It is understood that the Ontario Government will bring in a bill this session to widen the gauge of sleighs and wagon widths and thus make possible the use of the motor in winter as well as in summer in the country districts. This looks like a good piece of legislation, for especially in a winter like the present one motor cars can be used almost all winter.

something more than official recog-nition, and a great deal more than perfunctory courtesy or cut-and-dried hospitality. The only objection that can be brought against John William Davis as an appointee to so high a post is one that, if sustained, would unfit the great majority of Americans for all preferment, namely, lack of experi-ence in the duties which he is called upon to perform. This, however, is on a par with the objection of youth brought against cone who had been chosen for a place of importance. "That," said his sponsor, "Is some-thing he will outgrow." Mr. Davis, from all accounts, has little save in-experience in diplomacy to overcome in his new post, and, unless that post has been greatly changed, it is quite certain that he will outgrow this de-fect before he is in London very long.

Dislikes Too Many Words.

It has been said in humorous comment on M. Stephen Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs in Paris, that he dislikes the French language, because of his insistence with his subordi-nates that they make their reports short and to the point, cut out re-dundant expressions, abbreviate sendundant expressions, abbreviate sen-tences, and otherwise use as little French, or, for that matter, any oth-er language as possible. But there-in just now M. Pichon is a valuable man at the Peace Conference, and it may well happen that his express-ed conviction that "the scourge of diplomacy is words" will help mater-iolly in what is emergined period. diplomacy is words" will help mater-ially in what is sometimes pointedly called "getting down to tacks." M. Pichon, apparently, is one of com-paratively few men who fully realize how much can be said or written on any given subject without saying any-thing really important; and how plausible and convincing it can all sound until a practical person thinks it well over. His miscellaneaus and exact first-hand knowledge has more than once surprised his associates. "How," said M. SERMONEITE ON LENI

By Rev. F. G. Newton, of Sarnia, Formerly Rector of Warwick

The season of Lent is a season of the Christian church which had its begin ming in a fast of 48 hours in commemoration of the time that elapsed from the moon of Priday when our Saviour died, to His resurrection. This fast was grad-traity increased until in the fifth century it was kept for six weeks. In the eighth century the number of days was raised to 40 in commemoration of our Lord's fast in the wilderness

The season was formerly devoted to The preparation of catechumens for bap-tism and ecommunicated persons who were pentionits, for restoration and participation in the Communion at Easter.

Its original purpose has almost passed from sight, the "fast" feature of it seem ing to produce in the vast majority of moderns little beyond deprivations and useless hunger, such as was practically expressed by a boy who has made good in the Great War, as colouel of a regim-ent of flne, when asked what he would give up for Lent, said, "Porridge," and added in an undertone, "for I don't like it anyhow."

Lent has now become a season which the church has devoted to the submitting of the life to self-examination in an endeavor to turn the soul from sun to the Saviour In its present practicalness it has outstripped the produce and is ac-complishing the purpose of the original design. It has risen from a practice of rigorous penances and fasts to a devout observance of a specified time for self-examination and the practice of the pres-examination and the practice of the pres-ence of God. It has passed from an observance of misleading legalism to the devout spending of a time in prayer, meditation and fresh dedication to the will and purpose

It is readily admitted that in its mem-bership the Christian church has come far short of attainment to its ideal in the translation of its creed into practical deed and is proving the promise of God true by the power of life derived there-from. We all know less of the power of Gcd in our lives than we should, and we all do less to manifest it than we know how. It is to get to know what God has for us and would have us do, and to get into touch with the power to do it, to catch on to the power-house with the levels in some weeks, selling up to $19.2 trolley of prayer, that Lenten exercise are used. The Lenten season does not appeal to the worlding any more than life's tasks appeal to the silent occupant of the graveyard. It is an irksome and un-pleasant time to the Godless. Men are dying in sin because Christians are not this week. dying to sin. Christ is being robbed of his Saviourhood, and disappointed of the fruit of His atoning work because His witnesses are in the world and of the witnesses are in the world and of the world. A ship in the sea is in its right element, but when the sea gets into it, down she goes. So a Christian is in the world as the ship, conveying the mer-chandise of God, but if the world gets in and overloads the ship, down it goes and the purpose of God is thwarted. The Christian life is out more acilian course Christian life is not mere sailing over a summer sea ; it is a battle with stor. ns and rocks, and shoals. It is a struggle to maintain the actual and real and to attain the ideal, and to do this, touch with God is necessary, is indispensable, and it is to get to know how to maintain this touch that is the purpose of Lent.

5. Pray and watch, watch and pray, and let the quiet of Lent be a working up to a glorious Easter climax and the joy of a new and risen life in Christ.

DECOLLETE COAT AND DRESS

Vogue Among Fashionable Dressers is to Swathe Neck, Leaving Bare a Triangle of Throat,

A smart trick much in vogue among fashionable women is to swathe the neck, leaving bare a triangle of throat below the fur, writes a Paris correspondent.

This fashion will be much adopted. We shall see women, their necks and ears well muffied in furs, fortified thus against the elements, with throat left bare by the decollete of coat and dress. I have already seen several examples of this fashion, hiding the mouth and chin, but leaving uncov-ered a square of bare throat like a little window, appearing whiter by contrast with the darkness of the furs. A no less piquant contrast will be the pallor of bare arms almost innocent of sleeves, while neck and ears are warmly enshrouded in a fur collar Fashion's decree, then, is to hide the lower part or, rather, some part of the face, since some collars reach right up to the eyes. Those who do not fear influenza will willingly bear some minor discomforts to be a la mode. For the others there will be the smartness of fur collars completely hiding ears and neck, with a straight plastron, which will have the fascination of novelty.

Volles Will Be Favorites.

Among the dress cottons for spring, voiles will be the favorites. The airplane has been the model for several of the smartest hats. All girdles are Torpedo turbans are still narrow. with us. Terra cotta is a fashionable color. Conservative styles are liked in coats.

How may we spend a purposeful and practical Lent? 1. Be determined to give God His due, a sincere and reverent hearing. Prayer has its two leading parts; it is a speaking to God, worshipping and supplicating, asking blessings from His store. But it is also God speaking to us, if we will let Him. We are all too ready to say, "Hear, Lord, for Thy servant speaketh." Too few say, with Samuel to say, "Hear, Lord, for Thy servant speaketh." Too few say, with Samuel "Speak, Lord, for Thy servant heareth." A working man who was watched, went into a church daily at noon to pray. A friend who noticed that he said nothing aloud, said to him; What do you do? and he answered, "I look at Him and He looks at me." Surely if we could get quietly apart to do this, our Lord would bring to us the experience St. Paul spoke of: "reflecting as in a mirror, the glory of God, we are changed into the same image from glory changed into the same image from glory

changed into the same number of the glory." 2. Use every means of help held out to you for awakening and deepening your spiritual life. The ordinary church service, special services, revival meetings or an / means of grace which is at your disputal dispu

Many of these regi-ments were very old, and about them hung the traditions of a glorious past.

In uniting himself to such a body as the Royal Scots, the Welsh Fusl-liers or the Black Watch, as the case might be, a man unconsciously lost the sharpness of his own individuality in the eager desire to conform to the traditional characteristics of a great company. He was, in a way, no longer John Doe or Richard Roe, Clement White $3 80 grant to CornShow, Treasurer of Plympton $152.82 Bosanquet proportion for the completion of the Anderson drain and $14.94 Bosanquet Elliott drain. no longer John Doe or Richard Roe, but a Royal Scot or a Welsh Fusilier, guardian of the usages of an age-old organization, exemplar of its soldier-ly conduct. Proud of his regiment, he was taught to prove his pride in his manner apd dress. It was with the view of empha-sizing every detail of this pride that British military authorities decided to replace the bronze buttons of uni-forms with buttons of brass, which were appointed a committee to enquire into the grievance of Mrs. Georgii re road across her lot at Port Franks. Council adjourned to meet on Monday the 7th day of April, at 10 a.m. forms with buttons of brass, which the soldiers are required to polish daily. Even in the trenches officers and men must shave daily, and when and men must shave daily, and when after a week of hard fighting and sometimes short rations, the remnant of a battalion is relieved, it is requir-ed to march at attention, with parade ground precision, as it leaves the trenches for its holiday rest in the rear. It is this rigid subjection to every detail that has in part made possible the heroic stand that British troops are making to-day against a more numerous foe. Their lines bend back, but they do not break; they lose bit by bit the ground they fight over, but never their fighting spirit, their cohesiveness, their esprit de corps.—Century. BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Miss Zebiah Seagrave, unwarried, unbcautiful and of uncertain age, pulled the cane-bottom rocker closer to the window, and, folding her thin hands in her !ap, heaved a great sigh. "Zebiah," called a weak, complain-ing voice from the other room. And Zebiah lifted her angular form and listlessly walked to the bed where lay a frail, old weman.

"What is it, mother?" she asked gently, though her voice had a weary note in it, "aren't you comfortable?" "It jest seems as if I can't get comfortable," was the querulous response. "If I face the window, the sun bothers me; and if I face the door, I don't see the sun; and if I set up, my bones ache." And the voice dwindled off in a whining wall. Zebiah did not answer. She lowered the shade to cut off the bright glare of the sun, straightened the pillows, and, drawing up a chair to the bed, picked up a book preparatory to reading.

"I don't want to be read to and you ought to know it," the old lady muttered, her brow furrowing in a million wrinkles, "you don't pay no attention to me at all, though I don't know as I ought to be expectin' much more from a stepchild."

Zebiah seemed restrained from arguing by the invalid's weakness. "Now, mother," she softly replied, laying the offending book on the table, "don't work yourself up. You know Doctor Merrifield said you should not get excited-your heart won't stand it."

Mrs. Sengrave waved her shrunken hands dramatically. "There you go mentioning that doctor again to me. Ain't I told you how I hate him with his vile tastin' medicines and pills that stick in my throat?" Her voice rose to a shrill accent. "Anyhow, 'pears to me he likes to come to see me-every other day would be enough to take keer of an old woman, to say nothing of twice a day like he's been hangin aroun'. I suppose it's my money what he's after as soon as I'm cold—running up a big bill like that." And the outburst of temper was followed by a protracted racking cough, rendering the body so weak and helpless it scarcely seemed alive. Zebiah petted the scant, ashy-white heir "I am sure Doctor Merrifield does not want your money, mother," she soothed, "he hasn't taken a penny yet for all the medicines he has given you. We all want to see you get well.'

Her ministrations were interrupted by the entrance of a quiet, earnest looking man, whose bald head and bowlegs seemed strangely at variance. He smiled encouragingly at Ze "How did she sleep last night, Miss Seagrave?" he questioned in a low tone

The memory seemed too poignant a pain to recall. Zeblah's faded countenance assumed a look of sympathetic understanding. "And for how long did it last?

very softly, "father died, and mother lived but a month longer. My brother married and then I started to learn all I did not know. It is not easy to learn at thirty-five-not medicine, at any rate-and it was ten years later before I got the right to hang out that sign you see in front of my office. And at forty-five, a new doctor does not easily build up a practice in a small townindeed there were some nights when I sent myself to bed supperless like a naughty boy being punished for having spoilt—his life," he added bitterly.

Zebiah forgot herself as she saw the need for quick sympathy. "But look how splendidly you have done, doctor, in the five years you have been here. Surely that is encouraging."

"It is if it were not counteracted by hearing people speak of 'that old batch." 'old baidy." and 'bowlegs,' and wondering 'who'll he leave his money to when he dies.""

A faint call from the sick room interrupted their exchange of confidences and both stood over the figure breathing so laboriously. The doctor felt the pulse and looked very compassionately at the lined features.

"Guess I'm done for, Zeblah." came in a far-away voice, "and-and-don't let the Doc get my money. I'd ruther -I'd ruther-" A weak cough stopped her. In a moment she went on. "I'd ruther see you have it. I ain't been so kind to you, Zebiah, these many years. You'll forgive me, child?" With tears coursing down her faded cheeks. Zebiah leaned over and kissed the shrunken lips. "There is nothing to forgive, mother." "I wish I'd been your real mother, girl, I might've done better by you. Don't give the Doc any of my money." Silence ensued.

The doctor noislessly arose and covered the body with the sheet. "She is dead." he said simply.

Zebiah retreated into the other room and the doctor followed. She was dryeyed and felt horribly old. Irritating and complaining as her stepmother had been, she now had no one and the void seemed too immense to fill. Her head sank upon her chest. "Zobiah" the doctor called.

Zebiah was aroused from her apathy by his use of her Christian name. "Zebiah," he repeated, "will you

Every few minutes it seems that the boat will run into the banks, which refuse to stay at the sides, but are always shifting so as to get directly in the way. Just as you decide what to do when the apparently inevitable collision shall occur, a long pole, dexterously guided, shoots out, the boat swings around, and you are safe until next time.

Presently the charm of the tropics seizes you, and you forget to worry about the boat. You hear a sudden "kerchunk," and a sleepy alligator flings himself from his sunny log into the water. The swamps beside the river are rank with lilies, water hyacinths, and yellow jasmine. Gray Spanish moss twines over the trees. The foliage is so dense that you readily imagine yourself in the African jungle instead of only a few miles from civilization.

"I was up all night, doctor, as the cough gave her no rest. She is not much better this morning."

As the doctor turned with professional interest toward the patient who lay so white and still, Zebiah stole quietly from the room. It was the mirror in the gilt frame, sole adornment of the bare walls of this "sitting room" that claimed her attention. The close inspection did not please her and quick tears of self-pity came to her eyes. As she stood off so that the small mirror might reflect her figure, the flat-chested, hipless, colorless reflection brought forth audible suffering. "Yes, I've given her my best years, even if she isn't my mother. I've stood her abuse and I've given up friends." The thoughts seemed too great for atterance and Zebiah sank into the cane-bottom rocker which creaked sympathetically, as she buried her head in her arms, her shoulders shaking with her sobbing. Doctor Merrifield entered the room.

"Come, Miss Seagrave," he comforted, patting her head, "you mustn't take such things so to heart. Your mother has been ill a very long time and you know she has been getting steadily worse."

Zebiah rose and wiped her eyes in a handkerchief already sadly wet. "Oh, It's not that."

"I know you have been very patient and good," the doctor continued, and he added in a hesitating manner "I hope you will be rewardea."

The pentup gates of suppressed emotion gave way. "What has my goodness and patience brought me? Y have become a recluse—even the chil-dren can point out 'old maid Zebiah,' our minister questions me what disposition I will make of her money, and but yesterday I heard Widow Bliss refer to someone 'as homely as Zebiah.' What reward can atone for all that?" "You must not let such unkindness weigh upon your mind, Miss Seagrave, ... We all have our crosses to he continued gently taking her hands. "Your goodness to your stepmother has aroused love I long thought gone. Don't you think you could learn to care for me?"

"But, doctor, doctor," Zebiah's voice seemed another part of her, "I'm only

"old-maid Zebiah, 'homely old Zebiah. "And I'm only 'that old batch,' 'old baldy,' 'bowlegs.' Come, it's not too late, Zebiah, lets start from the beginning."

Zebiah seemed to have lost her angles, her hair seemed to curl about her forehead and long-absent color mounted her cheeks.

"Yes, let's start again," she whispered.

POTATO CROP DISEASES

Most Serious of Them Widely Established in Old Ontario.

Varieties of Grains Which Give Heaviest Yields-O. A. C. No. 21 Best Barley of All - Get Everything In Readiness for Spring Spraying Now.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

FFICIALS of the Ontario Department of Agriculture inspected 313 seed potato. fields in Northern Ontario last year of 278 acres, and 119 fields qualified for certified seed. It is estimated that there were 16,000 bushels of certified seed secured from Northern Ontario. All of this is being shipped to Old Ontario to be planted this year.

The survey which was made last year by inspectors to detect diseases in the potatoes was spread over 32 counties, although the reports from four of that number are not included in the statistics because of irregulari-ties in the work. The territory cover-ed was from Northumberland and Peterborough counties west to Essex. not including Simcoe and Victoria. It was found in this survey that an average of 15 per cent. of the potatoes had the most serious disease of toes had the most serious disease of Leaf Roll, and that 7, per cent. were affected with Mosaic, a total of 22 per cent. affected by disease. An in-teresting fact revealed by the survey is that the diseases are most common along the shores of Lake Ontario, through Dufferin and Wellington counties, and along the shore of Lake Erie through to Essex county. Far-ther north the percentage of disease is much smaller. While the average for the two diseases is 22 per cent., some of the counties showed a much higher rate, as Haldimand 29, Wel-land 61.7, Lincoln 33.5, Wentworth 26.6, Brant 44.8, Halton 32.1, Peel 51.9 and York 25.4. The standard in this province permits of two per cent. Leaf Roll in No. 1 seed and 5 per cent. in No. 2. In severe Mosaic the percentage is the same, although slight Mosaic the figures are doubled.

The cause of these diseases is not known. Whether there is some or-ganism, or whether the climate has something to do with them, is a matter of doubt. Prof. P. A. Murphy, of Charlottetown, who is the Chief Pathologist for potatoes for the Dom-inion, and who is attached to the Central Experimental Farm, is at work on this problem, and it is hoped that before many months the cause will be known. At any rate, it is known that the diseases are more common in potatoes in the Southern States. That is why it is expected Ontario seed potatoes will be in de-mand there in a few years.

oncess the sprayer is equipped with a good agitator, these particles will settle to the bottom, rendering the mixture in the top of the tank weaker than it should be, and that in the bottom stronger, and possibly in some cases too strong for safe appliation. It is needless to say that the care of spraying machinery should never be neglected. Indeed, the spraying butfit should never be put away afbutht should never be put away af-ter using until the mixture-is thor-oughly cleared out from all parts of the pump, rod, piping, hose and noz-eles by running clear water through hem. The water should be drained from the engine, and all parts cleaned and oiled.—Prof. Jno. Evans, D. A. College, Guelph.

NEW LAND POLICY. Various Provinces Are Bound to Do

Their Part. The confidential memorandum relating to land settlement, submitted for consideration to the Inter-Provincial Conference held at Ottawa by the Dominion Government, has been made available for publication. The memorandum does not outline a definitely settled policy on the part of the Dominion Government, but covers proposals the adoption of which, either as a whole or in part, depends in a large measure upon the action of the various Provincial Legislatures. This is clearly indicated by the sub-division of the memorandum into parts such as "general observa-tions," "object of proposed policy," "outline of suggested policy," "notes on some details of settlement plans," In that section of the memorandum devoted to general and introductory observations the necessity for the adoption of progressive measures looking towards a continued rapid in-crease in the population of Canada is noted with the remark that "the policies heretofore pursued in an en-deavor to secure suitable immigration have become obsolete and largely ineffective." After referring to the reservation

After reterring to the reservations of Crown lands for soldier settle-ment, the abandoned farms, the mil-lions of acres of wild land the title for which has passed into the hands of the Government, and the past lack of co-operation between the Federal and Provincial Governments as important factors in the problem, the memorandum says: "Any comprehensive policy adopt-the objects of the proposed land settlement policy as follows:----The development of a nation-

It is sug-gested that there should be created a Federal Land Settlement Board, comprising the Minister of Immi-gration and a representative from each of the provinces. The board should be consultative and advisory, and not administrative. It should meet at least once annually for the purpose of reviewing the working out of any policies that may be adoptout of any policies that may be adont ed for land settlement throughout Canada.

Canada. The final suggestion made by the memorandum is that there should be established in connection with the Department of Immigration and Colonization a Social Welfare Bureau to assist in the care of immigrants.

THE WHEAT PROBLEM.

British Government Will Buy From -Argentina.

Much interest attaches to the pub-Much interest attaches to the pub-lished statement that the British Government has established a credit of $240,000,000 in Argentina with which to purchase wheat at a price of approximately $1 a bushel; also that the wheat supply of Australia, so long unavailable because of a lack of shipping, is now pouring into Great Britain at about the same price as the Argentine wheat It is anas the Argentine wheat. It is an-nounced also that there will be a liberal supply of wheat available from next year's crop in the Ukraine and in Siberia, all of which gives an optimistic tinge to the world food situation.

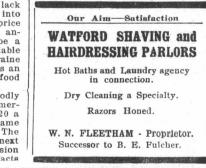

Despite this releasing of a goodly quantity of cheap wheat, the Amer-ican farmers are assured of $2.20 a bushel for their 1919 crop, the same price that they received in 1918. The President has promised that next spring he will appoint a commission experts to investigate the facts relative to the cost of production, and that if these facts show that a higher price than $2.20 should be guaranteed he will adopt it. This action in the United States must have its effect on Canadian wheet its effect on Canadian wheat.

There on longer exist any restric-tions upon the use of all-wheat bread imposed by the food adminis-tration. Within the last few days orders have gone out to the hotel and restaurant keepers informing them that the resultations put inte them that the regulations put into effect early last year were called off and that, among other things, they were free to serve as much bread as the customer wants. If England and France buy Argen-tine and Australian wheat at $1 so bushel and only resort to the $2.20 bushel and only resort to the $2.20 American wheat to make up their deficiency, it seems probable that the food administration will be left with a liberal supply of wheat upon its hands for which it must pay the American farmer $2.20. This will impose something of a burden upon the taxpayers of the United States, but it will assure the agricultural in-terests of a good profit in recognition terests of a good profit in recognition of their efforts to increase the grain production to meet the war emergency.

gency. This apparent plethora of bread-stuffs, however, does not reduce the danger of starvation in the Balkan states and in certain parts of Rus-sia, a condition which has been pre-dicted by Mr. Hoover. Transporta-tion facilities are not available for carrying relief to these sections, and they are doomed to a hard winter. Even France and Belgium are facing a serious food situation because of a serious food situation because of their inability to get enough ships to haul grain for them. But in spite of these unfavorable phases of the situation, the farmer on this continent appears to have a seat at the head of the table.

Leading Varieties of Spring The old Six-rowed barley gave way to the Mandscheuri, and that in turn has given place to the O.Á.C. No. 21, which is now grown throughout On-tario to the exclusion of practically all other varieties. The Egyptian and the Black Tartian varieties of cats all other varieties. The Expritan and the Black Tartarian varieties of oats which were popular at one time have been largely displaced by the Banner and more recently by the O.A.C. No. 72 and the O.A.C. No. 3 varieties. The O.A.C. No. 72 variety has a com-paratively strong vigorous straw, spreading head, and white grain of good quality, the hull being quite thin. In experiments at the Ontario Agricultural College it has surpassed the Banner in yield per acre in each of nine out of ten years. It has made a phenomenal record in connection with the Ontario Standing Field Crop Competitions, taking more first prizes than all other varieties of oats com-bined. The O.A.C. No. 3 variety is ten days earlier than the Banner or the O.A.C. No. 72, and is an excellent variety for mixing with barley when it is desirable to grow the two in combination. Of the spring wheats the Red Fife, the Marquis and the Wild Goose are the principal varie-ties. At the present time, however, when the demand for wheat for bread production is so urgent the Marquis and the Red Fife, and especially the former, should be grown as exten-sively as possible in Ontario. Spring rye does not yield equal to Winter rye but its cultivation will perhaps be increased somewhat during the present year. The O.A.C. No. 61 variety has given the best results, forpassing all other kinds in yield of grain per acre.—Dr. C. A. Zavitz, O. A. College, Guelph. the Black Tartarian varieties of oats

4. The securing of suitable set-tlers in large numbers for our vacant lands, including abandoned farms. 5. The creation of conditions whereby suitable settlers with small means (including tenants) may in the course of time become the owners of their farms.

The memorandum then outlines the suggested policy of land settle-ments, the main features of which were announced when the inter-pro-vincial conference was in session. In this connection it is suggested that steps should be taken to ascertain the lands available for settlement, and that the provinces as far as possible should have uniform legislation for this purpose. To prevent owners from fixing an unreasonable or inflated selling price for their lands, each province should provide for a special provincial tax on wild lands, aban-doned farms and leased farms. It is also suggested that each province should take powers to expropriate lands required for settlement purposes. The memorandum recommends that the Federal Government should continue to be responsible for the admission of immigrants to Canada. admission of immigrants to Canada. "One of the gravest situations con-fronting Canada," says the memor-andum, "is the necessity for making suitable provision for the flood of British immigration that will move our way as soon as shipping is avail-able. is endeavoring by other means to encourage and develop our domestic manufactures and to utilize every reserve of resource in the Dominion. To do this it will be their aim to turn to the best account the work of Canadians in the factory as well as the field-to induce our people as far as practicable to make at home the things we need at home.

The same spirit of patriotic support shown from to-day in the purchase of things made at home as was shown during the food campaign and in all national efforts for war, would remedy much of this great adverse trade balance without further machinery. An adverse balance means a lessening of our power to reconstruct Canadian trade, and to maintain and promote good wages and favorable living conditions. It is therefore an immediate and important duty for Canadian women wherever and whenever possible to insist on getting Canadian-made goods, and to help in making the national trade-mark, "Made in Canada," one of a high standard of excellence in our domestic as well as in foreign markets.

DO YOUR WANT PINK CHEEKS

They Can be Had by Keeping the Blood Rich, Red and Pure. Every woman-every girl-wants pink cheeks. They mean not only beanty but good health. When a woman's blood is scanty or anaemic, her color fades, she looks debilitated, is short of breath and her heart palpitates after slight exertion. Sometimes this trouble is accompanied by severe headaches, or pains in the back or sides, This condition is entirely back or sides, This condition is entirely due to weak, watery blood, and can only be cured by making the blood rich, red and pure. For this purpose there is noth-ing can equal Dr. Willnams' Pink Pills, which act directly upon the blood, and in this way bring new health and strength to weak, ailing people. Mrs. Anderson, Hearst, Ont., says: -"Before coming to Canada from England, I was a sufferer from anaemia for upwards of a year. I had been gradually getting paler and weaker. I did not realize that I was sick but felt constantly tired and worn out. but felt constantly tired and worn out. I had no ambition for anything, and grew so white that my brothers used to call me "snowball." At this stage my mother decided that she would get Dr. Williams" pink Pills, which are a favorite medicine in England as well as in Canada. On the day I commenced taking them I fainted on getting out of bed and mother nrged me to stay in bed for a few days. TO THE WOMEN OF CANADA

The Canadian Trade Commission is undertaking an extensive inquiry into conditions in the Dominion for the purpose of promoting an expansion of "after-war" trade. It is felt, for reasons which will be easily understood by all women, that a return to pre-war standards in trade, as in all other national aims and aspirations, even if it were possible, huge financial burdens of the war and its consequences will have to be borne for many years to come. The women of Canada, singly and through their organizations, have shown by whole-hearted support given to national effort in food how reat their collective influence may be in other directions. In every national undertaking during the war, the sympathy, understanding and active co-operation of women were proved to be essential. For the present and the immediate future, there is on women especially the obligation to see that purchases for the homes are made in such a way that the effect will be to stabilize Canadian trade. Wherever possible, they should buy only Canadian produce and Canadian products, because this will give employment in additional lines of production to returned soldiers and to those, many thousand in number, who were formerly occupied in war work. In this way, they will not only insure employment for our workers, but they will help also to lessen the financial pressure which is likely to be increasingly felt.

Without entering exhaustive into the field of national economics, women will quickly realize that every dollar sent out of the country for commodities which can be produced at home will affect the financial situation adversely and at once. As the women of Canada purchase about 90% of the commodities used in our domestic life, a realization by them of their power to re-make and vitalize Canadian trade and finance is a first step towards relieving the situation and safeguarding the national future.

For every million dollars retained in Canada by a refusal to buy other than Canadian goods, a year's continuous employment can be given to at least 1,000 people. The Canadian Trade Commission
