Fatal Fire.

A Tailor in a Trunk.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Austrian tailor who traveled from Vienna to Paris inside of a luggage trunk has repeated the feat by traveling in a trunk from Paris to London. When he arrived here he was taken from the trunk in an exhausted condition.

She Can't Marry the Prince.

DUBLIN, Oct. 15.—Some months ago Prince Albert Victor fell in love with Helene, the second daughter of the Count of Paris, and they were engaged to be married provided the Princess should join the Protestant Church. To this the Count objects and will not permit the marriage to be consummated.

To Get Even With McKinley.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—The Government has decided to submit to the Senate and Chamber of Deputies a bill providing for a maximum French tariff on goods from countries whose customs regulations are unfavorable to French products, and a minimum tariff on imports from countries whose tariffs are favorable to France. The bill empowers the Government to adopt a minimum tariff provisionally, but the sanction of the two Chambers will be necessary for its permanent adoption.

The Shakeup in Consols.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Standard commenting on the fluctuation in consols says it has not been equaled since the Crimean war, and the arguments that the market is unsound is possible, but shallow. Consols are weak for the same reason that colonial stocks are weak, because they are now among syndicate securities. Mr. Goschen had dislodged them from the investment nooks and crannies, where they had been stored for perhaps generations and the masses of stock thus thrown upon the world have never found a friend again. Dear money and the high rate of interest obtainable have compelled temporary holders to sell.

Kicking Against Criticism.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—The official Reichsanzeiger severely rebukes the press for a growing disposition to reflect on the positions of officials and officers of high rank in a manner calculated to embarrass the Government, as well as to mislead the public, because the stories are untrue. The Reichsanzeiger concludes by trusting that newspapers that have the welfare of the State at heart will refrain from such publications in the future. The article is supposed to refer to Count Von Waldersee, the papers having recently printed various stories regarding alleged differences between Emperor William and the Count in regard to military matters.

The Tipperary Trials.

DUBLIN, Oct. 15.—When the court opened at Tipperary yesterday morning, Mr. Ronan requested that the case against the defendant O'Mahony, whose illness prevents his attending court, be dismissed, and the trial of the other defendants be at once proceeded with. Messrs. Dillon and Raymond, for the defense, objected to the adoption of the course suggested by the Crown. Both gentlemen made vigorous arguments in support of their position, but the magistrates, after consultation, decided to grant Mr. Ronan's request. Mr. Healy argued that the evidence given against his clients affected Mr. O'Mahony equally with all other defendants, and if the charge against Mr. O'Mahony is dismissed so must be the charges against every other defendant. The counsel persistently pressed his point upon the court in the midst of the most intense interest on the part of the large crowd gathered in the court room. When Mr. Healy concluded the bench informed him that a note of his objection would be taken, and thereupon allowed the Crown to proceed to the trial of the other defendants. Constable Leane at the trial to-day testified that he was employed by the Government to shadow various persons, and in the course of cross-examination admitted that John Morley's name was included in the list in his note book.

Mrs. Booth's Funeral.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Booth, wife of Gen. Booth, who was known as "The mother of the Salvation Army," took place yesterday, and was made the occasion of a great demonstration by that organization. The weather was exceedingly disagreeable, but thousands of persons assembled to witness the procession. The route from the Thames Embankment, where the army mustered, to Abbey Park Cemetery, where the remains were interred, lay through the densely populated district of Stoke Newington. The entire route was lined with dense crowds of spectators, and the windows of the houses were thronged by the occupants and their friends. All the railways entering London ran excursion trains, and the throng in the city was augmented by numbers of Salvationists and their friends from the Provinces. There was also a large attendance from countries adjacent. The family were attired in their uniforms, wearing a white badge of mourning, and were everywhere conspicuous in the crowded streets. The crowd of this occasion surpassed in point of number that which gathered to witness the show of Lord Mayor's day.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The remains of Mrs. Booth were taken from Olympia during the night and conveyed to the headquarters of the army on Queen Victoria street. Here the coffin was placed upon a kind of gun carriage, on which were also placed the deceased's bonnet and Bible. When the procession had been formed, the gun carriage was drawn into position in the line. The members of the Booth family then took places and the procession started from the embankment. There were fifteen bands in the line. All those who took part in the procession were officers of the army, the privates and their friends not being allowed to march.

Thousands of persons entered the cemetery to witness the last rites. The gloominess of the scene was added to by the dense fog, which never once lifted during the whole proceedings. When the procession had entered the cemetery the gun carriage was drawn beside the open grave and the coffin was removed by officers of the army and tenderly lowered into the earth. Gen. Booth stood at the head of the grave and read the burial service. Officers of the army from various parts of England, the British colonies, America, the continent and Asia delivered orations.

The Missing Nationalists.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Nothing definite has been learned from any reliable source in regard to the whereabouts of Dillon and O'Brien. The report that they landed on the coast of Brittany lacks confirmation. A rumor current to-night is that they are staying at Chateaugrif, in the Department of Seine et Oise, and that Dillon and O'Brien have left Chateaugrif for Paris and that they will go to Havre on Friday and embark for America on Saturday. The London Standard's Paris correspondent says: It is reported that Dillon and O'Brien have just passed through Paris en route to Rome.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—La Press says Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien after their flight from Tipperary took passage on a sailing vessel and landed at Luc-Du-Sur-Mer on the coast of Normandy on Sunday. They passed the night at the residence there of M. Raffaelovich, the banker, whose daughter is the wife of Mr. O'Brien. On Monday they came to Paris and thence proceeded to M. Raffaelovich's country house at Gif, in the department of Seine-et-Oise. They returned to Paris last night, but their address in the city is kept a secret. If the news received from America is favorable to the Irish mission to that country they will start for New York at the end of the week. If it becomes manifest that it is their intention to remain in France the Government will ask them to leave.

Rumors are in circulation here that M. Raffaelovich and the members of his family declared that Dillon and O'Brien have not been in France, and assert that they have sailed for America.

TIPPERARY, Oct. 15.—During the proceedings against the Nationalists to-day Mr. Healey was handed a telegram. Tearing the envelope open he found it contained a dispatch from Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien announcing their safe arrival at Chesbourg, France, to-day. The utmost reticience is maintained among the Nationalists as to the manner in which Dillon and O'Brien eluded the vigilance of the police and effected their escape from the country. It is the intention of the Government to endeavor to learn who it was that aided them to escape, and if their accomplices are discovered they will be criminally prosecuted.

TIPPERARY, Oct. 15.—The taking of testimony against the defendants under indictment for conspiracy was resumed in the Magistrates' Court to-day. Evidence was given with the object of showing that the defendants had used their influence among the tenants on the Smith-Barry estate in the direction of inducing them not to pay their rent. A policeman testified that the defendants, in company with John Kelly, had made visits to the Smith-Barry tenants.

Mr. Healy here interrupted the examination of the witness to ask the Crown prosecutor, Mr. Ronan, why this evidence about Kelly was introduced.

Mr. Ronan replied that the object was to connect Kelly with the O'Brien-Dillon part of the conspiracy.

Mr. Healy protested against the court dealing with the matters that had taken place previous to the time mentioned in the summons against the defendants.

Mr. Healy's objection was overruled.

THE CONFESSION OF FAITH.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 15.—The Revision Committee of the Presbyterian General Assembly closed its first session to-day, to meet again in Washington, Feb. 4. The method of the committee has been to read over the entire confession, chapter by chapter, marking for consideration such sections or paragraphs as were suggested by the Presbyteries, or by the committee itself. Then they proceeded to consider the subjects noted, and to act provisionally upon changes proposed, whether by elimination, substitution or addition.

The chief discussions of the committee were upon chapters three, six, nine and ten. Many of the questions were referred to committees to report at the adjourned meeting in Washington. Changes were made, subject to revision, in chapters three, sections three, four, five and seven; in chapter four, section one; in chapter six, section four; chapter seven, section four, five and six; chapter ten, sections three and eight. The discussions of the committee have been thoroughly harmonious and the agreements reached thus far practically unanimous. The committee is confirmed in the belief that a report will be finally adopted which will receive the approval of the General Assembly and be adopted by the Presbyteries. A sub-committee will be appointed to draft a confession in conformity with the general desire. They will put it into clear, terse and concise English and report to the whole committee at its meeting just prior to the meeting of the General Assembly. The last meeting of the committee will probably be held in Buffalo or Cleveland.

Flogged by Shop-Girls.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 15.—Annie Blas and Sophia Basse, two shop-girls, armed with horsewhips, administered a severe flogging to Louis Animas to-day. The man works in the same store with the girls, and it is said circulated stories defamatory to their character. This morning they waylaid him. The attack was so sudden and the punishment so effective that Animas turned and ran, the two girls following him for several blocks, slashing him repeatedly with their whips. He finally escaped down an alley.

Dr. O'Connor, the New Bishop of London.

PEN AND INK PORTRAITS

Dr. O'Connor, the New R. C. Bishop of London.

A Worthy Native Canadian Elevated to an Honored Post.

Right Rev. Dr. O'Connor, who will be consecrated bishop of the Diocese of London on Sunday next at St. Peter's Cathedral, was born in 1838, and is consequently 52 years of age. His birthplace was near Whitby, in the township of Pickering, where his aged father still lives in easy circumstances and honored independence on a farm of his own creation. When 14 years of age the future bishop of London commenced his studies at St. Michael's College, Toronto, in the first week of its existence, September, 1852. It was a coincidence that the first pupil to enter St. Michael's College (then a modest two-story brick house on Queen street), was the present Right Rev. Bishop O'Connor, of Peterboro, and the second name on the entrance roll is that of Dr. O'Connor, the very rev. administrator and bishop-elect of the Diocese of London, the subject of this sketch. Although in no way related to each other by family connections, they bear the same name, and must be descended from the same old Milesian stock, since the parents of both emigrated to this country from the same sunny spot in the south of Ireland. It was at this institution he obtained his education, as a ground-work for the development of that brilliant intellect and remarkable powers of imparting instruction which have characterized his life and made him lustrous among the ecclesiastical circles of the Roman Catholic Church. Few, if any, priests in Canada could lay claim to such widespread and respectful acknowledgments, or attract such genuine demonstrations of esteem and gratitude. Although for the last 30 years, the period of his manhood, his attainments have been directed almost exclusively to the channel of college work, his name and merits are not confined to the classic halls of Assumption College. It is due to Dr. O'Connor's enlightened erudition and the example of his enobling virtues that hundreds of his pupils to-day fill posts of honor and distinction in many parts of the United States and Canada. The great majority of the priests who occupy important parishes in Ontario and Michigan received their education at the colleges where Dr. O'Connor discharged the duties of professor of economics or of president. His incumbency at Sandwich has extended over a period of twenty years, during which his masterly management of the great and growing Assumption College and the unequaled efficiency of the institution, in an educational sense, due to his untiring efforts and personal endowments, have stamped him as worthy of the higher honor and responsibility of the episcopal dignity to which he has been justly elevated. The same results will doubtless attend his efforts as bishop of this diocese.

Dr. O'Connor is a splendid specimen of physical manhood, and he enters on his work in the large and prosperous Diocese of London with such bodily and mental vigor as will stand him in good stead in the multifarious duties of his high office. The portrait given in to-day's issue is from a photograph recently taken.

New York's Police Census 1,710,715.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The rough count of the city's census-takers was completed yesterday, giving New York a population of 1,710,715, against 1,513,501 as counted by the Federal census-takers.

A Cunning Scheme Frustrated.

FORT DODGE, Ia., Oct. 15.—Harry Morgan, a prisoner in the Webster county jail, to-day received a copy of the novel, the "Kreutzer Sonata." It came by mail, addressed in care of the Sheriff. In glancing over it Sheriff Adams found two of the leaves neatly pasted together, and between them were concealed two sharp steel saws. A well-planned attempt at escape was thus frustrated.

Tried to Hang Himself.

HAMILTON, Oct. 15.—A prisoner in the police cells here attempted to commit suicide last night. Thomas Lanning, a man of 50 years, was arrested during the afternoon for allowing whisky to muddle his brain and cause him to abuse his wife. He was put in the cells, and nothing was noticed in connection with him until shortly past 7 o'clock, when the caretaker on passing the cell saw that the old man was hoisted up by the neck to the iron door. He had used his shirt, tying one end of it to the upper part of the door, but the process was not successful. He was soon brought round and is now charged with attempted suicide.

THE WORKING WORLD.

Michigan Miners Get Better Terms—Effects of the Sydney Strike—Tailors in Trouble at Hamilton.

An Ishpeming (Mich.) dispatch says the Detroit Mine has conceded the demands of the striking miners. No understanding has yet been reached with the men of the Lake Angeline Mine, who are firm in their demands.

A dispatch from Wellington, B. C., states that the colliery strike is practically over. One hundred and fifty men were at work last week, 35 of whom arrived from San Francisco by the collier Wellington. Sixty others are coming on its next trip. A number of English coal miners have arrived, and have sent word to their friends that they have "struck it rich" during the first week, having averaged $6 per day.

The Ottawa branch of the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators of America have given notice that on and after the first day of April, 1891, nine hours shall constitute a day's work, wages as at present.

A Sydney, N. S. W., dispatch says: "In a speech in the Chamber to-day, Sir Henry Parkes, the Premier, declared the present strike in Australia had been almost as disastrous to the country as a bombardment would be. The country, he said, would suffer less at the hands of an enemy than it had suffered through the strike. He denounced the stoppage of supplies of railway fuel and described the action of the strikers as almost tantamount to a revolution. The Government, he said, was determined to be supreme."

There is some misunderstanding at John Calder & Co.'s clothing warehouse, Hamilton, Ont., over the importation of a number of workmen from New York. Last week nine tailors, Hungarians, were engaged to work for the firm and came on to Hamilton. To-day six of them are out of work. They claim that they were brought to work on first-class coats and promised not less than $14 a week. When they began to work they were put on a commoner class of work, on which they could not earn nearly as much money. A representative of Calder & Co. tells a different story. His account is that the men were not brought on any special agreement. They were told that there were a large number of coats ready cut, which the firm wanted made up, and after that they would be put on first-class work. The firm has offered them a minimum wage of $10 a week, but it is said the men will not accept it. Calder & Co. paid the expenses of the men from New York.

Between 25 and 30 engineers representing the various roads in the West met at Chicago Tuesday afternoon, and later left the city for Pittsburg, where the Engineers' Convention will be held. They went ostensibly as delegates, but it is generally understood they go as the champions of federation in opposition to the conservative policy of Mr. Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who, shortly after the strikes on the Burlington and Quincy Railroad, took a positive stand against federation and has persistently opposed it.

Terrible Disaster in a Tunnel.

LEADVILLE, Col., Oct. 15.—A terrible explosion was reported at the Ivanhoe tunnel on the Mining Road, 30 miles west of here yesterday. One of the workmen entering the tunnel with a box of giant powder removed one of the sticks and accidentally knocked it against the wall. It exploded, killing him instantly and frightfully mangling his body. The force of the explosion caused the entire box of powder to explode with terrific force, killing a man who was working near and badly injuring eight others, six of whom will die.

The Last of the Blasphemous Thirteen.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct.—A paper here says the last of thirteen men, formerly Confederate soldiers, who, during the war in blasphemous mockery impersonated Christ and his twelve apostles at the last supper during a drunken debauch, was a few days ago found dead in the gutter. Every man of the thirteen met with a tragic death, and not one of them received Christian burial. An old man who found the dead body of the last of the band, and knew the sacrilegious incident exclaimed in terror, "It was the hand of God."

Effects of the Modus Vivendi.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 15.—During the past three seasons 70 American vessels have obtained modus vivendi licenses at Canso and paid $8,850 therefor. The Herald publishes an interview to show that the Canadian base is an absolute necessity of the successful continuation of the American deep sea fisheries. On the other hand the effect of the modus vivendi among Canadian fishermen is disastrous: The supply of bait is barely sufficient for the Canadian fleet, and to divide it with the Americans is to make two bites at a cherry, and is so fatal to Canadian interests that no money consideration can compensate therefor. The continuation of the modus vivendi is declared to be most destructive to Canadian interests. It is contended that there is only one course now to be pursued by patriotic Canadians, viz., to put an immediate end to this temporizing policy, to enjoy and monopolize all our own privileges and vigorously assert and maintain our irghts.

Hon. Thomas W. Palmer, president of the World's Fair National Committee, says he will not accept the $12,000 annual salary but charge only for actual expenses. He thinks the salaries of Director-General Davis and Secretary Dickinson, $15,000 and $10,000 respectively, are not too large, and as the work progressed the figure ought to be increased.

Great Gale at Port Arthur.

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 14.—The worst gale in the history of the town has prevailed for the last eighteen hours. The wind from the northeast attained a velocity of 38 miles per hour. The houses, tools, boiler plate and material for the breakwater were washed off it, and considerable of the superstructure torn away by the waves. The men who lived there were rescued by the steamer Kakabe, which for the first time in five years was unable to make her daily trips to Fort William. It was impossible to light the lighthouse last night.

Twenty-Five Cents for a Bridal Tour.

DETROIT, Oct. 14.—There was a union of Africa and America in the office of the Register of Deeds yesterday afternoon, when John F. Nolen, aged 26, and Marie Windblow Clippse, aged 20, of Colchester, Ont., stood before Deputy Register of Deeds Bird and were married. The groom is a negro, and the bride and Indian. After paying 75 cents for the license the groom had only $1 left, and Justice Bird considerately reduced the price of the marriage ceremony to 75 cents, leaving the couple 25 cents to defray the expenses of a bridal tour.

Too Late.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 15.—While Robert Cole was lying on his deathbed last week from a wound produced by his own hand, the result of despondency caused by his wretched poverty, Mrs. Cole received a telegram from New York announcing that she and her brother, a resident of New York, were heirs to an estate valued at £10,000. The glad tidings were read to the husband, but they came too late. In two hours he was dead. Mrs. Cole came from Southampton, England, many years ago. The money was left to her and her brother, John Evans, of New York, by an aunt who lived in Southampton.

Reconciled After Thirteen Years' Separation.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—After thirteen years' separation William F. Nast and his wife met on Sunday at the house of one of Mr. Nast's relatives here and were reconciled. The home of the couple is in St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Nast were married 22 years ago. She was Esther Benoist, daughter of the millionaire banker of St. Louis, whose death left $3,000,000 to be divided among his heirs. Mrs. Nast had $300,000 in her own right, and Nast was a successful New York broker. The wedding was one of splendor and they lived in New York for a while, but the market went against Nast and his business was gone. They then took up their abode in St. Louis. Nast's commercial ventures all proved disastrous, and it is said that the rupture between himself and wife was caused by her openly expressed lack of a desire to back him in business. They parted after eight or nine years of married life, during which time three children had been born to them. Nast started for Europe. He prospered on the other side of the Atlantic, and is now the owner of a paper mill in England. A short time since he came to America for a visit, and opened a correspondence with his wife, with the result as stated. He will sell his mill and settle in St. Louis.

MEASURING THE MOMENTS.

Birchall Counting the Few Days He Has to Live—He Discusses the Niagara Murder Trial.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Oct. 15.—Birchall keeps a diary and counts each morning the remaining days he has to spend on earth. He is cheerful and talkative to those who have access to him, and while there does not appear to be much reason for it, he has not given up all hope. He thinks there is a chance for his life yet and will not be convinced to the contrary. The other night he discussed the Day trial and criticised the verdict of the jury, founded as it was on the evidence of a woman of unsavory reputation. When he read of the mistake in fixing the date of the execution he appeared quite pleased to learn Day had a longer lease of life. Birchall will write him, offering his congratulations and trusting that upon the reserve points Day may be acquitted.

The Sheriff's mail is flooded with applications for the work of hanging Birchall. Already a number of applications have been received. Deputy Sheriff Perry says that no inexperienced man will be engaged; that it is quite likely that the man who conducted executions at Toronto and London recently and who is endeavoring to get the appointment of official hangman of the Province will be employed.

A MYSTERIOUS STRANGER.

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—A story is told in connection with the Birchall case that might have been made good use of by the defense had they been in possession of it. One night last February or March a low-sized, thick-set stranger entered Thompson's Hotel, in Woodstock, and asked for a night's lodging. He did not come in after the arrival of any train, nor yet did he come up to the hotel in a rig. He appeared excited and nervous, and went at once to the room assigned to him. The next morning he appeared bright and early and paid his bill to the clerk in such a way as to give that individual the idea that he was recovering from an attack of delirium tremens. He paid for his breakfast but did not eat a morsel, and then disappeared and has never been seen since.

Under his pillow later on was found a 38-caliber revolver with all the chambers containing recently-exploded shells. The revolver still remains in the possession of Thompson. It is a black-handled one, without any nickle-plate about it. Two bullets found in Benwell's head were 38-caliber bullets and the weapon from which they were fired has never turned up. Add this to the fact that it was left at the hotel in a mysterious manner by a mysterious stranger and about the time of the tragedy and it is at least a circumstance curious enough to relate. It is also a somewhat interesting coincidence that the description and personal appearance of this mysterious stranger tallies in a degree with that of an American "colonel" said to have been knocking about London with Birchall. "I think you will find when Birchall's confession comes out," said a man who is somewhat in the prisoner's confidence in Woodstock, "that the murder was committed in a carriage, Benwell being shot by the man sitting behind him."

Convicted of Being a Common Scold.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Catharine Walters has been convicted in the court of this county of being a common scold, the third conviction of the kind in the history of the State. The ducking pond is still the punishment provided by law.

Business Troubles.

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—The following business assignments were reported yesterday: Dresden—Grover & Co. (co. nom.), drygoods, assigned to Jas. D. Anderson, London. Dundas—Wm. J. Watson, printer and publisher. Mitchell—Chas. W. Pollner, grocer. Toronto—Jas. Allen, manufacturing confectioner; P. F. Carey merchant tailor. The drygoods stock of McGachie Bros., Woodstock, was sold yesterday for 57½ cents on the dollar.

No Billboards on the Sabbath.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 15.—A lawsuit of unique interest is about to be tried here. A fortnight ago the Board of Directors of the Street and Sewer Department passed resolutions to the effect that the display of billboards by the theater managers on Sunday, and on Market street (the main thoroughfare) would no longer be allowed, and that in future all billboards offending against that rule would be collected and put in the pound. On the following Sunday the department collected five wagon loads of billboards infringing the law. The manager of the Academy of Music has engaged counsel, and declares he will make a test case of it.

JACK THE HAIR CUTTER.

Despoils Another Detroit Young Woman of Her Locks.

DETROIT, Oct. 15.—Jack the Hair Cutter has found another victim, and the sixth name has been added to his list. Mattie Morican and her sister Nellie both work in the city and live in the suburbs. Nellie has beautiful black hair, while Mattie has rather short brown locks. It was the custom of the two girls to go home together, but on Saturday afternoon Nellie received a telephone message telling her not to meet Mattie, as Mattie was to have company home. It so happened that Mattie went home first and took a car. It was but a short distance from the car to her home, and she had traversed half the distance when a man stepped up behind her and asked her if she had any money.

Without waiting for an answer he threw his arm around her head in such a way that she could neither see nor scream. A bright blade gleamed, and Miss Mattie was thrust aside. She ran screaming to her home, and a party organized to search for the man, but the search was futile. The party, however, found the hair cut from Mattie's head on the sidewalk. He had evidently mistaken Mattie for Nellie and threw the short hair away in disgust. The people are greatly excited, and will use Jack roughly if they catch him.

Results of the Storm on the Nova Scotia Coast—Sixteen Lives Lost by the Wreck of the Melmerby—The Work of Rescue.

NEW GLASGOW, N. S., Oct. 15.—A rescuing party arrived at the scene of the wreck of the bark Melmerby at Little Harbor yesterday morning, and succeeded in getting the four survivors ashore. Seven in all were saved. None of the bodies of the sixteen who were drowned have been recovered. One of the most affecting incidents was the meeting of old Capt. Boudrot with his son. Boudrot was captain of the schooner Mary, which had lain by the waterlogged bark, Boudrot was aboard the bark when Sunday's storm sprang up. The schooner was driven into Pictou in command of the son. Each thought the other had been lost until they met at the wreck, where young Boudrot was one of the rescuers.

NARROW ESCAPE.

A dispatch from Aspy Bay, C. B., gives details of the wreck of the bark Marie, from Barrow-on-Furness, for Charlottetown, with steel rails. The captain and crew had a narrow escape. Their boat was struck by a sea and swamped just as the crew got into it. They clung to the wreck and were taken off from the shore.

SWEPT OVERBOARD.

The schooner Restive, Capt. Walsh, from Chapelin, Bay Chaleur, has arrived at Summerside, P. E. I. In Sunday's storm her boat was swept away and the mainsail blown to ribbons. Shortly afterwards one of the crew, named Charles Rice, of Prince Edward Island, was carried overboard with part of the deck load and lost.

Charles Rito was washed overboard from the schooner Sophia Stewart off West Cape, P. E. I., Sunday, and was drowned.

IN DEADLY PERIL.

A dispatch from North Sydney, C. B., says: The barge Algeria, Capt. Deacon, of St. John, N. B., from Belfast, Ireland, bound for Sydney, encountered a heavy gale, which became a hurricane, and blew the sails out of the bolt ropes. The vessel became unmanageable and drifted towards the breakers. On Sunday afternoon she struck on the north side of Cape Dolphin, opening into St. Anne's Bay, under a cliff 250 feet high, and became a total wreck. The second mate and six men arrived here this morning and report that captain and crew narrowly escaped with their lives in the following manner: When the vessel struck one of the men swam ashore with a line and made it fast to a rock at the base of the cliff, and by this line the crew came ashore one by one in a rope basket. They remained on the rocks about the bottom of the cliff until daybreak and then the captain climbed the perpendicular face of the cliff with a rope, made it fast at the top and the crew followed. Considering the seas, the high cliff and the breakers, it is a miracle that they were saved. The captain and crew lost everything. The vessel broke up immediately.

A BRIG ABANDONED.

The Ross Line steamer Ocean King, which has just arrived at Montreal from Antwerp, fell in with the brig Dover, of Cronstadt, on the 5th of October. The vessel, which had a cargo of salt and was in good condition, had signals of distress flying and had been abandoned by her crew. She will be taken to St. Johns.

A Clergyman's Fall.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—The Presbyterian Church is deeply grieved and social circles are agitated over the downfall of one of the best known clergymen in this city, Rev. A. B. Cruchet, the pastor of L'Eglise du Sauveur for several years. Rev. A. B. Cruchet last summer appeared in a French-Canadian village and introduced himself as Mr. Benjamin, and was accompanied by a young woman aged 22. He left the woman behind, and the other day a child was born. Mr. Cruchet has confessed his wrong. He accepts the whole responsibility, and consents to make all the reparation possible, namely, to marry the young woman and fitly support her and her child. He declares that this has been his constant intention, that he would have resigned his charge, gradually wound up his affairs and gone with wife and child to some distant place, where they could retrieve the past. The many who have listened to his voice or read his contributions to Canadian literature or known and worked with him as a Christian will be inexpressibly pained to learn of the double life he has been leading. Mr. Cruchet has been twice married, and is now known as a widower in Montreal. He was of a distinguished appearance, about 40 years of age, dark complexion, a typical Frenchman, but speaking English perfectly. The evidence against him is complete, and everyone pities, even while they blame.

JACK THE HAIR CUTTER.

Despoils Another Detroit Young Woman of Her Locks.

DETROIT, Oct. 15.—Jack the Hair Cutter has found another victim, and the sixth name has been added to his list. Mattie Morican and her sister Nellie both work in the city and live in the suburbs. Nellie has beautiful black hair, while Mattie has rather short brown locks. It was the custom of the two girls to go home together, but on Saturday afternoon Nellie received a telephone message telling her not to meet Mattie, as Mattie was to have company home. It so happened that Mattie went home first and took a car. It was but a short distance from the car to her home, and she had traversed half the distance when a man stepped up behind her and asked her if she had any money.

Without waiting for an answer he threw his arm around her head in such a way that she could neither see nor scream. A bright blade gleamed, and Miss Mattie was thrust aside. She ran screaming to her home, and a party organized to search for the man, but the search was futile. The party, however, found the hair cut from Mattie's head on the sidewalk. He had evidently mistaken Mattie for Nellie and threw the short hair away in disgust. The people are greatly excited, and will use Jack roughly if they catch him.

THE NEW CHURCH.

Formal Inauguration of the Union Congregational Church.

The Council Receive it Into Fellowship —Speeches by the Delegates—Rev. G. T. Carr Explains His Connection With the Church.

Last evening the Union Congregational Church, with Rev. G. Trotter Carr as pastor, was formally inaugurated, although it has been in nominal existence for some time. The commodious rooms of the "Y's" in Nitschke Block were well filled with the members of the new church and their friends assembled to do honor to the occasion. The delegates to the Congregational Council had held a meeting in the afternoon to consider the affairs of the church, the representatives from a distance being Rev. John Morton, of Hamilton, (chairman); Rev. E. D. Silcox, Embro, (secretary); Rev. W. H. A. Claris, Frome, and Rev. J. P. Gerrie, Stratford; and the lay delegates, Messrs. Firth and T. Silcox, of Embro; Phillips, of Toronto; Sweet, of Hamilton, and Wassmann, of St. Catharines.

After the opening hymn and prayer, Rev. E. D. Silcox proceeded to read the report of the council, as prepared in the afternoon. It stated that Mr. John Hargreaves, as secretary of the church, had read the minutes, detailing the causes which led to the separation movement and the inception of a new church, they having received a letter of dismission from the First Congregational Church. It had been moved by Rev. E. D. Silcox, seconded by Rev. J. P. Gerrie, and carried unanimously, as follows:

That we, the members of this council, having heard the minutes respecting the formation of the Union Congregational Church, do hereby heartily recognize it as a sister Congregational Church, and express our willingness to co-operate with it in helping on the cause of Christ.

Reference was made to the necessity of securing more convenient accommodation than the temporary quarters in the "Y" rooms, and it was reported none better could be obtained at present. The church will take subsequent action in the matter. The letter, calling Rev. G. Trotter Carr to the pastorate, was read by the chairman and approved by the council.

When the report was concluded the chairman, Rev. John Morton, made a few remarks, encouraging the members by hopeful predictions of the future welfare of the church, and pleading with them the necessity of adherence to Christian principles. He said the special object of the delegates present was to bid the new congregation God-speed in the work they had commenced. He trusted they would be united in a common effort towards success. He also wished them speed in procuring another building, as the present one would soon be too small. There was always hope in youth, and one thing was encouraging in the Union Congregational Church—it was young. Their success in the future depended upon the use they made of the privileges they possessed, of course, with the aid of God. Congregationalism was a method of church governing which had shown itself capable of grand work, and was democratic in principle. People were enjoying to-day hundreds of liberties secured by the forefathers of their church, but their welfare depended not on denominationalism, but on Christ. He believed the pastor, Rev. Mr. Carr, to be a minister of God, imbued with his holy spirit and one who would serve both Christ and the church faithfully.

Rev. W. H. A. Claris was exceedingly pleased to be there to look upon the latest Congregational baby church, in which he saw great hope. He loved other denominations, but his own the best, as a parent loved his baby more than another; but the most important thing was to love Christ. Without the latter, their usefulness was gone. A church should be hearty and united. Many churches had life without heart, and when wound up as by machinery, would go; but that could not be the case with a Congregational Church, where the moment heart and earnestness were lost, they died—and the sooner the better. A union with Christ was essential, in mind, prayers and efforts. The speaker impressed upon his audience the necessity of Christian fellowship and work as a means of building up their church in membership and influence.

Rev. J. P. Gerrie spoke well, but said he would save his efforts for the following evening. He considered the future of the Union Congregational Church as a promising one. They could claim the presence of Christ, for they were gathered together in his name and unlike others they were a complete church. Their doors were open to all followers of the Lord Jesus Christ, and had no specitic requirements labeled on the entrance which must be carried out, nor any creed or dogma to be formally observed. In conclusion he wished the new church every success, with the blessings of God. Its pastor, Rev. G. T. Carr, he referred to as one having rendered him great assistance.

Rev. E. D. Silcox followed in a happy vein. The reverend gentleman is a pleasant speaker and gave a humorous description of his feelings when he beheld London as the first city he had ever seen. His grandfather had established the first Congregational Church in Ontario at Frome, and his brother the first one of the same denomination in Manitoba. The church at Frome was the oldest and the one which he now addressed the youngest in the Province; it remained to be seen what record each would make. He urged the hearty co-operation of pastor and people in aggressive Christian work, as the method by which true prosperity was to be obtained. The business of the Christian Church was to convert and bring up fellow-creatures in a Christ-like manner. He believed they had a good pastor in Mr. Carr, although he came from England. (Laughter.)

Rev. G. Trotter Carr, the pastor, was next called on. Mr. Carr announced that he would make a few statements, explaining his reasons for coming to London. He said he had written previously to Mr. J. B. Hicks, secretary of the First Congregational Church, stating his intention of coming to the city to engage in special Congregational work with the ultimate object of a second church and asking for the co-operation and help of the First Church. At a meeting of the deacons a motion was made by Mr. Mathewson, seconded by Mr. G. Marshall, "that we extend to Brother Carr a hearty and affectionate welcome and assure him of our sympathy and support." The speaker tried to procure Victoria Hall for a series of meetings, but was told it was not to be used while other religious services were being held in the city, and also that two other gentlemen desired it. The latter he found to be Squire Jarvis and another intent on forming a new church, and that fact led to his being connected with the Union Congregational Church. Continuing, the reverend gentleman said he had heard the church referred to as a baby, but if that were the case he would find difficulty in handling it, as he had no such article in his household. (Laughter.) He pleaded earnestly for the sympathy and support of his congregation in aiding Mrs. Carr and himself in their duties.

Secretary Phillips, of the Bond Street Church, Toronto, made a short but humorous address. He regretted he had not heard the young ladies mentioned as a factor of church work. They were, in his opinion, one of the very strongest supporters.

Mr. Sweet, of Hamilton, also made a few well-timed remarks.

The Chairman in conclusion stated he would rejoice in a closer union of denominations, and hoped for the day when the existing gulf between Protestantism and Roman Catholicism would be bridged over.

The musical portion of the proceedings was well attended to by Mr. A. Allen, organist, with Mr. E. Allen and Miss W. Allen, trombone and violin respectively.

A social reception will be tendered Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Carr at the same place this evening.

THE ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF WOMEN.

Seventeen years ago an association bearing the above title was established in the United States by the ablest, most high-minded and cultivated women of that country.

The association's motto is Truth, Justice and Honor.

Its object is to "consider and present practical methods for securing to women higher intellectual, moral and physical conditions, with a view to the improvement of all domestic and social relations."

This is the first time the association has held its annual sessions outside of the United States, but the strong invitation presented by Toronto proved successful. Next to this city, we know of no place more suitable for the holding of such gatherings than Toronto.

At the opening meeting in Toronto last evening, addresses of welcome were delivered by Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, and Prof. Clark, of Trinity College. Felicitous replies were made by the president of the association, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, and Mrs. Kate Garrett Wells, of Boston.

Most heartily does the ADVERTISER join in the welcome, and it does so in the full belief that the highest interests of the world will be advanced by every step in the direction of the true advancement of women.

The president of the association, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, is a remarkable woman. Her noble "Battle Hymn of the Republic" came out in the midst of the civil war like letters of fire across a darkened sky. Some of our readers may thank us for its production at this time:

BATTLE-HYMN OF THE REPUBLIC.

Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord:
He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored;
He hath loosed the fateful lightning of his terrible swift sword.
His truth is marching on.

I have seen him in the watch-fires of a hundred circling camps;
They have builded him an altar in the evening dews and damps:
I can read his righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps.
His day is marching on.

I have read a fiery gospel, writ in burnished rows of steel:
"As ye deal with my contemners, so with you my grace shall deal;
Let the Hero, born of woman, crush the serpent with his heel,
Since God is marching on."

He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat;
He is sifting out the hearts of men before his judgment seat:
O, be swift, my soul, to answer him! be jubilant my feet!
Our God is marching on.

In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea,
With a glory in his bosom that transfigures you and me;
As he died to make men holy, let us die to make men free,
While God is marching on.

RECIPROCITY OF TARIFFS.

When the Conservative party of Canada appealed to the people twelve years ago, it was on the basis of a policy of trade with the United States. There was nothing said at that time on the subject of our trade relations with Great Britain; but a great effort was made to show that the future of the country depended on trade relations with the United States. The Conservatives of that time professed to be sincerely desirous of procuring reciprocity with the United States, and some eight years before they had gone so far as to propose a measure of unrestricted trade. Having endeavored to show that during the period of depression which followed the producers of the United States, including manufacturers and farmers, made a slaughter market of Canada, they took the ground that if we could not obtain reciprocity of trade we must provide reciprocity of tariffs. "Let us adopt the United States tariff in Canada," Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper were wont to say, "and very soon Congress will grant us reciprocity in trade." Sir Charles was very positive that Congress would come to terms in two years, and then the citizens of each country would trade freely in the markets of the other. They carried the country on this policy, and they went as far as Parliament would allow them in the direction of the United States tariff. Two years, and five years, and ten years passed, and still the first move was not made by Congress to come down with an offer of reciprocity. Yes, there was a move. A number of articles embraced in the Canadian statutory offer for reciprocity were put on the free list by Congress in 1883, embracing fruit and fruit trees. But it was not until four years afterwards that the Canadian Government gave effect to their own offer by admitting United States products of the same class free, and even then they had to be forced to concede the terms which they had themselves proposed in an act of Parliament.

The Minister of Finance, when driven into a corner, pleaded that the alterations in the United States tariff of 1883, bearing on the Canadian statutory offer, had been made without the knowledge of the Canadian Government; but the falsity of this pretension was exposed when a leading member on the Liberal side referred to the debate which had taken place in the House on the same subject three years before. It was clear from the attitude taken on this occasion that the Government did not desire to procure reciprocity of any kind with the United States, and further demonstration was afforded by the tariff of last session, under which the articles made free by the statutory offer were once more added to the dutiable list. We have heard nothing in recent years from the Conservatives in favor of reciprocity of trade, and when the Tariff Act of last session was discussed in Parliament no one on the Government side was hardy enough to argue that it was meant to force reciprocity from the United States, or that it was likely to produce that effect. On the contrary, the position assumed was wholly in favor of protection as the Canadian policy, and one of the Ministers who took a foremost part in the debate went so far as to say that he was opposed to reciprocity of any kind with the United States, whether in natural products or products of any sort. They might have argued with some show of consistency that the object of the act was in the line of the party's policy of twelve years ago, and that as the tariff of 1879 had failed to bring Congress to terms it was necessary to give the screw another turn. But apparently the Government do not feel that it is safe to go farther in fooling the people; and perhaps also it became necessary to give an assurance to their friends of the Red Parlor that there was no intention to desert them. Clearly, then, it is no longer the policy of the Canadian Government to procure reciprocity in trade with the United States. The only policy they have is reciprocity in tariffs, and between Mr. Foster on one side and Mr. McKinley on the other there is complete agreement to disagree. The recent declarations of Sir John Macdonald and Sir John Thompson that they desired reciprocity of trade with the United States, are wilfully misleading, and no intelligent Canadian can be imposed upon by them. We see what reciprocity of tariffs has resulted in—two outrageous tariff acts, prohibitory in many of their provisions — and if reciprocity of trade is desired by Canadians, it is perfectly obvious that the first step is to procure a change of Government. Sir John Macdonald will do nothing, and he has over and over declared that the first approach must come from the United States.

Mr. Laurier, on the other hand, adheres to the policy of the Liberal party, and declares that as soon as a Liberal Government is formed agents will be dispatched to Washington with authority to procure the widest measure of reciprocity between the United States and Canada. The issue between the two Canadian parties is thus clearly defined, and it will be decided for good or ill within the next two years—possibly within the next three months.

CUT DOWN, BUT PLANT ALSO.

The London ADVERTISER thinks that pine trees should be planted where pine trees have been cut down, that future Oliver Mowats may have timber limits to sell. The idea is a good one. But it takes a long time to grow a good-sized pine tree, and it would be a better scheme for the Government to hang on to what grown pine it can.—[Hamilton Spectator.

We are not among those who believe that the Government should refrain from selling timber limits and from taking the proceeds to defray the necessary expenses of managing our asylums, charitable institutions, and, to some extent, our educational agencies, and it is for this reason that we have made the recommendation to the Ontario Government that our Hamilton contemporary commends. It does not take so long for a tree to reach maturity as some people imagine; and it is a well-known fact that pine trees grow very quickly.

But the reafforesting which we advocate would include not only the fast-growing pine, but the valuable cherry, and the walnut. We care not by what agency the replanting takes place, so long as it is conducted systematically, and proceeds on the assumption that as many trees shall be started to grow as are cut down every year in the same period. Nor do we think the people should grudge expenditure of a liberal sum for this purpose, for no better investment could be made. Thus, the Government could set out a forest or two by the agency of its own officers, while at the same time giving liberal encouragement to municipal authorities and private landowners to follow their example. It would be possible, at a comparatively small expenditure, to reafforest the Province, keep up the necessary supply of lumber, add to the wealth of the people of the Province collectively and individually, while at the same time providing an agency for the proper distribution of the rainfall and the avoidance of those disastrous atmospheric disturbances which prevail in all countries that have neglected the great duty of replenishing the natural timber growth as fast as it is cut down.

Take all the trees you want, Mr. Mowat, but spend some of the money received for them to provide an abundant supply of timber for those who come after you.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Toronto gets its arc electric lights, for street illumination, at 29¾ cents per night.

—The Comte de Paris is making his visit to the States pretty much of a military description. He devotes his attention chiefly to visiting the battlefields. He will be perfectly at home, therefore, when he reaces Montreal and finds the inhabitants engaged in a fierce war of words about whether he should be received as a private citizen or the pretender to the throne of France.

‡‡‡

—That the Salvation Army increases in influence in England has been shown by the tremendous interest in the funeral of the late Mrs. Booth, wife of the Commander.

‡‡‡

—The Montreal Gazette one day learnedly argued in favor of the Dominion Government retaining the export duty on Canadian lumber, and the next day the Government announced that the tax was taken off. No wonder Editor White is sick. Perhaps he will now follow the example of the Western Ontario Tory Journal, which, in one month strongly opposed the reimposition of the duties on fruits, and the following month, when the Government declined to adopt its advice, and reimposed the taxes, turned round and expressed its admiration of the action!

‡‡‡

—Dundas Street Methodist Church in this city seems to be a good church to graduate from. Rev. J. V. Smith, pastor till last year of this congregation, and now of North Toronto, has been asked to assume the charge of the Metropolitan Church in that city, the largest congregation in Ontario. Rev. A. C. Courtice, the present pastor of Dundas Street Center Church, is also booked for promotion. He has been called to Sherbourne Street Church, Toronto, which is only second in importance to the Metropolitan. Both preachers are hard workers and earnest students in addition to being men possessing much native ability.

‡‡‡

—Addressing the annual meeting of the shareholders, the other day, the President of the Molsons Bank said that the "prospects for the coming year, were not particularly bright, as the McKinley Bill must undoubtedly affect the business of the country, particularly the duty on hay, eggs, and farmers' produce. The fine crops in Ontario and the Northwest might be hoped to offset this." After all, sensible men concede that it is to Providence and not to high tariffs, intended to restrict the interchange of products, that the people must look for prosperity. The only effect which the policy of high taxation can have is to enrich a few monopolists, while rendering the lot of the average Canadian much less enjoyable than it would be if he were enabled to make the most of his earnings without Government interference.

—It is not often that Bradstreet's, that able commercial weekly, makes a slip, but it has been caught napping with regard to an important section in the new United States tariff. Taking up the question of eggs and poultry, Bradstreet's says:

It is worth noting that while the new tariff puts a duty on eggs where there formerly was none, it lowers the duty on live poultry from 10 cents to 3 cents and on dressed poultry from 10 cents to 5 cents. Our importations of poultry last year amounted to $154,866, a figure likely now to be largely increased, for the tariff changes, up on eggs and down on poultry, will doubtless lead the Canadians to kill more of their fowls for our market. Meanwhile the disturbance of trade is palpable.

Our contemporary makes the pardonable error of quoting the old rate of duty on poultry as 10 cents per pound, whereas it was 10 per cent. ad. valorem. The new duties are given correctly. In the old rate, too, there was no distinction between live and dressed poultry. While the new duties will not be prohibitory, they are high enough to injure the business, which, under unrestricted trade, might be enormously increased.

‡‡‡

When the Canadian Pacific Railway places its new steamers on the Pacific Ocean in January next, Canadians will be able to take a trip round the world for $600. The first of the new armed cruiser steamships, the Empress of India, will be dispatched on or about Jan. 15 next to take up its station on the Pacific; and the other steamers, the Empress of China and the Empress of Japan, are to follow on or about Feb. 15 and March 15 respectively. The route is to be from Liverpool, Southampton or Plymouth, calling at Marseilles or Naples, Alexandria, Port Said or Ismailia (with sufficient time allowance to make a trip to Cairo and the Pyramids), Bombay, Colombo, Penang, Singapore, Hong Kong, Shanghai, Nagasaki, Kobi and Yokohama, Vancouver, thence by Canadian Pacific Railway to New York, Boston, Montreal, Quebec or Halifax, the passengers having choice of Atlantic steamers from any of these ports to Great Britain. The fare for the complete trip has been fixed at $600, and it is expected that at this rate an increasingly large number of old world travelers will make the tour through Canada.

McCollom's

Rheumatic Repellant

Has won an excellent reputation from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, as a wonderful rheumatic cure, and in numerous instances where it has been thoroughly tested during the past sixteen years it has proved the most reliable remedy known for this distressing complaint. It is neatly put up in $1 bottles, agreeable to take, operates well on the liver, kidneys and blood, and effectually removes rheumatism, gout and neuralgia from the system. Prepared by W. A. McCOLLOM, druggist, Tilsonburg, Ont., and sold by wholesale and retail druggists. x6

NOTHING LIKE IT.

MR. JOAB SCALES, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach and Lame Back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man out of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

WONDERFUL CURES.

FOR THIRTY YEARS.—Mrs. L. Squire, Ontario Steam Dye Works, Toronto, says: "For about thirty years I have doctored for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia without getting any cure. I then tried Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and the benefits I have received from this medicine are such that I cannot withhold this expression of my gratitude. It acts immediately upon the Liver, and its good effects are noticed at once. As a Dyspepsia remedy I don't think it can be equalled."

INDISPUTABLE EVIDENCE.

HARDENED AND ENLARGED LIVER.—Mrs. H. Hall, Navarino, N.Y., writes: "For years I have been troubled with Liver Complaint. The doctors said my Liver was hardened and enlarged. I was troubled with Dizziness, Pain in my Right Shoulder, Constipation, and gradually losing flesh all the time. All food soured on my stomach, even with the closest attention to diet. I was under the care of three physicians, but did not get any relief. A friend sent me a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it affords me much pleasure to inform you that the benefit I have received from it is far beyond my expectation. I feel better now than I have done for years."

Peculiar

To itself in many important particulars, Hood's Sarsaparilla is different from and superior to any other medicine.

Peculiar in combination, proportion and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom.

Peculiar in its medicinal merit, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown.

Peculiar in strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Peculiar in its "good name at home"—there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers.

Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time. Do not be induced to take any other preparation. Be sure to get

FLYS.

John I. Rogers figures the loss of the past season in the two big leagues at about $500,000—$300,000 for the Players' League and $200,000 for the National League.

The season of the Northwestern Baseball League closed Sunday. The standing of the four clubs in the league is as follows: Spokane Falls, Tacoma, Seattle, Portland.

John M. Ward will have charge of and play shortstop for the Cincinnati team next season. Al. Johnson will probably be chief owner and business controller of the club.

One of the two applications for membership in the League from Cincinnati was that of the Cincinnati Street Railway Company, which owns the old Union Association grounds and controls all the street railroad lines in that city. The company's property is estimated at $2,000,000.

The Boston Globe has made out a table of the attendance of spectators at the games of the National and Players' Leagues for the season just closed. The average daily attendance at the 532 games of the Players' League was 1,843, and at the 540 games of the National League 1,500. In Brooklyn and Philadelphia the old league led, but in all the other cities in which the two organizations conflicted, the Players' League had the best of it. In 1889, when there was no Players' League, the National League drew an average daily assemblage of 2,557.

THE TRIGGER.

Thursday afternoon a picked team of six sharpshooters of the Detroit Light Infantry will meet a team of the Twenty-first Fusiliers, of Essex, Ont., for a match on Company "D's" range, seven miles from Detroit, on the Grand River road.

THE RING.

Two Chicago lightweights named Sweeny and O'Hearn fought a prize fight near Valparaiso, Ind., Sunday. Next day both of them, with the referee, were sentenced to jail for six months and fined $500 each.

CRICKET.

Billing, the famous Lancashire wicket-keeper, has gone to Australia for his health, which has been very bad lately.

The proposed tour of a team of professionals to South Africa during the coming winter has been abandoned until 1891-92.

Ferris, the Australian bowler, has definitely decided to settle in Bristol, and will return to England early next year. He will not be available to play for Gloucestershire in county matches until June, 1892.

THE TURF.

Mr. Potter, of Napanee, has lost his valuable stallion War Cry. The animal died of inflammation. He was valued at $1,500, and was sire of P. McLaughlin's well-known War Cry.

There is a great deal of complaint this season about forfeits. Mr. Belmont's Futurity was worth $74,000 on paper, but there is still something like $30,000 outstanding. Sam Bryant has not yet collected all his Futurity forfeits. The other big stakes are the same.

The season which is just closing is the most profitable that the race tracks around New York city have ever known. The Sheepshead Bay track cleared $225,000, and Morris Park will declare a dividend on its enormous capital of 10 or 12 per cent., and this in the face of unusually bad weather.

Salvator, king of the turf, is about to be retired to the stud. Salvator has the credit of being the king of thoroughbreds both last year and this. In his three years on the turf Salvator has won for his owner $114,685, divided as follows: Two-year-old, $14,865; 3-year-old, $69,620; 4-year-old, $30,200.

A matched race for $50 a side took place on the track at Strathroy Tuesday between Charlie Stuart, owned by W. Armstrong, of Kerwood, and Cleveland, owned by D. Roche, of Watford. Some 400 people were present, and much interest was taken in the race. Cleveland won in three straight heats, best 3 in 5, half-mile heats. A length, half a head and half a length was all that separated them on each heat. Time, 54½, 55, 55. Another race is being arranged for $100 a side, to come off at the same place on Tuesday, Oct. 28.

Mr. Alf. Taylor, of the Oak Hall, goes to headquarters to-day for another supply of those fine melton overcoats.

Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, intends paying one visit only to London this season. He has with him a full assortment of ladies' and gents' wigs, toupees, switches, bangs, etc. Do not miss this visit, as it is positively the only one this season. Will be at Tecumseh House on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 23 and 24. 51-h-zxv

Campbell, is in Molsons Bank Building. 86tf

THE GALLOWS.

Another Murderer Sentenced to Death at Sherbrooke.

Still Another Homicide in the Province of Quebec—Fatal Results of a Quarrel.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Oct. 15.—The Sherbrooke court was occupied from Monday morning until yesterday afternoon in the trial of the murder case of Edward Blanchard, charged with killing with a revolver, in November last, one Calkins, at Stanstead Junction in a drunken brawl.

THE CRIME.

The crime with which Blanchard was charged was committed last November near Ayer's Flats. It appears the two men, Calkins and Blanchard, were drinking together, and Blanchard had a revolver, the use of which he professed to be very proficient in, and flourished it about in a dangerous manner. Calkins remonstrated with him, and a scuffle ensued, in which Calkins was killed by the discharge of the weapon. The men were alone in the house at the time, and when Mrs. Calkins returned her husband was dying. Blanchard fled, but was apprehended shortly afterwards by Constable Moe, of Sherbrooke. He was an American "tramp," and, as he himself says, without relatives.

THE TRIAL.

Very little interest has been taken in the case, more particularly as the culprit himself has seemed so indifferent to his position, having stated to his lawyer that rather than plead guilty and run the risk of being sent to the penitentiary for life he would hang. This indifference was painfully manifest to the court by the almost constant chewing of tobacco in which he indulged, even after the jury brought in the verdict of guilty of murder. He has been sentenced to hang on the 12th day of December next.

Still Another Murder.

A FATAL QUARREL.

Another crime came to light yesterday morning, when Henri Bergevin died from wounds received Monday night at the hands of Michel Lefebvre. The shooting occurred at St. Phillippe, seven miles from Laprairie, twelve miles from Montreal, and the news was brought to Laprairie by a neighbor of Lefebvre, who came to the village for a coffin. According to his statement, the victim and young Lefebvre lived together on bad terms and never worked together without a quarrel. These quarrels given at Lefebvre's farmhouse, where the two had some hot words, and Lefebvre left the dance, procured a gun, loaded it and as soon as the other man came out fired at him, the charges striking Bergevin a few inches below the heart. Bergevin was employed by Lefebvre's father, and the murderer is a lad of not more than 19.

CULMINATED AT A DANCE

Further particulars give the view that Lefebvre was not altogether to blame, and that his victim stated before he died that he had teased the young man till he was goaded into an act of revenge, and he brought death upon himself. It is not certain that this statement will have any weight with the jury.

TORONTO LETTER.

TORONTO, Wednesday, Oct. 15.

The $30,000 factory bonus bylaw was defeated and the $15,000 electric light bylaw was carried in West Toronto Junction yesterday.

F. Attwood, charged with attempting to purchase counterfeit money from H. S. Young, Fort Lee, M. I., was found guilty at the assizes to-day. A letter which reached the dead letter office at Washington exposed him. The grand jury has thrown out the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses brought against Geo. F. Bell, a Newmarket lawyer.

The committee recently appointed with a view to developing the mining resources of the Province, have decided to recommend that a mining association be formed, to be known as the Toronto Mining Bureau, to be operated under the Joint Stock Companies Letters Patent Act.

Notice has been served on the Globe newspaper of suit for damages on behalf of G. H. Graeme, a young Englishman, whose name figured in an article the paper published in connection with the Birchall case. Damages are placed at $50,000. Graeme is a son and brother of an English baronet, but is working as a driver of a delivery wagon.

The delegates to the congress of the Association for the Advancement of Women were given a reception at the Normal School last evening. Hon. G. W. Ross presided, and addresses of welcome were given by representatives of the City Council and local societies. Mrs. Julia Ward Howe and other leading delegates replied. The association opened it eighteenth annual convention this evening.

The fire underwriters passed a very strong resolution yesterday favoring the passage of the $424,000 bylaw to improve the city water system, and suggesting the purchase of two chemical fire engines.

Mr. W. D. Gregory, the well-known young barrister, and Miss Mary Patullo, daughter of Dr. Patullo, of College street, are to be married this afternoon at St. James' Square Presbyterian Church by Rev. Dr. Kellogg.

Beecham's Pills act like magic on a weak stomach.

Extraordinary Memory.

Lipsius made this offer to a German prince: "Sit here with a poniard, and if in repeating Tacitus from beginning to end I miss a single word, stab me. I will freely bare my breast for you to strike." Instances of extraordinary memory are often found among the users of Diamond Dyes. Some ladies who have used these dyes for years can, without the aid of the "Diamond Dye" book, entitled "Reliable Home Dyeing," or even reading directions on each package of dyes, mix up and prepare any of the many beautiful colors that may be required. Of course this requires not only memory, but practice as well. All colors of Diamond Dyes are so uniform in power and quality that at the present time dyeing with them is quite a simple operation.

Ladies are often inclined to give up home dyeing owing to bad failures; this is because inferior dyes are used, put up to look like Diamond Dyes. No failure, ladies, when the genuine Diamond Dyes are used; comfort, pleasure and success is the result.

Sing a song of sixpence,
The price of "Diamond Dyes;"
The fairest of all colors,
That please the ladies' eyes;
They happy make each mother,
Each wife and daughter true;
And all tell one another,
What "Diamond Dyes" can do
So sing a song of sixpence
For what these dyes have done,
In giving glorious colors,
That hold in rain or sun.

CANADA'S MINES

Need an Open United States to Insure Their Development.

Mr. M. H. Folger, a Kingston Conservative, is thus reported in the Toronto Globe: "As to mining, that is a matter that interests this city and this whole region of country very deeply, for we have back of here one of the richest mining regions in Canada, and one capable of illimitable development if only the market were open to its products. One of the greatest resources of this region is in its beds of iron ore. There are practically unlimited supplies of ore well suited for the manufacture of Bessemer steel. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have already been invested in works for getting out this ore, but this is as nothing to the capital that would seek employment in that region but for the duty of 72 cents a ton imposed upon the ore on its entrance to the American market."

"Why not establish furnaces and manufacture the iron in Canada?" Mr. Folger was asked.

"Because it wouldn't pay," was the prompt reply.

"But there is a heavy duty on the imported article, besides bonus to the Canadian manufacturer on every ton of iron produced."

"And, notwithstanding all this, that ore goes into the United States paying the duty, and some of it returns in the form of manufactured iron and pays the duty at the Canadian line, and yet is sold here at a rate which would cut the ground from under the Canadian smelter's feet if he were to enter upon the business."

"Do you speak from experience? Have blast furnaces ever been established here?"

"I am glad to say that I do not speak from experience, for I have gone thoroughly into the question and I know that if I had had experience the result would have been unpleasant. We are in touch, especially in relation to mining, with leading capitalists in the United States, men who are ready to venture money in anything which shows a prospect of fair returns. We have canvassed this subject of establishing furnaces from every point of view, and have come to the conclusion that the Canadian market is not large enough to support so extensive an industry even with the present duty. But, were the American duty taken off, thousands of men and millions of dollars of capital could find employment in the iron mines along the line of the Kingston and Pembroke Railway. With the development and improvement of the whole country no doubt the time would soon come when the home market would be large enough to justify the establishment of smelting furnaces, and when that time comes the industry will grow up and flourish naturally without any need of a restrictive or protective duty."

THE FALL SHOWS.

EAST KENT.

The East Kent Agricultural Society held their annual exhibition in Thamesville on Friday and Saturday. Friday was fully occupied by the directors in completing arrangements, exhibitors making entries and judges giving decisions in various departments. Saturday morning proving fine crowds gathered from every direction, until every part of the town and also the Exhibition grounds was thoroughly packed. The exhibit in every department was fine, more particularly that of horses, some surpassing those often shown at much larger exhibitions. The receipts at the gate exceeded by $150 that of any other past year. Taking it all in all the directors of the E. K. A. S. have reason to congratulate themselves on such a grand success. However, it must not be omitted that the usual number of "fakirs" with their thousand and one ways of securing cash from those who imagine themselves shrewd, were on hand and proved, as they generally do, a great source of attraction and taking the attention of the farmers' sons that should have been given in other directions.

The directors of the Mechanics' Institute flattered themselves they were giving the public quite a treat when they secured the services of Rev. Solomon Peter Hale, Canada's great colored orator, for one night only in Ferguson's Opera House. A large crowd took advantage of it, but the subject selected by the reverend gentleman proved rather unappropriate for the occasion. Consequently the people pronounced it a failure, and the directors feel rather sore.

SPRINGFIELD.

The eleventh fall show of the Springfield Horticultural Society was held at Springfield on Friday and Saturday. The first day was wet and the attendance small, but Saturday was more favorable, and about 2,000 people attended the Fair, which in point of entries surpassed the show of any preceding Fair. The number of horses on the grounds was fully double that of last year, as was also the exhibit of fruit, which was in many respects the finest display of that somewhat scarce commodity made this year at the many Fairs in this district. Some fine flocks of sheep and herds of cattle were shown. Goldring was on the track during the afternoon.

TILBURY EAST.

The annual fall exhibition of the Tilbury East Agricultural Society held in Tilbury Center on Monday and Tuesday was a great success despite the disagreeable weather. There were upwards of 1,000 entries. The stock display was particularly good, as grain and vegetables, while the other classes were well filled. The Manitoba exhibit drew considerable attention. The gate receipts were about $125.

FALL FAIRS.

Among the agricultural exhibitions to be held this fall are the following:

Norfolk Union	Simcoe	Oct. 14-15
Blenheim	Drumbo	Oct. 14-15
Bothwell	Bothwell	Oct. 15-16
Burford	Harley	Oct. 16-17
Orford	Highgate	Oct. 18
Chatham, Dover and Sombra	Wallaceburg	Oct. 25-26
Art. Ind. and Agr.	Windsor	Oct. 21-31

His Leg Cut Off.

HAMILTON, Oct. 15.—Thomas Laing, while attempting to board the west-bound express yesterday afternoon at the Stuart street station, slipped and fell on the track. The wheels of the car went over his left leg, cutting it off at the ankle. Laing was formerly an employe of the G. T. R. Company, but now lives in the West. He was on his way to California at the time of the accident. He was taken to the hospital.

Sarnia Assizes.

SARNIA, Oct. 15.—At the Assizes yesterday a judgment for $1,300 was taken by Abram Hodson against Peter and Duncan Dewar. The libel case of the Queen vs. Donnelly was postponed on terms to next assizes, owing to the private prosecutor not being ready with counsel. Joseph Reed was tried on a charge of setting fire to the dwelling of Alexander MacCrae, a carpenter in Sombra township, and was acquitted. Reed is a farmer living in the same township. This closed the business of the Assizes.

The municipality of Dresden has imposed a heavy tax on oats, and so many hundreds of people have preferred to strangle their cats rather than to pay the tax that the markets are filled with rabbits and hares.

WITH A WATCHFUL EYE.

London Water Commissioners Will Not Give Up Their Claim on the Debenture Money.

A meeting of the Water Commissioners was held last evening. Chairman Davis, Commissioner Essery, Secretary Ellwood and Inspectors Platt and Plastow were present. A communication from Mr. Thos. Marshall, asking for the work of copying the water rate rolls for the year, was laid over till the next meeting.

The protest of the Protestant Orphans' Home against the charges as per meter was laid over until the returns come in for the next quarter.

The petition of Charles McHugh and others for a water main on Cheapside street, west of Richmond street, was read and referred to the Engineer.

The petition of Thomas A. Warren and others, asking to be supplied with city water on Cathcart street, between Bruce street and Elmwood avenue, was also referred to the Engineer.

The communication of Patterson & Jolly, protesting against the water rate fixed on quantity as registered by the meter, was filed.

Mr. R. Hueston's protest against the water rate was laid over and the complainant notified that the amount must be paid under protest.

Commissioner Essery moved that the Solicitor be instructed to take such action from time to time as may be required to protect the interests of the Water Commissioners under the act of the Ontario Legislature passed at its last session, and that the Solicitor see that all moneys issued thereunder for waterworks debentures be paid to the Treasurer of the Water Commissioners for their use. The motion was seconded by Chairman Davis and carried.

It was also decided to notify the Engineer to see that all contractors finish works under way immediately so that the yearly accounts of the Board may be closed.

The following accounts were passed and ordered to be paid: Messrs. J. McDonald, $8 75; W. P. Turner, $2,500; spring extension, $489 16, house service, $103 30; H. Plastow, $10 50; E. BRITISH COLUMBIA CANNIBALS.

Shocking Customs and Superstitions of the Heathen Indians.

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Tate, who has just returned from work among the Indians of British Columbia, says that among the heathen Indians of the Province the women are slaves, and are always degraded. The heads of the babies of the Flat Head nation are compressed with boards, which destroys all that is good and noble in them. In another tribe the heads of the babies are bound until they assume the shape of a sugar loaf. This pressing of the heads out of shape is a terrible cruelty. They have their heathen feasts still. A short time ago she saw a feast where there were 800 of these people engaged. A short time before this they went to their northern station, where a cannibal feast was held, in which the cannibals bite a dead body and also bite living people. Some of the children who came home had been cruely bitten in this way. The devil's dance, which is prohibited by legislation, goes on about the same. There are four "religious, biters," or dog eaters. These men hide in caves, where they fast for days, and then come out in a frenzied state. Sometimes they bite raw flesh out of human bodies, and when they cannot get human flesh they will seize a living dog, tear it up and devour the flesh. This is to appease angry devils. Disease and sickness are spread by the cannibals. There is still the whisky feast, for the purposes of which the tribe get whisky from Victoria sufficient to fill a canoe, and men, women and children dip into the canoe until they are all mad drunk. Then they fight and stab each other, and the friends of those who have been murdered, when they become sober, slash their own bodies with knives.

She relates a shocking story of the superstitions of these Indians. When an infant is brought into the world they kill a crow, tear out the heart, and put it palpitating on the child to ward off disease. Deformed or puny children are killed or allowed to die. Girls are married at 8 and 9 years of age. In one case a girl of 13 years of age was forcibly taken from the home to be married to a man who had already two wives. They heard the child screaming as she kicked and scratched the man who was carrying her off. If a child is pretty and the other wives good natured, she has not a bad time, but generally she is made to work, and when she becomes useless they take her out on a little islet and leave her to die there. One of the most horrible stories was about the "devil's cane," a poisonous shrub with which old women are beaten. After the castigation the body swells up to an immense size and the women are left to die in awful agony.

Indigestion

Is not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by causing the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

Finance Notes.

The London Stock Exchange was depressed yesterday.

The sharp decline in consols of ⅛ was a disturbing element in London yesterday.

British Grain Trade.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: English wheat is 6s below August prices and undersells the imported wheat. The sales of English wheat during the week amounted to 92,476 quarters at 30s 11d per quarter, against 85,582 quarters at 28s 6d for the corresponding week last year. Foreign wheat was selling freely. Californian recovered 9d of the September decline and the others 3d. This, in the face of the colossal imports, indicates the strength of the market. The large quantity on passage only menaces trade for the next three months. The contracts for later delivery are small, and before the winter is over there may be a deficiency rather than excess. Good malting barley was quoted at 32s to 35s. Grinding was easier, owing to the quantity on passage. Oats were quiet. Corn was offered at 23s. Today the dense fog interfered greatly with business. Wheat was steadily held; California was 6d better on the week. Corn was firmer. Barley had a fair sale. Oats were slow. Good barley and fine flour, especially American patent and straight, closed dearer.

—Messrs. Alexander Smith and B. J. Nash are attending the Carriage Makers' Convention in Chicago. Previous to his return the latter will make a trip to the coast, visiting Victoria and Vancouver, B. C.

—Mrs. Edward Smart, of north Waterloo street, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon while splitting firewood. In swinging the axe over her head it caught on a clothesline and rebounding struck her a severe blow on the head, fracturing the skull. Dr. Jones was summoned and put several stitches in the wound. It is not likely that the accident will be attended with serious results.

—The 35-foot addition to the chimney of Labatt's brewery makes the total height 133 feet, the greatest in the city. The work was done by the contractors, Messrs. Gibson & Screaton, the object being to obtain a better draught for the furnaces. The capacity of the brewery is now 150 barrels per day, an addition of 50, and brewing will be commenced in about three weeks' time. A large flag floats over the chimney to mark its completion.

—A boy named Robert Gibson, of 903 Waterloo street, had a narrow escape from being killed in the ADVERTISER engine room this morning. He was leaning over a railing which protects the machinery when his left foot caught between the belt and the main driving wheel, and had he not possessed presence of mind enough to clutch the iron shaft and draw his foot out by main force, he would almost certainly have been ground to a jelly. His boot was ripped off and his foot badly lacerated.

He, She, Him, Her.

Of the oddly-named comedy to be presented here to-morrow night by the popular comedian and clown, George H. Adams, and company the Boston Journal says: "There was plenty of fun at the Globe Theater last evening. The audience was kept in good humor by the antics of the characters in "He, She, Him, Her," and laughed heartily at the tricks and jokes played upon the principal actors. The amusing scenes and incidents followed each other rapidly and rounded out three acts of unlimited fun. The music was tuneful, the songs were well given and the dancing was good enough to satisfy any."

W. C. T. U.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held yesterday afternoon with some 30 members in attendance. The newly elected president, Mrs. Thornley, presided in a very efficient manner. A number of items of business in connection with the coming campaign were disposed of. Superintendents of departments were elected as follows: Evangelistic, Mrs. Sage; industrial school, Mrs. Jones; hospital, Mrs. Slaght; jail, Miss Evans; press, Miss Simpson; literature, Mrs. Williams; unfermented wine, Mrs. Dr. Arnott; scientific temperance, Mrs. Thornley. The following ladies were appointed as delegates to the county convention to be held in Glencoe this month: Mesdames Thornley, Crawford, Williams, Mayell, Ingram, Sayer, Keenleyside, McDonald, Escott, Arnott, Winnett, Nugent, and the secretary, Miss Slaght.

Miss Juch's Favorite Song.

Miss Emma Juch delights in singing the exquisite songs for soprano voice composed by Schumann, Lassen, Rubenstien and Schubert. The following words by Heine, with the musical setting by Schubert, are probably Miss Juch's favorites:

On his way a boy espied
Pretty flushing roses
Fresh and bright, the hedgerow's pride:
To admire he turns aside,
And to pluck proposes,
Roses, roses, roses red
Pretty blushing roses.

Then, he speaks, "I gather thee,
Gayest of the roses;"
Rose says: "Better let me be,"
Then her thorn discloses,
Roses, roses, roses red
Pretty, blushing roses.

Still the rude boy pulls away,
This fair queen of roses,
With a wound he has to pay,
But in vain the rose does pray,
Him in vain opposes,
Roses, roses, roses red
Pretty, blushing roses.

The Birchall Commutation Petition.

"Yes," said Mr. I. F. Hellmuth, Birchall's counsel, this morning to an ADVERTISER reporter, "there is a petition being prepared for a commutation of Birchall's sentence."

"Was the action taken at the request of his relatives in England?"

"Well, of course they are cognizant of the fact. We are in communication with the family solicitor there, but I suppose it's the same thing, as he represents Birchall's relations. The petition will be circulated in different parts of the Province and is confined to Ontario.

"How is the prisoner bearing up?"

"I have only met him once since he has been condemned. Nobody is allowed to see him unless his guards are present, and it is difficult to judge in that position how he really feels, as he would naturally wish to keep up appearances. I cannot say he is at all broken down, although you are aware it would be impossible for him to be perfectly happy under the circumstances."

Fraternal Visitors.

St. Thomas was thrown into a state of excitement yesterday by the visit of Knights of Pythias from this city and Ridgetown to Rathbone Lodge, No. 12. About 50 of the local knights drawn from the membership of Myrtle, Prospect and Mispah lodges attired in silk hats and accompanied by Anann's banjo band found their way to the M. C. R. station in time for the 7:30 train and took possession of two first class coaches which were placed at their disposal. Among those who boarded the train were D. D. G. C. Samuel Webb, P. C. Mayor Taylor, P. C. Dr. Pingle, P. S. R. Alex. Gardiner, Chancellor-Commander W. S. Ryckert, C. C. T. Parkins and C. C. Dr. English. On their arrival at the Railway City the London visitors were met by the Ridgetown brethren, escorted to the Rathbone Lodge room and after the exemplification of the second and third rank the entire company were entertained by the St. Thomas Knights at the Grand Central Hotel. Stirring Pythian speeches followed the banquet, being delivered by Supreme Prelate Dr. J. S. King, Toronto; Grand Vice-Chancellor Blackwood, Windsor, and Chancellor Commander Broderick, of St. Thomas. In the lodge room preceding the supper, Bro. Webb exemplified the rank of squire, and Bro. Dr. Smith, of Ridgetown, that of knight. The Ridgetown visitors were all members of Rienzi Lodge, No. 24, and were accompanied by S.D.D.G.C. Duck and the lodge's brass band. As a souvenir of the occasion Mayor Taylor, on behalf of the London visitors, presented each member of the band with a handsome silk badge with gold fringe. The local knights returned to the city this morning in time for breakfast delighted with their reception and the M.C.R. accommodation.

Presentation to Mr. Williams.

A large number of the friends of Mr. J. M. Williams, the popular basso, met at the Bernard House Monday evening for the purpose of giving their companion a hearty "send-off" prior to his departure to New York. A happy company, composed of about 50 of London's leading young men, sat down with their guest in the dining-room to an oyster supper. The chair was occupied by Mr. A. Cornell, with Mr. J. W. Belcher in the vice-chair. Following "The Queen" on the toast list came "Our Guest," to which Mr. Williams feelingly responded. He had found the citizens of London, he said, kind and generous, and although born in Cornwall, Eng., he was proud to call himself a Canadian and a Londoner. He had been, during his wanderings in several places, but had nowhere met with such friends as those who had made his existence in London so happy during the past three years, and friends whom he would ever remember. Mr. James McGregor, on the conclusion of Mr. Williams' reply, presented him, on behalf of the company, with a handsome gold-headed cane inscribed "To Jack, from the Boys." In acknowledging the gift the recipient said that he would ever remember his friends and although the present of the cane was not necessary to insure him of their kindly feelings, yet he would prize it and would ever remember the events connected with its presentation and those who presented it. The toast list was then resumed and "Our Country" and "The Ladies," proposed and responded to by Chairman Cornell, and Messrs. C. Platt and M. Nelles. Formality was then dispensed with and the evening was spent with songs, speeches and recitations, in which the greater burden fell upon Messrs. Williams, Belcher and McGregor. The company separated with the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Belleville, Ont., has taken the first step toward the consolidation of the city's debt by the sale of $133,000 of debentures, bearing 4½ per cent. interest, to a financial institution in Montreal at par. A saving of from $2,000 to $3,000 per annum will thus be effected.

Further reports from the interior of the State say that in Jackson county, West Virginia, great losses were sustained by the farmers and lumbermen by the cloud burst of Sunday evening. Many thousands of railroad ties and hundreds of thousands of feet of timber were swept away. Crops were destroyed and a number of farmers were almost ruined.

The Chicago Times says authoritative information has been received from Washington that the Government building in that city, occupying the square bounded by Clark, Adams, Dearborn and Jackson streets, has been condemned, and other accommodations will have to be secured for the vast business transacted there and the 3,000 employes.

The Reconsecration Service.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The ceremony of reconsecrating St. Paul's (referred to yesterday) took place in the presence of a large congregation. The service proceedeed in the usual order until after the third collect; then a special anthem was sung, viz., Goss' "Hear, O Lord, and Have Mercy," after which the Bishop of London, addressing the congregation from within the chancel rails, said that a fortnight ago a man not responsible for his actions took his life in the cathedral. They knew not whether any sin of that man's had contributed to the confusion of brain which ended in his destroying himself, but they all knew that all alike were partakers of sin, and it was fitting that they should publicly acknowledge they were all sinners, and ask God in his mercy to look favorably on all their worship, that they might feel more deeply what was the meaning of that mysterious evil which every now and then showed itself in such deeds. The service closed with the blessing.

It is said there have been four or five suicides in the cathedral during the last 40 years, but this is the first time such a service has been held.

A lawsuit begun 200 years ago has just been decided by the Imperial courts in Leipsic. It was between the city of Lubeck and Mecklenburg, and concerned the possession of lands on the river Trave.

Sketch of a Popular and Successful Railway Official—News from All Along the Lines.

The Chicago, Des Moines and Pacific Railway Company is said to be negotiating for the Wabash line between Des Moines and Harvey, about 50 miles in length.

It is reported that the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe has taken hold of the proposed Albuquerque and Durango road and intends to build it as a link in the contemplated line from the gulf to Ogden.

J. Wicks, an old Atchison conductor, has been appointed traveling conductor for the whole system. Mr. Wicks' duties will be to travel on all freight and passenger trains and report on any improvements he may see fit to suggest.

The Chicago Daily News prints interviews with a number of railway men and shippers regarding the Inter-State commerce law. The News says the law is viewed with hostile eyes by most railroad managers and large shippers—all are agreed that the act, if it is to be obeyed, will have to be amended.

The Canada Atlantic fast freight line, operating over the C. P. R., Canada Atlantic, Central Vermont and connections, has just landed a trian load of twenty cars of flour at Providence, R. I., from the Minneapolis mills. This is the first flour train of the season, and made the distance from Minneapolis to Providence—about 1,480 miles—in less than eight days.

The following sketch of Mr. Wm. Whyte, general superintendent of the Western division of the Canadian Pacific, appears in the Dominion Illustrated, accompanying a portrait of that popular and efficient railway official:

This gentleman is a native of Dunfermline, Scotland, and is still in the vigor of middle life, having been born on the 15th September, 1843. He entered the railway service of his native land while he was only in his 19th year, as a station agent for the West of Fife line, in which position he remained until July, 1864. At the latter date he became connected with the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, and served successively as brakeman, freight clerk (Cobourg and Toronto), yardmaster (Toronto), conductor, night station master (Toronto), station master (Stratford, where he remained for nearly four years), station master and freight and passenger agent (London, Ont.), freight agent, Toronto), and division superintendent, a post which he held for a year and a half. He was then general superintendent of the Credit Valley Railway, and of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce line for a number of years. In all these positions Mr. Whyte gave satisfaction to his employers, and when in 1886 he entered the service of the Canadian Pacific, his experience, ability and conscientious attention to the interests of the company and the convenience of the public were not long in meeting with appreciation. Since his appointment to the responsible position which he now holds as general superintendent of the western division, Mr. Whyte has become well known to the traveling public, and is one of the most popular officers of the company.

Honey Getting Scarce.

It is pretty evident, from quotations in the honey markets, that our product is going to become pretty scarce before another season, and while beekeepers have suffered from a poor year, perhaps the price may rise to such a point where it can be held, even when honey becomes more plentiful, and thus a poor year may be a blessing in disguise. The fact that there is a big demand for honey shows that the general public are learning to use it more and more as an article of food—if not the honey itself, in honey-jumbles and other baker's cakes.—[From Gleanings in Bee Culture.

The Outlook for Apples.

In the great apple growing sections of Western New York the failure of the crop is all but complete. Reports from Ontario, Canada, indicate a poor crop with the exception of the Russian varieties like Oldenburg, Alexander, etc. In Nova Scotia the crop is not more than one-half of the usual size. The crop in Michigan is perhaps less than 30 per cent. of average. In some of the counties of Connecticut a fair supply will be secured, but on the whole the crop is much smaller than usual. Missouri may help us out to some extent, both as to fresh and evaporated fruit. The crop there is estimated on good authority to be about one-half of an average. There can be no doubt that apples will be a costly article next winter. The problem where to get pie material promises to be a rather serious one until another fruit crop is secured.—[Popular Gardening, Buffalo, N. Y.

Desperate Remedies

By Thomas Hardy.

AUTHOR OF "A PAIR OF BLUE EYES," "THE TRUMPET-MAJOR," ETC.

Cytherea was silent. She feared she might be again a burden to her brother.

"However, you stand a very good chance," the man went on, "for I think she likes you more than common. I have never known her send the pony carriage to meet one before; 'tis always the trap, but this time she said, in a very particular lady-like tone, 'Roobert, goaw with the pony-carriage.' There, 'tis true, pony and carriage too are getten rather shabby now," he added, looking round the vehicle as if to keep Cytherea's pride within reasonable limits.

"'Tis to be hoped you'll please in dressen her to-night."

"Why to-night?"

"There's a dinner-party of seventeen; 'tis her father's birthday, and she's very particular about her appearance at such times. Now look; this is the house. Livelier up here, isn't it, miss?"

They were now on rising ground, and had just emerged from a clump of trees. Still a little higher than where they stood was situated the mansion, called Knapwater House, the offices gradually loosing themselves among the trees behind.

§ 2. Evening.

The house was regularly and substantially built of clean gray freestone throughout, in that plainer fashion of Greek classicism which prevailed at the latter end of the last century, when the copyists called designers had grown weary of fantastic variations in the Roman orders. The main block approximated to a square on the ground plan, having a projection in the center of each side, surmounted by a pediment. From each angle of the north side, ran a line of buildings lower than the rest, turning inwards at their further end, and forming within them a spacious open court, within which resounded an echo of astonishing clearness. These erections were in their turn backed by ivy-covered ice-houses, laundries, and stables, the whole mass of subsidiary buildings being half buried beneath close set shrubs and trees.

There was an opening sufficient through the foliage on the right hand to enable her on nearer approach to form an idea of the arrangements of the remoter or south front also. The natural features and contour of this quarter of the site had evidently dictated the position of the house primarily, and were of the ordinary, and upon the whole, most satisfactory kind, namely, a broad graceful slope running from the terrace beneath the walls to the margin of a placid lake lying below, upon the surface of which a dozen swans and a green punt floated at leisure. An irregular wooded island stood in the midst of the lake; beyond this and the further margin of the water were plantations and greensward of varied outlines, the trees, heightening, by half veiling, the softness of the exquisite landscape stretching behind.

The glimpses she had obtained of this portion were now checked by the angle of the building. In a minute or two they reached the side door, at which Cytherea alighted. She was welcomed by an elderly woman of lengthy smile and general pleasantness, who announced herself to be Mrs. Morris, the housekeeper.

"Mrs. Graye, I believe," she said.

"I am not—oh, yes, yes—we are all mistress," said Cytherea, smiling but forcedly, The title accorded to her seemed disagreeably like the first slight scar of the brand, and she thought of Owen's prophecy.

Mrs. Morris led her into a comfortable parlor called The Room Here tea was made ready, and Cytherea sat down, looking whenever occasion allowed, at Mrs. Morris with the greatest interest and curiosity, to discover, if possible, something in her which should give a clue to the secret of her knowledge of herself, and the recommendation based upon it. But nothing was to be learnt, at any rate just then. Mrs. Morris was perpetually getting up, feeling in her pockets, going to the cupboards, leaving the room for two or three minutes, and trotting back again.

"You'll excuse me, Mrs. Graye," she said, "but 'tis the old gentleman's birthday and they always have a lot of people to dinner on that day, though he's getting up in years now. However, none of them are sleepers—she generally keeps the house pretty clear of lodgers (being a lady with no intimate friends, though many acquaintances), which, though it gives us less to do, makes it always duller for the younger maids in the house." Mrs. Morris then proceeded to give in fragmentary speeches an outline of the constitution and government of the estate.

"Now, are you sure you have quite done tea? Not a bit or a drop more? Why you have eaten nothing I'm sure. Well now it is rather inconvenient that the other maid is not here to show you the ways of the house a little, but she left last Saturday, and Miss Aldclyffe has been making shift with poor old clumsy me for a maid all yesterday and this morning. She is not come in yet. I expect she will ask for you, Mrs. Graye, the first thing. I was going to say if you really had done tea, I will take you upstairs, and show you through the wardrobes—Miss Aldclyffe's is not laid out for to-night yet."

She preceeded Cytherea upstairs, pointed out her own room, and then took her into Miss Aldclyffe's dressing-room, on the first floor; where, after explaining the whereabouts of the various articles of apparel, the housekeeper left her, telling her that she had an hour yet upon her hands before dressing-time. Cytherea laid out upon the bed in the next room all that she had been told would be required that evening, and then went again to the little room which had been appropriated to herself.

Here she sat down by the open window, leant out upon the sill like another Blessed Damozel, and listlessly looked down upon the brilliant pattern of colors formed by the flower-beds on the lawn—now richly crowded with late summer blossom. But the vivacity of spirit which seemed to have enlivened her hitherto, was fast ebbing under the pressure of prosaic realities, and the warm scarlet of the geraniums, glowing most conspicously, and mingling with the vivid cold red and green of verbenas, the rich depth of the dahlias, and the ripe mellowness of the calceolaria, backed by the pale hue of a flock of meek sheep feeding in the open park, close to the other side of the fence, were, to a great extent, lost to her eyes. She was thinking that nothing seemed worth while, that it was possible she might die in the workhouse; and what did it matter? The petty vulgar details of servitude that she had just passed through, her dependence upon the whims of a strange woman, the necessity of quenching all individuality of character in herself, and relinquishing her own peculiar tastes to help on the wheel of this alien establishment, made her sick and sad, and she almost longed to pursue some free, out-of-doors employment, sleep under the treef or in a hut, and know no enemy but winter and cold weather, like shepherds and cowkeepers, and birds and animals—ay, like the sheep she say there under her window. She looked sympathizingly at them for several minutes, imagining their enjoyment of the rich grass.

"Yes—like those sheep," she said aloud, and her face reddened with surprise at a discovered she made that very instant.

The flock consisted of some 90 or a 100 young stock ewes; the surface of their fleece was as rounded and even as a cushion and white as milk. Now she had just observed that on the left buttock of every one of them were marked in distinct red letters the initials "E. S."

"E. S." could bring to Cytherea's mind only one thought; but that immediately and for ever, the name of her lover, Edward Springrove.

"Oh, if it should be——!" She interrupted her words by a resolve. Miss Aldclyffe's carriage at the same moment made its appearance in the drive, but Miss Aldclyffe was not her object now. It was to ascertain to whom the sheep belonged and to set her surmise at rest one way or the other. She flew down stairs to Mrs. Morris.

"Whose sheep are those in the park, Mrs. Morris?"

"Farmer Springrove's."

"What Farmer Springrove is that?" she said quickly.

"Why, surely you know? Your friend, Farmer Springrove, the cider-maker, and who keeps the Three Tranters Inn; who recommended you to me when he came in to see me the other day?"

Lecture on Missions.

Rev. D. J. Caswell's missionary address on "Men and Missions," delivered in Christ Church last evening, proved very interesting and was enjoyed by a large audience. The speaker carried the minds of his hearers into every corner of the mission field, and dealt with the magnitude of the work attempted and the different results attained under dissimilar circumstances. The interest throughout was quickened by graphic pictures drawn from real life, depicting the ludicrous customs and religious exercises in vogue in the heathen world. The Bishop of Huron, on the conclusion of the address, thanked the speaker for his lecture, which he praised in the highest terms. A liberal missionary collection was taken up, after which the meeting was brought to a close.

This Evening at the Grand.

The Washington press says: "Miss Kellogg, as Leonora, sang her part with the strict accuracy for which she is noted, and the high notes were particularly effective, and received genuine applause." The Montreal Star remarks: "Miss Kellogg, to whom the role of Leonora naturally fell, showed herself throughout a true artist, appearing to great advantage in the impassioned scene with Manrico toward the close of the third act, and rising to true grandeur in the 'Miserere' and closing scenes of the fourth act."

The latest development of the mission among the Chinese in British Columbia is the erection of a new mission building in Victoria, Vancouver Island, which will accommodate a congregation of from 500 to 600 people, with school and reading rooms above. There has been an encouraging increase of conversations among the Chinese during the past year.

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease with Endless Suffering. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago it would have saved me $200 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and with out relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200 you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) in your book "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.
