.

"Now what do you say, brother dear?"

"Your debt to me is fully discharged, Liane. What is to prevent me from going ashore with these at once?"

"Nothing," said Phinuit, "but your own good sense."

"Ah!" said Lanyard—"Ah!"—and looked from face to face.

"Do I understand I am to consider my prisoner?"

"Oh, dear, no," said Captain Monk, "expressly paid by such cruelty."

"I have favored an invitation to your honored guest on the voyage to New York?"

Lanyard thought the matter over a little.

"Obviously, it would seem, you have not gone to all this trouble—lured me aboard this yacht—merely to amuse yourselves at my expense and then knock me on the head."

"Absurd!" Liane declared indignantly. "As if I would permit such a thing, who owe you so much."

"Or look at it this way, monsieur," Monk put in with a courtly gesture: "When one has an adversary whom no respects, one wisely prefers to have him where he can watch him."

"More than that," said Liane with her most killing glance for Lanyard: "A dear friend."

But Lanyard was not to be put off by fair words and flattery.

"No," he said gravely, "but there is some deeper motive."

He sought Phinuit's eyes, and Phinuit unexpectedly gave him an open-faced return.

"There is," he stated frankly. "Then why not tell me?"

"All in good time."

With characteristic abruptness Liane Delorme announced that she was sleepy. It had been for her a most fatiguing day. Captain Monk rang for the stewardess and gallantly escorted the lady to her door. Lanyard got up with Phinuit to bow her out, but instead of the usual help he helped himself to a long whiskey and soda.

"I'm afraid you've got a tendency to overestimate the gullibility of people in general," remarked Phinuit.

"Why this funny story of yours about wanting to get hold of the Montalais foot simply to slip it back to its owner?"

Lanyard felt a spasm of anger constrict his throat. Nevertheless his courteous smile persisted.

"I presume, Captain Monk, it's not too late to send a note ashore, posted? I don't in the least mind your reading it."

Monk shrugged his brows, found paper, even went so far as to dip the pen for Lanyard.

Lanyard wrote: "Dear Madame de Montalais:

"I have not forgotten my promise, but my days have been full since I left the chateau. And even now I must be brief: within an hour I sail for America, within a fortnight you may look for telegraphic advices from me, stating that your jewels are in my possession, and when I hope to be able to restore them to you."

"Believe me, dear madame, devotedly your servant, Michael Lanyard."

Monk read and in silence passed this communication over to Phinuit, while Lanyard addressed the envelope.

"Quite in order," was Phinuit's verdict, accompanied by a yawn.

Lanyard folded the note, sealed it in the envelope, and affixed a stamp supplied by Monk, who meanwhile rang for a steward.

"Take this ashore and post it at once," he told the man who answered his summons.

"But seriously, Lanyard," Phinuit protested with a pained expression. "We value your respect too much to let you go on thinking we have fallen for that hokum. We know you steered a direct course from London for the Chateau de Montalais."

"Monsieur sees too clearly."

"What were you up to that night, pussyfooting about the chateau at two in the morning?"

"But this is positively uncanny! Monsieur knows everything."

"Why shouldn't I know about that? Vanity rang in Phinuit's self-conscious chuckle. "Who'd you think laid you out that night?"

"Monsieur is not telling me—I guess I owe you an apology," Phinuit admitted. Hope I didn't jar you too much."

CHAPTER XIX.
The Face in the Dark.

IN the early days of the voyage Lanyard felt confident of outwitting his companions, but was unable to evolve a satisfactory plan to secure the jewels.

Not that he made the mistake of despising those two social malcontents, Phinuit and Jules, that rogue adventurer Monk, that grasping courtesan, Liane Delorme.

Lanyard accounted that quartet uncommonly clever, resourceful, audacious, unscrupulous and potentially ruthless, utterly callous to considerations when their interests were jeopardized.

But it was inconceivable that he should fall to outwit and frustrate them, who had the love and faith of Eve de Montalais to honor, cherish and requite.

Trying to put himself in Liane's place, Lanyard believed that he would never have neglected the opportunity to steal away from Paris while he slept and leave him to gnaw his nails in the mortification of defeat. Why she had not done so, why she had permitted Monk and Phinuit to play their comedy of offering him the jewels, passed understanding.

But Lanyard felt assured Liane would not keep him waiting long drinker, untidy about his person and

THE DESCENT OF THE MOUNTAIN WAS EASIER THAN THE ASCENT HAD BEEN, AND IT WAS NOT LONG BEFORE THE TRIO WERE HALFWAY DOWN THE SCENERY WAS WORTH THE TRIP THOUGHT JACK.

SOON THE THREE COMPANIONS WERE ON LEVEL GROUND AGAIN. THEN JACK URGED HIS HORSE INTO A TROT. "I'LL FIND THAT OLD MILL IF I HAVE TO TRY UP ALL NIGHT," SAID JACK TO FLIR.

veteran of his trade and—it was said—an ancient crony of Monk's.

One night at dinner Liane Delorme appeared in a summer toilette that would have made its mark on the beach of Deauville.

The woman looked years younger than when Lanyard had last seen her. Nobody would ever have believed her a day older than twenty-five, no one, that is to say, who had not watched youth ebb from her face as Lanyard had when he told her of the death of de Lorgnes.

Later that night, on deck, pressure of a hand upon his own roused Lanyard to discover that Liane Delorme had seated herself beside him.

"I must have been dreaming," he said, apologetic. "You startled me. One could see that, my friend."

The woman spoke in quiet accents and let her hand linger upon his with its insistent reminder of the warm, living presence.

Peaches and Cake

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH.

12 peaches 1-3 cup butter
Sugar 1 cup sugar
1 cup cream 2 eggs
1/4 cup powdered sugar 1/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla 1 1/2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder

CREAM, butter and sugar together. Add eggs (well beaten), milk and flour sifted with the baking powder. Bake 25 minutes in two round or square pans.

Slice peaches and sweeten to taste. Split cakes, or place one on the other with peaches between. Reserve some of the peaches to place on the beaten cream, which is piled on top of the cake.

"It is that one grows bored, eh, Michael—"

"Perhaps, Liane."

"Or perhaps that one's thoughts are constantly at the Chateau de Montalais?"

"It amuses you, then, to shoot arrows into the air?"

"But naturally I seek the reason, when I see you distract and am conscious of your neglect."

"I think it is for me to complain of that! Always you are with your two companions; always I am alone."

"Do you imagine for an instant that I class you with such riffraff?"

"And who am I that you should hold me in higher rating than any other man?"

"You should know I do," the woman breathed, so low he barely caught the words.

"Think what I owe to you, Michael; and then consider this, that of all men whom I have known you alone have never asked for love."

"He gave a quiet laugh. "There is too much humility in my heart."

"No," she said in a dull voice. "but you despise me. Do not deny it!" She shifted impatiently in her chair.

"I cannot hope to escape my fate!"

"But one imagines nobody can escape his fate."

"Men such as you, as you are, know how to cheat destiny; but women never. It is my fate to have learned too late to love you."

"Ah, Liane, Liane!"

"But you hold me in too much contempt to be willing to recognize the truth."

"On the contrary, I admire you extremely, I think you are an incomparable actress."

"You see!" She offered a despairing gesture to the stars. "It is not true what I say? I lay bare my heart to him, and he tells me that I act?"

"But my dear girl! surely you do not expect me to think otherwise?"

"I was a fool to expect anything from you," she returned bitterly. "You know too much about me."

Divided between annoyance and distaste, he was silent. And all at once she threw herself half across the joined arms of their chairs, catching his shoulders with her hands, so that her half-clothed body rested on his bosom, and its scented warmth assailed his senses with the seduction whose power she knew so well.

Radio Radiations

READING, Mass., Sept. 28.—Simplicity in wireless operation has not gone far enough for Earl C. Hanson, inventor of many radio appliances. So he has proceeded to make radio even simpler.

Hanson will be remembered as the inventor of a radio ear phone for those compact form. It is unusual in that it depends on no outside aerial. Instead, it is plugged into an electric light line, connected to an ear phone and tuned in.

Universal Use. That's for local concerts, for which the crystal attached to the instrument can be used as the detector. But if

"On the outside of the case are wound many turns of enamel-covered copper wire. A slider moved along a metal rod contacts with the different turns of wire. In this manner one can tune the receiving set to the wave length of the broadcasting station that it is desired to receive."

"At one end of the slider there is a crystal detector which converts the radio frequency into audio frequency energy, which in turn actuates the telephone receiver head set. A fuse is placed within the receiving case so as to prevent electric surges from passing through the apparatus."

"No electric batteries are used, and no electric energy is consumed from the socket."

"When a person desires to connect a vacuum tube receiving set to the electric light wires it is only necessary to screw the crystal set into a socket and connect a wire from the ground binding post of the crystal set to the antenna binding post of the vacuum tube set. The tuning coil of the crystal set can also be used as a loading coil."

COATS. Short, hip-length coats seem to be the smart thing for fall. Sometimes they are full and capelike, but most of them fit rather snugly about the hips and have a straight line from the shoulders to the hem.

Two Million Run-Down Women in Canada!

Lack of Iron and Vitamins the Principal Cause. Ironized Yeast Builds Great Strength in Few Days

Madam, there is one thing you should know. When you are exhausted, pale, haggard, and run-down, you cannot build yourself up by means of unnatural drugs. All healthy, strong, robust women have bodies that are rich in vitamins and

You Can Quickly Have New Strength Now for the Asking by Taking Ironized Yeast!

Iron. These are natural builders. Remember too, that yeast vitamins must be thoroughly ironized in order to make you rise gloriously from your exhaustion. The yeast you take must be, not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. This is why you should take only Ironized Yeast. It is the only ironized yeast produced in the world. It is the first and last word in body force, nerve energy, blood richness, because it is Nature's own. Is your body breaking down in middle age, do you look older than you really are, is your complexion pale, ashy, coarse, muddy, spotted, is your blood watery, stomach weak, have you dark rings about the eyes, are you exhausted at little exertion? For the love of your own body, your sweet charm, perhaps all but lost, for your healthy future and long life, Ironize! Take Ironized Yeast! Be sure you get no substitute or imitations. SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Menthosulphur. It is a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Menthosulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment of disfigurement. A little jar of Menthosulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream—Advt.

URGES NEED OF EXTENSIONS IN MISSION FIELD

Dr. C. E. Manning Makes Eloquent Appeal At Methodist Conference.

PRESENT GOOD REPORTS

Forces in Church Called To Greater Efforts At Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, Sept. 28.—This was missions night at the Methodist general conference and the secretaries for home and foreign missions in speeches, which were wonderful combinations of fiery eloquence and stern statistics, called on the forces of Methodism to greater efforts, both at home and abroad. Rev. Dr. C. E. Manning of the home mission board, urged the need of more missions, particularly in the West.

"We have divided up the fields with the Presbyterians and Congregationalists, and I don't see how we can fail in our responsibility to supply the gospel to every English-speaking community in the portions of the West allotted to us," he said. At present Alberta and Saskatchewan had many fields not supplied.

Rev. James Endicott of the foreign missions, brought reports that the missions in Japan and China were never so sound as today and that the spirit of nationalism which was sweeping the Orient, while it had its dangers, everyone recognized that it offered, on the other hand, greater opportunities than ever before if the Christian churches met the situation aright.

Report Good Success. While the reports emphasized the needs of further expansion, at the same time they recorded a glorious quadrennial, both in missionary work and in missionary givings in the Methodist Church. Canadian Methodist gave to missions in the past four years $7,346,000. This included nearly a million and a half dollars raised by the Women's Missionary Society and some quarter of a million from legacies. Although the current receipts from the churches did not meet the current expenses the legacies and other receipts enabled the board to close the term with assets of $1,261,000.

The meeting tonight came at the end of a day spent in committee meetings, none of the reports from which are yet ready for presentation to the general conference. The protest of organized labor against the open shop in the Methodist bookroom was taken up and a start made on its consideration. The educational and discipline committees also made considerable progress.

British Soldier Kisses His Bride Good-bye When Called To Near East

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Britain again looks like World War days as soldiers leave for the Near East to enforce Britain's ultimatum against the Turks. One soldier kisses his bride farewell as he entrains with his regiment at Southampton.

The proposal for a Methodist Hospital to be erected in Toronto, for which a bequest of $150,000 has already been received, has caused joy among the delegates. While the source of the bequest is not officially announced, it is stated by those usually well informed to have been from the estate of the late Mrs. Lillian Massey Treble.

Defends Co-operation

Rev. Dr. Manning strongly defended the co-operation of the Methodist Church with the Presbyterians and Congregationalists. He traced the history of the local mission movement which prevented missionary fields of these denominations overlapping, and stated that throughout Canada it affected 800 or 900 fields and between 2,000 and 3,000 preaching places. Not only is it effective in the West, but in Ontario—in fact, in every province of the Dominion. He explained the co-operation between the Methodists and Presbyterians among the foreigners in Sydney, C. B.; Sault Ste. Marie, Edmononton and other centers. He said conditions he met with in Sydney, C. B., were most deplorable.

"I have visited many cities in Canada and the United States, and I never anywhere saw greater evidences of degradation," he referred particularly to the housing of a portion of the population there.

"The West is Canada to a greater extent than most people in the East realize," Dr. Manning said, and emphasized the great duty of the church in that portion of the Dominion as well as on the Pacific coast.

"Today there are 70,000 Orientals in Canada, five times as many in proportion to population than there are in the United States," he said, in referring to this problem.

"After all the years of missions among the Indians in Canada there are 3,000 pagan Indians in the Dominion today, and the surprising thing is that 2,600 of them are right in Ontario," he explained, in touching on this phase of missionary effort.

The work of the Methodist Church on the Pacific coast was greater than was Dr. Grenfell's on the Atlantic coast, he asserted. Dr. Manning defended the action of the board in building hospitals in western centers among the foreign populations. If it is right for us to build hospitals in China, surely it is right to build them in Canada, he asserted. He insisted that the local missions movement had been a great benefit to the three denominations co-operating and whether church union came or not, this movement, he thought, should be continued.

Dr. Endicott, after a stirring picture of the mission fields in China and Japan where the Canadian Methodist Church has 304 men and women working, took up the big question of how the sweep of nationalism was going to affect Christian missionary efforts. The Asiatic had just as good a right to love his country as an Englishman or a Scotsman, or a Canadian had, he said. It might prove a danger if national consciousness became too extreme.

"It is nationalism that makes the Dardanelles trouble today," he said. The missionaries are all impressed with the marvellous change coming over the people in the Orient.

"Tell the Chinamen that our Savior will save him and he will reply, 'I don't care whether I am saved or not. That doesn't matter. I want a Savior who can save China.'"

The Christian churches in the past in missionary efforts in the East tended to denationalize the people. "To make a convert, we often broke up a family; to start a church we cast a whole community asunder. This method must be changed. The Christian church in China must not be a foreignized church. The Chinamen themselves must have more say in running it."

FEAR EXPLOSION'S TOLL WILL BE 144

SPEZIA, Sept. 28.—The number of dead is feared to reach 144 in the explosion today at Falconara Fort, near here, according to available lists. Several hundred have been seriously injured. A majority of the victims are still beneath the wreckage.

SOVIET REFUSES RUMANIA'S PLEA

Russia Declines To Abandon Her Claims On Bessarabia.

MOSCOW, Sept. 28.—Rumania's demands that Soviet Russia abandon her claims upon Bessarabia before Rumania would agree to participate in the Moscow disarmament conference has been flatly refused by the Soviet in a note sent to Bucharest. Acting Foreign Minister Karakhan, in his pronouncement, says Rumania is the only neighboring country which has not consented to join the Baltic states and Poland to discuss disarmament, and owing to this fact Soviet Russia will hold Rumania responsible for any difficulties which may be encountered in the arrangements for the disarmament program. The acting foreign minister ridicules the suggestion that Russia might be willing to pay with a stretch of territory to induce Rumania to participate, asserting: "Such a demand could only come from a country which has aggressive intentions or has agreements with a third country which does not permit her to reduce her forces."

'TURK-BULGARIAN' ALLIANCE DENIED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Reports of an "alliance" between Bulgaria and Turkey were denied flatly in a statement issued today by the Bulgarian legation here.

Moving Away

Going to move to a distant city this fall? Wouldn't you like to move by truck, it's so much easier and simpler that way. But the cost is prohibitive, you say? Not necessarily, if you follow this method.

Before you are ready to move, run a little Want Ad, stating when and where you want to go. Oftentimes movers are mighty glad to secure a return load from one city to another—and what is more, they give you a much lower rate that way.

The Advertiser Want Ads will help save a lot when you have to move.

DEMOCRATS OF MICHIGAN FAIL TO NAME FORD

Decide Indorsement of Auto Manufacturer For President Would Be "Premature."

TOO FAR UNTIL ELECTION

Claim Nomination Now Might Injure Senatorial Candidature of Ferris.

BAY CITY, Mich., Sept. 28.—

A movement to indorse Henry Ford as presidential candidate in 1924 failed at the Democratic state convention here today, when the resolutions committee decided such action would be "premature and too far in advance of the election." The proposal, sponsored by the delegations from Adrian, which included S. W. Raymond, a brother-in-law of the Detroit manufacturer, precipitated a fight in the resolutions committee.

Those opposing the movement held that indorsement of Mr. Ford would make the presidential issue the predominating feature of the coming campaign in Michigan, and detract from the strength of Woodbridge N. Ferris, the party's nominee for senator.

Supporters of the resolution argued that Henry Ford was the real instigator of what they termed "the Newberry issue."

FORD DEPOSITS $10,000 TO GUARANTEE AERO PRIZES

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 28.—To refute charges by Henry Woodhouse of New York, that aviation interests here had failed to post prize money, to be distributed among the entrants in the invitation flights of the National Aero races to be held next month, Edsel B. Ford today deposited $10,000 to guarantee the fund. The deposit virtually covers all money prizes to be offered at this meet.

NEGRO IS LYNCHED.

Reports 56,000 Ex-Service Men Have Completed Vocational Training Courses

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—That there are nearly 5,000 ex-service men still in Canadian hospitals, and that it was not expected this number would materially decrease owing to the fact that approximately 3,000 of them were either mentally affected or suffering from tuberculosis and other practically incurable complaints as a result of the great war, was one of the statements made tonight at the inaugural supper of the season of the Dominion Methodist Churchmen's Association by Major K. F. Parkinson, deputy minister of the department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, in an interesting address, in which he reviewed the work of his department.

Major Parkinson also stated that 56,000 ex-service men had completed courses of vocational training. There were also 70,000 pensions being paid at the present time to disabled ex-service men and to dependents.

INDIAN DEMOCRAT RAPS PRESS BILL

Declares Viceroy's Move Indicates Proposed Reforms Are Not Extensive.

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 28.—Canadian Press Cable.—The latest development in what is styled a "constitutional crisis," arising out of the action of the viceroy, Lord Reading, with relation to the press bill for the protection of Indian princes, according to a Reuter dispatch from Simla, is a statement by the leader of the democratic party in the legislative assembly, terming the viceroy's action unwise and unjustified, and declaring that this constitutional episode showed they had been too optimistic with regard to the extent and character of the proposed reforms in India.

The Democratic party leader's statement was with reference to the viceroy's recommendation on September 25 that the bill to protect Indian princes against seditious statements in the press, which was rejected by the legislative assembly, should be reintroduced in the council of state.

The leader in question deprecated the extraordinary haste shown for the enactment of the bill, which he said was unintelligible. The viceroy's action, though constitutional, he said, ought not to have been taken until other avenues in connection with the matter had been exhausted.

The leader of the Democratic party contended that the viceroy's action had proved, first, that the government could pledge itself to legislation without consulting the legislature, and impose its will upon it without justifying the necessity thereof, and, secondly, that even those who believed in the reality of the reforms were now obliged to own to having been too sanguine regarding the extent and character of the reforms.

Call General Meeting Tonight To Support O. R. F. U. Entry

LONDON HAS TEAM, BUT NO ORGANIZATION BEHIND

Entries Must All Be In By Saturday, So Quick Action Is Necessary To Save Situation.

(BY C. S. G.)
TONIGHT a general meeting has been called for the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock in the interests of O. R. F. U. football for this fall. So far the footballers are going full steam ahead, but entirely rudderless. They need an organization, and as tonight is the last chance to forward entries for the intermediate or senior series it behooves those interested to get on the band wagon by attending tonight's meeting and showing the players that they've got some moral support behind them.

The way in which the talent present in the city bustled into the game on a moment's notice last Monday night and the steady increase in the number of candidates out at each grand circuit will be forthcoming at tonight's recognition of some kind, and no doubt it will be forthcoming at tonight's meeting.

Some Talk.
There was some talk of the Y. M. C. A. taking over the management of the team and supporting it by people interested in "Y" work, and who believed that the "Y" ought to take a more active part in the support of the team of this kind. However, as the "Y" is supported by public subscriptions, the enthusiasts immediately were confronted with this obstacle.

The one big fact remains that the material is here, only too eager to jump into the game if there is any support forthcoming. Coaching difficulties can be got over easily enough once the team finds some kind of organization behind it.

One year without O. R. F. U. football should rally the fans around the sport if it's properly started this fall. All the enthusiasm in the world, however, with no direction is just so much waste of energy on the part of the candidates who have been turning out every night over at Tecumseh Park.

Everyone interested in rugby, past or present, is urged to be present, so that an athletic association may be formed. The past several seasons two or three enthusiasts have backed the club financially, but it is a discouraging job for the few. What rugby needs is every supporter out working, and only a larger organization can achieve this effect.

Eddie Collins Tells How World Series Player Feels

BY EDDIE COLLINS.

World's Greatest Second Baseman.

RECENTLY I have been asked the question: "How does it feel to be a world series player?" I can at least say, "not monotonous, even though I have participated in six."

The toughest part of any world series, as far as the mental or nervous strain is concerned, that I have ever experienced has been when I was out of uniform. Once in my baseball togs out on the field and in the game, I've never felt it any different from any regular season affair. But in between games, especially if a postponement occurs or the team is idle, traveling, then is when I've felt ill at ease, with a longing for the ball, and to be miles away from baseball.

I am sure the 1911 Athletic-Giant series was the worst in this respect, when rain caused a delay for four or five consecutive days. I remember some of our team went to Cuba after the series, but I was so glad to be through with baseball for that year I wouldn't have gone for a mint.

Frequently a world series will make or break a promising player. I recall one specific instance in the case of Willie Schang.

His First Time Up.
In 1913 in his first game the first time he came to bat against the Giants, Schang was on first, no one out. "Schangie" leaped over the bench and said to Manager Mack: "What shall I do?" meaning whether to bunt or hit. Connie hesitated for a fraction of a second, then said to the kid: "You go up there and use your own judgment."

Schang attempted to bunt the first, but he was on first, no one out. "Schangie" leaped over the bench and said to Manager Mack: "What shall I do?" meaning whether to bunt or hit. Connie hesitated for a fraction of a second, then said to the kid: "You go up there and use your own judgment."

Once later, I remember, he got up to get a drink of water during the game against the Giants, but these were the only two instances I can recall where he ever moved from his usual place on the bench.

In contrast to Connie is Bill Gleason. The Kid is never still, he is everywhere, encouraging his players every minute, and ready to cut off his arm or leg if he thought it would do any one of his men any good.

It's great to be in a series, but take it from me, it's greater when it's over—and you have won.

STRATFORD RIDER WHEELS IN FIRST

F. Riches, With Eight Minutes Handicap, Leads Close Field.

Yesterday's annual handicap bike race to Crumlin and back produced a split-second finish. Between the three stars, all scratch, Coles of London, Yensel of London, Canadian sprinter champion, leading Brown, the ex-Dominion title-holder, with but two seconds dividing the trio.

Coles negotiated the ten miles and a half in 25:54, better time than the new record set at Ottawa when he won the ten-mile championship in 25:25, just 19 seconds faster. This was on a track, too, and not a road race.

Brown finished in 25:55, and Webster, the Toronto crack, finished just a second later.

F. Riches of Stratford won the race with an eight-minute handicap, doing the distance in 31:25 after riding a well-judged race. The field was closely grouped from the time they shot off in front of the city hall until they wheeled to the finish line and put this race a long way on the road to becoming one of the bike classics of Canada.

The summary follows:
F. Riches, Stratford (8 min.), 31:25.
W. Webster, London (8 min.), 29:25.
W. Haskett, London (8 min.), 29:26.
F. Flaherty, London (8 min.), 32:26.
P. Tucker, London (8 min.), 33:57.
A. Elliott, London (7 min.), 34:45.
C. Henshaw, London (6 min.), 30:56.
Joe Allen, London (6 min.), 30:55.

TWINKLING SIMON AND GOLD DIRECT DUEL RACE

Woodstock Fair Race Card Provides Fine Racing.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 28.—The horse races held today as the headliner attraction at the Woodstock Fair were well contested. Three races were on the card, a green race, a 2:15 trot or race, and a 2:30 trial run. The green race brought six starters, and it was necessary to race five heats before a winner was declared.

The race developed into a two-horse race between Gold Direct and Twinkling Simon. The 2:15 race was won by Dr. B. in straight heats. Frank M. furnished the opposition, but the Mount Elgin horse was too much class and was always first under the wire.

The five-heat race was won by the five-heaters to the starters to the 2:15 race, won the first heat in 1:08 1/2. In the second four of the five starters were half a mile without getting the post. They were brought back to the post, and a spirited drive through the stretch.

The only one to stop was off in front and led most of the way. However, in the second four of the five starters were half a mile without getting the post. They were brought back to the post, and a spirited drive through the stretch.

Sandy Innis on Alcorn put a splendid race and nipped the Martins just as the wire was struck.

LISTOWEL REFUSES SATURDAY GAME
LISTOWEL, Sept. 28.—Despite the local team's request for a postponement of the final game of the W. O. T. L. scheduled to be played at St. Thomas on Saturday, Secretary Boughner has refused, and states that the game will have to be played as ordered.

Word was sent to Mr. Boughner that this order was insisted upon, the local team would default.

PLAN FORMATION OF NEW TENNIS CLUB WITH INCLOSED COURTS

Meeting of Tennis Enthusiasts Tonight At County Buildings Will Take Up Project.

EFFORTS will be made tonight at a meeting in the council chamber at the county buildings to form a city tennis club with the idea ultimately of building inclosed courts with seating accommodation provided.

Those behind the idea haven't any Wimbledon ambitions, but believe in order to develop tennis properly, and at the point it should be developed in this city, a tennis club with its own inclosed courts is the answer.

Plan Formation of New Tennis Club With Inclosed Courts

Meeting of Tennis Enthusiasts Tonight At County Buildings Will Take Up Project.

The latter are doing a wonderful work in developing tennis players, but at the present time are much too crowded during the tennis season to be of much use to those wishing to play tennis. However, it would be to the playgrounds that the proposed tennis club would have to go for promising talent.

Courts in the American cities are found to be self-sustaining, and because tennis is becoming more and more popularized here each year, those who plan the new club believe that now is the time to act and keep pace with the game.

Practically all those who have been associated with a tennis club in London believe the project can be put through and are behind the plan.

EX-YANKS GET SWEET REVENGE

Red Sox Prevent Huggmen From Clinching Title.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Boston prevented New York from clinching the American League pennant today by defeating the leaders, 3 to 1. Warren "Rip" Collins, last year with the Yankees, had the better of Joe Bush, in 1921 a member of the Red Sox, in a well-pitched game. Collins allowed only four hits. He walked seven and fanned only one, but was effective. Bush struck out nine, Collins fanning four times.

The New York run was the result of a pass to Witt in the third inning, and singles by Dugan and Pipp. Boston scored a run in the second on a pass and singles by J. Collins and Mitchell. In the sixth Pratt doubled to short right and scored on J. Collins' single to center after O'Rourke's sacrifice. A pass and Pratt's double gave Boston its third run in the seventh.

Former Yankees were responsible for all three Boston runs. Despite cold weather, a crowd of 4,000 attended. New York must win one game or St. Louis lose to assure the Yankees the pennant.

The score:
New York.....001 000—3
Boston.....010 001—3
Bush and Schang; W. Collins and Ruel.

DIVIDE TWIN BILL. Washington and Philadelphia split even in a double-header today, the visitors winning the first game, and the Athletics taking the second, which was called at the end of the sixth inning on account of darkness by a score of 12 to 4.

The Athletics used four pitchers in the opener, but Harris held the Senators safe in the second. The scores:
First game:
Washington.....511 001—12
Philadelphia.....001 210—6
Philadelphia.....001 210—6
Morgridge and Garrity; Konheim and Perkins, Bruegy.

Second game:
Washington.....022 000—4
Philadelphia.....640 200—12
Called, darkness.
Francis, Warmuth and Lapan; Harris and Bruegy.

SOFTBALL.
A picked team from the London Softball League will journey to Ingersoll on Saturday afternoon to meet the Dairy Town champions.

WILL PLAY IN MORNING AND WITNESS MCGILL-VARSITY CLASH IN AFTERNOON.

WESTERN "U" received word last night that they would open their Intercollegiate 1922 campaign by meeting Varsity Oct. 7, in the morning. Shaughnessy's ringed McGill crew will be entertained by the Blue and White seniors in the afternoon, and the Western "U" squad will be on hand to witness the first clash of the season between the big rivals.

Meantime the squad are keeping right at their training grind and showing improvement every day as a team. Twenty-six candidates were put at work yesterday, and they went to it in a tangle of legs and arms and enthusiasm, increased by the necessary after this afternoon's workout, and only those who have been regular in their work will find their names called.

More attention is being paid to defensive tactics this year, and Western's big fault of the 1921 season, when at times their line broke badly at critical moments, will not be repeated. Last season the squad was inconsistent defensively, and Coach Reid is taking every precaution to remedy this defect.

All the players are showing up well, but, considering that they have had some experience tucked away now, this was to be expected. Traynor's long booting is sharing the spotlight with Kelly Williams' speed on the wing, and there'll be few of the London kicker's boots so far as this year, the way the linemen get down.

Westerns were broken last year by Varsity' footpound on the line, but with two Blue and White teams playing senior, some of this weight is bound to be removed, and Western's chances of winning on the Varsity gridiron aren't entirely outside ones.

Director Dr. Smith and Coach Euster Reid are neither one at handing out praise, but apparently both are satisfied with the way the squad has jumped into the training grind. With 26 youths all eager to make the team, their task is rendered considerably lighter than it has been in seasons when there were only a few. Just enough players to go around the positions, with barely enough to sub.

The new forms are on the way, and the squad should be able to don them on Monday.

McCutcheon Cup Draw.

October 14.
First Round.
Army and Navy Vets at Maple Leafs.
Before—Carr.
St. Andrews at R. C. R. (Spisbury).
W. O. R. at G. T. R. (Wilkins).

Second Round.
Winners of W.O.R.-G.T.R. get by.

At last night's meeting of the London City League, Scotty McKay of the Army and Navy Vets brought up the case of Billy Bissett, who was suspended by the City League some time ago. Scotty asked that Mr. Bissett's suspension be raised, claiming that it was illegal for the City League to keep Mr. Bissett from taking part in organized football, as the City League was an outlaw body at the time Mr. Bissett was suspended.

After some discussion it was decided to leave the matter to be dealt with at an open meeting.

There may be a game between St. Andrews and Army and Navy at Springfield on Saturday.

W. O. R. and R. C. R. have been ordered to play their City League game postponed from Aug. 12 at Carling Heights on Saturday. The kick-off will be at 3 o'clock. Noble will handle the whistle.

Injured Players' Cup Draw.
October 7.
First Round.
Forest at Wallacuburg.
Sarnia Rovers at Sarnia Vets Rangers.
Tunney City (bye).

M. C. R. at United Vets.
St. John's Rovers (bye).

R. C. R. at W. O. R.
G. T. R. at St. Andrews.
Army and Navy at Maple Leafs.

Second Round.
Winners of Maple Leaf-Army and Navy Vets get a bye.
Winners W. O. R.-R. C. R. meet winners of G. T. R.-St. Andrews on former's ground.

Two play-offs are billed for Saturday: Grand Trunk and Civil Service meet in the third and final game of the championship series for the Manufacturers' League title at Queen's Park, with the umpire due to clear his throat at 3 p.m.

St. Martins and Marconis, split series winners, meet in either the first game of a three-game series or a sudden-death game for the championship of the Catholic League. The number of games had not been decided on last night.

Grand Trunk, if they win, will challenge the Orioles for the city championship, and as the Marconis intend to put in a bid too, the amateurs will be going all through October and nibbling into the footballers' season.

Civil Service, owing to the fact that so many of their men play also with the Orioles, would be unable to make a bid for city honors if they win the Manufacturers' title.

Legg and Forgue will handle the game at Queen's Park, unless they get the assignment for Guelph-St. Thomas at Terriers' home last Saturday.

Over 5,000 fans at the amateur game between St. Thomas and Galt shows that baseball, whether it's played by pros or amateurs, might as well be termed the "national game" of Canada now as a few years from now.

And softball, parent or offspring—nobody is quite willing to say which is helping baseball out. It gets them going and coming—when they're either not old enough or too old to play baseball.

Siki Says Frenchman Will Be Accommodated Any Time.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—(By Canadian Press.)—Georges Carpentier is slowly recovering from the effects of the recent beating he received from Battling Siki. The former European heavyweight champion, seen at his home today, presented a rather sad appearance. His right eye is blackened and still half closed. His face is misshapen, with greatly swollen lips and a lacerated cheek. His hands are still bandaged and almost useless.

Carpentier speaks of nothing but the beating that he is going to give his conqueror if he ever gets him in the ring again.

"I'm just living for a chance to hit that Siki on the jaw. He tripped me to the floor, and I wasn't knocked out. I'll make him look ridiculous the next time. I never got my right hand. After I broke my right hand, I was as good as dead. I'll make him pay for it. As soon as he is able to make the trip he is going to Albi to join his family, and then he is going to Amsterdam."

WILLING TO DEFEND.
PARIS, Sept. 28.—Convicted that his reputation can be easily ruined on a solid footing only by another unequivocal victory over Georges Carpentier, Battling Siki, in an interview with Despatches, the white ex-champion, consented to a return match with the Frenchman. It is understood that Siki's wife, a woman of Dutch descent, had much to do with this decision.

FAVORITE WINS.
LONDON, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press.)—The jockey club stakes, valued at over $20,000 run today at the Newmarket meeting over the last mile and three-quarters of the Cambridgeshire course was an easy win for S. Tattersall's three-year-old filly, Lady Juro, who started on a hot favorite at 13 to 2 against and won by four lengths. James A. De Rothschild's Baton Rouge finished second, beating Lord Derby's Glorioso, a four-year-old colt by Swynford, Assurances, by three lengths for place.

Eight ran. Baton Rouge, quoted at six to one against, while Glorioso's starting price was 100 to 8 against.

BOB MEUSEL, NEW YORK AMERICAN.

BOB MEUSEL, NEW YORK AMERICAN. Bob Meusel possesses remarkable ability in every branch of play, yet does not get the most out of his possibilities because he lacks initiative. He is rather care-free, doesn't take the game as seriously as he might, and is satisfied to be rated a mighty good player rather than a great star.

Meusel is a right-handed batter, takes a healthy swing, and is one of the most dangerous hitters in the American League. For a big fellow he is very fast on his feet.

BROTHER EMIL.
Meusel is one of the most valuable outfielders in the National League. He does everything worth while.

In the series with the Yankees last fall his work was one of the outstanding features. He fielded perfectly and hit the ball timely. The Yankees pitchers found him troublesome throughout.

Meusel bats right-handed and is always well above the 300 mark. Hits the ball hard, while not rated as a club on the bases, he is anything but slow.

KING CABINET AWAITS WORD FROM BRITAIN

Government Ministers Believed To Have Made Definite Decision.

PREMIER WELL INFORMED

Cabled Information From British Administration Received Daily.

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—(By Canadian Press.)—Unless developments in the Near East should necessitate the calling of an emergency sitting, it is unlikely that the cabinet will meet this week. The numerous meetings held last week, following the receipt of the original message from the British government, resulted, it is understood, in the disposition of routine business which accumulated, and it may even be that a decision was reached as to what action would be taken in the event of hostilities.

As far as can be ascertained, the action of the government in the event of hostilities would be confined to the immediate calling of an emergency session of Parliament. Members would be summoned to Ottawa with the least possible delay, and Parliament would be asked to determine the course of action to be pursued.

This is the policy favored by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Progressive leader, in his recent visit to Ottawa, and it is thought the government is in agreement with it.

The prime minister is understood to be in receipt of cabled information daily from the British government, and this, taken in conjunction with the news dispatches, enables him to follow the trend of events carefully.

DENIES RUMOR OF CAR RESTRICTION
WINNIPEG, Sept. 28.—Denial was made today by Charles Murphy, general manager of western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, that his company had ordered a temporary restriction in 1,000 cars of grain a day from the Prairie Provinces. All grain offering, Mr. Murphy declared was being handled in a most satisfactory manner, and there was absolutely no congestion at terminals.

AVIATORS REPORT FIRE IN MINNESOTA SERIOUS
DULUTH, Sept. 28.—Five buildings have been destroyed in the forest fire area of Northern Minnesota, the wind has risen to 25 miles an hour and a new blaze has broken out, according to aviators on fire patrol who landed here late this afternoon.

Fires near Duluth, Kansey, Cotton and Elsmere are threatening to break away from the fire-fighters, and settlers are preparing to move. Several menacing fires are burning in Koochiching County and 250 fire-fighters are battling the flames, according to reports received by W. T. Cox, state forester, who characterized the situation as "serious."

LAST BACHELOR SELLS CLUBHOUSE
WAUKEGAN, Ill., Sept. 28.—Thirty-two years ago 23 Waukegan businessmen forewore marriage, formed a bachelor club and bought a clubhouse on Third Lake.

Today the old circle had dwindled to one, Clarence J. Bassett, a jeweler, and he sold the club.

To Tune "O, How I Hate To Get Up in the Morning."
GALT, Sept. 28.—Alex "Punch" George, one of Galt's well-known trio of brother hockey players, is confined to his bed, the victim of a peculiar accident. Stretching himself in bed, he dislocated a bone in his neck, which cannot be replaced until the swelling goes down.

ADVISES GOLDEN RULE IN BUSINESS

Rev. Dr. Sowerby Addresses Gathering of Bicycle Dealers.

"Ethics is the science of duty," said Rev. Dr. Sowerby, Ph.D., LL.D., in his address on "The Necessity of the Golden Rule Applied to Business" at the Canadian Bicycle Dealers' Association banquet at the De Luxe Cafe Thursday night.

"Ethics is the simplest science we have. And the science of duty is divided into three parts, namely, man's duty to himself, man's duty to his fellow-men, and man's duty to God. Every text-book on ethics makes these three divisions of man's duty, and if you want to sell wheels, which is your business, and want to make an honest grab, you will have to live up to the Golden Rule."

"Every man has certain duties, certain obligations to himself, and upon the way he discharges those duties depends the finished result—what he really is. What am I? Am I a beast of the field? Man has been made to the image and likeness of his Creator—his God. Man is the highest product of the creative power of God. In analyzing the human mind we learn that it is made up of four departments, the intellect, the will, conscience and judgment. The intellect is the window blind. When you raise it light comes in. The intellect allows information from the outside to come in. Behind the intellect are the emotional abilities; behind them the conscience. It is not conscience, as is commonly supposed, that tells you something is right or wrong—it is judgment that does that. But your conscience the moment judgment is formed suggests that you do it if it is right, or don't do it if it is wrong. You will may act and say 'I will do it; or 'I will not do it,' but it is your judgment that says whether a thing is good or bad."

Cites Case of Daniel.
Man's will may ride down his intellect, his judgment, or his conscience, but if he is playing the game square, and wants to be able to look his fellowman in the eye, he will not let his will overpower his judgment."

Dr. Sowerby cited the case of Daniel, who, when he was carried into Babylon, where everything was done to lead him astray, set his will against falling from grace. "Daniel purposed in his heart," said the speaker, "that he would not defile himself. It was Daniel's strong personality, a two-fold personality that kept him from falling. He would not defile himself, nor would he let anyone else do it."

Dr. Sowerby also pointed to the story of Joseph, a clean-cut young man, who was blackmailed by notorious women. If Joseph had yielded, he would have dropped out of history, and into oblivion. Prominent statesmen like Gladstone, Disraeli, and even Bismarck were great in their time, but there never was a greater statesman than Joseph. "Through seven years of prosperity, fourteen years of unapproachable statesmanship, was given to that man. God honors the man who honors his own manhood."

Value of Clear Conscience.
"Well, take a pound of it and get out." That case actually happened," said Dr. Sowerby. "Will that child come back again? That child will entertain a spirit of revulsion for the rest of his life, not only for the clerk, but for the store. Think it over," said Dr. Sowerby. "Get a man with a sunny face. He may have slower brains, but he will learn, and will pay you dividends in the long run. You owe customers more than 100 cents on the dollar, you owe them a smile, common courtesies and pleasantness."

The speaker went on to show that a clear conscience was worth more than all the money that could be amassed in a lifetime. There must be not only accurate measurement, but quality in all a merchant sold. Business should be done in such a

12-Year-Old Innerkip Girl Gains Wish To Remain in Care of Stepfather

Special to London Advertiser.
WOODSTOCK, Sept. 28.—Albert Yeo of Innerkip was today given legal guardianship of his 12-year-old stepdaughter Annie, heir to $16,000. A few weeks ago the stepfather, the grandmother and an uncle applied to Judge Wallace for guardianship of the girl.

Her father had died when she was an infant, and left her $15,000. Her mother a few years ago married Albert Yeo. Not long ago the mother died and left her daughter another $1,000. By the father's will the income of the money was to go to the girl's guardian. The grandmother claimed the stepfather was not good to the child, while the uncle's claim was thrown out on account of his not being a resident of the county.

To the judge the little heiress pleaded not to be separated from her stepfather and 5-year-old half-sister, and today, by Judge Wallace's decision, she has had her wishes accorded to.

"Be fraternal. I am glad to see such a splendid example of fraternal spirit here tonight. Keep it up. The reward is worth it. A lifetime of honest, clean-cut business will be a reward in itself on your deathbed."

B. B. Halliday, who acted as chairman, spoke briefly in appreciation of the splendid and practical talk given by the Rev. Dr. Sowerby.

T. H. Yull, of the Federal Advertising Agency, city, introduced the speaker.

FEAR SCARCITY OF FIGS FROM EAST
WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—A shortage of figs is threatened by the war in the Near East, according to a report to the commerce department today from Commercial Attaché R. O. Hall at Athens.

No figs or currants have been shipped from Smyrna, he reported, since the military operations around that city began, and it is estimated that there will be a loss of approximately 70 per cent of the fig crop.

LAUDS FRIENDLY SPIRIT.
"Don't run down your opposition," advised Dr. Sowerby, in concluding.

IRISH EMIGRANTS COME TO CANADA

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—(By Canadian Press.)—The continued troubles in Ireland are apparently having the effect of causing many Irish families to seek domicile in more peaceful lands and this movement is benefitting Canada to some extent in that this country is securing a good type of immigrant from the Emerald Isle.

Since the first of the year Canada has received 2,222 immigrants from Ireland, of whom 1,929 have been adult male agriculturists, according to information available at the department of immigration.

LEAVES ESTATE VALUED AT $600,553
TORONTO, Sept. 28.—J. Henry Peters of this city, manufacturer, former German consul here, who died at sea on Aug. 3 last, left an estate valued at $600,553. The widow is to receive $12,000 a year with maintenance of the residence, and the balance is to be divided equally among four children.

PROPOSED MERGER.
NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The proposed merger of the Inland Steel Company, the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company and the Republic Iron and Steel Company will not be effected, it was announced today. The situation arising from the action of the federal trade commission in declaring that such a merger would be illegal was declared responsible for the decision.

TWO INJURED IN AUTO CRASH NEAR INGERSOLL
Special to London Advertiser.
INGERSOLL, Sept. 28.—When the automobile in which they were riding went into the ditch and toppled over at an early hour this morning, Frank Bond and William Reed of Woodstock had a narrow escape.

The accident happened two miles east of here on the Hamilton road, when they turned out to allow another car from the east to pass. When the car overturned Bond was pinned under it, and was not released until Reed went to the home of H. Lazenby for assistance.

Bond was unconscious for some time, and after receiving medical aid was taken to Woodstock Hospital. His condition, however, was not as serious as first supposed. Reed escaped with cuts and bruises.

IN MEMORIAM

BARCLAY—In loving memory of Mrs.
Barclay, who entered into rest
one year ago.

Free from pain, he suffered long,
Resting in the arms of Jesus,
On that bright and glorious shore,
Her loving sister Belle and niece Ethel.

BARCLAY—In memory of a dear wife and mother, who fell asleep one year ago today.

Not lost, but gone before,
Sleep on, dear one, in peaceful sleep,
Always your memory we should keep.

SEEKS AID OF

Beattie and E. Knowles second and third. Boosters were Kiwanians Bill Wortman and Bill Benson.

The London club now bears the distinction of having set the example for the international executive in the selection of an objective. At the beginning of the year, the London club decided to focus attention on the under-privileged boys, particularly those whose fathers were killed overseas.

So much success was achieved, that the international executive adopted the problem of the under-privileged boys as their campaign for the coming term.

Although plans for the development of the university classes, as yet uncompleted, Professor Morrow outlined the courses of study and the branches of commercial economy with which the department will deal.

"We shall require a high standard from our students. Unless they show promise of becoming successful businessmen, their place is not in the classes of commerce. Our intention will be to train them in proper business habits, to teach them to do one job well, so that in doing the problems of the business world, they will not lack initiative in tackling other jobs."

"We expect our staff to grow, and the men we want with us are practical experts and not theorists. You cannot operate a business school on the divorce principle, close operation must be kept with the business world, and for that reason we must have men who are in touch with the practical business world of our own day."

Provide Practical Work.

"The businessmen can help materially in providing practical work for the student and in lending a business atmosphere to the classes."

Professor Morrow outlined the courses which could be given. Industrial accounting is to be taught rather than chartered accounting, as being of more benefit in the carrying on of a business; a course in commercial law to enable the student to realize the value of the legal profession in business life, and to develop him along lines of independent thought; general equipment will be given in statistics in commercial distribution and in industrial management, in advertising and in sales and factory management.

DISCUSS TRUCE
OFFER TO IRISH REBEL FORCES

Members of Free State Parliament Carry Military Court Resolution.

PEACE PROPOSALS MADE

Dr. Patrick McCartan Suggests Committee To Negotiate With Irregulars.

DUBLIN, Sept. 28.—The Irish Parliament today adopted the government's resolution for the establishment of military courts to try persons charged with hindering the restoration of order, or who endanger the public safety. The vote was 47 to 15.

The members then discussed a motion made by Dr. Patrick Mc-Cartan for the arrangement of a truce of not less than a fort-night's duration, for the purpose of restoring peace and saving the country from economic disaster.

Dr. McCartan suggested Gen.
O'Duffy, Prof. MacNeill, Labor Leader Johnstone and Deputy Fitzgibbons of Trinity College to negotiate for peace terms.

President Cosgrave, in replying, said it was possible to effect a peace of the government was anxious to do it, but that it was not authorized to go on much further than the terms he had already outlined, namely, obedience to Parliament and recognition of Parliament's control of arms.

After several suggestions had been made Dr. McCartan admitted that he had no authority from the Irregulars to suggest a truce, but said he desired they be given an opportunity to recede from their present position.
The house adjourned without any vote having been taken on the question.

PASS SUPPLEMENTALS, GAIN NORMAL ENTRANCE

Unsuccessful Students Prove Merits
in September Examinations.

At least a dozen new students have been added to the roll at the London Normal School since the opening, owing to the supplemental examination early part of the month.

Those who failed in the June examinations, and were unable to register for the fall opening of the Normal School, have proved successful in the September examinations, and are entering the classes.

Until all these students have registered, the organization of Normal School students' bodies is being delayed. No meetings of the literary society have yet been held, but it is expected that officers for the new term will be elected within a short time.

do not believe we should send any of our students to Germany until she repents," Dr. Graham said.

Rev. Frank Langford, in his report of the board of Sunday schools and young people's societies, emphasized the need of training Sunday school teachers. He explained the work done by the board towards teacher training, particularly summer schools.

Need Teachers.

Mr. Langford urged that the churches should send teachers to the public schools to give religious instruction at least once a week.

The average boy spends five times as much on arithmetic as he does on the Bible, Dr. Graham said. He is expected that officers for the new term will be elected within a short time.

Particular interest at the conference today was centered in the work of the special committee selected to investigate departmental work. There is a great deal of difference of opinion in regard to the size of the staff at headquarters. Some think it is too large, that departments such as the educational and the one for religious education could be amalgamated, that the social service department could be absorbed by the one which looks after missions, and so on. This is the big question before the conference.

The results of the elections from the various Western Ontario conferences to the committee on departmental work follows:

Toronto—Rev. J. A. Long, Rev. I.
G. Bowles, Sir Joseph Flavell, C. E.
Edwards.

London—Rev. G. N. Hazen, Rev.
J. E. Millard, F. B. Holby, H.
Pocock.

Hamilton—Rev. A. J. Irwin, Rev.
G. W. Barker, R. W. Trevelan, Fred Gunn.

MUNITIONS ARRIVE
AT LEVIS, QUEBEC

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—Canadian Press.

Artillery ammunition landed at Levis yesterday from one of the ships of the Canadian government merchant marine, was owed to Canada
by Great Britain, Hon. George P.
Graham, minister of militia and defense, informed Canadian Press today.

"It was some remnants owing to us and not the result of a purchase.
No money was involved," he stated.

CYCLIST STRUCK
BY AUTOMOBILE

When struck by a car at the corner of Richmond and Dundas street at 9:30 o'clock Thursday night, a bicycle, ridden by Harry Armstrong, 53 Warden road, was badly smashed.
Armstrong escaped without injuries.
The wheel was carried a distance of 15 feet by the car, which was travelling at a moderate speed. The car was driven by E. J. Botting, 377 Talbot street.

DENIES COWS DIED FROM TREATMENT

Dr. Tamlin Explains Rumor About Inspection For Tubercular Cattle.

While the tubercular inspection of cows continues in the neighborhood, Dr. Tamlin, inspector of herds and dairies, was questioned Friday how it was that two cows died after they were struck with serious illness.

Dr. Tamlin explains that the animals would have perished in any event, and that their death was no due to any treatment accorded by the provincial inspectors, who are busy in this district.

"The cows consumed too much sweet clover," he states.

It is explained that when it becomes necessary to order the destruction of any cows revealing signs of tuberculous, the owners will be recompensed.

The local medical authorities reported Friday that the inspection of herds and dairies of the district was still in progress, and a full detailed statement will be forthcoming when the task is completed.

Practically every day one or more cases are noted of affected cattle.

O. A. C. PROFESSOR
TO LEAVE GUELPH

J. P. Sackville, B.S.A., Accepts Position On University of Alberta Staff.

Special to London Advertiser.

GUELPH, Sept. 28.—Professor J.
P. Sackville, who for the past seven years has been connected with the animal husbandry department at the O. A. C., has handed in his resignation to President J. B. Reynolds, to accept a position as head of the animal husbandry branch at the University of Alberta in Edmonton, and will leave Guelph in two weeks to take over his new duties.

After obtaining his B. S. A. degree at the O. A. C. in 1917, Professor Sackville joined the college faculty,
and with the exception of six months,
when he was on the staff of the Grain Growers' Guide at Winnipeg, he has been professor of animal husbandry at the local institution.

Prof. Sackville, who comes from Port Hope, Ontario, is one of the most popular members of the O. A. C. faculty, and his departure from Guelph will be deeply regretted by the college staff and students.

It was reported at St. Joseph's Hospital this evening that Thomas Keynon, the Hamilton motorist, who was badly injured in Kitchener road, near New Germany, yesterday, when a Ford car in which he was riding turned turtle into the ditch, was in a serious condition.

Although the exact extent of his injury has not been determined, it has been found that he is suffering from severe injuries to his back, while part of his body is also paralyzed. It will probably be a few days before his physicians will be in a position to state whether or not he is out of danger.

STONE THROWN INTO TRAIN
WINDOW INJURES WOMAN

Officials Believe Boys Were Aiming at Wheels of Coach.

Struck by a large stone hurled through the window of Grand Trunk train No. 11 when at the Cove bridge 5:50 Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Ophelia Thompson of Glenora, was severely cut about the face. Her injuries were attended to by Dr. Mc-Laughlin of Glenora, who happened to be on the train.

Railway officials have not been able to apprehend the guilty party or parties, who are thought to be boys in the habit of throwing bricks at wheels of passing trains. Officials do not believe that it was a deliberate attempt at personal injury, but is rather of the opinion that it was a "wild shot" that struck the coach window.

WEDDING BELLS

PREVOST-FORSYTH.

Clifford Prevost of Detroit, a former popular London newspaperman, is receiving the warm congratulations of his former associates and many other friends in the city on his marriage to Miss Adelaide Hattie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Forsyth, 445 Central avenue. Mr. Prevost holds a responsible position on the editorial staff of the Detroit Free Press, and Miss Forsyth, during the past year has been connected with the public utilities staff in this city.

The marriage took place quietly in a room at the Hotel Windsor, a personal friend of the groom officiating. Mrs.
L. Schafer, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the best man was H. H. Penny of the Detroit Free Press, also a former well-known London scribe.

After the ceremony, the young couple came on to London immediately for a brief honeymoon, which they are spending with the parents of the bride, and Mrs. Mary Prevost, mother of the groom. The wedding breakfast awaited them on their arrival at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Forsyth. Mr. and Mrs. Prevost return to Detroit the beginning of the week to their new home.

$28,000 BOND ISSUE WILL BE SOLD TO CITIZENS

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, Sept. 28.—The city of Sarnia has decided to dispose of a block of its bonds totalling $28,000, over the counter of the city hall.

Bids for the issue were called for, but out of nine offers there was not one considered sufficiently high by the city treasury. The highest offer from outside would be equivalent to a return of 5.75 on the par value of the bonds, and as the issue is a six per cent one, it is believed by the city treasury that there will be no difficulty in disposing of the short term bonds locally.

Suggest Purchase of Temporary Building At Cost of $3,000.

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, Sept. 28.—The West
Brantford Ratepayers' Association will meet on Friday evening to discuss the school accommodation in their district. There is a general feeling of dissatisfaction with the present conditions. At least 100 children, it is claimed, are not given proper educational facilities. Eighty of these are drafted into other distant schools and so are given no education at all, under the plea that they are too young to occupy the limited space.

Discontent Exists.

Extreme discontent with the provisions made for the children of the district by the school board has been expressed. The meeting will discuss the suggestion that a temporary building be obtained at a cost of about $3,000 as accommodation till the city's finances were in better shape, or to press for a new and larger building which would meet present needs and to some degree anticipate the prospective calls of that growing district.

The wages payroll of the city board of works department for the two weeks ending Sept. 23, has been tendered to the city council and reaches a figure of $5,419.33. This sum is charged to the various departments: streets, $2,287.18; house sewers, $1,414.48; water, $440.27;
street watering, $122.34; Bellview trunk sewer, $175.35; buildings and grounds, $127.67; new market shed, $201.77, and local improvements, $2-044.39.

May Change Act.

M. M. MacBride, M.P.P., announced this morning that official notice had been received to the effect that the legislative committee for the consideration of changes in the motor vehicles act would convene in this city on Oct. 5, at 2 p.m. A meeting of the heavy truck owners of the city has been called for tonight at the city council chamber to draw up their case for presentation to the committee.

City Clerk Leonard this morning received a notice from the head office of the C.P.R. and L.E. & N. railways to the effect that they were appealing the assessment on their property in this city on the grounds that it is excessive, illegal and not in accordance with the assessment act.
