WESLEY AND ANGLICANS

Episcopal Minister Claims the Founder of Methodism Adhered to Early Teachings.

A paper on "Doctrines and Methods of John Wesley," read by Rev. A. J. Johnston, of Dundas Centre Methodist Church, caused a keen discussion at the London ministerial alliance meeting in the Y. M C. A. parlors this morning. Rev. Professor T. G. A. Wright held that the doctrines of Wesley were essentially the doctrines of the Anglican church, and he pointed out that Wesley until his death held clerical orders in the establish Church of England. Professor Wright quoted from letters of Charles Wesley and from writings of Adam Clark to show that the Wesleys always avowed up to the time of John Wesley's death, that they were pursuing their work within the church, especially for the salvation of the neglected members of the church's fold, but also for others outside the church who might be Rev. G. N. Hazen, of the Centennial Methodist Church; Rev. John Hosie, of St. George's Presbyterian Church; Rev. G. A. Mackenzie, of the Christian Workers' Church, and Rev. Dr. D. L. heumatism from the system.

Sunday was the anniversary of the visto this city of Dr. Frederick Franz Friedmann, the German scientist, whose turtle serum was believed to be a cure for tuberculosis. Londoners who witnessed the scene which took place at the Institute of Public Health on that day will not soon forget his coming and the harvest of hopes it raised in the breasts of those afflicted with the dread malady. That no results followed the treatment administered only added pathos to the many sad scenes enacted on that day. None of the patients treated here benefited to any extent by the serum, and the treatment here, as elsewhere in Canada, proved a failure.

The visit of the famous scientist to London was brought about most unexpectedly, Hon. Adam Beck prevailing upon him to come here from Toronto. Nobody knew of his coming until a few hours before his arrival, but when the news spread a great crowd of people gathered in front of the Institute of Public Health, and waited for hours in the drizzling rain for his arrival. Many of the watchers were persons afflicted with the disease, and heart-rending scenes were witnessed as these presented then selves at the door in the hope of receiving treatment. Only a very limited number could be treated and the doctors selected only a few of the hundred or more patients on hand. The sudden transformation from hope to despair on the part of some of those rejected, made a neverto-be-forgotten impression on those who witnessed it. The clinic at which the selected patients were treated was attended by nearly all the medical men of the city as well as a large number of medical students. The results were watched with a great amount of interest for several months after, but in every case there appeared to be no results either one way or the other, after the first effects of the serum had worn off. The treatment is now pretty generally regarded by the medical profession as a failure.

Dress as individually as you wish---wear the most extreme creations (and many of this season's are extreme) or wear the more conservative gowns, whichever your own good judgment decides. But however you dress you must realize that your chief distinction is your figure, and your figure can be correct only with a corset correctly designed to meet the dictates of fashion. In order to meet the requirements of the many different types of figures we are obliged to stock from many American makers. All makers may have a perfect average model corset, but from one who specializes on some particular style of figure you may get a more perfect model for the slender, or stout, short or long form as the case may be in conformity with the present day fashions. We may ridicule some of the fascinating fashions of the hour and wonder if we shall look freakish--and then fall a victim; yet, we must admit that with all their queerness there is a simplicity that is charming. There is great danger there from cinders and clinkers being dumped over the bank. It is time that some action was taken. A deputation from the affected district waited on the mayor and council last fall. Promises were given that clinkers from the incinerator should be placed to safeguard the street end, and also that the dumping of tins and clinkers over the bank near the incinerator should cease as soon as the position was counted secure.

"The effect of the promises were that two or three loads of clinkers were dumped at the breakwater, and then dumping there ceased. At the incinerator clinkers and tins are still being sent down the bank into the river, many of them having shot out into the middle. Special Music and Sermons When the ice moves away the tins float away, constituting a menace further down the river, while the solid clinker remains to divert the river current into the south bank. P. for Wentworth, with the statement that he hoped "Providence would aid the Conservatives by removing some of the obstacles in the Senate." It is not a very nice way for a public man to talk, and while it is possible there are others besides Mr. Wilson who gloat over the death of every Liberal senator, most of them have the grace not to show their feelings as plainly as the Wentworth man.

The tragic death of J. N. Langridge in Saskatchewan came as a shock to his many boyhood friends who had watched his career with gratification. Mr. Langridge was a Huron and Erie "graduate" and had made a name for himself since he went west for the Manufacturers' Life, to which company he became attached after George A. Somerville, of this city, took over the management. Mr. Langridge was a young man of fine companionable qualities, and he had placed himself in a position of high trust by his sterling integrity and his unusual

The Government of British Columbia is legislating with a view to regulating the Doukhobors. These people, with some good qualities, have some customs that do not chime in with Anglo-Saxon ideas. And the Dukhobors threaten to retaliate. They will not enlist an army for violent resistance like Mr. Carson, of Ulster, for they are a peaceful people. But they threaten to take off their clothes and walk about the streets. This almost as bad as dealing with the mili-

THE FIGHT AT BATTLE HILL. n SATURDAY'S issue a correspondent questions the correctness of the sketch of the locality where occurred the fight in the Longwoods a hundred years ago, and which accompanied our account of that engagement. We are informed by an officer of the historical society that the sketch was made a few days after the fight, and doubtless represents the lie of the land as it appeared to those who took part in the affair. It was copied some years ago by Mr. J. I. Poole. who lived in the neighborhood, and made a special study of the subject. Mr. Poole is now, we understand, in the Northwest, and may have something to say about

A GREAT EDITOR.

NCE upon a time a man wrote a Obook called "Letters From a Self-Made Merchant to His Son." It was the first great dramatization of modern business: the first handful of life that had been given of this new era, which we all understand and know has come to pass, yet can't describe; this era with colors are nailed to the Conservative its wonders of truth and its wonders of fakism, this era of democracy and the revealing of democracy as undemocratic, this striving for the inside, the intimate, the invisible psychology of everything.

Then after the man had done this thing he became an editor. He puts his name upon his publication, but few think of him more consciously than they think of the name of his publication. There are no more "letters" with his name. He is seldom heard of outside of the college of writers he has built, yet it seems that he is one of the strongest personalities in the United States.

George Horace Lorimer is the man his work The Saturday Evening Post. Have you seen any brain product that Post? Do you read anything more consclous of this age or more rational in its principles? Lorimer, the impersonal part of it, seems the greatest part of it. He is the heart-meter of the American people. His reporting staff chronicles the drama of life; but Lorimer first must tell them what it means. He is Uncle Sam's autobiographer.

A SILLY JIBE. OF THE many small attempts to utilize the Evanturel affair to the injury of the Liberals, the smallest is to condemn the Liberal leader because the member for Prescott professed to be a Liberal, and voted with the Liberals. To judge from their jibes, when Mr. Rowell have forbidden him to vote for any other Liberal measure, and if he did so to read him out of the party. That would have been a silly performance. It is no unlature to be opposed to some particular plank in his party's platform. If he is Conservative he will probably keep quiet and vote for it; if a Liberal he is more likely to speak out and vote against it. But the leader of the party will always accept the support of his dissenting follower as far as the latter will give it. So he will gladly accept support from the other side for any measure if he can get it. Mr. Evanturel made no secret of perance policy; but he considered himself a Liberal, and voted with his party on other questions. No leader will the whole. Mr. Rowell did not read Mr. Evanturel out of the party because he could not agree with the whole party platform, but because he offered to sell his services as a legislator—an offense which no Liberal party leader would or could disregard.

THE LUXURY OF A FAMILY.

OL. Roosevelt has been renewing his demand for more babies in the household. And every one will admit that he is right, so far as other people's houses are concerned. The Anglo-Saxon birthrate is steadily going down, especially among the classes who can best afford the luxury of a large family. Social conditions have changed. There used to be a time when a large family was an asset; now it is a liability. This is more especially true of what may be termed the middle classes—the moderately well to do. A large family costs money, for clothes, for education, for social pleasures. Children have expensive tastes. They acquire these at home, and in society. A man with a moderate salary may feel excused if he is satisfied with moderate family. The poor man is really in a better condition. He is compelled to send his children to school, but he is not likely to keep them there any longer than the law requires. He gets the benefit of their services at home in early childhood between school hours, and as soon as they are old enough to work they go out and commence to earn it and there may not. their own living, and even contribute somewhat to the family treasury. The vealthy man can afford a large family. out the labors of social life are apt to make them unwelcome. The middle class men can scarcely afford the luxury. So of affairs. But then how is it to be now on the education of children. Is the time approaching when it will have

The Newspaper Reporter.

No, it is not difficult to be a good newspaper reporter. You only have to know what sort of news the people want to read, what sort the editor will accept and where to get it and then all you have got to do is to sit down and write it in a breezy, entertaining style. You have only to condense fifteen acres of argument into two square inches of space and still do it in an entertaining manner.

You have to combine in your person ality the characteristics of a Sherlock Holmes, a Lord Chesterfield, a Thomas A. Edison, a Christopher Columbus, Samuel Pepys, a David Belasco, an Annie Besant, an Anna Eva Fay, a Bob Fitzimmons, a Socratés, a Piato and George Washington.

You have got to have the mind of detective, the heart of a deep sea diver the courage of an African lion hunter, the hide of a rhinoceros, the disposition of an angel, the patience of a cemetery monument, the constancy of a lighthouse and the reticence of a Sphinx. You have got to know the average rearly rainfall in Muskoka, what to do before the doctor comes, how many years it took to build the pyramids, the pressure per inch of the inside of a loco otive boiler, the influence of formalde hyde upon disease germs, the crimina code, the divorce laws, the automobile regulations, how to remove sticky fly paper from trousers, how to bind a broke leg, the liability of railroads, how many microbes per square inch exist upon a $20 bill, how ratch swatted ilies bring per gallon, and nineteen thousand, seven hundred and sixty-nine other things. #### THE MURDERING OF CHILDREN. [Chatham Planet.]

Surely it is high time that a decided and emphatic stand was taken in Canada against the continued perpetration There are enough gruesome incidents to absolutely establish the fact that Canada is writing a dark, unreadable chapter in this regard. Hardly a day passes but the news items from various centres contain reference to the finding of the body of an infant, sometimes buried, sometimes dumped in an ash box. The Toronto police department can point to a long list of such cases, in the majority of which they have been unable to name the guilty parties. In London, on Tuesday, a man noticed an object in the river which he thought was a stone. Upon further investigation it was found to be the body of an infant, that had been horribly mutilated before being thrown in the water. There is little or no chance at all of the murderer ever being brought to justice, as there is not a clue to work on. Some measures must be taken awaken the public conscience to the horrors of the situation. A nation cannot allow these little innocent lives to be snuffed out without their feeble and suppressed cries reaching those whose duty it is to protect life and property, e all else, the former.

GRAVE DANGER IN TUBERCULOSIS -SHOULD SAVE THE CHILDREN

Several very striking statements were made by Dr. Craig of the Byron Sanatorium in addressing the Women's Canadian Club and members of the Mothers' Clubs of the city on Saturday afternoon. Dr. Craig's lecture was on the subject of Child Welfare, and he opened his remarks by saying that perhaps nothing else bore such a close relation to the welfare of the child as the fight against tubercular disease.

In this fight Dr. Craig emphasized the necessity of regular physical examination for individuals dispensing foodstuffs of any description-milk, bread, or groceries. He based his statement upon the fact that he had personally known several cases where clerks or delivery men were suffering from tuberculosis of an advanced type, and that doubtless there were many more tubercular individuals engaged in such busi-

Need of Fumigation. Another claim made by Dr. Craig was the need of proper fumigation of houses. "There is a certain element in cities and towns that move from house to house each spring. These families do not know anything about the house into which they move. There may have been all kinds of disease in the last family of tenants, and if the house is not properly fumigated, there is grave danger for the children especially. The remedy would be to have a house fumigated as soon as one family moves out, and one should be able to obtain a certificate from the health department to the effect that the house is in good sanitary condition," said Dr.

In regard to the emigration problem the speaker said that by far the larger percentage of children who were suffering from tuberculosis disease, had been born in England or outside of Canada, and had developed it after moving to this country. The officials were not to blame for this as one man often had to examine some 500 people coming off a ship, and it was impossible to give more than a slight examination to each. "They look at the eyes and forget the throat and the lungs." As a result in many families, they no sooner get a footing in this country than tuberculosis in some form developed, and they were deported This was hard on a man who had hopefully sold his all in the old land, to come to Canada. The remedy was, according to Dr. Craig, to have competent government officials at each port to prevent the voyage being taken. He also advocated having Government ship surgeons to look after emigrants on board steamer. At present they were sadly address. Mrs. Betts, president of the

"We must not let commercialism get the upper hand. Our children are learning a great deal about the commercial side of life, and too little about the greater things of life: Health is one of the first necessities all should strive for," said Dr. Craig, quoting Dr. Osler's comparison of the man sitting on the side of his bed rubbing the sleep from his eyes, to the apathy of the average man and woman in regard to tubercular disease. There was great necessity for every individual to wake up. Dr. Craig confirmed his warning by a statement of statistics in which he showed that in Middlesex Ccunty in the past ten years, 1,134 deaths from tuberculosis were reported, and in Ontario, 25,496 deaths. According to the specialist, Dr. Phillips, of Pittsburg, there are eight cases of tuberculosis for every death reported, which would mean some nine thousand consumptives in Middlesex alone, and in Ontario the aggregate would reach over two hundred Urges Prevention.

"An ounce of prevention is worth, not pound of cure, but tons of cure," said Dr. Craig. "The question is coming home to us. We must have co-ordinal effort. We must work hand in hand." The speaker commended the action of the Provincial Government in establishing public health institutes; very important work was also being done by the dispensary, and by the visiting nurses in connection. Much of the cause of the development of tubercular disease among the poorer classes was because hey were badly housed, oftentimes several families living in one small dwelling. At the various sanatoria the object was to give the patient proper nourishment, proper rest and fresh air. If children could be treated early in life it was quite possible in practically every case to check and eradicate the disease. In this respect Dr. Craig stated that they hoped to do good work at the preventorium, to in silver or stamps. be opened in April. Another crying need was shelters for advanced cases of consumption. One of the ways by which tubercular trouble was contracted, he pointed out, was the fact that so many children had adenoids and large tonsils. This caused them to breath through the mouth, and the air passed directly to the lungs without being purified by the respiratory organs. Regarding whether tuberculosis was heredity or not, he did not believe that the germs were actually conveyed from mother to child, but in the handling of a young child by the mother she might transfer them. A very unanimous vote of thanks was tendered to Dr. Craig for his excellent club, occupied the chair.

Women's Clubs

A business meeting of the Talbot Street Mothers' Club will be held in the school at 3:30 on Tuesday afternoon. As special business is to be discussed, all members are urged to be present.

The regular monthly meeting of St. George's Mothers' Club will be held in the kindergarten on Tuesday evening, next, March 17, at 8 o'clock. Mr. P. J. Thompson, inspector of public schools for East Middlesex, will address the meeting on "What are the Essentials in a Child's Development?" Refreshments will be served at the close.

THE FASHION OF UNDRESS. The very latest Paris style is reported to be "no stockings and sandals without shoes." Evidently the process of fashionable undressing is to be continued.

The following song has been asked for on several occasions:

The Blind Girl. Father, they tell me that tonight You wed another bride; That you will clasp her in your arms, Where my dear mother died. The name my mother bore. But, father, is she kind and true, Like her you loved before?

'Say, is her voice so low and sweet, Her step so solf and mild, And do you think she'll love me, too, Your blind and helpless child? But, father, do not bid me come This night to meet your bride; cannot meet her in that room Where my dear mother died.

"Her picture's hanging on the wall, And there the harp her fingers touched And there her vacant chair. The chair whereby I used to kneel And breathe my evening prayer O, father, it would break my heart; I cannot meet her there.

"But when I weep myself to sleep, As now I ofttimes do, Then to my chamber gently creep My new mamma and you. And bid her gently press a kiss Upon my throbbing brow, Just as my angel mother did. Father, you are weeping now!

'I love you, but I long to go Where God is light, and I am sure There are no blind ones there. But, father, before you go tonight To meet your promised bride. Please sing the song my mother sang The night before she died

'And let me kneel here by your side, And to our Savior pray. both

The prayer was ended, and the song. "I am weary now," she said. He gently bore her in his arms And laid her on the bed. But as he turned to leave the room

Through life's long, weary way."

One low, glad cry was given, He turned and caught one glimmering The blind girl was in heaven.

They laid her by her mother's side, And raised a marble fair, And on it these simple words:
"There are no blind ones there."

Dear Nomad .-- Are you too buy to lis ten a moment to another country cousin who has nothing in particular to say? The appreciation I feel for the woman's page (fashions included), and the emotions stirred up by Irlsh Molly's recent letter, just compel me to say something. Now, after saying I like the page very much, the first thing I have to say sounds very much like "knocking." but

That article on the lives of farmers' wives made me smile, and yet a wee bit mad, to think anyone could picture us as living in such drudgery, for I am a farmer's wife, and can tell you there are no women in this vicinity who work like that. ## Y JUNIORS AND TIGERS FULLERTON, IN DODGERS' TRAINING CAMP, SEES A CHANCE FOR BROOKLYN IN PENNANT CHASE IF SHORTSTOP HOLE IS PLUGGED

[BY HUGH S. FULLERTON.] Staff Special.

Augusta, Ga., March 14.-Brooklyn seems, at first glance, almost hopeless as National League pennant contender. The surprise is to find the training camp of the Dodgers full of hope and enthusiasm and with a spirit that has existed in a Brooklyn team only once in the last decade, and that for a short time

Probing more deeply into the makeup of the Dodgers, one is surprised to find that it has the framework of a pennantwinning team. Given consistent pitching, a shortstop, and Brooklyn looms up as one of the pennant contenders. Man for man today (with pitchers eliminated), carries a club a long way. Brooklyn has a stronger team than the

The worst fault of the Brooklyn team has been the abnormal laziness or carelessness of its pitchers, and the same fault commenced to crop up almost be-fore the team had landed in its training camp here. Much of this was due to careless management of Dahlen during the last few years. Dahlen did not compel the pitchers to do the fielding that all winning pitchers should do.

Shortstop looks like the weakest spot on the team. Joe Tinker, lost by Ebbetts' tinkering, would have made the team look much stronger. Neither Egan nor Cutshaw can play short, and neither wants to try it-which makes it necessary to find a shortstop from the new material.

The catching department is fair, with no sign of additional strength.

Much is expected of Ed. Reulbach, the former Chicago star. Reulbach himself is full of confidence. He thinks a change to Brooklyn is just what he needed. is mainly superstition. While with the Cubs, Reulbach always pitched his best in Brooklyn. Given confidence in himself, Reulbach is a great pitcher. Charlie Ebbetts cannot refrain from 'helping" his manager and the results

VICTORIA LOSES FIRST TO TORONTOS DENY THAT THEY JUMPED Large Crowd is Disappointed at Way Teams Play Hockey.

FINAL SCORE IS 5 TO Coast Champions Play Ragged Game, While Torontos Work in Listless Fashion.

Toronto, March 15 .- By a score of 5 to 2 the Torontos, the National Hockey Association champions, defeated Victoria, Pacific Coast League champions, here last night in the first of five games for the Stanley cup. It was the first Stanley cup game played in Toronto, and was witnessed by a large and a disappointed crowd. The Victoria team was below form and the Torontos lacked appraisant A great deal of speed and some clever stick handling characterized the visitors' but too much individual work spoiled the effects. It was a ragged game from start to finish. Victoria had as many shots as the Toronto forwards, but they were chiefly from outside of the defence

According to Wiarton fans that town was robbed of the It will be the real hockey fixture of the season for local fans and a good many of them will make the trip. Local fans are confident that the Northern League champs will make the Dutchmen step all the waf, as there has been a great deal of rivalry between Berlin and London since the defeat of the Dutchmen last season.

CIVIC PRESENTATION TO WESTERN "U" HOCKEY TEAM IS SUGGESTED

That a civic presentation to the Western University hockey team, which won the Northern League championship for London, should be held, is the suggestion advanced by The Advertiser.

The team has brought to London an honor which ranks next in importance to the winning of an O. H. A. championship, and it would be fitting to recognize the victory by a banquet and presentation. The Western University students, headed by Dr. Stevens, pulled hard for the boys to win, and it was the loyal support given by the men of all years that kept the fighting spirit The banquet that was tendered to the team by the university faculty was one of the happiest events in the history of the institution. The girls of the university provided a spread which augured well for a domestic science department, and the members of the faculty made a number of appropriate speeches. The winning of the Northern League has done more to foster "Western spirit" than any other event in years. Athletics are certain to gain an impetus, and the boys will be keen for another fight next

New York, March 15 .- A carnival of ough, bruising skating and a shower of goals marked the opening game Saturday night of the series at St. Nicholas rink between the Canadian professional teams, the Quebec team running over the Wanderers, of Montreal, rough-shod and winning by the overwhelming score of 16 There was no restraint whatever on the players, and although the officials ruled the offenders off the ice continually, a substitute was allowed under the rules, o that each team always had six men on the ice. The roughness was never checked and more than once the players smashed

The first period of the game was by ir the best, and after Quebec had taken lead of 3 to 1 the Wanderers showed a thrilling outburst of speed and fine skat-ing by Otie Cleghorn and Bert Roberts which tied the score. The game grew rougher thereafter, and it was so bad in the second and third periods that both the second and third periods that both teams were continually rushing in substi-tutes to take the places of the offenders who were ruled out of the game. One ex-citing encounter took place between Art Ross, of the Wanderers, and Mummery, of the Quebecs. Both are 200-pounders and they came together with a resounding crash. Both tried each other's skill ing crash. Both tried each other's skill at tripping and they were sent from the for five minutes. Later on they repeated the rough work and were banished again. ## HAD INDIGESTION.

Almost Despaired of Ever Getting Well.

When your food has not been properly digested, your body has not received the benefit it should. The exertions of the gastric juice have been confined entirely to removing the unmasticated, undigested portions of, food, which they cannot properly digest as speedily as possible from the body, therefore only giving the blood a small percentage of nourishment with which to feed the tissues. No wonder then that Indigestion and Dyspepsia attack the stomach. No medicine can surpass Burdock Blood Bitters as a cure for this particular disease. It regulates the bowels, promotes perfect digestion, makes pure blood, tones the stomach, and thus restores perfect health to the debilitated system.

Mrs. Mary MacKay, Hunter's Mountain, N.S., writes:—"I was troubled with Indigestion for more than ten years. I tried several Doctor's medicines claiming the power to cure, but all without success. Having heard of the many cures effected by Burdock Blood Bitters. I decided to give it a trial, After taking two bottles I was completely cured. My appetite which was very poor, is now good, and I can eat most everything without any disagreeable feelings. I can strongly recommend B.B.B. to anyone suffering from Indigestion."

SENIOR O. H. A. CHAMPIONS BEAT WINNIPEG MONARCHS

Winnipeg, March 15. - Weakened through the loss of the services of Del Irvine, the star coverpoint, and Stan Marples, the brilliant wing player, and worn out through gruelling matches on St. Mirren .... 29 7 19 3 30 53 17 heavy ice during the past three days, the Monarchs were beaten by the Toronto R. and A. A. tea mhere Saturday night by the score of 8 to 5 in the first of two exhibition games.

With Dick Irvine back in the line-up the Monarchs showed wonderful improvement over their Allan cup form and despite the wet ice the play was fast from start to finish. The Torontos came in Manchester U. .. 30 13 13 for a lot of abuse from the spectators for their underhand tactics instopping players by such mean methods as catching the opponent's sweater, hooking or tripping when out of reach, which is foreign to western hockey. Don't you know that such contraptions always a gamble with death, and why will sconer or later let your rupture get those who manage to live through it the best of you?

Don't you know they are almost sure to cripple you up so you won't be able to puts you on guard against being fooled keep at work, won't be able to make a and against throwing money away. Aren't you afraid they'll gradually let you get so bad that sooner or later you'll have to face a dangerous operation? No More Belts, Leg-Straps or Springs.

It is our guaranteed rupture holder. It is as big an improvement over elas tic and spring trusses and so-called "ap-pliances" as the modern locomotive is over the first steam engine ever built. Sixty Days' Trial to Prove It.

We have so much faith in it—have seen what it has done for so many others that we are willing to make one espe-cially for your case and send it to you for sixty days' trial. Willing to give you plenty of time to see for yourself just how good it is.

If it doesn't keep your rupture from coming out or from bothering you in any way, then you can send it back and it won't cost you a single penny. It is the only thing we know of for rupture that you can get on long enough trial to make sure; because the only thing good enough to stand a long and thor-

"Wanted to purchase, a jogging cart."—A small advertisement similar to the foregoing appeared three times on the classified advertisement page of The Advertiser. After reading the advertisement one would think a man advertising for such an article, second-hand, was expecting too much, even of such a well-known and widely-read paper as The London Advertiser. The man knew the paper, however, and knew that almost anything he wanted he could get through a small want ad. So he inserted the advertisement, and would you believe it, Mr. Reader, inside of two days he had letters from five people, all wanting to sell him a jogging cart. The same results are to be had from any kind of an advertisement in the classified section. Some men receive as many as 50 replies, while the majority average about five. The cost of these small advertisements is small, and will suit the purse of anyone.

Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," Etc.

A long time afterward the throbbing I-I hope you will forget what I said. You eased, bell-buoys whistled and clanged about them; the sea suddenly grew calm and lifeless; they slid over it as if it were a quavering sheet of ice; and lights sneaked out of the fog and approached with stealthy swiftness. Bells rang below and above them, sailors sprang up from everywhere, and calls were heard below; the rattling of chains and the thumping of heavy luggage took the place of that steady, monotonous beat of the engines. People began to infest the deck, limp and groaning, harassed but voiceless. A mighty sigh seemed to envelop the whole ship—a sigh of relief.

Then it was that these two arose stiffly about them; the sea suddenly grew calm

Then it was that these two arose stiffly from their sheltered bench and gave heed the things that were about hem.
The Channel was behind them.

The Channel was benind them.
They journeyed to Paris by the night mail. He was waiting for her on the platform when she descended from the "wagon lit" in the Gare du Nord. Sleep passengers crowded with them into the customs department. She, alone among them all, was smiling brightly, as if the them all, was smiling brightly, as if the world could be sweet at an hour when, by all odds, it should be sleepiest.

"I was up and on the lookout for you at Amiens," he declared, as they walked off together. "You might have got off there, you know," with a wry grin.

"I shall not run away from you again,
Brandon," she said earnestly. "I promise,

Brandon," she said earnestly. I promise, on my honor."

"By Jove," he cried, "that's a relief!"
Then he broke into a happy laugh.

"I shall go to the Ritz," she said, after her effects had been examined and were ready for release.

"I thought so," he announced calmly, "I wired for rooms before I left London."

"Really, this is ridic——"

"Don't frown like that, Hetty," he pleaded

As they rattled and bounced over the cobble-stones in a taxi-metre on the way to the Place Vendome, he devoted the whole of his conversation to the delicious breakfast they were to have, expatiating glibly on the wonderful berries that would ome first in that always-to-be-remembered meal. She was ravenously hungry by the time they reached the hotel, jusby the time they reached the hotel, just from listening to his dissertation on chops and rolls and coffee as they are served in Paris, to say nothing of waffles and honey and the marmalade that no Eng-lishman can do without.

Alone in his room, however, he was quite another person. His calm assur-ance took flight the instant he closed the ance took flight the instant he closed the door and moodily began to prepare for his bath. Resolution was undiminished, but the facts in the case were most desolating. Whatever it was that stood between them, there was no gainsaying its power to influence their lives. It was no trifle that caused her to take this second flight, and the sooner he came to realize triffe that caused her to take this second flight, and the sooner he came to realize the seriousness of opposition the better.

He made up his mind on one point in that half-hour before breakfast; if she asked him again to let her go her way in peace, it was only fair to her and right in peace, it was only fair to her and right that he should submit to the inevitable. She loved him, he was sure of it. Then there must be a very good reason for her perplexing attitude toward him. He would make one more attempt to have the truth make one more attempt to have the truth cept the situation as hopeless, for the time being at least. She should know that he loved her deeply enough for that.

She joined him in the little open air cafe, and they sat down at a table in a Folling in that, he wo remote corner. There were few people breakfasting. In her tender blue eyes there was a look of sadness that haunted even as she smiled and called him

"Hetty, darling," he said, leaning for-ward and laying his hand on hers, "can't you tell me what it is?" She was prepared for the question. In her heart she knew the time had come when she must be fair with him. He observed the pallor that stole into her warm, smooth cheeks as she regarded him fixedly for a long time before replying.

"There is only one person in the world who can tell you, Brandon. It is for her to decide. I mean Sara Wrandall." to decide. I mean Sara Wrandall."

He felt a queer, sickening sensation of uneasiness s...ak into existence. In the back of his mind, a hateful fear began to shape itself. For a long time he looked into her sombre eyes, and as he looked the fear that was hateful took on something of a definite shape.

"Did you know her husband?" he asked, and somehow he knew what the answer would be.

was startled. Her lips remained parted.

He watched her closely. "Has this—this secret anything to do with Challis"

"It has," said she, meeting his gaze steadily. His hands-clutched the edge of the table in a grip that turned the knuckles white. "Hetty!" he cried, in a hoarse whisper.

You—can't mean that you—"
"You must go to Sara," she cried huriedly. "Haven't I told you that she is "Were you in love with that infernal coundrel?" he demanded flercely. "Sara knows everything. She will tell

Glasgow, March 16 .- Dr. James Devon, prison commissioner for Scotland, when of the Bell Telephone system, and its attacked today by an irate militant suffragette, armed with a dog whip, took the law into his own hands and knocked his assailant down with a well-aimed left > hand blow. The woman, whose identity was not disovered, met the prison commissioner at the entrance to the Duke street prison and belabored him over the head and shoulders with the whip.

Dr. Devon, who is an advocate of forcible feeding, and is bitterly opposed to what he considers the farcical release of suffragettes because they are suffering from the effects of "hunger strikes, promptly knocked her down. The woman was picked up by a policeman and placed under arrest, but Dr. Devon refused to prosecute her and she was released.

HAY BRINGS RECORD PRICE ON MARKET

Two Loads Sell at $15-Saturday Brought No Drop in Prices for Produce.

About half a dozen loads of hay comprised the whole market this morning. Only four had been weighed at 10:30. The scarcity of the supply ran the price up to a record; two of the loads sold for $15 per ton. They were of fair quality. The two others brought $13.50 and $12.50

The smallness of the market was due the large offerings on Saturday, although despite this, prices on Saturday remained unchanged in many lines, contrary to dealers' expectations. Eggs sold at the same price all Saturday, and brought 30 cents per dozen, retail, and 27 and 28 cents per dozen in crate lots. Butter remained unchanged also, and creamery in pounds, sold for 31 and 32 Fancy pound lots brought 30c per

Dressed hogs, which took a slump on Saturday, will likely continue at the lowered prices if the weather keeps mild. Vegetables were offered in large quantities on Saturday, but the prices were the same as quoted; there will not likely be any change until later in the season, for the early vegetables. ## PAGE'S EXPLANATION OUITE SATISFACTORY

President Wilson Says Trouble HON. FRANK COCHRANE Over London Speech Was Due to Misunderstanding.

[Canadlan Press.] Washington, March 16 .- Ambassador Page's explanation of his London speech touching upon the Monroe Doctrine and the Panama tolls repeal is satisfactory to President Wilson, who regards the incident closed so far as the administration is concerned. When a full report of the speech is received it will be forwarded to the Senate, which asked for it by Senator Chamberlain's resolution. President Wilson told callers today that any agitation over Mr. Page's references was caused by a misunderstanding of what teh ambassador said, and that a fuller report of the speech showed that the ambassador had correctly stated the situation. The President is satisfied that Mr. Page referred to the Panama repeal as "not to please England," instead of "not merely to please England."

D. A. Thomas, the Welsh Coal Baron, Said To Have Options On Valuable Field.

Nasoga Bay, 450 miles north of Van couver, the port from which the proposed railway to Ground Hog starts, is said to be well adapted for a coal distributing plant, the harbor being well protected and capable of berthing large vessels. The estimated cost of building a railway into the coalfields, equipping a colliery, providing rolling stock, buying coal-carrying ships and general organization on a working basis, is not less than $10,000,000. The quantity of coal in sight is estimated by engineers at over one billion tons.

New Regulation May Go Into-Effect April 1-Losses Are Enormous.

Toronto, March 15 .- By a resolution of the Toronto Live Stock Exchange, passed over a year ago, a regulation will go into effect on April 1, docking all cattle wearing horns $2 per head. This in a way sounds unreasonable, but when it is considered that the to the Gazette says: Hon. Frank Coch- slaughterers of cattle have to stand annually losses of from a quarter to half a million dollars on account of concealed bruises, the regulation does not seem movement has been on foot to possibly postpone the date this regulation is to come into effect, and several prominent buyers interviewed on this subject express themselves as not being desirous of working what might be considered hardship on the farmers and drovers by this regulation.

Enormous Losses. At the same time they point out the enormous losses which their houses have to stand, which is traceable directly to horned cattle. However, there seems to be a fair opinion that if some other method can be employed to prevent these bruises that they would be agreeable to postpone this regulation. One idea suggested is that the farmer or drover procure a fine-tooth saw and cut off the sharp tips on the horns before they leave the farm, and at least before they Tipping Is Painless.

This tipping is absolutely painless, easily done, and prevents the beast from about one inch or an inch and a half of the hard tip of the horn is sawed off, care being taken not to cut into the quick, and does not set the cattle back. It is clearly evident that if the Humane Society would see some of the bruised carcases and torn hides on the cattle they would in themselves enforce the regulation throughout our fair province to require handlers of livestock to at least fit the animals in such a way that they would not damage each other

Over Reception of His Ulster Proposals Made Last Week —Refuses Details.

[Canadian Press.] London, March 17 .- "I do not feel much ncouraged over the reception of my roposals in regard to Ulster," said Premier Asquith today in the House of Commons. He was replying to a number of requests for further details of the scheme of local option under whose provisions the nine counties of Ulster will be permitted to vote separately on the question whether they shall be left out of the control of the new Irish Government at Dublin. Premier Asquith said he fully adhered to his proposals in the hope that they would form a "basis of settlement." He added: "I am anxious in the interests of an agreement and peace that the mair principle of our proposals should be considered on their merits, without being encumbered with minute details liable to discussion into back waters."

Mrs. John S. Skeaff, Suing Husband for Alimony, Says He Told Her She Was Not His Legal Wife.

[Canadian Press.] Toronto, March 16,-"I am amazed that ny wife should make such statements; resent and deny them." This is in the statement of defence of ohn Stewart Skeaff, in the action brought by Mrs. Skeaff to recover alimony and an ante-nuptial gift of $20,-000. Mr. Skeaff's amazement is particularly related to an allegation by Mrs. Skeaff in her statement of claim, which she herself is said to have composed, to the effect that while she was trying to nurse her sick child back to life her husband told her that their marriage in Quebec was not legal in Ontario, and that she was not really his wife, and that again." Alfmony $20 a Week.

The master in chambers has made an order allowing Mrs. Skeaff interim alimony at the rate of $20 a week. On the motion before him it was stated that the income of Mr. Skeaff was $6,500 a year: An affidavit by Mr. Skeaff states that the expenditures by his wife totalled in one year $200 over his salary. Mrs. Skeaff was Edith Alice Polson Murray, daughter of Prof. Clark Murray, of McGill, and was married to Mr. Skeaff in Montreal on May 8, 1895, Rev. Dr. Barclay officiating. The two lived in Montreal till August, 1895, when Mr. Skeaff was appointed manager of the Bank of Toronto at Cobourg. They lived there for ten years, till he was appointed accountant of the head office at Toronto, afterwards becoming acting manager of the Toronto branch, of which he has been manager since August, 1912.

In the statement of claim, Mrs. Skeaff avers that her husband started to quarrel about trifles immediately after their marriage, and that 18 days after the wedding she left him and returned to her father. There was reconciliation, she says, and she accompanied him to

Continued on Page -Even Mud Is Vocal. London's simon pure, really truly infallible spring thermometer, the mud of its streets, got up all over yesterday and shrieked (this is poetic license to say that mud shrieked), out the glad tidings that "spring was here." In the trees in the park the "spring

robins," those elusive feathered creatures that have been "discovered" for lo, these many weeks, disported themselves. The songsters pulled out the tremolo stops and piped the annual spring song.

To quote the staff poet yesterday was a day that caused the passions of the soul to oosen themselves from their winter bondage and rejoice in the freedom of the perfect spring day. Whatever it loosened, it sent out thousands to enjoy the first sniffs of the coming summer. The "valley," the "Kennels," "Chelsea Green," "Woodland," the "Coves," and the thousand and one spots 'round London that are the mecca of the spring sniffers were literally besieged yesterday Big and little, fat and thin, tall and short, children and adults, sought the out-of-doors yesterday. All day the sidewalks were crowded. Overcoatless men were no uncommon sight. They seemed the rule rather than the exception. Everybody wanted to be out walking, and apparently everyone gratified that wish. Though the ice in the river has not started to play tag with itself, to any appreciable extent, the bridges were crowded all day by the curious to whom the water and the annual river "break-

Just what constitutes the exact reading of the law so far as liquid refreshments for club members is concerned, is the point involved in an action upon which Magistrate J. C. Judd will hand down judgment next week. This morning Dictator W. R. Shaw and Steward J. H. Wilson, of the Loyal Order of Moose appeared in police court charged with an infraction of the liquor cense act, as a result of the raid made n its lodge rooms last Thursday, when 45 pints of ale were seized by License Inspector A. Galpin, and Police Sergeants Robert Birrell and John Barn-

E. W. Scatcherd, appearing for the defendants, declared that his clients had a perfect right to have ale in their rooms, as the society was a chartered one, and t was not being sold, but was there for the use of members of the society only. Crown Attorney James B. McKillop contended that the society could not even have ale at a banquet, as a recent amendment to the liquor act prohibited it being consumed at club banquets, where there was no license. Decision was reserved for one week.

John was making an appeal to the fathers and their sons, and we should do the same today. The way to make this appeal is to introduce more things of interest to boys and young nen in the work of the church.

When I speak in this manner,' elared the minister, "I do not intend to leave the impression that the work of the women in the church is not of importance or that young girls are not lost or do not need to be saved. Rev. Dr. Flanders was preaching on the subject, "Thy Will Be Done." "God's will," he said, "is not that the beautiful homes should sink down into the slums, but that the slums should be lifted up. and carrying bows, turned back in the day of battle." This verse, from the 78th Psalm, was the text chosen by Rev. C. R. Gunne, for his sermon at Christ Church. last night.

"Cowardice is a terrible thing in our eyes as it has been to all great nations from time immemorial," said the speaker. 'Spartan mothers told their sons going to battle. "Come back with your shield, or on it."

"The British nation is, we believe, the bravest nation in the world," said Mr. Gunne, "and it is so, because the British are a Christian people, clothed in the armor of Christians. The formidable army of Ephraimites, although well armed, and large in numbers, turned back from the fight because they kept not the covenant of God, and refused to walk in

"This story is a warning to us in days of battle,-for every day is a day of battle," said the speaker. "If we turn our backs to the fight, we will be overcome by it. When we turn back it is boys—that is the problem. The speak- because we are forgetting our covenant with the Lord. Sometimes the unexmust organize these boys into groups pected happens, and we break out into a fit of temper; it may be in business, Give them responsibility and they will pleasure, or work of some kind, but we prace up and become good members, do not carry them on as we covenanted with God. We are then no better than For a boy to be put in a church pew with God. We are then no better than and have Christianity shouted at him the Ephraimites in the Psalms," declared

"In this age of sin we often forge harmonize with the sphere of the how God has led us, just as He led the growing boy. Other institutes are Israelites out of the desert, and through the Sea of Gallilee. We forget goodness to us. Perhaps at some time, maybe after a serious illness, when we are brought closer to God, we have determined to live better; but soon get back into the old ruts again. Pope Celestine, Says Rev. S. F. McKegney.

CITES HISTORICAL TIMES

Interesting Sidelights On Ireland's Patron Saint.

Preaching on the subject, in St. David's Church yesterday, Rev. S. E. "The children of Ephraim being armed, McKegney traced the life of the apostle of Ireland. "The assertion is," said the preacher, "that St. Patrick was sent on his mission by Pope Celestine. Even if this could be demonstrated it would nothing. We would do the Church of Rome of the fifth century a grierous njustice if we liken it to the present Church of Rome. On the other hand, the undisputed writings of St. Patrick make no mention of any commission from the See of Rome. We draw one of two conclusions from this silence: Either St. Patrick was not sent by the Bishop of Rome; or if he were, he thought it of so little importance that he never men tioned it. "Further, Prosper Aquitanus, special friend of the Pope, and a notary of the Roman See, who wrote years after St. Patrick had commenced his labors, deribes fully the unsuccessful mission of Palladius, but is silent concerning

St. Patrick. "The Venerable Bede, who lived more than 150 years after St. Patrick, and was supplied with materials from the Archives of Rome for his history, never mentions St. Patrick, although he can tell considerable about Palladius. fact, for 200 years Rome seems to have been totally ignorant of St. Patrick and his great work. Since that time she has thought so little of the apostle of Ireland that she has never seen fit canonise him. Then we find that the Irish church was for seven hundred years independent of Rome. The controversies between the Celtic and Roman missionaries in England concerning the tonsure, and the time of keeping Easter s sufficient to prove this. The ancient Irish Church came under the Roman yoke through the agency of the Norman English. "In 1155 Pope Adrian IV. sent a bill to Henry II. of England, authorizing him genuineness of this document has been disputed in a recent article in the Catholic Record; but it is admitted by the following Roman Catholics: Moore, D'Arcy McGhee, John D. Alten, Dr. Lanigan, John O'Driscol, and Dr. P. W. Joyce.

"At the moment of conquest in 1172, Adrian IV. being dead, Pope Alexander III. ratified his predecessor's grant. From this time to the reformation the Irish Church was under the papacy, and during the period no Irishman was made archbishop of Dublin. Some people deny that the present Church of Ireland is the same as that planted by St. Patrick. To these objectors we would put three questions: First, what church has had possession of the ancient building through the centuries? At Armagh, we find the Cathedral on the same spot on which St. Patrick built a church. On the opposite hill is a new Roman Catholic church. "Some argue that the Roman Catholics were driven out of these churches," the pastor continued. "If so, let them give the date of this eviction. And before answering let them agree among themselves in which reign it took place, Henry VIH's, Bloody Mary's or Elizabeth's. Secondly. what church shows the succession of olshops back to the earliest times? The Church of Ireland. The earliest bishop the Roman Church can show is David Kearney, consecrated at Tournay, as Archbishop of Bashel in 1603 by three for-sign bishops. "The Church of Rome in Ireland is an importation dating from 1603. Lastly, what church preaches the Gospel which St. Patrick preached? In his writings there is no mention of the peculiar doctrines of the Church of Rome. We thus see his belief in Holy Scripture and his firm faith in Christ."
