HUN PINCERS FAIL TO NIP ITALIAN LINE ALONG PIAVE; AUSTRIANS BALKED BY ALLIES

Karl's Chiefs Fighting Desperately To Hold Slight Gains Made.

LOSE HILLS OF ASIAGO

French Forces Repel Heaviest Attacks With Appalling Losses to Foe.

New York, June 18. — Arthur S. Draper, cabling from London, England, to the Tribune, says the Austrian drive may result in the war's most colossal reverse to Teuton arms.

The Italians are showing amazing speed in their counter-blows, and are inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy, according to correspondents of the London dailies. The Austrians are sustaining large losses from the concentrated fire of the Italian batteries.

Pincers Not Closing.

London, June 18.—The Austrian pincers are not closing upon Italy with the precision of last October, when they forced back the Italian armies of General Cadorna from the Julian Alps to the Piave river, and from the northern mountain regions almost to the plains of Venetia. In fact, they do not seem to be closing at all.

The upper jaw, in the Venetia Alps, is stalled under the resistance of the British, French and Italian forces, and neither one seems to have the force necessary to bring it across the Piave River and push back the Italian troops which are clogging its path.

In the Alps the Austrians have been unable further to advance their lines, since their initial onslaught last Saturday. Everywhere, from the Asiago plateau sector eastward to the Piave River all their attacks have been quickly repulsed by the Allied troops, who, in their turn, have delivered counter-attacks, regained lost terrain, inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy, and taken a considerable number of prisoners.

And Held on the Piave!

All along the Piave River from the mountain passes through which the torrent wends its way southward on its race to the Adriatic Sea, fierce fighting is going on, especially on the Montello plateau; in the region of the famous Zenson loop and farther south from Fossalta to the marsh country around Capo Sile, some 20 miles east of Venice.

The Italian war office announces that the enemy everywhere is being held along the Piave. On the crucial sector of the Montello plateau, which bars the way from the northeast to the Venetian plains, the Italians have strengthened their positions on the northern edge of the plateau and repulsed the Austrian attacks. Likewise near Masrada and Candelu attempts by the Austrians to effect new crossings of the Piave were frustrated with heavy losses.

Vienna Not Admitting.

From Vienna comes a variant report. It does not concede to the Allies any gains of ground in the mountain region, saying that all their counter-attacks were repulsed. Concerning the fighting along the Piave it asserts that the Austrians have gained ground at numerous points, and that the battle is following its intended course. Consolidation of the gains on the Montello plateau and progress on the southern wing which runs from Fossalata to Mestre are claimed.

In addition the Austrian war office says the number of prisoners taken in the fighting has increased to 30,000, and that 120 guns, in addition to mine throwers, machine guns and war material have been captured. The prisoners taken by the Italians Monday at one point aggregated 1,550, which would bring their total and those of the Allies well in the neighborhood of 6,000.

Unofficial advices are to the effect that the Austrians have thrown fourteen bridges across the Piave along a front of about 14¼ miles between Zenson loop and the Congeliano railway bridge, but that the Italians are heavily engaging the enemy at all points and have the pontoons under their gunfire.

RUNNING RISK OF CAPTURE.

LONDON, June 18.—Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.—Reuter's correspondent at Italian headquarters points out that unless the Austrians can establish solid bridgeheads where they have crossed the Piave and get guns over, especially onto the small section of Montello, which they still hold, probably the only result of their crossing will be that they will become prisoners.

The Austrians, according to the Evening Standard, now occupy the west bank of the Piave, from the Conegliano Railway to the Zenson bend, a distance of about fourteen and a half miles. They have thrown fourteen bridges across the river. These, however, are under the Italian fire.

The Austrian forces, the correspondent says, are attempting to establish two bridgeheads on the right bank of the Piave for future operations. The Italians have sufficient reserves to avoid any danger on the part of the enemy.

Whether the enemy efforts upon Montello plateau are an attempt to move towards the rear of the famous Monte Grappa to the mountain positions, or else to menace the Venetian plains and the city of Venice, it is certain that the Austrians are fighting desperately to hold what they have so far attained.

The Italian command feels that while the first great attempt to advance has been blocked, each day will bring new efforts, and with each effort the fighting will be more arduous.

WESTERN LULL CALM BEFORE GREA TBLOW

Paris Expects Early Double Smash of Germans in France.

Paris, June 18.—The lull in fighting activity persists on the western front, but military critics expect another battle will be begun soon by the Germans. The Petit Journal thinks the Germans will strike either the road to Calais or in the direction of Paris, perhaps on both fronts simultaneously. The Echo de Paris believes that the next German effort will come between Montdidier and Chateau Thierry, across the Oise and Aisne to the Marne.

PARIS NOT WORRYING AT GERMAN THREATS OF GREAT SHELLING WITHIN FEW DAYS

Deputy, However, Advises To Prepare for Leaving If Necessary.

Paris, June 19.—The announcements in Swiss newspapers, attributed to the inspiration of the German general staff, predicting that Paris will be subjected to an intense bombardment within a few days, are meeting with cynical comment untinged by any touch of perturbation.

"The Germans have as much chance to enter Paris as I have to occupy Du Barry's apartments or the Versailles Chateau," was the remark of a girl worker, given as an indication of the temper of the rank and file.

"But if the Germans should get within bombing distance of Paris and shell the city, would you go?" the young woman was asked.

"Yes—go to work as usual,' she replied.

Take Precautions.

A somewhat different view of eventualities is taken by Louis Puech, a Paris deputy, who is taking a prominent part in the work of the committee of deputies for the defence of Paris. He writes to the Matin advocating the taking of certain precautionary measures.

"The capital is no more threatened today than it was three months ago," says the deputy in his article. "Nobody doubts the solidity of the front, nor fears a fresh withdrawal. But we must exercise foresight, which we too often have failed to do in the past."

The deputy argues that guns with a greatly increased range may some day hold Paris and its suburbs under fire, when panic and serious disorders might develop among the millions of inhabitants, while there would certainly be a certain destruction of supplies and valuables in the city, the material wealth of which runs into many millions.

The exodus from Paris would immediately become general if Paris became the target for an intense bombardment, the deputy predicts, and it has been decided in that event to make transportation available for everyone and to extend it without cost to those unable to pay.

If Exodus Necessary.

Persons to the number of 50,000 could be taken out daily under this plan, and measures have been taken to raise the number to 150,000 daily in case of an emergency.

The accumulated wealth of the capital, the deputy adds, would be removed progressively with everything affecting the national defence taken first, and then all things affecting the national interest otherwise, such as art collections. Private property, raw materials, tools and merchandise would follow in due course.

WORK IS STOPPED ON BIG AMERICAN PLANT FOR MAKING CHEMICALS

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 19.—Work on the million-dollar plant under construction north of this city for the manufacture of chemicals used extensively in the war ceased abruptly yesterday. At 4 o'clock a company of soldiers from Fort Niagara marched on the grounds and the workmen were ordered to pick up their tools and leave.

The contract for the construction of the building is held by the J. G. White Engineering Corporation. J. J. McClellan, the concern's representative here declared he had received no explanation. Army officers refused to tell why the work was stopped.

PEMBROKE'S FIRE LOSS PLACED AT $600,000, BUT NOBODY INJURED

Pembroke, June 19.—A large section of commercial buildings on the main street of Pembroke and several fine dwellings are the toll of the fire which broke out here at 6:30 last evening, and for a time threatened the destruction of the whole town owing to prevailing high winds and limited fire fighting facilities.

The property loss is estimated at $600,000, exclusive of a loss of $500,000 which Joe O'Kelly, cigar manufacturer, claims to have suffered in the destruction of an immense stock of wines stored in the basement of his building occupied by the F. W. Woolworth Company. Fortunately there was no loss of life and a fair percentage of the loss is covered by insurance. The flames, fanned by a strong wind, fairly ate everything in their path.

Some thirty families were rendered homeless when the houses or flats above the various stores were burned to the ground.

U. S. TRADE COMMISSION SETS MAXIMUM PRICES FOR NEWSPRINT PAPER

Washington, June 19. — Maximum newsprint paper prices were fixed today by the federal trade commission in accordance with an agreement between the attorney-general and manufacturers of the United States and Canada, as follows: Roll news in carlots, $3.10 per 100 pounds; roll news in less than carlots, $3.22½; sheet news in carlots, $3.50; sheet news in less than carlots, $3.62½.

Ten companies participating in the arrangements, three American and seven Canadian, produced 250,000 tons of newsprint paper, or nearly 50 per cent of the output on the continent in 1917.

The agreement also fixed maximum commissions for jobbers and other middlemen at 15 cents per 100 pounds for carload lots; 4 cents on less than carlots, and 60 per cent on less than ton lots.

NOBODY WANTS THEM

Germany Taking Means to Prevent Emigration After the War.

Washington, June 19.—Consideration in Germany of legislation to prevent emigration after the war to evade payment of the heavy taxes that must then be levied, already is being considered, according to information reaching the state department. Enactment of a law requiring persons liable to personal taxes to leave 20 per cent of their taxable property in Germany in event of emigration has been proposed.

The bill as drafted, according to the Nord Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, provides that persons who have hitherto had their permanent residence in Germany shall be liable to payment of personal taxes and state and communal taxes for a period of five years after the conclusion of peace. The penalty for tax evasion through emigration is fixed at deprivation of nationality, which, however, can be restored later by voluntary payment of the taxes.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS RESCUED FROM FIRE

Buffalo, N. Y., June 19.—The hospital building of the Erie County Poorhouse was burned today. Fifty patients were carried to places of safety by nurses and attendants. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

The flames spread to the tuberculosis and the maternity hospitals, detached buildings, connected with the main hospital by covered passageways. Both were destroyed, bringing the loss up to $150,000.

The fire followed an explosion in the pharmacy in the main hospital building. More than 300 patients were removed by the hospital force without mishap.

SUBS CAN'T ENTER OR LEAVE NEST

Amsterdam, June 19.—The entrance to the harbor of Zeebrugge is blocked, according to Lieuts. George Coward and John Read of the British Royal Air Force, who landed in the province of Zeeland Monday and are to be interned at The Hague. The cement ships sunk in the harbor are still there, and the Germans are afraid to blow them up for fear they will also destroy the sluices. The lieutenants assert that no submarines can enter or leave Zeebrugge. The blockade of Ostend is not so complete, but the Germans are having great trouble there.

The motor of the seaplane carrying Coward and Read failed while they were bombing Zeebrugge. German aviators attacked their machine but they managed to reach Holland and escape capture by the Germans.

BLAMES CHICAGO AGITATORS FOR WINDSOR I. W. W. TROUBLE; 36 OF RIOTERS BROUGHT HERE

Official Military Statement Issued by Acting District Commander Explains Circumstances of Border Riot Which Caused Hurried Mobilization of Garrison Unit — Men Found To Be Under Draft Call Brought to City Under Guard.

Although officers and men of the 1st Battalion, Canadian Garrison Regiment, were called out last night in readiness for a hurried call to Windsor, in connection with the I. W. W. trouble there, none were sent to the border city. Early this morning 36 of the rioters, found to be under the provisions of the military service act, were brought to London by special car, and are now under guard here. They will be compelled to serve in the Canadian overseas forces. They well first be dealt with as defaulters under the M. S. A.

An official statement has been given out at military headquarters here dealing with the Windsor trouble, and announcing that those who break the laws of the country will be proceeded with to the fullest extent of the law.

Chicago agitators are blamed by the military authorities for the trouble at Windsor.

The official statement, issued by Lieut.-Col. H. D. Smith, acting general officer commanding this military district, follows:

"Five hundred Russians in Windsor and Walkerville refused to register under the national registration act, stating that they were advised by people from Chicago not to do so. Civil police arrested one man who was agitating among them and circulating Bolsheviki and I. W. W. literature, against the provisions of the defence of the realm act.

"The Russians then formed a party to secure his release, and it was found that 57 of these men did not have naturalization papers or consular certificates. Consequently they were liable as draftees under the military service act.

"Some 21 of the 57 arrested were married; 36 were single and of military age. The 21 were released, pending further investigation and the 36 were held.

"The assistant adjutant-general and the assistant provost-marshal of the district were sent to Windsor to investigate the case, it having been reported to headquarters here.

"A mass meeting of Russians and Austrians was held at Ford last night, when threats were made to proceed to Windsor and release the ringleader in confinement there and also to the armories to release the 30 men held under the military service act.

"In view of the possibilities of a riot, a party from the Canadian Garrison regiment was prepared to pro-

REMEMBER FRANCE AS YOU REGISTER

Ottawa, June 19.—A bulletin issued by the Canada Food Board today reads as follows:

The population of France was about 39,000,000 when the war broke out. About 7,000,000 able-bodied men were conscripted, 1,000,000 have since been killed and over 1,000,000 more were put out of action. Agricultural production has dropped to nearly one-third. Women, children, old men and crippled soldiers are struggling to till the fields of France. Horses were also conscripted for military service, and French women hitched themselves to the plows and harrows in place of draught animals. Frenchmen are fighting Germans, French women are fighting starvation. Deaths from starvation among the Allies in Europe since the war are estimated at 4,790,000.

Remember that on registration day when you are asked to help with the harvest.

FOE REOPENS OFFENSIVE; BIG SMASH AT RUINED CATHEDRAL CITY FAILS

German Attempt To Encircle and Capture Rheims Broken Up By French Fire and Fierce Counter-Attacks—Unable To Reach Even Front Lines At Most Points—Gain Footing In Woods to East of City But Are Quickly Expelled.

Paris, June 19.—The Germans last night, after a violent preparatory bombardment, began an attack on the Rheims front, between Vrigny and La Pompelle, the war office announced today.

On the western front of the attack the enemy was not even able to reach the front line. In the centre, before the city, the Germans were completely repulsed and suffered heavy losses. East of Rheims the French were equally successful.

The French are resisting the German blow with entire success.

The text of the statement follows:

"Last night at 6 o'clock the Germans delivered a violent preparatory artillery fire along the whole front of Rheims from the region of Vreigny, west of the city, as far east as La Pompelle. At 9 o'clock the enemy infantry began an attack on the French positions between these two points.

"The French troops resisted the German attack with complete success, the counter-barrage of the French artillery proving very strong.

STOPPED BY FRENCH FIRE.

Between Vreigny and Ormes the German assault troops were stopped by the French fire and forced to return many times to their lines of departure, and were not finally able to reach the French positions.

"Around Rheims violent combats developed, during the course of which the enemy suffered heavy losses and was everywhere repulsed.

"East of Rheims the fighting likewise ended to the advantage of the French. The Germans having been successful in penetrating the woods northeast of Sillery, were driven out by a French counter-attack.

"Prisoners taken in the region of Rheims declared that the town was attacked by three divisions, which were ordered to take the place at all costs during the night."

The front of the new German attack is the semi-circle drawn by the enemy about the city of Rheims in the recent offensive on the Aisne front. The Rheims region comprised the left flank of the German attack. Ground was given by the French on both sides of the cathedral city, but the town itself and the nearby protecting forts were held against the German onslaught and have since remained in French possession.

RHEIMS HEMMED IN.

Rheims, however, was hemmed in on three sides by the enemy, and it has been considered only a question of time when the Germans would make a concerted movement to oust its defenders. The front of the present attack from Vrigny, west of the city, to La Pompelle, around the semi-circle to the east, is approximately fourteen miles.

THE WAR SITUATION

Fierce attacks are being made by the Austrians to overcome the Italian resistance along the Piave, but the defensive line still holds. Apparently the enemy sees his only hope of success in enlarging his gains across the Piave, having been given a disastrous check in the mountains from west of Asiago to the Piave.

Held In Mountains.

In the mountains the Austrians have been generally on the defensive since they were checked and then thrown back over the terrain gained Saturday on the first day of the offensive. The French and British around Asiago are under a heavy enemy bombardment and the French Tuesday repulsed a strong local Austrian effort. Along the Val Sugana and against the Bastion of Monte Grappa the enemy holds further attacks in abeyance.

Along the nearly 30-mile Piave line the situation has not improved greatly from an Allied viewpoint, although the Austrians have been defeated at most points in efforts to enlarge their gains. Where and in what force the enemy has crossed the river, and how far he has progressed into the Venetian plain are not outlined clearly, but apparently the Italians have given most ground on the north around Montello and on the south of Capo Sile.

Fighting For Heights.

From their foothold on Montello, an important plateau which dominates the country between Bassano and Treviso, the Austrians are making violent attempts to drive the Italians off the height entirely, while the Italians are fighting just as determinedly to keep the enemy close to the river bank. The fighting the past two days has been favorable to the Italians. In the centre, from Maserada to Fossalta, the Austrians are being held well in check and have been unable to make any progress across the Piave despite repeated attempts.

Seemingly the Austrians have pushed back the Italians several miles between Fossalta and Capo Sile and along the Fossetta Canal, which runs southwest toward Venice.

Austria In Bad Case.

What gains the enemy has made, however, have been hardly commensurate with the preparations made, the shells expended and the lives lost. Emperor Charles, unless his troops can make swifter progress, will have to call off his "hunger offensive" and face the populace at home. Reports have reached Switzerland that Socialist manifestations occurred in Vienna Monday.

The Germans apparently are awaiting results on the Italian front before resuming the offensive in France and Flanders. If the Germans expected that the Austrians would advance and compel the Allies to send reserves to Italy and thus weaken the western front, it is probable that they will have to change any plans based on such anticipations.

The lull on the western line was broken last night. The Germans, after a violent preparatory bombardment, began an attack in the Rheims region, on a front approximating fourteen miles. During the lull the French and British had improved their positions at isolated points between Rheims and Ypres. The German artillery fire has increased in intensity from northwest of Montdidier to the Aisne.

AMERICAN HOSPITAL SACKED BY TURKS

Outrage in Persia May Be Considered Act of War.

Washington, June 19.—Sacking of the American hospital at Tabriz, Persia, and seizure of the American and British consulates thereby, invading Turkish troops, was reported to the state department today by the American minister at Teheran.

If the report as it reached the minister is officially confirmed the outrages may be considered an act of war and settle the long-pending question of whether the Ottoman allies of Germany should be formally listed among America's enemies.

According to today's dispatch the Turks sacked the hospital over the protest of the Spanish consul, in charge as representative of American interests and in defiance of the Spanish flag flying over the building.

S. AMERICAN TROOPS MAY TRAIN IN STATES

Paris, June 19.—Premier Clemenceau's newspaper, l'Homme Libre, says advices have been received from Washington to the effect that a plan is under way for training troops of South American republics in the United States.

PERSHING PATROLS BUSY ALONG MARNE FRONT.

Washington, June 19.—Continued artillery fighting in the region of Chateau Thierry and along the Marne is noted in General Pershing's communique for yesterday, which reached the war department today. American patrols have crossed the Marne and taken prisoners.

The communique follows:

"There was continued artillery fighting in the Chateau Thierry region and on the Marne front. Last night our patrols crossed the Marne and captured several prisoners."

'BLUE DEVILS' WELCOMED BY SHERBROOKE FOLK

Sherbrooke, Que., June 19.—The "Blue Devils" of France, or Alpine chasseurs, were given a great reception this morning on their arrival here from New York, en route for Quebec.

The veterans of many fights in the defence of France were officially welcomed by Mayor White, who presented addresses in French and English. The 53rd Regimental Band was in attendance, and all the French-Canadian societies of the city were strongly represented. After the official welcome the "Blue Devils" were taken in automobiles through the principal thoroughfares, which were lined by thousands of spectators, many of the factories having closed for a couple of hours to give the employees an opportunity to join in the reception.

HAILSTORM WRECKS PANES OF SASKATOON

Saskatoon, Sask., June 19.—One of the worst hailstorms in the recorded history of Saskatoon broke over the major portion of the city last evening, shattering windows and street lights and stripping vegetation, but fortunately doing very slight damage to persons who were unfortunate enough to be caught in the midst of it. The residential district of Nutana, south of the river, was totally swept and not a whole pane was left in the windows exposed to the south. Greenhouses and verandas were split to pieces.

POST IS RECAPTURED BY RAID OF BRITISH

London, June 19.—British troops last night successfully raided the German lines in the region to the south of Hebuterne, north of Albert, the war office announced today. A British post recently taken by the Germans near Vieux Berquin on the northern side of the Lys salient, was recaptured, some prisoners and two machine guns being taken in the operation.

The text of the statement reads:

"We carried out a successful raid last night south of Hebuterne.

"In the Vieux sector a party of our troops attacked and recaptured one of the posts taken by the enemy in this locality on the night of June 14. We secured a few prisoners and two machine guns."

EDUCATIONISTS OF LONDON INDORSE CONVENTION IDEA

Fall in Line With Reconstruction Project.

NAME REPRESENTATIVES

Western "U" Staff Member Delegated to Act With Others.

A meeting of local citizens interested in the project of assembling a national conference on the character and citizenship aspects of education, was held in the council chamber, city hall, last night, when Professor W. F. Osborne, chairman of the faculty of the University of Manitoba, gave an address on this subject. Professor Osborne outlined the project, which is backed by influential educationists of Manitoba, the idea in view being to improve our Canadian system of education by suggestions by all citizens interested in this work.

Matters pertaining to education will be discussed at the national conference, but the present administration of education by the various provincial heads is to continue, according to the plans formulated. The meeting held last night was a preliminary one, Professor Osborne being engaged in a tour of the province in order to arouse interest in this project on the part of representative citizens of each community.

Professor Osborne outlined the development of education in Germany, with the resulting efficiency, and he attributed the unscrupulousness of this nation to a system of education along the wrong lines. He stated that England was at present undergoing an educational revolution, planning for reconstruction after the war, which would astonish the world in its development. He urged that those interested in each community get together and make the proposed national conference a success.

At the conclusion of Professor Osborne's address an informal discussion of the matter was entered upon by those present, practically all being in favor of the project. Mr. McKay, director of technical education for Ontario, was present, and he heartily favored the project, as did also Principal Radcliffe of the Normal School. Professor Sherwood Fox of Western University, was appointed to represent the educationists of the city, and to keep in touch with the Manitoba educationists who are to arrange the national conference.

Among those present at the meeting were Messrs. F. E. Leonard, his Worship Mayor Somerville, Major Hume Cronyn, M.P., C. B. Edwards, J. A. Dickinson, W. N. Manning, A. A. Langford, Dr. K. P. R. Neville and Rev. D. C. MacGregor. Professor Osborne stated at the meeting that this project had met with favor in all meetings held throughout the Province of Ontario.

WAIT CONSTITUTION BEFORE ORGANIZING

"Native Sons of Canada" Postpone Local Meeting.

The organization of the Native Sons of Canada League, which was to have taken place on Monday evening last, has been postponed for some time. The promoters of the movement have written to California for copies of the constitution and other instruction. When this information is received a meeting will be called.

Those who are boosting the society say that they are not after any particular scalp, but several names are mentioned of men in high positions who would not be there if the league had been organized when the appointments were made and its doctrines upheld. It is hinted that an effort may be made to have some of these replaced by others when the association gets well under way.

The objects of the Native Sons of Canada is to see that all the good positions in the municipality are given to native-born Canadians. The fact that many of the department heads of the city are not Canadian-born has caused indignation in some quarters. Hence the agitation for the Native Sons movement.

SPECIAL LICENSE IS NEEDED FOR ICE CREAM

At a meeting of the London Retail Grocers' Association held in the Imperial Bank chamber last evening the new food regulations were read by the president. It was pointed out to the members of the association that all grocers who handle ice cream must secure a special license, in addition to the regular grocers' license.

The picnic arrangements were left in the hands of the executive.

The meetings will be discontinued through the summer months.

150 ACRES IN CITY TRANSFORMED INTO WAR GARDEN PLOTS

Half Acreage Controlled by Vacant Lot Association.

500 LOTS TAKEN UP

Inspection Being Made of These by Chairman and Secretary.

An inspection of the gardens is being made this afternoon by Ald. S. R. Manness, chairman of the Vacant Lot Gardening Association, in company with Gordon Philip, secretary of the board of trade, who is also secretary of the association. This is the first official examination of the plots, but it is not connected with the judging for the prizes in any way. Any of the lots which are not being cultivated (if there are any), will be noted and allotted to other applicants.

Ald. Manness reports that he found one such the other day, but it is now planted in potatoes. About 500 plots have been taken up by the gardeners of the association this year. This is estimated at 75 acres. In addition the ground cultivated by the employees of the various companies of the city, and that worked by individual owners will bring the total up to at least 150 acres.

When it is considered that the major portion of this land is under intensive cultivation to garden vegetables some idea of the amount of food which will be harvested within the city limits this year can be realized.

Ald. Manness says that judging from the lots he has seen since the vegetables have started growth, there will be a large crop. Everything is promising at present. The gardeners are attacking the weeds with true heroism and the gardens are kept free from this curse that the preacher tells was sent on the earth as a punishment to Adam and Eve.

An extra incentive to the amateur farmer is the generous prizes offered in each ward for the best gardens. This refers to those that are under the supervision of the Vacant Lot Gardening Association. Prizes are also being given to the employees by several firms for the best vegetables grown on their lots this summer.

Many of the families are already using radishes and similar vegetables from their gardens. In many the peas are in bloom and the potatoes are showing signs of buds. In the near future "home-grown new potatoes and green peas" will be a daily article of diet on the tables of the city. There is a word of caution given by the committee, however. As in many other movements everybody is enthusiastic at the start. When the weeds begin to show great activity some allow their ardor to cool in direct proportion. It is pointed out that the man who "sticks" is the one who wins out.

A meeting of the association will be held the latter part of this week for the purpose of passing accounts in connection with the plowing of the lots and other business. It is expected that the judges with E. B. Hamilton the chairman, will make their first inspection some time next week.

ANOTHER INCREASE MADE IN RATES OF VICTORIA HOSPITAL

Semi-Private Rooms Will in Future Cost $1.50 a Day.

Another increase has been made in the rates of Victoria Hospital. Patients in the semi-private wards will in future pay $1.50 a day. The present rate is $1.25 a day. Semi-private wards are those accommodating three and four patients at a time.

Following the consideration of the hospital estimates by the council, the hospital trust, at the suggestion of the joint committee on estimates, increased the rates on all private wards. These were jumped 50 cents a day, and have brought a large additional revenue. A total of $10,000 was dropped from the hospital estimates, and it was hoped to make this up by increased rates. Recently Mayor C. R. Somerville said that he thought the committee's hopes would be realized. The latest increase should help it achieve its object.

The receipts at the hospital for May were $6,653. New patients admitted during the month totalled 337, while those discharged were 331. A total of 203 patients were being cared for at the end of the month. The stork made 26 trips to the hospital during the month. Deaths totalled 17.

The board passed a resolution of sympathy to Miss Margaret Stanley, lady superintendent, who recently sustained a broken leg.

DODGED ARMY SEVEN TIMES, GOES TO PEN

St. Marys Youth Sentenced to Two Years in Police Court Today.

THREE OTHERS TO JAIL

Military Authorities Appealed for Stiff Penalty on Lad Who Wouldn't Stay "Caught."

Four army deserters, William Wood, J. B. Denomy, William Henry Leppard and L. M. Link, pleaded guilty in police court this morning when arraigned on the charge.

William Wood, a St. Marys youth, was sentenced to a term of two years in the Kingston Penitentiary, and the other three to periods of six months each in jail.

In the cases of Denomy, Leppard and Link each expressed a willingness to serve overseas and Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon stated that he would order their release whenever application for that purpose was made by the military authorities.

Capt. A. McAuley, deputy provost marshal, representing the military authorities, made the statement to the court that Wood had been arrested seven times in the past few months by the Chief of Police of St. Marys, who apprehended the youth on each occasion on the request of the military authorities.

"Has he ever been in uniform?" asked Magistrate Graydon, addressing Capt. McAuley.

"No, he has not; he has managed to slip away on every occasion, when we brought him in, before we had time to get him into army clothes," replied Capt. McAuley.

In view of these circumstances, Capt. McAuley pressed for the heaviest penalty.

Leppard stated that his home was in Mitchell. Questioned by Capt. McAuley, he admitted that his father had been fined $100 for "harboring" him after he had been called upon to report for service.

The other two gave no particular reasons for deserting, but expressed a willingness to serve at once.

TUSSOCK MOTH IS MENACE TO APPLE CROP OF DISTRICT

Much Damage Being Done by This Fruit Pest—Spraying Urged.

Although the apple crop is one of the largest in many years, much damage is being done to the apples in this district by the larvae of white-marked Tussock moth.

The larvae are pretty, hairy caterpillars, about one inch and a half long when full grown. They can easily be recognized by their red head. The eggs are laid in a mass and are covered over with a white frothlike substance. Egg masses are usually situated on the bark of the trunk or on large branches of the trees, and sometimes are found on the leaf. The larvae feed on foliage and also on the fruit of the tree. Some are full grown in July and others not until August.

The young caterpillars can be killed by spraying with two or three pounds of arsenate of lead in forty gallons of water or of Bordeaux mixture with diluted lime-sulphur. Another way to destroy the insect is to go around and remove the egg masses.

The insect does not only do harm to apple trees, but to almost any high tree. The result is that the fruit is badly damaged and is of a poor class.

LOCAL VOLUNTEERS OUTNUMBERED BY M. S. A. DEFAULTERS

Four Only Compared to Five Caught Under Draft Act.

Four volunteers, four defaulters under the military service act, and one apprehended man appeared before the medical board at the local mobilization centre on Tuesday. The four volunteers came from Windsor, and all were placed in Category A-2 by the medical board.

The defaulters and the apprehended man, after being boarded, were sent to the W. O. R.

The following is a list of the volunteers accepted Tuesday: S. B. Hepburn, W. O. R., Windsor; A. C. Bredtman, W. O. R., Windsor; R. K. Apt, W. O. R., Windsor; S. H. Read, W. O. R., Windsor.

BEING RETAINED IN CANADA BECAUSE OF HIS WOUNDS

Lieut. G. A. Wheable, M. C., to Undergo Treatment.

RELEASING "C" MEN

Special Provisions for Some Securing Discharges Under New Orders.

Lieut. Geoffrey A. Wheable, M. C., on leave from overseas, is retained in Canada for further medical treatment. Lieut. Wheable was a former member of the teaching staff at Chesley Avenue Public School, and left here with the 142nd Battalion as a subaltern. He was transferred to the 1st Battalion in France, where he was severely wounded. Lieut. Wheable is at present in Canada on furlough.

NO DISTINCTIVE NUMBERS.

Camp orders today state that headquarters telegram dated November 17, 1917, regarding special block defaulters' numbers is hereby cancelled. No distinction will be made between the defaulters under the M. S. A. and ordinary recruits. The 4,000,000 series will be utilized as ordinary numbers.

TRANSPORTATION PROVIDED.

C. E. F. routine orders state that:

All returned soldiers under medical treatment, when traveling on furlough at the public expense, or when proceeding from one hospital to another, or when traveling from their homes to hospital for treatment, are to be granted first-class transportation, including sleeping car accommodation, provided no other sleeping car accommodation is available, and in the opinion of the officer commanding the hospital, it is advisable that such transportation should be issued.

N. C. O.'s and men upon discharge are to be given transportation to their homes, or to the nearest point on the line of railway, instead of to the place of their enlistment, provided they were a resident of such place for at least three months prior to enlistment. This transportation is to include first-class sleeping car accommodation, where no other sleeping car accommodation is available.

N. C. O.'s and men whose homes are in the United States are to be issued with transportation on discharge only. If they have been given leave of absence to visit their homes prior to discharge, and are ordered to report back to their regimental depot in Canada for medical board, the same will be at their own expense.

MADE A CAPTAIN.

Lieut. Ernest W. Hancock (C. A. M. C.) is appointed captain at the Army Medical Corps Training Depot, according to today's district orders.

RED CROSS COTTAGES.

The central council of the Canadian Red Cross Society has very generously decided to erect Red Cross cottages in connection with the larger military hospitals throughout Canada, and proposes to operate and maintain the same as social centres for the benefit of the patients and their friends.

General officers commanding districts will consult with the local Red Cross organization concerning these buildings.

TREATMENT FOR EX-SOLDIERS.

C. E. F. routine orders state that:

Any former member of the Canadian naval or military forces or of the imperial or Allied forces, who is undergoing industrial re-education in Canada, may receive treatment in, or at a military hospital whether the disability from which he is suffering is, or is not due to service, or whether the sickness is or is not traceable directly to said service.

If requiring treatment he will be admitted to, or treated at a military hospital on the presentation of a card signed by the district vocational officer, I. S. C., certifying that he is a former member of the said forces, who is undergoing industrial re-education.

SOME "C" MEN RELEASED.

1. All category "C-2" and "C-3" soldiers who come under the following classification, may be discharged at the discretion of officers commanding districts:

(a) Men not required for transfer to other units and for whom no suitable employment can be found.

(b) Men found unsuitable for work required of them.

2. N. C. O.'s of any "C" category who are found to be inefficient will be given the opportunity of taking their discharge or reverting to the ranks. Draftees coming within these terms are not to be discharged, but are to be given leave of absence without pay until the men in category "C" are ordered to report for duty or for re-examination. The registrar is to be informed accordingly.

The men who are returned from overseas without having served in theatre of actual war are to be dealt with in the same manner.

ARRIVAL OF RETURNING SOLDIERS.

It is pointed out for the information of all concerned that in future definite notification as to the arrival of certain troops at points other than district headquarters cannot be given.

1. In order to assist soldiers to proceed to their homes with the least possible delay provision was made in Routine Order No. 535 that furlough and transportation would be granted at the clearing depots and that troops could, therefore, leave the special train at the nearest point to their homes and proceed individually without first reporting to district headquarters. It will, therefore, be impossible in such cases to forward notification to next of kin or others concerned as to the exact time of the soldier's arrival at his destination.

MAJOR DOE OFF STRENGTH.

Hon. Major Edward G. Doe, chaplains' services, is struck off the strength of the C. E. F. in Canada, in today's camp orders. Major Doe was a prominent priest of this district prior to proceeding overseas as a chaplain. He was the first Roman Catholic chaplain from this district to go to France, and spent three years at the front.

ON STRENGTH AGAIN.

Lieut. Thomas H. Murray, Canadian Postal Corps, is reinstated in the C. E. F. for further medical treatent, according to district orders, and the following officers having returned from overseas are taken on the strength of this district: Capts. H. Bell and G. H. Emery, both of the Army Medical Corps.

WILL GO OVERSEAS.

Ptes. W. Roy Hamilton and Antoine Beaugrand of the 1st Battalion, Canadian Garrison Regiment, have been released from civil prison in order to proceed overseas with the next draft, and are transferred to the 1st Battalion, Western Ontario Regiment, for this purpose, according to district orders.

DISCHARGES AUTHORIZED.

Camp orders authorize the following discharges: Ptes. William G. Schwindt and Donald G. McGugan, to re-enlist in the Royal Air Force, and Pte. Floyd M. Laskey, being under age. The men discharged are all members of the 1st Battalion, Western Ontario Regiment.

LIBERALS WILL HAVE CANDIDATE IN NORTH HURON

Plans Are Being Made for Hot Fight in the Riding.

SCORE WM. PROUDFOOT

Strong Resolutions Disapproving Member's Course Passed.

(By Staff Reporter.)

WINGHAM, June 18.—"That we, the Liberals of North Huron, in annual meeting assembled, hereby place on record our entire disapproval of the course pursued by William Proudfoot, K.C., M.P.P., not only during the recent federal election campaign, but as well, if press reports are correct, in his speech during the discussion on the address at the opening of the recent session of the Ontario Legislature. His remarks on that occasion, 'The results of the recent election contest showed that the people at home were prepared to back up the boys at the front,' is equivalent to saying that every elector who did not support the so-called Union Government is a rebel and is a direct insult to every supporter of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Oppose Extension.

"That we are not in favor of the extension of the parliamentary term and the compact made in regard to by-elections by Wm. Proudfoot, K.C., M.P.P. That we regard with undiminished confidence the principles and policies of Liberalism and upheld by the great leader of the Liberal party, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and while regretting that he was defeated at the election of December last by methods that were un-British and un-patriotic and dishonorable in the extreme, we would express the sincere hope that he will still for many years be spared to give Canada the benefit of his ripe experience and of the high-minded patriotism by which he has constantly endeavored to cement the people of Canada in a genuine unity of heart and purpose

Praise Advertiser.

"That, as none of the daily papers at present published in Toronto represent the true voice of Liberalism, we would favor the establishing of a daily paper in the provincial capital for the support of Liberal principles and Liberal leadership. The only Liberal paper with any backbone is The London Advertiser, and it should receive the hearty support of every Liberal elector of this riding.

"That we, the Liberals of North Huron, send our warmest greetings to our soldiers overseas. We hear with pride of the glorious achievements and of the great name they are making for themselves and for Canada, and we trust that under Providence they and the other forces of the Allied armies may soon be able to sweep back the invading hosts of the enemy and save the world and civilization from the danger that impends, and that the president of this association cable this message to the commander of the Canadian forces overseas."

Passed Unanimously.

Passed as it was almost without a dissenting voice, the above resolution fell like a bombshell in the camp of William Proudfoot, K.C., leader of the Opposition in the Provincial Legislature. The bombardment that accompanied it was no long-range affair, but was given at close range. The flaming shots were, in fact, delivered at the large and live annual gathering of the North Huron Liberal Association held right in the Opposition leader's own county Tuesday afternoon in the Wingham town hall.

The Liberals of North Huron will be heard from. They made this plain by the fighting spirit manifested at the meeting, when they determined to contest the seat made vacant recently when the member, A. P. Musgrove, accepted the appointment of postmaster there.

Liberalism Strong.

The inevitable principles of Liberalism dominated the meeting, and though at times the varying opinions that occupied the attention of members of the association last fall came in for mention, the right of liberty of thought, the liberty which alone makes Liberalism possible, was the common ground on which all the speakers met. All possible differences of opinion will be dropped and the organization will move forward with one purpose, it was decided.

"Organize, get together, prepare, fight, win." These will be the watchwords of the Liberals of North Huron during the coming weeks.

Under the leadership of Sheldon Bricken, the new president, and the capable executive elected with him, the organization is starting out to work hard for success

Ladies Will Help.

A feature of the meeting was the prominent part in the association taken by the ladies for the coming year. No less than four ladies were chosen members of the executive, and in addition as a result of amendments to the constitution made at the meeting the women were placed on an equal footing with men, as far as eligibility to hold office or vote was concerned. Each municipality and each polling subdivision will have its quota of ladies on its own committees.

Though the resolutions above quoted were passed practically unanimously, a brief discussion regarding the reference in the resolutions to the Dominion election followed the taking of the vote.

"I voted for Union Government, and many of us did, and we're sorry for it now," declared a prominent member of the association.

Another stated that he voted for Union Government, and did so honestly, as was the right of every Liberal to think freely and as they were told by the great leader, Sir Wilfrid, to decide for themselves.

Wrong Principle.

"The indefinite lengthening of Parliament's life by the members at Toronto was absolutely wrong," declared Abner Cozens. "It is striking at the very principles of responsible government and of Liberal ideals. It is totally contrary to the principles of Liberalism. It is just as contrary as the actions of the Borden Government, for there is no Union Government. (Cheers.)

"We don't acknowledge William Proudfoot as leader either," he added.

"We stood by William Proudfoot in this riding. You all know how we stood by him. But I think that by his action in the last House that he is a quitter," was the hot shot delivered by L. Kennedy.

Mr. Proudfoot had a right to see that the voters' list was in such conditions that the electors could record their vote, but he had made no such effort, said J. W. King, adding that his statement, if reported correctly, regarding supporting the boys at the front was an insult to every Liberal in Canada.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was free from the spirit of intolerance, said S. D. Cameron of Lucknow, who, though outside the riding, asked the privilege of speaking, and he urged more tolerance among the Liberals. The intolerance in the resolution regarding Mr. Proudfoot would take away his influence, he said.

"He has no influence," someone came back.

"We wouldn't be Liberals if we didn't grant a man the right to vote as he saw fit," declared A. Cozens, replying to Mr. Cameron.

Not in Same Class.

"We do not intend to sit at the feet of a supporter of the Borden Government, whose whole campaign was one of intolerance and bigotry, and take lessons in tolerance. If he upholds William Proudfoot he is putting down Sir Wilfrid Laurier. You can't put them both on the same platform," said John A. McKenzie. "I object to being tied up here by Proudfoot and not being able to send a man to the Legislature until a year after the war. We are shedding our blood today to put such ideas down," he added.

"We have got to stand by Liberal principles, and by the great leader, Sir Wilfrid, who led us through the fight," said George H. Mooney.

In referring to the question of an election, President Bricker declared that they had certain grievances such as the $87 candlesticks for the Government house and $2,600 for coal also.

J. G. Anderson, former M. L. A. for South Bruce, referred particularly to the presence of so many women at the meeting. The way the constituencies had been tied up by both leaders in the assembly was bad. It was not up to either Mr. Hearst or Mr. Proudfoot to say whether there should be a contest in any riding. He could understand why Mr. Hearst did not want any by-elections. They had not been going well with him since 1914, but he could not understand Mr. Proudfoot's stand.

Went Too Far.

The latter also went too far in extending the parliamentary term. From one year to another was all right, but not for such an indefinite period as till the end of the war. "While you were freezing last winter," he said, "hundreds of tons of coal, it was said, went into the Government house, where only a figurehead sat."

It was finally decided to contest the riding and to leave to the executive the calling of the nomination meeting when the organization was completed in the next two weeks.

The retiring president, Archie Anderson, could not be prevailed on to accept another term, and in the election that followed Sheldon Bricker was chosen head of the association. Secretary H. B. Elliott, though anxious to retire, was given another term. All the officers went in by acclamation, though keen contests were promised in the nominations.

The New Officers.

The officers are: President, Sheldon Bricker of Fordwich; first vice-president, Mrs. W. P. Ferguson, Brussels; second vice-president, W. H. Fraser; third vice-president, Morgan Dalton; secretary, H. B. Elliott; treasurer, Mrs. J. L. Geddes; auditors, Mrs. John Wilson and Mrs. H. B. Elliott, together with the following chairmen of municipalities, J. R. McNabb and Miss Mabel Bailey, West Wawanosh; Joseph Dalton, Ashfield; William Robinson, East Wawanosh; William Hastie, Jun., and Mrs. Ernest Harris, Howick; Peter McDougall and Mrs. Robert Black, Turnberry; John McArter and Mrs. Charles Campbell, Morris; Luxton Hill and Mrs. Popplestone, Blyth; Abner Cosens and Miss P. Powell, Wingham; Gavin Davidson and Miss Elda Hazelwood, Wroxeter.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

REGISTRATION EUCLID.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

All registration offices are the same registration office.

A bee-line may be made from one office to another.

All registration seekers are equal to one another.

On the same card, and on the same side of it, there may be many queries about the same thing.

The lines of waiters for registration, though produced ever so far both ways, will never meet.

The same question in a different form may be produced any number of times.

The process of registration may be reduced to its lowest nuisance by a series of "No's."

A wrangle is the disinclination of one registration seeker to yield his place to another.

A registration line of waiters is a long line of patience and impatience, which cannot be described, but is equal to anything.

Subtract half the age given by a lady from age given, and it will then be less than her actual age, which is absurd—but accepted.

AMY CAMPBELL.

INSTALLING EQUIPMENT IN LONDON STREET CARS

Air Brake Start Made on the Local System.

London will have an up-to-the-minute street car, equipped with air brakes, in operation next week. The London Street Railway Company has tried out several different brakes, but this is the first time that one of the air variety has been installed. Car No. 106 of the Ridout line is the one which is being equipped. It is believed that it will be ready for the road again by Monday next.

A. B. Brown, an expert of the Canadian Westinghouse Company, is here to superintend the installation of the system. A motor-driven air compressor attached to the frame of the car underneath will operate the brakes. The system is similar to that which Mr. Brown installed on the cars of the London and Lake Erie Railway and Transportation Company when the line was first opened.

Nine other double-truck cars will be fitted with air brakes as soon as the material arrives.

WOULDN'T WEAR UNIFORM EVEN IF APPOINTMENT WERE MADE PERMANENT

Acting Policewoman Declares "Plain Clothes" Far Better For Her Work—Sends Girls Home When Found Improperly On City Streets —Woman Patrols Advocated For London.

Citizens of London may have forgotten that they have an acting police matron in their midst. The acting policewoman hasn't forgotten the citizens. In fact, she has her eye right on them a good deal of the time. It is possible there are two acting policewomen. There is one, anyway, and, even if she doesn't wear a uniform and carry a baton, she has behind her the strong arm of the law and the authority to make arrests. Authority is outwardly manifested in the regular police badge with which the chief has endowed her. Even this is kept concealed from public view, excepting when the occasion arises for more than the persuasive power of a gentle woman's speech.

Watch your step! If it doesn't conform to the correct standards for steps, and isn't set in the right direction, the policewoman may get you. The very fact that she is ununiformed and unbatoned probably makes her work all the more effective. Wrongdoing and exceedingly careless people are the more liable to be taken unawares.

For example, when a number of personable-looking women are reading the bulletins in front of a newspaper office, the foolish girl who is hanging around unnecessarily in front of amusement places nearby doesn't for one minute suspect that one of these has the authority to tell her to go right straight home and cease making herself conspicuous and stop waiting to involve some youth who shouldn't be involved.

Tried To Involve Soldier.

Such a girl was noticed standing near the bulletins one evening not long ago. The policewoman had known the girl before and stopped just behind her. Presently two soldiers paused to read the bulletin. The girl requested one to go into the place of amusement nearby and bring out a certain young man whom she described.

"I don't know him, and I couldn't do that," objected the soldier.

Whereupon the girl continued the conversation she had started by remarking she hadn't seen him at any of the dance halls. He replied he didn't go, to which she answered that lots of pretty girls went to the dances, and suggested that he and his friend had better come along. They didn't accept the invitation, so the girl in the case joined another girl standing at some distance. She was startled when a voice, which she knew, fell on her ear, the voice of the acting police matron. The acting police matron promptly told Nellie (which isn't her real name) that she had overheard the conversation with the soldiers. Nellie replied that she was sending the young man for her friend's husband, whereupon friend declared she hadn't requested that anything of the kind should be done. Police matron talked quietly to the girls a few minutes, with the result that they haven't been seen since making themselves conspicuous to a police matron downtown.

Used Badge Only Twice.

"I have been obliged to use my badge only twice," said the acting policewoman to The Advertiser today. "Notwithstanding the fact that I have been doing this work for two or three months. I have had a large share of straightening out of family tangles, and some of them seem hopelessly involved. One of the occasions on which the badge was brought into play was in connection with one of the 'family tangles.'

"A number of young girls are allowed to be out on the streets at night, who are just out for the fun of seeing the people. They don't mean any harm, but if their parents or guardians had sense or control, they wouldn't permit it.

"A few nights ago, I met two girls, not much more than children. I asked them what they were doing so late downtown. They said they didn't know what time it was. I told them it was almost 11 o'clock, and that they were to go right straight home. I said I would watch that they did. They scurried off like two frightened little rabbits.

Wouldn't Wear Uniform.

"Even if I took the work permanently, I wouldn't wear a uniform. I think the 'plain clothes' officer has so much better chance to observe while people are off their guard.

"Some things that look suspicious turn out to be perfectly all right, and in that case those concerned aren't embarrassed by knowing that a police official has had an eye on them. Again, cases can be dealt with without attracting to them publicity and attention that would be harmful. I sometimes think it would be a good thing if we had a number of women patrols in London, such as are doing such excellent volunteer work in other cities. A woman who knows human nature, who is sympathetic and wideawake has great opportunities to prevent wrongdoing and to help to make the city safe."

The acting policewoman interviewed, by the way, is a volunteer worker. Some time ago, it was announced that the police commission had vested two women with authority to do this work. Even if there is one of these known to some people, or suspected of doing the work, it is always possible that there is someone else with similar authority right round the corner, or waiting for an incoming train.

The policewomen has arrived in London, all right.

WEDDING BELLS

MOHAN—NESBIT.

A pretty June wedding was solemnized this morning at St. Mary's Church, East London, in which the principals were Miss Anna A. Nesbit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Nesbit, of this city, and Peter Mohan, of the firm of Mitchell & Mohan, public works contractors.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Irene Nesbit, and was given away by her father, while James Valencourt, of Welland, supported the groom. Rev. Father Kennedy, rector of St. Mary's Church, officiated.

Solos were artistically rendered during the nuptial mass by Mrs. Thos. S. Coleman, Miss M. Bergen and Fred Allen. Mrs. James Murray was the organ accompanist. Many out-of-town guests attended, including the bride's brother, Dr. William Nesbit, M.D., of Essex.

The bride was charmingly gowned in satin brocade and georgette crepe, with pearl trimmings and court train. She wore the conventional veil, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies and white roses. The bridesmaid was attired in white crepe de chine and georgette crepe, wore a pretty hat of pink tulle, and carried a bouquet of pink peonies.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception were held at the home of the bride's parents, following which Mr. and Mrs. Mohan left on a honeymoon trip for New York, the bride traveling in a suit of navy blue serge, with grey hat and shoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Mohan on their return will reside at 32 Belgrave Place, South London, and will be at home to their friends after July 1.

LIBRARY IS FILLED WITH CLUSTERS OF BEAUTIFUL BLOOM

The mid-June flower show, under the auspices of the London Horticultural Society, is at its best today, every inch of space on the broad tables all around the walls of the northeast room in the public library filled to capacity with clusters of beautiful peonies and roses, which predominate in the exhibit, and also pansies, phlox, sweet william, iris, larkspur and several varieties of rare novelty flowers. Jars of gay poppies have made their appearance since noon yesterday, and one of the clusters of peonies which has attracted much attention is a single variety.

A rose which has been much admired is a radical departure from the familiar pink, white, yellow and red varieties, the orthodox colors for roses. This one is a real beauty in hue called by some people orange, and by others "flame." Flame, perhaps, more accurately describes the poised for action effect of the petals as well as the color.

Numbers of visitors have found their way to the exhibit yesterday and today.

SOME AGE!

Assessor William Eastwood went to value the home of an aged colored man in the south end of the city. The latter was sitting in a chair, nursing a somewhat rheumatic frame, but he was in a cheerful mood.

"How old are you, boss?" the assessor asked.

"I kain't just prexactly disremember," said Uncle Wash.

"But you have some idea," said the official.

"Well, you recollec' when Christopah Columbus discovered Cahling's Crick, don't you?" said the old man.

"Yes, sure; I recall that."

"Well, I was here jes' nine yeahs 'foh that happanstanced," said the veracious one. Then he rapped his cane on the floor and shook with laughter, until his rheumatism made him stop, and he suddenly grabbed his right leg, and yelled "By Jehosaphat!"

$40 Poker Debt Legitimate Rules Judge In Court

Easter Sunday "Game" Has Sad Sequel in Division Court.

To borrow $40 from a friend and then have the friend get the money back a few minutes later in a poker game, was the sad experience related by P. L. Luco at a sitting of the ninth division court at the court house today. But that is not the saddest part of the story, because Judge Judd awarded Jake Kessell judgment for $40 and costs, so that Luco lost his borrowed "Kale," the friendship of his chum, his lawsuit and his reputation as a dead game sport.

Luco and Kessell are employed at McClary's, and both reside on Maitland street.

On Easter Sunday last, according to Kessell, his friend Luco borrowed $40. A few drinks of liquor followed and then a game of poker. Luco was out the $40, but Kessell still considered the debt held good. Luco thought not so, but Judge Judd informed him he would certainly have to pay back the $40 he borrowed, although he has lost the identical money to his friend Kessell a short time after it was loaned to him.

TROUBLE AVERTED IN MUNITIONS PLANT WITH INSPECTORS

Amicable Settlement Is Arranged by Management.

In one of the munition factories, the inspectors became somewhat dissatisfied with wages and working conditions. At one time it appeared that the trouble could not be easily settled. The two interested parties held a conference, however, and everything is running smoothly again. The inspectors are still at work, and apparently satisfied with the settlement.

In another east end munitions factory about eight of the workers objected to the scale of wages being paid and quit in a body. The management is reported to have said the men will not be taken on again. This occurred Tuesday. Today any person calling at the factory for work is given a job.

Trouble was said to be brewing among the machinists of another large east end factory also. The men were agitating for a nine-hour day, with no reduction in pay. It is said that the men have decided not to press their demands.

Reports are that several toolmakers, lured by higher wages, have recently moved to Brantford. There appears to be plenty of work in the many London factories at present, with wages high.

EXAMINATIONS ON FRIDAY

QUARTER OF ESTIMATED NUMBER OF ELIGIBLES ALREADY SIGNED UP

Pre-Registration Rush Continuing in London Daily.

NEW CARDS NECESSARY

Through Error Branch Postmasters Gave Out Receipts Improperly.

More than one-quarter of the estimated number of persons subject to registration under the manhood and womanhood power bill, have been registered in the city to date under the pre-registration plan.

Out of an estimated number of 44,000 persons, male and female, in the city of London who are compelled to register more than 2,000 have signed the registration cards.

The work of pre-registration is proceeding rapidly, an average of from 2,500 to 3,000 persons signing the cards each day. In the factories the work is being carried out so thoroughly and systematically that little will be left to do in the larger industrial plants on Saturday, registration day.

In the case of foreigners, the heads of the departments in the larger factories are not only insisting that the men register at once, but also that they bring their wives and all children over 16 years of age to register.

Registration booths were opened Tuesday in East and South London. In East London pre-registration is being conducted at Child's Drug Store, 632 Dundas street, and in South London at the Merchants Bank branch, 146 Wortley road.

Illegally Registered.

Owing to a misunderstanding of the regulations, the postmasters in West and East London pre-registered a number of persons who, under the act, must be regarded as illegally registered. According to information given out by Registrar R. A. Bayly today the 108 persons who registered at the subpostoffices in East and West London must re-register.

The cards and certificates sent to postoffices are to be used only after June 22, and these cards must state reasons why such persons did not register before or on the day named for registration. The certificates issued by postmasters are good only for 60 days.

"The 108 persons who were registered by the postmasters of West and East London must secure new cards, as such registration is purely illegal and the cards cannot be accepted," said Registrar Bayly today.

Up to the present time over 20,000 cards have been handed out to deputies in the city by Registrar Bayly.

Fair Sex Predominate.

An outstanding feature in connection with the pre-registration is the large percentage of women who are signing the cards. Some of the fair sex "hum and haw" a trifle when asked their ages, but the majority answer.

A number of assistant deputies are required for the booths in West London for registration day on Saturday. Registrar Bayly requests that women in West London who desire to perform a patriotic duty on June 22 telephone him at 514 and state their intentions.

Although The Advertiser has repeatedly stated that every male and female in Canada over 16 years of age must register letters continue to reach this office asking if persons of 60 years of age and over must register. There is no upward age limit provided. Persons of 16 and 96 alike must register.

COLLEGIATE TEACHER WILL BE PRINCIPAL OF WINGHAM'S HIGH

School Board Receives Third Resignation in Week.

Another of London's leading school teachers has resigned. He is the third in less than a week. W. H. Howser, teacher of mathematics at the Collegiate, is the latest to tender his resignation to the school board. He has been appointed principal of Wingham High School, and will assume his new duties on September 1.

As in the case of Principal G. F. Rogers of the Collegiate and Principal George Copeland of Alexandra School, the London board is sustaining a distinct loss in the departure of Mr. Howser. Besides being an excellent teacher, he has been deeply interested in athletics, and did much to encourage sports among the pupils of the Collegiate.

RECITAL GIVEN IN HEINTZMAN HALL IS MUSICAL SUCCESS

Pupils of Bert Weir Heard in Pleasing Program.

Assisted by the Centennial Ladies' Quartet, a number of piano and singing pupils of Bert Weir gave a recital in Heintzman Hall on Tuesday evening, which proved most enjoyable to the large audience which attended. Miss Gertrude Wood, who has a soprano voice of exceptional purity and flexibility, under excellent control, was heard to particularly good advantage in "Thou Charming Bird," from "La Perle du Bresil" (David), and the lilting "Chanson Provincale" (Dell Acqua). John Gillmore, baritone, gave a spirited rendition of "Honor and Arms" (Samson) Handel, which was admirably adapted to his melodious voice. Of the more advanced piano pupils, special mention might be made of Miss Margaret Campbell of Dorchester, who played with fine artistic appreciation "Hark, Hark, the Lark" (Schubert-Lizst); Miss Velma Branton, whose playing of the Andante and Allegro e vivace movements of the Mendelssohn Concerto in G Minor, was marked by technical ease, good rhythm and phrasing and style, and Miss Gladys Udy, who brought the evening to a close with a brilliant rendition of the Liszt Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 11.

Mr. Weir played the orchestral part to the Mendelssohn concerto on second piano. The ensemble work of the younger pupils, including a "Modern Chivalry March" (Webb), arranged for four pianos, sixteen hands, and "Marche Triomphale" (Rathbun) was commendable for its precision, evidencing thorough preparation.

The work of the pupils, indeed, throughout, reflected greatest credit upon the training given by Mr. Weir. In addition to those already mentioned, the following took part: Miss Eva Moore, Kenneth Smith, Miss Rose Leff, Miss Esther Richmond, Miss Evelyn Atkinson, Miss Nellie Chittenden, Wallace Weinstein, Miss Arva Lasenby, Ida Harris, Muriel Peglar, Marion Atkinson, Walter Gammage, Frank James, Wilfred Kelleher, Max Bardenstein, Evella Brownlee, Velma Blood, Verna Johnston, Roland Fox, Kenneth Smith, Hance Page.

The Centennial Ladies' Quartet, including Misses Gertrude Wood, Helen Thompson, Gladys Gower and Gladys Standfield, had a most cordial reception.

BUILD IN CHELSEA GREEN

New Factory Will Be in Operation by Fall—Cost $60,000.

Sixty thousand dollars will be spent this summer on a large machine shop in Chelsea Green by Beatty Bros. Tenders will be called immediately and work started as soon as the contracts have been let. The building will be 356 feet long by 108 feet wide and of cement construction. It is anticipated that it will be ready for occupation by this fall and will give employment to 500 men. The present machine shop at York street will be utilized by the woodworking department after the machinists have been transferred to the Chelsea Green factory.

An addition to the new molding shop is also being built with a view of doubling the present capacity. It will be equipped with all the latest devices for aiding the men and making the place comfortable.

Some alterations are also being made to the York street plant. The firm announces that further additions to the machine shop will in all probability be made next year. The building this summer will be carried out in such a manner that the proposed extensions of next year may be built with the least possible trouble.

The city has granted an extension of 450 feet to the siding to the new machine shop. The footbridge over the river at the L. and P. S. bridge will also be built this summer, it is said. This will make a short-cut to the factory for the men who live north of the river. The employees of the Richards-Wilcox Manufacturing Company will also be benefitted by this bridge, as will any residents of this district to the south.

FIGURES WANTED ON SALARIES PAID TO WORKERS OVERSEAS

Present Policy Declared Unfair by City Fathers.

Ald. Chas. Moorhead has asked that a statement be prepared showing the amount of wages which the city is paying to men who are overseas, so as to bring their military pay up to what it was before they enlisted. The alderman says that the citizens would like to know this. No one knows the amount involved, and it is hard to tell just where such a policy will lead to if the war continues much longer. The case of "Bud" McNab, of the engineer's staff, who has gone overseas with the Engineers as a lieutenant, brought the question to the alderman's attention.

Ald. P. J. Watt contends that it is no fairer for the city to pay its soldier workers the difference in their pay than it is to insure the local soldiers. His contention is along similar lines to that of the mayor, that all soldiers should enter the trenches on an equal footing as to pay, wages, etc.

The question will likely be discussed at a later date.

EXETER OFFICER WHO WENT WITH 161ST COMES IN TONIGHT

Major Heaman Invalided Home After Two Years' Service.

Major W. J. Heaman of Exeter, who has been invalided home after nearly two years of overseas service, is arriving in town this evening from the east for a little visit in the home of his father, William Heaman, and with his brother, A. M. Heaman, before going on tomorrow to join his wife and their three children in Exeter.

Major Heaman went overseas in September, 1916, with the 161st (Huron) Battalion, with the rank of major. In order to get to the front he accepted reduction to lieutenant's pay, though he was allowed to retain the rank of major. He is on sick leave as a result of injuries sustained some time ago.

20-22 MEN IN DISTRICT NO. 1 IN SERVICE NOW

Call of This Class Practically Exhausted—Few Remaining to Report.

NO DRAFTEES IN TODAY

For First Time in Months the Mobilization Centre Has None to Deal With.

With the exception of a few men, who will come in after June 24th, the call to men of 20, 21 and 22 years of age in this military district has been exhausted. The few who remain to report have been notified to join the 1st Depot Battalion, W. O. R., on June 24, 25 and 26.

A total of 4,366 men of this class has reported here for duty since May 6th. All have been absorbed by the W. O. R. with the exception of those who secured transfers to the Royal Air Force or those who were allowed to return to their farms for a brief furlough before donning the uniform.

For the first time in many weeks there were no drafted men reporting for service at the local mobilization centre today, and a strange quiet reigned over the erstwhile hive of activity. The clerical staff at the centre has been reduced, and several of the clerks assigned to militia headquarters duty to assist the leave of absence officers.

Only two medical boards were on duty today. These two boards will take care of volunteers and the defaulters under the military service act who are apprehended or who surrendered themselves to the military police. They will also board the Category E men who have been called up for re-examination.

MANY OLD GARBAGE COLLECTORS BACK ON THE JOB TODAY

Twenty-Two Outfits Left the Barns This Morning.

NEW MEN BEING HIRED

Seventeen Strikers and Five Novices Hired—Are Facing Busy Week.

London has a fairly good garbage collection system under way today. Twenty-two collectors are on the job. Four old collectors returned yesterday, 13 more this morning, and 5 new ones, 13 more this morning, were started out today. It is expected that by the end of the week a full force of collectors will be on the job. Thirty-one collectors were at work before the strike.

Engineer Harry Brazier expresses the hope that the collectors will be able to make the rounds of the city at least once this week. This will be a big collection, however, as nearly every home in the city has an accumulation of two weeks' garbage and some of them considerably more.

It was interesting to note today that one Dundas street store had prepared for the coming of the garbage man. They had one good wagon load or two good cart loads standing at their side door.

In the meantime interest centres on what the special garbage committee will do at its meeting on Friday night. It is possible that they may decide to review the whole garbage system with the hopes of improving it.

It is open to the 750 members in Toronto, as was explained by Charles W. ## JEWELERS HERE TO DISCUSS IMPORTANT QUESTIONS OF TRADE

Annual Western Ontario Conference in Progress.

VISITORS ENTERTAINED

London Club Acts as Host of All Delegates to the Meeting.

Prominent jewelers from all over Ontario and more particularly Western Ontario are in London in scores today attending the annual convention of the Western Ontario Jewelers' Association, organized in this city a year ago.

The business session of the convention opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Duffield Hall, when many questions of importance to the trade were discussed in round-table conferences. Naturally the recent legislation which imposed a tariff tax on jewelry, was one of the main questions taken up, and the report of the delegation which went to Ottawa a week ago, was a big feature of the meeting.

Following the business meeting, the delegates and their friends will be taken in a special car to Springbank Park, where the London Jewelers' Club will entertain them at a banquet. A sports program, under the direction of J. A. Nash as chairman, has been worked out by the London members of the trade, and promises to be as big a success as the convention.

This morning the members of the London Jewelers' Club provided autos for all visitors, who were free to go anywhere they desired. The local club, under the direction of President J. S. Barnard and Secretary Harry Young, who was chairman of the reception committee, has taken complete charge of the entertainment of the delegates.

At noon the visitors were entertained at luncheon, in Smallman & Ingram's lunchroom by the local wholesalers and manufacturers.

W. G. Young of this city is president of the Western Jewelers; Gordon MacLaren of Hamilton, secretary; J. S. Barnard of London, treasurer; C. H. Hepinstal, St. Thomas, first vice, and H. Richardson, Ingersoll, second vice-president.

The following is the program of this afternoon for the round-table conference:

"My Experience with New Price List," E. J. Nelson, St. Thomas.

"How Are Future Mechanics for Service in the Jewelry Business To Be Supplied," Thomas Roden, Toronto.

"The Value of Local Association Groups," C. H. Hepinstal, St. Thomas.

"Recent Government Legislation Effecting the Trade," M. C. Ellis, Toronto.

"Organization, To Prepare Us For Handling Present and Future Legislation," O. M. Ross, "The Trader," Toronto.

"The Necessity of Better Methods in the Jewelry Business," M. M. Cohen, Toronto.

The nomination and election of officers will be the last items on the business program.

You May Find It In Stocking

Cincinnati Authority Says Your Troublesome Corns Just Loosen and Fall Off.

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes just loosen in their sockets and fall off the next day if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of a drug called freezone, says a Cincinnati authority

You merely put a drop or two of this freezone on the tender, touchy corn today and instantly the corn stops hurting, then tomorrow sometime you may find the old torturous pest somewhere in your stocking, having fallen off entirely without a particle of soreness, pain or irritation. The skin surrounding and beneath the former corn will be as healthy, pink and smooth as the palm of your hand.

A quarter ounce of freezone is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn and callous, and any druggist will charge but a few cents for it. It is a compound made from ether.—Advt.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages, and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

HINTS FARMERS WERE PURCHASED BY GERMAN GOLD

Donald Sutherland Makes Wild Statements at Ingersoll Meeting.

ALLEGES INSINCERITY

Union Government Supporter Says United Farmers Not Representative.

INGERSOLL, June 18.—Part of a vigorous address by Donald Sutherland, M.P., at the annual meeting of the South Oxford Conservative Association, held this afternoon in the Foresters' Hall, Mount Elgin, was devoted to discussing the action of the deputation of United Farmers of Ontario who waited upon the Dominion Government to protest against the military service regulations.

"I am a supporter of Union Government, and as long as this war lasts I will be a supporter of that Government," declared Mr. Sutherland with emphasis. He declared that the organizers of the United Farmers of Ontario did not represent the great agricultural interests, on which a stigma had been placed, and which had been represented at the front by 52,000 of its men. In the course of his address Mr. Sutherland said: "I want to say as a man who has been connected with agriculture all his life that I resent the stigma that has been cast upon the farmers of Ontario by these so-called representatives. I want to say, and say it emphatically, that the men who were in charge of that organization who were in Ottawa were not sincere. They were misleading the farmers of this country in seeking to accomplish what many didn't want to see accomplished."

Only Received One.

Mr. Sutherland went on to state that the farmers believed they were supporting a movement to get exemption in cases of extreme hardship, and not for the entire farming population. He had received only one resolution from the farmers' organizations of South Oxford regarding the military service act, and this was from the United Farmers of Culloden, who emphasized their loyalty and repudiated any movement to get exemption for the farmers.

Mr. Sutherland next dealt with circumstances which led up to the movement. He referred to the amendment introduced in the House of Commons by S. Molloy of Provencher, Man., who was the only Laurier-Liberal elected in that province, against the amendments to the military service act calling up young men of 19 to 22 years of age. In Ontario he claimed the agitation had been continued by Laurier-Liberals, and at the time the deputation went to Ottawa there were three from Quebec for every one from Ontario. Ontario members of the House had been ignored by the deputation, and for their spokesman they obtained Mr. Vein of Lobintour.

It was contended by the speaker that had Quebec done her full share under the volunter system compulsory service would not have been necessary. He further claimed that in applying conscription Sir Robert Borden had been more than fair, and had allowed Sir Wilfrid Laurier to nominate one-half of the members of the tribunals, which had made the act a farce.

The speaker went on to say that it had been claimed by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux that the Ontario deputation vindicated the stand that had been taken by Quebec. It had been stated by Mr. Vein, said the speaker, that Canada should not send reinforcements overseas, that it was time for her to allow the United States to take over the responsibility she had been carrying.

Mr. Sutherland considered that the movement was not sincere and reasonable, and that the deputation was more anxious to go away with a grievance than accomplish something.

Hints Propaganda.

"What was at the back of this movement?" asked the speaker. I cannot say—we have heard that German money has been used effectively in every Allied country in the war. I should be surprised to learn that Ontario was an exception."

V. A. Sinclair, M.P.P., also addressed the meeting, dealing principally with matters that had engaged the attention of the Legislature. He was glad of the fact that he was not meeting a convention on the eve of an election. He referred to the great attention that had been given to war measures and of how party strife had been avoided. The offer of an extension of the life of the Legislature from Mr. Proudfoot, he declared, was a high tribute to his administration.

Other speakers were S. R. Lee, the president, and Organizer C. H. Bingham. The meeting was well attended, and all the former officers were re-elected.

ALGONQUIN PARK.

The great 2,000,000-acre reserve that has been set aside in Ontario as a sanctuary for fish and game, as well as a playground for all who desire to enjoy the pleasures of outdoor life, is now becoming the objective of many who take their outings at this time.

The Highland Inn, situated on Cache Lake, where also is situated the headquarters of the superintendent of the park, is now open for the reception of guests, and the accommodation is being quickly taken up for the season. This hotel is owned and operated by the Grand Trunk Railway System, and a unique feature this year will be all the departments of its operation will be under the supervision of young ladies who are qualified to fill the positions, which, in many cases were previously occupied by young men now enrolled for the defence of our King and country. The altitude of Algonquin Park is nearly 2,000 feet above the level of the sea, and offers the purest of air and unlimited attractions for the vocationist, the camper, the canoe cruiser and the angler. It is "the place where life's worth while," and is unapproachable as a resort for rest and recuperation.

In connection with the Highland Inn are operated two log cabin camps, each accommodating 75 people, one of these camps is situated on Smoke Lake, 7 miles south, and the other on Island Lake, 10 miles north of the hotel. The camps are reached by a daily stage from the hotel. A handsomely illustrated descriptive booklet, telling you all about this wonderful playground, can be had free on application to agents of the Grand Trunk Railway System, or to C. E. Horning, D. P. # ONE-HALF TOTAL AUSTRIAN FORCE HELD BY DIAZ

Charles' Great Army Has Failed in Drive, Says Law.

BERLIN BEHIND ATTACK

Now Impossible for Germany to Gain Victory in West, Chancellor Declares.

London, June 18.—Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, in the House of Commons today, announced that he would postpone until tomorrow his statement on national expenditure. He then proceeded to give a review of the general situation.

"The latest phase of this struggle," he said, "is the Austrian offensive in Italy. It is part of an intense offensive which has been carried on along the whole battle front. Our enemies are right in thinking that a great success gained on that front would have far-reaching, perhaps decisive, results on the general battle front in France. For that reason, the general suspicion that the initiative came from Berlin, rather than from Vienna, I believe to be justified.

Over Half of Entire Front.

"The offensive was launched by a very large number of Austrian divisions, a good deal more than half of their total force on that front being engaged in the attack. All I can say is that after three days' fighting the attack has failed."

"Our advices from Italian headquarters are that the enemy has not secured in three days the objectives which they hoped to obtain the first day. And it is also true to say that no offensive on this scale throughout the whole war has at its initiation secured so little success.

"There is no doubt that our and the French troops are giving a good account of themselves, and the Italians have been fighting throughout with the highest courage and the most marked tenacity. The Italian higher command has no fear of the result. The danger is not yet over, but the Government can express admiration and gratitude to the Italians for the share they have taken in the general struggle."

Confidence on the West.

Speaking of the western front, Bonar Law said that British and French headquarters knew the positions to which the German divisions were being sent before the commencement of the offensive on March 21. He admitted that the attack had attained an amount of success which had caused the utmost anxiety.

"But," he added, "three months have passed, and although the battle is a continuous one, we can look back upon what has happened with some confidence.

"In this whole campaign the Germans have had before them three great objectives. One was Paris; another was the channel ports; the third was not only the defeat, if they could achieve it, of the Allied army, but the breaking of the communications between the British and French forces. Although the Allies have had to give much ground, not one of the enemy's strategic objectives has been attained.

Germany Disappointed.

"I think if anyone in the early days of the struggle had suggested to Hindenburg that in three months the position would be as it is today he would have treated the suggestion with scorn. There is clear and increasing evidence in the German press that they are becoming disappointd with the success—great as it has been—which has attended the German army so far.

"On the other hand, if we could have foreseen three months ago what the position is now, our anxiety would have been less."

The chancellor classed the battle of St. Quentin and the first battle of the Lys as great German successes, while the battle of Merris was one in which the British were entirely successful. The same was true of the second phase of the battle of the Lys.

Referring to that part of the line held by the French, he said the first attack was a great victory for the Germans, but that later an immense attack was started which entirely failed in its objective.

Reservoir of Reserves.

"The offensive of March 21," he continued, "has brought about unity of command, which results have justified. The long-continued battle must be a question of reserves. The great source of Allied reserves is America, and it is undoubtedly part of the German scheme to use up the Allied reserves before they can be reinformed from America, but in this they have not succeeded. I wish it were possible to tell the House the number of troops which since March 21 have been sent from this country to strengthen our own forces. It is a large number, but, as I have said, the main source of the Allied reserves is America.

"Necessity has made possible what seemed impossible. The American troops are not coming; they have come. America isn't coming into the war; she is in it.

"I am sure that every member of the House realizes and is delighted to know that the American troops have been fighting and have justified the hopes which everyone acquainted with the character of the American people formed of what the fighting value of these troops would be.

Hun Victory Impossible.

"Of course, I cannot give you the numbers. But the best way of making the House realize how big the change has been will be to read an extract from the minutes of the last supreme war council:

"'Thanks to the prompt and cordial co-operation of the president of the United States, arrangements which have been set on foot for the transportation and brigading of American troops will make it impossible for the enemy to gain victory by wearing out the Allied reserves before he has exhausted his own.'"

The references to America were loudly cheered.

Bonar Law also wished it were possible to attract the general notice of the country and tabulate in some way the work of the air service. There was no branch of British efforts of the war, of which the people had greater reason to be proud. It had played throughout a magnificent part, not only in assisting the British troops, but in helping Italy, and especially the French, in their long struggle.

Submarines Beaten.

The submarine menace a year ago appeared to be the greatest danger the Allies had to cope with, and was regarded by the Germans as a means to victory. All that was now changed, he declared. The shipping figures, which would be published this week, would show that the world's ship construction for the first time exceeded the submarine destruction. There was no chance, so far as human foresight could divine, of the country being starved into submission, and that consideration had an important effect on the military position.

The chancellor again referred to the unending stream of American troops coming across the water, and said it would continue until the whole man power of America, if necessary, would be thrown into the scale. What already had been done and had been arranged for showed clearly that the extent of American military co-operation on the battlefield of France would not be limited by transport, but only by the number of trained men available.

A Mistaken Hope.

That was the great fact of the present year and thus had the German hope of nullifying American help in the war been a mistaken hope.

Alluding to the present lull on the western front, he predicted that it was only the lull preceding a hurricane. But he had the greatest confidence in the moral courage of the Allied and American troops, and their readiness to face what was coming, despite all they had suffered and endured. Their morale had never been higher.

"Those responsible," he said, in conclusion, "look to the future without alarm. If three months hence none of the strategic objectives which I have indicated have been obtained by the Germans, then their campaign will have failed, and, despite their previous victories, will prove to be the most disastrous campaign in which they have engaged.

"The future of our country and of the world depends upon the next few weeks. But I have confidence that our soldiers and those of our Allies will not fail us."

The House agreed to the vote of credit.

TWO LONDON JOURNALS WARN GOVT. AGAINST INCREASED WAR COSTS

London, June 19.—A note of warning against increased war expenditure is sounded by the Daily Chronicle and the Daily News in their comment on the statements made by Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, in moving a vote of credit in the House of Commons yesterday. Other papers do not question the huge outlay. "We are getting our money's worth," says the Daily Express. It adds that the Allies "look forward to another three months of insistent anxiety."

The Daily News says: "The sinister fact that the indifference that prevails on the subject. The treasury long since ceased to exercise control; parliament offers nothing with which to dam the tide. The Government's idea of 'getting on with the war' does not include any considerations of economy . . . and there is no check on the torrent of waste in the departments themselves."

FRENCH GOVT. EXPECTS EVENTUALLY RUSSIANS WILL PAY ALL DEBTS

Paris, June 19.—The French Government has confidence that Russia will eventually pay her debts, declared Finance Minister Klotz in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. Socialist deputies had attempted a conference to discuss the renewal privileges of the Bank of France, and raised the question of the Russian debt to France, but their efforts were foiled by the finance minister. Deputy Edouard Barth offered an interpellation as to who should be held responsible for the 500,000,000 francs still due French investors in Russian loans. Finance Minister Klotz replied, saying: "It matters not what government obtains in Russia. I do not despair of the guarantee of the Russian state."

The minister was interrupted by Socialist cries of "No!"

"It is immaterial," continued M. Klotz, "whether the Bank of Russia meets its indebtedness. I have confidence in the Russian state, and French investors will not lose. It is not the Government which contracts debts: it is the country."

NO SERIOUS STRIKES IN CANADA AT PRESENT TIME

There Is a Degree of Unrest, But Country Is Favored.

Ottawa, June 18.—The following statement was issued today by the labor department:

"There is an apparent misapprehension as to the extent of labor troubles in Canada. Canada is still, by comparison with other countries, extremely favored in these matters. At the present time, from Cape Breton to Vancouver Island, there are no more than five or six trifling strikes, most of them about a week old, and involving in all something less than 250 men and women, some of them being no more than local. There is no doubt more than the average degree of unrest, but only in special cases is this unrest converted into strikes."

HONORS FOR CANADIANS.

New Haven, Conn., June 19.—At the commencement exercises of Yale University today the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon Earl Reading, British ambassador, and William Renwick Riddell, justice of the supreme court of Ontario. John Masefield, English poet, received the degree of Doctor of Letters.

Worcester, Mass., June 19.—Holy Cross College today conferred the honorary degree of Master of Arts on Rev. Patrick J. Howard of Sandwich, Ont.

FOOD SOURING IN STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" relieves stomach distress in five minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have dyspepsia. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach sweetened and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it stops fermentation and acidity and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

REBEKAH MEMBERSHIP FOR ONTARIO SHOWS 1,483 GROWTH IN YEAR

HAMILTON, June 18.—At this morning's session of Rebekah Assembly of Ontario reports were presented which showed the finances to be in satisfactory shape while the membership has increased by 1483. Comment was made on the large amount of work done since the outbreak of the war for the Red Cross and other patriotic institutions. About two hundred delegates from all over the province are in attendance.

DOZEN PATENT MEDICINES MAY BE BARRED SALE

TORONTO, June 18.—Charges that are being laid by the Ontario license board with the Provincial board of health may result in ten or a dozen proprietary medicines being forced off the market. Samples of a large number of patent medicines analyzed disclose in about a dozen instances, the analyst reports, large quantities of alcohol and little of medical value.

HINDENBURG'S MENTALITY HAS SUFFERED A SHOCK

GENEVA, June 18. — The Tribune says it learns from a reliable source that Field Marshal von Hindenburg is suffering from an acute nervous disease, that his mental capacity is much affected, and that he is confined in a private sanatorium. The newspaper adds that Hindenburg took no responsible part in the recent offensive on the western battlefront, the work being chiefly done by Gen. Ludendorff.

ITALIANS IN BALKANS REPEL ENEMY ATTACK

PARIS, June 18.—The official statement from Macedonia reads:

"Eastern theatre, June 17.—There were artillery duels along the whole front, liveller west of the Vardar and the Cerna bend. An enemy attempt against the front held by the Italians was repulsed. British airmen bombed the stations along the line of Seres and Drama, and started a fire west of Lake Doiran."

DOM. RY. BOARD TO SIT IN GALT AND WINDSOR

OTTAWA, June 18.—The board of railway commissioners will hold sittings in Galt June 25, and Windsor June 26.

"Live in a Worry

invites death in a hurry." Worry wastes nerve force at a tremendous rate. The more exhausted the greater the tendency to worry.

Then how is one to get out of this vicious circle? By building up the nervous system with the aid of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

As the nerves are strengthened you forget to worry and find yourself resting and sleeping naturally.

BURIAL BLANKETS NOT TAXED AGAINST ESTATES OF SOLDIERS WHO FALL

Ottawa, June 18.—There is an absurd but widespread fable current in army circles, particularly overseas, to the effect that there is a charge made against the estates of deceased soldiers for blankets in which they are buried. Nearly every man who has seen service overseas has heard it in some form or other, and from inquiries which have reached the military department it would appear that it has received some credence at home by relatives of the Canadian soldiers.

Such belief is, of course, absolutely without foundation in fact, as no such injustice is practiced by the military authorities. The story is one of fiction.

COPENHAGEN WORKMEN ARE DEMANDING FOOD

London, June 19.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen says that several thousand workmen and women held a demonstration Tuesday in the streets of Copenhagen, demanding bread and butter. They marched to Parliament House, where the members of Parliament received a delegation from the crowd.

The organ of the Independent Danish Socialists says a great demonstration has been planned for Wednesday, and that work will be suspended in a number of factories.

Sometimes a pain catches you in the region of the heart, now and then your heart skips beats, palpitates, throbs, or beats with such rapidity and violence you think it will burst. # SHE COULDN'T RAISE HER LEFT HAND TO HEAD, SHE DECLARES

Mrs. Smithson Was Nearly Helpless—Says Tanlac Is "Worth Weight in Gold."

"The more I see of Tanlac and the way it relieves suffering, the more wonderful it seems to me, and I wish I could put a bottle of it in every home in Toronto," said Mrs. Ellen Smithson of 222 Parliament street, Toronto, the other day.

"For the last eight years," she continued, "I have suffered tortures from rheumatism all over my body. My arms and shoulders were as sensitive as a boil, and I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes on them; in fact, they couldn't have pained me worse if the muscles had been tied into knots. At times when these sharp, shooting pains would strike me, I would almost jump out of my chair, and many a night I have actually jumped up in bed screaming with pain. Nearly every morning I would wake up to find my left arm without a bit of feeling in it, and I would have to massage it for some time to start up the circulation. I had no strength in that arm at all, and many the plate I have dropped to break all to pieces because I forgot and would pick it up with my left hand. Why, I couldn't even lift the kettle from the stove or raise my left hand above my head. It is simply impossible for me to describe the misery I suffered all these years, and although I took every kind of medicine, I could get hold of, nothing did me any good.

"My daughter had been taking Tanlac, and had gotten such wonderful relief through using it, that I decided to see if it would help me, too. I have taken three bottles now, and it has done me a world of good. That terrible rheumatism is almost gone, the soreness and stiffness have entirely disappeared from my arms and limbs, and I can use my left arm now just as well as I ever could. All that numbness and weakness are gone, and I can lift things about without the least bit of trouble. For the first time in eight years I am able to rest well at night and sleep in comfort without being troubled with aches and pains. I just can't express how thankful I am for the way Tanlac has helped me and my daughter, and we both think that Tanlac is worth its weight in gold. I have told all my friends and neighbors about the good Tanlac has done me and I am sending a bottle to my daughter-in-law at Oshawa."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown, and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of, and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better, and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since, and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss Flo Kelly, 476 South 14th street, Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition, and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

HURON DECIDES TO TAKE NO CHANCES ON LIQUOR QUESTION

Will Remain Under Provisions of Canada Temperance Act.

CLINTON, June 18.—At a well-attended meeting of the temperance workers of Huron County held here today a great deal of discussion took place as to whether Huron should petition the Government to have the Canada temperance act suspended in favor of the Ontario temperance act. It was decided to stay by the C. T. A. until the Ontario and Dominion measures for prohibition have been finally placed in the statutes by a vote of the people in the same manner in which the C. T. A. was secured for this county.

It was pointed out that the C. T. A. is more strict than O. T. A. regarding "personal use," and as the remaining stocks of liquor are now confined to the cellars of homes, it was deemed important that this advantage should be retained.

Joseph Gibson of Ingersoll gave an address. A. T. Cooper of Clinton was reappointed field secretary, and W. T. Pellow of Goderich special officer.

Officers were elected as follows: H. E. Husten of Exeter was appointed honorary president; Dr. A. J. Irwin of Wingham, president; vice-presidents, R. J. Megaw of Goderich, J. T. Wood of Brussels, and J. A. Irwin of Clinton; riding representatives, S. Bennett of Wingham, J. Cowan of Seaforth, C. Harvey of Exeter; secretary, A. M. Boyle of Belgrave; treasurer, A. M. Robertson of Goderich.

BUSINESS SECTION OF PEMBROKE FIRE SWEPT; LOSS HEAVY

PEMBROKE, June 18.—A disastrous conflagration broke out here shortly before 6 o'clock this evening, and before it was got under control a large portion of the commercial district of the town on Pembroke street had been razed to the ground. Fire officials state that the final figures of damage may reach $1,500,000. The fire is presumed to have started in a chimney in the residence of O. Landriault, liveryman, whose stables were totally destroyed by the flames. No loss of life has yet been reported, but it is rumored that one woman expired in one of the houses in the burning area and that another woman was killed by a street car. The block swept by the flames contained many of Pembroke's leading business houses and offices. In addition, there were a great number of flats and apartments occupied as residences in the devastated region.

AUSTRIAN OFFENSIVE, MADE UNDER COERCION OF GERMANY, MEASURES AS GREAT FAILURE

An Attack by 72 Divisions, Twice the Force Ludendorff Used in Picardy, Has Resulted in Mere Local Gains—Austria Evidently Fighting Half-Heartedly, With Little Expectation of Success.

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS.
[Special to The Advertiser.]

Copyright by the New York Tribune Association, New York Tribune, 1918.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Measured by the first three days the Austrian attack upon Italy seems almost a complete failure. In the same time the Germans achieved a sweeping success against the British fifth army, and in less time a decisive triumph over the Anglo-French force at the Aisne. Such advantage as surprise and initiative could give the Austrians was abolished by the close of the third day, and there is no sound reason for expecting that the Austrians can now accomplish against an opponent who is ready what they failed to do at their chosen moment.

Purpose is Clear.

The Austrian purpose in the present offensive, so far as that purpose is military, is patent. Between the Adige and the sea the Italian front is made up of two wholly distinct sectors—the mountainous sector from the Adige to the Piave, and the lowland sector behind the Piave to its mouth. In the first sector the Italians are standing on the last high ground left to them, and with their backs to the plains, defending the plateau, between the Adige and the Astico, the Astico and the Brenta, and the Brenta and the Piave. If the Austrians could force the Italians out of these plateaus, they would be within range of the railroads and roads which supply the Piave front. In a word, the attack from the north aims at cutting the communications in the rear of the Italians along the Piave by forcing the positions between the Piave and the Adige.

Same Problem As Before.

To all intents and purposes, the strategic problem is precisely the same as that which was solved by the Germans in their great success at the battle of Caporetto on the Upper Isonzo last fall. Then the Germans broke through on the northern sector of the Italian front, came south across the roads of communication of the mass of the Italian army which had been operating east of the Isonzo, and produced a great disaster which just missed having decisive consequences.

As long as the Italians, who are supported by one or two British and French divisions, can hold the mountain sector between the Piave and the Adige, the troops behind the Piave can retire in safety and defend the various positions behind the smaller streams. But the moment the mountain front is imperilled it will become a matter of life or death for the troops behind the Piave to get back before their communications are turned.

Foe's Task Complicated.

The Austrian situation is complicated by the lack of communications between the troops operating in the mountain sector and those in the plain. Rail communications between these two fronts can only be held by a long, circuitous route through Villach. Actually, the two wings are not more than fifteen miles apart, but to send reserves from one front to the other necessitates a railroad journey of over two hundred miles. The Italians, on the contrary, possess interior lines, and send their troops to the mountains or to the plains as they choose with great rapidity and little effort.

The purpose of the Austrians in attacking was and is to reach and cut the Veronz-Vincensea-Treviso railroad serving the Italians behind the Piave. To reach these roads they sought to force their way into the plain down the valleys of the Astico, the Brenta and the Piave, and their efforts were concentrated on the highlands of the Setti Communi and of Monte Grappa. At the same time they sought to cross the Piave and take Montello, high ground at the north, and occupy the west bank of the river and prepare the way for a direct thrust.

Grave Danger Parried.

The immediate and grave danger was from the north, and on the north the Italian line seems to have held intact, some portion of the blow being borne by the British and French troops. Along the river the Austrians seem to have reached but not passed the Montello plateau, and to have crossed the Piave at two or three points, and at these fronts Italian counter-attacks are gaining ground, but to have been held at the river bank.

In no defensive operation this year has the immediate achievement of the defender in the first three days been as great as the Italian performance up to date. The reports of the high state of Italian morale in past weeks thus seems well confirmed by the facts. It is too early to draw any final conclusions, but it is plain that the Italians have done well in the first stage of a major offensive and have done much to wipe out their defeat of last autumn, and, despite references to the aid supplied by the French and British troops, only a few units of either are present and the main work has been done by the Italians themselves.

Austria Half-Hearted.

Indeed, so slight have been the Austrian gains up to the present moment that the world is bound to suspect that under German coercion Austria is making an offensive reluctantly and with little hope or expectation of a major success. An attack by seventy-two divisions—almost twice the force used in the initial attack in Picardy on March 21 and three times the force used in the Aisne attack on June 9—which has resulted in nothing more than local minor gains and the capture of even thirty thousand prisoners, as Vienna claims, must be accepted so far as it goes as a failure and as a very great failure. We have to recognize the possibility that later efforts may change the situation, but the Italians seem to have checked the Austrians completely on the whole front in three days and with insignificant gains.

PRIMA FACIE EVIDENCE ACCEPTED IF PAPERS CANNOT BE SECURED

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, June 18.—The fulfilling of the regulations requiring men who may be reasonably suspected of falling within class one of the military service act to carry documents showing age, nationality, marriage, former discharge, exemption, or other reasons for being in mufti, have been found somewhat difficult in certain cases. An order-in-council of May 22 specified the class of documents which must be carried in the various individual cases, and provides very severe penalties for failure to carry such documents or having them on one's premises.

In cases it has been found difficult for men to secure the necessary documents. This was specially true of passports, marriage certificates, etc. As a consequence, an amendment has been made which, without limiting the generality of the provisions as to the character of the evidence, permits the submission of prima facie evidence to show that the person in question has satisfied the requirements of the authorities.

EDITH CAVELL'S MOTHER DIES, AGED 81 YEARS

LONDON, June 18.—Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.—Mrs. Ida Cavell, mother of the heroic nurse Edith Cavell, murdered by the Germans in Belgium, has died at her home, Henley-On-Thames, at the age of 81. She had been in failing health since the death of her daughter.

C. O. F. CONVENTION IN SESSION AT TORONTO

TORONTO, June 18.—The annual convention of the Canadian Order of Foresters opened here today. High Chief Ranger David Allan of Grimsby presided, and five hundred delegates were present.

During the last year $1,000,000 was paid over in death claims, $300,000 of it going to beneficiaries of persons killed in the war.

The question of increasing rates will be considered.

NO DEMAND FOR 19-YEAR CLASS FOR SOME TIME

OTTAWA, June 18.—Within a few days there will be published an official announcement throughout the Dominion that men of 19 years of age are not to be called up for military service immediately. The announcement will state that no date has been fixed for the calling up of these men, nor has the question been brought before the cabinet for decision.

"In view of the need of labor on the farms," the announcement proceeds, "it is most unlikely that consideration will be given to the matter until after the harvest is over, although, of course, the Government's action must be determined primarily by the military situation. There is no further obligation incumbent upon young men of the age mentioned (19), who have registered, or who do so hereafter, until they receive notice from the registrars."

In regard to harvest leave, the announcement says: "Some inquiries have been received as to the possibility of granting harvest leave to such troops as may be in the country at the time. No definite assurance can be given on this point, as advantage must be taken of ships as they become available. On the other hand, harvest leave will be given if at all possible."

The remainder of the announcement outlines the exemption provisions in regard to cases of extreme hardship.

POLES' FLAG FLIES IN ALLIED LINES AS ANSWER TO HUN

First Polish Regiment Joins Battle in France.

Paris, June 18.—Fighting under the national flag of Poland, the First Polish Regiment of the first Polish divisions entered the front-line trenches opposite the Germans today.

Within the sound of the roar of the cannon and in the presence of civil and military authorities the regiment received its battle flag and entered the war on the side of the Allies.

A Reply to Germans.

"It is a reply to Germany's contention that the Polish question is settled," said Gen. Archinard, chief of the Polish military mission to France.

Poles who have escaped from Germany and Poland or have succeeded in leaving Austria and other countries form the bulk of the Polish legion which may shed its blood tomorrow against German autocracy in the defence of liberty and the autonomy of Poland. Amid an impressive silence the chaplain of the regiment, facing the troops and raising both hands above his head, gave them this oath: "I swear before God, before the Holy Trinity, that in allegiance to my country I am ready to give up my life to the last drop of blood in the services of the holy cause of Poland, to obey my chiefs and to remain true to Poland, one and indivisible."

The Polish soldiers and officers cheered as they repeated the oath.

Gen. Gourad confided the Polish flag to the safekeeping of the legion as a Polish military band played the Polish National Anthem.

FOSTER TELLS WOMEN TO KEEP THE VOTE APART FROM PARTY

Tells W. C. T. U. of the Ballot Responsibilities.

Ottawa, June 19.—Speaking to the W. C. T. U. convention in Chalmers Presbyterian Church last night on the subject of Dominion-wide franchise for women, which became a fact at the recent session of Parliament, Sir George Foster, minister of trade and commerce, and acting prime minister, impressed his audience with the serious responsibilities that had now fallen upon them.

Sir George urged the women to keep their ballots as a personal protection not belonging to this or that party or cult, for the blind, unreasoning vote was not the best support of a party. A party did best that had to deal with conscientious individuals, which made it seek the principles of right to secure the vote of that element.

Sir George expressed mild amazement that such an intelligent body as the National Council of Women, when meeting in Brantford—or some of the members—had telegraphed him to ask if women's franchise was really an accomplished fact. He had imagined that they would have followed matters more closely than that. He warned his audience they must not rest on their laurels now that Dominion-wide temperance and prohibition had been obtained. All retrograde movements of reform were traceable to overconfidence and the secret of success in generations to come may lay in the teaching of the children.

UNMANNED DIRIGIBLE ADRIFT OVER ATLANTIC

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 18.—A naval aviator and his student assistant, picked up at sea forty-five miles off the coast after their dirigible balloon became unmanageable and fell to the water last Saturday, were brought to a navy yard here today by a coastal schooner.

Members of the crew said that when the balloon was first sighted the two men were running back nd forth on the under-structure signalling for assistance.

The balloon came down close to the waves, and the schooner captain, seeing the two men in the water, sent a boat to their rescue. The balloon arose in the air and was caught in a high wind, and when last seen was floating away to the eastward.

Britain Willing to Help U.S. in Russia Reorganizing Lines

LONDON, June 18.—Speaking in the House of Commons this afternoon Foreign Secretary Balfour said that Great Britain was quite willing to co-operate with the United States in assisting in the reorganization of Russian railroads. So far, he said, Britain had been able to do little, and for various reasons it was thought better to leave this question mainly in American hands.

W.C.T.U. WILL MAKE BEST USE OF NEW FOUND CITIZENSHIP

Must Not Relax Efforts for Years and Years.

SHOULD CORRAL OFFICES

Get Elected to Public Bodies and Make Principles Take Root.

OTTAWA, June 18.—"We're citizens, we're citizens," was a timely greeting delivered by Mrs. Gordon Wright, president, at the opening session this morning in Chalmers Presbyterian Church of the 20th Dominion W. C. T. U. convention. "We have now the full voting privileges of citizens, and we must now waste no time in getting into training for the larger responsibilities," she continued.

It was consistent with their policy of starting with fundamentals in every reform that they have undertaken that the first topic under discussion at the opening gathering should be "Scientific Temperance in the Schools."

Get on School Boards.

Mrs. E. E. Star here requested the members to again endeavor to have more women placed on the school boards, and then this subject would be given an important place in all school courses. Others expressed the hope that the subject would be more fully dealt with in the normal schools. Mrs. A. Jones of Sherbrooke, Que., regretted that her province was the only one in the Dominion that did not allow of women school trustees. The report of Mrs. A. L. Powers of Lunenburg, N.S., on scientific temperance in the schools brought about a discussion, which resulted in the delegates unanimously deciding that every effort should be made by the W. C. T. U. throughout the Dominion to have the subject taught more fully.

"We must not relax our efforts for years and years," said Mrs. Wright, continuing in her address of inspiration.

Educate New Voters.

"It is quite probable that the franchise department of the W. C. T. U. will be now merged into the citizenship department, and efforts formerly made for the winning of the vote will be turned to the education of women in exercising their new-found privileges."

Other reports presented were from Mrs. W. Wright of Ochree River, Man., on "Moral Education and Mothers' Meetings," and from Mrs. F. Woodbury of Halifax, N. S., on "Parlor Meetings."

There is an unusually large delegation from the province of Quebec. There are seven ladies from the Northern Montreal district, and it is expected that they will ask for special provision in the constitution to allow them to secede from the province and form this separate district in the Dominion union.

Mrs. May R. Thornley of London, Ont., is a member of the committee on plans of work.

TO SUFFER FROM HEADACHES MAKES LIFE MISERABLE

Headaches seem to be habitual with many people. Some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually with the dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on.

The varieties of headache most common are sick or bilious headache, nervous headache, headache from constipation, debility or indigestion and periodical and spasmodic headache, and undoubtedly the cause must be removed before permanent relief can be had.

Burdock Blood Bitters, that has been on the market for over 40 years, removes the cause of the headache, and not only does this, but also restores the entire system to healthy action and buoyant vigor.

Miss Emily Smith, 204 Bellwoods avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters. For two years I was greatly troubled with violent headaches, particularly in the morning. I tried everything to cure me until a friend recommended B. B. B. I tried it, and now I am completely cured."

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh-looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advt.

R. B. BENNETT ATTACKS GOVT.'S NEW DRAFT RULE

No Right to Order Men Into Service After Once Exempted.

CALGARY, Alta., June 18. — R. B. Bennett, formerly director-general of national service and member of Parliament for Calgary, introduced a sensational case in the appellate division of the supreme court here today when he applied with the necessary court documents for the release from military service of Earl Lewis, a farmer, contending that as this young man previously had been exempted by a military tribunal the authorities had no further right to force him into service.

Mr. Bennett argued for habeas corpus.

Judge John Carson appeared for the military department. He said that from 30,000 to 40,000 young men drafted for military service would be affected by the ruling of the court in this case.

The case is based upon the question of exemption, but it is understood that the whole question of right to order men into service by order-in-council, contrary to the selective draft, as imposed by Parliament, will be taken up.

The court ruled that the case should be continued. Major Carson is communicating with Ottawa and will appear Friday morning.

The illustration cannot do full justice to the dull rubbed finish or the fine grain of the wood, but it does show the harmony of lines and the dignity that are found only in the best furniture. Every piece displays the most careful workmanship, every detail is finished with scrupulous care.

Because we know the quality of this suite we can say that, without a doubt, it is one of the very finest values we have ever offered in dining-room furniture. For the young couple buying their first dining-room suite it will be a lasting source of satisfaction and a constant reminder of their good judgment in the years to come.

Thousands are going from the cities to the farms, this summer. Boys and girls, as well as men and women, will "do their bit" for Canada and the Empire.

An army may "fight on its stomach", but it works on its feet. So does the farmer and his helpers. How is the volunteer from the city to prevent the feet from becoming cramped and over-tired, when working in the field or garden?

FLEET FOOT

IS THE ANSWER

They are cooler, and more comfortable than leather shoes,—support the ankles without binding—make steps light and buoyant as you plant, hoe, reap, pick fruit and berries and do your day's work with the least possible fatigue and trouble.

"WORKMAN" and "EVERY-DAY",—two staunch, serviceable shoes for such farm work—are made in sizes for men and boys,—while for women and girls, the "ATHLETE B. BAL." will give splendid service.

Be sure you take a pair or two with you when you go out to the farm.

Or—if you are working your own war garden in town, you will find "FLEET FOOT" the easiest and most comfortable shoes to wear.

The best shoe stores have "FLEET FOOT".

ABOLISHING PATRONAGE.

TORONTO UNIONIST papers which supported and urged most strenuously the appointment of W. E. Lemon to the postmastership of the Queen City are at ease. After serving for 36 years in the postoffice, the last few years as assistant postmaster, Mr. Lemon has reached the top of the ladder.

The struggle has been full of humor for the onlooker. The Union Government had pledged itself to abolish patronage in the civil service, and along came this vacancy in a lucrative position. Fear entered the hearts of Unionist editors, and, taking no chances, they proceeded to "boost" the claims of Mr. Lemon. Every day or two panic lest the Government should neglect its duty by appointing a political favorite instead of promoting the assistant showed itself, and every pressure possible was brought to bear upon it. It was reminded of its promise, was told that the nation was watching Toronto postoffice as an indication of the Government's sincerity, and was warned not to let anything induce it to miss the opportunity of "proving" its good intentions.

Now Mr. Lemon has been installed and some of the papers having breathed a tremendous sigh of relief and relaxed after the strain, are pointing with pride to their postoffice, and one proclaims: "The Government gave gratifying evidence of the sincerity of its determination to banish the spoils system from the outside civil service."

If the same amount of pressure is required in each case which comes up, in order to make the Government continue to give this "gratifying evidence," the fight against the spoils system is going to be a long and arduous struggle on the part of the people.

THE PRUSSIAN ARGUMENT.

WHILE THE CIVILIZED world is at war with Prussianism; while every right-thinking man or woman is denouncing the atrocities committed by Germans in their attempt to reach their goal, as, for instance, the bombing of hospitals, the slaughter of non-combatants and the working to death of prisoners in salt mines and in branches of war endeavor, it is repellant to read in some papers the statement that the military service act is justified because it has brought to the army over 70,000 men.

There is no intention to find fault with the act or its operation. It is the law of the land, and anything which would tend to encourage opposition to it or to interfere with its success is a crime, and rightly so; it must be obeyed in the letter and in the spirit.

The argument, however, that the accomplishment of a purpose justifies any means is abhorrent to Canadians; it breathes the spirit of Prussianism. So said the Germans when they overran Belgium, when they made "peace" with Russia in order to gain control of the Ukraine, when, by hoisting the white flag, they induced British soldiers to expose themselves to rifle fire and shot them down. "We know this is wrong," said the Huns, "but it succeeded and that justified it."

The means must justify themselves if they are to be indorsed by popular feeling and are to be weighed in the balance and found not wanting. Germany has conscripted the women and children of conquered territory to slave for her, and they have done what was required, but there is no justification. The M. S. A. was the means used to raise an army of 100,000 men. Its justification lay in the fact that it was believed by its supporters to be the best and fairest way of obtaining the necessary forces, and more advantageous to the nation, the empire and the cause of humanity than any other plan discussed, while doing deliberate injury to none. It might have been an utter failure and yet justifiable.

PENALIZING BAD MEMORIES.

"PHIBEAS WAYBRANT, who was arrested on the ferry dock because he had no papers, produced his discharge papers in court. He was fined $5 and costs."—Sarnia Dispatch.

Surely there is something wrong in the law that authorizes a magistrate to inflict a fine on a veteran whose only offence is that he neglected to carry his discharge papers in the pockets of the suit he happened to be wearing at the moment of his arrest. Is it not quite sufficient punishment for the offence to be arrested, taken to the cells and detained there until the necessary document is obtained from home or wherever it may be?

There is no logical objection to the police taking in charge any man apparently of military age who is not able to show proof that he is entitled to walk the streets in civilian clothes; this is the only way of making certain that he is not ignoring the call to service which has come to him and without something of the kind the M. S. A. would become a farce.

Forgetfulness, however, is not unknown, even among magistrates, police and cabinet ministers, and mistakes are made very easily. The married man may have half a dozen copies of his certificate and carry one in every suit, but discharge papers, exemptions, etc., are not made out in duplicate and triplicate, therefore he who depends on them to keep him out of trouble must take care to have them moved from one suit to another as he changes his clothes. If the Sarnia example is followed, those who lay off their waistcoats on a hot day and leave the papers in them, or take a walk on a hot evening minus the coat in which the precious documents repose, will have to pay at least $5 for the "crime," and the penalty may be $50.

If the purpose of this provision is to make those arrested help pay the expense of the police force, it would be better to see that those who are wilfully ignoring the law pay the costs, not the men whose only fault is temporary forgetfulness.

WHY DID HE DO IT?

THE SELF-DESTRUCTION of a young drafted man, who used a rope to hang himself at Carling's Heights, is at once distressing and perplexing. Naturally one comes to the conclusion that the soldier who was taken into the army against his will feared death on the trip overseas or on the firing line. He conjured up horrors that haunted his sleepless hours, visualized death creeping upon him, and to escape the torture he strangled himself, a worse fate, perhaps, than any that could have befallen him while on war service. Hanging and drowning may be something alike in physical sensation because strangulation occurs in both, but in drowning the sense of suffocation must come more softly than when the weight of a man's body is suspended by his neck. Drowning has often been described as a slow falling into unconsciousness after the early struggles have ceased. Hanging involves a cruel physical punishment.

Comparing the death of a man by hanging and his probable experience on the firing line, the chances are that he would find the stamina to endure through the hardships of service in the trenches and that in the event of being killed his death would occur so quickly as to be almost painless. Wounded men are oftentimes drawn through agonies that cannot be described, yet, thanks to the blessings of modern surgery and nursing, the suffering of many severe cases is greatly alleviated.

The poor helpless soul who ends his own life is perhaps most in fear of appearing to be a coward before his fellow-men. He thinks that when his time comes to face the hurricane of warfare, when the German is scattering his venom everywhere, he will not be able to make even a show of courage, and he imagines how horrible it would be to fail before his comrades. He thinks that he has not the courage to meet the ordeal, and he goes off and hangs himself. Some perverted kind of pluck or nerve must be required to end one's life, but the man who is willing to go to his death may feel that if he is to do this desperate thing, there will be no others there to taunt him for his cowardice. He will be alone with his fate.

Yet such a theory may be wholly at fault. Some personal trouble may have brought an overwhelming grief upon the man, or it may have been that through sheer lonesomeness and strangeness he became depressed. Boys from the country may find the new order difficult to fit in with their old style of living. For this reason, and for many others, comradeship and sports and games and social life should be developed as much as possible in the big camp this summer. Lieut.-Col. Brown has shown his appreciation of this side of the camp life by encouraging in every manner possible the sporting activities of the men in training. Fine teams have been organized and the drafted man will have a veritable picnic so far as good wholesome fun is concerned. He should feel that the people of London are his friends, that their homes are open to him, and that those in charge are conscious of his human need of pleasure and companionship.

The death of Mr. D. H. Howden, for many years one of the city's prominent wholesalers, removes a leading businessman and sterling citizen. The suddenness with which his demise came was shocking to a large circle of friends, and in the business community of Western Ontario there will be general regret. Mr. Howden was a quiet man who devoted his life to the constructive work of developing a commercial house, and he has built well. While a man with no taste for public affairs he was keenly interested in the welfare of the community.

FLOWERS IN WAR TIME.

[Evelyn Hulbert.]

Flowers in war time not needed, you say?
Yet why does a smile brighten up the day?
Why do the faces of your children sweet
Give you fresh courage the whole world to meet?

Flowers in war time, a waste, did you say?
Why does love linger, as day fades away?
Why does the sun have a setting of gold,
Dew sparkle at morn and rosebuds unfold?

A white lily bloom in hospital ward,
Perfume, like incense, freely outpoured;
By sufferer's couch, forgotten was pain,
Peace came to the heart, bringing faith again.

Faith in the godlike, purged from earth's mire,
Beckoning the soul, tried oft as by fire;
New life and beauty the soldier lad sees,
Angels shape the petals for such as these.

Flowers in war time, like stars in the night,
Tho' dark may enshroud, they shed forth their light,
Ministering spirits, scattering the gloom,
God give the increase, let us spare the room.

HINDERBURG'S NICKNAME.

[Christian Science Monitor.]

Lieut.-Gen. Quartermaster von Ludendorff is undoubtedly today the Germans' trump card. Haase, the Socialist leader, is reported to have said in the Reichstag, recently: "The truth, gentlemen, is that Count von Hertling is only a sign, which covers the all-powerful military party; the real ruler is von Ludendorff." Von Hindenburg relies upon him to a large extent, and the Berliners are said to have nicknamed him Field Marshal "Was-sagstdu." This is the result of his answering questions so frequently by turning to von Ludendorff and saying, "What do you say?" The cognomen, one can be assured, is not at all relished by the idol of the German nation.

THE EMPTY HOUSE.

[By Fannie Barnett Linsky.]

The little brown car had swung with a soft humming sound down the smooth road, and its sole occupant was sitting with her hands in her lap, looking dreamily out at the landscape and the rows of houses that they passed. Many a one passing by on the sidewalk might have envied the lovely young woman who sat there, so slender and aristocratic, in the little brown car, but she herself was not even conscious of the looks, whether envious or admiring, that were cast in her direction.

If, as the poets say, "the eyes are mirrors of the soul," then it was very apparent that Elaine Hargrave was not happy, for the sad, far-away expression on her face, told its own story.

As the machine turned the corner of the street, however, she began to take more interest in her surroundings, and she watched carefully the houses she passed.

Suddenly she leaned forward and spoke to the chauffeur.

"Stop, Jacques," she commanded sharply, "at the house 'To Let'."

The brakes ground sharply, and Elaine stepped out at once. She looked again, and drew in her breath quickly. A wave of crimson flooded her face. The chauffeur wondered at the sudden order, for they were already late for dinner, and he did not think that his mistress could possibly want to look at this empty house.

The glory of a perfect spring day was over all the out-of-doors. It seemed a day to tempt anyone to remain in the open, and drink in to the full the beauties of bountiful nature, but evidently this did not attract the girl, for she mounted the steps of the house at once.

She looked around at Jacques after she had rung the bell. "Wait till I come out," she said.

A slovenly-looking woman suddenly appeared in response to her ring. She was as dusty-looking, somehow, as the house was, and quite as dejected-looking; but Elaine scarcely saw her as she spoke:

"I want to see the house," said the girl. "I suppose I can go in?"

"Well, it's gettin' pretty late, mum, and I don't think as you'd be seein' much," replied the old woman.

"You can give me your candle," said Elaine quickly, as she slipped a coin into the not overclean hand, and with a little gasp, the woman yielded.

The front door was opened, and Elaine went through the passage and glided upstairs like a ghost, the woman promptly returning to the lower regions, whence she had come. Lighting the dirty candle from a gas-jet burning in the passageway, Elaine went from one room to another with quick, nervous haste. Her face was quite colorless, but her eyes burned with a feverish light that made her seem very different from the brilliant lady of fashion that most people knew as Elaine Hargrave. Here she was but a girl; and face to face with memory, a memory that was still alive after three years of bitter struggle—the struggle of trying to forget.

For today was the third anniversary of what was to have been Elaine Hargrave's wedding day, but that wedding never took place; and on the third anniversary of "what might have been," as Elaine expressed it herself, and just home from travels that had taken her into the far-away corners of the world, the girl had become possessed with the desire to see the place that once she had expected to call "home."

She stopped for a moment in her flitting from room to room, and looked about her. Here, but three short years before, she had planned to come as a happy bride, and here she had left the man she loved after their bitter quarrel, called him "Puritan" and "Prude," because he would not countenance the ways of her "set." How empty and false were the ways of that very same set, she had come bitterly to realize, just as in her heart of hearts, she had come to respect all the more, the man who would not bow down to them. And how empty was her heart as well!

She could see him plainly, if she but shut her eyes for a moment, as he stood before her that day so long ago so tall and proud, and good to look at. She had always taken such pride in his good looks, all the more so because he had not belonged to her "set," but had come to the city unknown, and had worked up to an enviable position. She could almost hear again his earnest voice as he remonstrated with her on that last fateful day in this house.

"I know that I do not belong to this 'set' that you seem to think so much of, dear," he said, "and perhaps that is why I find it so hard to accustom myself to the things that they do, but I am certain that I have too much regard for the woman who is to be my wife to want to see her follow in the footsteps of people whose chief aim in life seems to be to attract the attention of others. You are made for better things than this, Elaine, dear. Won't you be guided by me in this thing, and give these people up? Please dear, for my sake?"

She recalled now how she had flung away from him, although in her heart she had known even then that he was right, but some perverse spirit seemed to urge her not to give in; how she had refused to do what he asked of her, telling him "that she would live her life without him, and that she realized now that it was a mistake to expect an outsider—a plebeian—to understand the ways of her kind of people." Even now, after three years, Elaine still winced as she thought of those hasty words of hers. How she must have hurt him—and all the time she was hurting herself as well; and he had let her go on without a word of protest, in the end gravely agreeing with her, and saying that he would never ask her to come back again. And he hadn't. And they never met nor wrote.

Elaine's eyes were opened now, but, of course, it was far too late to give in and acknowledge herself in the wrong. Three years of time had rolled between them, the bar of passionate words on either side keeping them apart.

She started once more on her pilgrimage through the rooms. First, the dining-room, with the familiar paper which she herself had selected. He had not been so well-off, then, and had insisted upon living in the style that his own earnings would entitle them to—but he had worked hard to give her as many as possible of the luxuries that she had been accustomed to.

"So small a thing to mean so large a loss," murmured the girl to herself. She had read those words somewhere, and now they came into her mind. She stood for a time looking out through the clouded windows. Great tears welled up in her eyes and poured down over her face—as if the barriers were suddenly let down to allow the tide of memory to flow in and engulf her. She sank down on her knees, all unmindful of the dusty floor.

She had never allowed herself to think in this way before, but the spirit of love seemed to have come back to the dusty little room from which he had flown three years before. For her time passed unheeded.

Darkness fell. Outside, Jacques felt very cross. The idea of anyone spending so much time looking at an empty house! He folded his arms and went half asleep. Down in the basement, the caretaker, having finished her supper, came up, and, fotgetting all about her visitor, or, thinking that she had surely gone away long ago, closed the door and went home.

And Elaine dreamed on—for how long, she knew not. But suddenly she awoke to reality with a start, to notice that it had grown very dark outside, and that there were footsteps coming through the hall. Then came the sound of a voice that seemed familiar.

"Hold the light low there, please. I wish to see all the rooms. There, thank you; that's better."

Elaine had crept to the door, and was listening with a white face. She had a glimpse of the two men as they passed the door—one, evidently the night watchman, holding the lamp, and the other, the man she had sent away three years before.

"So he, too, has not forgotten," thought Elaine, bitterly.

She wondered if she should speak—make her presence known—but each time she tried to her courage failed her. She looked again. Yes, there he was! Standing in front of the open fireplace. Once more she peered through the open door. "How changed he was," she said to herself. "How much older and graver."

Her face was still wet with the traces of her recent tears, but she did not even know it as she went up and tapped gently on the wall between the two rooms. He turned round suddenly with a great start. Then he came to the door and opened it wider. Elaine walked into the room.

All the light from the lamp seemed to shine on the slender figure, standing there so erect and proud. The girl's face was white and strained, but her blue eyes shone like twin stars. The man started back with a little cry of unutterable astonishment.

"Elaine! Good God!"

"Listen," she said softly, her hands outstretched. "Let me humble myself while I can. I need you, Richard—I want you—you and the little house."

"Elaine—Elaine—" The man could but whisper her name, for the sudden sight of her seemed to have dazed him. "Elaine—why did you come?"

Quite suddenly all the fear and pride seemed to die out of the girl's heart. "Because I loved you," she whispered softly. "Because in the old empty house I came to understand that I could never be happy without you. When I stood in the little room that we had planned together"—her voice broke—"Richard, forgive me——"

She was in his arms, sobbing out the words she could not speak, and his arms were around her as he murmured: "It's for you to forgive me, dearest. My little girl! And I thought that you did not care!"

She clung to him, even as he held her, as he kissed lip and brow and hair. He could not let her go. He would never let her go again. "My dearest," he whispered, "not for long will it be the Empty House."

FOUR COLLECTORS WORKING TODAY FOR GARBAGE DEPT.

Engineer Hopes to Secure Others at Once.

INQUIRY MOTION STANDS

Suggestion for Investigation Never Voted On Monday Night.

Four garbage collectors were at work Tuesday. City Engineer H. A. Brazier expects that others will return to their carts when they learn that the council granted their request for a wage increase. He does not anticipate trouble in getting men to replace those who do not return. The fact that there was a strike kept other workers from applying for a job.

During the presentation of motions at Monday night's council meeting Ald. F. R. Watkinson presented one, duly seconded, that there should be a complete investigation into the garbage department. He named five on the committee, four members of No. 1 committee and one of No. 2.

The garbage department is under No. 2 committee. A general hubbub ensued over this slighting of No. 2 committee. There is also a special garbage committee. It also felt slighted. There was also a motion that the control of the garbage department should be transferred to No. 1 committee. This was a little piece of sarcasm. "Let them make a mess of it also," said Ald. O. G. Keene, chairman of No. 2 committee.

Chairman of No. 2 Committee.

There was another motion that Ald. Watkinson should be added to the special garbage committee in an advisory capacity. This was voted down. The original motion for a complete investigation into the department was never disposed of. It still stands, but was not voted on.

However, the special garbage committee will tackle the job. It has already scheduled a meeting for Friday night. There is, however, this danger: This committee believes it was making a great improvement in the garbage collection system, but the members are about the only ones who think so.

The majority of the members of the council seem agreed that there are many things about the garbage department which will bear looking into.

For instance the cost of feeding the horses as revealed by The Advertiser has occasioned a great deal of comment about the city. In April, 1917, it cost 45 cents to feed a horse, and this April it had mounted to 60 cents a day, while the price of feed increased but little during that time. It seems evident that there is a considerable waste or careless feeding. The increased cost of feeding the horses is more than $5 a day. The cause of the strike was $4.75 a day. Perhaps a look into the cost of feeding the horses will bring about a saving of this amount of money.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL FOR X-RAY EXAMINATION

Injured Street Railway Motorman Still Unable to Sit Up.

Alex. Fitzsimmons, 13 Marmora street, who was injured by being struck by an automobile while alighting from a car about four weeks ago, has been taken to the hospital for an X-ray examination. Dr. R. W. Shaw, the attending physician, does not care to give the results of the examination, as there may be some legal action in the case. That it will be some time before Mr. Fitzsimmons is able to be around is his opinion, however. The patient has not been able to sit up at all as yet.

Alex. Fitzsimmons, who is a motorman for the London Street Railway, stepped off the car at the corner of Hamilton road and Marmora street, and before he had time to reach the sidewalk he was struck by an auto owned by the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission. One of its engineers was in the car at the time. Mr. Fitzsimmons was hurled into the centre of the street. His back was injured, and he has suffered considerable pain since the accident.

NO PROBE TILL JULY

Judicial Inquiry Into Fire Department Delayed.

The probe into the fire department will not be launched by Judge Talbot Macbeth until some time in July. City Clerk S. Baker communicated the wish of the council that he should conduct the probe. In reply Judge Macbeth states that he is so busy on court work and exemption appeals that it will be some time in July before he will be able to take up the investigation.

In the meantime George S. Gibbons, counsel for the trades and labor council, has about completed the preparation of the "case" to be presented to the judge. It is understood that he has all the evidence practically ready.

REAL PROPOSITION

Man Has Difficult Task to Prove His Marriage.

Monday City Clerk S. Baker's staff took in $35 in fees for issuing marriage and birth certificates. This means that 140 certificates were issued. Forty other applications were sent to Toronto to be filled out and returned.

Among the applicants was a man married in 1873, who found out that there is absolutely no record of his marriage. His wife is dead and so is the minister who married them. His marriage certificate was destroyed by fire. He is facing a difficult task to prove that he was ever married. He will now search for two reputable citizens who can swear that they saw his marriage certificate.

EXPECT CHEAPER BERRIES

Bigger Crop This Year Than at This Time in 1917.

The strawberry crop is much larger this year than it was in 1917. At this time last year few home-grown strawberries were being offered on the local market, but this year they are very plentiful.

A large quantity of berries was offered Tuesday by the vegetable and fruit growers.

The weather is ideal for the berry crop, and the price is expected to be much lower in a few days.

JIMMY COON STORIES

JIMMY COON'S BIRD WITH TWO TAILS.

Jimmy Coon took Peter Rabbit to see the strangest sight in his eventful life. Jimmy was very fond of fooling Peter Rabbit, but this night Jimmy had a wonderful sight to show Peter.

It was as dark as the blackest pitch in the woods, but Jimmy Coon and Peter could see everything. Suddenly little Peter nearly jumped out of his skin as a big scream in a tree overhead sounded out in the still night like a big Tom Cat. "Me-ow-ow-ow!" And over and over this fearful sound made little Peter have the cold shivers run up and down his backbone.

It was the cry of Mr. Long-eared Owl. You know he is often called the Cat-Owl, just because he calls at night his "Me-ow-ow-ow" like a ferocious cat. Little Peter looked up in the tree and saw Mr. Owl with his funny yellow eyes looking around to see what was going on.

The big Tom Cat from the Jones Farm was seen prowling around under the trees, with his tail in the air.

And Jimmy Coon grabbed Peter by his white stub tail and pulled him behind a big tree to hide. "Now, Peter," whispered Jimmy Coon, "I want to show you the biggest wonder in the world. I want to show you Mr. Owl's wife."

And Jimmy took Peter to the other side of the big tree to watch Mr. Owl. You know Mrs. Owl is much larger than her husband. I suppose Mr. Owl married a big wife so that she can protect his precious life from his enemies. And Jimmy whispered: "Look quick, Peter! Do you see that Mrs. Owl has two tails, just as I told you!"

"That's right," said Peter. "Well, that beats all I ever saw before in all my born days! I see Mrs. Owl is much bigger than her husband. But see that wonderful tail hanging from her lower lip!"

And Jimmy and Peter had to stuff their hands in their mouths to keep from laughing out loud. "Well," gasped Peter, "that is wonderful! Why, her big tail behind is all feathers, and this front tail on her mouth looks like the tail of a baby Muskrat!"

And Jimmy and Peter laughed under their breath; and had to lie down on the grass and roll over and over, it looked so funny. But suddenly Jimmy poked Peter in the ribs and whispered "Peter, I believe Mrs. Owl is sick, and her husband is calling for the doctor." "I guess you are right again, Jimmy," whispered Peter; and then they both heard Mr. Owl again scream for help, "Me-ow-ow-ow!"

And the big Tom Cat from the Janes Farm was seen prowling around under the trees, with his tail in the air. And the big Tom Cat screamed "Me-ow-the-ow!" It was a big joke on the Tom Cat, for when he looked up in the tree to see a Cat, he only saw a Cat in feathers, Mr. Cat Owl!"

Tomorrow—Jimmy Coon Takes Peter Again to See the Two-Tailed Bird.

Home Canning Methods

STEPS IN THE SINGLE PERIOD COLD-PACK METHOD.

In canning by the Single Period Cold-Pack method, it is important that careful attention be given to each detail. Do not undertake canning until you have familiarized yourself with the various steps, which are as follows:

1. Vegetables should be canned as soon as possible after being picked; the same day is best. Early morning is the best time for gathering them. Fruits should be as fresh as possible.

Before starting work have on the stove the boiler or other holder in which the sterilizing is to be done, a pan of boiling water for use in blanching, and a kettle of boiling water for use in filling jars of vegetables; or, if canning fruits, the syrup to be used in filling the jars. Arrange on working table all necessary equipment, including instructions.

3. Test jars and tops. All jars, rubbers and tops should be clean and hot.

4. Wash and grade product according to size and ripeness. (Cauliflower should be soaked one hour in salted water, to remove insects, if any are present. Put berries into a colander and wash, by allowing cold water to flow over them, to prevent bruising.

5. Prepare vegetable or fruit. Remove all but an inch of the tops from beets, parsnips and carrots, and the strings from green beans. Pare squash, remove seeds and cut in small pieces. Large vegetables should be cut into pieces to make close pack possible. The pits should be removed from cherries, peaches and apricots.

6. Blanch in boiling water or steam as directed.

7. Cold-dip, but do not allow product to stand in cold water at this or any other stage.

8. Pack in hot jars which rest on hot cloths or stand in a pan of hot water. Fill the jars to within quarter to half inch of tops. (In canning berries, to insure a close pack, put a two or three-inch layer of berries on the bottom of the jar and press down gently with a wooden spoon. Continue in this manner with other layers until jar is filled. Fruits cut in half should be arranged with pit surface down.

9. Add salt and boiling water to vegetables to cover them. To fruits add hot syrup or water.

10. Place wet rubber and top on jar, but only leaving lower bail or snap free. With screw-top jar, screw the top on lightly, using only the thumb and little finger. (This partial sealing makes it possible for steam generated within the jar to escape, and prevents breakage.)

12. Place the jars on rack in boiler or other sterilizer. If the home-made or commercial hot-water bath outfit is used, enough water should be in the boiler to come at least one inch above the tops of the jars, and the water, in boiling out, should never be allowed to drop to the level of these tops. In using the hot-water bath outfit, begin to count sterilizing time when the water begins to boil. Water is at the boiling point when it is jumping or rolling all over. Water is not boiling when bubbles merely form on the bottom or when they begin to rise to the top. The water must be kept boiling all during the period of sterilization.

13. Consult sterilizing time table given a few days ago, and at the end of the required sterilizing period remove the jars from the sterilizer. Place them on a wooden rack or on several thicknesses of cloth to prevent breakage. Complete the sealing of jars. With bail-top jars this is done by pushing the snap down; with screw-top jars by screwing cover on tightly.

14. Turn the jars upside down as a test for leakage, and leave theme in this position till cold. Let them cool rapidly, but be sure that no draft reaches them, as a draft will cause breakage. (If there is any doubt that a bail-top jar is perfectly sealed, a simple test may be made by loosening the top bail and lifting the jar by taking hold of the top with the fingers. The internal suction should hold the top tightly in place when thus lifted. If the top comes off put on a new wet rubber and sterilize fifteen minutes longer for vegetables and five minutes longer for fruits.) With screw-top jars try the tops while the jars are cooling, or as soon as they have coooled, and, if loose, tighten them by screwing on more tightly.

15. Wash and dry each jar, label and store. If storage place is exposed to light, wrap each jar in paper, preferably brown, as light will fade the color of products canned in glass. The boxes in which jars were bought afford a good storage place.

RED CROSS AND C. W. C. A. COLUMN

"STARS OF HOPE."

This is what a wounded Canadian soldier calls the two Red Cross Societies —the British and Canadian—who came to his assistance when he was wounded. He is home in Canada now, but has not forgotten his terrible experiences on the battlefield, nor the work the Canadian Red Cross did for him there, nor what the British Red Cross did later, when he was sent to a hospital in England. So he designates these two societies "Stars of hope in a world of darkness."

Sometimes we get tired of our endless sewing and knitting and rushing to Red Cross meetings, but then we just have to remember that we are the stars that shine on the dark road of pain the wounded soldier has to travel, and, no matter how weary we may grow, we must not for a moment relax our efforts lest the light grow dim. "Stars of hope in a world of darkness" must keep on shining until the morning of peace dawns.

THE CONSPICUOUS KNITTER.

"Yes, I looked all over the audience and I could see only one woman knitting besides myself, and I just put my sock away in my bag; I felt so conspicuous."

This is a speech that was overheard the other day. The young lady who made it had just returned from a visit to a small place, somewhere in Military District No. 1. She had attended a concert there, given by local talent, and, though the hall was crowded, she saw only one knitted besides herself. The concert lasted two hours and a half, and if every woman had been knitting, except those who had brought the babies along and had their hands occupied, there would have been a grand big shipment of socks from that place the next week. I wonder why they were not knitting. It cannot be because they have not heard of the urgent need of socks, a need more urgent than it has ever been. There must be some reason for this relaxation. Let us hope that it is not general. Our army grows larger day by day, and the knitting army must keep pace with the fighting army or disaster will be certain.

In any Canadian audience, the woman who is not knitting should be the conspicuous one—so conspicuous that she would rather stay at home than appear without her needles.

While we wait for the new regulations regarding parcels for prisoners, let us not forget that our boys over in Germany are just as hungry for food we can send as ever, and let us keep on sending. The great Red Cross Society will see to it that every penny we send will be well spent.

Prisoners continue to be sent home, two or three at a time. They tell the same tale—their lives have been saved by the Red Cross Society and the generous friends behind it who gave the money. A reception committee has been formed in England to meet these poor fellows who are returned to freedom and give them a hearty welcome home. Each man is given a card with a message from the king and queen. The men are then taken to hospitals, where they are visited and given candy, cigarettes, etc., and everything possible is done to make their homecoming as bright as possible. There is no need to say that they appreciate the kindness very much.

MARIAN KEITH,
Press Secretary.

Women's Land Army Practicable

Any emergency measure carries a strong inherent appeal in its element of urgency. When, added to this, there is the quality of undeniable practicality the appeal is beyond questioning or justifiable refusal. Up to the present time it has always been taken for granted that men were able to meet any emergency. All resources were at their command and the possession of undoubted physical endurance added the final argument in their favor. But when woman ceased to be the clinging vine she began to exert all her power both mental and physical. She chose the strenuous in athletics and invaded business domains with eyes wide open. Today, as a consequence of her self-imposed training, she is able to take up the work that men must for the moment forsake. And the work does not suffer by the change of workers.

Nothing but urgency enters into the work undertaken by those bodies of women attached to the British army, navy and flying corps, but the urgency is great enough to lift their work into the heroic. Equal urgency attaches itself to the call for women workers on the land. An equal willingness to answer the call exists on the part of women. The practical element has, so far, been questioned. That is due to the fact that all the elements concerned in the working out of the question have not been co-ordinated.

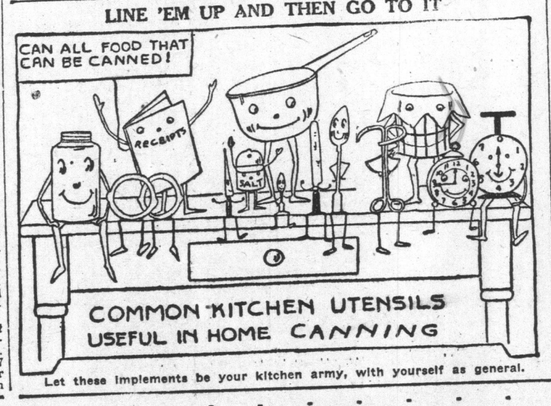

For that reason great value attaches to the Vassar Farm experiment carried out last summer in order to demonstrate whether or not farming operations can be successfully carried on by women. All the necessary conditions entering into the problem were supplied by the college and the success or failure rested with the women workers. Twelve girls were chosen from thirty-three who volunteered the moment the scheme was proposed. The conditions were: eight hours a day for eight weeks on a 600-acre farm and a result that showed success in dollars and cents. Everything was to be on a strictly business basis. Good health was the main consideration in choosing the twelve. Room and meals were provided in the dormitory at $5.50 per week and the wages were 17½ cents an hour. There was a Saturday half-holiday and each girl was allowed four days off with pay during the term. Work commenced at 4:30 every morning, giving two hours before breakfast. Four hours' work after breakfast and from two to four hours in the afternoon completed the day.

The Vassar farm has a tested herd of 180 thoroughbred cattle supplying annually 201,307 quarts of milk and cream. There are 350 chickens, 130 pigs and 17 horses. Most of the feed needed for these as well as white and yellow corn for bread and pastry, 4,000 bushels of potatoes, 600 bushels of tomatoes, 4 acres of asparagus and great quantities of sweet corn, celery, carrots, cauliflower, cabbage, beans, beets, turnips, parsnips and other vegetables constitute the annual production.

The girls took the place of regular farmhands who were leaving for military duty. What they were worth is best judged by what they did. They hoed and cultivated 16 acres of field corn, 10 acres of ensilage corn, 5 acres of beans, 5 acres of potatoes; they raked and pitched hay, carried shocks and piled the shocks and at each milking time two of the students milked 7 cows each. By the end of the summer each girl could milk four cows. All kinds of hoeing and weeding were done in the garden and a bed of 2,000 strawberry plants were laid out, corn and beans planted and vegetables were picked for the kitchen.

The great question at the start was: Could girl farmers "make good" in cold dollars and cents? They answered that satisfactorily and by doing so propounded another question: "Did the Vassar farm contribute more to the country than it raised?" It has contributed a patriotism that "gets under the skin" and does things. The women farmers of this whole continent are the "Waacs" most needed today. Be a woman farmer!

EMBRO.—A ladies' missionary meeting held in the basement of Knox Church was well attended, the president, Mrs. Campbell, being in the chair. Mrs. W. W. Murray rendered a solo, and papers were given by Mrs. James Kennedy on "The Evangel in Home and Hospital in South China," and by Mrs. I. H. Clark on "Our First Missionaries Among the Indians." Both papers were very interesting.

The ladies' Aid of the Congregational Church held a meeting in the basement of their church to make arrangements for their annual garden party, which is to be held in the rink building on Saturday night, June 29.

The Ladies' Aid of the Congregational met at the home of Mrs. W. W. Murray and their time was busily spent in making hospital bags for the soldiers. This club meets one night each week, and their time is always spent in making something useful for the soldiers.

WARDSVILLE.—The West Middlesex Women's Institute met in convention at Middlemiss. Mrs. J. H. Matthews of Delaware presided. A good report was given, every branch except Strathroy having delegates present and answering the roll call. About $2,000 was contributed to patriotic purposes by the district throughout the year, Appin being the banner branch.

Mrs. Daws of Thedford gave a splendid address dealing with many live questions.

A resolution was passed that West Middlesex ask for medical inspection for the schools in that district.

Mrs. Hammet of Newbury gave some very practical suggestions, proposing that the delegates immediately carry into effect some of the good ideas brought out during the convention.

An instrumental duet was rendered by Mrs. Sparling Clarke and Miss Wellman of Melbourne.

The delegates from Wardsville were Mrs. A. Sheppard, Mrs. R. J. Petch and Miss Gardener. Mr. and Mrs. Duncan L. Purcell took the ladies over in their car.

DAILY BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

8. Verse 5—Most Christians believe that angels are all around us. Why would you say, or not, that it is possible for us to develop sight sufficiently sensitive to see them?

9. Verse 6—Why is it that most people have such a dread of the very thought of seeing a spirit?

10. Did Christ resurrect himself, or did God do it? Which, and why?

11. Of what import is Christ's resurrection to us?

Golden Text: Now hath Christ been raised from the dead.—I. Corinthians, xv., 20.

HE WAS SEEN OF MANY AFTER HIS RESURRECTION.

There are at least ten recorded appearances of Jesus to his disciples after his resurrection from the dead, and at different places under different circumstances. He appeared to the woman who brought spices to his tomb, and to other women who came to the tomb a little later. He appeared to Peter and John, who ran to the tomb after they had received the report of the women. He appeared to Mary Magdalene; also to certain women when they were returning home from the tomb. In the evening he appeared to two disciples on the road to Emmaus, and later the same evening to ten apostles in the upper room. He afterwards appeared to eleven apostles when Thomas was present, and appeared at various other times, including his appearance to five hundred brethren at one time.

CP. GRANT OFFICIALS PROMISE BIG TIME TO LOCAL SOLDIER PUGS

Chicago Canadian Clubs Will Entertain Boys on July 4.

A great reception is being planned by officials of Camp Grant to local soldiers on July 4, when they will journey to the American cantonment to meet some of the United States army boys in the ring. In a letter to headquarters here the divisional athletic officer of Camp Grant stated that plans were being completed to make the celebration on the 4th of July the largest that has yet been seen in any camp across the border. The feature of a large athletic program will be the boxing bouts in which local soldiers will participate.

Three of the Camp Grant pugilists are well-known champions of the ring, and if London pugs manage to get three out of the seven scheduled bouts they will be fortunate.

In his letter the divisional athletic officer said that a number of Canadian clubs in Chicago and vicinity would be glad to entertain the London boys.

Fred Dyer, sergeant-instructor of the camp, and the welterweight champion of Australia, is a cousin of the local camp boxing instructor. He has promised to sing several songs after his bout with his cousin, which will be the feature of the glove program. Dyer knocked out the lightweight champ of England some years ago, and crowned his act by singing "Thora" to the fight fans afterward. The applause he inspired is said by fight officials to have been the most enthusiastic accorded any other modern pugilist.

BYRON SOLDIERS AND TISER BALL STARS TO STAGE BENEFIT GAME

Collection To Be Taken for Byron Boys' Baseball Equipment.

With a view of securing funds to equip the soldiers of Byron Sanatorium with a baseball outfit, The Advertiser baseball nine and that of the Byron boys will stage a ball game at Springbank Park on Wednesday next. A large turnout of ball fans is expected, and a collection will be taken at the end of the game, which will be used for the benefit of the Byron soldiers' baseball team.

The game should be well worth seeing. On the soldiers' team are several line players, while the 'Tisers boast of one of the best baseball combinations west of Jerusalem. The soldiers have been practicing for some weeks, and are in fine trim, but will have to go the limit to grab the bacon from London's collection of diamond scribes. The latter have not yet had a practice. Their baseball ability is beyond doubt, however, as anyone glancing at the numerous trophies copped by them will agree.

Play will commence at 3:30 Wednesday afternoon. "Tommy" Bell, well known as the coach of Christy Mathewson; Babe Ruth, Joe Wood and others will serve up the slants for the wizards of the pen, while the collector for the Advertiser battery is one of the best known pill receivers in the world of dope.

The line-up of the Byron ball tossers will be announced some time during the week.

The Rotary Club picnic today is to be one of the most burlesque affairs ever staged in London. Many of the members will wish they were born in Jerusalem after the second lap of the "push the peanut with your nose" race.

One can almost hear the sobs of those brave Rotarians who entered the "peel the onion" contest.

Quite a few members have agreed to dig a hole with their teeth. This event is the 23rd on the program. The prize is an expensive set of false ivories.

Those entering the quoiting game are to be blindfolded. The man who is hit on the head more than three times in succession loses the game. Horseshoes are to be used to insure a minimum of casualties.

President Jewell is favorite for the poetry competition. The prize for this event is a booklet entitled "How to Write Poetry."

The "ivy green" event will be popular. It is the 13th on the program and the winning contestant must eat a pound or so of poison ivy. The prize has been conceded to Billy Green, as it is said that 13 is his lucky number.

Once upon a time there was a pugilist who would rather fight than eat. No, Cedric, it wasn't Jess Willard.

AT THE TWILIGHT GAME.

The night was still, the moon shone overhead;
The girl's young beau could not have wished for more,
Till for the hundredth time she sweetly said:
"Billy dear, tell me what's the score!"

FAMOUS VARSITY MEN IN LATEST CASUALTIES

Many of England's Foremost Athletes Killed.

LONDON, June 18.—Many famous varsity men appear in the latest casualty list of British sportsmen killed and wounded on the western front. Capt. and Brigade-Major Egerton Lowndes Wright, killed, obtained his "Blue" as a freshman at Oxford in 1905, and played for four years against Cambridge at Lords. He had the distinction—shared with L. C. H. Palairet of Oxford, and the Hon. F. S. Jackson of Cambridge—of captaining the university eleven in two seasons. He also played for Lancashire. At soccer football he also got his "Blue," and appeared in many games against Cambridge at Queen's Club. Second Lieut. Kenneth Gerard Gurney, who is reported to have died of wounds while a prisoner of war in Germany, was a famous Oxford oarsman. He rowed in the Oriel College boat in the Torpids in 1908, when it made six bumps, and again in the eights the same year.

Capt. J. A. Schofield, the well-known Cambridge University Rugby "Blue" and English International, who played three-quarters for Sedbergh in 1906-7, in the freshmen's match at Cambridge in 1907, the seniors in 1908, and against Oxford in 1909-10, is a prisoner of war in Germany. Second Lieut. Cyril A. Robers of the Tanks Corps, killed in action, was a well-known hockey and lawn tennis player in Yorkshire. Second Lieut. Walter Parr Dudley, killed, was head of the school and captain of the cricket and football teams at Cranbrook School.

Capt. V. H. Stone, killed, was the well-known Malvern College cricketer. Lieut. Peter Paul McArdle, killed was the famous Liverpool gymnast. Lieut. J. F. Tindal-Atkinson, the prominent Sunningdale golfer, has been badly wounded, and is in hospital in France. Capt. J. S. Munro, wounded, is the South Herts and Hertfordshire County hockey half. He is also well known in army athletics as a long distance runner. Capt. H. E. Robinson, killed, was on the hockey team at Marlborough College. He also played hockey and soccer football for St. Bartholomew's Hospital. Lieut.-Col. J. N. Marshall, the well-known Essex owner and gentleman rider, has been wounded for the ninth time in the present war.

SHEDDEN BRAVES AND IONA TEAM PLAY BALL

SHEDDEN, June 18.—An interesting game of ball was played on the Muller horticultural grounds on Saturday afternoon before a large crowd.

One of the features of the day was the speed shown by W. Atkinson, while baserunning.

ONECK STABLE MISSES BIG CHANCE IN THE ROSEDALE STAKE RACE

My Friend Just Manages To Cop Purse.

New York, June 19.—The Oneck stable relinquished a great chance of increasing the stable's winnings when Elfin Queen was withdrawn from the Rosedale stakes for 2-year-olds, which formed the feature of the card at Jamaica yesterday. The premier filly was not scratched until the last moment, and the result was a very open race for $3,000 guaranteed, and the downfall of W. R. Coe's Kiss Again, an imported miss that was made favorite over F. Houseman's Aunt Dinah and three others.

Kiss Again had the worst of a rather poor start, and was left flatfooted, while Porter's My Friend and Gerry's Lady Rosebud were winging out two lengths in front of Aunt Dinah. Taplin, on My Friend, skinning the corners cleverly, held a lead of three lengths from Aunt Dinah on entering the home stretch. Aunt Dinah responded to the call of Lyke and closed strongly, but failed by a neck to catch My Friend, which graduated from the maiden class with a stake victory. Lady Rosebud, the outsider, finished third, two lengths in front of Wise Joan, while the favorite failed to make up ground and brought up in last place.

The Quincy stable's 3-year-old sprinter, Compadre, showed a great flight of early speed in winning the Richmond high weight handicap at 5½ furlongs. Kalitan was the favorite, and though not away any too well, he finished so gamely under his burden of 128 pounds that he was only a neck behind Compadre at the finish.

BROOKLYN, June 18.—Brooklyn made twelve hits for a total of nineteen bases off Vaughn today, but lost to Chicago 4 to 3 through reckless base-running. A home run and three singles in the first inning netted only one run, Johnson being caught stealing just before Olson drove the ball into the left field bleachers for the circuit. # ROBINSON CHALLENGE MUG NOW IN HANDS OF LONDON ROWING CLUB

McDougall Pilots Local Rink to Victory Over Harrietsville.

Harrietsville bowlers were unsuccessful in defending the Dr. Robinson trophy which they captured from Ingersoll recently, falling down before the London Rowing Club in a game of twenty-one ends yesterday. By the defeat the silverware is now in the hands of the aggregation which took care of it last year for several months before being defeated by Ingersoll.

J. S. McDougall piloted the L. R. C. team with J. M. Farrow led, and J. M. Hunt and Wm. Hynd the remainder of the combination. The game was good all the way through, but from the first the local rink showed its superiority and had the fixture tucked away comfortably at half time. The final score was 23 to 16.

In view of the beating the Harrietsville crew administered to the London Thistles, when the latter attempted to wrest the trophy from Skip E. Facey, the L. R. C. rink went to Harrietsville not at all sure as to the outcome of the battle. The defeated combination comprised: Dr. Doan, W. Brooks, C. B. Adams and E. Facey, skip.

Six challenges have been registered against the new custodians of the mug. The first rink to play for the cup will be from the Elmwood Club and the Asylum, Aylmer, St. Mathews and Thistle Clubs have also passed defis to the new winners.

The London Rowing Club will commence its matinee bowling tournament at 4:15 today, when draw will be made. Two games are to be played before supper and two immediately after.

JOHREN AND ESCOBA ARE FAVORITES FOR LATONIA CLASSIC

East and West To Be Well Represented on Saturday.

Trainer McDaniel, last year with the Thorncliffe stable, Toronto, arrived late yesterday at Latonia with Exterminator, the Kilmer candidate for the Latonia Derby, to be run here Saturday. The colt shipped in good shape, according to William, who will handle him for the race. Although Exterminator won the Kentucky Derby, and was shipped from New York especially for the Latonia classic, he is not regarded as a serious contender unless the track should become muddy.

H. P. Whitney's candidate, Johren, who is expected from New York today, is held in high esteem, however, due to his two recent brilliant victories at Belmont Park. He is likely to divide the post of favoritism with Escoba, to whom the Kentucky contingent is especially loyal. Alexander's colt, a fine looker, suffered no ill-effects from his fall on Friday. Thomas McDowell's American Eagle and Aurum, two other Derby possibilities, provided a sensational nose finish yesterday. The former luckily got through on the inside in the stretch and just got up in the final strides to beat Jeff Livingstone's maiden in the fifth event, and the Montreal-owned Hollinger, "Derby candidate," just nosed Bon Tromp out for third by a nod. Big Enough, never a factor in the same race, worked out to the 1½ miles for the Derby. The work was not impressive. Free Cutter was beaten off by Leochares, and J. J. Murdock also worked out the Derby route after the sixth race. Long's colt is looked upon as a contender. The weight of come-back money forced Ed. Trotter's Troitus to a 7 to 20 favorite in the fourth, but he just got up to beat Believe Me Boys a head after the latter had delayed the start 20 minutes. The fractious actions of Bradley's filly had Hearts of Oak beaten in his palmiest days. A great many Canadians are here, Toronto being especially well represented.

Good Night Stories

Illustrated by Gruelle.

THE MEADOW QUARTET.

"I think my music is too good for the meadow folks!" buzzed Mr. Bumble-Bee to Johnny Grasshopper.

"Just what I was thinking about my cornet playing!" chirped his neighbor. "Suppose we travel into the village? I'm sure we'll astonish folks with our talent."

"No doubt about it!" exclaimed Mr. Bumble-Bee. "You with your cornet and I with my fiddle will soon set the world on fire with our music."

"Make it a trio!" croaked Mr. Green Frog, as he hopped from under a log with his bass viol under his arm.

"Great!" cried Johnny Grasshopper.

So the three musicians started across the meadows, stopping to tell Brown Cricket where they were going.

"Make it a quartet—I'll join you with my flute," chirped Brown Cricket.

"Sure!" croaked Mr. Green Frog. "A fiddle, a cornet, a flute and a bass viol. Oh, there's no doubt we'll set the world on fire with our music."

The four friends went merrily on their way until they came to a tumbled-down old hut.

Mr. Green Frog suggested it would be a good place for them to start playing right then. "If our music pleases here, we can soon set the whole world talking about our charming quartet." So they hopped into the kitchen.

Mr. Bumble-Bee with his fiddle under his wing settled on the curtain. Johnny Grasshopper jumped up on the kitchen table with his cornet. Brown Cricket hopped into the fireplace, holding his tiny flute. And Mr. Green Frog stood in the centre of the kitchen floor, with his big bass viol. The quartet began. But the music was so harsh and so terribly out of tune that before three notes had been played Mr. Bumble-Bee threw down his fiddle.

"Grasshopper's out of tune!" he buzzed loudly.

"Indeed!" exclaimed Johnny Grasshopper. "It's Green Frog, he plays too loud!"

"Nothing of the Sort!"

"Nothing of the sort" croaked Mr. Green Frog. "Mr. Bumble-Bee's fiddle's pitched too high!"

"Perhaps it would be better if we all sat nearer each other," suggested Brown Cricket.

So they all huddled together on the floor and tried it once more. But dear me, it was worse and the effort ended in quarrelling and wrangling, each blaming the other for the terrible discords, until the old man of the house entered and pushed them all out of the kitchen and closed the door on them.

"How do you expect to set the world on fire with your music if you quarrel and wrangle all the time?" laughed Brown Cricket. "Music and harmony are one and the same thing. To be able to play beautiful music you must all be in beautiful harmony. Not each thinking the other's in the wrong. We'd better go back to the meadow, each doing solo work."

So, sadly disappointed, the four friends returned to their meadow homes, and no one ever again heard them express a desire to set the world on fire with their music.

SANDALS

By Frank Crerie

Neither years nor distance nor changes in custom seem to dim the delights of the sandal which has held its place of honor and of comfort since days long before the ancient Greeks. Just a sole of some sort, perhaps with shields for the toes, and thongs with which to bind it on the foot, the sandal is—well, the airiest footgear since Adam and Eve walked from the velvety grasses of the Garden out upon hard stones. In far Japan, neath the cherry blossoms, the Nipponese maiden treads her paths in sandals with little stilt-like bars for rainy-day protection, while nearer home SHE who thrills your heart with her beauty and her grace, sweeps through the dewdrops on a sunkissed hill to greet the morning and HIM who keeps his tryst with LOVE and HER.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

A Year in a Second Not an Impossibility in Your Dreams

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

Why is it often said that "at break of day—dreams are true"? Science is hard at it to explain this and other observations about "sleep with its delusive dreams."

It is now known that Shakespeare was wrong to "talk of dreams, which are the children of an idle brain, begot of nothing but vain fantasy; which is as thin of substance as the air, and more inconstant than the wind." It is known, for instance, that light, sounds, odors and almost any impression which will arouse even slightly the sleeper's sensations, will influence the mind to reveries or dreams. Toward daylight sleep is waning and at this time half-aroused sensations are partial guides or originators of dreams. The dream explanations of Professors Freud, Bergson, Maeder, Watson, Frost and other experimental psychologists are a practical outcome of the investigations of science. Professor Henri Bergson maintains that the dreamer possesses a relaxed mind, "a soluble consciousness." Dr. L. H. Horton, in the Journal of Abnormal Psychology, offers facts to contradict this.

He explains the apparent inversion of time in dreams, such as when an alarm clock bell tinkles you may, for instance, think your dream is of a babbling brook until you are fully conscious of hearing the bell. This he shows to be due to the great difference between the time habits of working and the swift movements of mental images when consciousness is shut off from the outside world. It takes but five seconds of waking time for a person rescued from drowning to rehearse the detailed events of 30 years of life.

In a Second.

How easy it is, therefore, to think you dreamed a house was on fire and wake up to find it so? The clang of the approaching fire engine started the dream, although you waken to find apparently that the bell is just beginning to ring. You would refuse to be convinced that it was the smell of the smoke or the ringing of the bell which originated a dream, the realization of which seems to be at the end instead of the beginning.

Scientific research, however, proves that one second of reality is as long in a dream as a cycle of Cathay. A few seconds are hours, days or years, according to the events hauled out of the dream cellars.

Irrelevancy is not as common in dreams as you may believe. It is not due, as Bergson says, to lack of enough energy on the dreamer's part to summon the correct memory plane, but is due to want of recent or of strong impressions.

Some Strange Facts.

There is no longer much mystery, superstition or occultism in dreams. Unpleasant, long-forgotten events which sometimes prove to be the mainspring of a long life of emotional trouble, miscalled neurasthenia, psychasthenia, hysteria, cowardice, forwardness, bluster, worry and fear, have been unearthed by the scientific investigation of dreams.

Dreams and reveries are only a compartment of thought when they are in agreement for the most part with the physical world. In persons who are more given over to words, opinions, wishes and unrealizable fancies or ideas that have no counterpart in the real world, dreams are Bolsheviki impossibilities.

Finally, while it is frequently true that a sensitizing impression in the real world, such as a cake of ice, a breath from an automobile horn or a creaky door, may influence the sleeper's dream to interpret them directly as such, these actual stimuli of the outside world often become in the dream an entirely different idea of perception. A slam of a door may be a shot fired with a swift following of associated ideas. The memories already mobilized in your mind along with this different idea which the noise seems to be rush through your dream world swiftly and you may awaken at the end of what seems to be a long battle, marching, shouting, artillery fire and victory actually to hear the door slam, which started the whole business.

Writes About "All Aboard!"

Copyright, 1918, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

"All aboard!" cried the conductor, and all aboard it was. The man in the wrinkled overcoat grabbed a handful of bananas and ran toward the car; the woman at the telegraph window threw down the pencil and hurried to the train; the little boy with the big round eyes, and the little girl with the tight little braids sticking out like pigtails under her queer little hood toddled solemnly toward the track. The pretty girl looked prettier than ever, and raised her veil of soft illusion for one last, unveiled look at the man she loved who was leaving her, perhaps forever.

Mother stood over in the corner of the railway station crying quite frankly. She couldn't bear to go out to the train and hear the boys sing, "Where do we go from here, boys, oh, where do we go from here?" But Father stood stolidly alongside the car and grinned amiably through the window at his firstborn. If you looked very closely at him, you noticed that something queer was happening in his throat, and that there was a strained look about his mouth, but he didn't say a word, and when the train pulled out he stood there as motionless as a statue.

Everyone Wants to Go.

All aboard! The painted woman took out her handbag and put on another coat of paint; the cigarette smoker took out a cigarette case and lit and puffed and drew a deep breath of satisfaction; the anxious man tore open a telegram and looked more anxious than ever; the woman with the baby sighed and looked out of the window and tried to see how many miles it was to the place where she was going.

All aboard! The little station began to disappear, the green fields spun by. Good-by, old house there on the hill. How much love and how much bitterness your roof has sheltered. I shall never see you again. I wonder what kind of a house I shall live in at the place where I am going?

There's the school yard and the children all out there already. It must be recess time. See, they are waving! Let's wave back to them again. How wonderful they think it is to get on to a train and go faster and faster—away and away into a brand new world, with brand new people and brand new clothes, and different streets, and nobody that is mad at you for what you did yesterday, and nobody that likes you for the way you acted yesterday; all new, all new and strange.

All Aboard—For Where?

How they would like to run after the train and jump aboard! The little fellow there on the fence: he's waving the hardest of all. I wonder if he will travel far in his life. There's something in his black eyes that seems to say he will.

The stolid little girl by the steps there —will some freak of fortune whisk her into the midst of a whirlpool and take the stolid satisfaction out of her countenance for always, or will she just marry the boy who sits next to her in school, and rent the house next to her aunt's, join the Ladies' Aid Society and sing in the choir, and never know any flowers in any garden but the lilacs and snowballs and the dahlias her mother helped her to plant?

That's a gypsy there beside her; she'll travel far, never fear. Where will the road on which she sets her feet lead to —to happiness or to despair?

All aboard! We are gone!! The village, the old house, the school yard, the farm with the whispering willows by the gate, the well there in the shade. Well, Chanticleer, what are you so excited about? There is no use for you to crow—you are not going with us, no matter how much fuss you make.

All aboard! Youth and beauty, old age and weariness, middle age and disillusion, all aboard—for where?

To what far country do we journey, and what influenced us when we secured our tickets? Oh, well, so long as we journey in love and friendliness, in kindness and in generous appreciation, what difference does it make whether the name of the station where we get off begins with "A" or with "B" and what kind of a conductor it is who takes our tickets?

The Chinese ministry of agriculture and commerce proposes to encourage the manufacture of Chinese goods and the exportation of raw materials by awarding medals to the exporters.

An interesting civic activity of San Antonio, Tex., is the housing and protection of the domestic bat. A health official of that city declares that the bat is an enemy to mosquitoes and other pests and a reliable aid to the city's fighters against malaria. The town has made the destruction of the bat a civil misdemeanor, and has further encouraged the little animals by providing a large bat roost in one of the suburbs.

AN UP-TO-THE-INSTANT HABIT.

The severe mannish cut of this riding habit in khaki-colored covert cloth is relieved by a slip-through belt, and instead of the coat being tightly fitted, it has a slight fullness which gives a soft blouse effect.

The skirt of the coat is flared gracefully, yet the smart slash pockets at the sides and the slit breast pocket add the little mannish note in keeping with the purpose of the outfit.

Combining the severely cut collar with the slightly bloused, flared coat marks the model as different from most riding suits which generally adhere strictly to the tailored lines.

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Why Lillian Said "For Goodness Sake—Get It Over With!"

"Dearest Dicky-bird."

The words stared up at me from the page I held in my hand. I did not need to hunt for the signature to the mysterious letter to Dicky which my mother-in-law had sent on to me. I knew only too well the dashing, bold handwriting of Grace Draper.

I had been prepared for something radically wrong by Lillian's manner, but the thing implied by this salutation made me feel fairly ill.

It was not the form of the words that sickened me—Lillian would probably have addressed a yetter to Dicky in the same manner—but the inference they conveyed of a friendship which not even my husband's knowledge of the girl's enemy had affected.

She had tried to murder me, she had shot Dicky and herself in the dramatic interview she had staged after her attempt to drown me and her open association with Harry Underwood—Dicky's friend and Lillian's husband—was a shameful thing. And with my husband's knowledge of all this, this letter to him in her chirography began in this intimate, familiar fashion!

My eyes sought Lillian's. She was watching me soberly, and there was a touch of mournfulness in her gaze.

"Better read it quickly, dear," she said quietly, and I turned my eyes again to the letter.

"Taking a Chance."

"I can imagine your surprise," the letter began, "when you open this miserable scrawled envelope and find a letter from me inside. But don't trust that cat at the studio any more—she's too much in love with you herself to suit my book, poor, little, washed-out la-de-da F. F. V.—it is to laugh, isn't it, sweetheart?—and as I didn't want my big boy to miss his usual letter I thought I'd take a chance and address it out to your 'country estate.'"

Again my eyes sought Lillian's, although until she spoke I was really not conscious that I had looked at her.

For I was utterly bewildered at this reference to the "cat at the studio." I knew, of course, that Edith Fairfax, the girl art student whose ambitions in dramatic writing Dicky was furthering, shared a studio with her sister, Leila, in the same building which housed my husband. I had been more than a little jealous of the delicate, pretty Virginian girl, whose secret love for Dicky I had guessed, but I hadn't dreamed that her friendship with Dicky had reached the stage of overseeing his studio and censoring his correspondence.

Queerly enough this reference to Edith Fairfax hurt me more poignantly than did the extravagant terms of endearment with which Grace Draper had embellished her letter.

"As far as that exquisitely witty remark about Edith Fairfax is concerned," Lilian said, and I noticed gratefully that she evidently was following the movement of my eyes and mentally rereading the letter with me, "she's switched in on the wrong circuit. Dicky's more kinds of a fool than I have time to enumerate, but he isn't a knave—yet."

I said bitterly to myself that I couldn't agree with her, and I wondered dully how she could still believe in Dicky after such proof of his baseness as that which was in my hands.

My eyes strayed back to the letter. I loathed every word of it, but it had a horrible fascination for me. I felt that I must miss no syllable of it.

"Of course I know I'm taking a chance in sending this to Marvin. That henminded frau of yours may open it, but I'm rather banking that she won't because it is addressed in this fool scrawl. She will probably figure that it is a begging letter from somebody living in a slum, and so be afraid she may catch some awful disease if she touches it. I have just laughed myself sick over the remembrance of some of the things you have told me about her fool theories."

A Primitive Impulse.

I shall always feel a hidden sympathy for a murderer who kills in the heat of passion after this. The beautiful, mocking face of Grace Draper rose before me. I could imagine her laughing mockery directed toward my foibles, and Dicky—to think he could have discussed me with her, made fun of me for her amusement! I found myself crooking my fingers into a clawing motion, and knew that the primitive feline impulse to rend and tear one's enemy had me by the throat.

Lillian came over to me, put a calming hand on my shoulder, and said forcibly:

"For goodness sake, Madge, finish that awful thing and get it over with!"

KITCHEN ECONOMIES

BY ISOBEL BRANDS

OF THE APPLECROFT EXPERIMENT STATION.

Solving Some of Your Food Preserving Problems.

It is high time to look over your store of canning and preserving equipment, and be prepared to pack away the summer fruits and vegetables.

Have you a sufficient quantity of glass jars on hand? Are they in good order, their tops without nick or dent?

Have you any device for drying? Owing to the increasing cost of the glass jars and tops it is sometimes far more economical to dry fruits and vegetables.

Have you any canning devices?

If you have the facilities for putting up large quantities of food for next winter, then it would pay you to invest in some of the equipment for preparing them, such as small devices for hulling berries, slicing machine, special knives for peeling, pineapple snips, cherry stoners, etc. These are great time-savers as well as making the work of preserving much easier.

Dry Food For Winter.

It is most essential that some equipment for drying should be in every kitchen. The apartment dweller with so little room in which to store food can dry fruits and vegetables for winter use. For, unlike preserved and canned things, a large quantity of dried foods can be stored in a very small space. You can dry a small quantity of fruits or vegetables at a time with very little trouble.

There are a number of devices for drying, many of which can be made at home. A tier of three or four small screened trays can be hung over the kitchen stove, and the foods left in them for drying. They require next to no attention, and use up no extra heat in the drying process.

Form Canning Clubs.

Best of all, you can do a noble service in the cause of conservation if you will help now to organize canning clubs in your community. Every women's club should devote some of its time and proceeds to the service of saving our crops and encouraging more canning, preserving and drying. The children should be encouraged to help not only to teach them service to the country, but also to inculcate in them the sense of thrift and foresight.

This is part of the housewife's bit each year—to look ahead toward the harvest season and to prepare for conservation.

Practical Suggestions on Individual Ways to Help Win the War

By ALBERT BARRETT SAYRES

Saving by a Marketing Plan.

The wastefulness of haphazard marketing—the sort that runs up costs by sending out just before a meal for a little of this and a bit of that—is evident to almost every housekeeper. But there still are all too many homemakers who pursue the method of planning their meals but a day or so ahead.

The most economical method of "running" the table is to plan your menus at least one full week ahead, and to do your marketing upon this basis. Not only do you save telephone costs by this "wholesale" personal marketing, the work of delivery men and time for your maid or yourself, but you are enabled to save money by more careful planning, and also can offer better balanced and more varied meals.

Keep a record of the cost of your present method of housekeeping and then a record for an equal period of planning and purchasing by the method suggested. You will discover that you're saving money as well as conserving the time and labor of tradesmen and those connected all along the line with the production and delivery of the foods you purchase.

Using Wheat Substitutes Wisely.

In nearly every recipe for cake, pastry and breads you can use in place of half the wheat flour "required" cornmeal, rice flour or potato flour with results that are just as good as when all wheat flour is used. The only thing to remember is that most wheat substitutes need slightly more moisture than wheat alone.

If you feel it impossible to reduce your consumption of wheat to the more patriotic no-wheat basis of many a family, you may, of course, try this compromise method. But it's difficult to comprehend the need of using wheat even in pastries when such delicious dishes as the following can be made:

Making Corn Flour Pastry.

To one cupful of corn flour add half a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder. Sift together, then cut in half a cupful of fat and add sufficient water to bind it. Remember that this crust is sometimes difficult to handle because it may break easily. Roll it out thin, lift it into the pan and shape it with the fingers. Bake a little more slowly than wheat pastry.

Offering Novelties to Saving Meals.

Once in a while when you're preparing some special saving dish upon which you wish your family's opinion, it may be well to have another novelty to share with it the discussion. Instead of the regulation "vegetable," try either tomatoes or green peppers stuffed with corn.

Choose firm tomatoes, leave the skins on and scoop out the pulp from the stem end. Dust with salt and pepper, fill with canned or fresh corn, cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake.

If you use green peppers, cut off the stem ends, remove the seeds and parboil for three minutes in about a quart of boiling water to which a pinch of soda has been added. Let the peppers cool before filling, then fill and garnish as for tomatoes, and bake.

Preparing Rice Flour Pastry.

Sift and thoroughly mix together one cupful of rice flour, a third of a teaspoonful of salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Cut into this one-third of a cupful of fat and add sufficient water to make a soft dough. This pastry isn't quite as tender as wheat pastry, but it has fine flavor and is of a crisp, flaky texture. Try it first with a one-crust fruit pie.

Here Are Some Beauty Ways to Curl Your Hair

BY LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCREZIA BORI

Many girls who write me wish to know a way of curling the hair quickly and permanently without injury. I do not know whence this mania for curling hair proceeds, and personally I don't always like to encourage the habit of curling the hair, because to many curly hair may not be becoming.

Of course the natural waves are beautiful if they are well brushed and not of the kinky variety. But I think that straight hair can be just as lovely, if it is well brushed, immaculate and glossy.

As a matter of fact, there are many types of faces to which only straight hair is suitable. If you have small, regular features, don't go to the trouble of curling your hair. Fluffy curls often tend to make the small face with regular features appear weak. Also fluffy hair attracts attention to itself and thus detracts from the magnetism which the features would otherwise exercise.

The small-featured, delicately molded face is set off most beautifully by plainly brushed hair fastened in a simple, trim knot in the back. Don't overlook the possible value of flatly-brushed hair and try this method of dressing your hair before you determine that you must have curls at any price.

Here is a simple recipe for curling the hair:

1 pound of olive oil
1 dram of oil of organum
1½ drams of oil of rosemary.

Mix together well and apply lightly to the hair.

A Fine Aid.

Here are a few simple hints to aid in obtaining the natural beauty all healthy hair should have:

Rubbing the scalp with rose water and glycerine will tend to renew the gloss of the hair and also help to increase its growth. Before using this wash the hair well with a good borax soap or a solution of powdered borax, using a weak mixture. Use this with warm, not hot, water. Rinse the hair well and when thoroughly dry rub the glycerine and rose water mixture well into the scalp, using it sparingly.

Do not use too much of this mixture, or it will be difficult to curl the hair. If too much has been applied rub the hair lightly with a little of the borax solution. This seems to help renew the color of hair that's just turning grey.

Cleanliness and Air.

If you want to keep your hair in curl for some time without recurling it, try moistening with the white of egg when putting it up. The dampness doesn't affect the curl then as is usually the case when only plain water is used.

Shampoo the hair frequently during the warm weather, as it is apt to collect much dust and thus is hard to dress attractively. For those who have oily hair, shampoo at least every two weeks. When cleansed frequently the hair is much easier to keep in curl than when it is allowed to become very dusty and oily. And when the scalp is kept clean it allows the hair roots to "breathe" more freely, which is necessary during the hot, sultry summer days.

Frequent airing of the hair will also help the scalp to keep in a healthy condition. A good sun bath will do wonders for any one's hair, and this simple remedy is worth more than some hair tonics that afford temporary assistance.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, JUNE 20.

According to this day's horoscope the prospects are not encouraging. The health and spirits may be low, with conditions generally crystallized and obstinate, with obstruction and disappointment thwarting some new ventures and threatening some old ones. Under an adverse Mars all disputes and hasty words and acts that may lead to litigation should be carefully avoided, as loss of lawsuit and of money are threatened the aggressor. All rash, intemperate, improvident, reckless and indiscreet actions in every direction should be avoided. Those in employment, especially should be circumspect and conservative. Avoid accident, fire, etc.

Those whose birthday it is may be called upon for wise handling of their affairs, avoiding litigation, bankruptcy and should protect the health. A child born on this day should be trained in all the sterling qualities making for conquest and achievement, with emphasis on patience, providence and temperance.

ODD FACTS

There are 782 varieties of Arctic flowers, which have but two colors, white and yellow.

In coffee-growing countries an infusion of the leaves of the tree is held by many to be superior to the infusion of the berry.

A method has been discovered for keeping airmen warm at great altitudes by providing them with electrically-heated clothing and gloves particularly.

One of the richest iron ore deposits in the world is in the Rajera Hills, India.

Iron embedded in concrete has been found to be free from rust after more than 45 years.

It is said that it takes no less than 11 motor cars to accommodate ex-King Constantine of Greece and his suite at Zurich, Switzerland, in visits to the bank, to the theatre and even in ordinary errands about town.

Time after time, together with the rest of the city of Moscow, the Kremlin has been burned, the last occasion being in 1812, when it was occupied by Napoleon, and the inhabitants of the city themselves started the conflagrations in all parts of the city. It was these fires which forced the "little corporal" to commence his disastrous retreat across the snow-bound steppes of Russia. Napoleon had his headquarters in the Kremlin, and while the flames were not so destructive there as in other parts of the city, yet they forced evacuation.

The gila (pronounced ghee-la) monster is so called on account of being found near the Gila River in Arizona and New Mexico. Its bite is deadly, and it is much feared by the Indians, as no remedy is known for the bite. They are very peculiar creatures, having the shape of a large lizard, with feet marked like those of a monkey.

Where Men Read Their Stories Carved in Wood.

One of the most interesting ways that primitive peoples who have neither letters nor hieroglyphics with which to record their ideas, express their legends for posterity to read, is by means of what science calls the plastic and the graphic arts. Carving in wood, stone and bone, weaving in wool and linen and the bark of trees, painting and in leaving monuments carved into the semblances of crude ideas, are the every day "writings" of such unlettered tribes.

On the northwestern coast of this continent there still rise and there still are carved what we know as totem poles. Each tells a story of the tribe in whose village it is found or of the individual before whose house or tent it stands. Often these stories told in wood go back to the time when men and animals were supposed to be close to each other.

In those days men and women and the bear, the mountain goat and other animals saw each other under witchery's spell, and lived and talked together, even intermarrying, some of the stories say. All were human, the legends declare, the animals wearing coats of fur, which they removed at will, to appear in human form, and donned again when they wished to become animals once more.

Records of these most ancient stories of our land are to be found in perhaps the most varied form on a totem pole discovered close to the Skeena River, near Hazelton, and shown in our illustration. On it there are four stories told, and each is so old that time seems to the Kitsan peoples, who revere it, too young to record its age.

REVERTS IN RANK TO GET OVERSEAS WITH BATTERY UNIT

Head of Royal School of Instruction Drops Star.

LONG IN SERVICE HERE

Capt. Cantin, Now Going to France, Has Trained 3,000 Men as Officers.

After long and faithful service in various capacities in connection with the instruction of troops in this district, Capt. J. N. Cantin, adjutant of the Royal School of Instruction here, is leaving for Petawawa, where he will revert to the rank of lieutenant and join the 64th Battery, C. F. A., for overseas service.

Although he offered his services at the beginning of the war, Capt. Cantin was prevented by a severe eye infection, which he contracted while in command of a troop of the 7th Canadian Mounted Rifles, under Lieut.-Col. E. I. Leonard, from getting overseas, and is now taking down one of his captain's stars to get away.

The services he has rendered have been most varied and valuable. While with the C. M. R. he was placed in command of the machine gun section, and later placed in charge of the physical training for the Regiment. Being unable to accompany it whe nthat unit departed for overseas service, he was attached to the district headquarters staff as assistant musketry instructor, and appointed superviser of physical training for Military District No. 1.

It was in this district that Capt. Cantin, acting on the instructions of Brig.-Gen. Shannon, led the way for the whole of Canada by the early and systematic introduction of physical training into the usual syllabus followed.

During the time that the 33rd, 34th, 70th and 71st Battalions were quartered here, he had charge of the map-reading instruction for officers and men.

Became School Adjutant.

When Major E. M. McLean went to the 142nd as second in command in 1915, Capt. Cantin was appointed adjutant of the Royal School of Instruction, under Lieut.-Col. H. D. Smith, G.S.O., as commandant.

Excellent work was done in the school during this period, and the syllabus was brought up to the standard required for overseas service, and the courses given in this district are now recognized as most complete. Since the beginning of the war some 3,000 officers and N. C. O.'s have, directly or indirectly, received their training through the school here.

Capt. Cantin, after receiving his early education in Montreal, graduated from the R. M. C. in 1913. He is of French-Canadian descent, and is the son of N. M. Cantin of St. Joseph, Ont.

Great regret was expressed at headquarters today at the announcement of his departure from London. Officers at headquarters today, while anxious to congratulate Capt. Cantin on his success in getting admittance to an overseas unit, were extremely sorry to hear that he was about to leave the city.

Praise From Commander.

Lieut.-Col. Smith, acting officer commanding this district, today also expressed regret at his leaving. "As adjutant of the School of Instruction, his services have been very satisfactory," he said, "and he has always proved himself a capable and efficient militia officer.

"He has now become medically fit, and feels that it is up to him to go overseas, and while we are sorry to lose his services, we feel that it is up to us to let him go."

USUAL "NOT GUILTY" PLEA FAILS AGAIN IN POLICE COURT

All Charles Scales' Eloquence Falls on Deaf Ears.

Charles Scales, a colored citizen well known in police court circles, came to the city palace of justice today by special request, and when he departed he was minus $2.00 of real Canadian currency.

Charles was convicted on a charge of assaulting Robert Green. The defendant claimed that Scales handed him a "Jack Johnson wallop" on the point of the jaw which caused him to see stars for several seconds.

Scales pleaded not guilty, as he has to all the charges on which he has been summoned to court lately. With the eloquence of a Demosthenes he endeavored to convince Magistrate Graydon that he was the most persecuted man in Canada. But the oratory of Charles was of no avail and the fine of $2.00 was imposed.

On the second charge, that of obstructing the street corner at Oxford and Adelaide streets, an indefinite adjournment was made. It was shown that Scales had removed his ice cream stand from the boulevard, and Chief W. T. T. Williams stated he was content to allow the case to rest as long as Scales kept off city property.

W. C. T. U. TO REOPEN SPRINGBANK CAMP FOR LONDON GIRLS

Qualifications of Last Year Being Reversed Now.

Preparations are under way for the opening again this year of the W. C. T. U. holiday camp for girls at Springbank, across from the pumphouse, under the direction of Mrs. Harrison. Last year the camp was given over to the girls serving King and country by berry picking. This meant that there was no room for the girls who need the change and the health-giving outing afforded at the camp, while perhaps continuing their regular duties during the day in the city.

This year the order is to be reversed and while provision may be made for a few girls doing farm work near Springbank, the camp will first and foremost belong to the girls in need of a good holiday at a minimum cost. For those coming in each day to the city to their work breakfast and dinner will be provided at the camp, and a lunch to take along for noon. Doubtless there will be girls as well who can spend long, blissful summer days for one or two whole weeks as boarders at the camp.

The only really binding regulation which everyone is expected to observe is the one which says, "The camp closes at 10 p.m." It is possible that, owing to the longer daylight which daylight saving involves, this may be stretched to 10:15 or 10:30 this summer.

This year there are no tents to pitch owing to the fact that the permanent huts have been established and have stood the strain of the winter well. It is hoped to have the camp open by July 1st, and Mrs. Harrison is already giving her attention to the subject of registration of those who are going to take advantage of the camp this year.

SUGGESTS SETTLEMENT

Chief Justice Advises Litigants to Get Together.

At the conclusion of the hearing of evidence in the case of O'Neil vs. O'Neil at the supreme court sitting today, Chief Justice Falconbridge suggested that the parties get together and settle the case among themselves.

The success with which the chief justice's suggestion met will be announced by counsel to the court this afternoon.

At the opening of court this afternoon, the McGirr vs. Standeven case was taken up. The action arises out of a timber deal between George McGirr of East Nissouri and Frank Standeven of St. Marys.

33RD COMRADES' PICNIC

Outing to Port Stanley in August To Be Arranged.

At a meeting of the 33rd Comrades' Club, held in the rooms of the Great War Veterans' Association Tuesday evening, it was decided to hold a picnic at Port Stanley some time in August.

The following committee was elected to make arrangements for the picnic: Comrades Pocock, Billington, Shaw and Lupsen.

The date of the picnic will be announced at the next meeting, which will be held in two weeks.

Letters were read from the former members of the 33rd Battalion, and the men overseas stating they were pleased to see that a 33rd Comrade Club had been formed.

BORROWING UNIFORM TO CAMOUFLAGE SNAP DANGEROUS PROCEDURE

Youth Who Wanted Picture in Khaki Learns Bitter Lesson.

Arthur Prodgers, 417 Horton street, was allowed to go in police court this morning with a severe warning when he appeared for sentence on the charge of unlawfully wearing a military uniform.

Prodgers was arrested Sunday evening as he was strolling along Dundas street. The military policeman detained Prodgers because he was improperly dressed for one reason and because he had nothing to indicate his connection with the militia beyond the uniform he was wearing.

Prodgers explained to the court on Monday that a friend, a member of the 1st Depot Battalion, W. O. R., in training at Carling Heights, had exchanged clothes with him in order to permit Arthur to have his photograph taken.

This friend was in police court this morning and he corroborated Prodgers' story and said he did not think there was any harm in lending his uniform for a short time.

Magistrate Graydon ordered that both be taken under military escort to the Armories and there be compelled to exchange clothes.

AGRICULTURAL OBJECTORS MAKING APPEARANCE BEFORE COURT-MARTIAL

NIAGARA CAMP, June 18.—Agricultural objectors are now among the men appearing before the court-martial here under the military service act.

Arthur Atkinson, who was charged with having refused to obey military orders in the 2nd Battalion, C. O. R., gave as his reason that he thought that farmers should not be called to the army. He said there was no person left on his 100-acre farm, eight miles north of Dunnville, but his mother and a 9-year-old brother. He said he would serve in the army if granted two weeks' leave, but otherwise would not serve at all.

As he was already in default and sentenced to 28 days' detention, the court pointed out that he had forfeited any claim to leniency which he might have had, also it was not for him to say whether he would serve in the army or not.

William Andrew McGirr, 21 years of age, a farmer, refused to perform any military duty, and said he would go to penitentiary, because he had been treated by the military as a jailbird for the last two weeks, and he might as well go the rest of the way.

The court pleaded with him to change his mind, as he is "a fine-looking boy," but he replied that he was not a "quitter."

13 PATROL SAMMIES BEAT 40 AMBUSHED GERMANS

WASHINGTON, June 18.—A fight between thirteen Americans and a German ambush patrol of forty, in which most of the Americans fought their way back to their own lines, is told in a dispatch today from Gen. Pershing, continuing yesterday's communique. Following is the communique:

"On the night of June 13 to June 14, an American patrol of thirteen men, operating on the front occupied by our troops in Picardy, ran into an ambush patrol of forty Germans. In spite of its inferiority in numbers, the greater part of our patrol cut its way through the enemy and returned to our lines. The fierceness of the fighting may be judged from the fact that nearly all the men who returned to our lines were wounded.

WINS MILITARY CROSS.

WOODSTOCK, June 17.—Lieut. Harold J. McKenzie has been decorated with the military cross. He has been overseas two years and was with the Canadian Engineers in the preparations made by them for their great achievement at Vimy Ridge.

Three more local boys returned today from France. One of the three, Corp. Reub Wilkes, went overseas with the 18th in 1914. He was gassed. Pte. J. Gilken, who went with the 71st, and Pte. J. M. Fairley were the others to be welcomed by Mayor West and others of the local reception committee.

BLAMES CHICAGO

ceed to Windsor in case of necessity; the ringleader was removed from Windsor to the Sandwich jail, and the 30 men brought to London.

"Things are quiet in Windsor this morning, and no further trouble is anticipated.

"The cause of the trouble is being thoroughly investigated, and if evidence warrants it, parties instigating people to break the laws of the country, will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

Demanded Release.

A Windsor report, carried by the Canadian Press wire, today says that at the Ford City meeting on Tuesday night the aliens of the town decided not to return to work until the release of Parchuda, the alleged I. W. W. agitator, and his followers was ordered.

The dispatch adds:

"They, however, promised to comply with the registration act, and arrangements have been made to register them this morning at the town hall, Ford."

Caused Excitement Here.

The hurried calling out of the men of the C. G. R. last night created considerable excitement in London. Announcements were made in local theatres and other public places that the officers and men of the 1st Battalion were to report at once. Military police and patrols were also used to gather in the men in anticipation of the hurried trip to the border should the civil and military police detachments there prove unequal to the task.

The threatening attitude of the foreigners at the meeting in Ford City last night added fuel to the flames of the rumors in circulation.

The Windsor dispatch which referred to the arrest of the ringleader of the trouble follows:

MAY BE PLOTTER.

WINDSOR, June 18.—Although the charge against him is the nominal one of being without useful occupation, the military police are confident that they have an important prisoner in John Parchuda, Austrian of Ford, who was arrested yesterday and arraigned in police court here today, while several hundred of his countrymen looked on. Magistrate Miers remanded him for eight days at the request of Crown Attorney Redd, and the prisoner was immediately removed to Sandwich jail under close guard.

This evening a squad of Dominion police, in charge of Lieut. Gregory, made a search of Perchuda's house in Ford, and found there what amounts to evidence of the strongest sort. In addition to two small bombs, such as are used for signaling purposes, there were electric flashlights, photographs of several important railroad bridges, a lot of inflammatory literature of the I.W.W. type, grease paints and wigs.

Was on Bail.

Perchuda was out on bail awaiting trial on a charge of disturbing services of a Russian Orthodox church in Ford when he was rearrested. A feature of the police court proceedings today was the presence of Perchuda's followers, who watched the proceedings closely, although all disclaimed a knowledge of the English language. As the foreigners were filing out of the police station they were all subjected to a rigid search. A quantity of I.W.W. cards were found. Some 100 of the men did not have passports, and these were herded into the armories, where they are being kept under guard tonight.

Lieut.-Col. W. W. Brown of London, assistant adjutant-general of No. 1 Military District, and Major Hirsch, assistant provost-mashal, of London, arrived here this evening to conduct a further probe.

GEN. FRANCHET D'ESPERRI SUCCEEDING GUILLAUMAT TO COMMAND IN BALKANS

ATHENS, June 18.—General Franchet d'Esperri has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Allied forces in the Near East, in successon to General Guillaumat, who has been made military governor of Paris. General Franchet d'Esperri was tendered a luncheon today by Premier Venizelos of Greece.

GRAIN.

Chicago, June 19.—Opening: Corn—July, $1 43¾; August, $1 45⅛.

Oats—July, 71¼c; August, 66½c.

Chicago, June 19.—Falling off in receipts, together with belief that the crop movement would be still more curtailed as soon as much wheat was ready for shipment, had a bullish effect today on corn. Initial declines due to favorable weather were not of a lasting sort, as Government advices showed need of rain in important districts. The opening prices, which ranged from ⅜c off to ⅛c advance, with July at $1 43½ @1 44⅛, and August at $1 45@1 45¼, were followed by moderate upturns all around.

Revived export demand strengthened oats. The fact that the crop is at a critical stage seemed also to make sellers cautious. After opening ⅛c off to ¼c advance, with July at 71⅛@71¼c, the market scored material gains.

Winnipeg, June 19.—Oats opened ⅛c lower for July at 85⅛; October unchanged at 70⅝c.

Flax 1½c lower for July at $3 74½, and 3c lower for October at $3 42.

Inspections on Tuesday totaled 168 cars. Contract grades of wheat, 94 cars.

WALL STREET.

New York, June 19—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Equipments and specialties led the general list to higher levels at the opening of today's stock market, traders based their moderately bullish operations on further favorable war news. American Locomotive, Crucible Steel, Republic Iron, General Motors and Wilson Packing rose 1 to 1½ points. Tobaccos again showed variable tendencies with shippings. Interest in rails centred around minor coalers, notably Pittsburg and West Virginia issues. Liberty bonds irregular.

Noon.—The market lost much of its breadth and activity after the first half hour, leaders developing irregular tendencies. Dealings in rails were almost wholly limited to low-grade coalers. Equipments and war shares reacted variably on light offerings, and some of the more speculative specialties fell sharply. Foremost among these was Royal Dutch Oil, which broke 13 points on a single sale. Prices stiffened again at noon under lead of United States Steel and Reading.

NEW LONDON COUNCIL FOR SOCIAL SERVICE FORMALLY ORGANIZED

Canon Tucker Elected President Last Night.

The purity of the home; the single standard for both sexes, in morals, economics and politics; the supression of gambling, sexual and other vices; the abatement and ultimate abolition of poverty; mothers' pensions; a living wage, an eight-hour day and the Sunday rest; the prevention of crime and the redemption of criminals. These are some of the objects of the Social Service Council of London, the organization of which was completed at a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening. The constitution of the Social Service Council of Canada, with some changes to adapt it to local condition was adopted.

Dr. Tucker President.

Canon Dr. Tucker was the unanimous choice for president of the local council. Dr. Tucker thought that his duties were already so heavy that he would be unable to undertake the position, but the delegates would not consider a refusal.

Rev. Dr. D. C. MacGregor was named first vice-president, and Mrs. Harrison second vice-president.

Rev. Dr. MacGregor objected to accepting the position of first vice-president, on the ground that the church as an organization was well represented on the board by Rev. Canon Tucker and some of the delegates should be given a place. It was pointed out, however, that there would be plenty of work for all and no one need be left out.

These officers, with the following delegates, are the members of the executive committee:

J. H. Laughton of the Presbyterian Church, H. B. Ashplant of the W.C.T.U., Mrs. Hubert Ashplant of the Academy of Medicine, Dr. Craig of the Academy of Medicine, Dr. T. Ferguson of the Methodist Church, Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore of the board of trade, Rev. G. Q. Warner of the Anglican Church, E. H. Russell of the board of health, J. Kelley of the Children's Aid Society, Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae of the Bible Society, G. F. McKay of the trades and labor council, Rev. H. H. Bingham of the Baptist Church, Mrs. Tutt of the Union Mothers' Club, Mrs. Harry Blackburn of the Victorian Order of Nurses, A. F. Nash of the Y.M.C.A., Rev. J. G. Stuart of the Lord's Day Alliance, Rev. James H. Boyd of the Ministerial Alliance.

To Name Secretary.

The executive committee will on the recommendation of the meeting discuss the appointment of a secretary and a treasurer and some changes in the constitution at a meeting which has been called for next Tuesday at the Y.M.C.A.

A report will be presented at the next meeting of the council at the call of the president. There is a possibility that a secretary may be chosen who can devote his full time to the work of the organization on a salary.

There was considerable discussion on the adoption of the constitution. The different denominations were brought rather prominently before the meeting by various delegates. One of the delegates who apparently is not in cordial relation with the orthodox churches asked whether "this council is to be denominational in character or not?" The concensus of opinion was that the organization should be non-denominational in its scope.

Limited to Ten.

The constitution provides that any church, denomination or society whose organization is or is intended to be city-wide and is in sympathy with the object of this council may be given representation as a unit on the council. Each unit may be represented by not more than ten delegates.

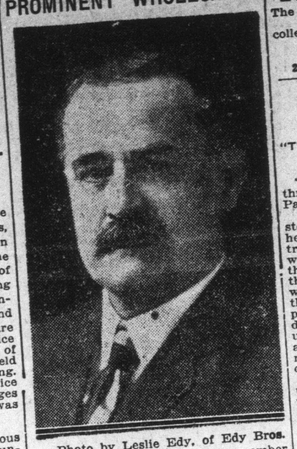

Several organizations that were not represented at last night's meeting, through inability on the part of the acting secretary to secure definite information as to the delegates chosen, will be communicated with, so that they may have a part in the subsequent work of the council.

PATRICIA

"The Belgian," a Powerful Photoplay, Showing at the Patricia Again Today.

"The Belgian," a photoplay that has thrilled thousands, will be shown at the Patricia again today.

"The Belgian" is a gripping, stirring story that will make every human heart ache for the martyrs in downtrodden Belgium. And with the ache will come the thrill everyone feels for those who valiantly defend their rights, their homes and their honors. Then will be born the determination to help them avenge themselves and to do our part in the great fight for freedom and democracy, for "The Belgian" comes upon us like a storm that is mighty, and blows us powerfully into a vivid realization of what this conflict has to overcome.

Practically an all-star cast has been used by Mr. Olcott, headed by the noted stage actor, Walker Whiteside. Mr. Whiteside gives a fine impersonation in the role of Victor Morenne. Valentine Grant, the star in "Mothers of Men," has achieved another personal triumph in this production. She deserves much of the credit. Anders Randolf as Berger, a German spy, gives a magnificent characterization. Sally Crute, as a woman spy, does a fine bit of work. The rest of the splendid cast includes Arda La Croix, Georgia Majeroni, Henri Leone and Blanche Davenport. In direction and settings "The Belgian" presents all that could be desired.

The photoplay and lighting effects are unusual and charming, and, taken as a whole, the picture should meet with every exhibitor's approval.

MAJESTIC

W. S. Hart in "Selfish Yates," Showing at the Majestic Today and Thursday.

That innocence is invariably its own protector, and that selfishness as a characteristic is bound to react upon itself, are truisms amply illustrated in "Selfish Yates," the new film vehicle of William S. Hart, the Thomas H. Ince-Artcraft star, which has just been released. The picture was directed by Mr. Hart himself, under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince, and it is said to be one of the most effective in the Hart repertoire of western portrayals.

In this picture Mr. Hart is seen as an utterly selfish, brutal divekeeper, whose spiritual nature is reformed through the agency of an innocent and confiding girl, who drops out of nowhere into the circle in which Yates reigns as king, and who inspires love in his heart. Jane Novak, as Mary Adams, is the heroine whose sweetness and innocence not only save her from a tragic fate, but overcome the egotism and the sordid selfishness of Yates himself. This exceptional photoplay will be shown at the Majestic Theatre today and Thursday.

An ARTCRAFT Picture

Showing at the Majestic Theatre today and Thursday. The regeneration of "Selfish Yates," through his love for Mary Adams, a young, innocent, trusting girl, is so different from the theme of any other story, in which Mr. Hart has been seen heretofore as to make it a distinct creation, and he gets out of it all that was written into the part.

TOWNSHIPS READY TO DO THEIR SHARE TO HELP RAILWAY

Unanimously Agree That the Traction Line Should Run.

LAMBETH, June 18.—More than one hundred representatives of the municipalities through which the Traction Line passes met here tonight to discuss with representatives from the city of London what steps are to be taken to keep the line running. There were a great number of speakers, and all were unanimously of the opinion that the road must be continued and that the residents of the townships are ready and willing to do their share in helping.

It was decided to appoint a committee, which will wait on the directors of the railway in London shortly, and find out just what it will be necessary for the townships to do. It is planned to hold a series of meetings to discuss the question with the ratepayers, and then submit a bylaw to the people for whatever amount is necessary.

Controllers C. H. Merryfield and J. H. Saunders and City Clerk S. Baker, representing the London city council, spoke tonight, outlining what has been done, and submitting reports prepared by the engineers of the London and Port Stanley line regarding valuation, etc.

Ex-Mayor Samuel Stevely spoke of the good service the line has rendered and can render to the district, and the importance of keeping it in operation.

Reeve Archie Blaikie of Westminster presided and W. Finch was secretary.

WIDOW'S ACTION TO SECURE PROPERTY IS DISMISSED IN COURT

Costs Are Awarded to Plaintiff in Euphemia Tp. Case.

Chief Justice Sir Glenholme Falconbridge dismissed the action of Moorhouse vs. Moorhouse at a sitting of the supreme court at the court house yesterday. Costs to the plaintiff were awarded by the chief justice, who made an order that the defendant pay all court costs.

The action was instituted on behalf of Mrs. Hannah Moorhouse of Euphemia Township, Lambton County, against her son, Manley Stafford Moorhouse, now residing on the homestead. Mrs. Moorhouse endeavored to secure possession of the property with interim rent since the death of her husband.

Conveyed to Son.

In November, 1908, Thomas Moorhouse conveyed the lands in question to his son, the defendant in the present action, and on the same day the latter leased them to his parents for the duration of their lives. In 1913 the father of the defendant died, and a new contract was drafted, whereby the son promised to contribute $40 per year to the support of his mother. Here the controversy arose. The statement of claim embodied a demand for immediate possession of the farm, rent since 1913 and the court costs, while the defence alleged that the contract between mother and son was understood to stand as at the purchase price of the farm by the latter.

In the case of Lusty vs. Roberts the defendant or any counsel on his behalf failed to appear. Evidence for the plaintiff was heard, after which Chief Justice Falconbridge awarded Mr. Lusty judgment for $1,150 as the money consideration in the sale of a tract of timber and $400 damages in addition, the total judgment amounting to $1,550. William A. Lusty, the plaintiff, is a lumberman, residing at Rodney.

Judgment Reserved.

Judgment was reserved in the case of Campbell vs. Mahler, which was heard at the afternoon sitting. The plaintiff is suing for $700 for an alleged breach of contract.

The claims of William A. O'Dell, G. T. Mitchell and J. A. Brownlee against the city of London as the result of flooded cellars from overflowed storm sewers will not be heard until the fall court in October next.

Gaste vs. Bank of Nova Scotia case was also laid over until a later court.

HYDE PARK WANTS REV. JAMES GALE

Mr. Gale is a recent graduate of Knox College, and is said to be a young man of exceptional ability. Those associated with the congregations are earnestly hoping he may see his way clear to accept. Rev. G. S. Lloyd of Glencoe is the interim moderator of the London Presbytery is called at an earlier date to consider the call, it will be taken up at the regular meeting the first Wednesday in July in Port Stanley.

EXPECTING 25,000 BARRELS OF APPLES

The apple crop of Huron and Middlesex this year will total 25,000 barrels, according to an estimate by representatives of the cooperage firms. The food controller has been urging the manufacturers to enlarge their output of barrels, as it is feared that some of the crop may be lost on account of lack of sufficient containers. The high cost of materials and the scarcity of labor is seriously affecting the situation, the manufacturers say.

In an effort to comply with the food controller's requests the Mitchell cooperage is considering the installation of several new machines that will increase the capacity of the factory by 200 barrels per day. If the negotiations, which are being carried on, do not fail the machines will be ready for use early in August.
