CHAPTER XXXIV.

"Oh, ah!" he said. "Chancery cases were adjourned for half an hour, as the young lady is fainting? She can't stand this atmosphere of roguery. The very air reeks with the reeking of human souls!"

"Out of my way, you ugly toad!" the captain roared. "Can't you see that the young lady is fainting? She can't stand this atmosphere of roguery. The very air reeks with the reeking of human souls!"

He led Elsie into the court, and then with one startled glance about her, she whispered:

"I am better, thank you. Let us go home. I do not wish to see that man. I could not face him, and he shall never know the misery that he has made for me!"

"Poor little girl! Trust in me and the misde. We'll stand by you to the finish, and show the enemy no quarter."

There was smoldering wrath in his eyes, and at that moment he would have given half his fortune to be twenty years younger.

He helped Elsie into the carriage, and then climbed in himself.

"Shall we go through the Park?" he asked, tenderly.

"Anything you like," was the reply. "Do not forget to pay the man who has minded the pony."

"I forgot," he said. "Poor devil, he wants it, too, I'll be bound."

The man was watching him feverishly, and when half a sovereign found its way into his trembling fingers instead of the promised silver, his feelings nearly overcame him.

"God bless you, sir, and lady," he said; "but for this I might have been a scold to-night. I'll never forget you."

Just then Mr. Campbell's clerk appeared, and said, deferentially:

"Excuse me, sir, but would you oblige by giving me your name? Mr. Campbell—"

"Captain Parker and Miss Elsie Sterne, tell your infernal master!" was the savage reply.

He did not trouble to bestow another word or glance upon the barrister's clerk, or he would have seen that worthy start and change color.

"By the living fingo!" he exclaimed, under his breath. "What an ass I've made of myself! Why couldn't that old fire-eater have given me the names at once? There, the governor has just stepped into Grant's place, and might just as well have gone there an hour later. I wonder what's in the wind! Nothing very pleasant, to judge by the old man's face! And, my star! that count of his a beauty! Never saw a nicer-looking young lady! Well, it's a pretty pickle, that's all, and I don't see anything to be made out of it, either."

"She looked like an angel," murmured a voice at his elbow, "and but for her the old man might have forgotten to give me this."

He held up a bright half-sovereign, and faced the astonished clerk.

"I was just thinking of suicide, and couldn't have asked him for anything, for I was speechless with anxiety. I've been starving for three whole days—a jail-bird, d'ye see, Larkins? Only been out three days, after a term of seven years! You know me at last, do you?"

"Webster!" gasped the other, his jaw dropping.

"Yes, it's Webster, who was duped by you and Lawyer Grant. I'm going to eat and drink, Larkins! He! ha! Eat and drink, and then pay Grant a visit! Don't stand trembling like a jellyfish, Larkins. You were only a cat's-paw; about all you are good for anywhere. Grant is my game, and I only hold you in contempt for being avaricious and wholly unscrupulous in a small way. You are a coward jackal—a skulking wolf, a sneak, a toady—anything that is utterly mean and contemptible. Will you come and dine with me? I am famishing, Larkins. See, I have money, honestly earned. You may tell me something useful about Grant—about the old gentleman who gave me this half-sovereign, and the beautiful young lady."

Larkins dared not refuse. He took Webster to a restaurant where they were not likely to be noticed, and Larkins paid the bill. They talked earnestly together for an hour, and Webster rubbed his hands together gleefully.

"Larkins," he said, at last, "although you don't deserve it, you shall get off scot-free! Give me ten pounds. I must not face the old lawyer like a tattered vagabond. He might give me in charge again—accuse me of robbing him. I must appear like a gentleman. The first impression is everything."

"Meet me here at seven, sharp," Larkins replied. "I will bring the money with me."

They shook hands, and parted, Larkins muttering:

"By the living fingo! He staggered me, but if I round up on the old man now there may be something in it."

Webster turned his footsteps in another direction, thinking:

"She and the old gentleman saved me from suicide! If I can help her, and from what Larkins pretends to know, I think I can—if I can help her, and see one smile of gladness in her angel face, I shall be rewarded."

He brushed a couple of hot tears from his eyes.

The first ray of sunshine that falls across the way that we have long traveled in darkness is never forgotten. The first helping hand, the first sweet sympathy that lifts a despairing soul from the brink of death! Ah, none who have suffered can ever forget!

CHAPTER XXXV.

Though blessed with the love of one of the sweetest and most beautiful girls in all England, Colin Erasmilife was not a happy man. Her kisses yet warm upon his lips, the memory of her clinging form still vibrating through every nerve of his being, her honey words still breathing in his ears, he looked along, his eyes downcast, his whole appearance that of a man who is supremely miserable. Successful in love, and surfeited with the flattery of men, he was unhappy. There was not an influential paper that had not sounded his praises. The versatility of his genius was remarkable, and had he not prostituted his talent for the sake of immediate necessities, fame and fortune would have knocked at his door much earlier.

When unknown to fame, and while studying for other pursuits, Colin Erasmilife had painted crude pictures for the dealers for a few pounds each. He had made a boast that his mother was at last relieved from the payment of his tailor's bills.

But if his pictures were rugged and glaring, and the mechanical properties woefully inconsistent, the keen eyes of the Oxford street dealer saw that the young artist was possessed of no common order of force and originality. What is mere perspective, after all? An ordinary draughtsman at thirty-five shillings per week successfully masters these paltry details. The Jewish dealer made a bargain with Colin Erasmilife. He was to have the exclusive right to all his work, and in return would guarantee him a monthly check for fifty pounds.

To a youth just out of his teens, who was ashamed of being a burden upon a mother whose limited income barely sufficed to supply her own needs, the sum of fifty pounds monthly was a huge windfall—a perfect shower of gold.

Colin accepted gladly, and during the following three years painted many pictures for Lazarus Cohen. Some of his commissions were pictures of famous race-horses, from life, and critics began to believe that he was gifted with the brush of a Landseer. In this way he came under the notice—rather, his work came under the notice and approval of Lord Somerton. In addition to his legal studies, he took lessons in perfecting the art that he loved. During the summer vacations he took flying trips to Venice and Rome. He cared not for the usual holidays in which most young men delight. No fatigue was too great for him in the prosecution of his efforts to raise himself beyond mere mediocrity. Finally he fell in with a French artist, who had roved the world and made money in every capital of Europe—a man whose paintings decorated the walls of kings and princes, and several of which might be found in the glittering salons of New York.

An artist of great possibilities, he had once painted for fame, but now his wants were limited to the wine-cup. He could work no longer; he was old beyond his years; debauchery had done its worst; but he could give hints that were invaluable to a young artist of such power as Colin Erasmilife.

castles, fame and fortune would have knocked at his door much earlier.

So far he had not dreamed of a competency from his brush. His law studies were ever before him, and he was called to the bar. He was fortunate enough to have several cases entrusted to his care, and he acquitted himself so ably that the seniors soon began to compete for his services. During one great trial that lasted seven days, he outpointed the attorney-general—single-handed. The Queen's counsel from whom he had received the brief was ill, and the young barrister's future was predicted a brilliant one. A hundred men shook him by the hand, and the papers were proud of him.

He left the courts disgusted with himself. He knew that his client was a scoundrel, and that by obtaining a verdict for him he had done a worthy gentleman a deep and lasting wrong.

In the meanwhile he had become a perfect master of his other art—the art he loved. His landscapes were Turnerque, his country scenes equal to Foster, but it was a portrait painter that he was destined to make fame and fortune.

The first of these was a likeness of Miss Adeline Cleveland, a lady whom he greatly admired—a protégé of his mother, and the stepdaughter of Lawyer James Grant, who took considerable pains to pose as the young man's benefactor.

Drugs Instead of Whiskey

That there is a widespread traffic in drugs no one will deny. The evidence is to be seen every day in the police stations, courts and hospitals. The war is blamed by some persons for this new scourge, while others put the responsibility on prohibition. The latter alleged cause is scoffed at by the prohibitionists. But here comes a witness in the person of Brigadier-General W. St. Pierre Hughes, D.S.O., superintendent of the penitentiary branch of the Department of Justice, an official keen for prison reform, and who does not believe in capital punishment. General Hughes rose to his high position in the war and as penitentiary superintendent he has had extraordinary experience in the ways of criminals and the causes of their downfall. General Hughes the other day lectured before the Women's Missionary Society at Ottawa and made statements that startled the delegates. He said that he was an advocate of temperance, which he practices, but he was decidedly of the opinion that prohibition was the cause of the illicit drug traffic. The authorities never had any trouble with the drug traffic until prohibition came in, he said. A man could be cured of drinking but a drug addict could not be cured, or could be only with great difficulty. They would go to any lengths to get the drugs and generally were successful. He did not think it was wise to take liquor away from men. Drugs, which they resorted to, were worse. Morphine and heroin even came into the penitentiaries, this despite the best efforts of the prison authorities. In Sing Sing penitentiary in New York state there were last year 871 drug addicts. There are many in the Canadian prisons and they manage even when behind the bars to get the drugs they are victims of, smuggled in to them. Keep the boot-licker and drugs away and there will be less criminals, concluded General Hughes. His remarks are worth pondering over by both sides to the liquor question, especially to the prohibition forces, for he is a practical, temperance man.—The Review.

Colin accepted gladly, and during the following three years painted many pictures for Lazarus Cohen. Some of his commissions were pictures of famous race-horses, from life, and critics began to believe that he was gifted with the brush of a Landseer. In this way he came under the notice—rather, his work came under the notice and approval of Lord Somerton. In addition to his legal studies, he took lessons in perfecting the art that he loved. During the summer vacations he took flying trips to Venice and Rome. He cared not for the usual holidays in which most young men delight. No fatigue was too great for him in the prosecution of his efforts to raise himself beyond mere mediocrity. Finally he fell in with a French artist, who had roved the world and made money in every capital of Europe—a man whose paintings decorated the walls of kings and princes, and several of which might be found in the glittering salons of New York.

An artist of great possibilities, he had once painted for fame, but now his wants were limited to the wine-cup. He could work no longer; he was old beyond his years; debauchery had done its worst; but he could give hints that were invaluable to a young artist of such power as Colin Erasmilife.

So far he had not dreamed of a competency from his brush. His law studies were ever before him, and he was called to the bar. He was fortunate enough to have several cases entrusted to his care, and he acquitted himself so ably that the seniors soon began to compete for his services. During one great trial that lasted seven days, he outpointed the attorney-general—single-handed. The Queen's counsel from whom he had received the brief was ill, and the young barrister's future was predicted a brilliant one. A hundred men shook him by the hand, and the papers were proud of him.

He left the courts disgusted with himself. He knew that his client was a scoundrel, and that by obtaining a verdict for him he had done a worthy gentleman a deep and lasting wrong.

In the meanwhile he had become a perfect master of his other art—the art he loved. His landscapes were Turnerque, his country scenes equal to Foster, but it was a portrait painter that he was destined to make fame and fortune.

Discoveries in Palestine Throw Light on Biblical History.

Chief of Imperial Staff to Tour the Empire ---Jewish Murders in Dublin Discussed in Dail---Pelican Again Safe.

COMMUNIST'S MANIFESTO.
LONDON, Nov. 22. The Communist Party's Manifesto, issued in connection with the general election demands the confiscation of all idle factories and land, and a weekly minimum wage of four pounds for a six hour working day; also full maintenance for unemployment and housing for all the people.

EARL CAVAN TO TOUR EMPIRE.
OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 22. No official motive is imputed to the forthcoming visit to Canada of Earl Cavan, Chief of the Imperial Staff, according to a statement of Hon. E. M. MacDonald. Earl Cavan comes to Canada next spring in the course of a tour of the British Empire, and while here will confer with the Government in a friendly fashion on military matters, the Minister says.

THE ANCIENT CITY OF DAVID.
LONDON, Nov. 22. The discovery of traces of the ancient City of David, reported from Jerusalem some time ago, is confirmed in a despatch from Professor Robert McAllister, leader of a joint expedition sent to the Holy Land by the Palestine Exploration Fund and the Daily Telegraph. Professor McAllister says he has every reason to believe that by a fortunate coincidence the expedition has discovered the remains of the mysterious "Millo" mentioned in the biblical description of the fortifications in the Jebusite citadel he captured. The statement that the King built "round from Millo" has always puzzled commentators. It has been conjectured that "Millo" was a tower or a dam, but it has been agreed only excavation could reveal its true identity.

JUDGE DENOUNCES COOK.
FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 22. Dr. F. A. Cook, who first gained fame by his denied discovery of the North Pole, passed to a cell in the Tarrant County jail here to-day under sentence of fourteen years and nine months in the Federal penitentiary, at Leavenworth, Kansas, with a fine of twelve thousand dollars, with what was said to have been the most stinging denunciation ever heard in a Texas court ringing in his ears. Thirteen of his confederates go to jail with him and face varying fines. Robbing widows and orphans, and aged and destitute, was charged against the downcast explorer-promoter by Judge Kilgus. "Cook, have you no decency at all? Are you not haunted at night by those pitiable figures you have robbed? How can you sleep? he asked, and continued: "history gave us an Ananias and Sapphira; they are forgotten but we still have Dr. Cook."

PELOGROMS IN DUBLIN!
DUBLIN, Nov. 22. The possibility of pogroms in the Irish Free State was discussed in Dail Eireann to-day, when Daniel McCarthy asked the Home Minister for information relative to the recent murder of Jewish citizens in the streets of Dublin and whether any special precautions had been taken to protect the Jews from further attack. The Home Minister, Kevin O'Higgins replied the sectarian crime had no within living memory manifested itself in Dublin, and he did not believe the city now faced anything so horrible. He was inclined to view the some perverted mentality had been seeking private vengeance. An exacting investigation was now proceeding.

PELICAN AT NORTH SYDNEY.
HALIFAX, Nov. 22. The seagull, the Ocean Eagle arrived in North Sydney at noon to-day with the barge Pelican in tow, after picking up the latter, which ended a ten day run away at sea by stranding on the northwest bar of Sable Island. The Pelican, which broke away from the steamer Curlew, Nov. 10th, was from Newfoundland for North Sydney, with a cargo of scrap iron.

Millenary Celebration of St. Bernard

LONDON, Nov. 19.—[Canadian Press]—Preparations are being made at Rome to celebrate the millenary of St. Bernard of Menthon, who was born near Annecy in 923, and who founded the two famous Alpine hospices on the Great St. Bernard and the Little St. Bernard, says the Rome correspondent of the London Sunday Observer.

For close upon a thousand years these hospices have been an unfailing refuge for travellers, and the monks in charge of them have saved innumerable lives by their self-devotion and with the help of their famous dogs. Even now, with railways over the Mont Cenis, the Simplon, and the Saint Gothard, the St. Bernard passes are still largely used by Italian workmen crossing over into France or Switzerland.

The pass of the Great St. Bernard, which goes from Martigny to Aosta, is said to have been crossed by Hannibal, and a small pillar of red granite near the hospice is still called "Hannibal's Column." The hospices on the Little St. Bernard is in charge of the religious community of St. Maurice and Lazarus.

Tired Nervous Mothers

are the direct cause of much unhappiness in our homes; their condition irritates and wears upon the husband and often ruins a child's disposition. This condition of the mother is often due to some weakness which makes her entirely unfit to perform her household duties and bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves. Every woman who finds herself in this condition should remember that statistics prove that 98 out of every 100 women who suffer from female ills are helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and lose no time in giving it a fair trial.

The Nickel Theatre has been most fortunate in securing for presentation on Monday next, Rex Ingram's powerful screen achievement, entitled "Trifling Women." This massive production is produced in ten stirring acts, and has received the following appraisals from the American Press.

Another Big Amateur Show at the Crescent

BIG FEATURE PROGRAMME AND CONTEST TO-NIGHT.

Another big Amateur Contest will be held at the popular Crescent to-night, which as per usual will be conducted by Dan Delmar. Dan has something up his sleeve for to-night's show, so do not fail to be on time and secure a good seat. Besides this big Contest, you will have the opportunity of witnessing one of the finest screen stories seen in many years. To get down to the fact of the matter, "One Week of Love" is the sort of story you want to tell all your movie-mad friends about. It has a lovely heroine all dressed up for aeroplaning; and when the plane falls, the lovely heroine gets the greatest thrill in her dear young life. The machine falls right into the arms, so to speak, of Conway Tearle, the hero. Now, what could be nicer? Not that Conway Tearle is a bit nice about it—at first. You see he is one of those men of the mountains, one of those men who curse beautifully and drag heroines into their thrilling cases. Its the sort of picture you'll fall in love with.

Dan Delmar, the man with the double voice will be heard in classy song-hits—this also is something you'll like. By all means do not miss to-night's bill.

Household Notes.

For a dainty luncheon serve creamed asparagus tips, a fluffy omelet, hot rolls and cocoa.

Individual, molded rice puddings are nice served with whipped cream or a boiled custard sauce.

Garnish shredded lettuce with halves of English walnuts and marinate with French dressing.

Meat loaf is especially good when strained tomato sauce is used instead of water in the gravy.

For very thick white sauce use three tablespoonfuls of fat and four of flour to each cupful of milk.

Sliced white grapes and endive make a very dainty salad. Serve with dressing and cheese straws.

At tea on Thanksgiving day, one might serve hot spiced cider with small assorted cakes or cookies.

Try rolling meat balls in parboiled leaves of cabbage, placing them in a greased pan to brown.

Fill the hollows of halved peaches with cottage or soft cream cheese and serve on lettuce leaves.

Bake peaches in two thin, flaky crusts in a square pan, cut in oblong or square pieces, and serve with peach sauce.

By EDGAR A GUEST

HONESTY
He was an honest man, and yet I never liked him very much—his slight opinion of a debt was one that I could not touch. He said his bill. But that was all of him that men could ever see. And those who owed him, large or small, to him were also forced to pay. I knew him for an honest man—I wish somewhere that I could find Along the path his journey ran Some little proof that he was kind. So bitterly he pressed each claim. That, looking back, it seems to me He proved (I write it to his shame) How cruel can a virtue be. Honor is not enough to hold. One may be that and still remain Bitter of heart and icy cold. And deaf to every cry of pain. In honor's name a man may fall To fight with joy one dreary place. Or leave alone his selfish trail A smiling or a friendly face. Be honest, son of mine, and say The final penny you may owe. Let no man live of you say You do not settle as you go. But be you kind as you are true. Be gentle where-ever you can. Be helpful here and friendly, too. Be more than just an honest man.

T. A. Athletic Association Concert

Last night in the Armory the T. A. Athletic Association held a most successful concert, the first of a program of entertainments which the members propose holding during the winter months. The Armory was filled to capacity and the following contributed to the entertainment: Songs, Messrs. P. T. Hickey, R. Redmond, P. Oliver, R. J. Power, E. R. Peters, Leo Dillon, W. J. Wallace, J. Hickey, T. Doherty, P. Smith, P. J. Donnelly; Recitations:—Messrs. W. Murphy and T. J. Rolfe; Duet—Messrs. Peters and Doherty and a step-dance by Mr. Martin Day. A special feature was Miskell's Orchestra, which rendered some excellent selections.

For frying eggs, baking cakes and pastry Crisco is ideal. It is pure and wholesome and does not smoke. Crisco is the best cooking fat obtainable, and is now used by all good cooks.

Stupendous Bill at the Majestic

ELEVEN REELS OF FILM, AND FIVE ACTS BY ARTISTS WELL APPLAUDED.

The expected happened, the Majestic Theatre management scored a knockout in many senses of the word when last night the Theatre was packed and fully 1500 people were treated to a period of fun, music and art which left nothing more to be desired in this form of entertainment. It was a common expression given by patrons as they were leaving the Theatre, "That's the best show yet. She's great. He's wonderful." Whilst the pictures were far beyond the expectations of the delighted audience. The dancing of Miss Thurston was to say the least, supreme. Her elaborate costumes adding materially to the realistic impersonation. Fritz Bruch the Cellist scored heavily in his musical renditions and it was a touched audience that begged and implored for additional numbers. Professor F. J. King assisted materially in the success of the programme. The pictures themselves were more than full value "The World's Champion."

In this picture, Mr. Reid dons the gloves and goes through several rounds with a professional ex-champ, and it was necessary that he be really able to hold his own to make the scenes realistic. The production is a screen adaptation of the popular play by Thomas Loudon and A. E. Thomas and was filmed under the direction of Philip E. Rosen. Lola Wilson is the leading woman. The other picture which is a five act super comedy entitled "A Friendly Husband" is replete with uproarious fun and is so entirely different from anything of the kind that has come before it that it proved a revelation to last night's audience. Unlike the usual feature length comedy production, in "A Friendly Husband" there is no indication of so-called "padding" for during every minute of the picture there is action—plenty and comedy of a spontaneous, unusual sort.

Here is a comedy that everyone should see. The kiddies will love it and the grown-ups will be treated with a laugh that will be remembered for a long, long time. It's a sure cure for the blues.

This stupendous show will be repeated to-night and the Artists will appear at 8.40 instead of 9 o'clock as already announced.

Two Murder Suspects And Boston Criminal Caught in Montreal

Police Raid Gambling Den—Six Italians Arrested—One man Held in Connection With Hold-up and Slaying in New York on Wednesday.

A suspect in connection with the hold-up and murder of two bank messengers at a New York city subway station on November 14th, a man wanted by the police of Boston for breaking a parole, and another man suspected of being connected with a murder in Philadelphia, Pa., fell into the hands of the police at 1:30 o'clock this morning when a raid on a gambling den on Cadieux Street broke up a gang of six unnamed Italians.

Local detectives informed the cities concerned by telegram this morning, and an officer who was on his way here has arrived from Boston to take back the alleged parole breaker and gunman.

The suspected men from New York and Philadelphia are being held in at headquarters awaiting word from these cities.

Long Record. The names of the two unidentified suspects are being withheld by the police, but the man wanted in Boston is Celestino Ardolino, 35 years old, with a long record as a gun-man and convict.

He and the New York suspect will be arraigned before Judge F. X. Choquet, extradition officer, at the Judge's home to-day.

The raid was executed by Captain Detective Lamont and his homicide squad.

Led by the Captain, Sergeant Detectives Tierney, Gauthier, Walsh, the squad broke into the Cadieux Street house and arrested its six occupants at the point of the revolver.

Taken to headquarters, charges of being found in a gambling house were laid against the prisoners. It was later that the Boston man was identified by photographs on a circular which has been in the hands of local authorities for some time. This shows that Ardolino was sentenced to the House of Correction of the State of Massachusetts on September 15, 1910 for an unexpired term.

Three Paroles. On October 3, 1912, he was paroled but was again sent to jail when he was found guilty on November 12, 1913, of shooting a policeman with intent to kill him.

Another parole was granted the Italian, but his record shows that he was again sent to the Sing Sing penitentiary shortly afterwards for carrying a dangerous weapon.

Paroled once more by the Governor of the State, Ardolino was released on condition that he leave the country and reside in Italy. It is on a charge of breaking this parole by returning to America that the Boston police now want to put the Italian back in jail.

Inspector Egan, chief of detectives, would make no statement about the other two men held as murder suspects, beyond declaring that their connection with New York and Philadelphia murders was being investigated.

Wedding Bells.

COLEMAN—COLEMAN.

A very pretty nuptial event took place in St. Anne's Church recently when Miss Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman, of Badger, Nfld., became the bride of Arthur Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Coleman of this town. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends by Rev. Dr. Thompson. The bride looked very pretty in white satin with bridal veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of carnations and pink and white roses. Miss Catherine McDonald attended the bride and Donald Hume was best man. The groom's present to the bride was a diamond bar pin to the bridesmaid a gold brooch and to the best man gold cuff links. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to the home of the groom's parents, where a wedding supper was served, more than a hundred guests were present and spent a very enjoyable evening.

The bride, who was one of the most popular young ladies in Badger, was the recipient of a large number of lovely wedding gifts. The groom is very popular here and has been for some time a valued member of the staff of Thompson and Sutherland. After the honeymoon the happy couple will reside in Glace Bay, where their many friends wish them all happiness.

Modern transportation facilities are non-existent, but the advent within the past month of the caterpillar tractor in the forests of Quintana Roo is the initiation of the development of its soil, which is claimed to be suitable for the production of corn, cotton, beans, coffee, indigo, rubber, sugar cane, tobacco, sweet potatoes, pepper, vanilla, henocque and tropical fruits. In this rich and unexplored section.

Great possibilities are seen in the development of the territory.

Opening a New Century

A territory covering 18,000 square miles, which is only 600 miles south of New Orleans and reported to be almost unknown, has been invaded by an American caterpillar tractor. This territory, twice the size of Massachusetts, possessing vast unexplored natural resources, practically without population and nearly 300 miles from north to south, possessing a coast line of probably twice that length, is called the Territory of Quintana Roo, and comprises the eastern part of the Peninsula of Yucatan, Mexico. The government is territorial, the capital is Santa Cruz de Bravo, a town of about 2500 midway down the Mexican Gulf coast and most of the remainder of the 9000 population are located in the villages of Payo, Oshupo, Cozumel and Bacalar.

Shooting a Rum-Runner Leads to Murder Charge

TORONTO.—The shooting of John Gogo, an alleged rum-runner, during a raid on the schooner Hattie C. here a few weeks ago, has culminated in charges of manslaughter against four members of the Toronto police force, Patrol Sergeant William Kerr, and Constables Henry Mitchell, George Fraser and James Rooney. Evidence adduced at the inquest into Gogo's death, was that the constables exceeded their duty in firing upon the men whom they sought to arrest for breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act. The four officers will be arraigned in the Supreme Court of Ontario assizes. They have been released on $3,000 bail each, the amount being provided by R. J. Flemming, ex-mayor of Toronto.

The Labour Party in the Election

Unless something out of the ordinary occurs in Europe, which seems improbable in view of the understanding arrived at yesterday by the Council of Ambassadors, the eyes of the world for the next two weeks will be focused on Britain, and speculation will be rife as to the outcome of the fiercest campaign that the country has ever witnessed.

In the last election, which was held on November 15th, 1922, 14,110,000 votes were recorded, or over 82 per cent. of the total electors and electresses.

In that election the Conservatives, led by the late Andrew Bonar Law, were returned by a majority over all other parties combined of 79. The votes polled by the various parties were as follows:

Conservative	347
Labour	142
Nat. Liberal	59
Liberal	59
Independent	5
Nationalist	2
Sinn Fein	1
Total	628
Total returned	615
Conservative majority	79

Perhaps the most significant feature of the 1922 election was the large number of seats secured by the Labour Party. From the returns given it will be seen that not only were they second to the Government in numerical strength, but they had a majority over the other parties combined of sixteen seats.

It may be merely a coincidence, but it is nevertheless noticeable, that the Labour Party has taken its giant strides in the two elections since the franchise has been extended to women. It is also worthy of note that it has not yet had a lady member in its ranks, although several women have taken a very active part in the campaigns.

The introduction of the capital levy plank into their programme indicates that some of the extremists have secured an ascendancy in their councils, but it must not be taken for granted that all labour voters are extremists. That is by no means the case. In the great body of the rank and file level-headedness prevails, and that the introduction of such questions will injure their cause may be taken for granted.

With both the Conservative and the Liberal party strenuously opposed to the Labour programme, it means that in every district there will be a three-cornered contest. This if anything should give the Conservative party an advantage, and it would appear from the latest reports that the opposition to a protective tariff is by no means as general to-day as it was formerly.

Obituary.

THE HON. GEORGE KNOWLING PASSES AWAY.

The community suffered the loss of one of its oldest and most prominent business men when, shortly after eleven o'clock this morning, the Hon. George Knowling passed peacefully into the Great Beyond. During the past two years, owing to his great age, Mr. Knowling was, for the most part, confined to his house, but such was his interest in his life's work, that he was always kept in close touch with the welfare of the firm and even managed occasionally to pay a short visit to his office. Recently, however, it was known that his strength was failing quickly, and when the end came, it was not unexpected. Born in Exeter, on the 15th of September, 1839, he was educated at Marlborough House School in that city. At the age of eighteen he came out to Newfoundland and entered the business firm of his uncle, the late Philip Hutchins, as a buyer. On the death of Mr. Hutchins, he succeeded to the business in 1884, and by his great ability and application, built up the great firm that bears his name to-day. In 1897 he was made a member of the Legislative Council.

He was married to Miss Elizabeth Upham of Sillerton, Devon, who survives him. He leaves, besides, to mourn three sons: Philip, George and William, who are all engaged in the firm; and four daughters: Mrs. Lindberg, Mrs. Hector McNeil, Mrs. W. H. Franklin and Mrs. James Urquhart. The late George Knowling was a man who was not only the head of a firm that has done much to establish the commercial life of the city on a firm foundation, but he was a strong pillar of the Church of England as well. Until his illness it was seldom that he was absent from his place in St. Thomas's Church, and he was ever ready to assist in the various philanthropic and social movements in the country. General sympathy, in which the Telegram joins, is extended to those who have been bereaved by his demise. The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon, from his late residence "Thornlea."

"An Economic War"

The Hon. W. R. Warren, Prime Minister of Newfoundland, speaking at a dinner given in his honor by the British Empire League on Monday, said that Newfoundland was proud of the position it held as the oldest colony in the Empire, because if Britain had not made a success of her first effort at colonization she would never have made any more.

With regard to the subject of Preference, he said the people of Britain had been invited to ask themselves whom they preferred—those who belonged to the family or those who did not. "We could do with another war," added Mr. Warren; "not a war of bloodshed, but an economic war, and we are well able to afford it. If this country is able to pay its debts and forgive its debtors—has money enough to do so—it can put some other people out of business."—Canada, Nov. 5.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

UNPRECEDENTIAL INTEREST IN THE ELECTIONS.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Political writers are predicting a record number of candidates at the election on December 6th. Estimates vary, the highest being fourteen hundred and fifty, or thirty more than at the last election when the total was about 500. Liberals, 460 Labour, nearly 420 and Independents 80. Interest is growing very keen, large crowds attending all meetings and in many instances as in the case of Lady Astor at Plymouth a few nights ago the speakers are experiencing difficulty in entering their own meetings, so dense are crowds. The interest of women in this election is growing very widespread. The Daily Sketch announced that already many foreign manufacturers have been seeking to purchase vacant factory buildings in England in view of Premier Baldwin's protection program.

RELIGION DEMANDS SETTLEMENT OF ASSASSINATION INDEMNITY.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23.—The Belgian Government, not having received a reply to its last demand on the Berlin Government for the settlement of the indemnity for the assassination of Lieut. Craef near Dusseldorf early last year, has notified Germany that if the sum due is not paid by Sunday, Belgium herself will secure payment in occupied Germany. M. Jaspars, the Foreign Minister, authorized the Associated Press to state that reports that further German territory would be seized as a punitive measure were absolutely without foundation. Lieut. Craef was shot on March 23, 1922 while riding in a street car, his slayers pleading mistaken identity.

SPANISH-ITALIAN UNDERSTANDING REACHED.

ROME, Nov. 23.—Strict secrecy is being maintained regarding the conversations proceeding between the sovereigns of Italy and Spain during the latter's visit here, and also between Premier Mussolini and the Spanish military dictator, General Primo Rivera. An Italian-Spanish understanding is widely and sympathetically spoken of in all circles, but nothing positive is known as to any steps in this direction. The assertion is everywhere made, however, that closer union between the two countries, giving promise of vast and fruitful consequences, is imminent together with a friendly understanding for commercial and intellectual development of the Latin American nations.

CLOSING DOWN ON COMMUNISTS.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—General Von Seckt, the National commander of the Reichswehr to-day ordered the dissolution of German communist party and confiscation of its funds. The decree also prohibited holding of communist meetings and the publication of communist newspapers.

CONFIDENCE VOTE TO BE TAKEN ON STRESEMANN MINISTRY.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The leaders of the Pro and Anti Government parties in the Reichstag gathered their forces for a vote on the question of confidence to-day to decide the fate of the Stresemann Ministry. The fact that the socialists late last night decided to present an indemnity resolution of no confidence was viewed by some as forecasting victory for the chancellor for it had been virtually conceded that the Ministry could not survive if the socialists voted with the Nationalists on the latter's no confidence motion.

Personal.

Mr. Henry Earle, of Springdale, is in the city on business.
Commandant H. A. Hard, S.A., leaves by this evening's train for Cupids, Briggs, Bay Roberts and other points in Conception Bay.
Magistrate and Mrs. Fitzgerald returned to Grand Falls by yesterday's express. Mrs. Fitzgerald, who has been undergoing treatment of her hospital is considerably improved.
Mr. T. J. Keefe, a former resident of St. John's and his wife who were here on a brief visit returned to Boston yesterday via cross country route. Mr. Keefe holds an important position with the Eastern Steamship Co.

Long Distance Radio

Mr. Leslie Marshall listening in on a radio set of his own construction, last night heard distinctly the programme of station K.P.K.S. Hastings Nebraska. When Mr. Marshall turned on the announcer was congratulating himself on the fact that his station had been heard as far as New Mexico. Hastings Nebraska is about 2,500 miles from St. John's.

THE TRAINS.—There is no report of the incoming express leaving Port aux Basques on account wire trouble, neither is there a passenger list available. Yesterday's west bound express arrived at Bishop's Falls on time. The local Carboner train arrived at 1.25 p.m.

Sir Michael and Lady Cashin

RETURN FROM A TRIP ABROAD.

After an extended pleasure trip to the States, England and France, Sir Michael and Lady Cashin returned home yesterday by the s.s. Digby. Sir Michael spent the greater part of his time in France visiting the devastated areas as well as Beaumont Hamel and many of the cemeteries. As they were only one week in London on the way to France and one week upon their return, Sir Michael told the Telegram he saw but very little of the Prime Minister or Sir Patrick McGrath, and thus was not in a position to state anything in reference to the business, in which they are engaged. He attended several functions amongst them the Lord Mayor's banquet at the Mansion House, and the dinner given by the British Empire Club, and presided over by Lord Southborough. This function was attended by practically all the Newfoundlanders in London. Amongst those whom he met there were Sir John Wimple and Mr. A. S. Rendell. Sir Michael and Lady Cashin also had the privilege of attending the Armistice Day service at Westminster Abbey, where tributes were paid to the Unknown Warrior. Speaking of industrial conditions, Sir Michael said they were in marked contrast to that of France where everyone appeared to be busy, and new towns were being rapidly built up. As an instance of the conditions in England he tells of a visit to the great Manchester Docks. Here all is practically going to ruin. Ships are on the stocks, exhibitions of new aircraft, breadmaking, pickles, jam, vegetables, etc. Mr. J. T. Lawton, of Bell Island, made the visitors in the vegetable contest. The awards from St. John's included President Williams, Secretary McCarter, and Messrs. Harold Macpherson, Henry Cowan and John Cowan, of the Nfld. Poultry Association; and Messrs. W. J. Higgins, M.H.A., C. J. Fox, M.H.A., D. Fraser and A. Barry, Secretary of the Agricultural Board, who received a cordial welcome. The visitors, who returned to town again last night, speak very highly of the exhibition, and say it is the best yet. The Exhibition continues open to-day and will close to-morrow, when the prizes will be distributed.

Bell Island Poultry Exhibition

The Bell Island Poultry Association's annual exhibition was opened at 8 o'clock last night by His Excellency the Governor. Various there were about 160 birds of various breeds exhibited. White Leghorns, Rhode Island Reds, Barred Plymouth Rocks and White Plymouth Rocks, predominated. Mr. Stanley White of St. John's did the judging and gave every satisfaction. Besides poultry, there were exhibitions of new aircraft, breadmaking, pickles, jam, vegetables, etc. Mr. J. T. Lawton, of Bell Island, made the visitors in the vegetable contest. The awards from St. John's included President Williams, Secretary McCarter, and Messrs. Harold Macpherson, Henry Cowan and John Cowan, of the Nfld. Poultry Association; and Messrs. W. J. Higgins, M.H.A., C. J. Fox, M.H.A., D. Fraser and A. Barry, Secretary of the Agricultural Board, who received a cordial welcome. The visitors, who returned to town again last night, speak very highly of the exhibition, and say it is the best yet. The Exhibition continues open to-day and will close to-morrow, when the prizes will be distributed.

Famous Monastery Burns

Russian papers announce the destruction by fire of the famous Solovietzky Monastery. Commenting on this, the Berlin Rul reviews a few details from the long and romantic history of this monastery, situated on a group of islands in the White sea, in the extreme north of Russia, not far from Archangel. The monastery was founded at the beginning of the 15th century and soon it became an important cultural and industrial centre of the then uninhabited extreme North. The stone walls and the towers of the monastery lent it a considerable strategic importance; in the course of the 15th century it was besieged unsuccessfully many times by Swedes and Finns. A little later the Solovietzky monks, reluctant to accept Patriarch Nikon's church reform, fought for seven years against the Russian government until the monastery was forced to surrender. In the long northern winter Solovietzky islands are ice-covered and the monks lived in complete isolation. The first news of the four-months attack had been sent and it was only during the winter that a wireless station was set up there. There are also dark pages in the history of these islands: for a long religious schismatics were exiled to the Solovietzky monastery prisons. Early years of Bolshevism the monastery was in a state of decay; the exiled monks deserted it. Municipal Council.

WEEKLY MEETING.

The weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held yesterday afternoon at 8 o'clock in the Council Chamber. Mayor Cook presided and Councillors Martin, Outerbridge, Vincent, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and the following business was then transacted: The report of the Solicitor General, A. G. Andrews, New Government, was read and approved. The Mayor referred to damage done to property of their client on Monday 19th inst. through surface water and asking compensation; further, they said, legal proceedings should be taken. This matter was referred to the City Solicitor, as also a letter from the City Engineer, Mr. H. B. Herd, 12 Pleasant Street, St. John's, Light and Power Co., and the Council that in accordance with the Regulations recently passed prohibiting the posting of signs and placards on electric poles within the City, they had given instructions for the cleaning down of poles.

McDonald called attention to an overflow of water-courses, Topwell and suggested that a large pipe should be there to carry off the water. This was endorsed by the Council and it was ordered accordingly.

A petition was tabled from Messrs. Ryan and Ruby, with regard to construction of street junction of Lime and Green Streets, which will be in the hands of the City Engineer.

Mr. M. P. Tobin, Duckworth Street, and J. H. Thomas, Long Pond Street, complained of the condition of the streets in their respective localities. The Inspector of Roads will be instructed to have both roads attended to.

Application of the Churchill Marine Engineering Works, for share of work in connection with the repair of the Council's trucks, etc., was referred to the City Engineer.

Request of Mr. R. D. Dunn, for permission to excavate and grade the fronting his residence, Park's Street, was referred to the City Engineer.

Residents of Circular Road proposed against the erection of a garage by Mr. R. Coleman. Permission was given Mr. Coleman for this structure, but under certain conditions which he has not carried out. It is therefore ordered that he be notified immediately to remove the portable structure.

The complaint made by Mr. John Hall, condition of Beaumont Street, will be given attention.

Permits were granted as follows: to the approval of the City Engineer and conditional upon the applicants conforming to the Municipal Regulations.—F. T. Brehm, addition to garage, Forest Road; P. Casperson, Water St., West; to the City Engineer's report for week ending 19th inst. of which the following orders were made: Application of G. M. Barr for service to waterable premises, granted conditional upon its payment of installation; to the matter of the petition presented by Plymouth and Quill Roads, asking the removal of the lighting plant to another site, the Council is unable to accede to this request, but arrangements will be made this season to lessen the annoyance caused by dust, noise, etc. Attention was called to the fact that the present time many houses in the city are being continually visited by members of the medical profession and trade generally of the inconvenience caused them in connection. The City Engineer is instructed to prepare re-arrangement of house numbering, which will be undertaken early next year.

The Medical Officer of Health reported 25 cases of Scarlet Fever and 10 cases of Diphtheria in the city during the week. In the city at the present time there are some 124 cases of Scarlet Fever, of which there are 52 in the hospital and 64 under treatment at home.

Archibald Barter reported on the work of the new Sanitary Inspector and submitted specification of necessary paintings of interior for which are to be called.

Reports of the Sanitary Supervisor and other officers were tabled and approved, and requisitions for several departments accepted.

The accounts for week were presented and paid, and there being no other business, the meeting then closed.

The Great Race of Two Ocean Greyhounds.

(H. F. SHORTLIFF)

Nothing interests Newfoundlanders more than to hear accounts of the hardships and the escapes of their fellow-countrymen, more especially upon the high seas, and this nothing to be wondered at, as from the immortal lives have been, and still are, mainly connected with the fisheries and mercantile of our country. In years gone by, before the sailing fleet was superceded by steam, hundreds of our young men were employed in our mercantile ships, and their reputation for able seamanship, activity and power of withstanding hardship, and their contempt of danger, gave them a wide world reputation. Their services were sought after and eagerly availed of on both sides of the Atlantic, and hence we find their names figuring in the maritime history of England, United States, India, Japan, Brazil, and all these countries where commercial enterprises have been steadily advancing such they attained the prominence which they possess to-day. In the East India trade Capt. Alexander (the uncle of Lady Bowring) was a trusted and competent commander, and for many years sailed between London, Calcutta and other ports in India and China. In Egypt we had the Captain Richard Fryer, of St. John's, who was for many years in command of one of the largest of the great fleet of steamers plying between the above country and English ports. In the far South we had Capt. Theodore Watts (brother of the general H. Watts, H.M. Customs, St. John's), the most successful sea-knight in New Zealand for many years. In British Columbia we had, and still have, some of them—the Noels, Keates, Jacksons, Alcocks, Heaters, Gosses, and many others who have upheld the reputation of their native land in that western clime. It is needless to mention the scores of successful masters leaders, and each vied with the other to accomplish the most dangerous undertaking first. It was the height of their ambition to be first on the yard arm, first crew the bows, when the "vanes" were used to enable the crews to assist their ships in their passage through the icefasts; in a word, there was competition in every act of their busy and exciting lives.

TASSO VS. ROTHERSAY.
And now I shall give a brief account of the historic race that occurred between two of our famous local-built ships, which caused such a great commotion in our country many years ago.

Over sixty years ago there stood prominent forward amongst our ship-builders three men, either of whom was looked upon as the Michael Angelo in the construction of our mercantile marine in this country, and their hands scores of ships which were noted for their beauty of model, sailing qualities and durability. It would be difficult, indeed, no matter how proficient in nautical affairs, to award the prize to either one or the other. Each had a glorious record, having built and launched the most famous of our fleet. Although several of the vessels were employed between Europe, South America and elsewhere, it somehow happened that one was a week or more ahead in starting, and thus nothing definite could be acquired as to their sailing qualities, the experience of the crew, or the capabilities of the masters. The names of those great master-builders were Michael Kearney, of St. John's; and Jonas and Robert Newhook, of New Harbor, Trinity Bay. At last the opportunity occurred of deciding once and for all as to which of them should bear the palm. Each of the famous ships held a notable record, the Rothersay of Harbor Grace, built by Kearney, and owned by Punton & Munn, having made the run from the above port to Liverpool and back in 33 days, and the Tasso, built by Newhook, owned by Stabb Rowe & Holmwood, St. John's, had also a record hard to beat, even by the clippers, which were built and manned by British workmen and sailors on the other side of the Atlantic. The Rothersay was commanded by Capt. Taylor, and the Tasso by Capt. Goldworthy, and each was manned by as hardy and competent a crew as ever water saw.

In the year 1856, the good ship Tasso, of St. John's, Newfoundland, barque rigged, built in 1853 or 1854, sailed from the wharf of Stabb Rowe & Holmwood, bound to Demerara, British Guiana, and upon her arrival found, moored near where she dropped anchor, the tall-rigged barque Rothersay, of Harbor Grace, which arrived only a few hours in advance. The two ships discharged and loaded with sugar, the Tasso bound to St. John's, and the Rothersay to Harbor Grace. As a matter of course, a great rivalry existed between the two captains, and as a natural consequence the consignees, the friends of the captains and crews, became most enthusiastic over the prospect of such a glorious opportunity to test the sailing qualities of the famous ships. The two captains bet ten pounds sterling on their respective ships, the consignees took a hand in, and the sailors bet according to their means. As the Rothersay had to go to H. Grace, it was decided that the result should be final upon the first to arrive and report at Cape Spear. St. John's. The two ships left Demerara at 3 o'clock p.m. on a beautiful day in July, with a light breeze and every inch of sail that they could carry on them. Each captain and crew saw his rival with everything drawn and going through the water like a sword-fish. The sun soon set and the tropical night overcast the rival ships. The next morning came, and there was no sign of the Rothersay from the look-out on the Tasso. There was a fine breeze blowing, and the Tasso was slipping along at the rate of nine knots, with scarcely a ripple under her bows. Favorable weather continued until the 14th day out, when about 2 a.m. Cape Race light was seen quite near, the Cape being somewhat enshrouded in mist. When the sun rose the mist disappeared, and the look-out sighted a sail well in towards the shore; but, thought the captain and crew, it could never be the Rothersay. After a while they made out that it was a tall-rigged barque, and then it was known it was their rival. Then came the tug-of-war—Greek to Greek—the pride of the Newfoundland Mercantile Marine! The Rothersay was further towards the land than her rival, and managed to catch occasional puffs of wind from the headlands, and passed the wanting point, Cape Spear, in advance of the Tasso. When the Tasso arrived at Cape Spear, the Rothersay was off Sugar Loaf, and thus won the race, which, I should say, was more interesting than some of the International ocean races which take place at different periods, and which are nothing to boast of when we take into account all the benefits that are to be derived from modern improvements in the art of shipbuilding. The voyage of the Tasso occupied 41 days from the time she sailed from the wharf at Stabb, Rowe & Holmwood, St. John's, until she moored again on her return from Demerara.

Others are pleased, why not you? with Sam Eddy, The Taxi Man, Phone 15511, no. 44.

ships—the champion Rothersay and her worthy rival the Tasso. Some time afterwards the Rothersay ran ashore at Western Bay, Day de Verde, during a blinding storm. She was under the command of the same Captain Taylor. After considerable difficulty and great expense she was hoisted off and towed to H. Grace by the old steamship Ellen Glaberna, and was turned bottom up at Munn's wharf, where a new keel was put in her. When this was accomplished she was righted again and the services of the fire engine Medlock were brought into requisition, and as the famous machine was provided with extensive handles capable of permitting fifty men to work on each side, she was quickly pumped out, and was once more upright on her new keel. Before she ran ashore she was barge rigged, with sparker, and-roped and mid-die rigging, but afterwards she was rigged a brig, and her name changed to Terra Nova. She was lost during the great gale of October 8th, 1867, at Indian Point, Labrador. Capt. John Kehoe, uncle of Inspector Mackey's wife, was in command on that occasion. Thus passed away the pride of our local fleet, which for many years may have met her equal, but there was nothing afloat to show her stern to Kearney's chief, the Rothersay.

The Tasso was 393 tons, about 50 tons larger than her successful rival. The career of this splendid specimen of local-built vessel was forever finished during the great gale of December, 1856, while on a voyage from Rio Janeiro, Brazil, to New York, with a cargo of coffee. When off Sandy Hook, the full force of the hurricane burst upon the ship, and notwithstanding the heroic efforts of the captain and crew, she was driven against the rocks. Four of the crew, three St. John's men and an Englishman, manned the life-boat, but they had barely entered her when she was swamped by a heavy sea and breakers and the four of them were drowned. The Capt. and five times that of the crew remained on board the ship and their terrible condition being observed by the watchmen on shore, efforts were quickly made to save their lives. A life-saving rocket, with a line attached, was fired in the direction of the ill-fated ship, but it failed to reach, and five times that effort was repeated, and at the fifth, most fortunately, the rocket carried the flag on board the Tasso, where it was quickly secured by the crew. Communication was now established between the Tasso and the life-savers on shore, a hawser was attached to the line, which was also secured by the shore people, after which a life-saving car was sent on board over the hawser, pulled back and forth by those on either end, until the unfortunate mariners were safely landed. It is worthy of note that the rescue of the crew of the Tasso from the wreck was the first feat of the life-saving rocket on the American coast; and at the time caused the greatest interest amongst shipowners and mariners as well as people generally of the old world and the new.

One after another of our great fleet have passed out of existence, while to-day we do not possess a solitary ship of the class to remind us of the days when our local-built clippers carried the products of our country to every port of Europe and America, and made the house flags of our merchants as familiar along the coasts of England, Ireland and Scotland, France, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Brazil, etc., as are the national flags of those countries to ourselves at the present day. The Clutha was the last of our great fleet, and good work she performed under the command of the veteran Capt. Joyce, who is still amongst us hale and hearty.

"Back to the Woods"
"For there is mud in your eyes"—No, No, No, but back to the Star Movie To-night is the Popular Fawcette.

The hundreds of admirers will learn with pleasure that the popular movie idol, Miss Fawcette, will again greet them at the Star Movie tonight. When it is remembered that it was only on Monday she broke a blood vessel, her appearance this evening seems almost incredible, yet with grit and determination, she comes back "like the Flame of the Yukon" and, as will be seen from the ad, she with Mr. Tesori will do, in appropriate costume, a Hawaiian number of the South Sea Isles. This in itself will be well worth the price of admission, not to speak of Reginald Danny in round twelve of the exciting "Leather Punks," whilst Mr. Tesori, the singer of singers, will render "When Gold turns to grey." On Monday there will be shown a Jewel Super Special De Luxe, entitled "Trifling with Honor," in eight parts a thrilling drama of a man who sunk into the depths and was won back by love a boy whose faith brought happiness to the two he loved best, a girl whose love brought the man back and a friend who played square and lost gamely.

Egg-Laying Race

FIRST FOUR PLACES WON BY LEGHORNS FOLLOWED BY BARRED ROCKS.

The Poultry Division of the Experimental Farms at Ottawa presented a busy scene during the closing days of October and the beginning of November. There was but one clear day between the conclusion of the Fourth Canadian Egg Laying Contest and the opening of the Fifth, which is now of a good start. The contest covers a period of fifty-two weeks, which makes thirteen four-weekly periods observed in the keeping of records. The contest work is under the immediate charge of Mr. A. G. Taylor working under the direction of Mr. F. E. Elford, the Dominion Poultry Husbandman.

Although the headquarters of the contest was in a state of hum and bustle, there was no confusion or excitement because the whole system is thoroughly organized and therefore working as smoothly as could possibly be expected. Some relief was afforded in the fact that pens having few records and with no chance of winning a prize, were able to be shipped out some days in advance of the closing of the contest. This afforded the opportunity of getting the pen cleaned up for the reception of early eggs for the new year.

Some pens of ten birds each entered in the year just closed and there were 52 entries for the fifth contest. The pens for last year were made up as follows: Barred Rock, 27; White Rock, 7; Rhode Island Red, 1;

White Wyandotte, 7; "Chantecler," 1; Anconia, 1; White Leghorn, 31.

International Contest.

The contest was international, there being no less than eight pens from the United States and from as far west as the State of Washington. It was the Hollywood Farm entry from that far western state that provided the champion pen as well as the first and third prizes for single birds. They were of the White Leghorn breed. This pen finished with a total of 2,275 eggs, 187 ahead of any other pen, but 228 behind the best pen of the previous year. White Leghorns won the next three places for Lewis N. Clark, Port Hope, with 2,008 eggs; Medowedge Poultry Farm, Cedarhurst, N.Y., 2,083, and B. J. Penhall, Port Dover, Ontario, 2,008 eggs. A pen of Barred Rocks won the fifth prize with 1,985 eggs, the property of Culp's Poultry Farm, Berkeley, Ont. White Leghorns came next with a pen from the Ontario Agricultural College. Then came three pens of Barred Rocks, followed again by Leghorns, White Wyandottes, White Leghorns, Barred Rocks, Barred Rocks, and Barred Rocks. Anconas provided the first twenty-five pens. The record of the pen, owned by N. H. Gamp, New Hamburg, Ont., was 1,819 eggs.

Two birds of the Hollywood entry provided ties for first place with two eggs each. A Barred Rock hen, owned by Rev. H. A. F. Clarke, Maberly, Ont., was awarded second place with 499 eggs. Leghorns took third and fourth; Barred Rocks, fifth and sixth; Leghorns, seventh and eighth; Barred Rocks, ninth and tenth; White Wyandottes, eleventh, and White Leghorns consistently to the seventeenth position.

Provincial Contest.

Concurrently with the holding of the Canadian Egg Laying Contest, provincial contests conducted under almost identical rules and with the same object in view, were being held. These were located in every province, with two in the province of Quebec, one carried on at the Experimental Station, Ste. Anne de la Pocatière in the eastern part of the province, and the other at Lennoxville towards the west. While the Canadian contest is completely open, the provincial contests are open only to entries within the province in which each is held.

The contest rules have provided during the past year for three classes of registration: 1. Advanced Record of Performance for hens laying 225 eggs and upward. Of this class 59 birds qualified. 2. Record of Performance qualification called for from 150 to 224 eggs laid. Of these, 414 birds qualified. 3. For official registration calling for 200 eggs and upwards, 149 birds secured the registration certificates issued by the Canadian National Livestock Records. In future the Record of Performance certificates are to be dropped and official registration only recognized. It is necessary in each case that counted eggs average not less than 24 ounces to the dozen.

In the Canadian Contest, as well as in the Provincial, a pen comprises ten birds. In the Canadian, however, on account of the distance from which many of the pens come, two spares are allowed in each pen. In the Provincial contests, spares when needed to fill vacancies caused by death may be supplied by the owner as required. Inspected and Tagged.

Pens for the competition must be entered before the first of August and inspected between August 15 and the end of September. When the birds are received each is weighed, leg-banded and treated for vermin. The birds are also individually weighed at the end of the year's work. As practically all of the birds are pullets, many of them increase in weight during the year. This increase varies from as low as four ounces up to a pound and a half for Leghorns and even as high as three pounds in the heavy breeds. A double system of leg-banding is carried on. The private leg-band on the arrival of the bird is removed and in its place an official leg-band duplicated in every way, is placed on each leg. The leg-bands are so marked as to make identifications absolutely certain. Each band carries the initials C.L.C. for Canadian Laying Contest, followed by a letter representing the year of the contest. For the fourth contest this was being the fourth letter of the alphabet. Then comes the figure representing the number of the pen in which the birds are housed and the number of the individual bird. For example, 517 indicates pen 51 and bird number 7. At the end of the season the birds officially recorded are tattooed with the registration number on the inside of the web of the wing.

Entry fees for the contest are $15 per pen for the Canadian and $10 per pen for the provincial entries. Considerable money, it will be observed, is accumulated by these fees. This, however, through a system of contests, is returned to the owners of the best layers. There are ten competitions, six being for the 52 weeks period and the remaining four for the four weeks contest. A silver shield is awarded to the winning pen. The shield remains at the Central Experimental Farm and on it the name of the winner is engraved. The winner receives a miniature. Provision is made for money prizes for the first fifteen pens. These range from $30 to $5. An equal number of prizes ranging from $10 to $2 are provided for the fifteen hens laying the greatest number of marketable eggs.

Corresponding contests are provided for four weekly periods, also being the pens providing the largest number of birds that qualify for the Record of Performance; for the pens having the largest number of birds qualifying for the advanced Record of Performance; for the pens and also for the individual hens having the largest number of marketable eggs during the first four periods. A final contest is for the pens showing the best revenue from sale of eggs over the cost of feed. For this contest slight prizes ranging from $15 to $3 are provided. It was pointed out by Mr. Taylor to the representative of the Family Herald and Weekly Star that Experimental Farm pens as well as pens put in by agricultural colleges are not eligible for prizes.

Housing and Feeding.
The standard colony house is used for the contest the year round. A pen of twenty-five hens and is divided in the middle, making two pens each 10 by 6 feet. These have light walls, floors and roof. The south wall consists of one-third cotton. The cotton provides all the ventilation during the cold months.

No exact system of feeding is followed. High production is the object sought and such feeds are used and methods employed as are calculated will secure the best results. Straw is used for litter in the houses and scratch grains are fed. In this, these grains consist of ground corn, whole wheat and oats, about equal parts. The scratch grains are fed twice daily, morning and afternoon, in such quantities as the birds will consume. Dry mash consisting of bran, shorts, corn meal and ground oats, with ten per cent beef scrap, is kept before the birds at all times in a self-feeding hopper. A small amount of wet mash is given at noon. Grit, oyster shell and beef scrap, as well as water, as is also green feed in the form of mangels, cabbage, cut clover or alfalfa, according to the season.

Disposition of the Eggs.

The seventy pens in the Canadian Contest laid 113,780 eggs. These are taken, up to 60 dozen a day, by the Canadian National Railway, at regular market prices. They are used for the dining cars and hotels operated by the Company.

Where Britain Must Show the Way

Westminster Gazette: It is scarcely necessary to say that in her appeal to force France can safely rely for a long time on being the only litigant. If we are compelled against our will to act in seeming opposition to her, it will be on quite a different field. Our appeal can only be to the considered opinion of the world as a whole. We have no kind of reason to fear the expression of that opinion. On the contrary, our desire must be that it should be as emphatic as possible, and our hope that it may have some effect on French policy before all opportunities of averting a disaster to Europe have passed. But the public

GOVERNMENT REFUSES TO COMMUTE DEATH SENTENCE—TO BE HANGED DEC. 11TH.

TORONTO.—Alkomiak and Tatumigama, Eskimos, must hang at Herschel Island on Dec. 11th, for the murder of Constable Doak of the Royal Mounted Police. Otto Binder, a Hudson's Bay Company trader, and several natives.

The Federal Government, after careful reconsideration of the case, in response to demands which poured in upon it from all quarters of Canada, has given its last word—that there can be no commutation of the death sentence passed upon the two Eskimos.

"Evidence taken at the trial leaves no doubt as to the guilt of the prisoners," reads a statement issued by the Dominion Department of Justice, after the Cabinet had announced its determination not to interfere with the due course of the law. "Investigation has shown that the accused men were properly and fairly tried by a jury of representative men, thoroughly acquainted with the ways and customs of the Eskimos. The confessions of the accused were corroborated by native witnesses, and clearly established that the motives for the commission of the crimes, were totally different from those generally ascribed."

"Alkomiak, the prisoner round whom special interest has centered, murdered three men, one an officer of the Mounted Police, in a most deliberate and cowardly manner. Belief that the Eskimo knows nothing of the Canadian laws is absolutely unfounded. In this connection, it may be recalled that only a few years ago, two other Eskimos were convicted for murdering two priests. The death sentences were commuted, but the clemency does not appear to have had any beneficial effect; the number of murders now committed by the Eskimos is surprising, and, in the opinion of those conversant with conditions in the Far North, it is in the best interest of law and order that the present sentences be carried out."

"Popular indignation has been aroused, particularly in Toronto, by totally unwarranted statements. It has been repeated that one of the prisoners is a young boy of 12, whereas, according to reliable information, he must be between 20 and 25. It has also been claimed that graves were dug for the condemned Eskimos before death was pronounced on them. Such is not the case, the graves referred to were dug for the re-interment of the remains of the late Sgt. Selge and the late Corp. Doak, both members of the R. C. M. P."

Cautious Rupprecht Favored as Ruler of Monarchy in Bavaria

Munich, Nov. 20. (A.P.)—Former Crown Prince Rupprecht is the chief reason why there will not be any hurried attempt to re-establish monarchical rule in Bavaria while all of the rest of the German republic is still under democratic rule.

All the Hitlers and von Kahrs who can be assembled in Munich apparently cannot induce Rupprecht to make a trial for the restoration of the Bavarian throne. He has no desire to repeat the performance of the late ex-Emperor Karl in Hungary. Rupprecht is a loyal Wittelsbach and would like to see the monarchy re-established in Bavaria if he thought there could be any permanency to such a restoration.

But he has learned a lot about European politics in the 54 years of his life. He had a good record in the war, and came through it pretty well convinced that the days of the Hohenzollerns were numbered. His first wife was a sister of the present queen of Belgium. After her death he became engaged to Princess Charlotte of Luxembourg. But that engagement was cancelled before she succeeded her deposed sister as grand duchess. Rupprecht afterward married the younger sister of Grand Duchess Charlotte, the Princess Antonia.

But his experience in his military campaigns in Belgium and Luxembourg and the international complications which speedily arose when there was a prospect that the ex-crown prince of Bavaria was likely to become the husband of the ruling monarch of little Luxembourg gave him a pretty definite idea how the entente powers feel about the restoration of deposed monarchs of the central powers to their old strongholds.

Then Rupprecht, though a soldier, is actually a peace loving man. He enjoys living quietly, and is not at all fond of display and excitement. Rupprecht is the idol of the Bavarian public. Even the anti-monarchists have little to say against him. There is no other prince who can replace him in the affections of the Bavarian people. He has two sons, one of 21, and another several years younger, and several daughters. So the succession is well-provided for and he can afford to await developments with patience.

Politicians sputter and threaten all over Bavaria. Ambitious ones who would like to head the cabinet under King Rupprecht. Monarchist papers always call him King. He is hailed as king at political meetings. His health is drunk as monarch of Bavaria the length and breadth of the effervescent state which has never been happy under Prussian control. Bavaria's unrest is not new. The Hohenzollerns were not liked any better than is Ebert's government. There are religious and temperamental differences which make it impossible for Prussia and Bavaria to live each other. Under present conditions there are enough communists and extreme socialists to make monarchical restoration extremely hazardous. Also there are enough of the extreme liberals and radicals to make it hazardous for the conservative elements to have splits into diverse factions.

The so-called Fascist elements stand with Prince Rupprecht and he stands with them. They have no other candidate for the throne and he is too canny a politician to try being a king on a little island surrounded by an ocean of democracy and standing under the shadow of unsettled reparations.

France has spared no efforts to encourage monarchism or anything else in Bavaria which might tend to the disruption of Germany. Many Bavarian leaders have been attracted by propaganda for an independent Bavaria. But Rupprecht very clearly does not forget that the German Empire did very well under the plans outlined by Bismarck, and is in no hurry to be the first king to make an attempt to smash up the German Reich.

A little lane, with twist and bend and turning,
Flower-set in gold,
And crimson, as 'midst buttercups,
stood burning
Red poppies, bold.

A little joy in sylvan lane of beauty,
And then good-bye!
You hastened off to mundane paths of duty:
Alone was I.

A little heart-ache, since too soon was ending
Life's sweetest hours,
I pelted you (bright colours gaily blending)
With heaps of flowers.

A little smile that rippled into laughter,
As daffy you
Brushed petals (when there wasn't any after)
From coat of blue.

A little sigh—grief all too deep for weeping:
Dear Billy gone,
A little prayer—"God, have him in Your keeping—
My precious one."

A little sunset—life's true sunshine faded

Eminent anthropologists state that 15,000 years has made little or no changes in the human skull or human form. They base their argument on a careful examination of fossilized bones dating back to the Pleistocene period, which were recently found in Egypt. The bones were found by a representative of the British School of Archaeology in Egypt, at a point in the desert thirty miles south of Assiut, on the east bank of the Nile, near a village called Gau. They were discovered in a pit close to a cave which had probably been occupied by an ancient craftsman, who used both fresh and fossilized bones for ornamentation, for carved bones and ivory were found which belonged to the 19th dynasty, about 1200 B.C. Bones of the skull bones found were very small, but were those of adults, and indicated that a smaller race of people had inhabited the area, most probably during the Pliocene period, when human life was possible in such a district. All the evidence went to prove that the skull of the Pleistocene man did not bear the ape-like characteristics which are usually attributed to it, and that the mental development was closely akin to that of the present day. It was agreed that there was proof that fossil bones had been used for carving and ornamentation during the 19th dynasty.

Says Doctor Sewed Scissors

IN OPERATION INCISION.
STRAUCUSE, Nov. 17th.—Charges that Dr. Harry E. Burdick, No. 1638 South Salina Street, sewed a pair of surgical scissors into the wound when he operated upon Mrs. Lenora Smith of Savannah, are made in the complaint of a $30,000 damage action begun before Justice Louis M. Martin in Supreme Court.
Mrs. Smith is suing for $30,000 alleging permanent ill health because of the malpractice charged, while her husband, William J. Smith, who operates a farm near Savannah, asks $10,000 damages for loss of his wife's services.
The complaint charges that Mrs. Smith was taken ill and consulted Dr. Burdick on May 2, 1921. He diagnosed her case as one of appendicitis, complicated with an abdominal tumor, and urged an immediate operation.
The operation was performed that night at the Hospital of the Good Shepherd. Mrs. Smith's health failed to improve, however, and after a lapse of many months, she consulted another Syracuse physician, who is not named.
He advised a second operation, and it was then discovered that the surgical scissors had been sewn in the wound during the first operation. They were removed, and Mrs. Smith partly regained her health. Her heart was permanently affected by the presence of the scissors, she declares.

Jesse H. Kingsley appears for Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and Whitehead and Steffen of New York, for Dr. Burdick, with Edmund H. Lewis of Syracuse as associate counsel.

Advocates Another Way of Addressing all Kinds of

The time-honored manner of dressing mail may be succeeded by a new method which will insure rapid service if the Montreal master's suggestions are followed. Instead of beginning with the name of the person to whom the letter is addressed, the suggestion is put forward by E. Leonard, postmaster, that the city or town should be written and in a prominent position at the top of the envelope. The street number should follow, and the name of the person to whom the mail is directed should be placed in the lower hand corner.

Here is an illustration:
MONTREAL
140 St. James Street
Mr. J. W. Brown.

The co-operation of the post office in seeking that letters and cards should be thus clearly addressed in order that the staff of the Office may render to the public efficient service.

Of late many complaints have been received of delay in receiving letters and attempts to trace these proved that in many cases the address in addressing has been the cause of trouble.

A number of firms have adopted the habit of placing the name of the city and the province on the line, with the result that the postal stop has been the means of finding the destination of the correspondence.

Here is an instance:
Mr. J. J. Smith, Mgr.
Amer. Car Co., 700 St. James
Montreal, Quebec, Canada.

To the clerk who sorts 100 letters a day every minute so late consequence, and such letters very likely to be misplaced.

Handling the city mail requires a staff of 400 men and if each man of a shift of 200 sorters makes a mistake in the distribution of the four letters a day, it means that eight hundred are delayed. To ensure the best possible of the introduction of the new address is advised, as furnishing least possible cause for error. A system has already been introduced on this continent and is proving popular with the staffs of the Office.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

JUST RIGHT VERSUS "THAT'LL DO."

"Please go back and shut the door, Jimmy," said a young woman to her brother, who was sitting on the floor in the middle of the room, looking at a book.

"Why?" he asked, looking up at her.

"You'll just get the habit of doing things and it's—"

"What difference does it make if it is open a little ways? 'Taint nobody but you, Jimmy," answers the mother. "You'll just get the habit of doing things and it's—"

"Grown Up Folks' Crankiness." Jimmy looks unimpressed. Jimmy's mother says they think they grow up crankiness. In fact the Jimmy heard something to that effect, with his mother, being a wise woman have been reading one of Dorothy Canfield's. The little girl, who is being brought up in a school in France is complaining to her father because the sisters won't let her write in pencil because "you could rub out your mistakes if you did and there aren't supposed to be any mistakes."

She also bewails the fact that the paper is so rough that it is very hard to have the pen catch and the ink splatters and yet you aren't allowed to have any blots.

"That'll Do" Won't Do.

At first the father seemed sympathetic and then he catches himself up and says: "But look here, Molly, there is something in the air here and I wish you would get it. I mean the way everyone in this country keeps right after what he's doing until he's got it just right. That's the way to do and we're all off the track with our 'that'll do' the way we say back in America. It's the only thing in this whole darned country I can see that doesn't make you sick. Now look here, kid, you just go right after it and get it. Start in right now, learn to make that infernal notebook perfectly all right in spite of the bad paper. I wish to the Lord I had been taught that."

Jimmy's mother would have approved those French schools, wouldn't she?

Indeed who wouldn't if he had wit enough to realize what a curse the stumpy "that'll do" attitude is to all of us.

Old-Timer Says Water Was Made to Bathe in

AND NOT TO DRINK.

LONDON, Ont.—"Dash me! Water was made to bathe in!" exclaimed a blue-grass colonel of bygone days, when he was explaining his aversion to some spruce taken seawardly. And something of the same reason is given by Henry J. Carter, an employee of the Tecumseh Hotel here, to explain why he has not taken a drink of plain water for more than 33 years. If he ever resumes the consumption of water as a beverage it will not be because his health demands it, for he is hale and hearty. He drinks tea, coffee, and an occasional glass of 2-1-2 per cent. beer, but milk and water were cut off the diet 33 years ago.

For nearly a century Mr. Carter has lived in London and for most of that time has been connected with the hotel trade. In earlier days he was a porter, but for many years was head waiter at the Tecumseh, and since that in charge of the checkroom.

"He declares he will be in the hotel business or some branch of it until he dies, because his early training was along these lines and he could never do anything else. He was born in England and before coming to this country was employed at several famous hosteries as porter, notably the old Golden Cross Hotel near Charington Street."

Women Customs Officials to Go On Duty December 1st

FORT ERIE, Ont.—Although it was recently announced that a woman customs official would be permanently attached to the frontier port of Bridgeburg, as well as other principal ports in the Dominion, no action was taken in that direction by the federal government.

Now, however, the Dominion Civil Service Commission has finally selected its choice of candidates for the position, and five women customs officials will on the first of December commence activities to stop petty smuggling across the International boundary.

Just what the duties of these new officials will be is yet hard to define, but it is expected they will be given wide powers, and a sort of roving commission that will enable them to use to a large extent their own judgment in most cases.

It is not believed that the intention of the government is to harass citizens crossing the border, returning with comparatively unimportant purchases, but rather to effectively put a stop to the activities of women who themselves make a profession out of smuggling, using their sex as a mask to deceive officials.

In addition to the stationing of a woman officer at Bridgeburg, Niagara Falls, Windsor and Sarnia, other border points will be similarly taken care of in this way.

ROAD TO FAME.

For many years, in Hayesford town, Charles Chigsmith went his way; he had some yearnings for a renown, but he was young and gay; as years went on he settled down to paths obscure and gray. Oh, others rose and won the game, to shining heights they sped; the golden, with his soul of same looked up and went ahead; but toil had made Charles bent and lame, and all his dreams were dead. Then he had pink pains in his back, the kind of ache that kills, and he sat groaning in his shack until he shook the sills; a neighbor kind came up the track, and boosted Bungalow's pills. Then Chigsmith took a silver wheel and bought some pills that day; he took two pills before each meal, three when he hit the hay, and shortly said, "I surely feel like peering colts at play." And Chigsmith took his pen to hand and wrote a sprightly tale; his backache to beat the band, he was a ruin pale; but Bungalow's pills were truly grand, and made him stout and hale. And now the good old Chigsmith bird is known from shore to shore; his name's become a household word, and will be evermore. His ringing syllables are heard wherever backs are sore. Still gifted authors vainly rack their domes to conquer fame, and noble singers vainly crack their throats to win the name, while Chigsmith, with his aching back, has an immortal name.

Hopes Have not Been Fulfilled

The defeat of Germany did not change the temper of the world and the hopes which were entertained when the Armistice was signed have not been realized, but the sacrifice of the boys who fell on the field of battle created a stream of spiritual energy which will never cease from flowing, and which brings us every hour nearer to that world of freedom and peace and harmony for which we wait.

"This was the message of the Rev. Dr. Richard Roberts in his Thanksgiving sermon preached in St. James Methodist Church at a service held under the auspices of the Methodist Ministerial Association.

In reviewing the high hopes that had been entertained on the day when the Armistice was signed, and how far they were from being realized, Dr. Roberts said the underpinnings of the pre-war world had been too severely shaken for immediate reconstruction. The temper of the world had not changed for the good, the old poison had been redistributed.

Your baking powder biscuits will have a creamy yellow color if the yolks of two eggs are added to the dough.

Chopped raisins, breadcrumbs and shredded almonds are appropriate additions to the Thanksgiving ice cream.

Our Montreal Letter.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

THE CITY NEEDS MORE STREET LIGHTS.

The streets in many parts of the city are poorly lighted, and the demands for more lights are numerous. The city spends at present $425,000 a year for lighting. The city has incandescent lamps of 40 and 80 candle power to the number of 1,530, making a total of 5,905 lamps of all kinds for the 750 miles of Montreal streets. In 1922 the city installed 255 arc lamps, and since the beginning of 1923, 140 arc lamps were added. The demands for more lighting will cost $75,000.

CHILDREN SHOULD BEGIN SCHOOL AT FIVE YEARS.

At a meeting of the Woman's Club, held recently at the Mount Royal Hotel, the President, Mrs. John Scott, said that children should begin to go to school at five years and that the first year should be taught French exclusively. Quite a number of those present favored the movement and Rev. James Fee, Chairman of the Protestant School Board, promised to recommend the suggestions at the next meeting of the School Board. A few years ago the bilingual system was introduced in the Catholic Schools, from the preparatory class to the highest grade. After a long trial the system was abandoned as being detrimental to the mother tongue, and ordered to be abolished in all junior classes up to the second year. The half day system of French and English in three or four grades of the junior departments left the scholars completely at sea, or as the old saying says: "Between two stools they came to the ground." It was bitterly condemned by leading educationalists, as the children were too young to acquire a foreign language, and proved a stumbling block in trying to teach the children their own language. The vast majority of children who speak both languages has acquired the habit, not from books, but from playing and conversing with companions who spoke French or English exclusively at times. The vast majority of parents are not in favor of sending their children to schools five years, and the Catholic Schools refuse to take any children until they have reached their sixth year. Speaking from experience, I find that a child of five cannot stand the strain of four or five hours a day, the time allotted to the preparatory classes in our schools.

In a class of 52, I have two or three scholars of 5 years, but I carry them as "extras." They are not registered as regular pupils, and consequently I do not require the same work for them as the regular pupils. They are simply getting the "breaking in process," to be ready for next year. How the innovation will work, if introduced in the public schools, is problematic.

HELD CRIMINALLY RESPONSIBLE FOR WOMAN'S DEATH.

After many hours and days and weeks of anxious moments and hard work, the police at last found the man, who had killed in a brutal manner, an old lady as she stepped from a St. Lawrence street car. The man was a crippled War Veteran, who was wounded at the Battle of St. Etienne. He entered the Coroner's Court on crutches and his empty trouser leg bore silent and ample testimony to his sacrifice in the war. He made a pathetic plea for mercy and said he was very nervous and excited. He denied that he was connected with bootlegging and dope peddling. He claimed that he did not know what he was doing on account of his nervousness, and his only thought was to get away, and he did that as fast as he could. Deputy Coroner Prince held the man criminally responsible for the old lady's death, and thanked the police and the newspapers which, he said, were equally responsible for the clearing up of the mysterious affair. The prisoner will be tried for manslaughter.

"HUMAN FLY" MEETS WITH ACCIDENT.

An unsuccessful attempt to imitate the "Human Fly" resulted in Adelard Pelletier, 29 years of age, of Cowansville, suffering severe injuries. Pelletier was climbing up the front wall of the Nye Garage, in Cowansville, and had reached the third floor when he slipped and fell to the ground. He was brought to the General Hospital, where his condition is reported as not serious.

LADY RODDICK'S PRINCELY DONATION.

As a tribute to the memory and life work of McGill, of her late husband, Sir Thomas Roddick, Lady Roddick has donated $50,000 to be donated in the erection of memorial gates at the entrance of the University grounds on Sherbrooke Street. Sir Thomas Roddick was for many years connected with the medical staff of McGill University, occupying the position of Professor of Surgery and Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, when later, on retiring, he became Governor of the University.

A committee consisting of Sir Herbert Holt, as chairman; Sir Arthur Currie, M. F. Cleveland Morgan, Dr. P. S. Glasse and Mr. Miller, has been formed. This Committee is holding a meeting with Hon. George Foster, K. C., representing Lady Roddick and Mr. Gratton Thompson, a graduate of the Department of Architecture, to discuss plans for the erection of the gates.

A LARGE NUMBER OF FALSE ALARMS.

One hundred and eight of the 255 fire alarms during the month of October were false, according to the report of Fire Chief R. Gauthier. There is a stiff penalty for "pulling" a box when there is no fire, and it is understood that the police will be asked to take prompt action. Of course some of the false alarms are sent in good faith. Of the 108, 92 came from the street boxes, ten were telephoned to fire alarm headquarters, and six were from automatic boxes.

Two men were burned to death during the month, and seven persons were injured by flames.

The number of calls from January 1st to October 31st, 1923, was 3,650, 00, and during the corresponding period of 1922 the number was 2,118, 00, showing a considerable increase this year. The total number of fires during 1922 was 2,339 and so far this year, with two months to go, the total is 2,207.

Officials of the fire prevention bureau were busy during the month, they having made 8,807 inspections. Of this number 615 were found to be in bad order; in 514 cases the condition was rectified, and there was one conviction in Recorder's Court.

THE VISIT OF THE SISTINE CHAPELLE CHOR.

I stood last night in a church. With people old and young. I heard great singers recalling. Many hymns that had been sung. Their melody was grand and bright. Sounded at times, 'sweet and low'. And shed o'er the scene a golden light. As their voices were wafted to and fro.

Friday evening, Nov. 2nd, will linger long in the memory of nearly ten thousand people who were fortunate to gain admission into the old historic Church of Notre Dame, to hear the greatest Church Choir in the world, the famous Sistine Chapelle Choir of Rome. They came and sang, and they won the hearts and admiration of the mighty throng. Never before, had the music loving people of the Metropolis of Canada heard anything like it, and probably never will again. It was simply wonderful, showing the great capabilities of the human voice, and the effect of long, careful and assiduous study and practice. It's no wonder that their fame has come down for centuries, and that the great Masters marvelled at their work. How they could produce the sounds from the human voice which they did, was a mystery to thousands of musicians, including organists and choirmasters.

The secret probably is known only to members of the choir. The rich and powerful basses and clear-toned tenors, the finealtos, the great sopranos filled the mighty edifice with a volume of sound that was never heard in the Notre Dame before, and then would come down almost to a whisper, that enraptured the audience for an hour and fifteen minutes in his twelve sacred selections and the two greeting songs, which formed the programme. The performance opened with "Greeting to the Canadian People," sung in Italian, followed by "Exultate Justi." ("Exit O Ye Just in the Lord.") which was sung resembling an echo heard in the distance. The two selections that simply enraptured the audience and held them spell bound, were the "Domine Jesu Christe," and the "Dies Trae," of the Requiem Mass by Perosi. Both were appropriate for the occasion, and it was the "Fest of All Souls," in the "Dies Trae," the soprano took the plain chant parts, while the full choir sang every alternative stanza in parts. There was wonder as well as astonishment at the way the Choir sang this selection, as almost every choir in Montreal sings it at seasonal services. But Oh! it was not the same by any means. The expression of delight and surprise on the faces of the thousands when the choir had finished, was a thing never to be forgotten. Probably no selection brought out all the voices in bold relief better than the closing ones, the "Exultate Deo," and "Vivit Montreal." The choir consisted of sixty-four voices twenty-two of them being sopranos. They sing unaccompanied, and the things that puzzled choir leaders was, how they could start without the assistance of a tuning fork to give them the right note. Yet they never faltered or went flat. They had it down to a science. An organ or another instrument playing with them would simply destroy the effects of their singing, for at times they produce sounds with the human voice that resemble an organ accompaniment. Grouped around the altar steps dressed in cassock and surplice the choir, under the leadership of Right Rev. Monsignor Antonio Rella, Assistant Director, wearing bright scarlet robes, presented a very pretty appearance. On Sunday evening, November 4th, the full choir was heard at St. Patrick's Church in many soprano selections. The church was crowded to the doors, over 3,000 being present.

Try Mrs. Harvey's recipe for orange pie

- 2 eggs
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 3/4 cup Libby's Milk
- Juice and rind of one orange
- 3/4 cup water
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon flour

Melt butter, stir in flour, then add other ingredients, the beaten egg whites last of all

7 1/2 teaspoons of butter
7 1/2 fat in every 16 oz. can

So delicious! Mrs. Harvey's orange pie —and she uses Libby's Milk

If you were to try and choose the most delicious of all the good things Mrs. B. V. Harvey, of Danville, Va., makes, it might be her orange pie.

For as she makes it, it surely is a real confection. In it Mrs. Harvey uses Libby's Milk.

"And why this milk?" you ask. Because Mrs. Harvey knows it adds the very richness she wants in her orange pie and all her cooking. Libby's Milk adds this richness because of its high percentage of butter fat.

7 3/4 teaspoons of butter fat in every can

There are 7 3/4 teaspoons of pure butter fat in every 16 oz. can of this milk. And it's this substance in cream and butter, you know, that makes them great enrichers.

Libby's Milk is so rich in butter fat because, first, it comes from selected herds in the finest dairy sections of the country—those favored localities where nature has made of shady hills and green, well-watered valleys ideal pasture lands, and where men specialize in raising cows that give exceptionally rich milk.

Then, at our condenseries in the heart of these famous dairy sections, we remove more than half the moisture from this fine milk, making it double rich.

Nothing is added to it; none of its food values taken away. But to bring it safely to you who live, perhaps, many hundreds of miles away we must seal it in air-tight cans and sterilize it.

This, then, is Libby's Milk—just the finest cow's milk in the land, made double rich!

Have richer dishes—tonight! Thousands of women are using this richer milk now—getting better results from old recipes, finding new joy in cooking, and saving money, too.

Get a can of Libby's Milk from your grocer today. Try it tonight in place of ordinary milk—in a soup for instance, or a dessert. See what wholly new richness it gives to your cooking. And what delicious flavor.

Write for free recipe folder. Upon request we'll gladly send you a copy of a new folder containing recipes sent us by good cooks who use Libby's Milk.

"THE GREAT COLOSSEUM OF ROME"

is the largest Amphitheatre known. It stands in Rome on the site of Nero's Palace. It was begun by Vespasian in 72 A.D. and finished by Domitian in 82 A.D. but a fourth storey was added by Severus Alexander, 235 A.D. and Gordianus 238 A.D. It was capable of seating 50,000 spectators and afforded room for 20,000 to stand. Externally, the building has four stories, the three lower with arcades; the first is of Etruscan architecture, the second Ionic, the third and fourth Corinthian. Its height is 157 feet. The seats were of marble; the exterior of the building and the chief corridors of travertine stone; the inner walls of tufa and concrete with which all corridors, stair-cases and sub-structures were vaulted. Underneath the arena were dens for wild animals and appliances for raising them into the arena. The Colosseum was chiefly destroyed in the 16th century, when it was used simply as a quarry for marble and other building material, until Pope Benedict XIV. (1740-58) intervened and saved it from complete destruction.

The Grand Colosseum, less correctly spelt from the Great Colosseum of Rome, is in the great arena of keen commercial competition for a share of the trade of the public. The greatness of the Duckworth Street Colosseum is in the great bargains we give to all classes; our advertising space and type is small, but for the value of your money is wonderful. This week we offer 40 Deeser Men's All Wool Sox, 39c. pair; 2 pairs for 70c.
