GASOLINE PROBE TO OPEN SOON

Ferguson Government Will Appoint Commission To Secure All Facts.

WILL BE SWEEPING

Reasons Will Be Sought For Continued High Fuel Prices.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 17.—The investigation into the price of gasoline in Ontario promised during the session of the legislature by Premier Ferguson, will be started shortly. The government intends to find out the cost of gasoline from the refinery to the consumer, so that no advantage may be taken by anyone from the three-cent a gallon tax to be imposed. A one-man commission will make the investigation.

"I am looking for the man to carry on the investigation at the present moment," stated Premier Ferguson, when asked how the investigation would be carried out.

"Will he have the power of a commissioner?" the premier was asked.

"Yes," was the reply. "He will be empowered to hold hearings and take evidence. We want to get to the bottom of this thing."

WINS $3,000 ACTION FOR DAMAGE TO FOOT

Winnipeg Man Injured While Getting Off Moving Train.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, April 17.—Fred Adamanuck, Winnipeg, has been awarded $3,000 and costs in a damage action against the Canadian Pacific Railway, after a new trial ordered by the supreme court of Canada of the case, which had been non-suited before Mr. Justice Galt and a jury last summer. The new trial was closed before Mr. Justice Adamson and a jury in the court of king's bench.

Mr. Adamanuck brought his action on the grounds that he had been injured at Bantry, Alta., when the train he rode on slowed down, but did not stop, and at the suggestion of the brakeman he jumped, falling so that his foot was thrown under the wheels and several toes had to be amputated.

YENDALL AND DAWE NAMED CHIEFS OF NEW EAST AND WEST DISTRICTS AS ROTARY CONFERENCE CLOSES CHOSEN AS NEW ROTARY GOVERNORS.

On the left is William R. Yendall of the London Rotary club, who was this morning unanimously nominated as governor of the new eastern half of the 18th Rotary district. The nomination is a popular tribute to Mr. Yendall's efficient work as executive committee chairman of the conference arrangements and a compliment to the London club. On the right is Percy V. Dawe of Cadillac, Mich., who was unanimously selected as governor for the western half of the district. Elections will be held at the Cleveland convention.

Two Visitors From Rotary Are Guests of Kiwanis

Richard Harfet and William Butcher Say Clubs Have Common Ideals.

SPEAK OF BOYS

Two noted Rotarians, Richard Harfet, president of the Detroit club, and William Butcher, of New York, chief advisor to the Rotary International on boys' work, played truant from the Rotary conference long enough to be the guests of honor and speakers at the regular Kiwanis luncheon in the Tecumseh hotel at noon today.

"The Rotarians and the Kiwanians are both interested in the youth of the land," said Mr. Butcher, speaking on the responsibility resting on the individual as well as clubs. "I refuse to draw a line between two clubs, one working for the boys and the other for the underprivileged child."

Anything that can be done for boys is fundamental, he declared. Disraeli had said that all vagabondage of the world was born in the underprivileged boy. The greatest men of the world had recognized the evil which followed a lack of understanding or the care of children in the adolescent period.

The man who helped a boy or girl was making a contribution of the first magnitude to the world. Quoting Theodore Roosevelt, he said, "If you want to do anything for the man, help and be kind by the way."

Richard Harfet touched briefly of the kindred aims and ideals of the service clubs. There was something spiritual about them. It was seen in the good fellowship among the members gathered from different spheres. There was a tolerance in Rotary and Kiwanis. It was open to people of any religious denomination. There were no limitations in the service clubs such as seen in lodges. Politicians of opposing factions enjoyed each other's company in Rotary and Kiwanis.

During luncheon MacDonald recited a touching story on the "Curse of Drink." Jack Nash sang a song, Cliff Hunt put up a Remington portable typewriter for a boost. It was won by Gard Gammage. Joan Arrell and Gladys Carmichael, two expert typists, were introduced to the members. John McHale, president, occupied the chair.

FIRE IN KLANSMAN'S HOME LAID TO GIRL AVENGERS

Associated Press Despatch.
Indianapolis Ind. April 17.—Fire of mysterious origin early today damaged the home of D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the K. K. K. The blaze was preceded by an explosion, neighbors said, and the fire department officials declared they found in the house two cans of kerosene and one of gasoline. In addition, all of the gas jets were open, the firemen added. The fire followed by only a few hours the funeral of Miss Madge Oberholzer, 23, who died last Tuesday apparently from the effects of poison which her relatives and her physicians say she took at Hammond Ind. following an alleged attack by Stephenson.

Brewers, Dealers To Collect Tax

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 17.—Asked this morning how it was intended to collect the tax on 4.4 per cent beer, Hon. W. S. Price, provincial treasurer, said: "The brewers and retailers will have to be made agents for the government as far as I can tell at the present time, and they will be the collectors." It is likely that the tax on carbonated drinks will be collected by the stamp method. The stamps would be fixed to the bottle when the retailer sells it to the consumer.

EMMA GOLDMAN SAYS DELEGATES DELUDED

One-Time Anarchist Claims Russian Officials Kept Back the Real Truth.
Associated Press Despatch.
London, April 17.—Emma Goldman, the one-time anarchist, deported from the United States in 1919, told a London audience last night that the report of the British trade unionists who recently visited Russia was "from beginning to end a travesty of the actual truth."

This report of a delegation of the British trade congress placed the situation in Russia in a most favorable light with reference to public health, housing and the prison system, and declared that the soviet government was achieving remarkable results.

Four Resolutions Passed.
The resolution to support Paul King as a candidate for the presidency of International Rotary was the first presented by the committee. This was given an unanimous "Aye" by the Rotarians present.

The resolution to divide the 18th Rotary district was passed, and 18th district was expressed at the necessity of the division, due to numbers. A resolution was then introduced. Please See Page 4, Column 2.

ITALIAN QUEEN JOINS PRINCESS YOLANDA

Associated Press Despatch.
Pinerolo, Italy, April 17.—Queen Helena and Princess Mafalda have arrived here to be with the Princess Yolanda, who is expecting the birth of a child within a few days.

Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of the King and Queen of Italy, was married on April 3, 1923, to Count Calvi di Bergolo. She has one child, a daughter, born Jan. 27, 1924.

The health of Princess Yolanda is excellent. She takes daily walks and motor trips with her husband.

CAIRO DESPATCH DENIES ITALIANS ARE IN JARABUB

Associated Press Despatch.
London, April 17.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Cairo, Egypt, says the Italian legion there denies that Italian forces have occupied a town of Jarabub, in Cirenaica.

The correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph in Cairo, in a despatch sent to London on Wednesday night, said that the Egyptian council of ministers had been convoked to consider the situation arising from a rumor that the Italians had occupied Jarabub.

London Man Receives High Honor in Nomination as District Governor.

CONFERENCE CLOSES

Benediction Following Luncheon Session Marks End of Old Eighteenth District.

RECEIVE REPORTS

Morning Session Featured by Resolutions and Address From Mulholland.

With a business session of inspirational addresses, resolutions, and the nominations of governors, followed by a general luncheon, the conference of the 18th district of Rotary clubs was brought to a close this afternoon.

Expressing their praise of London for the hospitality bestowed on them the Rotarians repaid that debt by nominating a Londoner, W. R. Yendall, as governor of the east section of the 18th district. While Mr. Yendall rose to state that he was not sure that he would be able to undertake the work his voice was drowned in the cheers of the delegates and nominations were closed.

Dawe For Western Governor.
Percy V. Dawe of Cadillac was also accorded the honor of being the only one nominated as governor of the west section of the newly divided 18th district. The elections will take place at Cleveland at the next general convention.

Frank Mulholland of Toledo, a former president of Rotary International, sounded the truths of Rotary in the ears of the delegates in an inspiring address.

Pointing to the golden rule as the genius and a lonely man's heart as the genesis, Mr. Mulholland outlined the marvelous growth of Rotary throughout the world. He cited the war as having curbed its growth in Europe but pointed to the 174 clubs in Great Britain as an example of recent development.

Sympathy For Sir Adam.
At the opening of the business session in the Patricia theatre Governor Good introduced a resolution of sympathy to Sir Adam Beck, a fellow Rotarian, who is ill at Baltimore. A telegram, with unanimous approval of the delegates was sent to Sir Adam as follows:

"Hon. Sir Adam Beck,
"Johns Hopkins hospital,
"Baltimore.
"The annual convention of the 18th Rotary district meeting in annual assembly here send you our best wishes, with the hope for a speedy recovery."
(Signed) GROVER C. GOOD,
ALFRED J. GRANT."

"LONE WOLF" IS GIVEN LIFE IMPRISONMENT

Associated Press Despatch.
Boston Mass. April 17.—James E. Walters of Richmond Va., who assumed the title of "Lone Wolf" and for weeks terrorized the Back Bay apartment house section by raids on suits occupied by women, was sentenced to life imprisonment late yesterday by Judge Bishop in Suffolk superior court.

Ed. Shea, well-known London businessman, who has been ill at his home, 572 Wellington street for the past four months, shows a slight improvement in his condition today. Mr. Shea has been seriously ill with rheumatism and his condition was looked on for a time as critical.

J. M. WATT, chairman of the Rotary Hobby Fair, has been the busiest man in the archa this week. From early dawn until night he has been at the helm and his work has been rewarded with a record attendance at the fair. The visiting Rotarians at the conference have expressed great appreciation of his work.

RUNAWAY R-33 RETURNS HOME

Giant British Dirigible Again Moored to Mast After Thrilling Trip.

ARMY OFFICERS CHEER

Associated Press Despatch.
Pulham, England, April 17.—To the cheers of British army officers, soldiers, workers and crowds of spectators, the army dirigible R-33 returned home safely shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon after her 28-hour battle with the elements over the east coast of England, and a storm-swept North Sea.

The runaway craft, which tore away from her moorings at the Pulham air station yesterday morning during one of the fiercest gales in recent years, was sighted by the anxious watchers at the airfield at 1:54 o'clock this afternoon. She manoeuvred for position and landed safely a quarter of an hour later.

A favorable wind allowed the sorely stressed crew of the R-33 to start their ship homeward from a point near the Dutch coast after daylight, and she made a slow, steady flight across the North Sea which yesterday she had passed over in the opposite direction, driven onward by the wind.

WHARTON SATISFIED TO STAY IN MIDDLESEX

High Constable Has No Intention of Leaving London at Present.

High constable Wharton has no intention of leaving London at the present time he informed the Advertiser today. DAMAGE IS $50,000 IN FIRE IN SCHOOL AT MONTREAL

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, April 17.—Fifty thousand dollars damage was done by a fire which broke out early this morning in St. Bridget's school and badly gutted the four-story stone structure. One fireman was rendered unconscious, but after some effort with a pulmotor by rescuers, he recovered. St. Bridget's church, adjoining, and the residence of the Christian Brothers were menaced.

The fire was spectacular, with the flames bursting through the roof.

STAFF CUT TO BE MADE BY GREAT WESTERN RY.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, April 17.—The Great Western Railway Company has announced its intention of reducing the staff at once because of a considerable falling off in the revenue of the railway, due chiefly to the diminution in the coal traffic.

It is pointed out that while the Great Western paid 74 per cent dividend last year, 3 per cent of this was earned and the payment of the 74 per cent was made possible only by drawing on the company's reserves.

HAIRPIN CURVE IS REMOVED

County Will Build New 66-Foot Road Near Mount Pleasant.

CEMETERY ENLARGED

Four Acres Added to Burial Ground by Recent Transaction.

Mount Pleasant Cemetery adds approximately four acres of burial plots by a real estate deal recently completed in conjunction with the suburban area commission, whereby the river road to Springbank passing to the south of the cemetery is moved farther south to the brow of the hill and the cemetery takes over the old road with additional property for burial purposes.

The deal has been under consideration for some time, and both parties are highly pleased.

By moving the road south, two "hairpin" curves are eliminated, and the accident hazard greatly reduced. County Clerk John Stuart stated this afternoon that the commission will build a regulation 66-foot road, whereas the old road was but 40 feet wide. The county's share in the purchase price was $1,250, the clerk stated.

The news that the two sharp curves near the cemetery will be eliminated will be welcome to hundreds of motorists who have had narrow escapes at these two particular turns. There will also be a splendid view of the city along the new road, which will be made as safe as possible by County Engineer Charles Talbot.

The work of building the new stretch, which will be some 300 yards long, will commence in the near future.

WINDSOR MEN INJURED AS AUTO HIT BY TRAIN

R. C. McKenzie and Robert Fead Victims of Peculiar Accident.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Windsor, Ont., April 16.—R. C. McKenzie and Robert Fead, both of Windsor, are in hospital severely injured following a peculiar accident on the Pillette road crossing of the Canadian National railways, this morning, when a gravel train, backing up, crashed into their motor car, hurling the men out and dragging parts of the car for a distance of nearly two blocks.

The injured men were found a few minutes later and rushed to the hospital.

Upon examination, McKenzie was found to have sustained a fractured leg, severe head injuries and body bruises. Fead was badly lacerated and bruised, but notwithstanding the fact that he was on the side of the car that was hit by the train, was the least injured.

High constable Wharton has no intention of leaving London at the present time he informed the Advertiser today. The chief of the county police force admitted that he had received offers at various times to take over the policing of other Western Ontario counties, but he declared that he was quite satisfied with Middlesex.

BOMB KILLS 140 IN SOFIA CHURCH

Martial Law Is Proclaimed in Bulgarian Capital After Outrage.

TRAGEDY AT FUNERAL

Associated Press Despatch.
Sofia, April 17.—Latest figures show that 140 persons, including 29 women and 10 children, were killed in the explosion of an infernal machine in the cathedral of Sveti Kral during the funeral of General Georgiev yesterday. Six generals and thirty other officers were among those killed.

Sofia today was in a state of ferment, the greatest excitement prevailing. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the country, while the military authorities have ordered a curfew established, the streets to be cleared at 7:30 p.m.

Although all the members of the government were present at the funeral service in the cathedral, none was seriously injured.

C. N. R. FREIGHT TRAIN DERAILED NEAR OTTAWA

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, April 17.—Freight train No. 407, westbound on the Canadian National Railway from Ottawa to Belleville, was derailed east of Sydenham, 75 miles from Ottawa, yesterday, due to the breaking of a wheel on one of the cars. Nine freight cars were derailed, tearing up the track for about 300 feet. No one was injured. The Toronto-Ottawa passenger trains had to be rerouted via Smith's Falls.

SIR ADAM TO SPEND SOME TIME YET IN HOSPITAL

TEACHER CHARGES SMOKING

Inquiry May Follow Statement Made in Toronto by Miss Lawrence.

DENIALS MADE

Local Teachers and Officials Say No Smoking by London Women.

Miss Sarah Lawrence, prominent London public school teacher, will be asked to explain the remarks attributed to her in a Toronto address yesterday to the effect that women teachers smoke, and in public.

Educational circles are greatly concerned over Miss Lawrence's statement, and while the general denial is flatly made that such a statement is true of London women teachers, it is felt that Miss Lawrence should give an explanation in the London women teachers' guild.

"Nowadays to be smart some women, bobbed or ehinged, consider it necessary to smoke cigarettes," Miss Lawrence is quoted. "You may think that this does not apply to teachers, but there are women teachers who have not only smoked, but have done it in public."

Charge Should Be Probed.
"I think a charge of that kind should be followed up," said Miss Emily Knott of Wortley road school this morning, "and I would think that Miss Lawrence should make some explanation in the women teachers' guild."

"Bobbed or ehinged hair is a matter of taste," remarked Miss Knott, "but smoking is very, very foreign to women teachers in London and I do not know of any woman teacher here who smokes, either in public or in private."

"Miss Lawrence has apparently made a broad statement," stated Miss Marjorie Tolhurst, principal of Knollwood Park school, "and one which is a cruel blow to the women teachers. London has not that kind of teachers, for I have never seen any woman teacher smoke in public or in private."

"She may think that bobbed or ehinged hair is the height of folly," observed Miss Tolhurst, "but I cannot see that smoking goes along with bobbed hair."

No Knowledge of Smoking.
"I have never had any knowledge of smoking among the women teachers of London, either in public or in private," stated John R. Littlewood, assistant principal of Simcoe street school and president of the London teachers' institute, "and if it were true I would take a strong stand against it."

"Miss Lawrence is a careful speaker and usually knows whereof she speaks," continued Mr. Littlewood, "but I don't think she means London women teachers. I can't see that what she might have said has necessarily any direct reference to London teachers."

"Miss Lawrence is one of our best teachers, and I have a high respect for her as a teacher and as a woman," stated Inspector G. A. Wheable, B.A., "and I am awfully sorry that any statement such as Miss Lawrence's should have been made."

Taught Here Since 1896.
Miss Lawrence, who has taught in the Empress public school since 1896, was last year president of the London teachers' institute. She is also a past president of the London women teachers' guild. She has been acting president during the past twelve months, of the elementary section of the Ontario educational association, before which body she addressed a paper yesterday and during which she was accused to have made the statement which has created so much comment locally.

The reference in Miss Lawrence's address is contained in a despatch from Toronto as given below.
Toronto, April 16.—Flappers and women of the "dile ritz" are not the only classes of females who smoke. Women teachers are at it, and in public, too. So declares Miss Sarah Lawrence of London, C. acting president of the elementary section of the Ontario educational association, which has just concluded its annual convention in this city.

"Nowadays to be smart, some women, bobbed or ehinged, consider it necessary to smoke cigarettes," she said today. "You may think that this does not apply to teachers, but there are women teachers who have not only smoked, but have done it in public."

Visiting Rotarians Cheer Performers At Hobby Fair

Four Thousand Pack Arena To Hear Children Sing—Pageant, "Rotary Around the World," Draws Rounds of Applause—Eugene T. Lies and William Butcher Laud the Exhibition of Youthful Hobbies.

If Jack Dempsey had been matched to fight Harry Wills or GallCurci engaged to rival in the nightingale, or Doug and Mary had come all the way from Los Angeles, there could have been no larger crowd than went to the Arena last night.

Four thousand people squeezed into the Arena to watch the children's pageant, to listen to 1,000 children singing and to admire the De La Salle boys go through their tumblers and balances.

In the three years of the Rotary Hobby Fair in London, last night saw the largest and most enthusiastic gathering in appreciation of the exhibition.

Two blocks of seats had been reserved for the Rotarian visitors who had come from dinner in the Winter Garden, but long before they had quaffed the last cup of coffee and cheered the last speaker every other seat in the big house was filled.

Applause Spontaneous. Spontaneous applause is the test of real enjoyment, so when the visitors told the De La Salle boys that they were good in a sudden, unpremeditated burst of laughing verse, the boys were happy, and so was their instructor, Rev. Father Cyril. "You're all there, you're all there."

EUGENE T. LIES

An active worker in the interests of Rotary, director of the boys' department in the children's aid society, New York, now a visitor in London, who paid a glowing tribute to the London Hobby Fair after viewing the exhibits in the arena yesterday. He considers it the best Hobby Fair in America.

he beamed, "that's just what we in the recreation movement are trying to do. We want to see the group spirit developed to the highest extent. We do not want to make any individual star and heroes. In the States in the playground system we give all the prizes to groups. We have all kinds of tournaments and we divide the school children into groups. It helps to bring a sporting spirit into athletics and there is nothing the world needs more today."

Art Section Pleases.

The art section, particularly, pleased Mr. Lies and was, in his opinion, a better section than would be found in many larger cities for children of the same age.

"My idea of the art section in a hobby fair," he said, "is to have the teacher or some one suggest a theme and then let the child work out its own drawing to represent it. You see the whole theory of getting a child to think along vocational lines is to make it create from its own imagination. I see that has been done in one case in the art section here."

A feature suggested by Mr. Lies is that there should be a class in the fair in which no model should be made from materials worth more than 50 cents.

"That tends to make the boys use the odd bits of material around the house, and it gives the poorer boy a chance to compete successfully with the boy better off. It is a class which has been found very satisfactory elsewhere."

Mr. Butcher takes a somewhat similar attitude, but emphasizes the pet stock side of the London Hobby Fair.

"Sure, it's a dandy fair," he said. "It is easily the best I have seen yet, and I have been in nearly a hundred cities in America. What I like most is the pet stock class."

Must Love Animals.

"I have found throughout my work and experience that any boy who does not love animals has either a yellow streak or a mental deficiency. My theory is that if you can get the boys to love their pet animals you will have no difficulty in getting the men to love little children. And if you can get grown men to love the children, you have done something worthwhile, don't you think so?"

Mr. Butcher spent some time looking at the cats, which were the class on view yesterday, and watching the boy owners feeding their pets and looking after their comfort in the cages.

"It's worth coming just to see them doing that," he said. "The boy who has a pet is the right sort of boy."

From the industrial angle he takes the same point of view as Mr. Lies. He agrees that the workman today needs a hobby as an antidote to his routine and mechanical work.

"I have no hesitation in saying that a hobby fair has its definite place in modern city life," he says stoutly. "A hobby presents the only outlet today for the genius and imagination of the average workman in a factory. There is no chance at all in his job. Much that is wrong in our social life today is due, I firmly believe, to the fact that there are no hobbies any longer. Not that the desire to make something is not present in most men, but that they have never been encouraged to try it. If by these hobby fairs we can get the children to think along a hobby line, then the men who will grow up will be happier and better. This fair gives the boy and girl a chance to use their imaginations and to know the love of some dumb animal. Anything that does that is helping mankind and the world towards a better civilization."

AT THE THEATRES

LOEW'S THEATRE

"The Monster."

Lon Chaney steps down a few flights from the finished drama of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" to the modern film thriller of "The Monster," but his latest release furnishes good diversion with its bizarre action, and incidentally brings out the versatility of Chaney. It opened at Loew's yesterday afternoon for a three-day run.

A motorist is lured to his death by a fiendish trick on a lone country road, and so the yarn starts. An amateur detective, with a diploma, shiny handcuffs and a flare "for night work," a real detective, a maniac, a girl and a few other odd creatures draw an unwavering attention and gasps from the average movie fan even before the first 500 feet is unwound.

Of the three vaudeville acts, Brownie's Hickville Follies is the only one worth talking about. The variety entertainers in the feature number combined well in comedy that was rather threadbare, and the merited most of the applause they received. The whistling and animal imitation of one of the troupe was especially good.

Twirling straw hats is a standard vaudeville turn, and the Hardys, while they brought nothing new in their boomerang repertoire, at least had all the sweeping curls and comic twists of the teams which have preceded them.

Al. H. Wilson's racy chattering and naive jokes went over with the crowd, though his elocution was rather jumbled and could not be heard past the half-way seats. A comical emphasis was given Al's patter when he prouetted his 200-odd pounds about the stage, and he was brought back for an encore.

CAPITOL THEATRE

"The Air Mail."

"The Air Mail," a Paramount picture, is the main attraction at the Capitol for the balance of the week, and is a screen offering that is packed full of drama and romance, mystery and intrigue. It certainly thrilled the large audience last night.

"The Air Mail" is the story of a crook who gets a job as pilot in the government air service, and waits an opportune moment to steal a valuable shipment. The aviator, however, reforms, and the air battle between himself and a band of thieves after his valuable cargo provides a thrilling episode followed by an unusual climax that everyone should see for himself.

Warner Baxter, Billie Dove, Mary Brian and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are the featured players in the picture, that is well up to the Paramount standard. Harry Langdon, the ever popular comedian, is seen at his best in "Handsome Harry," a Mack-Sennett production. The Pathe news film, depicting world events of interest is well worth witnessing.

Ronnie Harp's orchestra made a wonderful hit with the audience on Wednesday night, banjo selections by Mr. Hitchcock being encored just as heartily as the splendid orchestra selections.

INDIA'S POLITICAL LIFE IS VIVIDLY DESCRIBED

J. D. Omond Address Lions Club at Banquet Held Last Night.

The Lions' club banquet last evening in the Indian room of the Tecumseh House was featured by a most enlightening address on India by J. D. Omond. Music for the event was furnished by the Lions' club orchestra.

Mr. Omond's talk dealt chiefly with the political life of India, showing the wisdom of England's policy of developing the natives along the line of self-government, with the hope of making them another self-governing British nation. He spoke also of the superstitions of the people. The natives allow snakes and vermin to go unharmed for fear of offending some deity by killing them. Thousands of people die annually from snake bites. Education is an unknown thing to the vast majority of people there. Only one-tenth of the men and one-twentieth of the women can read and write. The man in one village has no idea of the life in the next village.

The plans for the monster community bridge, euchre and dance, to be held in the Winter Gardens on April 30 were also discussed. The co-operation of the council and utilsocially announced that conversations between Italy and Egypt have established two facts. The first of these is that there never has been on the part of Italy the slightest intention to exercise pressure which could be considered as a formal demand of territory from Egypt. The second is that the boundary question is being considered by both sides in a most friendly spirit.

COLLECT $17,000 CITY TAX ARREARS

Office Flooded by Delinquents Anxious to Avoid Double Penalty.

More than $17,000 in 1924 arrears of city taxes have been collected during the past three days, and great efforts have been given to secure a final accounting before the end of April. After this month a penalty assessment of 10 per cent. will be placed on the present five per cent. bill going into effect.

able to save five per cent. of their taxes, delinquent taxpayers are storming the tax collector's office and bringing in their checks and cash at the rate of almost $6,000 a day. Last year's arrears of taxes amounted to $242,000, a part of which has been paid since the last installment was due in October. However, nearly $200,000 taxes remain uncollected.

A special corps of clerks, recruited from the tax office and clerk's department, as well as from outside, are engaged in making out tax notices for 25,000 delinquent taxpayers in view of the change in the receipt system. It is expected that time in handling records will be cut down more than 50 per cent by arrangements that are now being made.

LIQUOR SHOPS HAVE BUSY OPENING DAY

Crowds Storm One Regina Store—Chinaman First Customer.

Canadian Press Despatch. Regina, Sask., April 17.—Promptly at the scheduled time Saskatchewan liquor stores opened at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Two Regina stores presented a remarkable contrast when the opening hour arrived. One was swamped with business, while the other was by comparison almost idle.

Long before 11 o'clock crowds started to gather around the first named. The sidewalk immediately in front of the shop was packed solidly. All sorts, classes and conditions of people were in the crowd. They came in automobiles, a few in wagons, and a host on foot. Within two minutes of the opening of the big cash register was ringing continuously.

A Chinese, a rather old man, and a resident of Regina for many years, was the first to get his order filled. He wasted no time in reading price tags, but went down on the order form what he wanted, secured it and hastened away with a bottle of Chinese whiskey under his arm. With him went a Chinaman, who was the first customer of the store.

While the inside of the store was so full of people it was difficult to move there was practically no confusion.

The second named store, a rather old man, and a resident of Regina for many years, was the first to get his order filled. He wasted no time in reading price tags, but went down on the order form what he wanted, secured it and hastened away with a bottle of Chinese whiskey under his arm. With him went a Chinaman, who was the first customer of the store.

DETROIT WILL REMAIN IN SAME ROTARY DISTRICT

Detroit will still be part of the same district after Michigan is divided into two Rotary districts. The proposed line separating Michigan will probably run north and south from about Cheyenne down to Hillsdale, meaning that such places as Detroit, Port Huron, Adrian, Flint, Highland Park, Bay City, Saginaw, Ypsilanti, Ferndale, Royal Oak, Birmingham, Wayne and Red Axe will be left in the district, which embraces Western Ontario. No change in the Ontario section of the old eighteenth district is contemplated.

CANADA, W. INDIES UNION IS SOUGHT

Constitutional and Commercial Unity With Canadians Suggested.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 16.—Political union between the West Indies and Canada is favored by a great number of people there, according to Harry J. Crowe, who has just returned to this city after a visit to the islands.

Mr. Crowe stated that the matter will be broached at the annual meeting of the Trades and Labor congress at Ottawa this summer by delegates from the West Indies.

Improvement in trade relations would in all probability follow constitutional and commercial union, he said.

DUNLOP IS REMANDED ON CHARGE OF THEFT

Former Prisons Inspector Is Held For Stealing Public Money.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 16.—W. W. Dunlop, former inspector of prisons and public charities for Ontario, charged with theft of public moneys, was today remanded to April 30, as was also Fred C. Williams, his assistant, charged with theft, and Robert G. Kyle, charged with bribery. Bail for Dunlop was fixed at $10,000, at $15,000 for Kyle, and $5,000 for Williams.

LAIRD WON'T SAY $500,000 IS FAIR UNION ESTIMATE

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 16.—Questioned today regarding the total cost of effecting the organic union between Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists, Rev. Dr. Laird, treasurer of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, was asked whether it was reasonable to put that figure at $500,000. Dr. Laird refused to discuss the cost, stating that figures in this connection would be presented and made public in June.

BRANTFORD MAN FOUND DEAD ON VERANDA

Canadian Press Despatch.
Brantford, April 15.—Chas. Haines, single, living at 280 Grey street, was found dead on the veranda of 23 Ross street last night by Mrs. Ellen Beemer, who had been away all day. It is thought he had an epileptic fit, but an inquest will be held.

When You Can Be Well, Why Be Sick?

Why Suffer Delay and Grow Worse?
Enjoy Life—Health—Happiness
To Have No Back Pains, No Nervousness, No Kidney Disease, With Plenty of Life, Energy and No Blood Disease, Is the Wish of Every Young, Old or Middle-Aged Person.

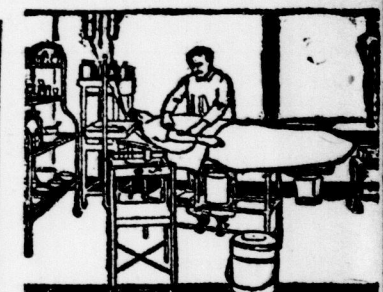

To you—if you are sick—if you suffer—if you are afflicted with any ailments of MEN—if you are worn out, tired or failing, if you need medical advice—if you are not in perfect health—if life is a dragging, miserable existence—if you lack energy, vim and vigor that make life worth living, to you—rich or poor—young or old—you need my treatment at once.

Nerves and Blood Are Life
The lack of nerve force is found among men of all ages. This is true with men in all walks of life from the day laborer to the mechanic or professional man. Merchant and clergy are alike sufferers—no man is exempt from the ailment who has rebelled against nature's laws—so if you have the result of overwork, dissipation, sedentary habits or worry, and your vital organs are disturbed, remember, delay in seeing the right doctor makes it more difficult to overcome the symptoms, and you might reach an incurable condition before relief if you delay too long.

My Equipment
Is composed of the latest and best known agents in Electrical, Surgical and Mechanical Apparatus, and I am prepared by the knowledge of their uses and the experiences in prescribing them so as to get the greatest uniform results from them.

I Am Prepared to Give You
Sams, Bacterin, Vaccines and any and all forms of treatment of this character that have been tried and proved a success.

YOUNG MEN—THINK! OF YOUR FUTURE
How about it, are you qualified to face it—are others doing more and getting more out of life than you are? Find out, if you don't know already, what is dragging you down. No one can violate nature's laws and succeed. I have helped thousands physically, mentally, morally. I believe I (as I have thousands of other men) can help you. Just be frank and tell us your troubles. Let me help you to regain and maintain your health.

NO PAIN, NO LOSS OF TIME FROM WORK BY SCIENTIFIC METHODS
MY EXAMINATIONS ARE SEARCHING. MY TREATMENT IS SCIENTIFIC. MY CHARGES ARE REASONABLE. DO NOT LET MONEY MATTERS NOR FALSE PRIDE KEEP YOU AWAY.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN

Constitute a large part of my practice. At this time of life a most important physiological change takes place and men feel the need of an experienced doctor for men to not only treat them at this critical period but as well to advise them as to what to do and what to avoid to regain health, strong nerves and a sound body once more.

The Dangers of Bad Blood Overcome by SCIENTIFIC METHODS

Nurse Stacey's Suggestions to Middle Aged Women

MRS. M. STACEY COLLINGSVILLE, ILLINOIS

A MOST trying period of a woman's life is that of middle age, fraught with danger to some extent, and invariably with most annoying symptoms, such as hot flashes, smothering spells, nervous troubles, irregularities and fainting spells.

When a woman like Nurse Stacey after many years of caring for the sick writes a letter of praise for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound like the following, it should influence other women who are passing through the Change of Life to try it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a root and herb medicine especially adapted to act upon the feminine system. It helps nature to build up the weakened, nervous system, and enables women to pass this trying period with the least possible annoying symptoms.

Nurse Stacey's Letter Follows:

Collingsville, Illinois.—"I could almost write a book in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In the first place my husband induced me to try it and I have continued taking it off and on for years. I have become a well woman from its use and am now taking it through the Change of Life just to be on the safe side. I first took it for backache and a weak condition of the whole system and I think it saved my life and my baby. She is now a mother and takes it herself and I think I can count as high as a hundred women I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to, as I am a practical nurse. Use my letter in any way you see fit for I will stand by what I write."—Mrs. H. STACEY, Collingsville, Ill.

Another Woman's Similar Experience

Ingomar, N. S.—"I took your medicine for a run-down condition and inward troubles. I had pains in my right side so bad at times that I could not walk any distance. I saw about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and have taken five bottles of it. I am better in every way and you can use my letter to help other women."—Mrs. ALVIRA M. PARAY, Ingomar, Nova Scotia.

EVIDENT YESTERDAY

By E. C. BUCHANAN, Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent.
Ottawa, April 16.—With the present government in office for four years, the opposition has failed to challenge any of its expenditures in the public accounts committee, and the only criticism it on the score of extravagance is in connection with the $4,200 for the expenses of three commissioners from the House of Commons to the British Empire Exhibition last year.

This interesting fact was fired at the opposition tonight by George Kyte, chief government whip, in replying to the charge of Dr. Manion that the cost of the Wembley trip was a disgraceful outlay of public money.

Mr. Kyte did not stop there, however. He returned to the Conservative critic something more in the way of information as to cost of travelling delegations than he had given. He revealed that for a little trip to England in the last year of the Tory regime, Hon. Hugh Guthrie presented a bill for $9,400, and Hon. P. F. Biondi went to a postal conference in Madrid with two assistants and stayed five weeks at a cost to the country of something over $9,000.

Four delegates went to a postal conference in Berlin last year, and their three months' stay cost only a similar amount. The Liberal whip went further back for interesting comparisons. Back in 1893 parliament sent two Conservative members, a senator and a member of the house of commons, to the Chicago world's fair as special commissioners. The bill of the member of the commons alone, the late H. H. Coburn, of Toronto, was $4,400. Mr. Kyte read from the records the gentleman's itemized bills in which he charged to the government everything from postage stamps and shoe-blackening to bar bills and the rental of borrowed table linen.

This was a part of an old-time fighting speech from the chief whip at the Liberal's kind of speech that is seldom heard these days. Mr. Kyte met opposition budget attacks by counter-attacks. He recalled some of the effects of the national policy on Canadian industry. Under it industrial establishments went out of business so rapidly that the census takers had been instructed to pad the list of manufacturing plants in order to conceal the calamity, and the home weaving industry was done for the family was described as a factory. The national policy had created combines that squeezed the life-blood out of independent industries.

The Conservatives appear determined to prolong the budget debate as much as possible. They are extending their speech from one day into the next, and from afternoon into evening, and making the task easier for themselves by reading extensive quotations from various kinds of literature into the records.

AYLMER HORTICULTURISTS HOLD SPLENDID CONCERT

Special to The Advertiser.
Aylmer, April 16.—A splendid concert was held in the town hall on Tuesday night under the auspices of the Horticultural society. Mayor Mann urged the citizens to give even more attention to their home surroundings and told of the work of the Horticultural society. Piano selections were rendered by Misses Dora McConnell of Lakeview and Miss Jean Moore of Springfield; solos by Miss Hilda Brown, Aylmer; F. Shively and Kenneth Harris of Springfield, and readings by Mrs. Frank Leeson, Aylmer. The high school orchestra played several selections.

The title of this puzzle is the solution to a word or group of words appearing in this puzzle. Can you find them?
Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or downward (vertical) according to position. Lettered in correctly, words that cross will interlock. Each number in the white squares also refers to a definition in the accompanying table.
Each definition suggests a word possessing the exact number of letters to fit the white spaces allotted to it.
Each white space is to receive one letter only. Words start only in numbered spaces.

AMUSEMENT PARK SITE IS SELECTED

Commission Sets Aside Five and Half Acres East of Pavilion.

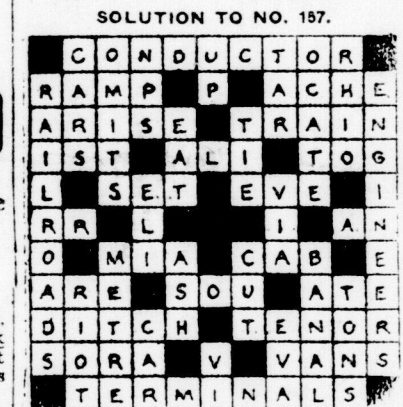

The proposed amusement park, within the precincts of Springbank park, will be placed on a site east of the pavilion and south of what is known as the small diamond.

The site, 5.5 acres, was chosen by the commission at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon, in order that those tendering for the amusement privileges may be informed of the exact location.

Commissioner T. W. McFarland, chairman of the parks board, was instructed to communicate again with the half-dozen tenderers as to the details of the proposition, and after securing new and more definite plans to call a special meeting of the commission to consider the whole question.

Some arrangement is to be made between the commission, W. M. Lowery and the successful tenderer as to refreshment privileges in the park, which it seems, have previously been entirely controlled by Mr. Lowery.

Capt. W. A. Smith and his sister, Mrs. R. W. Travers, 75 Watley road, in a letter, offered the commission a plot of ground at the rear of their property, 185 by 160 feet, to be fitted up as a rest spot for women and children and to be equipped with water fountain, benches, etc., to be known as Belvedere Gardens.

The commission decided to acknowledge the offer with thanks and left the matter with Chairman Jared Vining and Acting Manager A. O. Hunt to look into the question of the suitability of the spot for the purpose in view and the securing of the property necessary by way of securing access to the site.

Other matters dealt with by the commission were of a routine character.

"It can't hurt now," said Sherlock Holmes, when after many years he gave Watson permission to tell the story of the illustrious client's conflict between two women from the opposite extremes of society. "Mr. Holmes, I beg that you will bring this interview to an end," said the lady, who had obeyed my father's wish in seeing you, but I am not compelled to listen to the ravings of this person. (Drawn especially for The Advertiser by Frederic Dorr Steele.)

THE ILLUSTRIOUS CLIENT

By SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Sherlock Holmes must prevent the marriage of Miss Violet de Merville to Baron Adelbert Gruner, a murderer. In an interview with Gruner, Holmes is warned to keep his hands off. Holmes finds in the underworld Kitty Winter, a victim of the baron's past.

THIRD INSTALLMENT.

I did not see Holmes again until the following evening, when we dined once more at our Strand restaurant. He shrugged his shoulders when I asked him what luck he had had in his interview. Then he told the story which I would repeat in this way. His hard, dry statement needed some little editing to soften it into his terms of real life.

"There was no difficulty at all about the appointment," said Holmes, "for the girl glories in showing affectation in an attempt to atone for her flagrant breach of it in her engagement. The general phoned that all was ready, and the fiery Miss V. turned up according to schedule, so that at half-past five a cab deposited us outside 104 Berkeley square, where the old soldier resides—one of those awful gray London castles which would make a church seem frivolous. A footman showed us into a great yellow-curtained drawing-room and there was the lady awaiting us, demure, pale, self-contained, as inflexible and remote as a snow image on a mountain.

"I don't quite know how to make her clear to you, Watson. Perhaps you may meet her before we see through and you can use your own gift of words. She is beautiful, but with the ethereal, if you wish, beauty of some fanatic whose thoughts are set on high. I have seen such faces in the pictures of the old masters of the Middle Ages. A beast-man could have laid his vile paw upon such a being of the beyond I cannot imagine. You may have noticed how extremes call to each other, the spiritual to the animal, the chaste to the sensual."

"She knew what he had come for, of course—that villain had lost no time in poisoning her mind against me, Miss Winter's advent, rather amazed her. I think, but she waved us into our respective chairs like a reverend abbot receiving two rather leoprous monks. If you wish, I am inclined to swell, my dear Watson, take a course of Miss Violet de Merville."

"Well, sir, said she, in a voice like the wind from an iceberg, your name is familiar to me. You have called, as I understand, to malign my fiancé, Baron Gruner. It is only by my father's request that I see you at all, and I warn you in advance that anything you say could not possibly have the slightest effect on my mind."

as against him. But in any case I wish you to understand, once for all, that I love him, and that he loves me, and that the opinion of all the world is no more to me than the twitter of those birds outside the window. If his noble nature has ever for an instant fallen, it may be that I have been specially sent to raise it to its true and lofty level. I am not clear—here she turned her eyes upon my companion—who this young lady may be.

"I was about to answer when the girl broke in like a whirlwind. If ever you saw flame and ice face to face it was those two women. 'Till tell you who I am, she cried, springing out of her chair, her mouth all twisted with passion, I am his last mistress. I am one of a hundred that he has tempted and used and ruined and thrown into the refuse heap as he will you also. Your refusal is more likely to see a grave, and maybe that's the best. I tell you, you foolish woman, if you marry this man, he'll be the death of you. It may be a broken neck, but he'll have you one way or the other. It's not out of love for you I'm speaking. I don't care ainker's curse whether you live or die. It's out of hate for him and to spite him and to get back on him for what he did to me. But it's all the same, and you don't look at me like that, my fine lady, for you may be lower than I am before you are through with it."

"I should prefer not to discuss such matters," said Miss de Merville coldly.

"Let me say once for all that I am aware of three passages in my fiancé's life in which he became engaged with designing women, and that I am assured of his hearty repentance for any evil that he may have done."

"Three passages!" screamed my companion. "You fool! You unutterable fool!"

"Mr. Holmes, I beg that you will bring this interview to an end," said the lady, who had obeyed my father's wish in seeing you, but I am not compelled to listen to the ravings of this person."

"With a gasp, Watson darted forward, and if I had not caught her wrist she would have clutched this maddening woman by the hair. I saw the light of her eyes, and I was lucky to get her back into the cab without a public scene, for she was beside herself with rage. In a cold way I felt pretty furious myself. Watson for there was something in her deservingly annoying in the calm aloofness and supreme self-complacency of the woman whom we were trying to save. So now once again you know exactly how we stand, and it is clear that I must plan some fresh opening move. For this rabbit won't work. I'll keep in touch with you, Watson, for it is more than likely that you will have your part to play, though it is just possible that the next move may be with them rather than with us."

"And it did. Their blow fell—or his blow rather, for never could I believe that the lady was privy to it. I think I could show you the very paving stone upon which I stood when my eyes fell upon the placard, and a pang of horror passed through my very soul. It was between the Grand hotel and Charing Cross station, a one-legged news-vendor displayed his evening papers. The date was just two days after the last conversation. There, black upon yellow, was the terrible news."

MURDEROUS ATTACK UPON SHERLOCK HOLMES. I think I stood stunned for some moments. Then I have a confused recollection of snatching at a paper, of the remembrance of the man whom I had not paid, and, finally, of standing in the doorway of a chemist's shop while I turned up a fateful paragraph. This is how it ran:

"We learn with regret that Mr. Sherlock Holmes, the well-known private detective, was the victim of a murderous assault which left him in a precarious position. There are no exact details to hand, but the event seems to have occurred about 12 o'clock in Regent street, outside the Cafe Royal. The attack was made by two men armed with sticks, and Mr. Holmes was beaten about the head and body, receiving injuries which the doctors describe as most serious. He was carried to Charing Cross hospital and afterwards insisted upon being taken to his rooms in Baker street. The miscreants who attacked him appear to have been respectably dressed men who escaped from the bystanders by passing through the Cafe Royal and out into Glasshouse street behind it. No doubt they belonged to that criminal fraternity which has so often had occasion to bewail the activity and ingenuity of the injured man."

I need not say that my eyes had hardly glanced over the paragraph before I had sprung into aansom and was on my way to Baker street. I found Sir Leslie Oakshott, the famous surgeon, in the hall, and his brougham waiting at the curb.

"No immediate danger," was his report. "Two lacerated scalp wounds and some considerable bruises. Several stitches have been necessary. Morphine has been injected and quiet is essential, but an interview of a few minutes would not be absolutely forbidden."

"With this permission I stole into the darkened room. The sufferer was wide awake, and I heard my name in a voice, which, I thought, was three-quarters down, but one ray of sunlight slanted through and struck the bandaged head of the injured man. A crimson patch had soaked through the white linen compress. I sat beside him and bent my head.

"All right, Watson. Don't look so scared," he muttered in a very weak voice. "It's not nearly as bad as it seems."

"Thank God for that!"

"I'm a bit of a singlestick expert, as you know. I took most of them on my guard. It was the second man that was too much for me."

four hours in an intensive study of Chinese pottery."

"He gave no explanations and I asked for none. By long experience I had learned the wisdom of obedience. But when I had left his room I walked down Baker street revolving in my mind the puzzle of the public man who had on earth I was to carry out so strange an order. Finally I drove to the London Library in St. James's Square, put the matter to my friend Lomax, the sub-librarian, and departed to my rooms with a goodly volume under my arm."

It is said that the barrister who crams up a case with such care that he can examine an expert witness upon the Monday has forgotten all his forced knowledge before Saturday. Certainly I should not like now to pose as an authority upon ceramics. And yet, all that evening and all that night with short interval for rest and all next morning I was sucking in some fine Eastern silk. This he memory. There I learned of the hallmarks of the great artist-decorators, the marks of the Hung-wu and the beauties of the Yung-lo, the writings of Tang-ying, and the glories of the primitive period of the Sung and the Ming dynasties. No finer piece ever passed through Christie's. A complete set of this would be worth a king's ransom—in fact, it is doubtful if there is a complete set outside the imperial palace of Peking. The sight of this would drive a real connoisseur wild."

"What am I to do with it?" Holmes handed me a card upon which was printed, "Dr. Hill Barton, 389 Half Moon street."

Has Collection Mania. "That is your name for the evening, Watson. You will call upon Baron Gruner. I know something of his habits, and at half-past eight he would probably be disengaged. A note will tell him in advance that you are about to call, and you will say that you are bringing him a specimen of an absolutely unique set of Ming china. You may as well be a medical man since that is a part of your education, and you are not averse to selling at a price."

WOMEN and THE HOME

MEMBER OF HAMPTON CAST LAUDS LONDON'S HOBBY FAIR

New York Actress Tells How Company Is Called "Sunday School Class."

GUEST IN LONDON

London has been entertaining a distinguished guest this week in the person of Mrs. Van Rousom, a member of the Walter Hampton Company of New York, who has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. J. R. Le-Touzel and Captain Le-Touzel, Chesapeake street, Mrs. Rousom is on her way to California, where she spends each summer. This year the Walter Hampton Company has broken in two months earlier than usual in order to allow Mr. and Mrs. Hampton to visit Italy.

Mrs. Rousom was greatly impressed with London's Hobby Fair, and states that although she has visited similar exhibits of work in Switzerland, Holland, England, Ireland and almost every state in the union as well as every province of Canada, not to mention South America, she has never seen any work with which London's exhibits could not compare favorably. She found special interest in the magnificent displays of work from the vocational and domestic science departments of the London collegiate institute. She believes the Hobby Fair idea to be unique with London and well worth while trying out in any city.

Mrs. Rousom, who is very happy in her association with the Walter Hampton Company, which has been playing Othello in New York this season, has many interesting stories to tell about the members of the cast. They are known among others as the "Sunday School Class." And this because Mr. and Mrs. Hampton will play only the best drama and will include in the cast only the highest type of actors and actresses.

All of the women members of the company are college graduates, many of them having received their degree at Bryn Mawr. This, together with the fact that neither Mr. and Mrs. Hampton have ever been divorced; nor has any scandal been attached to their name, has brought down upon the company the title of "Sunday School Class." And there's many an actor and actress who would give much to become a member of this same "Sunday School Class."

Mrs. Rousom has now left the city for California.

PYTHIAN SISTERS ARE ENTERTAINED BY LODGE

Enjoyable Social Evening Is Arranged at Castle Hall
This Week.

All the Pythian knights and sisters of the city were entertained this week by Prospect lodge, No. 10, at a social evening held in Castle hall. The first part of the program consisted of an enjoyable entertainment, Miss Elita Fleming and Miss Jean McDonald, pupils of Miss Isabel Rooks, giving several dances. Miss Rose Tinney sang, accompanied by P. Tinney, pianist, and Earl Drenham, violinist. Miss Bernice Fenwick and Charles Bradford rendered piano solos, and Miss Pollock sang a delightful number.

A euchre followed, in which Mrs. P. E. Bailey and W. Devlin won first prizes, and Miss Edith Hodgins and Hugh Clouston won the second prize. Prizes were presented by W. G. Blake and A. E. Bailey.

At the conclusion of the euchre refreshments were served. Dancing wound up the evening's program. Refreshments were prepared by Mrs. H. Fenwick, Mrs. Smith, J. A. Tane and C. Tinney. G. A. Shaw presided.

ORGANISTS MEET.

A meeting of the local center of the Canadian College of Organists was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Morris. Dr. Jas. H. Smith presided, and a good representation of the city organists was present. Some important business of interest to organists was transacted during the evening, and a discussion took place on the matter of a musical festival. After the business had been dealt with a social hour was enjoyed.

The Day Before April

The day before April
Alone, alone,
I walked in the woods

REBEKAHS OF DISTRICT MEET HERE MONDAY

Mrs. T. R. Waugh Will Preside Over Important Session Next Week.

The district Rebekah lodge will meet in London on Monday afternoon, with Mrs. T. R. Waugh in the chair. Eight delegates will be present, the representatives being Mrs. A. Borland, Mrs. F. Parsons, district secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Pike, all from May Queen; Mrs. A. E. Austin, Mrs. M. Clargo and Mrs. George Shaw from Victoria Rebekah lodge, and Mrs. Cave from Lillian lodge, Dorchester.

The main business will be concerned with the election of new officers, nominations having come from the lodges. Arrangements will be made to join with the men in a church parade on April 26, which will mark the anniversary of the founding of the order.

Combination Sale of Standard Drug

The Combination Sale of Standard Drug Stores presents an opportunity to shop in a unique way. This week these stores offer special prices on combination articles; that is, two articles, each of which can be used in conjunction with the other. It is interesting to read the articles listed and find out suggestions of others to use with them.

WEDDINGS

BURROWS—RUTHERFORD.
A wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's church, Stratford, Thursday afternoon when Annie Helen Rutherford, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rutherford, Charles street, Stratford, was united in marriage to William James Burrows, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Burrows, Princess street, Stratford.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. A. MacDonell, John Burrows, brother of the groom, acted as groomsmen, while Miss Margaret Rutherford, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid.

SHAW—HALLERIN.
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Simon Winger, Wardville, on Monday night, when Mrs. Hugo Shaw and Miss Laura Hallerin were united in marriage, the Rev. Mr. Bollingbrook of Newbury officiating. The young couple will reside on the 1st concession, Aldborough.

GOVENLOCK—SPROAT.
A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the Esmondville manse at high noon on April 11, when Luella Claire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sproat of Auchincray, Tucker-smith, was united in marriage to Nelson Govenlock, son of Mr. J. M. Govenlock of Winthrop. Rev. W. G. McDonald officiated.

The bride looked charming in a smart ensemble suit of sponge-colored polaire cloth with hat to match. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Marie Smith of Stratford, who wore a lovely gown of mauve, crepe with white lace and hat faced with mauve silk. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Lester Govenlock, of Stratford.

The ceremony, a wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which Mr. and Mrs. Govenlock left by motor for Toronto and Buffalo.

WILTSHIRE—DEEM.

AT BAPTIST RALLY

Canadian Christians were severely criticized by Mrs. Boris Klotchkoff yesterday when she addressed a rally of all the Baptist missionary women of the city at the Adelaide street Baptist church. "Canadian Christians are too lax and haphazard in the practice of their religion," the speaker stated.

There was a ringing appeal from the lips of Mrs. Klotchkoff for more zeal and passion among religious people. She struck a sharp blow at the person who, as she termed it, serves two masters by continuing to patronize the theatres and dances after conversion, and she made the declaration that Canadians take their Christianity too much as a matter of course.

"The people of this land do not half appreciate the privileges and opportunities of this country. They have not suffered enough. They have had a surplus of comfort. They take their personal and religious freedom with too much indifference. The Lord had a purpose in sending hosts of European immigrants to this country. He did not send them here merely to acquire wealth and to profit by the personal liberty accorded; surely He intended them to share the privileges of religion which He has granted Canadians."

Are They Measuring Up?
"Are Canadian measuring up to the responsibility of helping the newcomers?" This question was put before the women of London by Mrs. Klotchkoff, and in answer to her query the speaker gave a personal experience. When she first came to Canada she stated that she was one of the few who had attempted to interest her in the religious life of the country. Her final conversion was the result of her private reading of the Bible, and she stated that she was glad the light came to her directly from heaven without the instrumentality of man or church.

She explained that when she accepted the Gospel story she had no idea there was a diversity of churches and is of the opinion that the work of evangelism should be carried on with much less effort if the various creeds were united.

She also explained how, when Canadians are asked why they neglect the foreign field, they reply that it is not their business or else, that the newcomers are ungrateful and disconcerting.

"Foreigners are disconcerting only because they do not understand English. Similarly placed Canadians would be suspicious of overtures from people of a different race and language," she stated. "It is to correct this trouble that more native workers should be secured to carry on missionary activities."

The speaker also pointed out that the use of the language of the homeland will surmount difficulties otherwise impossible in missionary work. "It is the key that opens every door and paves the way to conversion."

WORKS AMONG POLES.
Mrs. Klotchkoff is the Baptist missionary to the Polish people in Toronto, and just now she is preaching to the newcomers besides her own five children. She is also mothering the gospel; writing for the Ukrainian spiritual newspaper, which is being sent to the old country to welcome the lonely ones of her own people, and she is amazed that Canadians take so little interest in the work of spreading their religion among the newcomers.

"I, who am a new convert, would not dare to pose as a Christian while Jimmies has made up her mind to pleasure yet Canadian church people, who have had instruction of the faith since infancy, are indifferent to the work of evangelism."

Rev. J. H. Silmon, the new pastor of Adelaide street Baptist church, gave a brief address following Mrs. Klotchkoff's talk of the evening. In a few well chosen words he urged the fact that the Macedonian call to Paul is still re-echoing in the world and appealed to his audience to heed it.

Mrs. Baldwin Presides.
Mrs. James Baldwin presided over both the afternoon and evening meetings. Large representations were present from all the Baptist churches in the city and the sessions were most enthusiastic. In the afternoon Mrs. Arnell, of the Esborton street church, gave the Scripture lesson and Mrs. William Pegler led the opening devotional exercises. Mrs. Douglas, of the Talbot street church, conducted the quiet hour and delightful vocal solos were rendered by Miss Purdon and Mrs. Watt. A feature of the afternoon was a quartet number by the Martin family: Mrs. J. Dey, Mrs. Arthur Greenalade and Miss Marilyn Pococke assisted at the piano.

In the evening Mrs. Haslam, of Matland street church, gave the Scripture lesson, and Mrs. Black, of Wortley road church, was in charge of the devotional period. Vocal solos were rendered by Charles Maxson and Mrs. W. MacDonald, pastor of Matland street church, pronounced the benediction. Between the afternoon and evening meetings the members were entertained at supper by the women of the Adelaide street church.

The speaker took for his subject, "The Modern Novel," which he dealt with in an interesting manner. He quoted from a prominent publisher's advice to aspiring authors, declaring that the novel was one of the greatest activities of the day.

The novel, which is worth while, said Dr. Wallace, has three essential elements: story, style and a large view of life. Modern criticism was destructive. An attractive toast list included a toast to "Canada" by Miss Grace Gibberd; "The University," by Miss Jessie White, with Dr. W. F. Tamblin replying; "The Hesperian Club," by John Elliott, replied to by Miss Griffiths; "English Study," by Miss Kathleen Cooper, with Miss Eleanor Grant replying.

Mr. Skunk Worries Over His Wife's Safety In Her Home By the Barn

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.
Jimmy has learned by experience. There is no teacher like experience. So when Jimmy discovers that the world is a very different place from a certain thing he doesn't argue. He knows that that would be just a waste of breath. So it came about that when Mrs. Jimmy told him that she had moved from their old home where they had spent the winter together, sharing it with several of their grown children, up to this new home under Farmer Brown's henhouse, Jimmy didn't try to get her to go back to the old home. It was a perfectly good home where he had lived, and he was satisfied with it. But if Mrs. Jimmy had made up her mind to leave it that was all there was to it.

"Well, said Jimmy, when he had recovered a bit from his surprise at discovering Mrs. Jimmy at the henhouse, "I guess that perhaps you are right my dear, and we do need a change. Suppose you step aside so that I may go in and see what our new home looks like."

"It isn't our home—at least it isn't just now. It is my new home," said Mrs. Jimmy.

"D-d-d—do you mean—that I am not to live here?" stammered Jimmy in shocked surprise.

"Not at present, anyway," declared Mrs. Jimmy. "This is my home and you are to keep out of it and away from it. I don't want you around. The old home will do nicely for you if you feel that you must have a home. So trot along now and don't bother me any longer." Mrs. Jimmy turned and disappeared under the henhouse.

Jimmy stared rather foolishly at the hole where she had disappeared. It was a shock to discover that he was not to share that new home that he wasn't wanted around. Yet he had stopped to really think about it. It wouldn't have been such a shock for him to have had that experience before. He had been so sure that he would have that home. Besides, he did want to see what it was like under that henhouse. So Jimmy hung around. He didn't quite dare venture inside, but he hoped Mrs. Jimmy would have a change of mind and invite him in.

But Mrs. Jimmy didn't, and at last "D-d-d—do you mean that I am not to live here?" stammered Jimmy in shocked surprise. He was a first griever, and then he was angry. He would show Mrs. Jimmy that it didn't matter to him in the least if she didn't want him about. He would go off and have a good time and forget all about her. You see, Jimmy was very like some folks you and I know.

LADIES OF ROTARY KIWANIS' GUESTS

Brother Society Motors Visitors To Springbank—Gives Musicals.

The wives of out-of-town Rotarians were taken off their husbands' hands yesterday afternoon by their kindly brothers, the Kiwanians. Numbers and numbers of automobiles were provided to convey the ladies to Springbank and Byron, where they viewed the beauties of the park and the efficiency of the sanatorium building.

Later the drive took them to the new buildings of the University of Western Ontario, where an attractive musical program was presented in the assembly hall, filled for the occasion. J. J. McHale, president of the Kiwanis club, occupied the chair, while Mrs. S. F. Lawson read an address of welcome to the ladies. Principal C. C. Waller, on behalf of the university, offered greetings.

A delightful musical program included vocal numbers by Mrs. Wornan, violin numbers by Mrs. Charlie Ivey and songs by Mr. Bullen.

A mixture of much interest took place on Wednesday afternoon, April 1, in Hamilton, of Mrs. Hope Gibson to Mr. Gordon Ferrie. Mrs. Ferrie is a brilliant star of the golf world and has many times brought fame to her native city. She was the winner of the Ontario Ladies' championship in 1924, and was runner-up to Mrs. Harold Hutchings in the Canadian ladies' Canadian closed championship last fall. In 1922 she won the ladies' Canoe Canadian closed championship in London, in a match with Mrs. Marion Keith club of St. Andrew's church, will act as hostesses. The afternoon will be delightfully informal and a charming little program has been arranged by Miss Macgregor, which will include solos by Miss Maybelle Purdon and Miss Reta Lowry, and piano numbers by Miss Margaret Gladman. The proceeds of the tea are to go toward the support of a girl in India.

A very pleasant social evening was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hessel, Langarth street, on Tuesday evening, when their daughter Jean entertained the members of the senior clover leaf class of St. James' Anglican Sunday school in honor of Mrs. U. L. Armitage and Miss Helen Armitage, who are leaving the city shortly. The evening was spent in games and music, and presentations were made to Mrs. Armitage and Helen by the girls. Selma Spence and Helen Leonard read the addresses, while Queenie Clarke and Jean Houston made the presentations, after which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Roy Cairncross was the hostess of a charmingly arranged luncheon yesterday, entertaining at her home on Richmond street north for Lady Glyn-Jones and Miss Murial Glyn-Jones of London, England, who with Sir William Glyn-Jones, were distinguished visitors in the city for the day. The luncheon table was attractively arranged with long-stemmed pink roses in crystal vases surrounded by clouds of pale pink tulle and slender pink candles. Spring blooms were also effectively used throughout the rooms. The guests included Lady Glyn-Jones, and Miss Mitchell, Mrs. David Williams, Mrs. Munro Nelles, Mrs. Walter Shaver, Mrs. Roy Moore, and Miss Magee.

MISS MARY MAYNARD daughter of Mrs. G. H. Maynard of this city, whose marriage to Mr. Dan Macaulay takes place the latter part of the month.

drive was arranged, the guests returning to Mrs. Cairncross' home at the tea hour when they were joined by Sir William Glyn-Jones.

Miss Edith Duckworth of Newbury is a guest with her aunt, Mrs. Howitt, Dundas street east.

REV. H. H. BINGHAM WILL ADDRESS BIBLE SOCIETY

Annual Meeting Monday Night Promises To Be Interesting Event.

The Bible is now printed in about 700 languages, and 558 of these are printed by the British and Foreign Bible society, whose work will be outlined on Monday evening next in St. Andrew's church, 8 o'clock, when the Rev. H. H. Bingham of Calgary and the Rev. W. H. Adcock of Regina will tell the story of the influence of the Bible throughout the ages.

The thrilling story of translation reads like a miracle. The effect upon the people who for the first time hear the Gospel and see their language in written form is too glorious to fully comprehend and impossible to make plain.

Canadians are concerned about Canada. A great deal is being said about immigration and emigration, and attention is called to an astounding fact that in a growing nation of about nine millions there has been request made for the Bible in 110 languages, and this need has been supplied and is receiving the careful organizing force of the society.

Called From the Discard.

History has a peculiar habit of throwing men into the discard, only to pick some of them out again when an occasion arises where their services are required to meet some national crisis.

Not in modern history is there a more unique illustration of this than is furnished by the calling of Joseph Caillaux to become minister of finance in the reorganized French government. Caillaux, formerly premier of France, was tried on the charge of treason four years ago, the charge being that during the course of the war he had been secretly a friend of Germany. So great was the feeling against him, even in spite of the insufficiency of evidence, that the senate, before whom he was tried, sentenced him to exile from his native land for ten years, and stripped him of all civil rights. It is an historical fact that he narrowly escaped facing the firing squad.

It could hardly be possible to imagine a position where a man was more in the discard than a former premier exiled from the land that had previously acclaimed him as its chief. The Amnesty Bill, passed a few months ago, included Caillaux in the list of those to whom pardon was extended. With the affairs of France an open book to him, and with an intimate knowledge of the steps that had led to the financial crisis facing his country, Caillaux was looked upon as the logical man to point the way out.

National extremity has made queer bed-fellows in the past, and it will continue to do so as long as time lasts, but none seems for the moment more strange than that Caillaux, whom the senate of France four years ago would have shot or exiled according to the turn of their vote, should be facing them today as the man who has been called from the discard of political oblivion and national disgrace to do for them what they have been incapable of doing for themselves.

Look Nearer Home.

Several Canadian papers, among them the Montreal Gazette and the Toronto Mail and Empire, carried a despatch from London saying that some agency was at work trying to discourage people from coming to Canada. The story was based on statements made by a party of Dutch settlers who were on their way to Canada, but many of those who intended coming had turned back on account of discouraging news about Canada that had reached them. They had, according to the London despatch, read "depressing" stories in the papers about life in Canada being too hard and there being too many worthless people there already. There was also the suggestion that Socialists might be at the bottom of this anti-Canadian movement.

The Toronto Star wonders why it is necessary to suspect that there is an enemy at work at all.

If certain copies of the Mail and Empire, the Montreal Gazette, the Montreal Star or of certain other newspapers were to reach Europe, says the Star, they could not fail to have a "depressing" effect on those who were thinking of coming to Canada. Most Conservative journals in their desire to create disaffection towards the present government at Ottawa have long been busy exaggerating migration and belittling immigration. They talk blue ruin and nothing else, and it need surprise nobody if they give the country a bad name abroad.

Spoiling the Burglar Business.

A manufacturing plant in Hamilton was broken into a few nights ago and the sum of $150 stolen from the office. More would no doubt have been taken had it been there.

The police were notified, as usual, and started to work. They finally located the burglar sitting at the kitchen table of his home, eating the evening meal. There was no scuffle with the officers, nor was there a hurried display of automatic guns.

The burglar was very easily overcome, for he was a boy six years of age. Time was when this sort of work was carried on by bold, bad men—today it is being taken over by a younger generation. Although we are used to seeing mere boys in court, this Hamilton affair is somewhat of a knockout.

It will come to the point, if this keeps up, where the police station will have to be supplied with a nurse instead of a matron, and an attendant with picture books and milk bottles instead of the traditional desk sergeant.

It's enough to make a real old burglar, who operated with a jimmy, a dark lantern and a mask, throw away his equipment and quit the business.

Money Not the Final Test.

A New York reporter talked to "Bull" Lawrence a few days ago, and heard how fifteen years ago he and his pard, "Izzy" (now Irving) Berlin, used to sing songs and tend bar in an east end saloon for a dollar a day and tips, which netted them $20 to $25 a day each. One day "Izzy" was thrown out of his job and, having somewhat of an ear for music, he wrote songs. Some person heard the stuff and called it rag-time, and the name stuck. His compositions of those early days have been forgotten; what he has written in the meantime has gone the same same. But the fact remains that "Izzy" is a millionaire.

A critic comments that about the time "Izzy's" grandfather was a little boy there lived a very timid young man named Franz Schubert. His brain was always full and running over of most exquisite melodies, and he wrote music easier than most people write a letter. He composed every kind of music from songs to opera. What he wrote one hundred years ago will never be forgotten. Many of his immortal works he sold for $5 and less. In his greatest year he never earned more than $500. Mozart, another genius, was buried in a pauper's grave.

The world today marvels at the genius of Schubert and of Mozart, and when this generation moves on to make way for the next the soul of the world will respond to their visions and their dreams as they recorded them in musical text.

Schubert poor, Mozart dying in poverty—the writer of ragtime rolling in wealth. The seal of financial approval cannot be regarded as the touchstone that determines genius, or as the court that decides the awarding of immortal fame.

Will Toronto Give $500,000 Yearly?

Professor Baker of Toronto university says Toronto should be asked to give $400,000 a year to that school. The rest of the province has often wondered why Toronto as a city has never taken up its share of maintaining a university that educates its own students. London made a grant of $250,000 to Western, and the county of Middlesex gave $100,000. London gives, as well, an annual grant of $50,000. Toronto is ten times the size of London and should give Toronto university $500,000 a year on that basis.

If Premier Ferguson insists on local support for the University of Western Ontario he should place Toronto university on the same basis. When the people of Toronto put up their half-million by direct taxation each year they may begin to realize the earnestness that has marked the efforts of London and the surrounding district to make possible the existence and maintenance of the university in this city.

Let Him Keep On Saying It.

A lot at the corner of Richmond and Horton streets, London, was sold by auction, and the bidding was brisk enough to bring the price up to $3,600. That district is considered just outside the recognized business area, but it is an indication that "close-in" property is advancing in value in London, and that is a good sign.

A man who was present at the sale remarked, "A few years ago I was thinking of selling a piece of Clarence street property and using the funds for investment in Calgary real estate, about the time property was moving fairly rapidly in that city. A man who had faith in London at the time gave me the advice, 'Don't you ever let go of your property in London with the hope of making more money out of property in Calgary. London may take a little longer to move, but it is more substantial year in and year out and will win out in the end.' I took his advice and made considerable improvement to my property here in London, and it has turned out to be a good investment. That man who was willing to stake his own future on the city knew more than I did. We have a good city right here, but too many of us don't seem to realize it. There is not a better place to live. The man with a family in London can give his children an education that he could probably not afford elsewhere. We have an ideal climate and one that will produce anything a reasonable man wants to plant. We have the best of water and lots of it."

With the remark that "I've got to get to work because I've a lot of things to do today" this community booster went away, and one could not help wishing that his tribe might multiply.

The Real Platform Stays.

Rotarians visiting London were assembled on a platform to have a group photo taken, when the affair collapsed. The unfortunate part was that one or two of the visitors were hurt.

The platform on which the whole structure of Rotary is built did not collapse and, if we judge it right, will not collapse. It is the idea that men of all nations have more things on which they agree if they get a chance than those on which they can possibly disagree.

Back of it all is the thought that the one way to get the most out of life is by putting more into it. Planks of that variety do not crack or break—the more weight that is put upon them the stronger they become.

Note and Comment.

Educational experts say there are many different ways to spell "foolish," and there are probably just as many ways to act it.

A man visiting the Hobby Fair saw an entry card with the wording "princess slips," and was crazy enough to inquire if she hurt herself.

It's hard to understand how there was a deficit on the C. N. R. last year when over a million and a quarter people patronized the dining cars.

We may yet live to see the day when it will be proved in court that the cashier in the bank really committed suicide when he refused to throw up his hands.

Hamilton man was fined $15 for having too great a load on his truck before the frost was out of the roads. He wanted to appeal, but court told him his chances were zero.

Sarnia had an investigation into an attempted jail delivery. Prisoners trying to get out saved their way into a room where liquor was stored, after which they forgot about their original plan of escaping.

St. John, N.B., tells of a 19-year-old girl who frightened away two burglars at two o'clock in the morning. The person sending out the story was not up to his job because he didn't describe

Seein' the Sights

When folks come here to visit us we've nothin' for to hide at all; the mayor be busy much these days showin off the city hall.

When folks come visitin' in town we like to show them all about, and make them feel at home herein and turn the whole place inside out, so they can see what things there be what makes this place a goodly hive, and causes us what's livin' here to be most glad we be alive.

We show Rotarians round this week, most glad to have them here a spell, and hopin' that they'll come again, a-likin' of the place so well.

We strung the flags across the street, and put the lightin' up at night, we swept the rubbish from the street and made withal a pleasant sight.

We took them to the station house and showed them what a place it be, explainin' how they hewed the logs and built the hut in '33. We led them on the new-tiled floors and up the marble staircase too, it took three hours to go about before the tourin' trip was through.

The visitors they looked and gaped, a-wonderin' at the things they saw, and marvelled how a place like that be built without a crack or flaw.

They 'lowed that they had travelled much and seen some buildings of a kind, but never one so gripped their heart or put great dints upon their mind. So they stood back and raised their hand and as one man they straightway swore, how they had never seen a place that looked like this one did before.

They looked upon the Hobby Fair, they gazed upon the traffic cop, and wondered how he raised his fist and made the gas carts start and stop.

They wandered in our parks as well and sniffed our cool and bracing breeze, they called upon our homes at night and tasted of our cake and cheese.

The climax came when went the mayor a-leadin' sixty men away, to show them where the aldermen cut up our oats and bind the hay—where council sits down now and then and wrangles with the things what's wrong, and hurls about strong thoughts a spell and pour out speeches ten feet long.

The mayor stopped upon the curb and pointed to the civic pile, he smote upon one delegate whose jaw had nursed a funny smile. "I'll buy for any one of you a fourteen dollar stovepipe hat, if you have seen a city hall that looks as ancient-like as that."—ARK.

Editorial Opinion

ALL ON ONE PAGE.

(From the Boston Transcript.)

BETWEEN the devil and the deep blue sea as to whether, in response to the demands of reformers, to accord criminal news proportionate space in its pages or to omit all references to crime, the desperate Des Moines Register, in a spirit of "take it or leave it," has attempted the experiment of grouping all crime stories on one page. For one week, it is announced, the readers of the paper will be treated to this novelty, and then, presumably, the harassed editor will make his own decision, based on the returns, as to whether he has done a bright thing or made an ass of himself. The first day's bag consists of nineteen stories, according to a hurried count. These did not quite fill the space, so the make-up man patched up with the three-line observation of an exchange, that "the proposal of seventy-five-cent haircuts is enough to make any bald-headed man laugh out loud." Otherwise the page is unsullied by heretical matter, except three or four columns of advertising.

THE WRONG PASSENGER.

(From the American Legion Weekly.)

"But we were only fifteen minutes getting here," expostulated the fare.

"I don't give a hang about that," snarled the taxi-driver. "The clock says we've come twenty miles. Now, fork over!"

"All right," assented the fare, forking. "Now get ready to come with me for driving eighty miles an hour. I'm a speed-cop."

SIR W. GLYN-JONES WARNS AGAINST DRUG PRICE WARS

British Chemist Says Business Is Harmed by Slashing of Quotations.

DINED BY LONDONERS

Price-cutting creates an atmosphere of distrust surrounding merchants and their wares. It lowers a trade, a profession or a calling in the mind of the public, and is generally bad for business, were some of the statements made by Sir William S. Glyn-Jones, noted chemist, lawyer and writer, who yesterday addressed 100 members of the Canadian Pharmaceutical society at a dinner given by the druggists of District 11 at the Hunt club.

Sir William began his career as a druggist in 1891. At that time the trade in England was menaced by price cutting. He made a study of conditions and has since risen to an enviable position in public life. For his war work he was knighted.

Price cutting as it affected the consumer, the retailer and the manufacturer was taken up by the speaker. He advocated a fair working profit for the manufacturer and the druggist with a square deal for the consumer.

Called Mischief-Maker.

"You are going to hear a story of a serious evil which existed in England," he said. "It was an evil which created mischief among the people and robbed the storekeeper. Price-cutting is a mischief-maker, though the public does not always see it that way. Price-cutting is a bait. And bait is used to catch something."

Sir William was in favor of a fixed selling price, which gave all a fair working profit. The laws did not provide that every merchant would get an equal share of the business. Success had to be worked out individually. But some success had been met with in arriving at a point where there could be equal chances of doing business under proper conditions. Organization would solve the question.

"I believe that the customer should be treated honestly; that no substitute should be offered which deceives the buyer. That is neither honest nor wise, but I do think that a distributor of medicines should be recompensed for his services, and price-cutting robs him of his legitimate profits," said Sir William.

Discussion followed the address. Everett Rea of Woodstock occupied the chair. He called upon Mr. Jacobs of Toronto to introduce the distinguished British pharmacist.

Married May Single Be; Broken Bonds May Hold As Ontario Law Doubted

Innumerable Marital Tangles With Hardships Looms As Flaw in Provincial Act Is Seen—Many Supposedly Legal Marriages May Be Upset, Annulments May Be Voided, Automatically Reuniting Couples Long Separated.

NICKLE TO CARRY ISSUE TO HIGHEST COURT

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 16.—Following the recent annulment of marriages where the contracting parties were under eighteen years of age when the ceremonies took place and were conducted without the written consent of the parents, Hon. W. F. Nickle, attorney-general, stated today that in the present situation of the law certain women in Ontario "believing themselves to be legally married" might find themselves living in infatuation with men not legally their husbands at all.

And on the other hand, the attorney-general pointed out, that brides and grooms whose marriages are annulled by Ontario courts may find themselves automatically married again by a future judgment of any higher court, holding the present Ontario law invalid, irrespective of whether or not they have since married again or if there are children by their second marriage. Such second marriages would in this event be invalid, and all children born under it would be illegitimate.

Officers of the attorney-general's department are at present working preparing a stated case which will be carried as far as the supreme court of Canada and very probably to the privy council in an effort to straighten out the legal marriage tangle which has been created by the Ontario marriage law and certain recent decisions under it.

The situation presents no end of possible hardship, domestic and legal entanglement, according to Mr. Nickle. "The situation is preposterous and cannot be allowed to continue," he said.

ROTARIANS HEAR APPEAL FOR YOUTH

Leaders in Boys' Work Outline Problems and Submit Solutions.

At yesterday afternoon's session of the Rotary conference in the Patricia theatre, an appeal for the boy was made by three able speakers, keenly alive to the situation of the day, and leaders in their own sphere. They are: Eugene T. Lies, who spoke on playground opportunities; William Lewis Butcher, boys' work; Edgar F. (Daddy) Allen, crippled children.

Mr. Lies' address was a challenge to the world to face and surmount the problem of the boy.

"It is always a delight to speak to Rotarians—one is speaking to human beings interested in other human beings," he said.

"They are interested in youth—the youth of the hope of the world. The youth of today will soon take up the burdens of the world."

"Youth of today is asking questions about the world, and about where it is drifting, and we must lead these questions if we want something good to come out of what there is."

"I want to touch on a few of the conditions which are not what they ought to be."

Crime a Problem.
"First, crime: We have today a crime problem of immense proportions in the United States. It costs us $10,000,000,000 a year and 75 per cent of criminals are under 25 years of age."

"Is there something to face there? Can we solve the problem? I believe we can."

"Second, physical: We ought to be preparing our children from cradle up to be fit to do their job for their country when needed. Only one-tenth of our school children are receiving physical education in the schools. This is a great challenge to us."

"We must give our young balance and fortitude to carry them through their task. We must fortify our youth if they are to solve the problems of the future."

"Third, leisure: We are told that we have 29 years of leisure in an average life. What are we doing to train for this leisure?"

"Good Lord, give us this day our daily bread," is the prayer of youth of today. Is it their fault? I do not wholly blame them. We need a new kind of parents. We ought to look within and see what we know about our children."

Playgrounds Help.
"Then turning to playgrounds. Play turned to the right use is a building influence for life. All are becoming unanimous that proper play can fortify man to go through to his objective."

"We need more play, properly adapted, to steady nerves and build character."

"Every community should be keyed up to realize that, properly adapted, play is as necessary as clean water, as paved streets at least."

"Keep limber, loving and a little bit looney—that is a great combination of actions to keep one fit for the challenge of life."

"In conclusion, Rotarians, I would say to you, keep on with the things you are doing for the boys and girls of North America."

William Lewis Butcher, director of the boys' department in the Children's Aid Society of New York, made a dramatic appeal for proper recognition of what youth means to the world. He used the expression, "Don't forget the boy, he is made of soul stuff, destined awaits around the corner."

World to Blame.
Speaking on the threads of life that hold the boy down, Mr. Butcher pointed to the world and not the natural desires of youth as the cause of the downfall of so many young men.

"The boy is fearfully and wonderfully made," he said. "Fearful is he if brought into contact with crime, but wonderful if guided properly through the earlier stages of life."

"Boys' work is an insurance policy," he said. "It is the protection that is placed on the future success of a nation and of a world."

"All that a boy asks is a proper chance. His call to the world is: 'Give us a chance and we will give you a better world than you have given us.'"

Need Public Sympathy.
"Let us focus the attention of the public on the boy, and the community will do the rest of the work."

In conclusion, he reviewed the story of mispent youth, the boy of twenty who comes before the judge for trial. He has committed a serious crime and goes behind prison bars for twenty years.

"This," said Mr. Butcher, "is twenty years of protection for a public which has as its record twenty years of neglect. It is the failure of the pulpit, the teacher, the club and you and me, and it is our duty to enter into these lives more and bring about a great change."

Edgar F. (Daddy) Allen of Elyria, Ohio, made a splendid impression in his review of the forces aiding the crippled child on this continent today. He pointed to the great number of the youth of today with twisted limbs, the result of accidents and carelessness. He stated that a great good should be accomplished if the world would only realize the facts and would face them.

The Crippled Child.
"There are 350,000 little children crippled in the United States today," he said. "Fifty per cent could be cured if taken in time. But people do not seem to understand the need."

Bards Prefer Intermediate To Southern Loop Again

O. B. A. A. Sub-Committee Meets Tonight in Hamilton.

IS GET-TOGETHER

Special to The Advertiser.
Stratford, April 16.—Stratford will play baseball in the Intercounty league or revert to intermediate ranks. That is the attitude of club officials expressed today, commenting on the O. B. A. A. ruling that this city is to play in the Southern Counties league.

Stratford feels certain that no matter what overtures may be made to Brantford by the O. B. A. A. they will be ignored, and as Stratford entered into a pact with Brantford, agreeing to support that city in every way possible, it is felt here that unless the O. B. A. A. reconsiders its decision, senior baseball will be an impossibility here.

Under no consideration whatever will Stratford be forced into the Southern league, is the ultimatum of the Stratford officials. In this they are backed by the fans. Citizens are eagerly awaiting the outcome of the meeting of the Intercounty league officials and the O. B. A. A. sub-committee.

MEET AT HAMILTON.
Special to The Advertiser.
Hamilton, April 16.—President Bill Snyder of the O. B. A. A. has called a meeting of the sub-committee of that organization for tonight, to deal with the trouble between the Intercounty and Southern Ontario leagues.

They will endeavor to effect a satisfactory settlement in the argument concerning the grouping of the Brantford and Stratford teams.

Tonight's meeting of the sub-committee will probably not produce anything definite in the way of a decision. It will be rather a get-together affair and a general search for a way out.

HUDDESFIELD TOWN NEEDS WIN SATURDAY
Associated Press Despatch.
London, April 16.—For a number of weeks in the first division of the English football association, Saturday's games will mark the second last to be played for the current season. At least three teams have only one more league game left after that, the early closing combination, Notts County, United, West Ham and Sheffield United. The latter, however, are finalists in the English cup, which is slated for a week from Saturday.

The league title is likely to be in doubt right up to the last round of the whistle, although at the moment Huddersfield Town are in the most advantageous position. They lead the league by a margin of one point plus one goal in hand over their nearest runners-up, West Bromwich, and should they dispose of Cardiff City the day after tomorrow they will have the situation well in hand. This encounter, however, offers quite a problem for the leaders, for the city also, cup finalists, have been travelling in better form recently than at any other period of the past season.

STRATFORD A. A. MOVES TO HELP JUNIOR SPORT
Special to The Advertiser.
Stratford, April 16.—An appeal direct to the public for voluntary contributions to a fund to assist in development of sport among juniors is to be made here shortly by the Stratford A. A. A. This decision was reached yesterday at a meeting of the executives. Those present at this meeting were J. B. Dunlop, Herb. Brader, C. Farquharson, L. Long, H. G. Rankin, F. W. Trebell and W. J. Gully.

The association hopes to enlist the support of the Rotary and other community service clubs in the campaign. If sufficient money is obtained the association will appoint a man who will be charged with the sole task of promoting junior sports. The city council will be expected to make a substantial grant to help the cause along.

$10,000 WILL BE SPENT ON SARNIA GOLF COURSE

Special to The Advertiser.
Sarnia, April 16.—Good progress is being made with the work in connection with the extension of the Sarnia golf club's property into a regulation 18-hole course, though it is hardly likely that it will be ready for play until near the close of this season. The cost of the work will be about $10,000, funds for which were recently raised by a membership campaign which netted 78 new members and the sale of additional stock to present stockholders. Since the annual meeting of the club, R. D. Wanless has been appointed secretary-treasurer, replacing C. M. C. Brunton, who left the city.

CHESS TOURNEY OPENS.
Associated Press Despatch.
Baden-Baden, Germany, April 15.—The international chess tournament opened here today with 21 entries, the list including many of the famous masters. George Thomas and F. D. Yates represented Great Britain.

REAL ACTION SEEN IN PRO FIGHT CARD
Local Boys Going Through Strenuous Preparation Routine.
The local string of boys who will make their pro debut Wednesday night at the arena are out doing roadwork as well as going through a routine of gym training in preparation for their first official tests over the six-round routes. They are all in great shape and eager for the chance of breaking in.

When it is considered that they have been going through the grind of training with one idea in mind and only the odd bout thrown in as an inspiration for two and three seasons now, it must inevitably lead to the reflection that perhaps boxing in many ways brings forth much better sportsmanship than many of the athletic pursuits to which it is partly in recognition of this spirit that the experiment of giving the fans a chance to see local boys in action will be made Wednesday night, rather than providing fighters with high sounding titles who might merely give sister exhibitions.

Hillier and Campbell occupy a final position on the card not because of their reputations apparently, although both made them in amateur circles, but because of the hearing they may have on Cy Pook's campaign. If Hillier wins he will challenge Pook, the winner to meet Henning. It's a triangle that will have to be solved sooner or later, and the baron of Beamsville, now that he has made the jump to pro ranks, is all in favor of having it sooner.

Otherwise the crowd will have to pick the finalists and semi-finalists themselves. It's not an all-star card either, but it should be all action.

BOWLING CHAMPIONSHIP PLANS BEING PREPARED
Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 16.—Decisions to make preparation at once for championship contests in rinks, doubles and singles was made at the annual meeting of the Dominion lawn bowling association recently.

The clubs already affiliated, or who may become affiliated with any one of the seven associations comprising the Dominion association, will hold their club competitions. These competitions must be completed by July 18. Winners of club competitions will be eligible for playoffs.

Championships in all three competitions will this year be declared for the province of British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and district, province of Ontario and province of Quebec. Trophies will be awarded to the champions of one year, and they will also receive gold medals.

New Softball Loop To Make Application For O. S. A. Affiliation.

Special to The Advertiser.
Palmerston, April 16.—At a well-attended and very representative meeting of softball enthusiasts here tonight, what will be known in future as the Northern softball league got well under way. Miss M. E. Wilson of Palmerston, the district's renowned softball pitcher, was unanimously elected secretary for the ensuing year. Other officers will be elected until the calling of a meeting in the clubhouse at Palmerston Monday, May 4, in order that the teams entered might have equal voting power and the officers elected be from clubs affiliated. The secretary was elected for the season, and was the one exception.

At tonight's meeting teams from Moorefield, Dresden, Mount Toronto and Palmerston were entered, the latter two places named entering two teams each. Smira also made application for affiliation.

This was the extent of the ladies' series, but the meeting went strong to operate a male or men's series of the league, should sufficient entries be received to warrant a meeting in this section. Two Palmerston men's teams were practically assured. James Mahoney of Palmerston was elected chairman for the meeting, and went into details on the necessary work for successfully forming a league.

The meeting went on record to accept entries from clubs desiring to affiliate on or before May 4, and all teams desiring to play in the Northern softball league, either in men's or women's series, should get in touch with the secretary. It was decided to affiliate with the Ontario softball association, and the secretary was instructed to get in touch with the O. S. A. to learn the requirements of the ruling body.

Rotarians Join In Frolic Throwing Cares To Winds

Visitors Gather at Winter Garden For Dinner and Dance.

SETTINGS GORGEOUS.

CASTING aside business for a few hours and forgetting their seasonal cares 750 Rotarians, representing districts 15, and their guests last night attended the informal dinner and dance at the Winter Garden.

In the mellow light shed by a myriad of oriental lanterns the gardens took on a new charm. The purple and gold of Rotary was the color scheme. It was the royal welcome that met the guests as they arrived sharp at 6 o'clock to revel in the delight of an informal night of gaiety.

And the Rotarians do know how to enjoy themselves. Proof was not wanting as they came in the hearty grasp of "Bill" and "Dan" and friendly claps of the "Rotary Arms" soon warmed the hearts of all.

Yea, the new friends and old friends found their places, any place at the tables there was a Rotary created hat for every man and woman.

A minute later it was voiced while merry conversation punctuated with laughter filled the hall.

Horses to Race For 900 Miles

Associated Press Dispatch.

Buenos Aires, April 17.—A 900-mile horserace, with 38 runners, which probably will last a month, commenced Wednesday on a course of about twenty miles at a ranch near here. The contest is to determine whether the Criollo, the native Argentine horse of the Pampas, famed for its endurance, is superior to the best horses of pure breed.

followed were "Peggy O'Neil," the sweet ballad of Erin, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." The songs brought applause, then cheers, and soon the war whoops of the Birmingham delegates. Not to be outdone, the other sections replied with their yells and dinners were almost untouched.

Dr. A. J. Grant Speaks.

After dinner Dr. Alfred J. Grant, president of London Rotary, touched briefly on the club's place in world affairs. He said that it held a unique position of responsibility. The Canadians understood their cousins from across the line. The Americans understood the people to the north. The members of the 15th district had a great opportunity to create a better understanding between the United States and the British Commonwealth.

"War would not be possible in the world," said the speaker, "if the greatest English-speaking nations of the world said no. Rotarians should do everything in their power to hold fast to their friendship for the ideals of the real Canadians and the real Americans were the same."

Dr. C. Good, governor of the 15th district, introduced Arthur H.

Vanderberg, who spoke on "Nationalism." He said that the world needed nationalism; men who were proud of their country.

Give Forceful Address.

In one of the most forceful addresses given at the conference, Mr. Vanderberg declared that the history of all great nations had been in times past, and would be in times to come, a history of great nations motivated by their own unity.

The source of great progress in a great nation is the leadership and the dynamic inspiration within it. No man who neglects his primary duties—that of his family and his home—can compete by taking a benevolent interest in the nation.

"We have met here tonight under two flags," he said, "and I thank God for that. If you take the British Empire and America, the history of the last century, you will find it of its genius. But the world needs character, not just a community. It needs us as legitimate nationalists."

Mr. Vanderberg deprecated the means to international peace by breaking down the national peace by each country reached by it. Rather, he urged an increased nationality together with a broader vision and a larger humanity.

"I am a nationalist," he said, "and proud of it, and being a nationalist, I hope that other people will be just as proud of theirs. I am not standing for the practical approach to a real successful international compact."

Wants Universal Peace.

"Peace between sovereigns—that is the point I wish to make tonight—peace between nationalistic America and nationalistic Britain. The peace that has existed along the Canadian-American border has been maintained by 'darn' good Canadians and 'darn' good Yankees. Eighteen times we and Great Britain have had differences, and eighteen times they have been settled by arbitration and diplomacy. Correct internationalism is the Rotarian's state of mind, and it is what Great Britain and America have been exemplifying for a century and a quarter."

A. Monro Grier, K.C., of Toronto, agreed with the first speaker as to a fine internationalism springing from a sturdy nationalism, but supplemented it by adding: "As the character of a state is the sum of the character of its citizens, so the character of the English-speaking world is the sum of the characters of Americans and Englishmen. We possess the same characteristics in common."

He referred to a visit he had made to the old land last year and to speeches made by prominent Americans, including the secretary of state, Mr. Hughes, cementing the bond of friendship between the two nations.

"When we left Westminster, he said, and passed to the grave of the unknown British soldier," he said, "it seemed to me that there were no more reverent men and women there than those from our country."

"Our primary concern as individuals is the building of character, not the building of a fortune. I am not so dishonest as to suggest that I do not appreciate the right of any man to see to it that those dependent on him are properly looked after, but I am directing my remarks to those who think that there may be a duty to gain material wealth, and to have wealth as the sole object in life."

Following the addresses were musical selections. The guests then attended the Hobby Fair and evening program at the arena, returning to dance at the Gardens at 10:30.

INITIATIONS FEATURE MEETING OF MACCABEES

Meeting of Tent No. 4 Held Last Night in A. O. F. Hall.

London Tent, No. 4, the Maccabees, met in their lodge rooms in the A. O. F. hall, over the Majestic theatre, last evening. The special events of the night were the initiation of some candidates, the report of the delegates to the Ontario provincial convention at Toronto and an address by District Deputy Mark W. Cullington, who is leaving for a three months membership drive in Washington, D. C., where 5,000 candidates will be initiated into the order on July 20 at the supreme tent review.

The initiation was put on by the team of London tent, and a splendid time was enjoyed. The report of the delegates to the Ontario provincial convention was very well received. The next convention will be held in London in the spring of 1926.

The tent welcomed Sir Knight George G. Summers, who has been appointed to the office of provincial chaplain at the convention. Sir Knight Summers will take charge of the London district during the absence of District Deputy Cullington in Washington. The best wishes of the lodge were extended to the district deputy and to Sir Knight Summers.

Announcement of the appointment of Sir Knight Cecil Russell as a local deputy was given and he addressed the tent in a very acceptable way.
