THE MARQUIS ITO.

The Father of New Japan On the Issues of the Day.

Japan Would Not Take Hawaii as a Gift-Trade and Other Topics.

The Marquis Ito, formerly premier of Japan, arrived at quarantine on the steamer Empress of Japan yesterday morning. He is accompanied by his private secretary, Mr. T. Onoda, and with him are the Marquis Kido and Mr. S. Tokioka, the latter a member of the Imperial household.

The Marquis of Ito is a descendant of the old nobility of Japan, his family being one of the most ancient in that country of venerable pedigrees.

Count Ito, as he was then called, was sent by the Emperor to Europe some twelve years ago to study the systems of government there.

"I am framing a constitution for Japan in selected features from those of various countries, but that of Bavaria was followed more closely than any other. I think I may say in general, my work on this constitution is based upon that of Bavaria.

"Our political system is based upon the common schools. Our idea is that if the people have freedom and free education they can be trusted to develop on broad and safe lines."

"There has been some talk in Canada about the Dominion being exempted from the most favored nation clause in the treaty. How would Japan regard that?"

"We would protest, of course. We know no reason why such exceptional treatment should be accorded us. Canada has nothing to fear from us in any way, but everything to gain from us."

"No; my position is somewhat unusual. I am going in an advisory capacity to assist the Prince, who will be the direct representative of the Emperor. I will meet His Imperial Highness in Paris, and after the jubilee ceremonies in London we will return home by sea."

"You have spoken of Hawaii, what is there in this talk about the annexation of the islands by Japan?"

"Nothing whatever. I am not in the government, and of course do not speak officially, but I can say with confidence that the Hawaiian government should offer us the islands, we would refuse them. What do we want of them? They are too far away to be of any use to us. Besides Japan wishes to be on friendly terms with the United States, and the

OUR RELATIONS WITH JAPAN.

The time has come when the relations between Canada and Japan must be considered seriously and from a broad standpoint of statesmanship...

We say that it is time to discuss this subject without resort to the arts of the demagogue. There seems to be a fear upon the part of some people to handle it frankly lest the workmen shall be angered...

Much confusion of thought results from classifying Japanese and Chinese in the same category. This is a great mistake. The people are widely separated in all essential characteristics.

The New York Journal speaks of the limitless range of American invention. This is not borne out by the facts. Germany leads the world in inventive genius...

the majority of the Japanese in Hawaii favor annexation to the United States for commercial reasons. This characteristic of the Japanese character must be kept in mind...

But it is not only important that Canadians should alter the manner in which they approach the consideration of their relations with Japan and learn also to properly appreciate the Japanese character...

Such are a few of the considerations which ought to be regarded when we enter upon the discussion of the relations between Canada and her aggressive neighbor across the ocean.

Under Mr. McKinley the duty on the lead contained in silver ore was a cent and a half a pound. The tariff now in force in the United States levies a tax of three fourths of a cent a pound.

There is a season of probably two months' duration when a steamer can make a voyage to Fort Churchill, but that season comes not more frequently than once in four years.

There is a prospect of our coast mines coming to the front. It is to be hoped that prospectors and others will avoid the mistake made in some other places of holding their discoveries and properties at prohibitory prices.

THE SULTAN

ATHENS, May 15.—The Sultan of Turkey has been bombarding the city of Trevis and the name since early in the month of May. Five hundred Greek officers arrived at the island of Crete, and on the 15th of May, 15—1, the Sultan of Turkey has been bombarding the city of Trevis and the name since early in the month of May.

THE SULTAN IS COOL.

He Tells the Powers He Will Discuss the Armistice By and By.

Apparently He Feels Pretty Content With a Big Army Behind Him.

ATHENS, May 15.—The Greeks have been bombarding Nikopolis, north of the city of Preveza, on the peninsula of that name since early this morning.

Five hundred Greek soldiers and twenty officers arrived here to-day from the island of Crete. They received an ovation from the people.

PARIS, May 15.—It is stated that the delay of the Sultan in arranging for cessation of hostilities is due to the direct advice of the Emperor William of Germany, who told Abdul Hamid not to grant an armistice until the Greeks have again retreated.

LONDON, May 15.—The Sultan's reply to the note of the ambassadors at Constantinople, offering mediation, saying he would be ready to discuss the matter after the greater bairam festival, which ends on Sunday night, justifies the fears that the powers have drawn a goal out of the war, and that it will not be so long to get him back.

Articles published in the semi-official press of the continent show that this is the chief concern of European cabinets, and the prospects of an effective enforcement of general reforms for the Turkish Empire are thereby relegated to the very distant future.

The postponement of the Sultan's reply until after the greater bairam festival is interpreted as meaning that he intends his army to continue in its victorious advance until every strategic point on the Othry mountains ranges is in the hands of the Turks, and that only then will Edhem Pasha give orders to stop fighting.

DOMOKOS, May 17, 4 p.m.—Headquarters of the Greek army.—The Turkish attack on the Greek right wing began at 2 o'clock this afternoon, but the flank attacks are considered to be feints, and it is believed the main attack of the Turks will be made upon the Greek centre, where Crown Prince Constantine is in command.

ATHENS (4 p.m.).—M. Balli when called at the legation, protested to the ministers against the Turkish attack on Domokos and Almyros when Greece, at the instance of the powers, was acting purely on the defensive.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 17.—Oman Pasha telegraphs to the Sultan, saying that after a desperate battle near Arta with a loss of 2,000 men killed, the Turks had 240 killed and 700 wounded.

LONDON, May 17.—The Daily Telegraph's special correspondent with the Turkish forces in the Thessaly, telegraphs late last night, saying Edhem Pasha has moved on from point to point and finally occupied Domokos. The Greeks have sustained a crushing defeat.

A despatch to the Daily Mail from Berlin says it is reported there that a plot to murder King George has been discovered at Athens and that many arrests have been made.

LONDON, May 18.—(1 a.m.).—The latest news from the seat of hostilities shows that the battle yesterday ceased about 9 o'clock in the evening, but with the probability it will be resumed this morning.

THE SULTAN IS COOL. (Continued) LONDON, May 15.—The Sultan's reply to the note of the ambassadors at Constantinople, offering mediation, saying he would be ready to discuss the matter after the greater bairam festival, which ends on Sunday night, justifies the fears that the powers have drawn a goal out of the war, and that it will not be so long to get him back.

HONEST BOTTOMLEY.

Devotes a Fortune to Clearing Off the Debts of the Hansard Union.

Though Legally Not Obligated, He Hands Over Two Millions and a Quarter.

LONDON, May 17.—The commercial world has been startled by a remarkable occurrence in which Horatio Bottomley, for many years president of the Hansard union, is the central figure. The business of the union was the publication of verbatim reports for the proceedings of parliament. Several years ago the union combined with a large number of large printing establishments more stock and bonds were issued than the amalgamated concern could stand, and as a finale there was a crash in which the stock and bondholders lost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

where make their Saturday night paper larger and more varied in its contents than their issues on other days.

Some of the reasons for this are: People demand something new to read on Sunday, and all the Charltons, and others, who strain at gnats and make a steady diet of camels, may as well make up their minds that they cannot prevent it.

Go to any of the bookstores or newsstands, anywhere, and you will see that people, of all shades of religious belief, provide themselves with reading matter for Sunday, and it is, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, not of a devotional character.

And there is nothing wrong in this under divine law. It is wrong only in the opinion of a few strait-laced purists, who must feel like taking the Almighty to task for permitting the birds to sing on Sunday and the flowers to shed their perfume on the summer air.

THE TRADE OF THE YUKON.

Elsewhere will be found a description of the route to the Yukon via the Stikkeen river and Teslin lake, which the Provincial government proposes to open this summer.

The amount to be expended, $2,000, is not large, but if what is said of the hundred miles of country to be traversed is true, will be found ample for the purpose.

This will give by all means the best available route to the Yukon gold fields, and the best of it is that it will be an all-Canadian one, for although the Stikkeen runs through a few miles of United States territory before entering the Yukon, its free navigation is secured to all British subjects by treaty.

When this trail is completed it will be reached by sea-going steamers to Fort Wrangel, and thence by river steamer up the Stikkeen to Telegraph creek. A hundred miles of land carriage over a level country will transport the miner and his outfit, and the merchant and his goods, from the navigable waters of the Skeena to the navigable waters of the Yukon river system.

As compared with all other routes to the interior, this is, in the absence of railway communication, incomparably the best, and after the trail is opened the Chilkoot Pass route will probably be abandoned very largely if not altogether.

This is a matter of very great importance to the business men of the Coast cities. We have already twice referred to the general impression that the Yukon gold fields are in Alaska, and hence that Seattle is the best point to outfit them; but a third reference will not be out of place, for only recently a party of young men from Toronto came over the Canadian Pacific and went to Seattle to procure supplies to take into the Canadian portion of the Yukon valley.

British Columbia merchants have lost thousands of dollars through this general misunderstanding of the matter by gold-seekers, and the Colonist is determined that it shall not be its fault if they do not get their share of this trade.

But it is not only a trail that is necessary through Canadian territory, and not only the correction of the common mistake as to the ownership of the gold fields. Victoria merchants must cater for the trade. They must advertise for it. In the season the Seattle papers are full of advertisements of Yukon outfits. No man, who comes to the Sound over the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways, is left in any doubt as to where he can buy his goods for his Alaska outfit.

Every Seattle paper that he buys has the train tell him in big letters that the place to outfit is at So-and-So, or at somebody else's. He sees a rivalry between merchants as to who shall get the trade. The traveller on the Canadian Pacific sees the same thing, but if he turns to a Victoria or a Vancouver paper to see what those cities have to offer him in the same line he encounters only the stereotyped advertisements of patent medicine concerns, or the scarcely less interesting announcements of most of the leading merchants. Somebody invariably hints in a solemn sort of way that he sells hardware. Another takes him into his confidence sufficiently to tell him that he keeps tobacco. Another intimates that he has a stock of groceries, and another ventures to intimate that he deals in dry goods.

Now, if merchants want the business of men who have snags put to go to the Yukon they must put some snap into their advertisements.

So a three-fold effort must be made to secure the trade of the Yukon for our cities, where it properly belongs. The government must provide a trail into the country. This is about to be done. The newspapers must make it widely known that the Yukon is Canadian territory, and hence that Canadian cities are the proper places to outfit. This will, we are sure, be done. The merchants must cater to the trade and advertise their ability to do at least as well by miners as any one else can. We believe that this also will be done.
