The wheat crop is turning out better than was expected early in the summer, and both in quantity and quality it is much above the average.

THERE was no band concert last Friday evening, owing to the bass player being absent. Quite a number of people waited around for a long time but had to go home disappointed. The band should start playing a little earlier, say at 8 o'clock, sharp, as many parents do not like their children to be out late, yet do not want them to miss the music.

WEDNESDAY'S London Advertiser, speaking of the Bowling tournament, says:—"Reeve Stapleford, of Watford, is bowling some bowls for Skip Rev. Mr. Irwin's rink. Yesterday he won two games by splendid shots, the one against the Woodstock four being particularly brilliant."

COMPLAINT is made that a number of boys congregate near the G.T.R. station and make a nuisance of themselves throwing stones at each other and pelting nearby buildings. A friendly warning only brings an impudent reply. Such conduct should not be allowed, especially on Sunday evenings. Take warning, boys, or you will be gathered in by a G.T.R. detective and your parents will have to pay a fine.

A MAN on a dining-car set a precedent the other day in the use to which a finger bowl may be put. It was on a train somewhere between St. Thomas and Toronto. When the man in question finished dining, he quietly took his set of artificial upper teeth, washed them carefully in the finger bowl, deftly slid them back into his mouth, while the waiters looked on with various kinds of emotions depicted on their faces.

IT is going to be Coronation Year at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, in more than name. In addition to the Festival of Empire, which will picture the glories of the Coronation ceremonies, the fireworks will be along patriotic and Coronation lines. A gigantic set piece, showing the crown encircled with maple leaves, will be conspicuous, while Prince of Wales Feathers, Columns of Empire, and the Crown Jewels, are also worthy of notice among the half-hundred numbers which go to make up the program of Coronation fireworks.

WRIGHT BROS., the Petrolia well-drillers, who for the past three weeks have been drilling for water in the yard of the Roche House, struck a good flow on Wednesday. After drilling down into the rock (220 feet) on the first hole without success they commenced in another spot west of the first hole, and at a depth of 110 feet succeeded in getting excellent water which is now running freely and plentifully enough to more than supply all the requirements of a large establishment like the Roche House. Although the well has cost considerable money, Roche Bros. are well satisfied with the results.

A MEMBER of the St. Thomas Board of Education brought up a most important question at the last meeting, when he suggested that the St. Thomas Board cooperate with educational bodies all over the province in an appeal to the Department of Education to have the promotion examinations changed from the end of June to Christmas or Easter. He spoke strongly on the matter and declared that it was impossible for the pupils to do themselves justice when the thermometer recorded a temperature of 90 to 105 degrees. Complaints, he said, had come from far and near of the sufferings of pupils in writing their examinations during the heated term and he very greatly desired that a change should be made.

Death of Mrs. Esther Kelly.

Another of Brooke's earliest pioneers, Mrs. Esther Kelly, relict of the late John Kelly, passed away at the home of her daughter Mrs. Wm. Greer, 6th line, on Monday afternoon last.

Deceased had reached the advanced age of 95 years and was born at Newry, County Down, Ireland, in 1816 and came to Canada with her parents when 15 years old. At the age of 18 she married John Kelly, of Galt, Ont., and for a short time lived at Long Point and in 1835 she and her husband and several others with a wagon and a yoke of oxen drove to Brooke through the dense forest taking two weeks to make the journey of one hundred miles. Her husband and several others had purchased some U. E. Loyalists' rights. A record of the trials and experiences of those early days would make an interesting book. Her husband predeceased her many years ago. She was the mother of nine children:—George and William now deceased, John, Watertown, Sask., James and Thomas, Elbow, Sask., Mrs. Wm. Greer and Mrs. John Correstine, Brooke, Mrs. Jas. Williamson, Dauphin, Man., Mrs. W. G. King, Watertown, Sask., thirty seven grand children and thirty-four great grandchildren.

The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon at St. James' cemetery the services being conducted, in the absence of the rector, by Rev. J. M. Gunne, of Wyoming, the pall bearers being John King, James King, James Glass, Isaac Newell, John Cowan and B. Richardson.

Thus another link connecting the present with the distant past has been removed.

William Walker, of Port Burwell, has a strawberry patch of two and three-quarter acres near the village. During the recent season he gathered over 30,000 boxes, which were shipped to London, St. Thomas and nearby towns. Mr. Walker made an average of four and a half cents per box, which, when summed up, means a lot of money per acre.

WARWICK.

The Misses Leach left for Regina Tuesday.

Miss Annie McCahill is the guest of Miss Edith and Jean McCormick.

L. R. Kadey visited friends in St. Thomas and Springfield last week.

Roger and Alice Miller entertained about thirty of their little friends at their home on Tuesday.

Miss S. Vance, of Philadelphia, has been spending the last two weeks in Warwick, the guest of (Rev.) Mrs. Shore of the Rectory, Warwick Village, and of Miss Elizabeth Baird, "Ivy Cottage."

The marriage of Miss Christie McKenzie, daughter of Mrs. Hugh McKenzie, to W. George Ross, of Leamington, took place quietly at the Presbyterian Church, Watford, on Monday, July 24th, Rev. E. B. Horne officiating.

Mrs. Jean Campbell, who has spent the past six weeks with her sister, Miss A. Kingston, has gone to Detroit for a short time, then to Fort Frank to "Whippoorwill Cottage," to visit with Mr. F. M. McCordie and family.

The members of the A.V.P.A. of Grace Church, 4th line, presented their secretary, Miss Laura McPhedran with a handsome toilet set. Miss McPhedran, who has been teaching in this section for some time, is leaving to attend the Normal College.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Jas. Cooper on Thursday afternoon was largely attended. Service was held at the home by the Rev. Stephenson and interment made in Arkona cemetery. The pallbearers were R. J. McCormick, M.P.P., John Bartley, Luther Smith, Wm. Marshall, T. Muxlow and R. McKenzie.

The list of voters for the township for 1911 can now be had from Mr. N. Herbert, township clerk. There are on the list 816 persons entitled to vote at both municipal elections and elections for the legislative assembly, 187 entitled to vote at municipal elections only, and 31 entitled to vote at elections for the legislative assembly only.

A gas well blazing 50 feet high is the feature of the landscape on the farm of Frank Jenkins, of con. 6, N. E. R. The well has been showing signs of gas for some time and the Indians pulling flax have been using it for cooking. Tuesday an attempt was made to shut off the water when the well started to blow and is shooting out sand and gravel at a great rate. There are a number of small wells in this vicinity, but they have never been used much by the farmers.

William Mason, proprietor of the Corunna Hotel, at Corunna, died on Sunday at noon with tragic suddenness from heart trouble. He was forty-two years of age and in apparent good health, but suffered at times from the effects of an accident received a few years previous by falling from a wagon at Wilkesport. On Saturday he complained of a slight pain but was about all day. On Sunday at noon he was taken with an attack of heart trouble and died within an hour. He leaves a widow and two children. The funeral was held on Tuesday to Bear Creek cemetery.

John Newbigging, Elma, was gored to death by a bull on Monday. Mr. Newbigging went to one of the back fields to bring the animal to the barn, and on going down the lane he secured a club for protection, but it is thought that he went to get the rope from around the animal's horns, when he was gored without any warning as no evidence is found of a club being used. His sister, who lived with him, became anxious when he did not return, and on going to the field found her unfortunate brother badly gored and mutilated.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Canada's fifth census is being taken. The other four yielded these results:

1871.....	3,485,761
1881.....	4,324,610
1891.....	4,833,239
1901.....	5,371,315

It will be noticed that the period of most rapid growth was the decade, 1871-1881.

Something new in the work of the teachers gathered in the summer school for teachers at Queen's University was introduced by Professor MacClement, when he announced that the Secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association, James Lawler, would answer "the question, "Do we need forest engineers in Canada?" This was answered in the affirmative first by a review showing the immense value of Canada's forest products, $166,000,000 in 1909, and how these might be so conserved as to give a stable or even increasing crop and this not to the detriment of farm agriculture, but to its benefit, and by using only lands unfit for farm crops.

A WARM IMPRESSION.

Lord Clarendon Tells a Story of the Heat of Burma.

Lord Clarendon, who, the other day, gave away his daughter in marriage to Viscount Valktorf, is the sixth earl, and the son of one of the foremost statesmen of the last century. During his long public career Lord Clarendon's father was ambassador at Madrid, Lord Privy Seal, and thrice Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. He was also Viceroy of Ireland from 1847 to 1852, a period which included the great famine and the young Ireland rebellion.

The present Lord Clarendon has been distinguished as a courtier rather than a politician, although as long ago as 1869 he was elected to the House of Commons. He only sat for a few months, however, before being called to the House of Lords by the death of his father. Queen Victoria appointed him a Lord-in-Waiting in 1895, and in 1900 he succeeded Lord Hopetoun as Lord Chamberlain, in which capacity a large quantity of hard work fell to his lot in connection with the coronation of King Edward.

He was born in London on February 11, 1846, and has been twice married, his first bride being Lady Caroline Elizabeth Agar, eldest daughter of the third Earl of Normanton, who died in 1894. In 1908 Lord Clarendon married the widow of the Hon. Edward Bourke.

His lordship is a keen follower of the hounds, shoots, and takes a great interest in his estate. Also, he is an excellent billiard player, and holds his own against the majority of his friends who visit the Grove, near Watford.

Lord Clarendon is also a capital raconteur, and one story retailed runs like this: "Don't open the window, my dear," cried the colonel, as his better half made as though she would ventilate the stifling, hot apartment.

"I don't find the room as warm as this," said the lady. "Why, I remember when I was up in Burma, I got into a place where the sun actually raised great blisters on the blocks of ice which we had to sit on to prevent us getting brain fever—and in the shade, too! The water in the rivers was steaming, absolutely boiling, and the cattle in the fields used to walk about browned all over just like roast beef; even the hens used to lay boiled eggs, and when it rained hundreds of cases of scalding were treated at the local hospital. I remember how—His wife sighed. "You'll go there again some day, Henry, if you tell yarns like that," she said.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh, Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

On Tuesday Victor Hendrick, of Adelaide Township, appeared in the Town Hall, Ailes Craig, charged by Fred Brent with having cut a wire fence in that Township on the 4th inst. The evidence developed that there was ill-feeling between the parties owing to the violation of the Cattle By-law by Hendrick, whose cattle were impounded by the Brents on the 4th inst. and the evidence was so conflicting that the Police Magistrate adjourned the hearing until the 18th inst. for further evidence.

MILD IN THEIR ACTION.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are very mild in their action. They do not cause griping in the stomach or cause disturbances there as so many pills do. Therefore, the most delicate can take them without fear of unpleasant results. They can, too, be administered to children without imposing the penalties which follow the use of pills not so carefully prepared.

What might have been a serious fire occurred in Petrolia about noon Monday at the bank of Toronto. One of the clerks, having occasion to go down cellar, took with him a lighted candle. He placed it near some paper so he could better see what he was doing and in going away left the lighted candle where it was. The candle burnt down and lighted some papers, the flames spreading to others until Manager Cooper, smelling smoke, investigated. An alarm was immediately sent in and the cellar was flooded with water. Nothing of value was destroyed.

Do NOT DELAY.—Do not let a cold or cough fasten upon you as it will if neglected. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will break up a cold and cure a cough, and should be resorted to at once when the first symptoms appear. It can be disguised so that any unpleasant taste it may have will be imperceptible to the delicate. Try it and be convinced.

A Water Volcano.

One of the greatest natural curiosities in Central America is the Volcan de Agua, or water volcano, which is situated in Guatemala, about twenty-five miles southwest of the capital. Its apex is 4,450 feet above the level of the sea, and cultivated fields and forest trees extend almost to its summit. It occasionally vents forth torrents of pure cold water. On one occasion an "eruption" of this kind inundated the northern valley and destroyed a whole village situated on the side of the peak.

An Emperor's Compliment.

That Napoleon III had his full share of the Bonaparte wit, tinged by a gracious memory recently recalled by the Paris Gaulois.

At a ball at the Tuileries a middle-aged officer and his fair partner came to grief. As the mortified veteran scrambled to his feet the emperor extended a hand to him, and turning to the lady, remarked: "Madame, this is the second time I have seen the colonel fall. The first time was on the battlefield of Magenta."

Masked Balls.

Henry VIII. introduced the bal masque into England. As this form of amusement gradually spread the people began to hire halls and charge admission fees, and the routs of the court were imitated by the orgies of the mob.

Chillsome.

"I once proposed to a girl in a conservatory.

MAIL POUCHES.

They Cost From a Few Cents to Thousands of Dollars Each.
Uncle Sam has twenty-eight different kinds of mail bags in service, and they range in cost from 22 cents to $2,156 each. There are mail pouches for almost every conceivable use, and you can ship almost anything that comes within the postal regulations with a minimum of loss and breakage, says Harper's Weekly. Probably the most peculiar mail bag is the one arranged for carrying bees. Sending bees by mail was a difficult operation before the "bee bag" was adopted. Usually the bees arrived at their destination dead or so exhausted that they were of little use. Now these little honey makers can be shipped by mail several thousand miles in the "bee bag" without suffering and can obtain air and a good supply of food during their transit.
Mail bags are made of various materials. The cheapest are of cotton and the most costly of leather. Those used on fast expresses are re-enforced with metal so that they can be flung from fast moving trains without damage. Even then these bags, or "catcher pouches," do not last much more than a year and a half, while some of the cotton bags used for the work will remain in service upward of ten years.
In parts of the west, where the mail must be carried for many miles on horseback, special pouches are in use for slinging over the animal's flanks. In the far frozen north special bags are made for sled transportation, and in the cities a bag in use for pneumatic tube service is made of a composition called "leatheroid." The ordinary cotton mail bags are woven so closely that they are practically waterproof, and in the weave there are thirteen stripes of blue. Each country marks its own mail pouches in some individual way, so that if one gets lost in a far country its ownership can be readily detected.
Nearly 65,000,000 mail bags are used each year by the whole country, and as they are being worn out all the time the supply has to be kept up. There are mail bag hospitals, where tens of thousands of them go every week. One such mail bag hospital repairs upward of 5,000 a day. These crippled bags are in all sorts of dilapidated conditions. A railroad wreck may injure several hundreds or thousands, and these must all go to the hospital before entering active life again. Christmas is responsible for much damage to the mail bags, owing to the hard service they get, and immediately after the midwinter holiday season several hundred thousand bags go to the hospitals.
Mail bags are the most traveled of all articles in use today. They are constantly moving, and it would be impossible to estimate the number of miles a bag ten years old has traveled.

Up to Henry.
"You talked in your sleep last night, Henry."
"Did I, my dear? Wh-what did I say?"
"Henry, you are leading a double life!"
"No, dear; don't—don't say that. I think I must have been having a bad dream if I said anything that seemed to indicate—"
"A bad dream! I should think you were having a bad dream. You kept yelling 'Robber! Rotten! Kill him! Run it out, you lobster!' and a lot of other things that were just as absurd. I want you to confess now—fully and freely—and I promise you that if it is anything a good woman should forgive I will forgive you."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Made Napoleon Wait.
On the day when the courier brought news of the signature of the peace of Amiens, Talleyrand thrust the impatiently awaited document in his pocket, went to the emperor and engaged him in current affairs. When these were all disposed of he said: "Now I have good news for you. Read!"
"And you could not tell me this immediately?" exclaimed the astonished Napoleon.
"Certainly not, for then you would listen to nothing else."
Dashed His Hopes.
At a reception at the Tuilleries the Emperor Napoleon III. asked Edmund About if he knew Spanish. About, who had been long sighing for an important diplomatic post, answered prudently, "Not yet, sire." But the very next day he went hard to work to learn it, and a few months later he said to the emperor, "Sire, I can speak Spanish now." Though the sovereign seemed rather surprised, About continued, nothing daunted, "I have learned Spanish because your majesty asked me if I could speak that language." "Ah, yes," answered Napoleon. "I remember now. I had just been reading 'Don Quixote' in the original and had taken great pleasure in it."

PNEUMONIA.

Its Best Friend is a Bad Cold That Has Been Neglected.

Pneumonia is not dreaded merely for its power to seize and kill quickly, but also for its apparent power to select the most unlikely victims. Most persons have lived through the shock of hearing that some friend had suddenly died of pneumonia—a friend from whom they had parted but a few days or even hours before, leaving him at what seemed the highest notch of physical well being and perhaps protesting that he did not know what illness meant.
This disease is most dangerous to the apparently strong, robust people of heavy weight and hearty appetite, although it may attack any one, for its germs are omnipresent.
The strong and full-blooded individual who is at the same time somewhat overweight is especially in danger of pneumonia and should take particular care to avoid it. If his diet is too heavy—and that may safely be assumed—it should be ruthlessly cut down, especially as to meat and the elimination of alcohol.
The weighing scale is a good friend to such a person and should be consulted regularly. The scale does not argue about that extra pound or two—it proves it—and after a weight in accordance with age and height has been determined it can be maintained in most cases by the exercise of a little self control.
There are hosts of people who indolently permit themselves to get heavy and even fat in the winter months. They are the people who should be constantly reminded, "The pneumonia germ 'll git yer if yer don't watch out!"
The condition of the man must be recognized as more important than the presence of the germ, as proved by the fact that there is less mortality among the thin and apparently delicate than among the stout and full-blooded.
Some of the phrases used by the laity on this subject have, after all, more sense than nonsense in them. It is said that some one is "threatened with pneumonia," or that a "bad cold ran into pneumonia," and in a sense it is true, for every one is "threatened" with pneumonia; that is to say, the germ is always present and ready and willing to begin its work if one only gives it a chance.
The most successful way to give it a chance is to neglect a bad cold and thus break down the natural defences of the system. If every bad cold were met with starvation, physic and fresh air it would depart in disgust, and the lurking pneumonia with it, for the large burglar cannot get in through a hole which has refused to admit the smaller one.

Frenzied "Fun."
A strange youth rambled on the ferryboat. First he whacked a friend on the back with a folded newspaper. Next he took off a man's hat and laid it on the deck. Then he pulled a cigar out of another pal's pocket, bit off the end and handed it back to him. Following this, he stepped on still another friend's newly-shined shoes, pulled the end of his necktie out of his vest and finally dropped a cigarette down his back.
"Escaped lunatic!" queried a curious bystander.
"Oh, no," replied a commuter who hailed from the strange youth's town. "He is merely the village cut-up."

Corrected Quickly by the Use of Catarrhazone
Catarrh is an inflammation. Where there is inflammation there is always more or less offensive secretion. Inflammation may be of the very active sort, but it is often of the slow kind, and this is the particular form in which the breath is rendered offensive and the presence of the sufferer becomes an offence to every person of delicate sensibility.
Bad breath is in itself sufficient to urge you to correct it, because one dislikes to be unpleasant to their friends, but this form of catarrh is dangerous because it supplies a hotbed for the development of Consumption or of other diseases of the throat and lungs.
Bad breath is an evidence that the microbes have found a good resting place and are carrying on their evil work into the health of the body.
Catarrhazone acts at once and destroys these minute organisms, but it does more—it heals the inflamed surfaces in which they found a nesting place and consequently removes both cause and effects of their action.
If we only highly estimated the value of prevention and used Catarrhazone at the beginning of a cold or just before it becomes well seated, the deadly ravages of Consumption would be stayed and the terrible agonies of sufferers of Asthma or Bronchitis completely abolished.
There is no remedy as effective for bad breath, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., as Catarrhazone. Besides being healing and soothing it is germ destroying. Nothing ever offered to the public can compare with it in its promptness, efficiency, and permanency of action, and you can buy it from any dealer in medicine throughout the Dominion of Canada, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 sizes. By mail from The Catarrhazone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

LAMBTON FARMS WANTED
A second list of farms for sale in Lambton County will be published by the Lambton Publicity Association on August 18th. Farms that appeared on the first list will re-appear in the second if request be sent the secretary before that date and price of farm stated. These lists will have wide circulation at Canadian National Exposition, Toronto, and other places of concourse.

Those who have farms for sale will confer a favor by sending a full description, the price and post office address of owner to the undersigned, in order that the parties inquiring may be brought into personal touch with those who have land to sell.

There will be no charge or commission of any kind, and the parties furnishing descriptions are not bound in any way. Give details as to situation, acreage, roads, improvements, soil, distance from churches, schools, towns, railways, telephone service, etc., etc., that would be of interest to prospective purchasers at a distance. When sale of farm takes place, please notify the secretary so it may be struck off the list. Parties offering large farms, suitable for fruit growing, would do well to offer them in lots of 15 to 50 acres. The Publicity Association exists for the purpose of advertising Lambton County, and for no other purpose. It consists largely of the members of the county council, and the expense of the advertising is paid by the county.

The information is wanted for the purpose of placing a list of farms in the hands of those who wish to buy, and who have written in answer to general advertisements and descriptions of Lambton which have been published in various newspapers in Canada, the United States and Britain.

The description may be sent by mail to R. Shirrett, Petrolia, secretary of the association, not later than Aug. 18th. jy28-2t

Bryson—Roane.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Roane, twelfth line of Brooke, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, July 19th, when their only daughter, Flora, was united in marriage to Mr. John Bryson, of Plympton, the Rev. R. C. Burton officiating. Promptly at five o'clock the groom took his place under a floral arch, while the wedding march was played by Miss Eva Watson. The bride, who entered the parlor leaning on the arm of her father, looked winsome in a gown of allover lace over ivory silk, carrying a bouquet of cream bridal roses. Both bride and groom were unattended. After congratulations the guests, numbering over fifty, repaired to the dining room, where a wedding dinner was served. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, showing the high esteem in which she is held. Guests were present from Hamilton, Teeswater, Saskatoon, Bridgen and Watford. Mr. and Mrs. Bryson will reside in Plympton.

Most Canadians Have Catarrh

Our Changeable Climate is Responsible.

Where the atmosphere is damp, with sudden changes in temperature, almost everybody has Catarrh, in some form or other. The ordinary cold in the head inflames and weakens the membranes lining the nose and throat, and starts a discharge. The next cold is more easily caught, and soon the patient is never quite free of it.

As Catarrh develops the discharge increases—drops into the throat, especially at night—and takes on an offensive odor. Besides being exceedingly disagreeable, there is great danger of the disease extending to the lungs, stomach, or bowels.

Though it is very difficult to cure, Father Morrissey devised a combined internal and external treatment that has cured thousands. The Tablets tone up and invigorate the system, and assist Nature in throwing off the disease, while the saline, applied up the nostrils, clears out the discharge and heals the membranes. Combined treatment, 50c at your dealer's, or from Father Morrissey Medicine Co., Ltd., Montreal, Que.

The flies that are now in your kitchen and dining room were probably feasting on some indescribable nastiness less than an hour ago, and as a single fly often carries many thousands of disease germs attached to its hairy body, it is the duty of every housekeeper to assist in exterminating this worst enemy of the human race.

Where the Fire Was.

Sleeping during the sermon is a poor compliment to the preacher, but it is not often that the man in the pulpit turns the occasion to such effective use as did John Wesley. The apostle of Methodism was preaching, while many of his hearers slept. Suddenly he startled them by a loud cry of "Fire! Fire!" There was a momentary panic among the congregation, and a man cried out, "Where, sir? Where?" "In hell," the preacher replied, "for those who sleep under the preaching of the word."—London Chronicle.

The Eye's Blind Spot.

The blind spot in the eye is where the optic nerve comes through the retina about one-tenth of an inch nearer the nose than the centre. To test it close your fists with your thumbs outside and held against each other. Extend your arms. Shut your left eye and look fixedly with your right eye at your left thumb. Separate your hands, and when they are about six inches apart the right thumb will go out of business temporarily, for its picture will fall upon the blind spot.

Changed His Opinion.

"I notice that you have given up the fight for a cleaner city. You used to be one of the leaders in the opposition to the smoke nuisance."

"Yes. I've come to the conclusion that smoke cannot be abolished. It's useless to keep harping on the question."

"By the way, what business are you in now?"

"Oh, I've quit working for a salary. An uncle of mine left me a valuable interest in one of our biggest machine shops."

The Ancients and Electricity.

Although little was known of electricity until comparatively modern times, it has been understood since 600 or 700 B.C. that certain substances when rubbed show attraction and repulsion for various light materials. Among these is amber. So, in the latter part of the sixteenth century, when electricity was more definitely known, its name was taken from the Greek word for amber.

Horse Distemper

Prince Edward Farmer Solomly Declares "Nerviline" Is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline. Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P. E. I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering till I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs, and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as Nerviline—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 50c, trial size 25c, at all dealers, or The Catarthozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

CELLAR POTATOES.

Grown on a Table in the Dark in a Few Inches of Soil.
If you have at your disposal a small and quite dark cellar and an old kitchen table, how would you like to grow potatoes, excellent ones that are declared to be superior in flavor to the ordinary farm grown variety? This can be done very easily by following a method which is attracting considerable attention in France.

First of all you need the dark cellar. The absence of light is essential, for the filtration of even a few rays of light would cause the potatoes to waste their energies in putting forth sprouts in all directions instead of the buds of little potatoes. Next you need a table, over which you place a layer two or three inches thick of fine, dry and carefully sifted earth. Then you select some good two-year-old potatoes—that is to say, those of last year's gathering. Any potatoes in a good state of preservation will do, but it is best to select large tubers without defects, for the slightest trace of fungus spreads rapidly and may spoil the whole crop. Now take a slightly moistened sponge and pass it over each potato to work off the cryptogamic germs that are so injurious to vegetable tissues. If some of the potatoes have already begun to sprout the sprouts must be removed carefully without wounding the tuber.

After you have done all this take the potatoes one by one and half bury them in the soil, planting them in rows spaced about four inches apart. There is no back breaking toil with the hoe in the broiling sun and no fighting against potato bugs. The tubers should be inspected by candle-light occasionally to see that everything is progressing satisfactorily. In two or three weeks after planting it will be found that each potato is covered with tiny white points which several days later change into little potatoes that grow rapidly.

When the little potatoes are reasonably large they may be carefully removed, leaving in place the old potatoes, which continue to bear. Several weeks later another crop may be gathered and even a third. The budding continues until the parent tuber is completely exhausted and nothing remains of it but the skin.

In case sprouts push forth on the potatoes they must be cut off with scissors. Potatoes grown in this way have one very excellent quality. They have so thin a skin that it may be simply washed off. No scraping or paring is necessary. They also have an excellent flavor and are firmer than ordinary farm grown varieties, with less tendency to soften.

Windows.

Utility is the mother of nearly all decorative features. Windows were first designed to give light. The history of glass shows that the useful has taken decorative prominence. In old colonial houses glass in small panes was used probably because it was cheap. The sash was divided by small pieces of wood, called muntions. After many years glass came to be used in large sizes, and of recent years it has been the practice to have but a single sheet, often in a very large size, of plate glass. These are permissible only where the view warrants their use. The average house or cottage is better without them, as they suggest the show window of a shop rather than a home.—Argonaut.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend, who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon glowed within me. It Was a Sleeve Button, but It Convicted a Murderer

By ANDREW C. EWING

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

A man was dining in an Italian restaurant in New York when two other men entered.

"Hello, Fabroni!" exclaimed one of the two who entered.

"Hello yourself, Zanella. Sit down at this table."

"I have a friend with me."

"There is room for your friend, too, and I shall be happy to know him."

"Giuseppe, Attanasio, this is my friend Andrea Fabroni."

The two men who were thus introduced stretched forth a hand each to the other. In doing so Attanasio's coat sleeve was raised, exposing his cuff. Fabroni's eyes lighted on the linked button, but only for the fraction of a second—indeed, not long enough for Attanasio to notice that Fabroni repressed a start.

"What are you doing now, Fabroni?" asked Zanella after the party had been seated.

"I have taken an agency for an olive oil house in Naples," said the man addressed. "I shall open an office soon with a warehouse in rear."

"You like New York?"

"Very much. The bay here is not the bay of Naples, but the city is better adapted to money making than Naples. Are you a resident here, Senator Attanasio?"

"Temporarily. I am looking for a business opening."

"You will need some capital. There is room in the importing of foreign fruits."

"Thank information. I

FOR SKIN DISEASES

A Treatment that Costs Nothing Unless It Provides Satisfactory Relief.

We have a grayish-white ointment with a pleasant odor that is clean to use, which we believe is the best known remedy for the relief of skin diseases. It is especially efficacious for overcoming eczema in all its various forms, ringworm, acne, pimples, blotches, insect bites, tetter, certain forms of ulcers, sores and wounds. It is strongly antiseptic, cleansing, soothing and healing. It stops all itching and burning caused by skin eruptions.

We are so positive this ointment is unequalled that we offer it with the distinct understanding that if after having given it a reasonable trial, you are not satisfied with the results, you have only got to tell us and we will, without quibbling, return every cent paid for it. We exact no promises or obligations whatever.

We want you to try Rexall Eczema Ointment. The first application gives a refreshing sense of relief, and because of its germ destroying power, it eradicates the germ or parasite which causes eczema and many other eruptions. It quickly allays the inflammation, gives protection to the inflamed surfaces, and helps restore healthy tissue. It is particularly active in relieving skin ailments peculiar to children. You certainly cannot lose anything by trying it. We would not dare make this offer except we are positive Rexall Eczema Ointment will satisfactorily benefit you. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can only obtain it at our store—The Rexall Store.

"Have you been here long?" asked Fabroni of Attanasio.

"A couple of weeks."

"What news did you bring from our Carissima Italia? When I left every one was talking about the Archeopoli murder."

When Fabroni said this his eyes were fixed upon those of Attanasio. It seemed to Zanella, who had been looking over the menu and at the moment raised his eyes, that this merely happened so, but he was surprised to notice a slight change come over the countenance of the man addressed.

"There was nothing of importance taking place when I sailed," said Attanasio.

"Had the police got any clew as to who murdered Archeopoli?"

"I don't know."

"Do you think that fellow Di Guida had anything to do with it?"

"It was the general opinion when I left that he was the murderer."

"Is there any evidence to prove it?"

"I really don't know. These criminal matters don't interest me. They are greivous affairs."

Attanasio spoke impatiently.

"The only reason I don't like New York," said Fabroni, "is the bad name these Black Hand people give us Italians. I'm almost ashamed to look an American in the face and own I am an Italian. New York is full of our countrymen who should be behind bars. As soon as one of our criminals at home does something to cause the sleepy police to wake up and go for him he skips over here."

"The carabinieri are not lazy," remarked Zanella.

"Yes, but they pride themselves so far on being a national police that they have no stomach for such cases as they think belong to the municipal force. They could if they would, but they won't. It is my opinion that if the government had put the carabinieri on the Archeopoli murder case as soon as it occurred they would have secured the murderer. As it is, he has got away safely enough. Likely he has come over here."

When Fabroni spoke this last sentence he again fixed his eyes on those of Attanasio. But the latter as soon as the conversation had been turned back to criminal matters sat drumming with his fingers on the table as though, not relishing such talk, he preferred to drop out of it.

"These criminals"—Fabroni was beginning again when Zanella interrupted him.

"Oh, sink criminals!" he said. "Let's and something better to converse upon. Do you think our people at home will be able to dish out our army and save the cost of supporting 800,000 idle men?"

"We may," said Fabroni, "if we wish to see some of our old enemies come down on us and occupy our territory again. That's what has ruined us. Bad government is what has made so many criminals."

"Criminals again!" exclaimed Attanasio. "Your friend, my dear Zanella, has criminal on the brain."

"Really, gentlemen," Fabroni went on, "you must permit me to finish. We have had more bad government in Naples than any other part of Europe, and that is what has made so many of our people cutthroats. I wish to tell you one bit of criminality, and then I will let up. It is a matter that was told me by a friend of mine in the municipal police of Naples. It is about a murder perpetrated not long ago. A member of the celebrated Camorra had got rich by his robberies and wished to live a life of ease without danger.

To get rid of those of the Camorra who knew about his transactions he informed upon them. No sooner had he done so than he was condemned to die."

The speaker paused and sipped his wine. Zanella glanced at his friend Attanasio and saw that Fabroni's story was having a powerful effect on him. He fingered his glass nervously, and his restless eye was never fixed but for a few moments on any object.

"A man whom we will call Amadeo," continued Fabroni, "was deputed to do the deed. He and the person to be dispatched had been and were supposed to be bosom friends. He knew the doomed man's residence, the room he slept in and how to get in and out without being seen. One night he climbed a lattice, got on a roof, entered his friend's room, and—well, the next morning his friend was found dead in his bed and quantities of jewelry he had gained by stealth were missing. The stealing of the jewelry was to give the impression that the man had been murdered for that especially."

The speaker again paused and took a sip of wine. Attanasio had become more and more agitated till he was now trembling.

"Go ahead," said Zanella, "if you will give us your horrid stories, and get through with it!"

"Be patient. I am nearly finished. The murder was reported to the police, who at once took possession of the premises. On the floor they found an article of jewelry that had been doubtless dropped by the murderer in his hurry. It would form a good clew if its mate—for it was one of two—could be found on any one. The case was put into the hands of Marshal Rizzuto of the carabinieri, who at once began investigations. He learned that the murdered man's intimate friend, Amadeo, was missing. The problem was to find Amadeo.

"But to do this he must first gain the confidence of the man's friends. Rizzuto disguised himself as a peddler of trinkets such as are sold on the streets of Naples for a few centesimi each to tourists, mostly Americans, and, making his living in this way, he was not suspected when he told certain criminals that he would like to go into crime as a means of subsistence. He was not long in finding persons who were anxious to help him for a share of the plunder. But his ultimate object was to effect an entrance into the noble society of the Camorra as the only way to hear of Amadeo. He failed in this, but learned the whereabouts of his man in another way. One of Amadeo's former acquaintances, an Italian American, wrote anonymously to the commander of the carabinieri that he had seen Amadeo, whom he knew to be wanted for the Archeopoli murder, in New York."

The story was drawing to a close, and Attanasio looked as if it had been wound about him as an anaconda will wind itself about its prey. He looked for a loophole for escape, but none appeared. Besides, the story teller was holding him with his eyes.

"Rizzuto," continued Fabroni, "at once took a steamer for America. Arriving in New York, he sought some information of Amadeo. Unfortunately he had never seen the murderer, and there were no pictures of him. Rizzuto, too, visited many Italian resorts, but made no headway. One day he went into an Italian restaurant to dine. An acquaintance came in with a friend, whom he introduced to Rizzuto. In stretching forth his arm this man displayed a linked cuff button."

The speaker paused again to fix his eyes on Attanasio. They seemed to paralyze the man. Then Fabroni added:

"Pull up your coat sleeve, please."

Attanasio reluctantly and with a trembling hand did as he was told. Fabroni put his thumb and finger in his vest pocket and pulled out a link cuff button. It matched the one displayed.

"Raise the other sleeve, please."

Attanasio, with the same reluctance, obeyed the order. The two buttons were not mates.

"Chance," exclaimed Fabroni, "or, rather, Amadeo's foolhardiness or vanity, gave Rizzuto not only a clew but absolute proof as to the identity of his man."

The story teller turned to Zanella. "Pardon me," he said, "for inflicting upon you this uninteresting story. I have really been operating the third degree upon your friend, Senator Attanasio. I came here to find him, and, as I have said, blind luck and his own folly have delivered him into my hands. You may introduce me a right as Marshal Rizzuto of the National Italian carabinieri."

Attanasio quick as a flash put his hand under his coat and drew a knife, which he raised ready to strike his tormentor, but the eye of the carabinieri never for a moment left that of the man he wanted and saw the design before it had even begun to be executed. A cocked revolver was thrust under the criminal's nose before he could bring the stiletto down. Then Zanella took the weapon, and this flash in the pan was all that interfered with the arrest. Some disturbance was caused in the restaurant by the scene, and the landlord coming over to the table where it occurred, Rizzuto said to him calmly:

"The police, please."

While the telephone bell was ringing the criminal, recovering something of his nerve, said to the carabinieri:

"I can put you on to a far more important person or persons than myself. Leave me out and take them in."

"Who are they?"

"Petrosino's murderers."

"If you know anything about those men you will have to tell it to the officers of the law. I have no authority to deal with you in that matter."

WHEN SUMMER COMES GUARD YOUR BABY.

The summer months are the most dangerous of the year for the little one. The complaints of this season come so quickly that often a precious little life is beyond aid before the mother realizes baby is ill. Colic, diarrhoea and cholera infantum are all rife at this time. The mother must guard her baby's health every minute. She must be careful of his food and careful that his stomach is kept sweet and his bowels move regularly and freely. To do this nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets—they are mothers best friend at all times of the year, but more especially in the summer, when, if given occasionally, they act as a preventive of those dreaded summer troubles, or if they do come on suddenly the Tablets will just as quickly remove the cause and baby will soon be well again. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
