The Stricken South to the North.

[Dedicated to Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes.]

"We are thinking a great deal about the poor fever-stricken cities of the South, and all contributing according to our means for their relief."

"Every morning, as the paper comes, the first question is, 'What is the latest account from Memphis, Grenada and New Orleans?'" —Extract from a private letter of Dr. Holmes.

I.

When "rhubarb" Time the South's memorial pleases—

Her heroes' graves—had wreathed in grass and flowers—

When Peace, ethereal crowned by all her graces, Returned to make more bright the summer hours—

When doubtful hearts revived, and hopes grew stronger—

When old sore cankered wounds that pierced and stung, Throbbled with their first, mad, feverous pain no longer,

While the fair future spoke with flattering tongue—

When once, once more she felt her pulses beating

To rhythms of healthful joy and brave desire,

Lo! round her doomed horizon darkly meeting,

A pall of bi-colored vapors veined with fire!

II.

Oh! ghastly portent of fast-coming sorrows—

Of doom that blasts the blood and brights the breath,

Robe youth and manhood of all golden morrows—

And life's clear goblet brims with wine of death!

Oh! swift fulfillment of this portent dreary!

Oh! nightmare rule of ruin, racked by fear,

Heart-broken wail, and solemn misery,

Imperious anguish, and soul-melting tears!

Oh! Faith, thrust downward from celestial splendours!

Oh! grief-bound, with palely-murmurous mouth!

Oh! agonized by life's supreme surrenders—

Behold her now—the scorned and suffering South!

III.

No balm in Gilead; nay, but while her forehead

Palld and drooping, lies in fondest dust,

There steals across the desolate spaces torrid

A voice of manifold cheer, and heavenly trust,

A land redeeming breaks the frozen starkness

Of palsied nerve, and dull, despondent brain:

Rolls back the curtains of malignant darkness

And shows the eternal blue of heaven again—

Revealing there, of old worlds convulsed and shaken—

That face whose mystic tenderness enticed

To hope new-born earth's lost, bereaved, forsaken!

Ah! still beyond the tempest smiles the Christ!

IV.

Whose voice? Whose hand? O, thanks, divinest Master,

Thanks for those grand emotions, which impart

Grace to the North to feel the South's disaster,

The South to bow with touched and cordial heart!

Now, now at last the links which war had broken

Are welded fast, at mercy's charmed commands:

Now, now at last the magic words are spoken

Which blends in one two long divided lands:

Oh, North! you came with warrior strife and clangor,

You left our South one gory burial ground:

But love, more potent than the haughtiest anger,

Subdues the souls which hate could only wound!

—Paul H. Hayne.

A MAN OF NERVE.

While Murat was in Madrid, he was anxious to communicate with Junot in Portugal; but all the roads to Lisbon swarmed with guerrillas, and with the troops composing Castanos' army.

Murat mentioned his embarrassment to Baron Stroganoff, the Russian em-bassador to Spain.

Russia, as is well known, was at that time not only the ally, but the friend of France. M. de Stroganoff told Murat that it was the easiest thing in the world. "The Russian Admiral Sin-avin," said he, "is in the port at Lisbon; give me the most intelligent of your Polish lancers; I will dress him up in a Russian uniform, and intrust him with the dispatches for the admiral —all will go well, even if he should be taken prisoner a dozen times between this and Lisbon, for the insurgent army is so anxious to obtain our neutrality that it will be careful not to furnish a pretext for rupture."

Murat was delighted with this ingenious scheme. He asked Kranski, the commandant of the lancers, to find him a brave and intelligent young man. Two days afterward the commandant brought the prince a young man of his corps, for whom he pledged his life; his name was Leekinski, and he was but eighteen years old.

Murat was moved at seeing so young a man court so imminent a danger; for, if he were detected, his doom was sealed.

Murat could not help remarking to the Pole the risk he was about to run. The youth smiled. "Let your imperial highness give me my instruments," answered he, respectfully, "and I will give a good account of the mission I have been honored with. I thank his highness for having chosen me from my comrades, for all of them would have courted this distinction."

The prince argued favorably from the young man's modest resolution. The Russian ambassador gave him his dispatches, he put on a Russian uniform, and set out for Portugal.

The first two days passed over quietly, but on the afternoon of the third, Leekinski was surrounded by a body of Spaniards, who disarmed him, and dragged him before the commanding officer. Luckily for the gallant youth, it was Castanos himself.

Leekinski was aware that he was lost if he were discovered to be a Frenchman, consequently he determined, on the instant, not to let a single word of French escape him, and to speak Russian and German, which he did with equal fluency. The cries of rage of his cap-tors announced the fate which awaited him, and the horrible murder of General Rene, who had perished in the most dreadful tortures but a few weeks before, as he was going to join Junot, were sufficient to freeze the very blood.

"Who are you?" said Castanos, in French, which language he spoke perfectly well, having been educated in France.

Leekinski looked at the questioner, saw a sign, and answered in German:

"I do not understand you."

Castanos spoke German, but he did not wish to appear personally in the matter, and summoned one of the officers of his staff, who went on with the examination. The young Pole answered in Russian or German, but never let a syllable of French escape him. He might, however, easily have forgotten himself, surrounded as he was by a crowd eager for his blood, and who waited with savage impatience to have him declared guilty, that is a Frenchman, to fall upon him and murder him.

But their fury was raised to a height which the general himself could not control, by an incident which seemed to cut off the unhappy prisoner from every hope of escape. One of Castanos' aides-le-camp, one of the fanatical patriots who were so numerous in this war, and who from the first had denounced Leekinski as a French spy, burst into the room, dragging with him a man wearing the brown jacket, tall hat and red plume of a Spanish peasant.

The officer confronted him with the Pole, and said:

"Look at this man, and then say if it is true that he is a German or Russian.

He is a spy, I swear by my soul."

The peasant, meanwhile, was eyeing the prisoner closely. Presently his dark eyes lighted up with the fire of hatred.

"Es Frances, he is a Frenchman!" exclaimed he, clapping his hands. And he stated that having been in Madrid a few weeks before, he had been put in requisition to carry forage to the French barrack; "and," said he, "I recollect that this man took my load of forage and gave me a receipt. I was near him an hour, and recollect him. When we caught him, I told my comrade, this is the French officer I delivered my forage to."

This was correct. Castanos probably discovered the true state of the case, but he was a generous foe. He proposed to let him pursue his journey, for Leekinski still insisted he was a Russian, and he could not be made to understand a word of French. But the moment he ventured a hint of that kind, a thousand threatening voices were raised against him, and he saw that clemency was impossible.

"But," said he, "will you then risk a quarrel with Russia, whose neutrality we are so anxiously asking for?"

"No," said the officer, "but let us try this man."

Leekinski understood all, for he was acquainted with Spanish. He was removed and thrown into a room worthy to have been one of the dungeons of the inquisition in its worst days.

When the Spaniards took him prisoner, he had eaten nothing since the previous evening, and when his dungeon door was closed on him he had fasted eighteen hours; no wonder, then, what with exhaustion, fatigue, anxiety, and the agony of his dreadful situation, that the unhappy prisoner fell almost senseless on his hard couch. Night soon closed in, and left him to realize, in his gloom, the full horror of his hopeless situation. He was brave, of course; but to die at eighteen—so suddenly! But youth and fatigue finally yielded to the approach of sleep, and he was soon buried in profound slumber.

He had slept perhaps two hours, when the door of his dungeon opened slowly, and some one entered with cautious steps, hiding with his hand the light of a lamp; the visitor bent over the prisoner's couch, the hand that shaded the lamp touched him on the shoulder, and a sweet and silvery voice, a woman's voice, asked him:

"Do you want to eat?"

The young Pole, awakened suddenly by the glare of the lamp, by the touch and words of the female, rose up on his quand, and with his eyes only half opened, said in German, "What do you want?"

"Give the man something to eat at once," said Castanos, when he heard the result of the first experiment, "and let him go. He is not a Frenchman. How could he have been so far master of himself? The thing is impossible."

But though Leekinski was supplied with food he was detained a prisoner.

The next morning he was taken to a spot where he could see the mutilated corpse of the Frenchman who had been cruelly massacred by the peasantry of Truxillo, and he was threatened with the same death. But the noble youth had promised not to fail, and not a word, not an accent, not a gesture or look betrayed him.

Leekinski, when taken back to the prison, hailed it with a shout of joy; for twelve hours he had nothing but gibbets and death, in its most horrid forms, before his eyes, exhibited to him by men with the looks and the passions of demons. He slept, however, after the harrowing excitement of the day, and soundly, too; when in the midst of his deep and death-like slumbers, the door opened gently, some one drew near his couch, and the same voice whispered in his ear:

"Arise and come with me. We wish to save your life. Your horse is ready."

And the brave young man hastily awakened by the words, "We wish to save your life, come," answered still in German: "What do you want?"

Castanos, when he heard of this experiment and its result, said the Russian was a noble young man; he saw the true state of the case.

The next morning, early, four men came to take him before a sort of council, composed of officers of Castanos' staff. During the walk, they uttered most horrible threats against him; but true to his determination, he pretended not to understand them.

When he came before his judges, he seemed to gather what was going on from the arrangements of the tribunal, and not from what he heard said around him, and he asked in German whether his interpreter was. He was sent for, and Parks' Cotton Yarns!

Awarded the Only Medal Given at the Centennial Exhibition
For Cotton Yarns of Canadian Manufacture.
Nos. 5's to 10's.
WHITE, BLUE, RED, ORANGE and GREEN.
Made of Good American Cotton with great care Correctly numbered and Warranted Full Length and Weight.

WE would ask the purchasers of Cotton Warp to remember that our Yarn is spun on Three-Frame, which make a stronger yarn than the Ring Frames, used in making American yarn.
It is also better twisted and more carefully reeled; each hank being tied up in 7 leas of 120 yards each. This makes it much more easy to wind than when it is put up without leas - as the American is - and also saves a great deal of waste.
Those acquainted with weaving will understand the great advantage it is to them to use yarn put up in this manner.

COTTON CARPET WARP,
Made of 10, 10 Yarn, 4-Ply Twisted.
WHITE, RED, BROWN, SLATE, &c.
All fast colors.
Each 5 lb bundle contains 10,000 yards in length and will make a length of Carpet in proportion to the number of ends in width.
We have just more twist into this warp than it formerly had, and it will now make a more durable Carpet than can be made with any other material. Since its introduction by us, a few years ago, it has come into very general use throughout the country.
All our goods have our name and address upon them. None others are genuine.

THE GREAT CAUSE OF HUMAN MISERY.
We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CURRIE'S CELEBRATED ESSAY of the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, impediments to Marriage, etc resulting from excesses.
22-Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.
The celebrated author in this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured, without the dangerous use of internal medicine, or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and man in the land.
