Miramichi Advance. The Advance's Ottawa Letter. Ottawa, 16th July.—It was confidently expected that the fourth session of the 7th parliament of Canada would be terminated on either Wednesday or Thursday of this week, but the present indications are that that hope will not be fulfilled.

Manitoba School Question. The Manitoba school question is to come before parliament once more, probably to-day or to-morrow. It will be remembered that in the early days of the session petitions were presented to the Senate and House of Commons signed by nearly all the Roman Catholic laity in Canada praying that no action should be taken to relieve the minority in Manitoba from the disadvantages under which they now labor by reason of the school regulations passed by the Manitoba government.

Manitoba School Question (continued). It is understood that Mr. Kenny, M. P. for Halifax, will bring the matter up in the House (and in the Senate) by moving a resolution expressing the hope that the Manitoba government will grant the relief prayed for by the petitioners, and so amend the school regulations as to remove the disabilities under which the minority now suffer in respect to school matters. The government is said to have accepted this motion, but there will probably be some debate on it before it is carried.

Manitoba School Question (continued). Some of the more extreme members of the House were said to be desirous of introducing a resolution condemning the Manitoba government for not granting the relief asked for by the minority but this was considered too extreme a measure, and all the government felt justified in doing was to call the attention of the Manitoba government to the position and express the hope on the part of the House that the request of the minority would be granted.

Manitoba School Question (continued). This resolution will not, however, satisfy Mr. McCarthy and he will still bring up his motion with respect to the abolition of separate schools in the Northwest and the official use of the French language in the territories. It is expected that about a day will be taken up with the debate, and that Mr. McCarthy will have more followers this time than "the noble thirly," but this motion is not at all likely to carry.

Manitoba School Question (continued). The committee on public accounts has reported the evidence taken in the Curran bridge investigation to the House without any comment or recommendation. The investigation has not really brought out anything very new with respect to the bridge. It has been shown that there was most reckless extravagance in the mode of carrying on the work, that the officers in charge of it were incompetent and that Mr. St. Louis, the contractor for the labor, charged for a great deal more work than was ever performed on the work as well as for a great many men who did not work at all. All this, however, did not prevent the government from paying the bill for the work, and also by Mr. St. Louis' own evidence in the Exchequer Court in a case brought by him against the government for the recovery of the balance of about $67,000, said to be due him, and the cross suit by the government against him, claiming some $146,000 dollars as being overpaid. The opposition, it is understood, intends to propose a vote of censure on the government in connection with this work.

The Chatham Post Office. Our reference of last week to the reduced accommodation of late to the public at the Chatham Post Office, in comparison with what it formerly afforded, appears to have disturbed the temper of the postmaster to an unreasonable extent, as he made it the subject of some characteristic impertinences addressed personally to the editor on Tuesday last, appearing to think that course would help him and the Department in their neglect of duty to the public. He declared it "his" that the office is closed at the dinner and tea hours and said the statements of the ADVANCE generally are "lies." That kind of answer to anything tending to convey the impression that the postmaster's way of discharging his duties is not entirely "satisfactory to the public," is, of course, to be expected, but many seemed surprised that he should make any remarks on an occasion of a display of his natural powers. We confess that we hardly thought the postmaster was to blame for the Chatham office being deserted by the accommodation afforded by it to the public being lessened, because, like himself, attributed it to the parsimony of the Department at Ottawa, which the public has no right to complain of, and in behalf of the postmaster, for a year, has increased the forwarding work of the office, while it has materially reduced his pay, notwithstanding the fact that the general impression promoted him an increase. He says that the office is closed for two hours of the day—the dinner and tea hours—as we stated last week, and declares that he takes only a half hour for each meal. It is not so much whether persons go to the office for mail matter that the public should be concerned, but that the office is closed for two hours each day, but the just cause of complaint lies in the window being closed at all between the hour of opening in the morning and that of closing in the evening. It was never done before in Ottawa—for twenty years, as a matter of fact—the office was kept open, and as we think we ought to be constantly attaining to better things and better methods and practices, rather than retrograding, the public naturally complain of the curtailment of their accommodation at the post office.

The Senator speaks in behalf of a mob. "I do not know of any mob," Mr. Peffer broke in, "and the Senator from Minnesota knows it." "A mob," Mr. Davis continued, "of mis-guided men which has taken by force a strategic point in the city of Chicago, paralyzed the means of intercourse and stopped the supply of food over several States of the Northwest."

The Senator speaks in behalf of a mob (continued). "The Senator from Kansas has no word of reproach, not a single word of reproach, for it is much more agreeable to get along pleasantly with everybody, but newspapers are intended to serve the public, rather than individuals, and even at the risk of further inciting official displeasure and being subjected to official strong language, we still insist, in behalf of the people, that the one man service at the Chatham post office is inadequate and an adverse reflection upon the administration of Ottawa, as long as it continues to permit it."

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is a pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve force in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Start of nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nervous system is reformed. This accounts for the power by which the vital force of the body is carried on; it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found, by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

It is a Sworn Cure for St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine Tonic, and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Falling Health, from whatever cause.
